The collier is likely to become a familiar figure in Kent before long. Sixty years ago, amounting in all to 146,000, have been discovered in the boring operations at Dover. Sir E. Watkin said at Ashford, that the success of the experiment is now well assured.

Germany, like England, has a high reputation for its cheese, but in spite of that she adds more than twice as much to her population in one year as France adds in five years. The population of the German Empire is now greater by ten millions than the population of France.

In a return obtained by Mr. Bari, it is estimated that in England there are 1,200,000 persons of all classes over the age of sixty-five, and that 245,000 of these are receiving parish relief. That is at least one person out of seven, counting even the aged, becomes a pauper at or after that age.

At the London Mission House recently a Scotch lady called to see the Foreign Secretary (Rev. R. Wardlaw Thompson), and placed in his hands a packet containing a gift from her husband and herself. On being opened it was found to contain 2425 lb. 2d. She declined to give her name, and desired only that it be acknowledged in the report as 'lady not up to the holding.'

There is an existence a substance other than a jewel of the purest water, which is worth no less than sixty times its weight in pure gold. A cultivated lady, presiding over a pleasant home in one of Boston's suburbs lately took her three daughters to call upon Mr. Whittier at his home in Amesbury. The poet received them cordially, kissing the youngest, a bright little girl of ten. 'There's said the delighted mother to the child, 'now you, as well as your sisters, will have something to be proud of. 'What is that?' asked Whittier, with interest. The lady explained that when her older daughters were children she had taken them to call upon Longfellow, who had bestowed upon them a similar mark of attention. 'What Longfellow has done I surely may be permitted to do,' said the grand old poet gallantly, and stooping his tall form, he kissed both young ladies, who blushed and looked conscious, but smiled delightfully.

JINGLES OF HUMOR.

A Little Non-sense Gathered for Leisure Reading.

The fish that has left the hook knows the danger of misjudgment.

Teacher. What is the feminine of man? Little girl. Duke.

He. I can assure you that I am a bachelor from choice. She. So I suppose; but whose choice?

Brown. How's your baby's health, New-wood? Sound and fine! New-wood. Yes, I sometimes think it's all sound.

Is your play realistic? Well, I should say it is. I have a young wife make a sponge cake on the stove, and give it to her husband, who eats it and dies upon the spot.

Purse-proud father. So you hope to marry my daughter; do you? Well, young man, what are your prospects in life? Ambitions young man. I hope to marry your daughter.

Carrie. George has asked me to be his wife. I hope he loves me. You don't suppose he wants me only for my money? Kate. I don't know, but some men will do anything for money.

What is the matter, dear? Smedley swif's happened, mamma. Well, what is it sweetheart? My d-d-d-baby got away from me and broke a plate out in the parlor.

Beaver. That was a sad thing about Bill-derwick. He ordered a $75 overcoat, and the day after it was delivered he was taken down with typhoid, and won't be able to wear it for a year.

Melton. Will he be able to wear it next year? Beaver. Oh, yes! But that of having to wear a new overcoat the same year you pay for it.

After Danvers of the "Grip." Boston papers facetiously remark that "La Grippe is seldom fatal unless you use all the remedies recommended for it."

They are correct. The writer fully believes that the end of the poor 'grip' victim if he tried all the patent medicines that have adorned the pages of our leading newspapers as 'sure cures for La Grippe,' would be like Mark Twain, who for his famous old trick every remedy advised by friends, until his stomach became so weak he began to vomit and continued until, as he avers, he was like to throw up his immortal soul. We notice one of the leading advertisers of the day has been conspicuous at this opportune time by the absence of any claim to cure the 'grip.' This certainly deserves a 'chance' and we feel like giving them a 'ad' for their compassion upon our readers. The more so for the reason that probably more people have used their remedy, that good old family medicine, Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for this foreign influenza, than all others combined. And why not? Certainly no other will relieve catarrhal colds, coughs, bronchial troubles, or neuralgic pains, as promptly as all genuine or real La Grippe. Herein lies the real danger from this epidemic of influenza; it leaves the mucous membrane lining of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes tender and very susceptible to the catarrhal troubles and pneumonia, which come with February and March in our northern climate. We shall still pin our faith to the remedy for this after danger which acts promptly to allay inflammation; for therein lies the chief danger from the throat and lung troubles, and surely a remedy that the friends that Johnson's Anodyne Liniment has, after eighty years' trial by a critical public, and has been used for the 'grip' more extensively than all the advertised remedies, deserves, as we said, a medal, and has before it we hope a prosperous year as an ointment. L. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., the manufacturers will send a valuable pamphlet free.

The people of Paris have consumed last year 21,221 horses, 229 donkeys, and forty mules, the most weighing, according to the returns, 4,015 tons. At the 150 shops and stalls where this kind of food is sold the price has varied from two pence a pound to ten pence, the latter being the price of superior horse steaks.

A lady living at Birmingham, in every case of conviction in the local police court for cruelty to animals, cuts out the newspaper report, and encloses with it with a postal order for half-a-crown and posts it to the constable who prosecuted. Several officers have been the happy recipients of this reward, but no one has the least idea from whom the money comes.

Age does not at present seem to effect Ross Bonheur's power or her capacity to earn large sums. She is now well into the seventies, but she has just completed one of the largest pictures she has ever painted. It has occupied her three years and she has already been offered and refused £12,000 for it. The scene depicted is that of ten horses, life-size in full trot, treading out corn.

The Queen is by no means fond of jewelry. She simply wears two enamel bracelets, each containing a portrait. The one worn on the right arm contains the portrait of the Prince Consort, and on the left that of Her Majesty's youngest great-grandchild. The Queen says: 'On the right wrist, I carry my first and greatest love, and on the left, the last bond that it had pleased God to allow me to look upon.'

FREEDOM, SELF-GOVERNMENT.

Considering the result of recent elections, which in almost every case sustains the government at Ottawa in all its delinquencies as regards individual members, the question may well be asked, are we as a people fit for self-government, and this question is punctuated still more when we come to look at the returns in Amherst which give the Tory candidate a thousand majority over his reform competitor. Now this paper is far from political bias as any under the sun—it knows no distinctive party—not is it influenced by a living soul outside the sanctum. Therefore, it can afford to look on at the cunningness and crookedness of parties through honest glasses. We ask, then, are all the stories that have been told and read during the last twelve months about boodling, true, false or greatly exaggerated? Surely enough evidence has been produced in the different investigations held last summer to confirm the belief that immense sums of public money have been used to debauch the different constituencies and thus keep in power the men who have been found guilty, either of gross carelessness or downright robbery. There is in the face of such testimony, how is it possible that a majority of one thousand voters are to be found in a single constituency like Amherst, to condone the offences, actually encourage a government to do the same thing over again, for by electing their supporter and advocate they give a premium to this and all other political scandals. The Quebecers are bad enough—for they are a spurious lot up there—but a constituency of one of the Maritime Provinces, where all the wood is here and the water clear for the benefit of the western bidders to look on tamely, nay, pat such conduct on the back is a matter so outrageous that it leads to but one conclusion, viz.: That we are unfit for local self-government, only fit to be led by the nose by pasty demagogues and despots. Why twenty years ago Canada seemed to be more respecting than she is to-day—for then the "Pacific Scandal" had not more than come to light when all party difference seemed to have merged into one universal shriek of "turn the rascals out"—and they were turned out. To-day the scandals are even greater, and yet so strong has become the resolutely party-feeling throughout the country, that the eyes and ears of one party are altogether closed to the offences of the other. "Plunder" while the chance lasts is the rule of faith. No surrender until the people are either bank-ruined, or made to see their folly through the interposition of providence whose judgment is slow in coming, but will be here at last. Then we come back to the question—are we fit for self-government, and the negative reply may be found in the conduct of the Amherst constituency which gives a majority of one thousand !!! on the side of misgovernment. The Montreal Witness, commenting on the result of the Cumberland election, says "Nova Scotia seems to be fairly captivated by the corruption of the Dominion government. Nova Scotia, it is said, are horrified over the Quebec exposures, and they would probably turn up their noses and the whites of their eyes should the habitants condone the corruption of Mercier and his colleagues and declare that the French-Canadians were not fit for self-government. They had better remove the beam from their own eye before they attempt to remove the mote from the eye of the people of Quebec, who seem inclined to act with a far greater degree of public spirit than the people of Nova Scotia."

REVIVAL OF BARBAROUS CUSTOMS.

Long before these provinces entered the Dominion the custom of punishment by the lash was done away with as one of the barbarities of a by-gone dark age when the pillory and thumb screws were recognized as indispensable punishments due for certain offences. This refinement has since been re-established as one of the inheritances of condescension, and the demoralizing beauty of the lash is once more flaunted in the face of the public by long discussing newspaper accounts, even the minutiae, of the punishment as inflicted upon the poor miserable wretch who received twenty lashes on the bare back last Monday afternoon in St. John. The punishment is barbarous enough, but for the readers of the newspapers to be informed of all the disgusting details is anything but the exhibition of refined journalistic taste. Executions now-a-days are confined within the limits of the prison yard, as it has long since been considered demoralizing to hang a culprit in public. But it is not just as had to publish the nauseous details of the sufferings of the poor wretch, and thus harrow up the feelings of the community? The supplicating howls for mercy by the poor wretch who was lashed last Monday and the pitiable language he used is passed, not in words of condemnation of the whole proceeding, but simply to tell it as a bit of common news!

COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS.

We notice that Ald. Farrell, at the last meeting of the council board, intimated that at the next meeting of the council he would bring up the matter of "Mischellaneous Licenses," which we suppose includes commercial travellers, who were made exempt from taxation a couple of years ago by a decree of the board, which at the time was considered to be a very unfair proceeding by many of our citizens. Free Trade is all very well in certain cases, but it is not so when our own citizens are subject to heavy taxes in carrying on their business and travellers are allowed to come in, pay nothing and compete and underbid them, to their great injury. This tax should never

I was walking with papa on the parade at Brighton, when suddenly papa stopped, and pointing him out, said, 'There, my dear, is a man worth £20,000 a year.''

A man while fishing, suddenly fell into the water. A fellow-fisherman, of benevolent aspect, promptly helped him out, laid him on his back, and then began to scratch his head in a puzzled way.

'What's the matter?' asked the bystander, 'why don't you revive him?'

'There are sixteen rules to revive drowned persons,' said the benevolent man, 'and I know 'em all, but I can't call to mind which comes first.''

At this point the rescued man opened his eyes, and said faintly—

'Is there anything about giving brandy in the rules?'

'Yes.'

One would imagine that the paper currency of the country was a solemn business institution, with no humor about it, but if you come much in contact with bank-notes—I refer specially to Scotch notes—he is struck with the really humorous effusions which the backs of many of them are so liberally furnished with.

By far the commonest quotation awarded on the reverse side of the pound note is the line from the Jacobite song, "Will ye no come back again?" I have seen this line followed by the writer's initials together with the date, and personally I have known of only one case where a note thus marked returned, after a lapse of time, in the ordinary course of circulation, and was endorsed, "Come back Sept., 1889," and re-initialed by the same person. It is but seldom, I have no doubt, that the question is answered in such a 'practical' way. Cases of the return of the same note are few and far be-

Friend: 'So yours was a case of love at first sight?'

Mrs. Gethere: 'Yes indeed. I fell desperately in love with my dear husband the moment I set eyes upon him. I remember it as distinctly as if it were yesterday. I was walking with papa on the parade at Brighton, when suddenly papa stopped, and pointing him out, said, 'There, my dear, is a man worth £20,000 a year.''

A man while fishing, suddenly fell into the water. A fellow-fisherman, of benevolent aspect, promptly helped him out, laid him on his back, and then began to scratch his head in a puzzled way.

'What's the matter?' asked the bystander, 'why don't you revive him?'

'There are sixteen rules to revive drowned persons,' said the benevolent man, 'and I know 'em all, but I can't call to mind which comes first.''

At this point the rescued man opened his eyes, and said faintly—

'Is there anything about giving brandy in the rules?'

'Yes.'

'Then never mind the other fifteen.'

'The measure of sack-ates.'

One would imagine that the paper currency of the country was a solemn business institution, with no humor about it, but if you come much in contact with bank-notes—I refer specially to Scotch notes—he is struck with the really humorous effusions which the backs of many of them are so liberally furnished with.

By far the commonest quotation awarded on the reverse side of the pound note is the line from the Jacobite song, "Will ye no come back again?" I have seen this line followed by the writer's initials together with the date, and personally I have known of only one case where a note thus marked returned, after a lapse of time, in the ordinary course of circulation, and was endorsed, "Come back Sept., 1889," and re-initialed by the same person. It is but seldom, I have no doubt, that the question is answered in such a 'practical' way. Cases of the return of the same note are few and far be-

The new firm expects to be open and ready for business about the first of April. A Missionary Service. The congregation of the Free Baptist church enjoyed a treat last Sabbath evening in the shape of a missionary service. Handed out the regular service the pastor read the reports from the missionaries sent out to India by the Free Baptist church of this city, after which the choir sang an appropriate hymn. The Rev. Mr. Hartley then gave a description of India, in which he was ably assisted by Master Allan Yerxa and Frank Vanwert, who had been called upon the platform and answered numerous questions relating to the population, demography, etc. Miss Lottie Vandine then sang an essay on mission work, being followed by a recitation from Lily McKinnis, assisted by the choir. Mr. Stanley Downey was then called upon and gave a reading after which Mr. Hartley, in a short, plain and forcible manner addressed the congregation. In conclusion he requested them to give as liberally as possible to support the grand work which was being done by the missionaries.

City Council. The first regular meeting of the city council took place last Tuesday evening. The only business of importance transacted, outside of the regular routine business, was the appointment of assessors, over which there was a lively time. Ald. Macpherson nominated W. J. Crowdon for the position, the assessor, James Farrell, being nominated by Ald. Duffie, but the nomination was withdrawn by the request of Ald. Farrell, who spoke on behalf of his brother, and said that his brother would not accept the position at that reduced salary. Ald. Macpherson then nominated A. S. Murray. The council divided evenly between Mr. Crowdon and Mr. Murray, the mayor giving the casting vote in favor of Mr. Crowdon. The assessor salary was reduced from $250 to $150, the assistant assessors being reduced from $30 to $20 on the motion of Ald. Macpherson. Messrs. Geo. A. Cliff, David B. Barker and Michael Conroy were put in nomination, the two former (the elder assessors) being elected.

A DETROIT MIRACLE.

A Great Triumph For Canadian Medical Science.

Particulars of the Most Remarkable Case as Reported by the Detroit News. Detroit, Mich., Jan. 28th, 1882.—A case has just come to light here, the particulars of which are published in the Evening News, which will be read with considerable interest by all Canadians, as it records the remarkable achievement of a Canadian medical discovery, which has already, in its own country, won great and enduring fame. At this added triumph there is no doubt the fellow countrymen of the proprietors will rejoice as it sheds lustre on Canadian science. The story is told by the News as follows:—

The following paragraph, which appeared in the News a short time ago, furnished the basis of this information—a case that was so wonderfully remarkable that it demanded further explanation. It is of sufficient importance to the News readers to report it to them fully. It was so important then that it attracted considerable attention at the time. The following is the paragraph in question:—

"C. B. Northrop, 28 years one of the best known merchants on Woodward avenue, who was supposed to be dying last spring of locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis, has secured a new lease of life and returned to work at his store. The disease has always been supposed to be incurable, but Mr. Northrop's condition is greatly improved, and it looks now as if the grave would be cheated of its prey."

Since that time Mr. Northrop has steadily improved, not only in looks, but in condition, and he has regained his old-time strength.

It had been hinted to the writer of this article, who was acquainted with Mr. Northrop, that this miraculous cure had been wrought by a very simple remedy called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. When asked about it Mr. Northrop fully admitted the statement, and not only so, but he had taken pains to inform any one who was suffering in a similar manner that he had cured his case. Mr. Northrop was a member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, and after having been pronounced permanently disabled and incurable by the physicians, was paid the $1,000 disability insurance provided by the order for its members in such cases for years Mr. Marshall had been utterly helpless, and was barely able to drag himself around his home on crutches. His agonies were almost unbearable and life was a burden to him, when at last relief came. Some months after he had been paid the disability benefit, he obtained his information from a friend that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and was induced to try them. The result was miraculous; almost from the outset an improvement was noticed, and in a few months the man whom medical experts had said was incurable, was going about the city healthier and stronger than before. Mr. Marshall was so well known in Hamilton that all the city newspapers wrote up his wonderful recovery in detail, and it was thus as before stated, that Mr. Northrop came into possession of the information that led to his equally marvelous recovery. One could scarcely conceive a case more hopeless than that of Mr. Northrop. His injury came about in this way: One day nearly four years ago, he stumbled and fell from the top of a steep flight of stairs which were at the rear of his store. His head and spine were severely injured. He was picked up and taken to his home. Creeping paralysis very soon developed itself, and in spite of the most strenuous efforts of friends and physicians the terrible affliction fastened itself upon him. For nearly two years he was perfectly helpless. He could do nothing to support his strength in the least effort. He had to be wheeled about in a chair, and he was weak, pale and fast sinking when his timely information came that verily snatched his life from the jaws of death. Those who at that time saw a feeble old man wheeled into his store on an invalid's chair, would not recognize the man now, so great is the change that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have wrought. When Mr. Northrop learned of the remedy that had cured Mr. Marshall in Hamilton, and the person in Lockport, he procured a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through Messrs. Bassett & Hutchinson, 35 Woodward Avenue, and from the outset found an improvement. He faithfully adhered to the use of the remedy until now he is completely restored. Mr. Northrop declares that there can be no doubt as to Pink Pills being the cause of his restoration to health, as all other remedies and medical treatments left him in a condition rapidly going from bad to worse, until at last it was declared there was no hope for him, and he was pronounced incurable. He was in this terrible condition when he began to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and they have restored him to health.

Mr. Northrop was asked what was claimed for this wonderful remedy, and replied that he understood the proprietors state it to be a blood builder and nerve restorer, supplying in a condensed form all the elements necessary to enrich the blood, restore shattered nerves and drive away all disease. It is claimed by the proprietors that Pink Pills will cure paralysis, rheumatism, sciatica, palpitation of the heart, headache, and all diseases peculiar to females, loss of appetite, dizziness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, and all diseases arising from overwork, mental worry, loss of vital force, and general debility. "I want to say," said Mr. Northrop, "that I don't have much faith in patent medicines, but I cannot say too much in praise of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The proprietors, however, claim that they are not a patent medicine in the sense in which the term is used, but a highly scientific preparation, the result of years of careful study and experiment on the part of the proprietors, and the pills were successfully used in private practice years before being placed for general sale. Mr. Northrop declares that he is a living example that there is nothing to equal these pills as a cure for nerve disease. On inquiry the writer found that these pills were manufactured by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Montreal, N. Y., and the pills are sold in boxes (never in bulk by the hundred) at 50 cents a box, and may be had of all druggists or direct from Messrs. Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., from either of the above addresses. The price at which these pills are sold makes a course of treatment with them comparatively inexpensive as compared with other remedies, or medical treatment. This case is one of the most remarkable on record, and as it is a right here in Detroit and not a thousand miles away, it can be easily verified. Mr. Northrop is very well known to the people of Detroit, and he says he can say in behalf of the cure of the marvelous good wrought in his case. He says he considers it his duty to help all who are similarly afflicted by it. Mr. Northrop will willingly oblige any one who desires further information, and he has the writer in relating these facts to him.

THE MINISTER FLED. Serious Charges Against a New Jersey Clergyman. Carex Mat., N. J., Feb. 1. Friday night, Louis Clark, aged 19 years, a domestic in the house of Rev. E. F. Sherman up to March last, was charged with the abduction of a child of the name of Sarah, the daughter of the pastor of the tabernacle Methodist church and teacher of the public school there. He is the father of five children. The pastor has been shepherd of the fold for two years. The girl is reputed a consistent member of the church. Pastor Sherman got wind of the abduction last Friday evening, and on Saturday he read a notice of the abduction in the paper. He read Sunday morning, dated January 30, stating that he was going to a resort and change of climate. The pastor dropped in and found that the grandfather of the boy in question had sent for him. Whether he has gone there is not known. The children left with the girl's mother are less than four years of age.

Notice to Quit. At the special meeting of the City Council, the following resolution was unanimously passed, on motion of Ald. Farrell, seconded by Ald. Gilman.

Whereas, questions have been raised as to the legality of the city leasing any portions of the city for the purpose of erecting a building of the same height, ground, or using the same for other purposes than as proposed, and it is deemed advisable to avoid any litigation by resuming possession of the lands now leased and hereafter devoting them to the purpose solely for which they are held by the city and Alms House Commissioners;

Therefore Resolved, that the lease from the city to the late John Edgewood of the Alms House lot fronting on York street, terminate at the expiration of the present term, and possession then handed over to the Alms House Commissioners for all purposes, and for that purpose, that a notice to quit on the first day of May next, directed to the proper representative of the estate of the late John Edgewood, be made out and executed under the city seal, signed by His Worship the Mayor and city clerk, and forthwith served on said representative of said estate.

Having adopted Baptist views he joined the congregation which had been presided over by the late Robert Hall at Cambridge. He subsequently became pastor at Waterbury, and his fame as a preacher reaching London, he was offered the pastorate of the church meeting in New York street chapel, in South-wark. Mr. Spurgeon first preached before a London congregation in 1853, with so much success that, ere two years had elapsed, it was considered necessary to enlarge the building, pending which alteration he officiated for four months in Exeter hall. The enlargement of the church was completed in 1861, and Mr. Spurgeon continued in charge of the Tabernacle up to quite recently when he was taken down with the disease from which he died.
