A LAKE OF OIL

What seems to be a Lake of Oil was struck this morning in the N. W. corner of lot 21, Con. 4, Romney Tp. The well is being drilled by Barnard-Argue-Roth-Stearns Oil and Gas Co. At the depth of 230 feet they went through a hard shell and the tools dropped 15 feet into a lake of oil, when the well began flowing at a fierce rate. This well is nearly one mile in advance of the Tremblay wells, south-west, and opens up

WINE, WOMEN AND GRAFT INDULGED IN BY MINISTERS

This Is The Serious Charge Made Against Government At Ottawa-Raises A Large Sized Row In The House Of Commons

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Rising to a question of privilege yesterday, Mr. Bourassa deprecated as derogatory to the dignity of the House that such language should be used as was employed between Mr. Ross and Mr. Fowler. "Wine, women and graft" were mentioned, he said.

Mr. Speaker pointed out that Mr. Fowler was not in the House at the moment.

Mr. Bourassa, resuming, said the accusation of graft, formulated by one member of the House against another, should be investigated. (Hear, hear.) He thought it pertained to the dignity of the House that the Government should take the matter into their hands and make it clear that, if the accusations were true, they would be probed, and if not, they must be withdrawn. He, therefore, gave notice to drawn. He, therefore, gave notice to Mr. Fowler that he would bring up the atter formally upon the most propitious occasion.

"I would ask the member to prose-cute his investigations further," said Mr. Foster, "and he will find that a number of others have used the same insinuations since the session cominsinuations since the session commenced."

Then W. H. Bennett took the floor. He said that on Feb. 7 Mr. Carvell had made certain insinuations against him with reference to certain lands he and others had purchased in the Northwest, and he (Bennett) had challenged him to bring on his accusation. That was on Feb. 7, and Mr. Carvell had not had the manliness to bring up the matter since.

Exchange of Compliments.

Mr. Carvell (Liberal, N. B.) contributed to the gaiety of the occasion by suggesting that "from some sources the vilest words which can possibly be framed are more a credit to those against whom they are directed than otherwise, and I think the hon. member from East Simcoe (Mr. Bennett) fully answers that description."

Bourassa Resumes.

At this point fir. Fowler entered the chamber, and Mr. Bourassa resumed his attack upon Mr. Fowler.

He quoted Mr. Fowler's charge that the Minister of Justice had provided certain Government members with advance copies of the evidence in connection with the Insurance Commission, and said such charges and instinuations should be proved, and either proved or disproyed.

a gay fortnight here as the guest for Miss Gilbert.

Unfortunate Says Premier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he had not made up his mind that at this moment the time had come for the House to take any action upon the matter which has been brought to ite attention. But it goes without saying that the session cannot close without this matter being brought to the attention of the House. For my part, I believe that we should wait until we have the report of the Insurance Commission, then the whole matter can be threshed out."

Borden Wants Truth.

R. L. Borden agreed that any charge touching the fitness of any man to be a member of the House or a Minister of the Government should be brought forward only by way of formal charge. Still, it must be remembered that insinuations had been cast upon Mr. Fowler and others without provocation, and it was natural enough that Mr. Fowler should have retorted. He agreed with the Prime Minister that it was impossible that the session should close without the charges which had been insinuated either being withdrawn or adjudicated upon.

Mr. Fowler admitted that he would either being withdrawn or adjudicated upon.

Mr. Fowler admitted that he would not have said what he had but for the fact that he had been goaded to it.

Vote of Censure Lost.

On motion to go into supply, Mr. Herron (Alberta) called the attention of the House to the granting of grazing leases to favorites of the Government. An amendment was moved censuring the Government for the grazing lease granted to the Galway Horse & Cattle Co. Mr. Adamson (Humbolt) belonged to this company and his brother-in-law, Mr. Turiff, M. P., was at that time land commissioner.

M. P., was at that time land commissioner.

Mr. Oliver defended the Department. He admitted that perhaps the $2.400 back rent should have been collected, but individual errors would occur in a vast Department like his.

Upon division the amendment censuring the Government was voted down—Yeas, 49; nays. 80.

MRS. EMMA A. SUMMERS. The California "Oil Queen" and Her

WOMAN'S WORLD

Business Ability. One of the most interesting personalities in California is Mrs. Emma A. Summers of Los Angeles, the "Oil Queen." This name has been bestowed upon her primarily because of her vast operations in one of the greatest mineral resources in the state, but it most aptly describes one who by virtue of There is no brute force in her sway. out nevertheless it has been most effective, and, could the story be told, this modest, refined and truly feminine woman has gained victories over combinations of masculine training and abilities that have been backed by capital and influence so powerful that strong captains of industry have gone

Started in Gale.

A great gale was blowing in the North Sea when the Berlin started, but the weather was no worse than on the previous night, when similar vessels made the trip without mishap. As the Berlin was entering the waterway at the entrance of the River Maas, however, she apparently became unmanageable on account of the force of the wind, and was driven ashore. down under the impact.

But the story of today is success. It has come through purpose and genius. Inheriting from her father, a banker, The steamer apparently struck about midships, as her forepart broke off, and sank immediately, while her afterpart could be seen for a considerable time afterwards.

Within Biscuit Toss.

Land was but a few yards away, and except in the roughest weather those on board the Berlin could have been rescued without difficulty.

One man, an Englishman, was saya farseeing intelligence in financial matters, but reared in a southern home, where all the womanly qualities were accentuated, she is a rare combination of the artist and the business person - one seldom seen, but when found always at the heights of attainment. It was with money earned at music teaching that she made her first investments in lands and oil wells. In the former, depending upon her own judgment, she has had wonderful success, and she owns lands and houses in various sections of Los Angeles, buying and selling for herself.

But it is in her oil operations Mrs.

Summers has attracted the widest at tention. When oil was first discovered in the vicinity of her California street home she secured a location for her first well. This was most profitable, and she kept adding to her collection of wells until she had a large number From the very first she has been thor-oughly businesslike in all her dealings and soon commanded the respect of all with whom she was associated. It has not been plain sailing. She has taken her hard knocks without whimpering, however, and has asked no favors in her business because of the fact that she is a woman. Possessed of an undaunted spirit, every backward has meant an effort that has lifted her still further in her business career Among oil men she is known as a "good fellow," and there isn't one of them better in touch with crude oil conditions and the market than is she.

road west-bound, which left here for Chicago at 2.57 p. m., collided with an ice-train two miles west of Ypsilanti. The express train was composed of express and mail cars only. The accident, it was stated, was caused by the engineer of the express train running past a semaphore, which was set against him.

Boy Fatally Hurt.

Stratbray Feb. 22—At the Caradoc. In personal life Mrs. Summers is a charming woman, full of spirit and delested in Los Angeles and feels herself a part of its innermost workings. Its development is the spirit that animates her. Simple and unaffected in her command.-Los Angeles Times.

Sink Knowledge. Several times a year the average housewife finds herself confronted with a stopped up sink. Amateur efforts at opening the drainpipes are unavail-ing. Trained skill must be called in, and commotion and plumber's bills fol-

This is one of the many instances where an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. There are kitchens to which the plumber's visit is almost as rare as a blue moon, and with a fairly modern system of drainage and a little care their number might easily increase and multiply.

Sink stoppage is usually caused by grease, sometimes by coffee groun and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred by carelessness. See that your plates are scraped free from grease and scraps before they go into the dish pan. Insist that codee grounds shall find their way into the garbage can rather than the sink. Keep a small, stiff scrubbing brush and an iron sink scraper with a rubber edge near at hand and enforce their use after each dishwashing time. If these few simple rules are obeyed. vegetables have been cooked, gravies or other greasy liquids are poured into the sink-and it is not the place for them-if the pipes are scalded daily with clean water and plenty of common washing soda, you run very little risk of stoppage.

A plumber once said to me: "If wom-en would use more soda in their sink pipes, there would be less work for us. Some of them use lye, which cuts the grease, but ruins the pipes. Soda is

Study Deportment and Defy Old Age. education and habit. In the bringing

They are never taught to hold themselves properly, and as they get older they deteriorate in this particular to a dreadful degree. Some women at thirty-five look fifty and more simply from the ungainliness of their deportment and the way in which they have allowed their figures to, as it were, run

They have neglected to throw back their shoulders so as to preserve the flatness of their backs; they have neglected the selection of a suitable make of corset; they have neglected the exercise which would make them agile and keep them supple. The quence is that they grow stiff of limb. heavy of movement and unwieldy of figure long before they ought.

In some cases, of course, advice is superfluous and perhaps impertinent. We have all a right to do what we like with our own, and if we prefer to look old before our time there is no law to hinder us from doing so.

Those, however, who think otherwise and who consider it worth while to make the best of themselves as long as they can should remember that in this particular the figure is as important as the face, and that if we wish to keep looking young we must of all things not neglect to attend to our deportment.-St. Louis Republic.

In the Bathroom.

The one thing to be avoided is a clutter of small things—too many bottles and boxes on the shelves and tables, a number of rumpled towels and, above all, a rack of clothes hung up to dry. The nickel plate should be kept shining with constant polishing and the white porcelain, tiles and enamel immaculate. The nickel quickly collects the green oxide, and the white enamel takes on a peculiar yellow stain if neglected. Any one who has attempted to correct the results of this neglect in either case has found her task a difficult one and if the neglect has continued too long almost an impossible With daily care, soap and water, combined with vigorous scrubbing and rubbing, are quite sufficient. A gritty soap should not be used on either the nickel or the enamel.-Harper's Bazar.

Spots on Tablecloths.

The best way to remove any sort of a spot from a tablecloth is to place a bowl under the spot and draw the cloth over it so there is a little dip in the center. Then pour boiling hot waover it, and it will be found when the spot is dry that the stain has entirely disappeared. This is an excel-lent way to remove a spot after the table is all set, for by pushing a plate underneath the stain can be removed without difficulty with the boiling water, and by pressing and smoothing it afterward with a dry napkin there will be no trace of it by the time the luncheon or dinner is ready.

Hiding the Radiator.

An unsightly steam radiator has been thoroughly eliminated and disguised by putting an ordinary shelf on iron braces about a foot above it and hanging a curtain in front. The top of the shelf is covered with denim or burlap, and curtains are tacked at each end that hang straight to the floor. The curtain across the front is hung from slender brass rod and may be pulled to one side when more heat is needed. The shelf extends some distance be-yond the ends of the heater and is used for books and pretty bits of china.

Mending Mackintoshes.

excellent mending cement for mackintoshes is made by dissolving some shreds of pure india rubber in penzine, which will form a stiff paste Spread the injured part of the mackintosh on something flat, apply a little of the paste to the part to be mended and leave until the cement is hardened. This may also be very satisfactorily employed in mending rubber Oiling Floors.

When oiling floors, use a woolen cloth rather than a brush. If the oil is thoroughly rubbed in with the cloth, the result will be much more satisfactory than when put on with a brush. The same is true in staining floors, and in into the wood with one cloth and then rubbed off with another.

Rusty Old Oak.
Old oak that has been neglected should be washed in warm beer; then, when dry, wash it again all over with a soft brush with the following mixture: One quart of beer, in which has been boiled a piece of beeswax the size of a walnut, and a tablespoonful of sugar. Leave this to dry, then pollsh with a soft cloth-

Trays in Drawers. deep drawers in which many things must be kept smooth, inserting trays as in a trunk is a good idea. If tape hangers are sewed at either end, the tray is easily removed when wishing to get at things beneath.

It is a good plan to tack a piece of white oilcloth on the wall back of the kitchen tables, as otherwise it will soon become discolored and greasy, a result that is almost unavoidable.

When linoleum begins to show wear. paint the surface with a good quality floor varnish and allow it a longer time to dry than would be necessary for wooden boards.

FOODSTUFF NOT ENOUGH USED BY COOKS.

Always Buy the Best Quality of Macaroni—Hints as to How It Should Be Boiled - Two Good Formulas That

Macaroni is one of those foodstuffs which the average cook does not avail herself nearly as much as she might with advantage. It lends itself alike to some of the simplest forms of cookery as well as to dishes of a more elaborate description. It may be employed in conjunction with all kinds of meats and poultry, or it may be served alone as a farinaceous dish, and it pos-sesses the advantage that it contains in itself quite sufficient nutriment to qualify it to take the place of a meat dish when desirable. In buying macaroni it is well worth while little trouble to procure the best quality, as the results are so much more satisfactory.

The water in which it is cooked should always be boiling fast when it is put in. As to the time necessary for boil-ing, it is impossible to give exact dictions, because some kinds of macaroni require much longer than others, but it should be cooked until it can just be divided with a fork by pressing it against the edge of the pan, but not until it is pappy or loses shape. If, however, it is subsequently to be further subjected to the cooking process for any length of time, as is the case when it is baked or steamed, a somewhat shorter period may be given. From forty minutes to an hour must. as a rule, be allowed for the average large macaroni, about thirty minutes for spaghetti or nouilles and less still for vermicelli.

Molded Marcaroni Cheese.-Break three ounces of macaroni-nouilles or spaghetti answers equally well—into small pieces, boil in rapidly boiling salted water. When tender, drain off the water and add half a pint of milk; cook slowly till the macaroni has ab sorbed most of the milk. To half a pint of thick white sauce add two ounces of grated cheese and mix with macaroni. Last of all add two well beaten eggs. Butter a plain border mold, sprinkle it with browned breadcrumbs and pour in the macaroni mixture. Steam gently for about half an hour, turn out and fill the center with stewed tomatoes and mush-

It will soften almost at once and may in this way be quite easily managed. Boil for abo twenty-five minutes, or until it is just soft, but be sure it does not lose shape Then drain it, rinse in cold water and spread it out at full length to cool. Butter liberally some small molds and line them with the spaghetti, beginning at the middle of the bottom of the molds and coiling it up the sides. "Yes, indeed," replied the girl.

"All right," he said, turning away.

attacked in respect of his private pathy in matters of this character business, and that he retaliated by threatening the same treatment for his assailants. But the Liberals will say that Fowler went much farther in his insinuations against private character than his assailants did. And Mr. Fowler may reply that his enemies offered greater opportunity for attack, being very much the greater sinners.

But while the Liberals are "deploring" the language of Mr. Fowler and outwardly putting all the blame of the episode upon that member, the real reason for their grief is that the Government and its supporters sat under Fowler's terrific attack, mute and motionless. Innocent men would have jumped to their feet immediately and would have indignantly assailed the first aspersion and would have demanded a speedy and therough investigation. And it is the fact of this silence in the Government ranks, the mute acceptance of Fowler's charges, that wrongs all respectable Liberals. But it is foolish for them to try to put the blame, not on the guilty, but upon the persons who exposed the guilt .- Hamilton Spectator.

The motor car, says Edith Wharton, has restored the romance of traveling. We should say yes. What can be more romantic than to see an under-sized man in great goggles and a leather coat whose hands have never been soiled by anything but perfumed ink slowly pushing a touring car through the sand to the nearest repair shop while the golden glow of the ous sunset is tingeing the treetops, bringing out their gorgeous autum tints in a picture that no artist could reproduce, while a sweet 200 pound lady sits complacently in the car and wonders if the neighboring farmhouse would produce an evening meal of chicken and pumpkin pie in exchange for coin of the realm!

Or, if that isn't romantic enough to suit the most exacting, we might turn to the picture of a pair of legs waving in the air while the owner was down under the machine busy regretting that he had not learned to swear in youth. Oh, there is plenty of romance if one just goes about it right.

Now say to the spectators -- for we are assuming that you are performing the trick for the amusement of a company-that you will make one of them or all of them, one at a time, see the bird actually enter the cage.

Of course they will laugh at you and say that what you propose is absurd, for how can the picture of a bird move and enter the picture of a cage? Let us tell you how.

The accompanying illustration shows how the pictures should be drawn. Perhaps it might be as well for you to copy it. Now take an ordinary visiting card and, holding it between your thumb and your finger, let it touch the paper on the line between the cage and the bird. Place yourself opposite to the light, whether from a wind a gas jet, so that the card will not throw a shadow, and then press your nose against the edge of the card and look at the two pictures.

Thus you will see the bird with your right eye and the cage with your left, and for an instant they will both seem stationary. Then all at once the bird will appear to move toward the cage and finally to enter it, just as if it had life and had gone in through a door.

A Robust Ghost. John Leech and a member of the Millais family once stayed a night at Cowdray hall, in England, where, many guests being present, the two friends had no alternative but to accept rooms in an isolated wing supposed to be haunted. In the middle of the night Millais awoke, believing that some giant was shaking him violently by the shoulder. This was supposed to be the favorite device of the ghost. He rushed into a corridor and found Leech sitting there trembling and declaring that he would not for the world go back to his room. They spent the re-mainder of the night in the corridor, but in the morning said nothing of their experiences. In the afternoon there arrived an evening paper teiling of a violent earthquake in the locality. The earthquake was what the two visitors believed to be their ghost.

A PERFECT CAT.

Mrs. W. C. Bell, Secretary of Royal Canadian Cat Club, Gives Rules.

Mrs. W. C. Bell, Secretary of Royal Canadian Cat Club, Gives Rules.
A cat to be of proper proportions should have small ears, rounded at the tops, carried somewhat forward, and not wide open at the base. It is a mark of beauty in the cat to have the ears set well apart, writes Mrs.
W. C. Bell, secretary of the Royal Canadian Cat Club, giving an appearance of greater width to the head.
The eyes should be round, large and full and set straight in the head, not slanting like that of a Chinese. It should have a broad skull, and the face and nose should be short. The neck is also short and the chest full and broad. A cobby body, low on the legs and large broad paw, but not stumpy feet is the correct shape. The tall should be short rather than long.
It is supposed to be a sign of strength if a cat's whiskers attain great length. The short haired or common cat should have short, close fur, not woolly. A white cat must have orange or blue eyes, preferably the latter, I have seen a few specimens with odd eyes.

A black cat should be a pure rich black without a trace of white and have crange eyes. The perfect tortoise shell and white should be white patched with yellow, orange and black, have no stripes, and the eyes must be orange. Brown tabby must be a golden brown with rich black stripes or bars. No white and the eyes orange or green.

Then there is the any other color stripes or bars. No white and the eyes orange or green.

Then there is the any other color variety, in which are classed the broken orange and white, or a cat with several colors. A tortoiseshell male is a decided rarity.

Many years ago at the Crystal Palace Cat Show one was exhibited and the cage was literally smothered with prise cards. The owner had been given a shilling by a London cook to take the "troublesome" beast away.

A smoke cat is not common by any A smoke cat is not common by any means. It is a shaded cat without markings, the fur being a pure white underneath and gradually assuming almost a black tone on the outer

The figure and number nine seems to be an important one in connection with cats, as there is a superstition that they have nine lives because of their extraordinary powers of endurance. The expostulating tabby in Gay's Fables says to the old beldame:

"Tis infamy to serve a hag, Cats are thought imps, her broom nag, And boys against our lives combine Because, 'tis said, your cats have Because, nine.

Because, 'tis said, your cats have nine.''

The instinct of maternity is perhaps more largely developed in the cat than in any other animal. No cresture shows such anxiety for the safety and welfare of her offspring as she does, and often her natural timidness will give place to bold and fearless courage when her little ones have been in any danger or difficulty. The human race may be divided into people who love cats and those that hate them. Fortunately for poor pusy the latter are very few in number. A cat is a most cleanly creature and more particular about her appearance than any other animal. This is a quotation from a schoolboy's essay and speaks for itself:

The house cat is a four-legged quadruped, the legs as usual being at the corners. It is what is called a tame animal, though it feeds on mice and birds of prey. Its colors are striped. It does not bark, but it breathes through its nose instead of its mouth. Cats also mow, which you have all heard. Oats have nine lives but which is seldom wanted in this country, cause of Christianity. Cats eat meat and most anything speahully where you can't afford. This is all about cats.

WHAT TO DO.

Well, what do you really do when;

well, what do you really us when, trouble strikes you?
Shout hallelujah!
Does that seare him off?
Yes; he thinks I'm so happy he takes to the woods!

Don't wave the flag until you are ready to carry the gun.

DOINGS OF LEGISLATURE

The Budget Will Show A Surplus of Quite $300,000

AN INCREASED REVENUE

Toronto, Feb. 22.—The long-anticipated day of Ontario's annual provincial stock-taking has been determined. The stalwart guardian of the cash chest, Hon. A. J. Matheson, will lay before the Legislature on Tuesday next the public accounts and estimates for the year, and will follow that procedure on Thursday by the Budget.

Flood Tide of Prosperity.

Mr. E. J. B. Pense, of Kingston, whom the Opposition have chosen as their financial critic, will reply.

It is believed the budget speech of the Provincial Treasurer will be of a remarkable character. It will indicate that Ontario is at the flood-tide of provincial prosperity and that the Government has exercised much sagacity in the handling of financial affairs.

Revenue Has Increased.

Revenue Has Increased.

The ordinary revenue has been enormously increased and the receipts have been materially augmented by the increased license fees, the succession duties, the successful operacession duties, the successful operacession duties, the succession opera-tion of the Government-owned Temis-kaming and Northern Ontario Rail-way, and other sources, not to men-tion the material increase to capital account in the mining land sales. The prediction of Mr. J. H. Fergu-

Hon. Frank Cochrane secured a second reading to his bills to amend the mining act and to encourage the establishmment of smelting works in the Province. The latter is of much importance.

Bonus on Refined Ore.

It is destined to put a liberal Government bonus on all ore refined in this Province, with a view to developing the industry here, rather than permitting a continuance of the present practice of shipping to the United States.

Mr. C. N. Smith, Liberal, Sault Ste.

and operate a smeller for all ores in Ontario.

The Minister of Mines, however, took the safe ground that such a move would not be sound. He preferred the fair way of paying these enterprises just for what they do.

Registry Act Amended.

Hon. Mr. Foy, the Attorney-General, introduced a bill to establish a new judicial district in Sudbury. He also put through the second reading of his enactment to amend the Registry Act by many needed improvements to the various registry offices recommended for years by the Government inspector.

for years by the Government inspector.

To Inquire Into Rates.

Hon. Mr. Hendrie spoke on the second reading of the Government measure to amend the Ontario and Municipal Board Act.

It confers on the board powers under certain acts now exercised only by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council in respect to specifications and plans of railways. It also empowers the board to engage counsel at any time deemed necessary, and clothes it with power to enquire into, and report upon the rates charged by municipalities for service of utilities owned by them. It further gives the board the same powers in regard to arbitration under the municipal act of 1903, as are now held by county judges.

New Police Magistrate.

The Prime Minister, after the session, announced the appointment of Mr. Stuart Masson as Police Magistrate of Belleville, in succession to Mr. J. J. B. Flint, whose resignation takes effect on March 1st.

Liberal Majority Reduced. London, Feb. 22.—The bye-election of a member to Parliament from the south division of Aberdeen, to replace James Bryce, who has been made British Ambassador to the United States, resulted in E. S. S. Lemon, Liberal, getting 3,779 votes; Ronald McNeil, Unionist, 3,412, and F. Branley, Socialist, 1,740 votes. The result shows a great reduction in the Liberal majority.

Claim For Son's Death.

Essex, Feb. 22.—William Goodison has issued a writ against this town for $5,000 damages for the death of his son, Benjamin Goodison, which occurred Oct. 21 of last year. With a companion, young Goodison was driving along the street in Essex when the buggy wheel struck a pile of dirt, the horse taking fright and running away. He was thrown out and instantly killed.

Keyham Docks Opened. Devonport. Eng., Feb. 22.—The great new Keyham docks, which complete the most important naval dock yards scheme of the British empire, were opened yesterday by the Prince of Wales with considerable ceremony. The large gathering of warships sent here in honor of the occasion were dressed with bunting and the harbor was gay with flags.

Bolt Missing From Brake. New York, Feb. 22.—D. W. Derring, conductor of the Brewster express, which was wrecked Saturday night, with the loss of 22 lives, testified before the state railroad commission that when the train left South Mount Vernon, 9 minutes late, a bolt was missing from a brake shoe.

Important Measures Advanced.

Yesterday was Government day in the Legislature and several Ministerial measures of considerable importance were advanced on their stages toward the statute book.

Hon. Frank Cochrane secured a section of Gord with a tenth of all.—

ANSWERS DR. CHARTERIS.

To the Editor of The Planet:

I wish to say in reply to the state-ments of Dr. Charteris that they are I wish to say in reply to the statements of Dr. Charteris that they are entirely incorrect and misleading, and an unwarrantable attack upon the members of the council of Dover. An inspector was appointed at the first meeting of the council and everything was promptly done that we were asked to do to stamp out the disease. In concersation with officials of the Provincial Board of Realth in Toronto a few days ago I was informed that the Department was perfectly satisfied with the way matters were being conducted in the township, and very much better than in many other localities where a similar condition existed, It comes with exceeding bad taste from Dr. Charteris to make the statements he has seen fit to give to the press, but he is probably looking for a little cheap notoriety at the expense of the ratepayers of the township. HUDSON BAY-ROAD

General Demand For a New Line-Pramier Says Matter Is Being Carefully Considered.

Carefully Considered.

Ottawa, Feb. 23.—Orf a motion to go into supply yesterday afternoon, Mr. Knowles called the attention of the Government to the urgent necessity for the construction of a railway to Hudson Bay.

The west was suffering from the lack of transportation. Neither wheat nor coal could be moved as required. He claimed that the C. P. R. is withdrawing its motive power and rolling stock from the west, although the traffic is increasing.

Should Assist the West. Should Assist the West.

The Government should assist the West by constructing a national road. The western people were heavily taxed by a tariff that did them no earthly good, and from this revenue were built wharves in Nova Scotia and canals in Ontario. Had not the West some right to relief from the national treasury? He claimed that ships could enter and leave the ports of Hudson Bay from June to December.

Mr. Lake considered this matter of the highest importance. The present railways were unable to meet the demands of western traffic.

Feasible and Necessary.

Feasible and Necessary.

Feasible and Necessary.

Mr. Greenway thought the Hudson Bay route was entirely feasible. It was the original route, the one used for hundreds of years by the Hudson Bay Co. The congestion of freight in the Northwest was a serious problem. The G. T. P. and other new roads running east and west only accentuated the trouble by opening additional areas and increasing the quantity of grain to be carried.

Mr. Cash said that the entire West was anxious for this road to be built. The railways had utterly broken down in their efforts to get out the grain. Had the Government no way of enforcing the law and compelling the companies to serve the people? He submitted that a railway to Hudson Bay might bring relief.

Shortage of Cars.

Shortage of Cars.

Shortage of Cars.

Mr. McRaney corroborated the preceding speakers as to car shortage.

The trouble was so chronic that people had largely been talking about it.

Mr. Foster defended the C. P. R.

It seemed only commonsense that the company would carry all the freight that it possibly could. But he favored a railroad to Hudson Bay.

Premier Promises Something. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the Hudson Bay Railroad had been discussed for many years. A statute was passed years ago appropriating a subsidy of 12,000 acres of land per mile. No company had ever applied for it. But some other method would be found. At this very moment, the matter was engaging the attention of the Government.

He could not promise any announce ment next week or the week after, but he hoped to make an important announcement foreshadowing the building of this important system before the close of the session.

Lack of Motive Power. Every western member who spoke referred to the car famine, but Mr. Greenway, who made a strong, sens-ible speech ascribed the breakdown of the C. P. R. to lack of motive power. He instanced the fact that cars loaded with grain stood for weeks and months on a siding, thus indicating that so far from more cars being in demand that there were a surplus of cars as compared to locemotives.

Two more games of the City Hockey League series were played off at the rink last night. The first game, Stars vs. Tammany Heelers, resulted in a score of 2 to 0 in favor of the Stars, Manager Perrot, of the Stars, was quite fast in the play and showed that he was able to handle a hockey stick. The following was the line-up of the teams.

Stars—Campbell, g., Anderson, p., Brundage, c. p., Perrott, r., Morgan, c., Bailey, l.w. LaBelle, r. w.

Tammany Heelers—Hardaker, g., Roberts, p., Rayner, c. p., Waller, r. w., Referee, Pont Taylor, time keeper, Scott.

After allowing the crowd to enjoy skating lor nearly two hours, Manager Shilling on cleared the ice in order to let the Bankers vs. Defiance play off their match. The Defiance team, however, failed to show up at all, so in order not to disappoint the crowd of spectators a picked team was put up against the speedy Bankers

This game proved to be very exciting. Dupuy at cover point for the Bankers shone conspiciously in being put off the lee twice for rough playing. The first time he went off for three minutes, and had just got nicely started in, when he was put on the fence again.

On the picked team Harrington played excellent hockey, and scored the two goals made by this team. At the end of, the game the score stood 3 to 2 in favor of the Bankers. The line-up of the teams was as follows.

Bankers—Glenn, g., Gillies, p., Dupuy, c.p. Lawson, r., Johnson, c., Williamson, r. w., Merkel, l. w.

HYMAN AGAIN NOMINATED.

Illness Was of Genuine and Severe

Character.

London, Feb. 22.—Nominated by T. H. Purdom, K.C., and seconded by M. Masuret, Hon. Charles S. Hyman, was last night unenimously appointed the candidate for the Liberal party for the coming elections in this city. George G. Gibbons, K.C., was most emphatic in stating that Mr. Hyman's illness was of a genuine and severe character. The Premier's request to Mr. Hyman to reconsider his resignation could not be forwarded to the latter for some time, as the physicians in attendance would allow no business to interfere with the Hon. Charles' recovery.

It was announced that Hon. Mr. Hyman will not be present during the election.

Mr. Hyman's Resignation. Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The privileges and dections committee of the House of ommons met yesterday morning to onsider the validity of Hon. C. S.

A motion was carried for the production of all letters relative to this resignation that have passed between Mr. Hyman and any of his colleagues or with the Speaker. It was decided to meet again on Thursday of next week

To Be Refilled. In one of the suburbs of a big city is the site of a well known school of theology, from which go out each week end many members of the senior class train was surprised at the number of men who got off at that station. "Who are all those chaps getting off here?" he asked the brakeman. "Them?" asked the brakeman. "Oh, they're returned empties for the col-

A Dramatic Death.

A sergeant major of an infantry reg-iment stationed in Bremen was sentenced to a slight disciplinary punishment for having mortally wounded a man with a revolver in the course of a fight. He appealed against this, but was informed that his appeal had been rejected. He then ordered his men to load their rifles with blank cartridges, but during their absence reloaded them with ball cartridges. He then drew up his men in firing line and carefully showed them how to aim them the straight at his heart. With the utmost calm he then ordered, "Fire!" and fell a glance of the eye without the use of wards.

A Policeman's Strategy. When Captain W. E. Weber was a patrolman a clothing store upon his beat was robbed one night. The thief had taken off his own old clothes and left them in the store. He had put on a new suit and worn it away. The old suit was that of a boy about fifteen years old.

Weber gathered up the clothes and took them to the old fire patrol house at Seventh avenue and Wyandotte street. He put them upon the floor and, turning the hose on them, drenched them with water. Then he went down to the junction, where at that time the newsboys congregated in great numbers. He gathered a dozen of them around him.

"Boys," he said, "the police found some clothes down on the river bank this morning. It looks like a boy had been drowned. I want all of you to come up to the fire station and look at the clothes, Maybe you can tell me whe they belonged to."

No sooner had the "newsies" gath-

No sooner had the "newsies" gathered around the pile of water soaked clothes than one little fellow spoke up: "Them's Nifty Smith's. I seen him wearin' them red galluses, an' he sew-ed that patch on the knee there his-

Other boys corroborated this story. In less than an hour the officer had corralled Nifty and made him confess to the robbery.

BUY SILVER BIRD!

The safest and best purchase in the whole Cobalt camp to-day, considering capitalization, location, work done, results obtained, and price of stock. There has never been a stock offered in the Cobalt district, from the opening up of the camp to the present day, that could compare with it when taking these points into consideration. Silver Bird is situated directly in the centre of the most active operations, and is surrounded by some of the most wonderful producing silver mines the world has ever known.

We are now offering for public subscription the first allotment of 200,000 shares at the low price of 15 cents per share. Now, just think of it! Compare this price with the price of the Colonial, only a stone's throw away, now selling at $3.50 to $4.00 per share, at a valuation of about four million dollars. Compare it also with the stock of the Right of Way, selling at from $7.00 to $8.00 per share. If the O Brien mine was an incorporated Company to-day and offered for sale its stock would undoubtedly bring on the open market $10 00 to $12.00 per share on the capital of a million and a half. We have been informed from a trustworthy source that the ore blocked out and in sight in the Timmins mine is estimated at from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. We venture to say that if this property were incorporated for $10,000,000 and placed upon the market, it would sell for $2.00 per share. It should be understood that we are in no way endeavoring to depreciate the values of the Colonial, Right of Way, O'Brien or Timmins stocks or properties, for, indeed, we believe they would be bargains at those prices and valuations. We are only endeavoring to show that Silver Bird, which is located in close proximity to these mines, is at

15 CENTS PER SHA

In comparison with those valuable properties, positively the greatest and best purchase that has ever been offered in the Cobalt camp.

trict the world has ever known. Back it up with all the money that you can see your way clear to invest. You will never regret it, but will always rejoice.

About eighteen months ago there were several Cobalt companies organized, and their shares offered for subscription in Cobalt and near-by towns. Many of the laborers, clerks and other wageearners, being on the ground, manifested their faith in the camp by placing their earnings in sums varying from $100.00 to $1,000.00 in these shares. There is not a single exception known where these shares have not advanced from 10 to 100 times the first price. This seems almost like a fairy tale, but it is the truth. There are many men who can be seen every day walking about the uneven streets of Cobalt who eighteen months ago were known as common day laborers, working for $2.00 per day, who are now actually worth from $50,000.00 to $100,000.00, all gained from pinning their faith in Cobalt and placing their savings in Cobalt mining stocks.

One of the highest recommendations for the shares of Silver Bird is the fact that the investors at Cobalt and Haileybury are buying heavily of these shares. Within the last several days we have received orders from investors in that section for more than 40,000 shares. The employees of the Nipissing, the O'Brien and the Red Rock are buying these shares.

Silver Bird is situated between and close to these mines, and these miners should know what they are buying. Now, just consider for a moment! Here are men right on the ground, employed on the properties that surround and are in the immediate vicinity of Silver Bird, placing their money in these shares at the present market price—15 cents. THESE MEN ARE MINERS. They know the property. They can see Silver Bird every day. They are in a position to know whether these shares are a bargain or not. It is no trouble to see the property, as it is only about 15 to 20 minutes' walk from the railway station or postoffice at Cobalt to the Silver Bird mine.

Many people are visiting the property, and we do not know of one exception where they have not purchased these shares after once examining Silver Bird. Just recently a gentleman claiming to be a mining engineer and mineralogist came into our office, stating he was just from Cobalt and had made an examination of Silver Bird Property. He placed his order for 20,000 shares for himself and friends. This speaks for itself! Now, a word to investors: Buy the shares of Silver Bird at the present first allotment price of 15 cents. Buy all you can of these shares. Place your faith in the most wonderful mining dis-

WATCH

Silver Bird will be paying dividends equal to its present purchase price within the next year on every share of its stock.

Invest your money in Silver Bird, the greatest bargain that has ever been offered in the Cobalt camp. The property of the Silver Bird Mines, Limited, consists of 20 acres (patented), being the west half of the northeast quarter of North half of lot 3, concession 6, Coleman. Silver Bird lies in the immediate vicinity of the O'Brien, Timmins, La Rose, Colonial, Violet, Trethewey, Right of Way, and immediately between these great mines and the Green-Meehan, Red Rock, Cobalt Contact and Nipissing extension. Silver Bird is working day and night shifts, operating two boilers, steam hoist, steam drills, sinking on three veins, and in the same formation identically as the famous O'Brien, Colonial, Timmins and Right of Way mines, and on the extension of their leads. We predict this first allotment will be largely oversubscribed, and we urge that early application be made.

"I wish to inform you that your wonderful Cuticura has put a stop to twelve years of misery I passed with my son. As an infant I noticed cn his body a red spot and treated same with different remedies for about five years, but when the spot began to get larger I put him under the care of doctors. Under their treatment, the disease spread to four different parts of his body. The longer the doctors treated him the worse it grew. During the day it would get rough and form like scales, At night it would be cracked, infiamed, and badly swellen, with terrible burning and itching, when I think of his suffering, it nearly breaks my heart. His screams could be beard down-stains. The suffering of my son made me full of misery. I had no ambition to work, to eat, nor sould I sleep.

Adalty and well-appointed practice luncheon was served recently at the Technical School, to seven guests, at the enormous cost of 75 cents, for the whole meal, which as may be seen, averages a little less than 11 cents a head. By 'practice' luncheon is meant a luncheon served by one of the students taking the Domestic Science course at the school, who demonstrates in this practical way what she has been learning. The hostess, this time a very young girl in Luncheon for Eleven Cents. these, this time a very young girl in the High school course, arranges the menu, buys the supplies, and, with the assistance of two fellow students as cook and waitress, cooks and serves the meal. Entered according to Act of Parliament of Can-ada, in the year 1907, by Frederick Diver, To-ronto, at the Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 17.-In dealing in a new and strikingly personal way with the parable of the talents the preacher shows how it applies to men of means and influence in every position in life to-day. The text is Luke viii, 18, "Whoseever hath not, from him shall be taken away even that which he seemeth to have."

have."

It is amazing how the addition of one little word may change the whole meaning of a sentence. For a long time I could not understand the twenty-ninth verse of the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew. Christ in his wonderful way had been telling the parable of the man who went into the far country after he had delivered unto his servants his goods. The story to his servants his goods. The story is almost identical with the history is almost identical with the history of your own life.

For years and years you were a slave to business. You kept up a prave front, but for nearly a quarter of a century you were trembling unon the brink of bankriptcy. The children were young and had to be supported and educated. Your business had not yet been yell extablishmess had not yet been yell extablishmess. children were young and had to be supported and educated. Your business had not yet been well established. The business world was eyeing you askance. You had to buy your goods on long credit and therefore pay higher for them than if you had the ready cash. The result: It was grind, work, economize. But after a time the financial condition made a turn for the better. Two of your boys finished their schooling; and were able to support themselves. One of your daughters married. With the lessening of expenses at home there came a marvelous growth at the "narrow lane of difficulty" you moved into Easy street. One night you came home and after dinner you said to your wife: "My dear, I have fought the battle of life and won it. It is time for us to take a wedding trip. We did not go very far when we were married. We were too poor. Let us next spring start upon a trip around the world." "Oh, John," she said, "can you afford it?" "Yes," you answered. "And I think we can take our youngest daughter along. She is all we have left at home."

At once you began to make preparations. Your wife planned for the care of the house. You made the arrangements at the store. You called in one employe and said, "Harry, you will take charge of that department." To another man you gave one task and to another a different responsibility.

called in another and said, "Joe, you take charge of that department." To another man you gave one task and to another a different responsibility. Then you set sail, With your wife and daughter you were away from home nearly a year. When you returned you called your various employes to render an account of their stewardship. You rewarded each man according as he had fulfilled the trust committed to his charge. Such is the modern parallel of the parable of the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew.

Now, when the good man of this parable found out that there was one who had failed to fulfill his trust he says, "Take therefore the talent from him and give it unto him who hath ten talents, for unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have an abundance, but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath." "Strange," I used to say when I read these words. "How can anything be taken away from a man who has nothing?" Can nothing come from nothing?" Yet here in this parable of Matthew we read, "From him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath." "I cannot understand them."

But some time ago I had a strange illumination of the meaning of this these words," I used to say; "I cannot understand them."

But some time ago I had a strange illumination of the meaning of this chapter. Just as you enter a dark room and go to the window and lift the green shade and a flood of sunlight pours in, so I had a windowful of gospel light poured upon these words. One day while reading the expression as found in Luke I came upon the one word "seemeth." Then I read the conclusion of the parable in Matthew in conjunction with my text in Luke, and I found that the two verses meant practically the same. This is the way I read the two verses: "Take heed therefore how you hear, for whoseever hath to him shall be given and whoseever hath not from him shall be taken away even that which he seemeth to have," "Oh," I exclaimed, "I see it! When a man is untrue to the trust God has given to him, he may seem to have wealth and happiness, he may seem to be blessed with joys which are denied the children of God, but there shall come a time when he shall stand before all men stripped of his false assumptions." To pretend to have does not prove that we have. That word "seemeth" is the pivotal word of my sermonic theme. I want to prove to you that no man can eternally possess anything that is good and true and pure unless he possesses them through his fidelity and consecration to Jesus Christ. When a man has gifts and talents given to him that therewith he may do effective service for Christ and he uses them for his own advantage or does not use them at all, he will be called to account at the bar of God. Then God will say, "Take away even that which he seemeth to have."

tana copper mines, of which he has control for a few years are his and his alone. They are no more his than the talent which the master gave to his unfaithful servant in the parable was his. They are no more his than the money which you give to a Wall street broker to buy for you some Pennsylvania railroad stock is his. They are no more his than the tree growing in my fruit yard belongs to the robins who come there each year to build their nests in it. They are no more his than the tree growing in my fruit yard belongs to the robins who come there each year to build their nests in it. They are no more his than the tree growing in my fruit yard belongs to the robins who come there each year to build their nests in it. They are no more his than the waters which flow down from the Adirondack mountains and work their way past the Highlands and cool themselves under the shadows of the Palisades belong to the men who live on an estate which rims the banks of the Hudson.

I might feast my eves upon that state which rims the banks of the Hudson.

I might feast my eyes upon that water if I would on a moonlight night. I might launch my skiff into those waters and with powerful stroke fill the blades of my oars with its treasures so that when those drops fall back into the bosom of the stream they look like a beautiful collection of sparkling gems. But I could not control it or change its course. If I tried to change the current of the Hudson river those who live below me would rise up in wrathful protest and cry: "Stop! Stop! That river belongs to us as much as to you. You can use those waters to irrigate your gardens and fields if you will, but after your flowers and corn and grain have drunk their fill you must let those waters flow back into the river again. You must not change the onward flow which will bring these waters was supported to the state of the property of the state of the sta those waters flow back into the river again. You must not change the onward flow which will bring those waters to us. You can use the river as it creeps past your land, but then that river belongs to us and not to you." So with the great river of gold. The worldly wise rich man may say, "This land is mine, these rivers are mine, this endless system of railroad tracks is mine, these newspapers and "This land is mine, these rivers are mine, this endless system of railroad tracks is mine, these newspapers and these office buildings are mine." "No." answers God, "not thine, but mine. I give thee the use of them for a little while as the employer gave the talents to the servants in the parable. But soon I shall take them back again." "All?" "Yes, all. Then I shall demand an account of thy stewardship." Do you not see what I am driving at? The rich man may seem to own his land, but he does not. He is a frustee and a trustee alone. Soon at the brink of the grave that trusteeship shall be taken away. When I see this cringing, crawling, unfaithful servant of the parable being deprived of his one talent, which he has hidden in his bank vaults, as a dog hides a bone, I cannot shut my ears to the false assumption of virtue with which this unfaithful servant tried to assail his master's character. He seems to say: "Master, I know what a twent them at I know what a twent them art I know what a twent them are when I want I know what a twent them are when I want I know what a twent them are when I want I know what a twent them are when I want I want I know what a twent them are when I want I want vant tried to assail his master's character. He seems to say: "Master, I know what a tyrant thou art. I know how unrelenting and bitter thou wouldst be if I made one mistake in my investments. I knew that if I made a poor purchase and lost any of the capital thou wouldst never cease to hound me and that thou wouldst demand all thy gold back or my life's blood. And so, on account of the fear of making a mistake, I did nothing. Here thou hast the money that is thine." What happened? With one mighty grip the master tore into shreds the black garment of hypocrisy which covered that craven heart. With one denunciatory verbal blow he silenced those lying lips. He tore away all the unfaithful servant's pretenses to virtue when he said: "Hypocrite and falsifier thou art. Thou hast not only proved recreant to the pocrite and falsifler thou art. Thou hast not only proved recreant to the talent I gave thee, but thou art now trying to cover that guilt with perjury and lies. Thou are doing as most unfaithful servants and evildeers do. When they are convicted of wrongdoing they try to lay the blame at some one else's door." Oh, my friends, are you and I taking that course? When we think of our unused talents, when our consciences tell us that God intended us to use the gifts that are lying idle, what is the gifts that are lying idle, what is our answer? Is our excuse that other men prevent us or that God is a hard master in requiring us to work? master in requiring us to work?

Then, again, there are men who would make their inactivity appear as true kindness. How often do we see the unfaithful servants of life with an assumed expression of virtue upon their countenances? They are saying: "I know people say I am selfish. I know people say I am selfish. I know people say that I am mean. But what can I do? I wish that I might be able to help others. But if I help them I will only do them an injury. It is better for every man to learn to help himself rather than to be helped by his brothers. The easiest way to make a well man a cripple is to give him a crutch. The easiest way to make a lame man well is to take away his crutch and compel him to use his weak limb. I am my neighbor's friend and God's disciple, although people know it not."

away his crutch and compel him to use his weak limb. I am my neighbor's friend and God's disciple, although people know it not."

My brother, when you try to defend your sinful, selfish actions by putting the blame of your sins upon others, do you honestly mean that you are telling the truth? No, you know you are not. Like the unfaithful servant in the parable, you are trying to cover up your tiger claws with sheep's wool. You are trying to shield your own sins with a tissue of lies. People admire the strong wing on which the eagle soars, but a great preacher took a different view of its flight. "Do you see," he said, "yonder eagle, how it mounts? Does it care for the ethereal blue or aspire to commune with the stars of the heavens? Not a whit. Such airy considerations have no weight with the bird. And yet you will not wonder that it soars when you remember that it thus obtains a broader range of vision and so becomes the more able to provide for its nest. The bird mounts toward heaven, but it always keeps its eyes upon the outlook for its prey. It soars that it may flash downward with full swoop upon the object of its desires." So with some sinful men. With their honeyed words they seem to be mounting toward heaven to live nearer to God. They are mounting thus in order that they are not mounting thus toward heaven as the unfaithful servant of the parable.

But not only does the worldly wise man incur loss of property when his Lord comes and reckons with him. He loses the society and eternal companionship of those dear to him. He seems to assume that, no matter how selfishly he may live or what sins he may commit, he shall be able to live forever with the same kind of good people with whom he has associated on earth. He seems to think, because the Master of the parable has let him work side by side with his faithful servants here for a time, that when he comes back he will still let faithful servants live side by side with him. Now, this is not to be. Not only did the Master take away from his unfaithful servant his talent and tear away his hypocritical pretenses to virtue, but the Master also debarred that unfaithful servant forevermore associating with those who had been faithful to their trusts.

If you turn to the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew you will find the that unfaithful servant forevermore associating with those who had been faithful to their trusts.

If you turn to the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew, you will find that Jesus taught this fact beyond all peradventure. After Christ had told the parable of the unfaithful servant with the dramatic power of a true orator he suddenly changed his illustration into the scene of a courtroom. Here is the open court of the east. Here are the multitudes of all ages assembled. There is the throne upon which God will sit as the Divine Judge, who shall pass upon each mortal life. After each servant has given an account of his stewardship the Divine Judge will pronounce the sentence. Listen to the awful ring of those words: "And before him shall be gathered all nations, and he shall separate them one from another as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats, and he shall set the sheep on his right hand and the goats on his life." Oh, yes; there will be an awful separation some day! The faithful servants must be separated from the bad. That means, "If I do not render a good account of my stewardship, God will separate me in eternity from living with those who have been faithful to their trust."

But I must not talk about eternal separations unless I tell you a conversation that would probably go on between the faithful servant and the unfaithful one before the master of the parable returned and demanded an accounting for the trusts which he faithful one before the master of the parable returned and demanded an accounting for the trusts which he had committed to them. The news was carried ahead to the three servants of the parable. The messengers came to the town where these servants lived and said: "The master is coming. He will soon be here. You must make preparations to receive him. He is coming very soon."

At once the different servants went

him. He is coming very soon."

At once the different servants went forth and gathered in their talents, or, to use the business parlance, the moneys which they had invested. On the night before the master came these three servants were seated to gether before the great fireplace of the master's sitting room. One of these servants turned to another and said: "John, what have you made with your talents?" "Well," answered John, "you know the master gave me five talents. Of course that is a big lot of money to invest, but I kept lot of money to invest, but I kept busy. I knew he would come soon. And as the result of my labors I have gained five talents more. I shall de-light to give them all to him, for he has been a kind and loving master

"What have you done, Peter?"
"Well," answered Peter, "I did not

"What have you done, Peter?"
"Well," answered Peter, "I did not have as many talents as you, but I took what he gave, and I went to work for his dear name. He gave me two talents, and I earned for him two talents more. I shall be proud to give them to him. He has been a good master to me." Good, good," says John. "How pleased the master will be with your work, Peter! I know he will be just as pleased with your labors as he is with mine. We have both done what we could."

Just to the rear of Peter and John sat the third servant. I think his name was Judas. Judas was sitting very still. Peter says to Judas, "Well, Judas, what have you done for the master?" Judas looks up. He gruffly answers: "Nothing. To tell the truth, I know that I ought to have labored for the master as you fellows did, but I wanted to have a good time while the master was away, and I had it. I think, however, I have done better than you two. I have eaten my cake, and I still have it. What I am going to do when he comes is to throw all the blame on him. Then he will feel ashamed to punish me." Just then the three servants jumped to their feet. The cry was taken up outside: "Make way! Open the door! The master is coming. Render ye servants an account of your stewardship. Open the door and let the master in."

My brother, do you think that conversation which I have been telling you was merely a fictitious one? Do you believe the unfaithful servant would ever have another chance to you was merely a fictitious one? Do you believe the unfaithful servant would ever have another chance to make a proper use of the master's talent? Deep down in your heart you know whether Christ will grant you another chance for salvation beyond the grave. You may say, "The unfaithful servant in the parable did not have another chance, but I shall." All that I can say is: "If the unfaithful servant did not, neither will you. If the unfaithful servant did have another chance, then you will have." Remember this is not my parable, but Christ's. You alone must apply the lesson of this parable in order to realize the eternal destiny of your soul. May the Holy Spirit help you to realize it in Christ's way, and then you will give up your indolent lives and go to work for him who has endowed you with the talents for which you will have to give account.

The Star of Empire.

Captain Barber, who built a steamer bearing the attractive name of the Northern Light, at Athabasca Landing, one hundred miles north of Edmonton, last summer, found that he could not get her into Lesser Slave Lake, where it was intended she should ply, because of low water in the river. He has been at Ottawa asking that navigation be improved. It is said it will not cost much to make the needed improvements. Thus, while those who stay at home endeavor to build up their part of the country, others are ever pushing the bounds of civilization farther north, until soon it will be as easy to spend a holiday on Lesser Slave Lake as it now is to travel to Lake Temagami. A BOXING KITTEN.

Its Funny "Fistic" Antics Made a Big

The proprietor of a small store in New York owns a black kitten that cultivates a habit of squatting on its haunches, like a bear or a kangaroo, and then sparring with its forepaws as if it had taken lessons from a pugilist. The Telegram tells how the kitten conquered a big dog.

A gentleman took into the store an enormous black dog, half Newfoundland, half collie, fat, good natured and intelligent. The tiny kitten, instead of bolting at once for shelter, retreated a and put its "fists" in an attitude of defiance.

was intensely amusing. It reminded one of Jack the Giant Killer preparing to demolish the giant.

Slowly and without a sign of excitability the huge dog walked as far as his chain would allow him and gazed intently at the kitten and its odd posture. Then, as the comicality of the situation struck him, he turned his head and shoulders around to the spectators, and if animal ever laughed in the world that dog assuredly did so then and there. He neither barked nor growled, but indulged in a low chuckle, while mouth and eyes beamed with merriment.

the Native Dishes That Are

In Jamaica, as everywhere there are two ways to do things. There is the beaten track of the tourist to follow, with its hotels of varying excellence, conventional drives and all that sort of thing. To know the Island and the allurements of its ingratiating tropical beauty, however, to appreciate the double interest of British resident customs, together with the quaint oddities of the negro native life "next to the earth," one must travel a different course. Courtesy to visitors to the island is everywhere manifest. There are native dishes that no hotel on the island can make to taste so good. There I learned the indescribable deliciousness of a properly deviled Ja-maica black crab. There were served curries that would make a habitue of Delmonico's sit up and take notice turtle, real turtle, prepared with a delleacy to delight an epicure, and native oysters that Jamaicans facetiously say "grow on trees." Tropical fruits in all their fragrance and juicy prime gave an intimation of the productive possi-bilities of the island. The green tinted Jamaica orange, thin of skin and richly juicy, grape fruit of superior quality. the avocada pear, oily in composition and nutty in flavor; pineapples—in Ja-maica they cut them in half horizontally and eat them with a spoon-man-goes, akee, breadfruit, ochra, choco, yams, and more yams, were there to the inexperienced palate.-Travel Magazine.

The owner of this type of hogs usually ties a stone to its tail to keep it from overbalancing and breaking its neck while running. If the stone is too heavy, it will pull the skin over its eyes, and it will moonshine as any other critter fur ten miles around, and I was fool 'nuff to feel proud of the fact.

"When I was married, fifteen years ago, my wife thought she could reform me. Mebbe I went a leetle light fur a year or so, but the reformin' didn't reform. I'd promise and promise, but as soon as I got out with a crowd I'd fill up. The only good thing about my never raised a row at home. I sim ply wanted to git home and to bed, and if left alone I'd sleep it off by next day. I had been sober fur three months when town meetin' day come along. When I got ready to leave bome the old woman said:

"'Zeb, you've been livin' like a decent human bein' fur some time past. Are you comin' home drunk or sober tonight?

"'Sober as a stump,' I replied, not fearin' myself at all. 'Why not let town meetin' slide?'

"'I couldn't. I've promised to be thar to vote.' 'Thar'll be heaps and heaps of whisky thar, won't they?' she asked. "'Fur shore. But don't you be afeared fur me. I give you my word that I won't drink nuthin' stronger'n lemon "That was a lively town meetin', with whisky flowin' like water, and, though I held out agin it fur an hour or so. I had to take a drink at last. Then follered a second and a third, and by night I was roarin' drunk and fightin' everybody. They started to take me home in a cart, but when a mile from my cabin I got out and wouldn't go any further and was left there. was a bright and beautiful moonlight night. I could jest remember that How I got home after leavin' the cart I never could recall. I didn't know when I reached here and fell down in front of the house. The fust thing I knowed was that somebody was pullin' me around in a mighty rough way opened my eyes and sot up, and thar was the old woman on the doahstep, and between me and her was two b'ars. They would look at her and then at me, and it was their haulin' me around that had roused me up. I wasn't sober yit, you understand, but ald reason things out after a fashion.

"Why don't you git the gun and shoot the b'ars?' I called to the old wo turned from her to me and begun man, but she never 'peared to notice The b'ars did, however, They sort o' hossplay. One of ther fetched me a sort of cuff on the i.r that stretched me out and made may head ring fur a week arter, and then they begun playin' ball with my body. I knowed them fur b'ars, and I knowed that it would be all play until I tried to git away from them or fit back.

Well, suh, I can't begin to tell you what them thar b'ars put me through that night. They rolled me over and over: they dragged me about feet first and head first; they pulled me down to the pigpen and then pulled me back; they used their teeth and claws only in play, but they left marks behind that didn't go away fur two months. Every time they rested I called out to the old woman, but she wouldn't answer. Sometimes she looked at me in a pityin' way, and sometimes she was laughin' at the way I was tossed about. The rifle was on its hooks in the house and loaded, and in that moonlight she could have shot one of the varmints through the heart, but wouldn't move to do it. "I reckon them b'ars sported with me fur half an hour or so befo' they had had 'nuff of play. By that time I was in rags and jest as sober as you are now. I have thought some of takin' out a patent on that adventure of mine. That drunk orter have lasted me the best part of three days, but the b'ars cured me of it in about forty minits. Seein' the old woman would do nothin', my line was to play dead and hope the varmints would git tired and go away. They got tired of the play, but they wasn't through with me then. They began to growl and show sign of madness, and I called out to the old woman: "'Mary, can't you see that they all are dun gittin' mad? "'I kin,' she said, speakin' fur the first time and speakin' mighty keerlessly at that.

"They all will begin to bite and claw in airnest now.' "They will fur shore." "'Hain't yo' gwine to do anything to help me?

"'Nothin' tall, Zeb. A man who can't stay sober had better be dead, and it don't make no difference whether he falls from a tree or gits clawed up by b'ars.'

"'But yo' wouldn't see yo' own hus band perish befo' you' eyes, I take it?' "'I'll think it over. If yo' are gwine to live on, yo' got to keep sober arter this. It will be well fer yo' to have some scars to p'int to. Arter yo' have een half killed mebbe I'll do sun hin', but it does seem pizen mean to irive the b'ars away when they're hav-n' so much fun.' "Jest then the old he b'ar took a long growl that made chills shake me all over. He knowed me, and I knowed im. He was a b'ar I had bunted fer three years, and he had three of my bullets in his body at that very minait. Yes, suh, that critter knowed me fer Zeb White, the man who never yit and mercy on a b'ar, and he seen that his time had come to git even. He bauled off and gin me a swat that almost stove in my ribs and then bit me twice. His mate pitched in, and fur the next two minuits I was mauled about between 'em like a rag doll. It was no use of my tryin' to make a fight fur it. They was all over me all the time, and even if I had a knife it wouldn't have helped me out.

"What sent the pesky critters off at last was the old woman shootin' down the he b'ar, but I was left in a power ful sad state. I had skeercely a stitch of clothes left on me, and I was one mass of bites and claw marks. I had to be dragged into the house and boosted into bed, and I didn't tech toe to the floor fer three weeks to come. I hadn't any bones broke, but the claw marks and bites of a b'ar don't heal fur a long time. Durin' all the time I was in bed and sufferin' the old woman kept whisky under my nose. I had the scent of it until I pos'tively hated it and begged her to take it away. The hull thing taken together worked a cure so thorough that, though I run a moonshine still fur three years, I never tasted a drop of the stuff."
"Did Mrs. White have anything to say to you after you got better?" I "Never a word," he answered, "What was the use? If all that b'ar play wouldn't stop a man from makin' a fool of himself ag'in, then words would be thrown away. No, suh, she why I reckon she's jest the nicest and best wife in this yere state of Tennes M. QUAD. see."

Swedish Woolwork a New and Pretty

This work should be done either or canvas or serge in wools, the usual tapestry wool being quite suitable. The outlining, which in all this work separates each detail or section of the design, should be done in colored silk couched down in contradistinction to the example worked entirely in silk seen in Fig. 2. This book cover is sectioned off in stem stitch, couching being used only in the lines taken across a somewhat wide satin stitch detail.

In woolwork the silk lightens it up, and filoselle, used as you cut it, is the best for couching.

A great many colors can be used in Swedish work, and it is best always to outline in a different shade or color from that used in the satin stitch.

Conventional designs alone are suita ble for this work, and the class of de sign is well exemplified in Fig. 1. Broken up into sections, these designs are not very unlike those sometimes found in Egyptian work.

In Fig. 2 three shades of heliotrope three of salmon, one of blue, one fawn, one green, are used, while in the border some black bars over the worked lines

The satin stitch throughout is worked either horizontally or perpendicularly never slanting.

Most of the colors are used in the border, which has three lines of rope, Lifeboat Crews Rescue Eleven of the Survivors.

Gallant Attempts to Reach III-Fated Passengers In Mountainous Seas-Eye Witness Gives Graphic Account-Prince Consort Dares the Storm-Heartrending Scenes-Battered Bodies Washed Ashore.

Hook of Holland, Feb. 23.-After over thirty hours of almost incessant efforts the Dutch lifeboat men have succeeded in rescuing eleven surviyors on the afterpart of the British steamer Berlin, which went ashore ors on the afterpart of the British steamer Berlin, which went ashore here Thursday morning. Buffeted and driven back time after time, the sturdy Dutchmen refused to relax their attempts to rescue the handful of shipwrecked persons, and throughout last night and this morning they launched their boat repeatedly, only to be foiled by the mountainous seas. In the early afternoon the lifeboat again went out. The receding tide and some improvement in the weather gave better hope of success, and after a hard tussle with the seas the few persons still living were safely taken off at 3.30 p.m.

Prince Consort At the Scene.

Prince Consort At the Scene.

Prince Consort At the Scene.

Prince Henry of the Netherlands, the Prince Consort, arrived here yesterday and twice went out in a steam pilot boat to as near the wreck as it was possible to approach. Subsequently the Prince visited the building which is being used as a morgue and passed down the line of white-draped figures, stopping with bowed head for a few minutes before the body of a fair-haired child.

fair-haired child.

Bodies Battered Beyond Recognition.

The straggling little village of the Hook of Holland was filled with anxious relatives of the crew of the Berlin, and heartrending scenes are witnessed at the improvised mortuary, where the 35 bodies which already have been washed up are lying. Many of these are battered beyond recognition, and some are without heads, and others without arms or legs.

Eye Witness Tells Stary

Eye Witness Tells Story. Lendon, Feb. 23.—The Great East-ern Railway Co.'s steamer Clacton re-turned to Harwich from the Hook of Holland. An officer of the Clacton yesterday gave a graphic account the wreck as follows:—

Tremendous Sea.

"We found the Berlin broadside on "We found the Berlin broadside on at the north pier end and we at once set to work in an endeavor to succor the stranded steamer. A tremendous sea was running. The waves were 40 feet high, for the tide was flood and a fierce gale was glowing bang on shore. We got in close to the rocks but nearly went on them ourselves, and had to put about in order to escape the fate of the Berlin. It was impossible for us to get out a life boat, as it would have been smashed to pieces in the raging waters.

Victims Raised a Cheer,

Victims Raised a Cheer. "We could see people in groups on board the Berlin, some on decks and some in the smoke room on the fore-part of the vessel. As we approached in an attempt to rescue them the perin an attempt to rescue them the persons on board raised a cheer. Apparently the best of discipline prevailed on board. All the passengers had been furnished with life belts and had gathered on the lee side, endeavoring to shelter themselves from the awful seas which were breaking over the vessel, submerging her decks, funnels, and almost her masts, at times hiding her entirely from view. When within a hundred yards of the Berlin we threw out all our life belts with lines attached, but they failed to reach her.

Vain Fight For Life.

Vain Fight For Life.

"It was impossible to take a line on board the stranded steamer, as nothing could have lived in the terrible waves. When the Berlin broke in two the passengers and crew were swept off her deeks in batches and drowned within a few yards of safety. We could hear their shouts for help, but could do nothing to assist them. We saw scores of people struggling in the water, many clinging for brief periods to floating wreckage. But in their benumbed state they were unable to long resist the tremendous force of the waves and dropped off one by one."

100 Lives Last?

Johnstown, Pa., Feb. 23.—Train No. 21, known as the Chicago and St. Louis Express, is reported to have gone over an enbankment at Mineral Point, eight miles east of this city. A relief train bearing all vailable physicians left here at 12.47. Officials refuse to allow newspaper men to accompany the train.

It is reported that 100 lives have been last.

Botha en Top. London, Feb. 23.—(C. A. P.)—A Johannesburg despatch says that Gen. Boths, who upheld the cause of the Utilanders before the war, is almost sure to be asked to form a new Ministry. He is the author of the Boer moderate policy which made the Hetwelk policy victorious. It is noteworthy that the Rand polled an anti-Trogressive majority of votes.

Two More Wrecks. London, Feb. 22.—Two steamer wrecks were reported late last night by passing vessels.

One off Slamborough Head in the North Sea and the other off Beachy Head in the English Channel.

No details have been received.

The weather is still stormy, especially in the North Sea.

WRECK OF THE BERLIN CANFIELD POISON CASE Has Resolution Roused

Further Evidence in Support of Crown's Theory.

Prisoner Alleged to Have Asked Lawyer How She Would Share if Husband Died Without Will-Strychnine Found in Dead Man's Trunk -Suicide Will Be the Defence-Poison Was Purchased,

Cayuga, Feb. 23.-Interest in the Perkins case is at fever heat. In fact Perkins case is at fever heat. In fact the public feeling has had not a little to do with the affair. The arrest of Mrs. Perkins, it is said, was at least precipitated by a movement on the part of a section of the community, to petition the Attorney-General's a simple process."

"Is the apparatus used for purification of Mrs. Perkins, it is said, was at least precipitated by a movement on the part of a section of the community, to petition the Attorney-General's a simple process." the public feeling has had not a lit-tle to do with the affair. The arrest of Mrs. Perkins, it is said, was at least precipitated by a movement on the part of a section of the commun-ity to petition the Attorney-General's Department to hurry up and do some-thing. Inspector Greer had been do-ing a lot of useful work, as the evi-dence to be submitted will show, but he had been doing it quietly, if none the less thoroughly, and neighbors were getting tired of waiting for a climax.

Evidence Circumstantial.

Evidence Circumstantial.

While the case against the accused is wholly circumstantial the authorities claim to be justified in placing Mrs. Perkins in custody.

At the inquest into Perkins' death Dr. Kerr, the family physician, stated that he knew of no strychnine being about the house. The poison book at the local drug store, however, shows that Rolph Carrig, brether of Mrs. Perkins, purchased a quantity in October. It is said, too, that strychnine was found in the trunk owned by the dead man. On this the defence will, it is believed, base an argument that deceased ended his own life. In rebuttal the crown will produce witnesses from Welland to show that Perkins was in good health and good spirits when he lived there and when he left there to go home for Ckristings.

Line Crown Will Take. Line Crown Will Take.

It was learned yesterday that the erown will endeavor to show that Mrs. Perkins has been buying poison for years in St. Thomas, Windsor and Detroit. While in Welland Detective Greer interviewed the persons with whom deceased boarded. On one excasion Perkins remarked to his boarding-house mistress that he was al-ing-house mistress that he was al-ways well when away from home. When home he was invariably trou-bled with his stomach. It is the crown's endeavor to connect the al-leged purchase of the poison which has been going on for years with Per-kins' statement.

New Piece of Evidence.

A new piece of evidence will be furnished by a lawyer, who says that a short time before Perkins came home Mrs. Perkins enquired of him how she would share should Perkins die without making a will. She said he would not make a will and she was afraid he would die suddenly. The lawyer told her she would get $1.000 insurance and the would get. $1,000 insurance and about $3,000 in property.

Perkins' father died under somewhat similar circumstances. It is said that Perkins got about $6,000 in property from the estate.

YET MORE SENSATIONS.

Mrs. Thaw's Life To Be Still Further Probed-Trial Will Cost Half a Million Dollars.

a Million Dollars.

New York, Feb. 23.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has three days to rest and prepare for a continuation of the ordeal which she is undergoing at the hands of District Attroney Jerome. The Thaw trial was adjourned Thursday night until Monday morning, after Mrs. Thaw had spent the entire day on the stand under a searching flaying cross-examination at the hands of the district attorney. On Monday morning she will again take the stand and there is considerable question whether even on Monday the district atterney will be through with her.

More Sensations to Come:

Her associations with both White and Thaw after her return from Europe in 1903; the interviews with Abe Hummel when was drawn the famous affidavit which she has denied she had any part in framing; the European trip of 1904; the incident of the Cumberland Hotel and other incidents with Thaw, following her return; her marriage and the subsequent events—up to the fatal night on the Madison Square Garden—none of these has been inquired into on cross-examination. It would seem that the climax of sensationalism had been reached Thursday, but it is said the district attorney expects to bring out on Menday incidents of at least as sensational a character as those of Thursday.

The trial will have cost more than half a million of dollars before it is ended.

Imish Cattle.

London, Feb. 23.—(C. A. P.)—Professor Campbell of the Department of Agriculture is informed by the Irish congested districts commission that the outlook for the Irish cattle trade is very serious, having regard to importation of Argentine and Canadian cattle. There is, however, net the danger, from Canadian cattle many fear ed, because Canadians will not be satisfied to sell their stores. Irishmen ought to have farms the size of Canadians.
