Actual Damage in Jutland Battle Now Made Public --- Terrible Conditions in the Russian Capital --- British Naval Forces on Caspian Sea---Americans Claim Big Indemnity.

THE JUTLAND BATTLE.

LONDON, March 7. The damage inflicted by the Germans on British battleships participating in the great naval battle off the Skagerrak in the North Sea between Norway and Jutland on May 31st, 1916, is declared by Reuters, limited, to-day, as follows: "A torpedo struck the Marlborough, flooding one boiler room and killing two men; the Marlborough was not hit by shell fire. A 12-inch shell struck the superstructure of the Colossus, causing a fire. Another shell burst into its splinters wounding three men and inflicting unimportant damage. The Barham was hit five times by heavy shells, one of which wrecked one of the hydraulic pumps, the auxiliary wire office and medical staff; the damage done by the other hits was comparatively unimportant. The Malaya was hit eight times, the stern in the steam pipe was fractured and a large shell wrecked the galley causing the mounting of one six-inch gun. Two of the hits caused a large hole below the armor, flooding the adjacent compartments, and a heavy shell bulged the roof of one turret without exploding, but put the range finder out of action. The Villant was not hit in the first part of the action, but at about six o'clock in the evening was struck by two heavy shells, both perforating the six inch armor and doing considerable damage, jamming the helm hard a port, causing the ship to turn in circles. While thus circling, the Villant was hit 23 times, 16 of these hits being from big guns and inflicting more or less serious damage. Two guns were put out of action, one shell tore a large hole at the water line and another under water below the armor belt, and the casualties were light. The damage to cruisers and destroyers will be announced later."

DEATHS IN PETROGRAD.

BERNE, Switzerland, Mar. 7. During the months of December and January nearly 100,000 persons in the city of Petrograd died from hunger and as the result of epidemics, according to official statements as reported by Swiss refugees who arrived yesterday from Russia. There were 40,000 of the refugees in the party.

ARRESTED FOR MUTINY.

BUENOS AIRES, March 8. Two hundred Peruvian officers and soldiers have been arrested in Lima after a sanguinary mutiny which threatened to lead to a revolution, according to a despatch from Santiago, Chile, to La Presse. The outbreak is said to have been caused by the issuance of a proclamation naming candidates for the presidency of Peru.

CLAIMS FILED.

WASHINGTON, March 8. Claims filed by American citizens and concerns with the State Department against Germany and Austria-Hungary total about $750,000,000, the State Department announced to-day. Additional claims are expected.

SETTLEMENT EXPECTED.

PARIS, March 9. The Supreme Council, when it met to-day, expected to settle the difficulty over the German merchant ships by arranging for the food supplies asked for by Germany.

BRITISH IN CONTROL.

LONDON, March 8. Naval forces under British command now dominate the situation in the Caspian Sea, according to official information secured by Reuters Ltd. For some months past there has been a British naval force on this sea. They were originally sent to prevent the Bolsheviks from dominating the situation. This naval force seized certain armed steamers which are now manned by Russian crews which marched from Mesopotamia with a British force as a nucleus. These steamers are commanded by British naval officers.

BERLIN STRIKE OFF.

BERLIN, March 8. The general strike in Berlin will be called off to-day. The labor federation, at a meeting early this evening, recommended that the workmen return to work Saturday.

FIGHTING FOOD RESTRICTIONS.

LONDON, Mar. 8. (Via Reuters.)—Food Controller Roberts, speaking to-day at Newcastle, discussed the question of removing certain commodities from the controlled list. He said, "We are decontrolling margarine and are about to decontrol tea, because owing to the foresight of the Ministry the supplies of those articles are now so abundant that on decontrol taking place we are as certain as we can be that prices will tend to fall." Reviewing the general food situation Mr. Roberts said, "We must think of the needs of Europe as a whole. From information which reached me from absolutely unimpeachable authority Europe nothing less than tragic. It is not too much to say that Rumania is starving and that Serbia is starving, that Austria is starving and that Germany is starving. Ever since the armistice was signed the Allies have been doing all they could for these countries, but it is not enough, and the question now arises whether we shall be able to get sufficient food to these countries in time to prevent a catastrophe. The Supreme Economic Council in Paris, of which I have been made a member, is straining every nerve to meet the situation. I am going to Paris on Monday to attend meetings of this Council and I pray it may be possible for us to concert such emergency measures as may stave off impending disaster. Clearly we cannot complacently watch Europe starving and feed ourselves to the full. That is not the spirit of the nation which through unselfishness has won the war. We are going to help, and if helping means prove as rapidly as it otherwise would, this country, I am sure, will not grumble. As sure as the people here realize the appalling seriousness of the situation which is developing in Europe they will be the first to call upon the Government to intervene."

CANADIAN DEATHS THROUGH RIOTING.

LONDON, Mar. 8. (Via Reuters' Ottawa Agency.)—It is learned at the Canadian Military Headquarters in London that the casualties as a result of the rioting at Rhyi do not exceed five to nineteen killed and wounded. Major General Sir Richard Turner, chief of the Canadian General Staff, who proceeded to London to-day, and his report is being issued this evening. It is stated that whether the men will be charged before the civil courts of London depends on the findings of the court of enquiry.

RAW MATERIAL FREE OF RESTRICTIONS.

LONDON, Mar. 8. (Via Reuters' Ottawa Agency.)—Under Secy. Bridgeman announced to-day in the House of Commons that the British government had decided that no import restrictions should continue to be imposed on goods coming from any part of the Empire without the consent of the Cabinet, which could not be given less some unforeseen necessity arose. He said it was not possible at present to remove all restrictions on imports from foreign countries, but all raw material would be freed from import restrictions.

INTERNATIONAL WARNING.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8. The Italian embassy made public to-day the text of a proclamation issued by the International Committee of Admirals in the Adriatic warning the inhabitants and local authorities of Spalato, a Dalmatian port, against disorders or insults to the Allies, and authorizing Admiral Niblack, the American commander there, to prevent by force of arms if necessary the repetition of such incidents as the recent attack upon Italian officers.

REDUCING GERMAN ARMY.

PARIS, Mar. 8. The proposition made to the Supreme Council yesterday by Premier Lloyd George, for a clause in the peace treaty for reducing the German army much below the also previously proposed definitely requires Germany to reduce her army to fifteen divisions. According to information from French sources, the divisions would be formed of volunteers enlisting for twelve years. The Council accepted the proposition in principle referring it to a committee to draft the text which would be submitted to the Council on Monday.

At St. Thomas's.

Rev. Dr. Jones preached last night at the above church on the subject of "Religion and Morality." He referred to the cleansing of the Temple by our Lord, as related in the Gospels, and asked what would Christ do if He came and visited St. Thomas's. He mentioned the general reconstructive policy emphasized at the present, and stated that the church had failed in the past, to do all its duty, so now it was essential that no longer should she be recreant. He declared that the Temple, when visited by our Lord, was lacking in religion and morality, and asked would Christ find the same lack to-day in us. In the account of the Temple cleansing there is no mention made of the priests. They could not have been doing their duty, and the worshippers apparently were likewise absent and recreant. The preacher said that often complaints are made of the clergy, but he declared that they were extremely busy men (whether in the right way or not he could not say; but they acted as they knew best). He hated insincerity as being the worst kind of hypocrisy, but he admitted that many of the people were unaffected by the clergy, but urged that the people should try to come in closer touch with the priests. Applying the action of the absent worshippers at the Temple cleansing, to modern times, he pointed out that people came to church, but not to worship, as their thoughts were worldly with the outer business interests, instead of with God. The preacher emphasized the need of compulsory education, but with the inclusion of religious training for the present Sunday School system was not satisfactory nor productive of the best possible results. Christ would not find religion in St. Thomas's to-day, because, partly through the priests, and partly through the people, youth was not considered as the time for the sowing of the religious seed. If Christ came He would find immorality, for even as in the Temple the business people were thieves, so now at the present time, morality is loose. As a rule, no morality meant no religion, and the person who countenanced the wrong was and is as guilty as the criminal. The preacher spoke of the horrors of our city life, as being worse than those of the battlefield. As an example of immorality in justice, he asserted that the thirty days sentence of the 17-year-old girl a few days ago, was equally as immoral as the act of the unfortunate, and denounced the "double standard" which allows the partner, and often the tempter in crime, to go free, as instanced by the escape of the men in the case cited. He mentioned the evil effects of the novels and movies of the kind so much sought to-day, and added, that under such influences manhood, womanhood, home life and marriage were lowered and debased. To remedy things it was necessary to mould public opinion, to organize it, so that a decided stand might be taken against the evils of to-day, and immorality be rooted out, to fight the wrongdoers, whether clothed in rags or society's trappings, and irrespective of rank or station, and even as Father Vaughan, in his "Sins of Society," so he blamed the "Smart Set of St. John's" for much of the present evil and immorality. More need for prayer was apparent, exclaimed the preacher, for if Christ came He would want to find a church, open to all, and this could only be effected and through prayer and co-operation; but through prayer and co-operation; by greater than all by consecration, and lifting up to God our lives, and dedicating ourselves to Him and His service.

"Fair Play" Writes.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir:—I am not much of a hand at writing to anybody let alone the papers, but if you will please overlook mistakes and publish this letter, you will oblige a good many around here.
We all heard of the piece in the Advocate where someone tried to excuse the Government for not appointing a returned soldier to the new Customs position here. They must think that the people of this district are very green indeed. There is nobody here, or anywhere else that I know of who blames the man who got it for looking for it, not at all, he did perfectly right, but the people all over this district blame the Government for not giving it to a returned soldier.
I believe that someone wrote to the Government that Jim Carter, the returned soldier, already mentioned in this matter, had not learned enough and was too ignorant to be a tide-waiter here. Well, well if he could not mark a few tubs of butter and deliver a few packages of freight as well as the man who now does it, he got lots of friends who would teach him in a short time all that got to be learned about the work. A good many people would like to know what work some of the tide-waiters about here got to do anyhow. If it is to drive a team over the road for life as one of them is doing, well I think that a wounded returned soldier, like Jim Carter is as much entitled to a salary from the Govern-

Lord's Day Alliance.

At last night's annual meeting of the Lord's Day Alliance, in the Methodist College Hall, His Lordship Bishop White presided, Revs. Dr. Curtis, C. A. Moulton, E. W. Forbes, M.A., and Secretary Stirling were also on the platform. The meeting opened by the singing of a hymn and repeating the Lord's Prayer, after which His Lordship made passing reference to the reason of the meeting, and said that it was an index of the fight going on against materialism. People were to-day erecting barriers against the inroads of materialism, and the observance of the Lord's Day was one of these barriers. It was necessary, he pointed out, to observe the Lord's Day because it was the only certain gift and privilege which are essential to the welfare of the human race. There would probably be disagreements as to the proper observance, but all agree that the day is helpful and inspiring, and the Lord's Day Alliance aimed to make the people more zealous in holding fast to the gifts derived from the Lord's Day observance. Rev. C. A. Moulton declared that on such a question as this, even as on prohibition, all denominations should be united. He asserted that the two foes of the alliance were opposition and indifference. The oppositionist is against the day chosen, but we believe that as Christ rose on this day, it should be the Sabbath, but there was much to be said in his favor if the oppositionist kept one day of the week. The apathetic foe is the worst, declared the speaker. He, however, would not urge a too rigorous observance of the day, as he believed the too strait-laced method of the earlier days were in part responsible for the laxity of the present. He denounced the open shop, the street car traffic, the motor joy-ride, the Sunday gambling den of the present day in our city, on Sundays, and urged that only the growth of public opinion on the side of the right could kill these evils, and fulfil the aim of the alliance. Rev. E. W. Forbes, M.A., spoke of the importance of the day in satisfying the spiritual needs of the people. He said that the day was often kept more because of its humanitarian than its spiritual reasons. He quoted Voltaire and Ingersoll—atheists—as denouncing the Lord's Day, because it promoted the Christian religion. He declared that the Sabbath was one of the bulwarks of religion and morality, and further that the Sabbath could only be observed by means of public opinion, centralised in legislative laws, for the proper observance, and in connection with this, he showed how one of Laurier's greatest acts was the placing of a statute on the Canadian law books for the keeping of the Lord's Day, and had no doubt that the people here would back any such legislative move in this country. Rev. Dr. Curtis said the evils spoken of by Mr. Moulton, were caused by the absence of legislation on the Sunday observance, but hoped to see it remedied soon. He made reference to the great interest of the late Bishop Jones in the matter and welcomed Bishop White; a vote of thanks to the same as well as to the other speakers and organist being accorded by acclamation. After the Benediction the following officers were elected: Hon. President—His Lordship Bishop White. President—Rev. Dr. Curtis. Vice-Presidents—The Rectors or Pastors of the churches. Secretary—W. R. Stirling. Treasurer—W. Clouston. The next business meeting will be held after Easter.

Moving Pictures on Storekeeping.

AWARD OF PRIZES.

Every merchant and clerk in the City who was not able to be present at the Lecture on Monday last of Modern Business Methods, should make it a point to attend the repeat performance to be given at the Casino Theatre, to-morrow, Tuesday, evening at 8 o'clock. Hon. John Anderson has kindly consented to preside and will present the prizes for the best essays on "What impressed me most," written by the school students who attended the lecture last week. The prize winners will be announced in the press on Tuesday.

The lecture which is illustrated by lantern slides and moving pictures will bring to the merchant, clerk and professional man one of the most fascinating stories on retail merchandising ever presented. Mr. G. F. Bond who will lecture again will show and explain some of the latest and best methods of store-keeping—arrangement of goods, window display, how to write newspaper ads and how to get best results therefrom—and many other things interesting to retail business men.

A section of the Lecture will be addressed to Clerks and will bring out many points making for greater efficiency. Ladies are especially invited. Tickets of admission are free and can be obtained on application to Percie Johnson, Ltd. (Board of Trade Building), John Anderson's (opposite Post Office), or to the Office of the National Cash Register Co., Rensout Building.

The Congrega- tional Pulpit.

The Rev. Dudley Ashford continues to attract such congregations as have been seen at Queen's Road for many years past. On Sunday last he delivered two sermons which will be remembered by all who heard him. His subject in the morning was Religion. The tendency of religion in all ages was to become distasteful to the people. This people distinguished between the secular and sacred, looked on Sunday as a holy time, and acted accordingly. But religion is the relation of life to God, which means that every aspect of life is to be lived in the light of that relation. God exists for thought; the best minds of all ages have dwelt on this great theme of God. But we must be aware of making our religion merely a matter of thought or emotion. For thought untouched by emotion will be cold and even barren and fruitless. Religion must be backed up by hands and feet. God also exists for emotion; the highest ecstasies and supreme joys are to be found in the realm of religion. Yet we must beware of making religion merely a matter of feeling. Emotion without thought will be unstable and frothy. Emotion without action will be vain and futile. The test of true religion is neither in what we think nor in what we feel, but in what we do. The whole sermon, on Christ's searching words in Matt. 7, 21, and strikingly illustrated, was a plea for a religion whose principles were carried out into every department of life.

The evening sermon, entitled "Doubt and Sense," based on the familiar words of Mark 8, 36, was a plea to recognize the limitations of money. Money is either the highest happiness or the true riches. Life may be lived as physical, mental, moral, and spiritual; and it does not pay to sacrifice any of these merely for the sake of dollars. Dollars cannot compensate you for the loss of the physical life. Yet how many business men, work at high pressure for years, amass a fortune, only to find that they have ruined health and cannot enjoy life. Many of our keenest joys come through physical channels. The loss of eyes, shuts out the faces of friends, the joy of books, the delights of scenery. The loss of ears, makes you deaf to your baby's prattle, deaf to the singer's voice or to the delights of oratory. A healthy body, alive to the world in which we live is a tremendous asset which money cannot replace. Neither is it good business to get dollars and to miss the mental treasures. To deny a man education is to narrow the sphere of his pleasures, to cripple his life, and to rob him of a great inheritance. Such mental treasure can only be secured by deep digging into the mine of the world's great masterpieces, and requires much time and hard work. Dollars cannot purchase these treasures, and the millionaire with a huge library may be poorer than a poor man with a few good books. Many people sacrifice their moral life for the sake of dollars, but it is bad business. Life's only true asset lies in character. Only the wealth that you store up within you is truly yours. Nothing can compensate you for the loss of the moral life. And what of the greatest loss of all, the loss of the spiritual life, which men so often sacrifice for worldly gain. Most people are scarcely conscious of this loss, because they never trouble to develop the spirit life within them. Yet the spirit can only be developed by culture and culture requires much time and attention. Herein lies the true riches. You may have a big banking account, a beautiful body, a well stored mind, and a decent moral code, but what avails it if you miss the supreme treasures of a living faith in God and a hope beyond this life. The three vivid pictures from the lives of the Emperor Theodosius, the Emperor Charlemagne and the painter Leonardo di Vinci, illustrating the truth taught, will long be remembered by all present.

A Case for Real Charity.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—In company with a friend I visited, on Saturday afternoon the house on McNeil Street, referred to by "Charity" in a letter published in the Daily News on Saturday morning. A simple relation of the facts as I found them to be will be excused, I hope, for the good it may and should do.

The house we visited was situated in the backyard of another dwelling. It was six feet wide, eight feet long, six feet high, the walls of corrugated iron. It had one door, one window, with several loose panes, and in one end there was a bed, in the other a cook-stove. The family consists of husband, wife and four children, one eight months old, and two possibly twins. The wife and eldest child were not at home. The husband had been incapacitated for three years by tuberculosis of one arm and one leg, able to walk and not to work.

The backyard referred to is part of the premises on which the man's father and mother live. The father—a sanitary employee of the City—has been confined at home for three weeks by an accident while at work. He has quite a large family to care for, and can give little or nothing to the necessitous son; how he himself makes both ends meet I do not know.

How the son's family can be efficiently helped it is hard to say. Temporary relief has been offered, but a permanent change of conditions is essential. A better residence should be provided, and some permanent aid be supplied to enable the family to live. Food and clothing will be necessary, but first of all a decent place to live in must be found.

I have purposely refrained from expressing the emotions my friend and I felt at the sights we saw on this visit; they will be felt by anybody who will allow his imagination to construct a mental picture from the bare facts I give. If you, sir, will open a fund for subscriptions, I shall be glad to co-operate with you in its expenditure for the purpose of substantially wiping out a disgrace to our city and a reflection on our humanity. A good sized fund will be necessary, so please ask the merciful to be generous.

Yours truly,
ALFRED B. MORINE,
St. John's, March 8th, 1919.

[In connection with the above extreme case, the Editors of the city newspapers have been asked by Mr. Morine to act as a Committee with him to receive and expend, as they may deem expedient, any monies donated to the relief of the unfortunate family referred to. The Telegram will gladly receive and acknowledge any contributions made, and trust that the response to this appeal will be liberal and prompt.—Editor Evg. Telegram.]

The Committee therefore, will be as follows:—Sir Patrick McGrath, Hon. Mr. Mews, J. S. Currie, M.H.A., H. M. Mosdell, M.D., C. T. James, and A. B. Morine, K.C., Convenor.

West Coast Notes.

Messages last week state there was no ice along the coast from Bonne Bay to Point Riche.

It is rumored that some three or four schooners will prosecute the sealfishery from Channel.

Experienced people say that conditions in the Gulf are favorable for a successful sealing voyage this season.

Lomond is the name selected for the place where the St. Lawrence Timber, Pulp and Steamship Company's mills are being erected in Bonne Bay.

The St. Lawrence Co., at Lomond, Bonne Bay, has four camp crews in the woods this winter and the cut is expected to average a million each.—Western Star.

The Majestic Theatre.

To-day the Majestic Theatre presents another highly interesting feature in the form of a drama of the Ivan Film Corporation entitled "Babbling Tongues" a picture in many ways resembling "The Sins of Ambition," shown last week and very highly praised by Majestic patrons. That "Babbling Tongues" will find even more favor with lovers of good, clean drama of the better kind, we feel certain. There is something distinctly human about the tale of the young and friendless man who, as the result of a former good act of his father, is taken into a comfortable home and finds his dearest hopes for fame and honor about to be realized, is suddenly confronted by a situation as unthought of by him as it is likely to become disastrous. Gossip, which ever seeks new victims, couples his name with that of the young and beautiful wife of the man who has given him a home, and the story as it is unfolded lacks neither vitality nor realism; while it is also rich in the beauty of clothes, scenery and setting. "Babbling Tongues" is certainly one of the best stories of its kind ever screened in this city and has its own especial appeal because of the startling lesson it teaches.

HOUSING PROBLEM.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the different city unions in the L. S. P. U. Hall during the week to discuss the housing problem.

When you want Roast Beef, Roast Veal, Roast Mutton, Roast Pork, try ELLIS'.

E. S. FUND.—The collection taken up at the Roman Catholic Churches yesterday for the Ecclesiastical Students' Fund showed a decided increase over last year.

FISHERMEN FISH COAL.

The fishermen of Witless Bay and nearby settlements did well on Saturday, as they were given all the coal they could carry away for discharging the Appenine's bunkers.

Nearly Drowned.

While playing around A. Harvey and Co.'s wharf at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon with a number of other boys, a young lad named Kelly tripped, and fell over the wharf-head and into the water between the wharf and the S. S. Sable I, which was lying there. His plight was no enviable one, when a Mr. A. Brown, of Harvey and Co.'s employ, who had been standing nearby, threw off his vest and coat, and descending to the water's edge by means of one of the wharf shores, grasped the boy by the hair, and began to climb up with him. Another man, who leaned over the head of the wharf, caught young Kelly and hauled him to safety. The action of Mr. Brown cannot be too highly praised, as those who have been on A. Harvey and Co.'s wharf will testify to. The boy was not injured.
