STORM CAUSES EXPRESS IN DANGER PERIL

50 Yards of Track Ballast Swept Away and Only Engineer's Alertness and Quick Wit Prevents Bad Accident.

SCARBORO TP. BADLY FLOODED
RAILSTONES OF MAMMOTH SIZE

Another terrific rain and hailstorm, which swept over Scarborough Township last evening, not only caused great damage to farms, but was almost the cause of a bad railway wreck, near Wexford.

Alertness and cool-headedness shown in the prompt action of the engineer of the C.P.R. express from Montreal, due at the Union Station at 7:30 p.m., alone averted an accident that would have jeopardized the safety of two hundred or more passengers.

A washout at Wexford, which is on the main line, about ten miles east of Toronto, provided the danger, and a quick turn of the lever was the sole means of preventing its tragic consequences.

A heavy rain and hailstorm that sprang up about 6 o'clock flooded the fields in short order, and flowed into the cutting, thence to the roadbed, so violent was the deluge of water that the ballast was fairly swept away from under the tracks, for a stretch of about fifty yards, causing a complete washout of the most dangerous kind.

It was in such quick order that no advice of what had happened was received at Agincourt, the nearest station along the road, in time to apprise the onrushing train from Montreal.

It was not until the train, running at 40 miles an hour, was close to the washout that the state of things was noted by the engineer, but by quickly reversing the lever the engine was slowed down, as it was the spot where the washout began, was almost reached.

Then followed a delay for two and one-half hours, while a gang of section men repaired the damage. After immigrant train was also held up for some time.

The Montreal train, due here at 7:30 p.m., didn't arrive until 11 p.m., and the passengers, the belated, debar-ked, congratulating themselves on having a lucky escape.

Worst in Twenty Years.
Down along the lake shore in Scarborough Township, east to Highland Creek, the hailstorm was reported as the worst in 20 years. Miniature streams became torrents, time being raging torrents, carrying away bridges, sluiceways and culverts, and on many of the side roads and concessions completely obstructing travel. The thunder was terrific, lasting for two hours.

The storm appeared to come from the northeast, and struck the southern portion of the Township of Scarborough about 5 o'clock, lasting for two hours.

The mail from Dunbar to Highland Creek was unable to come thru owing to bridges being carried away.
Low lying fields are covered with water. Further east the storm was less severe.

Struck by Lightning.
North and west of the city little damage is thought to have been caused, the rainfall being only ordinarily heavy with little or no hail. At Newmarket the four mills of the Mesars.
Bergs were struck by lightning, and an employe named Bell slightly stunned by the shock, but little or no damage was caused to the building.

At Agincourt the rain was heavy rather than that of Wednesday, but no serious damage is thought to have been caused.

Big Hailstones.
At Markham the hail ranged in size to that of a walnut. The rain was very heavy for twenty minutes.
At Donlands, hail stones were measured and recorded as being in some cases 6 inches in circumference, being 2 inches in diameter. The authority is unimpeachable.

East Toronto Suffers.
At East Toronto a storm about noon yesterday even, excelled in violence and duration that of Wednesday, while the electrical display was especially wild. At McMillan and Conlan's planning mill on Main-street, south of the G.T.R. tracks, the current entered the office over the telephone line at two minutes before 12 o'clock just as the employes were preparing to close down the works. It tore the telephone from the wall and parts of it struck the bookkeeper, Miss Fitzgerald, on the head, knocking her from her chair and giving her a severe shock. The bolt went thru to the cellar, after which it apparently made a circuit of the building, emerging from the side of the factory near the top, leaving a hole about two feet square in the wall. It set fire to the woodwork, but the blaze was extinguished by employes. Constable Tidberry rang in an alarm, and the fire brigade responded, but their services were not required. Dr. Britton was called to attend Miss Fitzgerald.

At many places thruout the town the glass in the windows was smashed, while the heavy fall of hail will cause much damage to growing grain and to fruit trees.
By actual measurement some pieces of hail measured, it is said, 2 1/2 by 1 1/2 inches in circumference. The heavy rainfall continued for about two hours, flooding all the low lying land.

Other Incidents.
At Todmorden several windows in dwellings and greenhouse sashes glass were broken by the hailstones during the thunderstorm on Wednesday afternoon. Many of the stones were as large as walnuts.

JAMES BAY LINE COMPLETE SECTIONS MET LAST NIGHT

Last Spike Driven—Ballasting
Now to Be Done—Road
Open July 1.

J. Leonard Boyd, chief engineer for the southern division of the James Bay Railway, was a happy man last night when, shortly before dark, out on the Maclean farm at Donlands, the southern or Toronto section was united with the northern, or Parry Sound division.

Large gangs have been busily engaged for months, and when the last spike was driven there was hearty congratulation all around.
The work of ballasting will now be proceeded with from the north as rapidly as possible.
The road is already ballasted as far south as Vandorf, about 25 miles north of the city, and it is expected, it is expected, complete the work right into the city.

On the southern section, up thru the Don Valley, a work train and crew will begin at once with a steam shovel to clean up the cuts preparatory to ballasting. Already six steel bridges are in position and five more remain to be built. The bridges are for the most part single span, the longest one, nearest the city, being 100 feet long.
Everything is progressing favorably and it looks now as though Dominion Day will see the formal opening of the James Bay Railway between Parry Sound and this city.

PRISONERS MAKE A BREAK ESCAPE FROM CHAIN GANG

At Orangeville Station Get Loose
From Handcuffs and Disappear in the Country.

Belamy Allimo and Sydney La Chapelle, convicts, who were being brought along with twelve others and a lunatic from the north, to the Central Prison by Bailiff Phillip Simzer, escaped at Orangeville yesterday. They were all attached by handcuffs on a chain and were taken from the train to the platform where another prisoner was being attached to the gang.
Allimo and La Chapelle had got the officials to loosen the cuffs, on the plea that they were suffering from rheumatism and when they were attaching the other man, Allimo pulled his hand out and hicked. Sumzer tried to catch him and while he was gone the other man also broke away.
One ran west and the other east.
It was the men look seriously ill at that time. Sumzer ever had in nearly 20 years of experience.

Allimo was a short stout man 39 years of age, and wore light clothes and a trimmed cap, while La Chapelle was 33 years of age, 5 feet 6 inches tall, had a right glass eye, and wore dark clothes, and a blue sweater. He also wore spectacles and came from Blind River, near Sault Ste. Marie. One of the men was sentenced for gambling, and told a friend on the way down that he would never reach Toronto.

Provincial Bailiff Ryan, who went up for the men, took seriously ill at that Portage, and had to send the men on to Toronto in charge of Simzer, with an assistant. On his way up the bailiff contracted a cold, and is at present confined in St. Joseph Hospital with typho-pneumonia. Word was sent yesterday to his friends in Toronto that his case was very serious.

GOOD POLICY, SAYS OLIVER, TO ENCOURAGE SPECULATORS

Spirited Discussion on the Wisdom of Making Year's Timber Leases Good for Ever.

Ottawa, May 17.—(Special.)—Hon. Mr.
Broudeur to-day gave notice of this resolution:

"That it is expedient to authorize the governor-in-council to advance a sum not exceeding $150,000 to the Quebec harbor commissioners to complete the new deep water frontage of the Louise embankment."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave notice that he would move to-morrow for a committee to investigate the charges respecting the purchase of supplies for the steamers Montcalm and Arctic.

Mr. Bristol (Centre Toronto) addressed the house in opposition to the senate bill to amend the Supreme and Exchequer Courts Act. He claimed that the proposed act was ultra vires. The B.N.A. Act only permitted parliament to establish the supreme court as a "general court of appeal for all Canada."
The pending bill and the sections of the Supreme Court Act amended by it confer political powers on the court.
They authorize the court to decide abstract or hypothetical questions. At first, these powers, so far as they affect provincial questions, were limited, and could not be exercised without the consent of the province.

The pending legislation, said Mr. Bristol, sought to widen and enlarge these political powers and make them binding, at the instance of the Dominion government upon the provinces, without their consent. He contended that opinions of the supreme court, except in deciding cases that come to it on appeal, have no binding force. Such opinions may be persuasive, but no one was obliged to regard them.

The supreme court itself, in the Lord's Day case, declared that it would not exercise its power to decide more hypothetical cases. This bill sought to override this ruling and compel the court to answer such questions. Such a procedure had been obsolete for centuries and was regarded as a great hardship when it existed in England, and in the United States, and in the United States, the courts will not decide legal questions except incidentally in rendering judgment in concrete and contested cases.

The imperial privy council have declared that they will entertain any appeal from the supreme court of Canada, where only abstract questions are decided.

Gives Wider Powers.
Mr. Fitzpatrick insisted that the pending bill introduced no new principle in Canada. The legislation had been on the statute book since 1878.
Hereafter, however, the supreme judges would advise the governor-general on constitutional points, not as a matter of condescension, but as a matter of duty. The pending bill sought to make the supreme court a court of original jurisdiction as well as a court of appeal.

Dr. Sprague said that he would if the privy council would not entertain appeals from the supreme court on hypothetical cases.
Hon. Mr. Laurier replied that any citizen could bring a concrete case.
W. F. Maclean asked if the powers of the court are widened by this act, or merely defined more precisely. He admitted that the powers were widened.
Replying to another question by Mr.
Maclean, he also admitted that there would be virtual appeals from the supreme court on hypothetical cases, if the privy council adhered to its ruling in recent cases.

Forest Reserves.
Mr. Oliver's forest reserve bill occupied the house for the rest of the afternoon. The present conservative members of the government had introduced some unpalatable truths to the government.

While not opposing the principle of the bill, Mr. Laurier expressed his information and procured some important admissions from the minister of the interior. In this proposed reserve area square miles of timber lands, but these lands are so framed, under the recent regulations, as to be, in effect, perpetual.

There is no limit placed to the holdings of any one company, no cutting or saw-milling is required, there are no conditions except an annual rental of $5 per mile and timber dues of 50 cents a thousand.

In reply to remonstrances against allowing the western lands and timber to be held for speculation, Hon. Mr. Oliver said that the government should encourage private enterprise.

Echo Answers, Where?
W. F. Maclean (South York) replied that the present government, like the provincial one, was expending its fortune in riotous living. Where were the vast domains bequeathed by the Conservative government? Huge blocks were owned by a few great corporations.

He insisted that not only should this policy no longer continue, but that the country should take steps to recover these vast tracts of land locked up from settlement by the railways and the Hudson Bay Company. These corporations were waiting for the measured increment from the labor of the people.
This domain should be thrown open to the settler.

Mr. Oiler (West Toronto) pointed out that under the Conservative government the timber licenses were so conditioned that they were small in extent and revocable at the will of the minister. The present regulations encourage large holdings. They do not compulsory cutting, but they permit speculators to hold the forests until the increase of population make the timber enormously valuable. They do not compulsory cutting, but they permit speculators to hold the forests until the increase of population make the timber
enormously valuable. They do not compulsory cutting, but they permit speculators to hold the forests until the increase of population make the timber enormously valuable.

Easy Money.
All the lessees are required to do is to sit still and grow rich. The government can never exact more than 50 cents a thousand. Meanwhile the government is spending millions of dollars to buy the land.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

MR. BORDEN: The House is over-run with 'em—but there's three I'm pretty sure of.

No Hurry, Much Danger In Re-Forming of Senate

Sir Richard Cartwright Sees Constitutional Obstacles and Points Out Where Loss Might Be Felt—A View of the Parties.

Ottawa, May 17.—(Special.)—In the senate this afternoon, Sir Richard Cartwright continued the debate on senate reform, which was begun yesterday by Senator David. He thought it well to meet this agitation while opinion was still in a fluid state and before it had hardened into final shape against the upper house of parliament.

The charges against the senate varied, he said, but the chief complaints were that the senate was an expensive and not altogether necessary body.

A careful examination, Sir Richard thought, might show that there were other parts of the constitutional machinery that stood as much in need of oiling and repairing as did the senate.

As one of the younger members of the senate, Sir Richard apologized for taking part in the debate so early in a stage. His excuse was, if his Irish friends would permit him to say so, that he had known the senate before it had been born. He was prepared to affirm that whatever the senate's capacity for good was, there was no doubt as to its capacity for mischief.

Having had experience in a government with a hostile senate majority against him, he could testify as to this.

The question of senate reform was largely academic. That was the way in which he proposed to discuss it.
He wanted it understood that he was speaking, not for the government, but for himself, and he reserved the right to change or to modify the opinions that he was about to utter.

No Hurry.
It was a question that should be discussed frankly. One thing certain was that whatever might be the eventual fate of the senate there was no hurry about bringing it about.
There were many parties to be consulted before the senate could be reformed. The senate had been authorized by the British North America Act, which was the written constitution of Canada. The United States had shown that written constitutions are not to be changed hastily.

As the prime minister has said, the senate was the protection of the small or provinces against the majorities of the larger provinces in the house.
The consent of the smaller provinces would have to be obtained to any change in the constitution of the senate before the British parliament would grant an amendment to the act of union.

If Sir Richard read the signs of the times aright, the preponderance of opinion was that it would be dangerous to leave legislation to a single chamber. He was inclined to agree with this opinion. A single chamber was more likely than was a double pass hasty and extreme legislation.
Under the system of government in Canada, it was easy for the supporters of certain ideas to combine and carry a number of seats.

Suppose a seat of federalists should carry forty or fifty seats at a general election. It might result in the government yielding and the passage of unwise legislation might be the result. The second chamber was a protection against this. This was a real and not an imaginary danger.

He would say from his experience that there had been occasions when the vote of the house had not reflected its real sentiments. He had thought that the members of the lower house should be entitled to cast two ballots for every question, one to go on record for the benefit of their constituents and the other a secret ballot to express their opinions.

The greatest value of the senate was that it was a potential check on ill-considered legislation.

There was no doubt that there was a hostile feeling to the senate growing.
There was also another feeling growing that he did not like to see. This was that one side was as good as the other; neither was as good as it should be, which meant that both were worse than they ought to be.
Politics, like religion, was one of the noblest professions or one of the meanest of trades.

He concluded by advising both parties to set themselves to solving the existing difficulties.

BAPTISTS AND DISCIPLES.

Merger of Two Bodies is Likely to Be Accomplished.

The committee of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec and the Disciples' convention committee met yesterday for the purpose of considering the possibilities of a basis of union of the two bodies. Both believe in immersion.

After much discussion it was found that they held a great many views in common, and both committees saw splendid reasons for reporting favorably to their conventions.

The Disciples' convention meets in June and the Baptists' in October.
It is probable that the conventions will appoint committees to consider the matter more fully.

Such a merger would make a very strong union, particularly in the Province of Ontario.

DOUMA ADOPTS THE REPLY AFTER A 14-HOURS' SESSION

General Tenor is Ominous, But Not to the Extent That Radicals Hoped for.

St. Petersburg, May 18.—(3:30 a.m.)— Sitting until long after 2 o'clock this morning, the lower house of the national parliament set its seal upon its first great work, the adoption of the address in reply to Emperor Nicholas's speech from the throne.

Despite attacks both from the right, and the left, the leaders of the Constitutional Democratic party held their followers together to the last, and the address was adopted substantially in the form in which it was proposed by the commission.

The amendments adopted Wednesday and Thursday affect important details, but do not change the general tenor of the document, which, extreme as it may be in the eyes of the autocrat, falls far short of the expectations of the Radicals. Time after time during the long three days of debate, the extremists, with their undying hatred of the whole ancient order, launched their fiery attacks against the "mildness" of the various paragraphs only to break against the firmness of the restraint of the chiefs of the party. When the discussion had been finished the deputies, with the exhortations of the country to speedy action ringing in their ears, ventured no further delay, and they had been already in session 14 hours, took a recess until 2 o'clock this morning for the reading and adoption of the final draft of the address, instead of postponing this formality until the opening of Friday's session.

As if running a race to see which should be the first to present to Emperor Nicholas a demand for amnesty, the council of the empire has in its session well into the early morning hours, discussing its address in reply to the speech from the throne. This document, which is far more liberal and more conservative than that of the lower house, proposes an amnesty which does not include those who coupled with political offences, the commission as to the indefiniteness of the expression "full political amnesty," substituted amnesty for all crimes committed from religious or political motives, as well as agrarian offences.

The commission also accepted a new clause to meet the wish of the disciples to the army and navy, asking the emperor to revise the conditions of service on the basis of right and justice.

Most of the other amendments proposed in the closing hours of the debate of the wayside only one out of thirty-one proposed alterations of the address paragraph, for example, being accepted. The discussion of this plank lasted four hours, practically every peasant in the house taking the return to the demands of their constituents for "land and liberty."

Polks Were Quiet.
The paragraph which regard to the rights of the various nationalities was adopted without change and practically without discussion, so it was expected that the Poles would demand fuller statement for autonomy. The only incident touching this paragraph was a sarcastic fling at the consideration shown the nationalities by the emperor by an old Russian priest, who proposed to satisfy the discontent of the border nationalities, even if the integrity and name of Russia perish in the process.

The last feature of the debate was an attempt by Prof. Kovalevsky to induce a declaration in favor of peace and universalism as the guiding principle of the empire, but an amendment conceding the Emperor Nicholas for his peace manifestos and pledging the government to cherish the aspirations of the slavonian peoples outside the empire was rejected.

MANRICK SETS NEW MARK

World's Record in the Vanness Selling Stakes - Guiding Star Beat Roseben.

New York, May 17.-Mandarin, 2 to 1, won the Vanness selling stakes, 1-2 furlongs straight away at Belmont Park today, and made a world's record for the distance, stepping it in 1:13.

Mintia made the pace to the final furlong, where Miller brought Mandarin up and won in a drive by a neck. Mintia was a neck before Lord of the Forest.

Roseben, carrying 140 pounds, was defeated by Guiding Star, a long shot in the opening 5 furlong sprint. He lacked his early speed, which made him famous last year. Four favorites won. Jersey Lady lowered Bat Masterson's record made yesterday for 1-2 furlongs to 1:07 1/2.

SHOOTING THE OPPOLES TORONTO SCORERS WRO

Best Batting by Ronan and Meek - League Scores and Records.

Toronto had a batting streak yesterday, making three hits in the first shutout and scoring two runs after two men were retired.

Mr. Meek, who took Yale's place on first, was responsible for the tallies on his hit to right field. Tommy Ronan had three hits and a stolen base. Mitchell fell on the rubber and held Baltimore down to seven hits. He also did good work with a three-bagger in the first, the ball just hitting the foul line by the foundation.

THE OTTAWA NINEPINS.

Most of us are excellently candid and veracious away from home. The truisms is illustrated by an article by its Toronto correspondent, published on Tuesday in The London Morning Post.

The writer is understood to be a convinced, consistent and almost a famous Liberal. He discourses of the "decline of the Canadian cabinet in the general Canadian esteem, in consequence of the exceptional activity of the opposition under Mr. Borden and the disclosures of the ugly scandals respecting the North Atlantic Trading Co., and the Saskatchewan Land Co."

He asserts that rumor connects the names of members of parliament and relatives, in some cases, of the ministers also, with doubtful transactions. "There is," he says, "too much reason to think the rumor does not run wide of the mark."

Faithful are the wounds of a friend—but mighty disagreeable. The wise men who cluster around Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Ottawa will be strangely astonished at these tidings. They will suppose that by the publication of such stories in the capital of the empire dire despite has been done to some of the empire's most eminent statesmen.

They will even consider the Toronto writer's statements as beneath the dignity of notice. The worst of these statements is that they are true, every word of them. When the cabinet deteriorates, the extremes of the system of which the cabinet is the heart show signs of corruption, decay, indisposition to observe discipline from the centre of the throne.

The minister of marine peddles all to the government's railway. Contractors figure with impunity on the government's inability to trace errors in subtraction. One of them, little bolder than his fellows, puts sand in mortar where he is paid for cement, and dares to use it in the houses of parliament.

A cruise in Hudson Bay is made the excuse for an extravagance so insane that the millions of graft see nothing queer in offering for sale seven cases of corn plaster as part of the unused stores. One might suppose they would have wit enough to regard the function of these goods to be the covering of political liberalism with seven seals.

The North Atlantic Trading Company is a scandal whose story is only beginning to be unfolded before a parliament committee. Whatever else will be proved the weakness and incompetence of the department of the interior is manifest. Mr. W. T. R. Preston yesterday declared that his private correspondence was mutilated and abstracted by somebody who raided his office at night, and afterwards conveyed stolen documents to the high commissioner's headquarters.

Letters have been published which prove that the department of the interior refused to face a simple question of discipline, and allowed a state of things to continue which would have disgraced any private business, and which, it will probably be shown, has greatly damaged the work carried on in Britain at so much expense to the citizens of Canada.

It doesn't matter, at present, who is to blame—that must be sifted remorselessly. The patent fact is that Canada has been abominably served by some one; and that it has taken the combined energy of the opposition to force the government to deal, never so gingerly with improprieties, gross, prolonged, indefensible. It is impossible to be sorry for the cabinet. But the honest, candid Liberal is an object of sincere sympathy. He is hardly in the mood to accept sympathy, tho. He wants to kick.

doesn't know where to begin. He doesn't want to upset all his idols—and he begins to see that they are a collection of ninepins.

ON THE FARMER WE DEPEND.

When items of public expenditure are being voted too little thought is often given to the man who finds the money. It is one of the ironies of official life—due to the frailty of human nature—that the holder of a post in the national service is apt to imbibe the notion that there is a great gulf fixed between himself and those upon whose authority his prosperity rests.

One aspect of it is the affected superiority of the city to the country. The use of luxury makes men think they have done something special to deserve the homage of less ostentatious, more toilsome beings. The fact abides that all the splendors of affluence depend, in the last analysis, upon the sweat of some honest brow. There is more homely truth than literary excellence in the saying:

"Men may rise and men may fall. But the farmer feeds them all."

Members of the Canadian parliament chiefly come from rural constituencies. The measure of our statesmanship is the measure of our utility to the agriculturist. When politicians vote money to themselves they depart from justice and fair dealing if they forget this elemental constituent of their situation. Against abuse, against misrepresentation, against envy, malice and all uncharitableness, which occasionally seem to be the price that must be paid for outspoken recognition of these things, there is some compensation in the knowledge that men who have not forgotten to live simple, strenuous lives recognize unfettered service of their interest.

Elsewhere in The World to-day is a letter from an Ontario farmer giving his views of the salary grab—views which, tho they are put to open derision at Ottawa, are widely, if not universally held by the most important section of the community.

It would be instructive to have the views of some of his solid friends upon the case of the farmer, who, by reason of the rapid upgrowth of the west, and of other factors which will occur to every thinker, finds the value of his holding depreciated, while the cost of the school, the politician and the hired help steadily goes up.

The more he tells, the more do those absorb who live upon the produce of his hands and lands. There are parts of Ontario where population has decreased, where big salaries to public servants cannot be afforded. To tax the people of these ridings without asking their permission is to put an imposition on them which they have never merited, and which they will one day assuredly punish.

Still, the cost of living in urban centres is bound to increase. The commonplaces of to-day, which were the luxuries of yesterday, demand more and more from the financial resources of the people, even in the country. How can the balance be more evenly held?

The times seem ripe for an enquiry with new eyes and unaccustomed lights into the socio-political economy which we appear to have neither time nor inclination to study. The average man knows too little of the incidence of taxation. If parliamentarians knew more about that vital department of political economy they would be less ready to vote money for purposes of doubtful virtue.

TESTAMENT OF DAVID.

"If I were to die to-morrow, I would say to my countrymen and to my friends and to those who may have confidence in my word, 'For God's sake preserve the senate. Keep the senate, because before long it will be the safeguard of the most sacred interests. Preserve the senate, improve it if you will, but keep it, in order that it may fulfil its mission of peace, order, harmony and justice.'"

It was perfectly natural for the senate to honor with loud applause this affecting deliverance by Senator David. It is the most vigorous thing the senate has done for some time. Self praise is a fine recommendation—in senates. In laudation from outside, the Dominion senate is poor indeed. In modest appreciation of its own virtue it is rich beyond the dreams of avarice.

Senator David's will and testament was delivered in elucidation of his motion for papers to enable the senate to debate its own reconstruction. He is in favor of the government appointing one-third of the senate, the provincial legislatures selecting another third, and the universities and other public bodies choosing the third. The senator is believed to have been flying a kite for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The senate could not dispose of his momentous resolution at one sitting, and last night listened to another panegyric on its excellences from Sir Richard Cartwright.

Thus in one week has the upper chamber discussed two subjects of surpassing gravity. The second directs attention to the first, which was not sufficiently noticed, for it concerned the occupancy of a throne.

SEDGWICK ON THE THRONE.

The senate has discussed a rare matter of state with great solemnity, born of an earnest desire to display much learning upon an aspect of the constitution which is scarcely comprehensible to ordinary intellects. The senate must do something for its money. Whenever it displays a sign of grace, credit should be given to it for devotion to the public weal. Its latest achievement, while it has only a remote connection with the statute book, is worthy of grateful recognition, for it adds something to the gale of a nation which was becoming distressed by the sordid nature of the discussions which have lately occupied the time of an overworked and underpaid parliament.

The senate was intent on finding an answer to these questions: "What should he be called?" "Where ought he sit?" It could find no conclusive answers to these queries, and at last in a spirit of dull despair, turned to defeat a bill respecting leprosy.

"What should he be called?" and "Where ought he sit?" are questions pertaining to Mr. Justice Sedgewick's appearance as the governor-general's deputy to signify the royal assent to bills which have passed both houses of parliament. In the record he is described as the "Hon. Mr. Justice Sedgewick." Senator Miller, rejoicing in his freedom from the anxious responsibilities of Conservative leader, wanted to know by what right Justice Sedgewick is officially described as "honorable."

He contends that the act of confederation wiped out this distinction of his majesty's judges; and that two colonial office despatches of 1868 are the bedrock of authority for the use of titles and the fixing of precedence in this country.

To this indictment for an offence against imperial etiquette, Senator Scott replied that judges of the supreme court have always been properly addressed as "honorable." Obviously, they will continue to enjoy that august eminence. No one would dare suggest that they are entitled to anything else. He who is called "honorable" surely possesses the quality as well as the name. In England all judges of the King's bench and higher courts are knights, at least, albeit they are invariably called "Mr. Justice" so and so. A county court judge is alluded to as "his honor."

If Senator Miller could have his way, apparently only ministers of the crown and members of the senate would be entitled to the distinguishing prefix which judges of the higher court are wont to assume.

AND WHY NOT?

"What shall he be called?" is a very minor perplexity compared with "Where shall he sit?" The senate is rich in capacity to delimit the frontiers which should separate those who may be above and those who must be below the salt. To the senate the throne is something like the ark of the covenant. There is no particular virtue in a piece of furniture. But the senate is the special guardian of those things which broaden down from precedent to precedent. Senator Miller was justified in calling attention to the manner in which Justice Sedgewick disposed of himself when acting as locum tenens for the governor-general. Senator Miller thinks Justice Sedgewick should not occupy the throne. He believes the position of the governor's deputy is almost exactly analogous to that of the lords commissioners, who in the absence of the sovereign announce the royal assent to bills which have been passed by the imperial parliament.

The lords commissioners. In their robes and cocked hats, sit on a bench between the woolstack and the throne. No individual other than the King would presume to occupy that exalted station. Senator Miller is confident that the direct representative of his majesty in this country should be just as clear a monopolist of the chair of state as his master is in the imperial capital. It is no place for the deputy of a deputy. Suppose, for instance, King Edward should accept the invitation of the Canadian parliament, and should himself open the next session—a wise and politic thing to do—he might, on being conducted to the throne, be told, as a matter of constitutional interest, that he was about to read his speech from the seat which the Hon. Justice Sedgewick had graced on various historic parliamentary occasions. Would not the King be gratified?

It was pointed out to Senator Miller that the chief justice of the supreme court, who is the first deputy of the governor-general, insisted on occupying the throne when signifying royal assent to bills. These things do not worry the leader of the senate. Being a Liberal, possibly of revolutionary tendencies, the Hon. Mr. Scott, on the final day of last session, was so interested in getting the business thru that he did not care the loss of a button whether the throne were sat upon or left in lonely dignity.

Last Friday, Canada being without a chief justice, he did not notice where Justice Sedgewick sat. What did it matter, anyway? The Speaker's chair may or may not be the proper place for the governor-general's deputy. But, as Senator Loughheed reminded the house, the Speaker's chair had been removed to the floor of the senate, and there was nowhere else for the judge to sit. Speaker Dandurand suggested that the senate had nothing to do with this question. It is an affair between the governor-general and his deputy. And there the grave constitutional issue was left.

Maybe Lord Grey will intimate that, in this country Jack is just as good as his master, and, if the understrapper likes to sit for a brief moment in the seat of supreme splendor, why let him have his way by all means. It tickles him, and does not hurt the throne.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP IN AFRICA.

Wiser in its generation than the cities of this continent, Johannesburg has been busily engaged in placing itself in an inextinguishable position with regard to its public utilities and services. Under the Boer government various concessions were granted which conferred on private individuals and corporations the right to carry out important public services for utterly insufficient considerations, and without the imposition of adequate corresponding obligations which would secure to the public efficient service at a reasonable cost.

Among the franchises so dealt with were those affecting water supply, tramways and markets. As a specimen of the methods of the Boer government the transactions connected with the tramway concession is illustrative. This concession was granted in 1889 to a gentleman, now a prominent financier, who transferred it to a company. The grant gave an exclusive right for a period of thirty years to construct and work by animal power tramways in the Town of Johannesburg. In the original concession it was provided that 5 per cent of the gross receipts should be paid to the government; this was subsequently reduced by resolution of the executive council to 1 per cent; security had to be given in £1000, but there was no other consideration. In the company's first balance sheet, issued in 1891, the concession was entered at the figure of $625,000. The company repeatedly applied to the Republican government for permission to use electrical power for running their cars, but these applications were always refused, because the maintenance of horse traction was good for the forage market, and, therefore, for the farmers.

Eventually, says the correspondent of The London, Eng., Morning Post, from whose instructive communication these particulars are taken, the right to run an electric tramway service was conferred by Lord Milner on the new town council. Private speculators were prepared to pay large sums to purchase the franchise, "but the town council, with its experience of the past in Johannesburg, and its knowledge of the endless troubles in which American towns have involved themselves by bartering away street franchises, steadily pursued a policy of buying out existing concessions, refusing even to entertain offers for new concessions and running the service itself for public benefit."

This the council was fully supported by the citizens, who homologated the policy of municipalization at the election of 1903. The original horse concessionaires were "bought" out by the town council "at a price which no one outside the town council has been heard to call extravagant, and in connection with the installation of the electric undertaking the council has perhaps made a record in municipal bargaining. Three large land companies, which wished to have car lines laid thru their property, secured the privilege on these terms: (1) payment of whole cost of line; (2) provision of site for terminus; (3) guarantee of working costs for three years. Such are the public benefits secured when an enlightened and honest municipal body is sustained by the government.

On the initiative of the Johannesburg Town Council, a water authority for the whole Rand was established which took over last year the undertaking of the old water company at a valuation fixed by arbitration. The market company has also been bought out, under an arrangement by which the council and the government share the cost. To a large extent the evils inseparable from the presence of private monopoly-holders have been remedied within the brief period which has elapsed since the close of the war. As Johannesburg is rapidly extending, and the "townships," as the building estates are called, stretch even beyond the six-mile radius, the whole increment attaching to these public franchises will now pass to its proper recipients—the citizens themselves. It is surprising that the lessons presented by the cities of the United States have been so well learnt in South Africa and are so indifferently regarded in Canada. Tho, indeed, the Dominion is too near to escape altogether the corruption which has so demoralized the legislatures and administrative bodies of the North American republic. The story of Johannesburg and its franchises demonstrates again how intimately associated are civic ownership and operation, public spirit and pure and efficient local government.

The mayor disposes, but the Ottawa grabbers stick to the lot. "The parliament of graft" would be a fitting term for the Ottawa carnival now in progress.

Now that the senate appears disposed to reform, let the W.C.T.U. call upon the old lady and have her sign the pledge.

Capt. Bernier's dainty 5 o'clock treat would have been just the cutest thing the Esquimaux ever sipped the beverage from.

The hunt for the Jonah in the Ontario opposition begins to be as exciting as the fruitless search for the man that struck Billy Patterson.

Racine, M.L.A., stands by Ross, an Ottawa despatch says. But at the same time it may be remarked that Racine, M.L.A., did not stand by Ross on the local option vote in the legislature. Neither did Loosle, M.L.A.

The Crow's Nest Coal capitalists of finance have captured the supply of coal and water at Fernie, and will now likely corner the air and charge so much a "breath" to the residents of the little Rocky Mountain town.

IMPORTS PLUS EXPORTS TWENTY-FIVE BILLIONS

Trade Between Nations in 1906 Will Be Six Times Greater Than in 1850.

Washington, May 17.—The world's international commerce will aggregate fully $25,000,000,000 in the year 1906, says a bulletin issued by the department of commerce and labor. By the term "world's international commerce," explains the bulletin, is meant the imports plus the exports of all countries of the world from which statistical trade reports were available.

The figures given indicate that the trade between nations in 1906 will be six times as much as in 1850, two and one-half times as much as in 1870, and 25 per cent more than in 1900.

One interesting fact, says the bulletin, which an examination of the figures of average monthly trade of the principal countries of the world develops is that the United States now stands at the head of the world's great exporting nations. The monthly average exportation from the United States in the nine months ended with March, 1906, is shown by the bureau of statistics' figures at $147,208,973; the monthly average from the United Kingdom for the same period $143,574,913; the average from Germany during the 12 months ending with December, 1905, $110,777,800, and the monthly average from France for the 12 month period ended with February, $72,370,400.

An examination of the import column shows that the United States stands third among the nations as an importer, the monthly average of imports into the United States for the nine months ended with March, being $101,506,417; the monthly average into the United Kingdom in the same period $241,390,911; into Germany during the 12 months ended with December, 1905, $133,478,333, and France $85,425,650.

SOLDIERS FOIL AN ATTEMPT TO LOOT 'FRISCO TREASURY

Exchange Shots With at Least Four Men Who Make a Daring Night Raid.

San Francisco, May 17.—A daring attempt to loot the United States treasury, Commercial and Kearney streets, was foiled last night by soldiers from Company G of the Eleventh Infantry. The soldiers claim that their fire was returned by the men who were attempting to loot the safes in the building.

Six men from Company G were detailed to guard the treasury last night, three on either side of the building. At 11.30 o'clock the men stationed on the Commercial-street side of the building saw they noticed a man attempting to reach the entrance of the building.

He was ordered to halt, but instead fired a shot, whereupon a guard started at him. The bullet did not take effect and two of the guards gave chase, leaving their one companion behind. Almost immediately the soldiers on the Clay-street side began firing, and the one guard on Commercial-street saw four men run to the windows of the upper story of the treasury building.

He immediately opened fire, and the men in the window replied with shots from their revolvers. Fully thirty shots were exchanged, some of the bullets striking the wall of the building on the north side of Commercial-street. The men were later seen to come down stairs, but were not again heard of. Detective Sergeant Tyler headed a detail of police in a vain search for the would-be looters.

GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

Mimico Industrial School Premises Not What They Should Be.

In its presentment handed to Judge Winchester yesterday, the grand jury of the court of general sessions advocated an eight foot board fence between the park and the jail, to prevent loafers from approaching too near the jail wall. They also decided a spiral stairway from the third floor was a necessity, which could be used as a fire escape.

The jury also regret that no attention had been paid to the recommendation of former juries in reference to keeping separate first offenders and the perpetual criminals.

The management of the Industrial School at Mimico came in for severe criticism. There was much negligence kept as well as were those of other institutions, and the farming department was not up to much.

SAID LETTERS WERE STOLEN PRESTON MAKES CHARGE

Examination of Emigration Agent Before Public Accounts Committee at Ottawa.

Ottawa, May 17.—During his examination by Mr. Barker, M.P., before the public accounts committee this morning, W. T. R. Preston, Dominion emigration agent in England, declared that some of his private letters had been stolen from the files of his London office. Some time ago he heard that private letters of his were in the hands of Mr. Griffith, secretary to Lord Strathcona, and he suspected a certain clerk, who was much in Mr. Griffith's society. On investigation he found that his files had been gone through and mutilated. A file of letters endorsed "Mr. Preston—Private" and two or three letter books had been taken.

He found that on the evening of March 2, 1905, a gentleman in a dress suit had been seen coming from his office. He wished to put the matter in the hands of Scotland Yard, but Lord Strathcona demurred on account of the scandal, Lord Strathcona, however, stated that some of the letters were in his office.

Among the letters taken was one from him to the general manager of the Allan at Liverpool, urging the firm to start a booking office near the new Canadian office in Charing Cross, and it did not give a license to someone to do so; and recommending Leopold as a suitable person.

Connection With Leopold. Mr. Barker questioned Mr. Preston as to his relations with Louis Leopold, the manager of the Canadian labor bureau. This man's real name, he said, was Leopold Lazarus; later he said that he and Leopold are intimate friends. He became acquainted with him in 1902, Leopold coming to him with letters from a prominent German banking firm, in which he had served as an employee.

"Had he previously been in the employ of the North Atlantic Trading Company?" "I don't know. I don't think so."

At the start Leopold had established an agency known as the Partners Auxiliary, designed to assist German emigrants to go to Canada. He first came to Mr. Preston to ask if an arrangement could be made whereby these people would be advanced. No such assistance was given by the Canadian government. Leopold's remuneration was his commission from the steamship companies, and he entered into the business of helping British emigrants, receiving for these, in addition to his commission, the seven shilling head given by Canada for agriculturalists.

Not Connected With Firm. Mr. Preston had helped him and had recommended him to several steamship companies. He denied that he had any connection with Leopold's firm.

Mr. Barker then asked as to Mr. Leopold's reputation as a business man, and Mr. Preston said that he had seen him in the Canadian office, it developing that there was telephonic connection between the two.

Mr. Preston gave an explanation of the reasons which led to this, and said that when unfair interferences were drawn he stopped the arrangements. The interferences were, he knew that Leopold sent mechanics and artisans to Canada, but he did not know that he sent men out to break strikes.

FEUD BETWEEN LABORERS.

Average of Two Deaths a Day and Coroner is Investigating.

New York, May 17.—According to Coroner Peter Acritelli, lawlessness has prevailed for months in the excavation which the O'Rourke Construction Company is making for the new Grand Central Station, and the Italian government has demanded an investigation.

The coroner yesterday caused the arrest of John Eildred, general superintendent of the O'Rourke company, and held him in $1000 bail on a charge of homicide. He issued subpoenas for the president of the corporation and all its general foremen.

"There has been an average of two deaths a day among the employees ever since I took office," said Coroner Acritelli. "I have pretty good evidence in my possession that there has been a feud between the Irish and Italian laborers. It seems that an Italian did not know how to handle dynamite. It went off and killed an Irishman. Ever since then ledges of rock have had a way of falling upon Italians. Most of the drillers are Irish and the Italians do the laborers' work."

"You are not making an argument," added Mr. Aylesworth. "If you are giving evidence we want to cross-examine you."

"The postmaster-general," said Dr. Stockton, "had better call his department to order."

The postmaster-general called no body to order, but Victor Geoffrey, chairman of the committee, ordered that the discussion stop.

When the opposition proposed going on with Preston the minister of marine, Mr. Brodeur, got up and insisted that one case be finished first. He did not care to stay at the head of a department against which such charges had been made. Mr. Northrup had proposed to call witnesses. He must do it at the next sitting of the committee.

Mr. Brodeur will not be dictated by the minister," declared Mr. Northrup, adding that the Liberal action of yesterday in shutting the mouth of Mr. Northrup might result in his calling a dozen or 50 witnesses.

MERWIN'S LIPS SEALED.

Refuses to Tell Cost of Supplies He Furnished Government.

Ottawa, May 17.—George T. Merwin was again on the stand in the public accounts committee to-day. It was the turn of the government members to examine Merwin with a view to establishing the fairness of his charges.

He handsily told the committee his prices were not high, but flatly refused to tell what he paid for the same articles.

George Taylor made another effort to get the cost price of the engine which Merwin sold to the government at $900.

"Don't make speeches; ask questions," interrupted the minister of marine.

"You are not making an argument," added Mr. Aylesworth. "If you are giving evidence we want to cross-examine you."

"The postmaster-general," said Dr. Stockton, "had better call his department to order."

Ten Years in "Pen."

Montreal, May 17.—Ten years in penitentiary was the sentence to-day for Alexander Brunette, who stole two horses from the barns of the Villa Maria Convent and set fire to the structure to hide his crime. Joseph Carrier of Sherbrooke, who stole $275 from the Cashier Register, got four months.

Hurt by a Car.

Mrs. Conrad Schoenchen, 201-2 Carlton-street, in getting off a car at the corner of St. Andrew-street, was struck in front of another one. She was badly cut about the head.

COBALT'S RISING GLORY IS TO DISPEL THE SHADOWS OF ROSSLAND'S GLOOMY PAST

INVESTORS' CHANCE TO GET EVEN BUT MANY REMEMBER ROSSLAND

Mining Deals of Immense Magnitude Have Been Put Through in Cobalt Mining Camp—Old-time Silver Chasers Swarming into the District—Just a Week Last Year, R. G. Godfrey Digs Up Ten Thousand Dollars' Worth of Ore.

Cobalt, May 17.—(Special.)—A gentleman from Toronto, while in Cobalt last week, remarked to the writer, "A burnt child dreads the fire," and to make quite plain his thoughts, he added: "Toronto got badly scorched in Rossland and still remembers War of 1862." He further said, "Now right here in Cobalt is where they ought to square themselves, but they will not embrace the opportunity. They are a lengthy and slow-moving people, and their ventures and losses, this man of good standing went and he was sincere in his regret that this camp had not been filled with Torontonians who had suffered through previous experiences in Canadian mining camps, and that they had not got in and staked out claims."

The man was sincere in his somewhat sarcastic utterances, and it is to be feared he was possibly correct in some of his conclusions. "Wake up, Toronto," and seize the trade of the trade the people in this country have assured more Toronto capital will be invested.

During the past ten days much has happened in Cobalt camp and many new mining deals, some of magnitude, have taken place. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis and Cincinnati have the Cobalt fever. From Winnipeg westward the fame of the camp has spread to such good effect that at present there are three parties here who are taking over properties and developing them. In the Coleman Township up to the present time stretches of twenty miles are laid out into mines, every one of which is a shipper and shippers of the richest ore ever sent out of a camp.

History daily repeats itself here, and the marvellously quick outputs of mineral wealth from Coleman Township, which brought the camp into the world wide notoriety a year ago, are being repeated. R. G. Godfrey last year was a cook for a party up here. This year he got a man, named Nelson, from Michigan, to grub-stake him, and he has been working down the railway a couple of miles south of Cobalt Station. After a few weeks' work he made a find and his discovery was the north half of the northwest quarter of lot thirteen in the third concession of Coleman is dated April 3, 1896. His claim duly passed inspection, and he got to work about three weeks ago. On Monday, May 14, Godfrey had three bags of 1000 oz. ore bagged and ready for shipment. He has a good body in sight, and he will ship a carload in another three weeks, which will easily net him ten thousand dollars.

Some of the mines which, under old managements, became famous, are passing into other hands, and in some cases into entirely new management. The old Hudson Bay's Stormont mine is now known as "The Silver Queen." This is the mine that enabled the directors of the old company to declare a dividend of two hundred per cent. The result of its first shipment of ore, which was got out with picks and shovels and netted $37,000, and as a result its dollar shares went from 50c to thirty, forty and fifty, and the shares in almost as many days, and have remained at sixty, sixty-five and seventy dollars. Mr. Culver, the managing director, is now in charge, and a superintendent has been appointed, and a complete plant, up-to-date in every particular, is being installed.

The Earl properties have always looked up big in the eyes of the camp, and much attention has been directed to their operations. It has always been difficult to obtain reliable information regarding their working. It is known that they have had the largest force employed of any mine in camp. They have shipped over a million dollars' worth of ore in the last fifteen months, and the news that the property from which these ore shipments have been made had been stocked is received here with incredulity. Twenty acres, it is said, are covered or included in the last deal. Captain DeLamar, E. P. Earl and Col. Robert Thompson are millionaires several times over. A capitalization of one and a half millions, divided into five dollar shares, is said to have resulted in their five dollar shares on New York curb going to six dollars in 24 hours.

Shares Taken Up Rapidly. The Cobalt Copper Silver Mines, Limited, is the result of a visit paid to Cobalt by J. J. Bamberger of New York City some weeks ago. He returned last week, accompanied by Mr. Munson, also of New York; John C. Quinn, and George Lozenky of Buffalo. Fearless Elk Horn and other famous mines' experience. Mr. Quinn is a miner of 40 years' standing, and came from the mother lode of California. This Cobalt Contact Co. has acquired the Green property, and its shares have been taken up in New York with great rapidity. They propose to divide their 40 acres into single acre blocks, and lease alternate blocks as in Goldfield, Manhattan, Cripple Creek and other western camps. C. L. Hanson is the vice-president of this company. They are incorporated in the selling stock only on New York curb. There is not a shipping mine in Cobalt camp whose shares will not readily sell there.

Haileybury is filled with prospectors coming into the mining registrar's office, and one of the latest deals consists of a large purchase by an agent of Mackenzie & Mann.

Up the Montreal River prospectors are going by the hundreds, and many have come back from that direction having staked out claims. A well-known British Columbian prospector, who had been eighty miles up the river, came down one week ago to Cobalt, and states that between the railroad and Metachewan he met over

DOMINION SHOULD BUILD THE GEORGIAN BAY CANAL

Opposition to Extension of Time Develops at Ottawa—Bell Phone Bill Delayed.

Ottawa, May 17.—(Special.)—Mr. Bureau's bill to increase the capital stock of the Bell Telephone Company to $50,000,000 is probably put to sleep. It was the special order for the day before the railway committee, but by some mistake a bill respecting the Montreal, Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal Company got in ahead. It was 12.45 before the telephone bill was reached, and at 1 o'clock the committee meeting expired by limitation.

Mayor Coatsworth, H. H. Dewar, K. C., and other representatives of Toronto had no opportunity to present their view of the amendment drawn by Mr. Kemp (East Toronto) to protect municipal rights.

W. F. Maclean (South York) contended for the principle that the bulk of money raised for extensions and betterments by a corporation like this should be represented by bonds and not by stock. Bonds were a fixed charge, and that the holders looked for smaller returns than the stockholders. He pointed out that if capital stock was to be increased, the stock should be sold in the market and the premium go into the treasury. In this connection he cited the Massachusetts statute, providing that "a railroad company authorized to increase its capital stock, or to issue additional stock for any purpose, shall, if the market value of its shares exceeds their par value, sell the new shares at public auction, the proceeds to be paid down in 'Hell-on-Wheel' and Stockholders' and other text books."

There was considerable opposition to the canal bill. It is thought that the attempt to prolong the charter is in the direction of some large claim for compensation or pension of the work is undertaken—as it is expected it will be—by the government.

Mr. Ritchie who appeared for the company, asserted that $10,000,000 capital was insufficient for an enterprise of this magnitude, and justified the increase to $50,000,000, which the bill proposes. The company had also proposed to issue bonds to an amount of $10,000,000, on which he thought they might realize $80,000,000. He had expended a considerable sum upon surveys and the distribution of literature.

The minister of public works was asked for a statement of the government's policy in regard to this work, and in reply declared that his department had not yet received the report of the survey that was undertaken a couple of sessions ago to ascertain the feasibility and the cost of the undertaking. The survey was a large one, and the government was not yet ready to announce its policy upon the subject. The Montreal, Ottawa and Georgian Bay Canal Company had been chartered in 1894. There was a clause in its charter under which the company is bound to submit all plans and specifications for government approval. The government survey was designed to ascertain the cost of a 22-foot waterway over the route. The survey has been practically finished.

Mr. Hyman intimated that the government might have amendments to propose at a later stage of the bill, but he saw no reason why the company should not be given a renewal of its charter. Mr. Hyman saw no reason, however, why the government should bond the powers of the company at this stage.

Hon. John Haggart maintained that the government's intention was to be prejudiced by the increase of the capital stock that the present bill sought. It was absolutely impossible to get money enough to undertake the enterprise on the present capitalization and bonding powers. The project was one of national importance, not only to Canada, but to the whole of America.

OFFICES AT COBALT AND HAILEYBURY OAKVILLE GETS LICENSES. Clergymen Protest, But Commissioners Realize Their Duty.

Oakville, May 17.—The license commissioners for Halton met in the town hall this afternoon to discuss the hotel licenses for Oakville. At the January elections local option was carried. Owing to some technical irregularities the by-law was quashed by Chief Justice Meredith at Toronto on Monday. For a deputation of ministers and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Rev. Dr. McNair, Rev. Dr. Ross and others addressed the commissioners, urging strongly that no licenses should be granted.

Mr. Chalmers Hedley Shaw stated that he was personally in favor of temperance, but he thought the commissioners had a duty to perform to the citizens and the government, and that they felt it their duty under the circumstances to grant Murray H. Williams of the Murray House a license, and also to Charles Deckers as soon as he secured valid premises for the Murrays House opened up this evening.

VOICE FROM THE FARM. W. F. Maclean, M.P., House of Parliament, Ottawa. Friend,—The not having the pleasure of your acquaintance, I cannot resist the desire of writing you to tender my very best regards to you and to your honest, hard-working, over-taxed farmers, which such men as they never can. We only wish that we had more men like you at Ottawa, and that we sent to parliament not representatives who just represent themselves. And many of our papers will not print the names of the men that we send to parliament to represent us.

Government Should Build. J. H. G. Bergeron of Montreal, A. A. Wright of Renfrew, and A. L. McCool of Kingston all held that the public interests would best be served by the government building the canal. Mr. Bergeron insisted that no private company would ever undertake it. He opposed the bill in toto. Both Mr. McCool and Mr. Wright recognized the service the company had already performed in keeping this enterprise before the country. The minister of justice saw absolutely no reason why this company should not be given the means to carry its project through in the event of the government itself undertaking the work. It would not make any difference to the country whether the company's capital was $10,000,000 or $50,000,000. The company would be indemnified for any work it had actually done. That was all. The prospective profits of the company would not enter into the calculation.

NATIONAL TRUST COMPANY LIMITED

World Office, Thursday Evening, May 17. Speculation was further modified in the Toronto stock market to-day and the recent favorites were allowed to relax into comparative dullness. As on several previous occasions, when the support in the specialties was relaxed, bank shares were taken in hand. It is not difficult to mark up the latter shares, as holdings are very largely those of investors, who consist in city or province, and are in an advance in price. To-day Dominion, Imperial and Hamilton were given the largest amount of advance. The suspicion that credit was beginning to evidence a greater amount of elasticity was not strengthened by the further continuance of the 3 per cent minimum rate by the Bank of England this week. This was the only new matter relevant to the financial situation in to-day's news. The market drifted into great dullness as the day progressed and closed in that mood. The only attempt at bullish gossip to-day was the reiteration of an increased dividend or a bonus declaration on Imperial Bank stock. There are those who disbelieve in any such move at least the part as to an increase in the dividend. These individuals point out that the percentage earnings of the bank for the past year were not as large as any of the four preceding years. In the industries a stronger reaction is apparent in Toronto and General Electric, with an advance in the former to 150, but the bid price at the close was 148 1/2, and below the quoted sale price. A little speculative buying of General Electric is in effect on the suggestion that an advance is contemplated in this stock if nothing supervenes to prevent it.

On Wall Street. Marshall, Spader & Co. wired J. G. Beatty (King Edward Hotel), at the close of the market. We see nothing against the market, but the apparent absence of support by larger interests, than on the other hand, is a source of no evidence of important pressure. The market made a fair demonstration of strength to-day, but its tone was not pronounced except in the coalers and a few other issues. There was sluggishness in Pennsylvania from special causes and sharp break in lead during the day gave the entire list a setback. The copper shares were held in the market under pressure, but they were sustained in a creditable way throughout the session. Some pressure was shown also in the demand for specialties, but the publication of a report or estimate of earnings for the first year suggests about $80,000 surplus, and the company stock and this served to restrict the selling movement. The loss of the banks to sub-treasury operations plus the demand for specialties, and the large purchase of bank stock, the effect of these indications that Europe has been a large purchaser of bank stock recently. The market opened strong this morning and, although marked irregularity was displayed throughout the list, the buying was of excellent character. The anthracite stocks showed considerable strength. Del. & Hudson, Ontario and Lacawana were making substantial gains. Weakness was displayed in Pennsylvania, however, on the news of the developments affecting adversely Norfolk and Baltimore & Ohio. 30-point advance in Lackawanna has directed attention to that common stock; the story was current that the capital of the company would be doubled and the stock shares reduced to a stock dividend of 100 per cent. A declaration of only one per cent quarterly on Lead common brought about a sharp decline in the price of the bulls have predicted that it will be placed on a 6 per cent basis. The further demand for specialties, and the fact that Francisco was unexpected, but the early re-opening of the market will have no doubt a beneficial effect on the specialties. The trading is so largely professional that it is difficult to forecast the movement of the market, but the underlying conditions are thoroughly sound, the short interest of fair proportion, and the trading movement of the market is being held by the bulls to the line.

Negotiations are now under way for the equipment of between 6000 and 8000 miles of railroad in the Orient with American Palace Car Company's combined parlor, sleeping and dining cars, and while the company may not operate the cars on these foreign lines themselves, yet a good profit will be the result of cars sold outright on these contracts.

LOSERS BOTH LEGS.
Newcastle, May 17.—Last night about 9 o'clock Percy Godall, aged 25, fell under an eastbound freight train; the wheels ran over both legs just below the knees. His cries attracted farmers who live near, and they traced him into the ditch at the side of the track. Dr. Farncomb gave him temporary relief, and went with him on the midnight express to Cobourg Hospital, where the legs were amputated by Drs. Henderson, Ferris and Farncomb.
The accident was no doubt due to Godall not jumping clear of the wheels. He is a son of Mrs. McLean, 74 Bay Street, Owen Sound. Some weeks ago he has been working for Contractor Thos. Scott, Oshawa.
