A Great Intrigue,

Mistress of Darracourt.

CHAPTER XXIII.

But having gained the shrubbery, she waited until he moved away, then followed him at a safe distance and screened by the hedges of rhododendrons.

His manner of answering her question respecting his companion had made her suspicious, and to be suspicious and not follow out her suspicions was an impossibility to Marie Verner; so she thought that she would just see the friend of her troublesome lover.

If she had found that it was a woman she would have been only too delighted, for she could have made it an excuse for breaking with Sinclair, but the sight of the old man with his ashen face and white hair amazed her.

There must be some reason besides a desire for a companion for Sinclair bringing so old a man down with him, and Marie, resolving that she would find out what the reason was, crept up close behind him.

"Well," said Sinclair, coming up to him, "are you ready? I've seen the person I came to see, and we'd better be getting back."

The old man raised himself slowly, and the two, to Marie's mortification, were stealing away, when suddenly a foot was heard on the terrace steps, and a voice said:

"I will smoke my cigar on the lawn, I think," and the marquis came down the stone steps in his slow, noiseless manner.

Sinclair drew the old man roughly into the shadow of the shrubs so roughly that old Pollard looked up dully to see the cause, and saw the tall, thin figure of the marquis standing in the light that poured from the windows.

In a moment the old man's eyes lit up, as if a spark from memory's fires had flashed into them, and his lips opened and shut mechanically.

"It's the Marquis of Merle," he said, in a hollow whisper.

"Oh, is it?" said Sinclair, moodily. "Whoever it is, he'll see us, and there will be a pretty kettle of fish. Confound it, I wish I'd left you at home in Eden Row."

"The Marquis of Merle, of Darracourt," said the old man, nodding with a senile satisfaction. "Yes, yes," he's no more Marquis of Merle than I am!" and he stretched his mouth in a silent grin that was appalling.

"No more—" exclaimed Mr. Sinclair, while Marie clutched the seat spasmodically in her astonishment.

The old man raised his forefinger impressively. "I knew the father of that man there, who calls himself the Marquis of Merle," he said, his hollow voice vibrating with a vague pride. "He—the father—was called John Delamere Merle. He was a gay man, a spend-thrift, and a loose liver! I remember when the lights in this place," and he pointed his finger at the Court, "never went out for a week. They danced and they drank, and they played cards by candlelight for seven days together. He was a wild man."

"He was handsome, and the people loved him, though; there wasn't a girl within a score of miles but had a good word for him. There was one girl, the daughter of a farmer; her name was Richards—a fair girl, with dark eyes and yellow hair. I remember her. He went away with her when he'd lost, and drank, and squandered all his money, and Darracourt saw him and her no more for years. Then he came back. There was a certain young lady, a rich heiress, his friends had found for him. He was to marry her, and restore the Court and all the estate with her money. He married her, and this man standing there smoking—is their son."

Mr. Sinclair uttered a low cry of disgust. "Is that all? What is there in all that to make a fuss about?" he exclaimed in an indignant whisper.

"The last marquis married the heiress, and there stands their son; and he is the present earl, of course! I haven't gone in for studying the aristocracy, as you have done, but I know enough to know that. You said he wasn't the right marquis, to begin with, and now you say he is!"

"No, no," said the old man, slowly and impressively. "I said he was their son! But he is not the rightful marquis!"

"Not? Why not?"

"Listen. The last marquis married the heiress, here in the village church, and all rejoiced; and the son—that man there—was born, and all rejoiced still more. But all the same he is not the Marquis of Merle!"

"Not? Why not?"

The old man stared vacantly before him. Sinclair held his breath. Marie clutched the seat as if her fingers were of steel, and both waited. Slowly his memory came back to its throne in the old man's brain.

"Why not?" he repeated. "Because the last marquis married Bessie Richards, and a son was born."

Mr. Sinclair almost jumped into the air and his teeth clicked. "Can you prove—how do you know?" he gasped.

Mr. Pollard smiled, a ghastly smile of superiority. "How do I know? Because I know all their secrets. They had a son, a fine boy with yellow hair and dark eyes, like his mother. They called him Harry—Harry Herne. She brought him back here and was content to live and die here, letting it be thought that she was not married and her son illegitimate. But I know better. They were married at the church of St. Angelo in Paris on August the twenty-fourth."

Sinclair sprang up trembling. Even to his narrow, shallow mind it was evident that the knowledge, if properly worked, would be worth a fortune to him.

"How—how do you know?" he gasped.

"Because I saw the ceremony!" replied the old man, gradually sinking back into his usual state of coma. "I saw the ceremony, and I have the copy of the register in the left hand drawer of my bureau. That man there, who calls himself the Marquis of Merle, is a nameless nothing, and the rightful marquis is Harry Herne!"

CHAPTER XXIV.

Mr. Sinclair sat staring stupidly at the old man, too amazed to utter a word.

As for Marie Verner, the revelation fell upon her like a thunderbolt. She clutched the edge of the seat as she crouched in her hiding place, and literally panted for breath.

The discovery was a stupendous one, and meant for her, if she used it properly, a magnificent future, a fortune, a position which she had never dreamed of.

For some minutes, ages it seemed to her, the two men sat in silence; then Mr. Sinclair recovered a little from his amazement, and, with a gasp, exclaimed in a meager whisper:

"Then—then you mean to say that this Harry Herne, who has been looked upon as the illegitimate son of the last marquis, is the real marquis, and that that gentleman standing there is the illegitimate son, and no more a marquis than I am?"

Mr. Pollard inclined his white head with a solemn gravity befitting the occasion.

"That is so," he assented.

"Then—then—pshaw! you have taken my breath away—then why on earth didn't this Harry Herne get up and say so? Why has he remained a gamekeeper, or whatever he is, and let this man walk about with his title and estates?"

Mr. Pollard shook his head.

"He did not know of it. I conclude that must be the reason. His mother sacrificed her good name, concealed her marriage from him and the

Why that pain, when Blue-jay would stop it instantly?

Why have a corn, when Blue-jay would remove it in two days?

Why that discomfort, when millions of people could tell you a way to get rid of it?

These are the facts: Blue-jay is applied in a jiffy. And from that instant all pain is stopped.

Then, while you work or sleep or play, Blue-jay undermines the corn. In two days you can lift it out, without any pain or soreness.

Think how easy, how simple. While you pare corns, or doctor them in other petty ways, Blue-jay is taking out a million corns a month.

It is simply folly, in these modern days, to suffer from a corn. A single test will prove this.

world, permitted herself to be regarded as the last marquis' mistress and her son illegitimate, so that her lover, her husband, might retrieve the family fortunes by marrying a rich heiress.

"It—it's incredible!" gasped Sinclair, and Marie Verner almost echoed the words.

"Nothing is stranger than truth," said Mr. Pollard, dully. "Some women are capable of such self-sacrifice. There have been many cases on record; Bessie Richards' is one of them, but she sacrificed herself in vain."

"How's that?" demanded Mr. Sinclair.

Mr. Pollard put his hand to his brow. "Nothing could save a Merle," he said. "They have got the gambler's taint in their blood. The last marquis did with his rich wife's money what he had done with his own. Spent, gambled, flung it away! He had to sell the Court."

"The Court! This place?" exclaimed Sinclair, hurriedly.

Marie Verner held her breath. She knew what was coming, but wanted to hear every word of it.

"Yes, this place. He sold it to Mr. Darracourt, who had held some small property here, whose name was connected with the place, and he was anxious to get the principal estate. He bought it."

"But—but—" queried Sinclair "how could this Lord Merle sell it? Wasn't it entailed?"

"Yes; he cut off the entail with the consent of that man there, his son."

"But he wasn't his son—at least, not his heir, and—therefore the marquis had no right to sell it!"

"No," said Mr. Pollard, and a ghastly smile lit up his cadaverous face. "No, he ought to have got the permission of Harry Herne, the real heir."

"But he didn't!" said Sinclair, "and therefore the Court, and all the property, the land and the farms, don't belong to this Miss Darracourt at all, but to Harry Herne!"

Dear Sir, We beg to draw your attention to the advantages offered, both in the way of security and privacy, by our Safety Deposit system which has recently been installed in our vault. The system is the most modern and complete that is known, and is deposited in a vault of exceptional strength and safety. The boxes are individual and can only be opened with the joint aid of the key in the possession of the Company and of that in the custody of the customer. They are of solid metal and are arranged in nests of fifty, so that no box can be removed from the vault separately from the rest. The boxes are rented at $4.00, $5.00 up to $20.00 a year, according to size. An inspection of the installation is invited.

Fishery Reports.

Sept. 19th.—From J. F. Williams (Gay Bulls South Head to Long Pt.)—The total catch is 4,220 qts. and for last week 420. Twenty motor-boats and 47 dories are fishing. Prospects are fair cod being fairly plentiful but bait is very scarce.

Sept. 19th.—From W. Ward, (Mosquito to Bryant's Cove)—About 30 dories, skiffs and boats are fishing, but no traps. Prospects are poor there being no bait. The catch to date is 3,743 qts. and for last week nil. Many of the fishing boats were lost or broken up in the north-east gale of Thursday last.

Sept. 19th.—From R. Lawton (South Head of Keels to Knight's Cove Pt.)—The total catch is 1,400 qts. but for last week practically nothing. No boats, dories or skiffs were fishing this week, as bait could not be obtained. Only a few quintals were taken with the jigger. The voyage is practically over.

Sept. 19th.—From A. J. Pearce, (Twillingate to Trump Island)—No traps but from 60 to 80 skiffs are fishing. Prospects at present are very poor. Owing to rough water and heavy winds this week the catch of fish was greatly lessened, there being only three days fit for work and bait very scarce. Three schooners have arrived from Labrador. The catch to date is 3,435 qts. with 55 for last week. A few herrings are obtainable for bait.

Tea and Entertainment
AT BAY ROBERTS.

In the Academy here on Monday, September 21st, a tea and entertainment was held. It was arranged by the teachers and scholars. The parents very kindly provided things for the tea.

The entertainment was given by friends who willingly gave both of their time and talents. The programme was as follows:—

A duet by Misses Fraser and Daisy Dawe; recitation by Miss Emma Wilcox; song by Miss M. Jones; recitation by Miss Esale Parsons; solo by Mr. Roy Rabbits, of the Western Union Cable Co.; a patriotic address by Mr. E. Elliott; duet by Misses Daisy and Jessie Dawe; recitation by Max Dawe. A gramophone selection was given at intervals during the entertainment and also while tea was being served, both before and after the entertainment. The gramophone was lent by Mr. Ridge, of the Western Union Cable Co. and was very much appreciated by all present.

The performers did their part in a pleasing manner and they were thanked not only for using their musical abilities but also because they were kind enough to help.

The parts consisted mostly of a patriotic nature. Half of the receipts were devoted to the Patriotic Fund and half to school purposes. The sum of thirty-two dollars was realized and after expenses are paid there will be not less than fifteen dollars to go to the Patriotic Fund.

Some of the little girl scholars sold candy and fruit and they looked and felt important over their trust. It were radiant when their sweet things were radiant when their sweet things began to be consumed and the money increasing in their purses.

Very great praise is due to those who served the tea as their work was by far the most difficult. The room was well decorated by Miss Parsons, the assistant teacher; she is a great worker and by her untiring efforts the tea was a success.

To interest the children in doing a little towards this great movement of helping our Empire which is now going through an awful struggle for liberty, justice and honour should be the aim of all those who are in a position to do so.

Neptune Returns.

The s.s. Neptune, Capt. Mercer, arrived here yesterday afternoon, from Blanc Sablon where she had been collecting codfish for Job. Bros. & Co. The Neptune left here towards the end of June, taking a supply of salt for Lance au Loup and Forteau. After discharging, she proceeded to Blanc Sablon. She reports the success of the gill net fishing, and that the little steamer Tommy had secured about 500 quintals, and was expected to leave Blanc Sablon for here yesterday. The fishery which was so backward at the opening of the season has improved during the past few weeks. Cod was plentiful all the summer but remained in deep water, and only recently did the shoremen secure good fares. At the Barrachois, near Blanc Sablon, an average of three quintals per day is taken with the jigger, when weather conditions permit. Along the French Shore there is also a marked improvement. The Neptune harbored at St. Anthony during last Thursday night's storm, and also called at Trinity to land fishing crews returning from the Straits.

Consulting Engineers Coming.

The services of a consulting engineer to enquire into the water system of the city, have been secured by the Civic Commission. The man selected is Mr. F. Longley, of the firm of Hazen and Whipple, New York, who comes well recommended being a specialist in his particular line. He is at present engaged at civic affairs in Ottawa, and will likely reach here by the end of next week. His stay will occupy some weeks, during which time he will make a complete survey of the water and sewerage systems, and confer with the City Engineer as to the best methods of improving those now existing. He is to be paid Fifty Dollars a day.

Vigorous Health Restored to Run-Down Women.

Seemed to Have Lost All Ambition, Was Pale and Anemic.

Made Wonderful Recovery When Dr. Hamilton's Pills Were Used.

"I was never actually sick" writes Mrs. Norman La Pierre, wife of a well known resident of Labelene, "yet I never could get strong like other women. I ate well enough, but somehow rich and red-blood I could never make. When I married I took a great pride in my housekeeping, but it kept me tired all the time. Mrs. Lechance, my neighbor, looked well—she told me her health had been made up by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I only thought of pills as a physic, but now I know that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are more, for they quickened my stomach, liver and bowels—made me stouter and stronger, gave me such color in my cheeks as I never had before. I sincerely believe Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used by every woman—that's why I write this letter."

No medicine invigorates and renews health and spirits like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Cataractzone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

At the Crescent.

Everybody have read Wilkie Collins the great English novelist, and the feature picture presented by the Crescent Picture Palace to-day illustrates his best book "The New Magdalen." This story is founded on an incident of the Franco-German War and should be attractive to admirers of "Merrik, the Hebridee," the second picture. Is a stirring political drama; a big scope is planned by two hoodling aldermen and a city editor. "The Cub" and a Dictagraph land them all in jail. "The Widow's Folly" conveys a timely lesson and is a lively Western comedy drama. Miss Alice Clark, prima donna, sings (a) medley of old Scotch airs, (b) "Sweet Hearts" waltz song from "Sweet Hearts" opera. On Monday Mr. Frederick Knights, the well known Boston tenor will appear in new ballads.

At the Camp.

Yesterday His Excellency the Governor, Lieut.-Colonel of the First Newfoundland Regiment, accompanied by Staff-Capt. Goodridge, visited Plessantville Camp, and remained to lunch with the officers. During the day the volunteers were skrimishing in the vicinity of the White Hills and at the parade ground the usual exercises were gone through. The recruits were given practice in rifle shooting by Asst. Instructor Murphy, and many of the lads are making rapid progress. They are now awaiting their turn at the Southside Range.

Schooners Arrive.

Since last report the following vessels have arrived at King's Cove from the Straits of Belle Isle:—

The Cecilia, P. Aylward, with 200 qts.; Henrietta, T. Aylward, 350; Flora J. Lane, 200; Mary C. S. Murphy, 120.

Feeling in the States.

We are informed by people who lately arrived from the United States that the feeling of the majority of the people there is decidedly pro-British.

Secrecy in War Times.

A General who doesn't know what the enemy intends to do, said Napoleon, doesn't know his work. To aid a commander in this work, military men always have a most elaborate intelligence department. Air planes, waterplanes, airplanes, scouting cruisers, messengers fitted with wireless, spies are all units in most elaborate organizations to aid in letting army staffs know what the enemy is about to do. Every bit of information is carefully watched, and attention is particularly directed to the press as a valuable source of information.

In 1870, it is related that the whole staff of the Russian Embassy in London, during the earlier stages of the war with France were almost exclusively engaged in collecting press news from the war zone and transmitting it to Berlin. The value of such information has been demonstrated as an actual fact. Two instances are noteworthy. "Sir Henry Hozier" in "Lloyd's" general report mentioned a case in point. He wrote: "In the war of 1866 (Germany versus Austria) I was with Prince Frederick Charles of Russia, who had advanced on Vienna, and his great duty was to hold the Austrian Army on the Bistritz. In order to allow the development of the attack of the Crown Prince on his flank and rear, it was of the utmost importance to Prince Frederick to know what Austrian force was in front of him, since unless the whole force was there, it would be imprudent to hazard a general attack. On the morning of the battle he could not find out what the force was, but about 10 a.m. a telegram reached him from London, announcing that that morning an official intimation had appeared in a Vienna newspaper stating that the whole Austrian force was concentrated under Field Marshal Benedek, on the Bistritz. The telegram had been sent from Vienna to the German Embassy in London, was at once despatched to London to Prince Frederick Charles in Bohemia, and within half an hour his army attacked all along the line. The result of that telegram was the loss to Austria of the leadership of Germany and the ultimate establishment of the present German Empire under the Prussian Emperor."

"During the Franco-German war of 1870, after the decisive defeat of MacMahon at Worth and elsewhere, he gathered together his shattered forces and retreated westward in the direction of Chalons, as it was thought, with the intention of falling further back on Paris. The Germans pursued on a frontage of forty miles, but through the supineness, or otherwise, of their cavalry divisions, they lost touch with MacMahon, and, as a matter of fact, at last really did not know where he was. Thus enveloped in the "fog of war" they continued on their westward march under the assumption that he was retiring on Chalons and Paris, till one day headquarters received a telegram from Berlin, which had been forwarded from London, transmitting an item from the Daily News, indicating that MacMahon had changed his line of route, and instead of retiring on Paris, was doubling back on the Meuse with intent to relieve Bazaine at Metz. This intelligence had originally been published in the Temps at Paris. On receipt of this momentous news, the German right half wheeled their forty miles of front, and in this way succeeded in overtaking and surrounding the French at Sedan, and in bringing about the fall of the French Empire."

Youthful Deserter Missing.

It appears that the boy Somersquill, who was a bugler on the Allan boat Pomeranian and who deserted on the last visit of the ship here, cannot be located. He was boarding at the Seaman's Institute but he left there a week ago. He was last seen at the railway station, where he was known to ask the price of the fare from St. John's to Bonavista. The Pomeranian's officers are looking for the lad to-day to put him on board but were unable to find him. He is a native of Glasgow and only 15 years old.

Germans Demand Arrest of Kaiser

AND MEN AROUND HIM.
New York, Sept. 22.—A special cable to the Tribune from Rotterdam says:

"An appeal to the civilized world has been issued by the Committee of Humanitarian League here. It is signed by Earl Bernstein, Emil Gott, Franz Gausson, Jacob Mammelsdorf and Ernest Schuster, and says: "We reiterate, as men passionately loving our Fatherland and although living in exile, serving our country to the utmost of our power, that it is the bounden duty of every man who cares for the welfare of mankind to join hands in arresting the Kaiser and the men around him responsible for the appalling crimes which have disgraced our nation in the eyes of the world. "No matter how long the campaign and how great the sacrifices it may entail, we know that the true and lasting interests of the toilers and wage earners in Germany can only be served by the victory of the Allied armies. "The Kaiser, having ruined innocent and deceived Belgium, is now despoiling France, and drenching the land with the blood of his victims. "It must therefore be plain to all honest men, without distinction of race or creed or party, that there can be no settlement of the existing disruptions, no lasting peace or security for the rights of man, and no protection of democracy from brigandage and death, until the Imperial domination of Prussia within Germany is crushed, disarmed and swept away for ever."

LUCKNOW DAY, 1857. In memory of those who perished in its gallant defence against the mutineers.
FELICIA HEMANS born 1793. English poetess, whose first book of poems was published in 1808. Her work appeals to the heart rather than to the intellect, is marked by taste and elegance, but lacks restraint, vigour and compression.
W.M. MICHAEL "ROSSICCI" born 1829. English man of letters, who made an excellent translation of Dante's "Inferno," and has prepared excellent editions of many of the leading English poets.

OUR LADS TO THE FRONT.

No foe besets our gates.
No armies meet our ken;
Why echoes through our peaceful streets
The tread of armed men?
Why rages the British chaser
With such a proud acclaim?
The "true North" sends her sons afar
To fight in Britain's name!
They go as went their sires of old,
Across the surging seas to fare;
Not for the lust of fame or gold,
But for the British hearts they bear
They hear the Motherland afar,
Calling her children, scattered wide
They haste—as wakes the note of war
To face the conflict at her side!

We follow with our thoughts and prayers
The richly freighted vessel's wake:
Through blinding fogs and hidden snares,
Winds! bear them safely, for our sake!
They hold the hopes of hearts that bleed
With parting pangs—with haunting fears
Their devout course in safety speed
Thou who must guide, where duty steers.

What years of peace essayed to do,
Danger and sorrow swayed, complete—
Unite our Empire through and through
Till with one throbbing pulse beat!
One prayer is breathed on sea and land,
From King and peasant, cot and hall,
From snowcapped hills to coral strand
"God guard our lads and bless them all!"

Oh, God of mercy, truth and right,
Who seest as no mortal may—
Whose hand can guide through passion
The warrior's path to glory's day—
To dawn of a glorious day—
Grant victory as Thou deemest best,
Turn hate to love—bid slaughter cease!
Lay sword in sheath and lance in rest
And bring our warriors home in peace!

No foe besets our gates.
No armies meet our ken;
Yet echoes through our peaceful streets
The tread of marching men!
Rings out the British chaser
With more than proud acclaim.
The "true North" sends her sons afar
To fight in Freedom's name!
—Agnes Maud Machur.

No Advance in Prices.

The prices of Stafford's Liniment, Stafford's Prescription "A", Stafford's Phorone Cough Cure remain the same as when we placed them for sale in Newfoundland 2 years ago.
Every Drug that is used in the manufacture of these 3 preparations have increased in price considerably, but we are still going to keep them at the same "selling" prices both Wholesale and Retail.

"SOUND ADVICE."

If you have contracted a Cold in some way or other and this Cold has developed into a Cough it would be advisable to try the following treatment—
Mix equal parts of "Stafford's Liniment" and Camphorated Oil together and apply to the Chest and Back 3 times a day, rubbing in well every time.

Also:—

Take from one to two teaspoonfuls of "Stafford's Phorone Cough and Cold Cure" every 3 hours during the day.

The above Treatment has been successful in many cases and perhaps yours will be another one added to the list.

Why not try this Treatment?

Different Kinds of Silence.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"There are some persons so gifted in regard to us that their 'How-do-you-do' seems charged with offense."

—George Elliot.

On being asked why she didn't like a certain man, Molly, the little stenographer lady, explained that she objected to his manner of keeping silent.

The author man's wife laughed her to scorn, but the rest of us felt that we sympathized with her. Don't you? Are there not as many ways of keeping silence as of speaking, as many tones of the manner as of the voice?

For instance, there is the man whose silence has the quality of superiority in it. He listens to you politely enough, but there is in his manner of keeping silence a certain condescension. People of this sort somehow make me think of the St. Bernard who condescendingly refrains from walking upon the little fox terrier that gets in his way. Naturally one dislikes the inference and consequently the man.

The silence of the listener who is thinking what he is going to say next is familiar to all of us. There is a far-away look in his eyes and an ill-concealed eagerness for us to have done speaking that congeals the most spirited conversation. Personally, I would rather talk to a stone wall than to anyone who listens in this kind of a silence.

Somewhat similar to the silence of superiority is the insulting silence. This is the kind of silence which people who are clever enough to control their tongues in a quarrel manage to achieve. They do not vocally answer the outburst of the other party, but they listen in a tone of silence which is more insulting than any speech. One fancies what they are thinking and imputes to them the worst. In this way without saying a single word for which they can be reproached they manage to enrage the other combatant out of all self-control and put him hopelessly in the wrong.

I have spoken entirely of disagreeable silences. That was inadvertence. Let us consider some of the agreeable silences. For instance, there is the flatteringly attentive silence that drinks in your words as if an oracle spoke and puts you in grave danger of considering yourself one.

Then there is the courteous silence that always listens courteously and kindly though without flattery. But best of all is the deceptive, sympathetic silence, the silence that understands and sympathizes and by these qualities stimulates us to our best speech. The woman who can achieve that silence will never lack for clever people eager to talk to her, though she never have a witty or an original answer to make them. The inspired listener is a rare being and such passive geniuses are as much needed to make up a world as the active variety.

Tales of Battle.

BREEZY STORIES OF FIGHTING BY OUR WOUNDED—GERMANS' BAD SHOOTING.

Our wounded soldiers who have returned from France are unanimous about the German artillery (other than their siege guns) and their musketry, being comparatively ineffective—a fact borne out by the testimony of many other eye-witnesses of the fighting in Belgium and France. "They can't shoot for toffee," says Thomas Atkins, in the vernacular. "It was at Mons on Monday (the 24th ult.) on the bridge across the canal there, right in the thick of it, said a young infantryman. It was there that I got this trouble (a bullet in the thigh). But I got the chap who did it. He went on gaily, and produced a tobacco tin in which, with a few shreds of tobacco, was a shrapnel bullet.

We did not have much shelter where I was, he said. We had had to do the best we could. The fire was frightfully heavy, but you know they cannot shoot for toffee, and waste an awful lot of ammunition. It's numbers that does it—nothing else. As soon as we shot one lot down another came up. That's what happened all the time. Their losses must be enormous.

Shoot, contemptuously echoed a burly infantryman, whose head, swathed in bandages, Germans shot? Why, they could not hit this station at a thousand yards.

Killie and the French.

An Argilly and Sutherland Highlander with a fine Scottish accent held forth from a stretcher to a group of listeners. I wonder whether we'll be allowed to stop in hospital here, he said. I've been chased out of two already. The Germans shelled us in the field hospitals, but they didn't do much damage—artillery don't unless they can shoot, and these couldn't.

I've been picking up clothes as I came down, he went on, pointing to his shoes and socks. They're French, and so is this blanket. The French have been awfully kind to us. I think a great many of our fellows are only wounded, said a cavalryman. It does not do to take too much notice of what we hear. We were told out there that the 2nd Dragoons (the Scots Greys) had been cut up, but we came across them and they had lost very few men.

The Germans were like a great big battering ram, said another. They did not seem to mind how many were killed, and sometimes their men were simply thrown away. They have been suffering heavily all along, but the French are chasing them now, and they are getting it in the neck properly.—Graphic.

World's Busiest Station

During the twenty-four hours no fewer than 2,138 trains pass through the London Embankment Station, and each one stops there. That is absolutely a world's record.

On the District Railway section alone so many as forty-four trains an hour are run on a single set of rails. When it is borne in mind that every train slows down to enter the station, stops a brief period, and takes a few seconds to get up speed again, repeating the same process less than half a mile farther on, it will be realized not only that the service must be run with clockwork regularity, but that such a volume of traffic could not be handled at all if the elimination of seconds had not been elevated into an art.

This London Underground service is, in fact, almost the only one, if not the only one, in the world whose time-table is based not on minutes but on seconds.—London Globe.

The Pitiabie State

Of the German Wounded for Which No Provision Was Made.

Paris, Sept. 17.—The pitiabie state of most of the Germans wounded is explained by some of the prisoners as due to a lack of nourishment. They say the Germans were so convinced that they would cross France and take Paris at the double quick that they did not provide for the wounded. When the famous "75" gun of the French began to make ravages, the German commanders took from the ranks men best qualified for the work of caring for the wounded, but their services were quite insufficient.

Yesterday a train load of wounded, comprising a large number of men in the Imperial Guard, arrived in Bordeaux. Nearly all are in a grave state. They were accompanied by a German army surgeon and one nurse of the Imperial Guard. All of these wounded recognize the good care they have had since falling into the hands of the French.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuesate

Marian Meets a Sorority Sister

Among the guests at Placid Inn were a bride and groom of perhaps a fortnight. More than once, as she watched them at tennis, or seated tele-a-tete on the veranda, or strolling together on the green, Marian could not help regarding them with a certain envy. Nor could she help contrasting their honeymoon amid these pleasant surroundings, with her own post-nuptial plunge into a crowded apartment house in a strange city, made wretched by financial woes and utter dissatisfaction.

Marian saw considerable of Mrs. Dale, the bride. She was a slim young creature, with a pretty face, large blue eyes, and pensive moods that alternated with blithe and merry ones. She had been a teacher in the grade school of a small Ohio town. Her husband, a plump young fellow, on the swift road to early baldness, boastful of his New England ancestry, given to talking much and saying comparatively little, was a Toledo bank clerk.

Neither interested Marian particularly. The young woman struck her as rather insipid, and the man as wholly ordinary. One day, however, she caught a glimpse of a familiar sorority badge on the other's waist. A closer look revealed the fact that it was the pin of the college sorority to which she herself belonged.

Thereafter she saw much of Mrs. Dale, the bride, and, while they had gone to different colleges, they had quite a number of mutual friends, which furnished food for interesting gossip by the hour. On the strength of their bonds, the one soon exclaimed: "Thank heaven, there's someone here whom I can ask not to call me Mrs. Dale! I'm going to ask you to call me Louise, and I'm going to call you Marian."

"It's agreed" returned Marian with satisfaction. "The 'Mrs. Dale' still sounds a trifle strange to you, does it?" she inquired pleasantly. "It scares me," said the newly married woman. "Scares you? How is that?" "Yes, it actually does, I'm going to tell you something that perhaps I oughtn't to say. I love my husband dearly and all that, but I sometimes feel overpowered by a horrible sense of having lost my identity. My old self sometimes seems to be swallowed in the new. It seems so strange and absurd to hear people calling me Mrs. Dale, that at times I feel like screaming. Can you understand what I'm driving at? Or does it all sound like gibberish?" she asked plaintively, struggling to make her feelings understood.

"I understand," said Marian. "It's the feeling that probably comes to every married woman at first. It brings up the question of why women should change their names simply because they're married. I admire the attitude of the Wisconsin senator's daughter who calls herself Miss La Follette, wife of Mr. So and So." "So do I," exclaimed the bride. "Some day I hope custom will sanction the plan and make it universal. I wish I had the courage to do the same, for it certainly takes loads of courage to get out of the beaten track. How I admire the courage of a woman content to remain unmarried and make her own way, rather than to marry any but the right man, knowing absolutely that it's the right man."

Back of this impulsive and unpremeditated statement which had leaped to her companion's lips, Marian the drab background of wavering discontent with herself and her marriage which, like an evil cloud, invades and darkens multitudes of American honeymoons. It had been Marian's experience. It is the experience of countless brides.

Two Souls with but a Single Thought.

"Two souls with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one."

After the betrothal it is perfectly natural to consider the HOME. The HOME is the important point in your married life. The cozier and the more comfortable the HOME, the happier are the conditions under which the couple lives. Let us furnish your Home as you want it. After the man has popped the question and the girl has said yes, then it's only a step to consideration of the Home; for the Home is in itself the biggest, most vital and most important part of the matrimonial venture.

When you come to this important consideration, bear in mind the big part this store has played in outfitting thousands of happy newlyweds. You will do better here than elsewhere. Why? Because we are the only people that have our Mattresses made by machinery in our own building, the only machines of its kind in the country. We also have our Springs made by the only weaver in the country, also the Oxford or Copper Wire. We are making our own Parlor Suites, thus saving considerable in cost. We have the Surface Oak finish for our furniture, which is the only thing of its kind here. Having the Factory in the same building we can handle all sizes of repairing, in fact you can choose your own coverings for Parlor Suite, Mattresses, etc., and have them made to order. We are, where possible, reducing the price, which should appeal to every housekeeper when in need of furniture. A trial order will convince.

Report of French's Headquarters on the Fighting Last Week End

GERMANY HAS THE ACTIVE RESERVE AND THE LANDWEHR AT THE FRONT.—CONTINUOUS BOMBARDMENT WITH THE SEIGE GUNS MEANT FOR PARIS. BRITISH HOLD THEIR GROUND. ATTACKS AND COUNTER ATTACKS.—AEROPLANES DO GOOD WORK.—TEN GERMAN WAGON LOADS OF LIVE SHELLS DISCOVERED BURIED.—GERMAN COMPANIES DECLINED BY BRITISH RIFLE FIRE.

11.45 A.M.

Special to Evening Telegram: LONDON, To-day. The official Press Bureau has issued a report from French's headquarters, supplementing the despatch of Sept. 22 on British operations in France. A portion of the text is as follows: "The enemy is still maintaining himself along the whole front and in order to do so is throwing into the fight, detachments composed of units from very different formations of the active army reserve and the Landwehr, as is shown by the uniforms of prisoners recently captured. Our progress although slow on account of the strength of the defensive against which we are pressing hard in certain directions has been continuous, but the present battle may well last for some days before a decision is reached, since it now approximates somewhat to seige warfare. The Germans are making use of searchlights. This fact coupled with their great strength in heavy artillery leads to the supposition that they are employing material which they have collected for the seige of Paris. The nature of the general situation after the operations of the 18th and 19th cannot be summarized except as expressed recently by a neighboring French Commander to his corps as having repulsed repeated and violent counter attacks made by the enemy. We have a feeling that we are being victorious. So far as the British are concerned, the course of events during these three days can be described in a few words. During Friday the 18th, artillery fire was kept up intermittently by both sides during daylight. At night the German counter-attacks continued in certain portions of our line, supporting the advance of their infantry as always by a heavy bombardment. The strokes delivered with great vigor and ceased about 2 a.m. News was received that a body of French cavalry had demolished part of the railway to the North, so cutting at least temporarily one line of communication. The nature of the operations against the enemy. On Saturday, the 19th, the bombardment was resumed by the Germans at an early hour and continued intermittently, chiefly from our guns. Some of their infantry advanced with the intention of attacking, but on coming under fire they retired. Otherwise the day was uneventful, except for the activity of the artillery which is a matter of normal routine rather than an event. Another hostile aeroplane was brought down by us, and one of our aviators succeeded in dropping several bombs over the German line. One incendiary bomb falling with considerable effect on a transport park near Lafere. A buried store of the enemy's munitions was also found not far from Alame. Ten wagon loads of live shells and two wagon loads of cables being dug up. Traces were discovered of large quantities of stores having been burned, all tending to show that as far back as the Aisne, the German retreat was hurried. On Sunday, the 20th, the Germans took advantage of a brief spell of fine weather to make several counter attacks against different points. These were all repulsed with loss to the enemy, but the casualties incurred by us were by no means light. In one direction of our firing line occupants of trenches were under impression that they heard military bands in the enemy's lines just before the attack developed. It is known that the German infantry started their advance with bands playing. The offensive against one of our points was repulsed at dusk with no greater success. The brunt of the resistance has naturally fallen upon the infantry. In spite of the fact that they have been subjected to heavy fire, they have, on every occasion, been ready for the enemy's infantry, when the latter attempted to assault, and they have beaten them back with great loss; the object of the great proportion of the artillery the Germans employ, is to beat down the resistance of their enemy by concentrated and prolonged fire, to shatter their nerve with high explosives before the infantry attack is launched. They seem to have relied on doing this with us, but they have not done so though it has cost them several costly experiments to discover this fact. From the statements made by our troops, it appears that they have been greatly disappointed at the moral effect produced by their heavy guns, which, despite all losses inflicted have not been all commensurate with the colossal expenditure of ammunition, which has really been wasted. By this it is not implied that their artillery fire is no good. It is more than good, it is excellent, but the British soldier is a difficult person to impress or depress even by immense shells filled with high explosives which detonate with terrific violence and form craters large enough to act as graves for five horses. The German howitzer shells are from 8 to 9 inches in calibre and on impact they send columns of great black smoke, on account of this they are dubbed coal-boxes, Black Marias or Jack Johnsons by the soldiers. Men who take things in this spirit are, it seems, likely to throw out calculations based on loss of morale, so carefully framed by the military philosophers. A considerable amount of information has been gleaned from prisoners. It has been gathered that our bombardment on the fifteenth produced a great impression. The opinion is also reported that our infantry made use of the ground that the German companies are decimated by our rifle fire before British soldiers can be seen.

CANADA'S CONTINGENT ON THE WAY. Special to Evening Telegram: QUEBEC, To-day.

The major part of Canada's contingent for service in Europe is already on the way to the front in transports heavily armed and guarded by British men of war in sufficient force to prevent any attack by German cruisers.

THOUSANDS OF ITALIANS WISH TO JOIN BRITISH ARMY.

ROME, To-day. No more convincing proof of the ardent wishes of the Italian people could be imagined than that afforded by a scene to-day at the British Embassy where offers were received from thousands of Italians anxious to fight in the ranks of the British army. This striking manifestation occurred as a sequel to a remarkable demonstration of the previous evening, when over 200,000 persons outside the Embassy shouted: "Long live England" and cheered the British flag.

ESCAPES FROM GERMAN CRUISER.

PARIS, To-day. News was received here from Punta Arenas, Strait of Magellan, says the Germans in their flight from the British steamer Ortego was pursued for three hours and fired upon by a German cruiser believed to be the Dresden. The Ortego escaped, arriving undamaged at Cape Verde, Falkland Islands.

HEAVY LOSSES OF GERMANS AND AUSTRAINS.

PARIS, To-day. The Matin published a despatch from Basel, Switzerland, which says the Germans in their flight from Lorraine that during the attack upon an entrenched camp at Verdun, the Austrian and German artillery had ten thousand dead and fifteen thousand wounded. Many of the wounded died where they fell. It is stated owing to lack of proper treatment.

ZEPELIN DROPS BOMBS IN OSTEND.

OSTEND, To-day. An Zeppelin airship coming from direction throughout of 12 miles south west of Bruges, Belgium, dropped three bombs yesterday. One of them struck the Nayer Bridge on the outskirts of the town. Another fell in the harbor and another on the market, partly wrecking a building. The explosion here made a great cavity in the ground and badly damaged all surrounding houses.

NORWEGIAN SUNK BY MINE.

LONDON, To-day. A South Shields despatch to the Central News says the Norwegian steamer Hevisk has been destroyed by striking a mine in the North Sea. The chief engineer and one of his assistants were killed.

THE FIGHT ON THE MARNE.

Special to Evening Telegram: LONDON, To-day. A correspondent to the Daily News telegraphing on Tuesday from the outside of Paris, says, "the battle now proceeding is of course beyond description. Not will come across crooked who are convinced yet that the Germans are playing a subtle game, that they have something up their sleeve and will presently give an alarming surprise which they are now carefully developing behind their lines and come back to Paris. The common sense of the matter is that the Germans went back from the Marne because they had to and that they do not advance because they cannot. There is nothing more mysterious in their plans than that, and the Allies cannot make quicker progress because the Germans are very many, are well armed, have strong positions and know that if they break now they break for good. Their prolonged and formidable resistance is no more mysterious than their retreat. Luck is almost as important in warfare as good soldiers. Admitting the value of that essential, it is safe to say the Germans will never get back to Paris. They will see Berlin first."

Newfoundland Regiment.

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to make the following appointments:—

NO ALUM IN ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Hr. Grace Notes.

The beautiful weather on Wednesday and to-day enticed a large number of our citizens to go countrywards berry-picking, etc. The only drawback this year is the enormous price of sugar, making it almost prohibitive for many people to preserve the wild berries for winter use. It seems to us a pity that the duty was placed on this article, so necessary and so useful to our poor people principally.

The schooner Antionette, Captain George Webber, resumed her voyage to Labrador yesterday morning. She goes to Sandy Islands.

A fair quantity of fresh codfish was in the market this morning. Quite a treat, as none has been offered for sale since the storm of a week ago.

Rabbits were also in the market this morning and sold for 35 cents a pair.

Mr. Mark French arrived from Montreal a few days ago on a visit to his mother who is very sick. Her friends are hopeful of her recovery.

The schooner Gordon W., Captain Wm. March, left on Tuesday morning for Fogo with a load of coal from the Harbor Grace Coal Co.

Messrs. Saunders, Howell & Co. are making good progress with the R. C. Palace here. The building will be a substantial and handsome one.

Mr. Norman Munn lost a fine horse a few days ago, the animal took colic and perished.

It is rumoured about town that work will soon open up again on Bell Island. We hope that report is correct, as a large number of our men are waiting for the works to open.

Mrs. (Capt.) William Parsons spent a few days here last week, the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. T. Parsons. CORRESPONDENT. Harbor Grace, Sept. 24th, 1914.

On Their Way to the Front.

On Monday or Tuesday last the transport ship Canada arrived at Halifax from Bermuda after having carried one thousand of Canada's contingent to that island, to relieve the regular forces for service at the seat of war. The latter troops arrived on the Canada at Halifax, and on Tuesday last a great parade was held in Halifax, which was witnessed by thousands of people.

DIPHTHERIA AT HOSPITAL.

Yesterday afternoon the Health Authorities found that a male patient at the General Hospital was suffering from diphtheria. The patient was immediately removed to the Fever Hospital for treatment.

The 4 British Belles

IN ALL NEW ACT. Last night, notwithstanding the heat, Rossleyes was crowded to see the famous British Belles and every one declared they are the finest troupe ever here. Miss Webster, a young lady, with a delightful voice, sang two ballads, "My Girl Sal," and dressed as a ragged newspaper boy simply brought down the house; for her second song, dressed in dainty pink silk, she sang "When I Lost You." Miss Keen, in comedy character song and dance, made a great hit. The British Belles also sang James Murphy's great war song, "When we go Marching Away." All their costumes were specially made for the occasion, and they carried the Newfoundland colors while singing this song. Miss Keen arranged a dainty dance to top it off and they were encored again and again. If those ladies are a sample of English vaudeville, then Rossley kindly give us it from the Mother Land. The pictures are also from England and are the best they have ever had. A regular English show, don't yer know.

Holyrood High School.

Holyrood High School made a good show in the recent Exams of the C. H. E. One candidate passed the Associate Exam. Four passed the Intermediate; two passed the Preliminary and four passed the Primary. Rev. Wm. Finn, P.P., Grand Falls, visited the school yesterday and congratulated the teacher, Mr. Dwyer, and the scholars on the success of the school. All the children were given a holiday by Father Finn in honor of the occasion of their visit.

The following appointments have been made from the last year's students of the school: Thomas Butler, Associate, appointed teacher of Gambo High School; Miss Lizzie Kennedy, Intermediate Graduate, to Whitbourne school; May Hickey to Belle Vue school, and Miss Lillian Butler, a former pupil, has received the appointment to Newtown school. We wish them one and all a full measure of success in the profession they have chosen.

Brought Big Cargo.

The S. S. Sindbad, 7 days from Fort William via Montreal, arrived here yesterday afternoon. She brought as cargo 10,000 packages, principally flour, to Shea and Co. The ship had to berth at the Furness Withy wharf to discharge, owing to the Pomeranian being at the Allan pier.

Messages Received During the Night.

GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED.

Special to Evening Telegram: PARIS, Sept. 24. A brief official communication issued to-night announces that on the left wing the battle continues to develop. Also, that a lull has occurred in the fighting in the centre, and that on the right wing the German attacks apparently have been repulsed.

BOMBARDMENT OF CATTARO.

BARI, Italy, Sept. 24. Vessels which have arrived here from the Dalmatian coast, report that the bombardment of Cattaro by French ships and guns on Mount Lovchar has begun.

GERMAN DIPLOMAT KILLED.

PEKING, Sept. 24. A letter received here from a German in Tsing Tau says that Baron von Eisenbach, former second secretary of the German Legation at Peking, was killed by a Japanese patrol, dressed in Chinese clothes.

STATION ORDERED CLOSED.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. Linscott Station, Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., was to-day ordered closed at noon to-morrow by Secretary of Navy Daniels.

ITALIAN BOATS MINED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. Wall Street News Agency says that three Italian torpedo boats and one destroyer struck mines off the Dalmatian coast and sank.

AUSTRIAN BOATS MINED.

PARIS, Sept. 24. Correspondents telegraph from Trieste that two Austrian torpedo boats and one destroyer were sunk by floating mines on the coast of Dalmatia.

GERMANS PAID FOR THEIR DEFEAT.

MONTE VIDEO, Uruguay. September 23. Details of the sinking of the German steamer Cape Trafalgar by the British auxiliary cruiser Carmania several days ago, were related by sailors of a British vessel which arrived here yesterday. The battle took place at a point three hundred miles off Rio Janeiro, Brazil, and lasted two hours. The Cape Trafalgar lowered her flag as if to surrender, whereupon a yawl filled with sailors put out from the Carmania to take possession of the German vessel. The Cape Trafalgar, however, suddenly opened fire upon the yawl, which sank, the sail-

ALLIES STILL ADVANCING.

PARIS, Sept. 24. The Allies have advanced considerably along their western wing, occupying the town of Peronne despite resistance, according to an official announcement at the French War Office this morning. At the eastern end of the battle line in France there has been heavy fighting on the River Meuse, the Allies alternately advancing and retreating.

ALLIES GAIN GROUND.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The German offensive was extremely vigorous to-day at the western end of the long line stretching along the rivers Oise, Aisne and Woevre. The Allied troops, whose gaps had been filled with freshly arrived reinforcements, not only repeatedly pushed back the masses of Germans thrown against them, but eventually carried out a successful counter-attack, which resulted in gaining considerable ground and in the definite capture of Peronne, about which town the fiercest engagement occurred.

GERMAN FORCE ROUTED.

LONDON, Sept. 24. Heavy fighting is proceeding at different points to the south of Antwerp, says a despatch from Amsterdam to Reuters. At one place, the name of which is deleted by the Belgian censor, a German force of 2,000 men were routed. Many have been killed, wounded or taken prisoners. Never before have the Belgians, the despatch adds, taken so many prisoners in a single battle.

CRACOW REACHED.

LONDON, Sept. 24. A Petrograd despatch forwarded to London by the Rome correspondent of the Central News, says that Russian advance guards have already arrived before the Austrian fortress of Cracow.

DETAINED BY PRIZE COURT.

LONDON, Sept. 24. The racing yacht Germania, owned by Lieut. Dr. Gustave Krupp von Bohlen-Halbach, head of the Krupp gun works, has been ordered detained by the British prize court.

CAPT. KENDALL AGAIN IN TROUBLE.

NANTES, Sept. 24. The British steamer Montrose, from Quoebec, is ashore in the River Lene, with a stokehold of water. The Montrose is the steamer that carried Dr. Crippen, the wife-murderer, and Ethel La Neve on their flight to America in 1910. Her captain is the ill-fated H. G. Kendall, who was in command of the Empress of Ireland when she was run down and sunk in the St. Lawrence, last May, with the loss of 1,000 lives. After being cleared by Government enquiry, of responsibility for this disaster, Capt. Kendall was sent back to the Montrose. It is supposed that the vessel was in French waters as a military transport.

HUSBAND AND SON.

LONDON, Sept. 24. Baroness Maria Von Neuberger was sentenced at the London Police Court to-day, to three weeks' imprisonment for failing to register as an alien enemy. The Baroness said her husband is commanding the 8th German Army Corps, while her son is a member of the officers' training corps at Westminster school. She has for years kept a private hotel in the Bloomsbury district.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, Sept. 24. (Official). At our left wing between the Semme and Oise our troops have progressed in the direction of Roye. A detachment has occupied Peronne and maintained itself there, though violently attacked by the enemy.

Between the Oise and Aisne the enemy continues to maintain very important forces solidly entrenched. We have slightly advanced northwest of Berry-au-Bac.

In the centre between Rheims and Argonne there is no change. At the east of Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse, the enemy has delivered its attacks with desperate violence. The battle continues with alterations of progression on certain points, and retreating on others.

On our right wing there is no noticeable change. In the region of Nancy and in the Vosges, a few detachments of the enemy have again tried to come in on national ground, repulsed in doing so, the light elements of our troops, but their offensive has been immediately stopped.

In Galicia the Russians having taken Jaroslau, surround completely Przemysl, and continue their offensive on Cracow.

That Collision Case Disposed of.

The Regatta Committee met last night at Wood's Restaurant to continue their investigation into the collision that occurred on Gold Vine Lake, Regatta Day. After some discussion an amicable settlement was reached, the decision of the meeting being that neither of the coxswains concerned were to blame and that the collision was caused by a thick fog.

A communication was received from a member of a crew against whom allegations were made. The Committee would not discuss the contents of the note and will ask the writer to retract certain statements. The meeting then closed.

The schr. Ellen W. French, master, reached Bay Roberts from the Labrador yesterday, hauling for 300 qts. of fish.

SICK DOCTOR.

Proper Food Put Him Right. The food experience of a physician in his own case when worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way, is valuable.

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four teaspoonsful of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food. It tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely, and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nuts is of great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods.

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

When Peace Comes It Must Be Permanent.

The wish is father to the thought in the talk of mediation by the United States. Yet it must be obvious to every thoughtful observer that all such efforts are premature. There has been no such decisive result on the battlefield as would furnish a basis for negotiations; and no settlement that leaves out of account the vital issue for which the nations are battling can hope to be permanent. That issue, of course, is militarism, as it is understood and applied by Germany, and involved in it is the question whether the world is to adopt the principle that treaties have no binding force on Powers strong enough to violate them whenever their interests will be served by so doing. No peace which merely re-establishes the military and political status of August 1 will be more than a temporary truce, and the world has already paid too dear a price in blood and gold for a such abortive outcome.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

SOMETHING NEW IN SUIT CASES.

"The Fibergras."

Manufactured under a patent process from a grass which is so matted as to guarantee its being absolutely waterproof and insures unusual strength combined with extreme lightness in weight. Fitted with heavy anchor handles, patent brass snap lock, two patent clips and leather bound corners. It is really a most attractive Suit Case. Our price is another attraction.

24 inch Case

Fall Styles. 1914

WE announced last week the opening display of our new Fall Coats. From the following description of one or two of the most elegant designs an idea good enough to make you want to see the entire stock can be obtained.

¶ Fancy Astrakan Cloth Coat in dark Tango shade, deep collar of rich Velvet, Raglan sleeves with wide armholes, fancy cuffs and pockets and broad, extra low belt effect. (Same style coat in mid. and dark mahogany Brown, Cardinal, Grey, Navy and many pretty mixtures.)

¶ Astrakan Cloth Coat in fancy Saxe and Black striped mixture. Round corners, deep collar and cuffs, lined throughout rich Saxe Satin.

¶ All styles and sizes of Ladies' Coats in the newest colors and materials.
