The "Maine" was blown up by a floating torpedo or mine. Washington, March 25.—The coast of Newfound land, Saturday afternoon with the main disaster reported that the loss of the battleship was due to an outside explosion. The Spanish naval commission held two extended sessions to day, on at 10:30 a. m. and another at 3 p. m., at which the report was considered in detail.

Washington, March 27.—The Associated Press presents a complete abstract of the court of enquiry which investigated the wreck of the battleship Maine. This abstract is made for the purpose of providing a record which was obtained to-day despite official secrecy unparalleled in the handling of official reports.

First.—The court find that at the time of the explosion the battleship Maine was lying in five and one half to six fathoms of water. Second.—The discipline aboard the ship was excellent everything being done in accordance with orders—ammunition, guns, stores, etc. The temperature of the magazines at 8 p. m. was normal, except in the forward magazine, and that did not explode.

Third.—The explosion occurred at 9:40 o'clock on the evening of February 15. There were two explosions, the first about the interval between the ship lashed to the first explosion.

Fourth.—The court can form no definite opinion of the condition of the wreck from the direct evidence. Fifth.—Technical details of wreckage from which court deduce that a mine was exploded under the ship on the port side.

Sixth.—The explosion was due to no fault of the crew. Seventh.—Opinion of the court stating that the explosion of the mine caused the explosion of the two magazines.

Eighth.—The court declares that it cannot fix the responsibility. The report is unanimous and is signed by all the members of the court. It does not refer to the existence or non existence of mines in the harbor of Havana, except in the opinion of the two magazines was caused by the explosion of a mine.

The report as a whole is a formal, dispassionate recital of facts, and bears the stamp of that strict officialism which marks naval proceedings. It is brief, not exceeding 1800 words, and among the eight parts, goes to the heart of the matter.

Something about "Feron" 2:24. The station Feron, owned by M. D. Messinger, of Kingston, made his debut to the admirers of good horses in Bridgetown, recently. He has a horse of fine uniformity, great intelligence and game and is a pure line trotter.

Mr. Messinger is too modest to boast of speed, but he is not all backward in showing his horse and testing his qualities with the aid of a horse to be sought after on his merits alone. He is 15 1/2 hands high and weighs 1055 lbs. in road condition.

His sire, Alton, 2074, by Jay Bird one of Geo. Wilkes' best sons. His dam was by Manbrino Boy, considered by many to be the best son of Manbrino Patchen. The second dam of Alton was by Geo. Wilkes. Alton's first dam had two foals, one had a three year old record of 2:22 to high wheel sulky, the other a year old record, same way of going 2:20. It is claimed there is another mare living with but two foals that has ever made a showing as a race horse.

Alton's record of 2:24 is no limit of his speed, having frequently in his few weeks' work in the September showed quarters in 22 sec. He is strongly bred in most fashionable lines, and in the opinion of every expert is placed at the head of any stock farm in this or any other country. The Alton-Director-Diamond Pattern blood produces extreme speed and race horses.

The report of the sale gave Feron as the bargain of the sale. His sire, Alton, 2074, by Jay Bird one of Geo. Wilkes' best sons. His dam was by Manbrino Boy, considered by many to be the best son of Manbrino Patchen. The second dam of Alton was by Geo. Wilkes.

A Sealing Horror. The sealer Greenland sailed into Bay de Verde, a fishing harbor on the north side of Newfoundland, Saturday afternoon with the main disaster reported that the loss of the battleship was due to an outside explosion.

Nearly one-half of the Greenland's crew of 300 men drifted away from their ship on an ice floe last Tuesday, and perished in a severe storm which sprang up that afternoon. In addition, 25 men are missing and have likely perished. The Greenland, a tall ship from St. John's, Newfoundland, and was the first of March on her last voyage. She was commanded by Capt. George Harbord, and carried a crew of nearly 300 men.

The vessel was bound northward with the rest of the fleet, but after a couple of days she diverged on a separate track. She reached the hunting ground not long after. All went well until a severe storm overtook her on the 22nd. She was quickly encountered and several good packs were secured. On Tuesday morning the hunters left the ship about seven o'clock usual. The lookouts in the crow's nest reported everything all right.

The men were clad in light clothing for the slaughter of seals in the open sea. The ice floe was not very thick and they were able to land from the hospitable shelter of the ice floe. They were not long in getting them out from view. The ice floe parted and they drifted away from the steamer. Many of them drifted to certain destruction. The fruit crop of Kansas. The cold in winter. Arctic ice was broken up and it is estimated that the loss of the crop during the past week at Victoria. Four Europeans were among the victims.

Correspondence. We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions of our correspondents. Editor Monitor.—I was just about to rise to a point of order, and say that your correspondent had greatly misstated from the above account of the disaster. The very large majority of the ministers of churches, as well as the members of the various societies, are in a state of mourning. But I am glad that Brother "Brown" and "Jim" have brought the main question into the fore-ground again. As a priest, myself, not after the order of Levi, nor of Melchizedek, but of the order of Aaron, I shall have to say that the Holy Ghost made, with others, "a king and a priest unto God," by Jesus Christ, Rev. 1:5, 6, 8, 10. I shall have some things more to say on the subject of prohibition, and great questions of the day.—I am loading up with "Sunday School politics," and "biblical" "grammars," and will be ready to fire before many days; when I get my "lines" laid and "batons" all ready, I advise "Jim" and his friends, to get out of the range of my gun.

Best sincerely yours, J. L. M. YOUNG. Bear River, N. K., March 28th, 1898.

NEWS OF THE WORLD. The next session of the Supreme Court of Canada will be held on the 13th of May. The public debt of France is the largest in the world and amounts to something like $8,000,000,000.

It has been the means of restoring my wife to good health. She was stricken down with an attack of nervous prostration. She suffered with headaches and her nerves were under severe strain. She became very low spirited and so weak she could only do a little work without resting. Her appetite was poor, and being so weak she could not get the proper rest at night. She decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, as we had heard it highly praised, and I am glad to state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has perfectly cured all her ailments." G. To Our Customers: We have decided to make radical change in our business, beginning with the 1st day of November, 1897. Hitherto we have kept long-standing accounts on our books, and some have become bad debts, and are consequently lost. Merchants who do a credit business have to add a sufficient profit to their prices to cover all such losses.

We propose on and after the 1st of November to sell all our goods for the prices marked opposite them in our circulars, which will place in the hands of our customers at once. These circulars will be replaced from time to time as prices change.

We also wish to state that we are desirous of purchasing all kinds of farm produce, for which we are paying highest prices. All produce will be paid for either in goods or cash at the time it is delivered, so that there will be no balance standing over either one way or the other. We will save in a month's bill of goods if you purchase at our reduced prices. We think there is money in it for you.

GROCERIES FOR MUCH LESS THAN EVER BEFORE. You will have a sure market for all your farm produce. On the other hand, you will have no bad bills and no large profits. Such an arrangement, we think will give satisfaction to all concerned.

In regard to our goods and departments, we wish to state that the same system will apply; that is A Discount of 15 per cent on present prices.

In conclusion we ask you to look carefully through our circular, which will be in your hands in a few days, and estimate how much you will save in a month's bill of goods if you purchase at our reduced prices. We think there is money in it for you.

Yours faithfully, KINNEY & SHAFNER.

Spring is almost here. With spring comes house-cleaning, and with house-cleaning comes paper hanging.

For several years now sanitation has been receiving considerable attention from the thinking public, yet not more than the importance of the subject deserves.

"One of the first places I visited in Kentucky," said the bishop, "was Lebanon, where I went with our friend Walter there."

"I killed Lebanon one visit," he went to bed at the tavern, and left Walter sitting up. "I thought I must have been the sight when I was awakened by a vigor."

"Well, I want this hyar question settled," the cleric asserted was saying. "I had a Plunged down my way say that I want to wear a white or black gown."

Varieties of Celery.

THE SPECIAL MERITS OF WHITE PLUME, GOLDEN SELF-BLANCHING AND FIAMMA.

A New York farmer whose crop of celery is about all marketed, writes to The National Stockman on varieties of celery, drops some valuable hints and suggestions for others.

Each year I learn something about its culture, and some notes on the season's crop may be of interest to the amateur engaged in growing celery for market.

For marketing from June until November I have found nothing to take the place of the White Plume. It is not the best quality, but when it grows rapidly in rich soil it is of the quality of the best celery that grows under ordinary conditions.

There is no other variety that can be blancheted for early use so well with boards, as it blanches under its own weight, and it is not so liable to rot as the other varieties.

It blanches so quickly after the blanching boards are set up that the same boards can be moved three or four times to blanch a crop of celery.

I have found that the best time to set up the boards is on the 15th of October, and that the celery should be ready for market on the 1st of November.

Many persons cannot take plain cod-liver oil.

They cannot digest it. It upsets the stomach. Knowing these things, we have digested the oil in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites; that is, we have broken it up into little globules, or droplets.

We use machinery to do the work of the digestive organs, and you obtain the good effects of the digested oil at once. That is why you can take Scott's Emulsion.

The Household.

Household.

There are few plants that thrive better in a dwelling house than fuchsias. Their grace and beauty and free-flowering qualities always make them attractive plants. Indeed, few plants will repay more fully the trouble of growing them than the fuchsia. Now, to grow fuchsias is a very easy matter, but to grow first-class plants is very difficult, indeed. It requires knowledge of the plant in hand, patience, and persevering attention. Yet with a love for the fuchsia all difficulties can be overcome and the admiration of friends as they look upon your plants will more than make up for your trouble. Now here, as in everything else, a mistake at the beginning is a sure cause of failure. The cuttings selected should be strong, healthy, and short-jointed, with not less than two or three joints under the sand when inserted in the cutting pot. Each cutting should be struck (rooted) singly in a thumb pot, kept just as if it was an ordinary cutting. Plunge them close and moist. A cutting should never become dry from the time it is put in until it is rooted as it causes the pot to become hard and it is impossible to make good plants from it. It should be kept sufficiently to keep the leaves from dropping, until they show signs of fresh growth; then let them be gradually exposed, hardening them more and more each day. February 15, I consider the best month to strike them. As soon as they have made a good start to grow, and the young roots show through the bottom of the pots, give them water. Let the plants dry at the time of shifting, but if anything, rather on the wet side; for, when plants are shifted from one pot to another they are sure to lose a certain amount of supply; therefore, let the soil be moist and firmly placed around the ball. This is rather a delicate operation, but I think it will be sufficient to say that the plants must be transferred with great care as possible from the small pot to the larger, so that they receive no stoppage in their growth; for if they do, the work becomes hard, lower buds appear and sturdiness and, and they are perfectly useless for years, which always give such large, rich flowers. The plants must be kept growing. Always strive to have the best material for any use. And then as the look-up the saw one of the mounds standing in the doorway holding up her hands and her mouth wide open in holy rapture.

Jobber's Corner.

Her Only Attempt.

THE UNFORTUNATE RESULT OF A YOUNG WIFE'S EFFORT TO REFORM HER HUSBAND.

The wife of a young South Side doctor had been greatly worried for some time by her husband's bad habit of mild swearing. Time and again she had pleaded with him to leave it off, but all to no avail.

Finally she hit upon a bright idea. Whenever she heard him swear she would swear with just a little more vehemence, hoping in that way to shock him out of the habit. It would be hard for her, she knew, but the game was more than worth the candle, so she bravely started in.

On the morning after she took this resolve came her first opportunity to see her husband's nerves the shock she thought would do him good. As they walked up the steps together on returning from a morning call the young doctor found the front door unlocked in violation of his express orders.

"Dash those dashed madmen!" he ejaculated. "Why don't they keep this front door locked?"

And then his wife began: "That's what I say, too, dash it all. Haven't they got sense in their dashed heads?"

This utterance on the part of his wife took the young doctor rather by surprise, but he was too angry to see the meaning of her behavior. So when he got inside and discovered that such was not ready on time he began again:

"Why, dash it all! I wish it were late again. What do these dashed girls mean by keeping me waiting every day?"

"Dash it all, you say? That's what I'll do! My wife talked in 'em. 'They're too dashed for any use.' And then as the look-up the saw one of the mounds standing in the doorway holding up her hands and her mouth wide open in holy rapture.
