ASHES CRUSH BUILDINGS MANY LIVES LIKELY LOST

Flow of Lava is, However, Diminishing and Worst Probably Over—Weird Tales of Desolation—Royalty Visits Afflicted District.

NAPLES, APRIL 10.—ACCORDING TO INFORMATION RECEIVED LATE TONIGHT, PROBABLY AS MANY AS 500 LIVES WERE LOST. IT IS SAID THAT MORE THAN 200 PERSONS IN THE DISTRICT OF SAN GIUSEPPE PERISHED. WHILE FROM THE RUINS OF A CHURCH, WHICH COLLAPSED OWING TO THE WEIGHT OF ASHES ON THE ROOF, FORTY-NINE CORPSES WERE EXTRICATED. IT IS ASSERTED THAT AT SAN GIUSEPPE THIRTY-SEVEN PERSONS WERE KILLED BY FALLING HOUSES. ASHES ARE STILL FALLING IN GREAT QUANTITIES.

Naples, April 9.—This has been a day of terror for the cities, towns and country about Mount Vesuvius. Unconfirmed reports place the number of dead and injured at several hundred, but not many facts can be obtained upon which to base an accurate estimate. At midnight the situation appears more assuring, the lava streams having diminished in volume, and in some directions having stopped altogether, while copious rainfall is cooling the lava where it lies stationary.

At Ottajano, five churches and ten houses fell under the weight of ashes and cinders, which lie four feet deep on the ground. In other parts the buildings about 12 persons were killed, and many more were more or less severely injured. The village is completely deserted by its people, after evacuation of the place the barracks and the prisons fell in.

Reports from coast and inland towns are of a most desolating character. In San Giorgio, Cremona, Porticia, Resina and Tarre di Greco, have been almost completely abandoned. The inhabitants of Torre Annunziata are prepared to leave on a moment's warning.

Most of the buildings in the villages are of flimsy construction, and have crumbled and so are poorly calculated to bear the weight of ashes and cinders that have fallen upon them. Inevitably it will be found that a considerable number of people have perished by the falling of the roofs.

Not less than 15,000 refugees have reached Castellamare, where the steamer Princess Mafalda is anchored. This vessel left the island of Capri with 1000 passengers, including many foreigners on board, but she was unable to reach her destination owing to the stifling clouds of ashes and fumes and gases from the volcano, which enveloped her a mile from the coast.

King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena have further endeavored themselves to the people by their activity in behalf of the sufferers by the eruption, and the government is exerting itself for the relief of the destitute. This work, however, is obstructed by the congestion of all means of transportation, which are monopolized in the carrying of persons out of the zone of danger.

PREPARATIONS ARE ALL MADE FOR POWER DEPUTATION TO SEE PREMIER

It Will Be the Largest and Most Representative Body That Has Ever Called on the Government.

"It must certainly impress the government with the feeling of the community," said Mayor Coatsworth last night when anticipating to-morrow's big deputation which will go to Queen's Park to urge the cheap power platform upon the premier. From all along the line come advance notices or representatives, and there is every reason to believe that the deputation will be one that, in point of numbers and importance, will go down into Canadian history. Just now it is estimated that at least 2000 will be in line.

In discussing the matter, the mayor realizes its moment, and the immense field it covers. He is strongly of the opinion that it is a matter for the government to have hold of, because were it left to the municipalities to build their plant and carry the power themselves there would be many disputes as to rights in some municipalities which would not arise in the event of the province handling the matter.

The Toronto delegation will be composed of the representatives of the Manufacturers' Association, board of trade, Trades and Labor Council, Builders' Exchange, Federated Council of Building Trades and the mayor, and members of council and officials. Woodstock will send a delegation, including the mayor and council. The mayor, aldermen and city solicitor of St. Thomas are coming. A special train will bring up the Ottawa Council, and will call at Whitby and other stations on the way to pick up others. The Reeve of King North will send members of the council to press the resolution they passed, urging the government to build a power plant to obtain power from owners of existing franchises. Newmarket's mayor and four aldermen, the Mayor of Sarnia and nine councillors, Mayor of Owen Sound and three members of the council and two prominent citizens of Waterloo, the Mayor of Cayuga and many others have signified their intention of being present.

Welcomed at City Hall. The delegates are requested to be at the city hall before 11 a.m. to obtain their badges. They will form up and go to the parliament buildings by way of Queen and University-avenue. The mayor yesterday requested the Toronto City Council to be present in the council chamber at 11 o'clock to-morrow, and as far as possible a welcome will be given to the delegates. The railways will doubtless bring along many friends with the delegates.

BADLY WATERED MILK

ONTARIO: Why do I want to see James Whitney in the business? Because you profess to sell milk, but charge me outrageously for the water in it.

HARTY'S VISIT TO McCALL AS PREMIER WHITNEY VIEWS IT MAY EXPLAIN COMMISSION

These facts, I am bound to say that Mr. Harty's disclaimer gives the affair greater seriousness and enables us to see still further into the doings of the dark and dying days of the Ross regime. "I have only to add that not only has it now been shown that Mr. Harty is not aware of the negotiations with Mr. Harty, but if Mr. Harty is to be believed, he was actually sent to Toronto by Mr. Harcourt."

Mr. Whitney was spoken to yesterday about the statements credited to Mr. Harty in Ottawa, wherein he admitted that the telegrams cited in the legislature were correct "as far as they went," claimed that the matter was one between Mr. Harcourt and the legislature, and challenged the publication of all telegrams bearing on the subject.

Asked whether he had any other telegrams to make public, the premier made reply that search of the department had failed to disclose any further cablegrams, telegrams or letters, nor could any record whatever of the offer made by Mr. Harty to Mr. Ross be unearthed. Every other scrap of paper except those already produced had been either "deliberately removed from the departments," or, he suggested, inadvertently after the fashion of the West Elgin ballots.

Referring to the explanation made by Mr. Harty, Mr. Whitney said it "certainly threw a remarkable light on a transaction about which the late government did their best to keep the people very much in the dark." Mr. Whitney said he was afraid that Mr. Harty's remarks tended to discredit the utterances of Mr. Harcourt in the house. Mr. Harcourt certainly gave the impression that he was altogether unaware of the negotiations with Mr. Harty. The premier referred to Mr. Harcourt's assertion, that he had no understanding with Mr. Harty, nor knew nor believed that any member of the late government had any understanding, direct, indirect, written or verbal, with Mr. Harty or anyone else in the matter, and that if Mr. Harty made an offer, he (Harcourt) first became acquainted with it when in England.

"After hearing Mr. Harcourt make this emphatic and solemn disclaimer of any understanding with Mr. Harty, or any knowledge of negotiations on his part," Mr. Whitney went on, "it is, to say the least, most remarkable to find Mr. Harty stating in connection with the sale of the bonds, that he was acting solely for the Ontario government. He went to New York at the request of Mr. Harcourt to meet John McColl, president of the New York Life Assurance Company, to whom he was expected to be able to make a sale.

MOST OF TEAMSTER'S PROFIT BY ARRANGEMENT WENT TO MISS HUDSON

Once There Was $100 to Divide of Which Thos. Clarke Retained One-Third and Balance Was Handed Over.

So great was the pressure of other business at the police court yesterday that a start was not made with the Phillips case until the afternoon, and then the proceedings did not begin until 3:30, owing to a consultation which the prisoner had with his counsel, J. E. Curry, in the room adjoining Crown Attorney Curry's office, a policeman standing at the door all the time. The fact that there was a consultation excited some curiosity amongst those present in court, but the nature of the conference was not divulged. When Phillips subsequently took his usual seat at the solicitor's table, he smiled at an acquaintance, but he was certainly grave in deportment than on previous occasions.

Yesterday afternoon's evidence was not of a remarkably exciting character. There was that of Miss Alexander, a tastefully-dressed girl of pretty appearance, who testified in a straightforward manner that she had worked for such subsidiary concerns as The National Monthly and the Toronto Life at the initiative of Phillips, and was paid in large proportion by the York Loan. Some rather interesting evidence was also given by a teamster named Clark, who spoke concerning his horses and wagons, which were seemingly at the service of the York Loan, and there was also evidence from the one witness who had to be pressed yesterday. He gave particulars of his work as an employee of the Toronto Life, during which time he also worked for the York Loan Company and The National Monthly.

Thomas Clark, teamster, said he had advanced $100 to the York County Loan fund. He thought $2500 in all. He estimated the employment of the York County Loan. "What did you do before you had any connection with the York County Loan?" "I had a team and wagon. I went to work for the York County Loan four years ago. The first advance to me was $400 in cash. I got the other sums in cash. I bought horses and wagons with the money and worked for the York County Loan and the Southern Light." He added that he had not done much work outside the county. He sometimes times drove the horses and wagon down town in a buggy. He rendered the bills to the York County for the work done. Witness had given no security for his loan. He had charged $1.33 dollars per day for team and men. For the work done for the Southern Light he rendered the accounts to an employee of the York County. Witness paid two-thirds of the profits made to Miss Lillian Hudson, by arrangement with Phillips. He retained the other third. After he had reckoned up his expenses and retained the $15 a week due to

VOICE OF RUSSIAN PEOPLE SPEAKS CLEARLY AT POLLS

Further Returns Only Add to Triumphs of The Opposition Party.

St. Petersburg, April 9.—Belated returns to-day only increased the magnitude of the opposition's victory. The City of Moscow has returned 160 electors, all Constitutional Democrats.

Tula is the only province, except Moscow, which elected a majority of Conservatives. The result in Moscow Province constitutes an anomaly in the elections.

As a result, the Province of Moscow, the real heart of Russia, sends to parliament comparatively unknown men—two peasants, a workman, Prince Gagarin, M. Bashoff, M. Krudner and Peter Struve.

The Rech organ of the Constitutional Democrats terms it a splendid victory, and referring to the election of men like M. Petrunkevitch and M. Boditcheff, who first demanded a constitution for Russia, and Prince Shakovsky, who gave a fortune to aid the liberation movement, the paper points out that these are the very people whose ideas the emperor twelve years ago called foolish dreams.

RED FLAG MARCH AT FRISCO RESULTS IN FIERCE RIOT

Socialist Meeting to Protest Against Course of Justice, Precipitates Street Disorders.

San Francisco, April 9.—The fiercest riot San Francisco has witnessed in a generation was a sequel last evening to a meeting of Socialists held at Woodward's Pavilion, an expression of sympathy for President Moyer and Secretary Haywood, of the Western Federation of Miners, who are imprisoned in Idaho on the accusation that they were implicated in the assassination of former Governor Steiener. Speeches were made in which it was declared that Moyer and Haywood were innocent, and that if convicted they would not be hanged unless the entire United States army was brought in to assist in their execution.

A procession was organized, and the assemblage marched down Market-street headed by a band. At Kearney and Market-streets a halt was made and one of the paraders, who carried a red banner, climbed Lotta's Fountain and affixed the emblem to the topmost lamps. The banner bore the inscription: "The Constitution be Damned; so Say the Corporations."

A. C. McGinty was elected to address the crowd. So great was the throng, however, that he could not make himself heard. A man named George S. Holmes, a metal worker with a powerful voice, was substituted as speaker. He was in the midst of his talk when Police-Inspector Steiener and Cavanagh, and Detective Ryan made their way thru the crowd. Ryan tore down the red flag and passed it to Steiener. He then ordered Holmes to desist, but was met with a refusal, and the detective pulled Holmes down to the pavement. In a moment a riot was precipitated. Steiener was knocked down and kicked in a vicious hand-to-hand fight, and the flag torn from his grasp. Ryan, who had held Holmes all of the time, started to take his prisoner thru the crowd. Being a path with his club to a passing car, the two men boarded it, while the other officers kept the crowd back.

A REAL ESTATE DEAL. Finds Its Way Into Supreme Court—Ayiesworth One of Counsel. Ottawa, April 9.—The case of Gilmore v. Simon was argued in the supreme court to-day. The appellant sued for specific performance of an agreement by respondent to sell land. The alleged agreement was made thru a real estate broker, who testified on the trial that the respondent had authorized him to sell for a price per acre and on specific terms; that the appellant agreed to the terms, and gave a deposit on account, whereupon the respondent varied the terms by demanding a lump sum in place of a sum per acre, which was agreed to. The respondent's evidence contradicted that of the broker, and showed no completed agreement.

They purified my blood, took the yellow color out of my face, put new tone in my stomach and increased my appetite. RECIPROcity WITH CANADA IS RIGHTLY GOOD FOR MAINE

Apostle of the Open Door Advances Strong Reasons Why State Should Take Up Agitation.

Portland, Me., April 9.—(Special.)—Henry M. Whitney, who was Democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts on a reciprocity platform, addressed the Maine Democratic Club here to-night on that subject.

He referred to the fact that Maine was the home of "the earliest and ablest advocate of reciprocity," Hon. Jas. G. Blaine, and said:

"It is understood that Mr. Blaine, while secretary of state, made a proposition to the government of Canada, for free and unrestricted reciprocity. This meant that Mr. Blaine had in mind a trade of reciprocity that should make ready between Canada and the United States as free as it is between the States of the Union. But the government of the Dominion of Canada was at that time in the hands of the Conservative party, corresponding to the Republican party of the United States—a high tariff party, practically hostile to reciprocity with the United States; and nothing came from the suggestion of the distinguished secretary. But even at that time the Liberal party in Canada, which five years later came into power and has remained in power from that day to this, was strongly in favor of the Blaine proposition. Touching this matter, their leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, since 1896 the premier of the Dominion, had this to say in the year 1893 (a quote from a speech of Sir Wilfrid made in Toronto):

"Why, Mr. Chairman, the British people will not to-day go back on the policy of free trade which they have adopted, and Canada is not in a position, at this moment, with the large revenue which she has to collect, to adopt any other tariff than a revenue tariff at best. So that the conditions are not equal upon which you can form a closer commercial alliance between Canada and Great Britain; but there is alongside of us a kindred nation economically situated as we are—the United States—and we claim that commercial alliance with England, which is not possible with England, is possible with the United States, and the policy which we have advocated, which will continue to locate, in the Dominion of all commercial barriers between this country and the great kindred nation to the south of us. Now, Sir, there is not a man in this audience, there is not a man in Canada, who would venture to say, who if he were to speak the honest conviction of his heart, would not say that this would be a most advantageous policy to Canada.

"When I see that in this moment there is not a man in Canada, who would venture to say, who if he were to speak the honest conviction of his heart, would not say that this would be a most advantageous policy to Canada.

"I think it is not too much to say that if Mr. Blaine had been living, and secretary of state, or had been succeeded by a statesman of equal broad views, at the time of Sir Wilfrid's accession to power, and at the time of his visit to Washington in 1897 for the purpose of signing reciprocity to the United States—on somewhat the same conditions, as compared with the proposition of Mr. Blaine—I say, I think it entirely probable that some measure of reciprocity would then have been agreed upon which would have been of untold benefit to the people of both the United States and Canada.

"The advantage to New England of a trade proposition appeals strongly to our people. In my own experience I find hardly a dissenting voice among our business men as to its benefit to New England interests.

"The area of the State of Maine is larger than that of all the other New England States, together numbering something more than 30,000 square miles; but the Provinces of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia contain nearly an equal area, in addition to which, is the Province of Quebec, containing upwards of 200,000 square miles, at least one-half of which is probably well suited for cultivation.

"Since 1890 the growth of the state has been astonishingly slow. No other state in the union, save only Vermont, has grown less than Maine. While the population of the United States as a whole has increased 150 per cent. in the forty years from 1860 to 1900, that of Maine has increased but a trifle more than 10 per cent. During the decade from 1890 to 1900 some improvement is shown, but aside from the growth of 3 per cent. in the population of Portland during that period, the average for the whole state was only 3 per cent., while the increase on the whole of the country was upwards of 20 per cent.

"Is there any remedy for this condition of things? None, I believe, except the free trade which is naturally tributary to Portland and the State of Maine can in some way be opened to them and that through a more equitable adjustment of tariffs your mechanics may find it profitable to engage in the production of such goods as are needed over the great and unsettled territory that is now being settled in the Canadian Northwest.

"This harbor of yours is the natural gateway through which with free and unrestricted intercourse the commerce of that vast region tributary to the Grand Trunk system might pass to and fro to the outside world. It is the eastern terminus of what is destined to be one of the great transportation systems of the world. It is in the direct interest of this system that trade shall be carried over the whole of the line to the City of Portland, and hence all the influence of the great corporation will be directed to that end. It goes without saying that the Grand Trunk will wish to haul its goods through their line. In addition to this is the important fact that the distance to the westward to the Atlantic is very much less via Portland than by any of the Atlantic ports in the Dominion. It is barely 250 miles from Montreal to St. John, N.B., and upwards of 700 to Halifax.

"Remove the duties from things mainly produced by you Canadian neighbor, and allow your people to trade freely in them, and the era of prosperity which we have spoken of will be brought to you without having to pay a tax of 25 cents a bushel on wheat and about $1.50 a barrel on other crops, which would buy and sell in the Canadian market, and you will see quite a different condition of things.

"The City of Portland would become to a large extent the depot for supplying the tea, coffee, sugar, and thousand and one things that constitute and summarize commerce over wide areas and on an extended scale.

"And who are they that object to a policy so fraught with advantage to the commercial welfare of the state? Only those people, worshippers of the high tariff fetish, who are in favor of a barrier that should be removed, no matter how large concern it may be to a multitude of people, if there is a prospect of increased prosperity to the many to the few interests of the few. In Massachusetts, although less than one-quarter of one per cent. of our wage earners are engaged in deep sea fishing, not more than one per cent. are directly or indirectly concerned in the fishing industry, the fishing interests have been permitted to dominate the policy of the government as concerns the trade relations with Canada and Newfoundland. They have deliberately sacrificed the interests of 99 per cent. of our people for a doubtful advantage to one per cent.

"I have been told that it might affect the potato industry. Now, the State of Maine is not without competition even in her potato industry, and the opening of our markets to the Canadian markets would affect the potato market, but very little. In the other items of farm products, the farmers of Maine hardly raise enough to supply the home demand.

They tell us that the reason we need the protective system at all is to equalize the labor conditions between the United States and other countries where labor is less well rewarded than in this country. No one that I know of objects to a tariff based on that principle. Without undertaking to go very much into detail, can we not determine by the census reports the cost of labor in the given product and make this the basis of a fair measure of protection? Referring to these census reports, I find that the wages paid of all the iron and steel industries of the country, and their various products of pig iron, structural iron, etc., amounted to $381,875,495, while the value of the product was $1,793,490,908, showing that the wages paid were 22 per cent. of the value of the product. Now, assuming that this represents double the rate of wages paid a like industry on the other side of the water, it would be most wonderful, and hence we should be most careful in determining the rate of wages paid in the given product and make this the basis of a fair measure of protection? Referring to these census reports, I find that the wages paid of all the iron and steel industries of the country, and their various products of pig iron, structural iron, etc., amounted to $381,875,495, while the value of the product was $1,793,490,908, showing that the wages paid were 22 per cent. of the value of the product.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the average tariff is about 40 per cent. and in many cases 100 per cent. to 150 per cent. An Independent Revision. "I have this to say with reference to revision of the tariff. If it is admitted to be impossible that we can get the trade of our neighbors in Canada through any treaty or reciprocity, then the only way for us to get the trade that we ought to have, and must have, is an independent revision of our own tariff, placing many of the articles produced in Canada on the free list and opening to this extent the door of trade. The reduction of the tariff on all fair and reasonable lines will lighten the burdens of our people in whatever occupation they are engaged. These things are well worth fighting for, and the people of this country should do their best to see that the democracy of the State of Maine to take up this battle and fight the good fight for the industrial and social welfare of our people.

JAPANESE OPENING THE DOOR BUT TRAVELERS TAKE RISKS

Interior of Manchuria Not Yet a Safe Place—Two Ports Opened.

Washington, April 9.—The following statement was given out to-day at the Japanese legation:

"Owing to the fact that the withdrawal of the troops from Manchuria had not proceeded sufficiently progressed, the Japanese government hitherto has not permitted citizens and vessels of foreign countries to enter the ports and regions of Manchuria, nor allowed foreign consuls to proceed to their posts therein. Considerable progress, however, having now been made in this respect, the Japanese government has decided, in accordance with the principle of the open door and equal opportunity ever advocated by them, to permit citizens and vessels of foreign countries to enter from foreign ports to the cities of Antung, Mukden, and Tatung-kiao, and to allow foreign consuls to proceed to their posts at Antung, Mukden, and Tatung-kiao. It has not yet been permitted in so far as military exigencies do not prevent it. It has further been decided that the Japanese government will open Daini (Talien) to the commerce of the world in as near a future as possible.

Judging from the present condition of the interior of Manchuria, it is impossible for the Japanese authorities to afford such foreign travelers adequate protection and facilities in housing and other matters. Those, therefore, who enter the interior of Manchuria do so entirely at their own risk, and the Japanese government do not hold themselves responsible for any injury or damage which they may suffer from bandits or other marauders.

THE TORONTO WORLD

Public Amusements. "The Fascinating Mr. Vanderville—Princess." Alfred Sutro's new play, "The Fascinating Mr. Vanderville," presented by Miss Ellis Jeffreys, at the Princess last night, is undoubtedly cleverly written and constructed. It is a comedy of twentieth century manners, in which the types are not exaggerated more than is necessary for stage effect. Its theme is the feminine weakness for men with a past, and its moral, if it has any, is that it is possible, but very indiscreet to play with fire even when fortune smiles upon the heroine, loyalty and love were not wanting in the end.

Lady Clarice Howland is the widow of a famous athlete, whose addition to her domestic happiness is to permit of a more comfortable and untroubled life. She has developed more than a tinge of cynicism, which allied to superb self-confidence and a strong sense of the humorous naturally produces a rebellion against the conveniences of society. Her family are poor and are ruled by a man who is devoted to conventional family interests, and the church, who is determined that Lady Clarice should marry again and marry money. The Bartholomew and the churchmen are the two elderly suitors, and Ernest Benham as Lord Woolham, were excellent. The minor parts had full justice done them by the remaining members of a well-balanced company. Mr. Sutro's play has much easy and in parts sparkling dialog, which kept the audience in a ripple of amusement. The principal who left nothing to be desired, Colonel Raynor's merits were safe in the hands of Henry Vibart, Arthur Lewis and Reginald Byre as the two elderly suitors, and Ernest Benham as Lord Woolham, were excellent. Court Plaster Used to Mend Bills Damaged by Safe Blow.

Sergt. Duncan yesterday came into possession of some more of the money which was mutilated in the wrecking of the Toronto Carpet Company's safe.

They were Moisons' Bank notes; two five and ten-dollar notes. The centres of the bills were blown out and had been patched with court plaster. Both Hunter and Bennett had the same kind of plaster in their possession when arrested. Landmark Masonic Lodge of Buffalo will be the guests of St. Andrew's in the Temple Building to-night.

"Happy" Ward, starting it on his own hook, is just as funny—perhaps funnier than in his last role—as he was when doing honors with his "Percy and Harold" side partner, Vokes. "The Grafter" gives him an opportunity to display a good deal of real comedy talent and to do it not only in the lines of the characters he has helped to make famous, there is enough of it in the smooth, there is Bill Groat exhibits in "getting next" world, who yet has a heart. Her art of handling, and the character of Lady Clarice is built up by many neat and delicate touches. Notwithstanding her own half serious, half humorous depreciation, the sympathies of the audience are won and held from the beginning. Miss Jeffreys has a first-rate company with her. Among the ladies, Miss Essen Dane, gave a clever character sketch of the domineering Lady Clemantina; Miss Lena Halliday was equally good as the Marchioness of Hendingty. Aggie Cowles, a fair

"My Tomboy Girl"—Mailestis. Lottie Williams, the effervescent, is a prime favorite with local theatre-goers. The new role in which she appeared at the Majestic last night fit her breezy personality admirably. "My Tomboy Girl" is the name of the Charles Blaney comedy drama and in the title role Miss Williams has just the sort of opportunities that she needs. There is always exuberant life while she is on the stage, and she just naturally carries an audience along with her.

The play itself avers enough of the melodramatic to please people with a penchant for thrills. In the act there is an intense situation, whose vividness is helped out by striking mechanical effects. There are some bright specialties, introducing jingling music.

Sam Devere's Co.—Star. Sam Devere's company of amusement makers offer good entertainment at the Star this week. "At the Health Resort" and "The Matry" are two brightly burlesque creations that give the well-trained and attractive chorus a chance to vocalize and display agility in dancing. The olio brings out some clever turns.

TORONTO SPEAKS TO-NIGHT

The first missionary of municipalized Niagara power will expound the case for cheap electricity under government control to a public meeting of Toronto citizens in the Association Hall to-night. Mr. Cockshutt, M.P., was to have been the principal speaker, but he is ill in bed, and the Hon. Adam Beck will be his substitute.

Mr. Beck, by a remarkable concurrence of circumstances, has become the man of the day in Ontario affairs. Two years' constant investigation into the possibility of Niagara Falls becoming the economic servant of the province has convinced Mr. Beck that only through public ownership of the great heritage between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario can this province secure the continuation of its primacy among the self-governing constituents of the Dominion.

His experience in business, the logic of proven statistics, and the modern trend of commerce and affairs generally, have made of Mr. Beck an advocate of public ownership. He is the last man to become obsessed of a mere theory. The work of the municipal power commission and of the hydro-electric commission would transform the most devoted theorist into a practical handler of practical questions. No harder, colder business proposition has been propounded to a whole people or indeed to any body of shrewd and critical shareholders, than that which has been presented to the people of Ontario by the municipal power commission, of which Mr. Beck is the most prominent member. Criticisms of it there may be. Refutation of its conclusions is impossible. It has been put forth by men who know what they are talking about; who are prepared to stand by their conclusions, and who are willing to stake their reputations upon its feasibility in practice.

All the men, women and children in the City of Toronto would like their dwelling places to be illuminated by electricity. Everything which brings that possibility nearer is worth something to the city. Those whose houses are at present illuminated without the aid of matches, are equally as interested as those who read by gaslight and lamp. For electricity to-day is dear, and they wish it were cheap.

The case for inexpensive electricity is not in need of defence. The Ontario government, which has the power to secure cheap current for the average consumer, shows signs of being satisfied with the burden of legislation it has already undertaken for this session.

The government possibly is not as well informed upon the power question as it ought to be. It is up to the citizens to bring the problem to the government's attention in the most positive fashion, so that, without further loss of time, (which means loss of money) steps will be taken to carry into effect the recommendations of the municipal power commission.

An opportunity is afforded to all citizens by to-night's meeting in Association Hall to declare their view upon this, the most important question which has arisen in the public life of Ontario for many years.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT IN BRITAIN

That there is no finality in politics—British or any other—is again being demonstrated by the movements of public opinion in the United Kingdom. Although it is not necessary to attribute the huge majority plied up by the present government to faith in its constructive policy, which, indeed, was the electoral issue, it would be futile to deny that the country was ripe for a further advance on the democratic road. The question is not whether old methods and systems require reform but what these reforms are to be and how far they are to go.

Signs are not lacking that the United Kingdom is on the eve of an era of constitutional changes, and they will tend. Decentralization is the order of the day, and the process is accompanied by a remarkable outburst of nationalism among the Celtic peoples—at least of Ireland and Wales—who are striving hard to resuscitate their ancient languages and literatures and reimburse them with the elixir of life and expression. With that effort conducted on proper lines, there can be no quarrel. Britain has learned the lesson that national spirit is helpful not harmful to imperial loyalty.

Scotland has remained in great measure untouched by the demand for home rule, a term conveying a favourable self-government. Certainly there are Scottish questions in the background, which will, when they become practical, involve party issues. But for the most part Scotsmen are left severely alone to settle their abstruse domestic concerns as they list. A Canadian bill day is welcomed for the relief it brings to the remainder of the house of commons, few of whom are rash enough to intrude and never do so with impunity.

Nothing is more significant these days than the change which has passed over Irish politics. Perhaps the pension under the stormy days of 'Par-nell was too severe to maintain itself unbroken, but making every allowance for this, it must be confessed the Irish Nationalists are not the ardent revolutionists they were 20 years ago. Much certainty has been given Ireland in the way of land reform, which, in the Green Isle as in Russia, was of more immediate importance to the peasantry than enlarged political power. The Nationalists, too, appear to have realized that self-government of the kind they look for, if it ever comes at all, will be given by easy stages, the cautious manner peculiar to British traditions. They will now take what they can get, and if it is not enough they will ask for more.

Wales, curiously enough, may get a measure of devolution earlier than either Ireland or Scotland. A proposal has been made to establish a Welsh national council of education, which will to all intents enjoy legislative autonomy. Wales will be made independent of the English department of education. If Mr. Lloyd-George and his followers have their way, the scheme which he has under consideration will enable the people of Wales to settle the school question as they please, and the mere suspicion that such a plan is in contemplation has already set the antagonists in the educational controversy by the ears. Yet there is plenty to be said for the Welsh side of the case. The difficulty will be to reconcile the conflicting interests, and Mr. Lloyd-George came to grief himself over the details of a somewhat similar attempt a short time ago. Devolution in some form is inevitable, since national feeling is now thoroughly aroused and has the sympathy of the present government.

HILL'S TRANSCONTINENTAL

At last the redoubtable president of the Great Northern has declared his intentions toward Canada. A letter to the Winnipeg Board of Trade announces his plans for a Canadian railway from Montreal to the Pacific coast; and one of his henchmen says that within sixty days contracts for the construction of 4000 miles of line in the western provinces will be let.

The eastern half of the line will parallel the C.P.R. The western portions of it will have feeders north and south, and will connect with the American sections of the Great Northern at seven points along the forty-ninth parallel. Mr. Hill is not asking legislative bodies for any bonus. He will pay for his right of way like any business man. He will construct the road on the best engineering principles as to gradients, even as he has done in the United States. He is perfectly confident that he will come out on the right side of his profit and loss account in a very short time.

Such is a good constructionist's faith in Canada. Such will be works in western Canada. Such is the final seal and testimony to the incalculable value of the lands of which a Liberal leader once said that the railway business arising from them would not pay for the grease consumed by the rolling stock of a single railroad.

Three potential effects of the Hill program are worth instant notice: (1) Its effect on prairie land values. (2) The political effect of his not asking for bonuses. (3) The effect on our relationships with the United States.

In eastern Canada we only partially realize the stupendous changes produced in the west by the railroad building of the last five or six years. Land, which a decade ago could not find customers at any price, is worth in many localities, from $15 to $20 an acre. Millions of acres are being kept out of cultivation by speculators. Far too much land has been collared by bogus homesteaders, who have sold their rights to bona fide settlers, under the false pretence that they legally owned the land. It is practically impossible to obtain good, free land near the railways. By the time the Great Northern system is completed the whole of the arable country will be within comparatively easy access of the cars.

The Dominion government, which has prevented the new provinces controlling their own lands, must consider, if it has not already done so, whether free grants of land should not now be stopped, and the public revenue correspondingly enhanced. To do this might conceivably check the flow of

SOMETHING IMPERIAL IN SHOWS

The first Toronto automobile show was a great success. The second, which opened last night, has a unique opportunity to prove that the first would have done more for the industry in Canada if it had included cars made on the other side of the Atlantic.

Except as our own convenience may be served, the United States is a foreigner's country, farther removed than the lands of our origin. Salt water is no real divide. We have made it the servant of unification. The impalpable boundary line between dominion and republic is commercially more of a barrier than thousands of leagues of tempestuous sea.

The thirty-three and one-third per cent. preference to British imported goods makes quite a difference in the cost of a first-class automobile. The case for the British cars, which have come to Toronto overland in special trains from St. John, is undeniably good from the point of view of inter-British trade. In the last resort they will be judged on their intrinsic merits as machines.

Those who have put them on exhibition show their faith by their works. Being shrewd men they must only look for reward according to works. Inspection is the first duty of the critic of imported cars. The Mutual-street Rink contains the most remarkable collection of British machinery ever put on show in one place in Canada. It is a unique exhibition of England up-to-date—a rare commendation.

GERMANY AND CORPORATION MANAGEMENT

Among the greater evils attending the modern developments of private corporations none is more inimical to the public interest than overcapitalization, due to stock watering. In the case of an ordinary trading company subjected to strong competition the temptation to handicap itself in this way is not of moment, but when monopolies, either natural or created by means of combinations, are in question a resort to stock watering is inevitable and is only limited by the gullibility of investors. Overcapitalization necessarily results in the imposition of rates and prices far exceeding those legitimately called for by actual capital expenditure. The people directly suffer in this way and indirectly by the formation of huge vested interests distributed largely among "innocent shareholders" who are utilized to buttress the plea of spoliation always heard when the burden becomes too great to be borne, and efforts are made to rid the community of an incubus which a wiser policy would never have permitted to be placed upon its shoulders. This same practice of stock watering leads to the payment of extravagant salaries and to numerous other abuses which are now attracting widespread attention and severe censure.

In connection with an address recently delivered by President Elliot of Harvard University on "The Ethics of Corporate Management," Eugene E. Prussing of the Chicago bar has written an instructive letter to The Chicago Legal News on the German method of treating this vexed question of capital increases. He says that the twin evils of overcapitalization and extravagant salaries have been made the subjects of strict statutory regulation in Germany, ever since the great "swindling promoters' panic" of 1873. The capitalization of corporations has become a judicial proceeding there. The promoters are required to apply to the county court, which appoints appraisers or commissioners to determine the proper capitalization or increase of capital of a corporation. Evidence is taken as to the amount of money paid in or to be paid in for the corporate purposes or of the value of property to be conveyed to the company, and its earning power. A state's attorney represents the public interest in the proceedings and protects it with the usual German thoroughness. A decree of the courts is entered finally, and upon this the corporation is permitted to proceed. A violation of the decree by the promoters or corporate officials is severely punished. Since the enactment of the laws governing capitalization in Germany has been rare, and not until nearly thirty years later did any important violation of the law in this respect become public. This was the great Mail Drilling Corporation lawsuit. It promptly resulted in the punishment, expiration of license or suicide of the participants in it.

"The law has been found to work most excellently, and, while Germany is free from the corporate mismanagement which is nevertheless true that official misconduct in corporations is rare and not so rampant as it has become in this country. The high ability of German managers has made profits reasonably certain and dividends are usually satisfactory. The country suffers, however, from the use of excessive salaries, and the consequent drain of reserves for bonuses. Officers receive moderate, but good living salaries. Then the stockholders receive a dividend of not less than 4 per cent. The directors, who receive only their expenses before that, are entitled to a moderate percentage of the remaining net earnings, and the officers to a like percentage. The then remaining net profit is subject to the vote of the stockholders for dividends for other corporate purposes. Directors are never permitted to declare or fix the amount of the dividends."

If these admirable provisions or others of like import and effect had been in force in Canada, the problems

TELLS BY THEIR SLEEP

"I can tell by my little ones' sleep when a cold is coming on," said a mother when speaking of the advance symptoms of colds in children. "They toss about, are restless, their breathing is heavy and there are symptoms of night sweats. The next morning I start with Scott's Emulsion. The chances are that in a day or two they are all over it. Their rest is again peaceful and the breathing normal."

Here's a suggestion for all mothers. Scott's Emulsion always has been almost magical in its action when used as the ounce of prevention. Nothing seems to overcome child weakness quite so effectively and quickly as Scott's Emulsion.

The engine ran over him, completely severing his head from the body. An inquest was held to-night,

LIMIT OF EXPRESS CHARGES

Editor World: I noticed that Mr. Maclean tried to get the government to include the express companies in the matter of government control. He is on the right track. The following, I think, will prove that something should be done to regulate the cost of express.

I am connected with a company here who brought from Akron, Ohio, a casting, or piece of machinery, and the charges on it were $33. The same week the manager of the company went from Toronto to Akron, Cleveland, and to Wellsville, Ohio, and back, and his expenses for everything were only $28. The casting was carried about 250 miles in an ordinary express car. The manager traveled 720 miles in a first-class coach and paid hotel and other bills.

Why the difference? It must surely have cost less to carry the casting in an express car than it did a passenger in a first-class car, to say nothing of hotel and other charges, and a difference in haul of 600 miles.

DRACONIAN CODE FOR CANOEISTS.

Editor World: Toronto has lost two fine young men. Let us turn the accident into some good.

Learn to swim first and canoe afterwards. After you learn how to balance and paddle a canoe, then learn to empty it and climb into it. Boat-renters should not be permitted to rent canoes to those who cannot swim.

People who can swim should learn the further art of life-saving. If one person is in a person in a canoe, and that person cannot swim, and an accident occurs, then the person who, in case of a drowning, saves himself but not be permitted to rent canoes to those who cannot swim.

CANADA LOSES DOOR TRADE

Wheat men are here opposing the lowering of grain grades as suggested in Manitoba. They argue that such action would result in a lot of inferior grain being mixed with grain of good quality, and that Yankee dealers are responsible for the agitation.

Information has been received from Canada's South African commercial agent that the Canadian pine doors have been rejected at Cape Town in favor of the United States article, which had been proven superior in quality at the price. A Cape Town firm stated that a short time ago they had disposed of ten thousand pine doors annually, but the demand had ceased entirely on account of the poor quality.

South Africa annually imports 200,000 worth of golden syrup, the bulk of which comes from Great Britain. The attention of Canadian producers is drawn to the fact that they would have the advantage in ocean freights to the amount of $3 per ton, and should be able to secure the bulk of the trade.

HERE'S A WARNING NOTE.

School Children's Teeth Said to Be in Alarming State.

"The decay of the teeth of the rising generation is alarmingly on the increase."

This is the burden of petitions which the Ontario government has been receiving. Public school teachers, citizens, dental societies, and other bodies have combined in the sounding of a warning note.

It is claimed that out of several thousand public school children examined, only 5 per cent. were found to have sound teeth, the average number of decayed permanent teeth being 5, while nearly 20 per cent. of these decayed teeth were past saving. It is asserted that the ignorance of parents as to which teeth are permanent is the cause of widespread neglect of teeth with serious injury to health as a result. It is asked that school children's teeth be regularly inspected.

WANTS IT HURRIED.

Fitzpatrick's Intimation to Sabbath Observance Bill Committee.

Ottawa, April 9.—(Special.)—Dr. Daniel, St. John, N.B., was appointed chairman of the special committee on the Sabbath observance bill, which met this morning.

Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick intimated that he was very anxious that the proceedings of the committee should not be protracted, and in view of the fact that the bill had already received its second reading in the house, one or two meetings of the committee would be sufficient.

Thursday, April 19, was fixed for the first meeting, when the objections and claims of interested parties will be heard in reference to the bill.

Duncan Ross, M.P., Cariboo, wanted to know if the bill would interfere with running smelters on Sunday—if so, he would bring a deputation from the west to be heard.

Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick answered that this was a matter of opinion that could be considered at the next meeting of the committee. He hoped that the committee would be able to complete its work in two sittings.

Messrs. Ames and Fringie thought it would require more than two meetings of the committee to hear all those who are desirous of making representations. It is understood that the committee will endeavor to have the majority of those interested in the bill put their suggestions forward in writing.

Among those present to-day were Rev. J. Shearer, on behalf of the Lord's Day Alliance, and Hon. T. Chase Casgrain, representing the railway companies.

The Safety of a Double Track

When coupled with a first-class well-ballasted roadbed, enables the traveler to enjoy a day's ride, or sleep comfortably in a Pullman at night. It is a common remark on the Grand Trunk Toronto-Montreal line, "I slept like a top." "What a smooth road," and you generally find trains, especially the "International Limited," run in a few minutes ahead of time. Although four sleepers are run on night train Toronto to Montreal, it is necessary to reserve in advance and this should be done at city office, northwest corner King and Yonge-streets.

MAPLE SYRUP AND APPLES THE GOVERNMENT'S SPOILS

Spite Work Against E. D. Smith Alleged and Lax Adulteration Laws Condemned.

Ottawa, April 9.—(Special.)—The adulteration of maple syrup was discussed in the house to-day by the members from Quebec, and a resolution passed, calling upon the government to suppress it. The discussion was not political, but on both sides of the house there was a sentiment freely expressed that the law had not been enforced with a sufficient degree of vigor.

Mr. Brodeur, minister of inland revenue, was a trifle nettled at the criticisms directed against his former department, but he defended himself in answer to the resolution. Preceding this there had been a debate upon the exposure by Mr. Smith of a transaction which Dr. Smith pronounced "the most picaresque of all the disreputable acts to which this present government had descended."

It appears that Mr. Smith had in order from Birmingham for some raw sugar. The same was shipped, paid for by the customer and found quite satisfactory. Through some mistake the cases in which the sugar had been put were labelled "gallen" instead, also, as a matter of fact, they also contained some Roxbury russets.

Mr. Brodeur explained that in the case of the adulteration of maple syrup, the adulteration was not done by the farmer, but by the manufacturer. He said that he had been told that the adulteration was done by the manufacturer, and he had been told that the adulteration was done by the manufacturer.

Mr. G. T. P. in the East. Mr. Crockett (N.B.) insisted upon the minister of railways and canals complying with the copies of all correspondence had between the G.T.P. Railway Co. and the government and any department thereof, and in order to get the G.T.P. Railway Company and the Transcontinental Railway Commission in reference to the survey and location of the proposed transcontinental railway between Quebec and Moncton.

600 CONGO SLAVES SUFFER

Subjects of Belgian King Maimed by Soldiers—Many Lashed to Death With Whips.

New York, April 9.—It was announced yesterday afternoon in the people's meeting in the church of the Epiphany that an appeal had been made to the United States by Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., of Massachusetts, to interfere against the atrocities being practiced in the Congo Free State under the rule of King Leopold of Belgium.

Mr. Guild is vice-president of the Congo Association, a body which is organized in order to tour the country and obtain facts about the terrible crimes which are being perpetrated in the Congo Free State. "I got my information," Dr. Johnson said, "from the report of King Leopold's own commission of inquiry and from Protestant and Catholic missionaries."

The report states that in six months 9300 slaves were kept in the Congo Free State without remuneration. These subjects-slaves were guarded by an army of soldiers, were provided each with a caliche. This instrument of torture is made of strips of green hippopotamus hide, which are twisted and dried and made into a whip. The spiral edge of each strip is five inches long and is made of a soft material.

"Soldiers ordered to shoot men who failed to pay their taxes," the report continues. "When this was discovered the right hands were ordered to bring back the right hand of a slave for each empty cartridge."
