The President had gone to Lyons to attend the opening of the Industrial Exhibition. On the evening of Sunday, June 24, he attended a banquet at the Palais du Commerce and left shortly after nine oclock to drive to the Grand theatre where a gala performance had been arranged in his honor. In the neighborhood of the Bourse, Caserio ran towards the President's vehicle, sprang to the step and buried the dagger in the President's breast. His trial was begun in Lyons August 2, and lasted only two days. The assassin would not say a word to incriminate others, declaring that he had no accomplices. The jury after an absence of fifteen minutes returned a verdict of guilty and Caserio was sentenced to death. The sentence was confirmed two days ago by the pardons committee.

It is said that Ames has served a term or more in prison under the name of Brown for bigamy and has numerous other shady transactions standing against him.

I am of the opinion that their scent affair at Wei-Hai-Wei was a reconnaisance. I believe the Japanese will clear the sea before the winter and that the campaign will be mainly on land. Berlin, Ont., Aug. 16.—A fire occurred here yesterday and completely gutted the American livery stables and carriage works of Ephrain and Aaron Bricker, respectively. Queen street. Fortunately a heavy rain started about this time which with the excellent work of the fire brigade kept the fire confined to this building, otherwise disastrons results were anticipated, the building being situated almost in the heart of the town, and the hay, straw, etc., giving the fire king undue advantage. As it is the loss is estimated at from $5,000 to $10,000, with insurance about enough to cover it. All the live stock was saved, the chief loss being the building, buggies, carriages, robes, harness, tools, etc.

Senate Unchanged.

Washington, Aug. 14.—Last evening the Senate tariff bill, unchanged, quamended, untouched, was passed by the Home and the measure now awaits only the signature of the President or his failure to sign it within ten days to be enacted into a law. It was passed according to ather programme arranged and ratified at a caucus of Democratis.

The special rule was agreed to after a short debate. Then the Senate bill was debated for two hours and after counter accusations by the Republicans and Democrate and severe arraignments of the majority byjesveral of its own members, the bill was passed by a vote of 181 to 105. A number of Democrats voted against the bill, while the Populiss supported the majority. There was much applause when the troublesome measure was finally out of the way.

HALIPAX, Aug. 18.—George E. A. Bokes & Co. received a telegram from Porto Rico reading: "Import duty on fish abolished."

G. E. Bokes, who was seen regarding the matter and effect it would have on trade, stated that a few weeks ago the board of trade of held a special/meeting to consider the effect of the Norway-Spanish treaty on trade between Canada, Porto Rico and Cuba. Under the treaty, fish from Norway would be admitted free of duty, while our fish would be subject to a duty of about 90 cents per 100 pounds. Owing to the superior quality of Norway fish the Nova Scotian article would be practically shut out of the market and the result would be almost ruinous. THE ANNUAL FESTIVAL THIS YEAR ATTENDED BY MULTITUDES.

Description of the Shripe of Saint Anne-The Picturesque Scenery Passed by Pilgrims on Their Way to the Famed Que bec Village-Cures at the Shrine.

Millions of eyes have this year gazed a the shrine of La Bonne Ste. Anne de Beau-pre, at the wonderful church from which so many mirrieles have been reported during the past 250 years. A visit with a large rty of foreign pilgrims from Quebec to e village and far-famed church is exceed ingly interesting, especially as this year the festival has been even more successful than usual. Leaving Quebec for St. Anne early in the morning under the care of ou

The luxurient panorama was viewed. The insurient island of Orleans and the prosperous but quaint French village on the north bank of the river elicited many encomiastic expressions from the visitors. After a couple of hours' sail the village of St. Anne, with the steeple of the church towering above all, appeared in sight. The famous village its best backed against the gree slope of the Laurentian mountains, the morning sun casting a golden hue on the picturesque valley. The priests were at the landing to receive the pilgrims. A was formed that wended its way amid the ringing of bells and the strains of Anne's church, where grand mass was cele brated with extraordinary ceremonies. At the shrine the pilgrims were received by the superior of the congregation, who showed them around the quaint little church, with its relics and crutches, walking sticks and other instruments left there ionist f thers. Then holy commun eived, after which the veneration of was inclosed a finger bone of the great thanmaturgus. The reverend fathers took much pains to explain to the pilgrims everything about the church, its history, the great miracles, the pre-ous gifts from kings, queens, popes, a d famous carims bought many rare dinals. The pilgrims bought many rare souvenirs and took away with them bottles of water, which pours from a well and is said to possess miraculous powers. The pilgrims of this party declared themselves enchanted with their pilgrimage and all they had seen. Several of them declared themselves relieved of ills and infirmities, but no striking miracles took place.

Cures at St. Anne's Shrine. "Saint Anne, grandmother of the Divine Savior—pray for us." This is one of the inscriptions upon the outer walls of the magnificent church of Ste. Anne de Beaupre. It has been repeated by thousands of pions pilgrims at the festival of the saint, who is the patroness of the French-Canadian people. They came to the shrine of Ste. Anne, not only from every part of Canada, but from the manufacturing cen-tres of the eastern states, and from New York, Poston, Chicago, Detroit, St. Lonis, Cincinnati and even San Francisco. Great benefits must have been looked for at the hands of the Virgin Mary's mother, judging by the number of infirmed who came imploring bodily relief. There have recently been reported a number of wonder ful instances of the healing powers of St.

Anne. Only a few days ago there was alarge pilgrimage at the shrine from Morrisburg, Ontario. Among the pilgrims was risburg, Ontario. Among the pilgrims was Miss Kate Sweeney, a young lady of 23 years, who for a long time past has suffered severely from spinal disease and paralysis of her lower limbs. She was carried from the train into the church, but no Swimming Cavalry.

Some very interesting exercises in swimming cavalry took place lately on the Cabul River at Peshawur. The Thirteenth D.C.O. Bengal Lancers have been practising their horses in a large tank in their lines and on the river for some time. One squadron took cover along the river bank and kept up a steady fire to protect the passage of the other squadron, who placed all their arms, accounterments and clothes in large country boats, and conducted their horses into the water. Some horses seemed to thoroughly enjoy themselves in the water, others became unmanagable from fear. However, the opposite bank was reached and war paint resumed, and the squadron was with most creditable rapidity taking measures to protect their comrades, who then crossed in like manner.—Broad Arrow. sooner had she communicated and venerated the relic of St. Anne than she felt her natural strength return to her, and she rose and left the church without assistance. Last week it was the turn of Mrs. Diogene Guimont, a married lady of Cape St. Ignace, who had been bedridden since February and incapable of walking. She had been assisted to the foot of the status of St. Anne, where she remained for some St. Anne, where she remained for some time praying and weeping, after which, raising herself painfully on her crutches, she approached the altar railing and reverently kissed the relic which the father presented to her. As she did so she felt the crutches slipping away from her, and, making no effort to retain them, she stood erect for a moment, then, with a husband and a friend at her side, she walked firmly to the foot of the A Misleading Sign.

The map shown herewith gives a capital idea of the new proposal. The plan is to connect Lakes St Clair and Erie by means of a cutting which, though only thirteen and three quarter miles lung, will greatly shorten the distance between Port Colborns and Port Arthur. The distance saved will be fifty-six miles can way, or 112 miles on the round trip. The tonnage annually passing through the Detroit river is between twenty-

All of these drawbacks will be obviated the construction of the St. Clair and Erie ship canal, for which a construction company has been granted a construction company has been granted a charter by the Dominion Parliament. The estimated cost of the work is between four and five nillions of dollars. The construction of the canal will necessitate some twenty nillion cubic yards of excavation in order to give a uniform depth of 21 feet. It is roposed to light the canal throughout by means of electricity. The difference in the level of lake St. Clair and lake Erie is but four feet, and the highest point of land through which the canal will be cut is only thirty-five feet. The work of excavation will not be difficult as explorations have not shown the existence of any rock. The will be used to regulate the supplying of water for the canal. As Lake St. Clair is very shoal there will be a channel nel dredged for half a mile from land. Col. Tisdale, M.P., who secured the charter for e company, states that there will be held meeting of the promoters at an early ite, when the arrangements for proceeding with the work will be completed. We expected that poor Lizzie would not live long. There was no color in her face. She was wasting away, her cheek bones sticking through as if they would break the skin. Her arms and legs were just bones. The doctor said, "Lizzie may stand the winter, but if she does, that will be all." One day, however, I chanced to read of Devil Worshippers in France.

The French police have been instructed to take some steps against the sect of devil worshippers, whose strange practices are creating much angry comment. Apart from the stealing of consecrated hosts from the tabernacles of lonely churches and other unwarrantable outrages, the Satanists and Luciferians have organized a clandestine catechism class, to which children preparing for their first communion have been inveigled. A man in clerical garb was arrested on the Bistinst at Clignan court for disorderly conduct. He described himself as a celebrant of "black masses," that being the term applied to the rather blasphemous liturgy of the sect. Strangers are no longer admitted to the Conventicle in the Rue Rochechouart. The inside of the building pesembles an ordinary Romish chapei. The cross over the altar is fixed head downward, another cross being placed at the door over which each worshipper walks as he enters. The motto of the Satanists is "Volupras Peccati." The spnerents sing and utter imprecations.—Paris Letter.

BY WHICH HE WOULD SECURE IT.

astronomy, but if the photographic plate is a more accurate observer than the eye, it makes a demand peculiar to itself, for increased delicacy and accuracy of instrument—that was the text of the first—part of Sir Howard Grubb's lecture last night at the Royal Institution. To take the simplest of his instances. Suppose the eye is observing a star with a view to taking its measurements, and the star moves off the cross lines of the telescope—why, then, of course there is nothing simpler than to shift the telescope and bring the star back into the field again. But suppose a photographic plate is at the spyhole, then it must always receive exactly the same impression of the star. The telescope must move by clockwork with the star so that the star always appears in exactly the same posiwork with the star so that the star always appears in exactly the same position on the plate. In the photographic method the record of the observation is not that of any one moment—it is the aggregate of all the impressions made every second and every part of a second during the exposure. The photographic plate, unlike the eye, takes note of and records every position of the star image, and not the one selected position, as the eye does; hence it is easy to see the great necessity of having the utmost possible perfection in the clock driving arrangements. In other words, if the star "moves" and the plate does not, the impression left on the plate will be a streak and not a defined image.

The Perfect Clock.

The Parfect Clock.

The very first condition, therefore, for accuracy in the instruments of the future is the perfect clock—it is the necessary, though not the sufficient, condition. An astronomical driving clock must have a continuous wheel motion; it must have a stability far beyond that necessary for ordinary work; and the alow metions must be extremely nearfact. Six have a continuous wheel motion; it must have a stability far beyond that necessary for ordinary work; and the slow motions must be extremely perfect. Sir Howard Grubb had brought a perfect clock with him. It was a massive, complicated arrangement, locking less like a clock than a calculating machine; and roughly speaking it combined the principle of a pendulum clock with that of the rotating wheel clock. The wheel clock, a good frictional governor, will go uniformly from second to second, "but," said Sir Howard, "no uniform motion clock that I ever met with can be depended on for long periods. This one can be depended upon to about one second in 600° which is to say that it is a perfect clock for ten minutes. But one of the star plates shown last night had suffered an exposure of twelve hours; and for this another agency is called in operation. This is an independent pendulum. A pendulum properly hung is absolutely reliable; it changes its period never. So what is done is to make the pendulum correct the movement of the rotating wheel once a second. There are electric currents made and broken by the pendulum at every swing, and there are three electric contacts with the axis of the driving clock. They are so arranged—it is impossible to say more—that if the wheel is revolved. They are so arranged—it is impossible to say more—that if the wheel is revolving at the proper speed the current travels through one of the other contacts, and so acts upon co-axial wheels as to retard or accelerate the speed of the driving wheel. This correction is made once a second.—London Graphic.

How a Competitor Was Beaten.

The National Grocer relates an interesting case of how a grocer tried to take a customer away from a competitor.

He was a pushing, thick headed fellow, and went to the house of the lady to discover what time she usually went to the kitchen to give the orders for the day.

He started in business by quoting prices that, in some instances, could not have been matched by manufacturers or packers. The goods were to be of the same quality as those generally supplied.

He sent the proper goods at a loss to himself for considerable time, contrary to the usual course under such circumstances.

The lady was a good buyer and excel

Iceland is to be visited by a commission of doctors, who are to study the question of leprosy in that country. A sum of mopey to defray the cost of the expedition, which will take place on July 6 next, has been voted by the Danish Assembly. According to the last statistics on the subject there were fifty lepers in Iceland in 1889, but it is thought that in reality the number is greater. Among the members of the expedition will be Dr. Eichmuller, of Paris, and Dr. Neisser, of Breslau.

Holes in the Legs.

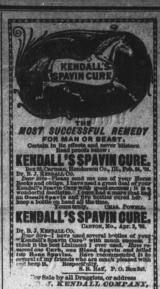

A scientist tells us that the bog's legs perform a function not known to any other animal, and that is an escape pipe or pipes for the discharge of waste water or sweat not used in the economy of the body. These escape pipes are situated upon the inside of the legs above and below the knee in the forelegs and above the gambrel joints in the hind legs, but in the latter they are very small and functions light; upon the inside of the foreleg they are in the healthy hog always active, so that moisture is always there from about and below these orifices or ducts in the healthy hog. The holes in the leg and breathing in the hog are his principal and only means of ejecting an excess of heat above normal, and when very warm the hog will open the mouth and breathe through that channel as well as the nostrils.
