FALSE STORY OF JAP DEFEAT

Official Denial of the Russian Sensational Report of Immense Slaughter.

Rumor of Togo's Death-One of Pt. Arthur's Cruisers Said to Have Joined Vladivostok Fleet.

Tokio, July 16, 4 p. m.-The Imperial headquarters staff officially deny the reports from St. Petersburg that the Japanese lost thirty thousand men in a battle near Port Arthur on July 10 or 11. Not a shot was fired

THE RUSSIAN VIEW.

St. Petersburg, July 16, 1.35 p. m.—
Since the receipt from Tokio of an official denial of the report of a Japanese repolse at Port Arthur with the loss of about 30,000, skepticism as to the truth of the report from Vicercy Alexieff's headquarters has pervaded Alexieff's headquarters has pervaded all circles but the members of the General Staff decline to accept the de-nial unreservedly. While not insist-ing on the accuracy of the figures, they claim there is good reason to believe that a severe check was in-flicted on the Japanese in front of Port Arthur. An official report just received from General Stoessel coverreceived from General Stoessel covering the events of July 7 and July 8, strengthens this view. Stoessel says the Japanese repeatedly attacked the eastern defences around Lunsantan, and everywhere were repulsed, the Russians not losing a single position with the perimeter of the fortress. Although still in ignorance as to what the official statement meant by "from Japanese sources," the officials here maintain that Alexieff must have had good reason to send such a have had good reason to send such a report. While it is conceivable that the Japanese themselves may have spread the report for the purpose of leading General Kurojatkin to be-lieve that they will not advance any further in Manchuria, the General Staff are disposed to regard them as guilty of such Machiavelism. The public ardor has quite cooled down. St. Petersburg, Monday, July 18, 4.25 a. m.—News from the front, both official and unofficial is remarkably scant. Lieut.-General Sakharoff's report, which brings the situation up to July 15, does not mention the occupation of Yin Kow, but speaks of the Russians driving out the Japanese from the coast town of Huanti Chan, between Yin Kow and Kai Chou. On the other hand, according to General Sakharoff, the advance to Ta Tche Kiao is continuing leisurely. The Japanese advance party is apparently retiring to the south-eastward, while strong parties are entrenching between Fen Shui and Mo Tien passes.

A BRITISH GUNBOAT. A special from Liao Yang, the date of hwich is doubtful, though seeming-ly about contemporary with Lieut. General Sakharoff's report, says: —
"A British gunboat appeared off Yin

The commander of the Russian gunboat Sivouch hoisted a battle flag, went out and requested the British vessel to draw off, which it did. It is reported the gunboat returned later with two vessels. three put to sea that night.

30,000 JAPANESE LANDED. Berlin, July 16.—The Lokal An-zeiger to-day prints a special despatch from Port Arthur stating that the Japanese since July 11, have landed about 30,000 men near Pigeon Bay under the protection of the entire fleet. The Russians, the despatch says, offered little resistance. A gen-eral assault is expected soon. A calm see has facilitated the eral assault is expected soon. A calm sea has facilitated the landing.

IMPROBABLE RUMOR.

St. Petersburg, July 16, 7.06 p. m.—
There is a persistent rumor in circulction to the effect that the protected cruiser Noki has joined the Vladivostok squadron. The admiralty has no information on the subject. It is added that it is possible but improbable, in view of the inadvisability of separating the Port Arthur force.

JAPS STILL ADVANCING. The enemy is continuing the advance. General Mistchenko's force in warm skirmishes south of Kan Chi, discovered a big force of Japanese moving toward Tan Chi and Simaut Chen. The groups of Japanese to the southward remain about stationary.

TOGO DEAD?

This is the best Che Foo, July 16. — The Chicago Daily News' correspondent with Kuroki's arms, in a despatch sent by a Chinese inch from Ar Turnell Daily News' correspondent with Kuroki's arms, in a despatch sent by a roki's army, in a despatch sent by a Chinese junk from An Tung, says:—
"There is a persistent rumor here Admiral Togo is dead. Many of the Japanese profess to believe it. A severe outbreak of cholera is reported. The bodies of the soldiers who die of the disease are being cremated."

To Protect Her Commerce in the Red Sea-The Recent "Hold-Ups"

And the Passage of Russian Fleet Through the Dardanelles Causes Irritation in England.

London, July 18 .- The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard in a despatch, dated July 17, sayssian guardship Chernomoretz ed through the Bosphorous from the Black Sea this morning. The Chernomoretz is a gun vessel belonging to the Black Sea fleet, and carries

CAUSES IRRITATION. Almost without exception the news papers this morning in editorials or otherwise, comment upon the Russian volunteer fleet steamers passing the Dardanelles, and the Government is urged to take action, especially for the protection of British commerce in the Bed Sea and neighboring waters. The Daily Telegraph, concluding an outspoken protest, written with traces of Government inspiration, say—"There is a limit to complaisance when neutral commerce under the British flag is molested in a way to which we have been for a century and a half un-used." Special despatches from Berlin echo the feeling of pritation that

HIGH-HANDED ACTION. A despatch from Aden to the Daily Mail says that the captain of the British steamer Waipara reports that the Russian volunteer fleet steamer St. Petersburg signalled him to stop by firing across the bows of his vessel on July 15, in the Red Sea. The Russians examined the papers of the Waipara and declared that they would hold the ship as a prize. The captain protested, and was taken on board the St. Petersburg, where he gave the Russian officers a guarantee that there were neither arms nor ammunition on board the Waipara destined for Japan. The vessel was detained for four hours, and was then allowed to proceed. The captain confirms the report that the Peninsular and Oriental Com-pany's steamer Malacca was seized in the Red Sea July 16, by the St. Pet-ersburg, on the ground that she carried arms and munitions of war for the Japanese Government

JAPAN LOOKS TO BRITAIN.

The Standard's Tokic correspondent cabling under date of July 17, says the July Shimpo, in an editorial, expresses the hope that Great Britains will see that Turkey lends Russia no assistance by allowing no steamers of the volunteer fleet to pass the Dardanelless The Jüly Shimpo declares that Great Britain is bound under the terms. Britain is bound, under the terms of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, to prevent such assistance being given.

Good Work in Which Lady Minto Has Taken a Keen Interest-Hansard Changes.

Ottawa, July 17 .- Lady Minto has furnished an interesting statement on the work of the Canadian South African Memorial Association. It says that the total number of Canadians who fell during the war was 246. Of this number eleven were buried at sea or drowned and bodies not reed by relatives or comrades, leaving 218 memorials to be furnished by the association. By end end of Marchmemorials for the graves of 193 in South Africa had been sent out and are now being erected; 25 graves have not yet been definitely located. The erection of memorials is being supervised by Col. H. S. Greenwood, a Canadian employed in South Africa railway service. Lasching-er, to be a chief clerk and assistant secretary of the post office depart-ment. The appointment was gazetted Saturday. Taken in conjunction with some other recent promotions it is significant. One of the traditions of the civil service is that among the provisions a minister is supposed to make against his possible loss of office is that of a permanent bosition for his private secretary—loss of office is that of a permanent position for his private secretary—taking them in out of the wet, the colloquial designation of the practice, which is most in vogue on the eve of a general election. During the past few months several private secretaries have been thus second against the exigencies of political conflict. The ohief private secretary of the Prime Minister has been made also assistant clerk of the Privy Council, according to precedent; his assistant private secretary has been appointed French translator of the Senate. The minister of customs proappointed French translator of the Senate. The minister of customs provided a have for his private secretary by making him assistant commissioner of customs—a practically new office. The private secretary of Sir Fred. Borden has been promoted to the secretaryship of the militia department, and only the other day it was announced that Sir Richard Cartwright's private secretary, F. C. T. O'Hara, had been made superintenent of commercial agents' reports. These appointments constitute a series of storm signals that indicate the ministry at least appreciates the force of Sir John Macdonald's saying about the uncertainties of a general about the uncertainties of a general election being equalled only by those of a horse race.

UMPIRE MOBBED

Montreal, July 17. — There was trouble at the conclusion of the Montreal-Newark baseball game Saturday afternoon, and for a time things tooked exceedingly ugly for Umpire Sullivan. It seems that some of the umpire's rulings were not satisfactory to the Montreal "fans," who thought he was showing too much leniency to the visiting team. As Sullivan was leaving the grounds after the game, a big crowd was in waiting for him, and when he appeared, they made a rush for him. One man drew a knife and made a thrust at Sullivan. At this stage, a local detective appeared on the scene, and, detective appeared on the scene, and, drawing a revolver, held the crowd at bay. Sullivan was not further molested.

Douglas Stevens, Winnipeg, is in the city for a few days. "Manitoba is going to have the greatest grain crop in years," remarked Mr. Stevens. "The growing grain looks fine. On our Bosser farm H. S. Clements and myself have a fine field of wheat. The season has been a little behind but the grain seems to have fared alright. The enthusiasts expect a harvest of 80 million bushels. There has been some heavy rains of late. It rained a little over a week ago in Winnipeg. Dick Fullerton was not the city and he couldn't return home that night because the rain had been so heavy. When it was dad enough to stop Dick you can guess for a minute how bad if was. The West is the country," concluded Mr. Stevens, "and I like it."

THE JAPANESE WOMEN, AND THE WAR

So great is the enthusiasm of the Japanese in the war, says the Delinentor for August, that the women of every class, from the Empress to the lowliest, are giving not only of their wealth and incomes but of their peronal efforts to make easier the lot of the soldiers in the field. Everymine is filred with the ambition to have a part in the success of Japanese arms, and, as a result, many as sociations have sprung into existence with the purpose of providing for the soldiers and their families. One of the greatest of these is The Ladies Nursing Association, a self-supportauxidiary of the Red Cross Society It numbers among its membership the best aristocracy of the Empire pand these women are to be found daily at work in the bandage room of hosptials. The Ladies' Patriotic League has for its aim especially the mare of the soldiers and their families. It has a membership of 60,000 and includes women from all ranks. The Ladies' Educational Society, also a mammoth organization, has exthemded its aims to cover the needs of the war, and does iincalculable good. In all the girls' schools the pupils pere helping in some way, knitting socks for the soldiers or making caps or other articles for the soldiers. The humblest are doing something It is said that the servant girls are dispensing with the services of the hairdresser, a great deprivation to them, and others of the poor are doing without fish with their rice every other day. Millions of these people are miserably poor, but they find a way to give or to do something for the common cause.

KRUGER.

The life and character of Oom Paul Kruger will afford an interesting study for a capable biographer at some future time. An uncouth, rugged personality, he was imbued with the personal courage and magnetism which marks the leader of men in all countries and all times. A mighty hunter and fighter of savages in his younger days, he led his people into wilderness and conquered it. A fanatic in religion, up to a certain period in his life he resembled in a sense the militant prophets of old, and by his people was obeyed and reverenced as such. The good in a man must far outweigh the evil when he can command the respect and confidence through years of even an ignorant and uncultured people with whom he mingled freely. On the highest hill in the Transvaal his people erected a monument to commemorate the victory over Dingaan, the great mative king, but it was really an altar to the glory of Boer nationality at which Paul Kruger of ficiated once a year something after the manner of a high priest. On Dingaan day the Boers trekked to Bengendal from hundreds of miles around and heard Kruger preach to them from the monument. What he said they accepted with implicit faith and respect.

The deterioration of Kruger's character could be traced from the period of the discovery of gold in the Transwaal. The man who had before been a simple burgher, austere in his mode of life and with little desire for wealth, became greedy and avaricious. From that time the downfall of Kruger began. He was anxious to secure the 'gold, and, at the same time fearful lest the outlanders who mined it and from whom he wrung tribute by the creation of various monopolies, might eventually become too strong and seize the land. To prevent this he persecuted them with restrictions. He also feared that his lust for wealth might alienate the respect of his Boer people and the practised all sorts of deceit and hypocrisy that his cunning mind could devise to conceal his greet and accumulating wealth. For the sake of the gold he plunged the Transvaal into war and cunningly embroiled the Free State which had nothing to gain and everything to lose Finally, when disaster came he got together all the gold he could lay, hands on, and, leaving even his faithrespect of his Boer people and he practised all sorts of decest and hands on, and, leaving even his faithdoned wife, country, countrymen and all that most men hold dear, and eloped with the gold which had been his undoing.

> GLEN KEEPS AT IT Ottawa Journal.

Francis Wayland Glen writes to New York paper that "for every American farmer entering the Canadian west, five Canadians from the five eastern provinces of the Dominion emigrate to this republic,

Our immigration statistics show that last year 49,000 American immigrants entered Canada.

Five times 49,000 is 245,000. In Mr. Glen's mind, therefore, the Canadian emigration last year to the United States was 245,000.

No wonder a man with such calculative faculty failed in business in this country.

THE MODEL THEATRE

There are probably few people in Chatham who realize that, situated in our midst, is a summer theatre. This theatre is not quite as fine as those at Atlantic City, nor are the prices as high. It is located in the vicinity of McKeough School, in a large shed at the rear of one of the residences in that section. It's name is the Model Theatre, and it is very aptly named. The actors and actorines range from six to seventeen years in age, and take a very hearty interest in their parts.

A Hillyard street citizen attended Chatham who realize that, situated in

A Hillyard street citizen attended a "show" at the Model Theatre last evening, and he was speaking to some friends about it on King street this morning.

"I went over last night, with some friends, to a neat little theatre, called The Model Theatre, that some voungsters on Hillyard street are youngsters on Hullyard street are running in a shed," said he, "and was surprised to see how thoroughly they had imitated every feature of a large theatre. A boy with a very important air took our admittance fee as we entered, and we round ourselves, upon entering the shed door, inside a ministrue theatre. Presents we miniature theatre. Presently we heard wild scuffling behind the cur-tain. I thought probably it was someone being killed, but was told it was the scene shifters at work.

"Then the curtain went up and the curtain went up and the play started. It was mostly about towers at midnight with lots of ghosts floating around. Also numerous murders and hands on, and, leaving even his faithful old wife, who refused to accompany him, fled the country, leaving its to its fate. His old wife died of shame and a broken heart within the year.

If Kruger had stayed in Pretoria and surrendered, or shared the fate of his burghers in the field much could have been forgiven him. But the canker of avarice in the old man's soul first made him insolent to indiscretion, defiant to the point of disaster and then cowardice, which was more apprehension for his beloved shekels, afflicted him and he aban-London Journals Generous to the Memory of Late President of Transvaal.

London, July 14. — The announce-ment of Mr. Kruger's death was the main feature of all the afternoon pa-pers here. It was accompanied by lengthy sketches of his career. All the papers devored entorials to the former president's demise, refraining from anything denunciatory and speaking generously of his remarkable characteristics.

The Westminster Gazette said— "Enough time has elapsed between the end of our long struggle with Mr. Kruger and his death to enable us all to pay sincere tribute to his memory. His stubborn conservatism, and tenac ity to the lost cause was in many re-spects heroic."

MUSICAL SERVICES

As a stranger attending Park St. Church last evening, I was much pleased with such a bright, interest-ing service of song, in which all who assisted showed themselves above the average in musical ability, and the congregational singing was engaged in with real heartiness.

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages." Here is a third: Charles Westley and Toplady, earnest evangel-ical ministers of the established Wesley and Toplady, earnest evangelical ministers of the established Church of England, spendind an evening together, one with Armenian the other with Calvanistic views of truth, got into a warm debate over their different opinions and forgot to "endeavor to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace." They were parted by the approach of a violent thunder storm and, with ruffeled, humbled spirits, retired for the night, but not to sleep. Toplady threw open his window and watched the approaching bank of storm cloud cut by the lightning's flash, and with thoughts of Moses smiting the rock, relieved his heart by writing Rock of Ages Cleft for Me, Let Me Hide Myself in Thee. Wesley undressed and lay rolling on his sleepless bed, listening all night to the storm, and at sunrise arose, threw open his window, when all nature, refreshed by the storm, was beaming in beauty. As he stood in admiration, a small bird durting past the open window flew into the bosom of his night robe to escape a hawk in hot pursuit. When taking his pew his heart overflowed with "Jesus. Lover of My Soul. Let me to Thy Bosom Fly"; both in agreement praising the Lord Jesus.

WHERE GEORGE ELIOT LIVED AND WROTE HER FAMOUS NOVEL.

An Interesting Link With the Past-Holly Lodge, Wandsworth, Wimbledon-Park-Road-The Great Novelist Disliked the Place-Visited Here by Herbert Spencer and Charles Dickens—Latter Planted a

In Wimbledon Park read, Wandsworth, stands a plain, semi-detached house, Holly Lodge, which to nime people out of ten is an ordinary grey stone dwelling, and no more. But to the tenth it has a special interest as the home for a time of George Eliot. On Feb. 5, 1859, she and G. H. Lewes took up their abode at Holly Lodge, but she, at any rate, soon took a dislike to the place, which found expression in her correspondence. To Blackwood she wrote: "I long for a house with some shade and grass close round it—I don't care how rough—and the sight of Swiss houses has heightened my longing." To Mrs. Congreve she wrote: "I want to get out of this In Wimbledon Park read, Wandshouse—cut cables—drift about. I dislike Wandsworth;" and in a further letter: "This place becomes drearier to me as the summer advances. The dusty roads are all longer and shade is further off."

Nevertheless it was at Wandsworth that George Eliot wrete the story of the "Mill on the Floss," which was finished on March 20, 1860. Amongst the friends who dired at the Holly Lodge table were some of the foremost men of their day, notably Herbert Spencer and Charles Dickens, whose admiration for the genius of the authoress of "Adam Bede" led them often to join her select parties at Wandsworth. There is a tree in the garden which Dickens is said to have planted.

Recently the Wandsworth Traders Association turned its attention to the house where George Eliot lived, and they have asked the County Council to fix a commemorative tablet on the walls for the information of the public

The Widow's Mite.

The Widew's Mite.

Everybody has heard of the "Widow's Mite," but how many are aware that a real specimen of this oft-mentioned coin is in existence? Yet this is the case, and it now reposes in the cabinet of coins in the United States Mint at Philadelphia, enjoying the reputation among numismatists of being the most noted coin in the world.

The specimen was found in some rubbish in the temple grounds in Jerusalem some years ago, and the finder preserted it to the Mint. Its original name was "lepton," from "leptos," very small. The word mite is English, formally meaning a weight representing the twentieth part of a grain, but was used in the place of "lepton" when the New Testament was translated. The coin is of bronze, weighs ten grains, and has a diameter of three-tenths of an inch. The nationality of the coin is not definitely known, but authorities say it is fairly certain that it is not of Jewish origin, there being little Heit is fairly certain that it is not of Jewish origin, there being little He-brew money in circulation at the be-ginning of the Christian era. Just what was the value of the mite is also a subject of speculation, but expert numismatists suppose it to have been worth about one-fifty of a cent.

There are few plants that have not been utilized in one way or another by mankind for food, paper, drugs, or in other ways. Among many not so well known may be mentioned the Japanese wax tree, bearing bunches of fruit growing like grapes which con'ain a species of wax used in making candles. Another tree, found in the Pacific islands and known as the candle nut, yields a large quantity of oil, while the kernels are strung together on a stick and lighted as a candle. The fruit of the candle tree is between three and four feet in length and about an inch in diameter, and of a yellowish color. As they are seen hanging from the As they are seen hanging from the tree they present the appearance of a number of wax candles. The telegraph plant, which grows in India, is a slender, erect shrub, so called because of some resemblance/to signals in the mo-tion of its trifoliate leaves—the two side ones rising and falling alternately-for a time, and then resting. The following superstitions in con-nection with New Year's are still be-lieved in various parts of England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales: On New Year's morning go to a well or fountain and leave an apple and nosegay, and the water will keep fresh and be more wholesome all the year. If a dark complexioned man crosses your threshold first on New Year's day you will be prosperous; if a blond, unlucky, and if a redheaded man dire disaster will surely follow. Before locking the door for the night on New Year's eve place a gold coin near it and let it remain there until the church bells ring the next morning, and you will have plenty of money all that year. So strong is the belief in this last adage in some places that dark complexioned men are paid a small gratuity to call early and walk through the first floor of the house, entering by the back door and Nation Without a Language.

Among the people of the world the Swiss are alone in having no language they can call their own. According to a recent visitor to the little country about three-fourths of the people of Switzerland speak German, while the remainder divide four other languages among them—mainly French and Itallan—the languages varying, as a rule, according to the proximity of the people to each country whose tongue they speak. Public documents and notices are printed in both French and German. In the Swiss national parliament the members make their speeches either in French or German, for nearly ali the members understand both languages. The orders of the president are translated by an official interpreter and furnished to the newspapers in 16 RECLAIM ARID LANDS.

Writing from Calgary, G. C. Forter, The Toronto World's correspondent, says: The industrial development of Alberta is probably more marked in the progress of irrigation than in other schones for the introduction of mixed farming in this section of the west. To-day this scientific problem that promises so much for the future of agriculture has been reduced to a practical basis. The territory affords an excellent example of the possibilities of the idea for all Canada. There are in Alberta 160 canals with a total length of 400 miles. The subject has assumed the proportions of a commercial proposition in this part of the Dominion. This method of reclamation of the semi-arid region illustrates the evolution of the theory as applied in the Northwest Territories. What is more significant is the tremendous undertaking by which the C.P.R. is preparing to irrigate a solid tract of land 150 miles long by 60 wide. It means the investment of some $5,000,000, employment of hundreds of high-salaried laborers and the ultimate opening to diversified farming of 3,000,000 acres. This is the colossal scale upon which preparations are being made for the reception of the thousands of new settlers crowding into Southern Alberta. It is an enterprise involving the future prosperity of thousands of families. The contracts have been awarded, pre-liminary preparations have been contracts have been awarded, pre-liminary preparations have been made and the completion of twenty miles of the great ditch is assured

Eighty miles more of the big ditch will be excavated next year. It is expected to put this property on the market at from four to five dollars per acre for grazing lands and about ten dollars for irrigated lands. about ten dollars for irrigated lands. In other sections where farming lands under irrigation are purchased, the tracts are disposed of under a contract to furnish water at an annual rental of not to exceed fifty cents an tract to furnish water at an annual rental of not to exceed fifty cents an acre. That assured a profitable basis of operation. This is the plan followed by the Alberta Coal Company, and the Mormons find the experiment exceedingly profitable. The main ditch will be sixty feet wide at the bottom and will carry ten feet of water. All these elaborate operations will be carried on east of Calgary, and mean the introduction of mixed farming in a contiguous area of 400,000 acres. Dairying and grazing are to-day the chief industries in the section that is to be covered by the irrigation ditch. This artificial waterway will be the largest in the Dominion, and carrying a greater volume of water over a greater distance than any irrigation enterprise on either side of the line. Until this land is placed under irrigation the company is renting sections from four to ten cents per acre, according to quantity desired. It is one of the interesting features of the science of irrigation as applied in the west that the grain yields are regular and double that of the wheat fields of Manitoba. Ontario farmers who have investigated the subject in this section have expressed the belief that Manitoba. Ontario farmers who have investigated the subject in this section have expressed the belief that intelligent ditch building in some parts of Eastern Canada would be found so profitable that once introduced it would never be abandoned. It becomes merely the difference between certain moisture whenever desired, and the caprice of nature. One dry season in every seven years, it tween certain moisture whenever sired, and the caprice of nature. One dry season in every seven years, it is asserted, will destroy enough farm products to pay the expense of constructing an irrigation ditch on a farm of 160 acres in Ontario naturally situated for the diversion of a small stream. This is one of the unique subjects that the success of irrigation in the west is making prominent. There are several instances in Southern Alberta where farming in a small way has been found immensely profitable by the most primitive methods of irrigations, such as raising water by means of a windmill over heavy obstructions. The solution of this problem is an element of no inconsiderable importance to the agricultural development of Alberta.

A New Novelist.

Norman Duncan, whose stories of Newfoundland have found their way into several United States magazines, is a Canadian who claims the city of Brantford as his birthplace. Eight years of his life were spent in the town of Mitchell in Western Ontario, and from there he entered the University of Toronto. He left that institution without a degree, because he found the science course which he had chosen distasteful. From there he went to Auburn, N. Y., and engaged in journalistic work. Two years later he joined the staff of the New York Evening Post, and to the atmosphere of that office attributes his later success in ficand to the atmosphere of that office attributes his later success in fiction. His first stories dealt with life in the Syrian quarters of New York, and have since been published in book form with the title, "The Soul of the Street." Reaction caused him to long for a change of subject, and he chose to study the sea and those who fight with it. His subsequent work is the result of three summers in Newfoundland and one in Labrador. His second book is a collection of Newfoundland stories. His third, to be issued next fall, is to be his first long story, and it will bear the title, "The Champion," Canadians who have not yet tasted his work, should seek it out. There is no Canadian writing fiction to-day who gives greater promise than Norman Duncan. He recently visited Toronto at the invitation of the Canadian Club, and made a decided impression. Of medium stature, Mr. Duncan is not one to impress one on sight, but the face and the voice soom indicate attributes his later success one to impress one on sight, but the face and the voice soon indicate the gentle, earnest spirit which ani-mates the man and which stamps him as one of earth's noblemen.— Canadian Magazine.

Yesterday was the hottest day Chatham has had during the last three years, according to the figures registered at Turner's weather bureau. The thermometer was its highest at 96 degrees in the shade. The records before were 92 on the 6th of July, 1902, and 93 on the 8th of July, 1903. During the 8th, 9th and 10th of July, 1903, the thermometer register-over 90, and during Saturday, Sunday and to-day the figures have also been over 90, only that on Saturday and to-day the thermometer registered 33, which was the same as the very hottest day last year. This is not mews to Chathamites, for it was generally known in the city that yesterday was a very warm day.

"Why don't the city merchants take hold of the early closing movement that almost all other cities and towns of the Dominion have. St. Thomas, London, Stratford, St. Mary's and other places close up business on Wednesday afternoons," said a well-known local business man this afternoon. "There should be a meeting of all the business men to decide on it and there ought to be a way to compel those who won't agree to it to close anyway. It's just a case with most of us to work from the time we open our eyes in the morning till it's open our eyes in the morning till it's time to close 'em at night. I'd like to see the matter taken up here."

"Well, it was a little hard at first, she answered, "for boys and girls of ten and twelve have surprisingly keen intuitions, and it seemed to me they made a study of my face from the first and concluded I was soft hearted. I had one little boy that was a born mischief maker, but he had such wissome ways I had to love him in spite of it. But he had to be punished seme way, and so one day I kept him after school and then told him I must whip him hard, but not at that time. I explained to him what I was going to punish him for, 'but,' I said, 'I shall not do it tonight. I may do it tomorrow or the day after, but I will not tell you when the whipping is to come until I am ready to do it. My little plan was a success, for the next night he waited till all the rest had gone and then came to me with tears in his eyes and begged me to whip him then. I didn't, though, and told him I wouldn't until he disobeyed again. He has been the most obedient bey in the school ever since. There is one little girl who has won my heart, though, in the eddest way you can imagine. The day I received your letter, Bert, I was so happy that hool ran riot, and I never knew it. They must have seen it in my face, I think. Well, when school was out this girl, a shy little body of ten, sidled up to my desk and said, 'Pleath may I kith you, teacher, 'fore I ge home?' It was such an odd and pretty bit of feeling it nearly brought tears to my eyes." "I should like to give that little girl a box of candy, Miss Page," observed Frank, "and then ask her for a kiss myself."

For an hour Alice kept both the young men interested in her anece of school teaching, and then her brother said:
"Come, sis, you must sing some, or no

"Well," she replied, smiling, "what "Do you play or sing, Mr. Nason?" she inquired, not heeding her brother. "I do not know one note from an-

Then, without further apology, s went to the plano. "Come, Bertie," she said, "you must help me, and we will go through the college songs." And ge through them they did, beginning with "Clementine" and ending with "The Quilting Party."

"Now, sis," said her brother, "I want

'Old Folks at Home,' 'Annie Laurie,' 'Röck-a-bye' and 'Ben Bolt,' and then I'll open the box.'

It was a simple, old fashioned home parlor entertainment, and ne doubt most musical artists would have sneer ed at the programme, but Alice had a wonderfully sweet and sympathets

Much depends upon the time and place and perhaps the romance of the open fire sparkling beneath the bank of evergreen and making the roses come into the fair singer's cheeks and warming the golden sheen of her hair had much to do with it. When she came to "Ben Bolt," that old ditty that has all the pathes of our lost youth in it, there was a tiny quiver in her voice, and when she finished had he been near he would have seen the glint of two

CHAPTER XII.

HAVE directed our livery-man to send over his best nag and a cutter this morn-ing," said Albert at breakfast the next day to his friend, "and you and Alice can take a sleighride and see Sandgate snowclad. I have some business matters to attend to."

It was a delightful day for a sleighride, for every bush and tree was covered with a white fleece of snow, and the morning sun added a tiny sparkle to every crystal. A thicket of spruce was changed to a grove of towering white cones and an alder swamp to a fantastic fairyland. It was all new to Frank, and as he drove away with that bright and vivacious girl for a companion it is needless to say he enjoyed it to the utmost.

"I had no idea your town was se hemmed in by mountains," he said after they started and he had a chance to look around. "Why, you are com-pletely shut in, and such grand ones too! They are more beautiful than the White mountains and more graceful in shape.

"They are all of that," answered Alice, "and yet at times they make me feel as if I was shut in, away from all the world. We who see them every day forget their beauty and only feel their desolation, for a great tree-clad mountain is desolate in winter, I think. At least it is apt to reflect one's mood. I suppose you have traveled a great deal, Mr. Nason?"

"Not nearly as much as I ought to," he answered, "for the reason that I can't find any one I like to go with me My mother and sisters go away to some watering place every summer and stay there, and father sticks to business. I either dawdle around where the folks are summers or stay in town and hate myself, if I can't find some one to go off on my yacht with me. The fact is, Miss Page," he added mournfully, "I have hard work to kill time. I can get a little party to run to Newport or Bar Harbor in the summer, and that is all. I should like to go to Florida or the West Indies in the winter, or to Labrador or Greenland summers, but I can't find company."

Alice was silent for a moment, for the picture of a young man complain-ing because he had nothing to do but spend his time and money was new to her.

"You are to be pitled," she said at last, with a tinge of sarcasm, "but still there are just a few who would envy

He made no reply, for he did not quite understand whether she meant to be sarcastic or not. They rode along in silence for a time, and then Alice political to a small square brown building just ahead, almost hid in busiles, and said:

"De yeu see that magnificent struc-ture we are coming to, and de you no-tice its grand columns and lefty dome? If you had been a country bey you would recollect seeing a picture of it in the spelling book. Take a good look at it, for that is the temple of knowlpronounced. When they reached it he stopped and said quietly: "Please hold reins. I want to look into the room where you spend your days."

He took a good long look, and when he returned he said: "So that is what you call a temple, is it? And it was in there the little girl wanted to kiss you because you looked happy?" And then as they drove on he added, "Do you know, I've thought of that pretty little touch of feeling a dozen times since you told about it, and when I go home I shall send a box of candy to you and ask you to do me the favor of giving it to that little girl."

It was not what she expected he would say, and it rather pleased her. When they were nearly home, he

"You are not a bit like what I imagined a schoolma'am was like." "Did you think I wore blue glasses and petted a black cat?" she asked laughingly. "The glasses might be a protection to susceptible young men," he answered "and for that reason I would advise you to wear them."

"Shall I get some tomorrow to wear while you are here?" she queried, with a smile. "I will if you feel in danger. "Would you do it if I admitted I was?" he replied, resolving to stand his ground and looking squarely at her. But that elusive young lady was not to be cornered. "You remind me of a story Bert told once," she said, "about an Irishman who was called upon to plead guilty or not guilty to the charge of drunken ness. When asked afterward how he pleaded he said, 'Bedad, I give the judge an equivocal answer.' 'And what was that?' said his friend. 'Begorra, whin the judge axed me was I guilty

"Well," replied Frank, "that is a good story, but it doesn't answer my question."

OUR SEAL INDUSTRY.

Dacie Sam Covets It and Is Making Many Strenuous Efforts to Secure It— Some of the Proposals.

That commercial corporation whose That commercial corporation whose plotting for a monopoly of the Behring Sea sealing industry brought Britain and the United States dangerously close to war a dozen years ago is still scheming to attain its end. Of course, its early methods had to be abandoned when the two powers accepted the finding of the Behring Sea Tribupal in 1893 as a powers accepted the finding of the Behring Sea Tribunal in 1893 as a settlement of the dispute. By its concurrence in that agreement the United States renounced the unten-able theory that Behring Sea was a closed sea, and gave up the conten-tion that the seals, being bred on its islands, were therefore its exclusive property. That excellent arrange-ment provides for the perpetuation property. That excellent arrangement provides for the perpetuation of seal life by limiting the hunting season to a show period, by restricting the hunters to certain methods of killing, and by authorizing the two powers to police Behring Sea for the enforcement of the regulations jointly adopted, It also confines the operations of Canadians to pelagic sealing, that is, to hunting in the open sea, for its surrounds the breeding islands with a protected zone sixty miles wide, within ed zone sixty miles wide, within which the herd is not to be followed zone sixty miles wide, within which the herd is not to be followed even during the open season. This convention has not worked to the advantage of the big American trading company which sought control of Alaskan commerce. Our sealing fleet, their headquarters being at Vancouver and Victoria, are well situated to intercept the herd on its yearly migration between the Pribylofi Islands and the waters of the open Pacific to the south. At all events the United States sealing fleets coming from the ports of Washington, Oregon, and California, capture by no means the richest spoil of Behring Sea. Naturally, they do not like to see the Canadians get the best of the harvest. However, it is not the American competitors in pelagic sealing who keep agitating for the elimination of Canadians from the industry. That is the work from the industry. That is the work of the interests in control of the trade of the Pribyloff Islands. These interests desire to put both the Canadian and the American open sea hunters out of business, to abolish pelagic sealing altogether, and have the catch reserved for spearmen employed on the shores of the islands.

Many resolutions aimed at the accomplishment of this subject have been introduced into Congress dur-ing the last seven or eight years. Be-fore two seasons had passed there was a demand for the suspension of the new plan. It was represented that the pelagic sealers were devast-ating the herd so rapidly that there would be no seals left if the parties were to defer the revision of the arrangement to the time provided for by the treaty, namely, August, 1898. This view was strongly pressed by the United States Government, who appointed Mr. Foster as diplomatic agent to negotiate with Britain and other powers concerned. In 1897 he made ineffectual efforts to induce the British Government to re-open the question. This Lord Salisbury declined to do, taking the ground that the article of the treaty providing for a revision at the end of five years should be adhered to. Efforts were then made to draw Russia and Jap-an into a separate agreement with the United States, and certain conditions were agreed to, but they scarcely touched the question, since the Japanese and Russian hunters pursued herds from rookeries on the other side of the Pacific, and took little interest in the Pribyloff seals little interest in the Prihyloff seals.

Britain firmly refused to reconsider the question in 1897. In this refusal her Foreign Office was supported by the reports of the biologists sent out to make a study of seal life in the North Pacific. Prof. D'Arcy Thompson, who investigated the matter for the British Government, and ter for the British Government, and with whom co-operated Mr. Macoun for the Dominion Government, found that pelagic sealing was by no means so destructive as it was represented to be by interested Americans. Mr. Macoun's report went even farther to discredit these representations. It is true the scientist who examined into the conditions of the head for the An easy method of cleaning elastic stockings or anklets is to rub them well united States did report that pelagic United States did report that pelagic the conditions of the herd for the United States did report that pelagic sealing was doing great damage. But as has been said, Britain abode by the reports of its own expert. In 1898 Britain had no desire for a different arrangement, and as the United States would have much to lose under no arrangement at all, the plan adopted in 1893 continued in force and is in force to-day. But at the last session of Congress a resolution requesting the President to take steps to re-open the question with Great Britain was adopted. This is not likely to be more effectual than former resolutions. Great Britain has been very true to the Behring Sea settlement, and was stiffer in its adhesion to it than the Canadian Government seemed to be in 1897. Britain spends a considerable sum every year to maintain a patrol service om Behring Sea, and is certain not to exchange the present status for one less to Canada's advantage.
