I. O. FORESTERS.

Addresses Delivered By the Supreme Chief Ranger.

Hon. Mr. Foster's Work—The Question of District Deputies—Interesting General Notes.

ST. STEPHEN, July 6.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the high court, I. O. F., several matters of interest were discussed and the supreme chief delivered an address.

Dr. Mullin read the report of the delegates to the supreme court, E. R. Chapman, A. W. Macrae, George G. Scovill, M. P. P. H. W. Woods and Dr. Mullin himself. They said no radical change had been made in the constitution or laws, and referred to the endorsement of the Union Trust Co., organized to invest the surplus funds of the order, and which had invested nearly half a million to great advantage. They also reported that the question of making Toronto the permanent place of meeting of the supreme court had been sent over, to come up at the next meeting which will be held in Boston. They expressed great satisfaction at the fine showing made by the supreme executive concerning the order, and alluded to the presentation of a chain of twenty-one gold links to Dr. Oronhyatekha, who had been as many years at the head of the order. The report also referred to some matters of interest to subordinate courts that were dealt with by the supreme body.

High Chief Ranger Chapman referred in graceful words to the supreme chief and asked him to address the high court.

Oronhyatekha, who was again greeted with great applause, said he was grateful to the New Brunswick delegates to Los Angeles for the generous allusions to himself and the other members of the executive. In speaking of the harmony that prevailed in the supreme court sessions they had but expressed the universal sentiment. Not that there were no questions or keen debates, but at the close he had the satisfaction of saying that not a word of unkindness had been spoken. No executive with such large funds to handle ever received such an endorsement of their actions and policy at the hands of a supreme body. And the speaker believed they deserved it, too.

The I. O. F. stood at the topmost notch of fraternal organizations, largely by reason of the legislation adopted at the supreme court sessions in Toronto, relative to the rates. The best acturaries in the United Kingdom say the order is on a sound financial basis. That is their openly pronounced verdict. And when the British Institute of Actuaries holds that view, it is a great deal to speak of. The speaker said he was amazed every month by the accumulating evidence in this direction from insurance experts. The London Saturday Review, a very conservative journal of the highest character, whose editorial columns are unimpeachable, in a special issue named the I. O. F. the best of fraternal societies, and as having caused the cheapening of insurance perhaps to the utmost extreme. When the report of the last supreme court meeting is published it will show the cost of insurance in the order, properly tabulated, and the investment in permanent disability and pension funds and will show by comparison a substantial margin in favor of the I. O. F. after providing for all these benefits.

Referring to the Union Trust Company, the supreme chief said that the order had discovered F. W. Emmerson and persuaded him to take part in building up the order. (Applause). Others like E. F. Eastman and A. W. Macrae had also done valuable work for the order, he could not now be driven out of the order—even if his salary were reduced to the $200 per year he got when he first came down here (laughter and applause).

But now it is intended to inaugurate a new system in the organizing field. A commission is to be offered to every member who brings in another member, and district superintendents will be appointed to look after organizing work and visit the courts—both the weak and the strong ones—to stir up renewed interest in bringing new blood into the order. He hopes to see an increase of 50,000 members every six months. Over $800,000 was added to the surplus in the year ending July 31st, and he wanted soon to see the total surplus $10,000,000.

Replying to Dr. Irvine, the supreme chief said he had no doubt whatever that at the next session of the supreme court women would be admitted to the sick and funeral benefits on the same terms as men. It was bound to come, and should come, even if the cost to the men should be a little more, which, however, he did not anticipate.

Replying to A. W. Ebbett, the supreme chief said that the Union Trust Co. belongs to the shareholders, and of two million shares all but about a hundred thousand are held by the order itself. Investments are made in improved real estate, in Manitoba, the Northwest, Toronto and a very little in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. He himself was president of the company, and Hon. John A. McGillivray and Hon. E. G. Stevenson were directors. They got no extra pay for services. The profits belong to the shareholders, and go into whatever fund of the order earned them. The profits were distributed among the funds by the supreme executive.

Replying to the Rev. I. N. Parker and John T. Hawke, the supreme chief stated that Mon. Mr. Foster got a straight salary, and far less than he was worth for the work he did. A little debate between Mr. Hawke and the chief on this question was much enjoyed by the members, Mr. Hawke being politely insistent and the chief adroitly non-committal. The question was not of special importance, and the discussion ended in a cheerful compromise.

Replying to a question why male members were not allowed to join in debates in companion courts, the chief amid laughter said that it was because the ladies were quite capable of doing their own talking and would not appreciate the attempt of any man to take charge of their meetings.

"But if one is asked to speak," queried A. Sherwood, "what then?"

"It's polite to speak when you're spoken to," gravely rejoined the chief; and when the roar of laughter had subsided he added:—"But I wouldn't advise you to say more than just that." Whereat there was more laughter, in which the ladies heartily joined.

Many questions were asked by members and answered by the supreme chief, and then at the request of the high chief he called up High Secretary Emmerson and decorated him with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor. He referred very feelingly to his long association with and high appreciation of Mr. Emmerson.

"This high court," he said, "does itself honor in conferring this decoration upon you. May you long live to enjoy the honor and the love and esteem of your fellow members."

The members, led by Thomas Murray, sang He's a Jolly Good Fellow, and while the supreme chief was fixing the decoration they joined the high chief in another song which invited all to "See Him Smiling Just Now." There was a great outburst of applause when the popular high secretary attempted to respond. He thanked the members and referring to the growth of the order expressed his delight in its progress in this province.

motion by J. A. Lindsay, seconded by Mr. Sears, of Montreal, that future meetings of high court be confined to St. John, Moncton and Fredericton, was referred to a committee.

Oronhyatekha announced that he had to leave for P. E. Island by the morning train. He warmly thanked the high court for its welcome.

TUESDAY NIGHT'S MEETING.

ST. STEPHEN, Aug. 6.—Last night's public meeting in the skating rink was a notable one in all respects. There was a brilliant assemblage, numbering between fifteen hundred and two thousand. Many were content to stand throughout the meeting. The rink was prettily decorated with bunting, and on either side of the platform were British and American flags. Regret was expressed at the absence of the high chief ranger of Maine, as well as of Judge Wedderburn, "the old man eloquent" of the order of Independent Forestry.

E. R. Chapman presided and had on the platform with him Mayor Murchie, Dr. Oronhyatekha, Rev. I. N. Parker, John T. Hawke, A. W. Macrae and others.

Mayor Murchie, on behalf of the people of St. Stephen, cordially welcomed the Foresters, and gracefully referred to the growth and importance of the order.

Mr. Chapman replied in a very appropriate manner, and then introduced A. W. Macrae, who delivered an eloquent and forcible address on Forestry, dealing with the various advantages and the splendid work of the order as a benevolent insurance organization.

After a charming solo by Miss Wry and a selection by the Maple Leaf band of St. Stephen, the chairman in a very happy and complimentary way introduced the supreme chief ranger.

Dr. Oronhyatekha was received by the vast audience with long continued applause, that was repeated several times during his admirable address. He won his audience at the very outset by telling a good story. He said he was embarrassed by the laudation of the chairman and was reminded of the story of a little boy in a Sunday school in Nebraska. The teacher asked who it was that led the children of Israel through the wilderness. The boy answered, "You," said the teacher, pointing to a little boy away down in the class. "That little lad there, I know he can tell me. Who was it?" The little boy rose and in a tremulous voice replied:—"Please, sir, it wasn't me."

"When I hear of the great things that have been done for Forestry," said Oronhyatekha, "I feel like saying, Please, sir, I didn't do it all."

Though not the orator he had been represented to be, he had, he said, been in the habit of claiming to be the best looking man, but with Rev. I. N. Parker on the same platform, even that claim had to go, and he would have to content himself with being the best looking Indian among them. The

THE MURDER.

Doherty Was in the Park on Friday Afternoon.

Getting Closer to the Actual Time When the Crime Was Committed.

The murder of William Doherty still remains a mystery and although the police are working night and day nothing has yet been learned which can furnish any definite clue on which to base a theory. But some new evidence has been discovered and the police are gradually narrowing down the time in which the murder was committed. They firmly believe that Doherty was killed on Friday afternoon, and there are many facts which support this belief. Doherty's stomach, the murdered boy were found berries, some of which were not even partly digested. These berries could only have been picked in daylight, and it is known that while Doherty was home to dinner on Friday he was not home to tea. The berries were, of course, eaten after dinner, and were not eaten at home. He either picked them for himself or someone else gave them to him.

A witness has been found—and this is the strongest point of all—who not only saw William Doherty in the park on Friday afternoon, but who spoke with him. Doherty was rambling about the side of the hill near the bear pit, picking berries as he went, and eating them as he picked. The man who saw and spoke to him is not in any doubt regarding the day or time, but is absolutely certain that it was on Friday afternoon. This witness will be heard at the proper time.

On the other hand, those who state that they saw Doherty on Friday night are by no means certain that they are right. He is said to have been in the opera house, but the ticket taker, who says he is not sure that it was Friday night. It might have been Saturday. One of the police officers also states that he saw Doherty around the opera house on Friday night, but he, like the others, is rather uncertain. The coroner and police, after carefully considering and weighing every particle of evidence, believe that the fatal shots were fired on Friday afternoon.

A letter was yesterday received by the Sun in which the writer who signed himself "One of them" states that Doherty was shot by him and another man on Friday afternoon. The reason given is that Doherty blackmailed both of them and that they resolved to get square with him. One of the men dressed as a girl and the two went to the park. Doherty followed them, and upon demanding money they drew their pistols. A shot was fired without the intention of doing any injury, but it took effect and then the job was completed.

Such confessions as these are, of course, unnecessary, but there may be some reason for the writing of a letter like this.

In the Brussels street district the residents are united in believing that there is no foundation for the theory that Doherty was shot while following a couple. Those who were acquainted with the murdered boy and his associates are strong in their belief that he knew too much and was put out of the way either from motives of revenge or from fear of exposure.

Many contradictory stories are current. Reports are heard from all parts of the city about Doherty being seen at different places on Friday night or Saturday, but when followed up these reports amount to nothing. No reward for the capture of the murderer has as yet been offered by the government.

TAR AND FEATHERS.

The Interesting Pastime of Marion Townsfolk.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 6.—The town of Marion was thrown into a fever of excitement tonight over the tarring and feathering of James McDonald, who has lived in town for several months, as an inmate of the family of C. F. Potter. McDonald is said to belong in Boston, where he was a bar tender.

The neighbors objected to McDonald's position in the Potter household. The townspeople tonight carried him into the woods back of the town, stripped him and gave him a coat of tar and feathers. Then they rode him on a rail through the centre of the town to the Matapoiset line where, after administering a severe thrashing they turned him loose. All the members of the tarring and feathering party were masked.

BARKIS IS WILLIN'.

Bryan if Asked Will Not Reveal the Marble Heart.

DESMOINES, I. A., Aug. 6.—A special from Mason City says: "William J. Bryan addressed an audience of over 2,000 persons at the Clear Lake Assembly today. He was asked if he had been correctly quoted when it was reported he refused to again be a candidate for president. He replied that only a part of the interview was used. He said he was not a candidate in the light of seeking again to lead the democratic party, but if the party should decide he was the proper man to head the ticket he could not honorably say 'no.'"

"He said he believed the money issue is still prominent, but that the republican administration in the Philippines and the trust problem are sufficient issues to make a campaign upon."

ST. JOHN CAPITALISTS

SYDNEY, Cape Breton, Aug. 6.—J. Allison, James Manchester, B. C. Elkin, A. H. Hanington and J. DeWolfe Spurr, a delegation of the directors of the Portland Rolling Mills and the Maritime Nail Works of St. John, arrived in town tonight, and afterwards had a conference with a committee of the town council respecting the proposed establishment of those industries in Sydney. The conference had no definite outcome, and a further one will be held tomorrow, when the delegation will be shown several sites, from which a selection may be made. In an interview with the Sun one of the directors stated the works would employ 350 men and would require eight acres of land. He said they would prefer having these near the line of railway. The company now pay about three thousand dollars in wages and salaries.

AMHERST NEWS.

AMHERST, N. S., Aug. 6.—Joseph Parsons, one of the oldest colored residents of Amherst, hung himself in his son's barn on the Highlands, this afternoon. He was over eighty years of age and had lived in the town nearly all his life. He helped in 1842 to erect Christ church, the oldest public building in Amherst. The cause of the tragedy is supposed to have been Cerepency, as deceased has lately appeared much depressed by his inability to provide for his own livelihood. He had thrown a chain over a beam in the roof of the barn and fastened a rope to it, which he leaped around his neck, after which he leaped off the hay mow. His body was found shortly after five o'clock. An inquest was held this evening by the stipendiary magistrate in the absence of a qualified coroner. The jury brought in a verdict in accordance with the facts.

OLD HOME WEEK.

Down in Portland the other day the people entertained the Maine old home week delegation. This idea of regular excursions to the old home state and the various homesteads has grown in size and popularity and bids fair to become a permanent institution.

THE TEMPERANCE SHERIFF.

The death of Rev. Samuel F. Pearson, sheriff of Cumberland County, Maine, removes an interesting figure in the politics of that state. Strongly imbued with temperance principles, he believed that a prohibitory law would prohibit, provided suitable officers were appointed to enforce the law.

THE END OF TRACY.

The tragic death of Tracy the convict murderer and outlaw, completes a life of crime. His deeds have been bold and daring, and partly on that account he often eluded capture and terrorized entire neighborhoods.

The appointment of the Earl of March as lord lieutenant of Ireland dissipates the hopes of the Vanderbilts and some of their American friends that the Duke of Marlborough, whose circumstances became more comfortable after marrying into the family, would receive the office.

The matter of holding band concerts in the Ottawa parks on Sunday has been up for discussion by the park commissioners of that city. One of the members gave it as his opinion that there was a little reason to object to a band giving a concert on Sunday as to oppose an out door meeting of the Salvation Army.

OUTLAW TRACY.

Relic Hunters Leave Nothing But the Body.

The Story of His Last Fight and Its Tragic Sequel.

SPOKANE, Washn., Aug. 6.—Harry Tracy, the notorious outlaw, lies dead in Davenport. Sheriff's posse and others are disputing the ownership of his body.

For two days Tracy had terrorized the occupants of the Eddy ranch in the Lake Creek country. Then five determined citizens of Creston went after him. The posse found cover behind a large rock and for a while it looked like a siege. Then Tracy broke for a large boulder on the edge of a small wheat field, and this dash was his undoing, for just as he came to the rock he fell forward, a rifle bullet having broken one leg.

None of the posse was wounded, though all of them had narrow escapes. When they were firing from the cover of their rock they had to lift their heads above the cover, and every time this was done Tracy's rifle rang out and a bullet tipped the rock.

SPOKANE, Washn., Aug. 6.—After baffling the officers of two states, after a wonderful flight of nearly 400 miles across Oregon and Washington, Tracy was hunted down by four citizens of the little farming town of Creston and a lone deputy sheriff, Sheriff Gardner and posse arrived in time to guard the wheat field through the night, but the work had already been done. The posse that will share the reward was made up as follows: C. A. Siraub, deputy sheriff; Dr. E. C. Lanter, Maurice Smith; attorney; J. J. Morrison, railway section foreman, and Frank Eitenga.

Those men, armed to the teeth, set out from Creston yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. They were working on the information of a Goldfinch youth who had been forcibly made the companion of the Oregon convict for over 24 hours at the ranch of T. B. Eddy, on Lake Creek, about three miles south from Fellows station on the Washington Central Railway. The party made all possible haste in getting to the ranch. When within a few hundred yards of the farm they encountered farmer Eddy mowing in one of his fields. While engaging him in conversation they saw a man issuing from the barn door.

"Is that Tracy?" asked one of the party. "It surely is," replied Eddy. The party separated, Lanter and Smith accompanying Eddy in the direction of the barn, while the other two men swung around to the other side. Two of the hunters stepped behind the barn on a slight eminence, from which they could watch everything that went on, and Eddy continued on up to the door. Tracy came from the barn and began helping his host hitch the horses. He carried no rifle, although he had his revolver in place.

The fugitive finally saw the men carrying rifles and turned sharply to Eddy and said: "Who are those men?" "I don't see any men," said Eddy. "The rifle pointed over the two men on the hill," Eddy informed the convict, "and the men were, and the outlaw made a leap for the barn door. The pursuers stepping a bit closer commanded, "Hold up your hands."

The outlaw jumped behind Eddy and fast placed the farmer and his posse in a predicament. Eddy, who commanded the farmer to lead his horse to the barn and remain under cover, moving toward shelter. When near the stable he broke and dashed inside. He quickly reappeared, rifle in hand, and started on a dead run. Turning on the two men nearest him the desperado fired two shots, but without his usual luck, neither bullet taking effect. Without waiting for further fighting Tracy made a dash down the valley leading south from the barn and headed for the brush.

In an instant the man hunters were off in pursuit, firing as they ran. Coming to a rock Tracy dodged behind it and resting his gun on the rock began a fusillade. Eight shots in all were fired by the outlaw, not one hitting its mark. Seeing that he was not succeeding, he bolted for a wheat field close by. At the edge of the field he stumbled, falling on his face and crawled into the grain on his hands and knees.

It was growing dark, and the pursuers not daring to move in closer, decided to surround the place and wait for daylight. In the meantime Sheriff Gardner with Policemen Stauffer and Gerner of Spokane, Jask O'Farrell of Davenport and other reinforcements had arrived on the scene, and they went into camp around the field during the night.

Shortly after Tracy disappeared a shot was heard from the direction of the wheat field. No investigation was made, however, until this morning, as soon as dawn came an entrance was made into the wheat field. Tracy's dead body was found lying amid the grain with his face turned toward the sky. His left hand thrown over his head held a revolver, which had inflicted the death wound. The thumb of his hand was on the trigger of the pistol. His right hand, thrown across the lower part of his body, firmly grasped the barrel of the famous revolver. Death was inflicted by a revolver held close to the forehead. The top of his head was badly shattered.

Two bullet wounds on the left leg showed the cause of the man's despondency. One shot had broken the leg between the ankle and the knee. The other cut the tibial artery, which would have been sufficient to cause death.

It is believed that in those wounds were received after the convict left the shelter of the rock and made his break for the wheat field. The fugitive had taken a strap and buckled it tight around his leg in an attempt to stop the bleeding. Despite the tightly fastened strap, the bleeding continued until he probably realized his hopeless condition and ended the struggle.

He was dressed in blue overalls, a white shirt, and wore no coat or vest. He wore a bicycle cap and a pair of rough shoes. He had one rifle and two revolvers.

SPOKANE, Wn., Aug. 7.—When the sheriff with the body of Tracy drove through Davenport hundreds of persons crowded about the wagon. By the time the wagon reached Stone's morgue the streets were crowded and from every corner could be heard "Three shouts for Lincoln County." The town was wild. The morgue doors had to be closed and the crowd was asked to stand back. Several persons were allowed to see the body and then trouble began. Every one wanted a relic, and in a short time nothing was left but the body. Some one even picked up the blood-stained handkerchief which had been used by Tracy to keep from bleeding to death. Many locks of the desperado's hair were carried away, and in some places his head had been made bald. His trousers were cut into strips, and before they were divided they were cut into smaller pieces.

VETERANS WILL PARADE.

South African Soldiers Decide to Take Part in Coronation Celebration.

A number of soldiers from the various South African contingents met last night in Currie's Business College to decide what part they should take in the celebration of Coronation Day. It was decided that all who can possibly arrange to do so should parade on foot, each equipped with their own uniform.

A committee composed of Messrs. Donohoe, Raymond, McLeod, Simpson and Walsh was appointed to arrange with the River Park committee what part the veterans should take in the ceremony of laying the corner stone of the monument and to see Lt. Col. Jones with reference to their position in the parade.

WOOL AND THE MILLS.

Where New Brunswick Sheep Raisers Make a Mistake.

John Turnbull, of Montreal, the managing director of the Paton Manufacturing Co., of Sherbrooke, Que., who came to the city yesterday is registered at the Royal hotel and the Star took advantage of his being here to make inquiries regarding the woolen industry, and particularly in regard to the classes of wool used in the Paton mills. Mr. Turnbull stated that the demand was much larger for worsted goods than for the old fashioned tweeds, but while this was the case, farmers of this province made a serious mistake in adhering to the plan of tub-washing their wool.

While there was no class of wool in the world better suited for the manufacture of certain grades of worsted yarn and of worsted piece goods, the extent to which the wool of this province is used by the Paton mill is greatly reduced, and preference given to unwashed and fleece-washed wool from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

The wool of this province is quite equal to that of the other provinces but in the process of tub-washing it becomes tangled up and rendered incapable of sorting with that evenness of fibre which is essential to perfect worsted in the process of combing and drawing.

Worst manufacturing is a comparatively new industry in Canada and has been largely extended within the last few years, and if the farmers of this province will only discontinue the tub-washing process, which did well enough when only tweeds were manufactured in Canada, and sell their wool either in the greasy state or fleece-washed, they will undoubtedly find an increasing market.

Mr. Turnbull stated that the Paton mills are the largest in Canada and use hundreds of thousands of pounds annually. He gave an interesting description of the treatment of wool and pointed out with especial care that all manufacturers desire most of all to avoid the tangling of wool, as this is detrimental to the perfect weaving of goods.

A YACHTING PARTY

That Discussed Serious Matters With Much Interest.

Yesterday afternoon Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. McLean entertained a party of friends on the steam yacht Dream. Those present were Chief Justice and Mrs. Tuck, Judge McLeod, Robert Melghen, Mrs. Melghen and Miss Melghen, Montreal; John Turnbull and Mrs. Edw. Turnbull, Montreal; Major and Mrs. Edwards, James Osborne, at Southport, Osborne, Major and Mrs. Sturdee, Miss and Master McLean.

The yacht cruised about the inlets of the river going as far up as the Cedars. During the afternoon luncheon was served on the boat and a number of toasts of a social and commercial nature were proposed. The talk started in a joking manner but resolved itself with a serious discussion. It is to be regretted that what was said could not have been heard by representatives of the commerce of New Brunswick. Mr. Melghen, who is president of the N. B. Southern Railway and also of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co., spoke on the Northwest and the importance of the modifying of the family methods in New Brunswick, and the paying of attention to dairying and stock raising. The hope was expressed that Mr. Melghen might address the board of trade.

C., announces that he will be a candidate. He says he will not at present offer any criticism of either the government or opposition, but declares himself a staunch friend of the laboring man and heartily in accord with their movement to secure a representative in the legislature.

E. J. Murphy states that he will be a candidate in St. John county, in the interest of labor. Mr. Murphy is the superintendent of the famous government road machine, of which so much has been written.

A SUMMER RESORT.

Gets a Black Eye For the Balance of This Season.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 6.—The summer colony at Peak's Island, one of the principal summer resorts in Portland harbor, was thrown into a state of excitement today when it became known that one of the guests at the hotel Coronado was suffering with smallpox and that a strict quarantine had been placed upon the house by the local board of health. Tonight, however, in the light of later developments, the quarantine was raised, as it was recognized that the situation was far less serious than at first thought. Several physicians were at the island tonight and vaccination was general.

The victim is Mrs. H. F. Tarrant, of New York, who came to Portland last Saturday. She had been visiting at Cambridge, Mass., previous to coming here, and it is thought she may have contracted the disease in that city. She was ill when she arrived here, and has been confined to her room ever since. Tonight Mrs. Tarrant was removed to the isolation hospital, and after the residents of the hotel had been vaccinated the quarantine was raised.

Dr. Leighton stated that in his opinion there is slight danger of a spread of the disease. Although the house was filled with guests, he said, nobody with the exception of the physician was exposed.

And Thirty-Nine Injured in Railway Accident.

Killed—Engineer Dennis Markress, fast freight train; nine workmen on the construction train. Seriously and possibly fatally injured—Fireman William Thorp, fast freight; eight workmen on construction train. Injured—Thirty construction train workmen now at Collins.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—Eastern states and northern New York—Local rain late tonight and Friday; winds shifting to fresh southwest.

Y. M. C. A. WORK.

The directors of the Y. M. C. A. will hold a meeting tonight at which the plans of the fall and winter work will be discussed. It is probable that during the coming season several new branches of work will be started and greater attention paid to some of the present branches. The reading room is now in a fairly satisfactory condition and the gymnasium is, in itself all right. But one thing needed in the gymnasium is a proper place for bathing. At present the facilities for this are poor, and the bathrooms situated away down in the basement.

Another suggestion which has been made and which it is expected will receive consideration is that of furnishing meals, especially supper, for members of the association. It is believed that this could be managed all right and that it would serve to make the association far more popular than at present.

The opening of a mid-week service has also been suggested.

REFRESHMENTS AND SOUVENIRS

The Memorial Park committee wish to say that at the celebration on Coronation Day there will be refreshments, lemonade, ice cream, coffee, etc., for sale on the grounds; also souvenir cups, pots of flowers and articles made by the ladies of the Old Ladies' Home, and they hope no one will visit the park without spending a little money for the monument.
