CHAPTER XV.
THE FRENCH MAID'S CUNNING.
 ALL unconscious of the plot that was thickening, happily ignorant of the subtle net which was weaving to ensnare her, Floris went down to dinner as happy and lighthearted as a girl who has no trouble and a handsome sweetheart can be.
 By some chance she fell to the arm of an elderly Scotch lord this evening, while Lady Blanche was consigned to Lord Norman.
 Floris felt a little pang of disappointment, for she had, perhaps unexpectedly, expected to have him by her side every night at dinner.
 But the disappointment passed in a few minutes, for the old lord, delighted at having the prettiest woman in Ballypore at his side, made himself very agreeable, and kept Floris very much amused.
 But for all her amusement she found time to glance at the other two now and then, and when she did so, she noticed that Lady Blanche seemed more animated than usual, and that Lord Norman appeared amused and entertained also.
 His devotion to Lady Blanche, as the busybodies were styling it, was noticed by every one, and certainly, therefore, did not escape the keen eyes of Lady Betty.
 But Floris, though she missed him sorely, did not feel injured or complain; and when Lady Betty made some remark, she defended Lady Blanche and championed Lord Norman quite heroically.
 "I don't see why a girl should think that she has a right to monopolize a man because he happens to be engaged to her," she said, with a little flush—her face had looked rather pale and joyless all the day—"there will be plenty of monopoly on both sides after they are married."
 "Ah, no doubt," said Lady Betty, dryly. "But Blanche seems to think that she can monopolize a man because she is not engaged to him. I don't think she has allowed Bruce to get away from her apron-strings for more than half an hour to-day—that is during the time he has been at home; and if that isn't monopoly I don't know what is."
 A few minutes afterward Lord Norman came up to them. It was nearly bedtime, and the drawing-room was thinning.
 Lady Blanche had just gone upstairs, having kissed her hand to Lady Betty and Floris as she passed.
 "Well?" he said, dropping into a seat between them. "Are you nearly tired? What a long evening it seems! I suppose it is after the exertion of last night. Floris, I have just had a word with you all day," he added, wistfully.
 Lady Betty laughed sarcastically. "Whose fault is that?"
 He looked at her with a half-puzzled smile.
 "I don't know. I don't seem to have had a minute to myself, which, of course, means a minute with Floris. And now they have arranged to go to Skirtross to-morrow. We shall be away two days. I am sorry to say."
 "Two days?" said Floris, with a little sigh. "Why, Bruce?"
 "Too far to get back the same night (dearest!) he said. "I need to enjoy the expedition one time, but now, this autumn, I would give anything to be left at home. But that is impossible. I am sorry to say. The prince has asked me especially to go. Sir Joseph with his usual forethought, has arranged that some of the young fellows should remain and take you ladies to the cascades for to-morrow, so that you will not miss us hunters."

 "I don't think I should care much about the cascades," said Floris. "She was feeling rather tired and listless, and the news that her sweet-heart was going to leave her for two whole days—after devoting himself for the two previous ones to Lady Blanche—dispirited her."
 "I suppose I can stay here!"
 "I hope you will go," he said, quickly, adding with an eagerness which, at the moment, she ascribed to his desire that she should be amused, during his absence, but which afterward she read in another and a sadder light—"Yes, Floris, do go! I particularly wish you to! Sir Joseph has planned this little expedition mainly on your account, and would be disappointed if you did not go! Besides, what will you do in the house all day if you remain at home? Come, dear, promise me that you will go!"
 "I will go if you wish it, Bruce," she said, dutifully; "that is, if I do not feel very much disinclined," with a smile.
 He took her hand and kissed it lovingly.
 "You will enjoy it, I am sure," he said. "Blanche is going!"
 "Oh, then, I am sure we shall enjoy it," said Lady Betty, with fine sarcasm. "I think we had better go up now, my dear."
 He followed them into the hall on his way to the smoking-room, and there, being no one there but themselves, took her in his arms and gave her her "good-night" kiss.
 "We are off early in the morning, dearest," he said, "and I shall not see you before I go. Be happy while I am away, and I will bring you a set of autlers as a reward!"
 Floris was tired and despondent; a heavy weight seemed to hang over her, and she felt so depressed that she went straight to her own room instead of going into Lady Betty's, and talking over the events of the evening as she usually did.
 "I must have danced too much last night," she said to herself, "and am

Feet Aren't Aching Or Tired Now — "Tiz"
 Use "Tiz" for tender, puffed-up, burning, calloused feet and corns.
 "How 'TIZ' does help sore feet."

People who are forced to stand on their feet all day know what sore, tender, sweaty, burning feet mean. They use "Tiz," and "Tiz" cures their feet right up. It keeps feet in perfect condition. "Tiz" is the only remedy in the world that draws out all the poisonous exudations, which puff up the feet and cause tender, sore, tired, aching feet. It instantly stops the pain in corns, callouses and bunions. It's simply glorious. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel after using "Tiz." You'll never limp or draw up your face in pain. Your shoes won't tighten and hurt your feet.
 Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" now from any drugist. Just think! A whole year's foot comfort for only 25 cents.
 over tired. I shall feel better and brighter in the morning! But I wish Bruce was not going to be away for two whole days! How I shall miss him!"
 With this thought and the sigh it occasioned she fell asleep. How long she had slept she did not know; but she was awakened by that consciousness which we have all of us felt at times, that some one was in the room. She awoke instantly and raised herself on her elbow, and looked around.
 A small lamp was burning on the table, and by its dim light she saw a woman kneeling beside the bed.
 It was Josine.
 The girl had her head in her arms, and was apparently crying in a subdued, sullen kind of way.
 Floris was too startled and surprised to move for a moment, then she sat up and called to her softly.
 "Is that you, Josine?" Josine raised her head, and showed a face, pale and tear-bedewed, and fixed her black eyes with a piteous expression on Floris. "What is the matter? What are you doing here?"

 Josine dropped her head in her hands again and emitted a low sob.
 "Oh, mademoiselle, I cannot sleep! I cannot rest!" murmured Josine, with a little sob and gasp. "I am so very unhappy."
 "There is something on my conscience, something that lies so heavy that I cannot rest night or day. Ah! mademoiselle, I would tell you but that I know you would ruin me!"
 "I ruin you! What on earth do you mean?" said Floris. "Stop! I do not wish to hear anything you may have to say."
 "Then mademoiselle is lost!" exclaimed Josine, tragically, "and Lady Blanche will win the day."
 Floris did not start or wince, as Josine had expected; she even smiled.
 "Are you quite out of your mind, Josine?" she then asked, with calm, stern dignity.
 "Ah, mademoiselle takes it as I expected! It is hard to believe that a grand lady like Lady Blanche should descend so low as to try and steal another woman's lover! That is done often enough by people of a lower class, ah, yes! But by so grand a lady as Lady Blanche—ah, no, it is impossible, it is ridiculous, is it not?" sarcastically.
 "It is indeed!" said Floris, gravely; "and if it is only to vent this piece of spiteful impertinence you have intruded into my room at this hour, Josine—"
 "Stop, mademoiselle! I am no fool! I did not expect you to believe me! Ah, no, not even when I said that I was in her confidence."
 "In Lady Blanche's confidence?"
 "Yes, mademoiselle. It is not uncommon. I am the useful slave that acts as go-between for her ladyship and milord."
 "My lord!" said Floris, white to the lips with anger. "Do you dare—"
 "Ah, but yes, mademoiselle, I mean Milord Norman!"
 Floris stared at her for a moment, then she sank on to a chair and laughed—actually laughed.
 Josine watched her sullenly, but with a close keenness.
 It was hard to breed suspicion in that sweet, pure mind, but Josine did not despair.
 She had a strong suit to play, and had not played her best cards yet.
 "Josine, I am now sure that you are out of your mind," said Floris, at last. "Please go away and let me go to bed and sleep. It is fortunate for you that I have promised not to repeat this farrago of nonsense, or you would have received your dismissal to-morrow morning. As it is, I must ask you not to approach or address me again, unless it is absolutely necessary. Go now, if you please."
 Josine sprang to her feet.
 "Mademoiselle believes that I lie! That I am deceiving her. Good! Mademoiselle shall see! Give me till to-morrow—no, to-day, and I will prove to her that Lord Norman is false to her! That it is Lady Blanche whom he loves and would wish to make his wife! Yes, mademoiselle shall see, shall hear for herself what I, Josine, already know. Mademoiselle thinks I lie! Yes, truly, and mademoiselle would tell me again that I lie if I say that Milord Norman and Lady Blanche are going to elope this very day!"
 The blow was struck, and well struck, considering.
 White to the lips, but with an incredulous smile, Floris rose from her chair and confronted her.
 "You are either a very wicked girl, Josine, or you are mad," she said. "Do you know what it is that you have said?"
 "Yes, mademoiselle," responded Josine, sullenly; "and I am not mad. Wicked? Yes, I have been wicked, and I should be still, if my conscience would let me rest; but it will not. I cannot be Milord Blanche's slave any longer."
 "Tell me all you want to tell me, and then go!" exclaimed Floris, feebly.
 "Mademoiselle knows Lord Norman goes out hunting to-day? In an hour or more he will have gone."
 "Floris's lips formed a 'Yes.'"
 "Oh! And that the ladies are to take an excursion—an expedition? Yes! Well, then, what if I say Milord Norman will return—alone—by himself at noon? What if I say that Milord Blanche will make an excuse and remain at home! and that they will meet in the conservatory and fly together?"

A VERY STYLISH DRESS IN COAT BLOUSE STYLE.

 2278—This will be fine for linen, shantung, poplin, foulard, satin or gingham. It could be made in a combination of materials. Crepe and gingham, gabardine and foulard, are nice. In linen, braided or embroidered, it would be very attractive.
 The Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 6 1/2 yards of 44-inch material.
 A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.
A SMART BUSINESS DRESS.

 Waist—24 1/2. Skirt—24 1/2.
 Here is a good model for gingham, linen, pique, crepe, chambray, tafeta or satin. If preferred the waist and skirt may be of different material. One could have serge for the skirt, trimmed with soutache braid at the sides. For the waist, batiste, linen, madras or crepe would be fine. The Waist Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. It will require 2 1/4 yards of 38-inch material for a 38-inch also. The Skirt is cut in 7 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. Size 24 requires 3 yards of 44-inch material. The skirt measures about 1 1/2 yard at the foot.
 This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents FOR EACH Pattern in silver or stamps.

 MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES GARTH IN COWS.

German's Lie Factory.
 BY A FAMOUS SECRET SERVICE AGENT.
 It is given to few persons, even secret service agents like myself, to penetrate behind the scenes of the German lie factory. Those who do so never forget it. For, next to the Secret Service, this factory is one of the most important hidden institutions in the Fatherland. It is subsidised by the Government.
 Here millions of lies are manufactured annually. At a cost of hundreds of thousands of pounds they are spread over the earth. Through this factory political crimes assume a new aspect. Germany is represented to be winning when she is losing, prosperous when she is poverty-stricken, while failures are made into successes, and the truth is distorted so that things take on a new significance.
The World's Greatest Liars.
 The Wilhelmstrasse of Berlin is the German Downing Street. In it are situated the German Foreign Office, the Imperial Chancellor's Palace, the Colonial Office, the Imperial Treasury, the Home Office and numerous other Government departments and buildings. These are concentrated in the comparatively small district between the main shopping street and Uter den Linden, the famous German boulevard in which I have experienced so many sensational adventures.
 Underneath the Foreign Office—that ramshackle old one-storey structure of brick and stucco which dates from mid-Bismarckian days—are situated a suite of magnificently furnished rooms, ten in number, in which are periodically held conferences of men and women, and women who have every right to be called the world's greatest liars.

VERY STYLISH DRESS IN COAT BLOUSE STYLE.

2478—This will be fine for Men, panting, poplin, foulard, satin or tulle. It could be made in a combination of materials. Crepe and gingham, gabardine and foulard, are nice. Men, braided or embroidered, it could be very attractive. The Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 6 1/4 yards 44-inch material. A pattern of this illustration mailed any address on receipt of 10 cents silver or stamps.

A SMART BUSINESS DRESS.

Waist—2458. Skirt—2459. Here is a good model for gingham, poplin, pique, crepe, chambray, taffeta or satin. If preferred the waist and skirt may be of different material. One could have serge for the skirt, trimmed with soutache braid at the sides, or the waist, batiste, linen, madras crepe would be fine. The Waist Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. It will require 2 1/4 yards of 36-inch material for a 38-inch size. The Skirt Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. Size 24 requires 3 yards of 44-inch material. The skirt measures about 1 1/2 yard at the foot. This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed any address on receipt of 10 cents OR EACH Pattern in silver or stamps.

German's Lie Factory.

BY A FAMOUS SECRET SERVICE AGENT.

It is given to few persons, even secret service agents like myself, to penetrate behind the scenes of the German lie factory. Those who do so never forget it. For, next to the Secret Service, this factory is one of the most important hidden institutions in the Fatherland. It is subsidised by the Government.

Here millions of lies are manufactured annually. At a cost of hundreds of thousands of pounds they are spread over the earth. Through this factory political crimes assume a new aspect. Germany is losing, prosperous when she is poverty-stricken, while failures are made into successes, and the truth is distorted so that things take on a new significance.

The World's Greatest Liars.

The Wilhelmstrasse of Berlin is the German Downing Street. In it are situated the German Foreign Office, the Imperial Chancellor's Palace, the Colonial Office, the Imperial Treasury, the Home Office and numerous other Government departments and buildings. These are concentrated in the comparatively small district between the main shopping street and Uter den Linden, the famous German boulevard in which I have experienced so many sensational adventures.

Underneath the Foreign Office—that ramshackle old one-storey structure of brick and stucco which dates from mid-Bismarckian days—are situated a suite of magnificently furnished rooms, ten in number, in which are periodically held conferences of men and women and women who have every right to be called the world's greatest liars.

This is the headquarters of the bureau. All the offices in Wilhelmstrasse I have mentioned are connected with it by means of house telephones. And along the thickly-carpeted passages guarded by sentries—the war-worn, prematurely aged Kaiser

A Baby's Skin

What is so beautiful as baby's soft, smooth, velvety skin? And how is it to be kept free from chafing, irritation and distressing eczema? This is every mother's question. Many have found the answer in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Applied after the bath, this soothing, healing ointment overcomes irritation of the skin and prevents the development of eczema and other annoying skin diseases.

often walks to confer with those whose business it is to bolster up his dying cause by stupendous falsehoods.

A Beautiful Jewess.

From time to time the staff of the bureau changes. But its object is ever the same. The great wireless transmitting and receiving station on the roof with its speaking tubes down to the nether regions, is always busy. News is manufactured for home and foreign consumption, the people of Berlin are as successfully deluded from these underground apartments as the denizens of some native village in India.

Students of German secret history will always find themselves faced by one peculiar fact. A beautiful woman is invariably found in any great secret movement. This is a whim of the Kaiser's, and is carried out everywhere in the Fatherland.

One of the most engrossing personalities I have met in connection with the Kaiser's lie factory is a beautiful Viennese Jewess of obscure origin. For some years she has owned the Continental Times. The divorced wife of a distinguished English gentleman, she still keeps her surname for the purpose of deceiving uninformed people into thinking that the infamous organ of which she is proprietress is still English owned—as it was originally.

Dresses Like a Princess.

Clothilde White is the name by which she is known, and the rag she runs has been turned from a financial failure into a big success by specialising in viliifying everything British. For this work the Government has paid Clothilde heavily and with the aid of the German postal authorities the scurrilous publication even now finds its way over the English speaking world.

In addition, Frau Clothilde has been given a position on the directing staff of the lie factory, and for this she receives a separate salary. She dresses like a princess, and her brain devises the numerous denials it is necessary to issue frequently concerning the reprehensible scandals in which the Kaiser's sons are involved. Another member of this strange bureau is Clothilde's own news editor of the Continental Times, a renegade Irishman and friend of the late Sir Roger Casement, and related to one of the best known families in the British Peerage.

Travels With the Kaiser.

What immense value is placed on his services by the German lie factory is proved by the fact that whereas practically every other British subject in Germany is interned as a prisoner of war, he is allowed—or at any rate was when I was last in the Kaiser's capital—perfect liberty. He assumes a score of different names under which he writes articles viliifying Britain and extolling Germany, and these are circulated broadcast.

The German lie factory would be of little use without the notorious Wolff Agency, the chief tool of the Berlin Press Bureau, which distributes, chiefly by wireless, news of victories that are never won, battles that are never fought, speeches that are never uttered, decisions that are never made.

and raids on Britain that are never even attempted, let alone carried out. If you believe the Wolff effusions, London has been blown to bits, the British Navy has been sunk, King George has been assassinated, the British Army—or a good portion of it—has been annihilated, and England is at the mercy of the Germans!

Wherever Kaiser Wilhelm goes, a reporter of the Wolff Agency is attached to his suite and never leaves it. This gentleman, too, is an artist in lies, and gulls the world with statements of the Kaiser's health, his doings, his perennial youth, and his belief in the ultimate triumph of his arms.

Starvation in Germany.

Over two years ago it was my lot to become acquainted with the inner history of the now famous "Germany is Starving" lie. Thousands of readers will be astonished to learn now for the first time that colossal lie and its birthplace in Berlin, in the very suite of rooms in the Wilhelmstrasse which I have described, at a conference at which the Kaiser, Herr Wolff, Clothilde White and the news-editor of the Continental Times were present.

The idea emanated from the editor. He suggested that, if enemy and neutral countries were flooded with the statements that Germany was on the verge of starvation, bankrupt for money, short of leather, oil, fuel, copper, and so forth, that she was in such extremities as to be forced to commandeer domestic utensils of copper, iron, and tin, and that food riots were taking place everywhere, Germany's enemies would be lulled into a sense of false security. Thinking she was beaten the Allies would relax their efforts in munitions, take no pains to conserve their food, and let things slide generally.

Fake Riots.

I witnessed some of these so-called bread riots at the time, and saw the photographs which were ostensibly smuggled out of Germany but really allowed to leave by the Government for publication in other countries. The photographs were not "fake," but the riots were. They were arranged and engineered by the Kaiser's lie factory. Every enemy and neutral country was falsely informed that the Fatherland was practically foodless.

There is no doubt that even then there was a shortage of food in Germany. But she was not starving. Recently the fake riots may have become a stern reality, and the country may now be on the verge of starvation; but over two years have elapsed since the time of which I speak, and by strict rationing she has managed to conserve her food, oil, leather, copper and tin until, at any rate, a comparatively recent date. How far this stupendous lie served its purpose in deceiving other countries I am not in a position to state, but I do know that the editor received high praise for the idea from his Imperial master, the Kaiser, in addition to a big monetary reward.

London in Ruins.

In the days when Zeppelin raids on England were in an "experimental" stage, I was present one night at a ball given by the wife of Admiral von Tirpitz at her stately mansion in Unter den Linden. The assembly was an exceptionally brilliant one, for Berlin had not then felt the pinch of poverty, and the social life for which the Kaiser's capital was once noted went on as usual.

Towards one o'clock in the morning there was a commotion. News came through that a Zeppelin raid had been carried out on England with enormous success, that London was in flames and ruins, that the Houses of Parliament at Westminster had been blown up while the House was sitting, that forts, ports, railways, gas works and waterworks had been destroyed, and that thousands of people had been slaughtered.

The excitement was intense. I noticed that Count Zeppelin, who was present, hurried away with Herr Ballin, the millionaire shipowner; otherwise he would have been lifted shoulder high and mobbed by the joyous dancers.

Sang the Hymn of Hate.

In a moment the affair was transformed from a stately social function into pandemonium. The dancing ceased. The band, forsaking its programme, blared out "Deutschland, Deutschland über Alles," swung off into "Die Wacht am Rhine," and then with one accord the well-dressed throng shot into that demoralising chant "Hassgesang gegen England" (Hymn of Hate against England).

I made a few discreet inquiries and found that the intelligence of this tremendous raid had come through the Wolff Agency, who, even at the moment were surfeiting Germany with it from end to end. Knowing what I have revealed here about the Kaiser's lie factory, I did not believe a word of the report. Later, when I ascertained the correct particulars of this mammoth raid, which had thrown the aristocratic guests at the stately mansion of Graf von Tirpitz into a frenzy of delight, I found that one bomb only had been dropped and that one cow had been killed in a lonely field somewhere, I believe, in Essex.

I could not give a better example than this of the functions of the Kaiser's lie factory. It is but one of many instances I could recall of the shameful way these falsehoods are spread. And for this reason I never believe

MARTIN-SENOUR
100% PURE PAINT & VARNISHES

The Paint That Costs The Least

is the Paint that covers the greatest surface—that takes the shortest time to apply—that wears the longest. Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint does all three. Here's the proof. "100% Pure" Paint covers 900 square feet of surface per gallon.

Hand-mixed-lead-and-oil, and cheap prepared paints, cover only about 500 square feet.

The greatest cost of painting is for labor. It takes less time to apply Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint because its fine, even texture spreads much easier.

MARTIN-SENOUR

"100% PURE" PAINT

(Made in Canada)

is guaranteed to be exactly as represented. The purity of the White Lead and Zinc Oxide—the high quality of the Linseed Oil—the minute fineness of the grinding by powerful machinery—insure a paint that gives years of protection and beauty to your home.

Why use cheap paint—that is expensive to put on—when Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint wears nearly twice as long?

The "Panzerkraft-Wagen."

The much heralded "Panzerkraft-wagen," or German tank, made its debut in fair numbers in the great attack of March 21st last. One of these tanks slipped into a stone quarry and burned over on its side, and a subsequent advance by French troops placed this German machine well within Allied lines where it could be studied at leisure.

The German version of the tank is a ponderous affair, quite in keeping with the "kolossal" tendencies of the Teutons. It weighs 45 tons, and carries a crew of 18. In general appearance it follows the French rather than the English design of tank, but is far larger than anything yet attempted by the Allies with the exception of the American steam-driven tanks which, at this writing, have not yet been in action.

Following the practice of the French and British tank crews, the Germans have named each of the Panzerkraft-wagen. In the case of the captured tank it bears the name "Elfriede," and carries on all sides the characteristic Maltese cross of the German air service. Its armor varies from 12 inches for the front plates to .64 inch on the sides and .8 inch at the rear. The steel employed must be applied in considerable thickness because of the evident lack of steel in Germany, and that in turn makes for a cumbersome, if not inefficient, tank.

As for armament, one 47 mm. or 1.85-inch rapid-fire cannon is mounted for direct fire ahead, and six machine guns mounted in pairs are placed at the sides and the rear. The 18 men of the crew have none too much room in this 23-foot tank, and the conditions during actual combat are certainly not unlike the proverbial sardines in a box. The conning tower, in which the driver sits, is entered from above and has hinged side-shutters; but it is reported that observations even at moderate range, is difficult owing to structural defects. The crew can get in or out of the steel box by means of two doors on either side. Every inch of space within the tank is utilized to the utmost; in fact, folding chairs are mounted on the inside of the doors and ropes are hanging from the ceiling in order to provide "straps" for the crew after the fashion of a crowded street car.

All in all, the Panzerkraftwagen, aside from an inclosed gear box which reduces the possibility of the gears getting clogged with mud and dirt, presents no great improvement over French and British tanks which have fallen into the hands of the Germans. If anything, it is merely more cumbersome through lack of proper materials, and therefore a poorer fighter.—Scientific American.

THE NECESSITY FOR BUYING YOUR SUMMER CLOTHES EARLY.

Reports from manufacturers show an inclination to shorten the period of manufacture. Present-day conditions demand this. They have been compelled to adapt themselves to war-time. We were told that if we did not place our orders well in advance, it was at our own risk. It was simply a matter of conducting business on a high plane and that women would learn to buy their Summer needs right at the beginning of June when they had need for them. Yet while we shall strive to maintain the completeness of our stocks during all Summer months, we repeat that buying your Summer clothes early will bring wonderful satisfaction and full 100 per cent. service.

SUCCESSFUL BRITISH ATTACK.

LONDON, June 28. (Official.) This morning English troops carried out a successful operation on a front of about three and a half miles east of the Nieppe forest. Our line on this front has been advanced to an average depth of nearly a mile, and more than 300 prisoners and 22 machine guns have been captured. All our objectives were gained, including the hamlets of Le Pinnette, Verte Rue and La Beque. The enemy was taken by surprise and our casualties are light. At the same time Australian troops attacked and captured hostile posts west of Merris together with 43 prisoners and six machine guns. On the rest of the front the situation is unchanged.

A SHOCK FOR THE HUNS.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 28. (By the Associated Press).—Field Marshal Hindenburg's troops east of the forest of Nieppe got a nasty and unexpected shock to-day when the British suddenly drove forward in a surprise attack on a front of more than three miles, and hurried back the startled grey-coated soldiers to a depth of 1.50 yards. The operation was an unqualified success from its inception and the attackers reached all their objectives in remarkably short time. By this thrust the British not only have greatly improved their position in this important sector, which lies north of Merris, but they inflicted heavy punishment on two hostile divisions that were holding the line here, the 22nd division of Saxons, and the 4th reserve division of Reserves.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, June 28. (Official.) South of the Aisne we attacked this morning from the south of Ambleny to the east of Mont Gobert, in order to acquire armed places on a seven kilometre front. We entered enemy positions, took the Boches above Laverlate and heights northwest of Outry, and advanced our lines near Newfoundland Methodism Goes Over the Top.

REPORT OF MISSIONARY COMMITTEE SHOWS REMARKABLE RECORD FOR PAST YEAR.

The following report was presented by the Missionary Committee at Thursday's session of Conference:

Your Committee, with hearts filled with thankfulness to the Great Head of the Church, desire to report that the gifts of our people to Missions this year have reached the sum of $24,333.00. The amount raised last year was $19,379.00, so that the increase is $4,954.00. The objective set for this year was $21,000.00, and we have not only reached our objective, but passed it by $3,333.00. Eight years ago we were paying only $750.00 as salary, and, in addition to what we raised, were receiving $11,000.00 from the Mission Board to enable us to meet our liabilities. To-day we are paying the Ministers on Missions $1,000.00, and, instead of receiving money from the Mission Board, we are in a position to give the Mission Board $4,000.00 for work in other lands. This splendid result has been reached through the loyal co-operation of all the Ministers in this Conference, the generous response of our people, and the indefatigable labours of our Superintendent of Missions.

2. We heartily endorse, and submit for Conference approval, the following Resolution passed at the meeting of the General Board of Missions in May last:—

"That this General Board of Missions place on record its conviction that the time has come for a great 'spiritual and missionary forward movement' in the Methodist Church of Canada; that the definite object

"of this movement should be to re-lease the spiritual and material resources of the Church in support of 'the principles and programme of Jesus on a scale adequate to the needs of the work at home and abroad, and according to a standard of sacrifice and service commensurate with the issues involved, and in harmony with the spirit of the present time.'"

3. That this Conference thrills to the momentum of the mighty movement in United States Methodism in connection with the commemoration of the Centenary of Missions in that commonwealth. The Churches North and South are united in an objective and an endeavour which is world-wide in its vastness of horizon and Christ like in its call for passionate self-devotion and sacrifice, for the glory of God and the salvation of men. It contemplates and provides not only for the raising of an unprecedentedly large sum of money, but for the stimulating of the churches to a deeper, higher and broader spiritual life and activity. It recognizes the spiritual dynamic as the sine qua non of all forward movement at home and abroad.

This Conference heartily favors the acceptance by the Canadian Methodist Church of the invitation given by the Methodist Episcopal Churches of the United States to co-operate with them in this great campaign for an intenser and more practical spiritual life at home, and what must be its inevitable sequel, the further progress of the Church's imperative but largely unfinished task, the disciplining of all the nations and the preaching of the Gospel to every creature.

4. We endorse the action of the General Board of Missions in setting $1,000,000.00 as the objective for the General Fund for this year, and we recommend that $30,000.00 be set as the objective for this Nfld. Conference.

5. We recommend that the 22nd September be observed as Inaugural Day for the Missionary Campaign of this year.

6. In order that we may reach our objective, we recommend (a) The mobilization of all the spiritual and material resources of the Church; (b) The distribution of suitable literature; (c) The making of the fullest use of the District Missionary Committee, the Circuit Missionary Committee, and the Sunday School Committee; (d) The holding of a Missionary Conference in connection with each financial District Meeting, and the engaging the interest of the laymen in this matter; (e) The making of a canvas of every member of every congregation—where possible this to be done by a Laymen's Missionary Committee.

7. We recommend the Annual Conference to memorialize the General Conference to make the basis of minimum salary, $1,200.00 to married ordained ministers, $800.00 to single ordained, and $600.00 to probationers.

8. We nominate Messrs. C. P. Ayre, R. F. Horwood, Albert Soper, W. H. Peters and J. C. Puddister as members of the Standing Missionary Committee.

Thoughts Upon the Times

(By PATRIOT.)

A certain well known and respected business man of the West Coast is wondering why His Excellency the Governor made no reply, and institute no enquiry, amidst the charges that the ss. Fogota was an altogether unsuitable boat for the South West Coast service; and that every trip she is overcrowded with passengers, carrying many more than the law allows.

It is very gratifying to learn that the Victory Loan of two million dollars has been oversubscribed. In their prospectus the Government asked for two millions, but now that the people have taken up this loan so quickly, they have raised the amount as their objective to 4 million dollars. This is a real test of the people's patriotism, and they have risen to the occasion splendidly. There is no doubt about it that in another month the real objective will have been reached.

Has the tonnage problem, in so far as it relates to this country been handled properly? If so, how is it that so many carriers are apparently lying idle in this port when there is so much of the products of this Dominion stored waiting for tonnage to export it? Let any of my readers cast their eyes in the direction of Hoyles-Crown, and then visit Botwood and Grand Falls, and he will see how unnecessary it is for such carriers to remain idle.

Who said the Minister of Militia did not deserve a title? Did he not visit the front, and was he not mentioned in despatches as having made an "excellent speech which was much appreciated by all concerned?" Was he not "enthusiastically cheered by a battle from a castle window, as did the late Premier, Sir Edward Morris. And yet we have to put up with it all. Will anyone be kind enough to tell us how thick this man's skin must be.

The new order of the Canadian Food Control Board, limiting the profits on all food to a reasonable margin over cost, should be applied in this country. After the first of July no person dealing wholesale in meats, lard, cheese, butter, oleomargarine or eggs, in Canada, will be permitted to charge on each transaction more than ten per cent. over his cost price in selling to retail dealers. Our local Food Control Board has done nothing yet to justify its existence.

British Make Sudden Attack, and Advance Nearly a Mile Along a Three Mile Front.

French also Make Successful Advance. Austria-Hungary on Verge of Revolution.

SUCCESSFUL BRITISH ATTACK.

LONDON, June 28. (Official.) This morning English troops carried out a successful operation on a front of about three and a half miles east of the Nieppe forest. Our line on this front has been advanced to an average depth of nearly a mile, and more than 300 prisoners and 22 machine guns have been captured. All our objectives were gained, including the hamlets of Le Pinnette, Verte Rue and La Becque. The enemy was taken by surprise and our casualties are light. At the same time Australian troops attacked and captured hostile posts west of Merris together with 43 prisoners and six machine guns. On the rest of the front the situation is unchanged.

A SHOCK FOR THE HUNS.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 28. (By the Associated Press.)—Field Marshal Hindenburg's troops east of the forest of Nieppe got a "nasty" and unexpected shock to-day when the British suddenly drove forward in a surprise attack on a front of more than three miles, and hurled back the startled grey-coated soldiers to a depth of 1,500 yards. The operation was an unqualified success from its inception and the attackers reached all their objectives in remarkably short time. By this thrust the British not only have greatly improved their position in this important sector, which lies north of Merville, but they inflicted heavy punishment on two hostile divisions that were holding the line here, the 32nd division of Saxons, and the 44th reserve division of Reserves.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, June 28. (Official.) South of the Aisne we attacked this morning from the south of Amblemy to the east of Mont Gobert, in order to acquire armed places on a seven kilometre front. We entered, enemy positions, took the Boches above Laversille and heights northwest of Outry, and advanced our lines near the west of St. Pierre Aigne, and also on the hill south of this village. Our advance reached at some points a depth of two kilometres (a mile and a quarter.) We have taken up to now 1,000 prisoners.

SUCCESSFUL ATTACK.

PARIS, June 28. (Official.) Northwest of Mont Didier the French advanced their lines in Senecat Wood and captured 100 prisoners. Between the Marne and the Ourcq, a local operation was carried out south of Damard and the French took 22 prisoners. Last night was calm on the rest of the front.

REVOLUTION BREWING.

PARIS, June 28. There have been rebellious outbreaks among the garrisons of the cities of Győr and Pecs, Hungary, as a result of which two thousand of the military involved in the mutiny have been condemned to death, according to reports received by the Matin to-day. Both Austria and Hungary are affected by the revolutionary movement which is said to be in progress on a large scale in Austria, the newspaper advices declare.

BOLSHEVIKI GOVT. REPORTED OVERTHROWN.

LONDON, June 28. According to unconfirmed reports to-day, the Bolsheviki Government has been overthrown, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen. Moscow, the report added, has been captured by General Korniloff, supported by German troops. Advices from the same sources assert that Grand Duke Nicholas has been proclaimed Emperor, Nikolai Lenine, the Premier and Leon Trotsky, the Minister of War, were said to have fled to the Murman coast. General Kaledines is said to have cooperated with General Korniloff in the capture of Moscow. The Copenhagen newspapers, the Agency despatch adds give prominence to a Berlin dispatch quoting the Tages Zeitung of that city as follows: "It is believed here that the Bolsheviki Government will soon be overthrown and that Keren-sky is the man of the future in Russia."

PENETRATE AUSTRIAN TRENCHES.

ROME, June 28. British troops on the Asiago Plateau yesterday penetrated the Austro-Hungarian trenches and inflicted losses on their occupants and brought back prisoners, it was announced by the Italian war office.

BARTLETT AWARDED.

OTTAWA, June 28. The Royal Geographical Society has this year awarded "the Back grant" to Capt. R. A. Bartlett for distinguished leadership after the loss of the C.G.S. Karluk, according to an announcement to-day by the Naval Department. This grant which consists of a sum of fourteen pounds, was founded by the celebrated Arctic explorer, the late Admiral Sir George Back, for the reward and encouragement of scientific geographers and discoverers.

CONFERENCE SUPPORTS HOME RULE.

LONDON, June 28. The British Labor Conference at its concluding session here to-day, passed a resolution calling on the Dominion statesmen now sitting in the conference in London, to insist on the British Government settling the Irish question by granting to Ireland a large measure of Home Rule.

WONT RESIGN.

LONDON, June 27. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The Labor members of the Government met to-day to consider their position in view of yesterday's resolution of the Labor Conference terminating the party truce. In view of Arthur Henderson's emphatic declaration that the Labor executive did not desire the Labor members to leave the Government, Reuter understands that the Labor ministers have decided not to resign from the Government in any event at the present time.

U. S. COMMISSION FOR RUSSIA.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 28. Plans for sending a commission to Russia to assist that country economically and industrially have advanced to the point where it is possible to announce on official authority that the personnel of the commission is being discussed.

PREMIER HUGHES SAYS ALLIES ARE FACING THE SUPREME CRISIS OF THE WAR.

LONDON, June 27. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—At a luncheon given by the London Chamber of Commerce, Premier Hughes, of Australia, said the Allies were facing the supreme crisis of the war. The next few weeks were pregnant with tremendous possibilities. German militarists fully recognized that they must either achieve a decisive victory now or continue a hopeless struggle against daily increasing odds. It would be foolish to underestimate the immediate danger, but it was clear that the enemy was becoming increasingly anxious. The speech of Von Kuehlmann, the German Foreign Secretary, was a clear admission that the recent enemy offensive had been but barren in its gains and that military success, if not impossible, was farther off than ever, and unless victory was gained politically Germany must prepare for a long war. The change in the German tone, Premier Hughes opined, was due to a realization of America's great effort. The Germans also knew that the Anglo-French armies were confidently awaiting the next onslaught. While the much-vaunted Austrian offensive had spent itself and any day might see the Austrian armies in headlong route, and the civil population openly rebelling, Germany had lost completely command of the air and the failure of its submarine campaign was obvious. Great Britain's mastery of the sea was more complete than ever. Referring to the economic situation, Premier Hughes recalled that during his previous visit he had urged the need of empire organization and emphasized the folly of Great Britain's reverting to the fiscal and economic methods on which she had fatuously relied so long. We longed for peace, but was Great Britain any better prepared for peace than it had been for war? But for the war Germany would have destroyed our trade by peaceful penetration and reduced us and most of our Allies to a state of economic vassalage. The war revealed that our industrial and commercial greatness was honeycombed by German influence and control. Two things were necessary to enable us to hold our own, first the ability to defend ourselves against our enemies, second the ability to produce wealth and develop our economic resources of labor and capital so as to support a number of virtuous and happy people. (Applause.) Any policy ignoring the intimate relationship between national safety and economic welfare, said Mr. Hughes, was doomed sooner or later to destroy the nation adopting it. Hitherto, however, Great Britain had treated these two essentials as separate entities. A country's economic safety and development rested upon the organization covering every part of the national economic sphere. Germany's progress under such a policy had been phenomenal. Germany was to-day preparing for peace as she did for war. Germany was the best organized nation. Great Britain's policy, except as regards to navy was a policy of Laissez faire, nevertheless we are superior to Germany in initiative and resources. Has Great Britain organized for peace? That was the great question, said Mr. Hughes, unless Britain was to sink into a third rate nation after the war. He was glad to know that since he had last been here something had been done to organize our industries and prepare for peace. He was not criticizing what had been done. He knew the difficulties, but not enough had been done. Mr. Hughes emphasized the danger in which Britain's commerce and industry would stand after the war unless we at least were as well organized as our nations. Reconstruction after the war would be a mighty and complex task. There would be a colossal demobilization of many millions of men and women. Unemployment of labor and capital would create a crisis shaking the national fabric to its foundation unless there was effective organization. Something had been done and more was being done in order to ensure a sufficiency of food and raw material, but hitherto no definite policy, fiscal or economic had been declared. No national organization had been established, no machinery had been created, to deal with the many inevitable problems. This ought to be done without delay. (Cheers.) It will be too late to do it after the war when confusion would reign supreme. Mr. Hughes proceeded to castigate the credulous section who still considered a departure from the policy of the open door would end in the national disaster, despite the sinister object lessons of the Brest-Litovsk and Roumanian treaties. He contrasted the sickening folly of these doctrinaires and visionaries as agents of Germany with the robust truth of the German evil. Zimmerman showed that British short-sightedness was responsible for the rise of Germany and that economic position arising from the British policy was responsible for the war. Zimmerman said "the secret of our success lies apart from organizing and training our working classes, in the fact that England and other countries which are great producers of raw materials have granted to us the open door and allowed us to draw upon their vast resources of raw materials. If this permission is withdrawn we shall at one stroke become once more the Germany of 1813. Raw materials, said Mr. Hughes, were the basis of German industry. Germany could never have risen to commercial eminence without Anglo-Saxon cotton, wool and copper. So-called Britons who favored the open door policy were mostly the very men whose counsels or unconsciously were agents of Germany had brought Britain and the Empire to the brink of destruction in 1914 by the failure to recognize the German menace. (Cheers.) After urging an insistent and most vigorous war against pacifists who conspicuously hands of packers and merchants. Those most closely in touch with the situation declare that there is not more than half that number of barrels available in all hands at this time. The question of future prices is, of course, problematical but it may be assumed that herring purchased at the present prices will have to bring better than $27 per barrel to allow for a reasonable profit for the importer and jobber in this market. There has been a slight improvement in the demand during the past fortnight, but prices have shown no quotable change. Some of this goods has brought $28 per barrel, while in a small way there have been sales as high as $29. The supply of Newfoundland herring now held in New York is comparatively small for this season immediately preceding the most active period of the year.—N. Y. Fishing Gazette, June 15th.

Child Welfare.

The boy is the father of the man, therefore the girl must be the mother of the woman as well as of the man. The strength of a population depends upon the health of its children, and no city or country can ever hope to produce strong, healthy men and women, unless particular care is given to the health of the child. We have been too happy-go-lucky in our care and treatment of children and only now are we beginning to realise our shortcomings. It is not too late to improve, though the damning indictment of our carelessness and neglect has been served upon us by the report of the Registrar of Vital Statistics, in which is given the almost unthinkable figures of an infant death rate for the city itself of 178 per thousand of birth; for the Districts of St. John's East and West, 166; suburban and rural portions of districts, 137 and for the Dominion 137. A shudder must run through every one who reads and contemplates these staggering figures. No other city or town on the North American Continent can show such high infant mortality. In that huge hive of Greater London with its teeming masses of people living under conditions altogether different from ours, the death rate among infants is but 78 per thousand. To what then can or must be attributed our abnormal juvenile mortality. St. John's is not by any means an unhealthy city; the population is not crowded in tenements; there are practically no slums; the country is within easy reach of all; the ozone laden breezes of the ocean are ever with us and yet, notwithstanding all these blessings we hold the unenviable record of being easily first in the numbers of infants (under one year), dying annually. The welfare of the child then becomes our first duty. It would be a crime against the unborn, as it is against the living child to permit such a state of affairs to continue. No amount of instruction pertaining to the care of the child; no multiplicity of lectures delivered by professionals will have any effect, unless the awful seriousness of the menace to the child is inculcated in the parent. We owe a duty to the coming generations to place them in the battle line of life fully and perfectly equipped for the struggle. It is a responsibility which must not nor cannot be avoided or shirked. The child must grow into a healthy boy or girl and on to the full bloom of manhood and womanhood. The race which omits to take proper care of its children will become decadent, so surely as the sun rises in the East. The obligation of the hour is to look after the child. No matter what means are adopted, no matter what treatment is suggested, the welfare of the child must be our first and greatest care, and it will be to our everlasting disgrace as a people and to our peril as a part of the Anglo-Saxon unity if we deliberately commit race suicide by our neglect of the child, the first line of defence of the nation.

Swat the Fly!

Following up the campaign against the fly, the winged assassin, it may be of general interest to the public to know that disease can be distributed by musca domestica in three special ways.
First—By the germs clinging to its feet, legs, wings and proboscis.
Second—Its body when covered with bacteria, may cause infection when crushed or drowned, if it falls upon or into anything that goes into a person's mouth.
Third—By its excreta. Investigation has shown that most germs pass unharmed through a fly's body. The annoying fly specks, always the bane of the housekeeper, are known danger spots.
Therefore—Swat the fly!

47 Years in Priesthood

We are sorry to hear that Rev. Canon Smith is seriously unwell. He has been taking very little nourishment lately, but hopes to be well enough to attend Synod next week. To-day is the forty-seventh anniversary of his ordination as Priest. He is now in his fiftieth year in Orders, having been ordained Deacon in 1869. He was ordained Priest by Bishop Field, and the priests assisting at the ordination were Revs. A. E. C. Bayly, J. C. Harvey and Thomas Boone, Rural Deans, and the Bishop's Chaplain Rev. Herbert Mather, who afterwards became Bishop of Antigua, and who is the only one alive of all who laid hands on Canon Smith. We hope that the Canon will soon recover from his illness and be able again to get about and see his many friends.

Visitor Entertained.

Following the close of last evening's Session of Conference, the Rev. Dr. Smythe was entertained at Wood's restaurant by the Alumni of Montreal Wesleyan Theological College of which institution the reverend gentleman is the distinguished Principal. Among the guests were Rev. Dr. Moore and Rev. Dr. Curtis, President of the Conference. Rev. Dr. Saint, President of the Alumni, presided. After dinner had been discussed, the following toasts were duly honored: King and Country, proposed by Rev. H. P. Coppin, responded to by Rev. E. H. Mercer; Army and Navy, proposed by Rev. E. P. Ward, responded to by Rev. Dr. Moore; Our Guests and Sister Institutions, proposed by Rev. E. C. French, responded to by Rev. Dr. Curtis; Our College and Alma Mater, proposed by Rev. R. S. Smith, seconded by Rev. Dr. Smythe. The gathering was most enjoyable, and a pleasant and profitable time was spent.

Diocesan Synod

The Twenty-Third Biennial Session of the Diocesan Synod of Newfoundland will open in the Synod Hall at 9 o'clock p.m. Tuesday, July 2nd. The following services will be held in the Cathedral on the same day.
7.30 a.m.—Holy Communion.
7.50 p.m.—Evensong.
The offertory at the Communion Service will be for the Sustentation Fund.
Preacher at Evensong—Rev. C. H. Barton, M.A.
There will not be any collection taken up at this service.
A large number of clerical and lay members will be present at this Synod, and altogether the Session promises to be very interesting and instructive, and some constructive Ecclesiastical legislation will be enacted.

Dominion Day.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Sir,—I have been more interested in, than impressed by the adverse comments and correspondence evoked by my suggestion that the suffering and heroism of our sons at the front be forever kept in memory among us by the setting apart of July 1st as Dominion Day. I am indifferent as to the title or the date, so long as some day is consecrated to the proud and holy memories of the valor and sacrifices of our soldiers. But there seems to me to be the best of reasons why July 1st should be the date, and Dominion Day, the name. Other of His Majesty's Dominions have obtained their designations by extent of territory or political co-ordination or both combined. We gained the distinction purely and simply by our good swords. We were born as a Dominion on the bloodstained field of France. It is fitting that the agony by which we were brought to birth, and the pride that commingles with and helps to assuage it, should find suitable and perennial commemoration on the day forever sad, but forever glorious anniversary of July the First, 1918.
Yours truly,
GEO. J. BOND.
June 29th, 1918.

To Horsemen.

From our advertising columns it will appear that Horsemen are going to witness another "Westernland" Horse Show in 1922, but instead of the Parade Grounds, Quidi Vidi Lake has been the chosen place (on the ice) and this event will prove the speed of each animal—a splendid idea.
The 'ad' states that a $50.00 Victory Bond will be the first-stake, and no doubt other prizes will be forthcoming.
Howard Mann comes from the very fastest blood and is bred for endurance and early development. His sister the "Red Lady" was the fastest two-year-old the world has ever witnessed, going the mile in 2.04 minutes. The three-year-old record 2.03 minutes. She expects to reduce that this year as a four-year-old.
"Howard Mann" himself, has done the half mile in 1 minute and 3/4 seconds. It is hoped many horsemen will avail of this opportunity to encourage the many sport.
Who will be the winner of the Victory Bond?

As a medium of exciting patriotism and helping to "put across" some of the recent patriotic money raising "drives," few things have been more successful than the British Tank "Britannia" now touring the United States.

Captain Richard Haigh, a youthful veteran of the British Tank Corps, is in charge. The tank is now on tour from Washington through the east and south. Stops at three days to one week are being made in many of the larger cities. The huge monster tank, which was in the thickest of the fight in France, is transported from city to city on a flat car.

Both the tank "Britannia" and a Willys-Knight Eight which accompanies it on tour, are equipped with the same type of motor—the Knight sleeve valve. It was the only motor to withstand the rigid test stipulated by the British engineers who designed the tanks. Each tank is equipped with two powerful Knight motors. This moving fort—tons in weight—must have a motor of tremendous power and absolute reliability. Upon this one vital feature depends entirely the lives of the crew—the success of the charge—and, perhaps, the winning of the battle. The tank is doomed if the motor fails or falters—the sleeve-valve motor measures up to these requirements.
The Willys-Knight Eight, which Captain Haigh drives, is finished in the regulation British Army khaki with the British coat-of-arms on each side of the car.

W. P. A.—Members of the Women's Patriotic Association who intend marching in the procession on Monday next, are requested to be at the Parade Grounds at 10 o'clock that morning. It is hoped every member and worker in the W. P. A. who can make it convenient to do so will take part in the parade. A. N. GOSLING, Secretary.—June 28, 18.

Monday's Giant Parade.

The parade on Monday morning will form on the Parade Ground, and stakes properly marked will be placed in position so that the different units may more easily take their places and arrange formation.
The order of the various units in the procession is given below, as also the line of march. It is hoped to get the parade started punctually at 10 a.m. and those taking part would be expected to be at their respective positions on the Parade Ground by 9.30 a.m.
As the procession is passing through Government House grounds His Excellency the Governor will take the salute.
After the return of the procession to the Parade Ground, His Excellency will deliver a patriotic address. Attention is drawn to the advertisement of the Veterans' Association in this issue asking for motor cars, carriages or cabs for veterans unable to walk.

YOU SAID IT!
Shakespeare's "Comedy"

THE FABLE OF THE COMING STAR

Down among the Sticks—Where all the Talent has to Start some Time, Whence it all Comes, and Whither most of it Returns. There Dwelt a Young Dicky Hurler—a Pitcher of the Kind that has more Smoke than a Tar-Barrel and more Speed than a Joy-rider Crossing Dry Territory.
With the Help of Bull Luck and the Rustic Umpires, this young man Established a new strike-out Record for the Tinkum League, and his Beautiful of Seven Little Cities. When he Dusted them off, they Just had to put their Hoofs in the Water-bucket and those that didn't Dodge are Lying there Yet.

With a Tremendous String of Consecutive Victories and the Gall of Julius Caesar, the Hurling Hero Mowed down his Minor League, and when the Big Guys met to Sift out the Drafts Fourteen Major Clubs were Competing for his Clear Possession. When they took the Names out of the Hat, he was Awarded to the Champions of the Season, and the News caused a General Thrill amid the Bushes and the Timbers. He spent the Winter as the Idol of his Native Village, and when he went to the Training Camp at the End of February, they Gave him a Banquet at the Ophy-house, and the Postmaster's Fair Daughter Pinned a Red Rose upon his Gizzard.

At the Training Camp, where the Old Boys were Saving up the Soup-bones, the Young Pitcher had no Trouble. All went Well and Gaily, and, in Due Course of Time, the Schedule started. One Game, Two Games, and the New-risen Demon was not asked to Start. On the Third Afternoon, they sent him in, and he Prepared to unfurl his Matchless Repertoire. The First Bateman Just Sidestepped the Beau-ball and Grinned About the Fast

One—and the Umpire wouldn't even give the Corners to our Hero. The Second Bateman was a Tough Old Goat who stopped a Pitch with his Tonbeau and never Staggered. The Third Hitter Yawned as the Umpire Counted Four, and the Next Guy took a Toehold before he Stepped in with a Black Bat and a Snicker. As the Ball went over the Fence, the Manager called the Young Hero out of there, and refused to listen to his Explanation that he was Just Getting Ready to put on the Footers.

Now, he is Back in the Sticks, in the Same old Circuit. He has been there
Several Years; the Postmaster's Daughter still Believes in him, and they have a Bungalow and Five Children.

MORAL.—What is equal to the Love of Woman?

"Live
in a Worry invites death in a hurry."
Worry wastes nerve force at a tremendous rate. The more exhausted the greater the tendency to worry.
Then how is one to get out of this vicious circle?
By building up the nervous system with the aid of Dr.
Chase's Nerve Food.
As the nerves are strengthened you forget to worry and find yourself resting and sleeping naturally.

When you want Steaks, Chops, Cutlets and Collops, try ELLIS.

Market Notes.

Codfish.—During the past week
some 14,000 quintals of dry were exported from St. John's to foreign ports. It is estimated that about 50, 000 quintals are yet in stores here.
This quantity should go out next month, and then with clear stores and the markets abroad making a good demand prospects of fair prices for the new catch look promising.

COD OIL.—Approximately 31,000 gallons of both Common and Refined were shipped during the week ended.
Stocks on hand of 1917 process are small. The demand has fallen off considerably and local buyers are not keen on purchasing any of last season's manufacture. Ruling prices today are $275 per ton for common and $250 per gallon for refined.

Herring.—Scotch pack holders in Green Bay are disposing of their lots at prices ranging from $13 to $15.
This is regarded as falling at a loss but they are up against a variety of circumstances. Most of the shipments are being taken direct to foreign markets. Split herring are being held for a higher figure than the now offering, viz. $6.00. The quantity now on hand should not be more than 10-barrels.

LOBSTERS.—On the West and S.V.
Coasts reports coming in state that the catch is below average. Weather has been unfavourable but packers hope to even up in July. North of St.
John's nothing has been done worth speaking of. There is, as yet, no price fixed upon for the next pack, but one buyer has stated his willingness to start at $18.

Provisions.—Nothing new in the Flour situation. A scarcity in Canada and the United States, until new wheat is marketed, now seems imminent. The growing crops look A.I.
but it is of vital importance that a due economy in the consumption of present stocks be observed. Local prices are $14.50 to $14.75 for superior grades, and $13.80 for war standard.
Pork prices appear to be steadily declining and Ham Butt is quoted at $47 to $47.50 wholesale, St. John's.
Fat Back and Clear, which are not quick sellers at present are standing at $53 to $54. Good Spare Ribs may be bought for $36.50. Beef continues firm in both Chicago and New York and there are signs of a further advance, the cause being the heavy demand for War Rations. Bos. Flank $41 to $41.50; Bos. Packet, $40; Boneless, $40; Cuttings, $29.50, with local purchasing very low. Full supplies of American granulated sugar are not obtainable, chiefly owing to shortage of tonnage. There is plenty of No. 1 West India in stock, which is selling at about $9.25 per hundred pounds.
Melasses sales are quiet all the supplies for the fishery having been issued. Prices are unchanged from last week. There is not likely to be any considerable shortage.

Captain and Son
Overboard.

SCHOONER SAILS HERSELF.
"There's a sweet little cherub who
To keep watch over the life of poor
Jack."

The little cherub that looks after Capt. Isaac Young has no "cinch."
The following reads like a book, but is absolutely true so we are assured.
Capt. Isaac Young was going up the bay in his schooner on Thursday.
There was himself his son, Garfield,
a boy of about 15 years, and two men.
After getting clear of the Arm Mr.
Young sent the two men below to trim
the salt while he and his boy navigated the schooner. Somehow the punt they had in tow got jammed, under the quarter and Mr. Young sent the boy to clear her. In doing this he fell overboard. His father hearing him fall over ran to his assistance and he, too, fell over. Here was a situation, two of the crew in the water struggling for life, while all unconscious of what was happening above the two men below worked away on the salt, while the schooner with no one in charge slowly drifted towards Long Point.

Luck, or something else, had its eye on Skipper Isaac and his boy, and some men who were outside Burnt Island in a boat saw the affair and plucked them up. Then they chased the schooner and overhauled her before she drifted ashore, the men below being very much surprised to learn of what had happened.

Capt. Young has had some hair-breadth escapes, but we should imagine this was about as close a shave
as any.—Twillingate Sun.

Two Pleas.

Yesterday afternoon in the Supreme Court, Uriah Fowler, charged with a series of house robberies, pleaded guilty and will come up for sentence later. John Chislett of Illington, who is charged with giving false statements before the Military Exemption Tribunal, pleaded not guilty. He will be defended by Hon. R. A. Squires, K.C., and a day set for trial.

SUNLIGHT & SHADOW

"EVERY SOLDIER IS A SON."

SO wrote James Douglas in a fitting tribute to Heroic Women. It is equally certain that the homes of our gallant soldiers and sailors are not neglected because war has cast its shadow o'er the threshold. The motto of sweethearts and wives is "Cleanliness as usual" with

SUNLIGHT SOAP.

We see to it that the hardships of the home are not of a physical nature, for the guaranteed purity of Sunlight Soap ensures rest and comfort for all who use it.

Serviceable Summer Footwear!

Footwear as found at this Store represents the newest in styles, the best in quality and the very lowest prices consistent with satisfactory service. We have now opened a splendid assortment of Ladies' Summer Footwear, including the famous Dorothy Dodd brand. Call and inspect them.

Faultless Fitting Footwear.

You may or may not be interested in the many points of excellence about Dorothy Dodd Shoes—the high grade of leather in both upper and sole, the accurate stitching, graceful lines, smooth lining, proper balance and proportion of the heels, and so on; but one thing you and every other woman are interested in, above all else, and that is their faultless fit.

Whatever the manufacturers of Dorothy Dodd Shoes have done to make them beautifully dainty, they have never lost sight of the fact that first of all Dorothy's must fit and hold their shape

These two facts are the very base upon which the great popularity and success of Dorothy Dodd Shoes have been built. We are proud of the fact that we are the exclusive agents for Dorothy's here, and shall be pleased to prove to you and your feet the wisdom of making Dorothy Dodds your choice also. Summer stock now opened.

Asking for a Miracle.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"Si jeunesse savait. Si jeunesse pouvait." How much one knows when one is very young! And how much of that much, one gradually finds out as one grows older. I think there is never a year passes in one's adult life, that it does not open one's eyes to things one was blind to in youth.

One grows up, one undergoes the discipline of hard work, one marries, one experiences the unexpected difficulties of dealing tactfully with a husband or wife, one has a home of one's own, children enter one's life, and each new experience opens one's eyes to certain facts and complexities that one was coarsely blind to in one's youth.

To take a very simple example. Now I, too, have known. And then I (the girlhood I) walk about my house picking up and putting away the articles that some member of the household has left out of place. It seems to me as if I could actually hear my mother's voice across the years.

"If you children only would be more orderly," she is saying plaintively. "You don't know how much work it makes for you to be so careless."

If you'd only learn to put things back where they belong, it would help me more than anything you could do."

A Way Mothers Have of Talking. And then I (the girlhood I) who had perhaps just done the dishes or helped in some other positive way, would think, "That's just a way mothers have of talking. She does not realize how much the things I really do, help."

But to-day when that voice comes back to me, I am filled with a great shame. For to-day I know. I have been there myself, and I realize that even positive help cannot counter-balance the confusion and distraction that disorderly habits make. And I feel sometimes as if I simply must get back into the past and make up for my selfish carelessness.

THE MARINE.

He is always fit and ready. He is always cool and steady. He was born to laugh at danger and to fight his battles clean. He is trim and he is dapper. But he's every inch a scrapper. And where'er the shells are thickest You can look for the marine.

He's the first to scent the battle. First to hear the muskets rattle. First to stir Old Glory's colors 'neath a foreign bit of sky. And when the fighting grim commences, He's the first to heed the challenge. For the flag he's first to die.

He is rough sometimes of manner. But he loves his country's banner; He's a sailor and a soldier. Or a man of peace and law; In the wild, untutored places. He can teach the savage grades. And he'll build a Yankee schoolhouse With a hammer and a saw.

He can level mountain ridges. Cross the rivers with his bridges. Fashion order out of chaos. And a ruined town restore. Uncle Sam has never talked him With a job or never asked him For a special brand of service That he wasn't ready for.

Everyday Etiquette.

"Should I write to a young man I met white on a vacation this month and whom I like very much?" asked Myrtle.

"A girl does not write to a young man whom she has met on a summer vacation unless the agreement has been made between them before separating. The man will ask the privilege of writing to her first," advised her mother.

Milady's Boudoir.

ABUSE OF THE EYES.

Our most willing little servants are our eyes and it is their apparent destructibility that makes us careless of them. How many persons we see, each day, reading on trains that jog along each moment changing the quality of the light, thus causing the eyes the fatiguing strain of constant focusing.

Nowadays glasses have been studied with a view to their becoming qualities as well as their power, but all the same it seems a pity to have to wear them before age demands it, just because one has mistreated one's eyes, are almost worn out, perhaps, as from work done under wrong conditions.

For instance, it is a mistake to read late at night or at other times when physically or mentally worn out. It is a great temptation to read a book even, sometimes, when the eyes are almost closed in sleep, but there is no better way to strain the eyes than to overwork them when they are longing for rest.

The question of a good reading light cannot be too often brought to the attention, especially when the child is studying at home. It is more apt to be a poor light than the lessons that tire a student's eyes and a child should not be encouraged to read story books after lessons are finished as the studies are enough for one evening.

It seems very hard to be torn away from a fascinating book but it is much better than headaches and the annoyance and expense of having to get and wear glasses.

Fads and Fashions.

There are colored bead chains to wear with every costume.

Parasols are a very important part of summer costumes.

Deep crushed belts are a feature of the summer silk dresses.

Rough dark blue Jersey silk makes a pretty, useful frock.

Green and white gingham make a dainty dress for a little girl.

Children's waist lines are marked by a belt slipped through eyelets.

Tucks are the first choice in trimming for the light summer frocks.

There are as many high heeled shoes worn as there are low ones.

Undergarments and sports blouses are made of artificial silk.

Tulle and chiffon scarfs are bordered with fine colored checked silk net.

Silver gauze and silver net make a wonderful evening dress for summer.

There is seldom a white blouse that is not improved by a touch of black.

One-piece loose-fitted robe and sash draped effects are still in great demand.

Children are to have play aprons and poke bonnets to match—both of gingham.

If the material of the frock is sufficiently handsome, make it without trimming.

Tailored suits have narrow skirts and the coats have quaintly shaped waistcoats.

There is no suit more useful for both country and town wear than one of silk pongee.

THE HARVEST.

WALT MASON.

WALT MASON

The wheat will soon be ready, throughout the west, for workers strong and steady to come and do their best; the long green fields are turning to yellow, in the sun, and viewing them we're learning how we shall can the Hun. The wheat fields are golden, as grateful to the eyes, as in the ages olden was manna from the skies. For what means more than giving a pampered people bread; it's triumph for the living, and vengeance for the dead. The wheat from all these regions where reapers soon will sing, will feed our fighting legions, and balk the kultur king. Oh, worker, come rejoicing, and bring the golden sheaves, a song of gladness voicing, and not as one who grieves. Oh, toiler, tread the stubble, like victor proud and strong, nor think the task a trouble because the hours are long. As much as men with sabres, you fight the Teuton knaves, so blithely face your labors, and not like galley slaves. So to the wheat fields journey as gay as knights of old, who hastened to the tourney on fields of cloth of gold. With courage of the stoic, into the harvest trance; there's nothing more heroic on all the fields of France.

Can England be Invaded?

One of the methods used by pro-German influences in the attempt to provoke prejudice against Great Britain, is to suggest that a large part of her military forces are being held in England because of the fear of German invasion; the object being, of course, to put the thought in the minds of the Allies that Great Britain is acting selfishly in not giving as full co-operation as she might to the armies fighting on the western front. Now, any one who is conversant with naval operations knows perfectly well how absurd is this bugaboo of German invasion. The German General Staff never allow any operation to be undertaken unless they feel reasonably certain of its success; and they are well aware that to carry through a serious invasion, resulting in the conquest and occupancy of Great Britain, a minimum force of 250,000 men would have to be landed, together with all the field and heavy artillery, transport and military supplies.

In contemplating such an invasion one of two plans would have to be followed: The only safe and certain plan would be to obtain command of the sea, either by destroying the enemy fleets, or blockading them so securely that any sortie would be impossible. If this were done, the question of communications would be solved; and, once the invading army had been landed, it would be possible to keep it fully and continuously supplied.

On the other hand, if the General Staff believed the British Navy to be so powerful that its command of the seas could never be seriously challenged, then the only other possible way to get an army of 250,000 men landed in England would be to secretly gather a fleet of transports in the German ports, make a rush across the North Sea, and achieve a surprise landing at two or three points on the east coast within supporting distance of each other.

Now, the probability of Germany's ever obtaining the absolute command of the sea, even for a limited period, is extremely remote. She tried it at Jutland, when she had only the British fleet against her, and she liked her "glorious victory" as the Kaiser called it, so little, that she has never sought to gain another. But when we sent our destroyers and battleships over to add their strength to that of the British navy all discussion, may even the very thought, of winning the command of the sea must have died out once and for all at the German Admiralty.

As to the possibility of making a surprise invasion, while the British were in command of the sea, all the chances of the thing are heavily against its success. In the first place, there is not in all the Seven Seas a stretch of water that is so thoroughly patrolled as the North Sea. Patrol boats, big and little, trawlers, mine sweepers, destroyers, and a thousand passing ships of commerce, each equipped with wireless, would flash early tidings of the sailing of any Armada to Admiral Beatty. Moreover, long before the German ships were sighted by surface craft, the throb of their propellers and the loom of their bulk in the darkness would have been heard and seen by the far-flung screen of British submarines. Should the fleet steam out from Wilhelmshaven and the mouth of the Elbe, how would it pass through the vast mine field covering the German coast?

However, let us suppose that German mine sweepers should manage to open clear water for the transport fleet out into the North Sea. What then? What would be the chances of this fleet covering the 350 miles of distance to the coast of England and disembarking 250,000 men with their artillery and military supplies, before the British fleet came up and sank every one of the transports? Let us take it for granted that if an army of 250,000 Germans, thoroughly equipped, could be landed on the east coast, such an army could live off the land and make good its losses in guns, and ammunition by its captures from the enemy; the question still has to be answered by what miracle of good luck could such a large fleet make the passage and the landing without being discovered.

A brief consideration shows that it would require a veritable Armada to transport a thoroughly equipped army of this size. Our own Quartermaster Department estimates that for conveying our troops in France we require five tons of shipping to the man. Let us cut that figure in half for the North Sea passage, and we still find that 625,000 tons of shipping would be required, which, at an average of say 8,000 tons to the ship, would call for a fleet of 104 transports.

No, the British are not holding troops in England because of any fear of invasion by Germany. Of the several millions that she has called to the colors, only a certain proportion can be counted as fighting men that will carry a rifle at the front; and of these, possibly a million are under the sod in France or have been permanently crippled in their fight for the common cause. The others are still undergoing their training ready for the front, or are fighting in France, in Italy, in Greece, or in far distant Palestine and Mesopotamia.—Scientific American.

Why You Should Buy Victory Bonds

1—Good Business

IT IS GOOD BUSINESS to buy VICTORY BONDS because they are an absolutely safe investment, paying 6½ per cent. interest.

2—Wisdom

IT IS WISE to buy VICTORY BONDS because they teach you and help you to save money "against a rainy day."

3—Your Duty

IT IS YOUR DUTY to buy VICTORY BONDS because the war is being fought to preserve your liberty and safeguard your home and family against the fearful fate of the people of Belgium.

4—Your Privilege

IT IS YOUR PRIVILEGE to buy VICTORY BONDS because that is the most direct and effective way in which you can help to feed, clothe, arm and protect our soldier boys who are looking to you for aid and encouragement in their time of hardships, deprivation and danger.

5—Your Participation

IT IS YOUR PARTICIPATION in this loan that will help make it possible for Newfoundland to subscribe, if possible, four million dollars. You owe that to your country in this crisis.

Methodist Conference.

YESTERDAY'S SESSION.

The morning session opened at 9.30 with the President in the chair, hymn No. 574 was sung and prayer offered by Rev. C. Lennox. The journal of the previous session was read and adopted. An invitation to visit Headquarters to inspect soldiers' comforts, etc., was accepted.

The Conference then proceeded with the election of College Board of Governors.

Dr. Saint and A. Mews were elected to the General Board of Missions.

Treasurers of the various Conference funds were appointed.

Conference after some discussion proceeded to elect delegates to the General Conference. Drs. Saint, Curtis and Revs. Moore, Dunn and House were elected and the following laymen were elected—J. C. Puddister, A. Penny, J. Leamon, H. K. K. Bishop, A. Soper, A. Vatcher with Mr. Gooch and S. S. Stensford as alternates.

At 12 J. M. Shaw, M.A., Principal of Pine Hill College, was introduced to the Conference by Dr. Bond. Professor Shaw counted himself happy in having the opportunity of meeting the Newfoundland Conference. The subject which the Professor took was the war and the church. God sits king above all plagues, and above the war comes his voice to law and empire. Upon the church rests the responsibility of interpreting that voice. All are looking towards the end of the great war. When that day comes the church will face an unparalleled opportunity. The responsibility of the church must forthwith organize. Our soldiers are living in an atmosphere of sacrifice and will not be satisfied until their return. Identify themselves with a church that is not characterized by a spirit of sacrificial devotion to Christ. There must therefore be a quickening of conscience as to the meaning and ideals of church membership—adherence to a person rather than to a creed. There must be a definite liability to service in order to achieve the ideals of Christ-church, members must not be on the permanent list of reserves, but on active service. The fundamental principles of Christian brotherhood must be emphasized. The brotherhood engendered at the front to-day must be fostered after the war is over. Fraternal war should not be followed by fratricidal war of peace. There must be a new emphasis laid upon the cross and its constraint to sacrificial service. This higher note must be struck in all appeals to our peoples. The church must demand a revival of Gospel values and realities, and of soldier qualities of devotion and sacrifice. Professor Shaw was closely followed and his address highly appreciated.

Afternoon Session.

Session opened at 2.30 with the President in the chair. After the usual devotional exercises the journal of the previous session was read and adopted. Conference then proceeded with routine work.

Dr. Smythe, Principal of Wesleyan Theological College, then addressed the Conference setting forth the advantages and claims of the College which he represented.

Dr. Delano, Professor of Classics in Mount Allison University, also addressed the Conference, and gave an interesting address on the education and Mount Allison's ability to give that education.

Dr. Moore, Secretary of General Conference, gave a most interesting and inspiring address concerning social work of the church. He laid great emphasis on the need of social reconstruction.

The following resolutions were then presented and carried:

WHEREAS, Rev. N. M. Guy severs his connection this year with this Conference to take up work in another land and conference;

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, that this Conference place on record its deep sense of loss in Bro. Guy's departure, and its sincere prayers that God's blessing be with him and Mrs. Guy during their journey, and remain with them in their new home.

Many brethren spoke in support of the resolution and Rev. Mr. Guy fittingly replied.

Conference also passed this resolution:—

RESOLVED, that the members of the Conference have learned with sincere regret that Bro. Fredrick Meechews has been transferred from the Nfld. Conference to Montreal Conference, and in taking leave of him desire to place on record their high appreciation of Bro. Matthews and his work. We beg to assure Brother Matthews that he takes with him the prayers and best wishes of his brethren and friends. We take this opportunity of expressing our common feeling that in his departure our Conference loses an able minister of Jesus Christ and a brother not beloved only but also highly gifted in evangelistic fervour and enthusiasm.

A resolution was also passed Rev. H. Scott and regret was expressed at his leaving the Conference.

Conference accepted an invitation from Mr. King to a recital at the Kirk on Sunday at 4 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

Session opened at 8. President in the chair. After the usual devotional exercises were conducted the journal of the previous session was read and on motion adopted.

After certain recommendations were accepted and reports adopted the Conference passed to the order of business.

Rev. R. S. Smith presented the report of Social Service and Evangelism. This report was lengthy and dealt with such important questions as the enactment of the Prohibition law, child welfare. The report was read and discussed. Item by item. Many took part in the debate, and it waxed quite animated at times.

The Conference congratulated itself on the fact that no single congregation throughout the Dominion of Canada and Newfoundland used intoxicating wines for sacramental purposes. It is to be regretted that the debate was so prolonged that Dr. Moore was unable to address the Conference to any length. He wittily remarked that it was his experience in six conference gatherings that he visited. The hour being late the Conference was adjourned.

If you are going to get that new suit of clothes, get it now, as with shipments of goods prices are going to soar. We have a splendid stock to select from, and you can rely on a good fit in any style you wish to have it made. SPURRELL the Tailor, 365 Water St.—June 7, 1918.

Fishermen, now is the time to secure O. Mustad's Jiggers or Pikk Hooks. They are bright, small and act as a mirror, attract small myxids to make it spin. Just try this famous Norwegian fish killer, any ordinary lead sinker will pull, but place one swivel above the sinker and the other below to keep your line from twisting.
