Love a Conqueror

WEDDED AT LAST

CHAPTER XXV.

"He will be a good master when I am gone, Dickson, and I hope you will serve him as faithfully as you have served me. It would have been pleasant," he added, with a faint smile, "to see his young wife flitting about the old rooms, brightening them with the sunshine of her sweet presence; but it is not to be, and I am quite content."

There was a pause then, during which the old man's dim eyes were fixed upon a sketch which lay before him, a sketch of Shirley Ross in her fur cap and jacket, which Guy had drawn one day and given to his uncle, who had smiled at his eloquent description of Shirley's beauty.

"She is very lovely," he murmured to himself; "and she looks true. I am glad my boy will be so happy."

The minutes slipped by, the hail ceased and the moaning of the wind seemed to lessen. Suddenly Dickson rose.

"The carriage has returned, Sir Jasper," he said quietly.

"Ah, that is well! The time seems to go so slowly when one waits.

Two minutes more passed and then on the stairs without sounded a foot step, and into Sir Jasper's dim eyes came a gleam of intense eagerness. The door of his room opened quietly, and a tall man entered crossed the room with rapid step and knelt down by the bedside. Sir Jasper's eyes met his in eager love then they went beyond him to see the other form he so much wished to see, and came back, wistful and questioning, to rest on his nephew's face.

"Uncle Jasper"—Guy's voice, eager, tender, and unsteady, broke the silence first—"you expected me, did you not?"

"Not you only, dear lad," said the old man, whose eyes, dim as they were, saw the terrible change in the face of the man whom he loved so tenderly.

"You are glad to see me, sir?"

"When am I not glad, Guy?"

"And you are—not worse, I hope you have not been suffering much where is Dickson? I should like to ask him—"

The old man's fingers touched his nephew's and stopped the nervous, restless speech, and Guy, who had risen, resumed his old position, kneeling beside the bed.

"I have not been suffering," Sir Jasper said gently. "Sit down, lad, you must be weary."

Guy obeyed at once, throwing himself into an arm-chair by the bed and trying to screen his face from the keen eyes which were reading all its pain and all its unrest.

"You are alone, my boy?"

"Yes, Uncle Jasper."

"Guy, my dear lad, what is that pain upon your face?"

Guy's head sank upon his breast; he could not speak falsely to his uncle now, and yet how could he pain him by the story he had to tell?

"You have had some great trouble since I saw you, lad," went on the tender, sympathizing voice—and Guy's fingers closed over the cold hand in his with a so nvolutive pressure.

"Tell it me, Guy."

"It is nothing. You need not be troubled for me, Uncle Jasper," Guy said huskily.

"Nothing! Ah, lad, I can believe my old eyes still!" he answered, smiling faintly. "Do not be afraid to tell me, Guy."

"I have been troubled; but it is over," Guy said steadily. "Do not think of it, sir. Let us speak of something else."

"It will not hurt you to tell me, nor will it hurt me to hear. Nothing can hurt me now, you know, because I am so near the border of that land where all dark places will be made light and all rough places smooth. Tell me, lad—why is not Shirley with you?"

Guy winced. The mention of her name probed the open wound and gave him keen pain.

"She has not deceived you, lad?"

"She? No, poor child! Guy said bitterly.

"Then you are saved the cruellest pang of all, Guy. There is no pain as hard to bear as that brought by the knowledge of the unworthiness of one we love."

"Shirley is worthy of the truest love any man could give her," Major 'turst said huskily. "But, Uncle Jasper, why need you be troubled? You must get over it as best I can, and must try to forget the happy dream (I have dreamed lately.)"

"Forget them! Why?"

"Because—because they have stolen her from me."

"Stolen her from you, Guy! What do you mean, lad?"

"One who called himself my friend."

"Your friend! Tell me all, Guy. I can bear any trouble better than this suspense and ignorance of what is grieving you."

And, simply, and with a little bitterness as he could, Guy told him all the old man listened in silence, only the feeble pressure of his thin fingers over Guy's strong ones showing what he felt, and once or twice a sudden gleam of anger flashed into his dim eyes. Wrong, insult, injury to himself he could have borne, but injury to Guy cut him deeper far.

"My poor boy, my poor boy!" he said, as Guy's head sank upon his hands in uncontrollable emotion. "I was a cruel deed."

"Cruel! Could any vengeance be so great for that dastard's crime?" Guy said passionately. "Tell me, Uncle Jasper—you who can judge dispassionately—would it be more than justice if I laid him dead at my feet? If a man attacks you in fair fight, you can meet him and defend yourself; but a vile traitor who stabs you in the dark, who takes your hand in friendship, meaning to betray you basely, who takes from you the one precious thing which gladdens your life—what punishment—great Heaven, what punishment could be severe enough for him? If I slew him, I should be too merciful," he said between his teeth; then, meeting the sorrowful, dim eyes, he made a strong effort to regain his self-control. "Forgive me, dear Uncle Jasper!" he said, bending toward him. "I was wrong to startle you thus—very wrong."

"You were wrong—very wrong," his uncle answered quietly—"but not because you startled me. Guy, have you forgotten the words, 'Vengeance is mine; I will repay!'"

"But such perfidy, such treachery!" said the young man, panting with the might of his passion for vengeance, which he strove in vain to conceal. "No murder could have been so vile. A murderer kills the body, but he has killed my soul."

"Hush, for Heaven's sake! Be silent, Guy!"

Guy's bronzed face paled to the hue of death at the entreaty and pain in the feeble voice, his lips trembled, and the flash of madness died out of his eyes.

"Forgive me, Uncle Jasper; but ah, if you knew how I loved her, and how she is suffering!"

"I know how you loved her, Guy; for once I loved even as you do, and I know how you both suffer." Sir Jasper said brokenly. "Every step of this weary road over which you are walking I have trodden, every pang you have suffered I have known—every pang, but intensified a hundredfold, because, while you can honor Shirley still, I found my idol was nothing but clay."

"Uncle Jasper!" Low and broken and pained were the words now; the madness was dying out of the heart, the greatness of his grief was not lessened, but it was calmed by the words, so solemnly tender, so deeply sad, which he had heard.

"I was a younger man than you, Guy, when I loved even as you loved, and thought that I was loved in return. But I was wrong. She pretended to love me, and one day I found out my mistake. It is a long story, but I need not give you its details now, Guy. The man who won her from me was my friend, and it was to him I owed the accident which made me what you have known me, Guy—a helpless cripple."

An exclamation of pain and horror broke from Major Stuart's lips.

"Yes," Sir Jasper went on, in his grave, pained, weary voice, "but for him, I should have been as other men, Guy—strong and healthy, able to enjoy life and see good days. He took from me the woman I loved; he deprived me forever of health and strength, of the dear and close ties of marriage. What woman, even had she loved me, could I have asked to share my life? Had I no cause for vengeance, Guy? And yet, when it was in my reach, when, a year after, it was in my power to avenge myself fully, to strike every joy he possessed from his hand, even as he had taken them from mine, to shiver to the dust the honors and successes he had won, I refrained. Ah, Guy, dear ad, there is a nobler justice than the justice of revenge! What mercy have we look for if we grant none? Lying here, with the light from the windows of my Father's mansion shining upon my homeward path, I can look back thankfully to the past, whereas—"

Reading Character by the Voice

By RUTH CAMERON.

It is remarkable to me that the voice as an index to the character has never received more attention. We have some character students who read character by the lines on the palm, others who judge by the shape of the head and others who claim to be able to tell us all about a man by his handwriting. Now it seems to me that if sufficient study were made of the voice, it would be found to be as accurate and significant an index to character as any of these.

Voices are tremendously interesting things as you will find if you stop to notice them. A voice reflects its owner's state of health, his education or lack of it, his monetary mood and his habitual personality, to a wonderful degree. If you were to shut your eyes and listen to a person's voice I think you would get quite as good a notion of the real person than if you stopped up your ears and judged from sight alone. Of course the blind are the only people who really appreciate the full significance of voices. I imagine they can judge a man's character quite as accurately as the phrenologist or the palmist although such judgment is second nature to them rather than any science.

It seems to me that similar voices run in families, even more than similar physiognomies. I think this is because the voice is more plastic and more easily affected by environment than the face. The similar

Trunk of Aviator's Body

Washed Ashore on the New Jersey Coast—Identified by Paper Vest that Was Worn by the Airman.

New York, January 5.—The waves yesterday washed to shore at Edgewater, Long Island, a man's trunk—armless, legless and headless. It was washing back and forth with the ebb and tide of the waves when an Italian laborer saw it. On October 13, 1913, Aviator Albert J. Jewel started to fly from Hempstead Plains, L. I., to partake in an aviation meet on Staten Island.

The man's trunk that the Italian laborer found pounding on the beach was all that is left of Jewel.

The police have declined so far to believe that a positive identification has been made.

But the body was Jewel's to the best belief of his uncle, William H. Carey; his widow, Mrs. Jewel, and G. H. Lapointe, a friend who knew him well. There was nothing on the trunk save one side of a woolen undershirt and a paper vest.

It is the paper vest that seems to identify the body almost beyond doubt, for it is the make that all aviators wear when they are flying where the temperature is below freezing.

Furthermore, the stitching very close together in the vest, quite corresponds to the one which Lapointe saw Jewel put on early in the morning of Oct. 13.

What happened to Jewel we never be known. But the terrible fact that his trunk floated at last to shore with neither arms nor legs nor head indicates clearly enough that there was a frightful accident to his machine before it fell or that man-eating sharks pounced upon him somewhere out in the Atlantic.

Some Good advice.

"Why do you go on suffering from the intolerable itching and general discomfort of that eczema you told me about; why don't you do as I did?"

"What was that?"

"I went to my Druggist, and he recommended me to try Zylex, a new Ointment which he said had done remarkable work in the cure of Eczema. At any rate it cured me."

"I'll try Zylex, then."

Zylex is sold by all druggists at 50 cents a box. Zylex Soap, 25 cents a cake.—Jan 14, eod, ft

Varicose Veins and Itching Piles

Usually Arise From Same Cause—Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids but medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

This letter tells of relief from the suffering of varicose veins by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. E. J. Evans, 187 Munro street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment. 60 cents a box all dealers, or Hamanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Cairo.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash"

Cairo is the Chicago of Egypt. Although a very young town, having been founded only about 1,100 years ago, it has grown with wonderful speed and now has over 600,000 people, speaking somewhat less than that number of languages and dialects.

This shows what modern hustle and enterprise will do. There are cities in Egypt which are 4,000 years older than Cairo. But their commercial clubs loafed on the job. They pooh-poohed at reform and the health department and now they are nothing but elaborate holes in the ground. When workmen dig down into the earth in the outskirts of Cairo, to insert the foundation for a new mosque, they often come upon the remains of cities which were great tourist centres once, but had been forgotten by the oldest inhabitants before the reverse gear was thrown in on the calendar 1914 years ago.

Cairo sits on the hills and in the valley by the Nile and consists of two parts: old and new Cairo. In the new section, street cars and moving lectures abound, while modern hotels take the tourist, who come to absorb Egypt's celebrated winter climate, and separate him from his wealth as successfully as could be done by any Florida tavern. The society of the world drifts through this part of Cairo during the winter, while thousands of tourists put up here while they are inspecting the pyramids, the sphinx and other notable public works in the suburbs.

The old section of Cairo was built 500 to 1,000 years ago and has been cleaned several times since. It consists of mosques, harems and bazaars, in equal proportions, jammed so tightly together that they have to use glove powder to get a fat camel through the streets. These are the celebrated streets of Cairo, but they are much more respectable than the imitations so often seen in this country.

Cairo is a large railroad center and is connected by camel with all points in the Sahara Desert. It has one of the oldest and largest universities in the world, and said university was also the inventor of the college yell, the students all studying at the top of their voices. The university is not as loud, however, as the famous howling derwishes on the old scimitar road, or as the Arab donkey drivers who do a big passenger business in the sight-seeing season. Cairo has no elevated railroads, but, thanks to the efforts of the Arabs, it is almost as noisy as Chicago.

Sick, Sour Stomach Indigestion, Or Gas

Take "Pape's Diapepsin" and in five minutes you'll wonder what became of misery in stomach.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

German Officers Retire.

Constantinople, January 8. — No fewer than 280 Turkish officers of the rank of General, Brigadier-General and Lieut.-Colonel were placed on the retired list to-day as a result of changes in the military administration introduced by the new German advisers of the Turkish Government who, it is stated, contemplate still further changes.

Among those retired is Hadi Pasha, Chief of the General Staff, while Zis Pasha, assistant Chief of the General Staff has been transferred to another position, and probably is to be replaced by a German officer.

The report of the resignation of the Turkish Grand Vizier, Prince Said Halim, published some time ago, was erroneous.

The Opposition in the House.

Last night the Opposition members of the House of Assembly met and discussed the political situation. They resolved that the Liberal and the Union party shall be distinct and separate. Mr. J. M. Kent, K. C., was selected by the members of the Liberal Party as Leader of the Liberal Party. President Coaker was selected by the Union members as leader of the Union party. It was agreed that Mr. Kent should be recognized as the official Opposition leader by the Speaker of the House of Assembly. Mr. Coaker maintained that the aim of the F. P. U. was that the F. P. U. members of the House shall in future parliaments control the Government, while its members might not necessarily compose the Executive. This platform was rejected by the Liberal Party. But it was agreed to co-operate to oppose the Government and endeavour to oust them from power.

House Opens To-Morrow.

In the Royal Gazette last night the appointment of H. Y. Mott as Clerk of the House of Assembly is announced. Mr. Mott resigned this office last year in order to contest the district of St. Barbe in the interest of the People's Party against Mr. Clapp, the Liberal candidate. Mr. Mott met with a decisive defeat and his party services have been recognized by his appointment to the office he held during the five sessions of the Twenty-second General Assembly. The services of Mr. Brian Dunfield are understood being recognized by his appointment to the office of Supervisor of Debates. To-day the members elect of the House of Assembly will take the oath of allegiance in the Legislative Council before a Commission appointed for that purpose, consisting of the Hon. John Harris, Dr. Skelton and R. K. Bishop. At three o'clock the members of the House of Assembly will meet in their own Chamber and proceed to the selection of a Speaker. It is understood that the Government party will put up Mr. Goodison, the member for Carbonear. Mr. F. J. Morris member for Placentia is to be passed over on account of party expediency. Mr. Morris proved himself a popular and effective Speaker during the term 1905-8, and he has sat in the House of Assembly for most of the terms for the past quarter of a century, and has abundance of experience. But he has to take a back seat. Contrary to expectations, no appointments were made to portfolios or to the Executive. It is known that Mr. Blandford has resigned the portfolio of Minister of Agriculture and Mines, but not even this resignation was announced as apparently the Government has not selected his successor or they are not yet prepared to take the public into their confidence at present. It would be a strange proceeding, however, if the Government should open the session to-morrow without any announcement on the subject.

The Hon. John Anderson and the Hon. J. J. Murphy, in the Council, and Messrs. Currie and Higgins will have charge of the motion for Addresses in reply to the Governor's Speech.

NOTICE.—There will be a meeting of the lady friends of the T. A. B. Society on Friday, Jan. 16th, at 8 p.m., at the T. A. Hall, to make arrangements for Annual Treat to be given the Juvenile Society. A large attendance is requested. J. P. KELLY, Sec. of Guardians.—11

Beliezed the Cobequid Has Gone Down--No Trace of Her Can b Found

Wireless Message Broke While Asking for Help.

Special to Evening Telegram.
HALIFAX, To-day.
The fate of the steamer Cobequid after she sent out a wireless call for help early yesterday morning still remains a mystery. As no word has been received from her or the craft sent to her rescue, it seems now almost a certainty that the Cobequid struck on Grand Manan, possibly at low water, then slid off into deep water, sank or that when the Bay of Fundy tide came up she was submerged, for tides there rise and fall seven feet. Searching the Bay of Fundy for a lost steamer is no small task, at best times here the tides run like a snipe, added to this there was an awful blizzard which raged all day. This was accompanied by a blinding snowstorm with zero weather. Nevertheless several craft braved the elements in an endeavor to locate and succor the Cobequid. The American Government sent out two revenue cutters, one from Eastport and the other from Portland. These two steamers will likely confine their search to the vicinity of Grand Manan where in all probability the ill-fated steamer struck. The tug J. L. Cann Westport proceeded down the Bay as far as Northwest Ledge, where there was a possibility of the Cobequid grounding. The Government steamer Lady Laurier also joined in the search but saw no sign of the missing steamer. The Government steamer

Tyrian which was in the vicinity of Grand Manan at cable working was also enlisted to search as well as steamer Lansdowne, which put out from St. John. She was joined by the tug, Lord Kitchener, and the steamer Helena. A wireless message was sent to the steamer Krampus in Cecilia, which was known to be not far off, asking the Captain to join in the search. There has been no reports from any of these ships, Captain Howson had exceptional ability as Navigator and was held in the highest esteem by his employers. He was a R. N. R. man, and had a very successful record as master Marine and was a native of England, 43 years of age.

Special to Evening Telegram.
ST. JOHN, N.B., To-day.
At 8.45 yesterday morning, the wireless Operator at Partridge Island at the mouth of St. John Harbor was in communication with the Cobequid, the ship's Operator asking for help. He said the engine room was filling with water. He believed the vessel was sinking. Then the message broke off. It is thought the wireless on the ship was put out of commission. On the Cobequid were two girls, Misses James, daughter of the late R. H. James, formerly Mayor of St. George, Bermuda. They were coming on a visit to this city for a few days before going to Edgell, Ladies' College, Windsor.

The Pantomime, "Blue Beard."

Last night Rossleys was so crowded that many had to go away disappointed, while hundreds had to stand; such a rollicking good show, with a laugh a minute. The costumes of the Quaker Girl number was the sweetest and quaintest little act ever seen here. Mrs. Rossley wore an elegant costume of Limerick lace, and cloth of gold, which was admired by all. Jack Rossley, as a sister-in-law to Blue Beard, was very becomingly dressed in the latest style, even to the heather up the back of the hat. His song "Has Anybody Here Seen me" is even funnier than last year when he sang "Adam was a Scotchman." He impersonates an actress who has lost her memory. Percy Orth, as Blue Beard, could not be duplicated even at Drury Lane, while Joe Burkhardt has lots of funny business. Bonnie Rossley, as Blue Beard's new wife, in a splendid oriental orange satin, was perfection. It's a great show and the singing and dancing delightful. The Living Statues is an entrancing sight, while the Blue Chamber with the heads of Blue Beard's wives hanging up, is another scene where the popular comedian Jack Rossley, as Sister Annie makes things good and lively. Matinee at three to-day.

M. Matacheff, a Russian sportsman, recently made an offer of 60,000 guineas (more than $275,000) for the bay horse Lemburg, foaled in 1907 by Colonel Lemberg. The owner of Lemburg, who races on the English turf under the name of "Mrs. Fairlie," declined the offer.

Lemberg was a great racehorse. As a two year old he started seven times, scored six victories and was second when beaten. As a three year old he started nine times, won seven, was second once and third once. As a four year old he won four of seven starts and was second three times. During his three-year old career he was generally ridden by "Danny" Maher, for whom he lost only one race in the St. Leger, ridden by Frank O'Neill, he started an odds-on favorite but was beaten by Steadfast.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Special services are being held each night this week by the Methodist people in Coughlan Hall.

Mr. George Hodder, who had been here for the past few days on a visit to his daughter, Mrs. A. Dwyer, returned to St. John's by this morning's train.

The Pleas U. last night, was very interesting and instructive, and it was a pity such a small number attended. Capt. Barnack, as a reformer, gave us some good hints in the way of doing good to others, and that can be done by kind words and a little help in uplifting others. There is a lesson in every picture shown, and all who can should visit the Pleas U. This is no ad.

Miss Lynn Butt, who holds a good position in the business of Mr. Mansfield, of Exploits, is spending a little time here with her relatives. Her many friends are pleased to have her with them again, even though her stay will be short.

A few days ago report became circulated that a couple of young men who are camped some miles to the W. of this town, had secured a fox as one of their traps. An enterprising business man hurried off to make a deal on the spot, but after his long tramp he was disappointed on finding the rumor not correct. Anyhow we don't think it would be of any use to go in the country to buy a fox cheap, as Jimmy carries a price list for foxes in his pocket. It would be well to take all these reports in future with the proverbial grain of salt, or better still, with a little mustard.

It is quite true that Reynard had captured to near the trap, and only escaped by leaving some of his fur, to show the huntsmen how near he was and yet how far away.

Not His Son.

Dear Sir.—It has been rumored around town that the young man that was arrested for the robbery committed at the Horwood Lumber Co.'s Office, was one of my sons. Would you please inform the public, for my sake, and also for the sake of my two sons that occupy responsible positions in St. John's, and also for the respect of my two sons that have good positions in other countries, viz., Vancouver, B.C., and Toronto, that it was not my son. I know it is very easy for people to surmise things, knowing that I myself was connected with the Horwood Lumber Co. for 15 years, and had some of my boys working there with me. It's not out of reason that they should think so. I have only one son working with the Horwood Lumber Co. at present. I would like the readers of your valuable paper to be informed that it was not him.

Thanking you for your favor, I remain,
Yours truly,
GEORGE BEST.

Special to Evening Telegram.

HALIFAX, Jan. 13. The Royal Mail Packet Cobequid, on her initial trip between St. John, N.B., Halifax and the West Indies, sent out a wireless at 8.30 this morning, saying she was ashore at Briar Island and asking for assistance. The light keeper has failed to locate the Cobequid after a careful search. Marine authorities think she may have struck Grand Manan instead of Briar Island. A theory is that she struck off Grand Manan at low water, and that when the tide came up she was submerged, all on board perishing. Besides 87 of a crew there were five passengers, said to be colored people from Bermuda, bound for Halifax or St. John. The officers of the Cobequid are: Commander, J. Couson, R.N.R.; Chief Officer, F. W. Kirby; 2nd Officer, W. F. Neulleid; Chief Engineer, D. H. Douglas; 2nd Engineer, M. Wells; Surgeon, Dr. W. H. Lister; Purser, R. Houghton; Chief Steward, G. E. Porter. At 7.30 this morning, the Cape Sable operator received a Marconi saying that the Cobequid went ashore on the rocks off Briar Island, Bay of Fundy, at 5 a.m. St. John and other stations were notified. A wireless was sent to the Kron Princessen Cecille, which was the nearest steamer to the distressed ship, by the St. John agent. The Halifax Agent, Harvey, also notified the Lady Laurier, which was off Sambro, and she was ordered to the scene with all speed. From St. John the Government steamer Lansdowne and the tug Lord Kitchener were despatched, also the Public Works boat Helena. A wireless to the Halifax agent stated that there was a very heavy storm in the Bay of Fundy, gales and snow storms prevailing. By the last accounts received the Cobequid had a bad list, the engine room was flooded, and the wireless apparatus disabled. A steamship coming here from Demarara reported that the Cobequid was ashore on Quarry Ledges, Briar Island. Yarmouth tugs have searched both sides of the island, but without a trace of her. It is feared that if she did strike the island she slipped into deep water and foundered.

TOKIO, Jan. 13. Earthquakes on the island of Kashi have resulted in large loss of life and damage to property; 100 are reported killed. The entire district afforded a terrifying spectacle. The city was in darkness, the only light being the glare from the volcano, which was in violent eruption. The evacuation of Kagoshima was impeded by a huge rock, which had been thrown out by the volcano, and wrecked the rails outside the town. Further details toll of the death of all the people, and the transformation of the coast, by the throwing up of a new island from the neighboring sea.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13. A material reduction in the wholesale price of staple serges, unfinished worsteds, clays, chevots, and other woolen goods for the fall of this year was announced to the Trade today. This is a result of the new Tariff. Clays show a reduction to 27 1/2 cents, unfinished worsted 22 1-3 cents to 27 1/2 cents lower. The heaviest reduction of nearly 23 cents is on Washington serge. Whether the ultimate consumer will receive any benefit is a matter of conjecture; but the general opinion is that the reduced cost will be lost in the course of handling.

NAGASAKI, Jan. 13. The volcano Satura Jima on the southern end of Kiuishiu Island broke into eruption yesterday, burying the villages of Kagoshima in streams of lava. The inhabitants rushed to the beach and leaped aboard junks and steamers which carried them across three miles of water. Hundreds are reported smothered or drowned. It is impossible yet to estimate the extent of the disaster.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 13. Rivers in northern Belgium are rising rapidly in spite of the cold weather, and threaten to exceed the devastation done by floods in the provinces of Liege and Namur. The Scheldt is six feet over normal, causing suspension of work in many factories and brickyards. Quantities of flax have been washed away.

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 13. Dr. Granour, Italian medical officer aboard the North German Lloyd steamer Berlin, from Naples to New York, has been murdered by an emigrant, in the Mediterranean. His body was landed here.

TORONTO, Jan. 13. The World says that Adam Beck will succeed Lord Strathcona as Canadian High Commissioner. He is now taking a year's rest in England.

MORE FEVER.—A case of diphtheria and one of scarlet fever were reported to the Health Department yesterday. The diphtheria patient was removed to hospital.

The Winter Fly.

Oh, now and then a languid fly is seen upon the ceiling, or on the cake or pumpkin pie, in drowsy fashion reeling. We missed it in the autumn haze, we missed it or forgot it, but now in view of future days, we ought to rise and swat it. We're apt to say: "One fly, gadzooks! won't hurt, if we don't hit it; besides, we have a hot-stuff book, and do not wish to quit it." And so we sit in slothful ease, with volume by Miss Bonner, when we should take our snickernees and make that fly a goner. For that one fly, through winter days will linger, if not swatted; and in the springtime it will raise a family dotted. A stitch in time, the poet said, will save nineteen or twenty, and every winter fly knocked dead cuts down the summer's plenty. So let us as one man arise, and chase the pests and bleed 'em, still shouting, as we swat the flies, the battle cry of freedom.

G's Draw Moist Cloth Through Hair

Try This! Hair gets thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful at once—Stops falling out.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—That's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every article of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it, surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it. 14

Syrian Peddler Murdered in Nova Scotia.

Charles Asaf Killed With an Axe—Edward Cook, of Sheet Harbour Suspected of the Crime.

Halifax, January 7.—Charles Asaf—the Syrian peddler, was murdered and his body buried within a few hundred yards of the house in which he lodged at Sheet Harbour, on the night of December 9.

The body was found this afternoon. There was a huge gash in the head, which is said to have been inflicted with an axe, and the body was otherwise badly battered.

A searching party found the body, and an inquest was held before the coroner at Sheet Harbour, the jury returning a verdict that the deceased came to his death from an axe wound, in the hands of a person, or persons unknown. The body is being brought to Halifax, and an autopsy will be held here.

Detective Hanrahan and Chief Constable Umlah are now on the way to Halifax with Edward Cook in custody. On arrival here he will be charged by the crown prosecutor with murder. The prisoner is a powerful man about twenty-two years of age. The crown officers claim that robbery was the motive of the crime.

Sirloin or Surloin.

King James I. is said to have been so well pleased with a loin of beef as to knight it and make it Sir Loin or sirloin. However, a story of the same kind was also told of Henry VIII, and is to be found in Fuller's "Church History." Dining with the abbot of Reading, Henry—according to this authority—ate so heartily of a loin of beef that the abbot said he would give 1,000 marks for such a stomach. "Done!" said the king and kept the abbot a prisoner in the tower until he grew ravenously hungry and won his 1,000 marks and knighted the beef. But Webster characterizes this etymology as "erroneous," saying that the true spelling should be "sirloin"—the "sur" being equal to "super."

At the Crescent.

The mid-week programme at the Crescent Picture Palace for to-day and to-morrow will be entire change of picture and song bill, the leader of which is the "Fallen Idol" featuring Margaria Fisher as Shedah, in Otis Turner's great production.

Another truly magnificent feature will be the melo-drama, "Honor and the Sword" which is bound to create a sensation with lovers of "movies."

The comedy line is also carefully attended to, "Belmont Stung" and "The Jealousy of Jane," 2 Imp. pictures that will provide sufficient fun to have the programme a remarkably good one.

Mr. David Parks, who scored such a big success in the songs: "Any Old Port in the Storm" and "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold," renders another big favorite when he sings: "Then You'll Remember Me," taken from the opera "The Bohemian Girl," beautifully illustrated.

The Crescent is fast becoming "The People's Theatre." A show which combines both pleasure and comfort has made many friends for this already popular Picture House.

Sessions: Afternoon, 2.30; evening, 7.30.

Hockey Notes.

The Crescent and Feildian hockey teams each had a practice at the Prince's Rink last night, the former at 6.30 and the latter at 10.30. The ice was in excellent condition, the best for the season. Some of the "has-beens" will again take a prominent part in the League games this season. George Marshall will take his old stand as cover point for the Crescents, while Charlie Parsons will occupy a similar post for the Victorias. It is also said and in fact it is certain that "Nix" Vinnicombe will get tend for the Vics. The Feildians will have some new blood in their ranks and are expected to make a bold bid for the championship. The St. Bon's and Vics will have a practice to-night. If the present weather conditions continue the League games will begin on next Monday night. By that time each team will be in good form.

The Francis Xavier is expected to visit St. John's about the 15th of February, though no word has been received from them in answer to a communication sent by the League. The Francis Xavier boys are a strong combination and hard to beat. Here is what a Canadian press says of them: "Reports from Antigonish say that the St. Francis Xavier hockey team have been doing strenuous work under the guidance of trainer W. P. Walsh, better known as 'Tatter.' Mr. Walsh is a St. John athlete of some note, and has shown very fast work both on the track and gridiron. St. F. X. are very fortunate in having a trainer who can from experience demonstrate how hockey should be played, and also show players how to get into condition. In the M.P.A.A.A. championships held at Charlottetown in Aug. 1912, he chased Cameron and Stirling across the line in the mile run. Trainer Walsh's St. John friends will follow with interest the progress of St. F. X. in the league."

Letter From Dr. Fraser.

Dear Mr. Parsons, Jan. 6th, 1914.

In answer to your enquiries regarding the Ford Car which I purchased from you last season—1913, I may say it has given entire satisfaction. It has been in good running order during the whole year, and required no replacements, except to one back brake.

In addition to the ordinary town work I used the car touring. I took it around Conception Bay as far as Harbor Grace, then across to Trinity Bay, from Heart's Content up the South Shore by Trinity Bay through Heart's Desire, Heart's Delight, Island Cove, Cavendish, Witless Bay, Green's Harbor, New Harbor and then up to Whitbourne, from Whitbourne to Colinet, then back over the same road, and down to Brigus. Returning to New Harbor we went over the Barrens to Spaniard's Bay. On the Brigus Road we followed a car track three miles taking the car up to the side of the pond where we fished.

Some of these roads, like the Spaniard's Bay Road, were all rocks, and some such as the road near Heart's Desire, soft marsh, but the car's light has good clearance underneath, and is a splendid hill-climber, so that nothing stopped it. It is also light on tires which is a great thing when touring. I had no spare tires on my tour and beyond two small punctures, no trouble.

Yours truly, (Signed) N. S. FRASER.

Visit of Mons. Roche to Bell Island.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.

BELL ISLAND, To-day. On Sunday at last mass, at St. Michael's Church, an immense congregation was present to hear Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G., of the Arch Diocese. The mass was sung by the Pastor, Rev. Fr. McGrath and the choir under the direction of Prof. Hasson, rendered the Christmas music as it was within an octave of the Epiphany. The people of the Parish are always prepared for a good sermon on the visit of Mons. Roche, and through his kindness they are never disappointed. After reading the gospel, the Rev. preacher in eloquent language set forth the lessons to be learnt from that of Sunday's gospel. The sermon was a most practical one and will effect much good in the parish. On Monday night the C.C.C. Company, No. 6, Bell Island, gave a drill exhibition in St. Joseph's Hall. The members of the Committee were present. Mons. Roche, Rev. Fr. Gough, of Portugal Cove, and Rev. Fr. McGrath, the Parish Priest, were invited to attend. After the exercises were gone through, the Monsignor addressed the company, complimenting them on their efficiency in executing the different figures. He also spoke words of encouragement and advice, to continue enthusiastic with regard to discipline and obedience. The schools were also visited by the Monsignor, Rev. Fr. McGrath and Rev. Fr. Gough. At the High School the children gave some musical drills under the direction of Prof. Hasson, who is doing good work in their training along these lines. Quite a large number are about to enter for the C.H.E. exams.

General Strike in South Africa

Government Proclaims Martial Law and Will Escort 200,000 Natives Back to Their Kraals.

SPECIAL TO THE EVENING TELEGRAM.

CAPE TOWN, To-day. A general strike throughout South Africa, was proclaimed last night by the Trades Federation and Rand Miners by a two-third majority voting to join the movement. The Government retaliation took swift form by the proclamation of martial law.

This was the only step the authorities believed adequate to meet the situation for the strike of miners, which not only means the turning loose of the most turbulent spirits in the Rand, but raises the whole question of the position of native workers. If the miners actually obey the strike order, the Government will immediately take steps to send natives back to their kraals. This means 200,000 natives must be marched back to their kraals at an enormous cost. Such a step means disaster to the Rand for many years. The Union Government remains firm in its attitude. Premier Botha is said to have declared he would guarantee that with the end of the present crisis, there would not be another Workers' strike in South Africa for a generation. The feeling runs high between the Government supporters and the strikers. The chance of mediation is practically hopeless. The Supreme Court granted an application compelling the Government to show cause why the strike leaders should remain in prison.

Brought to Prison.

PRISONER CONFESSES.

At five o'clock last evening, Richard Best, who was arrested for safe breaking in the office of the Horwood Lumber Co., as exclusively referred to in yesterday's Telegram, was conveyed to H. M. Penitentiary pending an investigation, after remaining in prison eight days, which is the time of his remand. Best will come before Court to stand his trial. It is said that the accused confessed what he had done yesterday.

See if the Child's Tongue is Coated

Mother! Don't hesitate! If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Insane Man Escaped

FROM POLICE CUSTODY AND IS RECAPTURED.

Another sensation was caused in police circles to-day by a young man named Patrick Delaney, a native of Bay Roberts. He was a violent case of insanity and was consigned to the Lunatic Asylum when he escaped from police custody. The patient was recaptured soon after, but the affair while it lasted created no small amount of excitement.

Delaney was in the United States for over ten years and only came to his home in Bay Roberts a few weeks ago to spend the Christmas season with his relatives and friends. He is a young man, about 25 years of age, of delicate appearance, and is said to be suffering from a serious attack of mental aberration. Of late he has been noticed by his brother, who is boarding here in the city, to be acting strangely. Last evening Patk. Delaney went to the Reid Co. station and purchased a first-class ticket from the agent there for Chicago, paying $38.25 for it. His brother, fearing that he might jump from the train or do some such rash act, acquainted the police and requested that he be stopped from going owing to his mental condition. Thereupon the police proceeded to the railway station, placed the passenger under arrest and brought him to the police station, where he was examined by Dr. Pritchard and pronounced insane.

This coroner, he was about to be driven to the Lunatic Asylum and was being put into a sleigh by two police officers, when he bolted, getting clear of his escorts and retorting "You're not going to bundle me off that way." The unfortunate man first ran in the direction of Baird's Cove, followed closely by Constable O'Keefe. A crowd of citizens also took part in the chase, as it was thought the afflicted man might do something desperate. Luckily however he altered his course and proceeded up Water Street at a lively pace, but was overtaken and captured by officer O'Keefe, who was driven in a sleigh, at the Royal Bank. The patient was again put aboard the sleigh and driven to the Asylum.

HIGH TIDE AT PLACENTIA.—Yesterday a very high tide visited Placentia, flooding many houses. According to a message received in the city at noon it will make much higher to-day.

Militants Want an Audience With King.

London, Jan. 7.—The militant suffragettes decided to-day to take their troubles before King George personally if they can secure an audience.

They are making preparations to form a deputation to His Majesty "to protest against the torture of suffragist prisoners and to demand votes for women." The militant suffragettes argue that the doctrine that the King may be approached only through the Cabinet minister applies only to the case of men. They announce that "women refuse to communicate their demands to the King through Cabinet ministers whom they hold in contempt and who have degraded themselves by their cruelty and treachery."

Mr. Bi Has How Escape.

Dublin, January 7.—A bullet was fired through a window of Dublin Castle early yesterday morning immediately under the room of Chief Secretary for Ireland, the Rt. Hon. Augustus Birrell. It is believed that it was fired from an air gun, as the sentries and the police, the detective service of which is nearby, heard no report. The authorities think the shooting was done as a protest against the constitution of a Police Commission to enquire into the recent disorders.

The House Next Door.

To-night the W. S. Harkins played will present the delightful English comedy of to-day "The House Next Door." Briefly the story is as follows: Sir John Cottswold, an old English Baronet, who scorns to learn the value of money, and considers it beneath him to either add up figures or enquire the price of anything, has become practically a bankrupt, and he does not realize it. His estate has been bought up as well as his plate and paintings by a Jew who has been granted a title by the Government. This Jew, Sir Isaac Jacobson, was the son of a poor chair maker who formerly resided on Sir John's father's estate. Sir Isaac moves to the House Next Door to Sir John's, and this together with the fact that he already owns all of Sir John's property greatly angers the latter. His bitter denunciation of all Jews and Sir Isaac in particular is at times humorous and again pathetic. Each of the families has a son and a daughter. These fall in love with each other. This, of course, does not tend to improve matters, but adds to the comedy of the play. The ending of the play is rather unique and will be told at the Casino to-night. There is nothing to offend either Jew or Gentile in this delightful play, instead a strong moral is told. A large advance sale indicates a crowded house. Lovers of high class comedy should not miss it.

Roasted Chicken Sent to Prisoner Contained Money.

Kingston, Ont., January 7.—That many guards are supporting large families in a most extravagant manner on a salary of what was until a short time ago $600 a year, was the statement of Inspector W. S. Hughes, formerly accountant at the penitentiary, at afternoon's session of the Penitentiary Investigation Commission.

In regard to the alleged traffic in tobacco by guards, Inspector Hughes stated that it was not the small guards whom the Commission suspected were the chief offenders. He stated that some of the oldest guards who had been in the service for some time were guilty and on a far larger scale than those under suspicion. These men he charges with trafficking on a large scale, not only in money and tobacco, but in drugs, whiskey and other contraband.

In his evidence Inspector Hughes stated that while the small offenders may have had money sent them in registered letters by friends of convicts, the men bigger in the game had dumps acting for them in Gananoque, Nanawee, Collins Bay and other points in this vicinity to whom the money would be sent and from the guards would receive it. These were the men he charged with living in a manner a man with an income of $2,000 a year could not live—and their salary was only $600.

When pressed to give the names of some of these guards the inspector refused, stating that he had not sufficient evidence to make definite

Money and Spirits Found in Walnuts.

Inspector Hughes gave evidence showing the ingenuity of convicts and the manner in which contraband articles were brought in. Some time ago when convicts were allowed Christmas baskets, a roasted chicken was seized and on examination it was found to contain opium, brandy, whiskey and money. The shells had been split and after having been filled were glued together. Tobacco had been discovered in turnips. A piece had been cut from the turnip, the centre hollowed and filled with tobacco and the piece put back in place. The inspector admitted that the officials knew that this had been going on for some time, but nothing could be done to get at the source.

Politics as One of the Greatest Evils.

Inspector Stewart stated that in his opinion the greatest evil in the administration of justice was that politics was responsible for the appointment of guards. He held that by politics there would be grafting and inefficiency. The politicians who were the strongest advocates in the House of Commons for the reform of the penitentiary were the men who were responsible for the conditions existing in the penitentiary. He suggested that the Warden be made supreme with the power of engaging and dismissing his police staff.

Inspector Stewart stated that the penitentiary needed more industries for the employment of the convicts and he strongly favoured a suggestion whereby convicts will manufacture all office furniture required by the Government, uniforms and shoes for soldiers and police as well as mail bags, etc. He would recommend that the convicts receive a certain recompense for their labor, the balance, after paying for their upkeep, to be devoted to the support of their families.

Millions From Tobacco

According to statistics from France the tobacco monopoly of the French government netted the State $105,000,000 last year, the largest return since the foundation of the monopoly, 103 years ago. The original capital out of which this vast profit was made was $30,000,000, or about one-third of the capitalization of the lately dissolved American Tobacco Company. The French government supervises the growing of all tobacco and the planters are compelled to sell their entire crops to the State at a fair appraisal.

Twenty factories are permitted to work up this tobacco, and cigars are sold at a uniform price throughout the entire country. Quantity makes no difference, cigars costing just as much when purchased by the thousand as when bought singly. The hotels and restaurants buy their cigars at the same prices for which they are furnished to the general public, but they add from fifty to a hundred per cent as their own profit. The rights to retail tobacco are jealously guarded by the government, and it is necessary to obtain a State permit before opening any kind of a retail store.

There is not much chance for an ordinary individual to get rich selling tobacco in France, for these permits are usually granted to the widows of army and navy officers, or to employees of the government. The widows, however, are permitted to lease their permits to other persons in consideration of fixed annual payments. That the government conducts its business with a view to the greatest profit is attested by foreign visitors to France, who find the tobacco of an inferior quality to what they are accustomed to at home. But the Frenchmen, not being familiar with foreign tobacco, do not know the difference and go on smoking the home product with as much gusto as if it were of the finest Havana stock.

To Bring Suit Against Chancellor.

C. Von Bethmann-Hollweg Incurs the Displeasure of German Potash Syndicate.

Berlin, Jan. 8.—A suit against the Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg is to be brought by the German Potash Syndicate, which demands from him the return of $2,000,000, forming the so-called "proposals fund" for advertising the merits of the German fertilizer at home and abroad. This amount was raised by imposing a tax on all potash mined in Germany under the law of 1910.

A part of the fund for the specific purpose remains on hand and it is stated in some quarters that the government is allowing it to accumulate with the idea of diverting it to general purposes under the provisions of a new law now being formulated.

The law of 1910 was designed to conserve the natural supplies of potash in Germany to insure the prosperity of the German industry and to prevent Americans from getting a cheap supply, but it has been a partial failure. New potash mines are constantly being opened up, thereby decreasing the quotas allotted to the various existing mines and those interested declare that the time is coming when the bars to freer and cheaper production of potash must be lowered unless more effective methods of discouraging potash mining in Germany are devised.

New Disease Caused By Wireless.

Every new invention seems to add at least one to the already long list of ills to which the human race is liable. Wireless telegraphy is no exception to the rule, for German physicians have just discovered a brand-new disease which claims for its victims the operators of wireless instruments on instruments on shipboard.

The disease is a form of anaemia, characterized by great weakness of mind and body. An analysis of the blood of sufferers from it shows a surprising decrease in the number of red corpuscles. The new "wireless debility" is believed to be due partly to the small unsanitary quarters which shipowners provide for their faithful wireless operators, and partly to the excessive ozonizing of the air by the high frequency currents of electricity required to operate powerful wireless plants.

This latter cause of the disease adds new strength to science's case against ozone. It used to be thought that the more ozone we got in the better, but now it is known that except in very minute quantities it is extremely harmful.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Dudley, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewes, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov. 8, '11

Man's Destiny

We hear constant warnings that the times are degenerate, that men are less manly and woman less womanly than they once were, that human life is unlifted to bear the growing strain to which it is subjected. It is not to be denied that we have some solemn warnings which we shall do well to heed; nevertheless, there is good reason to have faith in the growing adaptation of manhood and womanhood to the tasks and burdens which are to fall upon human life.

This is the spirit of those fine words of David Starr Jordan:
When shall man rise to manhood's destiny?
When our slow-toddling race shall be full grown,
Deep in each human heart a chamber lone
Of holies, holiest shall be builded,
And each man for himself must hold the key.

Each man must kindle his own altar fires,
Each burn an offering of his own desires,
And each, at last, his own High Priest shall be!

The tests of our systems of education, of our systems of government, and even of our religion, come finally to this. Are they producing manhood and womanhood that are reliable, stable and righteous? The promise of God is that this kind of character shall possess the earth. Let us hasten the time when it shall be true.

How Flies Carry Germs For Miles.

How far can flies, mosquitoes and other disease-bearing insects carry the germs which make them so much dreaded? It used to be thought that their activities were limited to a radius of a few hundred feet from their breeding places and that even a high wind would never waft them more than a mile or so away.

The experts in charge of Cleveland's anti-fly campaign, however, have discovered evidence to prove that flies are carried by the wind over water for six miles, and it seems reasonable to suppose that over land the length of their flight might be greatly extended. This discovery was made in a curious way—through the request for some means of relief from the plague of flies which infest the cribs of the waterworks, six miles out in Lake Erie north of the city.

The presence of flies in this isolated spot could not be charged to passing steamers or to conditions obtaining on the cribs. Although tenders live on the cribs, there are no animals and there is absolutely nothing in which flies of any kind could breed. All garbage and waste matters are dumped immediately into the lake or are put into a tight incinerator and burned daily. Lake steamers pass within about half a mile of the crib, but none of the men have ever noticed any evidence of flies coming from them. All the crib tenders maintain that a south wind brings a cloud of flies from the city and that a north wind carries them away.

The only explanation seems to be that the flies are blown at least six miles off shore, and that they gather on the cribs as temporary resting places. Attraction of any other sort cannot be a strong factor, else they would remain on shore, attracted by the animals and men along the docks and the much richer food supply.

These facts and other evidence strongly support the theory that flies of certain kinds are able to travel much farther than is commonly supposed. Flies which have travelled these long distances appear to be ravenously hungry, and some of them bite viciously. It is not difficult to trap them under these conditions.

St. John's M. I. A.

LECTURE BY REV. W. H. THOMAS.
The St. John's Mutual Improvement Association held a meeting in the Congregational Lecture Room last night which was largely attended by members and visitors including a number of lady friends.

Mr. H. R. Brookes, President of the M. I. A., was the chairman, and before introducing the lecturer of the evening briefly summarized the aims and ideals of the Association, alluding to its threefold object of Thrift, Literary, and Physical development for the young and old of both sexes.

The Rev. W. H. Thomas then delivered an interesting discourse on the great American poet, "Edgar Allen Poe," tracing his career from his birth at Boston in 1809 till his death in 1849 at the early age of forty.

The rev. lecturer dealt with Poe as a "critic," "novelist" and "poet," stating that there was nothing very remarkable about his criticisms, which were as a rule, made without due preparation, but his prose and poetry were of a very high order. His descriptions were remarkably artistic and vigorous and the minute style of his narrative placed him in a class to himself, as a consummate literary artist.

In concluding his discourse, the rev. lecturer said that the works left us by Poe are scanty, but of a high order, and it is a sad reflection that his poverty compelled him to resort to hackwork, when he was capable of fashioning the highest verse.

At the close of the lecture, the audience were entertained with a rendition of "The Bells" on a gramophone, manipulated by Mr. Bervie Martin.

After the selection the Rev. Mr. Thomas recited "The Raven" in a very pleasing manner, and was heartily applauded.

At the close a vote of thanks to the lecturer was moved by Mr. John Cowie and seconded by Mr. I. C. Morris, and was carried by acclamation.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas expressed his thanks after which the National Anthem brought the enjoyable event to a close.

A Great Tenor at the Nickel.

Rudolph L. Kock, the lyric tenor, was heard at the Nickel Theatre yesterday, for the first time. He sang "Radiant Aida" from Verdi's opera Aida, with great success. Although just after a tiresome run from New York in which he was twenty-two hours late, and not thoroughly over the long train ride, he sang with great sweetness and power and was very warmly applauded. Mr. Kock has appeared in St. John's before, with the Robinson Opera Co., six years ago, and many will remember him. He has all the best operatic songs and if they are rendered in such a perfect and delightful manner as was Aida, then his season which is a very limited one, will be a success. During his stay here he will sing "Marie Halls Then You'll Remember Me, Let me like a Soldier fall. Mr. Kock will repeat Aida this evening.

A Pretty Wedding

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Philip's Church on Thursday evening, by the Rev. S. A. Dawson, when Miss Irene Penney was united in matrimony to Mr. Wm. Quinton, both of Keels. After the ceremony supper was served at the home of the bride. Many presents were received testifying to the popularity of the happy couple. The bride was beautifully gowned in cream poplin trimmed with oriental insertion, which looked very pretty. Keels, B.B., Jan. 8th, 1914.

Report of the Nfld. Poultry Association.

The Newfoundland Poultry Association held its annual meeting last night in the Association's rooms, Bastow Building. The meeting was largely attended and great interest in the proceedings was manifest.

The Show Committee's Report proved the Poultry Show held in November last had been a great success, and those present expressed their appreciation of the strenuous work performed by certain members of the Committee.

The following report from the Directors was passed, as also were reports from the Treasurer and Auditors.

To the Members of the Newfoundland Poultry Association:

Gentlemen,—In presenting the third annual report, your Directors are pleased to be able to draw your attention to the fact that during the past year, substantial progress has been made.

During 1913, twenty-nine new members have been added to the Roll, making a total of one hundred and three members, owning 248 shares. As will be seen by the Treasurer's report, the Association is in a sound condition financially, having a substantial balance to its credit in the Bank of Nova Scotia, besides having furniture, exhibition coops, wire netting, etc., the property of the Association.

In May a Committee was appointed to carry out a scheme suggested in March, i.e., the incubating of Chicks by the Association, the scheme proved a great success, our President (Mr. Gushue), took charge of the Incubating, he received over 1,000 eggs.

In May the Association offered a prize to the member who would bring in the greatest number of new members within a given time, also a prize offered by Mr. W. R. Butler, a "Setting of Eggs," for the same purpose; both were won by Mr. O. Rusch.

The Association has to thank the Agricultural Board for the annual grant of $400 which has proved of substantial assistance to the Association.

The second annual Show was held in the Prince's Rink on Nov. 19th, 20th and 21st; it was opened by His Excellency the Governor, and other prizes were distributed by Mrs. Davidson; it was a most successful Show and reflects great credit on the work of the Committee in charge.

The Association is grateful to His Excellency the Governor, and other kind friends who donated silver cups, cash and other goods for prizes, and owe a debt of gratitude to those members of the Committee who by their unstinted labor and earnest work, were largely responsible for the success of the Show.

The birds were judged by Prof. Landry, of Truro, in a manner satisfactory to all, and the many visitors were agreeably surprised and delighted with the number and display of thorough bred birds.

A number of discussions on subjects interesting to the members, have taken place during the year, from which it is hoped and believed much profit has been obtained.

In concluding this report, and referring from office your Directors wish the Association abundant success during 1914.

Business- Managing a City.

(By Isaac F. Marcossou, in Colliers Weekly.)

Less than twelve months ago the spirit of the nation leaped in sympathy to flood-swept Dayton in her hour of travail; to-day the eyes of the country are turned on that once broken area to watch a kindling spectacle of civic birth and reconstruction. Out of ruin has come a new city. Such is the resource and efficiency of the American city.

The new year has brought the American people no more significant gift perhaps than the example of the new form of business government just instituted in the Valley of the Miami. Under the most radical of commissions, providing for a city administration, she leaps to the front in the march of the municipality toward freedom and efficiency.

Another Distinct Step Forward.
To understand the peculiar importance which attaches to Dayton's position it is first necessary to briefly review the institution of municipal government. Most people are familiar with the straight plan, born in Galveston, developed by Des Moines, and now employed by nearly a hundred places. Its main features are the election of a nonpartisan commission by the short ballot, the initiative, the referendum, and the recall. In short, an agency for real popular rule without the aid of political machinery.

Under this form each commissioner is elected for a term of five years—becomes one of the operating branches of the city government.
Dayton has taken a distinct progressive step forward in the development of the whole commission idea and because of this really original innovation, combined with the dramatic fight made for it, the procedure becomes invested with value for every citizen, no matter where he happens to live.

Dayton was not better or no worse than the average city with the old elective mayor and council system. The hand of the "machine" lay on the public service; city inadequacy and greed knew no bounds. The treasury was always in deficit. Ten years the public debt had increased from $26,37 per capita to $100. To obtain funds for street widening during a single year meant the issue of bonds running for thirty years, bonds to pay for moderate construction long outlived the days. And so on down the list of extravagance and mismanagement.

It began a movement that, in completeness of its organizations, was a big drama that punctuated its progress, and in the moral education it carries for every other city struggling to be free, it is almost a precedent. The approach to Dayton charter was along the line of remarkable preparedness, and well worth explaining. It is the prelude to a business era.

In the fall of 1912 the Chamber of Commerce, appalled by the inefficiency of city government, appointed a committee, headed by Leopold E. A. Deeds, Frederick H. Rike, and C. Hartley—five representative business men with widely differing views and experience—to investigate and recommend some new plan. They ranged over the whole commission field, noting its advantages; pointing its defects. They knew no about politics, but they were men of commerce. They saw the sick business panting for help. So they set about finding a committee understood from contact that all there was to the conduct of a corporation was to select the right kind of trained men and then to direct them. They reasoned that what was true of a big business was equally true of a community, whether large or small, and what was good for one was good for the other. If the city was to be run efficiently, then it was necessary to get an expert administrator and watch him from a nonpartisan side line.

On a big sheet of paper these men of large business affairs sketched out a commission-manager plan that carried the Sumter scheme far beyond that first real vision of expert municipal conduct. It adapted the process to all the needs of a large municipality. When they showed it to a city expert he said: "It's ideal, but you cannot carry it out."

"Very well," was the reply. "We will fall with this ideal, but before we fall the people of this town will know what progressive government ought to be."
At that time scarcely a dozen persons in Dayton had ever heard of commission-manager rule. So the committee said: "If we are to break the old bondage, then we must first educate the people. Education lies at the root of all permanent progress."
A picturesque crusade, without red fire trimmings, but very earnest and intimate, was launched. The committee worked with small units. Little groups of men were asked to lunch or conference and shown the chart of progress and then sent on their missionary way. By word of mouth—always the most effective publicity—the gospel of the proposed order was spread. Dayton is a group of smaller communities, each with some sort of civic club. They were enlisted and formed an endless chain of advocacy. Thus was the seed sown.

The New Civic Creed.

The idea of the small unit for education was kept up almost to the end. At all the meetings, then and thereafter, cards on which the voters pledged themselves to the project, were circulated for signature. Typical sections of this new civic creed were: "I want the commission to pick out for Dayton the best man that can be found anywhere for manager."
"I want this manager to be subject to recall and able to get one hundred cents' worth of service for every dollar expended."

What the Flood Did.

Then destiny took a hand in the charter campaign. In March the angry waters swept down the Miami Valley inundating Dayton. When the muddy waters subsided, and even amid the stark desolation that such devastation leaves in its wake, the people turned resolutely to the twin task that confronted them. For now they would rebuild civically as well as physically. They knew what it demanded, too. The brotherhood of the bread line, kindled amid common need and danger, found expression in a combined stand against the largest city peril.

With the mud and debris still clinging to their houses, the Daytonians circulated a petition for an election to determine the charter question. So admirably had the campaign done its work that over 3,000 signatures (more than enough) were secured overnight.
The charter election ordered had to be carried. But this could only be done with organized effort. At this point the spectacle of the reviving Dayton assumes heroic proportions. It was a situation that would have staggered everything but a dauntless optimism. Ninety thousand people had been compelled to leave their homes; the street car service was paralyzed; elevators in tall buildings were not running; the entire telephone system was out of order. The only way to reach men was by personal visit.

In May the people overwhelmingly declared for the city-manager form of government, and named fifteen drafters, headed by Mr. Patterson, all pledged to the manager system. Nothing had been left to whim or chance. The charter, prepared within thirty days because its essentials were understood before the election, thus preventing endless discussion and confusion afterward, as happened in Detroit and Columbus, was ratified by the same vote; so, too, with the choice of the five commissioners, George Shroyer, John R. Flotron, J. M. Switzer, A. L. Mendenhall and John McGee, who now sit in executive judgment on the destinies of Dayton. The solidity of this continued vote shows that public opinion molded by education, does not readily change.

Choosing a City Manager.

The very personnel of the commission—up-standing men who stood shoulder to shoulder amid flood and famine—typifies the spirit of this new working democracy. Four are self-made merchants and a fifth a printer, who still works at the case.

The way they went about their first and most important task—the selection of a city manager—shows their appreciation of high responsibility. Their initial choice was Colonel George W. Goethals, the master builder. They felt that he incarnated the ideal of what a city builder should be. When the news of the invitation to him became known the country suddenly awoke to the seriousness and the significance of this bloodless municipal revolution.

After many such meetings and a month's careful combing of the field the commission selected Henry M. Waite, of Cincinnati, to take up the duties which will doubtless set a new mark in the conduct of the American city.

Mr. Waite is a trained engineer who has constructed and operated railroads, developed coal fields, and had a big part in the actual operation of a metropolitan community. His most recent activity fits him peculiarly for the Dayton work, for he has been one of Mayor Hunt's chief aids in the physical rehabilitation of Cincinnati under the reform era which ended all too soon. He has built streets and sewers, handled large groups of men and built up an organization that is a model. He knows building and he knows business. Big of bone, deep of chest, and keen of eye, he looks as if the terrific task of blazing a whole fresh city path would be bread and meat to him.

The stocky, spectacled man, who now sits as city manager, in the gray and weather-beaten City Hall down Main Street in Dayton is in reality the general superintendent of a humming and far-flung corporation of 125,000 stockholders. It is up to him to produce the dividends of service.

How are these dividends to be earned? By the most business-like system of City Government yet devised for an important community in this country. The keynote is centralization of administrative authority. One man—the city manager—is head and front of city operation, and what is more, he is responsible for it. He can appoint, discharge, and fix the salaries of all his immediate subordinates, including the heads of the five principal departments of law, finance, public safety and public welfare. He can choose them wherever he pleases. Their one qualification must be training.

Why concentrate so much power in one man, you ask? Simply because business experience proves that centralization of authority in one man and the subsequent decentralization in his chief aids is the best formula for efficiency. The city manager can never usurp his power because, like the commission, he is subject to recall.

The commission, therefore, sits as a legislative body. It decides what the community job is, and the city manager sees that it is done. For example, if a new street is to be built, the commission, certain that the improvement is needed, calls in the city manager and tells him what is to be done. He in turn summons the chief of the Department of Public Service and gives the necessary instructions. If the work lags the commission can jerk up the city manager. Thus responsibility is definitely fixed.

This is a big advance on the cumbersome old Federal councilmanic plan with its waste and delay on public work. Dayton has knocked the bottom out of the municipal "pork barrel."

FOOL AND GRAFT PROOF METHODS.

The charter framers went on the theory that corrupt government is due more to the badness of methods than to the badness of men. Hence they devised complete methods of management, so specific that officials cannot go wrong even if they try. In brief, the methods are fool and graft proof. The city's financial record, old stamping ground of manipulation, is as simple as an elementary lesson in arithmetic.

The whole purpose of the financial system is to do two things—spend money scientifically and account for it scientifically. It is the adaptation of private science to public affairs. You will be able to step into the City Hall any time and find out just what the state of municipal finance is. There is a continuous audit of accounts. Dayton is now to have that rarest of municipal documents—an accessible balance sheet, which, in the opinion of many experts, is more important to a community than a charter.

The budget is carefully guarded. Public hearings are held on the estimate before it can be enacted into law. The appropriation shall never exceed the estimated income. Every check that system and ingenuity can devise is put on expenditure. No pay roll is complete without a certified time sheet; city purchasing is centralized and made by competitive bids; service and compensation are standardized thus insuring equal pay for equal work in all branches of city government.

Hunter Falls Prey to Pack of Wolves.

Port Arthur, Ont., January, 9.—Word has just reached here of a fierce battle with a pack of wolves in which Peter Nigosh, an Indian trapper, was killed in the Lake of the Woods country on Sunday. The encounter occurred near the Canadian boundary, a few miles from War Rd. on the Canadian Northern railway. Nigosh was returning from his traps a few miles up the lake, when he was suddenly attacked by the wolves. He had not time to scale the nearest tree, and had only a long hunting knife to protect himself. The pack closed in on him and one after another he slew them with his weapon until nine were dead at his feet. Then, exhausted from his efforts, he fell an easy prey to the survivors of the pack.

Nurse's Years of Experience

Proves Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Best Treatment for Kidney and Stomach Troubles.

The trained nurse has even greater opportunities than the doctor himself to watch the action of medicine in specific cases.

For years the writer of this letter has been recommending the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills among her patients, and is firmly convinced that no treatment is so prompt and effective.

This is the most valuable evidence obtainable, and we believe that all who know Mrs. Duffy will appreciate it to the full, knowing that she would not recommend anything in which she had not the fullest confidence.

Mrs. Duffy, nurse, 35 Lewis street, Toronto, writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for years, and recommend them to my patients for all disorders of the kidneys, liver and stomach. In all my professional experience I have found nothing better." Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cent's a box, all dealers or Edmansh, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
