Germans Rolled Back Across Matz By Hard Fighting Poilus

AMERICANS BREAK FURIOUS ASSAULTS ALONG MARNE

NO 3. HOSPITAL BOMBED AGAIN BY HUNS; STAFF BURIED IN ITS RUINS

Midnight Raid by German Aviators Destroys the Main Building of Hospital Unit—Patients All Escaped.

No. 3 Canadian Stationary Hospital, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Clifford Reason, D.S.O., of this city, has again been subjected to aerial bombardments by Hun aviators. A press cable from England, received in Canada on Wednesday, announced that it had again been bombed, this time in the middle of the night.

The previous raid, which brought death of three London non-commissioned officers: Sergt.-Major Charles Ward Sergt. Robert Wallace and Sergt. Gordon Wiley, as well as to Nursing Sister Mary Baldwin, a graduate of Victoria Hospital, occurred during the middle of the day.

Buried in Ruins.

The cabled report says:

London, June 11.—The Canadian Stationary Hospital under Col. Reason, after coming through the German's preliminary offensive and handling over 30,000 patients, was last week bombed from the air in the middle of the night. The main building was struck close to the main stairway, and burst into flames. Sisters Pringle, McPherson, and Baldwin, and ten officer surgeons of the operating staff, were buried in the ruins. Sisters M. Hodge and E. G. Thompson in the adjacent wards, removed all the patients and remained on duty. Miss Thompson escaping with scratches. Sister Walker led the patients out over the debris. The other sisters on duty were Misses Potter, Gleeson, Sutherland, McLeish, McDougall, Kennedy, Chisholm, and W. W. McPherson. The entire building was gutted.

The condition of Sister Lowe, wounded in another raided hospital is still critical. Most of the sisters in these recent ordeals received leave, although they expressed their readiness to remain.

Another Raid.

The fact that Nursing Sister Baldwin is listed as one of those buried in the ruins, and that a Nursing Sister Baldwin, attached to No. 3, had been reported killed in the previous raid, created some belief that the raid referred to in the dispatch was that of May 30. The difference, however, in the time makes this seem utterly impossible. Further than this, private advices received in London confirm the press dispatch that there was a second raid.

No casualties are referred to in the press dispatch from England, and at least four were killed and possibly twice as many wounded in the previous affair.

Londoners Anxious.

The continued bombing of British and Allied hospitals by the German aviators, and the baptism of shell fire through which No. 3 Hospital passed before the air raids themselves, have created great anxiety here for the personnel of No. 3 is, practically speaking, entirely London and Western Ontario officers, men and nurses. The unit and its subsequent reinforcements were recruited and mobilized in this city.

Sergeants Quarters Hit.

From the casualty reports which followed the bombing of No. 3 Hospital on May 30, it would appear that the German aviators' bombs struck the quarters or mess of the non-commissioned officers, for the three Londoners killed and four others who were subsequently reported as wounded, were all n. c. o.'s. Nursing Sister Baldwin was the only one of the staff to be killed. Previously, however, one of the medical officers of the unit had met death in action.

The n. c. o.'s who were reported wounded on May 30 were: Sergt. Dispenser Harry C. Kellar of Chatham, and Sergts. Harry Tozer, D. Osborne, Lloyd Orr and Arthur Smith of this city.

NATIVE WINES OF PROVINCE ESCAPE NEW BOOZE RULE

Prohibition Orders Are Further Amended by Govt.

Ottawa, June 13.—Prohibition orders have been further amended in regard to Ontario native wines. As the order-in-council providing for prohibition stood, it enacted that "no person after the first day of April, 1918, shall send, take, transport into or deliver in any prohibited area any intoxicating liquor or cause any intoxicating liquor to be so sent, transported or delivered."

By order-in-council passed on the recommendation of the minister of justice this regulation is now amended by the addition to it of the words: "providing that this regulation shall not apply to the sending, taking, transporting or delivering of native wines in the province of Ontario.

NEW TRIAL IS ORDERED FOR REV. DR. KNOWLES

Windsor, June 13.—The court of appeals, the highest ecclesiastical court of the Methodist Conference, has ordered a new trial in the case of Rev. Dr. Knowles of Petrolea, against whom charges bordering on heresy were preferred. This action was taken on the ground that the recent proceedings taken by the board of arbitration were considered irregular. It is charged by prominent members of the conference that Rev. Dr. Knowles was pointing towards Unitarianism and had become imbued with New Thought doctrines.

GERMANS STARVING

Paris, June 13 (Havas Agency).—Germany, although attacking on the western front, is starving, says the Echo de Paris. An article appearing in the Berlin Arbeiter Zeitung relates the details of six children starving to death in an orphanage at Zenefort, Thuringia. The orphanage was found to have been ransacked by its starving inmates, and physicians who visited the place found several of the children sheer skeletons.

Professor Franz E. Hein, the widely-known economist, writing in the Dayerischer Zeitung of Munich, warns the Germans that the coming weeks will be harder than any that have passed, and professes to foresee a general paralysis in the supply of wheat.

BULK OF HUNS ON RUSS LINES ORDERED WEST

Troops Will Be Rushed at Once To Throw Into the Struggle.

London, June 13.—Germany is about to withdraw the bulk of her troops now in Russia for service on the western front, according to Maxim Gorky's newspaper, the Petrograd Novaia Zhizn, quoted by the Daily News correspondent at Stockholm.

The Novaia Zhizn claims to give the text of a dispatch sent by Gen. Falkenhayn, former chief of the German general staff, which it says was intercepted, in which Gen. Falkenhayn declares that the battles on the western front are critical and decisive, but that in order to insure definite victory and the end of the war, the concentration of enormous forces will be necessary.

"In view of the fact that our troops on the Russian and Ukraine fronts have attained their objects," the dispatch continues, "and are now resting, the emperor has instructed the general staff to take measures for the transportation to France of the majority of the German forces in White Russia, Ukraine and Great Russia, leaving there only small detachments necessary to maintain order."

The transportation, according to the quoted message, was to be effected within seven days. Strong measures were to be taken against possible interference by employees of the Russian railways with the troop movements.

TURKS SIGN TREATY WITH CAUCASIANS

Peace Pact Arranged Which Ends Mountain Campaign.

Amsterdam, June 13—A peace treaty has been signed between Turkey and the Transcaucasus Government, says a telegram from Constantinople.

Previous to the signing of the Brest-Litovsk treaty between Russia and the Central Powers, which ceded the provinces of Kars, Batum and Erivan to Turkey, a separate government had been formed in the transcaucasus region with a capital at Tiflis. After the Brest-Litovsk treaty Turkey proposed a separate peace to the Caucasian Government, and it was announced that Turkey would recognize an autonomous government in the Caucasus. Peace negotiations were begun early in May, but simultaneously the Turks began an advance into the territories claimed under the Brest-Litovsk treaty Batum, Van and other cities were occupied and thousands of Armenians were massacred. Peace negotiations were then broken off for several weeks, owing to the Caucasus Government's refusal to permit Turkish troops passage to Persia, and to cede the city of Novo-Rossysk, on the Black Sea coast. Apparently the differences were settled and the negotiations carried to completion.

SARNIA TUG LOST, BUT CREW IS SAFE

Salvor Goes Down in Tuesday's Storm On Huron.

Sarnia, June 13.—Capt. Bolt Reid of Reid Wrecking Company received word today that the company's tug Salvor had been sunk in a storm Tuesday in the Bay of Manitoba. The ten members of the crew were saved. The Salvor had gone to Big Inlet for a timber raft.

REVOLUTIONARY PLOT DISCLOSED AT MOSCOW

Moscow, May 30.—In connection with the discovery of a revolutionary plot, notices were posted in the city ordering all the inhabitants to register themselves again with the authorities, under penalty of imprisonment or a heavy fine. It was further ordered that licenses for the possession of firearms must be renewed, under penalty of death for violation.

ADVERTISER BOY IN R. A. F. HIT BY GERMAN GUNFIRE

Flight-Lieut. William Hunter, Jr., Severely Wounded, Announces Cable.

HAD SEEN HOT FIGHTS

First Real Scrap Occurred a Month After He Reached France, He Wrote.

Second Lieut. William Hunter Jun., of the Royal Air Force, son of William Hunter, foreman of The Advertiser Job Printing Company, and a former Advertiser employee, is now in No. 5 British Red Cross Hospital, Wimereux, suffering from severe gunshot wounds in the thigh.

The first news of his wounding was received in a cable message to his father on Wednesday night, announcing that he had been wounded on June 9. This was supplemented this morning by the news that he was in the Wimereux hospital, and that his wounds were severe.

The young flying officer has been in France since April 17. His younger brother, Second Lieut. Ivan Hunter, and another former Advertiser employee, is now serving with the R. A. F. there.

Baited by Huns.

A letter received on Monday of this week from the flying officer now reported wounded describes his first real fight with the Germans, and refers to a trap set by the enemy aviators. It follows:

"I had my first real scrap on the 17th, just one month exactly from the time I left England. I'll tell you about it. It was some excitement. I just got my own 'bus and permanent place in the flight some ten days ago, and as the 'bus is a new one it takes some time for it to run smoothly. I made the trip over to Pritzy and had to help chase some of their greasy devils last Wednesday and Thursday. Every time I got into her something went wrong, guns the first time, and my engine the second. At any rate, I could not get away at all on Thursday. On Friday she went like a top and purred away to your heart's content.

"About ten of us started out, and by the time we got to the lines four of them came back with engine trouble. Well, we paraded all over Hunland for a good hour and a half before we spotted a solitary Hun; then we spotted four of the devils below us. Down we went, 200 miles an hour. For some reason or other our flight commander did not get all the way. He pulled up after 3,000 feet, and that left us at 14,000

COUNCIL OF WOMEN THANKS PARLIAMENT FOR FRANCHISE ACT

Brantford Convention Jubilates Over Securing Vote.

Brantford, Ont., June 13.—The announcement from Sir George Foster at Ottawa that the Senate had passed the national franchise act was read out at the general session of the National Council of Women this morning, and was received with jubilation. A vote of thanks to both Houses was immediately put through. At a meeting of the executive previous to the opening of the general session, on the discussion as to the changes proposed in the constitution, numerous members of the executive complained that the questionnaire had not been sent out in time. They had reached the members but eight weeks before the national council met. Three months should have been allowed. Mrs. McWilliams will read the report on the changes at the general session.

At the general session authorization for the publication of "Legal Status" by Mrs. Edwards, provincial vice-president for Alberta, was given.

The local council introduced a resolution calling for an amendment to the Ontario municipal act, making the provision for the qualification for board of education the same as for municipal council. At present men could live within two miles of the city, but women must be residents of the city.

A third resolution presented by the Brantford council was that a widow's income should be exempted, as is now exempt in the case of the male head of a household. A man is now exempted up to $1,500 earned income. Mrs. S. W. Secord pointed out that while a man earned his income was thus exempt, as soon as his earning days were over all above $600 was taxed.

Mrs. Heustis opposed it on the ground that this tax gave women the right to vote in municipal elections.

GERMANS GRABBING MORE OF UKRAINE

Russ Govt. Protests Against Crossing of Demarkation Line.

London, June 13.—The Germans in the Ukraine began a new movement eastward on June 10, according to a Russian Government wireless dispatch. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin has instructed Ambassador Joffe at Berlin to complain about the movement which is on a width of one hundred versts on the Valuiki-Zpukovka station front, south of Moscow. It is charged that the movement is in violation of line of demarkation agreed upon by the German Government. The Germans are asked to retire to their old positions.

AMERICANS LIKELY CENTRE OF DRAMATIC AND STARTLING NEW TURN OF GREAT BATTLE

London, June 13.—The American army is prepared, if necessary, to make greater sacrifices than that involved in the brigading of American troops with the French and British, declares the correspondent of the Daily Mail with the American forces in France.

After recording constantly and deeply expressed regrets among the American troops that more trained Americans have not been available to assist the French, and the willingness of the Americans to sacrifice themselves if need be, the correspondent says: "This is the spirit of the whole army. I have already seen how the President, with ever readiness, fell in with the Allied desires to brigade American troops with the French and British. This was a great sacrifice, greater perhaps than most people imagine, but I understand that if the events of the next few days and the plans of the Allies should so demand, the United States is prepared for an even much greater sacrifice, and of a character much more dramatic and startling.

"I cannot give details and the necessity may by good fortune never arise, but whatever happens the Allies will always carry a feeling of gratitude for the magnificent spirit with which the United States is playing her part in the war."

FURTHER TROUBLE IN ASSEMBLY OVER DR. SHEARER'S MOVE

Debate Again Heated in the Morning Session of Presbyterian Convention — No Successor To Be Named Yet.

The remnant of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, left to wind up business, today decided not to appoint a successor to Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer as superintendent of the department of social service and evangelism of the church until the whole situation has been thoroughly considered by a strong committee to be appointed by the assembly to confer with the board of home missions and social service.

This was the decision reached this forenoon, following the acceptance of the report presented by the special committee on Wednesday afternoon, and a discussion characterized by the plain speaking that marked the sederunts of Wednesday.

After the formal acceptance of the resignation of Dr. Shearer and features associated therewith had been passed upon by the assembly, Rev. W. R. McIntosh brought up the matter of a successor to Dr. Shearer. He was of the opinion the assembly should take action in the matter in view of the pressing problems of the present and future to be faced in Canada. While fully appreciating the ability and place filled by Dr. Shearer, he wanted to know if it was to be assumed that now that Dr. Shearer is gone, no other man in the church can be found for the office.

Names Rev. Mr. MacGregor.

Rev. Girard Graham of Elmwood took the opportunity at this point to name on the floor of the assembly the only name mentioned in any way during the discussion with the successorship. He moved that Rev. D. C. MacGregor, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, this city, be considered for the superintendency of home missions and social service.

Rev. Dr. John Neil, ex-moderator, took the view that it would be unwise to take any action at the present time. The situation, he pointed out, is bristling with difficulties and before final adjustment can be made, in the interests of the future of the social service department, most careful consideration should be given before taking any action.

On motion of Rev. George Miller of St. Marys, seconded by James Rodgers of Westmount, and supported by Rev. Dr. Nelson of Hamilton, it was decided to appoint a strong committee of men to confer with the board of home missions and social service.

Gives Him Place on Board.

As the secretary of the special committee, who presented the report on Dr. Shearer on Wednesday afternoon, President Murray of Saskatchewan University moved that in connection with the acceptance of the resignation of Dr. Shearer, that the date on which it becomes effective be fixed for August 31, thus tendering him three weeks' or a month's holidays as a slight recognition of his work and the esteem in which he is held. It was further moved that Dr. Shearer's name should be placed on the board of home missions and social service from which he would otherwise be severed by his resignation as an official of the church. Further, the assembly made a ruling that his name be retained on the constituent roll of the Kootenay Presbytery on which it appears at the present time.

The resolution expressive of the deep regret of the assembly over losing to the church the services in the capacity of superintendent of social service and evangelism of Dr. Shearer, and appreciation of his "great ability, tireless energy, deep interest in the church and splendid achievements" along social service lines in connection with the church, was moved by Rev.

ATTACKS GOVT. FOR TREATMENT OF CAN. PACIFIC

C. M. A. Official Charges System Is Being Too Heavily Taxed.

Montreal, June 13.—The Federal Government has treated the Canadian Pacific Railway in an iniquitous manner by its railroad policy, James A. Riordan of Toronto, chairman of the transportation committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, stated at that organization's convention, continued in the Windsor Hotel this morning. Mr. Riordan made his statement while presenting the transportation committee's reports.

Mr. Riordan followed up the contention of claiming the Government now has two railway cripples on its hands, and is doing all that is possible to create a third, by levying heavy taxes upon the Canadian Pacific Railway at a time when it is difficult and costly to get the supplies it needs. The Government was attempting to turn an asset into a liability.

The committee's report dealing with the railroad situation, said the Government's order-in-council imposing special taxation on the C. P. R. after the 15 per cent freight rate increase was granted by the Dominion Railway Commission, deprived that railroad of any improved revenue that might result from the increase in rates.

Appreciation was expressed for the determination of the Government to build a Canadian merchant marine.

The railways were praised for the substantial economies put into force.

GERMAN TOBACCO WORSE THAN GAS

Amsterdam, June 13.—The tobacco substitute supplied to the German army has proved more injurious than enemy gas attacks, Deputy Mueller of Meiningen declared in the Reichstag on Tuesday. Other deputies sharply criticised the army administration for supplying the army with the substitute, which is composed of beech leaves, says the Koelnische Zeitung.

On behalf of the army administration, Gen. von Oven admitted that the substitute had been adopted reluctantly after careful tests, but said its further delivery had been stopped when it had proved to have a harmful effect on the health of the troops.

FOCH STRIKES HEAVY BLOW AGAINST EASTERN WING OF GERMAN DRIVE; SAMMIES CRUMPLE RUSH

THE WAR SITUATION

German progress along the Oise River is being counter-balanced by French gains on the western wing of the battle front, which now has been extended to northeast of Villers-Cotterets. The heaviest fighting is taking place along the line from Rubescourt to the junction of the Matz and the Oise, with the French having the advantage on most of the sector.

From Rubescourt to Dommiers is almost fifty miles, but in the centre, between the Oise and the Aisne Rivers, where the French have retired to a new line through Bailly, Tracy-le-Val and Nampcel, there has been no fighting, the French withdrawal having been carried out unobserved. The struggle northeast of Villers-Cotterets, where the Germans apparently are attempting to force a passageway between the natural defences of the Retz Forest and the Forest of Compiegne, has not yet developed the great bitterness of the battle west of the Oise.

Gains at One Point.

Although the enemy keeps up his desperate struggles west of the Oise, he has been unable to gain except at the junction of the Oise and the Matz, where he has crossed to the southern bank of the Matz and occupied Melicocq, about five miles north of Compiegne. In the centre, around Antheuil, all German attempts have been broken up.

On the left the French have gained additional ground, desbite strong German counter-attacks, between Belloy and St. Maur, and have taken 400 additional prisons. The fighting along this front continues to be of the most sanguinary character. No engagements have yet developed along the new French line east of the Oise. The French retirement was made necessary because the German guns dominated the forests south and east of the Oise. The French line now lies in front of the Forest of Laigue, which is immediately north of the Forest of Compiegne.

At Close Quarters.

South of the Aisne the Germans have made some progress on the plateau west of Dommiers and Cutry. The French troops, in hand-to-hand fighting, repulsed the enemy efforts north of Cutry and immediately south of Dommiers. Southeast of Villers-Cotterets the French along the Clignon River have captured Mountcourt and the southern part of Bussaires.

On the Flanders battlefield the French have carried out raids in the region of Locre. The American sectors have been quiet. In Picardy, German prisoners have been taken by American patrols, while northwest of Toul the artillery fire continues strong.

German headquarters, in reporting Tuesday's fighting, says that all French efforts on the left wing were repulsed with heavy losses. As to the clearing out of Belleau Wood, northwest of Chateau Thierry, by American marines, with the capture of more than 300 prisoners, Berlin officially says: "Assaults broke down with sanguinary losses."

SAMMIES CLEAN OUT WOOD AND CAPTURE FOUR HUNDRED HUNS

Barrage Cuts Off Foe's Escape When Marines Rushed.

With the American Army in France, June 13.—The excellence of the American artillery fire was largely responsible for the capture by the marines of approximately 400 prisoners in the fighting which resulted in the clearing out of the Belleau Wood, northwest of Chateau Thierry.

The Germans, who had been told to avoid capture because the Americans would torture them, started to run after the machine gunners had made the wood untenable, but the artillery barrage was so heavy that the Germans were cut off from escape.

Among the prisoners are six officers, a major, a captain and four lieutenants. All were poorly clad and some had pieces of bread tied to their uniforms with string. The prisoners said they were glad to be captured. All of Germany's plans, they added, called for ending the war next fall.

The scarcity of officers in the German army is shown by the fact that one of the prisoners, a first sergeant, commanded a company. He said this was a common thing now. Comparative quiet prevailed along the Marne sector today.

NEW VAST CREDIT WILL BE REQUEST OF LAW

London, June 13.—In the House of Commons on Tuesday next Andrew Bonar Law, the chancellor of the exchequer, is expected to move a war appropriation of £500,000,000, making the total appropriations since the beginning of the war £7,342,000,000.

BOLSHEVIK MINISTER TO UNITED STATES?

London, June 13.—It is reported in Copenhagen, says a Daily Mail dispatch from that city, that M. Borovsky Odovsky, the Bolshevik minister to Sweden, is to go to Washington as Bolshevik ambassador to the United States. The minister is now in Berlin.

Allied Forces Make Telling Counter-Attacks, French Compelling the Retirement From Points Won By Enemy Wednesday At Great Cost While the Americans Break Up Furious Attacks On Marne Front —Successful Daylight Raid By the British.

Paris, June 13.—French troops last night struck a heavy blow against the German forces which have been advancing on the eastern wing of the new front of attack. The war office announced today that the French had hurled back the enemy to the north bank of the Matz River.

Violent combats continue between the Aisne River and the Villers-Cotterets Forest. The Germans have progressed as far as the ravine east of Labersine, north of Cutry.

ATTACKED AMERICANS.

The Germans last night made a violent attack on the American sector between Bouresches and Belleau Wood, on the Marne front. The Americans broke up the attacks and inflicted serious losses on the enemy, holding the gains which they had made.

After violent fighting the enemy obtained a foothold in Coeuvres and St. Pierre-Haigle.

FRENCH CONSOLIDATING.

The text of the statement reads:

"During last night the Germans did not renew their attacks between Montdidier and the region of Antheuil. The French troops are consolidating their positions there. On the right wing of this battlefield the French, by a counter-attack, hurled the enemy back to the north bank of the Matz River.

"East of the Oise, the French have occupied their new positions on the heights of Croix Ricari and Melicoq.

"Hundreds of prisoners and many machine guns remains in the hands of the French.

VIOLENT COMBATS.

"Violent combats continue between the Aisne River and Villers-Cotterets. The Germans have made progress as far as the ravine east of La Versine.

"After violent fighting the enemy has obtained a foothold in Coeuvres and St. Pierre-Aigle.

"The Germans made a violent attack on the front between Bouresches and Belleau Wood. American troops broke up the attack and inflicted serious losses upon the enemy, holding to all the gains which they had made."

BRITISH RAID BY DAYLIGHT.

London, June 13.—"A successful daylight raid was carried out by us yesterday southeast of Arras," says today's war office report.

"Heavy casualties were inflicted upon the enemy. One hostile trench mortar was brought back to our lines, and two others were destroyed. During the night local operations were undertaken by us successfully southwest of Merris and east of Dickebusch Lake."

PUSHING DOWN MATZ VALLEY.

London, June 13.—The Germans, at severe cost, continue to push down the Matz Valley, where an abundance of small woods afford maximum protection for French machine guns and artillery, says Reuter's correspondent at French headquarters, telegraphing Wednesday. Further west the French have pursued their progress on the Mery Plateau, and have pushed the enemy of the eastern slope into the valley.

OVERLOOKS SUPPLY TRAINS.

"This position," the correspondent adds, "on which the enemy believed himself firmly established forty-eight hours ago, was of great importance to his advance on the centre, as it overlooks the Matz Valley and commands the junction of the main roads between Montdidier and Beauvraignes, through which the enemy's troops and supplies for the front in the river valley must pass. The French thus have an observation post overlooking the German centre, which must already have become a source of grave embarrassment to the enemy."

TIME WITH ALLIES.

Paris, June 13.—There was plenty of fighting yesterday, but it did not affect the general situation. As the Germans are fighting against time this result is a distinct gain to the defence.

The Germans, it is true, made slight progress on their left towards Compiegne from which, at Melicocq, they are now only five miles away, but so did the French on the other wing in the region of Mery.

As the nature of the ground around Mery provides the French with excellent gun positions behind hills, from which they can pound at short range the road by which all supplies must pass to the German centre in the thrust toward Compiegne, the French can claim an advantage on the day's operations, for they also stopped the German efforts south of the Aisne against the forest east of Villers-Cotterets.

THE GALLANT POILUS.

With the French Army in France, June 12.—Night.—The defence of Courcelles, on the left wing of the battlefront, by the French against attacks repeated day and night from June 9 to June 11, makes a wonderful story of heroism. The village, which is most important owing to its commanding position was for 48 hours almost surrounded by the enemy, but the French held on and when a favorable opportunity came sortied and counter-attacked, repulsing the Germans from the vicinity.

GERMANS BALKED.

The Germans tried every possible ruse, as well as force, to take the village. The growing crops on the fertile land in the vicinity were a source of considerable trouble to the defenders, as the Germans could creep through them until they reached the edge of the village. The enemy also covered their helmets with clumps of grass and weeds and crawled slowly forward. They could not, however, shake the determination of the French to retain possession of the village. The spirit of the offensive was so high among the Allied troops that they continued their

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN POHLMANN CASE UNTIL NEXT TUESDAY

Evidence Is Heard in Charge Against Hamilton Man.

Judgment was reserved until Tuesday next at 11:30 o'clock by Judge J. C. Judd in the case of Frank R. Pohlmann, who was tried yesterday on a charge of forgery.

The hearing of the case required from 10 o'clock in the forenoon until 6 o'clock last evening, with the exception of an hour's recess from 1 o'clock to 2 in the afternoon.

Forgery Alleged.

Pohlmann is charged with forging the name of M. M. Fergusson, a former employer, to a check for $65, which was cashed on April 22nd at the market branch of the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation.

At the opening of court in the afternoon the defence's remaining witnesses were called.

Charles Woodworth, manufacturer of automobile accessories, Niagara Falls, stated Pohlmann had called upon him in solicitation of some advertising. He was unable to place an exact date when Pohlmann had called.

Garnet Cramp, chief dispatcher for the Grand Trunk at Hamilton, produced the original sheet showing train movements out of Hamilton for Niagara Falls on Monday, April 22. Dispatcher Cramp and others were called by the defence in an effort to show that Pohlmann could not have been in London at the time stated by crown witnesses. Fred Sharpe, chief G. T. R. dispatcher at the local depot, showed from the train sheet of April 22 the times of departure of trains for Hamilton and the times that these trains arrived in Hamilton.

W. J. Warnack, trainmaster for the T., H. and B. Railway, gave from a train sheet of April 22 the times of arrival of connecting trains via C. P. R. from London and times of departure for Niagara Falls.

E. G. Killingsworth, chief dispatcher for the C. P. R. at London gave similar information with reference to movements of trains out of London for Hamilton on the day in question.

Mrs. Frank R. Pohlman, wife of the prisoner, stated that she came from Hamilton to London the day following her husband's arrest.

Two postcards dated and postmarked Niagara Falls, April 22, and addressed to Mrs. Pohlmann, were identified by her in court. She remembered that her husband was in Hamilton on Monday morning, April 22, and had left at 9 o'clock that morning, stating that he was going to Niagara Falls. The night before both had attended church and did not go to bed until late that night.

Went to Niagara.

E. G. Park, salesman at J. H. Chapman & Co.'s store, testified he had gone to Niagara Falls and visited a number of persons there.

Frank R. Pohlmann, the prisoner, took the witness stand in his own defence. He identified postal cards as written by him and posted on April 22 at Niagara Falls.

Pohlmann absolutely denied any knowledge of the check for $65. He had not forged the check and knew nothing whatever about it. Pohlmann's explanation for having pleaded guilty in police court was that he was advised to plead guilty by Detective Down. Pohlmann swore the detective had informed him that to plead guilty was the easiest way out. Pohlmann stated that he left his home in Hamilton early on Monday morning, April 22, and had arrived in Niagara Falls about noon.

Detective Harry Down was recalled, and denied having made any statements to Pohlmann in which it was suggested Pohlmann could escape punishment if he made good the $65 and pleaded guilty.

NO PROHIBITION BUT TEMPERANCE FOUND IN FRANCE

Bishop Fallon of This City Commends Sobriety of Canadian Soldiers Overseas.

SAW NO SOLDIER DRUNK

In Interview Church Dignitary Declares Stories of Drunkenness Untrue.

Bishop Fallon, head of the Roman Catholic Diocese of London, who has been overseas on a visit of inspection to the battlefront, gives the lie direct to all stories of drunkenness among Canadian soldiers.

In an interview, cabled from Old London, he says:

"Either the Canadian army took the total abstinence pledge for the period of my visit, or wholesale charges of drunkenness sometimes made against them are groundless. During my tour in France I met tens of thousands of Canadians, under all conditions, and I did not see one man under the influence of liquor. I do not say there was no drinking there. Inns and canteens show the contrary, which is the best testimony to the strength of character of our men in this regard. No prohibition, but temperance, was the condition which I found existing.

"You ask me about conditions in London. I declare at once I have seen only one soldier under the influence of liquor, but I do feel there are moral dangers, that the civil authorities might deal with more completely. I had several conversations with Canadian generals, medical officers and chaplains, on this matter, and was pleased above all to find a whole-hearted agreement amongst them as to the means of dealing with this particular problem. I think there may have been exaggeration in certain quarters, but the evil, as the most superficial student of social matters well knows, is so serious that I am glad to find the military authorities fully prepared to deal with it, and I recognize that it can only be done completely by stimulation of the moral character of every individual man."

Bishop Fallon said while in France he was invited to go into every aspect of the life of the Canadian army and was amazed at the perfection of the transportation system, and when visiting forestry units he could almost believe he was in a lumbering district in Canada.

Visiting men in billets, he found them reasonably well housed, and very well fed, and was particularly struck with the methods adopted for the prevention of sickness and the accommodation of the wounded. Canadian hospitals were model institutions, and the same may be said of the casualty clearing stations, many being within range of shell fire. Another striking feature was the care taken of the effects of those fallen; even the tiniest souvenir from the body of a dead soldier, in itself of no trinsic value, was most carefully preserved for the comfort of the bereaved widow or mother.

Finally, Bishop Fallon spoke of the wonderful impression made upon him by the absolute confidence manifested throughout the corps in Gen. Currie. The deep regard shown by all ranks for the corps commander was the most delightful recollection he brought back with him.

QUERIES REGARDING MILITARY SERVICE

Send In Your Problems and They Will Be Answered From Official Information by The Advertiser.

W. H.: Q.—1. Is the report correct that the 19 year class will not be needed to fill the 100,000 draft?
2. When will these be likely to be called?
A.—1. Not correct.
2. No information. They will not be called before July 1.

R. F. D.: Q.—A man whose occupation is farming has reported for duty under the M. S. A., and on the last examination was placed in Category C. He received leave of absence for thirty days, understanding that he was to report at the end of that time by letter to the officer commanding, asking for another leave.

In the meantime he has received an exemption certificate from W. E. Wismer, stating that he is exempted until his services are required. Being in the age for which exemptions received last fall were canceled, is the exemption certificate received since reporting satisfactory, or should he write to the O. C. for another leave?

A.—Better write to the O. C., according to instructions, before expiration of your leave. Mention in your letter that you have received an exemption certificate from the registrar.

W. J. D.: Q.—I am a widow, the mother of two children. One is a nurse in one of the recently bombed hospitals in France. The other, my son, was placed in a category lower than A-2 last November, but was re-examined in April, and is now in A-2, and notified to report June 18 in London. My son is now farming in Northern Ontario. How can he secure exemption or leave of absence?

A.—As you do not mention his being given an opportunity to place any other claims for exemption before a tribunal after he was placed in A, it is presumed here that he was under 23 at the time of claiming exemption last fall. If so, there is no exemption for him, but he may claim leave of absence on reporting to his unit on the ground of the service of other members of his family. He will need to report and apply to his officer commanding.

PELEE ISLAND: Q.—I have been living in Canada for thirteen years, and have my papers of citizenship. The Government would not allow me to vote at the last election. Can my boys be drafted?

A.—If your sons had not on polling day (December 17) attained legal age (presumably 21 years), they are entitled to exemption from combatant military service. They can be drafted for service in a non-combatant capacity.

G. A. R.: Q.—May a man of Category B enlist in the Canadian Garrison Regiment directly, or is it necessary for him to enlist in the W. O. R. first and obtain a transfer?

A.—If he comes under the M. S. A. he must go through the 1st Depot Battalion, W. O. Regiment. If he is actually a volunteer he can enlist directly in the C. G. R. He will probably be transferred by the W. O. R. without applying, as men lower than A are usually turned over to the C. G. R. He can apply to his commanding officer.

PORT STANLEY IS WIDE OPEN, DECLARE METHODIST PASTORS

Conference Asked To Assist in Stopping Violation.

WALKERVILLE, June 12.—After ten days of almost continuous work the 35th annual London Methodist Conference adjourned sine die this afternoon.

Speaking of the sessions as a whole, Rev. J. E. Holmes, of London, the newly-elected president, this evening expressed his satisfaction at the manner in which the various committees and in particular the laity have devoted themselves to the arduous task which confronted them.

"Our laymen never took such an interest as they have shown this year," he said. "There are many live questions to the front now, perhaps more than in any previous year, but our laymen are going strong and becoming more and more a power in the work of the conference. The evangelical spirit displayed has been wonderful and has been dominant throughout. With war conditions and the many demands upon our people for patriotic purposes, our finances have not only not suffered any, but are actually on the increase. We are looking forward to the coming general conference as the greatest in church history."

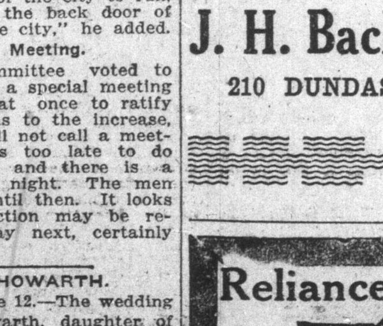

Criticizes League.

At this afternoon's session Rev. J. F. Knight of Hensall sharply criticized the manner in which the Epworth League was being conducted, declaring it was "being slowly murdered and departmentalized to death."

The report showed that the league membership had decreased by 592 within the jurisdiction while nine leagues were defunct. The debate wound up with the conference consenting to the recommendation going to the General Conference that one of the league secretaries devote his entire time to furthering the interest of the organization.

Rev. W. E. Millson of St. Thomas and Rev. C. G. Gifford of Port Stanley told of the wide-open town at Port, and asked the conference to back the Lord's Day Alliance in putting an end to this open violation of the Sabbath.

LOBO UNION PICNIC WAS HUGE SUCCESS IN SPITE OF RAIN

Splendid Program of Sports Put On Before Big Crowd.

110 RETURNED SOLDIERS

Men Well Looked After by Women of the District.

Despite disagreeable weather conditions, a large crowd gathered at Campbell's Grove, Poplar Hill, Wednesday afternoon, for the Lobo Township Union School picnic. About 110 returned soldiers from the Central Military Convalescent Hospital motored out through the courtesy of local motor owners, who loaned their cars, Messrs. J. C. Beemer and C. W. McGuire having charge of arrangements. The party left London about 2 p.m., James Gray having charge of the loading, and on arrival at Poplar Hill the returned men headed by the sports committee, paraded from the school house to the picnic grounds, where they were tendered a hearty welcome by the picnickers.

The Marconi Band, under Professor P. Venuta, of this city, was also present, and a band concert was given in a temporary grand stand. The grove and village were decorated for the occasion, and the returned men were seated on benches beneath the trees.

Good Sports Program.

A good program of sports was run off, their being some events for returned soldiers only. At the conclusion of the sports, the party sat down to lunch on the grass, and the returned boys filled up on chicken and other good things provided by the Women's Institute and ladies of the district.

A good musical program was provided by local talent, and Chris Pink rendered solos which were heartily encored. A grand concert was held in the grove last night, but the London party did not remain for this, leaving Poplar Hill at 7 p.m. with a warm spot in their hearts for the Lobo people responsible for the very successful entertainment tendered them. There were 25 cars provided by local citizens, and Ald. F. S. Harley and Ed. Lance of the Soldiers' Aid Commission looked after the boys at Poplar Hill. On Wednesday afternoon next the soldier patients at Byron Sanatorium will be taken for a trip, and those volunteering the use of their cars should notify J. C. Beemer, of this city.

THERE never was a year of plenty without pest or plague. Community gardeners are testifying to this already, and much damage is reported through bug and fly to early vegetables. This is also true of "the moth," and people who never had them to contend with before are fighting them now. We never sold so many moth balls before, and we have them in packages to store away your winter things safely. 15c package.
At Toilet Counter.

THE preserving season will be here in a few days, and we have been scouring the markets for utensils to lessen the labor. We have found wire racks to set in your boiler, holding half a dozen jars of fruit for this new process of canning. We have also found a maker of new tops for old jars. Many will need these. They are very inexpensive. New tops and new rubbers will save buying many new jars.
Basement.

THE new process of making two pounds of butter from one is made easy by the new "butter merger." This is real conservation and cuts your butter account in half. This will be shown and explained in the basement.

Some use a good strong double egg-beater. We have the right kind.
Basement.

THERE never was so many refrigerators sold before. That is what we are told. Suppose it is the campaign for conservation of food. We find most people asking for the "Glacier," one piece, lined, with no cracks, seams or crevices for food to decay in; no corners either, all rounded corners. So easy to clean and wipe out. Always sweet and fresh. The inside is cut all in one piece of porcelain, and the walls of wood are built around it. All sizes in the Basement.

THE conservation campaign is keeping the manufacturers of wax paper running overtime. People are using "Para Sana" wax paper now who never knew its use before—to keep unserved cooked foods fresh and free from flies and pests. We have handy little oak finished cabinets to fasten on the kitchen wall to hold the large rolls, which are the cheapest by far to buy. It's very inexpensive to buy this way, and will conserve dollars' worth of food—"DON'T WASTE."

70 CIVIC WORKERS TO SHARE THROUGH INCREASED WAGES

If Council Agrees, $5,950 Goes On Payroll.

NO SPECIAL MEETING

Council Will Not Meet Until Monday, Declares the Mayor.

About 70 city employees will benefit by the decision of the board of works to increase their wages 10 per cent, if the council looks at the case in the same light as did the committee.

There is a slight doubt as to this. However, it is thought that there is a safe majority in favor of the garbage men's increase, and the opinion is that they will look at the increase for others in a philosophical "what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander" manner.

Mayor C. R. Somerville says the question has got to have careful consideration. "Such an increase was not arranged for. There is nothing in the estimates that provides the money," he declared.

The exact amount involved is not known. The engineer is preparing an estimate.

There are 31 garbage men. Their increase will be 25 cents each, or a total of $7.75 a day.

40 More Included.

By extending the increase to the other laborers, 40 more will benefit. These include the street sweepers and men engaged on other works. The street cleaners get 25 cents an hour, and the others up to 30 and 31 cents an hour. Striking 27½ cents as an average the amount so involved would be $11 a day, or a total for the 71 workers of $18.75 a day, $112.50 a week, or $5,950 a year.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier states that he believes that there will be sufficient saved out of the estimates for the garbage this year to meet the increase in the cost of collection. This is a matter easily arranged, however, as the cost of collection this year will be collected in taxes next year. It just means that the ratepayers will have to pay.

Should Go On With Bids.

"While I still feel that day labor is the best method of collecting the garbage yet I believe that we should go ahead with the tenders," said Controller Moore today. "So many citizens are clamoring for letting the work by contract we ought to at least secure prices," he declared.

Controller Moore says the garbage collection has been steadily improving and he was sure that it would continue to improve. "It is going to be the hardest department of the city to run, however, as it hits the back door of every resident of the city," he added.

No Special Meeting.

While No. 2 committee voted to have the mayor call a special meeting of the city council at once to ratify committee's action as to the increase, Mayor Somerville will not call a meeting. He says it is too late to do anything this week, and there is a meeting on Monday night. The men will have to wait until then. It looks as if garbage collection may be resumed on Wednesday next, certainly not before.

Becomes General Secretary of Inter-Denominational Organization.

Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer, head of the social service work of the Presbyterian Church, has severed his connection with the church department. On Wednesday he formerly accepted the position of general secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada.

The resignation of Dr. Shearer was taken up at the afternoon session of the general assembly Wednesday at the same time that he was accepting the social service council position at a meeting of the council's executive committee held in the Confederation Life Building, Toronto.

The new position is interdenominational, as the federal council unifies the work throughout the Dominion through the provincial councils. The object is to organize a local Social Service Council in every city and town which will deal with the local matters. These will be unified through the provincial council and the efforts of the provincial bodies, the churches and other bodies doing social work through the federal council.

No Offer To Make.

At the assembly meeting here the following was presented:

"Your committee regrets exceedingly that it is unable to propose to the assembly any offer of a position in the church that would make possible the retention of Dr. Shearer's services."

Some days ago when Rev. Dr. J. G. Shearer tendered to the General Assembly his resignation as superintendent of the social service and evangelism department of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, so loath was the assembly to lose the services of so valuable an official, even to release him for the secretaryship of the Social Service Council of Canada, that a special committee was appointed to confer with the board of home missions and also with Dr. Shearer, with a view of evolving some plan for the reorganization of the department of home missions and social service in order to make for Dr. Shearer a position that might induce him to withdraw his resignation and remain with the church in its home mission and social service activities.

The statement quoted was the finding of the committee, which was reported by President Walter C. Murray of Saskatchewan University.

College Policy.

While the question of the wartime policy of the Presbyterian Church in regard to the theological colleges has been regarded as one of the weighty questions to be decided during the present session of the General Assembly, and notwithstanding the fact that it was finally passed upon by the chief court of the church Wednesday afternoon, the interest of the commissioners centred in the decision in regard to the resignation of Dr. Shearer.

Immediate protest was made by Rev. D. MacGregor against the finding of the special committee. He considered it would be a tremendous mistake on the part of the church to allow Dr. Shearer to go.

"This assembly ought to ask the question 'Why is this report made?' The church is going to ask it," said Mr. MacGregor.

Work Satisfactory.

"Why dispense with his services?" continued the speaker. "It couldn't be because his work had not been satisfactory in the past." Mr. MacGregor pointed to the long list of achievements of Dr. Shearer of national importance, from the placing of the Lord's day act on the statute books of Canada down to the present time. In view of the tremendous social questions facing the church and nation at the present time and those arising in connection with reconstruction and after-the-war problems, Mr. MacGregor declared it would be an irretrievable loss to the church and its possibilities along these lines if Dr. Shearer is allowed to go. Mr. MacGregor further pointed out that Dr. Shearer is getting results in the business of interpreting the Gospel of Jesus Christ in terms of life, namely in social service. If any possible position acceptable to Dr. Shearer could be found, this "magnificent vision and tremendous executive power" should not be lost to the church. Further, Mr. MacGregor stated that, from his standpoint, if the committee intrusted to bring in a recommendation had "used the same ingenuity in solving the problem as in connection with the college question the report would not have come in this form."

"The work of Dr. Shearer for this church is exceedingly definite and pressing," he continued, "and affects the whole policy of the church." The work of the released college professors at the present time he termed as "nebulous."

Resignation Report.

Dr. Murray not only submitted the report of the special committee re the resignation of Dr. Shearer, but successfully presented the recommendations of the board of education re the colleges.

If there is nothing wrong with Dr. Shearer's services in the past, Mr. MacGregor took the view that the assembly ought to know why such a report was presented. The policy of the board, he added, should be determined by the task to be done, and not with a view to conciliating any elements.

Dr. L. Scott of Montreal raised the question, would not Dr. Shearer's services and position be more effectual for the country as a whole as secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada. Mr. MacGregor replied that he would have a less free hand from the fact that the Social Service Council has 23 affiliations, and the only program that can be put into effect is one indorsed by all. The Presbyterian Church has led social movements in the past. He wanted to know if its progress along these lines was now to be measured by the slowest of these 23.

Dr. Murray Replies.

Dr. Murray replied to the implications contained in Mr. MacGregor's address to the assembly, that the committee had only submitted the report after most conscientious consideration of the whole situation, and after twice approaching the home mission board and Dr. Shearer. Personally, he stated, one thing he prized for himself was a reputation for fair dealing. Furthermore, in answer to an objection made by Mr. MacGregor, that the matter had been left over so late that Dr. Shearer was gone, and this was unfair, Dr. Murray replied that the fact that Dr. Shearer was obliged to be in Toronto at noon on Wednesday was only known to the committee late Tuesday night. Dr. McDougall of Montreal wanted to know if difference of opinion with influential men of the church re the social service policy had in any way influenced Dr. Shearer's resignation.

Submits Motion.

Rev. Dr. R. M. Dickie of Montreal at this point submitted a motion, which was seconded by Dr. Bryce, to the effect that the General Assembly put on record its high appreciation of the services of Dr. Shearer in the past, and request him to accept the office of secretary of home missions and social service department, as adviser of the executive, and executant of the committee's policy.

The special committee withdrew by permission during the sitting in order to reconsider the report. At the hour of adjournment Dr. Murray stated that no change in the report had been found feasible as a result of reconsideration.

Starts On July 1.

Rev. Canon Tucker of this city, president of the Social Service Council of Canada, was chairman of the executive meeting at Toronto which received Dr. Shearer's formal acceptance of his new position. The announcement was made that the new secretary would commence his duties on July 1.

The question of permanent headquarters was discussed at the meeting, but it was decided to leave it in abeyance until the next annual meeting in January; and in the meantime continue the office in Toronto. Some of those present yesterday thought the headquarters should be located in Ottawa.

Matthew Wilson, K.C., of Chatham, was appointed convener of the political purity and franchise committee, in the place of Rev. Dr. Chown.

Dr. Shearer presented a report on the state of the social service organizations throughout the Dominion. All the provinces, with the exception of Quebec, have their provincial organizations. The western provinces are well organized locally, while in Ontario and the eastern provinces the local bodies are being formed.

To Issue Magazine.

It is intended, starting this autumn, to publish a monthly magazine, to be known as "Social Welfare," which will be the official organ of the movement throughout Canada. Dr. Shearer, in addition to his other duties, will be the editor of this magazine.

CHRISTIANIZE EAST OR WAR WILL RESULT WITHIN 40 YEARS

This Is Statement to Baptist Conference.

CURSE OF HOARDING

Dollars Withheld from Church Millstones Around Children's Necks.

The crisis which the Christian church is facing in the question of foreign mission work as a result of the war was dealt with at some length by Rev. J. G. Brown at last evening's session of the Middlesex-Lambton Baptist Conference. The danger of another great world war within forty years unless the eastern countries are Christianized was pointed out by the speaker.

Dr. J. A. Gordon exemplified the comprehensiveness of the Christian ministry. The line between secular and sacred callings, is drawn by the motives with which one takes up his life work. Brief addresses were also given by Professor McKechnie of Woodstock College and Professor Wright of Western University.

Wednesday afternoon session dealt with the problems of financing the churches.

In connection with denominational education the statement was made that the meager salaries paid Baptist preachers is keeping large numbers of the finest young men of the country from entering the work. That this condition was not peculiar to the Baptists was pointed out by another delegate.

This discussion is apparently encouraged by the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec with a view to ascertaining the views of the several churches on the different phases of the work.

Took No Action.

No concrete action was taken by the delegates on the various questions under discussion. Another educational question discussed was "Why should those who have no children support our educational institutions?"

"Those who have no families ought to be made pay the largest percentage of the cost of our educational system," said one of the women delegates present. This brought a volume of applause from the audience.

Hampering Efforts.

That socialistic propaganda among the foreign population, especially the Finns, is hampering the missionary efforts of the church was stated by Rev. D. Brown.

The inefficiency of the Sunday school, owing to the lack of trained teachers, was also briefly discussed. The importance of denominational papers was emphasized by the conference.

The effect of the war on foreign missionary work was briefly touched upon. While at the beginning of the war work in India greatly decreased the final effect will be that the great sluggish masses will be aroused there, and a rich harvest will be the eventual outcome.

Other aspects of missionary work at home and abroad were dealt with briefly.

Finance Questions.

"God is not exalted so much in our prayers, many of them meaningless, but in our consecrated possessions," said Rev. H. McDiarmid, B.A., Walkerville, opening the discussion.

"The money needed for the extension of God's work should be raised by direct giving rather than by any other means, as socials and similar methods, was the general opinion of the meeting.

The importance of the subject of Christian stewardship is not generally recognized. The Bible places much stress upon it and the opinion was expressed that the church membership should be exhorted by the ministers frequently on the subject.

Rev. Mr. McDiarmid emphasized the fact that the primary object in getting members to give to church work should be to lead them to get a world vision.

Tithing as practiced by Abraham ought to be the Christian's method of supporting the Lord's work today in the opinion of the association.

Favors Tithing.

Questions as to whether tithing should be carried out by people in all circumstances were invariably answered by the leader quoting scripture texts to the effect that the Lord would bless those who obey Him.

Every dollar withheld from the Lord is a millstone around the neck of the children for whom it is hoarded," was one of Rev. Mr. McDiarmid's statements.

J. B. Campbell of London gave a report of the committee on the budget.

Prof. J. L. Gilmour, D.D., chaplain of C.E.F., addressed the meeting on matters pertaining to the worship of the church.

Evening Session.

At the evening session Rev. J. G. Brown in a masterly address dealt with the missionary significance of the present crisis. The comprehensiveness of the Christian ministry was cleverly handled by Rev. Dr. J. A. Gordon. Brief addresses were also given by Prof. McKechnie of Woodstock College and Prof. Wright of Western University; Rev. James H. Boyd and Rev. H. H. Bingham, London; Rev. R. R. McKay, Sarnia; Rev. C. W. King, Arkona, and others will address today's sessions. This evening marks the closing of the conference.

RUSH OF DRAFTEES MAY BE CAUSE OF NEW CAMP HERE

W. O. R. Lines Must Be Extended at Once.

USE 1916 LOCATIONS?

Merwin Camp of the 142nd Possible "Overflow" Quarters.

The camp at Carling Heights is getting cramped for space, and it is the intention of the military authorities to extend the lines of the Western Ontario Regiment to Quebec street. The companies will be reduced to a strength of 500 men, and new companies will be formed when necessary.

Those in charge of arrangements state that with present conditions it will be unhealthy to keep the troops crowded, and as the drafted men will continue to report for some time yet, it may be necessary to reopen a camp at Merwin Heights or other adjacent property.

In 1916, when London was the centre for the greatest number of troops ever quartered here, Carling Heights was occupied by the 110th, 111th, 118th and 135th Battalions, and the space occupied by them at that time is now the site of the Western Ontario Regiment camp, the strength of which is about 4,000 men, exceeding the strength of the four volunteer battalions in 1916. At that time Merwin Heights camp was occupied by "London's Own" battalion, and the 160th and 149th Battalions were quartered at Grosvenor Camp. Francis Camp, north of Oxford street, was the home of the 188th and 186 Battalions, while the 161st Hurons and 153rd Wellingtons were stationed at Hillcrest Camp, near the McCormick property in East London.

If the Western Ontario Regiment continues to grow, it is likely that one at least of the 1916 camps will be reopened in the near future.

ELOCUTION RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY BY SENIOR PUPILS

Senior elocution pupils of the London Conservatory were heard in an enjoyable program Wednesday evening at the Conservatory Hall. Those who took part were pupils of Miss Georgia M. Newbury, who could be justly proud of each one, for they all upheld a very high standard of artistic work.

Miss Alice Coy, in "The Sweet Girl Graduate," gave a particularly delightful characterization of the sentimental young girl who doesn't know whether she would rather enter a "career" or marry Harry.

"The Lie," a beautiful and pathetic story of child life, was given by Miss Ethel Reynolds, with her usual mastery of child impersonation.

In her reading of "The First Quarrel," Miss Lila Baskette artistically told the rather sad story.

The story of "The Love of Maurice Berylune" is an arrangement of one of Jerome K. Jerome's short stories which tells of the love which is great enough to sacrifice one's life that many may live. The number was read by Miss Jane C. B. Metcalfe.

"Over the Hills of Home" is a poem written by Lillian Leveridge as a tribute to her brother, fallen in action, and was read by Miss Edna Read, with all the depth of feeling the author intended it should carry.

Miss Ruth Kirwin delighted the audience with her splendid impersonation of "Auntie Doleful," who goes about "cheering" folks up a bit.

"My Boys Would Do Likewise" is a court scene, telling of the son who follows the footsteps of his father. The situation was vividly pictured by Miss Rena McPherson.

A piano solo was especially well played by Miss Gladys Roedding, pupil of Miss Gertrude Rennie. Miss Gladys Stanfield, pupil of Miss Belle Brown, who has a rich contralto voice, sang the solo, "Mother o' Mine."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MISS MARSH.

The death of Miss Martha B. Marsh, aged 35 years, occurred on Tuesday at Victoria Hospital. She is survived by her parents, Mrs. and William Marsh of England.

The funeral was held this afternoon from Smith, Sons & Parker's undertaking parlors to the Salvation Army Citadel, where the services were conducted by Ensign D. Snowden. The interment will be made at Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE ASSEMBLY

BY G. ALLERY

DR. S. BANKS NELSON.

Dr. Nelson of Knox Church, Hamilton, is not a familiar figure at the assembly. He may have been at some assemblies in the six years he has been a minister in Canada. If he attended any in recent years past he was a silent member—if a member or a visitor merely, and if a visitor not allowed to speak to questions. Now it is hardly likely that the doctor was a member and silent. Of course, all things are possible, but one can hardly think of Dr. Nelson as playing the dummy role in any company where he had right of speech. He is often heard in assembly. Nearly every matter that came up drew from him some comment or question, some exclamation or protest. He is an Ulster Englishman. But if he is frequently heard, to his great credit be it said that he does not "hog" the time of the assembly by long speeches. He knows what he wants to say, and he says it with a swing and a force that makes the drowsy men start and gape. He does this every time he participates in the business, and they now have the habit of sitting at attention. He has them Nelsonized, so to speak.

Last night after Dr. Campbell and J. K. MacDonald had concluded their interesting but too exciting dialogue, Dr. Nelson said to his near Scot neighbor: "You talk about the Irish fighting, but they are peaceful as compared with these Scotch," indeed, it seemed that these worthy subjects of the doctor's comment had revived the old feud that flowered in Glencoe. Had Dr. Nelson been a commissioner for as many years as some of us he would not have minded that colloquy between these clansmen. They were only interested in their argument. Dr. Nelson is a brief speaker in assembly, but his sermon last Sunday night ran 75 minutes, and it was good all the way.

ROBERT McQUEEN.

Nothing finer was spoken in the assembly than the speech of Robert McQueen last night on the elder-moderator overture. Like the modern Israel the clerk and J. K. Macdonald, he is an octogenarian, and like them he is vigorous mentally and optimistic and at work. Mr. McQueen is a farmer in the pleasant land that lies outside Galt. He thinks as he farms—thoroughly and well. He is as modern as the New Testament in his thought. Creeds and confessions are very secondary sources of authority for him. He goes back to the original documents when he wants guidance. As the venerable elder spoke he had the undivided attention of his audience, and with aptness and convincing power he went from place to place in the Book for the ground upon which he based his belief that one elder is as eligible as another for the moderator's chair if you take the New Testament as your document of appeal. It is only when you get to ecclesiastical and clerical documents that the claim to the divine right of ministers to be the sole eligibles for the moderator's chair appears—like rocks in a wheat field. Mr. McQueen has been going to assemblies since 1875 and before that. He is a benediction in the judgment of those who know him—a saint in the most wholesome and agreeable sense of that often-maligned word. May he see many assemblies yet here on earth, after this he will be in the assembly of the first born in heaven if any will.

DR. McCRAE.

One of the venerable-looking fathers of the assembly is Dr. McCrae of London. A man he is to all his brethren dear and a good assemblyman before he began to feel the burden of years come upon him. In the yesterdays of the church he played the double part of helping greatly in the business of the court, and then with an accurate skill sending the story of that business to the world outside the particular city where the assembly was meeting. There was another Dr. Macrae who reached the moderator's chair, Dr. Macrae of St. John, N. B. They were not related except in this, that both were clear-headed and possessed of fine common sense, that uncommon endowment without which every other sense a man may have tends to nonsense. The present Dr. McCrae has a handshake and a smile of greeting that are worth going far to get.

DR. RAMSAY.

The engineers of a ship are not often seen in the saloon of the ship when she is plowing the seas. But they are indispensable members of her crew though out of sight. Ramsay was and has been for some years one of the chief engineers of assembly, put by it in charge of the multitudinous details relating to students', missionaries', intending students' and would-be missionaries' problems in relation to their studies. As convener of the board of education it falls to Dr. Ramsay's lot to meet days before assembly opens and go over hundreds of cases of students' queries and difficulties and whip out of the mess a report that assembly will hear and adopt with a smack of its lips. Before this board was established, and Ramsay put in charge of it many a poor student was wounded unintentionally by the rush and routine of the court that he had asked to help him to get his course straightened out. In those days the conniet was only too apt to describe the feelings of the frequently disappointed student:

"The hungry judges so the sentence sign,
And wretches hang that jurymen may dine."

Ramsay has a fine conscience, and he will hold the hungry assemblymen for hours if need be to get his report explained, understood, adopted, so that the man in a prairie shack, or in the mountains, or by the sea, may get a chance to return to college and take a course that will fit him for service in the church. Assembly thinks Ramsay is so good an engineer that it passed him a vote of thanks for his arduous and splendid work. That was right.

Rush for Papers Means Additional Office Equipment

City Clerk Forced to Ask For Further Mechanical Assistance To Cope With It.

City Clerk Baker wants a new typewriter (machine). The rush for marriage and birth certificates because of the M. S. A., is so great that he has been obliged to augment his clerical staff and now his equipment.

"I would not have asked for the machine only I have the money to pay for it," said the city clerk. He stated that the money he has received for vital statistics, issuing marriage certificates and birth certificates, has by far exceeded the estimates. He said he had taken in as much money in a month as he used to take in during a whole year.

Mayor C. R. Somerville remarked that it was a peculiar thing that as soon as a department got a little ahead of the estimates they wanted to spend the money.

Later the mayor suggested that a sign should be erected outside the city clerk's office notifying the public that he "Fixed marriages, arranged births, etc."

WILL TAKE CHARGE OF WHOLE STATE'S HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Dr. H. W. Hill Assuming Complete Minnesota Control.

MAYOR PRAISES WORK

Declares Cuts in Quarantine Have More Than Saved Salary.

Dr. H. W. Hill, who has tendered his resignation as health officer of the city, and as director of the Institute of Public Health, will take charge of the health department of the State of Minnesota on his return to the United States.

"It is pretty hard for us to compete against a whole state in keeping him," said Mayor C. R. Somerville today. He added that the militia department, under which Dr. Hill has been serving as sanitary officer of Military District No. 1, would have also exerted some efforts to retain the captain were it not for the friendly feeling which now exists between Canada and the United States, and the fact that the Minnesota authorities state that the militia camps of their state are also in need of a man of Dr. Hill's abilities.

Mayor Somerville, who as chairman of the board of governors of Western University, under which the Institute of Public Health, of which Dr. Hill is director, is placed, and as chairman of the 1918 board of health is in close touch with the M. O. H., paid a high tribute to the work of Dr. Hill.

"He is a good man and will be hard to replace. Hill is a man you don't have to bother about. He does his work. He lives on it. He is at it from early morning until 10 o'clock at night. He would sooner go out and diagnose a case than go to a banquet," were among the mayor's remarks.

Mayor Somerville says that the cuts which Dr. Hill has made in the periods of quarantine in London have more than saved his salary.

"Instead of being quarantined for two or three weeks because of a disease outbreak, London families which escape contagion are held up but a short time," said the mayor. "This is a part of the valuable work which has been worked out by the Institute of Public Health.

"When a case of disease is reported, Dr. Downham, Dr. Hill's inspector, sends the patient to the hospital and isolates the others who came in contact with the patient. Dr. Hill takes charge of the sufferer from the disease, while Dr. Downham gives his attention to those in quarantine. If the case is one of diphtheria, for instance, he takes throat cultures from all, and has them examined immediately at the institute. Of five, perhaps three are negative and two positive. They are separated. This is repeated daily. In four or five days all are either in the hospital, suffering from the disease, or else back at work. In other places, where the institute facilities are not at hand, families are quarantined for two and three weeks."

NO ELDER CAN BE MODERATOR OF CHURCH YET

Vexed Question Not Decided by General Assembly, But Sent to Presbyteries.

REPORTS IN NEXT YEAR

Till Then No Change in Head of Church in Canada Can Be Possible.

No elder of the Presbyterian Church need aspire to the moderatorship of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada for next year. It won't be done. Established law and custom will not be changed till a later date, if at all, in the democratic church. Being a democratic church, the question of the elder-moderator which has been provocative of animated and frequently agitated discussion in the supreme court of the church this year, will be referred to the presbyteries and reported back next year to the general assembly of 1919.

An amendment to the motion before the assembly on Wednesday evening at closing time, moved by Dr. Scott of Montreal, seconded by Dr. MacQueen, carried this morning as follows: "Moved that the overture be referred to presbyteries for their consideration to report to the next general assembly."

The question of whether an elder should be eligible for election as moderator of the General Assembly occupied the greater portion of the evening session of the assembly Wednesday. The discussion at times grew heated, and at the suggestion of the moderator the commissioners decided that they could better decide it after a night's rest, and left it in abeyance till today.

The announcement made just before the commissioners rose to leave that Rev. Dr. Shearer had accepted the position of secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada caused no little surprise. The services of Dr. Shearer will not now be available for the work of the church.

The proposal to throw open the door to eligibles, as far as eligibility to the chair of moderator was concerned was contained in an overture received from the Presbytery of Honan. The chair must be occupied by a minister, according to present practice.

Supports Resolution.

In support of the resolution Dr. MacGillivray brought forward precedents from the history of the church showing that even in the sixteenth century it had been done, and also later in Scotland, India and the Southern States.

James Rodgers of Montreal was of the opinion that the matter ought to be submitted to the Presbyteries, and submitted a resolution to the effect that the practice be authorized in all courts of the church except the kirk session.

Opposing the plan, Dr. Scott of Montreal gave his opinion that a man's position in private life might be incompatible with that of head of the church in Canada.

If the man occupying the chair of moderator were not a minister, he might be prominent in political life, and his position as head of the church might be used by his supporters as a vote catcher, he feared. If his political acts were criticized, it would reflect unfavorably on the church.

"A prominent churchman might also be prominent in commercial life. He might, for instance, be engaged in a large pork-packing business, or something of that kind. If he were accused of making questionable or undue profits, it would reflect discredit on the church."

Put Him In Storage.

"We could put him in cold storage," suggested one of the commissioners, amid much laughter.

Continuing, he cited the possible instance of the moderator being the head of some large firm such as an insurance company, and he feared that his position would be made use of by those under him as a business getter.

Dr. Campbell, the clerk, referring to the cases mentioned as precedents, said that there was nothing in the constitution of the church at the time against it, but there was in the constitution of the church of Canada. There was a big difference in the duties expected of the minister and the elder. It was opposed to the law of the church, according to the committee which reported on it at Woodstock in 1914. He moved an amendment that in sending it down to the Presbyteries, the report of the committee be sent with it.

Only An Opinion.

J. K. Macdonald, Toronto, rose to ask if there had been a finding by the committee adopted, and Dr. Campbell then stated that there had been no finding but an opinion.

Robert McQueen of Galt referred to the practice in apostolic times of settling the thing by the whole voice of the church. There was only one class in the church then, and there should be no distinction between elder and minister.

J. K. Macdonald explained that his name had been brought forward in connection with the moderatorship this year without his knowledge or consent. While glad he escaped the responsibility of accepting or refusing it, he claimed that there was no law of the church against it.

Efforts had been made to hush up the fact that there had been no real finding adopted in 1914, he said, and also to send those present away with the impression that a finding had been made. This he wished to forestall.

He cautioned the assembly against paying too much attention to "unpaid legal advice," which brought forth the remark from Dr. Campbell that he was being maligned.

All Are Equal.

Resuming, Mr. Macdonald said: "I don't know what qualifications a minister has that makes him higher than an elder or any other follower of Christ."

A regularly ordained elder was not a layman, he claimed, and the church was not doing its best service, nor justice to the elders, in excluding them from the position of moderator.

"If I thought that I was in a lower position than a minister," he declared, "I would look upon it as a relic of popery handed down from priestcraft. I don't want any minister to be a priest. I feel that I am my minister's equal."

When he resumed his seat, Dr. Campbell rose, claiming that he had been maligned. Mr. Macdonald rose and remarked that the book from which Dr. Campbell had read the rulings in question had been compiled by Dr. Campbell himself. This Dr. Campbell denied. Both endeavored to speak at once, but the moderator finally restored order.

The motion to adjourn was proposed and passed at once, and the discussion was cut short, to be resumed today.

Granted Permission.

Earlier in the evening permission was granted by the assembly in special cases for students in theological colleges who have not taken Hebrew or Greek in their arts course, to take their theological course in English.

Westminster Hall, Vancouver, will consider changing from a summer to a winter session, as a result of power granted by the assembly.

English-speaking young men will be encouraged to learn French and Ruthenian in order to prepare themselves for missionary work among the people in Canada speaking these languages. The home mission board will offer scholarships valued at $300.

Credit for work done in the khaki universities in England and France will be allowed by the theological colleges here, according to a resolution passed.

Returned soldiers are also to be assisted in taking both extra-mural and intra-mural work.

The one item of business completely and satisfactorily disposed of at the afternoon sitting of the General Assembly was the report of the board of education re the colleges. The assembly indorsed the recommendation of the board submitted by President Walter C. Murray, of the University of Saskatchewan, to the effect that all the theological colleges be kept open this year, but that from seven to ten of the professors, in addition to the four now serving overseas, be released, in order that they may take part in such work of the church as the forward movement, special appeals for recruits for the ministry, the preparation of missionary and other pamphlets, pulpit supply for minister in chaplain service and other activities for which their qualifications specially fit them.

No Weakening.

This was only indorsed, however, after very thorough discussion, in the course of which Dr. Murray made it clear that the continuing of the work of the colleges as been recommended that there may be no weakening of any powerful influence in the religious or educational life of the country, and that such a course is in the best interests of the conservation of men and money and of efficiency.

Rev. W. O. Mulligan of Bedford, N. S., introduced his promised amendment, which was lost, to the effect that, "In view of the needs of the church and the lack of men and lack of financial support, five of the colleges be suspended for the duration of the war, and the church concentrate its theological educational work in three centres, one in the east, one in the centre, and one in the west.

Essential Points.

Supporting Mr. Mulligan's amendment, Rev. Girard Graham of Elmwood, Ont., declared that conservation of men and money are not the most important points to be considered in connection with a theological college. The mission of a theological college is to put tone and color into the life and scholarship of the students. "We would have a hard time to get one good theological college out of all of them," he affirmed, adding: "The men teaching are there for the purpose of making preachers. Instead of doing this they are out preaching themselves."

A second motion submitted to the assembly by Mr. Mulligan which carried was to the effect that, in view of the interruptions in studies of many students owing to war conditions, the matter of preparatory school, colleges and theological education be remitted to the presbyteries of the assembly for consideration.

Rev. Dr. M. Ramsay was in the midst of his presentation of the report of the findings of the board of education, and had just reached a recommendation that promises lively debate, proposal in regard to an "all-English" course, when the movement was made to adjourn.

COUNTIES CONTRIBUTE TO RESCUE HOME WORK

Councils Give Financial Aid to Local Institution.

Western Ontario counties are lending financial support to the work of the Salvation Army Rescue Home on Riverview avenue, this city. The appeals made by Adjutant Martin to the various county councils of the district have resulted in grants in every case.

Middlesex headed off the list with a $1,500 donation. During the past week Oxford, Lambton and Huron have contributed $1,000 each, while Elgin County is considering the raising of its grant of $250, made at the January sessions, to $1,000. Other county councils will be approached during the coming week.

It has been pointed out by the Salvation Army officers that girls from the district are cared for at the home, and that it is only right that the interested municipalities should bear part of its financial burdens.

M.S.A. OFFICER IS SENT FOR TRIAL IN BRIBE CASE

Dominion Force Officer Is Accused of Offering To Get Exemption.

INVOLVED MAGISTRATE

Latter, However, Explains the Circumstances in Police Court Here.

Charged with unlawfully making an offer to obtain corruptly the exemption of James and Peter Driver of Palmyra Township, Kent County, from military service, Charles H. Marsh, a Dominion police officer, was committed for trial following a hearing in police court today.

The offer, it was claimed, was made on June 8 in Chatham, to George Peters, high constable of Kent, and the charge was made under section 105 of the amended M. S. A. regulations.

The first of its kind to be tried in this district, the case aroused unusual interest, as March is a returned soldier who served three years faithfully in France.

According to the evidence of Peters, Marsh asked him if he wanted to make $100 or $200. He told witness that he was bringing in the two Driver boys, and that there would be $500 in it, $100 or $200 of which would be Peters' if he would help to keep them from gettting to war.

Peters swore that Marsh told him that Magistrate Murphy of Ridgetown was going to help him through with it. That Magistrate Murphy would have anything to do with such a transaction was the last thing in the world he would think of, testified the witness, who declared it was beyond all doubt and absolutely impossible.

Peters further swore that Marsh asked him to look after the money end of it, when the boys came in to Chatham on Saturday last. The two Drivers had come to his office, and he had reported the case to the military authorities.

James Driver testified that he and his twin brother had reported and spent a few days at Queen's Park, and had returned home on seeding furlough. The father went to Ottawa regarding their exemption. In response to a telephone call they had gone to Chatham to see Constable Peters, and, though they looked for Marsh, did not find him.

John Driver, his brother, corroborated this story.

Police Magistrate J. Warner Murphy of Ridgetown told of telephoning Marsh regarding the hardship of the case of the Drivers. Marsh had come to Ridgetown on the Thursday previous, and on Saturday someone, whom he supposed to be Marsh, 'phoned him, wanting the Drivers to go to Chatham to see Peters. The man at the other end made what witness thought might have been a suggestion of money, in addition to expenses, and he had replied with emphasis, "No, but what I said about the expenses is all right."

Magistrate Graydon decided to commit Marsh for trial, and in the meantime bail was arranged.

Furnishes Alibi For Man Apprehended Under M. S. A.

Peter Girodat, a soldier quartered at Carling Heights Camp and an Indian woman, were charged with acting in a disorderly manner at the traction bridge. Though he pleaded not guilty he was convicted and fined $5. The woman was released on suspended sentence.

Edward Murray, 459 Central avenue, charged with a violation of Section 40 of the Ontario Temperance Act, was allowed to go on bail till Tuesday, his case being adjourned till then.

Four foreigners were charged with neglecting to have certificates of their nationality to show the M. S. A. policemen, on information laid by Capt. Minard, Dominion police.

Pascelo Lutner, Gascombe Montilone, Stephen Galitz were turned over to the military authorities, and will repose in camp until they can show that they are not liable to military service. They answered "No" when asked if they understood English, but according to Capt. Minard, two of them spoke fluently at McClary's plant. They will have to write home and get their passports which they claimed to have lost.

Frank Artmont, the fourth, claimed that he was married. A woman and child entered the room, and when the child shouted, "Papa" Artmont was released.

RECORD INCREASE IN CANADA'S CROP AREA, GOVT. REPORTS SHOW

Promise of Huge Harvests of Wheat, Barley, Oats.

Ottawa, June 13.—An increase of 1,329,950 acres in the amount of land sown in grain and hay in Canada this year as compared with last year is shown in the first preliminary crop bulletin for the season, issued today by the Dominion Board of Agriculture statistics. This is an increase of 9 per cent. The returns show very satisfactory increases in the areas sown to wheat and oats, and the condition of these crops on May 31 was generally better than at the same date last year.

Great Wheat Acreage.

The total area sown to wheat for the whole of Canada for 1918 is estimated at 16,080,800 acres, as compared with 14,755,850 acres, the finally established figure for 1917. The area to be harvested of fall wheat is 338,000 acres, and the area sown to spring wheat is 15,742,800 acres; so that the increase of the latter as compared with 1917 is 1,712,250, or 12 per cent. The area sown to oats is placed at 13,739,000 acres as compared with 13,313,400 acres last year, an increase of 425,600 acres, or 3.2 per cent.

The acreage of barley is 2,395,800, as compared with 2,392,200 in 1917. Of rye 234,530 as against 211,880, of peas 200,430 as against 198,881, of mixed grains 506,530 as against 497,236, of hay and clover 8,200,300 as against 8,225,034, and of alfalfa 103,800 as against 109,825.

Highest on Record.

The area sown this year to wheat, oats, barley and rye are the highest on record for Canada. The acreage sown to wheat in the prairie provinces totals 15,196,300 as against 13,619,410 acres last year, to oats 8,767,000 acres as against 8,559,500 acres, and to barley 1,845,500 acres as against 1,850,000 acres.

Ontario reports (June 5), that timely rains with warm weather, have favored the growth of all field crops. Prospects are excellent for another good hay crop, and spring grains never gave better promise at the beginning of June.

ANOTHER ADJOURNMENT

County Court Again Postponed Until June 21.

After a breif sitting this morning, the county court was adjourned until Friday, June 21, for the hearing of the remaining two cases.

REORGANIZING BOARD

Health Organization to Elect Chairman Today.

The board of health will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock for reorganization purposes. Since Controller J. H. Saunders and Ald. G. B. Drake resigned from the board it has been in a state of disorganization, and no meetings have been held. Recently E. H. Johnston and H. Douglass were named as members of the board, and this afternoon the first business will be to name a chairman. It is expected that E. H. Russell will be chosen.

PRE-REGISTRATION ALREADY STARTED IN LOCAL PLANTS

Commenced Here On Wednesday Afternoon.

MORE WORKERS NEEDED

Volunteers Must Come Forward, Declare the Registrars.

Pre-registration of persons under the manhood and womanhood power bill commenced in the factories in London on Wednesday afternoon. Assistant deputies were appointed and sworn in by Registrar R. A. Bayly of the London electoral division at a number of the largest manufacturing plants, and the registration at these places is now proceeding without delay.

Commencing on Saturday, or not later than Monday next, places for the pre-registration of any person over 16 years of age will be opened in various sections of the city. Registrar Bayly is completing arrangements today to open these places, the locations of which will be announced in Friday's or Saturday's editions of The Advertiser.

Anyone can register at any place designated for that purpose, whether such a registration booth is nearest their home or not. It is made plain in the registration regulations that the cards can be filled out any place in Canada so that a person out of the city on June 22 or away from his or her home can register where he or she happens to be. In case of illness or inability to attend due to other causes deputy registrars will go to homes and register such persons from today. Telephone R. A. Bayly at number 514 in case person is unable to attend, and arrangements will be made by him for the registration.

Goes On In County, Too.

W. C. Fitzgerald, registrar under the bill for East Middlesex, is mailing out cards to assistant deputy registrars today. These deputies are instructed to proceed with pre-registration as soon as they receive the cards.

The same arrangements made by Registrar Bayly, with respect to the registration of persons unable to appear at the booths, will be adopted by Registrar Fitzgerald. Telephone Mr. Fitzgerald at No. 385, and he will arrange with an assistant deputy to call at the home. This arrangement will be applicable in the annexed districts principally, as it may be impossible for the county registrar to make such arrangements further out in the county.

In London and in Middlesex County there is still a shortage of assistant deputies. At least 45 more are needed in the county, and an additional number is yet required by Registrar Bayly to assist in the work in London.

More assistance is urgently needed to insure success here on registration day, says R. A. Bayly, the registrar.

There are 71 registration divisions in the city, and in each division there must be a deputy registrar and under him 8 to 10 assistants. Volunteers have been obtained for most of the deputy registrars' positions, but only half the necessary number of assistants have been so far sworn in.

In Toronto and other cities sufficient voluntary assistance is being procured. London must not be the only city to fail. Very few people are working on Saturday afternoon, and there should be no difficulty in volunteering for at least the afternoon and evening.

Call the registrar over phone 514 or 1649 and volunteer for this patriotic service.

Those who have already volunteered are requested to ask their friends to do the same.

The public are asked to note:

1. That commencing Monday, 17th inst., persons may register at downtown centres, which will be named in the press later in the present week.

2. That any factory, store, church, society or institution can have registration at once at their own place on application to the registrar.

3. One of the questions on the card for males is: "Do your circumstances permit you to serve, in the present national crisis, by changing your present occupation to some other for which you are qualified, if the conditions offered be satisfactory? (a) Where you can return home daily? (b) Away from home?"

Persons required to register should consider carefully before going to the registration place what answer they mean to give to this question. A great deal of time is wasted by hesitation, and everyone should have his answer ready.

Urged To Consider.

The question is "Do your circumstances permit you to serve," not "Are you willing to serve?" Answering "Yes" to this question does not pledge a man to report for any service that may be offered to him. Unless the conditions under which he will be required to work are satisfactory, he is quite at liberty to decline.

4. On the 22nd of June most of the registration places will be in the city schools, public and separate.

Any person may register anywhere.

5. Persons who are unable to come out on registration day should notify the registrar, who will send an assistant to the house.

The city of London has been divided into 71 registration divisions, corresponding with the polling divisions in use at the last Dominion election.

The following places will be used for June 22 only, for the purpose of registration, and these places will not be available for pre-registration before that date.

Visitors Must Register.

Everybody who comes into Canada on or after June 22 must be registered. Visitors from the United States and others who want hotel accommodations must be registered at the postoffice before they can book their rooms.

Twenty-four hours only are given in which a person must be registered, even if one intended to stay in Canada for only one night. There is no exception to this rule for the length of time or the nationality or the nature of the visit, whether for a holiday or on business.

ADVERTISER BOY

feet, while the others were a couple of thousand below.

Formed Bait for British.

"Well, the four below were just bait for us; the real bunch was up alone in the sun. Ten of their fast scouts, and they were fast, then came down on us like hell. The first thing I knew was the bullets swinging past. Up goes my nose and away for my guns. That fool just shot past me. When I saw another shoot past me I got on his tail for a thousand feet and pumped lead into him. I could not tell whether I got him or not, but he was still going down, when I had to pull up and split, out of the way of another merchant who was trying to make a lead mine of me. He got me in my 'plane just a few feet from my bean, and I got a burst into him as he scooted past.

Engine Went Bad.

"By this time we were all drilling around to get our formation, and just as I got into place my damn engine burst or bent its crank-shaft. Gosh! I thought I was a goner. I shut off and glided away, but soon saw I could not make my own lines. We were about eight miles over and about 12,000 feet up, and as a 'bus does not glide at all flat, it would have been nip and tuck. At any rate, I opened her full out, regardless of the noise and damage. She picked up some, and that gave me enough forward speed to make a 'drome about eight miles over our side. Gee, I was some glad boy to see those hangars even if they were 40 miles from home. I shall have to get a new engine now, and that takes a couple of days. I am out of luck till tomorrow, or may be longer. Your loving son, BILLY."

MUSICALE SUCCESSFUL IN MAKING UP FUND FOR SANATORIUM WORK

Interesting and Profitable Evening for Women's Music Club.

A musicale held last evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Fetherston, 241 Hyman street, was most successful both financially and as a musical treat. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $52, which far exceeds the amount needed to complete the Byron Sanatorium fund of $500, promised by the Women's Music Club a little more than a year ago. The club in raising this amount of money in so short a time has indeed done wonders.

Miss Anna Christine Finnie of Detroit, who possesses a full and rich contralto voice, was exceedingly popular in her numbers of last evening. With her first group, "Alone in Love's Garden" and "The Veil," she won the admiration of the musical world present, following up with "The Last Hour" and "I Love You Truly." Sydney Johns, formerly of St. Paul's Church, Detroit, was also most successful in his numbers, "My Message" and "Roses in June."

Miss Florence Egglestone, violinist, who was responsible for last night's program, herself played three numbers in her usual irreproachable style—two movements of a "Greek Sonata," "A Hungarian Dance," and an "Old Refrain" (Crysler).

Great thanks were given Mrs. Fetherston, who so kindly offered her house, and made it beautiful with flowers for the occasion. The evening came to a close with the serving of dainty refreshments.

PORT PICNIC HERE

Yarmouth Patriotic Women Come to Springbank Park for Outing.

The usual order of Port Stanley picnics was reversed today when a special picnic was brought into London by the London and Lake Erie Railway Line from Port Stanley. The South Yarmouth patriotic women, headed by Mrs. (Dr.) Jackson of Union, and numbering about 75 from Union and St. Thomas, picnicked at Springbank. A special street railway car met the picnic party at the traction depot, and took it to the riverside park.

The death of Miss Mary Jane Burn occurred at the residence of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Mountjoy, 419 Oxford street, on Wednesday evening. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. C. E. Mountjoy and Miss Phyllis Burn of this city, and by one brother, Daniel Burn of Ottawa.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

DEATH OF MISS MOORE.

Miss Margaret A. Moore, aged 69 years, daughter of the late William Moore, died at her late residence, 195 Elmwood avenue, early this morning. Miss Moore was active in patriotic work in this city for many years, and held offices in the local branch of the National Council of Women, Women's Christian Association, and relief committee of the local branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission. She is survived by three brothers, Controller J. M. Moore and J. P. Moore, K. C., both of this city, and R. G. Moore of Vancouver, and three sisters also survive.

RAISING FUNDS BY SEEKING NAMES OF MEMBERS SCORED

The Baptists Condemn This Method of Colleges.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Budget System of Finance Is Urged by Resolutions Passed Today.

Following the spirited discussion on finance at the Middlesex-Lambton Baptist Association yesterday, the resolutions committee presented a report to the association this morning urging that the various churches undertake strong propaganda with a view to remedying conditions. This, with the other resolutions presented, was unanimously adopted.

The motions follow: "Resolved that we urge the churches of this association to heartily support Christian education in colleges in view of the unfavorable conditions brought about by the war."

"Resolved that we urge the budget committee to begin an aggressive campaign among the churches of the association, and also that we urge the ministers of the churches of the association to carry on a strong propaganda on Christian stewardship and to the budget plan as far as practicable in every church."

"Resolved that we express our deepest sympathy with Mrs. Trotter and family in the death of our beloved and talented Dr. Thomas Trotter of McMaster University."

Condemn Name-Seeking.

Strong expressions of condemnation were voiced by the delegates of the practice of some of the Baptist educational institutions requesting the ministers to forward lists of their members who would be in a financial position to aid the work of the institution.

One clerical delegate present placed this practice of obtaining names in the same category as that of the book agent who promises a copy of his encyclopaedia to the preacher in return for the names of some of his influential members.

Officers Elected.

advance on the left today, despite the fatigues they had undergone since the beginning of the week. Another batch of several hundred German prisoners was brought in, together with numerous machine guns.

GERMAN MORALE SUFFERS.

Paris, June 13.—The attack southwest of Soissons, on the front between the Aisne and the Marne, has been broken by the violent resistance of the French, says a Havas correspondent, telegraphing from the front. The enemy, he says, has made progress which is absolutely insignificant at a price of heavy losses. In addition, he points out, the German advance has been held up for several days, and the morale of the German troops is suffering in consequence.

BRITISH RAID IN FLANDERS.

London, June 13.—British troops last night advanced their lines a short distance on the Flanders front in the district southeast of Merris, the war office announced today. The French on this front likewise improved their positions near the Ridge wood. Prisoners were taken in both operations.

BRITISH FRONT MUST BE SOLIDLY HELD.

Paris, June 13.—Gustave Herve, in his newspaper La Victoire, undertakes to answer the question, which he says reaches him from many readers, why should the remainder of the western front be inactive while the Germans are making the greatest efforts, and why should not the British make a strong attack which would relieve the pressure on the French.

The editor points out that General Foch, as generalissimo, disposes of all the Allied armies, British, American, French, Belgian and Portuguese. If he does not move the British forces, it is contended, it may be because there are still heavy concentrations of German reserves before the British front, and that the front must be held solidly. General Foch may also feel able with the French reserves to defeat the menace toward Paris.

"Our generalissimo," M. Herve continues, "knows too well the vital importance, strategically and economically, of the capital to leave it to the mercy of any unfortunate chance."

FURTHER TROUBLE

W. R. McIntosh, and warmly seconded by Rev. Dr. Neil.

Row Over Report.

Rev. Dr. R. M. Dickie of Montreal stirred up considerable opposition in withdrawing his amendment to the report of the special committee, to the effect that Dr. Shearer be made superintendent of home mission and social service, by charging that it was time the assembly was separated from permitting officials of the church to dictate the policy of the church. The allegation was interpreted by Dr. Peter Strang, home mission superintendent in Southern Saskatchewan, to mean the home mission superintendents, and he answered accordingly.

Assurance was given that Dr. Strang was in no wise involved, whereupon Rev. Dr. J. U. Tanner of Quebec took up the gauntlet and declared the resignation of Dr. Shearer was of his own volition, and not to be laid at the doors of the home missions superintendents. It was unfair to say the officials of the church were responsible. He was surprised that Dr. Dickie should pick up a slogan whispered by politicians around the assembly as facts. So far as he was personally concerned, any opposition to the appointment of a general superintendent had been done openly, because he thought it his duty. He stood for freedom and democracy. In his speech of Wednesday, Rev. D. C. MacGregor had stated, "We don't want officials to dictate the policy of the church," then turned round and, with splendid inconsistency, proposed one man should be made dictator.

Dr. Tanner declared he was standing for democracy.

Not Dictator, But Adviser.

Mr. MacGregor hastened to correct the impression made by Dr. Tanner rewhat he himself had suggested. It was not that Dr. Shearer should be a dictator, but an adviser for the board of home missions and social service.

Dr. Dickie accused Dr. Tanner of having been the superintendent to make the trouble, but subsequently withdrew his statement.

A communication from the secretary of state was read, calling attention to the fact that a proclamation is to be issued by the governor-general of Canada, setting June 30th, apart as a day of special humiliation and prayer, and asking the co-operation of the general assembly in securing the general observance.

The moderator of the assembly was authorized to use the public press and any other means he deems advisable to emphasize the desirability of general observance of this day of prayer, and to remind the people that the blessings to be looked for from this day will depend on devout preparation and a suitable approach to the exercises of the day.

Col. Gartshore on Committee.

An overture asking the general assembly to take Alberta Ladies' College under its supervision and empower the board of the college to proceed with arrangements to secure a building site on the Alberta University grounds, Edmonton, was supported by Rev. N. D. Keith and indorsed by the assembly.

A national service commission, with Rev. Dr. A. S. Grant as chairman, and on which appears the name of Lieut.-Col. W. M. Gartshore of this city, was appointed to act in conjunction with all questions dealing with chaplains, training camps, the men overseas and returned men.

The following committee, of which Rev. Principal Gandier is to be convener, was named in connection with the forward movement: The moderator, Rev. Dr. John Neil, Dr. Thomas Stewart, Rev. R. W. Ross, Rev. J. A. McKeigan, Rev. Dr. W. M. Rochester, Rev. Dr. W. J. Clark, Rev. W. D. Reid, Rev. George Duncan, Col. P. V. G. Mitchell, James Rodgers, George Lyman, J. A. Machado, R. M. Hamilton, Principal Bruce Taylor, Professor Matheson, J. K. MacDonald, John A. Paterson, Principal Gandier, Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, Rev. James Wilson, Major Chisholm, Rev. S. C. McIlroy, Rev. Dr. B. Banks Nelson, Rev. J. J. Paterson, Rev. H. M. Paulin, Rev. J. M. Woodside, Rev. R. B. Cochrane, Thomas Findlay, C. S. MacDonald, Rev. James Taylor, Rev. Geo. H. Smith, Rev. Henry Dickie, D.D., W. H. Wardrope, K.C., Norman Slater, D.D., Rev. D. C. MacGregor, Rev. Robt. Martin, M. A. Halliday, Rev. Ronald McLeod, Dr. D. Christie, Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, H. G. Russell, Rev. W. G. Wilson, Rev. J. W. McIntosh, George. McCraney, Dr. D. G. MacQueen, Rev. J. McCartney Wilson, Principal J. MacKay, Rev. A. F. Munro, and ex-officio, Rev. Drs. R. Laird, R. P. MacKay, Somerville, J. C. Robertson, R. D. Fraser and J. G. Shearer, Rev. J. H. Edmison.

It was further agreed that the executive might be made up of the moderator of the asembly, the Toronto and Hamilton Presbytery members, and Rev. Dr. W. J. Clark of Montreal and Rev. D. C. MacGregor of this city.

CALL FOR PUNISHMENT FOR THOSE TO BLAME FOR HALIFAX CRASH

HALIFAX, June 12.—Mayor Hawkins, at the instance of John J. Power, K.C., who is counsel for a number of citizens living in the area devastated by the explosions of December 6, is urging Attorney-General Daniels to bring before the privy council, which will sit in London next month, the case for manslaughter of Pilot MacKey of the steamship Mont Blanc. MacKey was committed for trial by Magistrate McLeod, but released on order of Mr. Justice Russel. In a letter to the mayor Mr. Power says:

"It may be that justice has miscarried," and his worship writes the attorney-general that public opinion is calling strongly for the punishment of those responsible for the disaster.

WILSON DISAPPROVES OPEN DISCUSSION OF COUNTRY'S TREATIES

U. S. President Explains the Meaning of His "Above Board" Statement.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Wilson's disapproval today killed a proposal in the Senate for open discussion of treaties. Senators voted down 50 to 23 an amendment by Senator Borah of Idaho embodying the proposal, which had been offered as an amendment to the resolution of Senator Underwood of Alabama for curtailing Senate debate during the war. The president made it known that his advocacy of open diplomacy was not in reference to the Senate executive discussion of treaties, in which he recommends no change, but meant the publication of treaties after their ratification.

The president's views were given in a letter to Secretary of State Lansing, in which he says: "When I pronounced for open diplomacy I meant not that there should be no private discussions of delicate matters, but that no secret agreements should be entered into and that all international relations when fixed should be open, above board and explicit."

FRESH ADVANCE FOR ALLIES ALONG NEW WESTERN FRONT AND GAINS NORTH OF MARNE

Germans Attack Violently to Recover Ground Lost Tuesday, But Meet With Sanguinary Repulse, Enemy Succeeded In Crossing River.

PARIS, June 12.—The French troops have made further advances around Belloy and St. Maur and have captured four hundred additional prisoners, some cannon and machine guns, according to the war office announcement tonight.

They have also reoccupied Montcourt and part of Bussiares, north of the Marne.

The official report says that the French troops were withdrawn east of the Oise, along the line of Bailly, Tracy-le-Val, and Nampoel under the protection of covering detachments, without the enemy being aware of the movement.

While most of the German attacks were repulsed, the enemy succeeded in getting a foothold on the southern bank of the Matz River, occupying the village of Melicocq and adjoining heights.

ENEMY HAS ADVANCED ACROSS RIVER MATZ.

LONDON, June 12.—The French forces, operating on the east bank of the Oise River south of Noyon, have evacuated the Carlepont wood, and the Germans are closely pressing them southward, according to the German official communication Wednesday. The communication also asserts that the terrain on the opposite side of the river near where the Matz enters the Oise, has been cleared of Allied troops.

Nowhere else along the battle front running from Montdidier to the region around Noyon is any claim made to further advances by the Germans. On the contrary the latest communication shows that the enemy has everywhere been engaged in attempts to hold back the French and other Allied troops among them some Americans.

Berlin Omits Some Things.

No mention is made in the German communication of the Allies having advanced their front east of Mery and the Genlis wood, or of the repulse of violent German attacks along the Aronde River and at the Leges farm and Antheuil. Neither is there any mention of the fact that the enemy, notwithstanding the numerous attacks, has been unable to debouch south of the Matz River.

The communication asserts that all the counter-attacks of the Allied forces have been repulsed, and that they suffered heavy casualties. It declared that the number of prisoners taken by General von Hutier's army has now risen to more than 13,000.

It had been admitted that the position of the defending line on the west bank of the Oise River was a delicate one, owing to the capture by the Germans of outflanking hills to the west, and a successful drive through the Carlepont wood on the opposite side of the stream seemingly would have necessitated a strategic retirement if the troops were not to be entirely cut off.

Americans in Fighting.

Southwest of Mondidier, where the Allied forces on Tuesday in violent counter-attacks made notable gains against the enemy, American troops have been thrown into the fray, but how many or to what branch of the service they belong has not yet been indicated. To the north of Montdidier the Germans several times have tried to drive out the Americans from the village of Cantigny, but each time they have been repulsed.

Northwest of Chateau Thierry the Germans have thrown five divisions against the Americans fighting side by side with the French, but without avail. Attempts by the enemy to recapture the village of Bouresches went for naught.

South of the Aisne River there has been free fighting down to the region of Villers-Cotterets, where the Germans are attempting to break through and bring their line west of Solssons toward Compiegne. Except that the combats were particularly severe on the front of Dommiers, Zutry and south of Ambleny, nor further details are available.

GERMAN ATTACKS BEATEN AND ALLIES MAKE GAINS.

PARIS, June 12.—The text of the French official statement reads:

"Between Montdidier and the Oise the enemy renewed his pressure during the day. On our left all his attempts to wrest from us our gains of yesterday failed.

"We made progress in the region of Belloy wood and St. Maur and took 400 additional prisoners, as well as numerous cannon and machine guns. On the front of St. Maur-Anteuil there was no change.

"On our right the Germans renewed their attacks along the Matz River. After several attempts, which cost them heavy losses, they succeeded in gaining a footing on the southern bank of the river, in the village of Melicocq and on the heights of Croix Ricard.

Withdrawal Well Covered.

"East of the Oise our troops on Monday carried out a withdrawal on the line of Bailly-Tracy-le-Val and west of Sampoel under the protection of covering detachments, who masked our movement to the enemy. In the region of the Haute Brays we repulsed an enemy attack and took prisoners.

"South of the Aisne desperate engagements, in which the fighting was hand-to-hand, took place between the river and the forest of Villers-Cotterets. Our troops offered spirited resistance to the attacks of the enemy, who made slight progress on the plateau west of the villages of Dommieres and Cutry. All his efforts against Ambleny and St. Pierre Aigle failed.

Advance North of Marne.

"North of the Marne our troops occupied Montcourt, the small woods north of Eloup, and the southern part of Bussiares.

"Our bombing machines continued operations yesterday, participating with their usual audacity in a country attack launched by us on the Montdidier-St. Maur front. They attacked with bombs enemy divisions who had come up to sustain the shock of our troops against the right wing. Before this attack the enemy units were obliged to disperse, leaving dead on the ground convoys were bottled up, and heavy artillery batteries, under heavy punishment, were abandoned by the gunners, who ceased to fire. A convoy took fire and a great fire broke out in Ressons-sur-Matz, where there was a large concentration of enemy troops. A total of 26 tons of projectiles were dropped with excellent results.

"During the night our bombing machines dropped thirteen tons of explosives on railway stations in the enemy zone, notably in the region of Nesle, Roye and Ressons-sur-Matz. Additional fires were started by these bombardments.

"On June 11 our pursuit machines brought down or put out of commission thirteen enemy planes."

WHY BEAUTY FADES

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes thin, pale, haggard and angular. She not only tires out easily, but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, until perhaps fatal consumption sets in, if prompt steps are not taken to increase and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich, red blood that brings the glow of health, no medicine yet discovered can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If given a fair trial their use brings rosy cheeks, bright eyes, a good appetite and good spirits. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. On the first sign of poor, thin blood mothers should insist upon their daughters taking a fair course of these pills. They will not only restore health, but will save further doctor bills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

How You Can Quickly Remove Hairy Growths

(Aids to Beauty.)

A well-known beauty specialist advises this treatment for the removal of hair from the face. Mix into a paste some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. This method is quick and entirely safe. To avoid disappointment, however, it is well to make certain you get genuine delatone.—Advt.

TWO MORE STEAMERS SUNK OFF COAST OF THE UNITED STATES

Norwegian Ships Are Latest Victims.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Two Norwegian steamships, the Vindeggen and Henrik Lund, were sunk by a German submarine when about two hundred miles east of Cape Charles, Vir., on last Saturday and Monday respectively. This brings the total of vessels sunk by U-boats since they began their campaign in these waters to eighteen.

Their crews, totalling 68 men, were brought here today by a Danish steamship which picked them up at sea after they had been set adrift in their small boats.

Eighty tons of copper ingots, part of the cargo of the Vindeggen, were taken aboard the submarine before the steamship was sunk by means of bombs.

The vessel was stopped by the submarine on June 8, and the crew was obliged to unload the copper into the ship's small boats and transfer it to the submarine. Then the small boats were taken in tow until the Henrik Lund was sighted, June 10. The Henrik Lund was from Norfolk for New York.

Are Cut Adrift.

Stopped by the submarine, the crew of this ship was likewise ordered into small boats and the ship sent to the bottom by bombs. Then the two crews were taken in tow, and when the Danish vessel was sighted, according to their story, the submarine cut them adrift and submerged.

ALMOND NOT INSPIRER OF VETERANS' CENSURE OF "Y" WORK AT FRONT

OTTAWA, June 12.—With reference to a resolution passed at the convention of the Great War Veterans' Association at Hamilton reflecting upon the administration of the Y.M.C.A., an item appeared in the press to the effect that Col. J. M. Almond, C.M.G., director of chaplain services overseas, had stated that he had inspired the resolution or the censure contained therein. Col. Almond, who has been absent on duty and has now returned overseas, communicated by wire with military headquarters stating that he had neither inspired nor had anything to do with the resolution referred to, and that the Great War Veterans' Association would certify to that effect. It is considered by the militia department that in justice both to the Y.M.C.A. and Col. Almond, the latter's statement should be given full publicity and this announcement is made accordingly.

GREAT FRENCH ARMY IS NOT YET IMPAIRED

Analysis of Facts Refutes Von Stein's Words.

GERMAN PEOPLE WORRIED

It Is a Hopeful Sign When Enemy Begins to Explain.

BY FRANK H. SIMONDS.
(Copyright, 1918, Tribune Association, New York Tribune.)

NEW YORK, June 12.—The first and the obvious thing to be said about the statement of General von Stein, the Prussian war minister, in which he declares that a great part of the French army has been beaten and that the so-called Foch reserve army no longer exists, is that it is untrue and demonstrably untrue.

The second observation must be that the German is forced to make false statements officially and publicly to cover conditions and facts which have disturbed his own people and are inconveniencing him at the present moment.

To deal with the statement that a great part of the French army has been destroyed: In the March offensive no part of the French army was involved at the moment of the attack, which fell upon fourteen British divisions, and these were overwhelmed. In succeeding days a certain number of French divisions came up and soon after their arrival the Picardy front was stabilized.

The Amiens Batttle.

Terrific German attacks between Montdidier and Amiens in the closing phase of this operation resulted in heavy German losses, in no gain of ground, and the French losses by comparison were small. Obviously then, no large part of the French army was defeated or even seriously engaged in the battle of Picardy.

In the subsequent battle in Flanders the British again suffered a local defeat and sanguinary losses lasting over two weeks. Toward the close of this battle a certain number of French reserves arrived, were engaged in the fighting about Kemmel, suffered severe losses in the case of one or two divisions, but in the aggregate no great losses. Nor were any great number of French reserves involved. It is untrue then that any considerable part of the French army was defeated in Flanders, and apart from the local loss of Kemmel there was no reverse of any sort, the German advance being pulled down promptly.

No Great Loss on Aisne.

Turning to the case of the battle of the Aisne, the situation is different. On the front attacked four French and three British divisions were involved. The three British divisions suffered considerably. The four French divisions were practically destroyed. And this was the heaviest loss to the French at any time in the three offensives. Following the German crossing of the Aisne a certain number of French divisions were sent to the front between Chateau-Thierry and Soissons, the line stabilized itself, the fighting was not particularly severe; American troops in part bore the burden with the French, and aside from the four divisions overwhelmed at the outset—no great part—no part of the French army was defeated.

There remains to discuss the present operation now going forward on the west bank of the Oise, in which the Germans claim so far to have taken 13,000 prisoners. But facts and figures as to this offensive would not be available for the Prussian war minister's speech. His reference must have plainly been to the three previous operations. However, it is clear that in this latest operation there has been no great French defeat, and no large destruction of French divisions.

Recourse to Explaining.

It is a hopeful sign when the enemy begins to explain. It is an even more hopeful sign when his explanations are palpable falsehoods. In the present case, General von Stein's assertions are obviously intended to have the effect of mustard shells filling the eyes of the kaiser's enemies with tears. A very little reflection will serve to demonstrate how idle are his claims.

The French army has suffered losses, but aside from the attack of May 27 it has not suffered the kind of losses which destroyed its organization. Its reserves have not been defeated, but in every case have succeeded in checking the German rush when they have been put in, and have unquestionably inflicted upon the German a much larger loss than they have suffered. While the French armies are holding our enemy within a restricted area, it is essential that we should not permit the enemy to shake our confidence or achieve behind the lines what he is not able to accomplish in front.

IMPORTANT ADVANCE SCORED BY ALLIES IN MACEDONIA AREA

Heights of Orvavruza Are Conquered With Much War Material.

PARIS, June 12.—The official statement from Macedonia reads:

"Eastern theatre, June 11.—There was sustained artillery activity on both sides west of the Vardar. The enemy attempted surprise attacks against our positions at Dobrudja and in the region west of Lake Ochrida, but these were repulsed.

"The operation on June 10 against Monts Kamia and Lenia enabled us to reduce the salient in the enemy lines. The region occupied by us gave us extended observation facilities and assured the covering of the positions newly conquered by our troops on the heights of Ovrvruza. This operation, despite the difficulties of the ground, which is very mountainous, presenting summits 2,000 meters in height still covered with snow, met with vigorous opposition on the part of the enemy, whose resistance only met with defeat after continued hand-to-hand fighting. It was carried out with remarkable spirit by the French troops and Albanian contingents. The number of prisoners taken exceeded 225. Ten cannon, including several mortars, and important war material also were captured."

N. W. Rowell from England.

Upwards of 700 members of the famous force enlisted for overseas in the recently raised squadrons.

MFRS. COMPLAIN MUNITION LABOR PAID TOO HIGH

Are Disturbing the Privately-Owned Plants, Is Charge.

FARMERS GET THE CREAM

Grain Growers Make 200 Per Cent, Yet Kick on the Tariff.

MONTREAL, June 12.—In a statement made during this afternoon's session of the annual convention of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, President Parsons touched upon the charge that has been made that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association was being "run by a Toronto clique of small men." He repudiated the suggestion as a reflection on the members of the executive who lived in other cities than Toronto.

During the discussion that took place on the announcement in the executive committee's report that $41,000,000 is being spent in Canada by the imperial munitions board in the establishment of plants, Sam Harris of Toronto said this was very true, but the imperial munitions board had no permanent stake in the country. It was, he said, paying wages that were out of all reason, to the disturbance of privately-owned plants. The executive should get into touch with the people who managed these plants and see if they could not be brought to some measure to see that they were disturbing conditions and raising the cost of living.

"That would be a difficult and delicate matter in war," suggested the president.

"All the more necessary," retorted Mr. Harris, amidst applause.

Voice of Agriculture.

Roderick MacKenzie, when introduced as the representative of the National Council of Agriculture and Grain Growers' Association, was warmly received by the delegates. He said he had come to the convention believing that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association existed for the sole purpose of boosting the tariff. He was glad to discover from reading its reports that it existed for other essential reasons, and was doing a lot of good. Canada was a country of great possibilities, and its resources could only be properly developed by united effort. Both the manufacturer and farmer were necessary.

Mr. MacKenzie went on to enumerate the things the farmers had to struggle against, the depopulation of rural districts particularly.

He concluded by saying: "I want you to show me an undertaking that needs protection and which we cannot do without. I hope that there will be conferences between the farming and manufacturing interests, when all the cards will be placed on the table."

Must Work Together.

J. T. Henderson echoed the contention of the previous speaker that there should be no division between the farmers and manufacturers. They had to work hand in hand, and woe betide those who sought to stir up division between them. He was sure their friends of the northwest were willing to bear any burdens required in developing Canada.

Senator Nichols pointed out that the average cost of a bushel of wheat was 80 cents, but the Dominion had set the price at $2.20. Allowing for depreciation and interest on investment here was a profit of 200 to 300 per cent for the farmer. No manufacturer ever made a profit like that. They must also remember that farmers were immune from the war profits, too, and, very largely, from the income tax. He was not objecting to the farmers making big profits. They must, however, live and let live, and he agreed they should meet oftener.

All Buying Autos.

As indicative of the prosperity of the west, Senator Nicholls mentioned that on March 1, automobiles to the number of 30,000 were registered in the Province of Saskatchewan. This was, he thought, a greater number in proportion than were registered in Ontario and Quebec.

S. R. Parsons, president of the association, announced that it would be glad to meet the grain growers of the west and bring about a conference in Winnipeg.

Sir John Willison suggested that probably, if the officers of the Grain Growers' Association and the Manufacturers' Association were to change places for six months, they would grow to understand conditions in the east and west better, and there would be a substantial end to the tariff controversy. The west had proved, by its war sacrifices, that its patriotism was an intense as that of the east. All that was needed was that the manufacturers and the farmers should know one another better.

Sir John then dealt with Ontario's attitude towards Quebec and remarked that, despite occasional differences, among the great mass of people in Ontario there was only a sincere desire for good relations with Quebec and the French-Canadians, and they wished them to have an equal part in the government of the country, according to their population.

After War Problems.

Sir John passed next to the problems that will be presented by the release of 250,000 persons from munitions work in Canada and the return of from 300,000 to 400,000 soldiers. Canada would have to adjust itself to the return of all people to civil pursuits. There was also the question of revenue. The most this country had ever raised in a year was $170,000,000. If the war lasted another year between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 a year will have to be provided.

The lesson to be drawn was that we must expand our industries to the greatest extent, raise as many new enterprises as possible to handle Canada's raw materials, and to get more settlers for the land. The country that made the greatest progress in the next 25 years would be the one possessing the greatest resources. It would be a sound national policy to develop manufacturing within our own boundaries. If we determined our national, industrial and agricultural policy between now and the return of the soldiers we should develop beyond anything ever dreamed of before.

Having shown the commercial greatness of Britain, France and the United States arose from their war efforts, Sir John urged that greater attention must be paid to technical and scientific training and research. Our universities, far behind those of the United States in this, must be patterned on Harvard, Columbia and Wisconsin. Then there was also the industrial research methods adopted by the big firms in the United States to follow. The Canadian Government should unite with businessmen on this subject. He pointed to Germany's preparations for the commercial struggle after the war.

Sir John mentioned that he had become connected with an organization which was taking up after-the-war industrial matters in Canada.

SIR JOSEPH JONAS IS UNDER GRAVE CHARGES

Accused of Letting Out Prohibited Information.

LONDON, June 12.—Sir Joseph Jonas, lord mayor of Sheffield in 1905, and a steel manufacturer, was in Bow Street Police Court today on the charge that, with various other persons whose names were not known, he "did obtain and communicate certain information prejudicial to the interests of the state and information useful to the enemy and information relating to prohibited places and things therein."

The offence with which Sir Joseph was charged was committed, according to the Evening News, before the war began. It is understood, also, that a war office official will figure in the case, according to the same newspaper.

The only evidence given in the Bow Street Court was with regard to the arrest by the detective who affected it. He said Sir Joseph made no reply when the warrant was read to him. The magistrate fixed the bail at £3,000.

Sir Joseph Jonas was born in Germany at Bingen-on-the-Rhine in 1845, and was educated at Bingen and Cologne. He was naturalized in 1878.

TEETHING TROUBLES

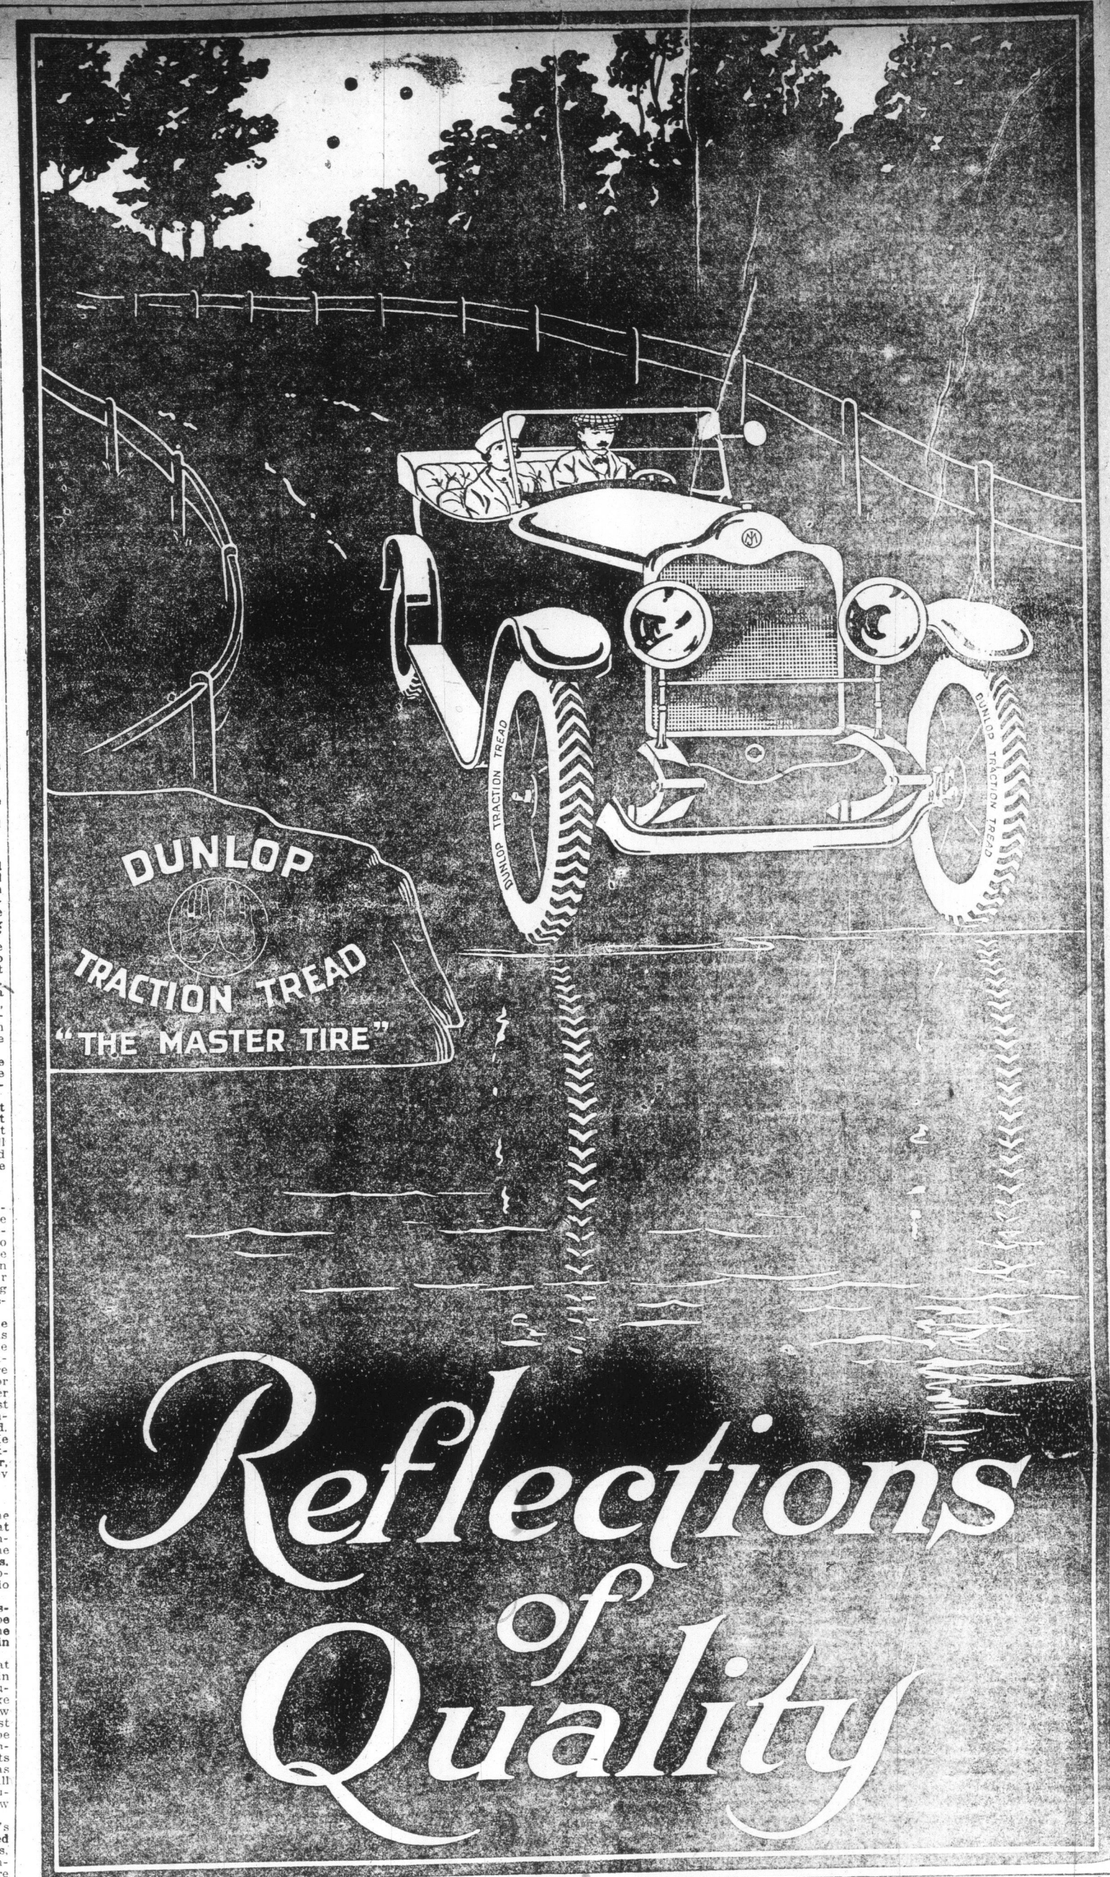

Baby's teething time is a time of worry and anxiety to most mothers. The little ones become cross, peevish, their little stomach becomes deranged and constipation and colic sets in. To make the teething period easy on baby the stomach and bowels must be kept sweet and regular. This can be done by the use of Baby's Own Tablets—the ideal laxative for little ones. Concerning them, Mrs. Henry Bernard, St. Emile, Que., says: "Baby's Own Tablets cured my baby of constipation and made his teething painless." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

GERMANY'S NAVAL THREAT.

THERE is a possibility that the Germans will attempt a great naval offensive in order to drive the British off the high seas, but it is only a possibility.

Swiss dispatches state that an official telegram is being spread broadcast throughout Germany which says such a movement is under consideration; high naval officers have been called home from neutral countries, where they have been spending leave, in order to be ready, and von Tripitz has issued a statement that the German navy is in a position to accept battle with the British.

One may be permitted to inquire what is the idea in making all this preliminary noise before the event. Germany has, on more than one occasion, announced a land offensive which later has been launched and she has succeeded in creating a certain degree of surprise by this trick, since the Allies were inclined to doubt that, if an attack were contemplated, it would be advertised. That scheme, however, is played out, and the constant watchfulness of the British fleet will not be affected by any Berlin reports. There is no chance of surprise on the seas.

The Teuton armies have made a partially successful drive towards Paris, and its early progress aroused enthusiasm among the people. They hoped it was the beginning of the end and that victory would crown the effort immediately. The assault slackened, and the temper of the masses changed; they were cast down from elation to something resembling despair. That is a fact vouched for in authoritative dispatches from those who have moved among civilian Germany in the last few weeks. While there is still some hope that the offensive will reach Paris or the channel, there is the counterbalancing certainty that further fearful losses will be inflicted and that the continuation of the war for some time to come is assured. This knowledge is depressing for the Huns.

Would it have a good effect if we hinted that we were about to attack the Allied naval forces? Would the masses gain heart with the thought that we believe ourselves capable not only of breaking up the blockade, but also of destroying the dreaded British navy? It is easy to imagine the German admiralty asking such questions and scheming to bolster up the nation's morale by such deceptions.

If the German navy were afraid to risk battle with the British and French for four years of war, as it was, is it to be supposed the risk will be taken when its enemies have been strengthened by American fleets? Only as a last resource can such an adventure be imagined.

There is something significant in the Tirpitz answer to the question as to whether the German navy dare challenge the British. He says: "Yes," but adds: "After our land forces have pushed the French and English back to the other side of Paris, it will be the turn of the kaiser's boats to drive the British off the high seas." It will be seen that Tirpitz has no desire to act unless there is tremendous land success, and that has not yet been accomplished.

"EDITORIALS—$1,033.33."

Our contemporary (The Toronto Globe) thinks this journal should explain the use of the word "editorials" in rendering the election account. This is readily done. The word was used in error by an accountant, to distinguish certain articles allotted to the Cronyn campaign committee. These articles were set in advertising type and occupied space devoted to advertising matter and on a page altogether apart from the editorial page. They were prepared by one of Canada's leading advertising agencies, whose services were solicited by the Cronyn campaign committee for this purpose, and the only connection with these articles had by The Free Press was the disposal of the space in question at advertising rates.—London Free Press.

PRETTY SMOOTH, EH? The Toronto Globe gave its Unionist confrere a hole through which to squeeze and, believe us, the little old Richmond street warbler certainly took the advice of its new-found big brother, and made a dash for the fence. But we think that it left a hind foot in the gap, for someone closed the gate. The result will be a few more squeals.

The item in the bill rendered by the London Free Press to the Unionist candidate which had such dread significance to the readers of that paper and to itself was a simple statement, "Editorials—$1,033.33." In explanation of this "error" we find the following defence, glibly and with much oral oil, handed to a long-suffering public. Let the argument be taken up "clause by clause":

1. "The word (editorials) was used in error by an accountant to distinguish certain articles contained in an advertising space allotted to the Cronyn campaign committee."

Why should a newspaper accountant of long experience use the word "editorials" when he meant "reading notices"? Simply because he was an honest accountant who made his entries according to the facts! He would probably have been "fired" long ago if the scandal would not lead to further complications. It is customary, and the accountant and everyone else who ever got a bill from a newspaper knows it, to charge by the line for all advertising matter and to specify the number of insertions. In the case of "Editorials—$1,033.33" the sum was charged in bulk. No lines were specified nor were insertions indicated. The other items charged up had $1,033.33 added to them, which brought the amount to the round sum of $1,500. Can the London Free Press produce from its ledgers another case showing that "reading matter" advertising was charged against an individual in such a manner?

2. "These articles were set in advertising type and occupied space devoted to advertising matter and on a page apart altogether from the editorial page."

Just what can be meant by advertising type? Was the type the same size as that which is used on this page, in this article? Any kind of type may be called advertising type, and an editorial is known not so much by its location as what it strives to achieve. Did these articles appear as a part of the policy of the paper, without being marked "advertisement," and were they in the form of ordinary news or advertising make-up? Because the size of the type was increased for election hysterics does not alter the fact that the whole matter was charged up as "Editorials—$1,033.33," and that no indication was given that the editorials did not appear on the editorial page. Were the articles such as would be regarded by another newspaper as editorials, special election editorials, if you like, but editorials for which no decent newspaper would make a charge? And if they were advertising or "reading notices" why were they not marked and charged as advertising is always charged? And when a thing is called an "article" can it be called an "ad"?

The Free Press thinks one of its editorials by any other name would smell as——sweet.

3. "They (the editorials) were prepared by one of Canada's leading advertising agencies, whose services were solicited by the Cronyn campaign committee and the only connection with these articles by the Free Press was the disposal of the space at advertising rates."

Methinks he doth protest too much! This effort to blame it all on advertising, while they call it "articles," and the talk about "rates" is rather difficult to follow? What were the rates? Why were the "rates" not specified in the bill? Why were not so many lines of space charged up, if it was not editorial space? Can you blame this on the accountant who "seen his duty and done it"? Can you produce these wonderful, stingless articles which were contracted for so regularly and charged so irregularly? Can you expect the public to swallow this while that bill goes unexplained, with the accusing finger of journalism pointed at you and the public finally sighing with the relief of having found out for sure, at last, while the self-condemning words "Editorials—$1,033.33" plead guilty with a simple eloquence and force which no amount of explanation will overcome. The charge was this, that the London Free Press sent an account to the Unionist candidate in which a definite figure for editorials was charged. It is regrettable that a newspaper's influence cannot be measured at a line rate. Otherwise the Richmond street journal might have been spared from making such a humiliating spectacle of itself. But now and for all time the public may ask, as certain "principles" are strenuously supported in the columns of that journal, "HOW MUCH DID THAT COST"?

SOLDIERS AND POLITICS.

[Westminster Gazette.]

A new test for the soldier is demanded by the Observer. "Only those," it says, "must be employed in whom the Government of the day have confidence, and who are undoubtedly loyal in letter and spirit to the Government of the day." Loyalty to king and country, which has hitherto been regarded as sufficient for the soldier, is apparently to be subordinated to agreement with the Government, whatever may be its particular political complexion. Before that doctrine is adopted it will be well to measure its possible consequences. The supply of good leaders for the army is not inexhaustible, and a few quick changes of Government might leave the army without any competent staff at all, and in the most hopeless confusion. We do not care to see the doctrines of Bolshevism applied to the British army.

GRIZELDA'S WILD OATS.

[By Jane Osborn.]

Down there in the tropical loneliness of a Panama engineering camp, Bob Lamar had seen the picture of Helen Ferrel and it had seemed to him as if all the loveliness that the word woman could possess for him was indicated in those calm, level eyes, that oval cheek, the firm, well-molded mouth and the small feminine chin. Helen's brother, Gregory Ferrel, had shown him the picture and when he saw that the picture apparently meant more to Bob than to himself he gave it to him, sure that Bob would be entirely worthy of the gift. Not a great deal passed between the young engineers regarding the picture, but when they parted at the end of their work there together it was agreed that as soon as Bob could return to the northern state where the Ferrels made their home Gregory would introduce them. And having arrived home before Bob, Gregory Ferrell did not lose any time in informing his family of the countless virtues that made Bob Lamar "the finest fellow in the world."

"He's the kind of fellow that can go through the world without a single scratch," he said one day in his sister's hearing. "He's the most masculine man I ever knew," he continued for the benefit of Helen, "but I don't believe he ever sowed a wild oat in his life. Some girl will be lucky to marry him—that is, of course, if he ever takes the notion to marry."

Helen registered her interest in the character so glowingly painted by her brother by blushing ever so slightly and looking more intently than ever at her knitting. But Grizelda, eighteen-year-old "child" of the family, tossed her brown locks and said something that sounded like "poo-poo."

"Just 'cause a man never sows any wild oats doesn't mean he's the 'finest fellow in the world'," she announced. "You are pretty nice and I guess you sowed some, Greg. I guess there are some people that just can't help being foolish enough once in a while, and Grizelda might have gone on with her theory of wild oat sowing had she not been cut short by a reproving, "Grizelda, why do you say such awful things?" from the elder sister.

A month later Bob Lamar had returned to civilization in general and to the section of civilization in which the Ferrels had their being in particular. Through a few brief letters exchanged it was arranged that Bob Lamar should visit the Ferrels on a certain week-end in June and, though nothing was said to indicate that Bob's visit was designed especially that he might meet Helen, the entire Ferrel family seemed to make preparations with that end in view. That is, all the family but Grizelda.

When Gregory met Bob at the station of the town where the Ferrels lived there was something grave and serious in the face of Gregory that immediately solicited an inquiry from Bob.

"Has anything gone wrong?" Bob asked. "Helen isn't ill—or—or anything?" Her name had not been mentioned since his arrival, five minutes before.

"Why, no, Helen is not ill. But to tell you the truth, you have come at a rather trying time. I'm afraid you will feel the depression of it—you see, my sister, Grizelda——"

"Oh, the little girl with the brown ringlets."

"She was a little girl in the picture you saw," Gregory said, "but she's grown up since then. She's eighteen—and the ringlets were brown."

"Well, what color are they now?" laughed Bob.

"That's the terrible thing," said Gregory, still very tragically. "I didn't think I'd tell you, but I suppose I had better. They—the ringlets, are—I hardly know how to tell you. But Grizelda had her hair bleached. Yesterday she was a brunette, and now she is as golden-haired as a peroxide show girl."

Bob, in spite of Gregory's tragic air, laughed outright. "Well, it'll all come in brown again," he said.

"Yes, but in the meantime—in the months that pass before that! What will people say. Imagine a daughter of Theosophus Ferrel, church warden, and president of the board of education, with peroxide hair. Of course, no one must know. Of course, father was frightfully enraged about it. Grizelda tried to explain and he stormed at her at first and then when he asked her about it she was sullen and wouldn't say anything. It happened last night—she came home that way before dinner, and she's been in her room ever since. We didn't want to have even the servants see. Of course, we'll have to send her away somewhere—till it comes in brown. We haven't decided just where she'll go. If there were only convents now as there used to be where girls could go on retreats or something, I suppose she'll just have to go to some out-of-the-way farm. It will take about six months, I suppose. And we don't know what we'll tell people. It's a very ugly business, Bob."

Bob was no longer inclined to laugh. He looked as sad as Gregory, but his eyes were softer. "Poor little kid," he murmured, but Gregory did not hear it.

"Please don't let any of the family know I told you about this," he said. "And, Bob, please don't think that Helen is at all that sort of girl. Helen and Grizelda are as different as two sisters could be—she has absolutely no patience with the child."

Perhaps it was because or in spite of all effort on the part of the Ferrels to act as if the dreadful thing that had happened had not happened. At any rate the meeting of Helen Ferrel and Bob Lamar was not quite what anyone concerned had expected it would be. To be sure, Helen had changed almost none since the picture that Bob had treasured had been taken. She was the same Helen and Bob was the same Bob, but there was no quick look of understanding between them that was part of the meeting as everyone had planned it. Perhaps this was because Bob was preoccupied. As soon as he could conveniently do so he made a strange request of Gregory. "I want to see Grizelda," he told him. "I can't get her out of my mind. I want to talk to her. Poor youngster—we all sew our wild oats, and hers have been of a very tame sort—but she's going through worse torture for it than you and I did for the worst crop we ever sowed."

Under protest, therefore, Gregory did secrete Bob up the back stairway and into Grizelda's prison—a room that had been the school room when the children were young and was now the barest room in the house. Bob asked to talk with the girl alone.

He told her to begin with that he had come to her as the best friend that she had, and then laughing a little and taking her warm young hand, asked her to tell him all about it.

"Well, you see, they wouldn't let me tell them. I said I didn't mean to do it, and they said I did, so I thought if they thought I wasn't telling the truth I wouldn't tell. Well, it was this way. You know Helen has that nice glinty kind of hair and so has Gregory, and they've always told me my hair was potato color. And there was a girl at school and she said if I let her wash my hair with something her mother had in a bottle my hair would come out with glints in it, and no one would know, but they'd just think it was getting that way. Well, I went home with her and first time we used it didn't make much difference, so we used more the next time and when—when it dried it was this color. And that's how it happened and now we're all disgraced and I'm just as wicked as if I'd done something perfectly dreadful. They're going to send me away," she said without a tear. "If they really loved me they wouldn't."

"Poor little girl," said Bob, and then he took the little blonde head on his shoulder and smoothed the hair tenderly back from her fair young forehead. "Everyone makes a mistake once in a while—" he began.

"But you never did," said Grizelda definitely. "Gregory told Helen you hadn't and Helen says she never could marry a man that had sowed any wild oats. Nice people don't do foolish things like this, do they? Helen would be furious if she knew you had seen me—did you think Helen was beautiful?" eagerly asked the girl, who had wormed it out of Gregory before that Bob Lamar had Helen's picture.

"I'm not thinking about Helen just now, except perhaps to think that she would never want to marry me, anyway. I was thinking of a way out of this. I'm going out to Japan—next week. I'll be gone six months. The hair would be in brown again by that time, and in the meantime what difference would it make? Little Grizelda—I decided never to go away from civilization again without one of my own kind. Could you go with me—would you marry me, right away quietly, right here and slip back to New York and off to Japan with me?"

It was Grizelda's only way out of her difficulty, but she was supremely happy, and even Helen Ferrell forgave the slight, since it saved the family honor.

"It really is wonderful," she sometimes remarked to Gregory, "that a man who had never done anything wild himself could sympathize so with one who had been so foolish."

And Gregory never suggests that perhaps there were chapters in Bob Lamar's life that had been as wild as the bleaching of Grizelda's hair.

HER EYES.

Once on a joyous lilting, summer night,
The stars were dancing in a long, glad dream,
When two that lost their way fell straight to earth,
Behind them leaving paths of wondrous gleam.

And by a dark, still pool, in slumber sweet,
On either bank forget-me-nots soft swayed,
Safe, sheltered by great trees of forests old,
And knew not what it was to be afraid.

Down, ever down, through moonlight shimmered air,
The trembling stars unerring found their way,
Straight to the slumbering sweet forget-me-nots,
And begged so timidly that they might stay,

Thus, when the fairies searched for eyes full sweet,
For maid as lovely as a summer dream,
They found the sleeping pool in forests old,
With banks all blues and lit with lost stars' gleam.

And taking two soft flowers of tenderest blue,
And both the gleaming stars of tremulous light,
They swiftly took them to the God of heaven
To make her eyes, that are my heart's delight.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

12. Verse 26—Why did Pilate place this inscription over Jesus, and what significance is it to us?

13. Verse 27—What conversation took place between the two thieves and Jesus? (See Luke xxiii., 39-43.)

14. Why would you infer, or not, from the fact that the penitent thief was saved in the hour of death that any sinner may be saved in like manner?

15. Verse 28—What is the significance to us that Christ made common cause with us sinners?

Golden Text—Truly this man was the Son of God. Mark xv., 39.

Every Converted Sinner Knows Jesus is the Son of God.

We obtain knowledge in various ways—some comes to us by experience, other knowledge we learn from others, some we think out and discover by our own efforts, but much very important knowledge comes to us instinctively, or is revealed to us without any particular effort on our part. The most important things in life we know without being told. We never learned to be hungry, nor to laugh, nor to suffer pain, nor to enjoy. Our belief in God and in immortality is very much after this sort. Our real knowledge of Jesus Christ is experiental, or revealed to us by Jesus Himself. When a sinner is thoroughly converted, he knows that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. No person could make the change in his nature who was not divine.

London Woman To Demonstrate For U. S. Food Board

Miss Christina MacLean Left Tuesday for New York.

Miss Christina V. MacLean of 538 Colborne street left Tuesday for New York to take up demonstration and lecture work for the American food board, in connection with a food fair being put on there. Miss McLean has had 25 years of experience along this line, and now that the American food board has required that one pound of oatmeal, cornmeal or other cereal be used with every pound of white flour, Miss MacLean has been called to demonstrate yeast breads made in this proportion, and will no doubt be of great assistance to the American food board in teaching the public how to prepare a palatable and wholesome yeast bread.

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge.

Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

JIMMY COON STARTS A LAUNDRY.

Well, it was a wonder, but Jimmy Coon opened a Laundry at Mirror Pond. And it was the talk of the town. And the Laundry of Jimmy Coon was a great success. You would have been surprised to see how many of the Little Wood Folk brought all their clothes to Jimmy Coon, for him to wash!

And Jimmy was the best washer of clothes you ever heard of. Jimmy had something he put on the clothes, which made all the dirt come out in the washing. It was called Coon Elbow Grease; and Jimmy put lots of this grease on the clothes, when he washed them. In fact, Jimmy was very strong in his arms, and had splendid muscles; and he rubbed and scrubbed those clothes, until every speck of dirt was scrubbed out.

You see Jimmy's Laundry was right on the bank of Mirror Pond, under the lovely Willow Tree; so that he had lots of pure water for washing his clothes. And it was awfully funny to see Jimmy do his washing. You know most people with us wash on Monday. You all remember, especially your Mother does, what a lovely time we all have on Monday, our wash day! Well, Jimmy had the time of his life on every Monday, our great and famous Wash Day.

Why, Wash Day was to Jimmy a perfect circus of a day. He would have a big pile of clothes, and he would roll up his little sleeves, and he was so lively washing the clothes that you could hardly see his hands and arms, because they moved up and down the washboard so fast. And what lovely suds Jimmy made when he washed! Why, you could have blown soap-bubbles if you had been there! You see Jimmy Coon used lots and lots of that Coon Elbow Grease, and that makes fine bubbles!

And Jimmy Coon rinsed all the clothes after he had thoroughly scrubbed and rubbed them. It was wonderful to see him rinse all the clothes. Jimmy would souse and souse them in the clean water of Mirror Pond, until all the Coon Elbow Grease was washed away. And after the clothes were scrubbed and rinsed in several changes of water, Jimmy put out all the clothes to dry. Jimmy did not believe in hanging the clothes on a line to dry, for he said: "Hanging clothes on a line to dry is a dangerous business, for the wind may blow, and tear your nice and costly clothes to tatters!"

So Jimmy spread the clothes he washed on the nice green grass on the bank of Mirror Pond. And in this way, Jimmy was able to bleach his washing very white. It was a lovely sight to see Jimmy's Wash out! And Jimmy had so much fun on every Monday washing, that he decided to wash every day in the week. And so every day was a lovely Wash Day with Jimmy Coon. Tell your Mother that Jimmy sets us all a beautiful example.

Tomorrow—Little People of the Woods Come to Jimmy's Laundry.

It Was Awfully Funny To See Jimmy Do His Washing.

INTERESTING LETTERS TO WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Two letters of interest have been received by the treasurer of the Local Council of Women. The first one, from Lady Beattie, acknowledging on behalf of the fund for sailors and wounded sailors a contribution made by the local council here, reads as follows:

Aberdour House, Aberdour, Fife,
May 20, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Graham,—I acknowledge with grateful thanks the check for £20 11s, which you very kindly sent on behalf of the Council of Women for the relief of sailors.

As to your inquiries regarding shelters, I am not quite clear whether you refer to the many huts erected by the Y.M.C.A. for the sailors, and in which work I take the greatest interest. The most important of these huts is situated within seven miles from here, and it is entirely run under my personal supervision. As you perhaps know, our home in Leicestershire has been turned into a convalescent hospital for sailors, and I have also a small fund for wounded sailors, especially intended to assist discharged men when the time to start them in some business has come. I find that this way of helping is greatly appreciated by our sailors, and, with your permission, I am placing your very generous gift into my fund for sailors and wounded sailors.

Will you please convey my most grateful thanks to all the members of the Council of Women for their valuable help?

Yours sincerely,
Signed) ETHEL BEATTY.

A second letter, from Sir William Goode, acknowledging a similar gift to the Belgian Relief Committee, is also of interest, and reads as follows:

National Committee for Relief in Belgium,
Trafalgar Buildings,
Trafalgar Square, London, W.C.2.
16th May, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Graham,—I am so much obliged for your extremely kind letter of April 16, with its further splendid contribution of £22 1s 10d, for which I inclose the honorary treasurer's formal receipt.

I am, however, extremely sorry to hear of Mrs. Boomer's inability to continue her splendid work, and this regret the national committee fully shares. Perhaps you would be kind enough to convey to her our deep thanks for the magnificent work which she has done on our behalf.

It is extremely interesting to learn of the way in which you and the other ladies of London took up our campaign, and still more gratifying to learn that out of the comparatively small beginning of selling The London Advertiser you and those who have so effectively helped have raised no less than $6,881.81.

Please accept on behalf of the national committee and, you may be sure, on behalf of the Belgian nation, sincere thanks for your generous assistance and splendid co-operation. Yours sincerely,

(Signed) WILLIAM GOODE,
Honorary Secretary.

The selling of The London Advertiser referred to in the above letter was a special Belgian Relief Edition of The Advertiser, issued by the women of the local council in November, 1914. The proceeds from the sale and advertising amounting to about $1,200, were devoted to the Belgian relief fund.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL BOX

Rhubarb Jam.

Dear Miss Grey,—Will you please publish a good recipe for rhubarb marmalade or jam in The Advertiser? Thanking you in advance. Sincerely yours. NORAH.

This is an excellent and cheap marmalade: To four bunches of rhubarb add four oranges, and no more sugar than for sweet preserved rhubarb; no water. When done, just before bottling, stir in 10 cents' worth of walnut meats, or it is nice without.

Wants Exam Papers.

Dear Miss Grey,—1. Can you tell me where I can get the 1917 lower school exam papers? I thought I saved mine, but cannot find them.

2. I would like a couple of nice duets.

3. Can you give me a recipe for rhubarb pudding?

Do you receive any letters from here? Best wishes to the Mail-Box.

JUNE ROSES.

P.S.—Please send me "High School Girl's" address.

Ans.—1. Write department of education, Toronto.

3. Prepare and cut rhubarb in small pieces and place in bottom of baking dish; sweeten. Pour over a batter made of one egg, pinch of salt, half cup sugar, one tablespoon shortening, one cup sweet milk, two level teaspoons baking powder, two level cups flour. Beat all well together, bake. Serve pudding with boiled sauce or cream.

4. Yes.

5. Neglected to send stamped envelope.

And the Strain of Nursing Sick Children—Had Dizzy Spells and Palpitation of the Heart.

Ingersoll Ont. June 12.

Strength after an exhausting illness is usually a slow process, unless you can supply nourishment to the system in a condensed and easily assimilated form.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does this very thing it is highly appreciated as a restorative by all whose blood has become thin and watery, or whose nervous system is exhausted.

Mrs. Elizabeth Harriott, Ingersoll, Ont., writes: "I am writing to tell you of the benefit I have received from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. About eighteen months ago I was very much run down after a severe attack of tonsilitis. This, and the strain of nursing several of my children who were sick almost at the same time, placed me in a very nervous, run-down state. I was very drowsy, took dizzy spells and had palpitation of the heart. A friend of mine advised me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I sent for six boxes. I took them regularly, and after the first box I found my nerves were steadier and that the dizziness and palpitation were disappearing. I kept on using the Nerve Food, and found great relief in many ways. I can get up early in the morning without feeling tired, and the bad taste in my mouth on arising has gone completely. My system is built up, and I feel so much better.

"My daughters have also derived great benefit from taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I am always recommending this splendid medicine, and would not be without them in the house. They are pleasant to take, and you do not feel the effects of their working, and no pain. You are at liberty to use this letter for the benefit of others who may be suffering as I was."

"I am acquainted with Mrs. Harriott, and believe that any statement she makes would be true."—R. N. Thurtell, druggist.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of six boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

New Yorkers Win in the First Inning by Burns' Homer.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The Giants broke the Cubs' winning streak here today, Perritt defeating Tyler in a pitching duel by a score of 1 to 0. The Cub pitcher did not allow a hit after the second inning.

The defeat was the first suffered by Chicago in its eastern invasion.

The visitors claimed that the hit was foul and immediately rushed the umpire. In the mix-up around the plate, in which the entire Jersey City team took part, the umpire was struck several blows. Twilight ball has in a measure supplanted the saloon. The proverbial "wages" of the workingman can now be expended betting on the wrong team.

Baseball in the twilight should become quite attractive to the girls. Especially if their particular "company" is a ball fan.

SEVEN LOCAL BOXERS TO MEET BEST SCRAPPERS AT CP. GRANT

Bouts With London Soldiers Widely Advertised — Will Be Pitted Against Some of Americas Finest Pugs.

Arrangements for a grand boxing tournament at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., on July 4, in which seven local pugilists will participate, have been completed, and the London soldiers will leave for the American cantonment on July 1 for the occasion. The pick of 65,000 men will be pitted against the W.O.R. boys, and the latter will be forced to step lively if they are to bring home the laurels.

Chicago newspapers have advertised the event widely, and have incidentally created a reputation for London as the hive of Canadian pugilism. Owing to this fact those who will engage the American boys in the fisticuffs have already commenced training, and the seven best will be chosen at an early date.

Ed. Smith, sporting editor of the Chicago American and foremost boxing referee in the United States, will officiate. There will be all kinds of sports, baseball and boxing on the program. The London baseball team will not accompany the fighters, as arrangements have been made at the American camp for a game with a baseball nine from Camp Dodge, Iowa.

Every effort is being made here to put the boys in the pink of condition, for their exhibitions across the border will go a long way toward establishing a reputation for London and Canada in the athletic world.

Fred Dyer, cousin of the local camp boxing instructor and champion welterweight of Australia, is in charge of boxing at Camp Grant. He and his cousin will stage an exhibition bout which will be the feature of the program. Keen rivalry exists between these two experts with the gloves, and a great fight is expected. Under the supervision of Sergt. Dyer and Jack Fox the local mitt students have progressed rapidly and will be in fine trim to meet the crack American pugs.

The cream of pugilism is, of course, distributed in camps across the border, and the disadvantage under which local fight officials are working will be great, owing to the fact that the best of Canadian gove specialists have long since offered themselves for service, and in many instances have given their lives to the Empire.

Alphonse Carr Wins a Bet and Tastes Some Good Wine

[This is the second of a series of letters describing sport in the trenches, from Pte. Carr. He has promised to keep Advertiser readers informed on all sport going on in his sector.—Editor's Note.]

Somewhere by Chance.
May 18, 1918.

The Sporting Editor of The Advertiser:

Dear Ed.—Well, Ed., how is everything by you? It's all right by me, too, although Fritz has been making it darned uncomfortable. His delivery is somewhat wild, though, and he passes me every time. Wish we had an umpire in this here game, Ed. He'd surely hand it to us for Fritzie's many foul plays. Now I've got talking baseball, and you know as well as I do, Ed., that once I get going on ball I don't leave off till darkness sets in. When it comes to being a live ball fan, I'm full of electricity. I put one over on the sergeant-major yesterday, when he said that a man wasn't out when he got hit on the crust with a ball and was laid out. I said he was, so we put it up to Lieut. Wilson. Well, Mr. Wilson said: "I should think he would be very much out in that case, Carr," and so the bonehead sergeant-major coughed up two-bits for his boneheadedness.

Say, how are the Tigers making out? I hear they are hanging on to the cellar for all they are worth, which isn't much. Well, the cellar is all right in a wet town, but they tell me Detroit and the Sahara are pretty closely related just now. I was took down to a real cellar by a female Frenchman last week. No, she wasn't no beauty, not the kind you read about as is always being married to soldiers. They don't grow that kind here, not that I've been able to find out, anyway.

Well, Ed., I went down to this cellar, and it reminded me of the days when you drank your juleps and I wore a big red nose. I still wear the same nose, but it's getting paler and paler. I think some guy is stealing part of my rum rations.

The stuff she gave me was old French Burgundy booze. Say, Ed., honest, did you ever taste Burgundy booze? Jugfuls of joy-water! It was some booze! I recited "The Barber's Ballad" and "A Boozehound's Revenge" to her after I had drunk it. She wasn't much of a looker, and as old as the booze she give me. But you know me, Ed. Gratitude to the feminine sect is one of my great trays.

We played D Company the other day and they sent me in to pitch. Now, you know that the only pitching I ever did was with a pitchfork. Naturally, I was knocked out of the box, but not until I had hit the C.Q.M.S. of D Company on the ivory. He swore he done it purposely. Perhaps he was right, too. The other day I was singing "Preserve My Bones in Alcohol,' and the C.Q.M.S. deliberately crabbed my act. Revenge is sweet, Ed., and I leave it to you whether I hit the guy on the dome on purpose or not. He is the kind of an N.C.O. who would steal the salt from your soup or the gold from his mother-in-law's false eye teeths.

Well, old bullhead, I intended writing about that game of ball, but the time here is precious, as the post-corporal will be along in half a jiff. Say, bonehead, don't swipe the affectations of my girl while I am here fighting for universal autocracy. If you ever feel like bestowing any affection just convey my undying and unextinguished love to her. That will be suffish. One thing more, send me some Pall Malls next time you send some smokes. Those Scarlatinas you sent almost blew me up. They were miniature gas bombs.

Well, I may see you here soon, as I hear they are calling out all the guys who come under the anti-loafing law. I know that you are great for the ants, especially if it's jack-pot, but the loaf part of it will get you, all right. Oh, well, I may see you here soon, as I hear they are calling out all the guys who come under the anti-loafing law. I know that you are great for the ants, especially if it's jack-pot, but the loaf part of it will get you, all right. On reservoir, till we meet again. Your pal, ALPHONSE CARR, PTE., 3758 1st Canadian Regiment.

WILSON'S HANNIBAL EASY WINNER OF BELMONT FEATURE

Colt Makes Up For Previous Disappointing Showing.

New York, June 13.—Richard T. Wilson, Jun.'s long streak of ill-luck turned yesterday at Belmont Park, when his home bred colt Hannibal galloped home an easy winner of the Keene memorial stakes, one of the most important of the newer fixtures for Juveniles.

The son of Olambala had disappointed his owner by failing to keep pace with Elfin Queen in the Juvenile stakes, and also when he finished second to Harry Payne Whitney's Blue Laddie, but his private work had been so impressive that he was a strong choice for yesterday's big event. He more than justified the support accorded him, for he led the procession of smart youngsters from start to finish, and as he breezed past the judge's stand, he had ten lengths to spare. Two races with only three starters in each, made the picking of winners easier, than usual, and the result was that five of the favorites were successful. The only exception was in the last race when W. R. Coe's Under Fire, an even-money choice, was beaten by G. W. Loftus' Fleeting Sheik and Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Kerensky.

The steeplechase resulted in a popular victory for Syosset, which carried top weight and won by three lengths from New Haven.

First race, 6 furlongs—Elfin Hart, 103 (Ambrose), 4 to 5, 1 to 4, out, 1; Helen Atkin, 107 (Shuttinger), 16 to 5, 4 to 5, and out, 2; Pazza, 103 (Walls), 15 to 1, 4 to 1, 6 to 5, 3. Time 1:14 2-5. Winning Card and Sand II. also ran.

Second race, steeplechase, 4 years and up, about 2 miles—Syosset, 147 (Powers), 6 to 5, 1 to 2, out, 1; New Haven, 145 (Borgan), 8 to 1, 3 to 1, 7 to 5, 2; Dorcris, 143 (Allen), 9 to 2, 8 to 5, 7 to 10, 3. Time 4:22. Early Light, High Flyer, Wolferton II, Garter also ran.

Third race, 3 years and up, mile—Corn Tassel, 116 (Knapp), 1 to 4, out, out, 1; Red Sox, 105 (Ambrose), 7 to 1, 9 to 10, out, 2; Pan American, 97 (Rodriguez), 1 to 3, 2 to 5, out, 3. Time 1:40 3-5. Only three starters.

Fourth race, 2 years, 5½ furlongs—Hannibal, 112 (Knapp), 11 to 10, 2 to 5, 1 to 4, 1; Star Hampton, 122 (Ambrose), 4 to 1, 7 to 5, 3 to 5, 2; The Trumpet, 112 (A. Collins), 12 to 1, 4 to 1, 2 to 1, 3. Time 1:05. Aunt Dinah, Blair Gowrie, Sweepment, Warspirit, My Friend, Zuleika also ran.

Fifth race, 4 years and up, selling, 1½ miles—Little Nearer, 124 (J. Bell), 4 to 1, 1 to 4, out, 1; Star Shooter, 109 (McGraw), 4 to 5, out, 2; Judge Wingfield, 112 (Peake), out, 3. Time 2:38 2-5. Three starters.

Sixth race, 2 year olds, 5 furlongs—Fleeing Skeik, 108 (Shuttinger), 10 to 1, 3 to 1, 8 to 5, 1; Kerensky, 112 (Ambrose), even, 1 to 2, 2; Under Fire, 115 (Fairbrother), 1 to 4, 3. Time 1:00. Mahoney, War Zone, Sunning Dale, Beauty Sleep and Stiletto ran.

Trench Fever the Reducer of Armies, Yet Seldom Fatal

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

DR. HIRSHBERG

As a result of scientific investigations of "trench fever, the disease which is causing an alarming wastage of man power in the armies, conducted by the American Red Cross through medical officers of the American expeditionary force at a British base hospital, it has been found that this malady assaults the fighting man in two ways.

In one there is a fever which lasts from a few days to a week, and in the other there is a series of relapses alternated between times with absence of fever. In both the attack begins suddenly with headaches, dizziness, pain, constipation and a fever of 103 degrees.

There is a vast difference, however, between this set of symptoms and those which you may think you have out of the trenches. There is seldom any sore throat, running of the nose, or any cough. Nor are there any serious complications or any debility of serious consequence. There is no rash as in Liberty measles, no joint pains as in arthritic fever, nor any spirochaetes in the blood as in relapsing fever.

A drop of blood must be examined under the microscope to make certain that trench fever is not true malaria, influenza, "colds," relapsing fever or one of the intestinal infections.

"Runs Its Course."

The treatment of trench fever is directed toward the relief of the discomfort and pain. Skilled army surgeons do not fool themselves or their patients into the belief that salicylate of soda and antipyrene used to combat the fever, sleeplessness and soreness has any influence on the germs or the disease itself.

Trench fever is thought to be transmitted by the louse. From a week to three weeks after infected insects bite, trench fever develops. The infectious nature of trench fever is easily proved. By injecting blood from its victims into the healthy person who volunteered for the experiment it was proved that the distemper is infectious.

Trench fever is like a great many infectious disorders in that it "runs its course," hardly at all affected by any treatment. Nearly all those who fall ill with such sickness recover.

Trench fever was unknown to the medical profession before the present war, and there is still little information of value in regard to it; the microscope has not yet decided the organism which causes it. But among the British troops at the front it is at the head of all the fevers, and is second in the list of those which cause the greatest wastage. It has caused almost one-third of all the sickness in some of the armies in the field in Northern Brance. One division alone during one year averaged 350 cases a month. Although it disables a soldier for from six to eight weeks, it is not fatal, and it leaves no permanent disabilities. But the extended absence of the sufferer makes the disease alarmingly destructive of man power.

Efforts to Conquer.

Trench fever became recognized as a distinct, specific infection during the latter part of 1915 and in 1916. While the first cases disabled the patients for only a brief period, the time a soldier is kept away from his command has materially increased the development of the disease, owing to the many relapses which occur in the majority of cases. In France the fever has occurred particularly in those who have been in the trenches or have cared for the sick in the hospitals.

The onset of the fever is sudden, as a rule, and marked by headache, dizziness, pains in the back, and particularly in the legs, and a sharp rise in temperature, usually to 102 or 103 degrees. Pain in the shins is a common complaint by patients, and is often very distressing. The pulse is usually in the neighborhood of 100. The heart is normal in the early stages of the disease, but disordered action is very common later in severe cases. The incubation period of the disease has been known to extend to 22 days.

It was with the approval of Gen. Pershing that a call for volunteers for experimentation to conquer this disease was made. In transmitting the names of the 60 chosen the divisional chief surgeon wrote to the chief surgeon of the American expeditionary force: "It is a subject of some pride in this division that practically all of the men of the 101st, 102nd and 104th field hospitals and the 101st, 102nd and 104th ambulance companies volunteered for this service."

Answers to Health Questions

M. D.: Q.—What can be done for a bad chalky taste in the mouth?

A.—Use a good antiseptic tooth paste, and 1 dram compound tincture of benzoin in hot water as a mouth wash. Drink three quarts of distilled water or a pure carbonate water daily; also cream, olive oil, whey and buttermilk. Eat green vegetables, shun starchy foods, those which are highly seasoned, rich, greasy rations, coffee and tea. Obtain daily outdoor exercise; 5 grains of either one of the following may be tried after each meal: Bile salts, or ox-gall, or ox-bile. The bowels must be kept active.

A DAILY READER: Q.—Please give a remedy for dry eczema.

A.—There are several varieties of eczema, some of which are cured by keeping away from water, from fevers, keeping away from water, from occupations from chemicals and from occupations that irritate it. You may also try a little of the following:

Salicylic acid	15 grains
Balsam peru	1 dram
Phenol	15 drops
Sulphur	1 dram
Petrolatum	½ ounce
Wool fat	½ ounce

M. A. L.: Q.—Kindly advise me what to do for catarrhal conditions.

A.—Never be satisfied with the word "catarrh." It is no diagnosis. It is expressed in a great many cases to cover the lack of diligence in searching for the real cause of the trouble. Often examination of the nose and throat by a nose and throat surgeon will reveal deflected bones, tumorous growths, adenoids, infected tonsils, etc. Consult your family physician.

A READER: Q.—I am very nervous. Would you please advise me?

2. I am also troubled with pimples.

A.—The word "nervousness" is often used without much thought by a great many persons, and in about ninety-nine times out of one hundred the term is used to conceal lack of diligence or search for the real cause of the trouble. It is usually an emotional disturbance of some sort that has nothing at all to do with the nerves. Muscular exercises in a gymnasium, as well as outdoor sports, often helps to counteract all this. Consult your family physician.

2. Try a little of the following for pimples:

Sulphur loti	2½ drams
Balsam peru	½ dram
Camphor	½ dram
Green soap	1 dram
Lanolin	½ ounce
Vaseline	½ ounce

CONSTANT READER, London, Ont.: A.—If you will send a self-addressed stamped envelope, with your query repeated, I shall be glad to help you.

M. Mc., Stratford: Q.—Is it advisable for a woman of 48 years to have her tonsils removed?

A.—It certainly is advisable if they are infected in any way.

E. S., London, Ont.: Q.—What can be done to remove white spots?

A.—Apply a little ammoniated mercury to the white spots.

PARTY FROCK FOR SISTER

Designed to Help the Plump Miss Appear Slim

BY ANNETTE BRADSHAW.

While the new ruffled models seem to be prevailing, this style is quite trying for the girl whose form isn't entirely sylph-like, hence the couturieres have developed a creation that is within fashion's decree and yet doesn't accent the lines of the large figure.

The frock shown at the right, for example, is a gown of corn-yellow linon de soie, trimmed with military cords. These go over the shoulders, are caught in knots at the waistline, hang loosely and are finished with tassel ornaments.

The sleeves are of the kimono style, and the top of the blouse is trimmed with a long row of small pearl buttons.

The front and back panels of the skirt are trimmed with loops of messaline, and a sash of the same messaline binds the high waistline. This gives a graceful line even to a rather plump figure, which is camouflaged by the high waistline and the panel effect.

Another pretty model for the plump girl is the summery frock of white embroidered mull shown at the left. The jumper, of pale blue crepe de chine, gives an added charm to the costume, which otherwise has no trimming. The sleeves are of the embroidered mull, finished with a small puff and a bell-shaped cuff.

The sash, of pale blue messaline, ties under each arm and the ends are finished with wide fringe. This also deceives the eye by giving an appearance of straight, though soft lines.

DIARY OF A FASHION MODEL

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE.

Solving the Problem of a Simple, But Smart, Street Dress.

Many of the best dressed women who come to the studio nowadays are expressing especial interest in the tailored street gown. Mrs. Lester came in yesterday, all tired out from an afternoon of outdoor work, selling thrift stamps.

"I am walking about so much that I seem to exercise myself most amazingly," she laughed, "and I find that my light silk frocks won't do at all for this outdoor work. I must have something quite substantial, but, of course, very simple in line."

Naturally, it would hardly be consistent to sell thrift stamps while wearing "thriftless" frocks that can't possibly withstand the wear and tear of real work. The stiffly tailored things are too mannish for most women, but almost any woman can wear a good adaptation of a tailored frock.

Here, for example, is one that Mrs. Lester decided on, and which set off her blonde beauty remarkably well.

The gown is of black satin throughout. It has an oval collar, wide across the neck, which sets off so well the high, well-rounded throat. The bodice is perfectly plain, and yet not so snug as to tighten the figure perceptibly.

Draped from the shoulder in back is a long black panel faced with grey satin. Although this is a separate fold, it doesn't make the frock elaborate, but simply softens what would otherwise be a hard, tailored line in the back.

The one touch of ornament to the frock is a long line of small bone buttons from shoulder to knee, which also serve to confine the dress at the side. There are a few gathers underneath the belt, giving the skirt some small amount of fullness at the front and the sides.

Long, tight sleeves, minus any cuffs afford a graceful contrast to the flowing panel at the back.

"I like it tremendously, except for the sleeves," Mrs. Lester commented enthusiastically yet dubiously. "You see, the soft panel in the back seems to call for a softer, wider sleeve."

Madame smiled. She had discussed this very point when the gown was being completed, and there had been a marked difference of opinion in the workroom about it. Madame had contended that a wide sleeve would transform this tailored frock into what she called a "pink-tea garment," instead of the semi-severe tailored costume it was intended to be. But she brought home her point of view to Mrs. Lester as she had emphasized it in the workroom.

She simply sent for a loose, flowing sleeve of black satin, and slipped it over the tight one that Mrs. Lester was still wearing. This graphic demonstration settled the point. The flowing sleeve repeated the same line as the loose panel, so that all the smart tailor-madeness of the costume was destroyed.

As soon as Mrs. Lester saw the flowing sleeve in place she recognized that the tight sleeve was absolutely necessary to supply the proper contrast. And she smiled as she said:

"You're right, my dear, as always. When may I have the dress?"

Four Selected Recipes

BY ANN MARIE LLOYD

Utilizing Cold Meat.

Any kind of cold meat should be cut into thin slices. Break the bones into small pieces, cover them with water, add a slice of onion, simmer for two hours, then strain and season highly. Cut an ox kidney or a pound of calf's liver into thin slices, and coat them lightly with flour. Steam or boil until half-cooked as many potatoes as desired, with the meat, fill the dish to be used; then halve them lengthwise. Cover the bottom of the pie dish with potatoes, add a layer of meat, and on top place slices of kidney or liver, sprinkling each layer with salt and pepper. Half-fill the dish with gravy, and cover with paste made in the proportion of four teacupfuls—one pound—of flour, half a pound of butter or other fat, and half a teaspoonful each of bicarbonate of soda, cream of tartar, and salt. Bake the pie in a fairly hot oven.

Utilizing Cold Fish.

After pouring a pint of milk into a double boiler, add a tablespoonful of cornflour mixed smooth in a very little cold milk, and a tablespoonful of minced onion. Let this boil five minutes, then add a tablespoonful of butter, a little minced parsley, salt, pepper, a good sauce, with any cold fish that has been flaked. Boil a few minutes, then stir in the yolk of an egg. Pour this into a dish, cover with breadcrumbs and bits of butter, and allow 20 minutes for baking.

Liver and Bacon Pie.

Cut an equal number of pieces of liver and of fat bacon, free the latter from the rind and place in a clean pan. Fry till cooked; then dish up on a hot plate and reserve. Add the slices of liver to the fat remaining in the pan. Fry till cooked and of a nice golden-brown hue. Take out and add to the bacon. Thicken the fat with a little flour and water and a tiny bit of butter mixed together, and stir till of a good brown color. Place the liver and bacon in a deep pie dish in layers. Add salt and pepper if necessary. Fill up the chink with forcemeat balls, pour the gravy over the whole, and cover with a plain crust. Brush the top with beaten egg, and bake in a moderately hot oven until the crust is done. The pie is best when served quickly.

Vegetable Pie.

Required—Quarter-pound of haricot beans, quarter pound of dried green peas, one carrot, half a turnip, two or three potatoes, one onion, salt and pepper; short crust to cover. Soak the peas and beans overnight, and then stew them with the other vegetables, cut in small pieces, in a little water. When nearly cooked put in a pie dish with a little dripping and cover with the crust, which should be baked until nicely browned.

The most foolish of all errors is, that clever young heads think that they lose their originality when they recognize the truth which has already been recognized by others.—Goethe.

INCIDENTS IN THE LIVES OF FAMOUS WOMEN

BY ELOISE FARRINGTON.

How Robert Browning Stole Elizabeth Barrett To Be His Bride.

Of all the amazing feats of famous literary women, perhaps few excel in their physical effort the incident which made Elizabeth Barrett the wife of Robert Browning, the poet.

Elizabeth Barrett was a remarkably precocious child, writing verses at the age of ten, and having a volume of poetry to her credit by the time she was fifteen years of age. She read the classics, philosophy and science and was an excellent Greek scholar. Her health was delicate, and was further impaired by two unfortunate accidents. One was a mishap which badly affected her lungs, and the other was the sudden and violent death of her brother while on a vacation with her.

Miss Barrett became a chronic invalid and spent her time confined in her own room. Nevertheless this remarkable woman read and wrote constantly. She had a volume of Plato bound like a novel so that her physician should be deceived into thinking that she was occupying her mind with only light reading. Moreover, she sent out a larger quantity of poems from that sick chamber than many a robust contemporary produced.

The crowning feat of this illustrious invalid was to elope from her sick bed.

Robert Browning had read all of Elizabeth Barrett's poems, and admired them tremendously. Her charming sonnets, the beauty and the clearness of her style awakened in him not only appreciation of her as a poet, but an intense desire to know her.

But meeting Elizabeth Barrett was obviously a difficult matter. For a long time they corresponded, and many of their letters, which are now published, are literary classics.

Miss Barrett's family were naturally opposed to the idea of her leaving the household to marry anybody. She had been an invalid from girlhood, she required the most constant care and watching, and they feared for her health if she so much as left her own apartments. This, however, was no bar to the impetuous Browning.

He visited her secretly once or twice, and they made their arrangements. She had to be literally carried from her couch, and surely never was there a more drooping, fading bride.

But Mr. and Mrs. Browning immediately after their wedding left for Italy, where they made their home for the rest of their lives, although they both occasionally made excursions into England. Her health improved considerably later on. Here in Italy she wrote the wonderful poems glorifying the land of her adoption, and in Florence, where the Brownings lived most of their lives, she was dearly beloved.

Her famous writings are the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," a group of charming verses written to her husband before their marriage; the "Casa Guidi Windows," which is a description of some events in Tuscany and a tribute to the Italy she loved so well.

Her best work was done after her marriage to Robert Browning—surely a most stimulating partnership—in spite of its amazing beginnings in the shadow of the little invalid's sick room.

He Literally Carried Her Away.

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What William Trumbull Brought to Madge.

As William watched Lillian in her characteristic attitude when she sat in deep thought, into his queer, twisted face crept a graver, more alert expression than I'd ever before seen there. I expected to see Lillian wither him with a look, but she has the keenest perceptions of anyone I know, and she evidently heard some note in his truculent gaze sounding in his truculent gaze which awakened her interest. She looked at him attentively, searchingly.

"If you're goin' to cook up anythin' against Katie I kin tell you 'taint one bit fair," William's words fairly tumbled over each other in passionate earnestness. "Katie jest worships the ground Mis' Gramie walks on, an' if she did listen—and, mind you, I haint tellin' you whether she done it or not—'twas you whether she done it or not—'twas only because she was crazy 'fraid there was somethin' goin' on that might hurt her. Katie'd have her right hand cut off before she'd tell anythin' that would hurt Mis' Gramie. And as for me—well, I'd just like to see the man could get anythin' out of me that would make her hurted."

He stopped speaking suddenly, evidently for lack of breath, not words. Lillian's face cleared with sudden decision.

Shoulder. "And both Mrs. Graham and I are very grateful for your devotion to

"I believe you, William," she said, laying her hand on the old fellow's shoulder, "that you have such faithful friends. But," her face grew stern and forbidding, and I saw poor, old William quail visibly at the look in her eyes, "there must be no more loitering at keyholes, no matter what your reason for so doing.

"I will tell you now, and this first time I see her, that the very next time either of you does such a thing, that moment means your discharge from Mrs. Graham's service. Not only that—"

"Do You Understand?"

She paused as if to give emphasis to her words. Although I knew that most of her sternness was assumed for the purpose of frightening William, yet so effective was her manner that I think I, as well as William, held my breath for her next words.

"I happen to have the power to put either one of you in jail for such a trick. I should be terribly sorry to do such a thing, but I shan't hesitate to do it if I ever find out you or Katie have been listening again."

I knew that Lillian must be filled with inward laughter at the absurdity of her own threat. I could hardly keep my own lips from twisting into a smile. But there was no mirth in William. Lillian had gauged his mentality accurately. He was so filled with terror that he had to moisten his lips before he could speak.

"Do you understand?" Lillian demanded.

"Yes, ma'am. Yes, ma'am," he remanded.

"Yes, ma'am. I understand. I never did listen at no keyholes anyhow, and you can bet Katie won't do nothin' like that ever again. I'll tell her."

"You will tell her nothing," Lillian interrupted sternly. "You will not mention one word of this conversation to anyone if you want to keep your place and hers. I'm going down to Mrs. Graham's today, and I will see Katie myself. Until then, not one word, remember!"

"Oh, I'll remember, ma'am. I won't say nothin'," William assured her earnestly.

"That's right, William; I know you will do what is right." Lillian smiled at him reassuringly. I said to myself that it was exactly what she did. William would have been frightened out of the feeble remnant of his senses if she had continued her disciplinary methods much longer.

William Remembers.

Lillian shot me a significant glance. It requested me to turn William's thoughts in some other direction. I suddenly remembered a question which no one at the hospital had been able to answer, one which I dared not ask the wounded officer because of his extreme weakness.

"Oh, William," I exclaimed, "is Pete all right? Did he come home, or did someone bring him?"

William's face brightened.

"Pete's pretty near all right now," he said joyfully, "and what do you think, Mis' Gramie, Pete dragged himself home from wherever you got hurted, bleedin' all the time. The dog doctor said it was a wonder he didn't croak, but that he'd be all right when he got rested and fed up. But how did he lose you? He must have been hurted so bad at first that he didn't know nothin' or he wouldn't have left you."

"It wasn't Pete's fault, William," I said, bewildered by his story. How had the dog escaped from the cellar where he had been confined? But for that knowledge I must wait until the wounded officer gained strength.

William's voice interrupted my reverie.

"Well, what do you think of me, Mis' Gramie, comin' way up here to give you this here mail, and then forgettin' it!"

He held out a small bundle of letters and magazines to me. On the top, with a little thrill, I saw one addressed in Picky's handwriting.

Practical Suggestions on Individual Ways to Help Win the War

By ALBERT BARRETT SAYRES

Making "Local" Scrapbooks.

The war-time scrapbooks that have proved of so much interest to many soldiers and to overworked nurses in base hospitals have seemed wonderful aids in helping wounded soldiers pass the time pleasantly are, of course, familiar to you. You've helped make them, haven't you? Here, then, are a few suggestions to make the "regular" scrapbooks brightly interesting and some that may help to produce novelties for the men from your locality.

In order to make more scrapbooks at less cost you may make the books themselves at home. Cut 50 sheets of plain brown or any other strong paper to the dimensions of the large-sized magazines. Sew them with cord and a darning needle at the intervals those sized magazines are sewed. Cover the outer pages with gay cretonne or muslin, gingham or bits of silk in patchwork—any scrap bag has enough for many books—pasting the cloth firmly. In the centre of the front cover paste a neat card on which is written some odd word or humorous title for the book.

Neatness is absolutely essential. Don't cut crooked edges. Practice pasting with valueless scraps to learn how to paste without smearing the edges—don't let paste show. Don't put on too much paste—just enough to hold the items without letting them curl.

Don't put too many items on a page. Like the tray of food for the invalid, the scrapbook for the wounded soldier should be tempting in its daintiness, not overloaded.

Always paste the clippings square with the page. Items pasted at angles may seem to you to make the page attractive, but remember that a wounded soldier sometimes hasn't the strength or the calmness of nerves continually to turn pages around to read some little story. Help to hold his interest by making it very easy for him to read.

Just like everyone else in the world, the soldier is usually most interested in the things that are furthest from his condition. Therefore, war jokes—of which he has a surfeit—are inadvisable and machinations. It tends to favor mental fare. Charming pictures, pretty little stories and fun—real fun—both of pictures and of text, are what is best adapted to his needs.

Once in a while make a scrapbook of purely local interest. That is, select clippings that tell of your home neighborhood doings in funny ways, with pictures and caricatures. Even if by chance they shouldn't reach the particular unit for which you intend them, if they're funny enough and original enough they'll specially interest the man who may have lived thousands of miles away, who may have visited here or have known someone who once lived here.

And when such a book falls into the hands of one of our "very own" boys, what a bright, refreshing thing to see his old home town in funny ways!

Serving Strawberries and Rice.

Here is a dessert that is most delicious and timely, and it saves wheat. Take a box of fresh strawberries, stem them and wash them thoroughly, then press them through a sieve. Sweeten to taste and add enough cream to form a mixture the consistency of custard. Pour this mixture over boiled rice that has been allowed to cool—each grain, of course, should be separate—and serve at once.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, JUNE 14.

An interesting if not an exciting day is promised by certain configurations among the planets. The erratic and energetic Neptune holds sway, but with benefit intent, bringing to light and circumventing secret enmities, existing evils, especially through plots, intrigues combinations and new schemes, and to give advantage through mediumship impression or promotion. The poetic, artistic and romantic emotions are finely stimulated. There is likewise great stimulus from Mars on more sordid and materialistic lines, bringing enterprise, initiative, new business and success generally, though an adverse Uranian influence bespeaks caution in traveling; in fact, discourages journeys, moves and sudden changes, and warns against accident or disaster, and also disputes, sarcasm and indiscreet actions.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an eventful year, but should travel or move with caution, acting generally with calmness and discretion. A child born on this day will have some rather peculiar endowments, and may be romantic, erratic and changeable, though generally successful.

SHE KNOWS--DO YOU?

MOTHER KNOWS what to do in nearly every emergency in household affairs. Experience has been her teacher. Years of facing difficult situations and finding the way out have just naturally made mother the source of all wisdom—at any rate so far as "father, daughter and son" are concerned.

Daughter's maid has just left. She came to mother in deep gloom, but see her smile now.

MOTHER HAS TOLD HER JUST HOW TO GET ANOTHER—and a more competent, pleasant maid at that.

Now, as a matter of fact, mother is going to phone 3670 The Advertiser and order a "Maid Wanted Ad." She has full confidence in Advertiser want ads, because Advertiser want ads have never failed to bring the desired results.

LIVER TROUBLE AND HEARTBURN

CURED BY

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

When the liver is torpid and inflamed it cannot furnish bile to the bowels, causing them to become bound and costive.

The symptoms are a feeling of fulness or weight in the right side, and shooting pains in the same region, pains between the shoulders, yellowness of the skin and eyes, floating specks before the eyes, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, heartburn, water brash, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills gently unlock the secretions, clear away all effete and waste matter from the system, and give tone and vitality to the whole intestinal track, and are by far the safest and quickest remedy for all diseases or disorders of the liver.

Mrs. A. Cummings, Manchester, Ont., writes: "I have used Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills some time, and can faithfully recommend them to anyone suffering from heartburn and liver trouble. I tried a great many other remedies, but they only relieved me for a time. I believe Laxa-Liver Pills to be a valuable remedy for all sufferers from liver troubles."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Silver

Illustrated by Gruelle

JIMMY SQUIRREL AND BILLY RABBIT.

One day Billy Rabbit, with his basket on his arm, stopped at Jimmy Squirrel's house to ask Jimmy Squirrel's mamma if Jimmy could go with him to market.

"Yes, Jimmy may go," said Mamma Red Squirrel, "but remember, Jimmy, you may go only to market and then must come straight back home."

Jimmy promised, and away the two scampered, but when they reached the hollow in the old oak tree they found the market doors closed.

"I know!" cried Billy Rabbit. "Down the road there's an old farm with a lovely garden full of good things to eat—carrots, peas, lettuce, radishes and cabbage."

"Where we can buy them?" asked Jimmy Squirrel.

"Buy nothing! Just hop in and help yourself!" laughed Billy Rabbit.

"But the farmer—doesn't he care?" asked Jimmy Squirrel, whose mamma asked Jimmy Squirrel, whose mamma had taught him he must never touch anything that belonged to another.

"Oh, I don't suppose he'd care," replied Billy Rabbit. "I often run in and help myself. No one has ever stopped me."

So the two friends hopped around the bend of the road and there before them spread the loveliest garden Jimmy Squirrel had ever seen.

They crawled under the fence and began filling Billy Rabbit's basket.

"Where Can We Buy Them?"

They were so busy they didn't see Mr. Farmer until he was almost upon them.

Before you could blink an eye, Billy Rabbit crawled under the fence and hopped up the road as fast as he could go.

But poor Jimmy Squirrel! Mr. Farmer's hand closed on Jimmy's little red coat-tail before he had a chance to run.

"I'll teach you to steal from my garden!" cried the angry farmer.

"But, sir!" exclaimed Jimmy Squirrel, "I didn't mean to steal. Billy Rabbit said you wouldn't care."

"Why, Billy Rabbit's the naughtiest fellow around here. He's always nibbling my cabbage plants. Some day I'll catch him and punish him."

"I'm not really bad—indeed, I'm not!" whimpered Jimmy Squirrel. "If you'll only let me go this time, Mr. Farmer, I'll never come into your garden again."

Mr. Farmer laughed and let go of Jimmy's red coat-tail.

"All right," he laughed. "You may be good, but you're in mighty bad company, and nothing spoils a good fellow quicker than running around with a bad fellow."

Jimmy Squirrel thanked Mr. Farmer, crawled under the gate and ran home as fast as his little legs could carry him.

Jimmy never told his mamma what had happened, because he was ashamed that he'd disobeyed her wishes. But Jimmy Squirrel and Billy Rabbit have never been seen together since that day.

Jimmy Squirrel always runs up a tree when he sees Billy Rabbit coming down the road.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

It Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy, Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion. —Advt.

STOP DANDRUFF! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Girls! Draw a cloth through your hair and double its beauty.

Spend a few cents! Dandruff vanishes and hair stops coming out.

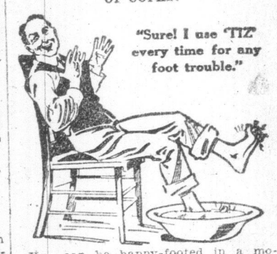

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff, is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed, and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness; fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will, you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

CAN'T BEAT "TIZ" WHEN FEET HURT

"Tiz" for sore, tired, puffed-up, aching, callousedfeet or corns.

"Sure! I use 'TIZ' every time for any foot trouble."

You can be happy-footed in a moment. Use "Tiz" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, aching feet. "Tiz" and only "Tiz" takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "Tiz" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "Tiz" is grand. "Tiz" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause sore, inflamed, aching, sweaty feet.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never, going to bother or make you limp any more.

50,000 GERMANS MASSED FOR ATTACK BEATEN AND DRIVEN BACK BY CHARGE OF ALLIES

Density of Troops Fatal for Germans — Come Under Point-Blank Rifle, Machine Gun and Cannon Fire—More Important Ground Gained on Wednesday.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, June 12.—The advantage gained by the Allies yesterday was even greater than at first reported. Besides carrying out remarkably successful counter-attacks resulting in the restoration of some territory and the capture of many prisoners, they repulsed a very fierce German counter-attack in the region of Bethancourt and Chevincourt.

The enemy, by employing large forces, was enabled to obtain a footing in Machemont and Bethancourt, but an immediate counter-blow drove them from the latter place, while they never reached Chevincourt.

In a width of battlefront 3,000 yards in extent no fewer than four German divisions (more than fifty thousand men) were preparing to hit a hard blow when the French yesterday launched their successful counter-attack southeast of Montdidier. The density of the German troops was fatal for them, because the Entente Allied artillery, machine guns, riflemen and aviators were able to aim point blank into the masses of Germans.

More Progress Wednesday.

The battle continued throughout the night, and in the early hours this morning the Entente Allies made a further advance to the east of Mery, which is a most important point, as it commands the valley.

Towards the centre the enemy launched several attacks today, but the line held firmly, although some of the enemy detachments succeeded in filtering into the Matz Valley through the wooded country.

Yard by yard the French fought while the Germans tried to push them back by sheer force of numbers. Eventually the enemy succeeded in gaining a little ground, but at the cost of a fearful sacrifice.

South of the River Oise and also south of the Aisne the Germans showed much activity today, endeavoring to reduce the Allied salient.

The spirit of the Allied infantrymen when they went forward in their counter-attack was very high, although they knew the enemy facing them was several times their superior in numbers.

When the enemy was seen to be retiring, although still making a fierce fight in order to hold his gains made in the first days of the battle, the Allies dashed forward with, if possible, augmented ardor.

"MERRY WIDOW" SPY CAUGHT BY FRENCH AND WILL BE SHOT

Had Ingenious Method of Supplying News to Enemy.

Paris, June 4.—Correspondence of the Associated Press.—Brief announcement has just been made that a Paris court-martial has condemned to death as a spy, Madame M——, 37 years old. Her son, Noel, 16 years old, who was accused of being her accomplice, was ordered to be sent to a penitentiary colony until he comes of age. The court-martial believed he was too young to be held responsible for his acts.

A "Merry Widow."

As the case was not heard in public only a few details became known, such as that Madame M.'s husband was killed at the front in March, 1916, and that the wife soon started a life that earned her, in the circles she frequented, the name of "the merry widow." She soon ran through the money she inherited and, to obtain more, communicated with a Greek, in Spain, an agent of the spy bureau established in Barcelona by the Germans. When mother and son were arrested, the boy was just about to engage in the aviation service in order to obtain information to be supplied to Germany.

Explosions Agent.

A writer in the Paris Midi identified the Greek as the head of German propaganda in Spain and director in particular of the service for arranging explosions in factories. He was a regular visitor to a girl's school at Barcelona, where he went to see three little girls whose guardian he was supposed to be. One of them, the youngest, aged about eleven, handed over to him, on each visit, several letters, which he carried away.

These three little girls were French, being the daughters of Madame M., the "merry widow," used to pass on any information that she obtained to her son, who wrote it to his young sister, placing it in the middle of his letters, which were never really examined, when it was seen that they were letters from a brother to a little sister at school.

WESTERN ONTARIO BRIEFS

Nelson Rivers, a Teeswater liveryman was so injured when his wagon was hit by a car on the Grand Trunk, which was being shunted, that he died two hours afterward.

Sarnia's war chest campaign has been making such good progress that it is believed the $75,000 objective will be materially exceeded.

Damage which will amount to $3,000 was done by a windstorm in the vicinity of Tara. The new skating rink there in course of erection was destroyed. The business district suffered heavily.

Mixed farming in the Duart district is reported as being more popular than ever. Onions were the main vegetable crop last year, but because of poor returns few were planted this season.

Edward Martin, for a quarter of a century a traveler in Western Ontario, died at his home in Kitchener on Wednesday.

Pte. George Scanlan, a Guelph soldier who was for fifteen months a prisoner of war in Germany, has returned home a physical wreck. The treatment he received at the hands of the Huns after being wounded and captured, undermined his constitution. Were it not for Red Cross parcels many prisoners would die, he says.

A serious charge of alleged abduction of children for immoral purposes is being investigated at Sarnia, where a woman giving the name of Mrs. Kelly, but believed to be Mrs. Lumley, has been arrested. It is alleged that the woman and a man named Kelly were in Port Lambton to secure another girl for immoral purposes when arrested.

More than 30 Ingersoll men have been haled to court there for failure to carry the papers prescribed by the M. S. A. One man, granted exemption, was found by the chief of police in bed at 3 in the afternoon, and has been arrested as a "loafer." He was turned over to the military authorities.

Michael Limouski was fined $25 in Sarnia police court for insulting a patriotic fund canvasser.

Brantford firemen have been granted their second increase in wages for a year. The men got an increase of 25 cents a day in February, and their recent petition for another 15 cents a day has been granted.

The body of a girl, presumed to be about 23 years of age, has been washed up near Amherstburg. From papers on the body it is believed that she is a Canadian. The remains are at Amherstburg awaiting the findings of a coroner's jury. A pass over the G. T. R., made out to Miss Edith Matthews, was on the body.

The Duke of Devonshire and the viceregal party were warmly welcomed at Stratford yesterday.

The Elgin County Council, at its meeting in St. Thomas on Wednesday, decided not to withhold its $17,000 grant to the overseas Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Joseph Janes of Ingersoll presented the report on Baptist home missions at the Brant-Oxford Baptist Association meeting in Brantford yesterday.

A. M. C. CRICKETERS TO MEET BRANTFORD TEAM

The Army Medical Corps' crack cricket team will meet an all-star cricket squad from Brantford on Dominion Day at Springbank. The game will commence at 11 a.m., and the public are invited to witness the game. A pitch is being laid out at Springbank by Corp. Greenwood, manager of the A. M. C. team, and a good game is promised, as the local team is going at a fast clip, winning the majority of games played recently.

The weekly sports, which were to be held on Carling Heights Wednesday afternoon, were postponed owing to the disagreeable weather, and the various league games will be run off at the earliest opportunity.

WILL BE EXEMPTED FOR DURATION OF SEASON

It appears probable that baseball players in the United States will be exempted for the duration of the present playing season from the "work or fight" order of the provost marshal-general, recently issued. Baseball magnates, it is learned, have been promised a definite answer on the matter within ten days, during which time the whole question will be put before Secretary of War Baker, probably with favorable recommendations from the provost marshal-general.

MAY PLAY BALL IN HYDE PARK, ENGLAND

London, June 12.—American soldiers and sailors may play baseball in Hyde Park. Sir Alfred Mond, first commissioner of works, today signed a permit giving this authorization. The games will be staged on the parade ground opposite the Guards barracks every afternoon. This is the first time in history that a permit has been issued for the playing of any game in Hyde Park.

STEPS TAKEN TO PERMIT N. YORK SUNDAY BALL

New York, June 12.—Formal steps toward the enactment of legislation to permit Sunday baseball in New York city were taken today by the general welfare committee of the board of aldermen. A., Knights of Columbus and the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

THISTLE TOURNEY POSTPONED.

The regular Wednesday afternoon bowling tournament of the Thistle Club was postponed yesterday owing to the rain.

STORM PUTS PHONES OUT OF COMMISSION

THORNDALE, June 12.—As a result of the heavy electrical storm which swept over this district last evening eight telephone lines are out of commission. Although the telephone company has no repairman at present the lines will be put in commission as quickly as possible.

Hydro was off for some time this afternoon, and as a result the work at the mill was at a standstill.

Crop conditions all through this district are most favorable, and it is expected that there will be a splendid yield of grain of the finest quality. Apples promise a big yield, and there will be an abundance of hay.

GRAIN.

Chicago, June 13.—Opening: Corn—July, $1 44⅝; August, $1 46.

Oats—June, 76⅝c; July, 71c.

Chicago, June 13.—Fine weather and prospects that it would continue for the next two days gave an advantage today to the bears in the corn market. Liberal receipts tended also to weaken prices. The market declined rapidly under general selling by commission houses. The opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c to ⅜c lower, with July at $1 44¼@1 44½, and August at $1 46, were followed by a material further setback.

Oats dropped with corn. A feature was selling on the part of cash houses, presumably hedging against purchases of oats to arrive. After opening ⅛c to ⅞c off, with July at 70⅝@71¼c, the market underwent an additional sag.

LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 13.—The market at the Union stockyards this morning was steady in all lines, but the trade was inclined to be slow and the prices were steady. NEW YORK.

New York, June 13—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Industrials, equipments, coppers and special war issues registered gains of 1 to 2 points at the opening of today's stock market. United States Steel led the advance on further free buying, together with Bethlehem, Crucible and Midvale Steels. Shippings were little more than firm, and tobaccos moved irregularly, Sumatra losing 3 points, while United Cigars gained a point. Other strong features included Reading, Union Pacific and oils. Liberty bonds were steady.

Noon.—Prices reacted very generally before the end of the first hour, the French war bulletins causing hasty profit-taking by cautious traders. Sumatra Tobacco extended its reversal to 4½ points. United States Steel canceled half its gain, and other prominent stocks eased proportionately, after which the market lapsed into its recent dull state. A moderate rally occurred at midday on renewed buying of investment rails.

GERMANS AIMED FOR COMPIEGNE ON SECOND DAY

Results of Four Days' Fighting Highly Disappointing to Enemy.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, June 12.—Details concerning the beginning of the battle between Montdidier and the Oise show that on Sunday morning fourteen German divisions (about 90,000 men) joined in the first onslaught. Of these five chosen divisions were detailed to break through the centre of the French line. These included regiments of guards and jaegers.

More Divisions Thrown In.

All the units engaged had been brought to full strength, having been reinforced after the March and May offensives. Since the beginning of the battle rear divisions have been thrown into the line.

The Allies who had suspected that an attack was about to occur, were spread in deep formations, the first lines being just sufficiently manned to delay the enemy's rapid progress until the action developed, and in the meantime falling back, fighting, to the real line of defence.

Owing to his great strength, the enemy succeeded in forcing his way through a depression forming the centre of the Allies' position, but the flanks held more firmly.

Boche Schedule "Busted."

The German objectives for the first day were Tricot, Mery and Belloy. The last two they managed to capture on Monday, but their hold was but temporary, for the French with wonderful dash, came back yesterday and forced them to retire, severely punished.

The second day's objective was Compiegne, but his arrival there was prevented, and he is still some distance away. It is the general impression that the battle will continue for some days, during which other slight fluctuations in the line may occur, but the evident results of their first days' efforts are disappointing to the Germans who, seeing themselves held here, may turn their attention elsewhere.

IRELAND SHIPS MORE FOOD INTO BRITAIN THAN ANY COUNTRY

Remarkable Statement Issued to Encourage Still Greater Effort.

London, June 12.—With a view to encouraging the Irish agriculturists by bringing home to them the part they are playing and can still further play in food production, and with the object of making better known in Great Britain the place Ireland is taking as a supplier of food for the British population and the allied armies, the department of agriculture and technical instruction for Ireland has issued a statement which gives some remarkable facts and figures.

Ireland's production of food, including especially her supplies of food to Great Britain, has for several years past been growing until the supply from Ireland has become the most important in quantity and character arriving in Great Britain from any country in the world, according to the report. Since the war that supply has been fully maintained.

Ireland grows more food for Great Britain than for herself. She is in an increasing degree an essential base, not only for the British food supply, but for the British agriculture, meat raising and dairying. Ireland produces 40 per cent of the cattle and 30 per cent of the pigs of the United Kingdom.

Of the beef cattle, two out of every five killed in Great Britain are bred in Ireland. Within a space of three months a total new area of 657,000 acres was broken up and put under food crops in 1917. A new food production campaign has been opened this year, and it is the estimate of the department that the extra war food production of last year will be far exceeded.

In conclusion, the statement points out that most of the orders issued for the regulation of exports and imports between Ireland and Great Britain have been designed for the common interests of the United Kingdom and were either imposed after consultation with the food controller or at the instance of the food controller. The object of the other orders was to save tonnage or as in the case of potatoes, to regulate the exportation of the product to or from any particular districts.

NIAGARA CAMP SWEPT BY MIDNIGHT STORM

NIAGARA CAMP, June 12.—Several large mess tents were blown down, all telegraphic communication cut off, and other damage was done by the severe electric and windstorm, accompanied by heavy rains, which swept this camp last night between 10 o'clock and midnight.

Among the tents levelled was the band tent of the 1st C.O.R., and as a consequence the instruments were severely damaged and the music at reveille this morning was missing. The bell tents in which the men sleep stood the storm very well.

The great elm tree at the officers' compound, a landmark for generations of soldiers in training here, was struck by lightning and a big limb carried 80 feet by the wind. Fortunately nobody was hurt.

LIGHTNING BOLT KILLS FOUR SLEEPING CHILDREN

ROME, N. Y., June 12.—During an electric storm early this morning, lightning struck a house five miles west of here in which were sleeping Arthur Herness and five of his children. The house was set on fire and four of the children, three girls and one boy, whose ages ranged from three to nine years, were burned to death.

Aerial Mail Carrier Beats Thunderstorm

NEW YORK, June 12.—In a victorious race with the thunderstorm, Lieut. Culver today broke the air post record between Philadelphia and New York. He left Philadelphia at 2:30 p.m., and arrived at Belmont Park 42 minutes later, flying at the rate of 147 miles an hour.

At Trenton the flier overtook a thunderstorm moving in the same direction. Passing through it, he beat the rain into Belmont Park by half an hour. He flew an airplane equipped with a Liberty motor.

FOCH IS CONFIDENT OF ALLIED VICTORY

London, June 12—(Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency).—An association of former British soldiers and sailors, known as "Comrades of the Great War," telegraphed Gen. Foch: "We have perfect faith that on the scene of your historical victory of 1914, in which many of us were privileged to share, you and your gallant men will again stem the tide of invasion and hurl the hated invader from the sacred soil of France." Yesterday Gen. Foch replied: "I share entirely your confidence."

CRUSHED TO DEATH UNDER LOAD OF SAND

TEESWATER, June 12.—Nelson Rivers, well-known liveryman, received injuries at the Grand Trunk station tonight from which he died at his home two hours afterwards.

He was engaged in taking a load of molding sand from a car for the use of the local foundry. The car was detached. A way freight from Wingham was backing in, and the trainmen in the caboose shouted to Rivers that they were going to strike the car and for him to get out of the way. Rivers stepped from the car to his wagon and took the lines to hold the horses during the shunting operations. The wagon was too close to the car, however, for the car moved and hit the wagon, the jolt throwing Rivers over the front of the wagon and under the horses feet. The wagon went over his chest, injuring him fatally.

Mr. Rivers leaves his wife and six children. He had lived in Teeswater all his life.

GIRL'S BODY WASHED UP NEAR AMHERSTBURG

DETROIT, June 12.—The body of a young woman about 23 years old, and who, from papers found, may prove to be a Canadian, was washed up on the beach of Lake Erie just below Amherstburg late today, according to a long-distance telephone message just received here. A Grand Trunk Railway pass made out in favor of Miss Edith Matthews from Detroit to Toronto, is the only clue discovered so far. The remains are now at Amherstburg awaiting the finding of a coroner's inquiry.

WESTERN'S RECORD NEVER EQUALLED BY OTHER SCHOOLS

Ten Out of Eleven Candidates Pass License.

An unprecedented record has been set up by the graduates of the Western University Medical School, according to the results of the recent examination for licenses under the Ontario Medical Council issued on Wednesday, which show that ten out of eleven who wrote have passed.

Such an enviable record has never been attained by a medical school at this examination, and the faculty, graduates and undergraduates of Western are expressing the greatest pride in the achievements of the graduates this year. The one member of the class who failed did so in only one subject.

"It simply goes to show that the training received at Western here is second to none in the province," declared a prominent medical man to The Advertiser. "This is the only examination at which graduates of all the medical schools in the province meet and take a common examination test, and it thus affords excellent opportunity for comparison. That the Western graduates made such a record speaks well for the training provided at Western."

Only graduates holding the degree of M. D. are admitted to the examination.

The following Western graduates have passed and will receive licenses to practice in Ontario: Drs. E. L. Armstrong, I. M. Cherniak, J. F. Colling, L. W. Freele, G. L. McGuffin, M. C. Morrison, C. W. Pennecott, J. G. Seaton, J. F. Weir and A. Shiell.

NO MORE DRAFTEES FOR FLYING CORPS

Orders Say Would-Be Fliers Must Wait.

District orders Wednesday stated that until further notice no more recruits will be accepted for the Royal Air Force. Owing to the heavy rush of drafting for this branch of the service, the air force has its quota of recruits for the time being, and any applications received here will be filed in the office of the Western Ontario Regiment.

WALPER HOUSE MAY BE NEW HOME OF THE WAR VETERANS

Soldiers Ask Council's Help in Financing Proposition.

PATRIOTIC FUND SCORED

Alleged That Many Families Are Being Neglected at Present.

The Great War Veterans' new home will be located in the Walper House. Capt. McDonald and Sergt. Pocock appeared before the finance committee of the city council Wednesday night and asked for some assistance in helping the G. W. V. A. handle the proposition. They asked a remission of the taxes and a grant to take care of the water and electric light charges.

The officers stated that they intended to carry on the place as a veterans' home. They would keep the standard license. They would care for soldiers who came here and have to stay overnight also for the children and wives of soldiers who are neglected by the Government. This brought out some interesting remarks about the patriotic fund. Ald. S. R. Manness wanted to know if the Government did not take care of all soldiers' families. What did the patriotic fund do?" he asked.

The mayor said he understood that it was compulsory for the patriotic fund to care for all.

Alleges Neglect.

Sergt. Pocock said that nevertheless the fund neglected many. He said the veterans could cite hundreds of cases.

There are many, he said, in London who are going without the benefits of the fund rather than go to the local office and accept the abuse they are all subject to at the hands of the woman in charge of the office.

Mayor Somerville said that he had heard reports; he just wanted other views.

Controller Merryfield said that he knew of a large number of cases of men of the 135th Battalion who were getting absolutely no assistance.

The council agreed to assist the G.W.V.A. to the extent asked.

The veterans are taking an eight-year lease on the hotel.

Will Lease Garage.

The committee agreed to accept a two-year lease for the Reliance Garage, a part of the federal square site, at $125 a month, and will spend $230 in repairing the roof. Ald. Manness pointed out that the building cost the city $1,425, so that an income of $1,500 a year was pretty fair results.

Messrs. Dale and Screaton, city auditors, appeared on the carpet. Their inquisitor, Ald. H. S. Ashplant, was not present.

"What's the crime?" asked the mayor. The auditors reported that everything was well forward. The L. and P. S. Railway audit, they said, was up to April, the closest they could get. In other departments they were a little behind, but this was due to changing staffs and work not being done. The report was considered satisfactory and the auditors were "shooed out" before Ald. Ashplant arrived.

The committee paid a rather doubtful compliment to Ald. H. B. Ashplant, who was named some time ago to see the city solicitor re the removal of the fire alarm wires from Bell Telephone poles on Richmond street north, when it named Chairman Harley a committee of one to do the job.

Mayor Somerville made a most unkind touch when he said, referring to Ald. Ashplant: "I don't believe in having him appointed to go and consult with the city solicitor."

Ald. Harley remarked, "I think if we appointed Ald. Ashplant for that work it will never be done."

Up to the Chairman.

Mayor Somerville then suggested that the chairman see the solicitor. He will do so.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, Canada's minister of labor, is very anxious to comply with London's request that License Inspector McCallum be appointed an inspector of cold storage.

Grand news for the natives. It's only about eight months ago that the city asked for the appointment. The city has only asked about a dozen times since. It has been a tedious job to wake the sleeping minister up. "Try, try, try again, and you will succeed at last." The city clerk tried, and now comes a letter that the minister is "very anxious to comply," but—he must be satisfied that the conditions warrant it. He wants also to be satisfied that the city has complied with acts that are necessary to such an appointment, such as making specific demands on certain firms for information. Of course, all this information has been in the hands of the ministers long enough for the paper to get yellow, but just to humor the minister it will be sent again. Something has been achieved. It is difficult just to define, however.

Will Help in Work.

Montreal, Moose Jaw, Niagara Falls, Toronto and Three Rivers wrote that they were in sympathy with the city's proposeal that the Government should take hold of the question of soldiers' insurance. They will lend sympathic aid to the movement.

The school board has billed the city for $441 for the use of school rooms for the election. This is the rate of $7 per room. City Clerk Baker said his agreement was that the city should pay the janitors and for light. He had done so and the cost had been apportioned. The clerk will report later.

The proposal to charge tenants of the market house who sell other than meat products a higher rental than those who confine themselves to such wares resulted in the motion being defeated, as was another to charge all $1 more per month. This is just an aftermath over the market house tenants selling groceries. The matter will now go to the council and the committee may see it again.

License Inspector McCallum reported that he had seized several bags of potatoes that were from 4 to 14 pounds under weight. He prosecuted the farmers, who were offering them for sale on the market and sent the potatoes to Victoria Hospital.

CANNY ALLUSION TO CHURCH UNION HAS ODOR OF PROPAGANDA

Truce Observed by Speakers, But Remark Put in Type.

A typewritten statement, given by the Presbyterian Church Association, an organization of men opposed to church union, reached the tables of the reporters at the afternoon sederunt of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday. It was as follows:

"One of the fine features of this year's assembly is the absence of the church union controversy. For ten years this has been a burning question, and even friendships were severed over it. It is delightful to be free from it for the period of the war. The only mention of the subject on the floor of the house was made by Dr. H. S. Dougall, London, who brought greetings from the Methodist Conference."

The statement continued: "Necessity compelled a meeting of the Presbyterian Church Association, which is very strongly represented in the assembly, owing to the resignation of the secretary, Andrew Robertson, D. D., who is accepting a call to labor in the American Presbyterian Church. Dr. Robertson's going across the line is a great loss to the preaching power of the Canadian Presbyterian Church. Needless to say, the members of the church association are carefully preserving the pact entered into last year in Montreal."

Unionist commissioners who saw the statement gave the opinion that the fact of the distribution of the statement was in itself a "violation of the pact," and was looked upon in the nature of propaganda.

DO MOTHERS ERR?

When we hear of so many school girls and girls in stores and offices who are often totally unfit to perform their daily duties because of some derangement peculiar to their sex, might this not have been prevented by the mother who, perhaps through neglect or carelessness, failed to get for that daughter the one great root and herb remedy for such ailments, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? This old-fashioned medicine is said to have alleviated more suffering of womankind than any other remedy known to medicine.

PATRICIA

"His Royal Highness," a photoplay featuring Carlyle Backwell and Evelyn Greeley, is the screen feature at the Patricia Theatre again today.

Mr. Blackwell appears in this production in the role of Jack Christie, an enterprising young American, who through a strange set of circumstances becomes the king of a small European monarchy. There his pep, enthusiasm and brains count heavily in savink the kingdom from a disastrous war, and in regenerating the people from their stagnancy. Miss Greeley appears as the Princess Diana of Terresta, a neighboring country. The princess and Jack have met under peculiar circumstances in America, where the princess was traveling incognito. When they meet again in Europe Jack becomes enamored of her.

The production has been lavishly staged, in one instance a whole village street was constructed for the sole purpose of forming the background for a few of the scenes in the picture. An aeroplane, of the type used abroad, also figures in the production.

In addition a Judge Willis Brown story, "Thief or Angel," and a Canadian scenic film will be shown.

In vaudeville for the remainder of this week a big novelty, "A Night in June," will be presented by eight people. This musical fantasy is claimed to be the best act of its kind in vaudeville.

Constance Talmadge in "Betsy's Burglar," at the Patricia, Friday and Saturday.

Constance Talmadge makes her second appearance as an individual Triangle star in the Fine Arts production of "Betsy's Burglar," which will be shown at the Patricia Theatre, Friday and Saturday.

In this production Miss Talmadge portrays the role of the hired girl in a boarding house along the lines of Riley's "Little Orphant Annie." Miss Talmadge, while doing the chores, cleaning the house, sweeping and dusting the furniture, dreams of the time when she will be an heiress and meet her Prince Charming.

She figures in a daring robbery and abduction, a murder and a police raid, and finally wins the man of her choice.
