Nevertheless the of the district to be opened by these roads s by no means unpromising. Two points wild land in New Brunswick; one is railway will be taken up and profitably tilled, and the other that much land which at first sight appears not of high rank, is found to improve in cultivation, and be capable of being converted into excellent farms. Again there is so much ly in the Maamtrassna murder case, wa land of the very highest quality, yet re- untrue. been found necessary for the growing population to cultivate soil that in many countries would be readily taken up and worked to great advantage. These railways above mentioned will open a very apparatus. arge area. On as careful an estimate as can be made from existing data there are within it about 100,000 acres of very good land.

Of this about one-half lies to the north of the Miramichi, and the remainder between the Miramichi and the Central, principally between the head of Grand

Lake and the Intercolonial Railway. That is to say, it is possible to make one thoutractive to settlers. The conclusion is ments that the occupation of 100,000 acres by settlers implies within a few years a would serve a basis of settlement, and the cupation of lands of not so good quality uld follow as a matter of course, as has een the case in the settlements along the Intercolonial in Kent County. When The great remedy for Summer Complaints. that road was first located there was a general outcry that the land would never settled, but it has been, and the settlers are doing fairly well, although the contrary to this has been represented. It is impossible to form even an approximation of the acreage within the tract in question which will ultimately be found capable of successful cultivation; but it me nust be very large. It is worth the consideration of the government whether two or more highway roads might now be advantageously made through this section which will be surrounded on all sides by railways. The poorest of the land is that nearest Fredericton. "MIRAMICHI ADVANCE."

All of our subscribers who will pay their subscription accounts to this paper in full to date, and one year in advance, will be presented with one year's subscription to THE TORONTO WEEKLY NEWS FREE.

THE TORONTO WEEKLY NEWS is an Illustrated Paper, unsurpassed in all the features of enterprising journalism. It stands conspicuous among the best journals of Canada as a complete newspaper, which will be interesting to every member of the family. The children will like the pictures, the young folks the series and the funny sketches, the more mature will be delighted with the editorials and news matter, which in every issue will be found spicy, incisive, and entertaining. In the matter of telegraphic service, having the advantage of connection with THE TORONTO DAILY NEWS, it has at its command all the dispatches of the Associated Press, besides the specials from NEWS correspondents in every section of Ontario for which the daily paper is so famous. As a newspaper it has no superior. It is Independent in politics, presenting all political news free from party bias or coloring, and is absolutely without fear or favor as to parties. The parliamentary reports are written in a humorous vein, and deal with men and measures without gloves, and having regard only to brevity, justice, and truth. It is in the fullest sense a family newspaper. Each issue contains a verbatim report of Rev. Dr. Talmage's latest sermon in Brooklyn Tabernacle, Clara Belle's New York fashion letter, "The Man-About-Town" sketches of people and places, a serial story of absorbing interest, a political cartoon, and a rich variety of condensed notes of Fashions, Art, Industries, Literature, etc., etc., etc. Its market questions are complete and to be relied upon. It is just the paper for the young folks, and the old folks will like it just as well. Our special clubbing terms bring it within reach of all. Specimen copies may be had at this office.

HOW I BECAME A PARMER.

to live or die, I honestly think I would have preferred the latter.

It was a low, small, one-story house, weather-beaten and dilapidated. Two of the front windows were boarded up, and the other two had half the glass panes broken out. Off to the left was a still more dilapidated barn, the great a still more dispidated barn, the great doors of which were propped up. Not and I borrowed a neighbor's ox-team to only the yard fence, but all the fences, plow three acres of the old stubble in sight, were shattered and falling the room, and after shouting to make the broken windows. These I set mysure that no one was about to object, I built a prodigous fire, and going to the barn fetched in armfuls of old straw there and made a bed for myself. I was hungry, yet still more tired, and after a time I fell asleep. In the spring of 1874, I was as home-less and houseless as anybody in Boston. I was nineteen. My mother was dead, and my father, a crippled sailor, was an ed about and treated me like a fellow inmate of a charitable institution.

The previous summer I had driven an ice-cart, and had saved enough to carry me partly through the winter. But I could not get another job. If there is anything in this world which will try one's soul, it is to hunt a job week after week and month after month, and after week and month after month, and be met by that one cold reply, 'Not down in the meadow, which I resolved

For three weeks I worked early and idea of leaving the city and trying the country, for I knew nothing of it. But hay into the barn. Every pound of it I knew a brakeman named Leavett, on I hauled in myself, on a little 'rack' the Boston and Maine Railroad, who which I rigged upon a pair of old carhad an uncle living in the town of B----, up in New Hampshire. This uncle, Leavett said, needed a hand on his I got in about nine tons. Seven tons farm, and he thought I could get the of this hay I sold the following winter, place. He gave me a line to him, and got me a free ride on the night freight with him to Exeter. From Exeter I walked to B——, but when I arrived the work alone and unaided; and after that I worked out at haying eight the place was filled.

Hardly knowing what to do, I went been travelling two days, when I came to the old deserted house. Here I staved during the night.

My waking was not cheery the next morning. I was miserably cold, and if nine bushels. I had been faint and hungry the night before, I was hungrier now. The weather, too, had turned foggy and for one of his cows; and Mrs. C— the old house. The bare, smoked, and doned the place. Though there was little inducement to tarry longer, there on the twenty-fourth day of Septemwas still less to go on, seeking work where no one wanted to hire; and for the twenty-rourin day of September, I began digging my potatoes; and from my well-drawed field I days the first time the idea of staying here entered my mind. This was what I thought: Here is a house and here is a farm. They are deserted. If nobody else wants them, why cannot I have them and make a home of them?

But whether I lived there or not, I wanted something to eat, and I set off along the road to a farm-house painted As I drew near, a clatter of forks and plates assured me that the folks were at breakfast. The outer door was ajar. I stepped up and tapped at it. 'Come in,' some one called out.

'I entered and said, Good-morning!' but no one responded. 'Do you wish to hire any help?' I asked, addressing myself to the man of the house. Be you the chap that had a fire in the old house down below here last gage, for the second payment of seventy night?' the man inquired.

'Yes,' I said. 'Do you know who owns it ?' 'That's hard telling, 'he answered.

I sat awhile and then asked them if note for seventy-five dollars, with the they could sell me a peck of potatoes, or four quarts of corn meal, and let me work in payment. 'I will work all day for either one,' I offered. 'and will try to do a good day's work.'

living on your farm in A., N. H. He was in search of work on a farm, and came along to the old house just at dark one night, about a fortnight ago. Having nowhere else to stay, and the night being rather cold, he went in there, and has been living there ever since, working when he could get a job from the people about. This young man would like to go on for a while living there; for he has no other abiding place. He would take the farm of you for the coming season, or if the farm is for sale, would buy it if the price were not too high, and pay for it as fast as he could.

It was getting dark. But through the bushes, along the muddy road I could see a house ahead, and I limped on toward it, though I had little hope that the people there would receive me.

Ah! how discouraged, hungry and footsore I was that night! Every step was torture. If I had had my choice to live or die, I honestly think I would yours. And if you are in earnest (which I don't believe), I wish you

"Very truly yours, DAVID C. SMITH." Whenever I felt blue, I used to get out that letter and have a laugh. The farmers about were now doing their ground, paying for the use of the team by my own labor.

It was all hard work. Every fair day was a day of toil. I used to sleep like I shall not be denied a night's lodging here.

I shall not be denied a night's lodging in the ground, I mended the fences about the fields and the house; and worked out and got new glass panes for self, on rainy days.

By June, the people began to treat me as a friend and neighbor. Indeed, they commenced, laughingly, to call me their 'new neighbor.' At first, coming among them as I did, they distruste me. But when they saw that I wa not afraid to take hold and work, and that I really meant business, they turncitizen. I was shown a great many kindly favors.

It was ne great task to do my own work in hoeing; and I was able to work out enough to purchase a set of having tools, consisting of scythe, snath, fork and rake. For there was a tolerable to secure to the last straw. I began riage wheels that I found abandoned

In January I chopped ten cords of wood for Mr. Cummings, and in payment had his ox-team to draw my hay down to the village, where I marketed it. After receiving the money, I wrote again to Mr Smith, telling him that I was now ready to make a payment of seventy-five dollars on the farm. The business of 'doing the writings,' as they call it in the country, was entrusted, on his part, to a lawyer in the village, named Robertson. To him I paid the money and received a deed of the farm, but gave my note, secured by a mort-

B. J. Kennall. & Co., Gents:—I feel it a duty to others suffering with the piles and falling of the rectum to write you. Lhave had the piles and prolapsus of the rectum for five years, for the past three years I have suffered the most agonizing pain. Tried everything without relief, but after ten days use of Kendall's Spavin Cure I have not seen nor heard of the piles since. One who has not suffered as I have cannot comprehend the great joy that I feel at being cured of a disease almost worse than death. I had a valuable young horse that had a large bunch gather on his breast bone. I tried all kinds of liniments and had it out open without any benefit. Saw your advertisement and bought a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure had done for my horse might benefit more. I tried it as a last resort.

With gratitude and best wishes for your success, I am faithfully yours,

Horses, Teams and other facilities usually found at watering places provided by the proprietor and also to be had from others in the neighborhood. Charges T. B. WILLISTON, BAY DU VIN.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Gents: Having used a good deal of your Kendall's Spavin Cure with great success, I thought I would let you know what it has done for me. Two years ago I had as speedy a colt as was ever raised in Jefferson County. When I was breaking him, he kicked over the cross bar and got fast and tore one of his hind legs all to pieces. I employed the best farriers, but they all said he was spoiled. He had a very large thorough-pin, and I used two bottles of your Kendall's Spavin Cure, and it took the bunch entirely of, and he sold afterwards for $1800 (dollars.) I have used it for bone spavins and wind galls, and it has always cured completely and left the leg smooth.

It is a rpiendid medicine for rheumatism. I have recommended it to a good many, and they all say it does the work. I was in Witherington & Kneeland's drug store, in Adams, the other day and saw a very fine picture you sent them. It ried to buy that you do that you all the good I can.

Very receptfully. E. S. LYMAN. CONFECTIONERY, FRUITS ETC. Quality Always to be found at M. J. STAPLES'S

From the Akron Commercial, Ohio, of Nov. 25th, 1882. "Imperial Wringer." Chio, of Nov. 25th, 1882.

Readers of the Commercial can not well force that a large space has for years been taken up by Kendall's advertisements—especially of a certain Spavin Cure. We have had dealings with Dr. Kendall for many years, and we know of some large ousiness houses in cities near by who have also dealt with him for many years, and the truth is alood honest man, and that his celebrated Spavin Cure is not only all that it is recommended to be, but that the English Language is not capable of recommending it too highly.

Kendall's Spavin Cure will cure spavins There are hundreds of cases in which that has been provent our certain knowledge, but, after all, if any person confines the usefulness of this celebrated medicine to curing spavins alone, they make a big mistake. It is the best medicine known as an outward application for rheumatism in the human family. It is good for pains and aches, swellings, lameness, and is just as safely applied to men, women and children as it is to horses. We know that there are other good liniments, but we do believe this spavin cure to be far better than any ever invented. Wash-tub Stand. Clothes Forks, etc.
