Female Motorists May Enjoy Additiona Pleasure Without Fear of Police.

New York, Sepr. 27.—Women may smoke as much as they choose while riding in automobiles, so far as the police department is concerned, according to an announcement made today by Police Commissioner McAdoo. This announcement came after much newspaper comment had followed an arrest of a member of an automobile party Sunday evening, the arresting policeman taking occasion to rebuke a woman in the automobile for smoking in public. "The smoking was only an incident of the generally disorderly character of those in the automobile." suid the commissioner today.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—The Dominion election campaign will be opened by Premier Laurier at Sorel tomorrow. The prime Laurier at Sorel tomorrow. The prime minister had a long conference this morning with the Governor-General, at which, it is understood, he gave reasons of Canada. It is presumed that these were he held to be good and sufficient, as in the course of a day or two His Excellency's proclamation dissolving the present parliament will be issued. The reason for withholding the announcement of the dates of nomination and polling arises from the fact that the government is still uncertain as to when the voters' lists for the unorganized district in Ontario will be ready, and a number of his country, and a number of his countrymen, participants in the recent interparliamentary conference at St. Louis, sailed from here for Europe to day. On board the steamship, before sailing, the count was waited upon by a committee of Boston Hungarians, who gave the count a message to carry to the Hungarians at home. The message in effect is to stay in the home land and make it a republic modeled after the United States with no less a person than Count Appony himself as the first with order of the new government.

Pittsfield, Mass., Sept. 26.—Hugh Gurney, third secretary to Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambasasdor, who has been spending the summer in Lenox, was this morning fined in the police ourt at Lee on two charges. court at Lee on two charges.

For contempt of court he was fined $25. A similar fine was imposed in a case charging him with speeding his automobile in Stockbridge, Sunday. Mr. Gurney, when arraigned in court, positively refused to plead, claiming that as "he was the third secretary to His Britannic Majesty he could not, under international law be arrested and held for any crime." Special Justice Phelps said he did not recognize international law in his court and informed the defendant that he must enter a plea. Despite this statement Mr. Gurney continued in his refusal. Then a fine was imposed for contempt of court. his refusal. Then a fine was imposed for contempt of court.

Mr. Gurney did not have in his possession sufficient money to pay the fine, and he was committed in the charge of an officer, Deputy Sheriff Noble of Stockbridge, who made the arrest. The officer accompanied Mr. Gurney to Lenox, where the money was secured.

Washington, Sept. 26.—Notice of the action of a special justice at Lee. Mass. Washington, Sept. 26.—Notice of the action of a special justice at Lee, Mass., in fining hugh Gurney, third secretary of the British embassy, was received at the American state department in a telegram from Mr. Raikes, first secretary of the embassy, who is at Lenox. The department immediately transmitted this telegram in substance to the Governor of Massachusetts with the suggestion that he do whatever might be Governor of Massachusetts with the suggestion that he do whatever might be necessary to secure the immunity of Mr. Gurney. It is believed at the department that the matter may be far more serious than the local officers at Leessem to regard it. In the first place, by constitutional and statutory law the persons attached to an embassy are expressly relieved from any legal responsibility and the exemption even extends to domestic servants. Section 4,063, Revised Statutes, declares that any writer prosecuted in any court of the United States of a state or by any judge or justice intended to cause imprisonment and carrest of any public minister or his servants shall be void. The succeeding a section provides that every person by whom such arrest is obtained or prosecuted whether as party or attorney, and it every officer concerned in its execution, shall be deemed a violator of the law of nations, and disturber of the public repose and shall be imprisoned for not more than three years and fined at the discretion of the court."

(Continued from page 2.) they sold it to us for 75 cents (gold) a they sold it to us for 75 cents (gold) a bottle. They had canned fruits and Armour's beef, and with what remained of our water-soaked stores, we made a good dinner. In the morning of August 8th it rained heavily still and we remained there, drying clothes over big charcoal fires, and het next day, ere noon, we resumed the trek north. Two miles north from Kaiping we came upon the field of battles there, the field being on two hills on either side of the road, both connected by a small stone bridge. On one of the hills was a large Mahommedan monument, a square tower of crumbling stone, wh ed to have been broken at a co seemed to have been broken at a corner by a shell. There were some well-constructed shelter trenches and several lines of trenches on the hill. with wire-entanglements that seemed very useless at the foot. We (I and the artist) scrambled down from the hill and rode north—and then it rained again. Whiting and Wallace, of the S. F. Bulletin, who had some up both got into a provide and Wallace, of the S. F. Bulletin, who had some up, both got into a spruit, while my pony made a good ford. The others went in to their saddles and got wet. We sheltered for a while at a hill-side temple and proceeded towards dark. Night fell with more rain, and it was a dark and dismal night. So to make things more interesting we lost our way. For several hours we staggered over muddy roads, floundering in mud that often reached almost to the horses' withers, and shortly before midnight we saw a distant light. It was a railway barracks and there were Japanese there. We shouted and finally a sentry came. The barracks was at the other side of a flooded spruit, and Prior and Burleigh were halted there, both lost. The sentry shouted that we must cross; so we crossed. And then things happened. sentry shouted that we must cross; so we crossed. And then things happened. Melton Prior's horse slipped and went down, carrying the veteran with him. Whiting and Wallace sprang into the spruit, having quickly dismounted, and dragged the artist out, he pluckly holding up his horse as well as he could. When we had forded the spruit and reached the station a guide came and when we had forded the spruit and reached the station a guide came and led us into the darkness. Suddenly his light went out and he disappeared. We were lost again. Vainly we searched through the kowliang and ultimately Wallace, Whiting and I found a Chinese chouse, where we pummelled on the door until we gained admittance, and then tired and weary we sleet.

By daylight, some soldiers who had discovered our whereabouts from the the Chinese came and brought us rice, tinned meat and beer. The Chinese gave us millet and tea. slept on the floor, wrapped in our horse blankets.

In the morning, behind the convoys of bullock carts and the heavy train-loads of supplies which the Chinese hauled, we rode towards Haicheug. There were many carcasses of horses on the road, and the way was thick with transports and moving soldiery. The railway barracks that had been loop-pholed and stockaded looked as though there had been recent fighting there; in fact. as we came to the towered gates of Haicheng the war seemed near.

The Russians are within shelling distance of the camp from where I write. I live in a Chinese official's house, in a room of a long row at the back of a wide courtyard, or compound. Since I took up my quarters here I have learned how the Russians are fortifying Anshon hill and all the countryside for fiften miles on either side of the railway; how they are holding the mountain passes, and digging miles of trenches,

Tion to Ruin New Battleship.

New York, Sept. 27.—The Herald tomorrow will print the following: With the intention of ruining the hull of the battleship Connecticut, which will be launched at the New York navy yard Wednesday, some person or persons placed an obstruction on the ways. How it was placed, or by whom, is not known, and it was not discovered until divers were sent down to make an investigation. This investigation was made as a matter of precaution and the naval officers then learned that an obstruction had been placed on the ways that would have destroyed the work of months.

H. M. S. Egeria have been engaged for

The various apartments will be rearranged according to plans which have been prepared by Architect F. S. Island Mining. — Island mining has made a really good showing during the past season, much work having been done on many promising claims. The first car of ore from the King Solomon mine was received at the Tyee smelter, Ladysmith, yesterday. The property belongs to J. McDonald, C. Ryan and R. McLay, and the ore is a copper pyrites carrying some gold and silver values.

Hotel Foundations. — Considerable adverse comment is heard amongst citizens generally at the incipient agitation which has broken out against the action of the C. P. In his opinion the contractors had no alternative in the matter. They must either work night and day, Sundays included, or cease work until next spmmer.

Young must have gone straight to Victoria, and before the police here could locate him he had been convicted of a theft there and sentenced to two months' imprisonment. Young was formerly a sign painter in this city."

(From Wednesday's Daily.) About Kitamaat.—Referring to a paragraph which appeared in print a few days ago to the effect that Lord Dundonald had made extensive purchases of property at Kitamaat, it is to be explained that it was not His Lordship, but his A. Captain Newton's purchase was made entirely on his own initiative and not, it may be stated authoritatively, on Lord Dundonald's suggestion.

Lost Life in Fire.—The body of a man was found burned to death in the fire which did $200,000 damage in the centre of Dawson Friday morning. The coroner's jury was not well enough satisfied to declare the identity of the body, but it feels almost certain that it was that of Harry Kaplan, son of Mrs. Alexander Kaplan, a well-to-do woman at 1104 Eddy street, San Francisco. Kaplan slept in a room under the place where the remains were found and has been missing since that time. The coroner's jury censures the proprietor of the Honovan hotel, where the man burned, for not calling his guests. It is reported that one or two others were burned, but this lacks corroboration. Alexander McDonald alone lost $38,000. Thirty-eight places of business, including six hotels, were destroyed. Some will ing six hotels, were destroyed. Some will ers of Merchants and Laborers Are Retiring From Russia.

Berlin, Sept. 28.—The Japanese refugees who lived in Russian territory at the outbreak of the war, will be sent across the German frontier October 1, or their way to Japan. The refugees consist mainly of merchants and laborers from east Siberia. They have been detained under surveillance since the war broke out, but the Russian government did not interpose difficulties to their present movement homeward. The active part taken by United States Anaphasador McCormick at St. Petersburg in collecting and forwarding the refugees and sending commissioners to distant ports of the empire, is greatly appreciated at the Japanese legation here. Considerable amounts of money and clothing have been collected in Germany to assist the needy Japanese. The German contributions in aid of the Japanese Red Cross Society since the outbreak of the war, amount to about $10,000.

It is pointed out that the strong currents that set around Albert Head are quite likely to have taken the corpses far away from that locality, but despite this likelyhood no efforts will be spared to recover the remains of the victims. this likelyhood no efforts will be spared to recover the remains of the victims. The Beryl and Topaz, which were built at the Victoria Machinery Depat Company's yards, are specially well fitted for such a search as is now being carried on, as they have all the apparatus necessary for grappling for mines, and lifting and laying submarine material used by the Royal Engineers in their multifarious duties. The vessels are high-powered and can attain a fine rate of speed under forced draught. The search for the bodies of the unfortunate men will be carried on vigorously until it is certain that they are not anywhere in the vicinity of the spot where they were last seen.

MACHAON TO SAIL THURSDAY.

The Blue Funnel line steamship Machaon, which is loading general cargo at Tacoma for the Orient and Europe, is scheduled to depart from port Thursday morning. She will have a full cargo, consisting of flour, lumber, nails, domestics and the usual export merchandise. NARROW ESCAPE.

The steamer Queen is in port today discharging freight from San Francisco, says the Tacoma News.

Yesterday, when entering the port of Seattle, the Queen came near having a serious collision with the out-going Pacific coast steamer Umatilla, There was a heavy fog and it was impossible to see any distance from either steamer, when the Queen was suddenly found to be heading directly into the Umatilla. By reversing the engines a collision was a overted, but it is claimed that only a few feet of space divided the two steam

Captain Syvertsen, when seen by a reporter for the Daily News, said he was not aware that steel rails is contraband of war, and that he believed it was not aware that steel rails is confitraband of war, and that he believed it was not.

"Many people have been trying to scare me about this cargo. In San Francisco it is claimed that there are two trails, but I don't believe that either. It does not stand to reason that the Russians will try to intercept us in the Pacific, even if they have any war vessels there. Where would they take us? They could not take us to Vladivostock—the Japs would intercept them. They could not take us around through the Suez canal, for they would be intercepted that way.

"No, even if the cargo was contraband of war, there is no danger. The Russians are too well tied up. Our charter calls for delivery at Yokohama. We are chartered by American parties and we deliver up. chartered by American parties and we

THE PROMOTERS

Mr. Alfred Baker dropped into the Free Press office at Nanaimo the other day and explained how he came to be lost. He had shot a deer and was following it up. Four times he knocked it down, but it finally got away from him. Then he attempted to make his way back to camp, crossed what must have been Green river and struck the trail to Buttle mountain, under the impression that it was the trail he wanted. About noon he realized that something was wrong, but decided that the best thing to do was to keep on going. He camped at night and reached Buttle mountain late next day, utterly worn out, having been without food many hours. There he waited until the men at the mine were ready to come out on Friday, not feeling equal, after his experience, to undertaking the trip back alone, and also being somewhat afrail of the wolves as he was out of cartification and also being somewhat afrail of the wolves as he was out of cartification and also being somewhat afrail of the wolves as he was out of cartification and also being somewhat afrail of the wolves as he was out of cartification.

Mr. Baker says game is very plentified out there and anyone who wants else word of cartification and wolves are also numerous.

Tuesday, by which the government here managed to obtain the revocation of the city charter. I guess you have read all about it in the Colonist, as I understand that a full report of the crooked work was wired outside the evening of the election. They are certainly running things here in a high-handed manner, and it is no wonder that so many good Canadians are leaving for Tanana, where they take out their papers and become United States citizens. I am sending you a paper, by which you will see that I figured a little in this last election. I just tried out the government grafters to see what they were up to, and sure enough they dropped into the trap. It is something awful the way they are doing things up here, and a they are allowed to run on this way away they are doing thought they are allowed to run on this way away they are doing they dropped into the trap. General Kuropatkin's Headquarters on the field, via Tientsin, Sept. 30.—The most interesting military problem at present is how large a Russian army the railway can support in Manchuria. While the army is south of Harbin, almost all the necessary road supplies can be obtained in the country. The farther north it goes, the more it must depend on the railroad, while at the same time the Japanese will gain an advantage by having an increased country area to the Japanese will gain an advantage by having an increased country area to draw from. The richest section of Manchuria is the country of which Liaoyang is the principal market, and the crops in that section this season are unusually good. Merchants who are acquainted with the country state that if General Kuropatkin should retreat to Harbin he must then bring nearly every pound of food by means of the railway, especially as this year's crop in the Sungarivalley has proved a failure. Besides this every horse for the Russian commander must be brought over the railway. If winter campaigning is attempted, on which point there is much speculation, it will become increasingly difficult so as to render intrenching operations almost inwill become increasingly dimcuit so as to render intrenching operations almost impossible. The organization of the Japanese army continues to be as efficient as it has been since the beginning of the campaign. Most of the troops were equipped with winter clothing when the first cold weather arrived and khaki has been replaced by heavier material with remarkable quickness.

The steamer Fingal arrived this afternoon with the startling news that a big white steamer had run ashore in the fog in the Narrows. Since then several steamers have arrived, but they reported having seen nothing. Search parties have also returned, reporting that they could not find the supposed wreck. The fog is very dense, however, and the search is still being made.
