INCORRECT REPORTING.

Toronto Paper's Fault May Close Commissioners' Meetings.

Will Government Keep Its Promise re Technical College?

Civic Authorities Are Afraid It Will Not.

It is not improbable that at the next meeting of the Police Commissioners the Board will decide that the sessions hereafter shall be behind closed doors. Po lice Magistrate Jelfs, who has always insisted on the meetings being open, is much incensed at some of the newspaper reports of the case of a constable who was on the mat yesterday accused of walking with a girl, on his beat. His Worship particularly objects to a state ment in a morning paper that the commissioners took no action because of the constable's god loks. "That sort of thing makes the commissioners look ridiculous." said his worship, who inti-mated that, although he had always been in favor of having the meetings open to the press it would not be surprising if they are closed after this as a result of the way this case was re-ported. Chief Smith at the meeting ves-terday complained about the way the men were held up to ridicule after they appeared before the commissioners as a result of their names being printed in the papers.

The Ontario Legislature, it is expected, will deal with the question of technical education at its next session and decide if a college is to be built. Dr. Seath, the expert in charge of technical education for the Government, has returned from an extensive tour of Ger-many; and it is understood has made its many, and it is understood has made its report. Although Hāmilton was practically promised that if a college was established it would be built here to square the Government for robbing the city of the Normal School, some of the trustees admit that their hopes are fading. Hamilton thought it would have a good claim by getting in on the ground floor, and building a Technical School here at a cost of over $100,000. Toronto since then, however, has voted about since then, however, has voted about $250,000 for a technical school and by $250,000 for a technical school and by the time the Government is ready to establish the college will probably have spent half a million dollars. "They will use that as a strong argument," said a representative of the board to-day, and with eight members of parliament to back it up what show will Hamilton have, even if Whitney did go as far as a public man in his position could go, in promising Hamilton the college."

There is a feeling in civic circles that There is a feeling in civic circles that the proposition to establish the new Central Prison near Hamilton is a scheme to smooth over any objection over the city losing the college. Hamilton, however, is making no bid for the prison. The Government, it is feared, will use the argument that the city in getting the prison and the new Normal School, creeted in West Hamilton, has been repaid for the Normal College steal.

Applications for water services in the Annex continue to pour in, and the offi-cials say that if the fine weather con-tuines they will be able to accommodate many more than was at first intended.

City Treasurer Leckie yesterday re-reived from the Licruse Department a sheque for $14,500, the city's share of icense fees for the half year ending Nov. 3. The total fees amounted to $30.394. of which $496 for transfers and fines was paid to the Government, and $897.50 went for current expenses, leaving $29,000, to divide between the city and the Government. The total amount was made up as follows:

taverns, half year, at $350 $22,750 00 tavern extensions, 3 months, shop extension, 3 months 16 shop, half year, $350 ... 30 bartenders, at $2 ... transfers ...

Although the Street Railway Compan will make no extensions next year, and the civic committee thoroughly understood that throughout the negotiations, the aldermen and City Hall officials are already talking about new lines, which the, company will likely build in 1910. The aldermen were informed that as soon as the old system was reconstructed the company would deal with extensions. The loops talked of are east on Ferrie street to Sherman avenue; south on Garth street and along Aherdeen avenue; one in the southeast, running on Wellington street and Stinson, and another cross-line further east in the new annexed district, probably a loop from the Bartonville line to Barton the street and stone of the second of the loop from the Bartonville line to Barton

Mayor McLaren to-day received a letter from the Inspector of Asyulms asking that the city accommodate some of the indigent patients from the Asyulm to make room for more dangerous cases. Throw Down Gauntlet to Federation Executive Industrial Education For Boys and Girl.

(Special Wire to the Times.)
Toronto, Nov. 11. — "The Exeutive of the Federatoin have been hailed as martyrs of judicial tyr anny, while they themselves are practis ing an iron autocracy never before duplicated in the history of unionism Mr. Gompers and his associates justly answer to the courts that discipline must be founded on justice and a compliance with the United States constitution. We say that discipline must be founded on justice and a respect for the provisions of the constitution of the American Federation of Labor," so reads a paragraph from the printed statement of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' side of their dispute with the present administration of the American Federation of Labor, addressed to "Fellow Unionists," and given into the hands of every delegate this morning. "We ask if the whole history of the American labor movement can show another instance of a great majority being charged with being seeders," says the pamphlet.

"The Executive Council of the Federation has placed the American labor answer to the courts that discipline movement in an inconsistent and ridiculous position. They are appealing from a United States court decision on the ground that it abrogates their constitutional rights, and are threatened with jail sentence because they refuse to allow their constitutional rights of free speech and free press to be encroached upon; they in turn have enjoined the majority of electrical workers of the United States and Cnaada from exercising their constitutional rights of selecting their own officers, and because these electrical workers have refused to allow their constitutional rights to be encroached upon. this majority has been branded as secessionists."

It is pointed out that in Secretary Morrison's own report it is admitted that the minority of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers is being granted the privileges denied the majority.

"The Executive Council has gone even farther than the court. They have enjoned our friends from giving us recognition, and have without a hearing or trial branded many of them as secessionists and placed others in the false positions."

ALLOWED TO PAY, PAY, PAY

That's About All Hamilton Can Expect From Hydro.

(Special Wire to the Times.) Toronto, Nov. 11.-The officials of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission are not considering seriously the rumor published in a Hamilton paper that the Council of that city would ratify the power contract with the Commission on condition that the power wires from Dundas should be run underground into the city. In the absence of Hon. Adam Beck in New York, none of the officials at the Commission's head-quarters were prepared to give a definite answer, but there is a general impression that no concessions whatever will be made. Should Hamilton require the wires to be under ground the city will have to pay a higher rate. It is expected that the transmission line from Dundas to Hamilton will cost between $20,000 and $25,000 to erect. This will be of course one of the standard lines carried by towers not by poles. power contract with the Commission on

Mrs. Broderick Has Not Heard From Husband For 15 Years.

Acting for Annie Roderick, Staunton, Heir & Morrison this morning issued a writ against the supreme treasurer of the K. O. T. M. for $2.000 on an insurance policy. The policy was for the amount of insurance stated, on the life of the plaintiff's husband. He left her fifteen years ago, and she had not had any word from him since nor can she learn his whereabouts. Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. H. Ward ope, K. C., delighted a large audience of the Hamilton Women Teachers' As ociation with a brilliant and masterly address on "Oliver Cromwell." Montreal, Que., Nov. 11.—Al-though John Dillon's lawyer is now in Ottawa, trying to arrange to have the death sentence com muted, there does not seem to be much hope for his success, and on Friday, the 19th, Dillon will probably be hanged. The scaffold, which was last used at St. Scholastique, when Belanger was hanged, has been brought to Montreal, and Hangman Radeliffe has notified the deputy sheriff of Montreal jail that he will be here on Thursday, the 18th, to complete arrangements for the hanging on the following day. NEGLECT OF THE PARENTS

Brings Many Young People Into Magistrate's Court.

May Smith Gave the Police a Wild Chase Last Night.

Gordon Rigg Found Not Guilty of False Pretence.

The evil of parental neglect is almost daily apparent in police court. Youthful waywardness has been shown to be due to gross negligence on the part of those whose first duty was to look after heir offspring.

In a corner of the dock sat a thin, inkempt-looking girl. She felt the hame of it. for she kept her eyes riveted on the floor. "May Smith," called the desk sergeant, and May Smith, for she it was in the orner aforesaid, stood up. "You are charged with being a common vagrant. Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," said that girl of eighteen years—years that have been fraught with so much trouble.

"She was one of my girls," continued that big, kind-hearted man. The truancy officer told the court how that girl "who had not had a chance," used to live here with a mother who loved her, but a father, who was a beast in human shape, had abused her.

loved her, but a father, who was a beast in human shape, had abused her, and had even tried to prevent the mother from showing her love for the girl. And so she had run wild. The possibilities of her becoming a good woman are not gone yet, it is hoped. On Sept. 6 she ran away from the Industrial School again and came here, but her parents had left the city and gone to Detroit. Since she came back she has been sleeping out—where else could the poor girl sleep, for she had no money and no

The police learned of the girl's escape, and P. C's. Cameron and Barrett were on the lookout for her. They saw her last night, stopped and questioned her. A Spanish Beauty

She was rarely beautiful, this young Spanish patrician, with the lofty grace of a royal stag. Tall and willowy and slender, she floated in a cloud of gold-hued ereophane, a Venus robed in sunbeame, with opals clasping the arched throat, the taper wrists, dangling from the pinks, shell-like ears, and gleaming above the low, dusk brow. The purple-black hair, that fell in a jetty cascade oi waves and ripples and curls to the taper waist, was soft ain fine as floss silk—a chevelure for an Andalusian countess. The clear, creamy white of the skin; the mouth, red as a June rose and sweet as a babe's; the aquiline nose with its proud, curved nostril; the long, deep, dark eyes of purplish blue, shaded by sweeping, jetty lashes—ah, wondrous-ly lovely, rarely lovely, was this 'per-less Rose of Castile! She moved up and down the long suite of drawing rooms with a floating, airy grace all her own, the princely head haughtily upheld, a 'queen of noble nature's crowning.''

"Confound the fellow!' muttered the 'Grand and county of the slip." Confound the fellow!' muttered the 'Grand and county of the slip of

"Confound the fellow!" muttered the old general; "he's as obstinate as a pig and as stiff-necked as a Jew! If I thought this flying trip to France was only a ruse— But no; I saw the telegram, and I know that Beauchamp's been at death's door for years."

It was no ruse; Vivian had really gene sent for to Paris by a dying friend and had really gone.

"It was on her account I sent for you. Vivian." he said, grasping his friend's hand and looking imploringly in his face with hollow, haggard eyes. "When I go she will be entirely alone in the world. Vivian, by the memory of our school-boy days, of our old, tried friend-ship, you will be her guardian, will you not? Take her from Paris; give her some quiet English home. And the dying artist had gone out of life, his last words a "God bless you!" for his friend; and Vivian Trevannance, though he utterly repudiated a wife, found himself, willy-nilly, saddled with a daughter—a pallid, desolate little sprite, wan and bloodless as as shadow. He wrote a letter to his father, telling him all, and packed little missy and her nurse straight to England. For himself, the dead man's affairs required his presence in Paris for at least another week.

"Amethyst will have the cover-side all to himself, and can pop over his silver-winged bird of paradise splendidly. I'll have nothing to do but congratulate him when I get back."

He thought this as he rode across the country on the afternoon of his return. The Devon fields, the meadows, the moors, the woodland, the open country spread away far and wide. Half unconsciously, he let his horse take its own course, smoking his Cubas and thinking of poor Beauchamp and his daughter.

"I must get a governess for her, I suppose," he mused. "She's too young to send to school. The governor must look after her while I'm in England. Poor Beauchamp! I hope she won't take after him. There was a life wasted, genius wrecked. Halloo, Saladin! where the deuce are we! Astray, for a dwest!"

Trevannance leaped from his horse and gave his hand to the lady to dismount. She sprung off lightly and hurried with him into the nearest tent, where a dusky young woman stood holding up the canvas door-way.

In lifting the folds of her long riding-skirt she chanced to drop her whip.

"Never mind." Trevannance said; "do not wait! I will return for it."

He left her in the tent, the rudest and most primitive of structures, littered and dirty to a degree, and filled with a dusky swarm, old and young. Strangely and strikingly out of place the fair introder looked, standing among the dark browned and title in horse primitive of the strike in head of the strike in her strike ducat!"

"Harm you?" The lovely violet eyes looked at him in proud surprise. "I have said I will assist you. Go!"

The man slunk backward, gazing with glistening eyes upon the rich ring.

As he turned it over, the name inside struck his eye; the next a loud cry of fear, rage, surprise rang out.

With that cry he was back before her, looking up in the proud, pale face, with a wolfish glare in his haggard eyes. "The name inside the ring!" he cried, breathlessly—"the name! Is it your ame, my lady?"

THURSDAY, NOV. 11, 1909.

THE SESSION OPENS.

The Dominion Parliament assembles this afternoon, and Ottawa society will enjoy its annual opportunity to exhibit new millinery. The session now begun will probably be an important one; it may be one of considerable length—how long depends largely on whether the Opposition will facilitate the despatch of business or will set itself about the work of obstruction.

There is a great deal of very im ortant business to come before the House. A few of the outstanding items are: The question of naval defence; the progress of the National Transcontinental Railway; the insurance measure; the revision of the banking act; Intercolonial Railway policy; the French treaty, and the amendment of the crim inal code so as to effectually deal with gambling and bookmaking.

One of the early questions to come before the House will be Canada's share in naval defence. The measure to be submitted to Parliament will, of course be founded upon the policy approved by the Defence Conference, and passed upon by the British Admiralty. It will be for the Canadian Parliament, of course, to say whether that policy shall be adopt ed, or not. There have been divergent expressions of opinion from some of Opposition leaders, but perhaps when the details of the policy are presented, with the reasons therefor, Parliament may be enabled to give it unanimous resolution submitted to the House in In any event, it is to be hoped that discussion on the matter will conducted with an appreciation of the fact that the attitude of Parliament in the matter is hardly of secondary importance to the nature of the define policy to be adopted.

THE LATEST CROAK.

The Herald now puts forward the plea that if the safeguarding clauses, exempt sion of the Hydro contract, are put into the agreement with the city for 1,000 borse-nower, "the city would never, under the special contract, be able to obtain additional power, to be used for as the co-operating municipalities will get their power for, because this city will be cut off from the benefits derived from co-operation.

That is a very absurd contention One of the clauses for which the alder manic defenders of the city's interests are fighting is to secure to Hamilton the benefit of her greater preximity to the source of power supply.

The Commission admits that we should profit by our increased taking of power. Of course every other contracting municipality would profit by its increased takings. We should not profit by theirs nor they by ours, in such an arrangement. There remains, then, nothing of the organ's co-operation plea.

the Cataract Company guaranteeing us power 10 per cent, cheaper than the Hydro power, no matter how cheap that that power is to be for corporation uses only. Very well; what of that? Can we use the Cataract power contracted for, for the corporation's uses? That would leave the power to be furnished by the Commission free for any other use And if the ratepayers ever become so obsessed that they will want to pay away usclessly 10 per cent. more for power from the Hydro-Electric Commission than the home concern's price, we may be very sure that the Commission will not refuse to furnish it. This Commission's rule may not be "for ever."

The Herald's desperation makes

A FOOTBALL OPPORTUNITY.

Will the universal public condemnation of the brutal tactics which were practised in last Saturday game at the cricket grounds open the eyes of athletic organizations and controlling associations, and of players as well, and bring about a much-needed reform in sport? While such scenes as were enacted in the Tiger-Ottawa game allowed to go on it cannot be wondered at if fair-minded people, including those who love clean athletics draw conclusion, and proclaim it to the world, that such exhibitions are brutalizing to those who take part in them and degrading to these who watch them. A fair-minded citizen of Hamilton, who in his day was a participant in many an outdoor sport, made this remark, after the game in question:

"I studied the faces and watched the actions of the people in the grand stands and drew the conclusion that a very large proportion of them were so worked up over the foul tactics introduced that they were in a mood to exercise violence upon the most glaring offenders."

Surely this is not the spirit which sport should engender in spectators. Surely if such a spirit is engendered, there is something radically wrong with the sport itself, or with the way it is conducted. Far be it from us to say any-thing in condemnation of the fine old of Rugby. At it many of Hamilton's best sons of past and present times have won honors for themselves and fame for their city. They have given Hamilton a reputation for clean sport and it is now in order for them in favor of the suppression of dirty work in the game. No time should be lost in showing the world that this aldermen insisting played free from such gross abuses as re seen last week.

Next Saturday, in Toronto, Hamilton Tigers and Toronto Argonauts will meet insert them, for it says: "And has the in the final game of the regular series. Government Commission such reason to they represent are widely famed for clean sport. They have it in their power to set an example of which the makers a discreditable exhibition of unfealty to and administrators of football laws will be bound to take notice. There is not man on either team who does not know the game to perfection, and not one but can play it for all that is in ity is one of which every player, every thereby redeem the game and show the public where the blame belongs.

According to the United States Army and Navy Journal the increased draught of the new battleships of the Dreadought type will involve Uncle Sam in an enormous expense for improved naval bases and dry docks. Such a draught would shut her out of all the dry docks in the United States. This competition in battleship building furnishes many embarrassments.

It might be a good idea for referees in Canadian athletic sports to begin their duties by reading to the exponents of the game before them from the records of the courts to show that a brute on the athletic field is liable to be punished for misconduct in the same way as is a brute in a back alley for his criminality.

audience at the Grand Opera House last evening was one of the most fashionable of the season and the presentation of "Septimus" can be pronounced as one of the most brilliant of this year's productions. Curtain calls at the end of each act of W. J. Locke's dramatized novel signalized the most notable triumph of any serio-comic play seen here in a long time. A better pleas ed audience than that which left the Grand last night is seldom seen, for "Septimus" was certainly one of the treats of the season. George Arliss, as Septimus Dix, the absent-minded genius is unsurpassed as a character actor. Never for a moment did he seem out of the character and the role fitted his methods admirably. His impersonation was one of the delights of the play, and whether as the absent-minded, apparently stupid inventor, or the warm-hearted, ly stupid inventor, or the warm hearted, son, Riohmond Hill; D. The state of the same and the leading lady, Emily Stevens, as Enmy Oldriene, also proved herself elever actress, and her portrayal of the difficult part in which she was cast was really good. She never overacted, and her personality gave her a strong grip on the aympathies of the audience. The role of Clem Sypher was well looked after by Henry Wenman, who, although casts as a "feeder" for Septimus, was sufficiently good to become popular. The remaining numbers of the cast were clever and took advantage of all the possibilities of their individual parts.

MAY WARD IN "CASH GIRL."

Miss May Ward, the comedienne heads the "Cash Girl" company, which comes to the Grand to-night. The pretty chorus girls are said to be well trained in their numbers and are in action from the time of the rise of the curtain to the close of the piece. The music is catchy and up-to-date, and was specially written by George W. Meyer. The book is from the pen of George Totten Smith.

"THE WOLF.

"The Wolf," by Eugene Walter, comes to the Grand to-morrow and Saturday, under the direction of the Shuberts. In "The Wolf," Mr. Walter has gone to the picturesque and wild Hudson Bay country for his characters and locals, a fine spot about which to lay a melodrama. The story really begins some years before the curtain rises at a time when a half-sister of Jules Beaubien has been led astray by an American adventurer. This man has later departed with the woman, and all trace of them has been lost. The disgrace brought upon Jules' father weighs upon him, and on his deathbed he exacts a promise from Jules to find his stepsister, Annette, and care for her. Jules sets forth, and the first act finds him at the home of Andrew for her. Jules sets forth, and act finds him at the home of Andrew McTavish on the banks of the Wind River. The brother has already learned that his sister had found a willing fate that his sister had found a willing fate in a death-dealing storm, and now, accompanied by Batiste Le Grande, a nomad of the northwest, he is searching for the adventurer who brought woe to himself and his family. At the McTavish home, the wanderers find William MacDonald and his assistant. George Huntley, who are promoting the construction of a railroad. The former has been making love to McTavish's young daughter, Hilda, a child hated by her father because she has the misfortune to be a girl. He himself is in love with Hilda, but has nearest polyent and frection. During his boasting macDonald lets slip the fact that it was he who wronged Annette, and from that moment his fate is sealed.

In the fight which follows, Huntley takes sides with Jules and Batiste, and the trio escape along the Little Bear River. When they are safely out of danger Jules leaves the others to go on while he returns to the McTavish home to kill MacDonald and average Annette. Before he can start, however, MacDonald is fought. report of a committee, President Gompers proposed that the convention hear Mrs. Francis Squire Potter, the Corresponding Secretary of the National Amererican Suffrage Association. Until a few months ago Mrs. Potter was professor of English history in Minnesota State University. She is a forceful speaker, with a ready eloquence and considerable grace of diction. She gripped the convention at once by her narration of the events which led to her becoming a convert to woman suffrage a year ago, and drew the meeting out when she assured them that she looked upon the federation's meetings as among the most active educational influences in America. DUNCAN C. ris Home Town and Caradoc Gave Big Majorities.

Strathroy, Nov. 10. The by-election here to-day, which resulted in the re turn of Mr. Dunean C. Ross, was possibly the quietest Strathroy has had for year-Both sides worked quietly but hard.
Although Mr. Ross only got a majority in three divisions, yet his total reached 155 over Mr. McLaughlin. The following is the result by divisions: Ross, McLauchlin

Both alike had been denied their rights and had to fight for them. At the present moment women who stood for their rights were so persecuted that one women's suffrage society in New York kept its membership secret, and met in secret. Her clever, well-reasoned and good-tempered speecch aroused much enthusiasm. When she took her seat the convention's applianse was so prolonged that Mrs. Potter had to take the platform again. She then recited a clever parody of "Maud Muller," which pointed the lessons of labor and woman suffrage so wittily that it moved the convention to cheers. It looked as if the whole convention is solid for woman suffrage. The civic reception tendered the delegates in the City Hall last night was a Glencoe 36

After the results became known erowds thronged the Liberal committee rooms, where Mr. Ross received the congratulations of his many friends. In addressing the electors Mr. Ross said: "I wish to thank the electors of Strathroy and the good old township of Caradoc, who stood so loyally behind their guns." He referred briefly to Caradoc, which, he said, gave him the same majority as He referred briefly to Carados, when he said, gave him the same majority as it gave his father the second last election he ran in West Middlesex. "I was almost ashamed," he said, "to go through the riding three times in thirty-three months, to ask for your suffrage, but that shame has been turned to joy."

He thanked the electors from the bottom if his heart, including the Conservatives, as they had assisted him very materially in each of his elections in the past. "I hope my career in the Dominion House," he said, will ever be such that the confidence the people in West Middlesex have shown in me will never be regretted. I have always tried to act loyally in business and in the Legislature."

At the conclusion of his address the member-elect was cheered to the echo.

To-night there was a torenight pro-cession followed by an immense crowd, in the midst of which there was a rube hand playing "Hail, Hail, the Gang's Ail Here." Fire-crackers and bombs of ail kinds were set off and the cheering kept up till a late hour.

SMASHED CAR.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 10. —Help-lessly swept from their seats, half cronched for the spring they dared not take, fourteen workmen were hurled to instant death here to-day. A flat car loaded with lumber was climbing the hill in advance of the passenger car when it broke loose from the couplings a block up grade from Lakeview Station, four miles from Vancouver, and swept down the hill with frightful velocity. It crashed into the advancing car. A heavy mass of timbers, twelve by twelve, hurled forward by the terrific impact, swept straight into the passenger car, cutting everything before it, leaving only the floor behind. The helpless passengers were swept off the car like checkers off a checker-board. KESWICK.

Excellent Address by Two Speakers at Yesterday's Meetings.

Rev. George Litchfield vesterday af rnoon preached a very able sermon at the Keswick Convention in Centenary "Body Building as a means of Spiritual Development" and clearly pointed out Development" and clearly pointed out the reasons why the body should be kept in a healthy state to nourish the spirit-ual life. The first thing that needed attention was the right use of it and the purpose for which it was -given, which was spiritual development. The body was a medium between soul with soul. As a means of making the body healthy the individual should strive to oversome those evil influences which had a tendency to reduce its efficiency. He selected as his text "While he yet speaks," and pointed out the opportunity for a deeper and better Christianity if Christ's words were heeded. Shareholders' Certificates Tell What Class They Are.

Toronto, Nov. 11.-If the officials o the National Trust Company who have had charge of the York Loan Company liquidation were busy before the re inquidation were busy before the re-cent dividend cheques were sent out, the term that will describe what they are now is not to be found in the English language. From all over the country letters of complaint and let-ters asking explanation are pouring in at the rate of about 400 a day, and the number of people who call daily to number of people who call daily have things explained to them has cuse to ask for a raise in salary

"It seems simply impossible to explain to some people," said Mr. Her ington. "They call in here and the ington. "Each shareholder ought to know what class of stock he holds because it it printed on the stock certificate he holds or should hold. It would be impossible to tell you within the limits of a page of space what each of these different classes is. They are the names of the different policies that the shareholders held, just as a man in taking out life rs held, just as a man in taking out life insurance may take either a straight life, a 20 year life, a twenty year en-dowment, or any other of the numerous olicies which life insurance companies ffer. The nature of the policy is stated York Loan certificates. The figures placed opposite these classes indicate the amount that must be deducted the amount that must be deducted from the amount paid in before the dividend of 25 per cent, is paid. HAD TO SAVE SOME NAME

When staying in the Sandwich Islands I had an amusing experience with my Hawaiian servant. Now these servenats insist on calling you by your name. Ours was always saying to name. Ours was always saying to my husband, "Yes, John," and to me, "Very well, Mary," etc. So when we got a new cook I told my husband to vaoid calling me "Mary," as then, not knowing my name, he would have to say "missus" to me. So John always called me "sweetheart" or "dearie," never "Mary," but the watchful fellow gave we no title at all.

The evidence for the crown was that Volenski had been out buying old metal, etc., and seeing the shingle mill near the road, went to the nearest house and road, went to the nearest house and asked if it was for sale. The lady of the house, who was alone at the time, told, him she had nothing to do with it. He then bought some other things, includ-ing an old stove.

WHAT IS GOING ON TO-DAY IN THE WORLD OF SPORT.

JUNGLE TERRORS ARE IN GREAT CONDITION.

Practice Was Held Last Night at the Cricket Grounds and Whole Team Was Out-Simpson Will Play on Saturday.

Realizing that there are still the hardest battles ahead of them, the Tigers are not letting up any in their practising, and last night the whole team, with one or two exceptions, was at the Cricket Grounds for a work-out. Signals, running and passing were practiced, and for over an hour the boys were kept running around the field. One satisfying thing that characterizes the practices of the Tigers this season is the fact that while on the field none of the players are allowed to idle. Some teams will spend a couple of hours on the and not get in as much work as another team will in half the time, but the Tigers take advantage of every moment they are on the field. This makes for condition, which is one of the most important assets a Rugby team can have. Without it the best fourteen in the country would meet defeat against an inferior team who were in shape. The Tigers realize this, and are working as never before to be at the top of their form In their game against the Rough Riders last Saturday they showed that they could stand up sixty minutes out of sixty, which, with their running, passing, punting and bucking ability, is

The only one department of the game in which the Tigers are weak is their tackling. They get their men too high and hardly ever make a good flying tackle. This defeat may rightly be laid at the door of the intermediates. They have not turned out for practice, and the seniors have had to work all alone. It is hard for a team to improve their tackling when they have no one to practice with. Whether the intermediate team is going to pieces or whether they are just trying to buck the seniors is a question. At least their action in this matter is ungrateful, as they are a losing proposition to the club every year. The gate money taken in at their games is not sufficient to pay their expenses, and if the club did not supply them with the necessary expense money it is hard to say what would become of them.

In the practice Don Lyon has been showing all his old-time form, and his fast following up and sure tackling will be a great help to the Tigers in their future games. It has always been conceded that Lyon is the greatest tackler in the Dominion, and his style is pretty. He never gets a man above the knees, and always brings them down. He is very fast and those Argo backs will have to hurry when he is in the game.

Jack Gray's ankle is resuming its normal size, and possibly he may be able to play on Saturday. However, it is not thought that he will be needed in this game, and he will be allowed to rest until the game with Ottawa next week. Gray has been unfortunate this year, a sprained back keeping him on the touch lines for a couple of games early in theseason.

The tackling dummy has been somewhat of a disappointment. It helps in a way, but is not half as good as the human article.

The Tigers will hold their final practice this afternoon in preparation fo

NOT MUCH CHANCE OF GETTING CHAUCER.

Montreal Coach is Engaged by the Year and Could Not Accept an Offer If One Was Made-Stronach Says He Will Quit.

The suggestion that Chaucer Elliott, the Montreal coach, be engaged to coach the Tigers for the balance of the season has not been taken up very enthusiastically by the officials of the Tiger Football Club. Speaking of the matter yesterday afternoon, Dr. Thompson said it would be almost impossible to secure the services of the eastern man as he is engaged by the year by the M. A. A. Although Elliott is recognized as the greatest coach in country, and the officers are aware that under his instruction the team would improve a lot, they do not believe that the Tigers really stand in need of it to win the Dominion championship this year. Under the careful eye of Captain Ben Simpson and the up-to-date training methods of Sim Vaughan, the team has improved until, in condition at least, they are much more fit than ever before. Although it is somewhat harder for a playing coach to size up his men from the field than it is for a coach on the touchlines, Simpson is a man of unusual ability to which the Tigers' success this year is a tribute. It has never been found necessary in former years to engage a professional coach, and it is not likely that any change will be made this year. Granted that Elliott would be a great help to the Tigers, also that the club officials would like to have him, but there are so many obstacles in the way that at this stage it looks as though the yellow and black would have in win out un-this stage it looks as though the yellow and black would have in win out unassisted, which they are capable of doing. Elliott was engaged to prepare the Tigers for a final game, but with that exception the Tigers never were coached by a professional.

Although there has been some talk of Ben Simpson taking a rest in the game at Toronto on Saturday with the Argonauts, this is not likely as the schoolmaster says he feels no ill effects from the gruelling he received on Saturday at the hands of the Rough Riders, and thinks the workout will put him on edge for the big game with Ottawa the following Saturday. In the event of his playing, Art Moore will watch the game from the side lines to give Davey Tope a chance to qualify for the play-off and finals. The half line will likely be composed of George Smith, Simpson and Burton, with Tope at full back. Exercise with the dumbells has put Don Lyon's arm in good shape, and the muscles are now strong enough to afford plenty of protection to the bone. He will play on Saturday, and Art Turner will witness the exhibition from the bench. Turner has made good, but as Lyon has to play one league game to qualify for the saw-off, someone has to be dropped.

The tickets for the Argo-Tigers game will be on sale to morrow at the G. T. R. uptown office. The club expects to take three or four hundred supporters to the Queen City for this game, which, if reports be true, will be a hummer. Two special trains will carry the crowd, leaving the Stuart street station at 1.05 and the other leaving the King street station at 1 o'clock.

The latest report from the capital says that Bert Stronach is going to quit football and will not play another game this season. The reason for this action is said to be that he wishes to save his reputation. The only chance of doing that is to play a clean game in vindication of himself. If he leaves the game now everybody will call him a quitter. Last year the big Scot was looked upon as one of the cleanest players that ever visited this city, but his game this year has changed that opinion. He is not blamed so much as the team with which he plays. He is in bad company.

During the present agitation against football it is worth remembering that in nearly every severe athletic sport engaged in yearly by a great number of players, death exacts its toll.

A list of the accidents in baseball resulting in death during the 1909 season shows that baseball was responsible for 30 deaths, which at this is twelve less than last year. Eighteen of these deaths were due to accidents which occurred during actual play, and to which any player might fall a victim. The remaining twelve were in directly connected with the game.

The majority of the 30 deaths were in amateur clubs. Serious accidents are seldom recorded in the big leagues, for probably the same reason which confines most of the deaths in football to prep. school players—that is, the big league baseball players and college football teams are in strict training.

of engaging a squad of soldiers from the Fort to patrol the Rosedale grounds. In the last two or three matches the players have been greatly troubled by the speectators crowding on to the field. In fact, in the game with Ottawa two weeks ago, the game had to be stopped on several occasions while the crowd was forced back from the side lines. Of course, the management of the club would rather have a detachment of police if possible, but so far their efforts along that line have not met with very great success. The only satisfaction they could get at police headquarters was that there would be a number of "bluecoats" on duty at the grounds, and they would interfere if any disturbance took place. This is all right as far as it goes, but what the club wants most is to have the crowd kept in its proper place, and the only way to do it seems to be to engage a squad of soldiers.

The Argonauts had two hard practices yesterday afternoon ir. preparation for the game with the Tigers on Saturday. The back division worked out at 1.45, and at 4.30 the whole team assembled at Bayside Park and went through a good grind. The feature of the last practice was the reappearance of Art Kent on the field in uniform. Kent has been out of the game for a week or ten days, suffering from the effects of a dislocated shoulder. The hurt is still troubling him, and although he did some good work in the practice, it is hardly likely that he will play for a few days yet. Norcross, the star outside wing of the team, is still on the sick list.

Dr. Rush Rhees, of the University of Rochester, prompted by the heartrending football fatalities of the last few weeks, issued the following statement yesterday:

"The general popularity of football throughout the country should not blind intelligent men to the fact that equal, if not greater popularity was enjoyed by the gladiatorial contests of Rome, and equal, if not greater, popularity is enequal, if not greater, popularity is enjoyed by the bull fights of Spain to-day. If the present popularity of football is to commend the game permanently as a feature of our civilization, it must demand the elimination from the sport of mand the elimination from the sport of all features which justify its classification with gladiatorial contests.

"The tragedies connected with the game of football during the present season place an obligation upon everyone who believes that the game ought not to be put in the same class with the gladiatorial contests of ancient Rome or the bull fights of Spain to-day. That obligation is, to lift a clear voice for the creation of a public sentiment which shall demand and secure the elimination from the game of those features of brutality and danger to human life which, in spite of recent modifications, it still seems to retain."

As regards to the Ottawa challenge As regards to the Ottawa challenge to Dundas for the intermediate honors, and the request that the game be played in Ottawa on Nov. 20, it might be said that the Dundas team is ready to meet the Ottawa club, but not in Ottawa, as this year the eastern winners must come west. Last year the western winners should have gone east, but the game was transferred to Hamilton by mutual agreement between Hamilton and the Grand Trunk team of Montreal. Dundas and Ottawa will likely get together on the matter.

ball team held its first practice of the week at Varsity Oval yesterday afternoon, all the players being present, with the exception of Bert Stronach. The practice was a light one, and the players will not get down to real hard work for a day or two, as some of them are still feeling the effects of the Tiger match. They will all be in fair shape for the saw-off game against Hamilton, should such be necessary.

An anonymous letter was published conspicuously in a local paper last night recommending changes in the management of the team, and that Martin Klit, George Kenedy, and Pete Ferguson be dropped in favor of Wilkinson, Kilmartin and Roberts, of the intermediates. The letter was evidently penhed by some one who wishes to stir up trouble, however, and is unworthy of attention, despite the fact that the writer claims to one will wished to strong the sentiments of a number of supporers. Ottawa II. have asked Secretary Davidson, of the Q R. F. U., to forward to the Dundas team a challenge for the intermediate football honors.

Theory and dope will not win or lose for Hamilton or Varsity in the Canadian championship. Both are certainly capable of great Rugby and both may be relied upon to render an account of themselves that will not shame their fellowers.

Warsity has advantages over Tigers and the latter are the better in other spots. That is the theory, The practice is different. In this modern game of Rugby the usual does not always hold and fumbles have been known to undo the brilliant work of an entire afternoon in a few seconds.

The two are evenly matched doubtless, ubt it is mistakes that win and lose games. Both have shown erratic work at times, and if there is anything of that in this game it will settle it. What each can do—as all good teams can—is to take advantage of errors and find and use the weak spots in the oposite

Saturday was the roughest day yet in the football season. Besides several broken necks, etc., in the U. S. A., there were quite a number of broken sports in the old burg. And in Montreal there were at least fourteen broken hearts. Such a roughness!

Balzac and the Burglar.

A new story of Balzac is related by a contemporary. A burglar gained admission to the famous Frenchman's house and was soon at work, by the light of the moon, at the lock of the secretaire in the novelist's chamber. Balzac was asleep at the time, but the movements of the intruder aroused him. The burglar, who was working most irdustriously, paused. A strident laugh arrested his operations, and he beheld by the monolight the novelist sitting up in bed, his sides shaking with laughter. "What is it that makes you merry?" demanded the burglar, "I laugh," replied the author, "othink that you should come in the light without a lantern to search my sceretaire for money, when I can never find any there in broad day light!"

There is some talk about the deciding game between the Ascensions and First Methodist for the championship for the Senior Church League, being played at the cricket grounds. As an example of the Pope's unassuming nature, it is related that when summoned from his home in Venice to the conclave at Rome he so little doubted that he would return that he actually took a return ticket on the railway. He long kept his ticket, we are told. Wealthy collectors strove by every means in their power to beower to become its purchaser; he invariably refused them. Last year the King of Greece, in the course of a visit which he paid to the Pope, expressed a keen desire to possess this little piece of cardboard, which has become for all time historical, and the Pope gave it to him.

There is one humble relic with which the Pope could never be constrained to part. This is his watch—a quite ordinary and cheap affair. "It marked the minutes of my mother's death struggles," he says, "and the hour of my definite separation from space and liberty. It has marked all the sad and all the joyous, all the solemn moments of my life. What jewel could be more precious to me"

COW'S ACCOUNT.

Dominion Department of Agriculture Dairy Division.

Farmers do you keep records? It is doubtful if there is anyone thing that will add more to the interest of farm labor, or make its usefulness more apparent in shorter time than one simple method of figuring. For instance, supposing that mixed farming is followed; an answer is desired to the query, which pays best, sheep, poultry, fruit, cows, steers or grain? It may be found after a year's record that the farm is best dapted for dairying. Then will naturally follow the investigation, which cow pays best? This phase of the question has not yet appealed to all owners of dairy herds, but is in truth at the very foundation of profitable dairying. Every farmer is interested in cutting out all unprofitable features of his business, he wants to produce plenty of good milk at the least cost, and to this end dairy records are indespensable. Why? Simply because they enable the watchful owner to detect those cows that give the most milk and fat in proportion to the feed consumed. Which cows will respond to a little extra grain? Which cow can I least afford to sell? Are any in my herd not paying? Will it pay me to get a good pure bred sire? The dairyman needs to know such points definitely, hence he must keep records of feed and milk. Forms are supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa.

Is it not time that all dairy farmers in Canada came to thing seriously of what might easily be accomplished by a little, a very little, extra effort? Very few would pass by the opportunity of picking up five or six dollar bills if the conditions were not difficult. There is a huge sum of money waiting for owners of dairy cows.

Not only is present cash value assured for the application of a little brain power, but solid and permanent improvement of dairy conditions, a distinct raising of the whole status of dairy farming, a measurable gain in content-of Pope Pius X., says the Boston Transcript, and the democratic manners which obtain at the Vatican to day are revealed in an interesting interview in the August Fornightly. Pope Pius X., unlike his predecessor, Leo XIII., is a man of the people. When he donned the tiara he declared that he intended to be "the poor man's Pope." The inaccessibility that was a feature of those who reigned before him was, as far as possible, to be relaxed, while much of the severity and the strict and complicated forms of etiquette observed by the Holy See since period of the Renaissance was to be maintained no longer.

BANK TOUTS.

A Novel and Profitable Vocation in Old England.

"Formerly," says the writer, who, with his wife, was granted an "audienza privata," the etiquette was that whoso had the honor of being admitted to an audience with the Second a little further, the threat the feet of the Pope, whose slipper, moreover, he was obliged to kiss. Leo XIII. made only the rarest exceptions to this rule. Pius X. has abolished it. He does not wish you to talk to him on your knees, and when you still make a slight genufflection on entering and leaving he has been to the pope and the circumstance of the city branch of a well-known and long-established banking corern.

The account was an excellent one, and I suggested to the manager that I should be paid for introducing it, and after some bargaining got £25 out of him. This was, of course him. This was, of course, an absurdly low commission. It should have been about £100 at least, but I was new to the business then and did not know how to make good terms. Afterwards, when I began to do regular business for the bank in question, I was paid on a far more generous, scale.

A tout is always held responsible for the character of the people he introduces to a bank; of course, the bank may see fit to make inquiries about customers introduced to them by a tout. I believe, indeed, this is frequently done, but a tout is supposed to make the most careful injuiries himself and to ascertain beyond doubt that the business he is paid for introducing is of a thoroughly respectable character. Let him introduce a person of shady or doubtful character to a bank but once, and his business as a tout is gone forever, for no banking concern will then have anything to do with him.—Cassell's Saturday Journal. fit to make inquiries about custon

The new allotment of 500,000 shares of Rochester has been taken care of, placing practically $50,000 in the company's hands and ensuring a bright outlook for the property in view of the recent strike. STATE'S CASE NOW CLOSED

Evidence in Defence of Mrs. Stein heil Being Given.

Strong Belief That the Woman Will Get Off.

Judge Willing She Should Tell All She Knows.

Paris, Nov. 11.-The State rested its case against Mme. Steinheil, accused of the murder of her husband, Adolphe Steinheil, and ler stepmother, Mme. Japy, at 2 o'clock this afthe examination of its witnesses of whom there will be fewer than were called for the State.

The close of the prosecution's evidence was enlivened by another display of, anger on the part of the prisoner. Mme. Steinheil had already insinuated that she could tell of things that would be interesting to the public but not pleasing to persons in high official circles. She is supposed to have referred to her intrigues involving personages whose associations with her would be regarded as a national scandal. This threat she has held over the court from the date of her arrest. To-day in a flash of passion she cried out: "My past contains interesting chapters."

Judge Devalles appeared unmoved by the interruption and promptly and sternly replied:

"You are at perfect liberty to say anything that you please."

Mme. Steinheil, however, went no further anything that you please. Mine. Steinheil, however, went no further. The first witness introduced by the defence was a chauffeur, who testified that Mine. Steinheil gave him four dollars for trying to locate the "blue automobile," which was reported to have been seen in front of Mine. Steinheil's home in the impasse Ronsin at 8 o'clock on the evening that the crime was committed. This testimony was intended to show that Mine. Steinheil was anxious to discover the identity of the assassins.

To-day the consensus of opinion in Paris is that the court has failed to develop any material evidence against Mine. Steinheil and that the jury must acquit her of the charge of having murdered her husband and stepmother.

The accused woman appeared exitences must acquit ner of the coarge of naving murdered her husband and stepmother.

The accused woman appeared exhausted physically as she took her place in the court room to-day. She listened listlessly to the testimony of an uncle and an expert accountant who had been called to testify as to the probable amount of noney in the Steinheil house on the night of the murder. This had been a disputed point, the State alleging that the painter's family were in straightened circumstances and not likely to have in their house sufficient cash to attract criminals whose real motive was robbery. Madame Steinheil on last Friday swore that $1,500 had been taken by the murderers. To-day her uncle and the accountant testified that an examination of the books kept by the family showed that there might have been something over $900 in the house on the night of the tragedy.

This paragraph sets forth the opinion of the Special Committee on Industrial Education, which presented its report at this motrning's session of the Convention of the American Federation of Labor at Massey Hall. Their report was read by John Mitchell, chairman of the committee. The enquiries of this indicate that if the American workman is to maintain the high standard of efficiency, the boys and girls of the country must have an opportunity to acquire educated hands and brains, such as may enable them to earn a living in a self-selected vocation, and acquire an intelligent understanding of the duties of good citizenship. itizenship.
