GERMANY REFUSES

To Withdraw From Pekin Under Any Circumstances.

Her Decision Occasions Keen Satisfaction in Great Britain.

London, Friday, Sept. 7, 3.30 a. m. Germany's refusal to withdraw from Pekin is commented upon with keen satisfaction in London, and the hope is expressed that Lord Salisbury will show similar firmness. The British policy has not yet been formulated. Lord Salisbury desires to consult with his colleagues, and has notified the Foreign Office of his intention to return to London from the continent early next week. There is little doubt that Germany's reply is the outcom of the discussion carried on during the last few days between the Euro pean cabinets, and that the compro mise policy of maintaining the occupation of the capital, but withdrawing the greater part of the troops to Tien Tsin will be found to have met Tien Tsin will be found to have met with general occurrence.

From Shanghai it is reported that Japan has notified the powers of her willingness to withdraw her troops, provided an adequate guard is left for the legations, and on condition that China formally requests evacuation and opens genuine negotiations for peace. Altogether appearances are more hopeful, and it is likely that when Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee arrives a fortnight hence at Taku he will find the allies agreed upon some common policy.

Shanghai is full of conflicting rumors regarding the movements of Limors regarding the movements of Lim mors regarding the movements of Li-Hung-Chang. It asserted that Mar-quis Tseng and 30 officials remaining in Pekin have appealed to Li-Hung-Chang to repair immediately to the capital to save the situation, since nobody is there to assume authority, Prince Ching being detained in the Province of Shan-Si by illness.

EXTERMINATING BOXERS. Taku, Sept. 7.—An expedition will shortly start for Pao-Ting-Fu, clearing the villages en route which were the seat of the first Boxers' outrages the seat of the first Boxers outrages in the Province of Chi-Li.

It is reliably asserted that native soldiery, acting under the orders of Li-Hung-Chang, are exterminating the Boxers in the provinces of Hu-Nan and Chi-Li.

At Tien Tsin four prominent Boxers were executed. The French shot two and the Jananese beheaded the two and the Japanese beheaded the others. The executions have had a good moral effect.

Out in a Boat With a Heavily Armed Maniec From Flint-Life Saved by Clever Strategy.

Mackinaw, Sept. 7.-Robert Weiskittel, of Cincinnati, general agent of the New York Life Insurance Co., who has been staying on Les Cheneaux islands, had a thrilling experience, which nearly cost him his life.

Mr. Wieskittel made many friends Mr. Wieskittel made many friends at the hotel where he was stopping, among them being a physician from Flint. They were much together, and while Mr. Weiskittel thought the doctor a pleasant companion the latter gave him special attention. This mutual admiration led the stranger to extend an invitation to the insurance man for a sail on the lake, which he accepted. The only occupants of the vessel were Weiskittel, his host, and sailor who managed it.

When the boat was far out in the lake the doctor, who sat in the bow, suddenly jumped from his seat. In each hand he held a cocked revolver, and in his eye there was the unmistakable glare of the maniac. As he pointed the weapons at his companions, he shouted:

"Ha, ha, they won't get me now. I've outwitted them."

Weiskittel said that the doctor had another brace of weapons lying beside him on the seat and began to parley:

Decree From Rome Emphasizes This Order-Mainly Aimed

at France. New York, Sept. 7 .- The Sacred Congregation of Rites, which has recently been placed under the direction of Cardinal Steinhueber, has just issued a decree calling the attention of the clergy, both at home and abroad, to the strict laws instituted by the congregation prohibiting women from taking part in the music of divine service, either in solos or in choirs, says a despatch to the Journal and Advertiser, from Rome. It is believed at Rome that the decree in question is more especially aimed at the Catholic Church in France, where actresses are frequently employed to sing solos in the churches, especially of the metropolis. But the order cannot fail to apply equally to the Roman Catholic Church in the United States, where the soprano and alto parts of the musical portions of the service are frequently taken by women instead of boys.

No notice of the decree has been restrict laws instituted by the congrega-

The Planet DAILY AND WEEKLY Chatham, Ont

A REMARKABLE ADDRESS.

It seems that the people of West Elgin think that George E. Casey has represented them long enough and are anxious that he should pass the honor around. But George E. does not care about retiring. As a consequence he has issued a most remarkable appeal to the Liberals of West Elgin. He in effect says that he is in need of a government appointment, but if he is cast aside he may not so easily obtain it. He asks them therefore to return him to parliament until such time as he can get an official and profitable position, when he will resign and take it. Here is an extract from Mr. Casey's circular; its needs no comment

"I have not refused any good situation under government, one reason being that I have not been offered any. While my ambition for political adwancement remains strong, my circumstances are such that I could not reasonably refuse such a provision for life as my long years of service might seem to justify-nor do I think anyone for individual houses, but for the city would blame me for accepting it. So that if I should be nominated and reelected once more, I could not bind myself to complete the parliamentary term, if it appeared to the government that my 'usefulness would be greater in some position bearing an adequate permanent salary.' I believe that is the correct way to put it when an increase of income is in question."

BAPTISTS DECLARE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

The Maritime Baptist Association, which was in session at Halifax last week, has the hard hood to differ with the president of the Kent Prohibitionists, and declares that Sir Wilfrid Laurier did wrong in refusing prohibitory legislation as a result of the plebiscite. The report adopted was as the Boer estimate of it. follows:

The palpable inadequacy of our own temperance laws must be apparent to all who have had to do with their enforcement. The Dominion parliament has had the subject of improved legislation before it in one form or another for a number of years without making satisfactory advancement towards prohibition of the traffic. In 1898 at the instance of parliament a plebiscite was taken throughout Canada for the expressed purpose of ascertaining whether public opinion was or was not in favor of prohibition. The vote was taken in September of that year and the result was that a considerable majority of the entire electorate casting the votes on that occasion were in case, it, followed logically upon generai principles that the government should have at once initiated the legislation necessary to carry out the will of the people thus constitutionally expressed, but they declined to take that course, the result being that the clear demand of a majority of those who voted was not complied with, but or the contrary, the wish of all those in terested in the liquor traffic has pre

DISCRIMINATING AGAINST THE NEGROES.

When negro schoolhouses were burned in New Orleans an excuse for the crime was found in the fact that it was committed by a mob in the fury of excitement. But what are we to think of the action taken by the city authorities of New Orleans who have formally abolished the schools where negro children were given an education the same as that given to white children, and substituted for schools of higher grades schools for manual training? There can be no question as to the advantages negro children will derive from manual training, but to deprive them of the right to a common school education is not only glaringly unjust but extremely shortsighted as a policy. Apart from the obvious fact that the simplest mechanical training involves a knowledge of the three R's, the question at issue is whether under the American constitution the child of a taxpayer can be legally deprived of the benefits of common school education on account of race or color. However that may be, to attempt to prevent the education of colored children is, in any view of the case, un-Christian and conceived in a spirit of enmity to humanity. It is obviously an effort to establish a class of helots in violation of the fundamental laws of the nation. The results must be deplorable in widening the breach between the two races, and by adding wrong and injustice to social animosity, which are sure to work incalculable mischief to both.

Sewing is to be taught in the Windsor Public schools. Next, probably, scrubbing and mangling will be added to the curriculum.

During the progress of the Boer war 12,000 school children, of Philadelphia, signed an address of sympathy with the burghers and sent a juvenile delegate all the way to Pretoria to present it to Kruger. He got there a trifle late. Paul had just time to grab the document, murmur "thanks, sonny," in Dutch, and skip. A few hours later Roberts entered the Boer capital. A correspondent the other day in interviewing an old Boer asked him if he had seen a boy who had come all the way from America with a resolution of sympathy from some school children, "Yah, dot vas funny," was the reply. The adult chumps in Philadelphia who engineered the whole silly affair will be pleased to learn

The question as to how far one has exclusive ownership over one's own face is to be definitely settled at Osgoode Hall. There are English and American judgments on the question, the latter rather in favor of the view that public personages at least have no exclusive copyright upon the features; but no decision on the right of one person to exhibit a photograph of another one has been given out. A young lady named Kerr, exceedingly comely, was photographed some time ago by J. Rowley, a Toronto photographer. The picture was a fine one, and Rowley decided to use it with some photos sent to various exhibitions. The girl objected, and entered suit to pretions or as an advertisement. Rowley replied that she was under age, and could not sue, but the courts have decided to let her nearest kinswoman sue on her behalf, and the case will go to trial.

THE MONOPOLISTS' HARVEST.

London Free Press. Much dissatisfaction is expressed among parents about the quantity of new school books which they are periodically compelled to buy for their children. This year there seems to be more complaints than usual. One parent informs the Free Press that not very long ago she paid out close on to $5 for school books for her children, two of whom had just entered the Fourth Book. Now she is compelled to buy new grammars, geographies and arithmetics. This is a very serious matter to some people, for these books come high.

WHAT ONE LETTER DID. Exchange.

An enterprising Philadelphia restaurant proprietor hung out a large blackboard sign the other day with the following announcement: "You can't beat our fifteen cent dinners." This sign proved to be a good drawing card until a young man of humorous turn of mind came along. The latter, seeing the sign, stopped, and, after scrutinizing it closely, smiled one of those smiles which bode no one any good. He waited until none of the employees were watching and, taking out his handkerchief, he erased the letter "b" from the word "beat." The transformation was complete, and it was not until a crowd had collected that the proprietor of the restaurant discovered why there was a large crowd outside than inside.

TWO LOVERS.

Two lovers by a moss-grown spring;
They leaned soft cheeks together there.
Mingled the tark and sunny hair,
And heard the wooing thrushes sing,
O budding time!
O love's blest prime!

Two wedded from the portal stept;
The bells made happy carolings,
The air was soft as fanning wings,
White petals on the pathway slept,
O pure-eyed bride!
O tender pride!

Two faces o'er a cradle bent; Two hands above the head were lock

These pressed each other while they Those watched a life that love had

The red light shone upon the floor And made the space between them

They drew their chairs up side by side, Their pale cheeks joined, and said, "Once more!"

Accuses This Young Man of Burning His Barn

And Then Robbing the House While the Fire Was in Progress

The Ridgetown Dominion gives this lescription of the two charges on which Elijah Long is now awaiting trial in jail here:

On the night of Aug. 24th, the barn of Peter McPhail, near Duart, was destroyed by fire. During the excitement caused by the blaze, some one entered McPhail's house and carried out a bureau drawer containing $150 in money and $550 in good notes. The emoty drawer was found in the world. empty drawer was found in the yard.
The loss was a big-one, and Mr. Mc-Phail suspected Elijah Long, his stepson, a young man of twenty-one. 'He-communicated his suspicions to Chief. communicated his suspicions to Chief-Grant, of this town, who, on Saturday evening, arrested Long and placed him in the lock-up. A search of the prisoner was rewarded by the recovery of $81.25. Early on Saturday the Chief learned that Long, had been anxious to change $10 bills. Some of the money was found hidden in his shirt sleeves. The Chief sent for Mr. Mc-Phail, and Long, seeing the game was up, acknowledged the theft and offered, if leniently dealt with, to produce the notes.

With the handcuffed prisoner Chief Grant drove to the barn of John Brosnahan in Orford, and there in the found, after the Chief had pried off four boards, the prisoner holding the latter's lantern. It was about four o'clock Sunday morning, but so quiet-ly was the work done that Mr. Bros-nahan was not disturbed.

Chief Grant brought the prisoner back to the lock-up where he remained until Tuesday morning, when he ap-peared before Magistrate McKinlay. He was arraigned on two charges, arson and robbery. He pleaded guilty to the latter, but denied having fired the barn. Mr. H. D. Smith prosecuted, no one appearing for the prisoner. After hearing considerable evidence, the magistrate committed Long for trial on both charges. It came out that Long gave the alarm of fire, and was the one who called Mr. McPhail's attention to the empty drawer.

Co. She became involved in debt and sold out her stock, a proceeding that was objected to by some of her creditors. She then happened to go to Barrie on the same train as a constable, and gossip had it that she was arrested for fraud. The Herald made an item of this, and in the next issue, having received notice of action, published an apology, which plaintiffs counsel characterized as an aggravation of the libel. Verdict for plaintiff and $150 damages. WILDCAT STRAIEGY.

The Clever Way in Which the Animal Out-

In many parts of Tennessee, hun; ing wildcats is as popular a sport as the fox chase. The wildcat is as tricky as the fox. He has a still more dogged way of sticking to the thickest cover and the most rugged ground, and when overtaken will generally fight till he dies.

Some years ago I witnessed a wildcat perform an act of cunning quite as remarkable as any I have heard attributed to the fox. With six other young men I was camped near the head waters of Buffalo Creek, not far from the Alabama line, when we de-termined to try a wildcat chase, and for that purpose went to a thickly wooded strip of country lying between the Buffalo and one of its tributary streams. In the dense woods there are occasionally small openings connected by a few old roads which we could traverse on horseback. Only at the lower end of this strip of woods were there any caves or holes to which the wildcats would be likely to retreat.

Our chase began on a cloudy, drizzling morning, a c-pital time for the hunt, for in such weather the game is casily started and the trail is strong. Three of our party, including myself took positions near the junction of the two streams, in the edge of a small space that was clear of undergrowth, but set with taller trees. The other four, taking the dogs, went some two miles up the river to start the game. which would probably pass near our position, either to take refuge in a neighboring bluff on the river bank, or as was more likely to dodge the hounds by winding among the rocks, and then doubling on their trail.

We had waited fully two hours when we heard the distant cry of a hound, and soon afterward a full chorus of the dogs. They were coming toward our place of concealment, although as yet far off, and to judge from their cry the trail was growing hotter every momen'. After a run of some twenty minutes the steady baring was succeeded by a din of short, sharp yelps, nd then we knew the pack had sighted the game. We kept perfectly quiet among the bushes, our guns ready for tion and when the hounds were about a quar er of a mile distant we eard a rustling among the bushes tween us and the dogs, a succession light, springing leaps, and then an ormeus wildent bounded into the aring

We should have fired but that our priosity was roused by the eccentric fovements of the creature. For an nstant he looked back in the direction of the hounds, then making several active springs to the left he reurned to his trail and made as many prings to the right. Then turning he umped upon the trunk of a leaning chestnut tree, which, having been blown down, had been broken off some forty feet from the root. break was seven or eight feet from the ground, and the leaning trunk was pointing in the direction from which the hounds were coming.

The cat ran quickly to the upper end, but instead of leaping off, as we expected, he scrambled underneath the trunk, and crawled out upon a broken limb that projected two or three feet from the lower side. Here he sat, partition of the horse stable the pock- close crouched with his short ears glaring fiercely.

Pretty soon the dogs came up in full cry on the trail. Three old hounds led the pack and these were a little puzzled when they came to where the cat had turned aside. The other hounds, most of them being young, scattered over the open place, all the while baying lustily, but without striking the trail at all. The leaders, having made several starts in different directions, finally struck the trail, and were forthwith joined by the others. Up the trunk they went with sonorous bay,' one right after the other.

Under the end of the log on broken limb still crouched the wildcat, motionless as stone, except as he bent his fierce yellow eyes around him and moved his short tail slowly from side to side. Only the thickness of the log was between him and the foremost hound; still he did not move, but only crouched closer to the limb. His pursuers paused but for a moment on the log, and then leaped to the ground in quick succession After a little confuion in searching for the trail. started off at full speed on the back track, and were soon some distance from the place.

The cat did not move from his place until the hounds were well out of sight. Then, raising his head, he cautiously looked around, and, finding no enemies in sight he sprang lightly to the ground and started to make off another way. I wished to reward the animal's sagacity by allowing it to escape unhurt, out a shot from one of the party stopped its course .-- Youth's Companion.

is a very meager outline of a busioutline of a business woman's day. With many such women the ordinary strain of labor is intensified and aggravated by a diseased condition of the delicate organs, and they become victims of that terrible backache, or blinding headache, which is so common among business women.

If you are bearing this burden, bear it no longer. For the backache, headache, nervousness and weakness which spring from a diseased condition of the womanly organs there is a sure cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Half a million women have been per-fectly and permanently cured by this wonderful medicine.

A Novel Umbrella.

Maye wanted to drive to market alone, but mamma was afraid to let him, for he had never been used to horses before they moved to the farm two months before, says Our Little Folks Magazine. But papa said any baby could drive Lize, she was such a steady horse, and surely a big boy eleven years old who wore pantaloons and top zoots could drive her. Mayo had driven when papa or mamma was with him, and knew how to manage the horse very well, so papa said, "We will let him try it once alone.' In the market wagon were six barrels of spinach. The barrels had slits in the sides to let the air in so the spinach would not wait. Mayo felt very large as he drove away to market with his load. Mamma could stand in the doorway, and looking across the meadows see the road nearly the whole two miles to town. When it was time for Mayo to come back mamma grew anxious, for it was beginning to rain. At last she saw the old gray horse and green market wagon coming along the road. The railroad ran very near the house, and mamma watched to see that they got safely over the track. Yes, the track was safely passed, and Lizo came trotting steadily towards home -but where was Mayo? He was nowhere to be seen. The lines were not dragging on the ground; indeed they seemd to be firmly held by some one who was guiding the horse, but no driver was visible

Mamma's heart almost stopped beat ing, and she grew faint, but she broke into a laugh as Lize turned in at the gate and trotted by the house to the barn, for she saw that the lines went through the slits in a barrel that was bottom up, and she knew that under that barrel a black-eyed boy was sheltered from the rain that was now fall-

"I wasn't going to get wet." said Mayo, "when I could put the lines through two holes and looked out of another one, and keep perfectly dry, There was no use getting wet when I could made an umbrella of a barrel was there?"

McCORMICK CORN HARVESTERS GIVE PERFECT SATISFACTION.

This is to certify that we witnessed the operation of one of your Corn Harwesters on the farm of Mr. James Holmes, and are pleased to say that it is one of the most perfect pieces of machinery that we ever saw for cutting and handling corn, and in point of making an even butt and tying. The sheaf carrier works to perfection, there not being any ears knocked off. It is very easy draft, has no side draft, and two horses haul it with ease.

We would recommend the McCormick Corn Harvester to any persons wishing to purphase a corn barvester.

The silver cup won by Supt. E. B. Is it not sad that youthful men are thus cut off, and for what? Yes, for what, I repeat it. As I sit here penning these few lines I hear the sound of the shells, for the Boers have not retired. Perhaps in a few moments we shall be ordered forward once more. On the morrow of the battle I passed over the ground with others and found five dead Boers. They were found not over 20 yards from our line, thus telling the story of their browers. I must here aton as story of their bravery. I must here stop as we are preparing to move camp. Respects to all my old friends and acquaintances.

PLOT TO KILL THE SULTAN. Over One Hundred Arrests Made -Jubilee Festivities Spoiled.

Constantinople, Sept. 7. - Abdul Hamid's enjoyment of the jubilee festivities, which began Sunday on the completion of his 25th year as head of the Ottoman Empire, has been spoiled by the discovery of a plot against his life. One hundred and eighteen arrests, including several high officials, have already been made, and a secret inquiry is proceeding.

MR. STEPHENS' POSITION.

In mentioning the names of pr spective Liberal candidates in Kent, it was stated that the local party workers feared that they could not agree on "tterms," ith Ald, Stephens. This must not be understood as implying that there is a financial agree-ment involved. Mr. Stephens has been urged by his friends to accept the nom-ination, but as he has not given them an affirmative answer, they despair of him agreeing to place himself partys' disposal. That is simply the way the matter stands. He has nei-ther been asked for nor has he prom-

The Duke of Abrussi's Expedition Penetrated Further North Than Nansen.

Christiania, Sept. 7. - A telegram from Tromsoe, Norway, in reporting the return of the Stella Polare, with the Duke of Abrussi's Arctic expedition on board, says the Stella Polare reached a point in latitude 86,33 north, thus penetrating farther north than Dr. Nansen's record. The Stella Polare remained fast in the ice for eleven months. The pressure stove in eleven months. The pressure stove in her sides; making a hole a foot and a quarter in breadth. Her machinery was also damaged. The members of the expedition suffered great hardships, and were compelled, to eat their sledge dogs. A Norwegian engineer and two Italian members of the expedition perished. The news of the assassination of King Humbert of Italy (Uncle of the Duke of Abrussi) was communicated to the Duke off was communicated to the Duke off Hammerfest. A Forecast

Our purchases of New Fall and Winter Clothing are arriving almost daily. We can now safely say that this stores' assortment when complete will be among the very best in Western Ontario and will rank high with the choicest in Canada. One great advantage our customers will have will be in selecting from absolutely new goods. As our motto is "not to carry goods over from one season to another," consequently there are no left overs, no out-of-date, no unstylish cloths. What we show already and what we will show throughout the fall season is the pick from a dozen or more sources. The very cream of the choicest stocks in the country. Another very important feature will be price. All our purchases have been cash and this has brought us the very best prices possible. The fall stocks are now arriving almost daily and it is with confidence of their pleasing you that we ask you to come and look at them this early in the season. We will show you a few of the many lines of new Fall Suits in East Show Window Saturday.

The fruit and flower show of the Learnington Horticultural Society was held on Wednesday and Thursday. The first flay was devoted to receiving entries and placing exhibits. The show of fruit was very small for this locality. Fruit growers show great apathy in this matter. There was nothing to prevent a magnificent disapathy in this matter. There was nothing to prevent a magnificent display of every variety of fruit. There are plenty of apples, pears and plums, but the entries in these were very few. It was too early for grapes, but there were some fine exhibits. The best show in the fruit department was in proceed by the product of the control of in peaches, notwithstanding the wholesale destruction of the trees in the winter of 1898. In this fruit the show was very good. Of melons of every variety there was a magnificent every variety there was a magnificent show. Some watermelons weighed as much as fifty-nine pounds and few less than twenty-five. However, if the fruit show was poor that of the flowers and plants made up for it in excellence, beauty and number of entries. Almost every house plant and flower were represented. The was a very large and fine collection of palms as well as ferns. The cut flowers were fine and arranged in a most attractive manner.

"CHARCOAL NOAH."

"Hilloa, there, bub! What in creation are you sniverlin' so for?"

Though the voice of the speaker had a sharp, rasping tone, it was not alto-gether unkindly in its accent, and the twelve-year-old boy, to whom it was addressed, stopped short in his headong course, hastily brushing one of his ragged sleeves across his tear-dimmed eyes as he faced the other.

He had a thin, pindhed face, and his elight figure was clothed in a wellworn suit of about three sizes too large for him, so that he presented anything but a comely appearance. He was fol-lowing the wheel-path leading across lots from Denby main road to the village, when he was suddenly accosted by him who had steppped from the bushes overhanging the pathway.

The latter was a most unpromisinglooking man, past the prime of life. His short, squatty figure was attired in a suit that was glazed with dirt wherever it was not rent with holes or patches in a bungling way, evidently the work of his own clumsy fingers. "Charcoal Noah" everybody called him as far as he was known, and the thick layers of dust from the grimy kiln showed that he well deserved the

"I haven't a relative or a friend in the whole world!" exclaimed the boy, beginning to cry again.

"That's a lie!" cried the old charcoal burner bluntly-"at least while ol' Noah Danvers lives. Come over to my sod palace an' share a livin' with me. You're welcome as long as you'll stay."

The boy, who, until we know a better name for him, we must call Curley, had often heard of the old charcoal accompany him.

After going a short distance they came into a clearing in the growth of and wood betokened the vicinity of a charcoal kiln. Near by was the queer, odd-shaped abode of Charcoal Noah. This last looked like the roof of a small building with the eaves coming to the ground. The sides of this Ashaped structure were made of inner surface of upright sticks covered on the outside with a heavy coating of sods. One end had been left open, and this faced the side of a perpendicular ledge at the base of which a fire was burning cheerfully. Though the only couch the occupant knew was a pile of straw, the sod dwelling was more comfortable than it appeared at first sight. In such a habitation as this Charcoal Noah had passed more than twenty years of his life, tending his kilns and growing much grimer and blacker each succeeding season, until it was no wonder he was almost like a piece of charcoal himself. Friendless and homeless, Curley was only too glad to accept of the old man's rude hospitality, and he began to do such work for him as he could, which service was gladly received by the

So a week passed, and though there was every indication of the near approach of show, and wintery weather, the old charcoal burner declared he must prepare and burn two kilns more before he quit.

As the wood had got to be chopped for the purpose, this meant considerable of a job, which would take nearly two weeks of tirde. Now, after a kiln has been built and set on fire, though is has to be continually watched, night and day, the old burner had generally intended to cut his wood for the following one during his intervals of waiting on the first. The weather, however, had prevented him from doing this for the preceding days, so Curley's helpful watching came in very handy for him, as, after a little showing the lattier managed to tend the kiln almost entirely days. Then during the night watches he took his turns in the lonely vigtls, climbing the sides of the smoking kiln whenever it was necessary and "stamping in" the sods, &s had to be done as fast as the wood underneath was charred by the fire so as to settle away. One afternoon there was a visitor to the 'Dush," a Mr. Preston, who bought coal and had come over to look at some housed near the klin. He was accompanied by Romanzo Harden, who Lad come to show him the way, and his own son, about the other's age.

"Whew!" exclaimed Romanzo, at sight of Curley, "if here isn't that poorhouse boy who ran away from father last week, and he has looked everywhere for him. Won't father wallep him as soon as he can lay hand on him, and I shan't forget to tell

Though Curley heard the werds plainly, he made no reply, wishing at the same time Noah would come up

Thought you did a smart thing, running away from us, didn't you, you "I didn't run away," replied Curley. "Your father said he didn't want me any longer.' "Oh, such a story! But perhaps you like burning charcoal better. It is such nice, clean work! And look, Will, see what a fine house they live in. Let's take a peep inside." Knowing Romanzo's meddlesome nature, Curley followed him and his companion to the sod hut, to get there just as the first was about to pull their straw bed to pieces.

"Stop that!" cried Curley, clinching his fists and showing that he was in

"How are you going to help yourself?" demanded Romanzo insolently. "If I can't I'll call Noah."

Though young Harden was four years older than the youthful coal burner, he showed by his actions that he was somewhat afraid of him, or it may be he feared the appearance of Noah Danvers, for he left the but at

Mr. Preston was down to the coal sheds, and Romanzo, looking about as if for some mischief he could do, his attention became fixed upon the coal kiln, when he said:

"Let's see you climb it, Raggy." "I can't go up now."

"Afraid, eh? You're a pretty coal burner! But perhaps you're afraid of soiling those nice clothes of yours."

"The kiln is too near time for drawing for anyone to go into it," replied Curley, appearing calmer than he really feit.

"Bah! you say that because you're afraid to. I guess if old Noah knew what a little coward you are he wouldn't keep you long. But perhaps you will go up now, just to show us how spry you are," and catching Cur-ley's cap from his head he flung it to the top of the kiln. The cap was an old one, but it was all that the poor boy had, and he could not afford to lose it. Stifling the anger and grief that he felt, he said: "I can get it with a pole," and started after one that lay on the ground near

You are too bad, Romanzo," declared Will Preston, who had no sympathy with him in this disgraceful affair.

"Think so, do you?" cried the other. "Well, while the raggy imp is about it he can get two caps as well as one," and without considering what he was doing, Romanzo seized the new cap belonging to Will, to toss that upon the crest of the smoking kiln.

Without realizing what risk he was taking in his excitement over the prospective loss of his cap, Will rushed up the steep, treacherous side of the kiln. and though he sunk ankle-deep in the dried earth every step, he reached the burner as a strange, eccentric outcast | hollow depression on the top where his from society, but he was not loath to | cap lay, half covered by the fine dust and cinders.

Then, as he stooped to pick up his cap he suddenly felt the footing begray birches, where a dark cloud of neath him yield, and he sunk downsmoke and the smell of burning sod ward into the burning pit, with a shrick of terror upon his lips.

Curley and Romanzo had witnessed this fearful mishap with looks of horfor, and as the unfortunate youth was enveloped in a cloud of fire and smoke and cinders the last uttered a cry of

Mr. Preston's attention was drawn to the frightful scene by the cries, but e was too far away to rescue his son, if that were possible, though he started for the kiln at the top of his speed.

Will, feeling the kiln caving in scrambled to reach a place which would bear his weight, only to sink deeper into the fiery pit, which was jiable to break forth into a light blaze at any instant.

But by that time Curley sprung up the side of the kiln, and throwing himself flat upon its side, he reached out his arms to grasp Will's outstretched hands.

The smoke was pouring up around him in dense, black volumes, and the air was filled with sparks which caught upon their clothes and caused them to gasp for breath.

Curley proved his grittiness well, and with all the strength he could muster he pulled Will out from the deadly crater, and together they rolled down the side of the kiln, just as the flames burst forth with a loud road:

Mr. Preston bore them in their halfunconscious state away from the heat of the fire, and at that moment Noau came puffing and panting to the place. Curley and Will soon recovered their consciousness, though they presented a sorry appearance, blackened and burned as they were.

Explanations quickly followed, during which Romanzo stood by trembling from suppressed emotions over the contemptible act he had perpetrated, expecting the punishment he deserved for his misdemeanor. At the same time Mr. Preston was praising Curley heartily for his heroic action, and from that moment the poor orphan had gained a second friend, who was to prove invaluable to him in the years that were to come.

Mr. Preston insisted that Curley should go home with him, and though there were tears in the eyes of the old charcoal-burner at losing his protege so soon, he gave him his blessing and promised to come and see him in the

All this happened many years ago, and kind-hearted Noah Danvers long since joined the silent majority, but Charles Preston, as Curley became known, in his prosperity has not forgotten the old charcoal-burner whose friendship to him laid the foundation for his life's success and happiness.

THE FOOD WE EAT

of Man or Beast Der Upon It. The effect of environment upon animals and plants has been a recognized fact for many years, but the influence of food upon all members of the animal kingdom, including man, is not so well attested. Some years ago a reverend naturalist, bearing this fact in mind, decided to make some experiments on fishes and other creatures: he fed about a dozen kinds of fish on a diet into which pepper entered to a large extent, and much gratified when he found that the skins of his patients changed color. Other similar experichanged color. Other similar experiments in dieting were attended with like results, and the naturalist soon came to the conclusion that food must have a marked effect upon the character and physical condition of the individual. This gentleman, confident of the result, did not think it necessary to make experiments on man, and consequently was not able to propound any atisfactory theory—satisfactory to others, that is. But several European experts in physiology have pursued the subject of the influence of food upon human beings, and one of these gentlemen has recently given us his ideasor, rather, has given expression to his convictions on this important point. If you wish to make a perfect savage of the mildest man in existence, says this physiologist, feed him exclusively on beef. In about two months he would have become energetic and foolhardy to a degree; after three months in most cases, that man would have become as untameable as a wild bull, and it would be dangerous to go near

It is well known that indigestion is likely to wait upon him who has an appetite for pork, and this may serve to explain the statement of the physiologist in question that an exclusive diet of pork will lead to melancholy and suicide. Even the most refined person would become coarse after a few weeks dieting on pork, and the man who finds in the ordinary way the greatest amount of happiness in life would, under the influence of pork, speedily wish to shuffle off this mor-

A lamb is usually regarded as the symbol of innocence, but it also is an emblem of stupidity, and similar in this respect will the person become who confines himself to the flesh of the lamb for food-no green peas allowed. the festive "baa."

Veal tends to make the muscles flaccid and the intellect weak; soldiers, who have need of courage, and athletes, who require strength, should eat sparingly of this viand.

The young lady who wishes to obtain very beautiful, soft and white skin should subsist constantly on milk and eggs; and the individual, whether male or female, who desires to brighten the intellect and preserve it fresh and vigorous should eat largely of eggs. Butter has the effect of making us sleek, pacific and lazy, if taken in quantity daily; the person who thus indulges in this oleganious aliment will soon become fatigued that he will 6t for any kind of work or exer-

Strong cheese is recommended in moderation; it is suitable to those who suffer from nerves," for it acts as a sedative. But if eaten to excess its effect resemble those of pork.

It is a mater of common belief that mustard, taken internally, is a preventative of rneumatism. Our physiologist does not, unfortunately, touch on this point, but ne tells us something else in connection with this condiment which is of great importance, namely, that mustard and memory go together. if you wish to have a good memory and to preserve it unimpaired as long as you live, you must eat plenty of

The proportion of fruit which may be eaten varies with the temperament: many people might subsist on a diet of which one-half was fruit.

health will take care of itself. It people only realized the soundness of that statement the majority might live to a good cld age, like Moses, "the eye undimmed, the natural force unabated." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is despensed to nerve and muscle. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do its whole work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so spread disease threughout the body. It was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very centre of health and the common source of disease, which led Dr. Pierce to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery." "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach." The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of diseased organs, the stomach is a story the stomach. The soundness of this theory is prevery day by cures of diseased organs, heart, liver, lungs, blood,—by the use of the "Discovery," which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxi-

Bro. Potter Presented With Han some Marble Clock

the Members of Encampment No. 10 -Very Eulogistic Address

William Potter, Past Grand Patriarch of Ontario and Grand Representative, was last vening presented with a clock at the regular meeting of Chatham Encampment, No. 10, I. O. O. F. Mr. Potter was called forward when P. C. P. A. M. Lafferty read the following address and presented Mr. Potter with a fine mantel timepiece : To Wm. Potter, esquire, P.G.P., G.R.

Chatham, Ontario.

Dear Sir and Patriarch,—The officers and patriarchs of Chatham Encampment, No. 16, I.O.O.F., in which you were initiated into the mysteries of Patriarchal Oddfellowship about thirteen years ago, and with whom you have been actively associated in endeavoring to inculcate the pure principles of Patriarchal Oddfellowship, realize that this is a fitting time to assure you of our high esteem for yourself as a patriarch and of our just appreciation of the invaluable services you have rendered our noble order in general and our Encampment, No. 10, in particular.

The Grand Encampment of Ontario having accepted the invitation of this Encampment to hold its session of A. D. 1894, in our City of Chatham, your were unanimously elected captain of the degree staff to select a team from our patriarchs and practice the members in the effective working of the several degrees, for the entertainment and instruction of the officers and delegates to the Grand Encampment. The achievements of this team, as well the graceful and pleasing floor-movements of the staff, as in the fluent and impressive delivery of the charges by its several members, so captivated the guests and spectators on Chatham, Ontario.

staff, as in the fluent and impressive delivery of the charges by its several members, so captivated the guests and spectators on this memorable occasion, that the degree staff of Chatham Encampment has thenceforth enjoyed a provincial reputation for efficiency. Invitations poured in from Encampments in all directions, asking our degree staff to visit their several tents and campments in all directions, asking our degree staff to visit their several tents and exemplify the Encampment degree. These were accepted for Bienheim. Detroit, Sarnia, Port Huron, Stratford, Fort Gratiot and other localities, with the result that the members and invited guests of the several encampments were pleased, entertained and edified with the revelations of our beautiful and instructive ritual developed before their astonished gaze and impressed on the understanding of the patriarchs.

But the most gratifying and most astonished gaze and impressed understanding of the patriarchs.

But the most gratifying and most highly esteemed of all the migrations of our Captain and Staff was the ever memorable exemplification of the degrees of Patriarchal Oddfellowship by Chatham Encampment, No. 10, of Chatham, Ontario, guests of Ingersoll Encampment, No. 29, of Detroit, Michigan, at Light Infantry Armory, Detroit, on the occasion of the Diamond Anniversary of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., Wednesday evening, September 20, 1896. It was this visit which gave our degree staff a universal reputation, and imparted to it an which gave our degree staff a universal reputation, and imparted to it an undying name; for the a chievements of Chatham Encampment, honorably recorded in the minutes of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, will be recalled in years to come, wherever in this wide world, (the field of the labors of Odiffellows) these minutes are read.

of Oddfellows), these minutes are read.

It is not in Chatham Encampment alone that your valuable services have been appreciated, for our Grand Encampment claimed and seized upon you for its own, when we capt wan to it as could chalectate and sent you to it as our delegate, and returned you to us with ever increashonors in successive years, as G. J. G. S. W., G. H. P., G. P., and G. R. Chatham has possessed two Grand Masters, but to you alone has fallen the distinguished honor of being the first and only Grand Representative delegate from Chatham to the Soverign Grand Lodge. After having re-persented the Grand Encampment in this capacity, there is but one higher honor in the gift of the Order to which you may aspire, viz., the office of Grand Sire and who shall say that you may not attain this most exalted d dignity?

But recently returned from the Grand Encampment of Ontario over the business of which you presided as Grand Patriarch, you are now about to leave this Province and represent the Jurisdiction of Ontario as one of its delegates at the yearly session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge in Richmond, Virginia, the once besieged capital of the short-lived Southern Con-

We trust your journey south will be a pleasant one, and we wish you a safe return to your family and friends

We now ask you to accept this clock we now ask you to accept this clock, presented to you by the Patriarchs of Chatham Encampment, No. 10, in token of their appreciation of your services to Oddfellowship. As it marks the fleeting hours may you be reminded of the many pleasant ones already spent in the furtherance of Oddfellowship, and may it measure for you many more pleasant and more profitable hours yet to be spent with the Patriarchs here and wherever the duties of the Independent Order may warning the Median of the Me the Patriarchs here and wherever the duties of the Independent Order may

With President Parrott's Explanation of His Action at Dresden.

To The Planet.—Anent your article concerning the course of The President of the Kent County Prohibition Association and Mr. Parrott's reply, permit me as an old-time Liberal voter and also as one who supported prohibition in the plebiscite to express my surprise at Mr. Parrott's course. Had he first resigned his position and acted simply as a private citizen he would have been within his rights though possibly open to criticism for insincerity. But to act as he did and make the statements attributed to him cannot in my estimation fail to do the prohibition cause much harm. How can we ask a man to help on prohibition when he can retort, "Look at your head man, how much of a prohibitionist is he when he can resort, "Look at your head man, how much of a prohibitionist is he when politics are around?" I believe acting as he is he is helping the liquor traffic along more than if he were an out-and-out advocate of it.

One thing more. I would like to ask Mr.

Advocate of it.

One thing more I would like to ask Mr.
Parrott fairly and expect an honest answer:
Wasn's his real reason for refusing to call a prohibition convention fear that that convention would condemn Sir Wilfrid Laurier for breaking his pledges on the plebiscite?
