BODY FOUND IN BEDROOM

Was Last Survivor of Families Who Worshipped in Old King Street Chapel

William Maginn, one of the oldest settlers on the east side of York Township, on the townline between York and Scarboro, early Saturday morning was burned to death. The neighbors noticed the house on fire at 6 o'clock, but it was not until after 8 o'clock that the flames were got under control, or, rather, until they had practically burnt themselves out. A search was made all over for Mr. Maginn, and about noon his body was found in his bedroom, where he had been suffocated by the flames. He was over 80 years of age, and occupied the front part of the bouse, the rear portion being occupied by the family of his nephew. cupied by the family of his nephew. who worked the farm. The house was coping with the outfle who worked the farm. The house was a one-storey brick with a second storey frame mansard above it, and had been in use by the family for many years. Mr. Magina had been in falling health for some time and had a stroke not long ago. He retired Eriday night and it is believed started a fire in the stove in his chamber, as all the indications point to the flames originating in that part of the house.

The fire was discovered about 6 oclock Saturday morning by Frank Magina. The portion of the house where he and his family live was not badly burned, but the front portion, where his uncle lived, was completely destroyed. As soon as the fire was discovered neighbors were summoned by telephone, but they were unable to get inside the house so fiercely was the fire was caused by the upsetting.

he had been awakened by the smoke but was unable to escape from the

The body was sent to an undertake,

Last of Old Settlers.

Mr. Maginn was nearly the last of the old settlers of York Township. His father located on the Scarboro side of the town line about 100 years ago, and his brother James who kept the old farm on the Scarboro side died some few years ago. Mr. William Maginn was a prominent Mason, knew everybody in the Townships of Markham, Scarboro and York, was a prominent Scarboro and York, was a prominent speaker on the Reform side in nearly all local elections and was respected by everybody. One of Mr. Maginn's sisters, now dead, was the wife of Henry Duncan who is now resident on the Don Road within a mile and a half of Mr. Maginn's house.

Attended Old Chapel.

In Dr. Carroll's history of the Methodist Church, published some 40 years ago, the story of the first Methodist gatherings in Toronto is given with the names of the eight original members of the chapel on King street, where the Bank of Commerce now stands. Dr. Carroll in his younger days was stationed in Scarboro, and in his story of the first church in Toronto says the Maginn and Pilkey families, says the Maginn and Pilkey families who then lived in what he called "The Scarboro Bush," were attendants and worshippers at this first church. And of this original congregation the Maginn and Pilkey families seem to be the only ones still resident in Toronto or its

LONDON. March 18. - (Corresp ence of A. P.) .- The third instalent of the historical review of the war emanating from French official sources has been received. The narcorps, six reserve corps, four cavalry corps.

On our side it ended in the constitution of three fresh army corps on our left and in the transport into the same district of the British army and the Belgian army from Antwerp. For the conception and realization of this fresh and extended disposition the French command in the first place had to reduce to a minimum the needs for effectives of our armies to the east of the Oise and afterwards to utilize to the utmost our means of transport.

It succeeded in this, and when with the end of October the battle of Flanders opened, when the Germans having completed the concentration of their forces, attempted with flerce energy to turn or to plerce our left, they flung themselves upon resistance which inflicted upon them a complete defeat.

The movement began on our side only with the resources of the army which had held the left of our front during the battle of the Marne, reinforced on Sept. 15 by one army corps. This reinforcement, not being sufficient to hold the enemy's offensive—district of Vaudellncourt-Mouchy-Baugy—a fresh army was atransported more to the left, with the task of acting against the German right wing to seat here and there for the government.

ONTARIO will decide the next Dominion election, as it decided the last. In 1911 the Conservatives had a majority of 66 in that province which overwhelmed the Liberal majority in other parts of Canada. The west, it will be remembered, broke even and the Conservatives carried 18 out of 35 seats in the Maritime Provinces. Laurier had a majority in Quebec, and Borden had an enormous majority in Ontario.

In 1911 the Maritime Provinces elected 35 members, and the country west of Lake Superior had a correspending representation. Under the Redistribution Act, the representation of the Maritime Provinces is reduced to 31, and the representation of the west is increased to 57. The government may get 20 seats in the provinces down by the sca, and break even in the west, but it is a fair surmine that the Liberals will have a majority in the country outside of Ontario, which a little boy or girl, as the case may be, is encircled by the rest who sing in chorus:

The Canons of good taste require the youth thus exhorted to bow to one little girl, kneel to snother, and kirst a third. But when the grown-ups played this game in parliament the other might the canons of good taste were disregarded. When Mr. Carvell, were disregarded.

To WHAT extent will this possible majority for the Liberals be overcome by the Conservative victories in the Province of Ontario? Since 1911, the Liberals have redeemed North Bruce, so that the Ontario delegation in the present house now stands: Conservatives 72, Liberals 14. But for comparison it may be more convenient to group the Inberals 14. But for comparison it may be more convenient to group the Ontario results as they stood on the morning of September 22, 1911. For convenience we divide the province into Northern Ontario, Eastern Ontario and Western Ontario, and arbitrarily make the east line of York county the dividing line between east and west.

county the dividing line between east and west.

In Northern Ontario at the last election there were six ridings, viz: Rainy River, the two Algomas, Nipissing, Parry Sound and Muskoke. All six returned Conservative members.

Eastern Ontario in 1911 included the following ridings: Brockville, Carleton, Dundas, Durham, Frontenac, Glengarry, Grenville, East Hastings, West Hastings, Kingston, Lanark North, Lanark South, Leeds, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland East, Northumberland West, Ontario North, Ontario South, Ottawa City (two members). Peterboro East, Peterboro West, Prescott, Prince Edward Renfrew North, Renfrew South, Russell, Stormont and Victoria.

The canons of good taste require the youth thus exhorted to bow to one little girl, kneel to another, and kiss a third. But when the grown-ups played this game in parliament the other night the canons of good taste were disregarded. When Mr. Carvell, the Liberal member for Carleton was "it" we naturally expected that he would bow to Dr. Pugsley, kneel to George Graham, and kiss Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Instead, he passed them all by and saluted Major-Gen. Hughes as the prettiest, the wittiest and the one that he loved best. Then George Graham did the same thing, as also did G. Washington Kyte.

So many bouquets were handed to the major-general that he stood kneedeep in a wilderness of flowers. No wonder he smoothed his wrinkled front and made up boutonnieres, which he gallantly presented to Johnny Angus McMillan, Hon. Charles Mercil and all other Liberals there to be decorated. als who are members of the public accounts committee. Strangely enough, these Liberals, who eulogized Gen. Hughes on the floor of the house, are bent upon destroying his department by their activities in the public accounts committee. Some deep design lies behind this inconsistency, and Chairman Morphy and Dr. Reid have prolonged the labors of the committee by engaging in heated disputes with Mr. Carvell, who would rather fight than eat at any stage of the game. Were the more diplomatic Sir George Foster in charge of the committee, its meetings would soon become as uninteresting as the proceedings of the house itself. Another New Lunch Room

The success of the downtown lunch room, of the self-serve type, is increasing every day Less than three years ago they were unknown in Toronto. Now there are several very fine ones doing an enormous business. There are several good reasons to account for their success. First, there is the element of quickness. A person can step into one of these places, at his order, eat it and he out again. is the element of quickness. A person can step into one of these places, set his order, eat it, and be out again it less than half the time it takes in a regular restaurant that employs wafters or waitresses. Then there is the matter of economy, as the prices are very low and the quality of the food is the best. The disagreeable feature of tipping is entirely eliminated, which is a we'come feature to most people. The pastry of all kinds is made on the premises of the best ingredients. Toronto has reason to be proud of her self-serve lunch rooms. The latest of these places to open will be the Sheffield Lunch, corner of Yonge and Adelaide streets. This place will be strictly modern and upto-date. They are introducing to Toronto the very newest thing in a lunch chair. Part of the back of the chair is removed to make room for the elbow of the person cutting and eating his food. The patent on this style of chair makes them very expensive, but no expense or time has been spared to make this, what is called, the last word in up-to-date lunch rooms. The management of the Sheffield Lunch do not hestitate to declare that, even the they have not the largest, they have one of the to declare that, even tho they have not the largest, they have one of the best lunch rooms in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Youngs still hold considerable stock in the above Youngs Lunch, but are not at present actively engaged in the man-agement of that place. Home, Hope, Harmony!

Contentment is the foundation of hope and happiness. Harmony doesn't spring from cheerless surroundings. You can't live in the shadow and feel the thrill of the sunshine. Half the discouraged, fruitless lives of young married people are directly traceable to lack of content in home life.

The Adams Store offers a brighter and widened home outlook to folks with small means. It is as eager to assist them with credit as they are eager to furnish a home of their own. The Store welcomes them to pick from the great new stocks, and pay a little a week for the best there is.

Victors of Three Campaigns.

By the capture of Peremysl the Russians have definitely made themselves the victors in three campaigns, and have won the most signal triumph for their arms since Plevna. The capture of 120,000 Austrians, nine generals, and 540 officers, with 2400 pieces of artillery, all that is left of an original garrison of 170,000 to 200,000 men, its a severe blow with the fall of this Galician town goes the exit of probably the most skilful and most able Austrians and Austrians arms. IS DANCING DYING OUT?

How often we hear the question, "Is lancing dying out?" Some say it anxiously and others hopefully, each to clothes and devotees to dance both will have their fashions, query loses its interest for the has been settled. Doctors ha tled it by saying it is good for our constitutions, neurologists by saying it is good for our nerves and psychologists have put the seal on the whole controversy by the statement that the syncopated dances are the best things in the world for our minds and spirits!

And now along comes Bliss Carman and gives dancing its rightful "place in the sun," as co-star with music and poetry, and we will all soon see his "Rythmic Masques," beautiful combinations of poetry and dancing which have already had a public performance with the author thinself reading the lines.

with the author thinself reading the lines.

Bliss Carman is no more a disciple of Isadora Duncan than of the Castles for both are artists, and, despite the occasional scoffer, syncopated dances are beautiful and artistic if they are well done. Of course the day of the dancer who are not, neither did he sleep, but danced all day, is past, and we are glad, and that the time of the more serious is more or less taken up by the various kinds of red cross work, is very true and we are also glad, but that the syncopated dance furore lives on apparently unabated is attested by the fact that in New York new dance halls and tea and supper clubs are that the syncopated dance furore lives on apparently unabated is attested by the fact that in New York new dance halls and tea and supper clubs are opening their doors at the rate of one a week and sometimes oftener. Notable among the fashionable contributions to the supper clubs is Mrs. Hawkesworth's "Club de Vingt," an organization whose committee includes Mrs. John Jacoh/Astor, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, Mrs. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. Stotesbury of Philadelphia and others; who hold their daily tea and supper dances in a stable on Madison avenue once the home of the famous Maud S., decorated and made glorious for the occasion. At intervals around the room are tall bay trees in tubs, in the trees are tiny electric lights all the lights in the room go out, all but the lamps in the bay trees, giving a beautiful twilight effect in which the dancers seem to float as shadows. Incidentally, it may be here mentioned that the "valse de riguer," in New York, is the old "Lame Duck" done so beautifully that it belies its shameful name and the consuming fads of the moment are the "Fox Trot" and the "Waltz Fox Trot," the latter designed for small ball-rooms and a lazy dancer.

WATTS-WILLIAMS.

In the church of St. Aiden, at o'clock on Monday evening, March 22, the marriage was solemnized of Olive May, daughter of Capt. John Williams and Mrs. Williams, to Mr. Lewis Holt Watts, C.E., son of Mr. Charles B. Watts and Mrs. Watts, the Rev. Cannon Dixon officiating. The bride's cousin, Mr. A. Jordan, London, Ont., played the wedding music, another cousin Mr. Milford Hackett, sang "D Sweet, O Holy," during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with palms, and white satin ribbons, marked the pews reserved for the guests. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a Parislan gown of ivory satin, draped with chantilly lace, embroidered with seed pearls, and the orange blossoms she wore were real flowers sent from Florida, her vell was held in place with crystal ornaments, and she carried an empire bouquet of lily of the valley and bride roses, and wore she carried an empire bouquet of lily of the valley and bride roses, and wore the groom's present, a gold watch bracelet, she also wore her grandmother's (Mrs. Williams) marriage gift, a pendant of diamonds, pearls and rubies. Miss Hazel Lea was the maid of honor, and Miss Hannah Watts, the bridesmald both wearing pretty gowns of pink crepe de chine and large black velvet hats with long velvet strings, and carried bouquets of pink roses. The food still comes. We get more than ever as it is so cold now. We get: at four o'clock in the morning, coffee; at eight o'clock, tea; at ten o'clock, soup, meat, vegetables, and coffee. At four o'clock in the afternoon, again soup, meat, vegetables; and at tea or eleven o'clock at night hot wine—often twice. So, you see, we get plenty. But it is cold, cold, cold!

If you are overstout the cause of you If you are overstout the cause of your ever-stoutness is lack of oxygen-carrying power in the blood and faulty assimilation of food. Too little is being made into the harder tissue of muscle and too much into little globules of fat. Therefore you should correct the mai-assimilation and increase the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. To do this, go to any good aruggest and get di of orilene, cally sold in original packages and in capsule form, and take one capsule after each meal and one at bedtime till your weight is areduced to what it should be on all parts of the body. The effect of oll of orilene in capsule form is remarable as a weight reducer and it is perfectly safe.—

"It is a pleasure to me to inform you that after suffering from Chronic Constipation for 2½ years. I have been cured by 'Fruit-a-tives' While I was a student at Berthler College, I became so ill I was forced to leave the college. Severe pains across the intestines continually tortured me and it came to a point when I could not stoop down at all, and my Digestion became paralyzed Some one advised me to take 'Fruit-a-tives' and at once I felt a great improvement. After I had taken four or five boxes. I realized that I was completely cured and what made me glad, also, was that they were acting gently, causing no pain whatever to the bowels. All those who suffer with Chronic Constitution should follow my example and take 'Fruit-a-tives' for they are the medicine that cures."

Science Condemns Burial.

It is a new kind of social work, and it requires a moment's thought to see the immediate advantages. There is no question that ground burial is a reversal to a lower form of civilization. The Greeks and the Romans had got far beyond it and it was brought back again by bad theology-or a bad interpretation of Oriental belief. Modern science has condemned it What seems most certain is that respect for the dead should condemn it once and for all. No man who knows what goes on in the grave would ever sentence a body he has kissed to imprisonment therein. Fire is the right solvent, but the mausoleum is not without justification, and it has as well an element of permanency (in an impermanet world) which is lost in the rapid destruction of the flames. The body is laid away in the crypt with desiccating chemicals, which in a short while will absorb the so per cent of moisture of which the body is composed. What is left is a dry mineral efficy of the man who was And that will remain for thousands of years.

It is a step in the right direction, this West-born plan of communal mauscleums. It gives those who lack wealth a chance to preserve the bodies of their dead in safety and splendor akin to that of General Grant, who lies in state by the river. And there is no reason why a mausoleum of this kind should not be built to meet the purse needs even of the poorest. The law should permit it; in fact the law should decree it. Those who wish to keep together—for future explorers of our antiquities—the mineral remains of their dead should be obliged to place them in properly sterilized mausoleums. And for the rest of us—those of us who are not making collections of worn-out garments—there should wait the swift beneficent tomb of fire.

Earth burial is due to false sentiment and false theology.

should wait the swift beneficent tomb of fire.

Earth burial is due to false sentiment and falso theology. It should have no place in a civilized community. Look abroad, if you don't believe it. For years to come Europe will poison the air. The dead are creeping darkly through all the rivers and strams—taking their vengeance.

Another very important reason why Mausoleum Eurial is a great improvement over Cemetery Ground Burial, is on account of the great annual extenses in the way of government decorations in the way of flowers and shrubbery, also winter decorations and labor in connection with the above, all of which could not possibly cost less than about $25 per plot, per annum, in any well run cemetery. This expenditure of $25 annually, with 6 per cent compound interest, whould amount in fifty years to $7756.35. Is this not another excellent mometary reason why mausoleum compartments should not be purchased in preference to cemetery ground plots?

In Mausoleum burial no further outlay of money is necessary, and this amount of $25 per annum, as above mentioned for summer and winter decorations for ground plot cemeteries, is no doubt a very small amount compared with most of the burial plots in ground cemeteries where families go to great expense

In value, the Red Cross. A in value, the range is typical of strope. How many dead think you are self-mate have been strifted into the ground? A alf million? A million? It is hard o get precise figures. You may be sure that more than you dare estimate have been put to carth-solders and cyllians, and the lean starved corpose of Reigium. And each one of those uncounted dead as he darkens underground, is planning his revenge upon the living. As he lies there he has already begun to potent the potent the springs of life. He is taking his vengence on those who are not real born. At times of war the cost of living should be kept down as much as the limocent, and on those who are not real born. At times of war the cost of living should be kept down as much as and the land the store that sells a Public Necessity at the Lowest Price and the store that sells a Public Necessity for production,

FISH FROM ICELAND WILL BE MARKETED IN ST. JOHNS

ST. JOHN'S, Nfid., March 27.—Altho bringing fish to Newfoundland would seem like carrying coals to Newcastle, there is a prospect that it will be attempted on a considerable scale this year. The proposition comes from Iceland. Because of the war the markets of northern Europe are closed to the fishermen of that island, and they are forced to seek a new outlet. Since the fishing operations off the Newfoundland coast will be largely curtailed this season as a result of the large number of Newfoundlanders who have joined the British army and havy, the Icelanders think they will be able to dispose of a large part of their product here. As it is proposed to purchase here foodstuffs and other goods for return cargoes to Iceland, the idea is looked upon with favor in this colony.

Germany's answer to the fall of Peremysl is to call every available man up to forty-five years of age to the colors. This will probably give her ten million men capable of bearing arms. It is at least probable that half of this force will be put to serve with the colors, probably three millions in the west against the allies, and two millions in the east with the survivors millions in the east with the survivors of the Austro-Hungarian armies against the Russians. Talk is revived of the conclusion of a separate peace between Austria and Russia. This is not probable, for the Russians need a way thru Austria to surfice at Germany, and they also aim at the ilheration of Bohcmia.

Sir Edward Grey made a nickable speech the other day when he said practically that Germany would be destroyed as she now exists, so as to remove Prussian domination which four times in the memory of men now living, had broken the peace of Europe. This has excited some comment in the London Economist, which wants a peace as soon as a favorable moment in the London Economist, which wants a peace as soon as a favorable moment arrives to make one and to leave to future, generations the solution of the German problem. LOCK Your Rupture So It CAN'T Come Down

Think of it, you rupture sufferers who are burdened with an ill-fitting, flesh-gouging, ever-slipping, always pinching truss or makeshift harness. You can now be free from all your torture, all your worry, pain and misery. Your rupture can be safely and securely LOCKED in the abdomed, where it belongs, and HELD there in such a way that it CAN'T come down. It can be held PERFECTLY and COMFORTABLY at all times and under all conditions, and WITHOUT A TRUSS.

You Can Get One on Trial

To prove what the SCHUILING RUPTURE-LOCK will do and convince you that your rupture CAN be held SUCCESSFULLY. In matter how large, severe or complicated it may be, we will send you one, let you put it on; wearit; give it the severest test you can think of. Investigate this.

The Wonderful

Schuiling Rupture Lock

Is doing all of this and more for thousands of rupture sufferers every day. It is accomplishing results heretofore unheard of. It is holding ruptures that NOTHING ELSE has ever been found to hold. It is giving COMFORTABLE support to persons who never before in all their ruptured days knew what it was to be comfortable. HUNDREDS of persons declare it is the easiest, most comfortable support they have ever known. Scores of people, some over seventy years old, declare that it not only gave them perfect comfort and support from the moment they put it on, but and his followers are priming their guns for general broadsides on that occasion.

The term "blockade" is usually overworked when the public accounts committee, is in session. It is used indiscriminately by both parties when an hour passes and little progress has been made. Whether blockade occurs when one group persists in asking the same question in various forms or clothed in different phrases, or whether it results when another group have determined that it has already been answered sufficiently and that other matters be taken up, will never be settled to universal satisfaction as long as there are two parties in the legislature. Feeling that the chair in this stormy meeting has a right to be heard occasionally. Therefore Lennox made two decisions on Friday and in both cases was left in an amusing position. The point at issue was whether Mr. Rowell had the right to ask the provincial auditor a certain question. The chairman ventured to say that he had and the Liberals welcomed the decision. The committee refused to sustain him, however, even on a second occasion. If chairmen were disposed of as summarily in this way as governments losing support in the house, the North York member would now be on the outside looking in. As it is he still holds the chair and is building a reputation for an independence of spirit.

Alian Studholme, the labor member from Hamilton, has done it again. Three hours was his limit this time, altho he expected another opportunity the next day. He opposed the granting of $119,000

HAMILTON. Ont., March 27.—That Hamilton men have done nobly for their country and flag is evidenced by the large, number of men who have been either killed or wounded while engaged in action against the Germans in France. There is not a say passes without word of some one dving his life or receiving; injuries, and this past week a large number of Hamilton homes have been saddened by the news from the front. Adam Ritchle. Albemarie street, Beach road, received word this week that his son. Pts. Steven Ritchie, a member of the list Highland company of the first canadian contingent, had been killed in action on March 14. Pts. Ritchie was it years of age, and was one of the first to enlist with the 91st Highlanders when the call for recruits was sounded. He had resided in Hamilton but four years, having come from his birthplace, Coatbridge, Scotland. He was employed at the Oliver Chilled Plow Company prior to his enlistment.

was employed at the Oliver Chilled Plow Company prior to his enlistment.

It has also been learned that Pta. Enest Graves who resided at 27 Robbins avenue, has been wounded. On St. Patricks. Day he received a bullet wound in the shoulder and is now in No. 2 general hospital at Havre. He has a brother with the second Canadian contingent at Toronto.

The wife of Sergt. John Anderson of the Princess Patricia Canadian Light Infantry, received a cable announcing that her husband had been injured in the arm, but no particulars have been received as to the extent of the injury. Sergt. Anderson is one of the best known of the local quots of the famous regiment, and was one of the party which is said to have found the body of Lieut. Colquhoun after he had been killed in a hand-to-hand fight with the Germans, and a few days later with Sergt. George Burgess of Hamilton when he met his death. He was also with Pte. Albert Wiley when he was killed, and sent letters to relatives of these Hamilton men describing the various conflicts in which they were killed.

Other Names Mentioned.

Pte. Robin Richards, who resided on Mountain avenue, and Pte. Thomas Mason, 146 East Birlington street, are also in hospitals in England. Pte. Richards enlisted in Toronto with the Nova Scotia Highlanders and later with the Princess Patricia Regiment. While in action in France he fell into a shell hole filled with water, but was rescued and later developed rheumatism, ptomaine poisoning and dysenism, promaine poisoning and dysentery. He is now at the military hospital in Brighton, Sussex, Eng. Pte.

Mason, also a member of the Princess
Pats, is on furicugh on England, suffering from frozen feet.

If the earth is soft and the farmers If the earth is soft and the farmers in the district are willing, trenches will be dug, while a couple of amateur aviators from Toronto will hover over the lines and make the combat as much like real warfare as possible. Heliograph signaling will also form part of the manoeuvering, and ambulances and supply wagons will carry first-aid, lemonade and sandwiches. Motorcycles will be used as scouts, and the battle-line will extend over two miles. The plan has met with the approval of Toronto military men, and miles. The plan has met with the approval of Toronto military men, and the matter has been brought to the attention of the local officers and it is expected that arrangements will be completed in the near future for the fight. Owing to the lake shore being used for the construction of the Toronto-Hamilton highway, the middle read will be used to transport the men from Hamilton.

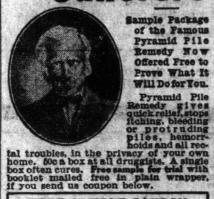

Road Round the Bay.

J. J. MacKay, civil engineer of this city, who some time ago, at the request of the city, prepared plans providing for a complete driveway around Hamilton Bay, held a conference during the past week with City Engineer Macallum respecting this scheme, it being the intention to submit the plans for the driveway to the board of control and the parks board in the near future. The plans of Mr. MacKay provide for an 18-mile driveway 66 feet in width. Mr. MacKay stated that he had already secured the consent of rearly all the property owners concerned to donate the required land to

FAMOUS BEAUTY SHOW 'Give Me Credit, Boys," We'll

Say Again at Gayety This Week.

When Al Reeves brings his "Beauty Show" to the Gayety Theatre Monday afternoon theatregoers will have an opportunity to observe just what is meant by "The Newer Burlesque." For the past few seasons there has been a steady improvement in the organization of these burlesque companies, and Al Reeves was among the very first to bring his organization up to the desired point of perfection. But this season he is said to have passed all of his contemporaries in the selection of his company, and in the equipment of the production as to scenery ment of the production as to scener, and costumes. Mr. Reeves personall ment of the production as to scenery and costumes. Mr. Reeves personally heads the cast, and his principal assistants in the fun-making are the well known Wilber Dobbs and Sammie Wright, the famous character impersonators, who were several seasons the stars of their own organizations, and enjoyed widespread popularity; Fred Collins comes with a splendid record of successes in high-class productions. As a special attraction Louie Rice, the famous and talented performer of "The Danse du Ventre," will appear among Mr. Reeves' famous entertainers. Magie Austin and Mabel Blake, two of the principal leading girls of the company, have always proved worthy of their important positions; also Helen Western, the most beautiful formed girl in buriesque, and Trixis Ayers, who recently came from the Gertrude Hoffman and Shubert shows; and there are show girls and chorus girls and dancers in numbers and attractiveness, fully up to the standard, which was long ago set by Al Reeves in the organization of his well-named "Beauty Show." (Give me credit, boys." is the appeal which the popular comedian has been making in song and speech for a good many years, and from all that the present season's announcements indicate, he is quite likely to receive a heartier response than ever before. receive a heartier response than

Off I went at a jog trot, with shells bursting everywhere around us, and at last, almost exhausted, I arrived at a farm, and handed my comrade over to an orderly of the medical corps.

After a rest I was told to rejoin my troop as soon as possible. So off I went again to face the hait of shell. I got safely to the ditch, and you can imagine my surprise when all I found there were the bodies of my four dead comrades who had been killed by the second shell. I did not learn the result of that second shell till then. Eventually I rejoined my troop. ally I rejoined my troop.

Extravagant Philanthropy

That's What Patronizing Chinamen Amounts To

It is an extravagance to patronize Chinese Laundries. The Americans have been finding it out for years and are slowly but surely eliminating Chinamen from the laundry business. It is an extravagance for you, the producer, to turn your money into non-productive Celestial channels. It is an extravagance to provide employment for yellow aliens while people of your own race and color go in want. It is a dangerous extravagance to allow your property to enter unsanitary premises where you run the risk of pollution from germ-laden surroundings, in a business that is not conducted on hygienic principles. On the other hand, it is an economy to patronize Canadian Laundries. Your money circulates among your own people, where it will do good for YOU as well as others. You provide employment for your own race, at the same time safeguarding the security of your own position in a general way. It is an accommunication ity of your own position, in a general way. It is an economy to have your property laundered by clean white people in sanitary premises you are welcome to inspect at any time. Think these things over—which appeals most to your common sense?

Lord Redesdale, speaking in England shortly after the Russo-Japanese war, and paying tribute to the heroism of Commander Hirose at Port Arthur, said: "We in this country are apt to look on harf-karl as a barbarous and even theatrical form of suicide. It is nothing of the kind. It is, indeed, the sublimation of all those ideas of honor which constitute the very essence of chivalry. The first doctrine instilled into the minds of the young Japanese is that no amount of worldly prosperity and no amount of success are worth having unless the honor of the man be as spotless as the steel of his blade."

Skilful artists devoted their talents to embellishing the upper part of the blade, the guard, hilt and sheath. Fine old guards of marvelous wofmanship are in the case with the "hari-kari" kulfe-handles. Those of hammered iron were the earliest. Two guards in the second row from the left have the private crest in raised gold of the imperial family. Much of the armorial equipment was decorated by a process called damascene A pair of iron stirrups in the first case on entering the room is damascened with A pair of iron stirrups in the first case on entering the room is damascened with silver; that is, little grooves were hollowed out and a wire of silver beaten into the space, and then all was polished to the same level. The groove being a little wider at the base than at the top, made this form of decoration very durable.

The helmet of an emperor and the sword of a Samurai have been mentioned, and there now remains the "norimono" or palanquin of a shogun, on which to give a little information. As late as the year 1908 norimonos could be seen in Tokio side by side with electric cars and automobiles, and possibly overhead, a flying machine, so delightfully does the ancient and modern mingle in Japan even to this day. After the restoration, in 1868, when the late Emperor changed his capital from Kloto to Tokio, he rode in a palanquin somewhat similar to the one shown in the southwest corner of the Japanese room of the museum. The emperor's would be of more exquisite workmanship, and his crest, the 16-petaled chrysanthemum, would be emblazoned theron instead of that of the Shogun Tokugawa. The palanquin in the museum is known to belong to the last Shogun by the Tokugawa crest, which forms a part of the decorative design in the lacquer. Lacquering was native in origin and development to Japan. Its beauty and excellence, and its mirror-like surface have never been surpassed.

It is interesting to compare the style of the Japanese lacquer with that, of the Chinese, as shown in a case against the west wall of the Chinese porcelain room. The process of lacquering is tedious, and by a strange paradox it must be dried in dampness. The art is said to date from Beauvais-Bol, a cavalry corps and four territorial divisions were ordered to establish themselves on both banks of the Somme. In the weoded clills, however, which existed between the Oise and Lassigny, the enemy displayed in the convenent towards the left, was maintained while the territorial divisions were to move towards Bethuns and Aubigny. The march to the sea went on.

First Act of Struggle.

From the 21st to the 26th, all our forces were engaged in the district Lassigny-Roye-Peronne, with alterations of the State of Struggle, which was spread as it went on. On the 25th, the whole of the sixth there was still the risk that the enemy, by means of a fresh afflux of forces, might succeed in turning us, Once more reinforcements, two army corps, were directed, no lofger on Bouvain, but towards Amlens. The front was then again to extend. A fresh army was continually slipping in the order of the same than again to extend. n the Wake of the News by RING W. LARDNER

Bill to Steve

(Copyright, 1915: By Ring W. Lardner.)

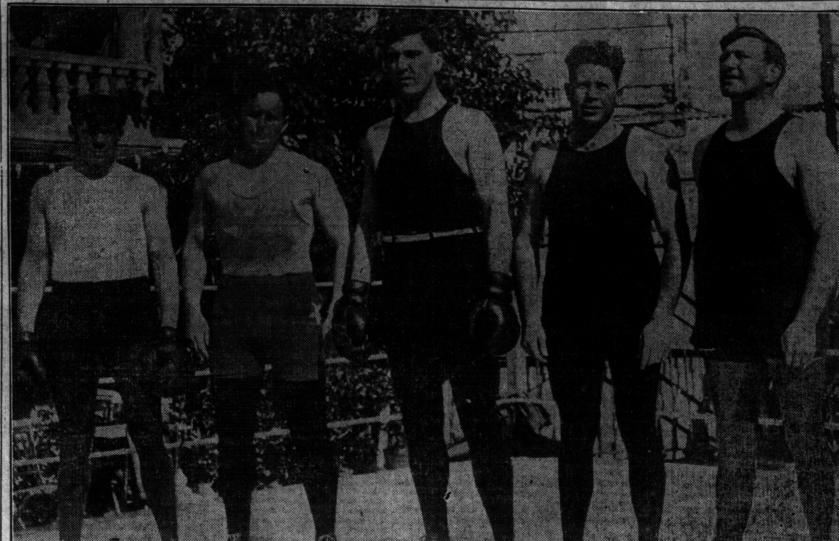

AMPA, March 27.—Steve. Well Steve here we are in the traneing camp and we been here pretty near a wk, now and I aint seen no wood be stars from the bushs thats got a chanct to at me out of a reglar job and you can bet all you can lay your ands on that I will be out there in centre field when the season

Well Steve this is some Hotel where wear stopping at and I avent dast ask how much it is per the day and of corse it dont cost at nothing because the clubs paying for my bord and logging but got to pay for Gussys on acct. of her old man being a cheap stiff and it cant be no more then $2.00 dollar per the day but thats plenty and if they charge me that much they should ought to be arrested for high way & robbery. But its a good thing wear liveing on the America plans where you eat all they'll fetch you & not all the cart where on the Bill affair or Gussy would have me in the poor House in de of a wk. & I would be there all ready & I all ways herd that girls dident have no appetite but if Gussys a lite eater I would hate to of married a hog or something what she ett for breakfast this A.M. would of came to a bout $1.35 if they was chargeing us for evry thing we ett and she come in for lunch a long a bout noon like it was her 1st. meal for the day and I says where do you get that there aptite & she says she was takeing a long walk while we was working out & the exersize & the fresh air give her the apitite so I says all right go a head & eat your sef to deth but I bet if we was liveing all the cart I would tell her the rodes a round here was full of rattle snakes wolfs so as scare her from walking. & 1 & her have been haveing ur supper late so you can't hardly blame her from being hungery for per but I dont want to eat my supper while Bresnahan and them steating thers because Bresnahan acts like I was a baby or some hing & is all ways after me to not eat to much & I says to him the other day I guess Im big enough to know whats good for me & he says yes that's the trouble your to big & if you dont get down 30 or 40 lbs we will half to get rid of you or the R. R. Cos. would put us out of business paying access bagige on you. So I says I aint no baby & he says No not unlest your a baby elefant so I says no & laint no elefant nether & he dident have no come back so he walked

Well Steve I wisht you could be down here with us because its ust like summer & I got a nosion to move down here next winter & keep out of the cold & of corse if I move down here I wont stay in the Hotel where wear at & get robbed all winter but rent a house may be not here in Tampa but some wheres else & they say it dont hardily cost a man nothing to live because you can shoot game & catch fish for your meals & no wood or cole to buy because its hot all the wife & you might say they nothing to buy accept cream for the coffey & may be we could borry a cow for the winter some wheres. Fast Gussy how would she like to live in a house down here the ocean some wheres & she says it would be O. K. if they was nickle show & a dance hall some wheres clost so I ast some of the boys that stays down here where could we find a good, live place that dont cost you a hole lot to live in it & they says Pam beech was ist the kind of a place that would sute me & maybe before we start up North we will have a chanct to run over to Pam beech & see if eys some thing going to be for rent next winter & a man should th to get a small house for say $10.00 per the Mo. because they no heat & we would pay for our own lites & I guess we wouldburn no million dollars' worth of lite because we would be a y from the house to a nickle show or dance evry night because boys says theys some thing doing evry minut at Pam beech, in the y times there playing Golf and Tennus all the wile & I gues ey wouldent be none of them Willie boys that could hit a Golf or Tennus ball harder then me eh Steve & I wouldent never miss long Tennus ball because the bat you hit them with is as big a ound is a wash tub & I guess if they left me use a bat like that in ase ball the league would bust up because pitchers has a hard hough time geting 1 passed me with a reglar bat & besides all the ennus parks I ever seen has short fences & after I catched on to nack I bet I could drive 9 out of evry 10 out of the pk.

Well Steve Bresnahans been working us pretty hard & hes been atching me pretty clost all the wile & it looks like I would be the yout there in Leachs place if I dont brake a leg or some thing. as I want is a fare deel & they wont none of them keep me on bench & you will probly see me a bout No. 4 in the bating rder bet. Zimmerman & Saier & I guess that wont be some come nation eh Steve.

Jess Willard Training for His Bout With Jack Johnson at Havana

These snapshots of Willard training for bout with "Jack" Johnson for the heavy-weight championship of the world on April 5 in Havanna, Guba, are from his Cuban training quarters. Willard, after his long period of training at El Paso, is going at an easy pace. His wind is good and his form is improving. His best work is with "Jim" Savage. Shown in the picture of Willard and training partners are: "Charley" Hempil, "Tex" O'Rourke, "Jess" Willard, Walter Monahan and "Jim" Savage.

teur Baseball League met in St. Paul's Club. The main topic at the meating was the selecting of teams and umpire.

At the annual meeting the league decided to reduce to four teams, but this motion was rescinded, and the league went back to five. There were several applications read and the two successful teams were Federals and St. Francis. These two, along with Eatonias, St. Pauls and St. Josephs, make up the league.

The Federals last year won the championship of the Y.M.C.A. League, playing at Broadview field. They entered the senior city championship, pisying for The Star Trophy, and eliminated three teams before meeting defeat. The most notable of these teams was the Kendons, who were considered the contenders for the honors. St. Francis have been absentees from amateur sport for a couple of years. This year they are trying to revive the old spirit and will put a team in the field capable of upholding the club's name. The champion Eatonia team will again be managed by Bob Murray. He has all last year's players under contract, along with several promising recruits, who will give the regulars a hard battle for their respective positions. The St. Joseph club will most likely have the peerless Tom Goster for a leader. Tom knows baseball from A to Z and you have to get up before breakfast to slip one over on him. The St. Joseph smade a bold bid for the championship last year, but their bid drawback was the need of a good catcher. With this gap filled they would have had many a game chalked on the right side. The St. Paul's club are without a manager, but have several men in view who are well experienced in handling players. The league has secured Frank Hallinan for official umpire. Frank needs no introduction. His work of last year was good enough to attract an offer from the canadian League, which he had to turn down, owing to business.

With these five teams and a good man to handle the games the league leoks forward to a season which will eclipse all previous years. Served from 1.00 to 9.00 p.m. ves Celery Pickled Beets SOUPS a la Royal Mulligatawny FISH

SOCCER SEASON PROMISES TO BE BEST ON RECORD

First Division Clubs Have Made Many Changes, and it Looks Like a Stirring Contest

EATON TEAM UNCHANGED

Champions Will Take Some Beating - Sunderland and Overseas Secure Well-Known Players

The Toronto ond District Football Association have their schedules ail arranged and will ring up the curta.n on Good Friday, April 2, when the First and Third Divisions will play a ruli program, while the Second Division League games will be played on the day following.

The executives of the various clubs have been busy during the closed season looking after new talent and many surprises are promised when the various teams appear on the field. Sunderland has been very fortunate in securing Foley from Parkviews to guard the uprights, Turney and Walker have been secured from Wychwood, and there are rumors that Jack Hunter (late Thistles) has thrown in his lot with the Geordies. Altogether there is a feeling out the Junc tion way that Sunderland will be the team to beat for the honors.

Eatons, last year's champions, have retained all last season's players, with the exception of Abbott, who has returned to the old land, but they have secured filingan, Overseas' crack, to fill the vacancy, and with a little bit of luck should again be contenders for the silverware. Devonians, Baracas and Caleden and the composition of their teams, but promise to give a good account of themselves.

$10,000 Would Sound Pretty Good--Baker

TRAPPE, Md., March 27.—It was reported here today that the Athletics have made J. Franklin Baker, the home run king of the American League, a flattering offer to return to the national pastime. The general opinion here is that the big third baseman will be lined up at third when Connie Mack and his players take the field for the 1915 campaign.

"A contract calling for $10,000 a year would sound pretty

"A contract calling for $10,-000 a year would sound pretty good to me," said Baker at his home today, "but so far I have not received any offer from either President Shibe or Manager Mack.

"The Federals have offered me $15,000 a year to play third base and I have turned it down. This was because I believe I have an iron-bound contract with the Athletics which has two more years to run. I signed the contract with the Athletics of my own free will, and tho it was a foolish one, I'll stick to it."

The second series opened last Monday fight, and odd to relate, Canallies are enconced in first place, but only by the result of their having rolled previous to the Rexallites, who also share the honors, with no losses. The race for this series, however, promises to be keenly contested, altho at a glance the most outstanding team in this division seems to be a hot one, with at least six contenders in the race at all stages, for, judging by the past week's rolling, several of the second division teams of the first series, promise to show their heels to all front-runners in the course of a week or two. Jim Coffey a Phenomenon Irishman Who Won't Fight

Idol of Gotham Irish Refuses to Do What Is Expected of Him—Al. Reich's Challenge Is Not Taken Up — A Little Inside History on the Dublin Giant.

By Iconoclast. NEW YORK, March 27 .- Al Reica is still on the trail of Jim Coffey, the Dublin giant. Thru his manager, Max Blumenthal, Reich has posted a certified check for $2500 to back up his recent challenge to Coffey.

Reich's challenge is open to every white heavyweight in the world, altho it is his main object to shame Coffey into accepting his defi if it is possible to get under that warr.or's skin by giving the public the facts in the case. Reich regards Coffey as his natural rivai. Both men are young, ambiitous and equally matched physically, and both have a strong local following.

Coffey is the idol of the Irish-Americans of the city, who look upon him as the logical successor of Peter Maher. Reich's following is com-posed of men rated highly in professional circles. He numbers among his personal friends many lawyers, doctors, and Wall street men well known in financial circles. All are intensely interested in the career of this hands me youngster, the first born and bred New Yorker to come to the front in the heavyweight ranks for many years.

The men behind Reich are backing him purely for sentimental reasons. rlis manager never has taken a cent of the money he has earned in the ring. The present efforts to induce Coffey to fight is purely a sporting proposition. As Reich's manager explains:

Best Bonehead Play As Told by Bancroft

"Take it from me," said Frank Bancroft, secretary of the Cincinattl Reds, while some of the athletes were discussing famous bonehead plays re-cently, "the oldtimers pulled some bones that had all you youngsters blocked off the map. Best I recollect right now was sprung by Miah Murray when he was catching for me at Worcester about thirty-five years ago. With a runner on first, Miah steamed back to the stand and made a magnificent eatch of a foul five catch of a foul fly.

"The crowd broke into roars of applause. Murray, leaning against the stand, took off his cap and bowed right and left, and the runner, sizing up the situation, lit out from first, kept right on going, and came all the way around while Miah ing, all in vain!" kept bowing and the rest of the team were screeching and rav-

Just think, these pesky Pittsburg Feds are now practicing right alongside of Stalling's home town in Augusta, Ga. That's what makes

George so sor.e

He's peeved at the Augusta baseball management for letting the Feds in and he's angry at Richmond academy that permits the Fed team to use the August ball park.

George is so peeved that he has refused to let his Braves play an exhibition game and also has refused to buy some tickets to help out the academy athletic teams.

Refereeing Fights Not All Pleasure

ITS NO easy task refereeing a championship fistic mill. Tom Sharkey always claimed that George Siler robbed him when he proclaimed Jim Jeffries the winner of their 25-round bout at Coney Island. Sharkey, a much smaller man than Jeffries, naturally had the sympathy of the big crowd and he thought he made a better showing than the referee's verdict would indicate.

Tim Hurst, a disinterested spectator, said Sharkey was beaten up so badly that he couldn't leave the bathliouse two days after the fight. John Duffy had no trouble calling the winner of the Corbett-Sullivan fight. Corbett beat John L. into submission. George Siler also had an easy task at Carson City when Fitzsimmons knocked out Corbett with a solar plexus blow. Tex Rickard was the third man in the ring when Johnson whipped Jeffries.

"Honest John" Kelly handled the Corbett-Mitchell bout at Jackson-ville; he declared all bets off. Mitchell badgered Corbett and tried every way he knew to make Jim lose his head and commit on overt act, hit low, etc. Corbett is credited with a knockout in the records.

over the schedule was the subject of much concern to the league, and it was stated that altho two different lists of games. have been prepared, one by Robi. B. Ward and the other by Lloyd Hickert, neither was considered acceptable. One of the difficulties in connection with the schedule arose from the fact that the Newark Club will play ball on Sundays, while the Brooklyn Club will not be permitted to do so. President Gilmore hoped that a new schedule which would be satisfactory to all concerned could be devised.

It was announced that the league to the annualled the trade between the league.

Thompson, for instance, in his "Land of the Book," describes a magnificent iris, which he calls the Huleh lily, a view of which gives salient point to the cause it is the glorious bloom of Christ's country. It is abundant on the hills of Nazareth, and in passage: "Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." the late winter the regions over and three of the inner petals meet above and form a gorgeous canopy such as art never approached and the king never sat under even in his utmost giory. When I which He walked glowed and radiated with entrancing color, while the air was fragrant with perfume. The Hebrew word for met this incomparable flower in all its loveling the flower is shushan, shoshan met this incomparable flower in all its loveliness, among the oak woods around the north base of Tabor and on or shoshannah, and though there the hills of Nazareth where our Lord spent his youth, I felt assured that it was to this he referred." is little doubt the word denotes B some plant of the lily species, it That the lily must have been a conspicuous plant along the shores of the Lake of Gennesaret is indicated class it specially designates. In the Holy Land there are lilles that hold the purpling in Matthew, vi., 28: "Consider the lilles of the field, how they grow," and Luke xil., 27, which bears the same adblue of eastern skies; that glow with the blood-red fire monition. He can enter her—post entry—for the All Horse Sweep if he likes—on the last day. Have you got that down? I suppose the steward's'll recognize the sift?" "No trouble about that," said the doctor. "All right. Give him the other two ponies to sell. They're entered for the last day, but I shall be dead then. Tell him to send the money to—" Here he gave an address. "Now I'll sign and you sign, and that's all. This deadness is coming up between my shoulders."

Jale lived, dying very slowly, till the third day's racing, and up till the time of the lotteries on the fourth day's racing. The doctor was rather surprised. Hordene came in to thank him for his gift and to suggest it would be much better to sell Thurinda with the others. She was the best of them all and would have fetched twelve hundred on her looking over merits only. "Don't you bother," said Jale. "You take her. I rather liked you. I've got no people and that Bull whiskey was first class stuff. I'm pegging out now, I think."

The lottery tent outside was beginning to fill, and Jale heard the click of the dice. "That's all right" said he. "I wish I was there, but—I'm—going to the drawer." Then he died quietly. Hordene went into the lottery tent after calling the doctor. "How's Jale?" said Hordene, settling into a chair and reaching out for a lottery paper. "Poor beggar!" said the Honorary Secretary. "Twansh't the fault of our on and off tho. The mare blundered. Gentlemen! gentlemen! Nine hundred and eighty rupees in the lottery, and River of Years for saile!" The lottery lasted far into the night, and there was a supplementary lottery on the All Horse Sweep, where Thurinda sold for a song, and was not bought by her owner. "It's not lucky." said Hordene, and it wish to goodness I hadn't taken her." said he. "Oh, bosh! Never refuse a horse or a drink, however you come by them. No one objects, do they? Not sonebody bid! dene "I stuck the noise of the other torse as love se I could, and called her Steinner on the strength of it. Sisters was a stallion, but that's a detail. When it got to interfering with every race I reds it was more than I covid stick. I took her off racing, and, on flay honor, since that time I've been nearly driven out of my mind by a gray and nutmer pony. It used to trot, around my guarters at night, fool about the mall, and graze about the compound. You know that pony. It isn't a pony to catch or ride or hit, is it?" "No." said Hordene: "I've seen it." "So I shot Thurinda; that was a thousand rupess out of my pocket. And old Stiffer, who's got his new crematorium in full blast, cremated her. I say; what was the matter with the mare?" Was she bewitched?"

Hordene told the story of the gift, which Guy heard out to the end. "Now that's a pice sort of yarn to tell in a messroom, isn't it? They'd call it jumps or insanity." said Gui. "There's ne reasen in it. It doesn't lead up to anything. It only killed poor Marish and made you stick me with the mare; and yet it's true. Are you mad or drunk, or am I? That's the only explanation." "Can't be drunk for nine months on end and madness would show in that time." said Hordene.

"All right." said Guj. recklessly, going to the window. "Till iay that shost." He leaned out into the night and shouted: "Jale! Jale! Jale! Jale! Wherever you gare!" There was a pause and then up the compound drive came the clatter of a horse's feet. The red-haired subaltern blanched under his freckles to the color of giverine soap. "Thurinda's dead." he muttered, "and—and all bets are off. Go back to your grave again."

Hordene was watching him open-mouthed.

"Now bring me a straitjacket or a glass of brandy," said Guj. "That's enough to turn a man's hair white. What did the por wretch mean by knocking about the earth?"

"Don't know," whispered Hordene hoarsely. "Let's get over to the club. I'm feeling a bit shaky."

"There was another horse and he pressed me to the end. and when I looked round he was no longer there." Let us, in charity, draw a veil over Hordene's language at this point. INITIATIVE

INILIZATION is a matter of organization men and materials. Civilization lays out roadways, builds factories, equips them with machinery, educates men to the use of this machinery, all for the purpose of converting raw materials into useful commodities.

Men and materials are organized so as to build, manufacture, distribute and transport the necessities of life.

Transportation is the first great factor in civiliza-Transportation is the first great factor in civilization.

Savages get enough to eat by killing animals and using raw fruits and vegetables. To preserve, pack, transport and distribute is beyond their power.

The barbarian may plant, and take care of a limited number of live stock, but the savage does not transport; and until men organized, famine was just-around the corner.

around the corner.

Both men and materials have to be transported before they are of much value.

The first necessity in organization is initiative.

An initiative is imagination in action.

NITIATIVE does not imply merely the suggestion of the right thing; men of initiative are men who can carry their plans to a successful issue. Intelligent supervision of the labor of other men is a rare gift. Nine out of ten men do not possess it at all. Only one in ten thousand can do it well. Sir Humphrey Davy said his finest discovery was Michael Faraday.

Donald G. Smith said his one great achievement was the discovery of James J. Hill.

Andrew Carnegie made Charles M. Schwab possible. . . .

And Schwab distributes a hundred thousand pay envelopes, directly and indirectly, every Saturday night.

To encourage initiative wisely is a necessity.

Otherwise the Dark Ages are at the door.

That which would destroy initiative would destroy civilization.

The ability to plan a thing that has never been done before, to organize great numbers of men and use great masses of materials in an intelligent why is a gift valuable beyond the ability of men to compute. pute.

Theoretically, socialism is beyond argument, but if put to actual test there is a grave question as to whether it would not prove the decline of individuality, the death of initiative.

MAN of initiative must work out his own plans in his own way.

Curtailment of his liberties break his wings and imagination languishes.

No man knows his limit for initiative. Great men are always surprised at their achievements.

There are big institutions which never produce big men. There is a general tendency in many shops and stores to keep down all originality. Any strong men that the firm wants it looks for and has to find outside. "The greatest hunt is a man hunt," says kipling. And he is right.

If any man in the place suggests a new thing the whole proposition is gently pooh-poohed.

Too much discipline destroys individuality; and medicarity is the rule.

Marshall Field was one of the big, bright business men who discovered latent genius.

Marshall Field produced a few big men, and he did it by paying men a commission where they increased the business above a certain amount.

There are at least ten men who are millionaires several times over who began employment under Marshall Field & Company, on very modurate sularies.

You cannot bring out the powers in 2 man un-

You cannot bring out the powers in a man unless you offer proper incentives.

Had James J. Hill been kept on a salary the man would never have evolved. He would never had been known outside the city of St. Paul.

Edison's genius came from the fact that he had 2 full and free field and opportunity to make millions for himself. full and free neid and opportunity to make millions for himself.

Money is the measure of power. Men do not especially prize money for the sake of money, but they prize it as a tangible recognition of their

The end of socialism would be when a strong man emerged out of the mass and ruled thru the autocratic exercise of power. Then we would have Democracy is a compromise between socialism and monarchy. It seeks the greatest good to the greatest number.

Also, it places no lunit on individual achievement. That which would from out men to one common level, and sease to offer reward to initiative, would reduce the race to nullity.

Communism only succeeds where there is a strong just and efficient leader. Successful communism is benificent autocracy.

Great industrial leaders set large numbers of men to work. They plan and execute great engineering schemes. They take vast quantities of raw materials and manufacture them into forms of use and beauty.

beauty.

These organizations give work to millions. And this work, with the distribution of the pink and pudgy pay envelope, makes prosperity possible.

When you make war on men of initiative you paralyze the payroll. It is an endeavor to force socialism on to democracy, and thus we would get the rule of the weak.

UNLESS we sight the rocks and keep clear, of them, conditions will grow worse rather than better.

And what the end will be no man can say.
In any event it will not be work for everybody, with high health, joy, prosperity and great increase in wealth.

in wealth.

That power unrestrained tends to tyranny, is a fact. Therefore supervision of our great organizations is necessary. But this supervision must be conducted intelligently.

And it should be taken entirely out of the guiding hands of political parties. Otherwise we get a condition where party obligations are paid for in offices, and we get a government of grafters, by grafters, for grafters.

ers, for grafters.
Industrial leaders today understand that they can only help themselves as they help humanity. To work for self alone is fatal to health, happiness and prosperity in either man or institutious.

THE POCKET WIRELESS

CHAPTER VIII.

CHAPTER VIII.

R. SANFORD QUEST sat in his tavorite easy chair, his cigar inclined towards the left hand corner of his mouth, his attention fiveted upon a small instrument which he was supporting upon his knee. He glanced across the room to where Lenora was bending over her desk.

"We've done it this time, young woman," he declared triumphantly. "It's all O. K., working like a little peach."

Lenora rose and came toward him.

"Is that the pocket wireless?"

He nodded.

"I've had Morrison out at Harlem all the morning to test it." he told her "I've sent him at least half adozen messages from this easy chair, and got the replies. How are you getting on with the code?"

"Not so badly for a stupid person," Lenora replied. Laura, who had been busy with some papers at the farther end of the room, came over and Joined them.

"Say, it's a dandy little affair, that, Mr. Quest," she exclaimed. "I had to try with it, a day or so ago. Jim spoke to me from Fifth avenue."

"We've got it tuned to a shade now," Quest declared. "Equipped with this simple little device, you can speak to me from anywhere up to ten or a dozen miles."

Quest rose to his feet and moved restlessly about

"Say, girls," he confessed, "this is the first time in my life I have been in a fix like this. Two cases on hand and nothing doing with either of them. Criminologist, indeed! Whose box is this?"

Quest had phused suddenly in front of an oak sideboard which stood against the wall. Occupying a position upon it of some prominence was a small black box, whose presence there seemed to him unfamiliar. Laura came over to his side and looked at it also in puzzled fashion.

"Never saw it before in my life." she answered. "Say, kid. is this yours?" she added, turning to Lenora.

nora shook her head. She, too, examined it

Lenorn shook her head. She, too, examined it sittle wonderingly.

"It wasn't there a short time ago. I brought a fuster and went over the sideboard myself."

Quest grunted.

"H'm. No one else has been in the "oom, and it hasn't been empty for more than ten minutes," he remarked. "Well, let's see what's inside, anyway."

"Just be careful, Mr. Quest," Laura advised. "I don't get that box at all."

Quest pushed it with his forefinger.

"No bonib inside, anyway," he remarked. "Here goes!"

He lifted off the lid. There was nothing in the in-terior but a small sheet of paper folded up. Quest smoothed it out with his hand. They all leaned over and read the following words, written in an obviously

You have embarked on a new study—anthropology. What characteristic strikes you most forcibly in connection with it? Cunning? The necklace might be where the skeleton is. Why not begin at the beginning?

The note was unsigned, but in the spot where a The note was unsigned, but in the spot where a signature might have been there was a rough pen drawing of two hands, with fingers extended, taion fashion, menacingly, as the poised to strike at some unseen enemy. Quest, after their first moment of stupefaction, whistled softly, "The hands!" he muttered.

"What hands?" Lenora asked.

"The hands!" Lenora asked.

"The hands that gripped Mrs. Rheinholdt by the coat," he reminded them. "Don't you remember? Hands without arms?" There was another brief, almost stupefied silence.
Then Laura broke into speech.
"What I want to know is," she demanded. "who brought the thing here?"

"A most daring exploit, anyway," Quest declared.
"If we could answer your question, Laura, we could solve the whole riddle. We are up against something. Lenora shivered a little. The mystery of the thing terrified her, the mystery which only stimulated her.

"The hand which placed that box here," Quest con tinued slowly, "is capable of even more wonderful things. We must be cautious. Hello!"

The door had opened. The professor stood upon the threshold. "I trust I have done right in coming up?" he in-Quite right, professor," Quest assured him. "They know well enough downstairs that I am always at liberty to you. Come in."

"I am so anxious to learn." the professor continued,

"Not yet, professor. I am sorry to say," Quest re-plied. "Come in and shut the door,"
"There is a young lady here," he said, "who caught me up upon the landing. She, too, I believe, wishes

He threw upon the door and stood on one side. A young woman came a little hesitatingly into the room. Her hair was plainly brushed back, and sho wore the severe dress of the Salvation Army.

"Want to see me. young lady?" Quest asked.

She held out a book.

"My name is Miss Quigg," she said. "I want to ask you fer a subscription to our funds."

Quest frowned a little.

"I don't care about this house to house visitation," he remarked. "It is only once a year that we come," the girl "It is only once a year that we come," the girl pleaded. "and we only go to people whom we know can afford to help us, and whom we believe can aupreciate our work. You know so much of the darker side of New York, Mr. Quest. Wherever you go you must find signs of our labors. Even if I put on one side, for a moment, the bare religious question, think how much we do for the good and the welfare of the poor people."

poor people. Quest nodded.

"That's all right," he admitted. "You reach the outcasts all right. There's many a one you save whom you had better leave to die, but here and there, no doubt, you set one of them on their legs again wo's had bad luck,

"Very well, Miss Quigg, you shall have a donation. I am busy today, but call at the same hour tomorrow and my secretary here shall have a check ready for and my secretary here shall have a check ready for

The girl smiled her gratitude.

The professor laid his hand upon her arm as she passed.

"Young lady," he observed, "you seem very much in carnest about your work."

"It is only the people in carnest, sir," she answered, "who can do any good in the world. My work is worth being in carnest about."

"You compel my admiration—my most respectful admiration. My I, too, be permitted?"

He drew out a pocketbook and passed over toward her a little wad of notes.

"It is so kind of you," she murmured. "We never have any hesitation in accepting money. May I know your name?"

"It is not necessary," the professor answered. "You can enter me," he added, as he held open the door for hen. "as a friend—or would you prefer a pseudonym."

"A pseudonym if you pleuse." she begged. "We have so many who send us sums of money as friends, Anything will do."

The professor glanced around the room.

"What pseudonym shall I adopt?" he ruminated. "Shall I say that an oak sideboard gives you five hundred dollars? Or a Chippendale soft? Or," ne added, his eyes resting for a moment upon the little box. "a black box?"

The two girls from the other side of the table started. Even Quest swung suddenly around. The professor, as the pleased with his funcy, nodded as his fingers played with the lid.

"Yes, that will do very nicely," he decided. "Put me down—'Black Box.' five hundred dollars."

The girl tool out her book and began to write. The professor, with a little isrewell bow, crossed the room toward Quest. Lenora moved toward the door.

"Let me see you out," she said to the girl pleasantly. Lenora opened the door. Both girls started. Only a few feet away Craig was standing, his nead a little thrust forward. For a moment the quiet self-respect of his manner seemed to have descried him. He seemed at a loss for words.

"What do you want?" Lenora demanded.

Craig hesitated. His eyes were fixed upon the Salvation Army girl. The changes in his face were remarkable. She, however, beyond smilling pleasantly at him, gave no sign of any recognition.

"It's Inspector French," she announced, "He wants

"It's Inspector French" she ambuniced. "He wants to speak to you."

Quest nodded and held out his hand for the receiver."

"Hello, French!" he exclaimed. "Anything fresh?"

"Nothing much," was the answer. "One of my men, the, who has been up Mayton avenue way, brought in something I found rather interesting this morning. I want you to come round and see it."

"Go right ahead and tell me about it." Quest invited. "You know we've been shadowing Craig," the firspector continued. "Not much luck up till now. Fellow seems never to leave his master's side. We have had a couple of men up there, the, and one of them prought in a curious-looking object he picked up just outside the back of the professor's grounds."

"What is the thing?" Quest negled. "We've got over little difficulties of that sort. Laura just tack on the phototelesme." he added holding the receiver away for a moment. "One moment. French. There, that's right," he added, as Laura, with deft fingers, arranged what seemed to be a sensitized mirror to the Instrument. "Now, French, hold up the article just in front of the receiver. There, that's right, Hold if steady. Fve got the focus of it now. Say, French, where did you say that was found?"

"Just outside the professor's back gate," French, where did you say that was found?"

"It's a finger from the professor's skelcton you've got there," Quest interrupted.

"The not kidding," Quest assured him, "I've got a phototelesme at work here. I've seen the hone all right, French; this is interesting. I must think it over."

Quest hung up the receiver. Then he turned toward his two assistants.

"Another finger from the professor's skeleton." he announced. "Just been found outside his grounds. What do you suppose that means?"

"Craig" Lenora declared confidently.

"Craig" tenora declared confi

"We've got to get inside there, Lengra," he aunounced, stepping forward.

She followed him silently. A few turns of the wrist and the door yielded. Keeping Lenora a little behind him, Quest gazed around cagerly. Exactly in front of him, clad only in a join cloth, with hunched-up shoulders, a necklace around his neck, with blazing eyes and ugiy gleaning, teeth, drouched some unrecognizable creature, human yet infruman, a menkey and yet a man. There were a couple of monkeys swinging by their talis from a bar, and a leopard chained to a staple in the ground, walking round and round in the farcopner, snapping and snarling every time he sianced towards the newcomers. The creature in front of him straiched out a harry hand towards a club, and gripped it. Quest drew a join breath. His eyes were set hard.

"Drop that club," he ordered.

The creature suddenly sprang up. The club was waved around his head.

"Drop tit," Quest repeated firmly, "You will sit down in your corner. You will sleep."

The club slipped from the hairy fingers. The tense frame, which had been already crouched for the spring was suddenly relaxed.

They found nothing unusual until they came to that distant corner, where a huge plano box lay on its side with the opening turned to the wall.

"This is where the brute sleeps, suppose," Quest remarked. "We'll turn it around, anyway."

They dragged it a few feet away from the wall, so that the opening faced them! Then Lenora gave a little cry and Quest stood suddenly still.

"The skeleton!" Lenora shrieked. "It's the skeleton!"

It was a skeleton so old that the bonen had turned a dull gray. Quest glanced towards the hands.

"Extitle fingers both missing." he muttered.

"Remember the nessage?" she exclaimed. "Where the skeleton is, the necklace may be also."

Quest rounded shortly.

"You set outside. Lenora." Quest singer. The researce of the second of the researce. The creature obeyed. Once more its frame seemed to grow more virile and natural.

the further end of the room.

"I was in hopes, in great hopes," the professor admitted, "that you might have heard something. I promised to call at Mrs. Rheinholdt's this afternoon." THE exact spot where the bone of the missing skeleton was discovered, was easily located. It was about twenty yards from a gate which led into the back part of the professor's grounds. Quest wasted very little time before arriving at a Quest shook his head. "There is nothing to report at present, Mr. Ash-at all?"

'Not the ghost of one." Quest acknowledged. "I am as far off solving the mystery of the disappearance of your skeleton and Mrs. Rheinholdt's necklace as I have ever been."

The professor falled entirely to conceal his disappearance of the professor falled entirely to conceal his disappearance. The professor failed entirely to conceal his disappointment. His tone, in fact, was almost peevish.

"I should have expected this from the regular officials of the law, Mr. Quest," he admitted, "but I must say that in your hands I had hoped—but there, there! Excuse me! I am an old man, Mr. Quest. I am getting a little irritable. Disappointments affect me quickly. I must be patient. I will be patient."

"There are certain evidences," Quest remarked, with his eyes upon the black box, "which seem to point to a new arrival in the criminal world of New York. More than that I cannot tell you. I will simply ask you to believe that I am doing my best."

"And with that, Mr. Quest, I will be content," the professor promised. "I will now pay my promised call upon Mrs. Rheinholdt I shall convey to her your assurance that everything that is possible is being done. Good morning, young ladies," he concluded. "Good morning Mr. Quest."

He took a courteous leave of them and all departed. Lenora crossed the room to where Quest was seated. "Looks like storming the fortress, ch?" he remarked. "Here goes, anyway."

The gate swung open with a single turn of the wrist. Quest glanced for a moment at the lock and replaced the instrument in his pocket.

"The professor's not looking for visitors." he muttered. "Gee! What a wilderress!"

It was hard to know which way to turn. Every path was choked with tangled weeds and bushes. They wandered about almost aimlessly for nearly half an hour. Then Quest came to a sudden standstill. Lenora gripped his arm. They had both heard the same sound—a queer, crooning little cry, half plaintive, half angry.

"What's that?" he exclaimed. a many-sided key.

"Mr. Quest," she asked. "do you believe th inspira-"I attribute a large amount of my success," Quest

"I attribute a large amount of my success," Quest replied, "to my profound belief in it."

"Then let me tell you." Lenora continued, "that I have one, and a very strong one. Do you know that when I went to the door a few minutes ago the professor's servant, Craig, was there, listening?"

"Craig?" Quest repeated. "Let me see, that was the man who was at the Rheinholdt's house the night of the robbery, and who might have left thru the conservatory." conservatory."
"He did leave by it." Lenora declared. "He is in a state of panic at the present moment. What else do you suppose he was out there listening for?"

"The professor speaks very highly of rim." Quest reminded her.

"The professor is just one of those amiable old idiots, absorbed in his moldy old work, who would never notice anything," Lenora persisted. "He is just the man to be completely hoodwinked by a clever.

"There is some sense in what the kid says," Laura remarked, strolling up. "The fact remains that Cra's was one of the few men who could have got at the necklace that night, and he is also one of the few who knew about the skeleton."
"It is a miserably obvious solution," he said. "To tell you the truth, girls, our friend, Inspector French, has had his men watching Craig ever since the night of the robbery. What's that? Answer the telephone Lenora."

came from Sounded to me uncommonly like a human effort."

They made their way up as far as the hedge, which they skirted for a few yards until they found an opening. Then Quest gave vert to a little exclamation. Immediately in front of them was a small hut, built apparently of sticks and bamboos, with a stronger framework behind. The sloping roof was grass-grown and entwined with rushes. The only apology for a window was a queer little hole set quite close to the roof.

"The sort of place where the professor might keep some of his pets," Quest observed thoughtfully. "We'll have a look inside, anyway."

There was a rude-looing door, but Quest, on trying it, found it tocked. They walked around the place, but found no other opening. All the time from inside they could hear queer scuffling sounds. Lenora's cheeks grew paler,

"Must we stay?" she murmured. "I don't think I want to see what's inside, Mr. Quest! Mr. Quest!"

"What's that?" he exclaimed.

Quest!"

She clung to his arm. They were opposite the little aperture which served as a window, and at that moment it suddenly framed the face of a creature, human in features, diabolical in expression.

avenue, and a few minutes later arrived at the house.

Quest searched in vain for a bell. They walked round the plazza. There were no signs of any human life. They came back to the front door. Quest tried the handle and found it open. They passed into the hall.

"Hospitable sort of place. anyway," he remarked. "We'll go in and wait, Lenora."

They found their way to the study, which seemed to be the only habitable room. Lenora glanced around at its strange contents with an expression almost of awe.

"Fancy a man living in a muddle like this!" she exclaimed. "Not a picture, scarcely a carpet, comfortable chairs—nothing but bones and skeletons and mummies and dried-up animals. A man with tastes like this, Mr. Quest, must have a very different outlook upon life from ordinary human beings."

different outlook upon life from ordinary human beings,"

Quest nodded.

"He generally has," he admitted. "Here comes our host, anyway."

A small motor-car passed the window, driven by Craig. The professor descended. A noment or two later he entered the room. He grzed from Quest to Lenora at first in blank surprise. Then he held out his hands.

"You have good news for me, my friends!" he exclaimed. "I am sure of it. How unfortunate that I was not at home to receive you! Tell me—don't keep me in suspense, if you please — you have discovered my skeleton?"

"We have found the skeleton," Quest announced. For a single moment the newcomer stood as the turned to stone.

"My skeleton!" he murmured. "Mr Quest, I knew it. You are the greatest man alive. Now tell me quickly—I want to know everything, but this first of all: Where did you find the skeleton? Who was the thief?"

"We found the skeleton, professor," Quest replied, "within a hundred yards of this house."

The professor's mouth was wide open. He looked like a bewildered child. It was several seconds before he spoke.

"Within a hundred yards of this house? Then it

"What's that?" he exclaimed.
Lenora still clung to his arm.
"I hate this place." she whispered. "It terrifies me. What are we looking, for, Mr. Quest?"
"Can't say that I know exactly." the latter answered, "but I guess we'll find out where that cry came from. Sounded to me uncommonly like a human effort."

fore he spoke.

"Within a hundred yards of this house? Then it wasn't stolen by one of my rivals?"

"I should say not," Quest admitted.

"Where? Where exactly did you find it?" the

"I found it in a hut." Quest said, "hidden in a piano box. I found there, also, a creature—a human being. I must call him—in a state of captivity,"

"Hidden in a piano box?" the professor repeated wonderingly. "Why, you mean in Hartoo's sleeping box, then?" wonderingly. "Why, you mean in Hartoo's sleeping box, then?"

"If Mr. Hartoo is the gentleman who tried to club me, you are right," Quest admitted. Mr. Ashleight, before we go any further I must ask you for an explanation as to the presence of that person in your grounds?"

The professor hesitated for a moment. Then he slowly crossed the room, opened the drawer of a small escritoire, and drew out a letter.

"You have heard of Sir William Raysmore, the president of the Royal Society?" he asked.

Quest nodded.

"This letter is from him," the professor continued. "You had better read it."

THE TORONTO SUNDAY WORLD

The criminologist read it aloud. Lenora looked over his shoulder:

To Prof. Edgar Ashleigh. New York:

My Dear Professor: Your communication gratifies and amazes me. I can say no more. It fell to your lot to discover the skeleton of the anthropoid, a marvelous thing, in its way, and needing only its corollary to form the greatest discovery since the dark ages. Now you iell me that in the person of Hartoo, the last of the inyamo race of South America, you have found that corollary. You have supplied the missing link. You are in a position to give to the world a definite and logical explanation of the evolution of man. Let me give you one word of warning, professor, before I write you at greater length on this matter. Anthropologists are afflicted more, even, than any other race of scientific men, with jealousy. Guard your secret well, lost the honor of this discovery should be stolen from you.

WILLIAM RAYSMORE.

The professor nodded deliberately as Quest finished the letter.

"Now, perhaps, you can understand." he said, "why it was necessary to keep Hartoo absolutely hidden. In a month's time my papers will be ready. Then I shall electrify the world. I shall write not a new page, but a new volume across the history of science. I shall—"

The door was suddenly thrown open. Crais sprang in, no longer the self-contained, perfect manservant, but with the face of some wild creature. His shout was one almost of agony.

"The hut, professor! The hut is on fire!" he cried.

His appearance on the threshold was like a flash shout was one almost of agony.

"The hut, professor! The hut is on fire!" he cried.

His appearance on the threshold was like a flash. They heard his flying feet down the hall, and without a moment's hesitation they all followed. The professor led the way down a narrow and concealed path, but when they reached the littue clearing in which the hut was situated, they were unable to approach any nearer. The place was a whirfwind of flame. The smell of kerosene was almost everpowering. The wild yell of the leopard rose above the strange, half human, ribbering of the monkeys and the hoarse, bass calling of another voice, at the sound of which Lenora and even Quest shuddered. Then as they came, breathless to a standstill, they saw a strange thing. One side of the hut fell in and almost immediately the leopard with a mighty spring, leaped from the place and rain howling this the undergrowth. The monkeys followed, but they came straight for the professor, wringing their hands. They fawned at his feet as the trying to show him their scorched bodies. Then for a single moment they saw the form of the ape-man as he struggled to follow the others. His strength falled him however. He fell backwards into the burning chasm. The professor bade them farwell, an hour later on the steps of the house. He seemed so denly to have aged.

"You have done your best, Mr. Quest," he said, "but fate has been too strong. Remember this, thout fate has been too strong. Remember this, thout is quite true that the cunning of Hartoo may have made it possible for him to have stolen the skeleton and to have brought it back to its hiding-place, but it was jealousy—cruel, brutal foul jealousy which smeared the walls of that hut with kerosene and see light to it. The work of a lifetime, my dreams of scientific immortality, have vanished in those flames."

He turned slowly away from them and re-entered the house. Quest and Lenora made their way down the swenue and entered the automobile which was waiting for them, almost in silence. The latter glanced marked. I'll have to call somewhere and get you a glass of wine."

She tried to smile, but her strength was almost gone. They drove to a restaurant and say there for some little time. Lenora soon recovered her color. She even had courage to speak of the events of the afternoon when they re-entered the automobile.

"Mr. Quest," Lenora murmured, "wao do you suppose burned the hut down?"

"If I don't say Craig. I suppose you will," he remarked. "I wonder whether Laura's had any luck."

They were greeted, as they entered Quest's room, by a familiar little ticking. Quest smiled with pleasure.

"It's the pocket wireless," he declared. "Let me ke down the message,"
He spelled it out to Lenora, who stood by his

He spelled it out to Lenora, who stood by a side:

Have joined Servants' Club disguised as your butler. Craig frequent visitor here ten years ago, comes now occasionally. Thursday evening most likely time. Shall wait here on charce of seeing him.

"Good girl, that," Quest remarked. "She's a rare sticker too."

He turned away from the instrument and was crossing the room toward his cigar cabinet. Suddenly he stopped. He looked intently towards the sideboard.

denly he stopped. He looked intently towards the sideboard.

"What is it?" Lengta asked.

He did not answer. She followed the direction of his gaze. Exactly in the same spot us before reposed another, but somewhat larger black box, of the same shape and material as the previous one.

"Say, who put that there?" he demanded.

Lenora shook her head.

"I locked the door when we went out." she assured him.

him.

Quest took the box into his hands and removed the lid. It seemed half full of cotton-wool. On the top were a few lines of writing and beneath them the signature of the parted hands. He read the form out slowly:

Drop all investigation. The hands that return these lewels command it.

Quest raised the cotton-wool. Beneath lay Mrs. Rheinholdt's necklace!

HAT are you think about? It was the Editor who suggested this ther He declared that the average man in the street, or woman either, for that matter, does not think continuously of The War.

I set out to see and found that it was so. In the midst of the stress of epoch-making events, it came to light that men were thinking of everyday affairs just the same as they did last year or the year before. Perhaps there was, and is, some reference to the big fight tacked on the end of many, if not most, of their thoughts, but while The War is an obsession, it is not a total eclipse.

ILLUSTRATING WORLD EVENTS

Sunday, March : 8, 1915

In this picture, drawn especially for The Toronto Sunday World, The New York Herald and The London Sphere, Sergeant O'Leary, the Canadian in the Irish Guards, is shown attacking a German machine gun crew single handed. How he "practically captured the enemy's position by himself," which earned him the Victoria Cross and his promotion, was told by A.N.C.O. He states:—"My company was ordered from our trench to keep up a hot rifle and machine gun fire across the German trenches and points of cover. After the rain of bullets pany was let loose on our left. They came out of the trenches with a yell, bayonets fixed, and went for the enemy at the double. They had from 100 to 150 yards to travel, and they went at a tidy pace, but were easily outstripped by O'Leary. When he got near the end of one of the German trenches he dropped, and so did many other a long way behind him. The enemy had discovered what was up. A machine gun was O'Leary's mark. Before the Germans could manage to slew it round to meet the charging men O'Leary picked off the whole of the five of the machine gun crew, and, leaving some of his mates to come up and capture the gun, he dashed forward to the second barricade, which the Germans were quitting in a hurry, and shot three more. O'Leary came back from his killing as cool as if he had been for a walk in the park, and accompanied by two prisoners he had taken."

This picture, drawn especially for The Sunday World, The New York Herald and The London Sphere, depicts an incident which occurred during a night attack made by the Turks on Toussoum. Guarding the Egyptian side of the canal was a force of Punjabs, who had dug trenches for themselves and otherwise prepared to give the enemy a hot reception. Under artillery fire from the Turkish batteries the Turkish force, who advanced from the direction of Bir Murra, about half a mile away, attempted to launch their boats. The attempt, however, had to be abandoned. The picture shows the battle in full progress. To the right the Turks may be seen making the abortive attempt under a strong Anglo-Indian shell and rifle fire.

Canadians capturing their first prisoners—In a series of short advances, they swept the Germans out of the trenches beneath the trees of the left—The Germans ran into the ruined farm houses where they were surrounded and forced, because of the energy and valour of the Canadians, to give in. Twenty-four were taken and they were all very much frightened, and surprised to find their captors were from Canada. The picture is drawn for The Sunday World by M. Olislaeger from sketches and material received from the spot—The name and date of the incident was scored out by the censors.

ERNATIONAL MAUSOLEUM COMPANY, Limited

Offices: 14-15-16 NATIONAL TRUST BUILDING: 20 EAST KING ST., TORONTO, ONT., CANADA

THE BETTER WAY

THE community mausoleum, in its impressive grandeur, and the classical beauty of its design, will stand as the pyramids, indestructable through the ages, a monument to a progressive people of the twentieth century, who have freed themselves from our heritage of a barbaric freed themselves from our heritage of a barbaric age—earth burial.

Nothing has been left undone to perfect the construction of our buildings or the process used in conjunction with mausoleum entombment, whereby our patented sanitary system absolutely eliminates all dampness, decay and the other destructive forces that have hitherto been inseparable from burial. The remains are preserved in their entity, at rest, protected forever against any possible desecration by man or vermin. This is mausoleum entombment. Does it not conclusively end the quest for a Better Way? CONSTRUCTION

THE principal features of mausoleum construction are similar for all buildings erected by this Company. Reinforced concrete is used entirely for the foundations and superstructure. The foundation walls are laid below the frost level and to solid earth. The main foundation floor is a monolithic mass of reinforced concrete. The compartments are separated by reinforced concrete walls and are equipped with a patented sanitary device. Our Company, in erecting these buildings, considers three features which are absolutely essential in mausoleum construction—sanitation, durability and beauty—the interiors and exteriors of our buildings being always in appropriate, beautiful and durable materials. PERPETUITY

A PLAN has been adopted whereby each mausoleum will be endowed with a fund, the income from which will amply provide for the upkeep of the building for all time.

THE average person scarcely realizes how much it costs to buy a cemetery lot and erect a suitable monument and markers. Such preparation is not often made until after a death has occurred in the family. At that time, when one is burdened with griaf and sorrow, it is impossible to make a careful selection.

In subscribing for space in a mausoleum, one does so when he can consider the matter caimly and carefully. A section of compartments for the average family does not cost anything like as much as a cemetery lot, when taking into consideration the expense of monuments and markers and the annual upkeep, but then it is not a matter of comparative cost, it is giving those we love that which is best, and this is one of the few grand, good things, we can only have when needed most by providing for it when needed least. When death comes to one of the family, we do not hesitate to spend money, without stint, for a beautiful casket, an elegant costume or suit. We desire to thus manifest the last act of love we can ever bestew upon him or her. But what an unsightly thing, if we could but see it, is that casket, that delicate fabric, after the first hard rain following earthly burial.

It is different in the mausoleum. For those who have provided

It is different in the mausoleum. For those who have provided mausoleum, family or single compartments, for their loved ones, it is worth while to purchase the finest casket, the downiest couch and the most beautiful costume or suit, for in all the years to come, they are kept from the damp mould and vermin and from the air and light. You will have the satisfaction of feeling that your loved ones sleep there just as they were last seen in their own home with ones sleep there just as they were last seen in their own nome with bautiful and loving surroundings. Is there not consolation in such

During the severe winters, when the frost is excessive and ground burial cannot take place and the remains are laid away in vaults until the warm weather in the spring, there is great expense in connection with the family again having to come from different parts of the country to attend the ground interment. Outside of the financial question, the grief and sorrow is again brought back to the family, at this time of earthy burial. This must occur at times in some families when the financial condition will not warrant the in some families when the financial condition will not warrant the extra expense, but they still feel they should be present and are compelled to bear the expense over again.

Our mansoleum removes in a measure a part of the awful horror and anguish that death brings and makes lighter the burden of the broken heart, eliminating the gruesome thought of putting our loved ones down into the cold, wet, unfriendly ground to be destroyed by the elements, mould and vermin of the earth.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

See Page 7 (News Section), what San Francisco, Cal., Government has to say about eliminating altogether ground cemetery burial, and substituting entirely mausoleum burial. They also give their reasons for this change to mausoleum burial.

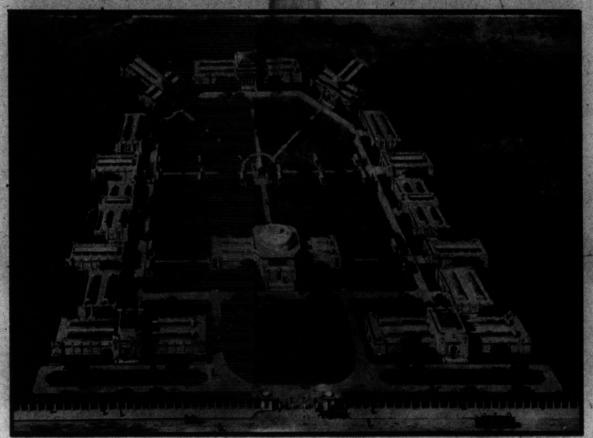

LASTING AS THE PYRAMIDS

EMETERIES come and while they may be beautiful for a time, they go with the passive passing generations. Often as you know, cemeteries on this continent become desolated, unvisited and no thought as to their care or maintenance given on account of the development generally and increase in population of our cities. This is sometimes also caused by financial reverses, and the indifference and do not care spirit of future generations.

It is a heart-rending sight to see a once well kept cemetery, now falling in ruins, with monuments, head stones, and markers in all possible shapes, positions and angles, and the inscriptions unreadable. Is it any wonder that public opinion and sentiment abhorment of become within the reach of all? Earthly burial is merely temporary, mausoleum entombment is permanent. Future generations cannot obliterate these monolithic above-ground structures, the resting places of our dead. In protecting the living against conthe resting places of our dead. In protecting the living against contagion and the dead against desecration these massive mausoleum buildings render a service of untold worth. The community mausoleum provides the opportunity to secure a place of rest at a very moderate cost, where, surrounded by austere beauty and quiet grandeur, your loved ones may sleep serene, undefiled and in its entity, the once visible form—that we hold so dear in memory. The hundreds of mausoleums which are already in use or in course of construction on all parts of this continent show that in every community there are many who have longed for the Better Way.

A FUNERAL in one of these beautiful buildings is beyond comparison with the ordinary funeral in a grave cemetery. Instead of the cheerless, depressing effect of lowering the body into a hole in the ground, here we may hold full burial service amid attractive surroundings and experience the consolation and comfort of placing the body of a loved one in a pure white room where it will remain for all time, a few inches from our touch, and where the entity of the body will be preserved just as we last saw it when placing it there.

Earth burial is unsanitary—a menace to public health. Cremation is inhuman, intolerable to surviving friends. Both methods provide for the destruction of the body. Why not make the disposition of our dead bodies easier for those who are left behind? We can alleviate their sorrow and the gruesome after thoughts by providing the Better Way while we live. Should we not insure for them that sense of consolation and comfort in being able to preserve our bodies from the cold, the wet, the mould, the decay and the certain destruction by the elements and vermin of the earth? A little forethought and smaller investment than is required for a cemetery lot and monument, will bring you more peace of mind and satisfaction now than you can imagine.

we are very glad to inform you that we completed last November, through Messrs. W. W. Esseg & Co., Detroit, Mich., who are among the largest landscape artists in America, the decorating of our grounds with beautiful drooping umbrella and willow trees, also great numbers of Colorada blue spruces and other varieties of shrubberles and trees, which will make the grounds in connection with the mausoleum cemetery, among the most beautiful landscape grounds in America. There will be a solid eight foot wide border, all along our cemetery fronting on Yonge street, and down each side of the property of flewering hedge shrubbery in serpentine effect. This decorating along with the new roadways and entrances, all in keeping with the buildings and beautiful floral and tree land-scaping will produce a more beautiful effect than any landscaping around Toronto.

We feel confident you will agree with us that such decorations in connection with a cemetery burial proposition, is one of the most beautiful effects that you could possibly have with a proposition of the kind.

We would refer you to the Directorate of this Company, so as to show the substantial condition of our Corporation.

NEW ORLEANS.

NEW ORLEANS.

We suppose you have learned that New Orleans has adopted the mausoleum burial proposition and other cities are falling in line as-regards this new proposition of burial, what all the communities on our continent are bound to follow before any great lapse of time, for sanitary reasons, if for no other reason.

AN EXCHANGE OF BERTHS.

John E. Cain, who portrays the character of Mr. Jiggs in "Bringing Up Father" tells of an incident that happened recently when he was making a jump from Chicago to Pittsburgh. While seated in the smoking compartment enjoying his last cigar before retiring, the colored porter stuck his head into the compartment and said: "Is the gentleman here who has lower five? If he is there is a gentleman here who wants to see him."

In walked a man about six feet tall and who weighed about 300 pounds.
"Are you in lower five?" he asked, looking straight at Cain. "Yes," answered Cain, who is not noted for his avoirdupois. "Well, I am awfully atraid of those upper bertls. I have all the latest and most approved apparatus for accurate eye testing. Our way of diagnosing each case is thoroughly scientific. There is no guess work with us, for we employ an expert eye-sight specialist. Don't let the matter of expense keep you from visiting us. Sight is as precious to you as life the one over you. The last time I itself, and our charges are moderate, had one it tumbled down and nearly gentleman here who wants to see him." avoirdupois. "Well, I am awfully atraid of those upper berths. I have the one over you. The last time I had one it tumbled down and nearly had one it tumbled down and nearly crushed the man underneath me. Now, if you don't mind, I would like to trade with you. I'll pay for both berths."
"No," said Cain, "I don't want to

"No," said Cain, "I don't want to exchange."

"Well." said the big man, "if anything happens, don't blame me."

Cain made no reply, but finished his cigar and said good-night to all, and left the compartment. About half an hour later, when the big man went to the curtain read:

"Take the lower. I hate to sleep in them."

WHAT LEADERS OF RELIGIOUS BODIES THINK

BY COURTNEY FESSEY.

BY COURTNEY FESSEY.

It is satanic majesty's vicious virtue of perseverance in evil has been used as a reproach to one-day-aweek churches and Sunday religionists. Rev. James Henderson, D.D., pastor of the It mothy Eaton Memorial Church once startled a fashionable congregation by asserting that he knew some men who were so religious on Sunday that they would not shave upon the Sebbath day, but they would go down to their business on Monday morning and "shave" with the weapon of sharp practice the public for the rest of the week.

From the earliest landing on Canadian shores of the devoted and heroic Catholic missionaries from old France the priesthood and brotherhoods of the Church of Rome have had the enduring credit of opening churches as havens of daily spiritual refuge.

The example of the Roman Catholic communion has been commended by the highest and best religious leaders of the Protestant denominations for the outstanding feature of maintaining seven-day churches. But the Baptists and the Methodists are "a-cumin" along" to run a seven-day churche.

Every religious body in Toronto can now point with pride to one or more churches where from dawn of Sunday until the closing hours of Saturday activity for the welfare of the community is being efficiently discommunity in the control of the contr

Projects for every day in the week and night in the year are looming up for historic old Cooke's Church. A member was rather mirthful when he explained the situation there. "You see," he said, "when Knox and Cooke's were both down-town the Scotch Presbyterians went to Knox and the north of Ireland ones to Cooke's, This made Rev. Wm. Patterson a born minister for Cooke's, but the point was overlooked when Knox and Cooke's co-operated in bringing Rev. John overlooked when Knox and Cooke's co-operated in bringing Rev. John McNeill with his Scotch burr and quaint Scotch humor. Cooke's did well under his ministery, but it was not like the old times under Mr. Patterson, who is Irish thru and thru.' Cooke's is a people's seven-day church. Its plans are decidedly ambitious, as they include the erection of an institutional building of the most modern type. When the building problem is solved the solution may be a remodelling and enlargement of the present church.

The week at Cooke's begins with Senior and Junior Brotherhood meetings at ten o'clock on Sunday morning, and there is something doing every afternoon and evening of the week.

Cocke's humor Cooke's did the thousands.

Mme de Thebes' year, incidentally, does not begin on January 1, but on March 21.

In addition to her prophecies concerning the war in her almanac for 1914, Mme de Thebes announced that France would be profoundly stirred by a sensational trial, which would be a sensational trial, which would send to rioting in the streets. Here, too, she has been proved right, she now points out, by the Calllaux case.

Her first prophecy concerning 1914 was this: "After 1913, an auroral year, we see 1914, a flaming year, a year of Splenaid ueeds and great heroisms." week.

It ran as follows:

With its dining hall serving two thousand meals a week to the members of its various societies, the Metropolitan is the big seven-day church of Toronto Methodism. Rev. J. W. Aikins, the pastor, says that catering as it does to their needs of it might well be called the young people's church. Mr. Justice Maciaren conducts a big bible class for men on Sunday afternoons. After the class closes a song service and tea follows. Referring to her statement cerning the union of 1914 between European nations and "peoples from over the sea," Mme. de Thebes demarch into the church in a body, and sit together in the gallery facing the preacher. At the conclusion of the service a social hour in which all are welcome is held in the bright parlors.

"Come over at noon any week-day and see the hundreds who use our dining-room," said the Metropolitan pastor.

Of Poland she wrote:
Poland! Poland! You have had reason not to despair. It is upon you that the future smiles. Spiendlid and bloody things will be accomplished at warsaw before long.

But most startling of all is Mme. de Thebes' prophecy that during 1914 Belgium would meet with "the fire of destruction."

Three times during the week that I have just devoted to my meditations—during which 1 sought counsel within myself, abandoning myself to that icy trance which makes me another being—I noticed that my visions ceased, giving way to a sort of curtain of flame and smake; which first covered everything and then disclosed formless and hexpuc-able images. This is the first time that I have been thus troubled—

Is it from the emotion caused by the war and from action inde-pendent of my reflexes? I do not know.

Mme. de Thebes declares that she feels, 'in the mist," that the war will soon be over, that it will bring to France tremendous consequences, "entirely different from what France imagines." She counsels her country-

A fortunate year, nevertheless, for us French, whose hearts will beat for great ideals, the salvation and regeneration of nations. In spite of blood, in spite of tears, it will be a giorious year among the glorious years of France's past, a year of discord followed by concord, a year of hate followed by love, a year of dissen-sions followed by union among the nations of Europe and of other great nations across the sea. Nineteen fourteen will witness the birth of a new Europe. . . . Peace will come from war.

There will be a struggle against the foreigner, even to the field of the foreigner, even to the field of battle, and no matter when it comes, whether immediately or a little later, it will mean victory, victory! The new decoration, which has been struck at the Royal Mint from the design by Mr. Henry Farnham Burke, C.V.O., C.B., F.S.A., Norroy King of Arms, is of silver. It is 15-8 inches square, and the bar is 1½ inches wide. The riband is 13-8 inches wide by 1½ inches high, of three equal stripes, the centre dark purple and the others white. From the top of the riband Having thus sought to predispose people favorably toward her power of foretelling events, Mme. de Thebes takes up 1915, "the misty year," as white. From the top of the riband to the bottom of the cross is 3 11-16 inches. The cross bears in the centre the letters G.R.I., and on each arm of the cross is the Imperial Crown. The Royal Warrant says:

IN THE WRONG TRENCH

THE difficulty of finding the right trench on a pitch dark night is not uncommon, but it is surely seldom that an experience similar to that detailed by an officer in a Cornish regiment can happen. He says in a letter home that, having been ordered to relieve a certain regiment, he set off with guides and got to the wrong trench, and found nobody who could direct him and his men to the right one; so with one of his privates he went back and found the commanding officer of the regiment he should have relieved. The latter said he had two men with him who would show him the proper destination. The letter continues:

So off the four of us started to collect my men from the wrong one. It was now darker than ever and raining in torrents. We went very slowly, keeping together all the time. In the darkness we missed the trench we were aiming for—it must have been by inches—and walked on until we came to one. All four of us were standing on the pafapet and looking down into the trench. I said quite low. but distinctly, "Who are you?" and was greeted by "Who you vas?" also what—said afterward sounded like "alabaster"! We could have shaken hands with them, but did not wait to pay them that courtesy, but bolted for all we were worth. They opened a point blank fire at us, but, of course, we were soon out of sight, and we had a merciful escape. In our headlong flight we luckily tumbled head over heels into the trench where I had left my men—they having heard and seen nothing of what was going on 40 yards ahead of them. Well, to cut a long story short, we put ourselves under our two guides from the other regiment, and at 3.30 a.m. arrived at the right trench.

In a down-town church, such as 3 ond Street, there were, of course, the young people who were boarding to be considered. One night in the week was devoted wholly to them. This was Monday night, when a large number of young men and women met together in the church parfors. They come directly from business, and lunch for the nominal sum of ten cents. Until nine o'clock a social time is spent together, and during it a number of the young women have recently been devoting a part of the time preparing bandages and other materials for the Red Cross Service at the front. The social period is followed by a literary hour and thus an interest in reading is stimulated.

And a springtime morn breaks round me,
And a golden flood of glory drives stronger; larbers mourn the loss of custom, While spring poets' hair grows Soon the busy ice-cream parlor,
With its sweet and scented fairy,

Softly there comes o'er me stealing,
Like some sweet celestial feeling,
Golden memories of the free.

They, with golden wings surround me They, with golden wings surround me, As the light of morning bounds me, And their songs seraphic mingle With the lark's bright morning lay, With the lark's origin horning as,
And they take me back to childhoo
When I wandered in the wildwood,
And I loved the evening solitude,
That came at close of day.

As the crystal dews of morning Glisten in the sun's adorning, Then roll away in pride to join The brooklet and the stream. No thought of care did enter,
And my childhood's life flew swiftly,
As the shadows of a dream,

The spring time brought me flowers,
All fresh from nature's bowers,
And I crowned me on the hillside,
With the angels of the dew;
The buttercups surround me,
And the humming beauty found me,
And the evening zypher fondly kissed
My forehead, e're it fiew.

I loved the flowing river, And I praised the Allwise Giver And I praised the Allwise Giver
Who had lent such rare sweet beauty
To each wavelet dancing there,
Playing with the sparkling sunbeams,
Whispering softly, while the shadows
Lent a rare, sweet, mellow beauty
To the scene so sweet and fair.

The Call of Spring

A WEARY human heart
Come out come out with me.
Away to the boundless forest,
Where the wind with elfish laughte Cast off your burden of sorrow. Forget that you ever were sad, O'er the rose-tipped clouds gleam
the promised tomorrow.
Rejoice, rejoice and be glad.

Come out, come out with me. We'll leave behind the lure of Blind souls who will not see.

Breathless with Freedom's dear de light, With bounding heart, and joy newwe'll close the gate on the Land of Night. And hall the Spring-time morn.

Come out, come out with me-The road winds low and the winds high. Filmy clouds in a sapphire sky, And life's sweet ecstacy. Sunshine and flowers around us. God's country wild and free-Leave your sorrow and pining fretting.

And greet the Spring with me.

The region in this locality is replete with natural beauty and loveliness, and comprises some of the most beautiful water stretches and picturesque landscapes, for which that portion of Northern Ontario is be-coming so famous, with the ever-increasing and fastidious army of tourists who each year are looking for fresh fields to explore. Very people, comparatively speaking, realize that Canada possesses such a mag-nificent pleasure ground as this; and yet it is a region that will fill the ideal of the "Indians' happy hunting

A well-known traveler and litterateur, while speaking of this district, said: "Irish lakes are good in their way, but their whole region is but a triffle. English lakes are placid and poetical, but we are not all poets; Scotch lochs are well enough, but soon got thru with; Swiss lakes are charming, as well as Italian lakes, but they are a long way off, and I fall to see any beauty in any of them (and I've done them all) exceeding those here."

The Lake of Bays has a world-wide reputation for the marvellous effects of its climate on the nerve-worn and convalescent. Thousands bear testimony to the fact that when brainweary, overworked, worn out, or recovering from an illness, they build up faster here than anywhere else.

Fish abound—speckled trout, salmon trout and bass are plentiful in these waters; while whitefish, salmon trout and speckled trout are found in great quantities in the waters of the surrounding lakes. In the rotunds of the Wawa Hotel may be seen majnificent mounted specimens of the fish caught in these lakes.

A special feature in connection with the hotel is the pure spring of clear water that is on the hotel property, and from which the hotel supply is drawn. Fountains of iced spring water are to be found on each floor. This water is absolutely pure, is clear as crystal and is considered one of the best assets of the resort. A government road leads to the hotel and offers, to those who desire it, a means of riding or driving in the delightfully cool, shady groves thru which the roads are cut. The hotel grounds cover an area of three hundred acres, and tired guests will flad seats and summer houses in quiet nooks, where fine views may be had. If the visitor be a city dweller he instinctively notices the tremendous difference between the air at Norway Pcint and that which custom has made bearable in his city. High altitude is one of the natural advantages of the Wawa. There is absolute immunity from hay fever, rose cold, summer asthma or catarth. By arriving at the Wawa previous to the day this annoying and annual visitant is due, there will be an absolute absence of any symptoms of the trouble while there, or, if suffering from its effects upon arrival, in ten days all symptoms of this, or kindred disorders, will disappear.

The common practice of summer hotels of "Charging as much as the case will bear" is forbidden at the Wawa. The rates are plainly printed, and each guest thus gets, without bargaining, the most favorable terms obtainable. They are most reasonable for the services offered, and the room rate covers all charges for board and lodging, use of baths and bathing houses, including the moving of baggage to and from the wharf. The Wawa opens June 25th, and closes September 6.

There's a lot of competition among the grocers here, and while the one nearest me seems quite accommodating. I'm not going to get into the habit of buying at just this place and no other. So I'm not opening a charge account, but paying immediately for everything I buy, and I'll buy at the place that offers me the best quality at the lowest price, regardless of where it is.

I shall keep my list of permanent supplies and mark the prices paid so that I can watch for special prices and save by extra large quantity buying whenever possible.

Advice to Perplexed Girls

Annie Laurie's Answers to Letters From Sunday World Readers Who Seek Help in Settling Their Love Problems.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

A short time ago I was introduced to a gentleman at a skating party, and since that time have been in his company almost continually. During our short acquaintance we have become very much attached to each other; in fact, he has told me that he loves me, and I know that I love him. I heard yesterday that he has been married for some time. If this is true, why has he done this, and

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of seventeen, and I have a boy friend of twenty-four. He loves me dearly, but I can't learn to love him because I think he is too old. He is a good worker and besides the work he is doing he has a business of his own. He loves his mother, and is very kind to her; he has no father. He is not good looking, that's the reason why I do not love him. My parents like him because he saves all his money. But I have met a nice looking fellow of twenty-one, and I love him, and he seems to love me. He talks very nicely to me. My parents have no objection if I wish te marry him, but they tell me to take the fellow of twenty-four, because he can make a happy home for me. Altho I do not love him, I like his ways. Please advise me what to do.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

met a very nice young man about my own age. I have been out with him a few times. He seems to be very nice and seems to think a lot of me. My parents think he is a very nice fellow, too. But I have another young man to whom I am engaged and earnestly love. My parents don't know about it. They don't think much of him; they have seen him going into saloons—but I don't think he gets drunk. He brings me chocolates every time he calls on me. He takes me to the theatre and gives me a very good time. Please tell me what to do.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I met a young man while I was on my vacation last summer. Since then we have corresponded quite often, but his letters are quite often, but his letters are getting more businesslike. He doesn't seem to have the same good feeling towards me, and I find I am always thinking of him. I also seem helpless in letting him know when I write him. Please give me your advice. I am nineteen years old and my friend is twenty-two.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of thirty years living in the country. I have a boy friend who loves me very dearly and I love him the same. He pro-ed to me but I refused, as I thought I was too young. Just two weeks later he enlisted and went away with first contingent. I am heartbroken, but since he went away with first contingent. I am heartbroken, but since he has been away I have been adquainted with another young man. He is a farmer, too. His name is John. He has also proposed. Do you think I should continue with his company or do you think I had oetter walt and see if my other tover will come home not injured? He kissed me before he left and told me he would wait for me to marry him. Do you think I should wait?

Papa's Little Lady.

Papa's Little Lady. Papa's Little Lady.

OODNESS, gracious, "Papa's Little Lady," you don't mean that you are thirty years old, do you? Your letter plainly reads t-h-i-r-t-y. You meant to write thirteen, didn't you? If you are really thirteen, you certainly are too young even to have thoughts of marriage.
You should not marry until you are eighteen anyway, and it is foolish to think of marrying anyone whom you do not love with all your heart—it, is not only foolish, it is not fair either to you or to the man who has asked you to marry him.

I am'a young girl of nineteen and have become very fond of a young man who plays in one of the Toronto churches. I am sure he has no girl friends as he seems

In what way do you think I could get acquainted with him? I mean well acquainted? He seems to hold all the girls at a distance—at first I used to laugh at him, but now I am afraid I love him—he is so attentive to his duty and so gentlemanly and good. I can't join the choir as I am not a singer. Please tell me what I should do.

One Sunday I was thinking so much about him that he seemed to know, for he looked in my direction and I am sure I blushed. to know, for he looked in my direction and I am sure I blushed.
Twice since I have noticed him glance at me. For two years I have been hoping for such a young man. I have never seen one just like him before. He has no bad habits—I know that much about him—and be is very tender him—and he is very tend hearted. I found that out also.

Do you think I had better try when others evidently have failed? Y DEAR Rosemary, your letter is as sweet and charming as your name. No, I don't think I would try very hard to become acquainted with him, if I were you. Men always like to do the pursuing and it is better not to know one you like than to have him think you forward and bold. So, if I were you, Rosemary, I would go along just as before.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: I am twenty-five years, old and I am twenty-five years old and am keeping company—well. I suess I shouldn't say I am keeping company—but, anyway, this young gentleman asks me to telephone him two or three times a week and then he makes engagements with me. But when I make an engagement he doesn't always keep it. I feel I am being laughed at, altho he lives very far from my house and it takes him a great deal of time to come to see me, as he works on the 'phone in a hotel and is not relieved until 7 o'clock.

him when he tells me that he doesn't like to call when it is so late? He has asked me many times to meet him downtown, but I don't care to meet young gentlemen on the street corners. Do you think I should introduce him to my mother and bring him into the house te have some refreshments when we come back from a walk? Miss Billy.

Miss Billy.

If I were you, Miss Billy, I would stop telephoning this young man who makes engagements with you and then breaks them—I wouldn't have anything to do with him any more. There is not a doubt in the world that he is laughing at you and likes to have you call him up simply so the other boys may think you are deeply in love with him. I am very glad you refused to meet him on street corners. Most certainly you should introduce him to your mother and she should be at home to meet you if you invite him in to have some religion.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE: DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of eighteen and am very much in love with a man forty years old. He often phones me and wants me to go out with him. One night he called on me when the rest of the family were out and told me that he loved me and wanted me to marry him. Oh, Annie Laurie, if you, only knew how I love him and am perfectly happy when I am with him! The family like him very much and he is really younger than his age. Shall I marry him, or the younger man who professes to love me very much, but whom I do not love nearly as well as the man of whom I have told you?

Snockums.

If I were you I would think very long and very hard before I had very much more to do with a man so much older than myself. Just think, when you were born he was twenty-two years old, old enough to be your father. Marriages between persons so separated in age are not nearly as happy as those nearer the same age. So think hard before you make a decision that you might regret for the

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am acquainted with a young gentleman who lives some distance away from here, but whom I meet very often at the rink. He always wants to skate with me and seems to show in an indirect manner that he cares for me. How can I find out this young gentleman's feelings toward me, as I care very much for him?

Rianch.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE Can you advise us why we cannot get any boy friends? We are fairly good looking: at least neat in appearance, and like fun as well as any girls of twenty-four.

We are told by girl friends that we are good company and we always treat any boy that comes to our home as well as we know how, but guess there is something wrong somewhere.

Trusting that you will give us a little of your valuable advice.

They do not want to be hunted. I think that must be what is the matter—no man wants to get into a serious entanglement with a girl who thinks every man who comes to spend an evening with her is dead in love with her. Along comes a book to prove that, as cooks, the women of Toronto are artists, a book that will also add to their art. Its the "Toronto Cook Book," and from page 1 to page 353 it's a feast of good things. Only a few days on the bookshelves, it has already commanded appreciation. Mrs. E. J. Powell, the clever and energetic woman who compiled it, with a rare appreciation of what wemen want in a book of recipes and how they want it arranged, has issued a volume that has particular regard for the Canadian use to which it will be put for most of the recipes have a Canadian flavor. Some of them were originated here in Toronto, and all have been used and found fine by Toronto women experts. When she steps outside the country for a recipe it is for something that can be made at home; many cook books have as a chief fault that they put forward recipes demanding ingredients not handy to the local housewife.

Dison has an excellent maxim for daily work: "Do the hardest thing first." True, it is more difficult to jerk one's self up to top effort the first thing in the morning, but it's tremendously worth while. That is when the energy is freshest; when the mind is alert and the viewpoint likely to be more optimistic, because it is as yet uncolored by the petty annoyances of the day. As a rule, it takes half the time to do a task then than later, when the energies are at a low ebb. But clearing the deck early in the day leaves the other hours free for the less archous tasks which do not require the very maximum of energy and ability.

POWER UNSEEN

OOR things!—we are most of us shut up like birds in cages. Some of us singing our hearts out in lonely ardor, just exactly like a little yellow canary; some others of us smoking a lonely pipe. But just as the canary can see glimpses of an outer wonder thru the bars of his cage, so it happens sometimes that the most entrancing SOUNDS come thru the brick walls of the hu-

Do you really suppose that any girl actually could be as lovely as the young man with the pipe fancies her to be when he translates the music into a living, breathing, teasing creature? Maybe not; the important thing is that the unseen power moves him to want to find out. This is the way RO-MANCE works.

And every one was very sorry for the well dressed young man, until it turned out that he really did have an invalid mother, and that he hadn't given her a cent for over a year.

He had spent the money on persons who were neither invalids nor mothers. Of course.

We read in the magazines fine stories about honest men who are driven to dishonesty by selfish and extravagant wives.

I can think now of seven different bank cashiers in different parts of the world whom I have seen go to prison.

And every one of those cashiers threw away his liberty and his good name and his place in the world for the suke of a woman.

And not one of those women was the wife of the man who became a thief for her sake.

Men do not steal for good women. The sort of man who loves a good woman cannot be made to steal by any sort of woman who ever breathed.

I hope that this is true, but usually you find in mud weeds, and nothing else.

Effectual mastication is a most excellent way both to clean and polish the enamel, drive out germs and to invigorate and make flabby gums firm. Thorochewing defies the lodgment of food fibres and debris between the teeth, and in individuals whose blood and muscles are sound and glowing may at times take the place of that usual requirement, the tooth paste.

It is decidedly not advisable wholly to dispense with a good chlorate of potash, alkaline tooth paste. Learn but to remember, however, that thoro mastication is essential. Instil this fact in your minds as well as thus cultivate the habits of your children, and the auxiliary tooth paste, the a necessity only too often need be used but once or twice a day.

To practise the art of mastication means taboo for soft, fluid and nonsolid or predigested foods.

Your mouth should be much cleaner after a meal than before it. Even dentists still cling to the old error that the mouth is full of refuse and the teeth of debris after a meal of fibrelike victuals.

The dietetic articles, and there are many, which actually have a tendency to leave the gums, teeth and spaces between filled with bacterial and injurious debris are candles, cereals, sugary sweet and fibreless foods. Any one with caries or rotten teeth, with Riggs disease or pyorrhoea, with folil breath and unpleasant gases emanating from their mouth, should particularly shun certain non-cleansing, decay provoking articles.

A young American woman was A young American woman was anxious to be presented at a European court, but the high officials, having inquired into her social standing at home, objected. They represented to her that the king could scarcely receive the daughter of a man who sold boots and shoes. The young woman cabled home and told her father the situation. The next morning she received his answer: "Bosh! It isn't selling. Practically, giving them away, see advertisement." That solved the difficulty. She was presented as the daughter of an eminent philanthropist.

And the women upon whom he spent this ill-gotten money will stay very far away from that court room indeed.

For it is one of the strange things in human nature that honest people often love a thief, but no thief ever loves an honest soul and stays a finief.

Bertha Crawford who for several years was one of the leading soloists in Toronto, has more than fulfilled predictions as to her future in opera. In Petrograd she appeared recently with great success in the principal roles of "Traviata," "Rigoletto," "Romeo and Juliet" and the "Barber of Seville." The clever singer is receiving congratulations from many friends in her homeland. and Boris, have gained for themselves reputations big enough to draw a large audience whenever they are announced to play. This was a special night, however, when the greatest of all Russian composers was to be interpreted by three Russian artists, one of whom at least is acknowledged to have no peer, unless it be Paderewski, in the realms of Russian music. The Tschaikowsky trio in A minor, opened the program, and despite the fact that the strings were at times overwhelmed by the piano, the great work was given a masterly rendition; buoyant, elevating, emotional and poetic, the two younger brothers more than ever demonstrating that skill and sympathetic unity of thought which has given them It is now definitely arranged that the Fantastic Extravaganza will be repeated next autumn, when the proceeds will be devoted to some charitable fund.

The program of the Women's Musical Club last week was made up entirely of excerpts from operas, including "Rose Softly Blooming," from "Zemire und Azor. Spohr; "Il Segreto." from "Lucrezia Borgia," Donizetti; "Ah! non Geunge," from "La Sonnambula," Bellini; "Vallons Cheries," from "Echo et Narcisse," Gluck; "A Vesta," from "Polyencti," Gounod; "Ret orna Vinctor." from "Aida," Verdi; "Seguidilla" and "Habanera," from "Carmen." Bizet, and "Meditation." from "Thais," for violin, The singers were Marjorie Rogers. Mrs. E. Freyseng, Elsie Keefer, Mrs. W.G.A. Lambe and Betty Caldwell. The audience greatly enjoyed the program from the first note to the last, all the voices being at their very best in the operatic arias, which is quite unusual for amateurs. They were all pupils of unity of thought which has given them considerable prominence as ensemble players. After the performance of the work the three artists were enthusiastically recalled. Jan Hambourg then played the first movement of the Technikowsky violin concerts in D amateurs. They were all pupils of liope Morgan, who arranged the pro-gram and before each number gave a short explanation of the opera. Spe-cial mention should be made of Madge Murphy, the Irish violinist, who plays with a remarkably fine tone and an

The Toronto String Quartet, at its last concert of the season, which was given at the Toronto Conservatory of Music, on Wednesday evening, gave its most attractive program of the present series. Schubert's quartet in A minor made a delightful number, and the present series. and its performance was clear, crisp, and beautifully balanced, and its spirit and ever-changing emotion were most end of March, and notice will be given thru the press when the date of the next sailing is fixed. In the interval the Belgian relief committee will re-ceive clothing at their rooms as well ble, too, was worthy of real admir-ation, the execution superlatively fine, ation, the execution superlatively fine, and the conception altogether delicate and charming. The Debussy G minor, with its flagrant rhythmical contrasts and accent left everyone wondering what it was all about, but the strangely weird, and almost discordant at times it has strikingly beautiful passages, and as played by these artists, made a most interesting number. A quartet for plano, violin, viola and teallo, by Guillaume Lekeu the Belgian relief committee will receive clothing at their rooms as well as centributions of money for food-stuffs.

What really happened at Liege? For the answer, by eye witnesses and experts, see "The London Times History of the War," which is overflowing with pictures. See the coupon on another page of The World.

The Leginska, the brilliant planist, believing that fashion's dictates prevent woman's highest attainment, especially in music, has solved the problem of dress, for herself, at any rate, by designing a costume that is both comfortable and artistic. It consists of a coat of black velvet, vest of soft brotaded silk, and skirt of black cloth. With this are worn a soft white collar and cravat, the cuffs being similar to those of a man's negligee shirt. She declares that this choice costume is not an affectation, but her solution of the dress problem for women planists.

The Philadelphia Orchestra's receipts for the present season were $11,000 in excess of those of any previous year. The contract of Leopold Stokowski, the conductor, has been extended for five years and the orchestral season has been lengthened from twenty-five weeks to thirty-five weeks.

Much interest is being taken in the

Pianist Made Test Case by

Esse Drecheier Adamson concert. which takes place in the Music on April 20. A number of the most prominent musicians are to take part, including: Arthur George, the gifted baritone; Paul Wells, the well known planist, and Leo Smith, the accomplished 'cellist; Miss Adamson, who is also a cellist, will be heard in on ensemble number with her mother, Mrs. Drechsier Adamson, and her sister, Lina Adamson, both noted violinists.

The choir of West Presbyterian Church will give Stainer's "Crucifixion," under Mr. McNaily's direction, on Sunday evening, March 23.

At this evening's service the choir of the Church of the Messiah will sing under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, R. G. Stapells, Maunder's well known Lenten cantata, "Olivet to Caivary." In addition to his choir of forty voices, Mr. Stapells will have the assistance of the church soloists, Jessie Plaxton, soprano; Edgar Barker, tonor, and R. A. Stapells, baritone, while J. Percy Milnes will preside at the organ. It is interesting to know that during the past two or three years Mr. Stapells' choir has produced, under this direction, the following well known works: Gaul's "Ruth," Roger's "Footprints of the Saviour," Fred. W. Peace's "Darkness and Dawn," Stain-says "Crucifix of Mine. Donam the Montreal prima donna."

THE appeal made by Mr. S. T. Wood to the members of the Women's Press Clubs on Tuesday last, when he invited men to join in a crusade for the purpose of preserving the wild flowers of the city and vicinity was something in which women everywhere would join with alacrity. A woman who is not fond of flowers is probably non-existent, or if such exist, she is decidedly abnormal, so that it may be taken as a foregone conclusion that women, as a unit, are with Mr. Wood in his pies.

On the other hand there is little doubt but that women have played no small part in the vandalism which has caused the flora of the country to disappear. Their very love for the beautiful blossoms has made them guilty in this respect and is one more proof that love, without discipline, is apt to "gang agait" to the detriment of things generally.

BY NOTED WRITER

Here are a few excerpts from an address lately delivered in the West by Mrs. Nellie McClung, the charming speaker and writer known to women everywhere thruout Canada.

"It is argued sometimes that a man's grandmether did not want the voie," she said. "If she was allye to day she would want it. With the introduction of much modern laborsaving machinery into the home the woman is now the leisured class. She had been accused of passing her time in frivolous things. All serious things have been closed to her. The tendency of civilization has been to make her light and frivolous. I hope that the opening up of activities for women, throwing upoh the woman syeater responsibilities, will result in making woman measure up to her responsibilities, will result in making woman measure up to her responsibilities.

She voiced the injustice of the inequality of the oriminal code, which made the punishment for stealing a girl five years, and for stealing a cow if years. Wasn't that sufficient to make people think?

She asked if it, was always going She voiced the injustice of the inequality of the criminal code, which made the punishment for stealing a girl five years, and for stealing a cown 15 years. Wasn't that sufficient to make people think?

She asked if it, was always going to happen that drink and war could take their children while they didn't have a voice in it all. But it was not suspicion between peoples."

I don't like the patriotism of 'My country 'tis of thee, and in that I mean no disrespect to our friends across the border. It applies just as much to us. We want to get past the day when in order to express our love of our own country we must cast trade relations which tend to bread suspicion between peoples."

Mr. Morgan will be seen as the Sergeant. Miss Jeffries as the old man's deughter, and Capt Larking as Colones of the regiment. Every detail of the production will be presented in strict accord with the prompt book used by Irving himself, which is in Mr. Meilish's possession. "The Falcon," the Tennyson piece which is also to be given, is a Florentine costume play based on a plot by Boccaccio and was originally produced by Kendals in London, 1879.

"PINAFORE" PRESENTED IN SPLENDID STYLE

A delightful presentation of the Gilbert & Sullivan's comic opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore," was given by a company of clever amateurs on the evening of March 17, at the Loretto Abeey Hall. The proceeds, which were considerable, was devoted to the relief of the poor of St. Patrick's Church. The opera was under the direction of Mr. E. G. Giblin, as musical director, and Jas. P. Moahn as stage manager. With the leading parts taken by such capable principals as Miss Gertrude Heck, Miss Therest McKenna and Miss Helen Hamilton, Messrs Nell McGrath, George Jennings, Stewart Brennan, Jas. P. Mohan, James Kenney and Edgar Glynn, a finished and satisfying rendition of this popular opera was given. Miss Jean Root was extremely clever in her interpretation of "The Irish Voluniteer." The music, choruses as well as solos, showed marked evidence of careful training. The Loretto Abbey Hall, which was very kindly loaned for the occasion, proved an ideal setting for the opera.

sooner than avow love However, circumstances prove too strong for them, and, in a sudden and dramatic climax, the shy bachelor and his lovely ward each of them awake to the fact that the love they had tried to keep secret from the other is returned. John Emerson's delineation of the role of the lovable, retiring bachelor is a finely artistic piece of work.

For Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, the feature photo-play will be another of those timely and patriotic war-dramas which patrons of the Strand know so well how to apprecimeat. Rickard and his brothers have a trained animal sebool at Tonawanda, from which they graduate pupils for circuses and vaudeville. Many of the animals appearing in current attractions in theatres and under canvas have been trained there, and Wanda is said to be the cleverest specimen which the institution has ever turned out. who is a featured act at Loew's Garden this week. Wanda was a southern Pacific seal, captured in her babyhood at Santa Barbara, Cal., and taken to Tonawanda, N. Y., where Mr. Rickard began the five years of patient training, which was required before Wanda was educated well enough to appear in public as a vaudeville attraction.

The secret of the training, according to Wanda's teacher, is feeding and treatment. Every time Wanda performs a trick she insists on being fed. and as she prefers choice morsels of pate de fole gras as her regular diet, it costs a considerable sum for her daily fare. Every time she walks the tight rope while balancing a ball on her nose, juggles a kitchen chair or plays the organ, a morsel must be forthcoming or Wanda, being temperamental, declines to continue. Mr. Rickard, during the five years Wanda was being prepared for the stage, fed her about twenty tons of fish and meat. DETROIT. Mar. 27.—When the Ford Motor Company of Canada increased its production from about 12 cars daily to 125 cars per day recently. and when the Studebaker Corporation started to add men to its force to turn out cars to take care of a large export business which that company will carry on from the Canadian plan in the future, and so relieve the Dewalkerville all took on added help, including the Kelsey Wheel Company, which now has 90 men, the Canadian Lamp and Stamping Company (Canadian plant of the Edmonds and Company to close no agency deals whatsoever until the company to company to close no agency deals whatsoever until the Jones Manufacturing Company of Detroit), the Fisher Body Company, the American Top Company, Dominion Stamping, Company and Diamond Manufacturing Company. The trade increase at Windson Walkerville and Ford was general.

A. O. Dunk has resigned as president of the Auto Parts Manufacturing Company. William E. Metzger has been elected president, and J. C. Beck, secretary and treasurer of the company. Mr. Dunk confines his activities to the Puritan Manufacturing Company, of which he is the head.

From the point of product of the company of which he is the head.

From the point of production. March 4 was the banner day for the Ford Motor Company. On that day a grand total of 1347 Fords were produced by the factory and the Ford manufacturing plants. This is getting pretty close to a production of 2000 Ford cars per day, and makes still more certain the 200,000 car limit between August 1914 and August 1915, upon which is contingent the profitsharing with Ford purchasers.

". Those little motorcycles—we call them the wasps, for they it is that sting us into action. You're snugly between the blankets, and you hear the snorting and buzzing of one coming up the road. You hope he goes on—but no, he's stopped outside head quarters; you hold your breath if he proceeds at once; it's an ill-omen, as he wants no reply but his receipted envelope, and th's 'turn out'—full he wants no reply but his receipted envelope, and it's 'turn out'—full parade marching order, first line transports and all. This contest, it is predicted, will overshadow all that have gone before, both in quality and field, and volume of attendance. Thirty-three cars are expected to face the starter, instead of thirty, as before, and there is hardly a motor fan in the country who will not go there either in the fiesh or in spirit.

The foreign representation in the race, despite the war, promises to be as good as ever. At least three Freuch cars, two English, and possibly three Italian cars are expected to start, unless the outbreak of war in the peninsula blasts the hopes of the latter.

America's contingent, moreover, promises this year to be on a par with the Europeans, all of the car builders having learned their lessons thru the overwhelming defeat of last year, and now being engaged in active preparation with a brand new line of speedsters. The conflict will be one worth travelling far to see.

The Delage that won the last 500-

The Delage that won the last 500-mile race is being groomed for entry in the 1916 contest by W. E. Wilson, of Rochester. N. Y., its owner, thru the installation of smaller cylinders. Inasmuch as a reduction of only eighty cubic inches is necessary, it is thought the change will be easily accomplished. Interest is lent the transformation by the report that it is to take place in the shops of the Packard Company, the Detroit concern, which already has De Palma's machine in charge, for the purpose, it is said, of fitting a new body. It is thought this is more than a coincidence, i. e., that Packard has serious thoughts of racing.

REAR FENDERS.

One of the successful racing drivers several seasons ago, won a leading position in a big Indianapolis event because he took advantage of the suction behind the car of the favorite. Comparisons afterward showed that this maneuver added appreciably to the average speed of his own mahave added materially to this back draft by fenders which sweep far down behind the rear wheels. While the non-racing driver does not object to the small reduction to proceed the small reduction to the small reduction to to the small reduction in speed, he does dislike the resulting swirl of dust which hangs over the tonneau in dry weather, and the muddy spray which bespatters the occupants of the rear seats in wet going.

The Packard type of rear fenders is typical of a common sense design by which these disagreeable occurences are entirely eliminated

"That Paige Is A Great Car"

DO YOU KNOW why people say that—why YOU yourself say it?

Perhaps, you have heard that in actual sales Paige cars led every American-made motor car at all the Automobile Shows this season. Per-American-made motor car at all the Automobile Shows this season. Perhaps, you know that the Paige "Six-46," a big seven-passenger "Six" for $1925, has proved easily the most popular "Six"—at any price—on the market this season. Perhaps, you have heard that at the new price, $1475, the Paige "Four-36" has already dominated the "Four" field this season. Perhaps, you know that Paige Sales have increased 61 per cent. over the corresponding period of last year; that the huge Paige factory is working 24 hours a day to fill Paige orders. These things are proofs that the Paige car—"Six" or "Four"—IS "a great car," as you

BUT WHY?

Let us see. Do you know of any other "Six" that has the beauty and distinction of design, the seven-passenger roominess of the Paige; the power and flexibility of the Paige-Continental motor, the Gray & Davis starting and lighting system the Bosch magneto, the Rayfield carburetor, the Paige-cantillever spring suspension, the general elegance and yet economy of the Paige 'Six"—at a price within $300 of the Paige "Six" price?

That is $1925

The same with the Paige Glenwood 'Four' 36." Do you know of any other 'Four' that has the beauty and five-passenger comfort of the Glenwood, the power and reputation for service, the Gray & Davis lighting and starting system, the Bosch magneto, the silent chain drive, the multiple disc cork-insert clutch, the elegance and excellence of general design of the Glenwood—at a price within $300 of the Paige price?

That is $1475

It is good to know that Paige cars are at the pinnacle new in popularity, sales national confidence. But we want the world to known WHY.

On Wednesday and Thursday those people who have not yet had a chance to see the great and thrilling drama 'Captain of Villainy." should do so at the Carlton Theatre, along with "Old Peg Legs Will," a two-reel comedy featuring Fred Cunard and Francis Ford, two of the most popular stars on the screen. Friday and Saturday the fifteenth instalment of the "Master Key" and "Her Bargain." in two parts will be part of a long program.

THE MADISON

Mr. Emerson's unique portrayal of the retiring and kindly bachelor is one of the most delicate and artistic characterizations ever contributed to the screen. The role of Sylvia is sympathetically delineated by Lorraine Huling. The production is one that will long be pleasantly remembered.

THE MODEL

A feature of the program at the lodel Theatre this week will be the double change program for the last two nights of the week. Instead of two nights of the week. Instead of the regular week end program on Friday and Saturday, the management will feature the great drama "The Tenth Commandment" on Friday night and a splendid animal story, "The Terrors of the Jungle" on Saturday night. Both these pictures are knockouts, and should fill the fine theatre. On 'Monday and Tuesday a western drama, 'Ridgewuy of Montana,' will be featured along with the second instalment of "The Black Box." the story to which appeared in last week's Sunday World. "Runaway June," Number 6, and two fine comedy dramas will be part of the program for Wednesday and Thursday.

THE RED MILL

The third episode of "The Black Box," which is told thrillingly in this issue of The Sunday World, will be shown on the screen for the first time in Toronto on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, at the Red Mill Theatre on Yonge street. As the story progresses it gets more and more exciting, and it is expected that very soon some super thrilling climaxes will be reached. At the Crystal Palace Theatre, the George R. Sims English drama, "Harbor Lights," will be shown. It is a high class drama of timely cur-

MILITARY PARADE . STILL ON THE SCREEN

The great military parade picture, taken by the Conness-Till Film Company, and finished in record time, will be shown at the Peoples Theatre and at the Maple Leaf Theatre on Monday and Tuesday of this week. These pictures show practically all the units that took part in the monster street pageant and thousands of local faces can be picked out from the crowds. It is more than likely that one nose quite close to the camera, so go and see the pictures and you will find many features of the parade that in the first glance you did not know existed.

The development of the plot unfolds one of the most delightful love stories that the stage has produced in years. The element of comedy is precomments of pathos in the play, that offectively demonstrate the truth that all wisdom is folly, save only that which has germinated in trials and sufferings.

The entire supporting cast is exceptionally well chosen, and in connection, with the elaborate settings and the varied atmosphere of the subject provide a film story that will not only be entertaining but long remembered.

If you mean The Toronto World, we are not raving over Mary Pickford, but being a Toronto girl she deserves the publicity we have given her. Mary Pickford's charm is purely personal, and because she is presented in parts that do not allow her to show this charm is the fault of her directors in mis-casting her. Little Mary may or may not deserve her $100,000 per., but she gets it and her employers are making money, that is proof enough that she is worth it, to them-

A NOTHER Canadian photo-play author is W. A. Glockling of 786 Markham street. Toronto, who wrote "His Soul's Affighty," recently seen in this city. His linguistry turn of mind enable d him to conceive a novel story which has caused much favorable comment. This author was born in this city, was "educated in the local public schools later studying the matriculation course at night school." The desire to write came with his boyhood, and he entered into a keen rivalry with a pal when they were both in their 'teens. He took part in amateur theatricals, gaining much valuable knowledge which later helped him in his writings. The scenario "His Soul's Affinity" was founded on one of his first short stories. Mr. Glockling is a keen student of literature and of the rules of the writing game. An athlete, he is an ex-lacrosse player, having played a number of years on the Maitland Lacrosse team of this city, when several of the present local big league stars were playing amateur lacrosse with that club. He is em ployed in the audit office in the Parliament Buildings, is married and has two children—both girls.

Youthful Intelligence A young girl, not yet twenty, has more promise in the field of photo-play writing than any of the number of writers I have met. This little girl, Miss R. Evelyn Coulson, has just completed a scenario called "The Hunchback," that when it is produced will cause a sensation. She is an observant miss, with an Evelyn Coulson, has just completed a scenario called "The Hunchback," that when it is produced will cause a sensation. She is an observant miss, with an intelligence much beyond her years and knows how to reason along the logical lines that lead to things. I have had the pleasure of reading a number of her scenarios and each one surpasses the one gone before. She won the first prize in the local competition contest with a comedy called, "The Trials of a Fat Lady." The vast difference between this scenario and her more recent work argues well for a future of unusual prominence. And with all her intelligence and her success, Miss Coulson comes with her a simplicity that is delightfully refreshing. The little lady is a genius of whom Torontonians can well be proud.

--- ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS AND GOOD, KIND, DEAR DOG MUTT --JOHN TAKES SOME EXERCISE ON A WINDMILL AND WHAT HAPPENS.

Now! in the field at Uncle Jim's A wind-mill stood-Ah! Me! John said: "Say! Tom I'll climb up there And get a ride, you see."

His brother cried. "You'll kill yourself, You'll break the wind-mill too; And then who'll pick the bones and sticks? Oh! No! 'twill never do."

But JOHNNY CLIMBED RIGHT UP, he did, RIGHT ON THE MILL, Oh! My! To see the thing begin to turn Would make you howl and cry.

Then FASTER, FASTER-Flip! Flap! Flop! Oh dear! What happens now? Why! Johnny, too, goes whirling round, He really can't tell how.

Poor Pa runs out, looks up—"Oh wow!"
He tears his hair and cries: "John stop! Leave go! Slide!! Drop on me!!
I'm here before your eyes!!!"

Well! Mutt good dog, was there of course, And great was his distress;

Then FASTER, FASTER-flip! flap! flop! Oh dear; What happens now Why! Johnny, too, goes whirling round, He really can't tell how. Look at his SMILING FACE button.

He showed more brains than Pa or all, I really must confess.

For when he saw John's airial twists, He first looked round my dear, And then called out to every one:
"PLEASE ALL COLLECT RIGHT HERE."

The crowd came running up Oh! Yes, Then Mutt yelled "1, 2, 3—
Now take a breath, yes, all at once,
As hard as hard can be."

Then 1, 2, 3, they fill their lungs,
And dear what happens NOW?

Poems and Stories From Little Readers Of the Smilers' Page

Dear Mr. Macphie:

I thought I would like to join the SMILING FACE Club. Would you mind sending my little sister, brother and myself a S. F. button?

Every Saturday night my daddy bring home a SUNDAY WORLD. As soon as it is light enough to read next morning I go into his room and get the papers. I look at the comic section first: after that I look at the S. F. page. I wish I had good, dear, kind Mutt for my dog. I think my letter is getting long, so I will close it.

SLEEPY-LAND.

When the children's eyes are closin At the twilight shade, All the pretty flowers are dozin Down the woodland glade.

Violets; and pale primroses, Scented lilles tall; Soon from mid the clustering posies Sounds a silver call.

Come away to Sleepy-land, Come away, away; Here are leagues of golden sand, Where blue wavelets play.

Tumbled curis are softly fanned By sweet breezes gay; Children dear, to Speepy-land, Come away, away.

In their white beds deeply dream Children hear the song; Down the Slumber Valley gleam Goes the happy throng. Laugh, and shout, and merry singing Speed the golden hours. While the fairy bells are ringing Sweetly mid the flowers.

Children, dear, to Sleepy-land, Come away, away; Trip it lightly, hand in hand, With the fairles gay.

Listen to the elfin band,
Fiddling whilst you play:
Come away to Sleepy-land,

The Fall Przemysl

Germans naturally belittle the surrender of Przemysl, as has the Russians have rechristened it Permysl. They pretend that it will have little or no effect on the course of the campaign altho they are compelled to describe the incident as a disagreeable blow. That the fall of this chief Galician stronghold is not decisive, is of course true, nevertheless, it cannot but have material influence in the furtheir development of events in the eastern field. It removes a serlous hindrance to the Russian plan of operations, will hearten the morale of the Russian armies and correspondingly weaken that of the Austrian and Hungarian troops. The information now available gives the Russian achievement even more importance than was at first estimated. It came with an element of surprise to find that the garrison numbered 120,000 men and as the casualties exceeded 40,000 the original strength must have equalled four army corps. This adds lustre to the fact, more especially, when the Russians having no heavy siege guns were compelled to surround the fortified area with a ring of steel and await the slow process of exhaustion. Galicia is lost to Austria and the Dual Monarchy if it survives the war, will be considerably smaller in area than it was when it served its ultimatum on Servia.

The Teutonic allies have failed to gain the goal of their ambition in Eastern Europe. That goal was Warsaw, which had it been captured early in the war would have seriously crippled Russian effort. There can be no doubt about the ultimate object of the German Government as it has been openly avowed. Poland would have been lost to Russia along with a large slice of the territory of Russia Proper. All Germany, has accomplished after eight months of war is to have prevented an invasion, except to a limited extent in East Prussia and kept the battle ground in Poland. But Germans apparently have not wholly lost hope of winning the eastern campaign, which, if a leading Berlin newspaper is to be accepted as an authority, they regard as the real theatre of war and as deciding the fate of the campaign in the west. The German strategists certainly looked for victory over the Russians, and they gained some notable, but partial successes. They have not been able, however, to defeat decisively the armies of the Czar, or even to weaken them while the Russians have inflicted severe punishment on the Austrian armies which, even with German stiffening, have proved unequal to the task of recovering Galicia and Bukowina.

Balkan

Ambitions

Writing in United Empire, the Royal Colonial Institute Journal, on the Teuton-Slav contest in Eastern Europe, Mr. A. Wyatt Tilby points out that German policy was seriously incommoded by the formation of the Balkan League in 1912. That league, he adds, proved that what the diplomats had thought impossible could be achieved—the Balkan peoples could, on occasion sink their differences in the common cause. Austrian intrigues brought about the second Balkan war when Bulgaria not only lost Adrianople to Turkey and was forced to cede territory to Rumania, but received a much smaller part of the Turkish spoil than she had counted on gaining. All these Balkan states, notwithstanding that second war, know that a German victory in the war means the loss of their independence. They would pass into the German sphere and provide the pathway to Constantinople, Asia Minor, the Persian Gulf and thence to India. That was the Kaiser's day dream cherished from the time he ascended the throne and prepared for by German statesmen for more than forty years. He may still indulge in a vision of victory, but the time is fast approaching when it must disappear, never more to return save as a bitter memory of a lost hope.

To Mr. Wyatt Tilby, it is becoming more and more doubtful whether Germany can produce the human material as quickly as her generals are exhausting it. They must continue to fight battles, or by retreat make admission of defeat. It is not often, he remarks, that one has to calculate the absolutely fundamental factorproduction, versus destruction of human life. For a parallel to this war, one has to go back to the Thirty Years' War which exhausted Germany for a century. "Then, as now in Germany, the number of men killed in battle rose to a point dangerously near the number of children born; and when that point is reached, it is not merely national defeat that has to be contemplated, but disaster and destruction." Germany is stated to have had a million men killed in action or dead from other causes attributable to the, war while the number of children born annually in the country is nearly two million and is falling year by year. If equal losses are incurred in the second six months, Germany will have reached the danger point. These figures to Mr. Tilby are the decisive test of the Teuton-Slav controversy and the end of the German dream of domination in the near east.

It is the political effect of the attack on the Dardanelles that far outweighs the spectacular element which has so riveted attention. Battleships have always been regarded as too valuable to be wasted in an attempt to reduce land fortifications. One lucky shot may disable for weeks, or even months, the most powerful of dreadnoughts or even super-dreadnoughts. Only recognition of political and economic reasons of exceptional importance could have imposed so heavy and dangerous a job as the reduction of the forts guarding the Dardanelles in the face of all the hidden dangers of the mine and the submarine. But, as the old French proverb suggests, in this case, the game is worth the candle, because wherever it becomes evident that Constantinople is doomed, the jackals of the Balkans will gather to claim their share of the game, For the Turk, after more than five centuries, is going to be expelled from Europe, and will find that his domain in Asia will not only be circumscribed, but controlled.

A GENERAL "OFFENSIVE" MAY BE ORDERED AT ANY TIME

The 109th Regiment

The military ardor of Toronto shows strong and clear when one considers the remarkable growth of the 109th Regiment, the city's newest military organization. Of course the spirit of the times made the regiment possible, but its splendid success is really due to the men and officers. The official order announcing the regiment's birth was received Christmas Eve. In the three months since, over twelve hundred men have been enrolled and this many would have been part of the military display a week ago Saturday if uniforms had been available. But the five hundred men who were equipped and who marched gave the city an opportunity to judge of the appearance and general fitness of the regiment, and the judgment was overwhelmingly favorable. The men made an impressive

About half the men are Canadian, the other half old country, and nearly all the N.C.O.'s are imperial service men. The regiment, itself youthful, is composed of men at their best; the average age is just about thirty, and the junior officers were picked with care and without favoritism. These things all help account for the 109th's vigor. Credit, tho, must go to the senfor officers for the fine shape the regiment is in. Col. W. T. Stewart is a commander with ability that in itself forces respect and who has all the admirable qualities of a gentleman and military leader. His senior major, W. S. Dinnick, has brought into his military duties those good qualities that make him a foremost figure in local financial circles, and Major Horsfall is another thorogoing officer.

'Rex Vocat" is the motto of the regiment The call has already been answered for the third contingent. The 109th will always be ready when deeds that ask for big men must be done.

Russian Colonization of Siberia

In extent of territory, the Russian Empire is exceeded only by that of the British Empire. with which it presents interesting parallels and contrasts. Russia's powers of expansion have been remarkable, but her people, until very recently, have not shown much aptitude for colonization. This, however, may have been due mainly to the failure of the government to realize the vast possibilities of Siberia and the East Asiatic Provinces, just as it failed to recognize the vast potentialities of Alaska. For after three centuries of possession that immense country, with extraordinary mineral wealth and huge tracts of fertile land has only a population of about eleven millions. During the three hundred years that Russia has been in possession of Siberia, up to the close of last century perhaps three million persons emigrated to that country from European country.

Siberia forms the northern part of the Asiatic as Canada does the corresponding part of the North American continent. Both were long believed to be in the interior mere barren expanses of ice and snow and impossible of becoming the home of a European people. But Canada possessed remarkable advantages over Asiatic Russia, not only in the splendid waterway formed by the chain of great lakes, but in having great rivers discharging east and west and ice free ports on both the Atlantic and Pacific, But the great rivers of Western and Central Siberia flow to the north and find an exit in the Arctic Ocean. And altho Siberia has many lakes large and small, including Lake Baikal, with its area of 13,197 square miles, making it the third largest fresh water lake in the old world, as it is by far the deepest-4992 feet.

Lack of water transportation has been the great barrier to Siberian development. Various attempts have been made to open up the Kara Sea route thru the Arctic Ocean and thus make the resources of the country available for the benefit of Western Europe. The latest of these was that in which the Arctic explorer Fritiof Nansen participated which succeeded in reaching its destination in the Yenesei River without serious difficulty the ice conditions in the Kara Sea beng comparatively favorable. It seems doubtful, however, whether the Arctic Ocean can be relied on to provide a reliable means of transportation to and from Siberia. The development of the railway system seems to be essential and of this the government seems to be thoroly aware. The Russian Department of Agriculture in its report for the five years 1909-13, inserts that "it is important to develop energetically the work already begun in the colony districts, by better preparation of the land that is to be colonized, by the making of roads and wells, the building of hospitals, by postal communication and by extending the work of education and building churches and schools. It is also important to teach the colonists of older standing better agricultural methods. Some efficiency in farming is as necessary in Siberia as elsewhere.' If this ambitious program is carried out, Siberia will some day take an important place as one of the great granaries of the world.

Japan and China

Little has become public regarding the nature of the demands made by Japan on China. The Japanese Government is understood to support the territorial independence and integrity of China, and in that accords with the policy endorsed by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and France. All these nations have special interest in the Chinese Republic with its four hundred millions of people and an area amounting to one-twelfth of the surface of the globe. The future of China is to them of the utmost importance and it is certain that if, as has been asserted, the demands made by Japan practically amount to the establishment of a protectorate, more will be heard on the point before it becomes effective. But Japan has so far honorably kept her engagements and it is difficult to believe that in dealing with the Chinese problem the Japanese Government will deliberately antagonize the nations with whom there is every reason to maintain cordial relations.

Japan is said to have required that all foreign advisers of China be called on to resign their positions in the army, police and finance. This, if true, would entail the retiral of various high British officials, such as Mr. Aglen, the inspector-general of Chinese customs, Dr. Morrison, political adviser to the government of the republic and Colonel Munthe of the police staff, Still another demand is reported to be that all foreigners, other than Japanese, should be excluded from the Provinces of Fukien, Shantung, Inner Mongolia and South Manchuria. British interests, both missionary and commercial, are strong in the first two of these, where there are important British settlements. Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, refused the other day to give any official information on the ground that it was not advisable at the time. It may be taken as a fair inference that the position is not without its dangers.

THOSE WHO reject the assistance given from generation to generation to students by the discovery of new facts, the revival of ancient learning, or the brilliant synthetic work of scholars engaged in comparative research, have merely themselves to thank if they continue to wallow in ignorance. As Captain Ginger suggests: "Why Wallow?" Early training, prejudice, bigotry, moral cowardice, inertia, preoccupation, and various other causes prevent people takine a vital attitude towards the great problems of life and religion. The real reason, however, is probably that none of us care much for explanations beyond our own immediate actions and we usually understand them sufficiently not to care for further light. We only learn in action, and it is easy to understand therefore, that people are not interested in what lies beyond the area of their own activity. The average man does not expect to go to hell, so hell gives him little concern. The average man is rather bored by the conventional idea of heaven.
