Great Sheffield Choir Evokes the Enthusiasm Of Brilliant Audience

Dr. Coward's Remarkable Chorus Gives Toronto a Splendid Performance Indicative of the Excellence of English Oratorio.

Another link of empire was soldered last night at Massey Hall when Dr. Henry Coward's Sheffield Choir from the motherland of oratorio and glee music gave an example of the traditional English school of choral music before one of the largest and most fashionable audiences ever assembled in Toronto's great music hall.

A highly appreciative audience, too, to judge by the applause and the encores recognized and unrecogized. It was fitting that Handel was given precedence on the program. Canon Cody might have included among his religious empire-welding influences the great choruses and solos of the immortal "Messiah," and a Toronto audience could not fail to acknowledge its heart beat warmer to Britain as it stood up and joined in the mighty praise that brought old King George to his feet. Appreciative listeners like Dr. Vogt himself and Dr. Torrington were there to hear the welcome visitors. Connoisseurs like Byron Walker sat in careful judgment in the balcony. Society spread itself all over the building, and unable to find seats stood around the walls and crowded the doors.

The boxes were occupied by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. E. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Justice Lyttelton and Miss Lyttelton, London, England; Dr. Albert Ham, and Mr. Coward's party. The Massey box was draped. Many attended from out of town, like Hon. Adam and Mrs. Beck from London, and all who went wished to go again to-night.

The applause was magnificent, and perhaps only failed in appreciation of Miss Lomax's rendering of "He Was Despised," the most artistic number on the program. Both she and Miss Breare were encored for later terms, and received bouquets. Dr. Ham conducted his own coronation ode, and Frank Welman his own orchestra in Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas."

The orchestra was particularly fine in Handel's "Prophet of Wagner's Great music—the Pastoral Symphony. Robert Charlesworth had a splendid voice, and Mr. Coward, of the previous night spent in the arctic regions, and William Peacock took his place in "Why Do the Nations." Henry Brew a brother of Walter Barty in his sweet-voiced numbers, had two recalls in "Thou Shalt Break Them." Everybody was making comparisons with the Mendelssohn Choir, but it is juster to the visitors to judge them on their merits for careful, conscientious staging after the tradition of the English school of oratorio. Probably England could not send a better choir to Canada, and this is a splendid thing for the president of the choir, W. S. Skelton, eldest son of Sir Charles Skelton, ex-mayor of Sheffield, to congratulate his choristers upon. And Toronto may be proud to have been an appreciative musical public which draws such visitors to the city, and enables Dr. Vogt to meet such friendly rivalry without concern.

Travelers and suitcases. This case below. Our regular per case below. The best of the best, regular values.

An Analysis of the Program.

By Dr. J. D. Logan. The greatest choir in the world, easily sustained its right to that title last night in Massey Hall, and drew the breath of many hundreds of people young and old with won derment, which shall be recalled in their hearts until their dying day.

Picture to yourself a throng of 250 people on the stage of the auditorium, all of them singing, all of them with alto, tenors and basses, and then imagine that when they sing in ensemble you hear but one single voice, melodious, thrilling, uplifting, glorious and profound; thus you will get thru the fancy some conception of the astounding perfection of the vocal utterance of the Sheffield choir.

Genius of Dr. Coward. To one man alone—and he by common agreement amongst the musical peoples of the European continent—belongs the glory of having brought to perfection the organization known as the greatest choir in the world. And the wonder of it all is that Dr. Coward, as he himself has said, has not a choir composed of angelic voices, but altogether of humans who simply have a working knowledge of music in general and of sight singing in particular. But with ordinary material, Dr. Coward, by his genius—that's his insight into the expressive powers of the human voice, his enthusiasm, his energy, his magnetism, and the gift of imparting to his choir the right methods of voice production and other vocal techniques—has created a body of singers which is the ne plus ultra in choir art. Dr. Coward himself is all temperament, and without temperament infused in the souls of choristers by the conductor, choral music, as any other music, may be technically perfect, but it will be barren of sweet delight, emotion and spiritual level.

COULD'NT WED, SHOOTS GIRL, AND SELF

Chester Johnson of Hamilton Sends Five Bullets Into Rose Quimet and Then Kills Self.

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 5.—(Special.)—A double tragedy was enacted this evening at 150 Rebecca-street, the home of Mrs. Camille. It is believed that it will turn out to be a murder and suicide.

The police know very little about the affair, which occurred about 9.30. The first word the police got was when a man came around to say that there had been a shooting in a house on Rebecca-street.

He was so excited the police could get little information out of him, and they spent an hour in locating the place.

They found Chester Johnson, a young Hamilton man, about 25 years of age, unconscious from bullet wounds, and a girl who was known as Rose, suffering from five or six bullet wounds. They were hurried off to the City Hospital.

The doctors said there was no hope of Johnson's recovery, and that he had, but a short time to live. There appeared to be some chance of saving the girl's life, and she was promptly placed on the operating table.

Because they couldn't wed. The police believe that Johnson was employed at a rolling mill and Mrs. Camille says he came to her home this afternoon engaged a room, returning this evening with a pretty girl, Rose Quimet.

They had hardly been in the room an hour before Mrs. Camille heard five or six shots in quick succession. She rushed to the room to find the door locked. She broke it open, and found a revolver clutched in each hand. He was unconscious, but the girl, who she had five bullet wounds, was fully conscious. She said Johnson had shot her because he could not marry her.

She was shot on the head, on both breasts, and had two wounds on one side. She was lying on the bed. She is described as a very pretty girl about 20 years of age.

The girl was positively identified as Rose Quimet, 14 Windsor-street, and Johnson is said to be a brother-in-law of Manager Thomas of the Alexandria Roller Ring.

"Could Die Together." A note was found written by him, saying that as they could not wed together they would die together. Her parents objected to the match. The girl is a Jewess.

LATER—Chester Johnson died at midnight. The girl cannot live until morning.

ACCOUNTANTS HONORED

Scottish Experts Given Reception by Local Associations.

Harry Lloyd Price of Manchester, Eng., and Arthur E. Green of London, Eng., president and vice-president of the Institute of Accountants of England, were the guests of honor at a pleasant reception given at McConkey's last night by different Canadian accountant associations. They are recognized as being the best of their craft and a great many prominent members of associations here were anxious to meet them. The guests, with several other gentlemen from Scotland and Wales, came to attend the great accountant convention held in Atlantic City.

Mr. Price was accompanied by his wife and daughter and Mr. Green by his wife. The ladies receiving were: Mrs. Sumner Scott, Hamilton; Mrs. Henry Barber, Mrs. George Edwards, Mrs. W. H. Cross, Mrs. G. U. Stiff and Mrs. H. Wigson, all of Toronto.

TRADES COUNCIL

Four Members of City Council Will Be Opposed.

Not a single dissenting voice was heard when the Trades Council, in a sarcastic address, exhorted the delegates of the Toronto District Council to support the Trades Council vote and influence against Controller Spence, Aids, Bredin, Adams and Lytle because of the stand those gentlemen took when the question arose as to the rate of pay to be given the unemployed who will be given work by the city during the cold dark days of the coming winter.

The council also endorsed the action of the fire and light committee of the city council for having advocated an increased scale for the firemen.

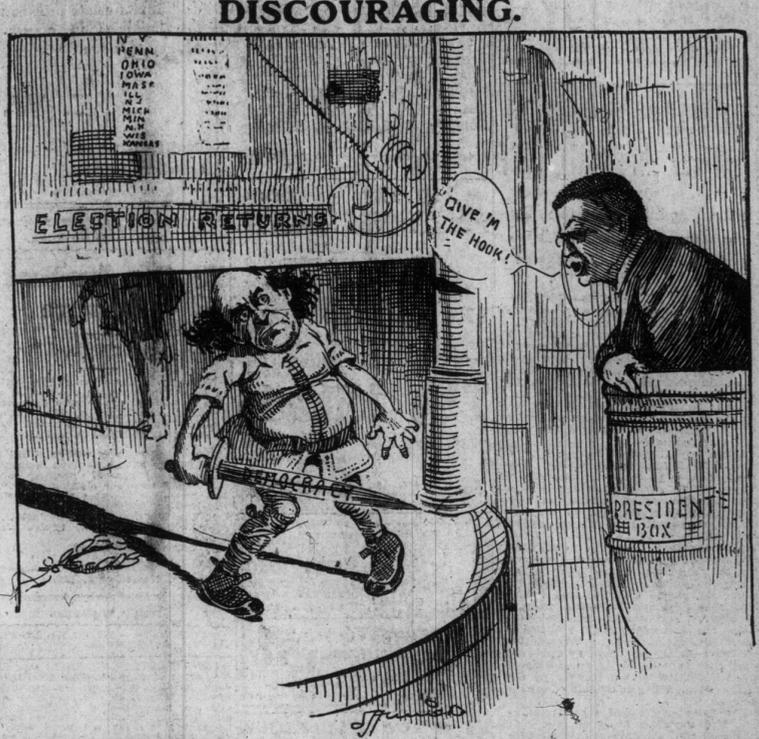

A letter from S. M. Wicketts to President Kennedy, asking that the council get down to work on the question of having evening lectures for workmen started at the university, was read.

Delegate Watt of the Tailors' Union announced that John E. Lennan, representative at the A. F. of L. convention in Denver and also treasurer of the Federation, had written expressing the opinion that the next meeting of the body would be held in Toronto.

AGENT CHARGED AS INTEREST ON LOANS

Defence of Marine Department Official at Quebec—Foreman Gagne Has Been Suspended by Telegram.

QUEBEC, Nov. 5.—(Special.)—Senator Choquette at today's sitting of Judge Cassels and court of enquiry into affairs of marine department offered to admit that in the case of many dealers summoned as witnesses here, Mr. Gregory charged 5 per cent. interest on loans made to parties awaiting payment of their accounts by the department.

Judge Cassels said: "Mr. Senator, are you prepared to argue before me that it is right for the agent of the department who orders supplies to charge 5 per cent. interest on the sums paid to the dealers furnishing such supplies?"

Senator Choquette said he was simply prepared to admit that advances were made to those awaiting payment of their accounts, and charges were made for the use of the money.

W. R. Blanton, assessor, explained his transactions with the department, which amounted to about $3000 a year. He had no fixed prices, but always tried to get as much as he could within the degree of fairness and squareness. He paid Gregory commission for cashing drafts and did so because it was his business when he needed the money. The goods were sold to the department on the usual basis. He never got cheques or money direct from the department in Gregory's time.

He did not think that 5 per cent. was too high, and he needed money. Brokers charged 10 per cent. The percentage of profits he made out of trade with the department averaged about thirty per cent.

J. J. Murphy was cross-examined and in answer to Judge Cassels declared that his payment of the 5 per cent. to Gregory was certainly considered by him in the light of a commission for favors, past, present and future.

F. X. Drolet, machinist, declared he could not give much information himself, but his bookkeeper, Audebert, had prepared him a statement showing that since 1904 the sum of $5143 had been paid to Mr. Gregory. Asked how much was paid to Capt. Koehnig and Fontaine, engineer of the S.S. Montcalm, witness said he did not know, and was ordered to have the information for the next sitting.

Another Suspect. Mr. Lemieux of the firm of Samson & Filion, hardware dealers, produced books and papers showing that in 1905 the firm's accounts against the department amounted to $21,100. On account of this $17,000 was advanced by Mr. Gregory, on which 5 per cent. was paid and $1250 was received by cheques from Ottawa. There was no explanation as to the balance of the claim.

In 1906 the claim of the firm was $24,025, against which drafts were received for $20,750, on which 5 per cent. was paid. In 1907 drafts were received for $27,000, on which 5 per cent. was paid, the accounts of the year were only $28,022. Perhaps the payments included arrears.

Orders have been received from Ottawa suspending Foreman Gagne, to whom J. J. Murphy claimed in his evidence to have paid some $347.

BANKERS GUILTY, FACE LONG TERMS.

Morse and Curtis Are Committed to Tombs for Misapplying Bank Funds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Charles W. Morse, until a year ago a dominant figure in the world of finance, with millions of dollars at his control, and Alfred H. Curtis, former president of the National Bank of North America, were found guilty to-night in the criminal branch of the United States Circuit Court on charges of misapplication of funds and falsifying the books of the bank.

There was also the additional charge of conspiracy against the prisoners, but the jury acquitted the men on this count.

Within five minutes of the time the jury had rendered the verdict, Judge Hough had refused to entertain a motion for bail and had committed the two bankers to the Tombs Prison. Judge Hough said that he would hear any motions the lawyers for the prisoners desire to make at 10.30 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The federal statutes provide a minimum penalty of five years' imprisonment for falsifying the books of a bank and a penalty of two years' imprisonment for misapplication of funds. No alternative but imprisonment is provided for conviction on the charge of falsifying the books of a bank. The maximum penalty on this charge is ten years' imprisonment.

The jury recommended clemency for Curtis.

The scene in the courtroom was a dramatic one. Morse and Curtis had remained in the courtroom nearly the entire day awaiting the verdict. They stood while the foreman was reading the verdict and their wives sat near them, leaning forward in tense attitudes to catch every word.

A stifled sob of relief escaped Mrs. Curtis as she heard the recommendation for mercy for her husband. Curtis took the verdict like a stoic, but Morse was unable to conceal the disappointment he felt, while his wife showed no sign of emotion. She kept her eyes on her husband.

While the jury was deliberating, after having been out more than twenty-four hours, the monotony of the long wait was broken by Morse's attack upon a newspaper photographer who was attempting to make a snapshot of him. Morse was leaving the court room with two ladies when the photographer met him at the door with his camera trained upon the group. At the sight Morse sprang at the photographer, seized his camera and smashed it. In the scuffle which ensued the photographer received a blow in the face, blackening one of his eyes.

There was a momentary hush in the court room after the verdict had been read. This was broken by a buzz of excited conversation in the court room, and a few minutes later the lawyers for the defendants were making the customary motions for a new trial, for bail and for permission to make an appeal.

There had been wide interest in the joint trials of Charles W. Morse and Alfred H. Curtis on charges growing out of the failure of the National Bank of North America. It was brought out in the testimony that Mr. Morse had made large loans from the bank through the agency of Curtis, and that President Curtis had enabled him to do so.

The money thus obtained was used to finance the Morse ice pools and steamship operations, which later failed.

TRIFLING AFFAIR DEVELOPS INTO A CRISIS

Relations Between France and Germany Suddenly Strained Over Casablanca Incident.

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—The relations between France and Germany are again disturbed thru Germany's seeking from the French Government the release of the German legion at Casablanca, and additional satisfaction for an alleged assault made upon a subordinate official of the German consulate at that place.

The French foreign office wishes to submit the matter to arbitration, and M. Jules Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, is endeavoring to reach an agreement with the German foreign office to this end, but so far without success.

Several of last evening's papers took up the subject and declared that it is now necessary for Germany to insist upon her rights. The German Government made serious representations to France early in October with reference to this affair, which was prior to the controversy which arose from the publication of the emperor's interview, but the raising of the controversy in the newspapers yesterday is regarded by some of Chancellor Von Bauer's critics as a device to divert public attention from the emperor and the chancellor to a foreign quarrel.

The viewpoint of Germany was explained officially by the foreign office this morning.

"All we demand," said an official of the foreign office, "is a similar expression of regret from France for the violence against the German consular officials at Casablanca. Unless this is forthcoming there would be no object in conducting further negotiations."

"Concerning the other points of the difference we are prepared to arbitrate."

German Press Belligerent. BERLIN, Nov. 5.—The German newspapers, which hitherto have been almost silent upon the recent phase of the Casablanca incident, have suddenly placed this question in the position of first importance. The controversy is treated as being extremely significant word as involving the national honor.

Public feeling is appealed to by various influential journals in the provinces, as well as by those in Berlin.

The summoning of the foreign affairs sub-committee of the Bundestag, the federal council, which is in rare occurrence, is required under the constitution, the government communication regarding the state of negotiations between France and Germany is considered to indicate that the present situation is serious.

The Koenigsberg, Allgemeine Zeitung, using the principal national Liberal organ in the eastern provinces, publishes a semi-official note as follows:

"There is good reason to believe that France-Germany relations in the Casablanca incident is sharpening, and soon will become an open conflict. The negotiations certainly still are proceeding, but German patience some time reach its limit. If France in the meantime does not decide to yield to the moderate German demands, then Germany will be compelled to speak more plainly. The foreign affairs committee of the federal council, which will meet on Saturday, will have to decide on how this is to be done."

France is Indignant. PARIS, Nov. 5.—Paul Cambon, the French ambassador in Berlin, has been instructed to notify Germany that France maintains her view that the whole question should be arbitrated, and that in the meanwhile she declines to release the deserters, to repudiate the officers concerned, or to exchange reserves with Germany.

At the same time the chancelleries of St. Petersburg and London have been informed of the exact situation.

Premier Clemenceau declared to-day that he was ready to go before the chamber of deputies on the issue and resign if he was not upheld. The presence of every shade of opinion, with singular unanimity, voices approval of the government's attitude and declares that a backdown would be equivalent to their moral end of France.

An extraordinary session of the cabinet was held this afternoon, and the decision not to accede to the German demands was unanimously expressed.

Too Critical for War. The Temps is of the opinion that the present situation in Europe makes it absolutely impossible for Germany to risk an armed conflict.

"It would be a crowning impudence," this paper says, "for Prince von Buelow to risk a war with Austria-Hungary is absorbed in the near east, when the Balkan states are ready to close the German roads to the eastward, and Italy is less and less disposed to sacrifice herself in the cause of another state."

In conclusion, The Temps advises the government to publish the French case to the world.

200 DROWN.

Chinese Steamer, With Six Hundred Passengers, is Wrecked.

AMOY, China, Nov. 5.—A small steamer, carrying 600 passengers from Amoy to Tungan, a few miles distant, sank last evening.

Two hundred of the passengers were drowned, Chinese junks rescuing the others.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted. Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and you leave you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period, even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart that are acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful refreshing sleep, not by depressing the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action. Mrs. E. Nutt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes: "I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again." Price, 50 cents per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

THE CLEARING VISION.
Dearest, when we have done what was our best;
When the strength of our day is past,
and night
Comes quietly, and we know that we must rest,
Leaving the task undone, shall not the fight—
The all unfinished, faltering and weak, Yet, since we loved each other, and held high Above our falling what God bade us seek—Shall not the fight bring peace? And we but die
To find the dream is real? Not, as then, made
Of careless happy fancies, but reared strong
On selfhood's sacrifice and conquered wrong.
—Hildegard Hawthorne, "Poems."

Taft and Women's Suffrage.
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—A despatch to The Tribune from Denver says: A constant petition to be circulated among the women of America and then submitted to President-elect Taft, is the immediate plan of the National Suffrage Association. Announcement of this fact is made by the Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the association. A special appeal was made to the Colorado women to assist in the movement by securing the signatures of every woman in the state. "Mr.
Taft has often said he was willing the women of America should have the right of franchise if they desired it," the president said. "Now is the time to give him an opportunity to show what he meant by this statement."

Anglican W. A.
At the Anglican Women's Auxiliary meeting in St. Simon's Church Sunday school yesterday, two new life members were reported by Secretary Mrs. E. A. DuVerne. The new Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Clarke of St.
John's Church, Norway, was introduced.
She succeeds Mrs. Banks, who has occupied the position for 14 years.
Mrs. Clougher was appointed secretary-treasurer of the "leafy circle," to succeed Mrs. Simpson, resigned.

The treasurer reported receipts for the past month to be $71.91. The extra-cent-act collections were $212.11, a portion of which was voted towards two appeals from Toronto diocese, $30 being given to the Esplanade Mission and $80 to the mission at St. Clements.
The balance, $132, was voted towards the mission at Peace River in the diocese of Athabasca.
The Junior Secretary-treasurer reported a successful junior conference, held Oct. 30, when an address was given by the general junior secretary, Mrs. Gaviller. A new officer had been taken up for the support of a missionary child.
A special appeal was made for books and magazines to be sent to Rev. John Antle of the Columbia coast mission in Vancouver for circulation amongst the miners of British Columbia.
Parsonary missionary collections amounted to $324, which was voted to diocesan missions.
An interesting letter was read from Dr. Archer of Bengal, India, describing the medical missionary work in that district. A letter was also read from Miss Bennett, matron of the Indian school in Lesser Slave Lake, Athabasca.
Miss Cartwright gave a short address on Korea, and Rev. C. H. Shortt gave a talk on Japan.

Willing to Help
Editor World: I noticed an article in one of your papers of recent date concerning the making of provisions for the needy of your city. If I understood it rightly such provisions were to be sent to the "House of Industry," where a committee was appointed to distribute them among the most needy.

The Nursing Mission.
The annual meeting of the Nursing Mission, 55 Beverley-street, was through-ed yesterday afternoon by friends of this organization. The attendance was its largest in history and taxed the capacity of the parlors. Rev. Dr.
Perry presided. The attendance included Canon Cayley, Canon Dixon, Rev.
C. O. Johnston, Rev. James Macdonald, Rev. T. Murray, Rev. S. B. Ro-bold, Prof. Goldwin Smith, Dr. Stenhouse, Dr. Davidson, Dr. Kinmer, Dr.
Bryans, Dr. Skinner Gordon, Dr. Peppler, Dr. McIlwraith, Dr. Clark and many others.
Mrs. Richter-Brown, acting president, read the annual report. This showed that there is a staff of seven nurses under the superintendent, Miss Hoyt.
The press attended 624 patients and made 554 visits. These included 198 cases of night duty.
The financial statement showed a slight balance.
Rev. C. O. Johnston moved the adoption of the report and testified to the grand work which is being done for those in sickness and need by the nurses of the institution.
Rev. Canon Dixon said that to appreciate the self-denying devotion and the high quality of the work performed, it was necessary to know the depth of poverty and terrible conditions of many of the homes in this district in the southeastern portion of the city. In a vast number of cases this was accompanied by the evil of intemperance.

Ladies' One-Piece Apron. Cut in sizes small, medium and large. Medium size will require 4 yards of 36 inch material. Here is an apron that is not only simple and practical but becoming as well. The upper part of the skirt is fitted to the figure by darts, and is ample enough to cover the entire skirt.
The back portion is extended to form straps that cross in the centre and fasten on the shoulders. The usual apron materials are suitable, such as linen, gingham and percale.
A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address on the receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

nurses would, under such circumstances, give to the depressed and distressed members of such families could not be overestimated.
Rev. S. B. Rohold of the Presbyterian Jewish mission, said that the poverty and distress of such families large number of the 15,000 foreigners in St. John's Ward suffered was not to be attributed to intemperance. It was very largely the outcome of ignorance caused by oppression in Russia and other countries. The nurses in visiting these foreigners' homes performed a double duty, as they not only gave temporal relief, but they also did much to dispel the prejudices against Christians, which had been generated by ill-treatment in nominally Christian countries.
Several of the members of the medical profession present added brief tributes to the excellence of the services rendered in connection with various dispensaries as well as in the homes of the people by the nurses of the association.
A graduating diploma and enameled pin were presented to Miss Barker, who passed her examination with honors.
The officers and board of management were re-elected. The officers are:
Hon. president, Mrs. Goldwin Smith; president, Mrs. L. Brodie; vice-presidents, Mrs. Sutherland Stayner and Mrs. Lockhart Gordon; acting president and secretary, Mrs. Hunter-Brown; treasurer, Mrs. T. Bryce.

BARRIE, Nov. 5.—"It is not a diet of lady fingers and popcorn balls that strong men need to give them strength for the work of casting a vote. We have the whole wheatbread always in the house. Moistened the crust with the milk of human kindness, and instead of moral dyspepsies, we will have stalwarts."
Thus concluded a report on "Press Work" prepared by Mrs. Emma Water-ton of Kempsville, and read at this morning's session of the W.C.T.U. convention. The desire of the union, as expressed in the report, is that the temperance people be carried home to the greatest possible number.
Mrs. Gordon Wright, Dominion president, on behalf of the convention invested Mrs. Flora Y. Miller of London, the corresponding secretary, with a life membership badge and pin in recognition of past services.
Mrs. S. C. E. McKee of Barrie was re-elected president on a ballot. May R. Thornley of London, who was vice-president, was honored by the convention, by being elected honorary president. The honorary vice-president is Miss Hattie Stevens of Toronto. All the other officers were re-elected. They are: Mrs. Flora Y. Miller, London, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. E.
Irwin, Weston; recording secretary, Mrs. B. O. Britton, Gananoque, treasurer; and Miss Lottie Harris, Toronto, secretary.

GLAD TO SEE 'EM GO.
Chinese Demonstrate on Departure of U. S. Battleships.
AMOY, China, Nov. 5.—The second squadron of the American battleship fleet this morning steamed out of the harbor, bound for Olongapo, Luzon.
The departing warships were given a demonstration in marked contrast to the apathy which was noticeable on their arrival.
The cost of the reception has exceeded $1,000,000. The Chinese Government has been lavish in its gifts to the American officers and men.
A gentleman was traveling in the north of Scotland. When he reached his destination he discovered that he had left his waterproof in the compartment. He hurried as the train was

One of the gentlemen replied: "No, they are all Macgregors."

"DRUNKS" AT THE HOSPITAL
Not Wanted, and Should Go to Jail or Asylum.
That the General Hospital should bar its doors to delirium tremens patients and common drunks was the recommendation made to the board of trustees yesterday afternoon by Supt.
Dr. J. N. E. Brown, who proposed that the former class should go to the lunatic asylum and the latter to the jail.
Dr. Brown will talk the matter over with the superintendents of the other city hospitals, and confer with the civil authorities and afterwards report to the board.
Dr. Tibb Wishart was appointed to the department of the ear, nose and eye, and Dr. M. A. Powell to the charge of the emergency department, as senior assistant surgeon.

A DOUBLE TRIUMPH.

Share the Success of the Sheffield Choir.
And what an audience it was that assembled in Massey Hall last night at the opening concert of the great Sheffield Choir! Every seat sold and many more who wanted seats. Toronto's foremost people there, and all with one accord prodigal in their praises of the magnificent program rendered.
Coupled with the praises of Dr.
Coward and his choir were the fasturing comments heard on all hands of the splendid service rendered by the Heintzman & Co. pianos in use for the occasion. The time was when the piano of foreign manufacture would have been called into requisition on a great occasion like the present. But to so high a degree of perfection has Heintzman & Co. pianos attained that this time, as many other times of late years, this instrument has completely met the demands of the most famous artists. As all concerts of the Sheffield Choir, wherever held in Canada, only this one particular piano will be used.

Just a Boy and a Match.
A small boy, the business end of a match and some curiosity started doing things on Church-street, just above Queen, yesterday morning that threatened for a time the complexion of the youth and the destruction of a small shop.
Willie Royce was the boy. He had been left with a neighbor for the day and at an unguarded moment, wandered out on the street, where he met another youngster. The latter had a match, which Willie undertook to put into working order. The wind was lusty, however, and the boys decided to enter the shop to light it. Dropping from his fingers into a tea chest full of waste paper the match, quizzed set off the contents. Young Royce tried to quench the fire and instead was singed a little himself. At this juncture the fire box was pulled out, but before the apparatus arrived the blaze was extinguished and the mother of the enterprising youngster had returned to take back to the family fold her wandering lamb.

Buffalo Boxers Out Not Allowed to Enter Amateur Tournament

The three men entered from Buffalo have had their names erased from the city tournament list. They were in the writer, middle and heavy weight classes. It did not seem probable that they could furnish amateur credentials.

The draw will be made this morning, and will show twenty-seven preliminary bouts for the opening on Saturday night, when the first round will stand at 8 o'clock.

The four candidates from out of town, Edwards and Lane of Hamilton, Donnelly of St. Catharines and Brown of Brantford have been given byes, and they will not be until Monday night.

The ring was placed in position yesterday in Mutual-street. The reserved seat plan is at Wilson's, 277 Yonge-street.

The tournament is announced by J. J. Bennett, Tinner-J. P. Fitzgerald.

TUG AND SCOW WRECKED

Gale on Georgian Bay Does Considerable Damage. OWEN SOUND, Nov. 5.—(Special).—In the terrific gale that swept Georgian Bay on Tuesday night the tug Glanarone with a large scow broke from her moorings at Lion's Head, Rock 47, and was dashed on the rocks and smashed to pieces.

The tug Crawford with a scow also broke loose, but was saved the fate of the Gladstone, as she was in a more protected position.

The Gladstone was valued at about $4000, and the scow about $1500. Both were owned by Pedwell and Lembo, who were small owners, at Lion's Head.

A full turn practice of the I.S.A. will take place at Ketchikan Park to-night (Friday) and all players are expected to turn out, as an important meeting will be held immediately afterwards.

Your Thanksgiving Day Shoes

Come some time to-day or Saturday and buy your new shoes for Thanksgiving Day. Never has our stock been so complete with pronounced values and a wide range of snappy new styles to choose from.

The Keith Konqueror Shoe At $5.00

This shoe is made on the Stag last, in gun metal and patent colt, with military heel. This is a very dressy shoe—a warm favorite with young men who look for something right up to the minute in style and of undoubted quality.

The Emmett Special $4.00 Shoe

Made on the Instructor last, straight laced and Blucher cut, in vici kid, Velour calf and patent colt, with heavy sole and low-heel—an ideal walking shoe. This special of ours is a hummer for the money and really should sell at $5.00, but it would not be a "special" if it ceased to be exceptionally good value.

The Emmett $3.50 Shoe

If our $3.50 shoes were not just the nicest, nobbiest, most up-to-date $3.50 shoes in Toronto we would not sell so many of them. We have these popular priced shoes in such a wide range of styles and shapes that we cannot mention any particular one of them.

Nothing will convince you of their merit so quickly as a careful personal inspection. We invite you to make this inspection as soon as possible—to-day, if convenient; if not, to-morrow.

MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY FILLED—SATISFACTION GUARANTEED. The Emmett Shoe Store 123 YONGE STREET.

MISS SAHN REPEATS EASILY IN HANDICAP

Brannon and Deverich Each Ride Two Winners—Latoria Gossip.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—(Special)—Miss Sahn came right back to-day, after winning yesterday's sprint and annexed the handicap of 1-16 miles, at Latoria this afternoon. She made all the pace and was rather handy at the end. Two favorites were successful, Sea Swell in the second and Miss Sahn in the fourth.

Reports to the effect that the meeting would be extended were found to be untrue. There will be no extension and none has been talked of according to the directors. The meeting ends a week from Saturday and many of the horsemen will ship west. Not a few are waiting for some definite news of Hot Springs, Colorado, where it now seems certain that the scheduled meeting will take place.

The two lightweight jockeys, Brannon and Deverich rode in good form this afternoon, each piloting two winners. Weather clear, track fast. Summary follows: FIRST RACE, 5 furlongs: 1. Mrs. Sewell, 106 (Brannon), 10 to 1. 2. Almona, 105 (E. Martin), 5 to 1. 2 to 1 and even.

BIKE RIDE FROM HAMILTON.

Vennels Has Good Start and Bad Finish—Falls to Beat His Record.

The gales of yesterday afternoon gave Vennels a good start and a bad finish on his ride from Hamilton to Toronto against the record of 4:15. He left Hamilton at 2:23 and finished in Toronto at 6:04, thus practically repeating the record of 4:15. Leaving Hamilton, Vennels had a strong gale in his favor, but at Port Credit the breeze turned and he had to plug the distance from there on to Toronto.

The gale was so strong that it caught the bicyclist unawares and spilled him twice at two different turns of the road. He finished with both hips scraped and a bruised arm.

Vennels still holds the Dunlop trophy. No other rider has come anywhere near his time, and it is not likely that any rider will face the problem this season. A lower record is to be made, it will be ridden next season, when breezes off Lake Ontario are not so fierce.

Sullivan Picks Burns.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 5.—After completing a wonderfully successful engagement, staying a week with hundreds of sportsmen, the champion, John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain, the old-time foe, but present friends, move on to Springfield, Ill., beginning another week's engagement at the Illinois capital on Monday evening.

The staff of the fight took any too great interest in the present-day fight game, because he thinks that the major portion of the receipts of this section, which are for sale receipts and not anxious enough for a scrap, but he does believe that Burns is to be regarded as a champion, will be allowed to rest with the white flag.

"I don't think the time is quite ripe for a negro to pose to the head of the colored boxing of the world," said John L. "In the first place, I don't think they are advanced in the art as well as the white pugilists. Next, I don't know that Jack Johnson is a game, and for that reason I expect Tommy Burns to win out before the referee can render any decision."

Jake Kilrain also voiced the sentiments of his partner, and both pick Johnson to fall before the limit is reached.

Merchants Bank Hockey Club. The staff of the Merchants Bank of Canada held a very enthusiastic hockey meeting last night, when the following officers were elected: Honorary president, A. B. Patterson; honorary vice-president, F. A. Parker; president, J. G. Dewar; vice-president, F. D. Bayley; secretary, treasurer, C. W. Grandy; manager, J. M. Anderson; executive, Messrs. C. H. Roche, M. M. Kirk, W. A. Kyle, T. L. Patton and H. E. Kinslow.

Montreal Signs Stars. The first official notice of clubs signing for the season of the Eastern Hockey League was received by Secretary Quinn of the Eastern Hockey League on Wednesday, when Montreal sent in the signed contracts of Riley Hitt, last year goalkeeper for the Wanderers, and Pitro, last season wit the Shamrocks.

L.Y.R.A. Annual Meeting. Notice is given that the annual general meeting of the Lake yacht Racing Association will be held at the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, 100 Bay Street, Toronto, on Saturday, Nov. 7, at 3 o'clock p.m. For the election of officers and the transaction of general business.

L. G. Prince arrived yesterday with two deer from Red Stone Lake, north of Haliburton, the first shipment this season from this district.

MEDICAL INSPECTION IN GERMAN SCHOOLS.

With regard to that question of pending interest, the medical inspection of schools, a recent article in The London Daily News, describing the practice in Germany, is of local interest.

Unless the child is marked for continual supervision, no detailed examination is made until the third year of attendance, and in the fifth a third examination is made.

The doctor is expected to attend the school under his charge every fortnight, notifying day and time in advance, and must inspect at least three classes under instruction, besides carefully observing the ventilating, heating and sanitation of the building.

Another Morocco difficulty. That view of the sudden trouble between France and Germany over the arrest of two deserters who were also German subjects may quite likely be right which regards the position assumed by the latter government as dictated by a desire to cover up the consequences of the Kaiser's latest indiscretion by a cheap diplomatic advantage on the French authorities in Morocco.

Irish Longevity. Not the least interesting feature of the preliminary stages of the British old age pension scheme is the curious disproportion between the populations of the component parts of the United Kingdom and the number of applications made in them.

610 from Ireland, 49,077 from Scotland and 18,615 from Wales. Notwithstanding the fact that England has, roughly, eight times the population of Ireland, the Irish pension claims come to nearly half of the English total and are not few short of three times the number of claims coming from Scotland.

AN ENGLISH LADY MAYOR.

England has now a "Lady Mayor" in the person of Miss J. P. Dove, principal of Wycombe Abbey School, who has accepted the nomination tendered her by the Buckinghamshire borough of High Wycombe.

MR. ARCHIBALD BROWNE'S EXHIBITION.

Until Nov. 13 there will be on exhibition at the gallery of the new Canadian Art Club, 57 East Adelaide-street, a choice collection of landscapes by Archibald Browne, one of its most conspicuous members.

Worth Thinking Over.

"What have you to be thankful for this year?" asked one man of another yesterday when they met at top of the stairs.

Detroit's New Mayor.

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Philip Breitmeyer, who resigned the park commissioner-ship to become the Republican candidate for Mayor of Detroit, defeated Mayor William B. Thomas, Democrat, by a plurality estimated from 1000 to 2700.

No. 3—The Sleepless Sentinel by the Roadside.

GRIM---silent---alert---tireless---keeping vigilant guard over the lives of those who travel---this relay box sentry is the only part of the Price Automatic Stopping and Controlling Device for Railways in sight.

No lights of red, green, or white to be obscured by fog or blinding storm, or overlooked. No waving semaphore arms, which may not be seen, may be ignored, or improperly adjusted. No levers to be thrown. No orders to be misinterpreted.

Depending on no human being for its action, it warns the engineer in his cab at the first hint of danger. It automatically actuates the device that applies the brakes, and stops the train before the danger point is reached.

The Train Despatcher in his office, the Signal Man in his tower, the Engineer in his cab, are human, and liable to err.

The Relay Box Sentry by the wayside is automatic and mechanical, and makes no mistakes.

THE SHEFFIELD CHOIR

In singing these words with such pronounced but musical emphasis that they brought out precisely what one would hear from a first-rate orator speaking the same words in a hall, in mind the natural emphasis they should receive in speech. This kind of nuance, this bringing out into relief from the body of tone these significant words, was so far as choral music is concerned, a veritable tour de force—splendidly artistic. And it was all the more so inasmuch as the volume in the utterance of these words was surrounded with other beautifully achieved crescendos and climaxes in this chorus.

The bass section of the Sheffield Choir was, perhaps, in a class by itself, but the sopranos and tenors revealed the quality and accomplishments in the two next choruses. In "His Yoke is Easy" the sopranos sang with a clear, brilliant tone, and with a unanimity which made it seem as one voice. The tenors, "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griets" came to their own; and the tone emitted on the word "surely" was a case of a unique nuance, where one would not expect a nuance at all—it was really unique and striking.

A Bit of Realism.

Not the least remarkable characteristic of the Sheffield Choir is its nice expression of realistic effects. If the choir could thunder in "And the Glory of the Lord" and assert poignant sorrow in "Surely He Hath Borne Our Griets" just as readily they were able to express peace and devotion in "The Trust in God"; it was music precisely fitted to the text and declaimed with the most exact emotional realism.

In the next chorus, "Let Us Break Their Bonds," the choir revealed their perfection in still another way, namely, in their ability to sing musically under any conditions of space and force. At any rate, they led off from the attack at furious tempo, but thus realistically expressing indignation and protest. Finally came the "Hallelujah" chorus—the choir achieved stupendous effects in tone, crescendo and climaxes, especially with the word "Hallelujah."

One of the charming episodes in last night's concert was the singing of Miss Emily Breare (soprano), Miss Gertrude Lonsdale (contralto), Mrs. The Brearely (tenor), and Messrs. Robert Charlesworth and William Peacock (bassos). It is not too much to say that Miss Lonsdale's chorus—the aria, "He Was Despised"; her singing moved one to tears, it was so human and expressive of sorrow. And altogether beautiful was Miss Breare's singing of "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth." She has a voice as clear and sweetly penetrating as a silver flute, and like Madame Melba her voice has the remarkable quality of having no register in it—really in every register.

Her utterance of the word "know" was singularly beautiful, and from the psychological point of view, intensely so. Her "I know" was a strong, ringing hitting. Mr. Brearely and Messrs. Charlesworth and Peacock have fine voices, superbly trained and sang magnificently, with the honors going, perhaps, from the point of view of popularity, to Mr. Brearely.

Space remains only to mention Dr. Hays' "Coronation Ode," a strong, convincing composition which the Sheffield Choir sang with the right spirit and with splendid tone under the baton of the composer.

Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

A word of praise for the work of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, which played the accompaniment and performed a movement of The Pastoral Symphony and the whole of Mendelssohn's "Ruy Blas" Overture, Mr. Coward's own words of praise for the orchestra will fit in best here. He spoke enthusiastically about their work and Mr. Weisman, and was more than satisfied, for as he said, the orchestra, even with one rehearsal, was quite up to form.

It was a glorious concert throughout, and will live in the memory of our citizens for many years to come. After the concert Dr. Vogel and the members of the Mendelssohn Choir banqueted Dr. Coward and the Sheffield Choir, some prominent citizens and the musical critics of the morning papers.

Society at the Concert.

The Sheffield Choir arrived in Toronto yesterday and gave their first concert last evening in Massey Hall. The enthusiasm they received in Germany, where they visited in the

FASCINATING MILLINERY AT REASONABLE PRICES

The latest arrivals at our millinery section from New York are almost exclusively confined to those stunning low-crown flat effects, with the charming broad brims, and plenty of dash in the trimming accessories. The millinery room at present is reminiscent of the season's beginning, those early opening days, you remember, when our models created so great a stir; our policy this season is to bring on the latest ideas whenever they appear, irrespective of time. This accounts for the remarkably fine display at the present moment.

COLONEL AND THE SENTINEL

M. P. for Victoria Drives a Lesson From the Recent Campaign.

The charge that Controller Hocken's editorial policy in The Orange Sentinel had contributed to the defeat of the Conservative cause in the recent general elections, was dealt with by Col. Sam Hughes, M.P., in addressing a large, eagerly attended meeting of Queen City L.O.L. in Victoria Hall last night. Other special visitors were Mayor Oliver and Rev. W. L. Armstrong, St. Paul's Methodist Church.

Col. Hughes paid a tribute to Mayor Oliver, who, he was glad to acknowledge, had made good, different prominent Toronto Conservatives had said so also, and that he was entitled to another term.

The mayor said laughingly that he didn't know whether The Sentinel or influence Roman Catholic clergy had gone about urging support for the premier on account of his race and religion and pointing out that since Sir Wilfrid's lease of power Roman Catholic contractors were getting 70 per cent. of government contracts, whereas under the Conservative government the proportion was only 30 per cent.

Speaking of the great "gunpowder plot," Col. Hughes said that something of the same spirit which prompted Guy Fawkes inspired every action of the business end of the Roman Catholic Church to-day, as it believed that a few should think for the people, and that the latter should have no say. Backbone was required by the Orange Order, and the members had more work to do than to go thru their ritual and parade in regalia.

Ants Are Good Fighters

One morning, says a writer in Suburban Life, I gathered a few black ants and a number of their small, brown, egg-shaped cocoons from an ant hill...

Not long after this I discovered a winged black queen promading under the apple tree—very likely a blood sister of the others, for when I placed her with them she was not attacked, as was a large ant with a red thorax that later I introduced among them.

Strange how ants recognize both friends and enemies thru the sense of smell rather than by the sense of sight. No sooner do two ants meet than they cross noses, so to speak, in order to ascertain who is who. If the insects find that they belong to different communities war is at once declared.

This was the case when the ant with the red thorax was confined with the black ants. How vicious both species were how they snarped at and bit each other! One black ant succeeded in grabbing an antenna or feeler of her antagonist, to which she held as the big red ant dragged her from place to place.

Another black ant seized her opportunity and caught the hind leg of the enemy, who was thus greatly handicapped in her movements. Still she succeeded in killing both black ants, altho she could not free herself from their death grip until I came to her assistance.

The queen had remained inactive during the conflict and had taken no part in cleaning up the nest; when all was again in order a worker ant approached her and after short antennae conversation began to tug at her wings. Apparently this was to give the queen the understanding that she must now discard them and assume the responsibilities of egg laying, the work for which she had been most carefully reared.

The young queen was not inclined to give up her gauzy appendages, however, so presently the worker resumed her efforts to loosen them, but with no show of animosity. Failing to accomplish her purpose, she next caught the queen by her antennae and led her gently about the nest and then held her in a corner for at least twenty minutes.

During this time the other ants came and tramped her caressingly with their antennae, and one went so far as to offer her food from its mouth. It was a clear case of coaxing. They waited this queen mother to deposit eggs and found a new colony. I do not know what arguments finally overcame the queen's reluctance to give up her freedom. The next day I saw that she had yielded to the entreaties of her sisters. She was wingless and depositing very minute eggs.

The black ants have what appears to be good-natured wrestling matches among themselves. They are constantly on the move doing something, carrying the unwieldy cocoons from one place to another, regurgitating food for a companion or making elaborate toilets.

PASSES ILLEGAL SENTENCE.

Advocate Argument of Defence Counsel But Says Nothing Else to Do.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Jas. Blankmeyer was today sentenced by Judge Foster to "not less than 20 years, nor more than his natural life, in state prison, for murder in the second degree," to which he had pleaded guilty.

Former Assistant District Attorney Train, and well known magazine writer, counsel for the prisoner, stated that he will appeal the case on the ground that the sentence is illegal and void, as violating a statute providing that all sentences shall be so ordered by a judge that the prisoner's discharge shall be between May and November. "This is a mandatory law," said Judge Foster, "and I agree with counsel for the defendant in that he says the sentence is illegal, but there is no other course for me to take."

Blankmeyer pleaded guilty to shooting his wife and mother-in-law, the latter of whom died.

Nervous Prostration.

Of nervous prostration we hear much nowadays, and it is comforting to know that there are places specially equipped and located for combating this phase of modern life. On the main line of the Grand Trunk Railway System, at St. Catharines, Ont., are located the curative Salina Springs known as the "St. Catharines Well."

Connected with the Springs is "The Welland," where treatments for nervous prostration, rheumatism, etc., are given by skilled attendants in charge of a resident physician.

St. Catharines is the mildest point in Canada during the winter months. For further information and all particulars apply to city office, northwest corner King and Yonge-streets.

HOSTESS' PATH NO WAY OF ROSES

Not Money, But Tact, Ingenuity and Hospitality Make the Successful Hostess.

The perfect hostess does not necessarily require a setting of marble and priceless tapestries. Discussing the matter in The New York Sun, one of the most successful American hostesses says: "No 'social function' is dependent upon unlimited resources. There are many ways of paying one's debt to society unostentatiously. Tact and ingenuity coupled with a brave and generous heart will amply make up for money and ostentation."

It is something of a puzzle to know just where the line between formal and informal affairs may properly be drawn, since where any number of people are on hand, the line is not clearly defined. A jack-of-all-trades makes a good centre-piece and there are place cards with black cats, witches, or rows of eerie little hobgoblins printed on them.

Red letter days suggest all sorts of charming possibilities, none of them more so than a particularly long one. At the exchanges, most original novelties are to be found, but they are likely to be expensive, and if so, the department stores are rich in substitutes. A jack-of-all-trades makes a good centre-piece and there are place cards with black cats, witches, or rows of eerie little hobgoblins printed on them.

Entertaining is a fine art and riches do not always simplify the matter, because, where there is much to do with, much naturally is expected. As in many other instances, it is much better to make the best possible showing with what one has than to strain after the effect that richer people are able to produce. A keen sense of the eternal fitness of things, hospitality that is not pinhead, and a reasonable amount of tact will carry one thru with success.

FIGHT FOR PURE MILK TO BE WAGED IN EARNEST

Medical Commission to Educate Public and a Mass Meeting is on the Program.

The Canadian Medical Association Milk Commission for Toronto contemplates an active campaign for bringing before the public the absolute necessity of adopting measures to guarantee the purity of milk of 80,000 quarts of milk consumed in Toronto daily, the maximum amount of "certified" milk that is available is only a thousand quarts.

It is intended to hold a public meeting at an early date, to be presided over by the lieutenant-governor, and to be addressed by gentlemen who have made the subject their study. Questions will be invited and answered. The members of the local commission are Dr. McPhedran, Dr. Forthright, Dr. J. N. E. Brown, Dr. Thistle, Dr. Helen McMurphy, Dr. Elliott, secretary, and Dr. C. J. O. Hastings, chairman. It is intended to organize commissions in the various Canadian cities.

The commission appeared Wednesday before the local board of health and presented the following recommendations: Campaign Outline. Having carefully reviewed the work done and the conclusions arrived at by the various countries in Europe and the United States, in the campaign for pure milk and a milk that can be accepted as a safe food for human use, especially for infants and invalids, we hereby submit the following requisitions, believing them to be in the best interest of public health:

1. A free distribution of literature such as that prepared by the provincial board of health, among all producers of and dealers in milk supply the city, supplemented by a rigid and conscientious inspection from the producer to the consumer.

2. That all the aforesaid inspected milk not coming up to the standard of certified milk be pasteurized at a temperature of 140 degrees Far, and subsequently cooled to a temperature of 49 degrees and kept at that until it reaches the consumer. All pasteurization and refrigeration to be done under the direction and endorsement of the health department.

3. That all efforts be made to secure the greatest possible amount of certified milk.

The above recommendations were made for the following reasons: 1. The daily consumption of milk for the City of Toronto is 80,000 quarts. The largest amount of certified milk we can hope for for twelve months is 1000 quarts per day, leaving still for 79,000 to 78,000 quarts to be carried for the health department.

2. That all efforts be made to secure the greatest possible amount of certified milk.

we are weaklings and utterly unfit for the campaign. We have entered upon the campaign for pure milk, "poisoned by milk." If we are not to take some temporary means of protection against this greater white plague, why should we be advised to boil our water or protect our low level crossings lest it might retard the securing of the higher ideals?

2. Foreign conclusions: New York City, after a campaign for fifteen years, out of a daily consumption of 1,500,000 quarts, has only 16,000 quarts a day of certified milk.

3. Dr. Thomas L. Stedman, editor of The Medical Record in a recent editorial in that Journal says: "The best that can be hoped for by the City of New York and all other large cities is that the milk supply for the city which was not microscopically clean and therefore only safe after pasteurization."

4. At a recent meeting of a section on the public health of the Academy of Medicine of New York, after carefully discussing the various phases of the milk supply for that city, they were unanimous in their opinion that all milk coming into the city which was not officially certified should be pasteurized.

5. At a meeting of the Medical Association of the greater City of New York in April, 1907, a symposium on milk occupied the present lies in proper perspective. It was decided that while there should be no relaxation on the part of the milk commissions and the various health departments in their efforts to secure a pure milk supply, yet the securing of this will necessarily mean time, and that our only safeguard for the present lies in proper and efficient pasteurization of all milk not officially certified.

6. Dr. M. J. Rosenau of the hygienic laboratory of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service of Washington says: "After carefully considering the advantages and disadvantages of pasteurization of milk, the advantages so far outweigh the disadvantages that I unhesitatingly recommend compulsory pasteurization of all milk not officially certified."

7. The last recommendation of the Medical Milk Commission for Washington was that all milk supplied to the city not officially certified be pasteurized.

8. At the International Pure Milk Congress held at Brussels in September, 1907, the use of unfiltered raw milk for infant feeding was officially deprecated and pasteurization advocated.

9. At the last meeting of the Academy of Medicine in Toronto a strong resolution which was passed the previous week in the section on public health was unanimously adopted, as follows: "In the opinion of this section, in view of the fact that only a fraction of the entire milk supply comes up to the standard of certified milk, we advise that all milk not officially certified be pasteurized, all pasteurization to be under the direct supervision of the health department, the labels on the bottles to contain the date and method of pasteurization."

"After pasteurization, the milk is to be immediately refrigerated to a temperature of not more than 45, and kept at that temperature until delivery."

Rocheester "Roopbauch"

Having spent months of arduous labor in an endeavor to assist our health department in the campaign for a pure and safe milk supply for the city, a campaign in which we are already 14 years behind, we feel that we are at least entitled to cold justice. Notwithstanding that the local health is in possession of all the above information, yet it has not reached the public thru the press, the only single letter from Dr. Goier, the health officer, deprecating the pasteurizing of milk, was promptly handed to the press, but the explanation for Rocheester taking this position was not given, which is as follows:

Rocheester is a city of 160,000 population only. They have two health officers, Dr. Goier and Dr. Boby. Both of these men have been working arduously and creditably in this campaign for over twelve years. They have established a municipal milk farm convenient to the city, entirely under their own control and from which they get their certified milk. They have passed city ordinances controlling their milk supply; every milkman must have a license and if he does not conform to the health ordinances his license is cancelled. We will within the next five years probably have half a million people to supply with milk.

What our commission is endeavoring to secure is all the certified milk we possibly can, but we also want to look after the 75,000 quarts daily that can't possibly be certified, but it can be secured in the cleanest possible condition that our legislation will warrant, as in demanding, and by pasteurizing and refrigerating this we will have an absolutely safe food for our infants and invalids. A conservative estimate of the cost to our city by our compliance in regard to this campaign for the past 15 years is two thousand lives.

A Correction. Dr. J. N. E. Brown, superintendent of the General Hospital, says that The World's report of Wednesday's meeting of the local Board of Health to give a mistaken impression as to the attitude of Dr. Fotheringham and himself regarding pasteurization of milk.

"We believe that certified milk is more desirable, but that as it will be a long time before all the milk can be so certified, pasteurization should be resorted to in the meantime, while the campaign for pure milk is going forward," said Dr. Brown.

Advance Fairly Well Held By the New York Interests

Election Buoyancy Staggers on Realizing Yesterday—Local Market Dull and Uninteresting.

World Office, Thursday Evening, Nov. 5. The various pools in the securities listed at the Toronto Stock Exchange are not able to act in unison at the moment. Mackay and Winnipeg and Toronto Ralls are in position to be put up, while Sao Paulo, Rio and Mexicans are in the reverse position. Today's market represented nothing more than the jockeying of these interests for position, in which the insiders calculate to make the speculators pay for the price changes. Viewed on its face the impression might be gathered that inside interests are willing to support the market to higher levels. A chance for small profits on the long side is only present consideration for traders. Investors are picking up issues of substantial merit as they are offered and are not forcing prices. The story of the market as told by today's transactions is one entirely lacking in interest.

Wall Street Pointers. American Nut and Bolt Pasture Co. of Pittsburgh advances wages twenty per cent. Cut in price of steel rails talked of. Officials of Harriman roads expect large gains in net earnings for several months at least. New York Central September earnings show remarkable improvement. Expected that $50,000,000 more Panama bonds will be sold within a week or so. Soft coal roads beginning to make generally better showing. Better inquiry for iron and steel products. Iron Trade Review says decided improvement has characterized pig iron market within past few days.

Joseph says: The alleged Franco-German crisis is an exaggerated political scare and it certainly should not be used, either as an excuse or a pretext, for selling the market, the earliest of which distinctly show a general improvement. Industrials, especially Coppers, Locomotive and Pump, are going considerably better. Improvement in general business must be reflected in higher prices for Cotton, Hold Steels.

United States Steel should work higher. Reading is reported on the verge of an important advance. Southern Pacific ought to be taken on every little recession. Harriman information continues favorable to higher prices for Union Pacific. Philadelphia advices are still bullish on Pennsylvania. The market continues to give evidence of crossing par. Bear stop orders are being caught in St. Paul, which may go higher. London is reported bullish on amalgamated Copper. The advance in New York Central is entirely on shorts. Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred should work upward. American Northern Pacific meeting to be held to-day may take action on an extra dividend. Erie and Lead continue in the trading position. Locomotive and Car Foundry are being raised by pools. Erie, B.R.T., Fuel, M.K. & T. Erie, Pacific and Lead continue in the trading position. Locomotive and Car Foundry are being raised by pools. Erie, B.R.T., Fuel, M.K. & T. Erie, Pacific and Lead continue in the trading position.

The buying in Southern Pacific leads us to believe that this stock will be the real leader in the next general upturn, at least, of the Harriman group. There was a great deal of profit-taking in the stock to-day, but the support of a substantial character and on any moderate reaction we advise to purchase Illinois Central September statement shows a falling off in gross earnings of 10 per cent. Last year's earnings were $1,000,000, 7 per cent, and net earnings 23 per cent. There has been a further decided improvement in the copper metal trade since the national election, and prices for all the leading grades have further advanced.—Town Topics.

Added Directors. J. W. Seymour Corley, K.C., senior partner of the firm of Corley, Bell & Price, and A. C. McMaster of the firm of McMaster, McManis & Co., both of this city, have been elected to the board of directors of the Imperial Trusts Company of Canada.

Municipal Bonds. The Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited, have purchased the following bonds: $25,000 City of Revelstoke 2 per cent debentures; $40,700 Town of Owen Sound 5 per cent debentures; $45,000 Township of Gosfield North 1-2 per cent; $14,000 Town of Parry Sound 6 per cent debentures.

Bank of England Statement. LONDON, Nov. 5.—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes: Total reserve, decreased $90,000; circulation, increased $427,000; bullion, decreased $508,851; other deposits, increased $704,000; public deposits, increased $1,282,000; notes reserved, decreased $960,000; government securities unchanged. The proportion of the bank's reserve liability this week is 51.96 per cent, last week it was 53.62 per cent.

OVERHEARD GOSSIP ON THE EXCHANGES

Conversation Generally Indicates Unprecedented Activity Both in Stocks and on Properties.

The Montreal River district continues to excite great curiosity. From recent development work on the surface of the claims situated in various parts of Montreal River, it is believed that this new district will have a busy time of it next summer. The men who are spending money in proving claims are optimistic over the future prospects.

The North Star Cobalt Silver Mining Company will probably start a force of fifteen men to work on the property in the southeastern corner of Coleman Township next week. Several good indications have been discovered on the property, including a six-inch vein of calcite, which has been traced for quite a distance.

A despatch from North Bay says that reports from Larrieu indicate that a clean-up of some 130 tons of ore at the Dr. Redick property realized $3.50 per ton, or about one dollar in excess of the last clean-up, and that the property is improving.

Dr. McConnell of Montreal has organized a company for the development of seven properties situated in James and Upper Willett, in the Cobalt district.

The Silver Cross Mining Company's stock will be listed on the Toronto Mining Exchange this week at a price of 50 cents a share of $1 par value.

It is learned to-day that the Nipissing Mining Company is preparing to ship from Cobalt, very shortly an entire train-load of silver, valued at $1,000,000, which will constitute a record.

The foreign buying of certain stocks, such as Chambers-Peeland, Nipissing, La Rose, Kerr Lake and one or two others, is developing in an encouraging way. The consequence will be that the floating stock of these companies is bound to become more limited, and as a result higher prices will prevail.

With the increasing interest and enthusiasm for Cobalts and the upward movement of prices, together with the increased work on the properties, and increasing ore shipments, Cobalt camp expects to experience a great season's activity. The winter months will not in any way retard the progress of the mining region.

BUOYANCY DEPENDENT ON INSIDERS.

The action of the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day would indicate that nothing more than a trader's market is at present in sight on this exchange. The supporting interests of the various specialties are prepared to take their stocks on all slumps, and equally prepared to put them out whenever buyers appear. There is no particular sentiment in the market for the time being, and buoyancy in prices will have to be brought about by the large interests. These at the present time do not appear to be willing to take chances in this regard.

The Victor Shoe for Men---Style H.

Take a look at the new Victors to-morrow. Let us specially commend the new winter Victor, style H.

This is a handsome, sturdy, manly fellow, with a double sole and leather lining. It looks smart, stylish, up-to-date, but there's no nonsense about it. It will do its work.

It should prove a mighty comfortable shoe to wear, too---no tacks, thread or wax ends anywhere in sight. Lined with the softest, smoothest leather and made of first-class box calf style. It will give warmth, comfort and wear, and no man need be ashamed of putting either foot forward if he wears style H.

Men's Winter Weight Box Calf Victor Boots, Blucher cut, leather lined, double sole from heel to toe, smart, neat, something to turn the water and keep the feet warm, full easy fitting, all sizes, $5.00 value 4.00

Thousands of New Hats for Thanksgiving Sunday

You will see a millinery display on Sunday surpassed only by that of Eastertide. Have you bought your Thanksgiving Hat yet? We'll be on duty steadily to-morrow from 8 a.m. to 5.30. Goodness, how folks do leave the most important thing till the very last!

To those who will come first thing to-morrow and thus relieve the rush of the afternoon we offer:

200 Trimmed Hats, all new, for Saturday morning. We have taken some of our most expensive imported Paris shapes—also many satin and taffeta New York hats; together with these we have added a very large assortment of our own hand-sewn hats; all are exquisitely trimmed with beautiful fancy feather mounts and handsome wings or velvet flowers and ornaments; every color is well represented, every hat is different, every hat is worth a dollar more than this special price. Saturday sale 5.00

THE CLIMAX---Thanksgiving Sale of Winter Costumes, $15 to $30 Suits for $10.75

We have the best attraction of the season for the climax---the Saturday before Thanksgiving. But you must come early.

The suits for to-morrow are strictly tailored---nothing fanciful about them. The achievements of mere men are probably never more highly regarded than when they are seriously applied to tailoring for manish suits like these. No doubt in the wide world that the masculine mind and hand are united to good purpose---sometimes.

Now let us describe these suits, and let us impress you with the fact that although we sell them at a fair advance---somebody loses money on them. You, or no one else, could buy the material alone for to-morrow's sale price of the suit complete.

Every new material and fabric, both plain and stripes are included in this lot, chevrons, English serges, diagonals, broadcloths and Venetians; all are the new diagonal suits; in plain man-tailored styles; severely plain or trimmed with buttons; in blacks, new tones of brown, greens and wines; a beautiful high-grade collection of suits; well made, well cut, perfectly finished. $15.00, $17.50, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00 and $30.00 10.75

Gifford Extension Mines, Limited

(NO PERSONAL LIABILITY)

Recognizing that the public to-day anxiously looks for opportunities to invest in legitimate Mining Enterprises. Having carefully watched the growth and development of the Cobalt Camp from its beginning and having seen mere prospects become great Shipping Mines, sending out to the Smelters of this continent Trainloads of the Richest Ore ever shipped. More and more clearly has it been demonstrated that never were such opportunities offered to the Canadian Public as to-day. RIGHT AT HOME, within 12 hours' ride by rail from Toronto WEALTH is exposed both on the SURFACE and AT DEPTH that the ordinary mind can only vaguely comprehend. Many Toronto Brokers visited Cobalt recently and so enthused did they become that the entire Toronto Mining Exchange goes to Cobalt this week to spend several days inspecting the Camp.

If You Want to Know All About Cobalt and Have Not Been There

ASK YOUR BROKER ABOUT IT

Remember That in the Cobalt Camp (Only 4 Years Old) There Are To-Day More Dividend-Paying Mines Than Are Listed on All Foreign Exchanges.

Do you realize that millions have already been paid in dividends? And that even at present depth many more millions are now blocked out than have yet been shipped. Also that development on the wonderful Temiskaming veins means to every mine owner in that part of Cobalt many millions are yet to be mined at great depth. Is it possible that this great lode exists on the Temiskaming alone?

No! We are already aware that the GANS portion of the Temiskaming acreage shows a 12-inch vein running in a southerly direction, and this alone is worth the entire Temiskaming capitalization.

Does this vein stop on the GANS? No! No! This ore chute extends the whole length of the camp. Richer, of course, where it comes in contact with the diabase, and leaner in values when furthest from them.

Read our geologist's report. Observe the mention of these contacts or intrusions of diabase on the Gifford Extension.

Go there and see for yourself. You do not need to be a geologist nor yet a mining man to make comparisons of surface indications.

You will easily detect the similarity of formations. Only twenty chains south of these great veins and having an acreage with a width of over a quarter of a mile in which to pick them up, with indisputable surface evidences that WE HAVE THESE VEINS in the very centre of our property, we have no hesitation in urging the immediate purchase of this stock.

We have 50 acres. This is no mere prospect with surface indications but a property with good veins on which genuine development has already been done.

Shafts have already been sunk, which will be continued to greater depth. The main shaft is now down 86 feet, from which point we will immediately start diamond drilling and prove up our ore bodies.

A diamond drill has been purchased, to be delivered within two weeks, and progress will be faithfully reported to our shareholders.

WILL BE A GREAT SHIPPER.

(From the Man on the Spot)
Cobalt steadily grows. Stock surries near the atmosphere and give the outsiders a chance to make money. Cobalters do not worry when their favorite takes a drop.
The great shipping record made in October will be kept up and new records will be made.
Many enquiries are being made in Cobalt for "Gifford Extension." Fred Calverley, John Feveley and the Deany Bros. were the former owners of this well located fifty acres, just below the Temiskaming, Cochrane, Duchess and Progress and they did good work on it.
This property is well located and is one of Cobalt's best non-shippers. "The Man on the Spot" has frequently predicted that it will be a great shipping mine. Now that it has passed into the hands of men who will develop it, his predictions will doubtless be fulfilled. There are several good veins on it, and all that is necessary is to get after the ore bodies.

The following extracts are taken from a letter written by one of the best mining experts that has visited Cobalt this summer, after a visit to this property. The writer inspected it in company with Fred Calverley and after his return to Boston wrote as follows:
"I made a careful study of Cobalt Camp and its immediate surroundings during my recent visit, and was particularly impressed by the rich silver deposits, now being worked by the Temiskaming Co. on their claim in Coleman Township, about one and a half miles southeast from the Crown Reserve.
"The E. 1-2 of S.W. 1-4 of S. 1-2 lot 1, con. 2; the W. 1-2 S.W. 1-4 S. 1-2 lot 1, con. 2, and N. 1-2 E. 1-2 S.W. 1-4 lot 2, con. 2, were inspected by me. (This is now the "Gifford Extension").
"Over $20,000 has been spent on the property, in clearing ten acres. In the erection of good camp buildings to accommodate 45 men and in underground development work. The buildings include a comfortable mess, with kitchen and store room, an office, superintendent's house, forge, and mine shaft buildings.

"No. 1 shaft is down 86 feet and at the 80 foot level three cross-cuts have been run; one for a distance of 102 feet, one for 80 feet and one for 30 feet. This shaft was sunk on a good calcite and cobalt vein that shows four inches of ore carrying 50 ounces of silver to the ton. Great indications at and near the surface in this section of the camp of good ore-bodies at depth. Two other shafts are down about 25 feet and show about the same quality of ore. I spent an afternoon on the property going over the ground carefully. Recently a new vein has been found and uncovered for quite a distance on the surface of very pure calcite about twelve inches wide, which shows native silver and some gold. The vein is apparently a continuation of one of the rich veins now being worked by the Temiskaming Company. A diamond drill should show good native silver in this vein at great depth.

"To my mind the venture is a good money one and I am willing to put my own money into it."
"The 'Man on the Spot' believes the above a careful and conservative opinion. He knows the property could have been readily sold many times for a handsome cash figure. The modest capitalization and large treasury fund of the new company stamp the promoters as men determined to give the investor a great chance for his money.
The interest now being taken in Cobalt mines by Toronto and Montreal brokers is only a reflection of the mad desire on the part of the people in all sections of Canada to see Cobalt or hear about it. The great dividend-paying mines and the coming dividenders and shippers are all right

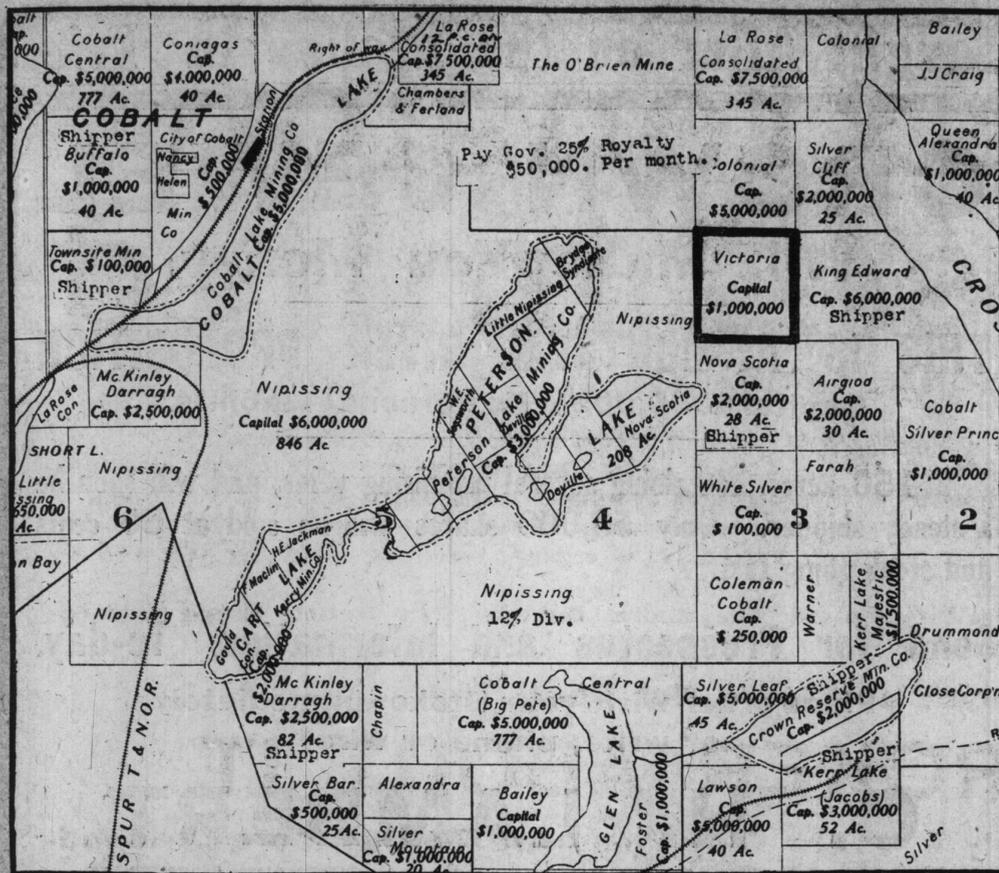

Location means a great deal. New camps up the Montreal River mean that fifty and sixty miles north of Latchford there will be great shipping mines a few months hence. It does not mean that the discredited section around Portage Bay has suddenly made good. It has not and when one remembers the immense amount of money spent here he must admit much more will doubtless be spent with equally unsatisfactory results, despite misleading advertisements.
The Temiskaming section, where the Rochester, Badger, Beaver, Cochrane, Gifford Extension, Progress, Duchess, etc., etc., lie is the section where the new Cobalt shippers will come from.

PROF. HIDDEN ON COBALT.

Camp Will Produce 30,000,000 Ounces Next Year.
Prof. W. E. Hidden, the well-known Cobalt expert, is quoted as saying: "Indications are that Cobalt this year will produce as much silver as all of the previous years since the opening of the camp. Next year I would not be surprised to see an output of 30,000,000 ounces. My opinion is that Cobalt will constantly increase in output, and 50 years hence will be a profitable mining camp. There is really nothing in the geology of the district to discourage such an opinion. The fact that many of the mines have lost their value with a change in formation, is a contact phenomena due to the diffusion of values instead of a concentration. I do not question that these mines will find the ore again."

ELK LAKE DISCOVERY.

Company Will Be Largely Financed by English Capital.
One of the prominent mines in the Montreal River section is the Elk Lake Discovery, which has 40 acres within a short distance of Elk Lake. On this property six veins have already been uncovered. One of these has been developed to a considerable depth, and the vein has widened from 1-2 inches to 2-3 inches, and out of the vein matted ore of a value of 1500 ounces to the ton has been taken. Elk Lake Discovery Mines, Limited, is being largely financed by English capital, and this is taken as an excellent omen for the future of the Montreal River. The company has an area of 40 acres with a capitalization of $600,000. It is understood that a portion of the company's capital will be put on the market at a later date for the purpose of developing the property.

THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO RISK IN BUYING VICTORIA STOCK

The day of risk on this property is past. While there remained any element of chance, no stock was offered to the general public—we took that chance ourselves. For two years work has not ceased on this property day or night. In June a well-known Toronto man who had acquired some stock in the early stages (at about the present price), said to the president: "Well, if we never get a cent out of Victoria, we know that we have had a square deal; the money has been expended honestly, all on the mine." He was right! The controlling interests have put up their own money like men, through all the hard times of the past, because of their faith in the ultimate outcome, and have taken stock for their contributions. This stock is not for sale!

We are proud of our record on this mine. It has established a record for bulldog pertinacity and stick-ativeness that is the talk of the Cobalt camp.

Now that we have high values and veins as good as any, a LIMITED AMOUNT of stock is offered to the public to defray the expense of taking out the ore in sight. Even a bonanza in the ground requires money to take it out and send to market. This stock is being rapidly taken up, both here and in New York.

Act quickly, or your opportunity will be lost! Buy stock in a mine—not a prospect! A complete plant, and great development, which can be used in the exploitation of the present rich discoveries.

Wire, phone or write your orders to the regular brokers who are advertising facilities for handling the stock.

To the Shareholders of the Cobalt Silver Queen, Limited

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Cobalt Silver Queen, Limited, the third quarterly dividend of three per cent. was declared. Same will be payable on Dec. 1, 1908, to shareholders on record on Nov. 15, 1908.
The transfer books of the company will be closed from Nov. 15 to Dec. 1, 1908.

excitement in the Cobalt shares. In the past only four stocks from Cobalt have been traded in, and some of the best have been entirely overlooked by New York traders. There were seven silver stocks, traded in yesterday, and this new blood infused into the market had a tonic effect on the old-time favorites here. La Rose and Nipissing were active around their respective high prices. McKinley-Darragh shot up to a new high level. As a result of the introduction of new Cobalt stocks on this market, arbitrage business will now be begun between New York and Toronto and Montreal. The Canadian market will be compelled to hold a continuous session all day and trading in Cobalts is expected to be a feature in New York.

CAR CONDUCTOR ARRESTED

Charged With Theft of Tickets From Fare Box.

Harry Plant, a street car conductor, was arrested on his car and arraigned in police court yesterday morning charged with theft of tickets which he is said to have been seen extracting from his fare box. He was remanded a week.

For theft of $10 by the cashing of a phoney cheque, Joseph Gentile, who was brought back from Hamilton, was sent to jail for three months.
Abraham Rolstein swore that Louis Bernstein struck him at Elm-street Synagogue upon a Sunday evening three weeks ago, at which it appears that the faithful attended armed with bludgeons, iron bars and sledgehammers. The charge of assault was dismissed.

The following minor penalties were imposed: John Carson, assaulting P.C. Catterin, $5 and costs or 30 days; William Wright, assault, $10 and costs or 30 days; Robert Tushingham, theft of three bicycles, nine months in Central Prison; Margaret Gibson, theft of cash from a church poor box, 60 days in jail; Richard Flood and Wm. Thompson, theft of scrap iron, 30 days; Jas. B. Malone, theft of bicycle, 30 days; Fred Norman, theft of tools, 40 days.

TWO ODD CASES.

Chief Justice Mulock Gets Hard Legal Nuts to Crack.

Chief Justice Mulock is to decide a test case between the North American Telegraph Co. and the Bay of Quinte Railway Co., which operates a little railway between Deseronto and Bancroftburn. The telegraph company is suing for return of railway fares which were paid by their repair men along the lines.

The case turns upon the construction taken of an existing agreement between the companies. The telegraph company operates the telegraph system for the railway, and prior to 1904 had unlimited passes along the line of road. Then under a new management the lines are only allowed free transportation on two passenger trains.

Justice Mulock reserved judgment in the suit of the Bank of British North America against E. D. Warren & Co., stock brokers, over a cheque which Warren had made payable to H. H. Mudgley, on the latter agreeing to turn over 50,000 shares of the Mudgley Concentrator Co. stock. Warren alleged that Mudgley was not in a position to do this and ordered his partner to stop payment of the cheque. This was done, but thru the Traders' Bank, while the cheque had been issued thru the Bank of British North America and was accepted by them.

Later Warren and Mudgley met and had an understanding on the stock matter, so Warren paid him over the money. Now the bank is asking to have the money repaid them.

Borden May Go to England.
OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—R. L. Borden will probably go to England for a short visit; it is stated here. The matter has not yet been definitely arranged, however.

BADGER IN DEMAND.

Large Syndicate Orders Are Being Fulfilled Daily.

It was announced yesterday that practically all of the Badger stock offered to the public had been underwritten. Only 350,000 shares of this stock were offered, and of this $329,000 had been subscribed. Several large syndicate orders for the shares have been refused owing to the determination of the company to distribute the stock over a wide area rather than to allow it to be accumulated in large blocks.
Reports from the workings on the property are more than satisfactory, and it is thought that the Badger will become one of the favorites in the Cobalt market, so soon as it is listed.

La Rose and Nc.
In the Canadian Mining Journal Mr. Alex. Gray publishes an interesting table, wherein he compares the productivity of the Nipissing and LaRose, Cobalt's leading mines, from 1904 to Aug. 1, 1908. In that period the Nipissing has shipped 12,680,193 pounds dry weight of ore, and the LaRose 1,255,429 pounds, and the total values received have been, by the Nipissing, $4,170,875.59, and by the LaRose $1,290,001.54. The gross value per ton of Nipissing ore was $327.86, and the LaRose $170.10, while the net value per ton was $292.71 for Nipissing and $154 for the LaRose.

RE NANCY HELEN SALE.

Montreal People Have Property and Shares Sell at $1.10.

It is now a certainty that Montreal capitalists have secured the controlling interest in the Nancy Helen Mine by right of purchasing all the outstanding stock.

It is believed that this is the finality of negotiations that have been going on for some time. Those interested in the deal apparently place a great confidence in the property, based on the reports of several expert mining engineers who examined the four acres of shipping section.

The engineers report that the recent "strike" at the hundred foot level is so rich that investment is justifiable rather than speculation.
The ore body is from three to six inches in width and carries three to six thousand ounces of silver to the ton.

An attraction in connection with the buying of the Nancy Helen stock is the claim adjoining the LaRose and Chambers-Ferland. This ground offers great possibilities on account of its favorable location in the conglomerate section of Cobalt that has become famous.
It is expected that a full statement of the purposes and plans of the Montreal people will shortly be given to the public.
Nancy Helen sold to-day in Montreal at $1.10, according to the Montreal Exchange reports.

by halves. When they decide to do anything it has got to be done properly or not at all. "Dave" Lorsch says this is the motto of the exchange, and "Dave" should know.
A short while ago it was decided that the members of the exchange should go "en bloc" to Cobalt. The idea caught on, and with Thanksgiving holiday in sight and the desire of the members for a break away from the strenuousness of the past few weeks, it needed no forcing.
Consequently a special train for the party, consisting of three sleepers, a dining car and a baggage car, will leave Toronto for the Silver City on Friday night at 9 o'clock.

Everything necessary for the convenience of the stock brokers will be on board and sufficient to hold out until the return on Tuesday morning to renewed activity on the exchange.

COBALT--- Stocks Are Largely Sought After on the Decline in Prices

MOOSE HORN MINES, LIMITED

Montreal River

Remember that when you buy stock in the MOOSE HORN you are getting an interest in a great property, with numerous veins uncovered showing native silver at the surface. Assays have been had on six distinct veins, running from 250 to 13,000 ounces of silver to the ton. The main shaft is down 68 feet, with a two-inch vein carrying values up in the thousands. The Moose Horn is no gamble—it is a certainty, and will be one of the greatest mines of the new Cobalt!

Enough stock has been underwritten to provide ample working capital for one year. The present offering is made to put in a complete plant, including six-drill compressor, etc. This stock is going fast, both here and in New York, where it is listed on the curb.

Send your orders to the regular brokers, who are advertising the stock. Full information will be given at Room K (on the office floor), King Edward Hotel, where samples of the very rich ore may be seen.

Come and see them and be convinced by the evidence of your own eyes. Act quickly. The man who procrastinates loses the golden opportunity. PRICE 50c PER SHARE.

MONTREAL RIVER CALLS THE SEEKER OF TREASURES

Miners Are Bringing Out of This District Some Splendid Ore Samples.

Up the Montreal River! That is the call of the north and the west. It is the Ontario call of the wild, the siren's voice to the seeker after treasure. The treasure is there, in places it is already found in abundance; in places, it gives tangible signs of its presence. Hence the silver quest.

Mark you, you who are inclined to scoff at stories of Ontario's wonderful mineral resources, mark you, recognized geologists and mining engineers maintain that the richly mineralized belt stretches from the Montreal River west to Bort Arthur, and needs only railway and wagon-way facilities to reveal untold wealth—the marvel of the world.

And this is the demand made by the men who have heard the call of the Montreal River. Up they go along the Montreal River, starting from Toronto and elsewhere, clean shaven as Adonis. But back they come bearded like the pard, bronzed by the sun and clear-eyed and ruddy-faced by the stiff north winds. They have got glimpses of the treasure—they have tasted blood—and they want more and want it quick.

"I'm doing back this week into the Montreal River country," said the miner with a beard, "and I am going to stay right on the job up in the Miller Lake District in the new Cobalt camp, and wealth is there. I want my share of it."

"The Ontario Government must push their railway into the new country. From Charlton on the T. & O. Railway to Smythe and Elk City is only 25 miles. This line has been surveyed and it is expected the road will be finished next fall. Why can't it be finished sooner?"

"This extension would assist the mining operations on the main Montreal River, but another line is needed going west 25 miles to the Gowanda Lake District, 15 miles from Elk City."

"So much for this temporary need, but there is a bigger and broader need, a national need. All this New Ontario district from the Montreal River to the west is full-shot with silver. The Canadian Northerner is heading for the far north. Let it push on. The C.P.R. further west is going north. Let it quicken its steps. And most of all let the T. & O. push straight westward and in the extensions of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. form junctions. Then the richest, widest, deepest silver belt in the world will be developed by pioneers longing to get a chance to get in with their picks and get out with the silver."

Where the District Is. Where is the Montreal River District? It is in New Ontario, north of Latchford on the T. & N.O. Railway, to begin with, about fifty miles. Here at the Town of Smythe and across the Montreal River at Elk City is the Elk Lake District of the Montreal River. This takes in the Townships of Smythe and James. If you follow up the river another 20 miles and come down the east branch 20 miles, you reach the Gowanda Lake District. East of this district a few miles and reached by canoe in the open season are the well-known Everett Lakes, Bloom Lake, Miller Lake, Le Roy Lake, Calcutte Lake and Longpoint Lake District.

In the winter to get into the Gowanda Lake District you can take the government road, wagon road, from Smythe the straight west 25 miles. Miller

CITY IS NOT LIABLE FOR DAMAGE DONE BY MOB

Civic Authorities Acting on Advice of Legal Dept. Will Not Compensate Hallowe'en Victims

The city will not assume any liability for the damage, amounting, it is estimated, to nearly $1000, caused by throwing of stones on Hallowe'en. The mayor had a conference on the subject yesterday afternoon with the city solicitor, who advised that the city acknowledge no responsibility. Mr. Chisholm said that the city had never in the past paid for broken windows or other damage to property caused by rioting and that to do so in the present case would be to establish a very dangerous precedent. The mayor, on receiving this report, directed that it should have to be acted upon. The insurance companies will be the chief losers, but it is believed that some of the small storekeepers will be sufferers.

SOCIALIST VOTE SMALL.

Debs Only Polled About Half of the Vote Expected.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—The Socialist vote in Tuesday's election showed a great falling off from the record in 1904 in the three principal cities of the country in which Socialism is strongest. Chicago Socialists, who polled 43,000 votes in 1904, were given less than 13,000 votes in the police returns. Cincinnati and Cleveland also listed as strong Socialist centres, according to the leaders of the party, polled a greatly decreased vote. Gompers is blamed for it.

Lake is 15 miles from Smythe on this road.

The summer trip up the Montreal River and down the east branch is a trip of portages. At the turning point on the trip at Biesley's there are stores and hotels, but as to the rest, there are no stores or hotels and only the portable habitations of prospectors and visitors. Yet all the districts of the Montreal River are blanketed with stakes, marking claims taken up by the hardy prospectors. This district awaits the steel to jump into activity akin to that seen at Cobalt.

Prominent Men Inspecting. There are many eminent geologists and mining engineers in the Montreal River District. Among others met by The World's Man up the Montreal River was C. H. Van Asperen, B.M.E. He is a former lieutenant of the Royal Holland Navy and a geologist of note. Mr. Van Asperen has been in the Montreal River District for three years. He knows the rocks. The summary of his investigations is that where silver is found the "Keewatin" formation is not far away and Huronian rocks are near. He has found silver all over the Gowanda, Miller and Calcutte Districts. He has found this silver ore in true measures with strong veins. He believes the Montreal River District is destined to be another Cobalt.

E. B. Merrill, consulting engineer, has just returned from a trip to Cobalt and the Montreal River, going in as far as Calcutte Lake and the Miller Lake District.

Mr. Merrill found great activity both in the Gowanda and the Miller Lake Districts. The opinion of the prospectors and of others who have visited these districts is that the indications of minerals are quite as strong as in the early days of Cobalt, and also the development work has not been advanced to the same extent that it has in the older camps. It would seem that these districts will be in the near future producing a great deal of paying ore, and that they will develop into a second Cobalt camp if not a greater. The good finds cover a much larger area than at Cobalt itself, more than 30 square miles.

These two districts are located on or near the east branch of the Montreal River, immediately west of the Townships of Farr and Mickle, six miles. The country has been practically blanketed by prospectors. Miller Lake is a day's trip from Elk City. The latter is reached by four steamers from Latchford through three portages, the trip occupying about ten hours, and from Elk City by canoe or launch to the Long Point, and then by canoe thru Stony Lake, Portage Lake, Pike Lake and Bloom Lake, and their connection streams, a good many of which have to be negotiated by portage.

Mr. Merrill also continued up the river and chain of lakes to Calcutte Lake, where there is also a great deal of activity. There is a portage leading from Bloom Lake to Miller, Everett and Le Roy Lakes.

The Gowanda is to the west of the Miller Lake region and is the centre of very great activity, probably the richest finds in all the Montreal Lake District coming from there.

Miners continue to bring out large samples of ore heavily charged with native silver. The Montreal River District proper, especially the Township of James, is not to be overlooked, he says. It is showing some good claims. The stage of development here is a little more advanced than in the Miller Lake and Gowanda regions, and there is every prospect in the near future there will be a very important camp here, although possibly the deposits are not quite as rich as in some of the other districts mentioned.

The ore samples got from the Otisse are as good as any ore samples seen in Toronto. The First Discovery property that has all the signs of being a valuable mine in the near future. Samples brought down yesterday show high values in silver.

IMPRISONMENT '20' SENT AND HELD, BE DEPORTED

ST. JOHN N.E., Nov. 5.—Judge Forbes today refused to convict for theft an Englishman named George Jones, who came to Canada in 1906. He declared the Dominion had no right to spend a hundred and fifty dollars annually keeping this man in the penitentiary. Jones will be detained in the county jail until the first sailing of a steamer for England, and will then be deported by order of the court.

MOTOR BUS SERVICE.

A motor bus service for Toronto is, it is reported, contemplated by a syndicate of English capitalists. It is that motor busses will be built with accommodation for 35 passengers each, and two or three regular routes of service will be arranged. The busses will be similar to those in use in London, England.

PSYCHOLOGY OF WOMAN'S DRESS

Mankind is Nature's Most Unadorned Animal—Sexual Attraction Requires Clothes—

The advantages which modern life has made over savagery are represented at some points by a very thin line. Old practices are refined, the old forms are presented with slightly different coloring and arrangement, and the emphasis is placed at different points, but we do not clean away the old patterns. Savage life, in its turn, borders very close on the animal, and sociology and psychology must continually go back to the simpler conditions of animal life to pick up the cue.

Man is naturally one of the most unadorned of animals, without brilliant appearance or natural glitter with no plumage, no spots, no stripes, no surly sweet voice, no attractive odor, and no graceful antics. But thanks to his hands, he has the power of collecting brilliant objects and attaching them to his person, and he thus becomes a rival in radiance of the animals and flowers.

But we have to go no further than the barnyard to witness an apparatus for display which man has never equalled. The turkey-cock, with his glittering plumage, his finely zoned tail and barred wing-feathers, and his crimson and blue wattles, is really a superb spectacle. Mr. Wallace reports that when a dozen or more feather-plumaged male birds of paradise congregate in a tree to hold a dancing party, as it is called by the natives, they fly about, raise their wings, elevate their exquisite plumes, and make them vibrate until the whole tree seems to be filled with waving plumes. Many species of birds habitually adorn their nests with gaily colored feathers, wool, cotton, or other gaudy material. In many cases a marked preference is shown for particular objects, as, for instance, in the case of the Syrian nuthatch, which chooses the iridescent wings of insects, or that of the great crested fly-catcher, which similarly chooses the cast-off skins of snakes. But no doubt the most remarkable of these cases is that of the Baya bird of Asia, which studs its bottle-shaped and chambered nest with small lumps of clay, upon which the cock bird sticks fireflies, apparently for the sole purpose of securing a brilliantly decorative effect. Other birds, such as the hammer bird of Africa, adorn the surroundings of their nests, which are built upon the ground, with shells, bones, pieces of broken glass and earthenware, or any object of a bright and conspicuous character which they may happen to find.

A predominant interest in the turkey-cock pattern of interest, without natural equipment for competing. No race is so low in culture or so wretched in condition as to dispense with ornament. Darwin gave a shivering Fuegian a piece of red flannel, and was surprised to find that he had torn it into strips and made leg ornaments for himself and his wretched companions. The African belle produces the effect of black silk or polished ebony by rubbing her body with butter. The Hottentot gathers together his scanty woolly hair into tufts and ties to each a rabbit's tail, a brass button, or a piece of bone, or he smears his hair with a mixture of red ochre and fat, so that it sticks to his head like a scarlet cap. The Tupis of South America produce a brilliant and startling effect by pasting the skin and bright orange-colored plumage of the toucan's breast on their cheeks. To perfect the coiffure of the African Latookas requires a period of from six to eight years.

In a single district in Africa four hundred varieties of beads are known by name, and the passion with which this interest is pursued is indicated by such significant names as "food-shabbers," "home-breakers," and "town-destroyers."

To his apparatus for charming, savage man has added long-haired, snow-white monkey tail goat skins, and white feathers, and spotted skins of the leopard and tiger; kilts of cat and monkey tails, of zebra mane, black cock's feathers, and flowers; and hair necklaces, feather-bands and white down attached to the body by using a glue; tattooing as delicate as lace, or as gaudy as called red, yellow, and white pigments for the skin, and stains for the teeth; bracelets and anklets of copper and silver, aggregating some of the most beautiful and artistic work of the art of lacing, not by use of a corset, but by a web or cord worn around the waist and tied so tight that, as Captain Cook describes it, the shape of their bodies is not unlike that of overgrown ants.

Indeed, if we made a complete inventory of savage man's devices, we should, I believe, find that he had overlooked nothing fundamental. And if he had copyrighted his devices, modern woman would be under the necessity of paying him handsome royalties; for it is one of the first principles of patent law that the substitution of new materials and "transferred uses" do not constitute invention. Note also that it is the African who has shown the most genius in this line, or at any rate he has stopped at nothing.

The growth of democracy, and the emphasis of action rather than a show of ancestrally accumulated signs to success, there is a tendency to despise and deride display, but that the old instincts linger is shown by the fact that there is no country in the world where lavish display is not impressive and effective in creating and maintaining social distinctions.

Clothing, as distinguished from ornament and dress, had a particular development in cold climates. It is characteristically arctic while ornament is characteristically tropic. When a man wants warmth the most natural thing is to reinforce his own skin with another skin. The clothing of the arctic regions therefore follows the outlines of the body as closely as possible, and both the men and women wear trousers. In the tropics, ornaments were suspended at those portions of the body from which they would not readily slip off—shoulders, waist, ankles, and wrists. The covering worn at the waist was at first beads, shells, feathers, grass, flowers, animal tails, and fringes of hair.

On moving into a cooler climate man adopted trousers because they suited his more exposed and active life, but women, being conservative and less exposed, has clung to the old fashion, and merely dropped the waist fringe to the feet, thus unobtrusively extending the extended part of the way up, the two not quite meeting.

For instinctive reasons which we do not control and do not comprehend, understand, signs of sex have very powerful emotional effects, and it is even true that any object habitually associated with either sex takes on some of the personality of that sex. Not only the long hair of a woman, but even her handkerchief may have a vivid interest for her lover. The masculine woman is one who drops some of the signs of her sex. The clothing of woman, when it was developed to the point of covering her whole person, took on an interest of its own, but it had the disadvantage of obscuring the figure. This difficulty has been met by fashioning the clothing on lines which indicate and even emphasize the outlines of the body.

"To be short on this point," which does not require elaboration is a person who uses his eyes, the dominant idea in the historical fashions of woman's dress is emphasis of the waist line. The most striking anatomical peculiarity of woman is a waist which measures small in comparison with the bust and hips. The point can be emphasized further either by artificially constricting the waist or by adding on structure at the hips and shoulders. The balloon, the bustle, the pannier, and the hoop-skirt are as effective in this as the corset. The tapering hand and the foot, and the taper to the wrist secured by the pinched back skirt are equally effective contrasts with the hips and bust. The dress of the eastern woman is designed with an inventive imagination capable of splendid bursts of energy. This was the wild-oats period of the race, and its vestiges are still seen in the gamster, the artist, the wild youth, and the dissipated husband.

But when man exhausted the game of fashion, high heels, like long skirts, added to this apparent magnitude of woman, and at the same time give her a delicate and distinguished underpinning. If then, a woman walks on her toes and places the heel of the shoe under her instep instead of under her heel, and if the skirt covers the foot, that the shoe seems directly under the real heel, we get the spectacle of a very small foot indeed. The shortened length obtained by Japanese women thru doubling the axle rack is secured by the western woman by means of the high and illusory placed heel.

The habit of wearing ornaments has naturally been somewhat modified by the introduction of showy and dainty fabrics worn over the whole person. The fabrics are not only more changeable than jewels, but they are more imitative of precious objects, renders the wearing of them in proportion suspicious in all except the very rich, and an incredible amount of ornament does the wearer more harm than good. We call this bad taste, and what we really mean is that the majority have recognized that it is no longer an effective mode of display. Still, it is hardly true to say that the total amount of ornament has been reduced. The development of a form of dress covering the whole person. The ingenuity of man has found a place on woman's dress, and for those for which no other place was found he has devised the hat.

Rapid rotation in style is a device to attract attention not known to animal life and not systematically used in the Orient. The woman of the far east uses expensive and attractive materials, but she wears them in a simple, for a long period. Among Occidental woman the discarding of dress is not only seasonal but, if it can be afforded, diurnal. The contrast is not only striking in itself, but it is economic ally to make it distinguish both the woman and the man whom she represents. What Mr. Veblen happily terms "conspicuous waste" is a means of distinction which the masses are not in a position to copy.

Personal display is dangerous ground for woman, since it invites disgust in the spectator when overdone, and she would never be bold enough to carry it to that outspoken lengths if she were not operating in a flock. She is timid about emphasizing herself except as one of a flock, but she is anxious for all the compliments she can get in the flock, and is above all concerned to be a member of the most distinguished flock. At this point she shows some of the independence of man and almost loses sight of him (after marriage, at least) in her interest in outstripping other women. Men would prefer her more simply dressed; but this is her game—indeed, it is her nature.

As society advances there is a tendency in man to give up ornament and in woman to take on more of it. This is because the natural inclination is inclined to display, but because he has undergone a great reform in his habits, the greatest perhaps in the history of the world. Primitive man was pugnacious, unsocial, ostentatious, and lazy, but capable, crafty and masterful—your true adventurer, but endowed with an inventive imagination and capable of splendid bursts of energy. This was the wild-oats period of the race, and its vestiges are still seen in the gamster, the artist, the wild youth, and the dissipated husband.

But when man exhausted the game of fashion, high heels, like long skirts, added to this apparent magnitude of woman, and at the same time give her a delicate and distinguished underpinning. If then, a woman walks on her toes and places the heel of the shoe under her instep instead of under her heel, and if the skirt covers the foot, that the shoe seems directly under the real heel, we get the spectacle of a very small foot indeed. The shortened length obtained by Japanese women thru doubling the axle rack is secured by the western woman by means of the high and illusory placed heel.

the textile output at nearly four billions—all mainly for women. The dress of woman has, in fact, become so incorporated in business that, as Sir Henry Maine has pointed out, the greatest calamity which could be conceived as befalling great populations would be, not a sanguinary war, a desolating famine, or a deadly epidemic, but a revolution in fashion under which "women should dress, as men practically do, in one material of one color. There are many flourishing and opulent cities in Europe and America which would be condemned by its bankruptcy or starvation, and it would be worse than a famine or pestilence in China, India and Japan." That is to say a great change in our industrial system must be gradual not to be calamitous.

But, while woman's demands occupy so large a place in the industrial world, it is noticeable that she is herself only a pawn in the industrial game played by man. Her individual position uses her as a symbol of his wealth and his power, and as a means of making her changeable and expensive fashions the occasion of a market for the costly and changeable objects which fashionability and as radical as accept. New fashions are not always beautiful; they are even often ugly, and women know it; but they embrace changes as frequent and as radical as the ingenuity of the mode-maker can devise. Women do not wear what they want, but what the manufacturers and trades-people want them to wear. The people who supply them also control them.

This does not, however, alter the fact that the general tone and pace of social life are deeply influenced by woman's emphasis of finery and form. There is an old story of a lady who purchased a pair of brass and iron, and then by degrees persuaded her husband to refurbish the whole house to match them. Just so, when silks and furs and gems attract and the unlimited gold are attached to the person of a woman, it follows also that the household and the world in which she moves are transformed to harmonize with her showy taste and appearance. Beginning with the rugs, tapestry, porcelain, silver plate, fine linen, and the rich and gaudy furnishings of the home, the fastidious personality of woman prevades and be-dizens everything. The baffling array of silver at the twelve-course dinner and the costly box at the costly opera are equally a part of woman's dress. This situation is the despair of men, but it is "society."

The effect of the situation on the character of woman is altogether bad, one interest expels another or prevents its development. The proverbially hollow mind of the very rich and the woman is not due to the exhaustion of nature's resources on her exterior, but to the fact that her attention is so bound up with the expression of her own charm that it stops with that. And the homely woman who competes with her has a still more absorbing problem. The foolish and disrespectful customs of courtesy which men practice toward women are also a product of woman's dress, and tend to keep her helpless in mind and body. The helplessness involved in lacing, high heels, undivided skirts, and other impediments of woman has a certain charm in the eyes of man. Their helplessness shows him off better by giving freer play to his protective and masterful instincts. It is his heroic opportunity since the disappearance of large game and in the slipping times of peace." To flatter this disposition of man, woman therefore assumes even greater helplessness than she possesses, and the most romantic periods in history are those characterized by tight lacing and purposive fainting. The role of "half angel and half bird" is a pretty one, if you can look at it in that way; but it denatures woman, makes her a thing instead of a person, a fact of the environment and an object of man's manipulation, instead of an agent for transforming the world. It leaves society short-handed and the struggle for life harder and uglier than it would be if woman operated in it as the substantial and superior creature which nature made her. We have a machine-made civilization which has introduced class inequalities, hatred, and suffering unknown in savagery or barbarism. We are wealthy, but not humanized. We are pursuing business on the same less principle that he formerly pursued game. Women have a base of material feeling that makes them more special than man, and if the economic value of the superfluity of their dress and the energy and attention they waste in following the fashion were devoted to humanitarian enterprises, we should be in a fair way to add the elements lacking that make our machine system a civilization. But by no use trying to talk fashions down. The change will come gradually, as women become more intelligent and independent and of themselves experience the explosive power of a new affection."

INDIA RUBBER TRADE HAS ITS OWN ROMANCE

ELASTIC GUM, ONCE A CURIOSITY AND VERY COSTLY, CENTRE NOW OF A NEW AND GROWING INDUSTRY—HISTORY OF THE TRADE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The modern world has gaped with wonder at the fabulous prices which are paid for an almost invisible speck of rubber. In other days the world wondered just as much when the hunters for strange things paid a guinea an ounce for a little ball of pure elastic gum to put in their cabinets.

And now that this gum, or rubber, has become one of the necessities of life, (more than 125,000,000 pounds of it are used in the world each year) the highest grade, free of impurities, still costs the manufacturer $1.50 a pound, one of the highest prices paid for any of the great staple commodities.

One English name for the substance is due to the English chemist Priestley. In 1770 he discovered that the material was good for rubbing out pencil marks, and called it in the attention of the English for that purpose, and ever since it has been known in English as India rubber.

From 1791 to 1815 a number of English chemists tried to use a rubber solution for the purpose of making waterproof cloth, but quite unsuccessfully. Charles Macintosh, whose name has now become as closely identified with the industry as that of Goodyear, succeeded in 1823 in dissolving rubber in benzine, which was the beginning of the industry of water-proof clothing.

Goodyear's Invention.

In 1822 the house of Chaffee & Higgins, of New York, founded the Roxborough India Rubber Company for the purpose of doing a business of the sort which Macintosh was doing on the other side. They, however, did not succeed, but they had in their employ one Charles Goodyear, who devoted his life and his fortune to the discovery of what turned out to be the most practical of all methods of overcoming the adhesiveness of stickiness which militated against the commercial uses of the gum.

Goodyear was the first to discover that sulphur lessened the sticky quality of the raw material, but it was left to Goodyear to demonstrate, in 1829, that by the combination of rubber and sulphur in proper quantities and under proper temperature the product would not break at a low temperature and would not become sticky at a high one. This was the solution of the problem, and in their combination of rubber and sulphur under the action of different temperatures resulting in a product of different hardness and elasticity which is known as vulcanization.

His discovery places Goodyear among the greatest of American inventors. Prior to his time practically no rubber was used in the United States. Today we are using quite one-half of the world's product, and rubber may now be regarded as a prime necessity of life.

A Unique Crop.

The production of rubber is peculiar in this, that it cannot be compared with any of the great agricultural crops—cotton, wheat, corn or rice. If in any year the price of these advances materially, the result is an invitation to larger planting, with a succeeding larger crop and the consequent re-establishment of the balance of price.

As the consuming demand increases the planting increases. Such, however, is not the case with the rubber crop. Cultivated rubber as yet plays no real part in the world's markets, not more than 100 tons having yet come into consumption in any one year.

Now, as to uncultivated plants the great trees and vines which yield the bulk of the product are not available until they are at least 15 years of age, and then in the case of the Hevea may yield for 20 years. In taking the latex from the Castilla, however, as well as from the Landolphia, the custom has been to kill the plant.

Industry in Primitive State.

It will be readily seen, therefore, that the industry of the rubber gatherer is still of the crudest and most primitive kind. It might be compared with that of the huckleberry picker here. The result is that the crop cannot be varied from a large crop to a small crop in any year, as in the case of wheat and cotton. The problem is not one of cultivation, but one almost exclusively of labor on the one hand, and of pushing further and further into the forests on the other.

The average annual increase of the Para crop during the last 20 years has been eight per cent., and during the last five years about four per cent. The largest increase in any single year was 17 per cent. The Congo crop has remained practically the same for the last seven years, and has a tendency to decrease rather than increase.

It was early found that rubber was impervious to moth and rust. In its manufactured form, in combination with sulphur, it was found after a while to lose its elasticity and the fabric of which it was a part to undergo a disintegration, but not a decomposition.

Recovery of Rubber.

The rubber remained. It was not of the same value either for elasticity or for tensile strength, but it was still of great value, and how to recover it became the question. This led to a series of experiments in the devulcanization of rubber, begun by Helmholtz, which is now conducted on a large scale by two processes, one an acid and the other an alkaline process, concerning the respective merits of which there is great controversy. As yet, however, most of the reclaimed rubber, so-called, is produced by the acid process.

Many will be surprised to learn that the annual product of the reclaimed material amounts in the United States alone to nearly 50,000,000 pounds, and this must be added to the annual rubber crop as a large factor in determining prices. It is used in varying proportions in making compound for the manufacture of all grades of goods excepting those requiring the greatest elasticity and the highest tensile strength, and has a value, according to quality and according to range of prices for new rubber, of between 10 and 15 cents a pound.

No one knows when the rubber particle or molecule really disappears. It may be powdered and lost thru friction, but as long as rubber scrap, or shoddy, exists, the rubber which is in it also exists in a form susceptible of re-use. In this way there has become established in this country what may be regarded as a permanent fund of reclaimed or reclaimable rubber, to which each year's new crop is added.

How the Man Lost in the Woods May Get Warm.

We must make our traveler who is lost in the woods as comfortable as possible while waiting for the sky to clear. Let him first find a place as well sheltered as possible. A fallen tree will best serve him. But before deciding on his camping-place, he should look about to see that there is plenty of dead wood. Then, from an area of six feet square, beside the fallen tree, he must clear away the snow, using his feet if nothing else is available, and, in the space thus cleared, kindle a fire of birch bark and dry wood, or pile on the wood until the fire entirely covers the cleared ground. While there is a good fire burning, he may gather a number of boughs of spruce, balsam or cedar. If these are not to be had, the best substitute for bed-making is brush. When several armfuls have been gathered and placed near the fire to exclude the frost, let him begin gathering dry and dead wood, and not until he thinks he has enough, two nights can he be reasonably sure of having a sufficient quantity for one night. After the fire has cleared away, the ground will be found dry and quite warm. Then this space is to be covered with the gathered boughs and on the leeward side of the bed thus prepared a fire should be built. This fire ought not to be large, as a draft would be created, and moreover, the smoke would be annoying to the sleeper. He is now assured of warmth sufficient to prevent him from freezing.—Outing Magazine for November.

Belgian Princess Tells How Cousin Tried to Lure Her to Sofia.

Princess Ferdinand, the new Czar of Bulgaria, is in the blackbooks of his first cousin, the notorious Princess Louise of Belgium (formerly of Coburg), and the story of how it came about is interesting.

After a dozen years of boisterous life, during which she caused sundry scandals and other sensations in European courts, Princess Louise has come to Aix-la-Chapelle for peace and quiet. Only 33 years old, she became a widow aged under the weight of such troubles as few are called upon to bear. But since she came here, not very long ago, she has recovered much of her beauty, looks younger and wears a cheerful expression.

Her Mesalliance.

Her story is familiar. Every reader of a newspaper may remember that when barely 17 she married Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who was 14 years her senior. He treated her shamefully, and after some years she appealed to her father, the King of the Belgians; but in vain. When the prince beat her savagely she flew to the protection of a Hungarian lieutenant named Mattachich. Prince Philip was powerful in Vienna, where they lived. He had Mattachich arrested on a trumped-up charge (after being wounded in a duel with him), divorced Louise and caused her to be put in a madhouse. Mattachich soon got free, but Princess Louise was kept in "captivity," as she terms it, six years. Finally Mattachich rescued her, and the two went to Paris.

Given Villa by Her Father.

The villa which the princess occupies was built by a young Russian student for a woman he loved. Recently it was bought by King Leopold, who offered it to Princess Louise, the eldest of his three daughters, on certain conditions. Chief of these was that she should consent to be guided in so far as her household expenditure was concerned by her parent rather than by her former husband, Prince King Leopold has more than once expressed lack of confidence in no measured terms.

LOUISE OF BELGIUM HATES CZAR OF BULGARIA

Belgian Princess Tells How Cousin Tried to Lure Her to Sofia.

Princess Ferdinand, the new Czar of Bulgaria, is in the blackbooks of his first cousin, the notorious Princess Louise of Belgium (formerly of Coburg), and the story of how it came about is interesting.

After a dozen years of boisterous life, during which she caused sundry scandals and other sensations in European courts, Princess Louise has come to Aix-la-Chapelle for peace and quiet. Only 33 years old, she became a widow aged under the weight of such troubles as few are called upon to bear. But since she came here, not very long ago, she has recovered much of her beauty, looks younger and wears a cheerful expression.

Her Mesalliance.

Her story is familiar. Every reader of a newspaper may remember that when barely 17 she married Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, who was 14 years her senior. He treated her shamefully, and after some years she appealed to her father, the King of the Belgians; but in vain. When the prince beat her savagely she flew to the protection of a Hungarian lieutenant named Mattachich. Prince Philip was powerful in Vienna, where they lived. He had Mattachich arrested on a trumped-up charge (after being wounded in a duel with him), divorced Louise and caused her to be put in a madhouse. Mattachich soon got free, but Princess Louise was kept in "captivity," as she terms it, six years. Finally Mattachich rescued her, and the two went to Paris.

and that his object really was to get hold of Princess Louise and place her under restraint again to please her father and the Emperor-King of Austria-Hungary, and the royal circle which he thought their caste was being disgraced by her carryings-on.

Princess Louise has become extremely popular in the little town, where her mother, Queen Marie Henriette, often stopped and was much liked.

The villa which the princess occupies was built by a young Russian student for a woman he loved. Recently it was bought by King Leopold, who offered it to Princess Louise, the eldest of his three daughters, on certain conditions. Chief of these was that she should consent to be guided in so far as her household expenditure was concerned by her parent rather than by her former husband, Prince King Leopold has more than once expressed lack of confidence in no measured terms.

The villa is furnished richly, but in good taste. In the principal drawing-room hang oil paintings of Leopold I, Queen Marie Henriette and other members of the Belgian royal family.

According to present arrangements Princess Louise will not leave Aix for a long time. Possibly she may go for an occasional trip incognito. But a person in her immediate circle of acquaintance says she is tired of her harassing creditors—one of them is at the present moment pressing for the payment of his bill of over $5000 thru the Vienna courts, on the ground that the princess should pay this out of what was left her by the queen. On the other hand, her liabilities in this and other directions combined amount to probably some hundreds of thousands of dollars, and it is doubtful whether her inheritance would suffice to liquidate all her debts.

One thing seems clear—a compromise has been effected between father and daughter; and those who know the former will admit that he is not the most unlikely party to make concessions, if any were made. The person before referred to says that the Princess ardently desires to see her father with a view to reconciliation and that, as far as the past is concerned, it is to all intents and purposes forgotten.

BREEZES FROM THE WEST

Lord Milner's Silence About Cattle Embargo Is Beyond Comprehension of Those Who Have Followed His Imperialism.

By Yam.

CALGARY, Nov. 5.—What did Lord Milner say about the cattle embargo? He asked an anxious rancher of a member of the Calgary board of trade.

"He said that Sam Steele is a Jim Dandy, and the Imperial regulars aren't in it with the Canadians, when it comes to doing things like the cattle or the hay."

"Nothing about the cattle or the hay?"

"And he's the great advocate of an Imperial tariff, and of preferential trade within the empire—Shucks!"

The westerner lives close to Nature, and generally calls a spade a spade, and cannot understand why an Imperial statesman, advocating preferential trade within the empire, should have any opportunity of being well informed on the various matters affecting that trade, cannot give an intelligent explanation on a question vitally affecting the relations of the mother country and the Canadian west.

It was partly in the hope that he might throw some light on these matters, that Lord Milner received perhaps the heartiest welcome yet accorded any of the many celebrated Imperialists who from time to time have honored Alberta with a visit; and partly also because Canada, the labor capital, despite its English element, which finds it difficult to shed its class adoration, saw in the late high commissioner of Cape Colony, a member of the house of lords, but the aristocrat of brains, honest effort and successful achievement. Being in the ranching country, it was natural that Imperial counsils should rub up against that irritating sore—the cattle embargo, to which has since been added the exclusion of Canada's hay. While admitting that the existing regulations militated against his ideal scheme of Imperial preference, Lord Milner would not commit himself to any opinion on the subject. Neither would he give his impressions of the west, for to an old newspaper man, he evidently felt that a superficial view of the country from the windows of the transcontinental train did not qualify him like so many other tourists for giving a learned opinion on all persons and things connected with the west, but if rumor is correct in crediting him with investing largely in the west, he may yet claim him as another victim of the "lure of the west," and in that event look to him to throw his influence on the side of that party of the South Africans who are advocating a federal union of their various states along the same lines as the Canadian Confederation. This is a difficult question in the way of this, is the fact that in Cape Colony the negroes have votes, while in the other colonies they have not, and it would have been interesting to have heard from the late high commissioner of South Africa what expedient the African state politicians were likely to adopt in regard to this matter in case they succeeded in arriving at a working union. The president of the legislative council of Cape Colony, Chief Justice Villiers, while representing the various South African states at the Centenary, gave it as his opinion that this subject of union would be settled during the month of October.

Should a Statesman Talk?

These are some of the questions on which the west would have an opinion from Lord Milner. He may be a diplomat who believes that "silence is golden," but if the people cannot get some lucid ideas on Imperial questions from the statesman that the empire honors with her confidence, where are they to look for it? And if they lose all interest in these questions, who is to blame if imperialism becomes a dead letter to them? It is true that Lord Milner, like everyone else, praised the conduct of our Canadian boys in the South African war and their willingness, their genuine patriotism and their all-round usefulness in every emergency. They are one thing, and the exploiters who are not, are another. They were denied a sight of that other Imperialist, the idol of the soldiers and the nation, "which is Bobo"? Or was it that the known popularity of the latter might lead to demonstrations of popular enthusiasm that would altogether overshadow the manufactured heroism of the empire and the flag?

For the rights that that flag maintained.

Veteran Land Grants.

We say the west advisedly; for the Ottawa politicians take unto themselves great credit for voting this land to the veterans, it is extremely easy to be generous at the expense of another province. The west has welcomed the veterans with no uncertain voice. They are one thing, and the exploiters who are not, are another. They were denied a sight of that other Imperialist, the idol of the soldiers and the nation, "which is Bobo"? Or was it that the known popularity of the latter might lead to demonstrations of popular enthusiasm that would altogether overshadow the manufactured heroism of the empire and the flag?

Heard & Heard have entered action on behalf of William C. and Blanche Hunter to recover sustained damages for personal injuries from the Toronto Eastern Hotel. It is alleged that they negligently ploughed Blanche Hunter, was burned by carbolic acid.

LABOUCHERE'S VERSION OF HOME RULE SPLIT

Belated Inside Story of Gladstone's Negotiations—His Remedy for Irish Grievances.

Mr. Labouchere, in a recent issue of Truth, has a long article with reference to his letter on "The Secret History of the First Home Rule Bill," published in The Cornhill Magazine by Mr. H. W. Lucy. He does not complain of Mr. Lucy publishing his letter, but "I am sorry that he has done so." Not long after the formation of the government in 1885 it was decided, he says, that an inspired paragraph should appear in a newspaper known to be in Mr. Gladstone's confidence, announcing in clear terms that Mr. Gladstone was in favor of granting to Ireland home rule on the lines proposed by Mr. Parnell. Mr. Labouchere happened to be going just then to pay a visit to Mr. Chamberlain at Highbury, and he was asked to inform him of the intention. He could hardly induce Mr. Chamberlain to believe him. But the next day the paragraph appeared. A committee of the cabinet was appointed to elaborate a bill. Mr. Chamberlain was not on the committee, and this was not satisfactory to him.

"The relations between these two eminent men (Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Chamberlain)," continues Mr. Labouchere, "had become strained, and this, together with their idiosyncrasy of opinion, was a factor in all great political issues. Mr. Gladstone, on the other hand, disliked to abandon under pressure any course to which he had once committed himself. It felt to me to act as an intermediary in the negotiations between Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Chamberlain that followed the resignation of the latter. My aim was therefore to effect some arrangement which would bring him into line with Mr. Gladstone."

Mr. Gladstone would so far yield as to agree that the Irish should sit and vote in the British Parliament when matters affecting our foreign relations and Imperial finances were under discussion, provided he could be sure that this would disarm the opposition of Mr. Chamberlain and his friends. After a good deal of talk, on Friday, Mr. Chamberlain dictated his terms, which were those to which Mr. Gladstone would consent. With this document Mr. Labouchere went to Downing Street, where a cabinet was sitting, and sent it in to Mr. Gladstone. The reply was that he agreed.

Mr. Gladstone's Nervous Care.

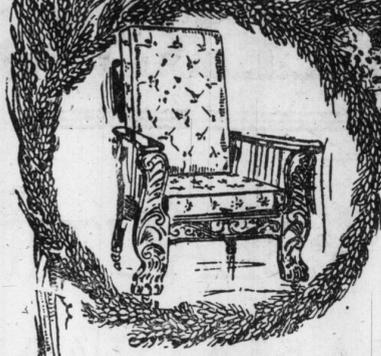

"On my return on Sunday morning," the narrative continues, "I found a messenger awaiting me at my house with a letter from Mr. Chamberlain, telling me that on Saturday Mr. Gladstone had met a pressman, and had told him, in answer to his enquiry whether any arrangements had been come to, that he had made no concessions, and that under these circumstances he (Mr. Chamberlain) considered that good faith was not expected. But at an earlier hour of the day, Mr. Parnell had communicated a telegram that had been received by Captain O'Shea from Mr. Chamberlain, in which the absolute surrender of Mr. Gladstone was announced. This telegram had been sent, not only to Captain O'Shea, but to other allies of Mr. Chamberlain. Mr. Arnold Morley and I decided to send a messenger to Mr. Gladstone, who was at Wimbledon, to inform him of Mr. Chamberlain's letter, and to ask him whether I could reply to him that the arrangement, so far as Mr. Gladstone was concerned, still held good. The answer was that it did, except in regard to one minor detail. I at once sent the reply to Mr. Chamberlain, pointing out to him that the alteration was insignificant, and was only a curious instance of the scrupulous care of Mr. Gladstone when a pledge was concerned. Mr. Chamberlain, however, decided to regard it in that light. Thus the arrangement fell through. Mr. Chamberlain, I thought, had been wrong in the description he gave of it in his suspension telegram, and it would have been better had he not been so hasty in announcing the conclusion of the arrangement. Mr. Gladstone would have been better advised had he simply replied that the arrangement did hold good, without any attempt to modify it in any minor detail."

Shortly afterwards, Mr. Gladstone's followers were summoned to a meeting at the foreign office, and Mr. Gladstone read out a written statement. The phrasing was somewhat vague and involved, but it seemed capable of bearing the construction that the status of the Irish members in the house of commons was not to be changed.

Then came the private meeting of the dissentient Liberals, a few days before the division on the second reading of the bill. Mr. Cairne's remark in The Cornhill Magazine letter that they were mainly influenced by the eloquence of Sir George Trevelyan is disputed by Mr. Labouchere, who declares that the decision to vote against the bill was brought about by the letter of Mr. Bright, which was read by Mr. Cairne.

A Torn Letter.

"So soon as it was known what had transpired at the meeting I went off to the Reform Club," he says. "On entering the smoking-room I found Mr. Bright there. He at once asked me what had happened at the meeting. I replied that a resolution had been passed pledging all to vote against the bill. To my surprise he replied that he was sorry to hear it. I then said I understood that it was due to a letter of his which was read, and in which he had expressed his opinion. He answered that he had never given them this advice, but that he had stated that he intended to vote against the bill himself. I asked him whether he would give me a copy of the letter for publication. He replied that he had no objection, but after searching in his pockets he found that he had no copy of it. Just then Mr. Cairne came into the room, and he declined to give me a copy of the letter. He went away, Mr. Cairne declined to comply with his request. I therefore came to the conclusion that the letter had not been read in its entirety to the meeting. Mr. Cairne says, in his letter to Mr. Lucy, that he kept leaving the meeting, he tore Mr. Bright's letter into little bits. Such a proceeding is unusual in the case of a most important document, and Mr. Cairne himself says that he did so somewhat contemptuously in the opinion

BRYAN ACCEPTS DEFEAT

SAYS REFORM WILL COME

Issues Manly Statement Expressing Confidence in Ultimate Victory of Policy.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—W. J. Bryan issued the following statement to-day:

"The election has gone against us by a decisive majority. The returns are not all in and it is impossible at the present time to analyze them or to say what cause contributed most to the Republican victory. We made our fight upon a platform which embodied what we believed to be good for the American people, but it is for the people themselves to decide what laws they desire and what methods of government they prefer. I have faith that the public which we asked for will yet commend itself to the American people, that the election of senators by the people will be secured; that the inequities of the trusts will see the necessity for labor legislation and the tariff reduction which our platform demanded. I am confident, too, that the education work done in this campaign will result in securing greater protection to bank depositors. The above are the most important reforms for which we labored, and I believe that these reforms will yet come together with more effective regulation of railroads and independence for the Philippines."

"In this hour of national defeat I find some consolation in the cordial support given by my neighbors, by the citizens of Lincoln and by the people of the State of Nebraska. With a democratic governor and a Democratic legislature, we shall be able to put into practice so much of the Denver platform as relates to state legislation, and I trust that our state will set an example that will be an influence for good in the nation."

Bryan Congratulates Taft.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 5.—W. J. Bryan, the defeated candidate of the Democratic party for president, this morning sent the following telegram to President-elect Taft:

"Please accept my congratulations and best wishes for the success of your administration."

Judge Taft acknowledged Mr. Bryan's telegram as follows:

"I thank you sincerely for your cordial and courteous telegram of congratulation and good wishes."

Fort William's Demands.

FORT WILLIAM, Nov. 5.—A meeting was held here to formulate an agreement between the city and the C.P.R. regarding the terms of exemption to be granted to the company after the present agreement expires on Dec. 1, 1908. The council asked for a bridge across the Kam River, increased works here, a new depot, 300 feet of river frontage, easily accessible, and offered a fixed taxation for a period of years.

Petition Tampered With.

PICTON, Nov. 5.—In a scrutiny of the local option petition the town solicitor found that 198 names were on the petition that did not correspond to the voters' list. Two hundred and eighty-eight were all right, but 80 had been tampered with; for instance, to suit the voters' list initials had been inserted to signatures in other handwriting than the original.

Use Empire to Help Poor.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(C.A.P.)—General Booth, interviewed, made the statement that the Salvation Army children in British Columbia have proved a perfect godsend. The general asks: "What's the use of a big empire if we don't use it for assisting poor and struggling work people?"

Montreal's Assessment.

MONTREAL, Nov. 5.—With an assessment of three hundred millions, Montreal has non-taxable property valued at sixty-three millions, which is over 20 per cent. of the total assessment.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. Mr. Buxton, postmaster-general and Hon. Rodolphe LeMieux will be given a banquet by the National Liberal Club. The Earl of Carrington will preside and Hamar Greenwood, M.P., is to be one of the principal speakers.

GRAIN TIE UP IN WEST
NO CARS ARE AVAILABLE

C.P.R. Said to Be Working a Game
Farmers are Petitioning the Authorities.

EDMONTON, Nov. 5.—(Special).—Provincial Car Inspector C. S. Hitchkiss has been investigating the grain trouble along the Calgary and MacLeod line, and is now reporting to the government.

He declares that over a million bushels of grain are at Claresholme, half a million at Stavely and three-quarters of a million at Granum, awaiting cars. It is alleged that taking advantage of a technicality in the Manitoba Grain Act giving jurisdiction only over east-bound cars, the company is supplying only 200 cars to the first named and one hundred between the latter points. It is alleged the elevator men and the company are consigning all cars west, although there is a suspicion they are turned and sent east from Calgary.

Indignation meetings are being held and stormy resolutions forwarded to the authorities. Many farmers are hauling to Lethbridge and MacLeod.

EXPLOSION KILLS THREE IN A SHOWER OF ROCKS

Tragedy on the G. T. P. Construction Near Kenora—Contractor's Narrow Escape.

KENORA, Ont., Nov. 5.—A dynamite explosion, resulting in the death of three men and terrible injuries to another, took place on Tuesday morning at Olsen and Larson's Camp No. 20, on the G.T.P. construction, about twenty-four miles north of Ingouit.

The killed are Nelson P. Strube, aged 25, a native of Denmark; F. Elertson, aged 26, a Dane. All three were single men. The injured man is Andrew Coleberg, a Dane. His right hand was blown off and he sustained injuries to his head. Two other men received minor injuries from falling rocks.

It appears that the men were drilling a hole in the face of the rock cut, and in so doing struck the base of another hole, which had been exploded a few days before, but in which apparently some dynamite remained. The explosion was terrific. Larson, one of the partners in the firm of Olsen and Larson, was fixing the drill up to a few minutes before the explosion occurred. He had only gone a short distance from the cut.

REHOBOTHAM'S "NIGHT"

Past Master's Reunion and Canadian Celebration Features.

The annual reunion of the past masters of Rehobotham Masonic Lodge, No. 85, was held in the Temple Building last night. It was also the occasion of the annual Canadian night of this lodge. First degree work was accomplished by the following past masters: W. Bro. R. W. Clewlo, W.M.; W. Bro. John McCurrhan, I.P.M.; W. Bro. William Crichton, S.W.; W. Bro. George H. Mitchell, J.W.; W. Bro. R. C. Harris, chaplain; W. Bro. J. Webber Payne, treasurer; W. Bro. E. H. Briggs, secretary; W. Bro. D. B. Grierson, S.D.; W. Bro. John O'Connor, J.D.; R. W. Bro. J. B. Nixon, I.G.; V. W. Bro. Andrew Park, S.S.; W. Bro. J. Webber Payne, J.S.; W. Bro. W. J. Graham, D. of C.; W. Bro. Angus MacBean, organist; R. W. Bro. Malcolm Gibbs also assisted in the ceremonies.

In the banquet room the usual toasts were given, including "Canada," proposed by W. Bro. John O'Connor, and responded to by W. Bro. Rev. Byron H. Stauffer. The musical program was in charge of W. Bro. George H. Mitchell. The Princess Theatre orchestra rendered the national song, "O Canada," the company joining in the chorus. John Alexander gave a number of Dr. Drummond's Habitant works in splendid style. George McCullough Ross, Bartley Brown and the Stevenson Quartet, and Messrs. McGarvey, Shaver and Randall gave vocal numbers.

DEAN REEVE TO RETIRE FROM MEDICAL FACULTY

After Ten Years' Valuable Service, Desires to Be Relieved of Official Duties.

The resignation of Dr. R. A. Reeve as dean of the medical faculty of Toronto University is to take place very shortly, according to a report which appears to be well founded. Dr. Reeve has occupied the important office for 12 years, and should he carry out his intention there will be widespread regret among members of the medical profession.

Sir William Meredith, chancellor of the university, when asked last night regarding the rumor, said he was afraid that it was only too true, as Dean Reeve had expressed a wish to give up the office. The faculty had not yet discussed the matter. As to the report that Dr. Charles Clark, superintendent of Toronto Asylum, may be appointed, the chancellor said he had nothing to say on this point.

It is believed that Dr. Reeve has found himself unable to devote as much time to his duties as he considers their importance warrants, owing to the extent of his private practice, he being one of the foremost eye specialists. His duties as dean of the faculty and his position as chairman of the faculty and exercise general supervision of it. He is an ex-officio member of the caput and senate and is mainly responsible for arrangements in entertaining distinguished visitors of the faculty. The faculty was founded in 1843, and abolished ten years later, but reorganized in 1857. Dr. Reeve was appointed in 1896, succeeding Dr. Uziel Ogden.

D. A. Pringle, secretary of the faculty, said last night that he had heard rumors of a coming retirement for several weeks, but that the matter had not come officially before him.

IN JUDGE MORSON'S COURT.

Several Little Cases of Interest Are Decided.

Mrs. Annie Anderson sued the Union Life Assurance Co. in the district court yesterday for $54, the value of money she claimed was due her on a life policy on her daughter. The insurance company presented a release note signed by Mrs. Anderson, by which the payment of $50 by the company released them from any further claim on them. Judgment was given for the company. Mrs. Anderson alleged misrepresentation.

W. Black of Bolton bought a car from the Dominion Automobile Co. some time ago, under a guarantee that it would climb hills. He claimed it wouldn't and was sued for $144.60, balance due, and must pay with costs.

The Toronto Railway Co. were given judgment for $11 and costs against William Dr. Valley, a moving van man. A car was damaged slightly by a collision with a van after the motorman had "gonged" for the man to get off the track.

Who is responsible for the physical wellbeing of a child, father or mother? Yesterday Dr. D. J. G. Wishart sued Mrs. J. J. Perry for $26 for an operation performed in the Sick Children's Hospital on Perry, minor. Her defence was that the father ordered the operation and argued that he was liable, but she lost.

St. George's Society Smoker.
St. George's Society held their semi-annual smoking concert at their hall on Elm-street last night, when over 300 members and friends assembled to enjoy the musical feast provided. J. M. Gander, the president, who has recovered from his long illness, occupied the chair and was given a splendid ovation. Songs and recitations were given by Messrs. M. Greig, Brazil, J. A. Arlidge, Vincent St. Clare and Bowles. Refreshments were served in the interval after several loyal and patriotic speeches had been delivered by the past presidents and other prominent members.

Bible Class Banquet.
About 150 members and friends of the British Welcome League Bible Class celebrated their first anniversary by a supper last night at Albert Williams' Cafe.

The president and organizer of the class, W. Saunders, presided, supported by A. Chamberlain, president of the league; Revs. Dr. McGillicuddy and Dr. Eby, R. Bradshaw, F. Sexton and W. Chadwick. A feature was the presentation by the Rev. Dr. McGillicuddy of large framed photo of the members of the class to the president and vice-president, Messrs. Saunders and Bradshaw.

Margaret Williams and William J. Williams of Toronto have issued a writ against Norman Macrae and Evelyn Macrae for a declaration that the plaintiffs are entitled to a lien on Spadina-avenue property.

BEAUTIFUL FURS
CANADIAN WEATHER

In Canada furs are a necessity during five months of the year. The cold weather to-day reminds us of this fact, thus a fur garment is a good investment, if it is a good fur. While the fur is necessary regarding one's comfort, fashion has decreed that it is also necessary from a fashion standpoint, consequently the style of your garment is of as much consequence as the quality of the fur and the fur comfort which the fur imparts.

Our garments lend to the wearer that dignity and grace of style so much sought after by every woman. Our styles are the creations of the most famous artists in London, Paris and Vienna, and our own expert corps of designers. The display is complete with a very large variety in every fur, and you are sure of a splendid selection, no matter when you may come. Being the largest exclusive furriers in the British Empire and making everything we sell, buying our skins direct, we can thus assure you of the best possible value. We have only one price, and that price is based on a small profit. This store will help you to decide the fur question, and we will be pleased to see you whether you intend to buy or not.

The visitors were dined at the New Murray, Sheriff Dawson, chairman of the local library board, presiding.

Autumn of 1906, is still fresh in the public mind, and in the language of an English writer, who accompanied them on this occasion, "did more for the binding of the two peoples than many empresses have done."

Their visit to Canada is in all senses a larger undertaking, and at their first concert here the reception accorded our visitors must have equaled in warmth the marvelous welcome they received in the German fatherland. Our English cousins were brought to realize with a new force that all the patriotism of the great nation does not lie within the shores of the tight little isle.

We in Canada, with our growing perception of all that is beautiful in choral music, fully realize and appreciate the graceful tribute Dr. Coward has paid us in bringing his magnificent organization across the Atlantic, and Ontonarians extended to his choir the warmest and heartiest welcome at their opening concert.

The choir, 200 strong, sat to the back of the platform, the sides of which were banked with palms. In the foreground was our magnificent orchestra, who, under Frank Weisman, played the orchestral accompaniments. Miss Emily Beare, daughter of W. H. Beare, editor of the Harrogate Herald, was the soprano for the occasion. She has a beautiful, perfectly produced voice, that is evidently dominated by artistic intuition. She wore a becoming frock of soft white liberty touched in gold, and a spray of pink carnations on the corsage.

Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, the contralto (a granddaught of the celebrated Hungarian prima donna, Madame Peschka Lenner), was gowned in soft white net over silk, and a broad silver belt was in her hair.

Miss Eleanor Coward, a daughter of the conductor of the choir, was violinist and also favored with a magnificent bouquet of pink ribbons.

There was the largest audience and most representative of all the churches of the community ever assembled in Toronto.

The musical circle was represented by Dr. A. S. Vogt, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Fisher, Dr. and Mrs. Torrington, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Fletcher, Henry Bantz, Arthur Blakeley, Edmund Phillips, T. J. Palmer, Mr. Wheldon.

Others in the audience were the Mayor and Mrs. Oliver and the Misses Oliver, Miss Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hunter, Miss Gertrude Tate, the Misses Schoenberger, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miller, Mrs. Mrs. W. R. S. Williams, W. Y. Archibald, Mrs. Hewes, Kliphant, Mrs. W. S. Rough, Miss Hough, Herbert Mason, Mrs. Frank Kenfield, Frank Darling, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kent, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Dawson, the Misses Cawthra, Jack Cawthra, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, Dr. and Mrs. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ryrie, Mrs. H. H. Pudger, the Misses Pudger, Miss Edith Kay, Miss Jean Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Eckhardt, Miss Mary Smart, Albert Nordheimer, Miss Yvonne Nordheimer, Mrs. T. B. Taylor, Miss Evelyn Taylor, Miss Davies, Mrs. Frank MacKee, Miss Agnes Dunlop, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Dewar, Miss Mary Glasco (Hamilton), Mrs. J. C. Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cox, Mrs. Arthur Ripper, Clarence Egan, Mr. Mulock Boulton, Joseph Scragam (Waterloo), Miss Helen Davidson, Mrs. Annour, Miss Mary Jarvis, Mrs. A. I. Davison, Mrs. Mabel, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Miss Estelle Nordheimer, Miss Athol Nordheimer, Mrs. Mrs. Percy Parker, Mrs. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Pigott, Miss Clara Lawson, the registrar of the choir, with W. H. Beare and Frank Weisman, occupied one of the boxes. Betty Barlow.

DR. COWARD'S METHODS

Never Tests Voices of Candidates for the Choir.

Dr. Henry Coward, conductor of the Sheffield Choir, arrived yesterday from Montreal in the morning, preceding his choir, which reached Toronto yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Coward spent the morning at Massey Hall rehearsing the Toronto Symphony Orchestra for last night's concert with the Sheffield Choir.

In an interview with The World Dr. Coward expressed himself as delighted with the cordial welcome he and his choir already received in the city, and that "the great and prosperous Dominion."

The World representative saw Dr. Coward at work rehearsing the orchestra, and there is no doubt about it—he is an extraordinary conductor, full of enthusiasm, skilled in getting his ideas into the minds of the performers and original thru and thru. He is what is known as a "temperamental" conductor, an "emotional" musician. He demands note-correctness, but he aims thru this to evoke emotional expression—and when he gets that from his choir or band he is satisfied.

To The World he said: "The visiting choir is in no sense a picked body of singers. When I planned to bring to Canada I simply said, 'Who'll go?' The result was that only those who could afford the time and had the necessary funds have come along with me. Another thing—I never test voices; all I ask of a candidate is a knowledge of music and the ability to sing at sight. I accept certificates of the Sol-fa Society and of the Royal College of Music for proficiency in sight-singing. You may be surprised to hear it, but the individual voices in the choir have no qualities which, if heard in solo, would please one. But all I ask is for human voices, a knowledge of sight-singing, and when I get them before me and my baton, I get the right result from them, which is due more to their spirit of giving me the best in them than to anything else.

"Please," continued Dr. Coward, "please tell your citizens not to judge us as if the Sheffield Choir were angels from heaven; they are just ordinary mortals, doing the best they can to popularize good music."

Canada Surprises Them.

The members of the Sheffield Choir arrived from Ottawa yesterday afternoon, and are at the Rossin House.

One of the most active promoters of the project, when it was but a project, for the visit of the choir to Canada, said to The World: "I had no idea of the claims Canada's before I left England. My highest expectations have been more than realized, and the members of the choir deeply appreciate the royal welcome we have received. We were all greatly impressed by the marvelous beauty of the scenery as we came up the St. Lawrence and since landing at Montreal on Sunday the welcome we have received has commanded our deepest appreciation.

"I can assure you that if the mooted return of your Mendelssohn Choir of Toronto should take place they can depend on the heartiest welcome we on our part have it in our power to extend. Our visit is fully fraternal, we desire to manifest the friendly feeling which is ever increasing in England towards Canada, and the interest which is there felt in the great future we all believe to await the Dominion."

Audiences Not Demonstrative.

"We hope to sing our way into the hearts of the Canadians, and from the responsiveness of the great audiences of 5000 in Montreal and 7000 in Ottawa we believe that we shall succeed in this. I do not think the Canadian audiences are quite as responsive as those of England, but we are informed that they are much more responsive than usual in our case. We are enjoying our visit to the utmost and our impressions of Canada are in every way of the most favorable kind, and we shall only be able to speak in high terms on our return not only of our reception and your grand scenery, but also of the splendid air of progress and prosperity in every city we have visited."

Last evening the Press Club banqueted several members of the Sheffield choir, who ate with the choir.

The Hat Militant.

It is immense. It has a mission. It will suppress the kiss. The superfluous feminine kiss. Umbrella-hatted girls find kissing difficult. A like kissing bee would demolish fine headgear. Fair ones halted according to George-etie may as well omit osculation at once. A hatless hostess, if short, may find it practical to venture up under the gloop of a guest's hat brim for the purpose of saluting her. Otherwise, nay, nay. Again, nay.

Didn't See Any.

Uncle Wash, an aged colored man who is given to seeing visions, was recently regarding a group of brethren and sisters in the church with a dream of heaven that he had the night before. As he was graphically describing its gold-paved streets, its gates of pearl and the hosts of white-robed, fair-haired angels playing upon jeweled harps, a tall old woman interrupted with the query: "See any niggalls dah?" "Ifuh," he snorted indignantly, "does you spose I went 'roun' to de kitchen?"

The desire to kill big game for sport in a region that is totally uninteresting and devoid of the picturesque implies a kennel-hood that is fairly deplorable.

ISOLATION OF CANADIAN FARMER BEING REMOVED

TROLLEY, TELEPHONE AND RURAL FREE DELIVERY. THE THREE AGENCIES WHICH ARE TAKING AWAY FROM FARM LIFE ITS DISADVANTAGES AND DRAWBACKS.

There was a time in Canada—and it is only now ceasing—when to live outside the zone of thickly populated centres entailed serious disadvantages. To be sure, counter advantages were not lacking. The fresh air, the verdure of the kindly seasons, the many joys of open-air, bucolic life untrammelled by crowds of feverish atmosphere, were inestimable boons. But these were offset by trying setbacks. The long distance from the nearest town, the difficulty of often reaching there, the primitive methods of traveling, the unceasing anxiety of getting news and in communicating with neighbors, or at a distance—all these and other conditions imposed upon millions of our men and women severe impediments. In many instances their involvement during a great part of the year was one of sheer isolation. Those who lived along the line of steam railroads were more fortunate than the millions of others who were shut back in the country. But even the presence of the railroad brought no complete advantage. In many places the trains still run once or twice a day, perhaps at inconvenient hours for the population.

If the villager or farmer sought to go anywhere he generally had to hitch his horse and travel an arduous way over the country roads. To deliver produce at the nearest railroad station was a task which the farmer had to perform himself. He had to drive there or hire someone to do it for him. If he wanted to buy groceries, dry goods, or hardware, he had to do the same. During the long, inclement winter months, when he had the time to visit cities, he was frequently barred in by impassable roads. As for getting mail, that was a wasteful business, relieved only by his meeting fellow-neighbors at the nearest postoffice and holding their shares. He, or some member of his family, perforce, had to trudge there once a week or so to get the mail. If the weather was stormy or everybody at home was too busy, weeks would sometimes elapse before the belated mail was obtained. Furthermore, it was usually an easy matter to communicate with neighbors, the nearest of whom might be a mile or two away. And such a thing as sitting in one's own house, to be five miles from a village or town, and ordering the doctor to come or arranging any of the rest of multifarious family details, was unknown. It was a drama of a pill-day might elapse before a physician could be reached.

City Isolation Too. These were a few of the drawbacks and isolations of country and small-town life. And there was a reverse isolation, in a measure, for the swarming populations of the cities. It was hard for them to get away into the country in the sweltering days of summer. There were railroads, it is true, but they fanned only a small fraction of the real country districts, and their service was infrequent and mechanically burdensome. There was no particular pleasure in striding in closed railroad cars, merely for the doubtful pleasure of riding. The refreshment of spending over miles upon miles of the freshest country stretches in an open, breezy trolley car, and at a reasonable rate, was unknown. It was practically impossible for many city workers to live 30 miles or more in the country, and yet be able to get to town and back again with ease every day. For city people to commute with their rural relatives and sisters was productive of much delay. The city had its forms of isolation not less than the country districts.

Three factors have changed these long-contriving conditions. These are the interurban trolley system, the telephone and the rural free mail delivery. When one contrasts the difficulties and semi-stagnation which so long held sway over the rural districts, with the marvelous changes which have come within comparatively a few years, the vast transformation is evident. It is, in fact, a revolution of the first importance. It has already obliterated or is fast obliterating, the narrowness of action and movement which for innumerable ages has hemmed in both rural and urban populations. It is making the pure, salutary reaches of country and forest, seashore and mountain, adjuncts of the cities. On the other hand, it is bringing the advantages of the city and town within easy distance of the country. Thus all of our population partakes of its benefits.

The Adventurous Trolley. The trolley was at first confined to the cities. Then it began reaching out cautiously into the country. Presently it whisked over the country roads. The importance of these trolley railways to the rural population is enormous. The farmer and his family can go to the neighboring village or to the nearest city at the time most convenient for them, and can make the trip far more quickly, cheaply, and comfortably than they could by team. The contact with town and city life comes to them, and their breath of view, culture, comfort and happiness. The wearing isolation of the old days, with all its accompanying effects, is at least partly removed. They can get about with ease of movement, and whenever the spirit seizes them, hasten to where they can mingle with people and get ready relaxation or amusement. The trolley brings them direct and easily to the markets and shops, and gives them the amplest opportunities for improvement of table and dress for increasing the comforts of home. The social life, diverse amusements, and varied interests of the city are made abundantly accessible to them. Is there a play being produced which the wife or daughter is anxious to see? Well, it's easy enough to speed over to town. Is there a bargain sale on? Or a big political rally? All that is necessary is to board the trolley and in an hour or so the rural dweller has emerged from the depths of their retreat to the glowing life of the city, twenty-five or thirty miles away. If the farmer wishes to have his children avail themselves of the superior school facilities of the town, the trolley will take them there and back every day.

The Telephone. Such other facilities which the trolley does not afford are made up by the telephone. The trolley line passes along a set route; and a country dweller that wanted to have a talk or communicate with neighbors some miles back from the line would have to walk or drive there were it not for the telephone. By means of this indispensable instrument he can now comfortably enounce himself in his own home, to his wife, to his children, or for a radius of many miles and frequently with distant places.

The spread of the telephone in the rural districts is comparatively new. Until the expiration of the fundamental rights of telephone patents some years ago, the telephone industry was virtually under the control of one corporation with one centralized management. During the last few years, however, many independent and mutual lines have been established. In the rural districts there are generally two kinds of telephone systems, either of which are in operation. One is the mutual system, which includes all systems operated thru a mutual management among the persons deriving benefit from it. The system is primarily for the benefit of the owners, the other being an incidental factor. The other is the independent farmer or rural line. It embraces all lines having no regular exchange or central office. The rural telephone line usually consists of one or more circuits strung thru a sparsely settled rural district and connected with the various farmhouses. These rural lines are operated in a simple and inexpensive way on a grounded circuit for which there is no elaborate apparatus of any kind. The means used are amply sufficient for all purposes of communication. Often these rural systems are connected in some manner with a mutual or commercial city system, and the farmer is thus enabled to make extended telephonic communication.

The country dweller now has the satisfaction of having seclusion and quietude without the old inconveniences of insularity. The butcher and the grocer can be called up at any time and told just what to bring. The physician at a distance can be summoned at a moment's notice. If the farmer or his wife feels a bit lonesome, and hankers for a friendly talk with a

WIRELESS TALK EXPERIMENTS AT SEA

British Board of Admiralty Busy With De Forest Wireless Telephony

Wireless telegraphy is occupying the attention of the board of admiralty. A remarkable stage in its development for use by our men of war, and the time has come for official attention to be paid to the sister marvel—the transmission of the human voice thru space without the use of wires.

TAXICAB METER'S MANY FUNCTIONS

Apparatus Cannot Be Manipulated Without Attracting Passengers' Attention.

Probably not one person in ten riding in a taxicab can have any idea how the meter is manipulated. Of course not all of these meters work alike, but there is a general similarity in the mechanism.

In London, taximeters have to be passed upon by three police officials before they are allowed to be placed in service, and they have to be periodically tested.

It is not asserted that the reform is infallibly accurate, but as a rule the advantage is slightly in favor of the passenger, and practice has shown these taximeters to be more than sufficiently accurate for all practical purposes.

When a machine is engaged the driver can then charge for "extra" moves the flag downward by means of the handle of the flagpost, and this movement causes the word "hired" to be exhibited in place of the words "for-hire" on the main dial, and the initial charge is shown under "fare."

By means of a handle at the back the driver can then charge for "extra" such as additional persons, baggage, etc., an indication of these items being also shown on the main dial.

As each of the handles is moved a gong is sounded, so that the apparatus cannot be manipulated without the passenger's attention being attracted. When a journey is completed and the fare paid, the driver moves the flag up again, and the indications on the main dial disappear until the vehicle is again hired. The other handle at the back is for the purpose of winding the clock mechanism.

In addition to the items which affect the passenger, however, the apparatus also indicates the record of a day's work on a side dial, these indications, leading in order from the top forward in horizontal lines, being as follows:

1. This indicates the number of engagements, for each of which the initial charge has to be accounted for.
2. This indicates all the amounts received above the initial charge.
3. This indicates the totals of all extras.
4. This indicates the number of miles traveled with out a fare.
5. This indicates the number of miles traveled while engaged and therefore while earning a fare.

By means of these indications the earnings of the day and the work done can be readily computed.

Another agency which is giving the death-blow to isolation in the rural free mail delivery. It is no longer necessary to wait for days or weeks to receive the mail until a visit has been made to the postoffice. This way is archaic in many rural sections now, and will be gone in all, or nearly all, of them soon. Bad weather or good weather, over level roads or mountain roads the mail is brought right to the door daily.

So it is that these three factors are over-coming that dreadful isolation which has long brooded over many a rural district, causing many a depressing trouble, and often many a fatality. People by nature are social beings; they long for companionship; they ache for society. The pleasures of solitude may be pleasurable as a change for the time being, from the turmoil of crowds, but too much of a dose of it is a melancholy thing. The mind gets benumbed, sad, and stagnant. Human nature rebels against an excess of solitude. This is one of the reasons why so many of our rural population have been flocking to the already overcrowded cities. But it is likely, now that the isolation of rural sections is being vanquished, that the tide will set in the other way, to the resulting health, comfort and happiness of our people.

Wireless telephony is occupying the attention of the board of admiralty. A remarkable stage in its development for use by our men of war, and the time has come for official attention to be paid to the sister marvel—the transmission of the human voice thru space without the use of wires.

The demonstrations at the admiralty have been carried out by a man who has already proved his ability. Prof. Lee De Forest has equipped a number of vessels of the United States navy with wireless telephony apparatus, and has spoken in the Eiffel Tower in Paris with respect to the distance of a mile and a half.

All this has been accomplished in the course of eight months. He began experimenting on a large scale in March, 1907, and succeeded in transmitting music from his New York Times building—a distance of a mile and a half.

In July of the same year he reported a yacht race by word of mouth over a distance of four miles at sea, and then his experiments in American men-of-war began. He fitted the battleships, the Connecticut (flagship) with a transmitting apparatus, and the Kentucky and Illinois with receiving apparatus. They went to sea, and on Cape Cod, when eight miles apart, the messages sent out by the Connecticut were heard on board the other two ships.

The months later this performance was eclipsed by the installation at the Norfolk Navy Yard. A message was sent from here to the Kentucky, in Hampton Roads, 12 miles away, and was clearly heard.

By that time it was evident that the De Forest system was something more than a plaything. Accordingly congress voted the money necessary to equip a flotilla of torpedo craft, and the six vessels—Hippie, Truxton, Lawrence, Hunt, Hopkins and Stux were fitted with transmitting and receiving apparatus at a cost of $37,000.

The De Forest apparatus is quite simple in construction. It is made of great difficulty in half a gale. Another advantage is the low voltage required. Anything between 80 and 200 volts is sufficient for the distance at present attempted between vessels at sea, and this graduation of voltage is useful in another way.

For example, two destroyers in sight of the enemy can steam abreast a few feet apart, or four cables apart, and communicate a plan of action that the enemy cannot possibly overhear, or know anything about.

Producing the Waves. Wireless telephony differs from wireless telegraphy, considerably. In the telegraph the waves are produced with a spark gap with an alternating current. In telephony they are produced from an arc on a direct current. Valdemar Poulsen, who has been remarkably successful, uses continuous undamped waves produced by a modified arc. The best of the scientific department of the ministry of posts and telegraphs, has also been experimenting. He fitted up posts for his transmitting and receiving apparatus, 120 feet in height, at Martenshoj, in Rome, and at the D'Angio Lighthouse.

of a distance of thirty-six miles away, and carried on conversations between the two places.

By far the most remarkable of the Continental experiments, however, have been those of three young French naval officers. Working on a system very similar to that of Dr. De Forest, but with a much higher potential, they have covered 210 miles. This was done only a few weeks ago, and the extraordinary nature of the feat has never been adequately recognized by the world at large, probably on account of the modesty of the inventors and their desire to keep their secrets to themselves.

But it is known that they have since repeated the feat, which is to say that a person on the Eiffel Tower in Paris standing on the Pointe du Raz in Brittany. Moreover, they have "synthesized" the antennae regulated to transmit and receive the Hertzian waves which they work so that these waves are not affected by other waves, nor will they affect other antennae. In a word, they are "tuned" to a special note, just as wireless telegraph instruments can be tuned.

Backward England. In England up to the present, very little has been done towards solving the problems of wireless long distance talking. All the energies of our experimenters have been devoted to the perfecting of our system of wireless telegraphy. At Chatham Dockyard, however, experiments were begun last November, and various short distances have been covered, beginning with 300 yards, and going up to a mile and a half.

The experiments that Dr. De Forest has been carrying out this week are understood to include attempts to communicate with the home ports and with vessels lying in the Solent. But it must be born in mind that important wireless telephony experiments have been going on during this week also, and cars must be taken not to confuse the results.

Three battleships of the Channel fleet—the Hibernia, New Zealand and Cornwall—have been specially fitted with high power apparatus, endeavoring to break the long distance record, at present held with 1600 miles by the Indontentel.

The same time important date are being gathered as to differences in transmission in the daytime and at night, and also as to the overcoming of obstacles in the air during transmission.

BIRTHPLACE OF CRICKET.

National Game of England Said to Be Only About 100 Years Old.

A granite monolith was recently unveiled at Hambledon, a little village in Hampshire, to mark the actual birthplace of English cricket. The Hambledon man invented cricket a century and half ago, and in celebration of their exploit the English cricketers have been playing all England. Twelve famous cricketers from the All England team came down to play with the Hambledon man, and the match, which was to be played on the 15th, an event scheduled to be brought off by Dr. W. G. Grace, the dean of English cricket, was passed, but the doctor did not appear, and at midday a telegram was received saying that he would shortly arrive on the train. The and right here let it be said that when a time when a player is nipped off first, and is censured for what is generally thought to be his failure to be wiser on the paths, he has really been trying to get a good lead to steal, and has caught only because the opposing pitcher called the turn on him.

Conceded with their ability to get a good start and their natural speed, the world's champions have all mastered the art of sliding into a base.

With the exception of Kling, who always slides head first, the Cubs all slide feet first, and can go into a bag either way. That is, if the throw happens to be on the inside of the bag they slide on the outside, and vice-versa.

This leaves nothing for the infielder to touch but the spikes, which in no way lessens his chances.

Attempted Steal is Timed. One noticeable thing about their base running was that most of the times they started to steal when the batter had two strikes on him.

Several times during the series they attempted this, probably figuring that it would be unexpected, and that the pitcher, not looking for such a move, would put the ball where the batter had a chance to hit it.

On one occasion a couple of times in the game that Thomas caught. Evidently the Cubs did not mind the slight hindrance used to work this all the time, and as Thomas was once a member of that club, it was just what he was looking for, and in each instance he threw out the would-be baserunner as freely as a base.

Baseball games are saved in the first and won at the bat and on the bases. No matter how good a team may be in the batting, or how clever the pitcher, few games will be won if they can't hit or run the bases. Addie Joss in '07, Louis Rodan.

CUBS SWIFT ON BASES.

Addie Joss Writes About Their Work in the World's Series.

While there can be no doubt that the throwing of Catcher Schmidt of the Tigers in the world's series was far from perfect, he was not altogether to blame for the way the Cubs ran the bases on him.

Every member of the Chicago team, with the possible exception of Steinfeld, is wonderfully quick on the paths, and this, coupled with the fact that they managed to base-run one of the most famous of their team play, makes them hard to stop on the lines.

The one great secret of their ability to run the bases so successfully is that they are constantly on the alert.

They seem to make it a study of the opposing pitcher and the manner in which he delivers the ball. As soon as one of them reaches first, they are ready to start for second on the flat but pitched, and by so doing causes the other team to disclose who is to cover second on the throw.

If the hit-and-run play is tried, then the batter knows that he is to take the throw, and he can try to hit thru the spot vacated.

Plan of the Cubs. When a clean steal is attempted the base-runner always gets a flying lead. From their work on the paths, it is safe to presume that the Cubs figure this way. Better to be caught off first a few times during a series than to get a bad start and always be thrown out at second.

There is a good deal of logic in this.

Nebraska is Democratic. OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 4.—The Omaha Republican, late today, concedes the election to Bryan by 5000 or more, the state of Schallenberger, Democratic candidate for governor, by at least 3000, and says the surface indications point to a clean sweep of the Nebraska congressional delegation by the Democrats, although the fourth district is still in doubt. The legislature will be Democratic.

Thanksgiving Offering of Furs A Stupendous Display of Furs All Underpriced

THIS display of rare and luxurious fur creations almost passes that point we term "Dineen Perfection." It enlarges on any other display that has been, and touches some special and exclusive lines never before displayed. It's our Thanksgiving offering of new and superb garments in native and foreign furs—all underpriced. Furs just turned out of our workrooms and bearing our topmost guarantee of quality and finish. The fur richness of the individual garments has never been duplicated by us—that is placing them in an exclusive catalogue of unsurpassed elegance.

Adjectives are insufficient to supply a comprehensive description. The plain truth that we are experts with half a century's experience and purchasing direct from the trapper should convince you of the quality; that we manufacture every garment in our workrooms recommends them as being of exclusive style. We are manufacturing retailers. That speaks for our regular prices and these goods are underpriced. This Thanksgiving offering comes from us with a hearty expression of thanks for a year of unstinted and extensive patronage.

WHEN you find the Eatonia Shoe in demand all over Canada and in foreign countries through our Mail Order Department as you do to-day, you can safely depend upon its being an exceedingly good shoe for you to wear, and their tremendous demand is constantly increasing by leaps and bounds. Nothing but unsurpassed quality of materials, style, and workmanship, fit and wear, could possibly have created the remarkable demand for Eatonia Shoes.

Its popularity has been increased by the satisfactory service given to Eatonia customers. On this page we illustrate and briefly describe six of the 1908 and 1909 models carried in our great stock. The styles which represent the leading fashion, tendencies of the season, are only a few from our vast assortment. There are several other attractive and correct Eatonia styles for any customers who should fail to find on this page precisely the models they prefer, and our salespeople, in cases where the choice is left to them, are expert at selecting exactly the shapes desired.

The Eatonia Shoe represents the kind and snappy styles you cannot obtain elsewhere except in the highest price custom shops. In addition to the more extreme styles, there is also an ample range of less pronounced but correct models for conservative dressers; among them is the famous English-made Eatonia Boot for men, the best box calf leather, genuine welted soles of English oak bark tannage; others are favorite styles which our customers require us to produce year after year.

MEN'S 167—Eatonia customers who want the acme of conservative style in their footwear will find their preference in this model; the uppers are cut from the famous Eatonia quality goat kid, Blucher top, the favorite all-around leather for thousands of Eatonia wearers; popular shaped boxed toe; fairly heavy soles of oak bark tanned leather; Goodyear welted. Sizes 5 to 11
