POETRY.

Unbelief.

Lord, help Thou me! Oh haste to my relief!
Touch Thou mine eyes, sin-blind, that I may see
The beauty of Thy face. Lord, show Thou me
The way of truth. Against the storm-swept reef
My ship so frail must surely come to grief,
Without Thy guiding hand. Star of the sea,
With faith in Thee, my pilot Thou shalt be—
Lord, I believe; help Thou mine unbelief!

The road I tread is long—the path is steep;
I blindly grope, as one bereft of sight;
I stumble, crying, "God, is there no light—
No hope beyond?" Out of the lowest deep
I call: "Lord, I believe; Oh help Thou me!"
The clouds part, and the cross of Christ I see.

The Story of Life.

Only the same old story, told in a different strain;
Sometimes a smile of gladness, and then a stab of pain;
Sometimes a flash of sunlight, again the drifting rain.

Sometimes it seems to borrow from the crimson rose its hue;
Sometimes black with thunder, then changed to a brilliant blue;
Sometimes as false as Satan, sometimes as Heaven true.

Only the same old story! But oh, how the changes ring!
Prophet and priest and peasant, soldier and scholar and king;
Sometimes the warmest hand-clasp leaves in the palm a sting.

Sometimes in the hush of even, sometimes in the mid-day strife,
Sometimes with dove-like calmness, sometimes with passions rife,
We dream it, write it, live it, this weird, wild story of life.

"You're right!" she said, triumphantly. "I am old Hannah, and what's more, I never catch you having a fit again I'll run you in."

Aunt Matty was the very reverse of this. Aunt Hannah always alluded to her in her milder moments as "poor dear Mattie," and in her more vigorous ones as "that fool Mattie." Mattie had never been on a board in her life; but if you looked down the subscription list of any missionary society you would be sure to find her modest initials.

"I never put my full name," she said meekly. "Hannah makes such a fuss."

It was to this household that Kenneth brought Sally. Kenneth placed her on the seat; but Sally preferred lying on the floor of the cab, and coiled herself up at his feet like a dog.

When they got home Kenneth carried the tired girl in, and seeing that she was not fit for the drawing room, placed her on the mat in the hall, where she lay—a little heap of rags, dirt and towed hair. As he entered the drawing room he heard Aunt Hannah reading in her very emphatic voice the summary of a paper she intended to deliver at a charity organization conference next day. It was entitled, "Sixteen reasons against the present system of our door-parochial relief." She had got as far as the tenth. Kenneth's entrance was hailed with joy by the long suffering Mattie.

"Oh, here you are!" she cried. "Ten o'clock, and you were to be here by five."

"I've brought home a girl."

Aunt Hannah dropped the 16 reasons and ejaculated, "What?" Mattie started. Those five words might mean so much. With the calm that precedes a storm Aunt Hannah took off her glasses, rubbed them slowly, and waited; but further explanation was interrupted by a scream from Aunt Mattie:

"Why Kenneth, you've got a great deal on your temple, and there is blood on your collar!"

"It's nothing. I've had a fight. A brute was kicking a girl and I liked him and brought the girl home. She's only a child."

Aunt Hannah put her glasses into their case with a snap and recovered her voice. "Brought her home! Is this house a casual ward or night refuge? Why, Heaven bless us, the boy's gone stark staring mad!"

The Queen of Arts.

Honored above all gifted women is Rosa Bonheur, accounted worthy to wear what other women may not aspire to—the Cross of the Legion of Honor, which was bestowed upon her by the ex-Empress Eugenie. Though grown old, the famous artist has recently finished another painting, which promises to rival in popularity the celebrated "Horse Fair." As an artist, Mlle. Bonheur is especially skilful in the minute and spirited delineation of various forms of animated life. Her father was a French artist of no mean ability, and she was born at Bordeaux, March 23, 1822. Receiving instruction in art from her father, she produced in 1841 at Paris two pictures—"Chevres et Moutons" and "Les Deux Lapins," which at once established her reputation. She has since painted a large number of pictures representing animal life. Among her other productions are "Labouring Nivernais," "The Horse Fair," and "The Hay-making Season in Auvergne." Mlle. Bonheur has been awarded several medals, and elected a member of the Institute of Antwerp. During the siege of Paris her studio at Fontainebleau was spared and protected by the special order of the Crown Prince of Prussia.

Ayer's Pills

Excel all others as a family medicine. They are suited to every constitution, old and young, and, being sugar-coated, are agreeable to take. Purely vegetable, they have no ill effects, but strengthen and regulate the stomach, liver, and bowels, and restore every organ to its normal functions. For use either at home or abroad, on land or sea, these Pills.

Are the Best.

Ayer's Pills have been used in my family for over thirty years. We find them an excellent medicine in fevers, eruptive diseases, and all bilious troubles, and seldom call a physician. They are almost the only pills used in our neighborhood.—Hodson G. Conly, Bow Landing P. O., W. Folsom Parish, La.

"I have been in this country eight years, and during all this time, neither I, nor any member of my family have used any other kind of medicine than Ayer's Pills, but these we always keep at hand, and I should not know how to get along without them."—A. W. Soderberg, Lowell, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Cathartic Pills as a Family Medicine for 35 years, and they have always given me the utmost satisfaction."—James A. Thornton, Bloomington, Ind.

"Two boxes of Ayer's Pills cured me of severe headache from which I was long a sufferer."—Emma Keyes, Hubbardston, Mass.

Ayer's Pills, Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

making a total of 260 prizes, the value of which will aggregate $5,000. The Grand Wolf-Hunt Competition is open to everybody, everywhere, subject to the following conditions: The words must be constructed from the two words, "The Agriculturalists," and must be only such as may be found in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, and in the book of book names of the same name. The words must be written in ink on the paper only, and numbered in the margin, 1, 2, 3, and so on to the end of the list, for facilitating the counting of the words. The list contains the largest number of words ever printed in any one list, and is the order of merit. Each list as it is received at the office of the "Canadian Agriculturalists" will be numbered, and if you are one of the largest list, the list received will be awarded the first prize, and the list second and so on. There are no prizes for words which are not in the list. The benefit of sending in early will readily be seen. Each list must be accompanied by $1.00 in monthly subscription to the "Canadian Agriculturalists." One person can send in one or more lists, accompanying each list with $1.00 for which the paper will be sent to any address for one year, but has been established upon the basis of one year, and each year the subscription of the subscriber. It contains no truly highly selected list, but has been established upon the basis of the most popular authors of the day. It is especially true paper for the lower circles, and as it is the cheapest and best paper in the market. This competition will continue to close on the above named date. Remember, you are paying $1 for six months subscription to one of the best home papers in Canada, and at the same time run a good chance of winning a valuable prize.

AGRICULTURISTS. The object of the publisher of the "Canadian Agriculturalists" is to give away these large amounts in cash, to extend the circulation of the paper, and a number of agents are required in every locality. For particulars as to conditions, rates, etc.,

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., MAY 29, 1891.

Friday Evenings' Lecture.

The lecture given in College Hall last Friday evening by Mr. Chas. A. Eaton was an enthusiastic and patriotic one. "Can Canadians keep Canada?" The question was answered most emphatically. If our future at present is uncertain, the lecturer pointed out, by absorption with the United States it would be still more uncertain. The varied sectional interests—the South with its cotton, the West with its mining, the Central West with its wheat, the East with its manufactures—demanding diversely opposite legislation and threatening, as those interests increase, and sectional breaches widen, entire separation, would, by the addition of another section with its interests, but complicate matters more. The annexation of Canada to the United States would be the greatest of mistakes, the greatest of national wrongs. If the political condition of Canada must change, what then will that change be? Imperial Federation, which would render Canada independent of the United States and its legislation, and by which Canada would fill the place not of a colony, but of a distinct part of the grandest nation on earth, is certainly a glorious scheme, but would seem to be almost too visionary as yet to enter the domain of practical politics. The great diversity of interests represented would also seem to be against the successful operation of the scheme. Independence, the lecturer seemed to point out, is the future destiny of Canada. Every nation has some peculiar work to do. Does the world need a nation, and is Canada that nation? The lecturer pointed out that the world does need a nation—a strong, independent, moral, god-fearing nation. Canada has it to be that nation. The lecture throughout was a strong appeal for increased patriotism among Canadians. Such appeals and such men is what our country needs.

About 1 o'clock yesterday fire was discovered in the tenement on School street, occupied by Bowen Coldwell. Notwithstanding the fact that the apparatus is scattered in different parts of the town owing to the engine house not yet being completed the firemen were on the spot five minutes after the alarm was given, and in a short time had succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The contents of the building were got out safely and the building saved in a damaged condition. This being the first fire since the water-works were completed considerable interest centered in it. The force of the water was well shown as well as its efficacy for protection purposes. Judging from the actions of the Fire Company on this occasion we predict that when the engine house is completed and the Company has some drill we will have as good a Company as any town in the Province.

We believe that the action of the Local Government in withdrawing the subsidy from the Minas Basin steamers has had the effect of discontinuing the weekly trips made by these boats. This service is one of great convenience to all interested in trade in this vicinity, and furnishes a pleasant mode of travel at this season. It seems too bad that it should be discontinued just when a business was being worked up that might be self-sustaining in a few years more. Capt. Holmes, of the Acadia, informed us on Tuesday that she had made her last regular trip here until some arrangement could be made with the Government. While it seems necessary that the Government should retrench in some direction it appears to us that they have made a great mistake in withdrawing subsidies to such important and necessary services as the Minas Basin steamers.

A game of base-ball was played on Monday between the "Crecents," of Halifax, and the Acadia club, on the grounds here. The game began at 11:15 a. m., and the playing was good on both sides, the Halifax team being blanked at least five times. D. E. Munro pitched a splendid game for the Acadia team and was well supported by Cox. Chesley also did fine playing at second base. The fielding on the whole was good. The game continued 2 1/2 hours, and at the close the score stood 14 to 10 in favor of Acadia, with one inning to spare.

ACADIA RUNS. CRECENTS. RUNS. Cox, 1; Butler, 2; Munro, 1; Herbin, 1; Chesley, 2; Corey, 1; Butler, 1; Gates, 1; Morse, 1; Saunders, 1. Butler, 1; Macdonald, 1; Maxwell, 1; Smith, 2; Theakston, 1; Doyle, 1; Major, 1; Bishop, 1; Beamish, 1.

Monday was generally observed as a holiday and the places of business were nearly all closed. A large number took advantage of the beautiful weather to take a day's outing.

A Companion for your June Outing.

With over 120 illustrations, the Cosmopolitan for June sets a fast pace in the handicap for magazine honors. The personal element enters largely into its composition, and an impression of beautiful women is the first received by the reader who turns its pages. The frontispiece is a portrait of Madame de Pompadour, and pertains to a bright sketch of a summer spent in the home of that famous woman by Amelie Rives and her guests. Miss Julia Magruder, the writer was one of those guests, and instantaneous photographs are used to illustrate the scenes of a delightful holiday amidst unusual surroundings. A pleasant insight into the attractiveness of Japanese women is given in a paper by Henry T. Finck, illustrated by a large number of photographs of pretty faces. The work of Gustave Dore, with elaborate engravings which illustrate very well the masterpieces of that wonderful artist, Thomas B. Connery, formerly managing editor of the New York Herald, gives interesting reminiscences of the first work of Stanley for that journal, and of his neighbor, Thomas A. Edison. S. G. W. Benjamin, ex-Minister to Persia, tells the true story of poor Mahal, the Light of the Haram, celebrated by Thomas Moore in Lallah Rookh. This bit of Eastern biography is illustrated from Oriental sources. Three continents furnish materials for the June number. The European contributions consist of a description of a Model Municipality, an article well worth the attention of Americans interested in municipal government; the Woolwich Arsenal, which Mr. Pellam-Clinton photographed especially for the Cosmopolitan; and a charming sketch of Beau Brummel and his times. Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen's story is illustrated by Wenzell, whose work on Life has made him so well known the country over. The half-million people who write for periodicals will find matter of great interest in an article by Mr. Frank Howard Howe, for some time one of the editors of a New York monthly.

Mr. Howe gives his personal experiences of the manuscripts of the "Great Unpublished," and offers much advice that will be found useful. Perhaps the most valuable article of the number is that contributed by Mr. Abner L. Frazer to the literature of the farmer's movement. The Cosmopolitan prize of $200 for the best article on "the needs of the farmer, his hours of labor, and the national legislation necessary to his prosperity," was awarded by the judges to this gentleman. The article itself is brightened by a series of cartoons by the famous artist, Atwood of Boston and Dan Beard of New York.

A Splendid Canadian Journal. The production of a journal which not only maintains but steadily improves upon the high standard of literary and artistic excellence which has especially marked the splendid Canadian journal since its enlargement at the beginning of this year to 24 pages weekly. The handsome engravings produced each week are well selected, and in addition to general views there are always some relating to current matters of general interest. A group of bright and good writers are regularly contributors to its literary contents, and its pages reflect the best thoughts of clever men and women. Such a journal deserves the gratifying support which it receives at the hands of the reading public. The enterprising publishers, the Sabiston Litho. & Pub. Co., Montreal, make it their constant aim to improve both the matter and appearance of the journal, and their success is certainly gratifying and most creditable.

Supreme Court. The June term of the Supreme Court will open at the Court House on Tuesday next. His Honor Judge Ritchie will preside. The following matters will be laid before the Grand Jury:—Queen vs. Schofield, for malicious injury to property; Queen vs. Church, for an attempt at rape; Queen vs. Feltus, for perjury; Queen vs. Younglove, for perjury; Queen vs. Hagarly, for larceny. The following civil causes are for trial: Taylor vs. Trustees of School Section, No. 73, by F. A. Masters; Queen vs. Turner, by Messrs Shaffner & Cogswell; Campbell vs. Lovett, by W. E. Roscoe; Monaghan vs. Municipality Kings Co., B. Webster; Williams vs. Feltus, by W. E. Roscoe; Ward et al vs. Ward, Cummings & Lovett; Redden vs. Dennison, by Shaffner & Cogswell; Bowles vs. Laurence, by F. A. Masters.

The Anniversary Exercises. The following is the programme for the anniversary exercises next week, as furnished to us by President Sawyer. As everybody who can come to Wolfville at this season it will be interesting reading. Anniversary exercises of Horton Academy on Wednesday afternoon at 8 o'clock. Anniversary exercises of Acadia Seminary on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Admission 25 cents. Tickets can be obtained at G. V. Rand's or at Mr. Rockwell's Bookstore, also at the door on Wednesday evening. Public exercises of the College Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Reserved seats held till after the procession enters the Hall, after that seats open to all. Alumni Dinner in Chipman Hall at 2 o'clock in the evening. The sermon before the graduating class of the College will be delivered on Sabbath morning at 11 by Rev. D. A. Steele, of Amherst. Get Japanese Enamel Paint for art furniture at Walter Brown's. Anyone can apply it.

A New Society.

In a certain town or village which shall be nameless there flourishes a society of enterprising, economical, money-making go-ahead and public-spirited young ladies, whose operations have only lately come to light, but which are so commendable and meritorious that they should be more generally known than they are at present; hence this writing. What the society denominates itself cannot be stated as a great deal of secrecy attaches to it and all its movements. Till quite recently its very existence in the community was not known or even suspected. The field of operations and its great leading object is to cheapen dry goods, fancy goods, etc., so that the members of the society may obtain their dresses and decorations at the lowest possible price and thus benefit to the greatest practicable extent the community which furnishes them with a home and all its advantages and enjoyments. It should here be mentioned that the community which is so favored by this valuable organization is unusually well supplied with dry goods stores of a high, over-large, commodious, neat and well-arranged and with an extensive and varied assortment of useful, beautiful and fashionable goods, such as to satisfy all the reasonable demands of the most exacting and fastidious, and are waited upon by proprietors and clerks and employes exceptionally gentlemanly and lady-like, as the case may be—all the salesmen and saleswomen of the respective establishments being uniformly polite and attentive—faithful to their employers and strictly honorable in their dealings with customers—so that there would seem to be nothing wanting which the society adverted to could desire or demand.

But these good people appear to be of a different mind and are not satisfied. It is to be hoped that if they should ever think of matrimony, they will not be so hard to suit. They are most pleased with the stores, as recited, is proved by their being constantly engaged through correspondence and otherwise to ascertain the prices of dress materials and adornments for the feminine portion of the race, their field of enquiry embracing all the cities and towns within reach and the capitals of neighboring provinces, and possibly of foreign nations. The Chinese wall erected by the McKinley Bill of our exclusive neighbors of the south probably interferes with the propensity of our enterprising money-loving ladies of the society with which we are dealing, otherwise they would doubtless make a raid upon the stores of Boston and New York and appear in even more attractive tinsel, purchased at a price low enough to suit all their penurious propensities. The plan of operations pursued by the society is to select centres of trade, neighboring or more remote, for samples of goods designed to make them more striking figures and more attractive, and for that purpose to press the post office into the service, thus making the public departments of the country useful to them specially as individuals at the expense of the public.

These samples come in great packages and bundles which at times could scarcely find sufficient accommodation in a bushel basket, for the range of goods is very wide, as every one who is acquainted with the "make up" of a fashionable woman will testify, and the number of those to be supplied are very considerable—though here statistics fall from secrecy above adverted to. One of the most amusing sights with which the community is favored is that furnished by the happy lady recipient of a post office contribution, as she bears away in triumph the important package which has come through Her Majesty's mails and hurries with it through the streets of the town to the head quarters and grand repository of the society, there to be gazed upon and admired and praised by the delighted members of the corporation.

I mentioned one reason for the operations of the dry and fancy goods organization under consideration, but there is another, as I have learned since I began to write—it is this, some ladies, to use the fashionable word, wish to dress differently from all others of the sex who, they consider, occupy a lower grade in society than they do, especially such as support themselves or their families by service—and in order to this they must either buy up the whole of a piece of goods, say two dresses instead of one, or induce the merchant, if possible to refuse to sell what remains to any one but the fashionable, the ladies, so called. This is sometimes attempted but it is a rare thing to find a merchant willing to lend himself to such a disreputable proceeding; and so nothing remains but to send abroad for dresses, etc., of a pattern which no smart girl would be likely to have, thus the gentility of the society is maintained and two birds are killed with one stone. But not to proceed further: it is proposed that the press of the country should be generally engaged to diffuse the knowledge of the above recited, excellent and enlightened enterprise, that all its communities should follow the example so meritoriously set, and thus share in the acknowledged benefits of the enterprise.

CELEBS. P. S.—I forgot to mention that by a late importation of the society one of its members saved 3 1/2 cents, while another was fortunate to the extent of 5 1/2. But unhappily another by some blunder of the clerks or public offices were made to pay for a pair of corsets 1 1/2 cents more than they are sold for in the town represented by the society. It was extremely unfortunate that there should have been this mishap in this particular department, as corsets are the great institution of the age, it being asserted that female babies are born with them tightly laced; as is said of Chinese babies of the same sex that they come into the world with their feet in wooden shoes.

Two Beautiful Young Girls.

WHO WILL CREATE A FUROR IN NEWPORT THIS SUMMER.

Newport is to have a sensation this summer.

It is authentically stated that the beautiful and celebrated daughters of Lord Dufferin, Beatrice and Adelaide, are to grace this famous resort with their presence this coming season.

It will be remembered that Beatrice's beautiful dark eyes have played havoc lately with the heart of Albert, the eldest son of the Prince of Wales. What it will amount to is as yet a matter of conjecture in England. The young ladies are acknowledged to be the most beautiful in all Europe, and there will be not a little excitement in the hearts of our American belles over their coming. They are exquisite dressers and their costumes will be marvels of curiosity. Unlike most of them, they know exactly what is suited to them. Some time ago they sent for the chief designer of the Paris house of the New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazaar, and selected forty costumes each, the cost of which will amount to thousands of pounds.

Through the courtesy of these young ladies we have been permitted to copy for the New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazaar two of their most exquisite costumes, which appear as figures 3 and 4 on the colored plates of the June number of this magazine, just out, and for which the publisher has issued in the name of the American ladies a card of thanks. It is rumored that the prince may follow the young ladies to Newport this summer. The New York and Paris Young Ladies' Fashion Bazaar has the exclusive right to publish each month at least one or more of the costumes in which the ladies Beatrice and Adelaide will appear.

What Ammonia is Good For.

A little ammonia in tepid water will soften and cleanse the skin. Spirits of ammonia will often relieve a severe headache.

Door-plates should be cleaned by rubbing with a cloth wet in ammonia and water.

If the color has been taken out of silks by fruit stains, ammonia will usually restore the color.

To brighten carpets, wipe them with warm water in which has been poured a few drops of ammonia.

One or two table-spoonfuls of ammonia added to a pail of water will clean windows better than soap.

A few drops in a cupful of warm water applied carefully, will remove spots from paintings and chromos.

Grease spots may be taken out with weak ammonia and water; lay soft white paper over and iron with a hot iron.

When acid of any kind gets on clothing, spirits of ammonia will kill it. Apply copiously to restore the color.

Keep nickel, silver ornaments and mounts bright by rubbing with wadded cloths saturated in spirits of ammonia.

Old brass may be cleaned to look like new by pouring strong ammonia on it and scrubbing with a scrub brush; rinse in clear water.

A table-spoonful of ammonia in a gallon of warm water will often restore colors in carpets; it will also remove whitewash from them.

Yellow stains left by sewing machine oil on white may be removed by rubbing the spot with a cloth wet with ammonia before washing with soap.

Equal parts of ammonia and turpentine will take paint out of clothing even if it be hard and dry. Saturate the spot as often as necessary and wash out in soap suds.

Put a table-spoonful of ammonia in a quart of water, wash your combs and brushes in this, and all grease and dirt will disappear. Rinse, shake and dry in the sun or by the fire.

If those who perspire freely would use a little ammonia in the water they bathe in every day it would keep their flesh clean and sweet, doing away with any disagreeable odor.

Flannels and blankets may be soaked in a pail of water containing one table-spoonful of ammonia and a little soda, but as little as possible, and they will be white and not shrink.

One table-spoonful of ammonia to a tea-spoonful of water will clean gold jewelry; a few drops of clear aqua ammonia rubbed on the under side of diamonds will clean them immediately making them very brilliant.

Talmage and the Human Voice. Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage is fond of any story that will illustrate a sermon or beautify a moral. Here is one that he tells now and then in his own original way.

A German family emigrated from the fatherland to this country and settled in Milwaukee. The oldest boy, in his teens, concluded he would start out for himself. Finally he brought up in New York city and soon spent all the money the old man had given him. Then he wrote his father this kind of a letter: "Dear Father—I am sick and lonely, without one single cent. Send me some money quick. Your son John."

Now, the father was illiterate and could not read, and so he went to a great strapping butcher and asked him to strap the letter. The butcher had a gruff way of reading and a loud voice. When he finished reading John's letter the father was furious and declared he would not send a penny, even if the boy starved to death. He had never heard of such an impudent demand for money. On his way home, the father thought the butcher might have made a mistake in reading, and the desire to have the letter read again overcame him. A consumptive baker, with a low falling inflection, was next asked to read the son's letter. When he concluded, the father said with tears in his eyes: "My poor boy, I'll send him all the money he wants." The baker had read word for word the letter as it was read by the butcher.

You see, my dear friends, that there is a great deal in the human voice.

Death in Drinking. Life is God's gift. It is a great gift. We value it above all riches. In case of danger all that a man hath will he give for his life. It is the period measured by Providence, during which all the pleasures and happiness of humanity are to be enjoyed, and all its duties to be performed. Oh what folly to be constantly attacking, mutilating and destroying that most precious of jewels! Ninety-nine out of every hundred die sooner than they would by violating the laws of health and longevity, and a vast proportion do not live out half their days. Every unnatural stimulant helps to bring them nearer to the grave. Of all other cases, the use of intoxicating liquors is the most powerful. Drinkers destroy the pleasure of life; say they cut off a great portion of it as effectually as if they laid their necks upon the block and struck the fatal blow with their own hands. Nature truly bears up under a great deal of torture from strong drink, but at last it gives way and often suddenly. Could we examine the progress of disease internally, we should be able to trace its insidious progress in every one who drinks strong drink even moderately. Indeed, an occasional bout of drunkenness does not harass the system year so much as the daily or frequent drinking of a few glasses in moderation.

Wise Words.

The cheerful giver is a very lonesome man. Stinginess costs more than extravagance.

The only real giver in this world is the cheerful giver. The virtues and vices sometimes live very close together.

Nothing but death can separate true friends from each other. A good name is a good thing to have, but a good heart is better.

You can't tell much about a man's generosity by reading his will. The man who tends the school of experience must pay his own bills.

There is a good deal of pure laziness that goes by the name of sickness. Many men have ended by becoming soundrels, who began by running in debt.

People who never work to a good deal of missionary work that they don't get credit for. One of the hardest times to love an enemy is when he is prospering like a green bay tree.

There are a good many different ways in which some men can manage to brag on themselves. A hypocrite is a counterfeit. A counterfeit is one of the strongest proofs that there is a genuine.

A man never gets so bad that he likes to hear somebody say there is still some good in him. Self-deception is the only thing that keeps a good many people from being continually miserable.

If you have any opinions of your own, they will never amount to much as long as you are ashamed to father them. When you hear people growling about bad times you can make up your mind that they do not give as much as they ought to. Cheerful givers always have plenty. Indianapolis, (Ind.) Rain's Horn.

He wasn't. A man with a point and brush worked on the front steps of a house on Third street when a pedestrian halted and called out: "Hello! So you are painting, eh?"

The painter put aside his brush, wiped his fingers on a piece of paper and ascended to the walk to reply: "My friend, I am sorry for you, but by keeping your eyes open and always being prepared to dodge the fool who may pull through."

"What do you mean?" "You asked me if I was painting?" "Yes."

"Well, I'm not, I'm gravel roofing these steps. Can't you see the gravel? Isn't the tar kettle right here? Can't you tell the difference between gravel roofing and painting?"

The other looked at him for half a minute, sized him up as the biggest man, and turned away with: "Some folks can't be civil to save their blasted necks! Go on with your old job driving!"

Thirteen a Lucky Number. The old superstition that the number thirteen is unlucky is supposed to have its origin as far back as the last supper, when Judas betrayed his Lord and afterwards hung himself. There are, however, instances where thirteen has been a lucky number, as in a baker's dozen, where one loaf is added to the dozen for luck.

There is also an account of a British soldier in the reign of William and Mary who was court-martialed for having fallen asleep at midnight, when an enemy guard upon the terrace at Windsor. He most solemnly declared that he was innocent of the offence and to prove it swore that he heard the clock Tom of Westminster strike thirteen when on that same night, he was pardoned.

There are some patent medicines that are more marvelous than a dozen doctors' prescriptions, but they're not those that profess to cure everything.

Everybody, now and then, feels "run down," "played out," They've the will but no power to generate vitality. They're not sick enough to call a doctor, but just too sick to be well. That's where the right kind of a patent medicine comes in, and does for a dollar what the doctor wouldn't do for less than five or ten. We put in our claim for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

We claim it to be an unequalled remedy to purify the blood and invigorate its effects, creating an appetite, purifying the blood, and preventing Bilious, Thyroid and Malarial fevers if taken in time. The time to take it is when you first feel the signs of weakness and weakness. The time to take it, on general principles, is NOW.

What They Get. An exchange figures up the results of a bushel of corn distilled as follows: The stiller gets four gallons of whiskey which will retail at $15. The Government gets $3.50, the farmer gets 40 cents and the stiller gets $1, the retailer gets $7, and the consumer gets drunk.

Only a stray sunbeam? Yet it cheered a wretched abode—gladdened a stricken heart. Only a gentle breeze? It fanned aching brows, cheered many hearts by its gentle touch.

Only a frown? But it left a sad vein in the child's heart—quivering lip and tearful eyes.

The ancient Finns believed that a mystic laid an egg on the lap of Valmanou, who hatched it in his bosom. He let it fall into the water and it broke, the lower portion of the shell forming the earth, the upper the sky; the liquid white became the sun, and the yolk the moon, while the little fragments of broken shell were transformed into stars.

The Future Life. There is something truly grand in the spectacle of a man in the enjoyment of health, prosperity and reputation, looking forward, nevertheless, to a future life with hope and thankfulness. Far more admirable, however is the spectacle of him who feels this hope and thankfulness, not by reason of his ministry to him of wisdom and delight. "The fact" says a great and original writer, "that the sky is brighter than the earth is not a peculiar truth unless the earth itself be first underwood." Dispel the gloom, and slander it, fix your eyes on it's gloom, and forget its loneliness, and we do not thank you for your languid or despairing perception of brightness in heaven. But rise up actively on the earth, learn what there is in it, know its color and form, and the full measure and make of it, and when, after that, you say, "Heaven is bright," it will be a precious truth, but not till then.—Leo Grindon.
