CHAPTER XXXIV.
THE ATTACK.

Laurence crawled on his hands and knees to where the lad, utterly ignorant of his frightful danger, stood, in the very range of the shots, and pulled him to the ground.

"Keep below the window, Cecil," he shouted in his ear. "Don't you see that they are firing in?"

The lad nodded and clung to his breast.

Laurence looked troubled. He saw in his present state of terror the boy was in the most imminent peril.

"Cecil," he whispered hurriedly, and keeping his eyes fixed upon the window, "you must be brave. Look at me! There, come, lad, have no fear while I am here to protect you. Come, pluck up some courage, for my sake!"

The youth clinched his teeth and moved his lips into "I will."

Laurence pressed his small hand encouragingly.

"That's right," he said; "now I can put you to some use. Lay along there, crouch down as low as you can, and hand me a loaded gun whenever I need one."

Cecil nodded eagerly, and seeming inspired with courage by the prospect of helping him, did as he was told, loading quickly and watching eagerly for the moment when Laurence should want a fresh gun.

Laurence, now feeling more easy on the lad's account, felt his heart leap again, and stealing up to the window, jumped up with the rapidity of a jack-in-the-box, fired at the man who was climbing the wood-work and fell to the floor again as the crack of a rifle rang out and the bullet intended for him flew over his head and buried itself in the ceiling.

The yell of rage that rose told him that he had either killed or wounded the climber, and he smiled grimly and cast about for some other means of taking aim, for he knew that he could not venture his last feat a second time.

While he was thinking of some plan and keeping the barrel of his gun pointed at the window, a shout from Mr. Stewart apprised him of some fresh movement of the gang upon the stairs.

"They have got some of the blacks there. Some new dodge is on hand." The next moment the peculiar yell of the natives rang out and, to his horror, Mr. Stewart saw that the ruffins intended using them as shields, and were forcing them up the stairs, keeping behind the shelter of the blacks.

When he had told this to Laurence, Laurence's blood rose to fever heat, and heedless of his danger sprang to his feet.

"Quick—quick!" shouted Mr. Stewart.

And Laurence leaped to his side.

"I have it," he said; "take aim between that poor lad's legs. The cowardly brutes are crouching rather low down and we shall lame them. Do not move."

Laurence saw at once what he meant and, waiting until the first shrieking native was pushed forward, aimed low between his feet.

Mr. Stewart did the same and uttered a shout of triumph as the two ruffians, with yells of pain, rolled back again, clutching the negroes as they fell.

"Now—now!" shouted Mr. Stewart, as from his peep-hole he saw them rush up, and once more they poured forth a deadly shower of bullets.

But the attackers pressed on, yelling and swearing vengeance.

Mr. Stewart danced with excitement and rage.

"Give me some more guns!"

And Cecil, who was now all ablaze with courage and spirit, brought him a rifle and revolver.

"At 'em again!" shouted the settler.

And again Laurence's accurate aim levelled one, while Mr. Stewart's volley scattered the others.

Their numbers were now thinning, but as they decreased in quantity they rose in passion, and three of the remaining twelve gained the barricade with the ferocity of madmen.

Laurence saw imminent danger if the barricade gave way, and he shouted to Mr. Stewart to direct a continuous fire at the spot where they were standing, and on his part waited until they should happen to step back into his range.

At that critical moment, when both men were fully engaged in watching and guarding the barricade, Cecil, happening to turn, saw a head above the window ledge.

With a cry of alarm he lifted the gun he had in his hand and, taking the best aim he could, fired.

Laurence, turning at the report, uttered a shout of encouragement and delight, although the shot had taken no effect; and, inspired by his approval, Cecil sprang forward and, swinging the still smoking gun, brought it down upon the intruding head with a force that knocked the yelling ruffian from his grasp and caused him to fall headlong to the ground.

"Bravo!" shouted Mr. Stewart.

Laurence said nothing, but Cecil flushed at his nod of approval and cried:

"Laurry, I'll stop here and guard this window."

At this juncture a shout from the stairs gave notice to the two men that something was occurring.

Mr. Stewart, bending down and peering through the peephole, saw that the men had hit upon a new idea.

"Laurry," he cried, "this means mischief. The bounds are getting cunning. They have taken one of the doors off its hinges and are coming up behind it. Look here!"

Laurence nodded and saw that such was the case.

"What's to be done?" he asked.

"They will reach the barricade in five minutes; already—"

Before he could finish Mr. Stewart dragged him to the floor just in time to save him from a passing bullet, which Tim, who had been hammering at the barricade, had fired through the first hole.

"Now comes the rub," said Mr. Stewart, ominously. "It is all up with this."

And he nodded to the friendly wood-work which had guarded them so long.

Laurence set his lips tightly and stepped back into the room.

"Come back, sir," he said; "we'll fight to the last, Cecil!"

Cecil sprang to his side.

"Keep behind me. When I rush forward cling to my belt behind and come, too—you understand?"

Cecil nodded.

"Yes, Laurry," he said, breathlessly; "I will keep by you until they kill me."

"They shan't do that while I'm alive, lad," said Laurence, with a tender flash in his eyes. "Mind; cling tightly!"

Almost before the words had left his lips the crash of the axes upon the frame-work rendered further speech impossible, and in another minute or two the whole barricade fell in with a tremendous noise.

"Now!" said Laurence.

And amid the horrible din he rushed forward, firing straight before him and on each side until all the barrels were emptied, then waving his rifle round his head, cleared the passage and sprang down the stairs.

Thrown off their guard by this sudden and stubborn attack, the runners gave way for a moment, and, with Cecil still behind him, Laurence leaped down the stairs with the rapidity of lightning.

One man sprang before him as he reached the bottom, but he went down, levelled before the swift rush as an ox goes down before the dash of a lion, and Laurence gained the back door.

By that time, however, the pursuit had commenced.

Through the atmosphere of smoke Laurence saw one man leap over the balustrade and make toward him, and, whispering to Cecil to draw the bolts of the door, he stepped in front of him with a gun upraised ready to receive the pursuer.

The light of a torch smouldering on the ground revealed the features of Tim, the cause of all this blood-shedding and havoc, and Laurence's eyes, as he confronted the diabolical, blood-stained countenance of the ruffian, shot fire.

"Keep off!" he shouted, as Tim, who seemed to have no weapon, was advancing. "Keep off!"

Tim uttered a yell of defiance.

"Ah, ah, Mr. Laurry; I've an account to settle with you and the young 'un first!" and he made a spring toward them.

At that moment Cecil unfastened the door.

Laurence shouted:

"Go and get the horses!"

And as Cecil, with an answering cry, sprang forward, Laurence dealt Tim a fearful blow on the side of the head and, not waiting to see the result, leaped through the doorway after Cecil.

CHAPTER XXXV.
A VILLAIN'S DOWNFALL.

So part we sadly in this troublous world
To meet with joy in sweet Jerusalem.
—SHAKESPEARE.

The black and the chestnut were brancing about the large room, terrified and excited by the unwonted uproar.

Shouting to Cecil to unbolt the outer door, Laurence called the black to him, and, snatching at the bridle of the chestnut, led them with all possible rapidity into the court.

"Quick!" he cried, as Cecil stood panting beside him and the rearing, plunging animals. "Spring on the chestnut, lad, and clear the fence."

And as he spoke he sprang upon the back of the black, holding the chestnut as still as he could for Cecil to mount.

The youth made a vain effort to reach the saddle and, with a cry of vexation, attempted a second time. But before he could do more than tug at the bridle and prepare for the spring the door behind him swung open, and with an awful yell Tim, followed by Sam and another runner, staggered out.

Cecil uttered a low cry of despair, but Laurence drowned it in a shout of defiance, and suddenly sweeping down upon the terrified lad caught him and, with a mighty effort, placed him on the saddle in front of himself. Then, with a shout of encouragement to the gallant horse, put him at the fence.

He cleared it at a bound and, shaking his black mane as if in scorn of all pursuit, dashed over the prairie like an eagle.

Sam uttered a yell of disappointment, and a bullet whizzed past the fugitives.

Laurence ground his teeth, and drawing a pistol from his saddle turned and took as deliberate aim as possible.

"One last shot, Cecil lad," he said, as the youth shuddered and hid his face in his hands; "one last bullet, and may Heaven direct it where 'tis due—to the heart of the black miscreant who has shed all this blood! Ah!" he cried, with a mighty shout of joy; "he has it! Look, lad—look Cecil!"

Cecil took his hands from before his face and saw the staggering form of Tim lying writhing upon the ground, and knew by the yells and execrations of his companions that Laurence had dealt out the fit punishment of death.

Fashion Plates.

Pattern 314 was employed in this instance. It is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6, 8 years, and will require 2 3/4 yards of 27 inch material for a 4 year size. As here shown, natural shantung was selected with embroidery in red, and bright red buttons for trimming. Gingham, lawn, percale, voile, china silk, challie, repp, poplin and velveteen would be good for this design.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

A DAINTY DRESS FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

2808—Batiste, voile, charmeuse, satin, taffeta, velvet, serge or gabardine could be used for this model. The tucks on the skirt may be omitted. The dress may be finished without the bolero and with long or short sleeve. This style lends itself nicely to combinations of material.

The Pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 8 requires 3 1/2 yards of 27 inch material for the dress and 1/2 yard for the bolero.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

Rioting Continues in Londonderry.

Many Dead and Wounded in Recent Fighting -- Mobs Indulge in Looting -- Belgian Soldiers Protect Germans -- Berlin Reports Fatal Casualties H. C. L. Riots -- Canadian Wireless Operators in Sympathy With Strike.

BELGIANS PROTECT

GERMANS FROM RIOTING. LONDON, June 23. Riotous demonstrations against high prices of food, in which many persons were wounded in clashes with the police, are reported from Osnabrueck, province of Hanover, from Crefeld in the Rhine province, and from Frankfurt on Main. At Osnabrueck, a crowd tried to storm the prison. Shops were plundered and some persons were wounded by shots fired by the police. Demonstrators at Crefeld raided the market and stormed warehouses, throwing goods out of the windows. Shops were pillaged. The police were over-less and order was restored only when Belgian troops intervened. There were many casualties here. Fruit stands at Frankfurt were attacked by mobs, the vendors being compelled to reduce their prices.

KRASSIN CRISIS MYTHICAL. LONDON, June 23. A semi-official announcement was made yesterday that no crisis exists in negotiations which Premier Lloyd George is conducting with Leonid Krassin, Russian Bolshevik Minister of Trade and Commerce.

WARNING TO GERMANY. PARIS, June 23. The note to Germany regarding disarmament, proposed by the Council of Ambassadors, and approved by the Allied Premiers at Boulogne, was handed to the German Peace Delegation here to-day. The communication probably will be followed by another note going further into details and telling Germany what she must do to avoid further military occupation.

SHOOTING AND LOOTING.

LONDON, June 23. Londonderry was again the scene of rioting to-day. At nine this morning fighting was going on between the opposing parties of Unionists and Nationalists, who shot over barricades that had been erected at various vantage points. The military was active in preventing citizens from venturing into the streets, which were deserted. Many dead and wounded are lying on the streets. Looting occurred in the city during the night.

H. C. L. RIOTS IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, June 23. Several persons are reported to have been killed at Ulm Wurtemberg, in the course of riotous demonstrations against the high cost of food. Similar demonstrations are reported as occurring at Ravensburg and in other parts of Germany, including Osnabrueck in Hanover, Crefeld in Rhine Province and Frankfurt on Main. Many clashes have occurred between the police and Reichswehr on the one hand, and the demonstrators on other.

MARCONI STRIKE EXTENDING.

MONTREAL, June 23. The Canadian branch of wireless operators will give support to British operators who are at present on strike for higher wages from the Marconi Company. Canadian wireless operators unionized under division number fifty-nine of the Commercial Telegraphers of America, and leading members of the union, that the Canadian Union could oppose the clearance of passenger ships from Montreal which did not carry the legal number of wireless operators.

WILSON AND RAILWAY WAGES.

WASHINGTON, June 23. President Wilson sent a message to-day to the Labor Railroad Board at Chicago urging that it make an immediate award of the wage controversy. The text of the message was not made public at the White House.

CALIFORNIA EARTHQUAKE.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 23. A slight earthquake at four this morning was felt chiefly in the southern section of Los Angeles and at Inglewood, which sustained the heaviest damage in the shock of Monday night. The tremor to-day caused no damage.

TAMMANY LEADER INDICTED.

NEW YORK, June 23. Charles J. Murphy, Tammany leader, was one of six men secretly indicted yesterday by an extraordinary Grand Jury, which has been investigating alleged attempts of Murphy to intimidate Louis Hartog, manufacturer, into returning a hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, which he invested with Harding's Company during the war.

EFFECTIVE AND DEFECTIVES.

CHICAGO, June 23. While under prohibition the number of jail inmates has decreased twenty-five per cent, and jail costs have been lowered in the country by half a million dollars since July 1, 1919, when prohibition first went into effect. There is reported an increase in the number of detectives, B. G. Lewis, Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies of New Jersey, declared here yesterday.

STREET RAILWAY STRIKE.

TORONTO, June 23. Street car service on the lines of the Toronto Railway Co. was entirely suspended this morning as the result of the long expected strike of employees, who demand an increase in wages from 55 cents to 66 cents an hour.

PEACEFUL (?) MEXICO.

MEXICO CITY, June 23. Reports of rebels in various parts of the country were officially denied, in a statement issued at the Foreign Office Informations Bureau last night, which said that with the exception of the Villa movement in Chihuahua the country was peaceful.

Cadets Win Over Britons

In the football match last evening between the Cadets and Britons, the former won by a score of 4 goals to nil. A good exhibition was put up by both teams despite the unfavorable conditions of the field, which made the ball greasy and difficult to shoot. The attendance was fairly large, the gate receipts amounting to $121. Mr. E. Churchill refereed the game. The players were:

CADETS — Goal, Clare; backs, Power, Brien; halves, Galgay, Thompson, W. Duggan; forwards, T. Duggan, Flynn, Dawson, Madigan, Christopher.

BRITON — Goal, Barry; backs, Cockburn, Thompson; halves, Ainsworth, Langmead, Smith; forwards, Bearn, Sharpe, Jermon, Hull, Gorman.

Shipping Notes.

The Harmony is due shortly from London, en route to the Moravian Missions.

The W. M. Tupper left Boston yesterday for this port, via Halifax, and will be followed by the Lady of Gaspe on the 28th.

S.S. Susu arrived from the Fogo service yesterday, bringing a small freight and several passengers. Capt. Roberts reports just a sign of cod between here and Change Islands.

S.S. Rosalind arrived in port at 7.30 this morning from New York and Halifax.

The Donald II. has sailed for Bahia with 3782 qts. of codfish from Baine Johnston & Co.

Two Inmates Escape From Insane Asylum.

John Duke and John Griffin escaped yesterday afternoon from the Insane Asylum, in which they were inmates. Duke, who was committed to life imprisonment for stabbing a man named Sears on the barque, "Lake Simcoe," and was later sent to the Asylum as a criminal lunatic, was seen last night in Casey Street by his wife, and in the West End in the early part of the afternoon by some one else. The police were acquainted of the escape last night and this morning were searching.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN

Who Are Just Ready to Drop

Vinol Will Enrich the Blood and Create Strength.

Physicians Recommend It and Druggists Guarantee It

Many women act as though they just wonder how they are going to get through this trying season and do their work. They may be over-cold or influenza or a chronic worked, or influenza or a chronic without strength or ambition, and thin, nervous and devitalized.

If such women only knew what VINOL, our non-secret cod liver, iron and hypophosphate tonic will do for them we would not be able to get enough to supply the demand.

In a natural manner it creates a hearty appetite, aids digestion, enriches the blood with thousands of red corpuscles, creates strength, and the system is filled with renewed vigor.

Do not let any druggist sell you a substitute for VINOL, as there is nothing like it, so nothing else will do.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

"SHE OUGHT TO BE HAPPY."

RUTH CAMERON

One never knows the full joy of leisure unless one has work to give the contrast.

I am always longing for more time to read; the precious hour or two that I squeeze out at the end of the day of interrupted reading is something to look forward to all day long and to savor every minute of. Yet once, when I had a month's vacation and planned to read all I wanted, I found that half the savor had gone after the first few days because I didn't work and plan for and look forward to each bit of leisure.

The Same With Leisure.

It made me think of what they say about the clerks in the candy shops—that being allowed to have all the candy they want, they eat lavishly at first and then cease to eat at all.

The more I think about our economic system (and who is there who does not think much of it in these days?) It is one of the compensations that we can no longer slide along without giving such things a thought)—the more I come to feel that the competitive system, though it has many evils, is better than any system that has been suggested to take its place. But to that I add the feeling that our way of advance lies along the line of inheritance taxes so increased that the rich man of the future, while he will be enabled to give his children the best of education and a splendid start in life, will not be able to endow them so that they shall never need to work.

An Empty Existence.

I was telling a friend of mine about a woman whom I pity. This woman has had all her life an income not large enough for travel, but ample to permit her to live in good boarding houses or small hotels, and she has wandered from one to another always seeking some place that will combine all the advantages and never finding it. She has no close relatives, no strong interests in life, and carried upon her face is the tale of her discontent and the emptiness of her existence.

I said as much to my friend and she said, "Well, she ought to be happy. Just think, she has always had enough money and never had to work."

What a familiar ring that has!

They Wish Their Children Need Not Work.

It represents an ideal that millions of men and women hold for themselves and their children. Never to have to work—surely, thinks the worked man or woman, this would be heaven on earth. He does not realize that it is not the work that makes him unhappy, but the loverwork.

To have to work so hard that one never can get fully rested, to have to work so constantly that one never gets time for play—truly this is a curse.

But never to have to work at all, to live on the fruit of dead men's toil an aimless, self-centered existence, never to know the joys of achievement, never to be "too useful to be lonely and too busy to be sad"—isn't this almost as bad?

ADVANCING YEARS.

I'm having trouble with my teeth; the upper ones, the ones beneath, are always loose and sore; I find my hair is falling out, I have the sprinthat a n d the gout, and walking is a bore. It's hard for me to read a book; my eyes grow weary when I look ten minutes at a page; I have a trumpet for my ears; oh, such things come with passing years, the penalties of age. I'm glad that in the bygone times I salted down my surplus dime, with wintry years in view; with zeal I plied my trenchant pen, and saved a stock of iron men—enough to see me through. Now by my figtree and my vine I sit and rest and make no whine of fortune or of fate; I view the world with falling eyes, but see the good that in it lies, and keep my smile on straight. And as I gaze I see old men who failed to save the shining yet in days long left behind; they slave away at dreary toil, and long to have six feet of soil in which to end the grind. There's nothing sadder than the sight of some old crippled, weary wight, still toiling for his bread, still drudging for a meager pay, recalling money thrown away, and wishing he were dead.

An afternoon gown of dark blue taffeta is trimmed with light green satin circles.

Just Folks

BUD MAKES A DISCOVERY.

If we were all alike, what a dreadful world 'twould be!

No one would know which one was you or which of us was me.

We'd never have a "Skinny" or a "Freckles" or a "Fat".

An' there wouldn't be a sissy boy to wear a velvet hat;

An' we'd all of us be pitchers when we played a baseball match.

For we'd never have a feller who'd have nerve enough to catch.

If we were all alike an' looked an' thought the very same,

I wonder how'd they call us, coz there'd only be one name?

An' there'd only be one flavor for our ice cream sodas, too,

An' one color for a necktie an' I suppose that would be blue;

An' maybe we'd have mothers who were very fond of curls,

An' they'd make us fellers wear our hair like lovely little girls.

Sometimes I think it's funny when I hear some feller say

That he isn't fond of chocolate, when I eat it every day,

Or some other fellow doesn't like the books I like to read.

But I'm glad that we are different, yes, siree! I am indeed;

If everybody looked alike an' talked alike, oh gee!

We'd never know which one was you or which of us was me.

Mainly About People.

Lady Geddes is winning hearts at Washington. She is making the embassy a real home. Her receptions have an impersonality that make them delightful. While she was born at Dobbs Ferry, N.Y., neither of her parents were, both being of Irish descent and never naturalized citizens, so the claim that she is an American girl is never admitted. She married the ambassador in 1905. Her oldest son was born in Scotland, and the other son and only daughter were born in Dublin, Ireland.

When George Weston, the novelist, was asked for a biographical sketch of himself, he wrote: "My favorite birthplace is either Charleston, S.C., or Boston, Mass., don't care which. My favorite reading is a good fat check, made payable to my own order. My favourite saying is, man is the only animal that blushes—or needs to. My favorite occupation is listening to the dominie down the hill trying to crank his fiver on a cold morning."

Sir E. Leicester Harmsworth, Bart. M.P., now has, with the Harmsworth family, an ownership in 77 papers. News sheets have brought to the family two viscountcies, a baronetcy, two cabinet ministerial posts and three memberships of the British House of Commons. Alfred Viscount Northcliffe, the oldest and most famous of the brothers, established the family fortune by a small popular weekly, Answers. Harold Viscount Rothermere, the second son, is the financial genius of the family.

Nobuka Hara, whose singing has aroused New York's interest in her, is a former prima donna of the Imperial Theatre, Tokio. Her father is governor of Admore, province of northern Japan, and all her people were wealthy. She wanted to see the world, and is seeing it. She prefers America to Japan, because in Japan "you never meet a man, while here you can walk on the streets accompanied by a man. You can dine in public restaurants and go the theatre alone. You can do just as you please."

Susanne Westford, the sister of Lillian Russell, is trying to become fat in order to be more beautiful, just the opposite to the ambition of most women. She has breakfast in bed, drinks malted milk with eggs and chocolate flavouring; marmalade. She has thick soup, creamed potatoes, mutton chop, asparagus and rice puddings with cream and drinks milk. The tea hour is given to toast and marmalade. She has thick soup, lamb or roast goose, salad with Roquefort dressing, and potatoes and all the other fattening foods.

Polling Day.

To-day the electors of the District of Bay-de-Verde will decide their acceptance or rejection of the policy inaugurated by the present Government; whether they approve or disapprove the now notorious Fish Export Regulations; whether they favor or condemn the action of the Minister of Finance in increasing his estimates of expenditure by nearly two million dollars, most of which will be in the nature of sops to friends and supporters of the Government. It will also be decided by the electors whether they agree or not with the conduct of the department of shipping by the Minister who is seeking re-election at their hands; and their pronouncement to-day will be as a complete expression of public sentiment upon the wisdom or unwisdom of the policy pursued by Mr. Cave in his handling of the salt situation. Bay-de-Verde has been given the first opportunity to make a decision on the manner in which the affairs of the dominion have been managed by the Squires Government. In the bye-election for St. John's West last January, it was only possible to issue warnings, which, however, went unheeded. But Bay-de-Verde voters have witnessed the working out of a policy which is sadly at variance with their best interests, and one which has wrought much injury to the staple industry—the codfishery. The forcing down of the price of fish, the forcing up of the prices of the necessities of life may very well be chargeable on the Squires Government. The facts are plain to all. The shibboleth of the Government organs and men is "Elect Cave and be on the side of the Government." They make no defence of their iniquitous legislation; offer no excuse or reason for increasing expenditure under such gloomy circumstances; give no information as to how they propose to set extra taxation to level up to the vast sums which they propose to spend on largely increased salaries and unnecessary departments with their correspondingly unnecessary staffs of specialists. There is nothing of this explained to the electors. Like parrots they repeat the cry "Vote for Cave and be on the Government side." Well the men of Bay-de-Verde will show them just what they think of all this to-day, and if the Government does not receive a set back, then the country will have to face a long period of anguish and distress.

Utterly Incorrect.

On Friday last, we published a communicated item under the caption "City Firemen in Rags," which alleged that the fire fighting forces of the city had suffered from neglect of those in authority. The standing of our contributor left no doubt in our mind at the time that his statement bore the stamp of truth, which was sufficient warrant for its publication. Since then, however, we have been informed by the Inspector General of Constabulary that there is absolutely no foundation for the accusations of negligence contained in the item referred to, and no basis whatever for such allegations. The men have been looked after in the matter of clothing and other service rations and no distinction or discrimination has been made in the serving out. Upon bringing the declaration of the Inspector General to the notice of our contributor, he gave us permission to acquaint Mr. Hutchings of his identity, and this has been done. We regret exceedingly that the publication of the article, "City Firemen in Rags," has reflected upon the Inspector General's treatment of the Fire Department men, as it is well known that Mr. Hutchings has been most unremitting in his attention to the needs of the firemen of the city, and has done all in his power—with marked success—to improve the conditions under which they serve.

The Native Society.

On the 24th day of June, 1840 (Notable Events in Newfoundland History), the Native Society was formed and officers elected. Its first President was Richard Barnes, whose monument stood in the old cemetery near the Church of England Cathedral. Amongst its first members were Sir Ambrose Shea, Hon. J. J. Rogerson and Hon. Edward Shea—all deceased. The Society was formed as a protest against the alleged favoritism shown to foreign-born residents, to whom it was said, all the "soft snaps" were given. Very few people can remember the motto or flag distinctly, but the most reliable authorities state that the flag was all pink, with two clasped hands, the forearms extending to the elbows, and a spruce tree in the centre. The tree rose from the joined palms and underneath, running parallel to the arms made by the word "Philanthropy." The arms and the tree were green, the lettering being in white. A good deal of ill-feeling was engendered by the Society and bad language and rows were frequently occurring. But the culminating point was reached in February, 1843, during a big "haul of wood" for Bishop Fleming. There was considerable rivalry for the biggest load, and each side bore distinctive colors. The "Bush-born" and "Old Country" people had a difference of opinion as to which had the bigger load, and a row—in which a good many heads were broken—ensued. When Bishop Fleming heard of the circumstances, he called the ringleaders together, gave them a bit of advice, and caused them to unite the pink and green. This they did by sticking a bit of neutral white between, and thus was born the "native" flag as it is to-day. A few of the founders stuck to the plain pink for two or three years, but after the death of Mr. Barnes, and the blowing down of the Native Hall in September, 1846, the pink, white and green became the native flag.

Hauled Up Traps.

Acting under instructions from the Marine and Fisheries Department, two policemen and a sergeant were yesterday dispatched to Pouch Cove by the tug John Green. The purpose of the visit was to confiscate two traps which were set in berths supposed to be owned by other fishermen. With the assistance of ten fishermen of Pouch Cove the traps were taken from the water. Later they were brought in and landed at the King's wharf. Proceedings in the matter will come before the Supreme Court.

Owing to extra pressure on space, several important articles on local happenings are necessarily held over until to-morrow. Our apologies are offered contributors, who, we trust, will appreciate that the difficulty arises from circumstances over which we have no control.

McMurdo's Store News.

THURSDAY, June 24, 1920. Our display of Gillette Safety Razors is really quite fetching and we should be delighted to have you see them. There is the ordinary standard style the "Bulldog," the "Big Fellow," the compact styles, in nickel and gold plating suitable for presentation, being complete with soap, badger hair shaving brush and metal mirror; some of these sets are gold plated. If you are on for anything of this sort, come in and see us. Next, the new treatment for superfluous hair, is the thing you have been looking for. Certain, safe, odorless. Two sizes 75c. and $1.50. It sweetens your mouth, because it destroys all mouth acids. Pebeon Tooth Paste at all Druggists.—jue24,00d,tt

Anniversary of Discovery of Nfld.

To-day, June 24th, St. John the Evangelist's Day, is the anniversary of the discovery of Newfoundland by John Cabot, in a ship called the "Matthew," which sailed from Bristol on May 2nd, 1497. Cabot's reward for his discovery of Newfoundland was the sum of ten pounds out of the Priory Purse of King Henry VII.

To-day's Messages.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.
LONDONDERRY, June 24.
Irish rumors of a most alarming character are current here and Nationalist forces are said to be gathering to the northwest of the city preparatory to an attack, while Unionist adherents are entering the town and are being collected for a firm defence of the place. Several companies of British soldiers are on their way here from Belfast, but are making part of the trip on foot, it being feared that trains carrying them would be wrecked by lawless elements. Some troops arrived here yesterday and a British destroyer is lying in Lough Foyle, north of the city. The men engaged in actual fighting are the extremists of both contingent factions, and probably none only a few hundred. They absolutely terrorized the city yesterday, however, as they fired volleys down the streets from barricades they had erected, or, posted on roofs or in windows, shot at almost everyone who dared to appear. Bishops Street along the thoroughfare running southwestwardly from the town has been the principal battleground during the past twenty-four hours. Down Bishop's Street and along the River Foyle to the east there are a number of narrow crooked streets, in which there have been fierce encounters. Londonderry is facing starvation if fighting continues. It is impossible to deliver supplies to houses, and no one dares venture out of doors in the business section of the town.

A DESPICABLE THREAT.
DUBLIN, June 24.
Cardinal Logue, Archbishop of Armagh and Primate of Ireland, declared, while speaking at Maynooth College yesterday, that he had "received a warning that his time was set." The Cardinal declared he was grateful for this warning because it gave him time to prepare, adding "I have always tried to do what I could for my country, and have never consciously said a word to offend anybody, no matter what his religion or politics. If I come to a sudden end, there will be no justification for those responsible." No indication of the source of the warning was given the aged Cardinal.

ELEVEN DEAD.
BELFAST, June 24.
Two more deaths have occurred as a result of the fighting at Londonderry, bringing the total number of known dead up to eleven. A woman named Mills was killed "last" night while standing in her door, and William Rankin succumbed to wounds inflicted by Sinn Fein snipers, who fired upon him while he was on his way to feed his horses.

MORE TROOPS.
LONDONDERRY, June 24.
More British troops have arrived in this city and their greater activity in efforts to protect life and property has had a quieting effect. Only occasional shots were heard after midnight this morning. Two snipers have been arrested by the soldiers. Besides actually attacking Sinn Feiners with armoured cars and machine guns, the troops have done much rescue work. When it was reported last night that Sinn Feiners were about to attack a cluster of houses, armoured cars were rushed to the scene and the troops removed terrified women and children to another section of the town. The Gas Works have also been protected by armed men.

VANITIE HAD CLOSE WIN.
NEWPORT, R.I., June 23.
The Vanitie led the Resolute from the start of the tenth of the trial races, to select a defender of America's cup, to-day, but her margin at the finish was so slight that shore observers believed that the Resolute had won her seventh victory on time allowance. It was a twenty mile race, with windward and leeward legs, in which the Vanitie conceded one minute and eight seconds.

"Iolanthe."
 Another large and enthusiastic house stands to the credit of Prof.
 Mawer's amateur operatic troupe.
 Last night's performance was indeed a revelation to those privileged to witness the show. Seldom, if ever, has such splendid ensemble chorus work been heard in this city. The finale to the first act of the opera aroused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. The principals are one and all performing their various parts worthy of professionals. That Prof. Mawer has special talents for orchestral conducting was clearly shown by the very fine effects produced by this section of the performers. Mr. S. R. Steele at the piano won laurels for his musicianship. The orchestra was well balanced and under good control. Its subdued accompaniments for the soloists were admirable. Vocal honors were again carried off by Miss Elsie Herder, as the Queen of the Fairies who has a beautiful speaking voice as well as being the ideal songster for the role assigned to her. Praise is due to the charming conceptions of the parts of Lelia, Celia and Fieta by Misses Tilly Moncrieff-Mawer, Frances Gibb and Mrs. C. F. Garland respectively. The song rendered by Private Willis (A.
 R. Stansfield) at the opening of the second act was well received by the audience. Capt. O'Grady, the Lord Chancellor, is the making of the show and his efforts last evening won him many new admirers. Lieut. W. L.
 Woods, as Lord Mountararat and Mr.
 Leo Price as Lord Tollerol make a couple of ideal peers and their work is deserving of much praise. Mr. A.
 Laurence who plays Strepson has shown that he has talents above the ordinary. His enunciation is perfect and his beautiful tenor voice has aroused many comments of admiration. "Iolanthe" in the hands of Miss Mollie Ellis is well played, and as Phyllis, Miss Ida M. Howlett has again scored a splendid triumph in the very exacting role which she portrays. Her voice is ever fresh and her acting is all that could be desired. The opera will be repeated tonight, Friday and Saturday and we would commend it as one of the finest productions ever staged here either by an amateur or professional organization. It is expected that His Excellency the Governor will attend the performance to-morrow (Friday)
 evening.

Police Court.
 A number of young lads charged with the larceny of 1000 cigarettes, 8 boxes chocolate, 5 tins milk, 6 bottles
 Vanilla, 5 tins beef, 3 boxes biscuits,
 4 cakes, some loose silver and coppers, all valued at $44, the property of Jackman & Green, and on a second charge of breaking into the store of J. J. St. John, pleaded not guilty, although one admitted breaking a pane of glass in the store window. One of the boys, being in court for the first time, was let go on $100.00 bonds.
 Another who was before Court on previous occasions, was sent down for one month. The last of the bunch, a motherless child of ten, was let go on his own recognizances after a lecture from His Honor.
 Three other boys were charged with unlawfully attempting to enter the store of R. Gooby. The parents of these boys were in court and were placed under $50 bonds each for their children's future behaviour.
 Two other boys, and three of the lads previously convicted, were charged with stealing money from the store of J. Bindon. One of the three and one of the two other boys plead-not guilty, and the charge against them was withdrawn. One boy was placed under $50 bonds, the others having been previously placed.
 A drunk and disorderly was fined $2 or 7 days.

Dress Your Kiddies
 in 'Paul Jones' Middies

Because of the exceptional quality of Paul Jones Middies they stand the extraordinary hard wear of romping childhood. This means extra washing and here is where the quality of Paul Jones Middies shows itself—materials, fast colors, workmanship of highest character.
 Sister will especially appreciate this, for it means that her Paul Jones Middy too will hold its shape and character as long as it lasts.
 Countless thousands have found this out during almost 15 years, for Paul Jones Middies—the first girls' middies made—have been on the market that long. Quality alone has kept them in first place.

DeBEVOISE--Braissers that Beautify

A well made, properly fitting Brassiere will beautify the lines of your figure, the fit of your gowns—your entire appearance—while contributing unspeakably to your comfort and health.
 Only—select your Braissieres for their fit and effect on your figure rather than for their showy appearance in the store's showcase. "The fit's the thing."
 Camisoles, Nighties, Drawers, Shadowproof Underskirts, Sealpax Athletic Underwear, Hemstitched, Hand Embroidered and Lace-Trimmed Models.

Smashing Bargain In Summer Straws

$3 Men's Boaters for $1.50.

You need a straw for Summer—who doesn't? And even if you only thought you needed one, you'd be tempted to buy when we offer such a wonderful price inducement.

These came too late for last season—they were made to sell for $3—bought to sell for $3, and are equal to any straw on the street selling for much more.

Were we to buy them to-day we couldn't sell them for less than $4. And you know this is "Honest Injun" truth, because you can read in this paper what others are charging.

When we get a surplus of straws we don't believe in keeping them—no matter what the cost—so the reduction.

Fine weaved straws, medium brims, black band; or we can sell you a real silk band in colours to your taste.

TEN DOZEN ONLY, $1.50.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, May 17th, 1920.
PRINCE GEORGE.

Prince George, the youngest surviving son of the King and Queen, has completed his career as a cadet at the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth and is staying with his parents at Buckingham Palace. Shortly he will leave on a training cruiser for a voyage extending over the best part of a year. He will not be eighteen until December next, but already he wears over both the Prince of Wales and Prince Albert. He has a great liking for the sea.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Various signs are observable of a change in the purchasing power of the masses, notwithstanding nominal high wages and a tendency in some things to a fall in prices. I hear of a good deal of unemployment here and there in the London area, particularly among ex-service men; and it appears that the mere apprehension of a war on war wealth, which was expected to fall through because of the supposed impracticability of collection, has caused not a few employers to order an immediate shortening of staff. The anxieties of the Minister of Labor are likely to increase unless the housing schemes can be set going this summer. Retail traders tell me that during the past fortnight there has been a noticeable diminution of the free spending which has been so prevalent to them, and that a spirit of parsimony, and even of parsimony, is taking its place. The truth may be that people are finding out by experience that their "high" wages call for careful management as the former ones.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

The great increase in the membership of men's clubs in London is matched by the increasing popularity of women's clubs during the past year, and I hear that several of the best-known women's clubs are seeking larger premises. The Pioneer Club, which is one of the oldest, is presently leaving the charming Salisbury Dower House where it is lodged near St. James' Street, finding it altogether too small. The University Club for ladies in St. George's Street, Hanover Square, is moving to a larger home, and there is talk of the Forum Club, which was only opened eight months ago, making extensive additions to its accommodation. The secretary of one club points out that one main attraction of a club for busy professional women is that it is possible to get meals there much more quickly and more cheaply than in a restaurant, while many women who never belonged to a club before now find it a necessity since the domestic problem makes it so difficult to entertain their friends at home. It is a great relief to be able to ask them to a club.

GERMAN "SCOTCH" TWEEDS.

Scotch tweed cloths made in Germany are reported to be the latest evidence of Teutonic commercial marauding. During the past week a traveller of Swiss nationality has been calling upon clothing manufacturers and woollen merchants carrying a collection of patterns of tweed cloths. The printing and writing on the tabs provided evidence that the materials came from Germany; but the character of certain of the cloths, and also the price, led to the assumption that they might really be the genuine Scottish tweeds originally purchased by a Continental speculator and now offered back to buyers in this country. The traveller, however, declared that the materials were actually manufactured in Germany. One rather large bunch of patterns bore the legend "Scotch Cheviots," and they were not bad imitations of sports tweeds from Galashiels. Apparently Scotch tweeds made in Germany were nothing new to this traveller, although they aroused the curiosity of the persons to whom they were offered. The average price for the cloths, quoted in metres instead of yards, was higher than the present quotations of Scottish makers for the genuine product of their looms.

NEW DODGES OF LONDON BURGLES.

Discussing the matter of crime in London with an expert on the subject, I heard of some rather startling facts about the application of new inventions to the instruments of crime and the increased ingenuity of criminal methods. The Scotland Yard (the headquarters of the detective force in London) experts have recently been excited by the evidence of a new implement in burglary. Brass padlocks of a considerable size and of the best make have been found so crushed by some implement that the lock mechanism has fallen out, and the padlock become useless. The instrument, whatever it is, has had much the same effect as a nut-cracker on a nut. It is not thought possible that burglars could travel with a pneumatic power outfit, and direct hydraulic pressure does not explain it. So far as my informant was aware the character of the implement is still a mystery. The latest improvement in the methods of burglary is for the burglars, after breaking into a building, to have the building locked up again. This has been done in the case of one burglary, where, after an entry had been forced by the destruction of a padlock, a confederate of the gang, fitted on a new padlock and made the place secure, so that the policeman on duty when trying the door found everything as usual at the very moment when the burglars inside were packing up the goods. They made their exit by another way, and apparently took the stuff away by motor car.

He Feels Fine in the Morning Now, Says Fisherman.
Madden States Friends Are Surprised at His Improvement After Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac has been such a blessing to me that I feel I ought to tell everybody about it," said Philip Madden, well-known and prosperous fisherman living at Maddox Cove, near St. John's, Nfld.

"I must have spent over fifty dollars on medicines during the last six months, trying to get relief from the indigestion that has bothered me so badly for the last two years, but I might as well have thrown my money into the sea for all the good it did me," continued Mr. Madden. "My stomach was in such a bad fix that I couldn't eat a bite of anything, but what it would sour and form gas. I would have the most awful pains in my stomach after meals, and got so I was almost afraid to eat anything. I had terrible pains across the small of the back especially when I stooped over and was also bothered a lot with headaches and dizzy spells. I became so weak at last that whenever I tried to do a bit of work I would tremble all over and my legs would give way under me. I had a tired, heavy feeling all the time and became very downhearted and discouraged about my condition."

"When I heard so many people praising Tanlac I decided to give it a trial, although I never expected it would do me much good when everything else had failed. But now after taking three bottles I can't say enough good about it. My appetite has sharpened up my appetite right away, and it wasn't long before I could eat almost anything without ever suffering from pain or gas afterwards. The pains in my back have left me and I'm not bothered with headaches or dizzy spells any more. In fact it seems to have done my whole system good, for I've lost that tired feeling and have lots more life and energy. I sleep like a log every night and get up in the mornings feeling just fine. All my neighbors and friends are surprised at the improvement in my health and I never miss a chance to recommend Tanlac as the best of all medicines for such troubles as I had."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale; J. J. O'Brien, Cape Broyle.—adv.

BURGLES AND GARAGES.

Everyone must have noticed the big part that the motor car plays in modern crime. I am told that, just as horse dealers in the old days were generally suspect in districts where highwaymen abounded, so the garage and motor hirer of unknown antecedents is becoming suspect in burglary-ridden districts. Of course the number of motor car hirers who have been convicted of criminal practices is infinitesimal—indeed, it is about the same proportion as resellers are to honest jewelers. But it is obvious that if a burglary business is run on up-to-date lines a department which runs a motor garage is a valuable addition. Cars can go out and in at all hours, laden and unladen, without suspicion. A very interesting case in the East End, hardly reported in the London papers, has engaged a good deal of attention from criminologists. The gang in question had specialised on cigars and tobacco in the West End, but had not despised silk and cloth and linen. Two of the gang ran a garage, and did some honest business by day, burglary by night. They had a good run, but finally the police found the right information, and arrested four of them. The fifth member, and the most thoughtful of the party, finding that the game was up, and that the police were sure to go to the marine store dealer who resold their goods, went to the place himself, pretending to be a Scotland Yard detective, and frightened the reseller so much that he gave up the goods on condition of best-favored-nation treatment at the trial. The burglar then took them to another reseller and sold them once again. He did not profit much by his sharpness, as he was arrested and joined his brethren in the dock.

THE DANCING MASTERS.

A conference to put down "Bolshevism" in the balance seemed to be the real business at the Grafton Galleries, Regent Street, the other day, where dance instructors from all over the country met. Little progress was made towards the elimination of all that was "ugly, bad, and improper," and enthusiasts of the fox trot, the one-step, and the jazz and other individual variants might well be pardoned for reflecting that, whatever instructors were in a dancing hall, in conference they were strongly tainted with the sin so much discouraged in their pupils. The opening address of the chairman was in substance more in the nature of a plea for individual expression. The greatest struggle of the human race in the last few years, he said, had been against despotic autocracy. No military tyrant was more autocratic than the Victorian dancing master. In the dancing world a bid had been made for a right of individual expression. The origin was traced to Russia (ominous place!) to Nijinsky, Pavlova, and other famous stars. The whole tendency of the ballroom to-day, it appears, is in the direction of artistic Bolshevism. This, the conference was assured, would end in disaster and chaos, if law and order were cast on one side and the fundamental principles of dance technique entirely jettisoned. On the other hand, by combination of effort instructors might make of their pupils, if not Nijinsky and Pavlova, at any rate dancers whom it would be a pleasure to watch.

LOOK WHAT WE OFFER NOW
BOYS' CLOTHES
Are Cheap.

This is a fact! Still we know some of our readers are going to stop and say,—“Tain't so, nuthin is cheap!” But you are wrong, and there are various things cheap to-day, but the trouble is most people don't want cheap things. Times are changed since we were boys, when the sign of a good healthy boy was to go round with,—well, patches on his trousers. Accidents would occur sliding down trees and roofs, and getting over fences. But our story is,—we have just opened a range of

Boys' Am. Grey Tweed Suits,
 Two-Piece Suits to fit ages 9 to 14 years.
 Price Range being $9.60 to $10.60.

Boys' Heavy Khaki Drill Suits,
 Ages 4 years to 10 years. Only $4.90 suit, for all sizes.

These Khaki Suits will wear like a bit of iron. They are made Military Style but can be altered if required. The coat comes with four pockets, each with a Buttoned Flap, and Coat Buttons are detachable Military Metal Buttons. The Pants have two front pockets and one on the hip, and also Belt Support Straps. Consider this price of $4.90 and you will find nobody will even just make a boy's suit for that price to-day (excluding the materials), unless the boy's mother. And she will do this even if she doesn't get a vote; and who will say that a capable woman like that doesn't deserve one.

We have some other Boys' Tweed Suits in stock in odd sizes at prices of some time ago.

We have Boys' Tweed Pants in stock at low prices.

We have even some Boys' Odd Vests in stock at the moment.

TALKING ABOUT
Older Stock and Older Values,
 ALL OUR BOYS' COTTON SUITS AND BLOUSES ARE SELLING AT LAST YEAR'S PRICES, SO THEY ARE CHEAP AS WELL AS GOOD STYLES.

We had more Boys' Cotton Suits and Blouses last year than we had Summer. This year we hope we will have more Summer.

We Have a Good Range of Cotton Rompers for Little Chaps
 To tell the truth we purchased some of these this year, but you will find good values here despite that.

If the boy is going camping this Summer he may want an Oil Coat. We have them at last Fall's prices. Goods bought at this Spring's prices were mostly high, but the prices quoted for Fall staggered us. We can therefore advise you in all faith to buy before newer prices come into effect.

Methodist Conference.

Wednesday, June 23.
 The thirty-seventh session of the Nfld. Annual Conference opened in Wesley Methodist Church, June 23rd, 1920, at 9.30, the President, Rev. Geo. J. Bond, L.L.D., in the chair. After the singing of a hymn, Rev. W. J. Morris, acting secretary, read the scriptures and Revs. Atkinson and Browning and Mr. Geo. T. Hudson led in prayer. The roll call of Laymen elected by the Annual Districts and the Ministers of Conference was then given and fifty ministers and 27 laymen answered to their names. The President addressed the Conference setting forth the problems facing the church. The election of officers was then held. Rev. Dr. Fenwick was elected President on a second vote, securing 42 votes out of a total of 75. Rev. W. J. Morris was elected Secretary on a first vote. The following nominations were made and approved of by Conference:
 Statistical Secretary—Rev. E. Broughton.
 Asst. Secretaries—Revs. H. Coppin and C. R. Blount.
 Journal Secretaries—Revs. S. Bennett and A. Adams.
 Reporter in Chief—Rev. W. W. Cotton, D.S.O.
 One of the features of the morning session was the presence of Mrs. Eugene Lindsay, the first lady representative of the Nfld. Conference. She was accorded a hearty welcome by the Conference.
 The Rev. W. H. Browning, Secretary of the Station Committee, read the first draft of Stations. The final list will be read before the conclusion of Conference.
 Reporters for the Press.
 Advocate—Rev. J. Pitt.
 Herald—Rev. E. Anthony.
 Daily Star—Rev. G. L. Mercer.
 Daily News—Rev. C. L. Leitch.
 Telegram—Rev. I. F. Curtis.
 Guardian and Greeting—Rev. W. W. Cotton, D.S.O.
 Wesleyan—S. Baggs.
 Rev. H. Royle was extended the thanks of the Conference for his work as Secretary during the past year.
 The morning session closed with the Benediction by Rev. W. H. Browning, after which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered, being fostered. The institutions of 2.30, the President, Rev. Dr. Fenwick, in the chair. Rev. Wm. Harris led in prayer. The minutes of the previous session were read and confirmed. Resolutions and correspondence occupied the attention of the Conference until adjournment at 4 o'clock.
 The evening session began at 8, and was devoted to the interests of Education. Ex-President Bond was in the chair and after the reading and confirmation of the minutes dealt with the great needs of training in the work of the ministry. Ignorance was no longer regarded as an asset but both the college education and the experiences of life itself fitted men for the work of preaching. Professor Watson of Mount Allison was then introduced by Dr. Bond, and in one of the finest addresses heard by the Conference in recent years dealt with the subject of education. He expressed his pleasure at being in Newfoundland again and at the generous hospitality accorded him. He said knowledge was power, and showed what knowledge has achieved in the various departments of life. Wisdom was the product of knowledge and experience; it was knowledge crowned with reverence. Wisdom always recognizes God. The fears of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom. He illustrated the failure of knowledge and efficiency by reference to German ideals and modern German history. Not learning, not mere efficiency but character was the object of education; to make men good citizens, men who will stand in every sphere of life. The present trend in our young people was towards pleasure. At a Winnipeg convention to discuss the morality in the public schools by representatives of all classes and creeds it was assumed that moral standards were low. The cause of the lapse of morality was the neglect of the family altar. Its importance in the moral life of our people, and in laying the foundations of Christian character was truly great.
 The church was the mother of education; it could not carry on its work without education, and the history of education showed that it had been nurtured in the church. By reference to the ancient civilizations, Prof. Watson showed how in art, literature and laws, education was being fostered. The institutions of learning now so firmly established on the American continent were founded by men in the name of religion. The Methodist Church, started two hundred years ago, now numbered 32 millions. It had 17 colleges in Canada and Nfld. alone, with a property value of ten millions of dollars. No church was so interested in education and no church had so much money invested in education. Referring to Mount Allison University he mentioned that 6 "Mount A." men had been appointed Rhodes Scholars since 1914. Three of them, Pierson Curtis, Malcolm Hollett and W. Guy were from Nfld. After referring briefly to the history of Mount Allison and the representative men who had gone out

NOTES OF TRAVEL:

And Reminiscences of a Pleasant Tour

L. C. MORRIS.
CHAPTER XX.

WE VISIT MONTANA STATE PRISON.

Both mines and prisons impart a gloomy feeling, and only the few voluntarily enter them; but we wished to see the grave as well as the gay, in our tour; thus it was that we descended a mile and entered a prison. The prison of which we write is situated at a small town called Deer Lodge, which is about twenty-five miles from Montana. It is the State Prison of Montana, and, at the time of our visit, had within its precincts four hundred and eighty male prisoners, and to the honour of woman-hood, and the state itself, be it said, that there was only one female prisoner. The visiting day is Friday. Our party consisted of six persons; but there were also other visitors, who, like us, wanted to see themselves. We were all respectfully received by the staff, and after entering our names, one of the wardens took our party in charge, and escorted us through the prison, and over the grounds, and through all the industrial plants. We also visited the large hall which is used as a property room for church purposes, and for moving picture shows, and we also visited the hospital. The entire premises were more like some well-kept out, and well-kept plantation, or like some great estate, than like a prison. Walks and lawns without, and space and sanitation within, and men busily engaged in each department. The most of the prisoners work every day, and at regular hours, but they are not bound by the laws of the state to work; hence we saw a few who did not work.

Among such a large number of prisoners there are men of genius, and of every type of character, and of every art and trade. We saw some splendid specimens of men; both in physique and mentality. That such men should have been overcome in of the members were of the negro race, probably eight or ten of them. The music was thrilling, and hearing it under such strange conditions, made it all the more so; but still we could not get away from the fact that after all, these men were prisoners. Their faces were as varied as their instruments, and their devotion to their duties appeared to be very keen; but beneath it all, and behind the scene, there lay the hard, bare and immutable fact of life-imprisonment. They had forfeited their right to freedom; and citizenship to them, was but a lost condition and a fading memory. Their hours were limited to the sound of the prison bell, or to the shrill note of the turnkey's whistle. No evening stroll for them. No comfortable fireside for their leisure hours. No fascinating club room for their wit or music to be indulged in. Many of them, had, no doubt, in better days, enjoyed these comforts, and in their inner and better selves, they meditated upon them; but they could only meditate; and even though in their meditations they forgot their surroundings, and for the moment imagined themselves free and at liberty, they had to awake to the stern fact, that they were prisoners.

OPENED CHILDREN'S FESTIVAL AT FINCHLEY.

The Finchley Press (North London) of May 26, contains an interesting description of the Young People's Festival at that place, the opening ceremony of which was performed by Lord Morris, P.C. The object of the festival was to secure a gathering of the whole of the juvenile organizations in the district for the purpose of celebrating Whitsuntide and Empire Day. Several thousand young people, besides a large gathering of parents were present. Mr. C. S. Syrett as Chairman, and Mr. Geo. Froome as Hon. Secretary, of the Committee in charge of the arrangements, aided greatly in successfully carrying out the programme. The following extracts taken from that paper may be of interest to some of our readers:

OPENING CEREMONY AND SALUTING THE FLAG.

The Committee had been fortunate in securing Lord Morris, P.C., K.C.M.G., ex-Premier of Newfoundland, to perform the opening ceremony, and his lordship was accompanied by Lady Morris, Cr. W. C. Martin, as Chairman of the Finchley Council, presided, and he was supported by Mr. C. S. Syrett (President of the Juvenile Organizations Committee), Bishop White, of Honan, China, the Rev. S. B. Mayall, the Rev. S. W. Howe, Mrs. Martin, Mr. McMaster, Mrs. S. Wildash, Mr. J. Cogdale, etc. In front of the platform the different companies of Girl Guides and "Brownies," and troops of Boy Scouts and Cubs, formed three sides of a square, in the centre of which was the Bugle Band of the 2nd Finchley and Hendon Troop, with its drum-major and mascot in the form of a goat. Captain Mallam being in command. The 2nd West Finchley Girl Guides formed a guard of honour leading to the platform. The rest of the children and adults outlined the square.

Mr. C. Martin, for the Juvenile Organizations, said, they had with them that day a distinguished visitor in the person of Lord Morris, of St. John's, Newfoundland, who, for nine years, was Prime Minister of Britain's oldest colony, because of the great interest he took in young people and in organizations for the development and training of young people physically, mentally and morally, and because he came from a distant part of the great Empire of which they were so proud, they wished to extend to him a hearty welcome. They wished also to extend to Lady Morris a hearty welcome, and as an expression of their thanks to her presence one of the "Brownies" would ask her acceptance of a gift of flowers.

Lord Morris, who was cordially received, said he could assure them there was no function which he could be asked to take part in that gave him more pleasure than the festival they were celebrating that day. The spirit that was animating them that day was the spirit that found its echo in every part of the British Empire, and which he trusted would animate the children of the Empire for many generations to come. In the colonies they used to look forward to Queen Victoria's birthday as on that anniversary they had a statutory holiday. The anniversary of that great Queen's birthday became Empire Day. He felt it should be more than ever celebrated because it recalled the spirit and deeds that had won the Empire—the deeds of the fathers and brothers. The Empire was not held together by armies but by sentiment, patriotism and love of country, and liberty—liberty both civil and religious. He congratulated them on that splendid gathering and on that festival, which he hoped would be the forerunner of similar festivals for many years. (Applause.)

While Lord Morris was speaking, an aeroplane from Hendon encircled the grounds several times, and so low was its altitude the whirr of the propeller drowned his voice, and his lordship humorously remarked that he was now form of interruption that he was not yet acquainted with.

At the close of the ceremony, Lord Morris inspected the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides, and with Lady Morris was afterwards piloted through the grounds.

Missing Woman Found

Yesterday afternoon two men named Doyle and Jenkins, while searching in Cuckold's Cove for Mrs. Bartlett, came across her asleep under a boulder. They awakened her, and she asked for a drink of water, after procuring she was assisted to her home at the Block House. Dr. Fallon was called, and after an examination pronounced the woman mentally deranged but in good physical condition. She was conveyed to the Inmate Asylum in the ambulance. Mrs. Bartlett was absent from her home since early Saturday morning, and though large parties, including the C.I.B. and C.C.C. Brigades, the St. Bon's and Lower St. Scouts, scoured the country, they found no trace of her.

Wedding Bells.

MURRIN-WALL.
A very happy event took place, at Pouch Cove, on Sunday the 20th inst., when Mr. S. F. Murrin of this city, was united in Holy Matrimony to Miss Minnie H. Wall of that place, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. F. Pippy, P.P. The bride was attended by Miss Catherine Murrin, sister of the groom, while Mr. James Wall acted as best man. After a splendid repast at the home of the bride's parents, the happy couple motored to town to take up their new life at their residence No. 28 Hayward Ave., where we trust they will enjoy many years of wedded bliss.

Nothing But the Truth—Without Fear or Favour.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the B.L.S., under the new management of J. Cuthbert Channing, will go over the top against last year's champion—the Red Lions—now under the direction of Mr. J. H. Furnore.

The champions claim to have the most perfect infield ever seen here, though it's currently reported that they are weak on hits. Their new battery—Robertson and Coke Cahill—will be in action.

The Irish youngsters are in great form, and with Leary in the box promise to give a good account of themselves.

Opening game; score tied; game called owing to rain.

We never were known as a hasty cause. We are generally meek and mild. It is seldom or never we start a fuss, and it's seldom they get us riled.

But we're on the trail of a certain guy. There's a simp we are out to trim; and when we are finished his folks will buy a kimona of wood for him.

We will smite him even as Samson smote; we will leave him among the slain. Just show that fathead to us who wrote:—

"How beautiful is the rain."

Baseball is never won, or lost, until the last player is out, and the truth of this was amply illustrated yesterday afternoon when the newly formed C.E.I. team clashed with the veteran Wanderers in the opening game of the League series. What promised to be a gala opening was somewhat marred by the heavy showers which fell for an hour previous to the time appointed for the start. Despite the elements, a fairly large crowd of fans, (including some of the fair sex), had the courage to turn up at St. George's Field. After a conference, Umpires Chesman and Duff decided to start the fireworks, and Mayor Gosling, amidst the applause of the multitude, speeded the first one over the plate, thus declaring the season open. Andy Clouston connected with it right on the nose, and the spheroid went right to deep centre enabling Andy to make a circuit of the bases before it could be recovered. Winning the toss, Manager A. Harvey Thomas of the C.E.I.'s sent the Wanderers to bat, and with Thistle—his newly discovered southpaw in the box—commenced hostilities.

Clouston was given a walk, but he fooled McCrindle. Regan was safe on Gabriel's error and Clouston scored the first run for the season. Thomas pulled a clever force on Regan when Britt tapped out a slow roller. Alderice's fumble of Dillon's tap lost Britt going home, but he was too quick for Dillon, who attempted a wild steal to second, 2 runs. Manager T. B. Smith of the Wanderers went in the box himself. He fooled Alderice, but Harvey Thomas seemed to get him—though unsuccessfully—for after fouling a half-dozen he failed to reach first ahead of his grounder. Carter out at first, 3 runs. Smith connected and Donnelly was given a walk. The ever ambitious Smithy found Gabriel with the ball ready for him at third. Max Churchill lost Brown at first. Burton struck out. When Clouston got free transportation he filled the bases. Thistle had the "2 and 3" on McCrindle, but Max Churchill took his three healthies. Here Harvey gave his first exhibition of the shimmy to the amusement of the fans. Gabriel connected and his wild pitch forced another run in. Alderice pulled a nice force on Brown thus relieving the side, 1 run, before the Wanderers lightened up he was safe at third, and then Allan Churchill smote a beauty. The C.E.I.'s under the guidance of the great A.H. tried the famous double steal, but Gabriel was winded and was unable to take advantage of it. Drover's hit was good for three bags but he seemed satisfied with the second bag. Thistle struck out, 2 runs. Then it rained some more, and when it came down Harvey's crew went up. Britt started the fireworks when he poled out a triple. Dillon sacrificed scoring Britt. Smith safe on first and Donnelly's hit brought him home. Harvey got Burton's hot one, but when he threw it in the stand he allowed Regan to come in. Clouston got a doublesacker bringing home Burton. McCrindle skied a beauty, but Windsor was under it, 4 runs. The spirits of the Institute fans were now at a low ebb for the Smithsonians had a 5 run lead, and it looked as if the worst was yet to come. Not so, however, for Manager Thomas was just as perky as ever, and when Jimmy Alderice skied to McCrindle, Harvey held up the game whilst selecting his favorite bat. Ches rebuked him for the delay and A. H. gave him just as good as he sent. His antics seemed to affect Smith, for he threw over four wide ones and presented Harvey with a pass to first. Carter singled and Dobbin ruffed Churchill's pop fly to right field. Max displayed ivory when he ran down Carter on second. Taking advantage of the mixup, Thomas made a brave and valiant effort but died at the plate. Base Umpire Duff pulled a raw one on Churchill when McCrindle fumbled Gabriel's hot liner, thus retiring the side, 9 runs. The fourth innings were fruitless for either side, but in the beginning of the fifth "Old Sol" came out in all his glory, and the air seemed pregnant with big doings. The Wanderers were retired in quick succession by Thistle. This boy was first to bat for the red-and-white aggregation, but his successful efforts in the box apparently took the vision out of his lamps. Donnelly's error let Allan Churchill have all right, title, and interest in the initial sack. A well laid down punt by Harvey fooled Smith amid the plaudits of the assemblage. Nick Carter found a nice one, which filled the bases, as did Max, scoring Thomas and Churchill. Bases again sounded when Allan Churchill filed to McCrindle. The C.E.I. fans were in great glee, particularly when the noble Drover smote a deep left field bringing Carter and Churchill home. Manager Thomas was taking every advantage of the aeroplaning of the Wanderers lefts and was driving his brigade to it. Donnelly's error let in two more runs. The C.E.I.'s had turned an overwhelmingly defeat into what looked like victory, and were now leading by 1 run. Thistle failed in the pinch. Nothing daunted by Harvey's rally and their own blowing up, the Wanderers opened up the 6th round by McCrindle making a vicious jab, which Gabriel stabbed. His wild heave, however, was safety for Mac. Dobbin walked and Britt singled. Dillon poled one to centrefield, but the Institute boys nipped Dobbin over-sliding third but let in Britt. Things were looking brighter for the Wanderers with the score tied and the bases pickled. Donnelly biffed the cooze, but Regan was the boy in the gap and scored Dillon, thus giving them the lead again. Sinnott couldn't find Thistle, 2 runs. After their superhuman spurt in the late inning the pep just seemed to have oozed from the Thomastites and they were retired hitless. Thistle was now mixing his fast and slow one, which completely baffled the Wanderer crew, and they were again in the field after a brief and fruitless effort to find the southpaw's offerings.

Donnelly nabbed Gabriel's pop. Allan Churchill out at first, and Regan was chucked out under Drover's high one, 3 runs.

As it most disatisfied with the efforts of all concerned just at the beginning of the eighth, old Jupiter Pluvius uncorked the H 2-0 in good measure. Their majesties the Umps had no desire for a ducking and wanted to call the game but Harvey was most insistent that the game go on, as he felt confident they could reduce the Wanderers' lead, particularly with the heavy end of his batting list coming up, and he had no desire of presenting the laurel wreath to the Wanderer bunch. Stan Windsor hit a beauty but was too anxious to annex the keystone and perished. Jimmy Alderice found Smith's outcurve as did the gallant A. Harvey. With two Institute men on the bags the fans once more emitted loud roars of satisfaction and the rain failed to dampen the ardour of their spirits. When Carter repeated, Harv dug his toes in for second, and Umpire Duff who was standing on the baseline failed to hear his horn or see his lights, with the result that there was a head-on collision, and when Harvey came to his senses he found he had been revived by the means of a cold wee baseball in McCrindle's hands. In vain, did the valiant little C.E.I. manager expostulate and claim interference by the umpire. He crawled to the second bag and there camped out protesting most vehemently and pouring forth anathemas on all and sundry. The Wanderers deserted him for the restful players' bench, and Harv was left alone in his glory. Before he vacated, he expressed quite pronouncedly his opinions of umpires in general and of Mr. Duff in particular. The succeeding batter's efforts failed to produce anything but the "call" from Chief Chesman.

In a final effort to chase the players from the diamond, J. Pluv. produced his batteries, and amid deafening rolls of thunder interspersed with heavy flashes of lightning the final innings were begun with the score standing 10 to 3 in favor of the Wanderers and the one and only Bill Sinnott in the batters' box. He got a nice crack but before it reached terra firma Max had it gathered up. Andy Clouston's good eye netted him a two-bagger. The umpire wanted again to call the game but Harvey and his gallant little band wanted their big chance and turned deaf ears to Ches' appeal to "have a heart". Thistle walked Dobbin and on Britt's liner Jimmy Alderice pulled one of the quickest and neatest double-plays ever seen here. Then our old friend "J.P." who had made us aware of his presence all the afternoon, let loose the vials of wrath in all his fury. The C.E.I.'s wanted two runs to tie up the score. Max Churchill faced the enemy with an unflinching eye
