"For Revenue Only" Is the Kind of Tariff Indorsed by the Democracy—Sensational Scenes in the Convention.

CHICAGO, June 22.—At 5:20 p.m. Chairman Wilson rapped for order. When the committee on resolutions entered the wigwam, Chairman Jones asked Mr. Vilas to read the report. Mr. Patterson, from the same committee, announced that he would present a minority report.

A SCENE OF WILD ENTHUSIASM.

The majority report, in opening, referred to the illustrious leaders "from Madison to Cleveland," and mention of the latter evoked an outburst which lasted twenty minutes. At first there was a quick shout of one voice near the platform. It was lost, however, in a flash, for it seemed as though with one impulse the 20,000 people leaped upon their chairs, and with hats and handkerchiefs in air, 20,000 throats let loose, yells and screams that shook the heavy air and almost made the barracks quiver. In a flash a white satin banner, heavy with gold fringe, shot aloft and was moved to the center aisle. It was the ensign of Michigan and on one side was a picture of Mr. Cleveland. The first outbreak had been but a murmur beside the noise and din which swept and roiled from side to side of the great wigwam and around and around the amphitheater.

HILL'S BANNER TORN IN RAGS.

A man in the rear of the delegates hoisted a picture of David B. Hill. Quick as human impulse moves a hostile hand ripped it from the standard and tore it up, while hisses swept in wave around the hall. Then came into the arena the crimson banner of Iowa. A sturdy Boies man bore it aloft and waved it constantly, while the mass of sweltering people swelled, if possible, the din and storm of sound. The tempest ebbed and flowed until 6:47, when Don Dickinson, of Michigan, caused the Michigan banner to be carried from view in order that business might be resumed. Through all this Tammany's men in the center aisle sat grim and silent, neither hissing Cleveland nor cheering Hill. Its thunderous disapproval, held perfectly in leash, challenged admiration even from those who opposed the Manhattan Indians.

THE PLATFORM.

Mr. Vilas read the platform, which denounces the Force Bill; pledges the Democratic party to keep down Government expenses and reduce taxation; demands revision of the tariff without injuring any domestic industry; denounces the McKinley tariff law and indorses the action of the present Congress in moving to modify its most objectionable features; says that since the inauguration of the McKinley Bill there have been ten reductions in wages for one advance; refers to the great mortgage debts on western farms; denounces the reciprocity provision of the McKinley Bill as a sham; advocates the coinage of gold and silver without discrimination; that both shall be equal in value in payment of debts of all kinds; recommends repeal of the 10 per cent. taxes on state banks; calls for the enforcement of laws regulating the civil service; expresses sympathy with Ireland in its efforts to obtain home rule; denounce any attempt to restrict immigration from any land of the industrious classes; advocates the improvement of the Mississippi River; recognizes the World's Columbian Exposition as a national undertaking and thinks Congress should make a necessary financial requisition consistent with the honor of the nation.

TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY.

At 7:20 o'clock Mr. Vilas concluded the reading of the platform, and Col. Jones moved its adoption. Mr. Neal, of Ohio, for the minority, presented a substitute for the tariff section which denounces protection as a fraud. Neal's substitute says that the Government has no power to collect taxes except for the purposes of revenue and of revenue only. The sentiment evoked much cheering and confusion. The minority substitute also demands that taxes be limited to the actual necessities of government. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, made a strong speech in favor of the minority report. He denounced the tariff plank as a straddle which should have no part in a Democratic platform. Watterson's speech had its effect, as Chairman Jones, of the committee on resolutions, announced that the committee had decided to accept Mr. Neal's amendment, which is a positive declaration of tariff for revenue only. The minority report was adopted by a vote of 564 to 342. The substitute says:

"We denounce Republican protection as a fraud, a robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal Government has no constitutional power to enforce and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only, and demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of the Government and be honestly and economically administered."

The platform, as reported by the committee, was finally adopted with the exception of the tariff plank.

CLEVELAND'S NAME PRESENTED.

At 9:16 a call of States was ordered for the presentation of candidates. Governor Abbett, of New Jersey, was the first to take the platform to present the name of Grover Cleveland. Mr. Abbett said: "It is because he represents the great Democratic principles and policy upon which this entire convention is a unit; it is because we believe that with him as a candidate the Democracy of the Union will sweep the country and establish its principles throughout the length and breadth of the land that we offer to the convention as a nominee the choice of New Jersey, Grover Cleveland." (Deafening applause.)

DAVID B. HILL NAMED.

At the conclusion of Abbett's speech, which was interrupted by scenes of enthusiasm lasting a considerable time in each instance, Wm. C. De Witt, of New York, arose to present the name of David B. Hill. A fierce storm was then it progress, and to stand on the platform was like getting into a shower bath. There was a short wait, and then at 10:40 De Witt began his speech presenting Hill's name. He said that without New York the Democratic party could not hope to elect a Democratic President. Senator Hill had several times proved his ability to carry New York, and was, therefore, the logical candidate of the party in the nation.

At 11:10 the eloquent Tammanyite, Col. Fellows, arose to second the nomination of Hill. Fellows said that New York from its western boundary to the ocean demanded the nomination of David Bennet Hill. Mr. Hill had made New York Democratic in every department and function and if they gave him four years as President he would make the nation as thoroughly so. Mr. Fellows spoke for 25 minutes.

A. W. Green, of Illinois, and Mr. English, of Indiana, seconded Cleveland's nomination. Mr. English read a letter from Senator Voorhees (who is confined to his room) strongly indorsing Cleveland.

BOIES PROPOSED.

Mr. Duncombe, of the Iowa delegation, then presented as a Presidential candidate the Governor of Iowa, Horace Boies. In the course of an eulogy of his candidate the Iowa delegation started a cheer, which was heartily joined in, the New York delegates being prominent in the applause.

Mr. Fenton, of Kansas, seconded the nomination of Bois, and Mr. Stevenson, of Kentucky, in a witty speech, seconded Cleveland's nomination, keeping his listeners in constant laughter.

At the conclusion of Stevenson's speech Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, got the platform at 12:35 a.m. to second the nomination of Boies.

Gen. Collins, of Massachusetts, seconded Cleveland after a Louisiana delegate had spoken a few words for Boies. There were great outburst of cheers for Cleveland when Collins mentioned his name. Minnesota seconded Cleveland.

Montana and South Dakota seconded the nomination of Boies, whilst Missouri, Pennsylvania and Tennessee performed a like service for Cleveland. This closed the formal presentations, after which much confusion reigned, and the sergeant-at-arms was instructed to use force in keeping the galleries quiet.

STAVING OFF A VOTE.

A motion to adjourn till 11 to-morrow was made and withdrawn. Motion made that convention take recess till 10:30 a.m. objected to.

Bourke Cockran asked the convention to take a recess till 10:30, and objection raised. He takes platform to second Hill. It is evident that the anti-Cleveland people don't want a ballot to-night.

DAN RICE WILL BET.

Col. Dan Rice, the veteran showman, is an enthusiastic supporter of the claims of Grover Cleveland to the Democratic nomination for President. "I've got 35,000 acres of prime land in Perry county, Tenn.," said the colonel yesterday, "and it's worth $250,000 in the market today. I'll bet that land against $100,000 cash that Cleveland, if nominated, will carry the State of New York and be elected President. If Cleveland isn't nominated," remarked the ex-circus man, reflectively, "the Democracy is beaten, sure."

Cleveland Nominated.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Grover Cleveland was nominated for president on the first ballot at 3:29 a.m. He received 616½ votes; Hill, 112; Boies, 103; Gorman, 36½; Stevenson, of Illinois, 16½; Carlisle, 15; Campbell, 2; Pattison, 1; Whitney 1. The convention adjourned until 2 p.m. to-day.

REMAINING BALLOTS.

HOW CLEVELAND RECEIVED THE NEWS.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., June 23.—At 4:30 this morning Mr. Cleveland transmitted the following statement to the press: "I should certainly be chargeable with dense insensibility if I were not profoundly touched by this new proof of the confidence and trust of the great party to which I belong, and whose mandates claim my loyal obedience. I am confident that our fellow-countrymen are ready to receive with approval the principle of a live democracy, and I cannot rid myself of the belief that, to win success, it is only necessary to persistently and honestly advocate these principles. Differences of opinion and judgment in Democratic conventions are by no means unwholesome indications, but it is partly conceivable in view of the importance of our success, to the country and to the party, that there should be anywhere among Democrats any lack of harmonious and active effort to win in the campaign which opens before us. I have, therefore, no concern of that subject. It will certainly be my constant endeavor to preserve the support of every Democrat." Mr. Cleveland was greatly touched when the news of the balloting reached him.

PRESS COMMENTS.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Press says: The platform adopted at Chicago is clumsy, dishonest and mehagic. The chief planks will be interpreted by the Democrat Record which has been consistently in favor of free silver and a degraded currency. It is a free trade platform framed by a free trade party and fitted to the heavy-weight free trade candidate.

The Tribune says: On the great question of the hour the Democrats have not dared to speak the truth. They mean what they do not dare to say. It is a free trade platform with an attempt to hide free trade behind the phrase, "Tariff for revenue only." It is a free silver platform with trickery in the form of utterance which Mr. Cleveland only ought to resent and repel as an insult.

The Times says: Tariff reform is to be made the essential and decisive issue of the canvass, and it is both wise and honest in the Democratic convention to give it the first place. The action of the convention on the suspension of the currency is popular. It was generally expected that this action would not be more definite or more sound than that of the Republican party. Happily it is both.

BOSTON, Mass., June 23.—This morning's Herald says editorially that Cleveland's was as spontaneous a nomination as any since the second choice of Lincoln. It is emphatically a people's nomination. He represents character, dignity, strength and principle. No man has been more fearless than he in the avowal of conviction or more steadfast in maintaining his views upon public questions. His course on the currency has been courageous, effective and useful. His name is a tower of strength against danger to business interests by wrong legislation. He is identified with the tariff reform movement.

NOTES.

A curious feature of all the show was the anxiety the women display to see it all. They pull themselves up and down the stairways which are jammed to the point of suffocation. Their dresses get torn, but they stand the mauling and squeezing like veterans.

The latest badge out is the Baby Ruth badge. It is a velvet pansy, rising from the center of which is a miniature china doll, its body wound about by red, white and blue threads. A white silk pendant bears the name Ruth. The badge bids fair to be popular.

When Governor Abbett named Cleveland the hurrah of an hour before was renewed. The delegates sprang to their feet, many of them mounted chairs, hats were thrown into the air and the noise of the cheering was deafening. Michigan's banner waved aloft again. The enthusiastic banner-bearer forgot his discretion, and taking the banner across the aisle flaunted it in the face of the New York delegation. Gen. Sickles resented this impertinence and denounced it and he was joined by other members of the delegation. Mayor Manning, of Albany, put out his foot to the aisle where he sat and the banner-bearer fell. Michigan men were across the aisle in an instant, and it looked as if blows would follow, but trouble was averted.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

The Gerrymander Bill Well on Its Way.

Some Modifications Made That Affect Quebec—But, of Course, the Tories Get the Best of It.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, June 22.—The House has been sitting since 11 o'clock this morning with midday and 6 o'clock recesses. Such progress has been made in committee with the Redistribution Bill that it will most likely be disposed of to-mrrrow. Most of its objectionable features so far as Quebec is concerned have been modified as a result of the opposition of the Liberals and an arrangement arrived at between the two sides of the House during the 6 o'clock recess. The Quebec re-arrangement has occupied nearly all of to-day's sessions but the unimportant changes in Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia were passed by the committee. The proposal of Col. Denison that West Toronto be divided into two divisions was voted down as was also an amendment by Mr. Corkburn that Toronto be given six members instead of four. The result in Quebec is briefly stated as follows: St. Johns (Liberal) and Iberville (Liberal) are united, Napierville (Liberal) and La Prairie (Conservative) are united, Vercheres (Liberal) and Chambly (Liberal) are united, St. Maurice (Conservative) and Three Rivers (Conservative) are united. These unions provide the four extra members required for Montreal, Hochelaga and Ottawa county. What the bill proposed was that Vercheres and Napierville, instead of being united as now, should be distributed among the surrounding constituencies. In the carrying out of this plan much of the gerrymandering was done. By the compromise by which these counties are united with adjacent counties the gerrymander is modified, but a number of counties represented by Conservatives are improved for the Government by the addition or removal of parishes.

The gerrymander of Prince Edward Island was under discussion when the House adjourned at 12:45 o'clock.

109 Years Old.

COLCHESTER, Ont., June 22.—John Heden, colored, who claimed to have been born in Virginia 109 years ago, died here yesterday.

A child three years old is half the height it will ever reach.

The umbrella is undoubtedly of high antiquity, appearing in various forms upon the sculptured monuments of Egypt, Assyria, Greece and Rome, and in hot countries it has been used since the dawn of history as a sunshade, a use signified by its name, derived from the Latin umbra, a shade.

GRANDER THAN EVER.

The Veteran Gladstone Amazes All England

By His Prodigious and Powerful Personality.

Lady Somerset to Assume the Role of Editress.

Lady Somerset as Editress.

LONDON, June 22.—Lady Somerset will shortly start a paper called the White Ribbon, devoted to the elevation of womanhood, to the advancement of temperance, and to the labor question. The arrangements for the paper are complete, and the capital of £10,000 has been subscribed. Lady Somerset will be editor-in-chief, assisted by the Duchess of Bedford, Lady Carlisle, Mrs. Pearsall Smith, Miss Frances Willard and other women prominent in the cause of reform.

Bismarck in a Back Number.

DRESDEN, June 22.—The remarks made by Prince Bismarck in reference to the enthusiastic greeting tendered him in this city, while on his way to Vienna, were significant. He said: "I recognize in this splendid reception appreciation of my person in the past. I hold no official position in the present, nor shall I ever again do so. I represent a chapter in the past that is closed forever."

Gladstone Grander Than Ever.

LONDON, June 22.—We are now thoroughly entered upon the most exciting struggle known to British politics. During Victoria's whole long reign since the Reform Bill agitation there has been no other contest actively enlisting such an enormous proportion of the electorate or invested with such a deep bitterness of personal and class hatreds. But if one ransacked the whole English Parliamentary history back to Edward Longshanks there would be no parallel found for the feature which really makes this coming fight unique.

It is that of Mr. Gladstone's amazing and prodigious personality, which swallows up all issues and swamps up all arguments. This gives the present campaign intensely and almost painfully human interest. Though we have been holding up our hands in astonishment at him these many years it seems as if up till now nobody realizes how wonderful an old man he truly is. Remarkable as this octogenarian is at all times, it needs the thunder and crash of a great battle to bring out the full measure of his qualities. By the way he has already begun this electoral combat he seems to reveal a Gladstone far more bewildering to ordinary human standards than was exhibited by the memorable Bulgarian agitation or the historic defeat of the first Home Rule Bill.

There is nothing else in political history quite like the public dialogue he held in his dining-room on Thursday with a delegation of the trades unions, which went to catechize him about the Eight Hours Bill. There were in the delegation half a dozen of the cleverest organizers and propagandists of the labor movement, and they came prepared to overwhelm him with arguments. The wily old man had them all sit around the table for a friendly conversation, with reporters to note every word. With a great air of candor he listened to the statement of their position, asking pertinent questions here and there, but for the most part listening with his bald, reverent head cocked to one side like a very wise old bird. Then, quite in a conversational way, he talked to them, making hash of their figures and generally guying their deductions, softly leading them into a hopeless tangle of conflicting arguments and widely-clashing demands. They had come proudly confident in the mastery of their subject, but without any effort, and quite camly and casually, as it were, he made them all seem to themselves and one another like a parcel of ignorant fatuous little schoolboys.

I have never seen such another strictly personal triumph recorded in print. They went away at last quite dazed and humble, not knowing whether to be angry or sick. They seem to be still hesitating and not likely wholly to make up their minds till after election. Some of the more superficial politicians of Mr. Gladstone's party are nervous about the effect of their venerable leader's unexpectedly bold treatment of that awkward eight-hour question, and a few of the noisier leaders are swearing they will put in the field a whole flock of labor candidates to damage the Liberal chances. But the overwhelming bulk of workingmen voters are disposed rather to chuckle over the way the old gentleman did their spokesmen up. The achievement created great enthusiasm everwhere outside of labor circles.

Whatever disaffection Mr. Gladstone's Socratic dialogue might have created, will be over-balanced tenfold by the stupid trickery into which the Tories have been led by some of their over-smart advisers with a view of working the date of dissolution so that London cannot possibly poll on Saturday. It required elaborate and painstaking ingenuity to arrange this. By the provision of the clumsy English law the elections may be held in boroughs on either the fifth, sixth, seventh or eighth day after the reception of the writs. Therefore writs must come to hand on Tuesday or Wednesday in order to bar Saturday out as a polling day. But the business of the Commons had been so expedited by the eagerness of both sides to hurry the thing over that there was really no protest discoverable for extending the session into the week after next, which alone would make those two desired days possible. In this dilemma the Ministry hit on the device of having the House of Lords delay its business unduly, so as to make the Commons wait. This transparent trick is rendered all the more odious by the fact that the Lords have been fooling the whole week away at the Ascot races and could really finish all the work before them in a single night session next week if they chose.

Mr. Gladstone has seized the issue thus created with the avidity of a down-swooping eagle, and to-day all Radical England is howling about the dastardly trickery by which the workingmen of the great city boroughs are going to be disfranchised. I suppose there is no doubt that Saturday is their best day to vote, but by the outcry raised one would think there was no other day in the week in which laborers had a moment to call their own. It is already apparent that this cry of treachery will have a huge angering effect all through the artisan population. It not only brands the Tories as fearing the labor vote and scheming to cut it off, but it gives a new handle to the ever popular shout against the Lords. Whatever it is worth, trust Mr. Gladstone to extract the utmost possible value from it.

An Earthquake at Macassar.

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch from Macassar, in the Dutch island of Celebes, says that an earthquake has occured on the island there. The natives were greatly frightened, and some of them rushed into the sea and were eaten by sharks. Considerable damage was done to the property of traders and others.

The Grip Ravages Dahomey.

PARIS, June 23.—The grip has at last reached Dahomey, and the people are suffering severely from the disease. It is believed in that country that disease is always the result of the wicked machinations of some bad man, and King Behanzin has been busy looking around for the guilty person who is afflicting so many of his subjects with this new disease. His fetich men told him, a few days before the last vessel sailed, that a poor woman in one of the towns was a witch, and the cause of all the trouble. The king at once condemned her to death. His sentence was immediately carried out. Her body was suspended from a tree, where it could be seen by all the people, and the fetich men declare that the disease will now rapidly disappear.

The Anglicans.

The Church Consolidation Scheme Indorsed by the Anglicans.

Satisfactory Report from the Sunday School Committee.

Rev. Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, Preaches a Missionary Sermon.

Wednesday Afternoon.

Synod resumed at 3 p.m.

Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, by invitation, took a seat on the platform amidst applause.

Matthew Wilson, Q.C., continued the debate on church consolidation, and strongly urged the adoption of his amendment. Mr. Bayly followed in support of his own.

On a division Mr. Bayly's amendment was carried by a vote of 74 to 56.

Rev. Mr. Craig then moved an amendment providing that any measure of a coercive character passed by the general synod be not final until submitted to the diocesan synods and carried by a majority of the diocesan synods. Dean Mackenzie seconded the amendment at length. It was lost, and the committee's report, as amended by Mr. Bayly, was carried.

Acknowledgment of fraternal greetings was received from the Synod of Ontario.

The report of the Sunday school committee was read by Chairman Rev. J. Downie. It contained a good deal of general information, though nothing statistical. The depository had been a success, and credit was due to the secretary, Mr. McWhinney, and his assistant, Mr. Manigault. Answers were given to a number of inquiries affecting the mission question. With few exceptions approval was expressed of the Sunday schools supporting a missionary in the foreign field, but due consideration should be given to the claims of Algoma and the Northwest. The formation of ruri-decanal Sunday school associations was recommended and constitutions and rules for the same suggested. Rules were also submitted for Sunday schools in the diocese.

The report was adopted in full and the synod adjourned.

Missionary Service.

A highly-interesting missionary service was held in St. Paul's Cathedral last evening, when Rev. Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, delivered an able and eloquent address to a large congregation. Bishop Baldwin, Dean Innes, Canon Smith, Canon Hill (St. Thomas), Canon Young (Goderich) and Canon Richardson were present and assisted in the devotional exercises. The dean based his remarks on John x., 16: "And other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one Shepherd." The history of the past 2,000 years, he said, warranted the fulfillment of the words of Christ that he would reign over the whole earth, but part of the words of the text, he thought, still remained to be fulfilled. All Christians were one, but in no spiritual sense could this refer to all churches, as, in his estimation, according to the view held by the Church of Rome, eternity separated that church from what was understood by "Protestantism." Even the Church of England would not be said to be one, as wide difference of opinion existed in it. Only God could bring the churches together, and he urged his hearers to be more in prayer, that the differences might rapidly disappear. Referring to the spread of the Gospel, he emphasized the claims of the heathen to the church's sympathies, and reminded his hearers that Christ died as much for the heathen of the past and present as he did for them. "Remember," said he, in conclusion, "that you yourselves are children of heathen, and your duty is to bring Christ to your brethren."

Thursday Morning.

Synod resumed at 10:15 a.m., and a ballot was taken for the election of delegates to the Provincial Synod.

The Bishop of Niagara replied to the fraternal greeting sent by the Synod of Huron to the Synod of Niagara.

A. H. Dymond, chairman of the committee of management, reported on behalf of the Huron Anglican Lay Workers' Association. They believed that among the clergy a stronger sense of the value and importance of lay help was felt, and that the laity were in a larger degree than formerly awakening to a higher conception of their duty to the church and its divine Head. The expenses of the association for the year amounted to $90 90. The aid of the secretary-treasurer, Mr. McWhinney and his assistant was acknowledged. Reference was made to the annual meeting of the association in connection with a convention of church and Sunday school workers held in St. Thomas in October last. The next meeting would be held at Stratford by invitation. A cordial letter from the late Rev. Canon Patterson was read affirming the welcome to that city. The committee had opened a correspondence with the Diocesan Lay Helpers' Association in England and much valuable information had been received. Notice had been given to consider whether canon 9 on lay readers was adequate to the present needs and practice of the church in the diocese.

The report was received.

Col. Clark, of Sarnia, asked what steps were being taken in regard to the alteration of the cathedral and the erection of synod buildings.

The Dean of Huron explained that they had $31,500 in hand, and a resolution was passed at the last meeting of St. Paul's vestry that as soon as the amount was raised to $35,000 they would at once commence work. This was not raised in a day. Within the next few weeks the synod hall would be commenced, when the hall could be used while the work on the cathedral was progressing.

In reply to Mr. R. Shaw-Wood's query as to whether the cathedral partook of the nature of a private church or of diocesan property Dean Innes said that it had the two-fold quality of a parochial church and of a cathedral. The bishop had the option of using it for any purpose whenever he chose.

The bishop desired to add to his charge an obituary notice which he had omitted owing to lack of data. Rev. T. S. Ellerby, late secretary of the London Society for Promoting Christianity Among the Jews, had recently passed away. In 1866 he was ordained deacon by the late Bishop Cronyn, and priest in 1887. Subsequently he was appointed rector of St. George's Church, Sarnia. His health failed and he returned to England.

The report of the committee appointed to revise and consolidate the constitution and canons was taken up. It recommended a large number of amendments. The report was adopted and Archdeacon Marsh, Rev. Canon Young and R. Bayly, Q.C., were appointed a committee to assist the secretary-treasurer in the final printing of the said revised constitution and canons with any necessary appendices thereto, and that the order of the necessary number of copies be left to the executive committee.

THE PEOPLE'S FO RUM.

The Convalescent Home.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

May I be permitted to tell those friends who have so kindly promised to help my mother, Mrs. Mills, in her little efforts on behalf of the Convalescent Home, that the proposed "At Home" and sale of work, etc., must be held as early as Saturday next, instead of in the following week. She would be glad to receive all promised contributions at their earliest convenience, and to welcome everyone who though unable to afford to give our home a large donation, may yet be inclined in this simple way to do a little towards procuring for us the amount we hope to have ready to meet the payment due at the end of this month. Thanking you very sincerely for enabling us, through your columns to acknowledge, as we do most gratefully, the $257 already given us towards the purchase fund of our home, I remain, very faithfully yours,

H. A. BOOMER, President.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that, when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion, it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package. zxv

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Mr. R. Jones (switchman G. T. R.), wife and daughter, have arrived home from England.

—Mrs. James Driffill, of Bradford, Ont., and Mrs. (Dr.) Vardou, of Galt, are visiting their sister, Mrs. James Stevenson, 146 Horton street.

—Mrs. Berry, of Chicago, wife of Rev. Dr. Berry, editor of Epworth Herald, is visiting her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Charles Smith, of this city.

—The Junior Mission Band of Christ Church picnicked on the rectory lawn Monday afternoon. After tea had been served at 6 o'clock the young folks engaged in games and spent a very pleasant evening.

—On account of the unfavorable weather the band concert which was to have been given in Victoria Park last evening was postponed until to-night. The band's new instruments arrived from England on Monday.

—The garden party announced for last evening on the grounds of Mr. John Green was postponed until to-morrow night. All arrangements to make the change were completed yesterday afternoon on account of the rain.

—Dr. Arthur E. Fraleigh, of Arva, left yesterday to practice his profession in Pittsburg, Pa. He graduated with honors from the medical department of the Western University, and also passed with honors at the Ontario Council examination. Dr. Fraleigh takes with him the best wishes of a host of friends in London and Arva.

Everybody Invited.

The Young Liberal Minstrels had a splendid rehearsal last evening for tomorrow night's performance at Chatham. Another will be held to-night. Everybody is invited to accompany the Young Liberals to that town to-morrow. The return fare is only $1. Good on all trains. In addition to the performance, the races will be an attraction. Chatham is expected to give the minstrels a royal welcome.

Local Lightning Strokes.

A flash of lightning caused a very sudden transformation in the dining-room of Col. R. Lewis' residence, 380 Queen's avenue, yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock. The lightning ran down the chimney, smashed the mantel-piece and broke things up generally. Several pictures were shaken off the walls and the frames demolished. Fortunately nobody was injured. The estimated amount of damage done was between $50 and $60.

Lightning also struck the barn of Ed. Vincent, London West, and killed one of his horses and a pig. It also prostrated Mr. and Mrs. Vincent, who were in a house near by.

Huron College Alumni.

The Association of the Alumni of Huron College held their annual meeting and supper Monday evening. Rev. Canon Smith, president, occupied the chair. An address will be presented to the synod in regard to the college. Revs. G. M. Cox and Jeffrey Hill read essays on theological subjects. Rev. Principal English, of Hellmuth College, will read papers at the next meeting. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. H. A. Thomas; first vice, Rev. R. McCosh; second vice, Rev. R. Hicks; secretary, Rev. W. Lowe; treasurer, Rev. Canon Davis; board of management, Revs. W. M. Shore and J. W. Hodgins and students Sherwood and Ten Eyck.

School Children's Day.

At a meeting of the Dominion Day Demonstration Committee last evening, Messrs. Cook (chairman), Dewar, Allaster, Jeffery, McElheran, Craig, Carson, Stewart and Barron were present. One hundred and fifty badges will be provided for trustees, principals and teachers, and 500 invitations will be issued. The usual busses will be hired to convey the pupils of the kindergarten schools. An elevated platform will be erected, and Chairman Dewar and some other orator, as yet unknown, will deliver addresses. The procession will form at the corner of Colborne and King streets and march to Victoria Park.

A Successful Anniverrary.

The anniversary entertainment of the Dundas Street Center Sabbath school last evening capped the climax in every way as a success, and fully sustained the well-deserved reputation enjoyed by this Sabbath school. The church was crowded to the doors, and every part on the programme was carried out with the utmost efficiency. Mr. Wm. Bowman, who has been superintendent for many years, is about to retire after 55 years of active Sunday school work. He is succeeded by two respected members of the congregation—Messrs. D. A. McDermid and Wm. Yates. The success of Dundas Street Center Sunday school is due in a large measure to the wisdom, tact and faithful service rendered by Mr. Bowman during his term of office. The annual reports read showed the school to be in a most flourishing condition. It now remains for the new officers to keep up and, if possible, advance its efficiency. Credit is due to Misses Brown, Keenleyside, Magee, Mayell, Jarvis and Dempey, and Mr. J. Jury for their indefatigable efforts in the training of the children and bringing the entertainment to a successful completion.

The musical portion of the anniversary service held on Sunday last were under the direction of Mr. Wm. Lewis, conductor; Prof. Birks, organist, and Mr. Cornelius, cornetist. This service was an exceptionally fine one and reflects credit on the gentlemen named. Owing to the wet weather on Sunday evening last by which the musical service was somewhat curtailed, it has been decided to repeat the full service both morning and evening next Sunday. The new pastor, Rev. Dr. Antliffe, will preach at both services.

TIPS FROM PATRONS' PENS.

BRANT.—The Patrons of Newport Association are progressing rapidly. Nearly every farmer in the section is a member. The association has purchased twine outside the combine, it being resolved to pay a cent or two more from firms outside the trust rather than buy from them. A large meeting was held on June 8, several members of Burtch visiting, to consider a proposition laid before Patrons by Sim Hewitt, of Brantford, and ex-Reeve Clarke, on the advisability of starting a twine factory under a board of directors, the farmers of Ontario being stockholders. The scheme was ably discussed and it was decided that twine can be furnished at a greatly reduced price, and a motion was carried in favor of starting the factory and asking assistance of all Patrons in floating this scheme.

Newport Patrons are discussing the beauties of strawberries and cream with a good literary and musical programme.

BRUCE.—Arkwright Association, No. 1,484, was organized on May 27, by County Organizer D. Marshall with sixteen members. David Lind is president, Samuel Miller vice, J. M. Monkman secretary, Joseph Callard treasurer, J. Uunderwood guide, H. Lowes sentinel, Mrs. Wm. Underwood Minerva, and Miss Mary Lowes Demeter. At a subsequent meeting the membership was increased to 22. Meetings are held every Friday evening.

GREY.—Patrons in S. S. No. 10, blind lines of Bognor, are arranging for an open meeting at an early date.

HALTON.—A union of ten associations is being formed with headquarters at Acton. A car load of binder twine is being ordered.

HURON.—The first meeting of the Stephen township association will be held in the Crediton Town Hall on Monday, June 27, at 6 o'clock p.m. sharp. A delegate from each association is requested to attend, as business of importance will be transacted.—S. M. Sanders, secretary-treasurer, Exeter.

The township officers of Stephen are: A. T. Bean, Dashwood, president; S. Brockenshire, Exeter, vice; S. M. Sanders, Exeter, secretary-treasurer; and an executive committee composed of these three officers.

At Kintail recently the Grangers and Good Templars joined with the Patrons to enjoy a union picnic. It resulted most satisfactorily to all.

MIDDLESEX.—The Patrons of East and West Williams and McGillivray will hold a picnic in the grove on the farm of H. Barnes, a couple of miles south of Parkhill, on June 23. Arrangements are being made for procuring prominent and able speakers for the occasion.

The Strathroy Dispatch says that the statement published in its columns recently that the Patrons' Association at Crathie had closed was entirely erroneous, as the association is still going on and doing well, and will no doubt continue in well doing, proving of great benefit to the farmers of the neighborhood and of the Province. The author of that false report is not at all likely at present a member of any association, and no doubt had to leave on account of non-payment of dues.

The Patrons at Beechwood in East Williams held an enjoyable entertainment last Friday evening. By some mistake it was announced in these columns last week that this entertainment had been postponed. The event was quite a success.

Caradoc associations have an enthusiastic membership, and officers take a leading part in the work of the order.

About 500 Middlesex farmers with their friends enjoyed the excursion to Guelph last Thursday, and about half that number attended from Elgin, the former going via Stratford and the latter via Brantford. The weather was delightful, and the visit to the O. A. C. was both pleasant and profitable. Guelph was reached before noon and a sumptuous lunch was provided at the farm for those who did not partake of dinner in the city. Prof. Mills and his efficient staff were unsparing in their attention to the visitors, guiding them in groups over the farm to view the many scenes of interest in all the departments in the numerous commodious and convenient buildings, and in the crop-covered fields. The dairy building was a chief center of attraction for both ladies and gentlemen. Of the numerous attractions on the farm it is not possible now to write, but all were heartily appreciated by a pleased body of Patrons, Grangers and members of Mechanics' Institutes. In the auditorium at 4 o'clock short addresses were delivered by Vice Grand Miller and Grand Trustee Currie, the chair being occupied by A. B. Scott, Ilderton, chairman of the Middlesex committee. The other committee men were John Barrett, Wm. Brock, P. D. Learn, J. K. Little, Thomas Baty and P. Anderson, secretary, and the Elgin contingent was marshaled by County President Leeson, County Secretary Deo, Jabel Robinson (a sturdy old granger), and others. Other prominent farmers present were: Robert Boston, and W. H. Taylor (ex-wardens), B. J. Donaldson, Thos. Rutledge and Joseph H. Alexander, of the County Association, and Robert Jackson, H. Kennedy, John Morgan, Wm. Stone and J. Keyser. The addresses were interfered with by the coming and going of those in attendance and the imperfect acoustic qualities of the new hall, which Prof. Mills promises to have remedied.

NORFOLK.—Elmwood Association in Charlotteville last spring lost a number of its best working members who removed from the locality, but it still holds lively weekly meetings and is prospering. Abram Neilson is its efficient secretary.

Norfolk Patrons will join in holding a grand picnic on June 30 at Langton. Prominent members of the order and others will deliver addresses. The Groveland and Langton brass bands will furnish music.

OXFORD.—A lady contributor writes: Enterprise Association, No. 30, East Nissouri, has 130 members. The president is L. D. Brown, and the secretary Jas. W. Sutherland. This live and energetic association meets on Thursday evening of every alternate week. At the last regular meeting a number of visitors from Grove Mills Association were present, and excellent addresses were delivered by Ex-Presidents McBeth and Porter. Fine selections of music were rendered by the Misses Jickling, Thompson and Donald, under the leadership of John Jickling. We are all well pleased with the SUN, the official organ. Long may it shine!

ONTARIO.—Smith Stephens, who has been very successful as an organizer during the past few months in Ontario county, has returned to his home near Sarnia. His intelligence and superior gifts as an orator and conversationalist render him peculiarly adapted for the work of organizing.

Ontario county Patrons will picnic on June 28 at the Model Farm in Guelph, and will fraternize with the Oxford brethren on the occasion.

The order is growing rapidly in this county. One association (Audley) took in 50 members recently in three meetings. Who can beat it? Crops are looking well. Fall wheat is promising a great yield.

YORK.—At a township convention of Patrons held in Bradford it was decided to form a stock company to purchase a warehouse in that village for the purpose of keeping supplies for Patrons and storing grain. During last season a man was employed shipping and selling Patrons' produce at a cost to them of two cents per bushel on grain, he paying all expenses connected therewith. Taking everything into consideration, York Patrons are doing a very good work, and steadily growing.

"German Syrup"

G. Gloger, Druggist, Watertown, Wis. This is the opinion of a man who keeps a drug store, sells all medicines, comes in direct contact with the patients and their families, and knows better than anyone else how remedies sell, and what true merit they have. He hears of all the failures and successes, and can therefore judge: "I know of no medicine for Coughs, Sore Throat, or Hoarseness that had done such effective work in my family as Boschee's German Syrup. Last winter a lady called at my store, who was suffering from a very severe cold. She could hardly talk, and I told her about German Syrup and that a few doses would give relief; but she had no confidence in patent medicines. I told her to take a bottle, and if the results were not satisfactory I would make no charge for it. A few days after she called and paid for it, saying that she would never be without it in future as a few doses had given her relief." ⑦

The Ex-President Receives the Nomination on the First Ballot.

Wild Enthusiasm Evoked by The Magnetic Name.

Twenty Minutes Spent in Cheering by 20,000 Voices.

Hill's Banner Torn in Tatters by the Manhattan Shouters.

The Ex-President's Opponents Filibuster to Prevent a Ballot.

"For Revenue Only" Is the Kind of Tariff Indorsed by the Democracy—Sensational Scenes in the Convention.

CHICAGO, June 22.—At 5:20 p.m. Chairman Wilson rapped for order. When the committee on resolutions entered the wigwam, Chairman Jones asked Mr. Vilas to read the report. Mr. Patterson, from the same committee, announced that he would present a minority report.

A SCENE OF WILD ENTHUSIASM.

The majority report, in opening, referred to the illustrious leaders "from Madison to Cleveland," and mention of the latter evoked an outburst which lasted twenty minutes. At first there was a quick shout of one voice near the platform. It was lost, however, in a flash, for it seemed as though with one impulse the 20,000 people leaped upon their chairs, and with hats and handkerchiefs in air, 20,000 throats let loose, yells and screams that shook the heavy air and almost made the barracks quiver. In a flash a white satin banner, heavy with gold fringe, shot aloft and was moved to the center aisle. It was the ensign of Michigan and on one side was a picture of Mr. Cleveland. The first outbreak had been but a murmur beside the noise and din which swept and roiled from side to side of the great wigwam and around and around the amphitheater.

HILL'S BANNER TORN IN RAGS.

A man in the rear of the delegates hoisted a picture of David B. Hill. Quick as human impulse moves a hostile hand ripped it from the standard and tore it up, while hisses swept in wave around the hall. Then came into the arena the crimson banner of Iowa. A sturdy Boies man bore it aloft and waved it constantly, while the mass of sweltering people swelled, if possible, the din and storm of sound. The tempest ebbed and flowed until 6:47, when Don Dickinson, of Michigan, caused the Michigan banner to be carried from view in order that business might be resumed. Through all this Tammany's men in the center aisle sat grim and silent, neither hissing Cleveland nor cheering Hill. Its thunderous disapproval, held perfectly in leash, challenged admiration even from those who opposed the Manhattan Indians.

THE PLATFORM.

Mr. Vilas read the platform, which denounces the Force Bill; pledges the Democratic party to keep down Government expenses and reduce taxation; demands revision of the tariff without injuring any domestic industry; denounces the McKinley tariff law and indorses the action of the present Congress in moving to modify its most objectionable features; says that since the inauguration of the McKinley Bill there have been ton reductions in wages for one advance; refers to the great mortgage debts on western farms; denounces the reciprocity provision of the McKinley Bill as a sham; advocates the coinage of gold and silver without discrimination; that both shall be equal in value in payment of debts of all kinds; recommends repeal of the 10 per cent. taxes on state banks; calls for the enforcement of laws regulating the civil service; expresses sympathy with Ireland in its efforts to obtain home rule; denounce any attempt to restrict immigration from any land of the industrious classes; advocates the improvement of the Mississippi River; recognizes the World's Columbian Exposition as a national undertaking and thinks Congress should make a necessary financial requisition consistent with the honor of the nation.

TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY.

At 7:20 o'clock Mr. Vilas concluded the reading of the platform, and Col. Jones moved its adoption. Mr. Neal, of Ohio, for the minority, presented a substitute for the tariff section which denounces protection as a fraud. Neal's substitute says that the Government has no power to collect taxes except for the purposes of revenue and of revenue only. The sentiment evoked much cheering and confusion. The minority substitute also demands that taxes be limited to the actual necessities of government. Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, made a strong speech in favor of the minority report. He denounced the tariff plank as a straddle which should have no part in a Democratic platform. Watterson's speech had its effect, as Chairman Jones, of the committee on resolutions, announced that the committee had decided to accept Mr. Neal's amendment, which is a positive declaration of tariff for revenue only. The minority report was adopted by a vote of 564 to 342. The substitute says:

"We denounce Republican protection as a fraud, a robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal Government has no constitutional power to enforce and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only, and demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of the government and be honestly and economically administered."

The platform, as reported by the committee, was finally adopted with the exception of the tariff plank.

CLEVELAND'S NAME PRESENTED.

At 9:16 a call of States was ordered for the presentation of candidates. Governor Abbett, of New Jersey, was the first to take the platform to present the name of Grover Cleveland. Mr. Abbett said: "It is because he represents the great Democratic principles and policy upon which this entire convention is a unit; it is because we believe that with him as a candidate the Democracy of the Union will sweep the country and establish its principles throughout the length and breadth of the land that we offer to the convention as a nominee the choice of New Jersey, Grover Cleveland." (Deafening applause.)

DAVID B. HILL NAMED.

At the conclusion of Abbett's speech, which was interrupted by scenes of enthusiasm lasting a considerable time in each instance, Wm. C. De Witt, of New York, arose to present the name of David B. Hill. A fierce storm was then it progress, and to stand on the platform was like getting into a shower bath. There was a short wait, and then at 10:40 De Witt began his speech presenting Hill's name. He said that without New York the Democratic party could not hope to elect a Democratic President. Senator Hill had several times proved his ability to carry New York, and was, therefore, the logical candidate of the party in the nation.

At 11:10 the eloquent Tammanyite, Col. Fellows, arose to second the nomination of Hill. Fellows said that New York from its western boundary to the ocean demanded the nomination of David Bennet Hill. Mr. Hill had made New York Democratic in every department and function and if they gave him four years as President he would make the nation as thoroughly so. Mr. Fellows spoke for 25 minutes.

A. W. Green, of Illinois, and Mr. English, of Indiana, seconded Cleveland's nomination. Mr. English read a letter from Senator Voorhees (who is confined to his room) strongly indorsing Cleveland.

BOIES PROPOSED.

Mr. Duncombe, of the Iowa delegation, then presented as a Presidential candidate the Governor of Iowa, Horace Boies. In the course of an eulogy of his candidate the Iowa delegation started a cheer, which was heartily joined in, the New York delegates being prominent in the applause.

Mr. Fenton, of Kansas, seconded the nomination of Bois, and Mr. Stevenson, of Kentucky, in a witty speech, seconded Cleveland's nomination, keeping his listeners in constant laughter.

At the conclusion of Stevenson's speech Henry Watterson, of Kentucky, got the platform at 12:35 a.m. to second the nomination of Boies.

Gen. Collins, of Massachusetts, seconded Cleveland after a Louisiana delegate had spoken a few words for Boies. There were great outburst of cheers for Cleveland when Collins mentioned his name. Minnesota seconded Cleveland.

Montana and South Dakota seconded the nomination of Boies, whilst Missouri, Pennsylvania and Tennessee performed a like service for Cleveland. This closed the formal presentations, after which much confusion reigned, and the sergeant-at-arms was instructed to use force in keeping the galleries quiet.

STAVING OFF A VOTE.

A motion to adjourn till 11 to-morrow was made and withdrawn. Motion made that convention take recess till 10:30 a.m. objected to.

Bourke Cockran asked the convention to take a recess till 10:30, and objection raised. He takes platform to second Hill. It is evident that the anti-Cleveland people don't want a ballot to-night.

DAN RICE WILL BET.

Col. Dan Rice, the veteran showman, is an enthusiastic supporter of the claims of Grover Cleveland to the Democratic nomination for President. "I've got 35,000 acres of prime land in Perry county, Tenn.," said the colonel yesterday, "and it's worth $250,000 in the market today. I'll bet that land against $100,000 cash that Cleveland, if nominated, will carry the State of New York and be elected President. If Cleveland isn't nominated," remarked the ex-circus man, reflectively, "the Democracy is beaten, sure."

Cleveland Nominated.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Grover Cleveland was nominated for president on the first ballot at 3:29 a.m. He received 616½ votes; Hill, 112; Boies, 103; Gorman, 36½; Stevenson, of Illinois, 16½; Carlisle, 15; Campbell, 2; Pattison, 1; Whitney 1. The convention adjourned until 2 p.m. to-day.

REMAINING BALLOTS.

Gorman, 36½; Stevenson, 16½; Morrison, 8; Carlisle, 15; Campbell, 2, Pattison, 1; Whitney, 1.

HOW CLEVELAND RECEIVED THE NEWS.

BUZZARDS BAY, Mass., June 23.—At 4:30 this morning Mr. Cleveland transmitted the following statement to the press: "I should certainly be chargeable with dense insensibility if I were not profoundly touched by this new proof of the confidence and trust of the great party to which I belong, and whose mandates claim my loyal obedience. I am confident that our fellow-countrymen are ready to receive with approval the principle of a live democracy, and I cannot rid myself of the belief that, to win success, it is only necessary to persistently and honestly advocate these principles. Differences of opinion and judgment in Democratic conventions are by no means unwholesome indications, but it is partly conceivable in view of the importance of our success, to the country and to the party, that there should be anywhere among Democrats any lack of harmonious and active effort to win in the campaign which opens before us. I have, therefore, no concern of that subject. It will certainly be my constant endeavor to preserve the support of every Democrat." Mr. Cleveland was greatly touched when the news of the balloting reached him.

PRESS COMMENTS.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Press says: The platform adopted at Chicago is clumsy, dishonest and mehagic. The chief planks will be interpreted by the Democrat Record which has been consistently in favor of free silver and a degraded currency. It is a free trade platform framed by a free trade party and fitted to the heavy-weight free trade candidate.

The Tribune says: On the great question of the hour the Democrats have not dared to speak the truth. They mean what they do not dare to say. It is a free trade platform with an attempt to hide free trade behind the phrase, "Tariff for revenue only." It is a free silver platform with trickery in the form of utterance which Mr. Cleveland only ought to resent and repel as an insult.

The Times says: Tariff reform is to be made the essential and decisive issue of the canvass, and it is both wise and honest in the Democratic convention to give it the first place. The action of the convention on the suspension of the currency is popular. It was generally expected that this action would not be more definite or more sound than that of the Republican party. Happily it is both.

BOSTON, Mass., June 23.—This morning's Herald says editorially that Cleveland's was as spontaneous a nomination as any since the second choice of Lincoln. It is emphatically a people's nomination. He represents character, dignity, strength and principle. No man has been more fearless than he in the avowal of conviction or more steadfast in maintaining his views upon public questions. His course on the currency has been courageous, effective and useful. His name is a tower of strength against danger to business interests by wrong legislation. He is identified with the tariff reform movement.

NOTES.

A curious feature of all the show was the anxiety the women display to see it all. They pull themselves up and down the stairways which are jammed to the point of suffocation. Their dresses get torn, but they stand the mauling and squeezing like veterans.

The latest badge out is the Baby Ruth badge. It is a velvet pansy, rising from the center of which is a miniature china doll, its body wound about by red, white and blue threads. A white silk pendant bears the name Ruth. The badge bids fair to be popular.

When Governor Abbett named Cleveland the hurrah of an hour before was renewed. The delegates sprang to their feet, many of them mounted chairs, hats were thrown into the air and the noise of the cheering was deafening. Michigan's banner waved aloft again. The enthusiastic banner-bearer forgot his discretion, and taking the banner across the aisle flaunted it in the face of the New York delegation. Gen. Sickles resented this impertinence and denounced it and he was joined by other members of the delegation. Mayor Manning, of Albany, put out his foot to the aisle where he sat and the banner-bearer fell. Michigan men were across the aisle in an instant, and it looked as if blows would follow, but trouble was averted.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

The Gerrymander Bill Well on Its Way.

Some Modifications Made That Affect Quebec—But, of Course, the Tories Get the Best of It.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, June 22.—The House has been sitting since 11 o'clock this morning with midday and 6 o'clock recesses. Such progress has been made in committee with the Redistribution Bill that it will most likely be disposed of to-mrrrow. Most of its objectionable features so far as Quebec is concerned have been modified as a result of the opposition of the Liberals and an arrangement arrived at between the two sides of the House during the 6 o'clock recess. The Quebec re-arrangement has occupied nearly all of to-day's sessions but the unimportant changes in Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia were passed by the committee. The proposal of Col. Denison that West Toronto be divided into two divisions was voted down as was also an amendment by Mr. Corkburn that Toronto be given six members instead of four. The result in Quebec is briefly stated as follows: St. Johns (Liberal) and Iberville (Liberal) are united, Napierville (Liberal) and La Prairie (Conservative) are united, Vercheres (Liberal) and Chambly (Liberal) are united, St. Maurice (Conservative) and Three Rivers (Conservative) are united. These unions provide the four extra members required for Montreal, Hochelaga and Ottawa county. What the bill proposed was that Vercheres and Napierville, instead of being united as now, should be distributed among the surrounding constituencies. In the carrying out of this plan much of the gerrymandering was done. By the compromise by which these counties are united with adjacent counties the gerrymander is modified, but a number of counties represented by Conservatives are improved for the Government by the addition or removal of parishes.

The gerrymander of Prince Edward Island was under discussion when the House adjourned at 12:45 o'clock.

109 Years Old.

COLCHESTER, Ont., June 22.—John Heden, colored, who claimed to have been born in Virginia 109 years ago, died here yesterday.

A child three years old is half the height it will ever reach.

The umbrella is undoubtedly of high antiquity, appearing in various forms upon the sculptured monuments of Egypt, Assyria, Greece and Rome, and in hot countries it has been used since the dawn of history as a sunshade, a use signified by its name, derived from the Latin umbra, a shade.

GRANDER THAN EVER.

The Veteran Gladstone Amazes All England

By His Prodigious and Powerful Personality.

Lady Somerset to Assume the Role of Editress.

Lady Somerset as Editress.

LONDON, June 22.—Lady Somerset will shortly start a paper called the White Ribbon, devoted to the elevation of womanhood, to the advancement of temperance, and to the labor question. The arrangements for the paper are complete, and the capital of £10,000 has been subscribed. Lady Somerset will be editor-in-chief, assisted by the Duchess of Bedford, Lady Carlisle, Mrs. Pearsall Smith, Miss Frances Willard and other women prominent in the cause of reform.

Bismarck in a Back Number.

DRESDEN, June 22.—The remarks made by Prince Bismarck in reference to the enthusiastic greeting tendered him in this city, while on his way to Vienna, were significant. He said: "I recognize in this splendid reception appreciation of my person in the past. I hold no official position in the present, nor shall I ever again do so. I represent a chapter in the past that is closed forever."

Gladstone Grander Than Ever.

LONDON, June 22.—We are now thoroughly entered upon the most exciting struggle known to British politics. During Victoria's whole long reign since the Reform Bill agitation there has been no other contest actively enlisting such an enormous proportion of the electorate or invested with such a deep bitterness of personal and class hatreds. But if one ransacked the whole English Parliamentary history back to Edward Longshanks there would be no parallel found for the feature which really makes this coming fight unique.

It is that of Mr. Gladstone's amazing and prodigious personality, which swallows up all issues and swamps up all arguments. This gives the present campaign intensely and almost painfully human interest. Though we have been holding up our hands in astonishment at him these many years it seems as if up till now nobody realizes how wonderful an old man he truly is. Remarkable as this octogenarian is at all times, it needs the thunder and crash of a great battle to bring out the full measure of his qualities. By the way he has already begun this electoral combat he seems to reveal a Gladstone far more bewildering to ordinary human standards than was exhibited by the memorable Bulgarian agitation or the historic defeat of the first Home Rule Bill.

There is nothing else in political history quite like the public dialogue he held in his dining-room on Thursday with a delegation of the trades unions, which went to catechize him about the Eight Hours Bill. There were in the delegation half a dozen of the cleverest organizers and propagandists of the labor movement, and they came prepared to overwhelm him with arguments. The wily old man had them all sit around the table for a friendly conversation, with reporters to note every word. With a great air of candor he listened to the statement of their position, asking pertinent questions here and there, but for the most part listening with his bald, reverent head cocked to one side like a very wise old bird. Then, quite in a conversational way, he talked to them, making hash of their figures and generally guying their deductions, softly leading them into a hopeless tangle of conflicting arguments and widely-clashing demands. They had come proudly confident in the mastery of their subject, but without any effort, and quite camly and casually, as it were, he made them all seem to themselves and one another like a parcel of ignorant fatuous little schoolboys.

I have never seen such another strictly personal triumph recorded in print. They went away at last quite dazed and humble, not knowing whether to be angry or sick. They seem to be still hesitating and not likely wholly to make up their minds till after election. Some of the more superficial politicians of Mr. Gladstone's party are nervous about the effect of their venerable leader's unexpectedly bold treatment of that awkward eight-hour question, and a few of the noisier leaders are swearing they will put in the field a whole flock of labor candidates to damage the Liberal chances. But the overwhelming bulk of workingmen voters are disposed rather to chuckle over the way the old gentleman did their spokesmen up. The achievement created great enthusiasm everwhere outside of labor circles.

Whatever disaffection Mr. Gladstone's Socratic dialogue might have created, will be over-balanced tenfold by the stupid trickery into which the Tories have been led by some of their over-smart advisers with a view of working the date of dissolution so that London cannot possibly poll on Saturday. It required elaborate and pains-taking ingenuity to arrange this. By the provision of the clumsy English law the elections may be held in boroughs on either the fifth, sixth, seventh or eighth day after the reception of the writs. Therefore writs must come to hand on Tuesday or Wednesday in order to bar Saturday out as a polling day. But the business of the Commons had been so expedited by the eagerness of both sides to hurry the thing over that there was really no protest discoverable for extending the session into the week after next, which alone would make those two desired days possible. In this dilemma the Ministry hit on the device of having the House of Lords delay its business unduly, so as to make the Commons wait. This transparent trick is rendered all the more odious by the fact that the Lords have been fooling the whole week away at the Ascot races and could really finish all the work before them in a single night session next week if they chose.

Mr. Gladstone has seized the issue thus created with the avidity of a down-swooping eagle, and to-day all Radical England is howling about the dastardly trickery by which the workingmen of the great city boroughs are going to be disfranchised. I suppose there is no doubt that Saturday is their best day to vote, but by the outcry raised one would think there was no other day in the week in which laborers had a moment to call their own. It is already apparent that this cry of treachery will have a huge angering effect all through the artisan population. It not only brands the Tories as fearing the labor vote and scheming to cut it off, but it gives a new handle to the ever popular shout against the Lords. Whatever it is worth, trust Mr. Gladstone to extract the utmost possible value from it.

An Earthquake at Macassar.

LONDON, June 23.—A dispatch from Macassar, in the Dutch island of Celebes, says that an earthquake has occured on the island there. The natives were greatly frightened, and some of them rushed into the sea and were eaten by sharks. Considerable damage was done to the property of traders and others.

The Grip Ravages Dahomey.

PARIS, June 23.—The grip has at last reached Dahomey, and the people are suffering severely from the disease. It is believed in that country that disease is always the result of the wicked machinations of some bad man, and King Behanzin has been busy looking around for the guilty person who is afflicting so many of his subjects with this new disease. His fetich men told him, a few days before the last vessel sailed, that a poor woman in one of the towns was a witch, and the cause of all the trouble. The king at once condemned her to death. His sentence was immediately carried out. Her body was suspended from a tree, where it could be seen by all the people, and the fetich men declare that the disease will now rapidly disappear.

The Anglicans.

The Church Consolidation Scheme Indorsed by the Anglicans.

Satisfactory Report from the Sunday School Committee.

Rev. Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, Preaches a Missionary Sermon.

Wednesday Afternoon.

Synod resumed at 3 p.m.

Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, by invitation, took a seat on the platform amidst applause.

Matthew Wilson, Q.C., continued the debate on church consolidation, and strongly urged the adoption of his amendment. Mr. Bayly followed in support of his own.

On a division Mr. Bayly's amendment was carried by a vote of 74 to 56.

Rev. Mr. Craig then moved an amendment providing that any measure of a coercive character passed by the general synod be not final until submitted to the diocesan synods and carried by a majority of the diocesan synods. Dean Mackenzie seconded the amendment at length. It was lost, and the committee's report, as amended by Mr. Bayly, was carried.

Acknowledgment of fraternal greetings was received from the Synod of Ontario.

The report of the Sunday school committee was read by Chairman Rev. J. Downie. It contained a good deal of general information, though nothing statistical. The depository had been a success, and credit was due to the secretary, Mr. McWhinney, and his assistant, Mr. Manigault. Answers were given to a number of inquiries affecting the mission question. With few exceptions approval was expressed of the Sunday schools supporting a missionary in the foreign field, but due consideration should be given to the claims of Algoma and the Northwest. The formation of ruri-decanal Sunday school associations was recommended and constitutions and rules for the same suggested. Rules were also submitted for Sunday schools in the diocese.

The report was adopted in full and the synod adjourned.

Missionary Service.

A highly-interesting missionary service was held in St. Paul's Cathedral last evening, when Rev. Dean Carmichael, of Montreal, delivered an able and eloquent address to a large congregation. Bishop Baldwin, Dean Innes, Canon Smith, Canon Hill (St. Thomas), Canon Young (Goderich) and Canon Richardson were present and assisted in the devotional exercises. The dean based his remarks on John x., 16: "And other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one Shepherd." The history of the past 2,000 years, he said, warranted the fulfilment of the words of Christ that he would reign over the whole earth, but part of the words of the text, he thought, still remained to be fulfilled. All Christians were one, but in no spiritual sense could this refer to all churches, as, in his estimation, according to the view held by the Church of Rome, eternity separated that church from what was understood by "Protestantism." Even the Church of England would not be said to be one, as wide difference of opinion existed in it. Only God could bring the churches together, and he urged his hearers to be more in prayer, that the differences might rapidly disappear. Referring to the spread of the Gospel, he emphasized the claims of the heathen to the church's sympathies, and reminded his hearers that Christ died as much for the heathen of the past and present as he did for them. "Remember," said he, in conclusion, "that you yourselves are children of heathen, and your duty is to bring Christ to your brethren."

Thursday Morning.

Synod resumed at 10:15 a.m., and a ballot was taken for the election of delegates to the Provincial Synod.

The Bishop of Niagara replied to the fraternal greeting sent by the Synod of Huron to the Synod of Niagara.

A. H. Dymond, chairman of the committee of management, reported on behalf of the Huron Anglican Lay Workers' Association. They believed that among the clergy a stronger sense of the value and importance of lay help was felt, and that the laity were in a larger degree than formerly awakening to a higher conception of their duty to the church and its divine Head. The expenses of the association for the year amounted to $99 95. The aid of the secretary-treasurer, Mr. McWhinney and his assistant was acknowledged. Reference was made to the annual meeting of the association in connection with a convention of church and Sunday school workers held in St. Thomas in October last. The next meeting would be held at Stratford by invitation. A cordial letter from the late Rev. Canon Patterson was read affirming the welcome to that city. The committee had opened a correspondence with the Diocesan Lay Helpers' Association in England and much valuable information had been received. Notice had been given to consider whether canon 9 on lay readers was adequate to the present needs and practice of the church in the diocese.

The report was received.

Col. Clark, of Sarnia, asked what steps were being taken in regard to the alteration of the cathedral and the erection of synod buildings.

The Dean of Huron explained that they had $31,500 in hand, and a resolution was passed at the last meeting of St. Paul's vestry that as soon as the amount was raised to $35,000 they would at once commence work. This was not raised in a day. Within the next few weeks the synod hall would be commenced, when the hall could be used while the work on the cathedral was progressing.

In reply to Mr. R. Shaw-Wood's query as to whether the cathedral partook of the nature of a private church or of diocesan property Dean Innes said that it had the two-fold quality of a parochial church and of a cathedral. The bishop had the option of using it for any purpose whenever he chose.

The bishop desired to add to his charge an obituary notice which he had omitted owing to lack of data. Rev. T. S. Ellerby, late secretary of the London Society for Promoting Christianity Among the Jews, had recently passed away. In 1866 he was ordained deacon by the late Bishop Cronyn, and priest in 1887. Subsequently he was appointed rector of St. George's Church, Sarnia. His health failed and he returned to England.

The report of the committee appointed to revise and consolidate the constitution and canons was taken up. It recommended a large number of amendments. The report was adopted and Archdeacon Marsh, Rev. Canon Young and R. Bayly, Q.C., were appointed a committee to assist the secretary-treasurer in the final printing of the said revised constitution and canons with any necessary appendices thereto, and that the order of the necessary number of copies be left to the executive committee.

ALONG THE RAILWAY LINES.

The Dudley Dynograph Car—A Marvelous Piece of Mechanism.

New York Times: The Dudley dynograph car is about to start on its annual summer inspection tour over several of the eastern railroads. The car is the property of P. H. Dudley, and on this trip will start out with many added improvements. For months Mr. Dudley has been working hard to overcome all obstacles which have confronted him on former trips, and this time he says he has the mechanism of the car in almost perfect order. Everything has been so arranged in the car by the owner and inventor that the exact conditions of the rails and roadbed, the motion of the car, speed, etc., will now be registered on a long roll of paper as the car passes over the rails. The car is now at the Grand Central Station, and yesterday Mr. Dudley thoroughly explained its workings to a reporter for the Tribune. The car was built expressively for Mr. Dudley, and it is the home of the inventor and his wife as well as his workshop.

The car is 40 feet long, and the instrument which records the defects in the rails, roadbed and the other things is situated in one end of the car. The instrument is worked by electricity and by the movement of the wheels of the car. The records are made with a system of little glass tubes filled with red ink, and tapering to fine, pen-like points, which will trace on paper, as the car moves along at any rate of speed, anything that is desirable to know about the condition of the rails and roadbed. The paper used is about 24 inches wide, and it passes from one roller to another, both the rollers moving in connection with the wheels of the car. A strip of this paper eight feet long is used to each mile traversed, and the points of the little glass tubes mark on the paper the alignment of each rail, the degree of curvature as well as the elevation of each cure, the speed at which the car is moving, and the condition of the surface of the rails. Every variation of one thirty-second of an inch an over is recorded. In connection with the registering and tracing instrument in the car is a contrivance which automatically ejects a drop of blue paint upon each joint in the track where the end of one rail is one-sixteenth of an inch or more out of gear.

The dynograph car goes over the different systems behind a special engine, but does not travel faster than twenty miles an hour. Better results are obtained, Mr. Dudley says, when the car does not move at a greater speed. Along the route traversed by the car printed slips of paper explaining the meaning of the blue marks on the rails are handed to the foreman of the section gangs, and they immediately start out to repair the defects. This summer Mr. Dudley will go with his car over the Lake Shore Road, the New York Central, the Boston and Albany, the Old Colony, the New York and New England, and several other roads.

Mr. Dudley will live aboard the car during his trip. He has fitted up comfortable quarters, and his wife will go with him. In the car are a well-equipped kitchen, library and a sitting-room, in which Mrs. Dudley has her piano.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will make an exhibit at the World's Fair, showing the history and development of railways from their beginning to the present time. In pursuance of this purpose it has sent a representative to London to prepare models of the chief objects of the many in the Kensington Museum relating to railways.

The total number of railway employes on June 30, 1890, was 749,301. The number killed during the twelve months preceding was 2,451 and the number injured 22,396. This means one death for every 306 and one injury for every 30 men employed. Confining the statement to those employes engaged directly in the handling of trains, that is to say, engineers, firemen, conductors and other trainmen, the results are beyond the experience in any other business or trade. The number of employes of this class was 153,235, and out of this number there occurred during the year 1,459 deaths and 13,172 injuries due to some form of railway accident. This means one death for every 105 and one injury for every 12 men engaged in handling trains. In no other employment, not even in mining, which is a most dangerous occupation, can such results be shown. The total number killed in coupling and uncoupling cars was 369 and the number injured was 7,842; while the total number killed in falling from trains and engines was 561 and the total number injured was 2,363. That is to say, 37.94 per cent. of the total number of deaths and 45.57 per cent. of the total number of injuries sustained by railway employes resulted while coupling cars or setting brakes.—[Forum.

BRUCE.

W. G. Begg, Collingwood, is about to marry Miss McEachern, of Stayner. A large number of his friends met in the music hall there on Tuesday to express their good wishes and present him with a handsome tea service. After the presentation Mayor Telfer took the chair, and in his customary happy manner kept things going with songs and speeches.

The dredge at Collingwood is doing excellent work, where the channel is capable of being traversed by any of the boats running on the lakes, despite the lowness of the water.

It is rumored that the G. N. T. Company are about to build a new boat at the Collingwood shipyard.

BRANT.

The death of J. J. Fyle, at the advanced age of 92 years, has occurred at his residence, near Cainsville. Deceased was one of the pioneer settlers, and he was a man highly esteemed and respected by everybody. He was a man of strong intellect and had a marvelous memory, being able in his latter days to relate many incidents of early pioneer life. He retained his senses until the last.

On Tuesday at Brantford John Beers dropped dead in his own yard. Mr. Beers, who was about 84 years of age and retired from business, went to the pump to draw a little water. Before he had filled the pail he took ill and called for his son, but before anything could be done the old gentleman fell dead from heart failure. Mr. Beers was a well-known citizen and much respected by all who knew him. He has left a grown-up family.

Capt. J. S. Hamilton, of Brantford, has purchased from Mr. Apps the beautiful property of Cedar Glen, which adjoins the property of Joseph Stratford, near the Paris road, near Brantford. It is understood that he will spend $5,000 or so in beautifying the place, which, when the contemplated improvements are completed, will make an ideal home. Mr. Hamilton expects to move into it about Sept. 1. The property will hereafter be known as Langley Park.

ELGIN.

John Kane, convicted at St. Thomas a week ago of the larceny of $7 from Thos. McKee last August, having made restitution, was discharged on suspended sentence.

John McDonald, Port Stanley, who sustained a heavy loss a few days ago by one of his team of horses dying, feels the loss somewhat lightened through the kindness and forethought of Miss Edith Fraser and Mrs. Honeysett collecting between $70 and $80, which they recently handed him. Mr. McDonald, though not looking for such tangible expression of sympathy, feels very grateful to these ladies and the many friends who contributed.

A man representing himself as George Robinson, M. C. R. engineer, St. Thomas, got two ladies' gold watches, on approval, he stated, for his wife's inspection from Bradley's jewelry store, Windsor, and did not return them. There is no such engineer on the M. C. R., and this is supposed to be the same man who defrauded two or three boarding houses in St. Thomas on the same pretense some time ago.

HURON.

The Canadian Gazette contains the appointment of William Thomas Whitely, Clinton, as sub-collector of customs.

Dr. Graham, of Brussels, has been appointed by the Grand Trunk Railway Company as their physician in the place of Dr. Holmes, removed to Detroit.

Three Brussels youths were each fined $1 and costs recently for assault on a load of Salvation Army people hailing from Wingham who visited Brussels a day or two previously.

Samuel Playford, one of the oldest residents of Wroxeter, died suddenly the other morning. Mr. Playford was a native of the county of Norfolk, England, and come to this county 58 years ago. He first settled in Grafton, Ont., where he lived eight years. He then moved to Cosshill, Waterloo county, where he lived for 26 years. He then came to Wroxeter, where he had resided ever since. Deceased was a blacksmith by trade, and a member of the Church of England.

KENT.

James Barclay, sixth concession, Howard, was kicked by a horse the other day, and had his arm broken.

A warrant is in the hands of Constable Stewart, Thamesville, for the arrest of John Jaques, a married man of about 40 years of age, about 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighs 180 pounds, for the abduction of Maggie Cowal, 13 years of age nearly 5 feet in height, weighing 100 pounds. When the girl left home ostensibly to go to a neighbor's she had on a red dress, with cream lace about the throat, a black straw hat with lace and a white flower. She is light complexioned with brown hair. Jaques has a brown mustache and wore dark clothes.

OXFORD.

A petition, signed by quite a large number of Ingersoll merchants, was handed to the council Monday night, asking for the repeal of the Saturday night early closing bylaw. Another petition, signed by a majority of the merchant tailors, was also handed in, praying for the enforcement of the 7 o'clock closing bylaw. The police were instructed to notify and enforce the latter.

Mrs. Mary Telfer, wife of the late John Telfer, of North Oxford, died Monday, aged 70.

The I. A. A., of Ingersoll, intend holding their fourth annual celebration in that town on July 1. Great preparations are already made for the day, which will excel all previous attempts. The chief attractions are an international tug-of-war between Canada and the United States, Canada being represented by the famous Nissouri team, and the United States by the Humboldt Park team, of Chicago, (winners of the great international tug-of-war and champions of America); also a balloon ascension and parachute drop by Madame Carletta. In the evening a concert has been arranged, also a grand display of fireworks in the school grounds.

PERTH.

The other evening Mr. Downs, caretaker of the Stratford park, fished a man out of the river at the long bridge and saved his life. The man, who turned out to be a respectable farmer, had fallen over the railing while in a condition of intoxication.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of young Liberals from the town and surrounding townships was held in Campbell's Hall, Mitchell, Monday evening, for the purpose of organizing a young men's Liberal club. After short addresses from Mr. Watson and Mr. Darwin, of Seaforth, and others a club was organized with a large membership. Hon. Thomas Ballantyne was elected honorary president; Dr. Wood, president; Wm. Ryan, first, and John Hagart, of Logan, second vice-president; W. Martyn, secretary-treasurer. An executive committee was appointed—S. A. Hodge, Fred Dufton and W. P. Kerr, of Mitchell; three from Logan, three from Hibbert and three from Fullarton townships—and the club starts out with the determination of redeeming South Perth at the earliest opportunity. Congratulatory telegrams were received and read from Jas. Grieve, M.P., Jas. Trow, ex-M.P., G. G. McPherson and W. C. Moscrip.

Fire did about $100 damage in Jeffrey Bros.' hardware store, Stratford, Monday.

WATERLOO.

The new building of the Ball Electric Light Company, Waterloo, will be completed at an early date. The main building is 24x86 feet, boiler house 16x24 feet. It will be furnished with a 50 horse power engine and boiler. The dynamo will have a capacity to run 60 arc lamps. The company are putting in all modern improvements, and are determined to give the citizens first-class light.

WELLINGTON.

John L. George, a farmer residing in the township of Maryboro has been sentenced at Guelph to three months in jail at hard labor. He was found guilty of shooting a neighbor with a double barreled shotgun with intent to do him bodily harm. The shooting resulted from a dispute over a line fence. The neighbor was seriously injured by the shots.

Wm. Gainor, for biting the finger of a man named Stephens, in Arthur last January, was sentenced at Guelph to a week's imprisonment in jail.

Canal Tolls Discrimination and Rebates May Lead to Further Trouble.

A Washington dispatch says:

The Senate passed a resolution in February last to the effect that the President be requested, if, in his opinion, not incompatible with the public interests, to inform the Senate of the proceedings recently had with the representatives of the Dominion of Canada and of the British Government as to arrangements for reciprocal trade between Canada and the United States. In response thereto President Harrison to-day submitted the following information:

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

On the 15th day of April last, the Secretary of State submitted to me a report, which is herewith transmitted. Shortly after the report came into my possession I was advised by the Secretary that the British Minister at this capital had informed him that the Canadian Government desired a further conference on the subject of the discriminating canal tolls of which this country has complained. This information was accompanied by the suggestion that a response to the resolution of the Senate might properly be delayed until this futher conference was held.

On the 3rd inst., the British Minister, in connection with Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. George E. Foster, members of the Canadian Ministry, were received by the Secretary of State, and a further conference took place. In both of the conferences referred to, Hon. John W. Foster, at the request of the Secretary of State, appeared with him on behalf of this Government, and the report of the latter conference was submitted to me on the 6th inst.

The result of the conference, as to the practicability of arranging a reciprocity treaty with the Dominion of Canada, is clearly stated in the letter of Mr. Blaine and was anticipated, I think, by him and by every other thoughtful American who had considered the subject. A reciprocity treaty limited to the exchange of natural products would have been such only in form. A treaty that should be reciprocal in fact and of mutual advantage, must necessarily have embraced an important list of manufactured articles and have secured to the United States a free or favored introduction of these articles into Canada as against the world. The conclusion of the Canadian commissioners is stated in the report of Mr. Blaine as follows:

"In the second place, it seemed to be impossible for the Canadian Government, in view of its present political relations and obligations, to extend to American goods a preferential treatment over those of other countries. As Canada is a part of the British Empire, they did not consider it competent for the Dominion Government to enter into any commercial arrangement with the United States, from the benefits of which Great Britain and its colonies should be excluded."

DISCRIMINATING TOLLS.

Mr. Foster, who was present at the first conference, confirms the statements of Mr. Blaine. While this misunderstanding is unfortunate, the more serious phase of the situation is that, instead of rescinding the discriminating canal tolls, of which this Government complains to the Canadian Ministry, after the return of the commissioners from their visit to Washington on April 4, reissued, without any communication with the Government, the order continuing the discrimination, by which a rebate of 18 cents a ton is allowed upon grain going to Montreal, but not to American ports, and refusing this rebate even to grain going to Montreal if transshipped to an American port. The report of Mr. Partridge, the solicitor of the Department of State, shows these discriminations very clearly.

That these orders as to canal tolls and rebates are in direct violation of article 27 of the treaty of 1871 seems to be clear. It is wholly evasive to say that there is no discrimination between Canadian and American vessels; that the rebate is allowed to both, without favor, upon grain carried through to Montreal, or transshipped at a Canadian port to Montreal. The treaty reads:

"To secure to the citizens of the United States the use of the Welland, St. Lawrence and other canals in the Dominion on terms of equality with the inhabitants of the Dominion."

It is a matter of regret that the Canadian Government has not responded promptly to our request for the removal of these discriminating tolls. The papers submitted show how serious the loss inflicted is upon our lake vessels and upon some of our lake ports. In view of the fact that the Canadian commissioners still contest with us the claim that these tolls are discriminating and insist that they constitute no violation of the letter or spirit of article 27 of the treaty, it would seem appropriate that Congress, if the view held by the executive is approved, should, with deliberation and yet with promptness, take such steps as may be necessary to secure the just rights of our citizens. In view of the delays which have already taken place in transmitting this correspondence to Congress, I have not felt justified in awaiting the further communication from the Government of Canada, which was suggested in the recent conference. Should any proposition relating to this matter be received it will be immediately submitted for the consideration of the Senate, and, if forwarded within the time suggested, will undoubtedly anticipate any final fiction by Congress.

BENJAMIN HARRISON.

MR FOSTER'S LETTER.

The correspondence is accompanied by a letter from Secretary Blaine under date of April 15 which gives the details of the negotiations up to that time and from which the President got the points for his message to the Senate. A letter from John W. Foster, under date of June 8, covers the details of the last conference, which was interrupted by the resignation of Mr. Blaine. After a recital of what led up to the second conference, Mr. Foster says in substance:

"The Canadian commissioners opened the conference by stating that there seemed to exist some misunderstanding as to the conclusions reached at the conference of February last respecting the Canadian canal tolls. They had been informed that the American conferees understood that an assurance had been given that the discrimination which they alleged had been created against American ports and lines of transportation by reason of the Montreal rebate was to be removed. This did not conform to their understanding, as all the assurance they intended to give was that the complaint of the Government of the United States should be taken into consideration by the Canadian Ministry on their return to Ottawa."

ON EQUAL TERMS.

They contended that the Canadian canals were open to citizens of the United States on exactly the same terms as to British subjects.

The Secretary of State, in reply, recognized the correctness of the claim of the commissioners that the canals were open to citizens and subjects of the two countries alike, but he urged that the discrimination which was against American ports and lines of transportation to the seaboard, was in plain violation of article 27 of the treaty, and that the conduct of Canada was in marked and unfavorable contrast to that of the United States, which gave free transit through its canals and on the great lakes to all commerce without regard to the route over which it passed to the sea.

ONLY ME.

A little figure glided through the hall;
"Is that you, Pet?"—the words came tenderly;
A sob—suppressed to let the answer fall—
"It isn't Pet, mamma; it's only me."

The quivering baby lips!—they had not meant
To utter any word could plant a sting;
But to that mother's heart a strange pang went
She heard, and stood like a convicted thing

One instant, and a happy little face
Thrilled 'neath unwonted kisses rained above;
And from that moment, Only Me had place
And part with Pet in tender mother love.

The Safest Way.

"Why did you strike him with you club when he pointed the gun at you? He distinctly told you it was not loaded."

"I know that, judge, that's the reason that I lammed him."

Concentrated Wisdom.

"Who is it that possesses all knowledge?" asked the Sunday school teacher.

"My brother James," replied a diminutive pupil. "He's just home from college."

—[BROWNING.

London, Thursday, June 23.

IT WOULD seem from the various glowing annual reports, that the banks, not the business people, got pretty much all the oyster there was last year.

THE total population of Canada is 4,829,411. Of this number 645,705 are natives of other places than Canada. The native Canuck is thus decidedly on the top.

AT A convention held yesterday Hon. Edward Blake was chosen Home Rule candidate for South Longford, Ireland. It is probable that Mr. Blake will be returned by acclamation. The Home Rule majority is about 3,000 in a total vote of 3,300.

THE BULLETIN, the organ of the American Protective Tariff League, now makes the following proclamation: "Wages will be reduced and advanced from time to time in obedience to laws beyond the power of man to control, no matter what kind of tariff we may have, just as the price of beef will be high one year and low the next." This is an absolutely true statement. But it plays ducks and drakes with the assertion, too often heard in political campaigns, that high tariffs on imports increase wages. They not only do not increase the actual wage of the worker, but they seriously decrease its purchasing power.

A WRITER in the North American Review for July makes this strong and sensible denunciation of the custom of wearing mourning. The writer well argues that the custom is outworn; it is an anachronism in the nineteenth century. It is unchristian; it clouds the spiritual significance of the resurrection with the ever present expression of temporal loss. It is cruel; it forces helpless and innocent people into action which entails privation and unnecessary suffering. It is untruthful; it makes false outward show of changes in sentiment. And it is essentially vulgar; for it presses private affairs upon public notice; it thrusts claims of fashion and frivolity upon a time which most greatly moves the heights and depths of being; and it forces its superficial worldliness into the fiercest throes which can ever rend human nature. Why then do we still wear mourning?

UNTIMELY.

There is a disposition in certain quarters to sneer at and belittle the mayor and aldermen of London because they have not made greater progress in the disposition of the London and Port Stanley Railway. The ADVERTISER is just as much interested in the proper disposal of the line as any other business enterprise in the community; but we do not deem it wise to snarl at the men who are charged by the taxpayers to make the best bargain possible. It must be remembered that in this matter it takes two to make a bargain, and that it is better to make haste slowly than to enter upon a position that is not tenable. Whether the railway is re-leased to the Grand Trunk or to another company, to be run either by steam or by electricity, are surely questions which are worthy of consideration. The information needed to reach an intelligent judgment is still accumulating, and in due course will be acted upon. If any of the smart fellows who are grumbling because the council has not completed a bargain before now have a better plan to lay before the mayor and aldermen than is now being pursued, the present is the time to take the council and the citizens into confidence. But it is no time for silly criticisms of the negotiations so far entered upon.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

The continued rain has seriously damaged the prospects of various crops. Corn in Western Ontario will be almost a failure. Of peas there will be a short crop. Potatoes have rotted on low-lying or clay lands in many districts, and the total yield will be short. A great deal of the fall wheat has been thrown down, and may not be able to gain strength enough to stand up and ripen unless the weather changes very materially, and that soon. There will be an immense crop of hay, and the yield of roots will also be large. Reports continue to come in regarding the fall of apples from the trees. There will be a shortage of this most useful and profitable fruit if the fall is general. Berries of all kinds will be more plentiful than usual. In the Niagara Peninsula, the crop of strawberries and raspberries is enormous. The peach crop is not so promising, and the luscious fruit is likely to be scarce.

CLEVELAND WILL FACE HARRISON

At an early hour this morning Grover Cleveland was nominated as the Democratic candidate for the United States Presidency. On the first ballot, the Chicago convention gave the ex-President seventeen more votes than were necessary to a choice, two-thirds of the total vote being required.

The selection of Cleveland is a strong testimony to the power of that statesman as a leader. Without intrigue, without agitation or organization of any kind on his part, Cleveland is for the third time selected as the representative of the Democracy in the conflict for national prestige. There was an organized opposition to him in New York because he failed to carry that pivotal State in 1888, and thus lost the Presidency; but it has been recognized that it was not Cleveland's blame, but dissension within the ranks that caused the defection. Now, while Tammany has protested against and worked to prevent Cleveland's renomination, its leaders have promised to support the ticket, and it is probable that they will do so. They will doubtless profit by the example of the Republicans, who had a very bitter fight over the renomination of Harrison, but are now trying to excel each other in the art of getting together in brotherly unity.

It speaks well for the United States that the respective parties have put men at the head of their tickets that are of unexceptionable private character. Cleveland and Harrison differ, and differ widely, in their views regarding the details of government, but as unprejudiced outsiders we readily concede that they hold their views honestly. They are not the candidates of what is known as "the machine." They are not put up to be Democrat or Republican without regard to the consistency of their public actions. In a very large degree, the two men are representatives of the best elements in each of the respective divisions of the United States people, and a strong, vigorous campaign will be the result. It will be an educative conflict beyond a doubt. On the great dividing issue the two men and their supporters are wide apart. The Republicans indorse the McKinley Bill, with all its vexatious and restrictive provisions. The Democrats, despite a "straddle" report on the taxation question, take strong ground in favor of tariff reduction, and affirm that taxes should only be imposed for revenue, not for the benefit of classes. Thus the dividing lines are well defined.

It would be idle to prophesy as to the result. It always is idle to speculate as to the outcome of United States elections, for as often as not it is the unexpected that happens. So little turns a pivotal State that it may be anybody's battle down to a day or two from the time of polling when a false step may be taken by one or other of the parties, and the fight is lost or won.

To Canadians the campaign will possess must interest. With one-fourth of our people living in the States and our trade and social relations with our neighbors constantly becoming more closely identified, it is but natural that we should take an intelligent interest in the election, no matter how the fates may deal with the contestants.

CHURCH SALOONS.

Rev. Dr. Rainsford, formerly of this city, is rapped over the knuckles by his fellow-preachers for recommending the Church to take over and run the saloons. There is the germ of a true idea at the base of our former townsman's suggestion, namely, that something equally convenient and sociable should take the place of the saloon. But leave out the liquor, we say. There is another view. A union of church members could at any time extinguish or at least largely restrict the liquor business. If they can suppress something, and do not do it, they are responsible for its continuance. So it seems not unreasonable ground that if the Church will not suppress the saloon, it might consider Brother Rainsford's suggestion to take over the saloons and show the unregenerate world how saloons should be run.

FIRST BALLOTS.

In view of the fact that ex-President Cleveland was nominated by the Democratic convention on the first ballot this morning, it is noteworthy to find that in the last 24 years he is the only Democratic candidate chosen either by acclamation or on the first ballot. In the 1868 convention this was the vote on the first ballot: George H. Pendleton 105, Andrew Johnson 65, Winfield S. Hancock 33, Sanford E. Church 33, scattering 79. Total 315. Necessary to nominate, 210. Pendleton fell short on the first ballot, and after a protracted contest Horatio Seymour was nominated on the 22nd.

The Democrats in 1872 ratified the choice of the Liberal Republican convention in Cincinnatti. At that convention, on the first ballot, Charles Francis Adams received 203 votes, Horace Greeley 157, Lyman Trumbull 110, B. G. Brown 95, David Davis 92, Andrew G. Curtin 62, Salmon P. Chase 2. Total, 723. Necessary to nominate, 362. Mr. Adams was short of the required number, and on the sixth ballot Horace Greeley was nominated.

The Democratic national convention of 1876 thus voted in its first ballot: Tilden 403, Hendricks 133, Hancock 77, Allen 56, Bayard 31, Broadhead 19, Parker 18. Governor Tilden was nominated on the second ballot.

In the Democratic national convention of 1880 this was the first ballot: Hancock 171, Bayard 153, Payne 81, Thurman 68, Field 65, Morrison 62, Hendricks 49, Tilden 38, scattering 39. On the second ballot Gen. Hancock was nominated.

In the Democratic national convention of 1884 the first ballot stood thus: Cleveland 392, Bayard 170, Thurman 88, Randall 78, McDonald 56, Carlisle 27, scattering 9. The nomination was made on the second ballot.

In the Democratic national convention of 1888 Cleveland was unanimously nominated without a ballot.

This year, the vote at Chicago on the first ballot stood: Cleveland 616½, Hill 112, Boies 103, Gorman 36½, Stevenson, of Illinois, 16½, Carlisle 15, Campbell 2, Pattison 1, Whitney 1, Russell, of Massachusetts, 1. Necessary to a choice 599.

THE RIGHT TO ARGUE FREELY.

In a recent issue we alluded to a rumor that Mr. Myers, county crown attorney of Dufferin (not Wellington, as was stated), had been asked by Sir Oliver Mowat to resign his office because of public advocacy of Continental Union. A published correspondence shows the rumor to be founded on fact. Mr. Myers, however, has declined to resign, holding that he would thus become a party to his own condemnation. The onus of dismissal, if dismissal it is to be, is thus laid on Mr. Mowat.

The Toronto Mail does not agree with Sir Oliver, holding that "the more advanced portion of the civilized world, comprising the communities in one of which it is our happiness to live, has now embraced in its fullest extent the doctrine of liberty of opinion. The world has been brought through much tribulation to the final conclusion that truth is her own best guardian, and that in respect to all questions alike, religious, political or social, our only security for a right decision is perfect freedom of discussion. * * * Sir Oliver must know that the Canadian people will not suffer a great question, when once it has been raised, to be disposed of otherwise than by fair discussion, and that the only way they can be ultimately induced to discard and detest the idea of political change is to convince them that they are better governed and happier as they are."

So far the Toronto Mail.

The Toronto Globe takes ground on the main principle not very different from the Mail. "It is no treason," as Sir John Thompson has recently said, "for a person to champion that or any other radical change so long as he proposes to bring it about by constitutional means." But the Globe takes the point that what Mr. Myers might do in the way of advocacy with propriety as a private citizen he should not be allowed to do as a public official.

It must be admitted that there is something in this point, especially if it is enforced all along the line. But why Col. Denison, the police magistrate of Toronto, should be allowed to appear on public platforms to argue, rather violently sometimes, in favor of Imperial Federation, while Mr. Myers, the county crown attorney of Dufferin, is not to be allowed to argue in favor of some different solution of the problem of Canada's future, is not exactly apparent.

We have no doubt that good will grow out of the little complication between Attorney-General Mowat and County Attorney Myers. Judging from the comments of the press, the final outcome will not be to diminish by one jot or tittle the right to discuss as free men every question which has to do with Canada's unsettled future.

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

History repeats itself, and as it has been for years so it is now. Foolish people who brave the sun and its blistering heat invite the prostrating blow.

The London Free Press refers to Hyman's election in 1891 as an "illegal fraud." Does that mean that Carling's election in 1892 was a "legal fraud"?—[Forest Free Press.

There was no election of Carling in 1892. It certainly was a "legal fraud."

Clerking in the drygoods and millinery stores of Chili must be anything but pleasant occupation, inasmuch as in the towns and cities the shopping of any consequence is done in the evening. In Santiago the stores are open until midnight, and during hot afternoons they are locked up.

Recently a very large concern, which has been manufacturing gold watch cases in Bond street, London, for many years, decided to go out of business After all the other arrangements had been concluded the building was sold, the sellers reserving the right, however, to remove everything except the exterior walls. The inner walls and floors were taken out and burned, and the ashes were carefully searched for gold dust and filings. Fifteen thousand dollars worth of gold is said to have been recovered in this manner.

A fashionable London clergyman thus addressed his congregation not long ago: "I hear that the incumbent of a certain very 'fashionable' church animadverted last Sunday in severe terms on the subject of the offertories whose flea-skinning parsimony had excited the indignation of their pastor. 'I'm often congratulated,' exclaimed this divine, 'upon having a rich congregation, and, looking to the general expenditure upon dresses and establishments, they should, indeed, be wealthy; but looking to the amounts given by them in the church, they could only be regarded as genteel paupers. There is a decent liberality which is midway between beggarly meanness and imprudent generosity.' It may be hoped that the incumbent's forcible remarks will produce satisfactory financial results."

To the overcautious and conservative opposers of the enfranchisement of women on the grounds that the right of suffrage would pervert and corrupt woman's instincts and purposes, would cause division and discomfort in the home, and would result in the neglect of children, there is interesting food for reflection in the history of the practical workings of equal suffrage in Iceland. In this nation of 73,000 people, where men and women are in every respect political equals and are governed by representatives elected by men and women together, not a single illiterate child is to be found, every child being able to read, write, and understand numbers at the age of 7. These voting mothers who educate their own children have produced a nation in which there are no prisons, no police, no criminals, no paupers, no enormously rich or wretchedly poor people, and where the citizens are educated, industrious, chaste, temperate and intelligent.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine. It is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, Juniper Berries, and other well-known and valuable vegetable remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative power not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures where other preparations fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best blood purifier before the public. It eradicates every impurity, and cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion, General Debility, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Kidney and Liver Complaints, overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, and builds up the system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has met peculiar and unparalleled success at home. Such has become its popularity in Lowell, Mass., where it is made, that whole neighborhoods are taking it at the same time. Lowell druggists sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other sarsaparillas or blood purifiers. Sold by druggists. $1; six for $5. Prepared only by C. I. THLETICS.

James S. Mitchell, of the New York Athletic Club, broke the world's record at throwing the sixteen-pound hammer on Monday at Philadelphia, covering a distance of 141 feet 9 inches, beating his own record of 141 feet 3½ inches, made in New York last October.

The Hamilton Cricket Club sent an eleven to Toronto on Monday and succeeded in defeating Toronto by twelve runs on the first inning, time preventing the conclusion of Toronto's second inning.

Yorkshire defeated Leicestershire eight wickets, scoring 237 and 102 for two wickets, against 122 and 216.

The Toronto Cricket Club sent an eleven to Deer Park Tuesday and defeated Upper Canada College by 68 to 51 in a single inning match.

Middlesex and Gloucestershire were playing when the last English mail left. Middlesex made the big score of 523 in the first inning and Gloucester looked like losing, having only 244 and 133 for seven wickets.

THE WHEEL.

The bicyclists of Syracuse have coined a new word in their programme of races. "Cyclestrians" is what they say now.

A New York paper says: At the Century Wheelmen's meet on Saturday Referee Bunnell debarred several of the wheelmen for "scantiness of attire."

A bicycle boat is the latest thing out. It is the invention of Everett and Lester Green, of Rockville, Conn. They have placed it on Lake Snipsic, where it attracts much attention. It consists really of two boats connected by a wheel sixteen inches in diameter. The boat is propelled in the same manner as a bicycle, and can be forced rapidly through the water with its load of four persons.

AT THE CAMP.

All the Troops Engaged in Active Drill.

A Beautiful Scene of Activity—Crowds of Spectators on the Grounds—The First on the Sick List—To-Day's Camp Orders.

The camp grounds were a scene of life yesterday. Throughout the whole day troops were drilling constantly. At one time in the afternoon every company in the camp was on parade. Scattered over the entire green sward blue coats, red coats, troops of cavalry and the London Field battery were to be seen in active movement. The sight was well worth seeing. Large numbers of spectators were on the grounds in carriages and on foot. The men will evidently be well drilled before the camp breaks up on July 2. This morning the practice at the butts commences. The range is a couple of miles north of the camp.

Pte. Patrick McCloskey, of No. 3 Company, Twenty-ninth Battalion, was granted permission to return to his home in New Hamburg yesterday afternoon on account of illness. As yet he is the only one on the sick list.

The camp orders for to-day are as follows:

The Twenty-second Battalion will furnish the duty band to-morrow.

Next for that duty, the Twenty-ninth Battalion.

One company of the Twenty-first, two companies of the Twenty-second, two companies of the Twenty-seventh, one company of the Twenty-ninth and two companies of the Thirty-second will go to the butts to-morrow.

Medical officer at the range to-morrow, Surgeon Major Brown, London Field Battery.

Next for duty, Surgeon Major Scott, Thirty-second Battalion.

To-morrow the drills to be performed by the First Regiment of Cavalry will be the same as to-day.

The drill to be performed by the infantry regiments will be as follows:

A early morning parade sections 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6 of squad drill; at the forenoon parade squad drill with arms during the first half of the time, and the manual exercise during the second half; at the afternoon parade squad drill with arms during the first half of the time and the firing exercise during the second half.

No. 1.—Target practice will commence to-morrow. Companies going to the butts must arrange for their own marking. Unless special orders are given to the contrary, men detailed for marking must report to the instructor of musketry at brigade headquarters at 7:30 a.m., so that they may accompany the sergeant instructor to the range and make everything ready for the firing by the time the companies have arrived there. Unless otherwise specially ordered, the companies detailed for practice must parade and march from camp at 8 a.m.

Companies detailed for this practice must parade their full strength of non-commissioned officers and men. The only exception to this rule will be men sick in the hospital. One cook per company and bandsmen, and all must do their shooting before the end of the training.

Companies must be marched to and from the range with the utmost regularity. Ammunition must in all cases be drawn from the camp quartermaster at 7:30 a.m.

The P. M. O. will detail a medical officer for duty at the ranges on each day that there is practice.

No. 2.—In addition to the parades already ordered, there will be a roll call at 6 a.m.

No. 3.—At all parades the officers must be with their commands at the "fall in," and must superintend the formation of the parade. Officers must wear swords and gloves at all parades.

By order,
M. AYLMER, Lieut.-Col.,
Brigade Major.

A SUMMER DRINK FOR WORKERS.

Oatmeal in Water is Cheaper and Better Than Beer.

With the advent of the hot summer days the old discussion as to the best drink for sustaining the energies of laborers under prolonged efforts in the open air has been revived. Farmers and other employers have for a long time pinned their faith to beer as a beverage for their workmen, but oatmeal has for the last few years been rapidly growing in favor, and apparently with just cause.

A strong support to the advocates of oatmeal has been given by a recent experience on the occasion of the conversion of the broad gauge which has been retained so doggedly by the Great Western Railway Company in England to the narrow gauge now adopted universally in that country. The conversion had to be effected with the utmost dispatch, and the length of line to be transformed was over 200 miles. Five thousand men worked two successive days of seventeen hours each, with only short intervals for meals. Throughout this exceptional strain nothing but oatmeal water was imbibed by the laborers, and its refreshing, thirst-quenching and sustaining power was unreservedly admitted.

Another valuable piece of testimony to the merit of this modern rival of beer is the fact that many cricket clubs have adopted oatmeal water as the regulation tipple of their active members while a match is being played. It is found that men play better cricket and an infinitely better game than where beer was thought to be the only thing that a cricketer ought to drink, with the advantage of no undesirable reaction.

The method of manufacture is simple. Put a liberal lump of ice into a pail with a few handfuls of oatmeal; fill up with water, add the juice of a lemon and a little sugar, only just enough to give interest to the decoction, and the result is a drink that any man will be grateful for on a sweltering dog day.

IN LABOR'S FIELD.

Strike of Molders in a Montreal Foundry.

MONTREAL, June 22.—Some fifteen molders employed in Clendenning's big stove foundry have gone out on strike. They claim their pay has been reduced 10 per cent. from the first of the year, and on their asking that it be restored the demand was refused. Mr. Clendenning says the 10 per cent. was only to be allowed on new work and it did not apply to old contracts. The men will not be taken back unless they agree to Clendenning's terms.

Wedding at Walkerton.

WALKERTON, June 22.—Miss Pauline Kingsmill, youngest daughter of Judge Kingsmill, was married at St. Thomas Church here to-day to Mr. Langdon Wilks, of Brantford. The occasion was graced by relatives of the happy couple from Washington, New York, Virginia, Winnipeg, Toronto, Montreal, Galt and other places. The happy couple have left for Europe.

Order of Scottish Clans.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 22.—The fourteenth annual royal convention of the Order of Scottish Clans of the United States and Canada convened in Elks' Hall, this city, yesterday. There were 150 delegates in attendance. S. M. Clark, of Duluth, Minn., presided in the absence of James Sutherland, M.P., of Woodstock, Canada, the royal chief. The secretary's report showed a membership of 27,888. The convention will not adjourn until Friday.

Asleep for a Year.

STOCKBRIDGE, Mich., June 22.—May White, the girl whose somnolence has drawn the attention of the medical world, begins her second year of sleep to-day. Her condition remains virtually the same. One year ago her weight was 147 pounds, now it is 80. The doctor arouses her four hours each day, and she retains consciousness perhaps an hour. "If she should sleep 24 hours," he said, "no one could arouse her."

A Romantic Wedding.

PETERBORO, June 22.—Monday morning a rather romantic wedding took place at the residence of Mr. G. W. Ranney, C.E., the nuptial knot being tied by Rev. C. B. Kenrick, curate of St. John's. The contracting parties were Mr. J. J. Lowndes, of Gaspe, Que., and the bride was the widow of the late Mr. James Campbell. Twenty-one years ago the bride was a governess in the family of Mr. Lowndes at Gaspe. At the close of her engagement she came west, and for 21 years there has been no communication either personal or epistolary between the parties till a few days ago, when the bride wrote to Mrs. Lowndes respecting a summer visit to Gaspe. The correspondence that followed informed each of the fact, that they did not know before, that the other was widowed. Within ten days the match and the marriage were made. Mrs. Campbell moved in the best society in Peterboro and Mr. Lowndes is a wealthy and highly respected resident of Gaspe.

The Deaconess Movement.

TORONTO, June 22.—Last evening a large number of ladies and not a few prominent adherents of the evangelical branch of the English Church in this diocese assembled in the lecture hall of the Wycliffe College to consider the proposal to establish a Deaconess Home in this city. Right Rev. Dr. Sweatman, bishop of Toronto, presided.

In introducing the business of the evening the bishop spoke briefly of the great good the deaconess organizations of other lands were doing and the need for such an organization in this diocese, adding that he desired by his presence there to show his very hearty sympathy with the proposal to establish a home in Toronto and his cordial co-operation in the work. Rev. Arthur H. Baldwin, Rev. G. A. Kuhring and Hon. and Rev. R. Moreton, of Hamilton, spoke in favor of the movement, after which resolutions were adopted affirming the desirability and necessity of the introduction of the organization into this diocese, outlining the scope of its work and choosing a board of management.

The Georgia Girl Kindles Wrath in Austria-Hungary.

Audiences Denounce Her as a Swindler and Clamor for Their Money—At Last Suppressed as a Nuisance by the Police.

VIENNA, June 22.—The exhibitions of the Georgia Magnet, who will in future perform as Miss Anneta Astoria, have broken down after a series of riotous disturbances unprecedented in the history of entertainments in this country.

She made her debut in this city some time ago, and was received by a distinguished audience. Many members of the aristocracy were present, and Prof. Krafft-Ebing, of the Vienna University, made her a special study. In an interview he said that he had noticed that the young woman, although possessed of unusual muscle, never attempted a trick without first placing her antagonist in the most disadvantageous position. He showed how she did her feat of holding up a billiard cue despite the combined efforts of several men to lower it. After several successful performances, a party of young men applied on the stage what the professor had taught them, and the result was a partial failure of the Georgia Magnet's feat. The audience hooted and yelled, and the police had to be called in to preserve order.

From Vienna the young woman went to Graz. There her exhibitions were the scenes of the most riotous demonstrations. Several young athletes appeared on the stage to test her so-called magnetism, and refused to take the disadvantageous positions which her manager tried to give them. Consequently she was unable to withstand their muscle, and her familiar tricks with umbrellas, billiard cues and chairs fizzled utterly. The audience on several occasions rose and shouted "Swindle," demanded their money back, and rushed for the stage to attack the Magnet and her manager. The performances eventually became too disorderly to be continued, and the show, at the request of the police, moved to Budapest.

In that city the whole series of performances was bedlam and violence. The young woman was hooted from the stage repeatedly, was jeered as the "American swindler," and was threatened with personal violence. The hall in which she appeared had to be guarded by a special force of police, and twice re-enforcements were called in to avert a riot.

The hall became the resort of roughs and loafers, who wished to raise a disturbance so as to have a good opportunity for picking pockets and for smashing things generally. The police authorities were appealed to by the orderly citizens of the neighborhood, and they responded by informing the Magnet and her manager, when the hour for opening the exhibition arrived, that no more performances of the kind would be tolerated in the city.

DIDN'T WAIT TO DRAW.

Georgia James Shot Her Assailant Through Her Dress Pocket.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 22.—At the mill of William James, near Moark, about twenty men are hired, and all of them are young, with one or two exceptions. James, in addition to running the sawmill, keeps a store and also boards his hands. He has to assist him in these latter occupations his wife and his 20-year-old daughter, Georgia.

Georgia is not a beautiful young lady, as the word generally goes, but she is lithe and active and of such a disposition that she is a general favorite among the men of the neighborhood, and many of them are deperately in love with her. This love she laughs at, and tells them all that she does not want to marry any of them, but, from what she has seen of other women's married life, she is having a better time than any of them.

One of the young fellows, Henry Carson, was not content with her answer, and after she had given him plainly to understand that she would have nothing to do with him, he was noticed to be acting queerly, and one of the men told Georgia that she had better look out for him.

The girl laughed, apparently unconcerned, but she did not let the warning go unheeded. She was walking along the road between the house and the mill and was overtaken by a young man named Perry Goodsell. They met Carson, who, without warning, shot Goodsell to death, and then turned his pistol on the girl, who was too quick for him, however, and fired from a revolver which she had in her pocket, striking him in the shoulder and so disabling him that he could do nothing more. The alarm was given, and the other mill men were so enraged that they procured a rope and swung the murderer to a tree without mercy. The girl, who witnessed the execution, was afterwards taken violently ill with brain fever.

BALLOTING FOR BISHOP.

Rev. Hunter Dunn, of South Acton, London, Eng., Elected Bishop of Quebec.

QUEBEC, June 22.—In the Anglican Synod this morning balloting was continued for a bishop without any material change, Bishop Hamilton, of Niagara, receiving a sufficient clerical vote to elect him, but lacking about nineteen in the lay vote, Canon Thornloe, of Sherbrooke, being the next in both clerical and lay vote.

On the thirteenth ballot the clergy elected Rev. Hunter Dunn, of All Saints, South Acton, London, Eng., and on the fourteenth ballot the laity fell into line and gave Mr. Dunn the necessary majority. The election was then made unanimous, and the synod sang the Doxology.

Kind messages were received from the Synods of Niagara, Huron and Ontario. Good feeling prevailed all through the prolonged ballot, there being no actual party division.

Mr. Gladstone's View of God.

[From the Presbyterian.]

Mr. Gladstone is always outspoken in behalf of the great truths of religion. He emphasizes his belief, and utters it with all the force given it by his great personality. His latest deliverance is weighty and worthy of special note: "Faith in the Invisible—that is the great hope of the future; it is the mainstay of civilization. And by that I mean a living faith in a personal God. I do not hold with streams of tendency. After 60 years of public life I hold more strongly than ever to this conviction, deepened and strengthened by long experience of the reality and the nearness and the personality of God."

Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, is ear ache. The young are especially subject to it, and the desirability of this Oil as a family remedy is enhanced by the fact that it is admirably adapted not only to the above ailment, but also to the hurts, disorders of the bowels, and affections of the throat, in which the young are specially subject.

HOMEOPATHY.

Annual Meeting of the Canadian Institute.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Homeopathy was held in the parlors of the Royal Hotel, Hamilton, yesterday. Amongst those present were: Dr. Campbell, of London; President Logan, Ottawa; J. B. Hall, Toronto; Vernon Husband and C. V. Emory, Hamilton; Messrs. Henderson, Strathroy and Caulton, St. Catharines; Messrs. Hearn, Johnson and Robinson, Toronto.

Dr. Vernon, Hamilton, was elected president for the ensuing term; Dr. Caulton, of St. Catharines, vice-president, and Dr. E. H. Robinson, of Toronto, secretary-treasurer.

The address by the retiring president, Dr. Campbell, of London, was received with well merited commendation. In it was traced the history of medical legislation in Ontario, dating from the close of the last century to the present time. The crude measures and requirements of the early periods were generally replaced by better measures and higher standards, until to-day the requirements in scholarships, etc., of a licentiate here are superior to those of any other young country and compare most favorably with those of Europe.

Dr. Campbell was complimented on giving to the profession so thorough a history of our legislation concerning medicine and surgery in Ontario in so concise a form, and it was advised the address be published in pamphlet form and be sent to all the medical practitioners of the Province.

Papers of interest were presented by the members. Dr. Husband, of Hamilton, had an obscure case of pelvic abscess. Dr. Jarvis, of London, a paper on magnetic or psychological influence in communicating diseases, illustrated. The institute will meet in Toronto in 1893.

THE ANTI-OPTION BILL.

Provisions of the Measure Passed by the U. S. House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Much interest is manifested in the fate of the Anti-Option Bill in the Senate. The friends of the measure feel confident that it will pass. Outside observers believe it will be defeated. The former have figures to back their conviction. It passed the House by 168 yeas to 46 nays.

The first two sections of the bill define "options" and "futures;" the third names as the articles to which they shall relate as "cotton, hops, wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, grass seed, flaxseed, pork and other edible products of swine," and the fourth imposes a license of $1,000 on dealers in options and futures and a tax of 5 cents on each pound of cotton, hops, pork, lard, bacon and other edible products of swine, and 20 cents a bushel on each bushel of the other articles which are the subject of any "options" or "futures" contract which such dealer, as vendor, shall make either in his own behalf or on behalf of others.

A Rescuer Rescued

"Cadet" Lane's own story: "My sufferings for about eight years have been very severe. While acting as nurse in a hospital I took typhoid fever, and during an unconscious spell fell out of my bed, injuring my spine and a vital organ internally. In about two months I tried to walk, but found I was very weak. Had pain in my back, internal weakness, and dragging down of the injured organs, complicated indigestion, sleeplessness, and loss of appetite. I continued to grow worse in spite of all well-directed efforts(?). Pain and enlargement followed, also a scirrhous and cancerous growth. An operation was performed, with but only partial recovery. Then followed a long period of congestion, and again slight improvement. These conditions were repeated at intervals for years, with slight change in kind. About a year and a half ago I went into Rescue work in London, and in the meantime a new complication appeared, viz., 'Change of Life,' which I am still undergoing. I often prayed to God to restore me to health, that He might use me more than ever in the glorious work of 'Rescuing the Perishing,' but I can assure you I felt discouraged often and lost faith in medicine, but kept faith in God. He has rescued my soul from error, and I believed He would yet rescue my body from disease. About two months ago I saw a book entitled 'Entire Revolution in Medicine.' Being an 'experienced nurse,' I could understand the theory. I could see it was a new light in science. I obtained some medicine, and in a few days was utterly astonished to find that I could sleep better, head better, little or no pain with my weak spells, organs rapidly gained in strength and tone. I have not taken the medicine two months. Organs all healing and rapid waste almost stopped. I am nearly well. Better than for six years. A few days more and I will be soundly cured at present rate of improvement. Several in London were induced through a knowledge of my case to try the New System, with equally good results. No other system for me in future. I hope my friends in the 'Army' and elsewhere will try Histogenetic remedies and be convinced. I will answer inquiries.

Market Fluctuations.

The following is Cunningham's New York special to J. W. HYMAN, broker, Market Lane, by private wire:

NEW YORK, June 23.—Wall street brokers and traders anxiously watched the tape at the window, waiting the Chicago nomination. Bulls think prices will go up to-day. The nomination will have a favorable effect on Americans in London, because there are no silver canards. Stock brokers say Burlington and Quincy is over-sold. There were rumors that East Tennessee would be placed in the hands of receivers, but placing of R. T. in the hands of the court had no special depressing influence, and if former rumor is true it is not likely to hurt the general list.

Wheat steady, demand poor; holders offer moderately; corn firm, demand poor.

American Markets.

CHICAGO, June 23.

The wheat trade was only moderate, but the feeling was stronger, with prices averaging higher. Corn was fairly active most of the day, a good general trade taking place within 1½c limit. There was a large trade in oats. The market closed very firm at the top figures, with a gain of 1½c to 1¾c. Trading in provisions was light and prices ruled steady. The market improved and closed at outside figures.

Live Stock Markets.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y.

EAST BUFFALO, N. Y., June 22.—Cattle—Nothing doing in this branch to-day except in a peddling way.

Sheep and Lambs—The market is in an almost lifeless condition to-day for anything except good stock, of which the supply is very light; demand fair, feeling weaker, and prices lower on all grades. There were 8 loads held from yesterday, and 6 cars fresh came in since our last report, and only 4 cars of all offerings were above common; a load of good 93-lb sheep sold at $5 55, and a load of 83-lb at $5 50; a few good 62-lb lambs sold $7, and a few 62-lb lambs brought $5 60, but common and cull stuff, both sheep and yearlings, sells down from $1 50 to $4 per cwt as to quality, and sales were slow at these ruinous low prices, as it is impossible to get buyers to take it.

Hogs—There was another upward turn in the hog market to-day. The receipts were higher (only 10 cars) and demand good; best selling at $5 50 to $5 55; light Yorkers sold at $5 40. Pigs, $5 15 to $5 75; roughs, $4 50 to $4 75; stags, $3 to $4. The market closing steady, all sold.

The Dairy Markets.

WOODSTOCK.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 22.—Seventeen factories boarded 2,813 boxes. Sales: One lot, 300, at 8⅜c; three lots, 620, at 8⅜c; four lots, 975, at 9c; one lot, 250, at 9½c; market active.

PICTON

PICTON, June 22.—At the board to-day eleven factories registered 615 boxes—495 colored and 120 white. The following are the sales: 160 boxes colored at 9 3-16c; 250 boxes at 9½c; 35 boxes colored at 8 15-16c; 60 boxes white at 8 15-16c.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—Mr. W. G. McDonald, barrister, lost his gold watch, advertised it in the ADVERTISER and in five hours the finder returned it to him.

—The Cavalry Band (weather permitting) will, by Col. Gartshore's permission, play in Victoria Park to-morrow evening. The programme has already been published.

—Judge Elliot this morning found that the charge of keeping a disorderly house, preferred by County Constable Washington Doxtator against County Constable Elijah Nimham, was utterly groundless. Both parties live on the Oneida Indian Reserve.

Run Over by a Street Car.

Willie Dibbs, the 5-year-old son of David A. Dibbs, letter carrier, was run over by a street car on the corner of Richmond and Horton streets this morning. The child knows the drivers of the cars on the Hamilton road line and frequently chats with them when they are passing his home. This morning he jumped on the front platform of the car while the horse was walking, and when warned by the driver he immediately stepped off. In doing so he missed his footing and fell, one of his legs being run over by the front wheel of the car. No bones were broken, but a horrible flesh wound on the knee may result very seriously. The driver of the car is a careful man, and had he not stopped the car in an instant the child might have been killed.

Death of W. K. Muir.

W. K. Muir, the well-known capitalist, died at Detroit this morning. Deceased was a Scotchman by birth, but he came to Canada many years ago. He joined the staff of the Great Western Railway, and rose to the position of general manager of that line. When he resigned he removed to Detroit and engaged in manufacturing industries, in which, like other Canadians who have gone abroad, he was very successful. A short time ago he took a trip to Japan, and it was understood intended to make the voyage round the world; but he was taken ill, and returned the other day in very poor health. His death, however, must prove a shock to many friends of the family. Deceased, who leaves a widow and grown-up family, was the brother of Mr. Thomas Muir, formerly manager of the Ontario Car Works.

MONTREAL.

Accident on the C. P. R.—A Steamship Missing.

MONTREAL, June 23.—An accident is reported on the C. P. R. at Farnham, whereby a conductor was killed. The C. P. R. officials are reticent and will give no further information.

There is considerable anxiety here over the fate of the steamship Wetherby, which is now 23 days from Montreal to London. The Wetherby left on June 1 with a cargo of grain, deals and cattle. Since then she has not been reported. She is an old Furness Line boat, and carried no passengers. There were seven Canadian cattle attendants on board, however. Fears are expressed that the Wetherby has gone to the bottom.

CAMP NOTES.

It is claimed that J. C. Hegler, of the Twenty-second Battalion, has the finest horse on the ground.

A horse attached to a bread wagon ran away yesterday on the grounds, causing quite a commotion, but injuring no one.

Messrs. Gutard and Hanifin, formerly of this city, have charge of the mess of the Essex Battalion.

J. J. Skeffington, formerly of the ADVERTISER, is in charge of the band of the Lambton Battalion.

Among the old familiar faces in camp this year is that of Geo. Harwood, who is in charge of the mess tent of the Twenty-second Battalion. This camp will complete his 25th term under canvas. The officers of the battalion speak highly of him.

Hospital Sergeant Harris is in charge of the canteen of No. 1 Company, C. R. I.

The principal medical officer inspected the Twenty-first Battalion at 10 o'clock this morning, and the Twenty-second, Twenty-seventh and Twenty-ninth this afternoon. Every man attached to each battalion was in the ranks during the inspection.

The Fort Wayne correspondent of the Detroit Free Press says: Principal Musician Pattinson and Private Muzzum accompanied the band of the Essex Fusiliers to the annual camp at London, Ont., having been granted a furlough of fifteen days for this purpose. They are excellent musicians and their services will greatly add to the strength of the Windsor band, already numbering several excellent musicians in its ranks.

Scene in the House of Lords.

LONDON, June 23.—In the House of Lords Lord Cadogan moved the third reading of the Agricultural Holdings Bill.

Lord Denman, who has already become notorious through his eccentric behavior, moved that the bill be read six months hence, and then continued to speak to his motion, making a rambling speech which had little bearing on the subject under discussion.

Lord Salisbury finally interrupted him, saying: "His lordship is speaking irrelevantly."

Lord Denman excitedly responded: "My lord, you want to closure me. I am sure I am much obliged to you, but I will not give way in this hereditary House to the best man who ever sat in it."

At this point Lord Denman's voice was drowned in cries of "Order!" from all sides. Lord Denman thereupon took his seat.

Lord Cadogan's motion was carried, and the bill passed its third reading.

A quantity of letters, manuscripts, and diaries will shortly come into the market, the importance of which to students of the authorship of "Junius" it is difficult to estimate. A descendant of Sir P. Francis has sent the whole of Sir Philip's correspondence to Messrs. Sotheby to sell. It includes an immense number of unpublished letters and manuscripts, the greater portion of which have probably never been read since his death, and the whole of the unpublished manuscript "Reminiscences" written by his second wife. They will be sold in one lot, probably during next month.

A Sumatra newspaper tells of experiments made there last month to test the value of local petroleum as compared with American and Russian oils, and says the experiments "proved conclusively that it is superior in brilliancy, in permanence, and in absence of smoke, color, and smell to either American or Russian oil." With the cost of freight deducted, it is said that this Sumatra oil promises to be a formidable competitor with the American product in Japan, China and the far eastern markets generally. The paper quoted says the Sumatra oil will be even cheaper than American without considering the freight question. Nothing is said however, as to the probable extent of the supply.

Mr. F. J. Pinfold, Hyde's Mills, Wis., U. S. A., writes: "Have been afflicted with sick headache for 25 years, but since using Diamond Vera-Cura have not had an attack of it." At druggists, or sent on receipt of price, 25 cents. Address E. A. Wilson, Toronto.

Mr. Job Scales, of Toronto, writes: "A short time ago I was suffering from Kidney Complaint and Dyspepsia, sour stomach and lame back; in fact, I was completely prostrated and suffering intense pain. While in this state a friend recommended me to try a bottle of Northrup and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. I used one bottle, and the permanent manner in which it has cured and made a new man of me is such that I cannot withhold from the proprietors this expression of my gratitude."

The late Moses Kelly, of Cleveland, left New York city $1,000,000 for an art school.

Heat and Cold

Is a never-failing cause of disease. At this season of the year neuralgia, toothache and a host of similar diseases are rampant. The great question is, then, to find the quickest, surest and most economical remedy. Polson's NERVILINE exactly fills the requirements. It is prompt, efficient and most economical, for it exceeds in power every known remedy, and is as cheap as inferior articles. A 10-cent sample bottle will give every person a chance to test it. Large bottles only 25 cents.

One peculiarity about the human mind is that it cannot forget what it wants to.

CHAPTER XIV.

"Hate is needful in a desperate case."

"I cannot love him;
Yet I suppose him virtuous, know him noble,
Of great estate, of fresh and stainless youth."

It is close on noon when I awake. The sun is shining gaily through the curtains of the room, a big bluebottle fly is buzzin ground my head, and—who are these demons staring at me? I lift myself with a view to self-defense, and find I am looking at Geraldine and Kitty. Geraldine indeed is shaking me very vigorously.

"Get up—get up; you have scarce five minutes. They are coming at one, you know."

"They—who?"

"Nonsense, Molly! You must be the eight sleeper if you can't answer that. Here, hurry! They, if you must be told, are Sir Willoughby and Paddy and Mr. Dickenson."

"All of them," say I, miserably, "and we can't even ask them to lunch."

"Oh! That's all settled. They know about that," says Kitty, airily (really Kitty is a most remarkable person). "Now do rouse yourself, Molly. Here is your tea, and some toast, and an egg; all you can expect when there is a civil war raging round you."

"Oh! I remember now!" say I, springing up in bed. "What of Aunt Jane?"

"Never mind her," says Gerry, contemptuously. "Keep to the point."

"Well, that's Aunt Jane!"

"No it isn't, it's you—on this occasion only. What dress will you wear, Molly? Your pink, I think."

"Yes," says Kitty, with what I consider a most senseless snigger. "She looks a little less ugly than usual in that."

"I shan't wear the pink, certainly," declare I, with decision. Then wrathfully, "For goodness' sake what do you mean by being so attentive to me to-day?"

"Well, the blue if you like, but I should recommend the pink," says Gerry, in a tone distinctly diplomatic. It is of course for yourself to decide." Really it would be well for Mr Dickenson to throw up his commission, marry Gerry, and go in for an attacheship. She'd make his fortune in no time.

"Yes, the pink," says Kitty. "I've put some hot water in your bath, Molly, and if you don't hurry it will be cold. Cold water is all very well as a rule, but hot water is so refreshing when one is tired. Come now, make haste and finish your breakfast. You must dress you know."

"For the sacrifice," groan I, miserably At which, I regret to say, they both laugh unfeelingly.

"Were you at breakfast downstairs?" ask I presently. "Did you"—eagerly, fearfully —"see Aunt Jane?"

"No; we funked that. We'd have gone to our graves—starved corpses—rather than encounter her. But Bridget, who is of the salt of the earth, brought us up something an hour ago."

"Then you haven't seen her?"

"Fee-fo-fum, you mean, in a feminine edition? Yes. Just now, in the hall."

"Well, how does she look?"

"Oh, very poorly, very poorly—thanks."

"No! but really."

"Like my Lord High Executioner," says Gerry, with disgust. "I assure you as her eyes met mine, my blood froze in my veins."

"Mine boiled," says Kitty. "Climates are nothing where Gerry and I are concerned. But she is an old cat, anyway!"

"What if she sees them coming?" say I, nervously.

"She can't. I've told Paddy all about it," says Kitty, with conviction. "They are to come in at the small lower garden gate. The little iron one—you know. Once in the orchard Aunt Jane can't know anything about them. You know she never stirs from the house unless compelled."

"Pity the apples aren't ripe," say I.

"Yes, isn't it. They might get something to eat then; as it is, they must lunch on gooseberries."

"I say, Molly, do hurry! I never saw any one take so long to eat one small egg."

"I believe she is doing it on purpose," says Gerry, who is, too, all impatience.

"I'm not!" say I, indignantly, "only—only—" I put aside my tray with an angry movement—"only why can't we discover that lost treasure?"

"Treasure!"

"Our grandfather's treasure," say I, slipping slowly out of the bed on to my bare feet.

"For the simplest of all reasons, my good child. There is no lost treasure to be found. Our grandfather, in my opinion, was a swindle."

"Oh, I can't! I won't believe that," say I, still clinging to my old belief, with a strong fervour.

"Well, never mind," says Gerry. "A belief in the impossible always shows a tranquil mind. Here—don't stand there in your bare feet—so bad for you!"

Indeed both she and Kitty now begin to load me with attentions. They all but offer to bathe me. It is with the utmost difficulty I get them out of the room whilst I am washing myself.

In spite of me they know when I have got into my—well, my first garment again, and begin tapping at the door to be let in—and when in (I must have been mad to unlock that door) they take me into possession.

They do my hair; they fasten my strings; they hook all my eyes, and they tie my ribbons; they even settle my brooch, and put my one bangle on my arm. They turn me round, as though I were an automaton, and tell each other in loud whispers, "that'll do now,' and that "I'm quite respectable;" finally they take me out of my room, along the corridor outside, and to the top of the stairs.

Here we all pause, and look over. Deadly silence reigns! Now—now, or never, is our chance! We advance cautiously a step or two, we pause again. Once more all is peace, not a suspicion of Aunt Jane anywhere, not a sound, not a sigh; certainly not a snort. With a look of silent congratulation each to each, we begin to descend the staircase, and are just in the middle of it, when a screaming noise behind us, a whimper, a scramble, a pattering of small paws, and finally a wild triumphant bark, that betrays her knowledge of our whereabouts, and Sally, my little terrier, is upon upon us—literally upon us. She is jumping up and down, pawing lovingly each of us in turn. She had lost us since late last evening, having been given then to Bridget, with strict orders that she was to be kept till called for, but now somehow she had broken loose, and with joy unbounded claims us for her own. Wild and furious are her demonstrations of delight, wilder still the sharp shrill barks that come from her tiny throat. Vainly I catch her up and hug her to my heart—in the intervals that occur between the licking of my lips and the struggles to descend and jump again, Sally gives way to piercing sounds calculated to wake the dead.

We look at each other. All indeed seems over. The dull creaking of a door in the back hall—the door that leads to the library—reoses us once more to the animation that sometimes rises to despair. With one consent we catch up the tails of our gowns and make a rush for it. We clear the hall in five bounds—in two bounds more we find ourselves in the open air, racing for our lives towards the orchard, Sally in full chase behind us.

We have scarcely arrived there, and are indeed standing panting and laughing nervously, and looking occasionally behind us as if expecting the arrival of our arch-foe, when a low knock upon the little side gate that leads to the meadow below strikes on our ears.

"There they are!" says Kitty.

CHAPTER XV.

"I knew 'twere madness to declare this truth,
And yet 'twere baseness to deny my love.
But such a love, kept at such awful distance:
Why shines the sun, but that he may be viewed?"

"Oh, not so soon," cry I, turning pale. But Kitty has run forward, and has now unfastened the gate, and is greeting with perfect aplomb the three arrivals.

"Halt? who goes there?" cries she gaily,

"A friend," says somebody. Unmistakably Paddy Burke, whose accent is rich, if not rare.

"Advance, friend, and give the countersign."

"'Aunt Jane?'" says Paddy, in a low but distinct tone, at which we all laugh—I rather faintly; my heart is heavy.

"She's been at it again, I can see that," says Paddy, who has now come forward, followed by Mr. Dickenson and Sir Willoughby. "You all look as if you had the toothache! Dear old woman, our Aunt Jane! Any chance of her gathering fruit in the orchard to-day? I know how Arcadian are her little ways."

"She never comes here," says Kitty, "that's why we are here. But last night—this morning rather—she—she——"

"She did?" says Paddy, feelingly. "I quite understand. I've heard a good deal of her from Fanny. Fanny says when she was in the house with her, she did nothing but worry her all the time—such delightful worrying. Followed her from pillar to post, talking at her without intermission. I tell Fanny she ought to cultivate it, but then she worries me, so there is nothing to be gained."

"No, nothing," says Geraldine, turning to Mr. Dickenson, who is flinging sympathy at her broadcast through his eyeglass. She is dreadful. She will remain so. That is all."

"She ought to be locked up," says Mr. Dickenson, indignantly, shifting his glass from one eye to the other, and then back again.

(To be Continued.)

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

Symptoms—Moisture; intense itching and stinging; most at night; worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. Swayne's Ointment stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Nothing impure or injurious contaminates the popular antidote to pain, throat and lung remedy and general corrective, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It may be used without the slightest apprehension of any other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

THE STRUGGLE FOR LIBERTY.

Col. Sidney Harper, of Texas, a Democratic district chairman, has joined the People's party. His letter of resignation is so replete with manly courage that it may be regarded as a model patriotic manifesto; and as such it will be read with great interest by many thousands of Canadian farmers. He says:

"I hereby tender my resignation as chairman of the Democratic party for this congressional district. My reasons for so doing are that I go to a party more democratic in principle, more patriotic in practice and less proscriptive in management. Under the name Democracy the great mass of common people of the South have been lured step by step, each year being led farther away from the old landmarks of its founders, until to-day there is no perceptible difference between the leaders and the vilest Republicans. The age of corporations, trusts and combines in which we live is debauching our politics, corrupting our laws and destroying our government, and making a wreck of our liberties and paupers of our people.

"During this era of corruption the people have kept divided while the leaders of the two parties have been in partnership, amassing millions of dollars out of the very corporations and frauds which they by law have foisted upon the people. The land, the bank, the transportation, the mining and manufacturing monopolies are jointly owned and controlled by the leaders of the two old parties. The press, the great political dailies being largely under the great telegraph news combine, must of necessity depend on the enemies of the people (the trusts and combines) for classification and transmission of political news. By these methods the people were kept decived until they were educated otherwise through their industrial organizations.

"Looking back for 30 years over this era of corruption and fraud coming out and perpetuating itself in the passions and prejudices of the late war, we find as the production of modern Democracy and Republicanism over 1,000 millionaires and 200,000 paupers each year. Over half the wealth of the Union is owned and controlled by 75,000 people, whose corporation managers have a power in the assessment and collection of freights, tolls and tariffs unrivaled in the royal blood of Russia. States' rights, Individual rights and liberties of our people have been usurped by corporate greed.

"What does the cry States' rights signify when half a dozen corporation managers in the State of New York, by the stroke of a pen, can collect over $5,000,000 a year out of the people of Texas on fictitious or watered stock in transportion companies or set the salary of a corporation officer at five times the highest paid State officer, and make the people pay it, with no power in the modern States' rights to prevent it. What does the cry of individual rights signify when a few chartered classes have a monopoly of the governmental power to make, coin, issue and control the money which prices every individual's labor and product, and that, too, without legal power or redress or prevention. The very men who have carried our politics to a system of spoliation, pillage and plunder are now and have been about equally divided among the managers and leaders of the two old parties, thus proving their joint responsibility for the wrong which exists.

"In this condition of matters it is folly to expect reform in either of the old parties, and for the good of myself, my family, my posterity and my country I expect to join the grand march and struggle for liberty. To those who know me I have no explanation to offer, but to those who do not I will state that I am a farmer, was born and raised in the South and have taken this step after due deliberation."

THE WEATHER.

TORONTO, Ont., June 22—11 p.m.—In the Northwest the pressure is slowly increasing, accompanied by fair, cooler weather and local showers. In the lake and eastern districts there is little change in pressure or temperature.

Minimum and maximum temperatures: Calgary, 34°—56°; Qu'Appelle, 36°—48°; Winnipeg, 42°—64°; Port Arthur, 46°—68°; Toronto, 63°—80°; Kingston, 62°—80°; Montreal, 66°—80°; Quebec, 52°—58°; Halifax, 48°—62°.

TO-DAY'S PROBABILITIES.

TORONTO, June 23—1 a.m.—The indications for the next 24 hours for the lower lakes region (covering the peninsula and as far east as Belleville) are: Mostly fair with moderate to fresh southeast to southwest winds; local showers or thunderstorms; not much change in temperature.

A TIMELY WARNING.

Beware of Deception.

Success and fame are always envied; and, as of old, there are men small enough in soul who, in order to make money, will mislead and deceive their fellow men. Some of these imitators and deceivers have lately stepped into the domain of medicine, and are imposing upon the public imitations of Paine's Celery Compound.

It is well known that in all lands there exists a class of adventurers who are ready to imitate anything that succeeds; failures are never touched or bothered with.

The bank-note counterfeiter does not waste his time counterfeiting bills of a bank that has ceased to exist. He goes to work imitating the notes of some good, solid bank; and continues in his nefarious work until the law seizes him.

That wonderful remedy, "Paine's Celery Compound," has proved such a magnificent and successful medicine, that certain imitators are now endeavoring to foist upon the public certain preparations which are as far below the value of the genuine "Paine's Celery Compound," as the cost of cheap glass compared with a valuable diamond.

"Paine's Celery Compound," owing to its pecular composition, is a perfect cure for disease; the imitations only tend to aggravate and increase the sufferings of the afflicted and suffering. "Paine's Celery Compound" is the embodiment of power, virtue and honesty; the imitations are useless, misleading and hurtful.

We think it our duty to strongly impress upon all the great necessity of being particular and careful when buying "Paine's Celery Compound."

Do not buy any preparation unless the name "Paine's" is found on the cartoon and bottle, as well as the Stalk of Celery. No preparation is genuine without these. Finally, remember, that the genuine "Paine's Celery Compound" always CURES; the imitations are useless and unsatisfactory, and only tend to increase existing woes and miseries.

Have you got any broken glass or chinaware? If so, take it to Ives, the china and glass riveter. Umbrellas promptly and neatly repaired. Electric bells fitted and repaired. Ives, 368½ Dundas street.

Damaged Goods.

The London Bargain Store has just purchased a big stock of drygoods damaged by water from a Toronto house, and will offer them for sale on Saturday morning. The goods are all first-class, and will be sold at about 50 cents on the dollar. This purchase consists of French Sateens, Prints, Ginghams, Flannelettes, Table Linen, Towels, Napkins, Toweling, Cottons, Sheetings, Tickings, Pillow Linen and Linen Sheeting, Shirtings, Hollands, Butcher Linens and General Drygoods. As this stock must be sold in a few days, everybody attending our great sale can expect bargains not to be found elsewhere. Come with your cash; we can and will lead the bargains given next week. Buy your goods from a house that buys and sells for cash, and avoid high-priced credit stores. 88tf

—Mr. and Mrs. James Southcott have gone to Grand Bend for the summer.

—King Street Presbyterian Sunday school will picnic at Springbank on July 5.

—Mr. T. C. Irving, of Toronto, the Ontario manager of Bradstreet's, is in the city.

—L. Leonard and J. H. Hargreaves, of this city, left yesterday for a visit to the Pacific Coast.

—One drunk occupied the attention of Magistrate Parke at the Police Court this morning. He was discharged.

—Charles Napper, of Stratford, has come to this city for the benefit of his health. He will patronize the White Sulphur Springs.

—Mr. Thomas Ward, foreman of the M. C. R. shops at St. Thomas, well-known in this city, is lying dangerously ill at his home.

—The new East London Methodist Church is being rapidly pushed forward, and it is expected will be completed by Sept. 1.

—Residents on North Wellington street are strongly objecting to their five foot sidewalk being torn up and replaced by a four foot path.

—David Moore, charged with being implicated in the recent Dreaney's Corner outrage, was committed for trial by Squire Smyth yesterday.

—The Detroit Knights of St. John passed through the city this afternoon by Grand Trunk en route for Toronto. There was a very large party in the excursion.

—About 150 persons left on the morning train to attend the performance of the Young Liberal Ministrels in Chatham this evening. Many more are expected to leave by the evening trains.

—Capt. Foster's steamer and a flotilla of rowboats carried a large number of excursionists down the river last evening to attend the band concert by the Cavalry Band. The programme was excellent, although somewhat marred by untimely showers.

—An escaped inmate of the London Insane Asylum walked into the store of A. J. Watson, tailor, East London, Tuesday night about 10 o'clock, and prepared to stay by removing his shoes. The patrol was telephoned for and the man taken to the police station. He was afterwards returned to the asylum.

—News was received here to-day announcing the death of Jessie, second daughter of Charles Nicklos, of Gorlice, Austria, formerly of this city, who died after a short illness of 24 hours with croup. Although in a strange country, Mr. Nicklos speaks very highly of the kindness shown to him by the inhabitants in his bereavement. He left here with Mr. McGarvey, oilman, about five years ago.

Married at St. Thomas.

On Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Raymond, 31 Station street, St. Thomas, Miss Aggie Raymond was married to Mr. Fred Arnum, dispatcher, London, formerly G. T. R. operator. They were assisted by Miss Graham, of Aylmer, and Mr. D. Arnum, of St. Thomas. Miss Raymond looked very pretty in cream satin and chiffon, with bridal veil and roses. The bridesmaid wore pink satin and lace. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. McIntyre. The happy couple left on the evening train for Buffalo and other cities with best wishes of many friends.

Tired of Work.

About two weeks ago a young man named Joseph Johnson hired with F. Anderson, a farmer living at Lambeth. Yesterday he slyly picked up all the valuables he could find and disappeared. A lady's gold watch, two gold chains and a silver watch which had been presented in 1874 to Mr. Anderson by the "W. F. L. A." were missing. The case was reported to the city police force at once, and this morning Sergt. Jenkins and P. C. Gall arrested the man in a barber shop. He was having his hair cut, but the barber had just one side of his head clipped. In this condition he was made a prisoner. Johnson gave his name as McKay. The missing articles were found in his pockets. The prisoner was taken before Squire Smyth and remanded for eight days.

Wedding Bells.

The residence of Douglas C. Davidson, 31 Bruce street, South London, was a scene of merriment, when his daughter, Miss Ella, was united in marriage to A. Meade Adams, clerk in the G. T. R. freight office, in this city. Rev. Canon Davis, pastor of St. James' Church, South London, was the officiating clergyman. Miss B. McDowell, of Norwich, was bridesmaid, and Joe Adams, brother of the groom, was best man. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about 40 guests, who, by their beautiful wedding gifts, testified the esteem in which the young couple are held. Mr. and Mrs. Adams left via the G. T. R. midnight train on their honeymoon.

There was a pretty wedding at 565 Colborne street, the residence of Rev. Wm. Chapman, last evening, when his daughter, Miss Minnie Chapman, was married to Mr. Charles Austin, a popular merchant of Perth. The ceremony was performed at 6:30 in the presence of about 60 guests by the bride's father, assisted by Rev. George Boyd. Misses Green and Powell, of this city, were bridesmaids, and the members of Miss Chapman's Sunday school class were maids of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Austin left at 8:30 via the M. C. R. on a wedding trip up the lakes. They will reside in Perth.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Carrie Phillips, of this city, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Mahon, farmer, of Thorndale, the knot being tied by Rev. Mr. Scanlon. The bride was supported by her sister, the groomsman being Mr. James Chalmers. The happy couple left on an eastern trip, amid the usual congratulations.

A quiet wedding took place Wednesday morning at the residence of Mr. J. F. Scholz, Stratford, when his second daughter, Mathilde, was married to Dr. J. A. Craig, of Boundbrook, N. J. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. J. Craig, of Deseronto, brother of the groom, in the presence of a select number of guests, the immediate relatives of both families. The guests present were: Mrs. John Craig, Kingston, mother of the groom; Mrs. W. T. Wilkinson, Trenton, sister of the groom; Rev. R. J. Craig, brother of the groom, Mrs. Craig and Master Edward, Deseronto; Mr. S. J. Radcliffe and Mrs. Radcliffe (sister of the bride), this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hill, jun., Stratford. After the ceremony the guests were entertained at a wedding breakfast and Dr. Craig and his bride left by the afternoon train for their New Jersey home, carrying with them the best wishes of all.

Yesterday there occurred a very pleasant wedding at Port Dover, between a well-known Londoner and a very popular young lady of Port Dover, the parties being Dr. C. H. Ziegler, dentist, and Miss Minnie Silverthorn. The ceremony took place at the bride's residence at noon, and was attended by the intimate friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Saunders. The bride was supported by Miss Nellie Watts, of Port Dover, and the groom by Mr. John Fried, of London. Many elegant presents testified the esteem in which both are held by their large number of friends. The happy couple will make their home at 312 Wolfe street, this city.

TO CHURCH ON BICYCLES.

A Connecticut Congregation Fits Up a Shed for the Wheels of Its Members.

MANCHESTER, Conn., June 23.—A few years ago the man who would ride a bicycle on Sunday was looked upon here as a sinner almost beyond redemption. Last week the committee of the Center Church voted to set apart one of the horse sheds in the rear of the church for a bicycle shed. A great many persons, ladies as well as gentlemen, who live in the surrounding country, now come to the Sunday and week-day services on wheels. When they are listening to the words of the sermon mischievous youngsters experiment with the bicyles, and not a little damage has been done by their careless use. Now they will have a bicycle stall in which to store their wheels while attending services. The shed will be fitted up with stands, a whisk broom, clothes brush, mirror, washstand, and toilet articles will be supplied, and all will be under the guardianship of a man especially selected for his inability to master the untamed steed. So far as known this is the first church in the country to take this step.

MINUS HIS HAIR.

Another Flying Roller Loses His Lengthy Locks.

DETROIT, June 22.—The long-haired disciples of the Flying Roll are having a hard time of it since the conviction of their idol, "Prince Michael." The younger element of the north side lose no opportunity to show their dislike for the religious fanatics, and harass them at every turn. "Lucifer" Durand was the first to suffer, but for some reason or other the amateur barber did not do a good job in trimming his lengthy locks. Monday afternoon one of the members of the colony named Stoneman ventured for a stroll on Woodward avenue, and was immediately surrounded by a number of young men, who insisted upon his accompanying them into a saloon near the corner of Woodward and Milwaukee avenues. Once inside several pairs of shears were brought into play, which were worked by willing hands. In a few moments the flowing auburn locks of the surprised and terrified Flying Roller were strewn about the floor. Stoneman was then allowed to depart, and his altered appearance caused his brethren to rigidly catechise him before they would admit him into the house.

Ministers Enrolled in Salvation Ranks.

NEW YORK, June 22.—The Rev. Dr. Chas. A. Briggs, the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, pastor of the Plymouth Church, Brooklyn; the Rev. Dr. B. F. de Costa, of the Church of St. John the Divine, and the Rev. Henry Wilson, formerly Dr. Rainsford's assistant at St. George's Church, as well as Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. Briggs, have enrolled themselves in the Auxiliary League of the Salvation Army.

A New Jersey Delegate Dead.

CHICAGO, June 22.—The Joel Parker Democratic Club, of Newark, N. J., will return home short one of its number. Fred C. Blaicher, one of the club's most devoted members, fell asleep on the windowsill of his room on the fourth floor of the Tremont House yesterday morning, lost his balance and fell to the ground, killing him instantly. The deceased was a well-to-do citizen of Newark and quite prominent in the councils of his party.

Sure Corn Cure on the Top Every Time.
Bark-well at the Bottom in Prices.

CAUTION!
Beware of fraudulent misrepresentations.
Beware of fraudulent imitations.
Beware of firms with whom manufacturers of repute positively will not deal.
Beware of firms who try to ruin legitimate business.
Beware of firms who sell trashy goods in any line. If they do it in one line they will do it in another. BEWARE of them, we say.
Beware of all men who misrepresent plain facts and publicly state that they lead in the bottom prices, when the very day's press in which they write proves a falsehood. Again, BEWARE.

Bark-well's stock is nothing if not pure, for it is purchased direct from the manufacturers.

No old shop-worn goods purchased from irresponsible parties in job lots will ever be found at Bark-well's.

Bark-well's Sure Corn Cure, with hundreds of other famous preparations, never found in such fraudulent establiments.
