THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

CHAPTER XXXII.
Miss North's story.
ALLOWING that Dawson Slade was fated to tumble down the Giant's Breastplate and sprain his leg, fracture his skull, and otherwise injure himself, Fate showed singular consideration in permitting Dame Hester to be his nurse; there wasn't a better nurse in the world; there couldn't have been more comfortable quarters, not even in a hospital, which we, some of us, know is a rich man's paradise.

As the doctors had said times out of number, if anything could pull him through, Dame Hester would do it, and she had pulled him through. But the process of pulling him through must have been an extremely trying one, for if ever man looked as if he had been passed through some elaborate piece of crushing and squeezing machinery, that man was Dawson Slade, as he sat in the great armchair which had been brought up into Ethel's little sitting room, and which seemed to swallow him up in its capacious arms as if he was a mere strippling.

Changed! Had he walked down St. James' Street in his present condition, he would have passed his most intimate acquaintances without chance of recognition. He looked—he was a tall man—as if he was seven feet long; all the flesh had left his bones, his hands, always white, were now as the driven snow, with the veins distinctly drawn, as if they had been traced over in blue ink; a beautiful hand it looked for all its thinness. His face was white and drawn, his mustache looking almost black by contrast, and his eyes gleaming with that abstracted, weary indifference to everything and everybody, which had made the dame almost give up in despair at times. 'For my dear,' she said to Ethel, with whom she talked day and night of her patient; 'for my dear, when they take to looking like that they generally die. But he shan't die, though he seems to want to!' And he hadn't died, although the shadow seemed still to cling to him, as he sat staring at the fire with his clasped hands lying listlessly on his dressing gown.

It was this same weary indifference, as to his condition which had alarmed the doctor, a great man, who came down from London every other day at a fabulous cost, and who spoke and looked as if every moment was worth at least a thousand pounds to him.

'Rouse him, my good woman; but Slade would not be roused, although Louis tried every subject under the sun, and even tried dropping things about the room, and letting the light through the window across the bed—two things which of old would have brought a scathingly sarcastic rebuke from his master's lips; but they failed now to exert a groan.

Louis brought letters from the chambers in London and laid them on the bed; his master merely swept them off again with a feeble hand. Nothing seemed to excite his interest, or to rouse him, as they phrased it, and Louis was in despair.

for the poker—almost excited, miss, I do assure you.

'This is good news, indeed,' said Ethel, a faint flush of pleasure coming on her pale face—much paler than when we saw it last, and the dame sank on to the chair with an exclamation of delight. 'And he is sitting there looking at it, is he?' asked Ethel.

Louis shook his head.

'No, miss, he wouldn't let me uncover it. I wish I had, and he'd managed to throw the poker at me; it would have done him good. If I could only once get him angry, and hear him say some of his sharp, quiet sayings, as he used to, miss, I should be right down fit to jump out of my skin for joy,' and the good fellow rubbed his hands together and nodded emphatically.

'Perhaps he'll ask to have it uncovered, and might take a fancy for finishing it. Pity you didn't unwrap it, Mr. Louis.'

'Could not venture quite so far, dame,' said Louis.

'I didn't know Mr. Slade was an artist,' said Ethel, gently.

'My master can do almost anything, miss,' said Louis, with quiet pride. 'Especially in painting and music. This portrait of Miss Woodleigh is as like as two peas. Quite a speaking likeness, as you'll say when you see it.'

Ethel laughed, and looked up from the bowl of soup she was pouring out.

'I have never seen Miss Woodleigh, Louis,' she said.

'Indeed, miss!' said Louis, surprised. 'What a strange thing! I should have thought that there wasn't a single person in these parts but had seen her.'

'I have not for one,' said Ethel, quietly, 'and Mr. Slade plays and sings, too. He must be very clever.'

'That's it, miss, and don't care a snap about it. There isn't a thing he can't do if he sets his mind to it, but that's just what he never did, and it seems now as if he never would again. Oh, miss, he broke off suddenly, looking at her eagerly.

'What is it, Louis?' she asked. 'Have you thought of something?'

'Yes, miss, a thought has just crossed my mind. It's singular we haven't thought of it before. We haven't tried any music on him. There is a piano in the next room, and you are so clever at it, miss, begging your pardon.'

'Oh, but it would only annoy Mr. Slade,' said Ethel, gently.

The Evening Chit-Chat.

By RUTH CAMERON

I was reading in a new thought book the other day of the importance of going to sleep in a good frame of mind because the thoughts that dominate the mind at the time of falling asleep, the physiologists declare, dominate it most of the night.

I am not consciously a new thoughtist.

Although I realize of course that there is a great deal that is interesting and helpful in the rejuvenation of the doctrine of the supreme power of mind over matter, I don't think it is the whole of the Truth.

I recognize it as one of the facets of the diamond but not by any means the diamond.

Just as I believe that osteopathy and Fletcherism and sleeping out-of-doors and all the other health ideas that have come to us lately, are each valuable but no one alone all-sufficient.

But new thoughtist or not, I am deeply impressed with this idea of going to sleep in the right frame of mind.

If you were to think of some worry or difficulty steadily all the morning or afternoon it would undoubtedly affect your physical state to a certain extent. Even the most conservative and old school doctors admit that.

Now if by going to sleep in any mood one continues it half the night, as the physiologists assert, it certainly behoves us to take mighty good care in what mood we go to sleep.

It is more important to prepare the mind for sleep than the body. The mental bath is even more necessary than the physical one. "Saturate your mind with pleasant memories and with dreams of great expectations. Just imagine yourself the man or woman you long to become, filled with happiness, prosperity and power," says Drison Sweet Marden in the new thought book to which I referred.

And again—"The devotional attitude on retiring to sleep is of very great value, inasmuch as it tends to soothe, calm and reassure the mind, to destroy all fear, worry and anxious thoughts and to put one in tune with higher, nobler thoughts."

And to these excellent suggestions I make bold to add another little one. Why not just as you feel slipping off, say some fragment of beautiful and noble poetry that you especially admire, or some bit that has the peace thought—to borrow the language of the "new thoughtists"—very strong within it.

As for example—"Sleep sweet within this quiet room My guest who e'er thou art, And let no mournful yesterdays Disturb thy peaceful heart. Nor let to-morrow fright thy breast With dreams of coming ill. Thy Maker is thy changeless friend, His love surrounds thee still. Now please don't just say, "That sounds fairly reasonable," but go the one step further that makes all the difference in the world. Add will to thought. In other words—try it to-night.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases. It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.—take the advice received and be well.

Fads and Fashions.

The waist line is rising again.

All the old laces are in great vogue.

A great many separate coats are seen.

Jumper blouse styles are increasing in favour.

The touch of black is still a feature of fashion.

There are manifold indications of the return of the Empire.

Dark blue and black are favorite costume colors for coat suits.

Waists of black, chiffon, marquisettes and voiles are prominent.

New toques and turbans generally have sharply upturned brims.

Among the new shades for this fall is "pale nord," a grayish blue.

The mushroom shape returns very strongly in fall millinery styles.

In the new coat suits the coats range in length from 26 to 40 inches.

Fall tailor-mades very strongly reflect the "hobble" skirt idea of Paris.

Plain embroidered chiffon and voile are very fashionable over changeable taffeta.

Two-toned plumes and enormous pink poppies trim some of the latest hats.

on the left side and drop at the front and back.

The narrow silhouette is being adhered to with every prospect of its continuation.

Lace, chiffon and marquisette are extremely fashionable for dressy fall costumes.

Velvet and velveteen give promise of being very fashionable for the more dressy coats.

A handsome costume of soft blue chiffon is embroidered with a conventional design in white crystal beads.

Black velvet hat facing is, so report has it, to be even more popular on autumn hats than it has been in summer millinery.

For early fall wear with the dressy toilet middle-aged women are going to use the black chantilly coat lined with chiffon and silk.

Tortoise shell increases in favor. Card cases, vanity boxes, as well as lognettes, parasol handles and buckles are made of it.

The separate coat is a sharp rival of the coat suit, but it is safe to say that each will be worn without displacing or interfering with the other.

Fancy gauzes printed in colored figures, Persian silk, brocades and pompadour are used to trim plain satin and are combined with velveting fabrics.

Odd-shaped rugs and scarfs of marabou and ostrich in combination are seen. Some of these show a combination of colors as well as materials.

Among the most striking trimmings for fall gowns are embroideries done in very heavy silks and the metallic threads. Some are enriched by jewels.

The new waists to be worn with tailored suits as well as the waists of costumes will be of chiffon or marquisette in dark tones which match the suit.

Types of the narrow skirt now the vogue in Paris are seen on this side of the Atlantic but the most pronounced effects are seen often in suits than in dresses.

The jumper or the magyar style is one of the most favored for waists, and they have a pleasant sleeve with some kind of a shallow yoke of lace or embroidery.

Broad-brimmed coarse straw salloors trimmed in scarfs of coarse linen embroidered in black, white, gold or color are much in evidence at the French summer resorts.

Satin heels with satin-covered French mules are shown. Usually the satin is embroidered at the toe. The mules are finished with a rosette of ribbon a little to one side.

Swimmer Badly Bitten by Dog Fish.

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 9.—Attacked Sunday by a school of dog fish, Fred H. Mallory, of New York, is under treatment here to-day for severe wounds.

Mallory and John Wallace, also of New York, have been cruising in their motor boat, Conqueror, along the coast of Maine. Diving off the boat Sunday afternoon, while two miles off Isoboro, Mallory was surrounded by the fish. His cries attracted his companion, Wallace, who put out after him, and brought him ashore bleeding badly and nearly exhausted from his battle with the fish.

Kaiser and Veterans.

Speaking at a dinner held here recently in connection with a parade of veterans, the Kaiser said:—

"Thirty-one years have flown since I, as a young lieutenant in 1879, took part in my first imperial manoeuvres under William the Great. That was here. The awe-inspiring figure of the great Emperor was surrounded by the great halo of his victories. The empire was still young and just entering on its period of development. The thorough knowledge which my father had of the traditions of this corps was the means of introducing me to its history.

"Since that time these august lords passed away and have become historical heroic figures veiled in the legend, but the spirit which these men of the Prussian Army implanted in this corps has not departed. The Army Corps, which I congratulate on its splendid appearance, on parade, has shown to me that it is fully conscious of its traditions. The sight of 14,000 men, reservists and war veterans, brought clearly before my eyes the history of the achievements of the corps in the last wars.

"When I pass through the country round Metz in the spring and behold the monuments to the different regiments, past and present unite as an earnest of the future. The sight of the Army Corps is an assurance that if necessary it will do its duty as it did under my grandfather. The First Army Corps! Hurrah, hurrah, hurrah!"—Reuter.

Big Larceny at Grand Falls.

On the 3rd inst. at Grand Falls a man named Sparkes, a workman with the A. N. D. Co., was the victim of a glaring piece of thievery. During his absence some person broke into his shack and stole from his trunk, which was broken open by the thief a Bank of Montreal Savings Bank book, calling for $350, and $60 in notes. Suspicion fell on a young man, a resident of St. John's, who next day abruptly left the place and the facts were communicated to the police department. Armed with a warrant Const. Tobin yesterday arrested the suspect on the street and to-day he appeared in court. He disclaims any knowledge of the theft and was released on his own recognizance in $500.

Another Larceny Reported. Parties who arrived here by yesterday's Bruce express say that another larceny of money of considerable magnitude recently occurred at Bishop's Falls.

Dangerous Runaway.

To-day a horse owned by Mr. C. Lester and driven by a young man named Hearn took fright on Hamilton Street and dashed at great speed down that thoroughfare and New Gower Street. Hearn jumped from the cart near the S. A. Citadel and narrowly escaped serious injury. The horse was stopped at Adelaide Street. In its flight people scattered in all directions to avoid injury.

Personal Notes.

The many friends of Miss Edith Scufres will be pleased to know that she has secured a most lucrative position in a prominent office in St. John's. Both Miss Scufres and her sister, Miss Emma, came to St. John's from Bonne Bay last fall, just to spend the winter months; but seeming to like city life they determined to obtain positions and remain for a longer period. We wish the Misses Scufres welcome and success during their stay with us.

The Ferment in India.

We commence publishing to-day two articles on "The Ferment in India," as (1) seen by Indians and (2) as seen by the Times.

Britain's myriad voices call "Sons be welded each and all into one Imperial whole, One with Britain, heart and soul! One life, one flag, one feet, one throne, Britons, hold your own!"

What Tennyson sang in the lines—undoubtedly represents the trend of sentiment at home and in the Colonial States of the Empire. There has been a gradual awakening, and probably never were Britons at home and over the Sea so closely bound together in heart and soul.

But the Empire does not consist only of the British Isles and the Colonies—there are vast dominions inhabited by subjects of the Empire, alien in blood and creed, and greatest among these is the vast dependency of India with its three hundred millions of people. Of these 140 millions are Hindus and among this setting population a spirit of unrest has been gaining greater and greater turbulence.

The Empire Gazette in its August issue sets forth the opinion of one school of thought: "India was won by the sword; is held by the sword; and if English democracy is to continue the mastery that our race has exercised there since the battle of Plassey, democracy must suddenly face the sudden necessity of again drawing the sword."

Now this rule of iron and blood may

Contractors Big Job.

Yesterday Mr. C. Lester finished the contract of digging out the basement for the new clothing factory to be erected just west of the Telegram Office. He had 20 men and horses at the work, and took out 8,500 loads of material and blasted away 500 yds of rock without the slightest damage to person or property. Two fine wells which had been in use in years gone by were found on the property, and others also sprang up when the rock was being cut away. All is now ready for trenches, piers and footings. The building which will be raised on the foundation will be of concrete and will be one hundred feet high at the rear. The work of excavation was rushed inside of contract time. The contract for the building will be awarded next week.

Upper Is'd Cove Notes

Mrs. Hollands, who was spending the week-end with her daughter (Mrs. Rusted) at the Parsonage, left by this evening's train for St. John's.

Rev. C. Carpenter and family, who were spending a few days with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Rusted, left on Thursday to join the s.s. Rosalind en route for Peterboro, Ont., where the rev. gentleman will labour in future. Miss A. Hollands also left a few days previous for Toronto.

Mr. N. McCarthy, the R. C. teacher, began work to-day. During the vacation he was on a trip to Boston and spent a delightful time visiting friends.

Mr. S. Thomey was on a visit here in the interests of the Singer Sewing Machine Co.

Messrs. Simmonds, Davis and others were here during the week buying fish; $4.80 was given first for talqual, but the price advanced to $5 and $6 later in the week.

Last week was quite a busy one for the shore fishermen; bait was fairly plentiful and an average catch of 2 qts. was obtained.

A number of Labrador fishermen arrived by the Invermore to-day. They will seek employment on Bell Island and elsewhere to offset the poor fishery at the Labrador.

The hay crop is safely harvested. It has been an exceptionally good one.

Collision Between Harbour Launches.

About 150 yards off the King's Wharf shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon a collision occurred between Job Bros. & Co's. steam launch and that of the H. M. S. Brilliant. The warship's launch, with a party of officers and others on board, was coming across the harbour at full speed and heading directly for the King's landing, as Job's launch stemmed towards Pitt's lower premises to take a lighter in tow. Those on board each thought they would pass without mishap, but evidently did not gauge the distance correctly, and Job's launch crashed into the warship's, the gunwhale of which was smashed and some other slight damage done. Job's launch received no damage.

You can't dodge them all. Mosquito bites, sunburn, bruises, skin injuries. Some of them will attack you this season sure. Have a tin of Davis' Menthol Salve on hand. 25 cents.

KEEP MINARD'S LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

Important Dual Anniversary.

To-day the towers of the R. C. Cathedral are lined with bunting and at noon the joy bells from the towers rang out a merry peal. This is in memory of the consecration of the sacred edifice, which occurred on the 9th Sept., 1855, during the regime of the late reverend Bishop Mullock. At the consecration there attended the late Archbishop Hughes of New York, who preached an eloquent sermon; Rt. Rev. Dr. Charbonnel of Toronto, Rt. Rev. Dr. McKinnon, and Rev. Frs. McLeod and McNierny. At night the Cathedral was illuminated, there were fireworks displayed all over the city and sealing guns kept volleying until midnight.

To-day is also the anniversary of the capture of Sebastopol by the British and French troops. This important victory for the allies broke down the stubborn resistance of the Russians and was the principal factor in bringing hostilities to a close.

C. C. C. Band Dance.

The C. C. C. Band will hold their Dance in the British Hall on Tuesday next, Sept. 13th, the eve of the last holiday. No doubt they will be greeted with a large crowd of dancers, as it is just the season for a good dance. The next day being a holiday, one can either rest or go out of town. It is the intention to start the dance on time and have it over at a reasonable hour. It is hoped, therefore, that the splendid ball room of the British Hall will be filled to overflowing. The Cadet Band is deserving of success considering the amount of work they do during a year for all objects. The prices of tickets are: Gents 70c. and Ladies 40c., which can be had at Hutton's Music Store or the members of the Band.*

Sought the Reward.

When the body of the man was discovered at Pouch Cove it set at least one man in Torbay to thinking how he could get the reward which the captain of the Lunenburg banker who lost a man on the 3rd of August at Torbay said he would give if the body was recovered. The captain left his address and this worthy of Torbay went to Pouch Cove yesterday and insisted that the remains found were those of the Lunenburg fisherman. His little game was seen through and he was not noticed, though he waited until the remains were interred.

The Body Interred.

After leaving here yesterday for Pouch Cove, where the body of a man had been found floating in the water, Supt. Grimes hurried to the scene and arrived there at noon. He returned to the city at 6 p.m. To look at the decomposed remains was a proceeding which few could undertake, but the Supt. is a man inured to witnessing such gruesome sights, and he left nothing undone to have the remains, if possible, identified. The body was in the hall of the S. U. F. The Supt. says that the face, hands and feet were completely gone, but that there was some little skin and hair attached to the occiput. The body was found floating about 100 yards away from where Hy. Sullivan was lost last fall. It was too difficult to identify the remains, and the opinions of the people about and even the relatives of Sullivan, differed, some believing they were the unfortunate man's remains and others holding that they were those of some stranger. An aunt of the deceased told Mr. Grimes that she had one infallible mark which should prove the identity of the body if it was that of her nephew. This was a tooth in the lower jaw which was more prominent than the others and was about an eighth of an inch higher. Mr. Grimes then examined the teeth, which were perfectly preserved, and sure enough found this tooth as his aunt and also his uncle described it. The uncle also saw this tooth and was certain that the remains were those of Hy. Sullivan. The little hair left on the back of the head was also the color of the drowned man's. As regards the finding of the body in its nude state, this is accounted for by reasoning that the body was caught on the bottom amongst rocks and other debris and that the clothing was torn completely off by the action of the waves. A piece of wire was wound round one of the wrists of the deceased and was a mark also of identity. This looked exactly like a piece of the wire Hy. Sullivan was using on the day he was drowned to tie up his fluke stuff. It is plausible to think that when he was swept away his arm became entangled with that and a portion of the wire became woven about it. As the widow and her relatives were not satisfied that it was the body of Hy. Sullivan the remains were interred in the C. E. Cemetery and were registered as being those of an unknown man. Rev. G. T. Netten performed the burial service at the grave side.

Danger to Fishermen.

The fishermen of Harbor Grace and Harbor Grace Island are loud in their complaints as to the reckless actions of the captains of the whalers, who for some weeks past have been killing the mammal in Conception Bay. The whalers when chasing fish often run in amongst the fleets of boats fishing on the ground, and already only by the act of Providence have serious accidents been averted. When these steamers race in this manner amongst the boats should their steering gear give out and they become unmanageable, disaster must surely follow. We would respectfully direct the attention of Mr. Piccott to this important matter.

A Note From Mr. G. C. Kennedy.

Editor Evening Telegram:
Dear Sir,—Would you kindly give me space in your valuable paper for a word of warning to the Council to protect the lives of the people of Duckworth Street. Attention has been called before to the fact that the wall and rail between the Custom House and Collins Estate is in bad condition. The Council should use their utmost energy to rectify this serious mistake. The wall should be repaired permanently and a "pipe railing" something similar to the one on the breast work of the King's wharf. It is a nice spot for citizens to view the shipping coming in and going out the Harbour in the afternoon and night. The wall is an eye-sore to the people of Duckworth St. and should be attended to. Hoping, Mr. Editor, that the Municipal Council will alter the situation immediately and oblige the public in general. Thanking you for space, I remain Yours truly,
G. C. KENNEDY.

Drunks' Dangerous Condition.

Early last night Consts. Walters and Walsh in going over their beat found a man lying on Duckworth St. so overcome with alcohol that he was unconscious. Securing a cab they brought him to the station.
Consts. O'Flaherty and Bussey also found a sailor at 9.30 lying in a dark corner on George Street. He, too, was senseless from liquor, and could hardly breathe owing to the pressure of his collar on his throat. He was conveyed to the station in a cab.

Sensation on Water St.

At 9 o'clock last night seeing a crowd of men collected on Water St. at the foot of Queen Street, Constable Pitcher told them to move on, which most of them did. One, however, named Soper, remained behind and defied the officer whom he suddenly grasped about the waist and threw him out in the middle of Water St. The man then ran, but Constable Bennett, who was on the opposite sidewalk, was too quick for him, and nabbed him before he had gone 20 yards. Soper resisted the police violently and they were compelled to throw him and put the bracelets on his wrists. His sister and sweetheart were with him when he attacked the officer, and as the police were adjusting the handcuffs on the prisoner both girls jumped on their backs and did their utmost to prevent his arrest. When he had been driven to the station, his sweetheart accompanied by his sister walked up and down Water Street crying loudly, and fully 500 people followed her all curious to discover what was wrong. Her cries could be heard a block away. Suddenly, as a marine was trying to soothe her, Const. Devine appeared and told her to "cut it short," or she would soon be in a cell adjacent to that of her "fellow." She took the hint then, but the affair caused a great sensation.

C.C.C. Battalion Drill.

The lads of the C. C. C., including the new Promotion Company, paraded at the Armoury last night, after which the new organization went on the march accompanied by buglers and drummers. The parade was down Military Road and return to the Armoury via Gower Street and Long's Hill. At the Armoury the whole battalion, to the music of the Corps Band, was put through drill by Lieut.-Col. Greene and Major Donnelly, V. S. Lieut.-Col. Greene congratulated the young men of the Promotion Company in the manner in which they acquitted themselves. The new company is being put in order for the first Church parade which will likely take place Sunday week. Over 100 members are now enrolled in it. New drums, bugles, etc., are now being imported for the company, and their new uniforms which are being made by E. M. Jackman will soon be finished.

The Crippen Case.

Special Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Sept. 8.
At the resumption to-day of the trial of Dr. Crippen and Ethel Le Neve for the murder of the former's wife, the Public Prosecutor, Emphreys, introduced evidence to establish the claim of the Crown that the parts of the mutilated body found in the Crippen home once formed a part of the person of Belle Elmore, the missing wife, and so strengthened what has been popularly regarded as the weak link in the chain of circumstantial evidence against the accused. The startling statements which the Public Prosecutor made in his opening address on Tuesday, that traces of poison had been found in the body and that Crippen had purchased an identical drug shortly before his wife's disappearance, served to further stimulate public interest in the sensational drama, and thousands of handsomely and fashionably dressed women were again prominent in the ever-crowded court room to-day.

Larcenies on the South Shore.

Wednesday night while Station Agent Woolgar, of Kelligrews, was absent from the station for a few moments some thief entered it and stole ten tickets which would bring passengers over the line from Kelligrews to Clark's Beach. There were also evidences to prove that the man was after money also, but fortunately the safe was locked up. It is known that the thief then left by the train, and going to Manuels he continued his nefarious work there. Here he forced the door of Dr. Chisholm's surgery, ransacked the place, and stole about $30 in cash. The police have a good description of him, know of his whereabouts and will likely arrest him to-day.

The Booth Mission.

Attracts Increasing Congregations.
The mission conducted in Gower St. Church by Mr. Booth is increasing in popularity as time progresses and ever-increasing crowds assemble in Gower Street Church to hear the celebrated preacher and famed evangelist. Last night there was an overflow assemblage at the church, and an inspiring meeting, remarkable alike for the devotion exhibited by the congregation and the eloquence of the preacher, was held. The meeting was opened by the beautiful and impressive hymn, "Lord I hear of showers of blessing," after which prayer was offered up by Rev. Dr. Burrows of Bermuda; when again another touching hymn was rendered by the full choir, viz., "If you could see Christ standing here to-night." Among the gathering were many Salvation Army officers and soldiers, whose singing was of an excellent order. Mr. Booth's sermon was a remarkable piece of oratory. Prefacing it with the announcement that he did not believe in emotionalism, which was unstable and evanescent, he delivered a very impressive discourse, taking his text from the 27th chapter of Acts, and holding that that chapter was a perfect illustration of God's plan of redemption. The beautiful discourse which followed impressed itself on the hearts of his hearers, and the preparation which marked the finale was not alone couched in beautiful diction but its eloquence touched the hearts of all and confirmed them in the decision to lead better lives and to consecrate their days to the service of the Master.

In an ordinary way cricket costs the clubs concerned something like $120,000 a season, and as the season extends over a period of twenty weeks the expenditure works out at about $6,000 a week. Altogether, including the M. C. C., there are nineteen clubs playing county matches, so that the average cost to each eleven is just over $2,600 a season. Some of the clubs, however, spend more than twice that amount. Yorkshire, for instance, usually pays out something like $12,000. Surrey, as a rule, is not far behind, while Lancashire's expenses nearly always run to well over $8,000.

There was a good deal of drunkenness evident on Water Street last night, and up to 10 o'clock the police had eight prisoners behind the bars.

Interesting Happenings

IN THE GARDEN CITY OF NFLD.

Earl Grey Inspects the Plant at Grand Falls and Plants a Tree as a Memorial of His First Visit to the Garden City—Four Hours' Cruise on Lord Northcliffe's Yacht Zenaida—School of Whales Viewed from the Deck—Interesting Meeting Held, at Which Prof. Robertson, Earl Grey, Premier Morris and Others Spoke—Important Conference on Typhoid Outbreak

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
GRAND FALLS, To-Day.
Earl Grey inspected the great paper-making plant on Wednesday, and on Thursday morning he planted a tree near Lord Northcliffe's house as a memorial of his first visit to the Garden City. At 11 o'clock the party proceeded by firm's train to Botwood, picking up the chief men of the Reid Co.'s works at Bishop's Falls. They joined the yacht Zenaida and had a four hours' cruise in this beautiful Arm in this handsomely appointed steamer. Much diversion was caused by seeing a number of whales. The whaler Cabot came up, got one and moored it and chased another. One hundred sat down to sumptuous luncheon, served in parties of 50. On their return a great meeting was held in the paper packing room. Intensely interesting addresses were given by Dr. Robertson on agricultural land, school gardens and education. Earl Grey gave a patriotic address calling on the inhabitants to co-operate in making Grand Falls the model settlement and paper-making community that it would be up to others to better. The Premier announced the receipt of a message from the Attorney General stating that Newfoundland had won six out of seven questions submitted to the Hague. President Beeton presided and was supported on platform by Lord Northcliffe and Mr. Kennedy Jones of the Daily Mail, who, however, did not speak. Earl Grey, with Prof. McRae, Mr. Brock, Canadian Surveyor, and Mr. Emery, of London Times, left for Bay of Islands by special train at 10 this morning. During their visit Grand Falls was illuminated. A conference was held yesterday between Prof. McRae, Dr. Chamberlain and Dr. Price on the typhoid situation.

Mongolian in Port.

The Allan Line Mongolian, Capt. J. Williams, arrived at midnight, from Philadelphia after a tedious run. She left there Saturday afternoon, and from the start bad weather prevailed and continued all the voyage. After clearing the Delaware River she encountered dense fog, and had to come along at slow speed. On Tuesday afternoon she met a N. E. gale which created a very high sea, and this weather continued until noon on Wednesday, but till the ship reached port a high sea ran. Off Cape Race yesterday she spoke the Columbia from Europe to New York, and the Indiana, for Baltimore. She brought considerable mail, 740 tons of cargo, and one intermediate passenger for this port, while six are on the ship bound for England.

HIS EXCELLENCY'S COMMUNICATION.

The Governor has great pleasure in communicating to the Press the following message which he received on Thursday night from the Secretary of State for the Colonies:

LONDON, September 8th.

Lord Crewe

To Governor of Newfoundland.

The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs has received the following from the British Agent at the Hague Fisheries Arbitration: "Atlantic Fisheries decision in our favour on all questions of main importance." I have not yet considered the text of the award, but desire at once to convey to your Government my most hearty congratulations on this result.

Fisheries Award.

Some Press Comment

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Sept. 8.
Considerable diversity of opinion is expressed in this morning's papers as a result of the Newfoundland Fisheries Arbitration awards. Although the decision is generally held to be a victory for Great Britain, the Standard, which was a strong supporter of the Newfoundland case, says: "Taken as a whole the decision should give satisfaction to Newfoundland, Canada, Great Britain and America. The main cause of friction has been removed and it will not be the business of politicians to keep old sores open. It is unfortunate that Newfoundland holds waters subject to foreign assessments, but we cannot give our fellow subjects more than we hold ourselves." The Graphic, recalling the disputes over the fisheries case, says: "The award will be received with a solid sense of relief. It inflicts no unreasonable hardships upon either side. If Great Britain gains the most important points, America wins the largest number, and as the distribution is rendered more acceptable by qualification, providing for the fullest equities, it removes the last serious issue which has divided the American and British peoples, thus crowning the work of rapprochement." The Post commenting on the decision says: "As usual, neither side can claim a complete victory. If the verdict was not as favourable to British claims as could be hoped, the reason is found in the feeble character of the diplomacy of the Liberal Government when the controversy reached an acute stage. The game was drawn, but in favor of Great Britain." The Times has this to say with regard to the award: "If, as we trust, the Tribunal has disposed of this ancient and sometimes embittered controversy the achievement will not only be a striking testimony of the merits of a general arbitration treaty, but will also be a valuable demonstration to the world what international arbitration may be expected in the future to do. The British litigants have every reason to be satisfied with the award on the whole, and it should be received with something warmer than locally on all sides, since all seemed to have secured the points most essential in their case."

line following the configuration of the shore or a line from the outrend of the headlands. England has won on this point. This may conceivably some day inconvenience the Gloucester fishermen, but for the present it need cause them little disturbance for practical purposes. The decision under point five changes nothing. It is the farthest from a death blow to our herring fisheries, as announcements yesterday stated, and anyone the least conversant with the facts now readily sees this, though the three mile limit decision may affect the mackerel fishing. The real menace to Gloucester in the herring fisheries was a point in point 2, and this was decided in our favour.

Roosevelt May Return to Public Life.

Special to Evening Telegram.

FREETOWN, Ills., Sept. 8.
Col. Roosevelt admitted to-day that there is a possibility of his returning to public life. In this connection he issued a warning to corrupt corporations that any aid they might extend him in obtaining any official place would be at their own peril and not with the idea of getting official favors or pardons later. The statement was in his address in connection with the fair of the various national organizations of railroad employees for the benefit of the home for the aged railroad men of America at Highland Park, Ills.

LACK OF MONEY

Was a Godsend in This Case.
It is not always that lack of money is a benefit.

"A lady, of Green Forest, Ark., owes her health to the fact that she could not pay in advance the fee demanded by a specialist to treat her for stomach trouble. In telling of her case she says:

"I had been treated by four different physicians during 10 years of stomach trouble. Lately I called on another who told me he could not cure me; that I had neuritis of the stomach. Then I went to a specialist who told me I had catarrh of the stomach and said he could cure me in four months but would have to have his money down. I could not raise the necessary sum and in my extremity I was led to quit coffee and try Postum.

"So I stopped coffee and gave Postum a thorough trial and the results have been magical. I now sleep well at night something I had not done for a long time; the pain in my stomach is gone and I am a different woman.

"I dreaded to quit coffee because every time I had tried to stop it I suffered from severe headaches, so I continued to drink it although I had reason to believe it was injurious to me, and was the cause of my stomach trouble and extreme nervousness. But when I had Postum to shift to it was different.

"To my surprise I did not miss coffee when I began to drink Postum.

"Coffee had been steadily and surely killing me and I didn't fully realize what was doing it until I quit and changed to Postum."

Senator Gardiner on the Hague Award

Special Evening Telegram.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.

The opinion that the United States has been worsted in the Fisheries dispute was discounted by Congressman Augustus P. Gardiner. He represents the Gloucester district in Congress, and with his father-in-law, Senator Henry Caber Lodge, handled the case of the Gloucester fishermen at Washington. In an interview on the local hearings of the decision at the Hague, Congressman Gardiner discussed the principal effects on the New England fishing and pronounced them to be little or no disadvantage, while certain obvious advantages have been gained by having the dispute at an end. While the subject was being threshed out it was merely thought best to settle what was to be considered the three mile limit, whether a

A Bandit Held Up a Train. BUT ENGINEER KILLED HIM.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 2.—In a desperate attempt to hold up west bound train No. 3 four miles west of Divide early this morning, an unknown bandit was instantly killed by a rock thrown by Engineer Frank Stewart after he had been shot in the leg by the bandit. Sterling and Chas. Martin, two young men, who were found near the scene of the hold-up, are held for investigation as to their complicity in the robbery. Sterling Martin was slightly wounded in the head by a bullet.

The highwayman crawled over the tender as the train slowed up at a siding to meet the east bound train. As he stepped the train, Stewart turned to see his fireman, Paul Bachman, standing with his hands above his head, and heard the robber say, "Put up your hands or I'll blow your head off."

The robber then forced both men to leave the engine and marched them before him to the express car. According to the story told by Stewart, who was brought to a hospital here, the robber ordered them to tell the express messenger that they were in peril of their lives. Stewart states that the bandit fired several shots at the heads of passengers who looked out to see what was happening.

Striking Trainmen.

"When we got to the express car," said Stewart, "my fireman dashed under the car and crawled to the other side. The robber landed under the car to shoot at him and when he took his eyes off me I struck him with all my strength with a rock I had picked up as I jumped off the tender. Before the rock hit him he whirled and shot at me, the bullet striking me in the leg. I guess my blow finished him for he never moved after the rock hit him. I must have fainted then, for the next I knew the conductor and express messenger and a group of excited passengers were standing about me."

When the remainder of the train crew heard the shots they seized weapons and rushed to the head of the train, firing as they came. Stewart was given immediate attention by physicians who were on board the train and was brought to Colorado Springs. His conditions is not serious. Shortly after the hold-up Sheriff Vonpully and a posse scoured the country near the scene of the attempted hold-up and discovered Martin hiding in the brush.

Sterling Martin was dazed by a bullet wound in the head. He is out on parole from the State reformatory. The Martins claim they were riding the "blind baggage" and were beating their way to Grand Junction. They say Sterling Martin was struck by a stray bullet from the bandit's gun. They are held for investigation.

The dead robber wore a cloth mask and a gunny sack tied about his neck. He was armed with two revolvers.

Cricketers Modesty.

The Right Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, M. P., was in his day one of the best wicket-keepers England has produced. Yet the ex-Colonial Secretary achieved one of his most notable performances as a bowler in the great Test match at the Oval in 1884. The Australians had put up the huge score of over 500, with six wickets in hand, against the flower of English bowling, and, as a forlorn hope, Mr. Lyttelton was deputed by Dr. Grace to doff his pads and gloves and take up the attack, with the result that he took five wickets at small cost. When asked to explain, he said his bowling was "such rotten stuff that no cricketer could play it."

Got Some Free Oil.

An extraordinary discovery has been made by some corporation workmen at Leigh, in Lancashire. The men were repairing water pipes in the yard behind the house of a miner, when they discovered a petroleum spring, about two feet below the surface. The news spread, and hundreds of people visited the spot and were supplied with petroleum cheaply. The oil was clear and burned well. More than a hundred gallons were served out, and then the landlord appeared on the scene and took possession.

ROMAN GALLEY FOUND.

A boat which was found a few weeks ago deeply embedded in the mud of the foreshore during the excavations near Westminster Bridge, has proved to be a rare specimen of a Roman boat of a kind which was in use about the middle of the third century. It is about 50 feet long, with a sixteen foot beam. In it were found several pieces of Roman pottery, iron nails, glass gaming buttons, and coins. It will be put on exhibition in one of the London museums.

The Ferment in India.

1. As Seen by the "Times."
2. As Seen by the Indians.

I.—WHAT THE TIMES SEES IN INDIA—THE SPIRIT OF THE MEN AND WOMEN BEHIND THE NATIONALIST MOVEMENT.

All the world knows that there is a yeast in Asia, and that the vibrations of that great conflict between Russia and Japan, in which Japan won, have not ceased yet. We are told that one result of it is the present unrest in India, and the growth of the National movement there; and the Morning Post last week declared that this unrest "must grow rather than diminish."

In this issue we give two points of view of the facts and causes and rights and wrongs of that unrest—one of the British point of view, as given by the Times; the other the Indian point of view, as seen through the eyes of a Frenchman.

Indian Unrest.

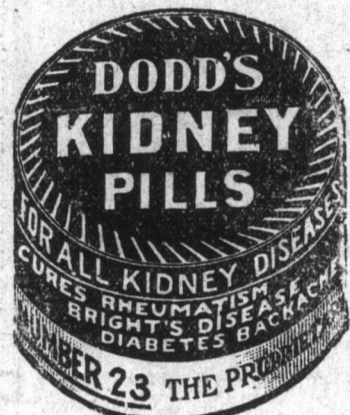

The remarkable series of articles on "The Indian Unrest" now appearing in the Times are understood to be by Mr. Valentine Chirol, the foreign editor of that paper. They are based on visits to India, wide reading, and personal contact with men of all classes. Mr. Chirol writes as a dispassionate observer, and his articles are a mine of information. So far he makes no suggestions as to how the unrest may be made to cease.

Perhaps the best understanding of the facts of the unrest in India is gained by regarding the spirit which animates the men behind the incidents, and which indeed animates the whole of the Indian National movement. This Mr. Chirol helps us to do, and what he says is this:

About Young Bengal

"What we have to reckon with, especially in Bengal, is the revolt of the younger generation, and this revolt draws its inspiration from religious and philosophical sources which no measures merely political, either of repression or of conciliation, can reach. It often represents a perversion of the finest qualities, as, apparently, in the case of Briendranath Gupta, who murdered Shams-ul-Alam in the Calcutta High Court last January. An English missionary who knew him well assured me that in his large experience of Indian youths he had never met one of more exemplary character or higher ideals, nor one who seemed more incapable of committing such a crime.

Moral Aspect of the Revolt.

"In its moral aspects the revolt of young Bengal represents very frequently a healthy reaction against sloth and self-indulgence and the premature exhaustion of manhood which is such a common feature in a society that has for centuries been taught to disregard physiological laws in the enforcement of child marriage. To this extent it is a revolt, though in the name of Hinduism, against some of the worst results of the Hindu social system, and that it has spread so largely amongst the Brahmins of Bengal shows that it has affected even the rigidity of Brahminism.

The Influence of Women.

"The blind hatred of everything English with which the younger generation is so largely saturated can only in most cases be the result of the teachings that have impressed upon the existence of a fundamental antagonism between Hindu ideals and ours. For a great many, and perhaps the majority, have never come into contact with a single Englishman, and their ignorance even of the system of government under which they live is profound. Not the least ominous symptom is that this spirit of revolt seems to have obtained a firm hold of the zemana; and the Hindu woman behind the purdah often exercises a greater influence upon her husband and her sons than the Englishwoman who moves freely about the world.

A Strain of Idealism.

"The question is, can we extricate the better elements from this tangle of passion and prejudice? There are many foul spots in the Hindu revival in Bengal, apart even from tendencies which we cannot but regard as politically criminal. At the same time there runs through it a strain of idealism which probably constitutes its real force, and also our danger. For, strangely emotional and often a creature of his senses, the Bengali is accessible to spiritual influences with which the worldly ambitious Brahminism of the Deccan, for instance, is rarely informed.

The One Thing Useful.

"If there is one thing that has impressed itself upon me during this visit to India it is that, if we want to retain our hold, not only upon the country, but upon the people, we must neglect no opportunity of arresting the estrangement which is growing up between us and the younger generation of Indians. It is upon this estrangement that the revolutionary organisations outside of India chiefly rely for the success of their propaganda, and nothing helps them more than the bitterness with which young Indians who come abroad often return to India ready for any desperate adventure."

Mr. Chirol gives us a further glimpse into the spirit behind this movement when he tells us of one of two of its prominent figures—such as the two Ghoses.

Mr. Ghose's Ethical Gospel.

Here is a graphic sketch of Mr. Arabindo Ghose, "one of the most remarkable figures that Indian unrest has produced. Educated in England and so thoroughly that when he returned to India he found it difficult to express himself in Bengali, he is not only a high-caste Hindu, but he is one of those Hindu mystics who believe that by the practice of the most extreme forms of Yoga asceticism man can transform himself into a super-man, and he has constituted himself the high priest of a religious revival which has taken a profound hold on the imagination of the emotional youth of Bengal. His ethical gospel is not devoid of grandeur. It is based merely on the teachings of Krishna to Arjuna as revealed in the Bhagavad Gita, and I cannot hope to define its moral purpose better than from borrowing the following sentence from Mrs. Besant's introduction to her translation of 'The Lord's Song':—

"It is meant to lift the aspirant from the lower levels of renunciation, where objects are renounced, to the loftier heights where desires are dead and where the Yogi dwells in calm and ceaseless contemplation while his body and mind are actively employed in discharging the duties that fall to his lot in life."

Journalism Extraordinary.

One of the three papers which "came into the field after the Partition of Bengal as the explicit champions of revolution" was the Yugantar. This was edited by Mr. Arabindo Ghose's brother—Barindra Kumar Ghose [afterwards sentenced to death (but reprieved) in connection with the manufacture of bombs]. This paper "set itself to preach revolution as a religious even more than a political movement."

The Times writer reproduces a letter from a Hindu scholar who certainly has no sympathy with the methods advocated by the Yugantar, who says—"Nothing like these articles ever appeared before in Bengali literature. 'Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh,' and this was essentially true in the case of the Yugantar. The Government translator confessed in the High Court that he had never before read in Bengali language so lofty, so pathetic, and so stirring, that it was impossible to convey it in an English translation. Yet the writers had never learned to write Bengali in their Milton, which was distinctly audible in the Bengali, betrayed their English education. The sale was unbounded."

"The circulation of the Yugantar rose to over 50,000," adds the Times writer, "a figure never attained before by any Indian newspaper, and sometimes when there was a special run upon a number the Calcutta newsboys would get a rupee for a single copy before the issue was exhausted. So great indeed was the demand that the principle articles were republished in a small volume, entitled Mukti con rath; 'Which way does salvation lie?'"

Freedom of the Press.

"What is forgotten in England by the uncompromising champions of the freedom of the Press is that in a country like ours, with its party system fully represented in the public Press, even the newspapers which either party may consider most mischievous find their corrective in the newspapers of the other party. In India that is not the case. There is no healthy play of public opinion. The classes whose confidence in the British Raj is still unshaken are practically unrepresented in the Press, which is mostly in the hands of the intellectuals, of whom the majority are drifting into increasing estrangement, while the minority are generally too timid to try to stem the flowing tide."

Mahomedans and Hindus.

One of the fundamental facts to remember in India is the feud between Hindu and Mahomedan. To-day there are about 60,000,000 Mahomedans against 240,000,000 of Hindus. "The whole tendency of the Hindu revival," says the Times writer, "social, religious, and political, during the last twenty years had been as consistently anti-Mahomedan as anti-British, and even more so. Some of the more liberal and moderate Hindu leaders no doubt honestly contemplated the evolution of an Indian 'nation' in which Mahomedan and Hindu might sink their racial and religious differences, but these were leaders with a constantly diminishing body of followers.

"The attitude of the Hindus towards the Mahomedans of Eastern Bengal, after the Partition, had shown how they resented the position that the creation of the new province gave to the Moslem element. Nor had the Mahomedans in the Punjab been left without a foretaste of what was to come. In every government office, in every profession, the Hindus were banding themselves closer and closer together against their few Mahomedan colleagues. The Mahomedans had refused to join in the boycott of British goods, and in Delhi, in Lahore, and in many other cities the word had been passed round among the Hindus not to deal with Mahomedan shops, 'not to trade.' One Mahomedan told Mr. Chirol that 'throughout the Punjab and Bengal the constant talk of the Nationalists is that the Moslems must be driven out of India as they were driven out of Spain,' and Mr. Chirol says that the government must compose this racial conflict.
