Harold Bell Wright's Latest Novel,

"WHEN A MAN'S A MAN,"

is a fine big wholesome Novel of simple sweetness and virile strength, while the pages are crowded with the thrilling incidents that belong to the adventurous life of the unfenced land depicted, one feels, always, beneath the surface of the stirring scenes, the great primitive and enduring life forces that men and women of the story portray. In the Dean, Philip Acton, Patches, Little Billy, Curly Elson, Kitty Reid and Helen Manning, the author has created real living, breathing men and women, and we are made to feel and understand that there come to everyone those times when in spite of all, above all, and at any cost, a man must be a man.

WHEN LOVE Came Too Late.

CHAPTER VII.
A Simple Bit of Charity.

"Miss Vanley," he said, the lines of his forehead deepening, as if he were going through a mental struggle, "I came to this place resolved to isolate myself, separate myself, from the society of my fellowmen. My reasons are of no consequence in the argument. I came here to bury myself. Chance, accident, Providence, as some would call it, has thrown me into intercourse with my neighbors."

"Providence," murmured Olivia. He inclined his head. "Your father has come to me and extended the right hand of fellowship—"

"He was not the first; there was Bertie—I mean Lord Granville," put in Olivia, softly. "You consented to know him."

"The Cherub?" he said. Then, as Olivia looked up with a start, he colored. "He is called the Cherub, is he not?"

"Yes," she said, perplexedly. "I did not know you knew that." He nodded.

"Yes, I have made the acquaintance of Lord Granville. His sobriquet is pretty well known, I think."

"Every one likes Bertie," she said. He glanced at her inquiringly, as he assented:

"Yes, and there must be a great deal of good in the man or woman whom everybody likes. Speaking of the Cherub, here comes the flutter of his wings," he added, as Bertie's voice was heard in the lane.

"There is some one with him. It is my aunt," said Olivia, as Miss Amelia's falsetto was heard joining with Bertie's. The next moment they came around the corner.

"Oh, here is Olivia!" said Miss Amelia. Then she pulled up short, with a little, affected start at sight of the tall, handsome man.

Bertie came forward with his usual eagerness. "We have been looking for you, Olivia," he said, his eyes dwelling on her with the light that always shone in them. "And I told Miss Amelia this would turn out a sure find. Good-morning, Faradeane!"

Miss Amelia gave another start, and coughed nervously. "This is my aunt—Miss Vanley!" said Olivia. "This is Mr. Faradeane, aunt."

Miss Amelia bent her head. "Delighted, I'm sure!" she simpered in the conciliatory voice which old ladies use to dogs and dangerous characters. "Quite a—a pleasant surprise."

Mr. Faradeane bowed, with the suspicion of a smile flickering under his mustache.

"I'm sure we are all very much indebted to Mr. Faradeane for his heroic rescue of Bessie Alford, very much so—ahem!" and she coughed again. "I hope it will prove a lesson to her. All these things, if properly viewed, are sent for our good."

"Mr. Faradeane was certainly sent for Bessie's, on this occasion," said Olivia, strangely irritated by her aunt's half-suspicious, half, irritating manner.

"Bertie, with his usual promptitude, cut in to set matters on an easier footing. "I'm glad to hear Bessie's better. I called as I was going up to the house. And now, Olivia, I'll bet you two to one in Dent's best that you don't guess what Miss Amelia wants me to do."

"May I have three tries?" said Olivia, with a smile. "Something good and laudable, I am sure," said Faradeane.

Miss Amelia's gaze softened, and she bridled and smiled. "Oh, thank you, Mr. Faradeane," she simpered.

"Is it to subscribe to the Mothers' Sewing Club?" said Olivia. "No," said Bertie.

"To teach in the Sunday-school. No?" as Bertie shook his head. "To give the pug or the canary a dose of medicine?"

"No!" he cried triumphantly. "You've lost. I take large nines," and he held out his tiny fist. "Miss Amelia's modest request is that I should give a reading at the forthcoming village entertainment."

Olivia laughed. "I'd forgotten the entertainment," she said. "My dear Olivia," murmured Miss Amelia, solemnly, "you should never be weary of doing good."

"I do too little to be anything like weary," said Olivia. "Of course you have consented, Bertie?"

He made a gesture of mock horror. "I!" he exclaimed. "Great goodness! Fancy me attempting to recite! Why, I should have stage fright, and fall in a fit off the platform!" and he laughed. "Now, Faradeane here is a first-class amateur actor, and used to all this kind of thing—"

He pulled up short, warned by Faradeane's grave, steady gaze, and Olivia's look of astonishment. "That is, I should think so," said poor Bertie. "He looks like it, while I—"

Oh! the mere thought of facing a room full of people sends cold shivers through me."

He had not got out of it so badly after all, and, quite unwittingly, Miss Amelia helped. "Really," she simpered, surveying the handsome face, with its grave smile, "really, I think Bertie is right, and that Mr. Faradeane has—er—that kind of face, and I am sure he will not refuse to help us in our effort to amuse our humbler neighbors."

"And air our own accomplishments," added Olivia, with a smile. "My dear Olivia—" began Miss Amelia, with her severest air; but Bertie cut in again.

"I think you'd better, Faradeane," he said; "that is, if you can, and I think you have got the reciter's face. Something awfully tragic, you know."

"Such as 'The Little Vulgar Boy,' or 'The Jackdaw of Rheims,'" murmured Miss Amelia, coaxingly. "Some people insist that they are too frivolous; but I maintain, and always shall maintain, that we may draw a lesson from even the most trivial stories."

"The Little Vulgar Boy," for instance, aunt. What is the lesson?" "Not to put any trust in strangers," said Mr. Faradeane, quietly, and with the same flickering smile. Olivia colored, Bertie looked embarrassed, and Miss Amelia laughed awkwardly.

"Oh, come," said Bertie: "I'm sure you will give them something with a moral tagged to it. Better say yes, Faradeane."

Will You Take Two At Our Risk?

So many customers who suffer from run down nervous condition with its consequent fits of insomnia, indigestion and general debility are being greatly helped by Zoetic—the nerve tonic that we wish to have every alling person in this town try this really famous remedy. It is all that a tonic should be and more than any other tonic is. It combines the most precious of health-building substances. Glycer Phosphates are the actual element of the human body in most assimilative form. You know the value of Cod Liver Oil and the invigorating effects of tonic wine. In Zoetic these are combined into an exceedingly pleasant tonic which in two weeks will work quiet wonders in your health. If at the end of two weeks' honest trial you cannot report real progress toward health we will refund the purchase price. Doesn't this convince you that you should start trying it to-day? Sold by T. McFarlane & Co., Sole Distributing Agents for Newfoundland.

There was silence for a moment or two. "Perhaps I'd better state that the proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the funds of the Muffin and Crumpet Society," said Miss Amelia, with due solemnity.

Mr. Faradeane looked up gravely. "That decides it," he said. "I shall be very pleased to place my poor services at the disposal of so worthy a cause."

"You see, Olivia!" exclaimed Miss Amelia. "You are always laughing at the society. Now, Mr. Faradeane, whose opinion is, I am sure, of the greatest value, testifies to its great usefulness."

"Any cause advocated by Miss Vanley," he said, with a bow, must necessarily be a laudable and deserving one."

Miss Amelia simpered and bridled with pleasure, and Olivia turned to hide a smile. "I am going up to see Bessie," she said. "Will you come with me, aunt?" and she bowed to Faradeane and nodded smilingly at Bertie.

"Good-morning, Mr. Faradeane," said Miss Amelia, giving him her hand graciously. "You will not forget the twenty-ninth, at the schoolroom. I will send you a programme. Let me see; I think I shall put you between the vicar's concertina and Miss Browne's 'Three Little Pigs.'"

"Good gracious!" exclaimed Bertie, aghast. "I understand, Miss Vanley," said Mr. Faradeane, with perfect gravity; and, linking his arm in Bertie's, he raised his hat and walked away.

For some moments the two men did not speak; then Faradeane said: "You are thinking that I am a weak-minded kind of idiot, eh, Cherub?"

Bertie gave a little start. "I— No, I wasn't thinking about you, old fellow," he replied. "I was thinking of Olivia. How beautiful she looked this morning!"

"Yes," assented Faradeane, succinctly. "I think her lovelier and sweeter every time I see her," continued Bertie, with a sigh. Then he pulled himself together. "But I say, fancy his finding her and you chatting together like old friends!"

"Yes, and after my solemn declaration the other day that nothing should induce me to know her or any one else," retorted Faradeane. "But men propose and the gods dispose. Only this morning I refused to see her father, and now—"

"I'm glad, awfully glad!" said Bertie, eagerly. "I can't tell you how delighted I was to see you with her. And I tell you what, old fellow: you may consider yourself highly honored. It isn't every one Miss Olivia is free and—pleasant with at starting. As a rule, people think her stiff and—cold, don't you know, till they know more of her."

Faradeane nodded, with his dark eyes bent on the ground. "Yes, she could be stiff and reserved," he said, more to himself than to Bertie.

"Rather! They all call her proud, and so she is, in a right way. God bless her! She is everything that is right to me. And you have promised to spout for them, old fellow! I'm awfully glad of that, too."

"Yes," said Faradeane, grimly. "The man who falls into the river may just as well take a bath; he couldn't be wetter. So go all my resolutions to the winds!" he added, with a kind of desperation. "But mind, Bertie, our compact remains in full force. I am still Harold Faradeane whose acquaintance you made the other day for the first time! Remember, you do not know; cannot guess, how much depends on your caution."

"I know. I'm awfully sorry I made that slip," said Bertie, penitently. "But it is so hard to talk as if you and I were strangers until the other day."

"Hard as it is, you will have to do it, Cherub," responded Faradeane, gravely. "And I—I cannot help you—you will, tell me nothing," said Bertie, gently.

"You cannot help me; and I can tell you nothing," replied Faradeane. As he spoke they reached the gate of The Dell, and saw a woman coming down the path from the cottage. She held something closely wrapped in her thin shawl, from which proceeded the unmistakable wall of a sick child.

Faradeane smiled grimly. "The first time the gate has been unlocked, and the great disturber of man's peace finds entrance instantly," he said.

"Why, it's the gypsy who told our fortunes yesterday at the picnic, you know," said Bertie.

The anxious, black eyes flashed from face to face, and she dropped a curtsey. "Will you help a poor woman in distress, kind gentleman?" she said.

"Oh, come, my good woman," said Bertie, "your memory is a short one. Why, you made enough yesterday to keep the wolf from the door for some days."

The woman looked at him keenly, but not angrily. "I didn't ask for money for myself," she said; "it's my child—my little girl," and she drew the shawl a few inches from the child's face. (To be Continued.)

Avoid Harsh Pills, Doctors Condemn Them

Most Pills unfortunately are harsh and drastic; they cause inflammation and great discomfort. Rather like nature is the way a pill should act, mildly but effectively. Science has established nothing more satisfactory as a family pill than the old reliable pills of Dr. Hamilton's, which for forty years have had a premier place in America. Dr. Hamilton's Pills are very mild and can be effectively used by the aged, by children, and indeed by men and women of all ages. No stomach or bowel medicine is more reliable. No remedy for indigestion, headache or biliousness is so effective, so mild, so certain to quickly cure as a 25c. box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

IDEAL ENVI. I see the husky young man pass, and mutter to myself, "Alas! How much I envy him! I'm bent beneath my weight of years, the finish to my view appears, while he has strength and vim." But when I've pondered over things a while, I reconstruct my faded smile, and wear it on my face; I say, Youth has more grief than age, more worry, trouble, futile rage—I'd not be in his place. I sit beneath my sign and vine, and sweet serenity is mine, naught can disturb my claim; extinguished are the fires that burned my heart in youth, my eyes are turned to Gilead, and my path is full of peace and pain, and only age is safe and sane, consoling and sublime; and so I sit beside my door, and moralize an hour or more, and have the blamest time.

Roll of the New-foundland Regiment.

Strength At The Front Now - 605.

9th August, 1916.
Dear Sir,—Yesterday His Excellency the Governor received by mail from Captain Timewell of the Pay and Record Office the Nominal Roll of the First Battalion of the Newfoundland Regiment in France on July 31st, showing the strength of the Battalion in France on that date to be 20 officers and 406 of all other ranks—in all, 426; likewise a list of two drafts that left the Depot at Ayr to reinforce the Battalion, namely, the 8th draft which left Ayr on July 8th, comprising 149 men, and the 9th draft which left Southampton on July 16th, comprising 30 men, or a total of 179 men, which brought the strength of the Battalion in France on July 31st up to 605 officers and men.

I am forwarding you these lists with a request that you publish the same in your columns for the information of the relatives and friends of the men, and the general public. I have the honour to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,

J. BENNETT, Colonial Secretary.

Hapless Hapsburg!

It is impossible to read the latest war news without a glow of satisfaction. It may have puzzled some that the military leaders of the Allies should have laid such jubilant emphasis on what they called the passing of the initiative from the Central Powers to the Allies. Events are now taking place which explain the reason and show that the term is not an empty formula. For nearly a year Italy had laid siege to the region of Trieste, but despite what were in truth brilliant successes she failed to achieve any progress worth while. General Cadorna was firmly held before Gorizia, an essential stopping stone to Trieste. The Austrian advance through the Trentino definitely checked the operations on the Isonzo and even seriously threatened the great Italian army on flank and rear. Russia came to the rescue, as we have seen. Italy rallied, then surged back. The Austrians, weakened by large withdrawals of troops to the east, were forced to retreat through the passes they had just won. But it was recognised that Italy would have to regain all this lost ground before she could safely commit herself to a renewal of the Isonzo offensive, which is quite the major purpose of her campaign. Now, before she has in fact retaken more than half of it, we learn that she has taken Gorizia at a single bound.

Nothing could better show the meaning of this exchange of the initiative. Austria would never have submitted to the loss of Gorizia if she had had the strength to defend it. Evidently she had not. The reason is not far to seek. The great Austrian army under Von Bothmer falling back upon Lemberg, General Letchitsky has begun his expected advance from the southeast upon Stanislan. Austria is threatened with nothing less than the loss of all Galicia and is sore put to it for men. It is clear she has taken them from the vital region of Trieste. How far will the process go on? The dual empire is now faced by another and formidable invasion, the addition in effect of another front. Looking at this progress of events and the rapidity with which one effect reacts upon another on the vast but continuous battle-line, we feel confirmed in the opinion we have always held, that when the defeat of the Central Empires begins in earnest, it will proceed much more quickly than most critics will allow.

DEATHBED REPENTANCE.
We learned some days ago that the "Berliner Tageblatt" had said too much, or the wrong sort of thing, and had been suppressed. The news did not arouse much interest. He would have known that the paper must have been invidious enough to tell the truth, but could not be sure what particular bit of truth it was. The extract given by the Express yesterday is illuminating. It is plain speaking, which is yet more eloquent in what it suggests than in what it says. That the German commonly are beginning to inquire into the causes of the war is most satisfactory evidence that they are beginning to be doubtful of its results. Any cause is good enough which prevails; it is only when it shows signs of falling that those most likely to suffer from its failure begin to make moral analyses. This utterance by so large a paper is therefore an encouragement to us, as indicating not merely an awakening conscience but also a dawning consciousness of defeat. The literal words of its indictment must be interesting to Englishmen of those living under a form of government founded on the English constitutional system. There is little essential likeness between the British Parliament and the German Reichstag. The latter is not much more than a forum for discussion, a vent for public opinion. That on the most vital subject imaginable, the question of peace or war, it should be allowed no voice is to us amazing. The decision rested wholly in the hands of the Kaiser and of the Bundesrat, which he controls. The Cabinet ministers are appointed by him; there is nothing of Parliamentary control over their liberation and actions. If there were, it is more than probable that there never would have been any war at all, and the world would have been spared this immense misery. The first thing to be swept away by the success of the Allied cause is the absurd medieval constitution which permits an individual fanatic to be vested with supreme and absolute power and the arbitrament of the life and death of a nation.

The public will receive with pleasure the publication of the complete list of the Regiment in France. It will be a satisfaction to know the names of the men who are there and it will also set at rest a good deal of any doubt that may have remained of the safety and whereabouts of those that survived the great attack. It is good, too, to see the Battalion coming back to its former strength, which should be attained by a few more drafts. It is for us to see that it is maintained; the rest we can leave confidently to the men themselves.

Death of Mrs. George Crowdy.

Many in the city will regret to hear of the death at Montreal last Saturday of Mrs. George Crowdy, under particularly sad circumstances. Her death was occasioned almost entirely by grief for the loss of her son, Captain Hinton Crowdy, of the 5th Royal Highlanders. The gallant soldier was killed at Armentieres, in France. He was a very fine type of man, standing six feet five, proportionately broad and physically a man in a thousand. Handsome, courageous and courteous as well, he was a son who might well be loved and worshipped by any mother. Mr. George Crowdy is a brother of Mr. W. H. Crowdy. Universal sympathy will be extended to him in his twofold bereavement.

THE BRIGADIER-GENERAL'S TRIBUTE
"NOTHING COULD HAVE BEEN FINER."
10th August, 1916.
Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I beg to enclose herewith copy of a letter dated July 18th, which has been received by His Excellency the Governor from Brigadier-General D. E. Cayley, commanding the 88th Infantry Brigade, which bears testimony to the gallant conduct of the First Newfoundland Regiment in the memorable battle of July 1st. As I feel sure that this letter will be of interest to the general public, I shall be glad if you will kindly give it a place in the columns of your paper.
Yours faithfully,
J. R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

38th Infantry Brigade
British Army in France,
July 18th, 1916.
Your Excellency—
You will have already heard of the very great losses suffered by the Newfoundland Regiment in the attack on 1st July. Colonel Hadow tells me that he has already written to you, describing the action.
The 29th Division was put in against what proved to be the strongest part of the German line, and, as it proved, impregnable to direct assault. Battalion after battalion was sent forward, I was in a position to observe the advance of the Newfoundland Regiment. Nothing could have been finer. In the face of a devastating shell and machine gun fire, they advanced over our parapets, not a man faltering or hanging back. They literally went on till scarcely an officer or man was left unhurt. Their casualty lists are a sufficient proof of this.
It was a cruel fate, which, in this their first real attack, allowed them to be nearly destroyed, without the compensating satisfaction of having got at the enemy. Also that the one unit in the field of a Colony which has made such sacrifices, should suffer such a fate is indeed tragic. I cannot sufficiently express my admiration for their heroism nor my sorrow for their overwhelming losses, which admiration and sorrow will be shared by all in Newfoundland.
I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Sgd.) D. E. CAYLEY, Brig. Genl.,
Commanding 88th Infantry Brigade.

HONOURABLY MENTIONED IN ADMIRALTY REPORT.
Editor Evening Telegram.
13th August, 1916.
Dear Sir,—I beg to forward herewith copy of an extract from the London Gazette of the 14th July, which has been sent me by His Excellency the Governor, with respect to the work of the Auxiliary Patrol, in connection with one of our Naval Reserve men who has received honourable mention. I am sure this will be of interest to all our people, and I shall be glad if you will kindly give the extract a place in your columns.
Yours truly,
J. R. BENNETT,
Colonial Secretary.

The following announcement appeared in the London Gazette of the 14th July:—
The Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty having received with much satisfaction from the officers in charge of the Auxiliary Patrol areas at home and abroad reports on the services performed by the officers and men serving under their orders during the period 1st January, 1915, to 31st January, 1916. These reports show that the officers and men serving in Armed Yachts, Trawlers and Drifters of the Auxiliary Patrol during the period in question have carried out their duties under extremely arduous and hazardous conditions of weather and exposure to enemy attack and mines, with marked zeal, gallantry and success."
Among the Officers and Men whose names receive honourable mention, in connection with this announcement, for their services in vessels of the Auxiliary Patrol appears:—
Leading Seaman Thomas Purcell, R.N.R., Newfoundland, O.N.X. 1231.
The home of Thomas Purcell is at St. Phillips, Conception Bay (generally known as Broad Cove).

NOTE OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hudson wish to thank His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Mr. W. J. Higgins, M.H.A., Mr. Walter Clouston, Mrs. J. A. Giff, Mrs. C. F. Muir, Miss Winnicomb and all kind friends who sympathized with them in the loss of their beloved son Peter, who died of wounds on July 4th in France; they also had a letter from the Rev. Michael King, the R. C. Chaplain, stating he was very badly wounded and that he gave him the last rites of the Catholic Church and buried him with full military honors in the Catholic Cemetery in France.

Rebuking College Tradition.

(From the St. Paul Pioneer Press.)
A Yale alumnus is making a campaign among his fellow alumni to abolish the famous old Yale drinking song, "Here's to Good Old Yale, Drink it Down, Drink it Down." When one notes such earnest efforts to improve the morals of the world and to save one's alma mater from the suspicion of being an abettor of strong drink, one begins to wonder.
He begins to wonder if all literature and tradition should not be freed of the alcoholic stigma and of all suggestions which the moral exact of the day do not distinctly and unequivocally approve. He wonders if Falstaff should not be deprived of his sack and given ginger ale. To joke of strong drink is to play into the hands of the devil. One wonders if Ben Johnson should not be reprimanded for this:
Or leave a kiss within the cup
And I'll not ask for wine.
Had not the poet lived in an age of depravity he would have said "grape juice." And then, there's Omar, poor Omar. How can he ever get along underneath the bough with a loaf of bread, a jug of lemonade and thou beside him singing in the wilderness? Also there were the pirates. Yo ho ho and a bottle of malt!
Of course, the Yale drinking song was intended to instruct every young freshman to aspire to be a toper. Therefore, it should be abolished. Ah, if some folks wouldn't take themselves so blankety blank seriously!

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
"That is not wise. As I did and you will probably be cured in a short time, I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggist."

In Miady's Boudoir.

THE TRULY BEAUTIFUL SMILE.
The truly beautiful smile is not the mere contraction of the muscles about the mouth. It has its beginning within. Pleasant thoughts are absolutely necessary, if your smile is to be pleasing. Morose, negative thoughts kill all happiness, and if you harbor them, your smile is bound to be hard and unfriendly.
Few faces are faultlessly lovely enough to retain a sad, mobile expression, so smile whenever you can. Unselfishness, kindness and thoughtfulness will make even the plainest face beautiful and can rob you of its charm. "Look pleasant" and train the corners of your mouth upward. If your mouth is unattractive you can improve its shape by making the muscles flexible.
Massage the muscles about the mouth with a good cold cream, using gentle, rotary strokes. If there are wrinkles about the corners rub the lines away upward. For this purpose use the following cream: Rosewater, four ounces; almond oil, four ounces; spermaceti, one ounce; white wax, one ounce.
Sit before a mirror and study your mouth. Notice how pleasing is the expression when the lips are placed lightly together and the corners of the mouth are drawn up in an easy smile. Practice this many times until the muscles become trained to smile in this manner.
The face reflects your thoughts far more than you realize, so keep your mind well stocked, with pleasant, wholesome thoughts, then smile and you cannot help being beautiful.

ADVICE.

RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON.

Two friends were discussing a certain summer resort to which one of them was thinking of going. "Louise" says the mosquitoes are perfectly terrible there, and you really won't like it," said one of them. "Does she really?" said the other, thoughtfully, "and she couldn't have any motive in saying that now, for that camp she wanted me to take has been rented." "Of course she hasn't any motive," retorted the other. "Aren't you horrid to be suspecting everyone of motives in the advice they give you!" "Was she horrid?" "Personally, I don't think so. I suspect almost everybody of motives." "I suspect almost everybody of motives myself." "You think that's a cynical thing to say?" "But I didn't mean bad motives, and I didn't mean conscious motives, and I include myself among those I suspect." "Take the case of the camp and the mosquitoes." "If A wanted B to take a camp in which she was interested, isn't it probable that, without telling any untruth, she would place more emphasis on the mosquitoes in the other location than she would if she were entirely disinterested?" "He Doesn't Usually Worry." "A friend of mine told his wife that he thought they needed a new car this summer because the old one was getting rather ramshackle, and as they would be taking the children out a good deal he didn't feel it was safe. He is not a man who ordinarily worries much about what is safe. Can one help thinking that his desire for a new car had something to do with his unwonted anxiety?" "I don't mean that the average person deliberately perverts the truth when he is interested in one way or another, but that he presents it in an exaggerated or softened form, according to the demands of the occasion." "It is this trick of the mind that makes us declare, 'It was about three,' or 'It was just after half-past two,' of the same time, according to whether our intention is to make it sound as early or as late as possible." "But They Think What They Like To Think." "Usually people are utterly unconscious that they are doing this. There is nothing deliberate or conscious about the process because they don't alter their thoughts before putting them into words, as they do when they tell a deliberate lie. They simply speak what they think, but they think what they like to think, instead of trying to get at the absolute truth." "Very few of us have much acquaintance with the absolute truth. We follow the line of least resistance and the line of least resistance leads to the approximate truth." "Consequently our advice both to ourselves and to other people needs to be discounted. Unless I know a person to be one of those rare people who are capable of being absolutely sincere, I discount his advice by his motives and prejudices, and I do the same by the advice I give myself." "Orders taken for 'Belgian Hares' (and killed to order) at ELLIS'.

An Amazing Prediction.

By REV. HAROLD T. ROE.

Once upon a time in the far off centuries gone by, a most amazing promise was made to a most unlikely man. He was told that kings should spring from his loins, and that the day would dawn when his descendants should have become a great nation and a company of nations. The veil was lifted from the distant future and a destiny of glory and of greatness was vividly predicted for his multitudinous seed. Through the light of coming ages he was shown a mighty nation—a maritime people—having dominion in the sea. Mineral wealth, agricultural abundance was promised to them in the following striking terms: "The precious things of Heaven, the fruits brought forth by the sun, and the chief things of the ancient mountains, and the precious things of the lasting hills." "They were generally to be recognized as indeed the chief of nations, and though dwelling in an island home, enjoying splendid isolation yet should they reign over many peoples, but none other should hold sway over them. Their sons in future years would cry—'Give us room that we may dwell for the place is too strait for us.' Thus would they go forth as pioneers colonizing the waste places of the earth. One of these colonies they would lose, but this would not impair the fruitfulness of the parent stem for still the prediction came: "The children which thou shalt have, after thou hast lost the other, shall say again in thine ears, the place is too strait, give place that we may dwell." "Astounding wealth was also to be MINDARD'S LINIMENT USED BY PHYSICIANS.

their privileged lot, and they were pictured as the bankers of the world, lending to many nations and borrowing from none.

Immunity from foes was promised to them, and the gates of their enemies should be in their possession, no weapon forged against them should prosper, and a kind of mystic leadership would always be their guide.

Such is a very brief epitome of a remarkable prediction made many centuries ago. It is not a romance of my own weaving. It is actually to be found in a very ancient volume well known to everybody. Has it ever been realized, this wonderful old-world vision? After diligently raking the bones of history, after delving into the archives of the vanished past, after examining modern records, and surveying the facts of the living present, is it possible to find anything at all approaching to a fulfillment of this amazing prophecy? Is there in the wide world to-day a great nation—an Empire in fact, which, in the words of Premier Asquith, is "a confederation of nations?" I rather think there is, and that over it there floats a bit of bunting called the "Union Jack."

Account for it as you will; theorize and squabble about it as you like; argue over it till you are blue in the face, yet the FACT remains that that little bit of amazing prediction sketched above is realized and only realized, in the British Empire, or perhaps I should say, the Anglo-Saxon race. Only one Empire to-day is a nation and a company of nations. Its seat of imperial authority enthroned in an island home, and its people a maritime nation acknowledged to be the supreme Mistress of the Seas. As regards mineral wealth and agricultural abundance take Canada alone—just one of the "many nations," and under the soil what unheard of mineral riches, mines of wealth! Above the soil and in it what fertility, what productive power! Around us from port and bay and harbor our merchant fleets take and fetch and gather the riches of the earth. No wonder our Motherland is the banker for the world.

There is no need for me to dwell upon Great Britain as a colonizing, expanding and enterprising nation; the color of the map is surely a convincing witness to that fact. Neither need I pause to point out the fulfillment of the remarkable prediction of a "lost colony." I have only to mention the date—July 4th, 1776, and the American Declaration of Independence. Surely that is sufficient. As regards the prophecy about immunity from foes, the possession of the enemy's gates, and a "kind of mystic leadership," suffice it to say that the British Empire controls (strange, is it not) all the principal "gateways" of the world, Gibraltar, Suez Canal, Singapore, the Falkland Islands, etc., etc. The recognition of a Divine protection is another marked feature of British history; to select, for example, instance at random, who does not recall the inscription on the medals struck after the scattering of the Spanish Armada—"God blew the wind and they were scattered"—or Nelson's final prayer before going into his final but most glorious action—Trafalgar?

My space is gone. I am afraid of the Editor's relentless pencil tipped with blue. Account for it, my dear critical reader, as you may; it is nevertheless a fact, that the history of our beloved Empire does in a most unique manner fulfill this which I have termed "an amazing prediction." Now that you are through with my little article go straight to your bookcase, take up your "Kipling," and read again his magnificent poem—"Let's we forget!"

All children should love music for music in children that idealty which is one of the most precious possessions of childhood, and which we would fain keep in after life; which loves flowers and animals, which sees the truth in fairy stories, which believes everything to be good and is alive to everything sinister, which sees the moon and stars, not as objects so many millions of miles from the earth, but as lanterns being in the heavens.

Children who receive many toys and them an embarrassment of riches. One wise mother has adopted this plan. All the new toys are placed in a large hamper and each night one is selected for each child to play with the next day. This is continued each day, the toy used being given up each night. The plan is successful for two reasons the children know that the toy selected will not come again for another week, so they make the most of it, and then they have the pleasure of wondering what the morrow will bring.

It is a good plan to have a regular hour for the between-meal "cracks" which children never fail to call for and really need. Bread and butter sandwiches can be prepared before leaving the breakfast or lunch table, while the materials are yet on hand. In this way the sandwiches may be wrapped in wax paper and put where the children can get them themselves. Promptly at ten and three they are called to have their bite, and the busy housewife may pursue her tasks uninterrupted.

LONDON, Aug. 9. Newspapers published in Basle, Switzerland, copies of which are received here to-day, state that the King of Bavaria has informed a deputation of Bavarians that an "honourable peace" is certain before winter.

ANOTHER AIR RAID.

LONDON, Aug. 9. German airships raided the East Coast of England and the southeast coast of Scotland early to-day, according to an official statement issued by the War Office. The raiders did not penetrate far inland but dropped a number of bombs in various localities near the coast. At several places the airships were engaged by anti-aircraft guns and driven off from their objectives. Reports received up to the present show that three women and one child were killed and fourteen persons injured. No damage of military importance reported.

Correspondents in districts visited by Zeppelins, telegraph that the airships flew at a great height and were subjected to very heavy fire from anti-aircraft guns, which compelled them to make hasty retreat. One airship dropped twenty and another fifteen incendiary bombs, some of which fell into the sea. As in all recent raids many of the bombs fell on open ground or into water, as the airships were making off.

GERMAN INITIATIVE LOST.

LONDON, Aug. 9. The Allies have been having a jolly good time since I saw you last, said Earl Derby, Under Secretary of War, in meeting some newspaper correspondents to-day. C. L. B. in Camp.

The unfavorable weather yesterday caused a postponement of the field sports at the C. L. B. camps at Top-sail, but a concert was held in the Mess Tent instead. Major Goodridge was in the chair, and the programme of songs, recitations, hand selections and speeches was much enjoyed. In the course of the afternoon a football match was played between the Officers and W. O.'s Messes, resulting in a victory for the latter by 6 goals to 0. After tea a dance in the Orange Hall was organized and kept up until midnight. The camp is pronounced to be one of the best ever held, 85 in all being under canvas. All the lads are in good health and thoroughly enjoying the combination of fresh air, exercise and military discipline.

Pte. Jensen.

The accompanying message was received in town yesterday:—"Private Jensen lectured at Botwood last night in the Orange Hall to a crowded audience, in aid of the Red Cross Fund. He was supported by our Committee, and was very emphatic in declaring for the necessity of more recruits for the cause. The band was in attendance. Everyone was enthusiastic. Proceeds, $54.25, will be duly forwarded by our Secretary." Signed, THOMAS ANGLE, Chairman.

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle left Burin 3.30 p.m. yesterday. The Clyde arrived at Lewisport 1.50 p.m. yesterday. The Dundee arrived at Port Blandford 10.45 p.m. yesterday. The Ethie left Humbermouth 5.40 p.m. yesterday. The Glencoe left Fortune 5.55 p.m. yesterday. The Home arrived at Lewisport 6.15 p.m. yesterday. The Lady Sybil arrived at Port aux Basques 7.45 a.m. to-day. The Kyle left Port aux Basques 2.30 a.m. to-day. The Wren arrived at Clarenville 2 p.m. yesterday. The Meigle at Placentia. The Sagona north of Grady, Labrador.

Here and There.

HOMEWARD BOUND.—The schr. Nellie M., Capt. C. Taylor, left Cadiz yesterday with a cargo of salt for this port.

STREET ROW.—The police were called to New Gower Street yesterday where some mischief was being kicked up a row. A few windows were broken. When the officers arrived the miscreants had fled.

DIED IN VANCOUVER.—Mrs. Fred. Cheaman received word yesterday that her sister, Mrs. W. D. Campbell, had died suddenly at Vancouver. Mrs. Campbell, nee Miss Bertha Elliott, visited St. John's four years ago and made a host of friends.

TAKES LARGE FREIGHT.—Because of the unusually large outward freight she is taking, the s.s. Durango will not sail for Liverpool before late to-night, taking 1,500 tons, including dry codfish, oil and Grand Falls paper. She also takes a large mail.

YESTERDAY'S GARDEN PARTY.—Despite the unfavorable weather, the Garden Party given by the ladies of Topsail Road yesterday afternoon took place at the residence of Mrs. Cluiter and was fairly well attended. The T. A. band was present during the afternoon and rendered excellent music. The proceeds will be devoted to the Cot Fund.

REPORTED KILLED IN ACTION.—By the last direct English mail Mr. S. Rogers, night watchman at the Post Office received a letter from a British Sergeant in France informing him that his son Private Edward Rogers was killed in the big drive, at 2.30 p.m. The official report gives him as missing. On enquiry at the Colonial Secretary's Office Mr. Rogers was further informed that no information other than the last official notice had been received.

Train Notes.

Killed in action, July 1st, in France, William N. Knight. Before enlisting he worked at engineering with his father, Mr. Stephen Knight. He was attached to B Company and left here with the First Contingent. He took part in the Gallipoli campaign, during which he was stricken with pleurisy and entered hospital at Cairo. Subsequently he was transferred to Cyprus where he underwent treatment for dysentery. He recovered and rejoined the Regiment June 14th last. He was in the big advance and heroically laid down his life for King and Country. He was an ex-member of the C. C. C. He is survived by a wife, father, mother, 2 sisters and 2 brothers, one of the latter being wounded in France July 1st.—R.I.P.

The Home Dressmaker should have a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

A SMART ONE-PIECE MODEL.

1768—Girls' Dress with Strapped Plaits and with Sleeve in either of Two Styles. Linen, lawn, batiste, corduroy, pique, gingham or percale, all these are suitable and nice for this style. The plaits could be omitted. They are stitched to position over back and front. The body and sleeve portions are cut in one. In wrist length the sleeve has a hand cuff. In short length it is finished with a shaped facing. The Pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 2, 4 and 6 years. It requires 3 3/4 yards of 44 inch material for a 4-year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

BOYS' MIDDY SUIT.

1764—This design is a popular style, good for wash and woolen goods. It makes a very comfortable school and play suit. Blue serge with soutache braid, or white linen with simple stitching for a finish would be very suitable. The blouse is provided with an adjustable shield. The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8 years. It requires 3 3/4 yards of 27 inch material for a 4-year size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

COAL MINE EXPLOSION.
MICHEL, B.C., To-Day. Twelve men are believed to have lost their lives in an explosion in a few number of 3 mines of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. shortly after midnight on Tuesday. The cause of the explosion is not known.

AUSTRIAN SUB. TORPEDOED.
LONDON, To-Day. A French torpedo boat destroyed a torpedoed an Austrian submarine on Tuesday north of the Island of Corfu, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Athens. It is considered certain, the correspondent adds, that the submarine sank with its crew.

LONDON BUDGET - GREAT PROGRESS ALL ROUND.
LONDON, To-Day. The vigorous offensive of the Entente Allies on the French, Gallician and Italian fronts is still being rewarded with important successes. In Austria the Italians have captured the city of Gorizia. In Galicia the Russians in quest of Lemberg have further carried out their endeavors toward the capture of Stanislaw from the Austro-Germans. In France the French and British forces in the Somme region have attacked and won additional points of vantage from the Germans. The capture of Gorizia by the Italians seemingly is as important a gain by the Entente Allies as has yet been attained in their present synchronous offensive, the city being the door through which the Italians may now pass in the endeavor to carry out their long cherished idea of capturing Trieste, Austria's big seaport at the head of the Adriatic. In the fall of Gorizia, where Rome says the Austrians were completely routed, the Italians inflicted heavy casualties on the defenders, took over 10,000 men prisoners, and captured considerable quantities of war requisites. The Russian General Letchitzky has driven his wedge further into the Austro-German line near Stanislaw, capturing eight miles east of that important city, through which the railroad leads to Lemberg, the town of Tysmenitsa. Northeast of Tysmenitsa the Russians have crossed the right bank of the Koropice River and captured a number of important positions west of Vlesniopol southward along the Nizniolof Monastyrzka railroad, making the Russian menace against Halicz greater. To the south of Tysmenitsa, the Russians' advance has reached to Stokovna. Berlin has announced the retirement of the Austro-Germans behind the Nizniolof-Monastyrzka-Ottynia line, but says that in the Carpathian region the heights held by the Russians near Jablonitz and Verocht and west of Taranorva were captured by the Germans, and that strong Russian attacks in the Delatyn district were repulsed. North of the Somme River the Franco-Australians have pushed back the Germans near Pozieres two hundred yards over a front of six hundred yards, while the French have driven out the Germans from a trench recently captured from them north of Hem Wood and re-occupied it. In the Verdun sector heavy artillery activity is in progress at Thiaumont, Fleury, Vanx, Chapire and Chenois.

ON TO STANISLAW.
LONDON, To-Day. A despatch to Reuters' Telegram Company from Petrograd says the Russian advance guard moved westward in the direction of Stanislaw after the occupation of Tysmenitsa.

SHIP-BUILDING FIGURES.
LONDON, To-Day. Lloyd's shipping register shows that there were 440 merchant vessels of a tonnage of 1,500,000 gross under construction in the United Kingdom at the end of June.

A LABOUR MINISTRY.
LONDON, To-Day. Arthur Henderson's new position as Labor Adviser to the Government will be made regular, by legislation, says the Press Association to-day. In

In the presence of a large gathering of people the Distinguished Conduct Medal won by Private William J. Gladney was presented to him this morning by His Excellency the Governor, Sir Walter E. Davidson. The function, unique of its kind here, took place at the Regimental Headquarters. Amongst those present were the ladies of the Reception Committee of the Women's Patriotic Association, Hon. J. R. Bennett, Acting Premier; Mayor Gosling, Sir Joseph Outerbridge, Hon. John Harvey, John Browning, Esq., T. J. Edens, Esq., Dr. V. P. Burke, S. D. Blandford, Esq., and others.

Precisely at eleven o'clock, the hour appointed for the presentation, His Excellency the Governor reached the grounds and was met by Majors Montgomery and Paterson and other officers, and immediately on his arrival the volunteers drawn up there presented arms to the strains of the buglers and drummers. Then Private Gladney, the Gallipoli hero, stepped forward from the ranks at the command of Major Montgomery and the medal won by him in the field for distinguished gallantry was pinned on the left side of his breast by His Excellency the Governor, who, in an impromptu though appropriate speech, said it was with feelings of pride that he had performed the ceremony this morning and he was proud to be able to present to Private Gladney the Distinguished Conduct Medal which he won at Gallipoli. "It is a thing," continued His Excellency, "I would gladly lay down my life for, but in any day we had not the chance that you have to-day. This is one of the very highly distinguished awards given to the last Newfoundland Regiment. I make bold to say that not only Private Gladney, Private Hynes and Sergeant Grange were deserving of this insignia, but feel sure that many others in the ranks of the gallant Newfoundland Regiment were equally deserving of it, but in the ordinary course of chance had not the luck." In conclusion he said that the time was coming very soon when they—meaning the company of volunteers now undergoing training—would be leaving here, and he hoped they would take the subject of this ceremony as one of their examples in the career before them set by Pte. Gladney who had already achieved the honour.

Briefly, and in simple eloquence, the recipient of the gift from His Majesty the King replied. Pte. Gladney is modest and unassuming in every sense of the word. He has a most striking appearance, a pleasing disposition and at all times is characteristically cool-headed. He is less than six feet high and is not over-burdened with avoirdupois. He was born in Canada, though he lived the greater portion of his life with his aunt, Miss Bridget Gladney, who died recently at Portugal Cove. He was educated at St. Bonaventure's College and enlisted at the beginning of the war with "Ours."

The nature of the gallant deed performed by Gladney at Gallipoli is that while 25 yards away from and in front of the Turkish trenches he crawled on his hands and knees and picked down six Turkish sentries who were a short distance away from each other, got into the enemy's trenches, drew a diagram of the position of the Turkish guns and brought back the information to his commanding officer. The result was that the guns of the enemy were blown up and destroyed.

Trinity Mourns a Brave Son.

Aug. 8th, Trinity was plunged into deepest mourning on receipt of the sad news that Stephen C. Morris, one of her bravest and noblest sons had been killed in Belgium, July 29th by a train colliding with his motor cycle. Stephen or Steve (as he was familiarly called), had worked for some years in his father's business after which he went to Canada where he was when the war broke out. He was among the first to offer himself to the Canadian Infantry but was rejected owing to a recent illness which left him lame. He then offered himself to the C.A.M.C., where he was accepted and went with them to the front. For some time he recused the suffering and wounded there at tremendous risk to his own life as shown by the many narrow escapes he had. At this work he persevered until he was the only remaining one of the corps. He was then made despatch rider, which position he was filling when he met his death. His loss will be keenly felt as he was beloved by all who knew him. To the children he was always a good fairy, with his kind and genial smile and generous hand. To the middle-aged, a kind and sympathetic friend, and to the aged a real strength and support. To his sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morris, his sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Andrew Tulk, Burn, and his two brothers, Orlando and Fred, we extend our most heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of keenest trial. May they find consolation and strength in the beautiful thought that their brave son and brother died the most noble of all deaths. He gave his life for others.

Here and There.

OUR VOLUNTEERS.—The volunteers were given a half holiday yesterday. In the morning some men were inoculated.

HARBORED AT BAY BULLS.—The schr. Alameda, bound here from Oporto, and the Minnie J. Smith from Barbados, are harbored at Bay Bulls.

WEATHER REPORT.—The weather across country is strong N.E. wind and dull, temperature 44 to 60 above.

COPPER ORE SHIPMENT.—The schr. Alexandria, taking 140 tons of copper ore, which was brought here from Pitt Cove and landed by the s.s. Erik, left here yesterday for New York.

MANY COAL CARGOES ARRIVE.—There has been an abundance of work for laborers working along the waterfront within the past month, principally due to the many coal cargoes brought here.

Fishery News From Many Centres.

Aug. 5th. From T. McCarthy. (Re-nets to Seal Cove). The catch to date is 2350 quintals, with 300 for last week. Nine traps, 15 dories, 26 skiffs and 7 boats are fishing. The trap voyage is a failure, and now practically over. There is no squid, but a fairly plentiful supply of caplin, and prospects are somewhat improved since last report.

Aug. 5th. From B. Perry. (Catalina South Head to North Head). All the traps have been taken in, but thirty dories and skiffs and 10 boats are fishing. Prospects are very poor, but there is plenty of caplin and some squid. The fishermen report that cod was never known to be so scarce. The total catch is 5000 quintals and for last week 100.

Aug. 5th. From R. Brown. (Upper Amherst Cove to Cape L'Argent). Prospects are fairly good on the inside grounds the last few days, and many of the small boats had from 1 1/2 to 2 qts. There was plenty of squid when the grounds were tried last, but nothing was done these few days owing to the storm. The damage to traps and boats was not so great as expected. There is a very good sign of cod coming out the Bay, but nothing on the other ground. The men are hoping for fine weather with which the hook and liners would probably get a fair catch, though the season is far advanced. About 100 traps 261 dories and skiffs, and 9 row and motor boats are fishing. The catch is 12,300 qts., with 800 for last week.

Aug. 5th. From J. Gosse. (Spaniard's Bay to Upper Island Cove). Owing to the gale and the strong tide running, many of the traps were torn up and all have now been taken in. Sixty-two skiffs are fishing, and the catch is 1310 quintals for last week. Hook and liners and trawl men are doing very little. Squid have made their appearance, but not in sufficient quantity for bait.

Aug. 5th. From W. Chambers. (Hr. Buffett to Brine's Island). Twenty dories and skiffs and 16 boats are fishing. It is impossible to do much owing to the presence of dogfish. Squid is plentiful, but operations are hindered by rough weather. The catch to date is 2350 qts., and for last week 50.

Motor Van Runs Down Child.

At 11.15 a.m. to-day a little lad named Walter Piercey, aged 10 years, of 16 Flower Hill, had a narrow escape from being killed when Kew-ling's motor van, which was proceeding west on Water Street, struck the lad and knocked him about ten feet. It happened that the motor van was crossing Water Street at the junction of Springdale St. and running in front of a passing horse and cart he did not see the approaching van which was driven by H. Moran who by a quick turn of the steering wheel prevented the car from passing over the boy, but not in time to prevent the mud-guard hitting him in the stomach. The child was picked up by passers-by and on examination it was found no bones were broken, but he complained of a severe pain in the head. He was afterwards placed in the same motor van and driven to his home where a doctor was summoned. That the lad escaped serious injuries is a miracle.

Rev. A. C. Skinner, D.D.

From the Lowell Courier-Citizen, Massachusetts, of August 1st, we learn that at the Theological School of Oshaloosa, Iowa, the degree of doctor of divinity was recently conferred upon Rev. Alfred Charles Skinner, Mr. Skinner, who is at present pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church of Lowell, is a Newfoundlander and a native of St. John's, the brother of Mr. John Skinner, proprietor of the Terra Nova Marble Works. His career in America has been a brilliant one, and he is held in high esteem there by many friends and admirers. He has been pastor of some of the largest churches in his conference at Springfield, Worcester, Waltham and other towns. He is spoken of as a man of scholarly attainments, great culture and genial personality. His many friends in this city will learn with pleasure of this his latest honour.

Florizel in Port.

The Red Cross Liner Florizel, Capt. Martin, reached port from New York and Halifax at noon to-day, bringing a full freight and 160 passengers, mostly visitors from New York. Every available berth in the ship was filled up this trip and many people had to be refused passages at New York and Halifax. The saloon passengers landed here are—Thorburn McNab, Dorothy McNab, Jas. McNab, J. J. St. John, J. Power, F. J. Canning, R. A. Kendall.

MISSING MEN TURN UP.—The two fishermen belonging to Petty Harbor, reported a few days ago to be missing, have since turned up O.K. They were sheltered in a small cove nearby their harbor while the storm was on. They were none the worse of the experience they had in the open Tuesday night.

Everyday Wisdom

By DON HEROLD.

SOUP.
Soup has gone unsung up to now. There have been wine songs and stein songs, but no soup songs. Oh, soup, thou most beloved of all unpoisoning drinks, soup, the cup of all nations. Soup that saves! Soup that soothes! Soup flows in hovel and palaces, alike. Anybody can afford soup. If they can't, they can choose some other kind of soup. There is soup for every purse. It can be made out of anything from second-hand doorknob to nightingale livers. There is soup for every day in the year. There is soup for the carnivorous, soup for the vegetarian, soup for the toothless. There is soup that you can't see with the naked eye, and soup that you can cut with a knife. There is silent soup, and soup that sighs, and soup that splashes like Niagara. Soup is a variable as the sunset, as interesting and uncertain as a woman.

No two persons have the same soup technique. Some are cautious and distant, others baste. Some regard soup as personal, others regard it as public. Some regard their soup as an art, and there are soup virtuosos aplenty.

In some of the best cafes they are now serving stiff soup, that stands alone.

Some soup defies science and intuition alike. It is impossible to guess its ancestry, whether it were nine-tenths calm and one part parsnip or nine-tenths potato and one part old rubber hose. Soup covers a multitude of sins. At one meal it may repair the entire economic loss of a previous meal. In it are hidden misjudgment, indiscretion, and a hundred kindred culinary failings.

Of all soups, none is better than bean. Bean soup is without mystery, without eccentricity, without affectation. Without doubt, it is the most reliable of the whole soup family. Still, all soup is pretty safe. Nobody ever said "Soup is a mocker."
