Because of You.

Sweet love I know the blossom of the morning
Tenderly blushed to their hearts of dew;
But now my flowers have faded a fairer fragrance.
Because of you.
Long have I worshipped in my soul's exulting high visions of the subtle and the true—Now all my aims and all my prayers are pure.
Because of you.
Woe have I seen the smile of life's labor;
To all his passions found some answering chance.
But how my life has learned a subtle meaning.
Because of you.
In the past I have indulged in vain and empty dreams of glory.
Because of you.

Their Step-Sister's Surprise.

Ruth sat alone on the veranda, stranded by the merry withdrawing tide of young folk who were going out at the gate with cushions,shawls and cars.

There were six of them—each of her tall, gorgeously colored young step-sisters had her beau. They were bound for the river, where boats were waiting Ruth with a long sigh, could think of nothing sadder than to be able to spend an hour on the river in the light of the rising moon, accompanied by somebody who was sufficiently happy just in the privilege of making love to her.

The young folks' gay laughter came back to her from the still street. She leaned against the pillar, holding her hands and trying to imagine what she had never experienced. Behind her was the cheerful disorder of a hasty exodus, chairs out of their places, newspapers scattered, the rugs kicked up.

She ought to put things in order, but she was so tired. No one would come to see, and surely she had earned the right to rest for a little while.
Behind the trees came the soft flash of moonlight. She watched it patetically while she thought of what the day had brought forth.

Blackberry preserving for one thing, And for to-morrow's basket of early peaches waiting. Beside, Edna's dress must be finished for the Coombe's musical and something extra prepared for desert, because her father had asked a business friend to dine.
And after to-morrow there were other days just as busy, just as wearisome—an endless succession whose duties must be faced with every bit of energy she could muster.

The girls were young and thoughtless.
Twenty, eighteen and sixteen, they were just in their bloom. She was eight years older. She felt 30 years older sometimes.

She had been twenty when her step-mother died. It was a sad house and her father was always so helpless. He had turned to her. There had seemed nothing for her to do but pick up the fallen reins of domestic government and handle them as best she could.

It was appalling how unprepared she was. For she had learned little save music. She had meant to teach it, but, alas, her teaching had begun and ended with the family circle. As for practicing she never had time for it now.

Starting up at the moon she wondered if she had done all the duty required of her. At least she had done as well as she could. Her step-sisters were bright, headstrong, spirited, handsome too, with their red hair and glowing complexions. To see them was to admire them.

She had always divided the money that came her way impartially among the three. It went such after all. Then, too, they did things so fast. And they loved for adornment. She had her wife's end sometimes to their demands in ways that distress their father.

It was good thing that she was the best parts of the girls' clothing made over very her. Only in footgear was to be extravagant.

It did not help her very they hated housework. She blame them. She thought it herself sometimes.

Back to the Land.
HOW ONE MAN PROFITED BY EX-PLOITING LADY-LIFE FOR THAT OF THE FARM.

The fact that many men on salaries in our cities could do much better and have a royal living has been argued time and time again.

The Farmers' Advocate of London, Ont., quite recently offered a prize for the best article along this line. William Blain, of Simcoe county, won it, and the article is worthy of reproduction. Here are his own words of telling experience:

In the summer of 1901 I decided to engage in farming. My early boyhood had been passed on a farm, but I had been absent from it for ten years. I was working for a salary in town, and my capital consisted of less than $1,000, besides household furniture. My family consisted of wife and two small children, so that all outside work and some little depended on my own exertions.

We wished to be close to town and purchased a farm of fifty acres within a mile of town, paying three thousand dollars for same. This meant I had to borrow about $400 in order to make a start—quite a handicap, along with our inexperience—but hope beats high in youthful hearts.

The farm was cleared, except for a few acres of bush at the back, adjoining which was about nine acres of permanent pasture land, which was very rough, and contained logs, stumps and berry bushes. The buildings were a good brick house, heated by fireplace, a barn and a silo, all in good repair.

WENT SLOW ON IMPLEMENTS.
I invested in only necessary implements—mower, rake, plow, disk, scuffle, harrow and smaller articles, besides necessary vehicles. I hired a good drill and pay for binder by the acre. On my farm it would not pay to invest in either for a few days work each year, and they would require extensive buildings to store them.

I divided the farm into six fields, and try to follow a rotation, as follows: First year, hay; second year, hay; third year, pasture; fourth year, oats; fifth year, roots, potatoes, corn; sixth year, oats, seeded down to red and alkali clover and timothy. My main crops hay, oats, potatoes and strawberries; other crops, corn, roots and garden vegetables.

I grow only the best varieties of oats and potatoes, and I am able to dispose of my oats for seed at a good advance on market prices. Last year I received 75 cents per bushel for all sold. My land is a sandy loam and is rather low, so that I have never tried to grow wheat or barley.
In potatoes I try to have the bulk of crop of early varieties, which find a ready sale, at good prices, for shipping to northern markets in August and September.

STRAWBERRIES BRING GOOD RETURNS.
Besides the cows, I am able to adapt to growing strawberries, and as there is an unlimited market, at good prices, I like to have an acre, which yields from $300 to $400 per season. I set out a half acre each year, and thus take two crops off before plowing down. The old batch generally comes in a few days earlier, and thus lengthens the season. In 1905 I sold 1400 boxes of one-sixth of an acre at an average of seven and one-half cents per box. Last year we averaged 9 cents per box. The strawberry crop requires a little of Mr. Marshall Ruth gasped in delight, and her face blomed in radiance. "Why, I've just been dying to go—my car! I can't! It's so good to you to ask me."

He sung to her softly in his rich voice; he talked to her; he told her amusing stories, and Ruth forgot that she was timid and forlorn, and forgot and laughed in him until it seemed that she had "told him every secret of her poor little life."

It is happy that you have had to neglect your music when you love it so, he said, "but I am sure that with a few good lessons you could pick it up again easily."

"I suppose so," Ruth sighed, "but you see I haven't the time."
"Take time. Give your housekeeping over to your sisters."

As she started at him in surprise he leaped forward, resting upon the arm of her chair. "Ruth, tell me, if you could, wouldn't you emancipate yourself by marrying somebody who had money and would be good to you? Wouldn't you dear?
But—nobody—would!"

"Yes, somebody would—does I, Ruth, I must seem like a pretty old fellow to you, but I believe I could make you happy. I want you, dear, and my sister is willing. We have talked it over together. If you will marry me I can promise that you shall never regret."

An hour later, Ruth somewhat revered from the excitement of receiving and accepting her first proposal, she sat in her room and thought of her room an unusual sight.

greeted her. The girls were there squatting on the floor about the open window.

"We couldn't see the moon anywhere else," Louise said. Where have you been Ruth?"

"I've been on the river," Ruth answered, trying to keep her happy voice steady. "I went with Mr. Marshall in his boat. And—oh, girls! I may as well tell you. I'm—he—I'm going to marry him!"

A pound of 40c. Red Rose goes further than any 30c. or 35c. tea and it is distinctly superior in quality.

30c. and 35c. Red Rose Teas are good teas, so good that very many people say they want nothing better. But, if they would once try a package of the Red Rose Tea, they would find

Spring Reminders of Rheumatism

Rev. Damp Weather Starts the Pain, But the Trouble Lies in the Blood.

Changeable spring weather, often raw, cold and damp, is pretty sure to bring a return of misery to people who suffer from rheumatism. But it must be borne in mind that it is not the weather that causes rheumatism, the trouble is rooted in the blood—the damp changeable weather merely starts the aches and often almost unbearable pain going. The trouble must be reached through the blood, and the poisonous rheumatic acids driven out. This is a medical truth, every rheumatic sufferer should remember. Linalins, outward applications and so-called electric appliances, never did, and never can, cure rheumatism. The sufferer if only waiting valuable time and money with this sort of treatment, and all the time the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted—and harder to cure. There is just one sure way to cure rheumatism —Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They act directly on the inner system, bringing back the blood to its normal condition. They purify and strengthen it and so root out the cause of rheumatism. Mr. John Fin-more, Maryville, N. E., says:—
"I was laid up with rheumatic fever for a year, and for eight months of that time I could not get about. My blood was so thick that it was hard to walk—and harder to care. There is

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAR. 18, 1910

Meeting of Citizens.

There was a good attendance at the public meeting in Temperance Hall on Tuesday evening. Mayor Harvey was in the chair and stated briefly the object of the meeting as outlined in the notices calling the same. On behalf of the School Board, Com. Hales explained the condition of the heating system in the school building and called upon Principal Ford who gave further explanations. It was moved by Mr. A. J. Woodman, seconded by Mr. J. F. Herbin, and unanimously decided that the Council be authorized to apply to the legislature for power to borrow the sum of three thousand dollars to be used in renewing the heating and ventilating system in the school building. It is proposed that a hot water system be installed. The matter of street improvement was then taken up, and Mr. Robert Lowe, representing the Hassan Paving Co., of Worcester, Mass., who was present, presented a scheme for the paving of Main street at a cost of about $20,000. Mr. Lowe explained the durable and permanent road, and is fully guaranteed by the company for a period of ten years. A free discussion followed, which was taken part in by a number of citizens, when it was finally decided on the motion of Rev. Dr. DeWolfe, seconded by Rev. Dr. Manning, that authority be given to the Council to apply to the legislature for power to borrow the sum of ten thousand dollars, to be used in street improvement, according to instructions to be given by a subsequent meeting of the ratepayers.

An Address.

Following is the address presented to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Starr at the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage last week, as read by Rev. R. P. Dixon.

DEAR AND RESPECTED FRIENDS:—Having learned with much pleasure of the approaching fiftieth anniversary of your wedding day, we would respectfully solicit the privilege of uniting with the members of your family in offering you both our hearty congratulations and good wishes. We have long regarded you both with deep esteem and affection, and have felt honored at all times by your friendship. You may rest assured that the example of your long, well ordered happy married life is a precious possession, not only to your own children and descendants, but to all who have enjoyed the privilege of your intimate acquaintance, and it will remain a happy inspiring memory with us all.

As an evidence of our good will we ask you to accept the accompanying articles, praying that our heavenly Father may abundantly bless you. We remain respectfully and affectionately yours.

Signed on behalf of the subscribers, R. P. DIXON, Rector of Horton.

A Word to Mothers.

No matter whether baby is sick or well, Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the home always. They not only cure the minor troubles to which babyhood is subject, but will prevent the same. On the child if given an occasional dose of the medicine. Mrs. Geo. T. Walker, Moscouche Rapids, Que., says:—I have used Baby's Own Tablets for constipation and other disorders of childhood and am so pleased with them that I always keep the Tablets in the house. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Rev. A. B. Cohoe, pastor of the Brussels street Baptist church, St. John, has been invited to accept the pastorate of the First Baptist church, Halifax, to succeed Rev. Mr. Waring, who is going to Vancouver. Rev. Mr. Cohoe is described as the same type of preacher as Mr. Waring, intellectual and advanced, or liberal. He is also described as a man of very strong personality, and has especially interested himself since going to St. John in rescue work and working among the poor.

The Great Commission.

A bold skeptic in a recent issue of THE ACADIAN (to whose name out of regard to his kindred I will not give further publicity), drawing his information chiefly from the notoriously heretical Encyclopedia Biblica, asks 'How many know that the great commission is not in our bible on good authority? The new version prints it, but spaces it off and gives the reason, which seems a good one.'

Now the writer of the foregoing words either knows that the great commission of Christ is found in the last chapters of both Matthew's and Mark's gospels, or he does not know this fact. If he does not know it, he is not in a position to put himself forward as a critic. If he does know the fact, he is acting dishonorably in not acknowledging that the great commission is recorded by Matthew as well as by Mark, and that it is not 'spaced off' by the American Standard Revision in the last chapter of Matthew, nor in any way open to the charge or suspicion of textual unsanctity. Its right to be in Matthew's gospel, and to be regarded as Christ's veritable words cannot be successfully challenged. True, the German Ritschlian, Prof. Harnack, says 'The great commission ascribed to him, but Prof. Harnack makes that audacious denial on the ground of his opinion that Jesus had no idea that the gospel he came to proclaim would extend beyond Palestine. Prof. H. denies the deity of Christ, but not the authenticity of the text in, I presume, either Matthew or Mark. Thus much as establishing the 'good authority' of Matthew's presentation of the great commission. Now as to the form in which we have the commission in the last chapter of Mark's gospel, the writer as above quoted, boldly asserts that it is not there on good authority. What are the facts? It must be admitted that the two oldest Greek manuscripts and some other documents omit the last twelve verses of the last chapter of Mark, in which omission occurs Mark's form of the commission. Yet it should be here added that in about all the other manuscripts in which the connection is given, and in all the most ancient versions the foregoing passage is retained. And for that reason there is very strong ground to believe that the two oldest Greek manuscripts and some other documents omit the last twelve verses of the last chapter of Mark, in which omission occurs Mark's form of the commission. Yet it should be here added that in about all the other manuscripts in which the connection is given, and in all the most ancient versions the foregoing passage is retained. And for that reason there is very strong ground to believe that the two oldest Greek manuscripts and some other documents omit the last twelve verses of the last chapter of Mark, in which omission occurs Mark's form of the commission.

As to commentaries, I will cite but two. The Gnomon of the German Bengel, a keen critic, and the well up-to-date commentary of Jamieson, Fausset and Brown make no reference to said omission. But I wish now especially to quote the 'careful conclusions' on this matter of the late Rev. Dr. T. J. Conant, a man of high character, of profound and judicial mind, and of broad and generous scholarship. In a very able article in the S. S. Times, Dec. 9th, 1882, he says:—'In considering a passage so long accepted as the conclusion of the second gospel and a portion of the following well established points, as preliminary to a discussion of the subject:—1. That the writer of this gospel would not have intended to close his narrative with the abrupt ending of the eighth verse. In this all critics are agreed. 2. That from the second century of our era, and onward, the passage has been known as a part of this gospel. In this also all are agreed. 3. That this passage is authentic, and is to be received as the conclusion of the second gospel and a part of the holy scripture. In this there is substantial agreement among eminent critics.'

Dr. Conant, after carefully sifting and weighing all the evidences, thus concludes: 'I must express my conviction that the charge against the genuineness of the last twelve verses of the second gospel is not sustained; and that this passage ought to retain the honored place which it has held from the second century onward.' If it be replied to the foregoing that Dr. Conant's conclusions date back over twenty-five years, I would simply answer that no new testimony against the passage has come light during the last twenty-five years.

One other statement of the Green which skeptic may have a passing notice, namely, that 'the discovery of writings and inscriptions shows quite a high state of civilization among several nations some thousands of years before the creation of the world.' This is a common assertion of infidels and skeptics, the design of which is to discredit the bible record of the creation of the world, and the origin and unity of the human race.

On incontrovertible authority no record—Chaldean, Babylonian or Egyptian—is older than that of the bible. All efforts of the skeptics to prove the contrary have been failures. The infidel anti-biblical claim of a fabulous antiquity for the human race has no real foundation in the facts, indeed the facts are all the other way.

In confirmation of foregoing statement it may be remarked that Chaldean, Egyptian, Babylonian made the measure of time, not the sun, counting months as years, so that our solar year would be with them twelve lunar years. Wolfville Fifty Years Ago.

At this time when so much interest is manifest in the proposed new Baptist church, the following, taken from the files of the Christian Messenger in the issue of Jan. 18th, 1860, concerning the present church building, will be read with interest by many.

Last Lord's day was a 'high day' to our friends at Wolfville. Their new meeting-house was opened for worship. In the morning, Dr. Cramp preached to a crowded congregation from Eph. iv. 14.—'Speaking the truth in love.' In the afternoon the house was again well filled, and Professor Sawyer preached from John xiv. 2.—'In my Father's house are many mansions.' In the evening a meeting for prayer and conference was held in the vestry, which was literally crammed on the occasion. Many excellent addresses were delivered.

There is only time this week for a brief notice. It is hoped that some one who is acquainted with all the facts will furnish a more lengthened account. I will just say, that the building is in all respects, both as to plan and execution highly creditable to all parties concerned. Mr. Thomas Bars, the contractor, has performed his work well.

The dimensions are 70 feet by 44. There are three galleries. The pews are arranged in a circular form, and are very commodious. The vestry is underneath, in the basement, that is, on the level of the street. It is about forty feet square, and will afford excellent accommodation for conference and evening meetings, and Sunday-school purposes. Two furnace pipes supply hot air to the building.

Also have a new stock on hand. Best ever shown in town. Prices low. Fit and workmanship first class. Call at once and have first choice. G. A. CROZIER, Tailor.

One fact is better than ten hearsays. Ask Doctor Burgess, Supt. Hospital for Insane, Montreal, for his opinion of 'The D. & L. Mesthol Plaster.' The genuine made only by Davis & Lawrence Co.

Hockey Notes. A sharp and fast game of hockey was that on Tuesday evening between the Lunenburg and Wolfville teams in the rink here. The result was a score of 7-5 in favor of the visitors.

The Victorias defeated the H. C. A. team on Wednesday afternoon in the return game by one point in the play-off.

Temperance Meeting.

The Temperance meeting, announced in THE ACADIAN, was held in Temperance Hall on the evening of the 12th inst., under the auspices of the Wolfville Division, S. of T. Addresses were delivered by Dr. Chapman, Rev. Mr. Titus and A. E. Dunlop, Esq.

The genial doctor, in the course of his remarks, referred to the work of the County Alliance, and of the sacrifices made in the efforts for the promotion of temperance and moral reform, entitling it to the sympathy and support of every true citizen.

The address of Mr. Titus interested us all. He is a new man among us, and brings fresh force to the campaign for righteousness.

Mr. Dunlop spoke in an able and discriminating manner on the subject of Temperance legislation. He showed the defects in the Scotch Act that renders it difficult of enforcement, and the necessity of a prohibition, and such as shall leave some of the loop holes and subtleties that so largely nullify our present temperance legislation.

It is hoped that the Division will favor the town with other opportunities of a similar nature.

More bread and Better bread —And the Reason for it

A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purify Flour.

Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purify flour users—that's why we use it.

It means that Purify Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.

It means a high-class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."

Purify may cost a little more than other flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.
