MARCONI'S SYSTEM ESTABLISHED.

Sydney, December 21.—Trans-oceanic wireless telegraph between Canada and England has at last been established and the success of the Marconi system assured beyond the shadow of a doubt. At three o'clock yesterday afternoon an exchange of messages took place between the King and the Governor-General of Canada. The first message to be successfully transmitted was the one from the Governor-General, and was of a congratulatory nature. The message of King Edward on the occasion was transmitted in Marconi's possession ever since his arrival at Table Head, nearly two months ago, it being arranged to make it the first to be "flashed" across.

This message congratulated King Edward on the accomplishment with in His Majesty's dominions of the greatest feat in electrical science. A message was also sent by Marconi to the King of Italy.

When interviewed by a correspondent Mr. Marconi stated that they experienced little difficulty in transmitting the message, indeed that they were surprised over the success of trans-oceanic wireless telegraph between Table Head and Cornwall. Mr. Marconi never for a moment doubted that the ultimate result would be crowned with success. The magnetic director was used to-day and Mr. Marconi says it gave great satisfaction. The citizens of Table Bay will tender Marconi a magnificent reception in a few days.

The following despatch from Mr. Marconi, dated Table Bay, December 21, was received by the Associated Press, at New York: "I beg to inform you for circulation that wireless communication between Cape Breton, Canada and Cornwall, England, with complete success. Inauguratory messages including one from the Governor-General of Canada to King Edward VII. have already been transmitted and forwarded to the King of England, and also the King of Italy. Messages to the London Times have also been transmitted in the presence of its special correspondent, Mr. F. Parkin. (Signed) 'G. MARCONI'."

A MAMMOTH LUMBER ORGANIZATION. (St. John Telegraph.) H. J. Crowe, of Halifax, one of the largest lumber operators in Nova Scotia, passed through the city yesterday en route to New York, where he goes to meet American capitalists with a view to the launching of what will undoubtedly be one of the greatest lumber corporations in British America.

This corporation has for its object the control of the greater part of the lumber areas of Newfoundland, and its business will be conducted on a gigantic scale. Mr. Crowe has options on almost all the lumber properties in Newfoundland, and if all the lands now under option are purchased, the company's operations will be on a scale of 25,000,000 ft. of lumber per year.

Mr. Crowe is already privately engaged in lumbering in the ancient colony and expects to cut there this year 19,000,000 ft., which cut will be considerably augmented by the new company. He has in Newfoundland at the present time one stationary and two portable saw mills. The shipping ports for the new company will be Lewisport, Freshwater and Exploit Bay. Mr. Crowe also prominently identified with lumbering in Nova Scotia. He organized and is now manager of the United Lumber Company's properties, consisting of about 255,000 acres upon Gaspeaux river, St. Mary's Bay, and expects to cut there this year 20,000,000 ft. this season.

CANADIAN NEWS.

John Craven, of Manchester, is at Digby representing English capitalists who are to establish in Cape Breton a factory for the manufacture of ammonia and other products of coal tar. The captain and crew and the captain's wife, of the schooner J. N. Wydale, of Bridgewater, from Philadelphia, which was wrecked in a storm on the 15th were with much difficulty rescued by a British steamer.

A man named McLean while fooling at the supper table with a young lady of Bridgewater, Cape Breton had a fork accidentally thrust into his eye, remaining there until he was taken out. He will lose the sight of the eye.

The success of Marconi's experiment in the transmission of wireless messages across the Atlantic ocean has given great satisfaction in government circles, for if the system was proved a failure the Dominion stood to lose the $50,000 invested in the station at Table Bay.

The body has not yet been recovered. Davidson had been five years light keeper on the Wolves.

NEWS OF THE WORLD.

Hon. Thos. Brackett Reed, of Portland, Maine, prominent in American politics, died at Washington on the 7th. Concerning the conviction of Joseph Wilford Blodfin for killing his second wife, the theory held by many is that he choked her to death during a quarrel and that he did not stay away liberally. The finding of the verdict in the second degree, carrying with it imprisonment for life, was regarded as just. Blodfin's counsel has applied for a new trial, however.

A terrible railway collision took place on the 20th at Byron, California between two passenger trains. Eighteen persons were killed or have died from their injuries. The last will take its course in the case of the murderers Labele and Fournier, and a double hanging will take place next month. The offence for which they hang is the murder in cold blood of three French Canadians while the five were journeying to Dawson in June last.

The town of Anjan, Russian Arkanstani, has been totally destroyed by an earthquake. The number of fatalities is not ascertained. The population is threatened with starvation. Shocks were felt in Newburgh and surrounding villages, and a railway at Anjan was destroyed for a considerable distance.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

In establishing an old age pension system for its employees the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has given another proof that its reputation for business wisdom is not undeserved. Government recognizes that men who have served them long and faithfully are entitled to a provision for old age, and large companies that employ thousands are now adopting the same policy as based on sound business principles. All men as they advance in years feel the need of provision for the future. This is the idea that underlies the whole vast fabric of insurance in many forms, and directors of big companies, wisely taking it into consideration, enlist it in their services. Thereby, as the president of the C. P. R. says in his circular, it builds up among the employees a feeling of permanency in their employment, an enlarged interest in the company's welfare and a desire to remain in and devote their best efforts and attention to the company's service. That these results will be obtained there can be no doubt, for the plan appeals to the strongest of human motives, and unites the interests of all connected with the company by making every man in its employ feel that his welfare is part of the system. This is a service which can be rendered by large institutions like a great railway company whose permanency can to some extent be counted on, but which should be done for private firms by insurance companies, which in this would seem to have open to them a vast, unworked field of enterprise.

ELVEN SAILORS PERISHED. Boston, Dec. 22.—The Louise B. Cray was a five masted and the Frank A. Palmer was a four masted schooner. Both were coal laden bound for Boston. At 7 a. m. yesterday, when the Manhasett was forty-six miles off Highland Light, the lookout sighted a small boat flying signals of distress in a heavy sea. The Manhasett changed her course and bore down on the little craft, which proved to be the Cray's boat. Of the fifteen men who had started, four were dead, and one crazed by exposure, Saturday night, shouting at the top of his voice that the police were after him, jumped overboard and disappeared.

The ten survivors were in a pitiable condition, and several of them may have all were frost bitten, and some probably will have to have their feet and hands amputated. The Manhasett came into the harbor early this morning showing signals for assistance, and by the time she arrived at a wharf ambulances were ready to transfer the sailors to the hospital. Only six of the men could be removed, however. They were taken to the relief hospital. The other four were in such a critical condition it was not thought advisable to remove them from the vessel.

Mrs. Nelson, Annapolis, Aug. 25, 1902. Dear Sir.—The bottle of Empire Lintiment which I got from you on the 15th inst. I soon had occasion to try its virtues. The same evening in walking across the railway bridge at Walkerville I sprained my ankle. On my return home to Annapolis I freely applied Empire Lintiment, and to my surprise a few applications put me as myself feet again, and by Monday I felt no inconvenience from the injury. Certainly I consider it far the next best. Empire Lintiment only needs to be tried to prove its merits. Make whatever use of this you please. Truly yours, J. H. CROWE, Teacher in Annapolis Academy.

—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is reported to be greatly benefited by his sojourn at Hot Springs, Va. He is expected to return to Ottawa before Christmas.

MOVING A MAINE VILLAGE.

Bangor, Me., Dec. 16.—The rather remarkable spectacle of a village being moved from one township to another is now being witnessed in the merchant and other products of coal tar. The formerly flourishing village of Redington is being transported, a building at a time, to Madras station, in the town of Phillips. The people of Phillips voted a short time ago to accept from taxation should be manufacturing plant that the Berlin Mills Company might erect within their town limits, and as a result the Berlin Company has purchased the mill of the Redington Lumber Company's large plant, and is moving it to Phillips. As this mill was the only industry of Redington, the entire village is following it, and soon the new location at Madras Station will be a busy place, while Redington will lapse into its original wilderness solitude.

President Roosevelt's message was read on 2nd inst. The President rejoices in the prospect of the building of the Panama Canal. He insists that the construction should be so improved as to bring trusts and syndicates under the jurisdiction of the courts. He approves of tariff changes by reciprocity treaties and by direct lowering of rates. He recommends the creating of a Secretary of Commerce, with a seat in the Cabinet. The duty on anthracite coal, he says, ought to be removed. He expects good results from the Hague tribunal. The message naturally commends the increase of the Navy and army contingents in the interests of peace. The President strongly approves of the Bond-Blaine treaty.

It is satisfactory to learn that the situation with reference to the foot and mouth disease in New England has been somewhat improved during the past week. The area of the disease has been restricted, and Vermont is reported to be nearly clear of affected herds, while Maine apparently continues exempt from the disease.

same with physics, geology, mensuration, etc. Chemistry teaches him the different elements of which the soil is composed; makes familiar with the various compounds formed by the union of those elements and their action upon one another and under the influence of sun, rain, frost, etc.

A knowledge of chemistry will show him when a soil is too sour and what substances will overcome the acidity. It enables him to find what is the portion of plant food needed by his soil. It helps him to reckon the value of the composition of the commercial fertilizer he buys from the analysis given, shows him that cultivation is one of the most important factors in the supply of plant food to the growing crops. By its aid he knows how to treat his manure heap to conserve the greater part of its fertilizing value.

Reading the above, he is enabled to go ahead in his work in an enlightened manner. He knows what he is doing and why he is doing it. He looks for two or more agricultural papers, and reads, learns by the methods of some contemporary farmer who has been successful along some particular line and he does all this reading while the anti-book farmer is loafing, gossiping or resting at hard times. This is what the successful book farmer does. If he has the knowledge and still fails, it is the farmer part of the combination and not the book part which is to be held responsible.

Given, however, a love of study and a reasonable amount of industry, failure will not follow. The average man delights to put to practice what he has learned and to try to improve his own practical answer to theory. If he has learned of plant food, he wants to see if it will apply to his case and his observing powers are awakened and he begins to think of the power in his work is awakened. From a student of books he becomes a student of Nature and local crops and conditions. He wants to learn all the secrets of his crop, and land producing conditions and learning to do so.

The book farmer is also likely to be a book keeper. He knows what a crop cost him, whether or not his cows are profitable and he keeps a record of his clear him after all labor, etc., is paid for. We would like to give some examples of the work of book farmers we know of to compare the crops they raise with some of their self-cultivated crops but it is not necessary. We only want to show that the study of books reads and thinks is the agriculturist of the future and will be prospering when his critics are finding it a hopeless task to rake together enough money to buy the omnipresent plug of tobacco. We are glad to clear a path for the Farmers' Advocate on the same subject.

LATE WINTER PEARS. Late winter pears, when well cared for, make an excellent sweet marketable fruit. They are sweeter than early fruit, which has little sugar, and ripen to ripen on the tree. The small size of the pear, one of the sweetest of all fruits, is for the production of a good crop, or to keep animals doing well, must feed and care for them according to the laws of their bodies. All this knowledge is simple science, and any farmer who knows it in reality, the more he scientifically will be a farmer, though he may not call it by that high-sounding name.

Scientific or Book Farmer. We have been called a book farmer. Let us see what such a person really is and what the commission ignoramus who uses the term tries to infer from it. The latter first. The term is generally used in a contemptuous manner to describe one who follows in his farm work the methods advocated by every John, Dick and Harry. As he has not been fortunate enough to get some of the commission men's advice, he is getting into a state of mind that he is better off than he is. He is a man who is always trying to follow the advice of some one else, and he is a man who is always trying to follow the advice of some one else, and he is a man who is always trying to follow the advice of some one else.

Now let us tell our readers what a book farmer really is and does while his ignorant neighbors are spitting to lasso jock or grocery complaining of barrenness and carrying the government. As an illustration of how the coal famine affects even well-to-do people the following paragraph from the New York paper may be quoted: "One of the most prominent women in Brooklyn was actually appealed this morning to the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities for relief. She didn't want anything pecuniary assistance, but she wanted coal and couldn't get it from any dealer in town. She had heard the poor through charitable institutions and she had the needs of the poor brought right home to her by her own plight. She went Secretary of the bureau and she couldn't get her coal. It is not able to get coal for the necessities of his own household."

A Wonderful Tonic and Strengthening. Said a druggist to-day: "No doubt about it, the tonic that gives best results is the biggest seller, and that is Ferreroze. It enriches and purifies the blood, restores strength and energy to the feeble and is a scientific restorative that was always popular. In brain, nervousness, indigestion, dyspepsia, its action is prompt and satisfactory; it restores vigor, invigorates the system, and is a tonic for the weak. Ferreroze to my customers because, believe it or not, it is the best tonic and strength-giver I have ever known. It is a tonic that gives best results, and it is a tonic that gives best results."

—More on top of the soil in which a plant is growing is a very objectionable for several reasons. First, it is very likely to tell whether a plant is thoroughly watered or not, as the soil is apt to hold the moisture at the surface, while the soil below is dry. It is a place for the soil to be thoroughly dried out, and it is a place for the soil to be thoroughly dried out, and it is a place for the soil to be thoroughly dried out.

The profound study which H. G. Wells gives in "Mankind in the Making" now appearing in "The Century" has deep significance for every man and woman. It gives an insight into the nature of the human race, and it is a book that every man and woman should read. It is a book that every man and woman should read, and it is a book that every man and woman should read.
