FINANCIAL SITUATION IN THE UNITED STATES

Field Kellogg in Monday's New York Sun.

Week ago today prices in the securities market touched the lowest level that had reached at any time since the week of September. On the previous day the week end statement of the treasury had shown that the surplus of these institutions was $1,800,000,000, the legal minimum, and this news allowed by the announcement by the treasury of his intention to take any steps for the time being to relieve the market of the money thus created. As the week end statement of the treasury showed that the surplus of these institutions was $1,800,000,000, the legal minimum, and this news allowed by the announcement by the treasury of his intention to take any steps for the time being to relieve the market of the money thus created.

ANTICIPATED LAWS.

The commission appointed by the American Bankers' Association proposes to issue a law to sweep away the utterly antiquated laws limiting the redemption of bank notes to $5,000,000,000, and to issue a law to limit the redemption of bank notes to $5,000,000,000, and to issue a law to limit the redemption of bank notes to $5,000,000,000.

TREASURY LOSSES INTEREST.

Not only have the people of the country been kept out of the use of the money that was naturally theirs, but the treasury has lost immense sums in its operations. The plan of the commission has been to issue a law to limit the redemption of bank notes to $5,000,000,000, and to issue a law to limit the redemption of bank notes to $5,000,000,000.

WESTERN CANADA'S GREAT COAL INDUSTRY

Over Twenty Well Established Collieries in Alberta and Saskatchewan—Mining both Bituminous and Anthracite—Conditions in British Columbia

If the development of the coal industry is to be taken as indicative of the prosperity and development of a region, then western Canada, says an Ottawa letter, is making almost unprecedented strides. C. Denis, of the geologic survey, has just returned from a visit through the principal western coal fields of the country, and he reports that everywhere coal mining is going ahead at a tremendous rate. It is only a very few years since the only coal mines worthy of the name operating in Alberta were the Lashbridge and the Cannon mines. These have expanded into large enterprises, and many other similar ventures have since achieved success. There are now in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan over twenty well established and well equipped collieries, besides countless smaller mines which are worked spasmodically to supply local wants. Figures speak louder than words. The records kept by the mine section of the geological survey show that in 1887 the coal production of the West-Canadian Territories was for that year 74,192 tons, valued at $167,877. In 1905 the figures for Alberta and Saskatchewan had attained 1,000,000 tons, representing a value of over $2,000,000. In other words, in eight years the production had increased about fourteen-fold.

A GREAT BEARING AREA. But even at a very greatly increased rate of production the question of exhaustion of the fossil fuel is yet in a future exceedingly remote, for it has been calculated that the coal-bearing region of the great plain province between the international boundary and the 56th parallel of latitude, has an area of over 65,000 square miles. In the vast expanse of country all the different grades of coal are represented—from a lignite, containing 11 per cent moisture, 26 voluimetric and 44 per cent fixed carbon, to an anthracite with as much as 90 per cent fixed carbon. This variety of coal allows of each industry to select a variety according to its requirements, and coals of superior quality may be found for steam-raising, black-smithing, coke manufacture and domestic use.

MR. FIELDING MAKES AN ANNOUNCEMENT ABOUT THE TARIFF CHANGES

Speaking at a Banquet in Montreal He Says the Tariff Will Continue to be Moderate—Agriculture Will Predominate in Canada for Some Time.

Montreal, Nov. 20.—The banquet given this evening by the Reform Club to the Hon. W. S. Fielding was a splendid success, 500 guests sitting down, under the presidency of L. E. Geoffrion. The table of honor were Sir Frederick Borden, Hon. Messrs. Paterson, Aylesworth, Fisher, Emmerson, Brodeur and Lemieux, of the federal cabinet; ex-Premier Ross, Premier Gosin, Hon. W. A. Weir, Senators Mackay, Casgrain, McSweeney, E. M. McDonald, M. P. (Plouffe), and many other leading men from the different provinces. The health of the minister of finance was proposed by Major G. W. Stephens, M. L. A. The finance minister, who received an ovation on rising, referring to the action of the Conservatives, said: "When the gods wish to destroy, they first make mad, and as a matter of fact, the gods seem to have had hostile designs on the men who had originated the opposition in Quebec and Shelburne." As for the past, he said, twenty members had been unseated in Nova Scotia, and twelve had been unseated in Ontario, and were, Sir John Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Hugh John Macdonald, Sir Hector Langevin and others were unseated. He declared that the Tory leaders had shouted for purity, yet what right had they to do so, in view of the past? Referring to the tariff question Mr. Fielding said: "There are differences of opinion, but viewing the matter broadly, we have to recognize that there is danger of a line of division being drawn between the east and west. There is, perhaps a constant, perhaps a temporary, not between the east and west, but between the west and the powerful manufacturing interests of the east. No doubt as years roll on, great interests will also grow up in the west, and there will then be a greater variety of opinion on these than at present. But for the present, and for a long time to come, the agricultural interests must be the predominant one of our entire country, and the farmers, as a rule, feel that their interests will be promoted by a much lower tariff than many manufacturers desire. Under such conditions, the tariff of extreme protection, which prevails in some quarters, would undoubtedly lead to disturbance, and perhaps dangerous agitation in the best policy for the manufacturers themselves, industrial friends that whatever policy would best fill up the Northwest, is the best policy for the manufacturers themselves, for settlers in these new lands will naturally be customers for eastern manufacturers. "We have labored also to show the western farmer that he must not expect to have things as he would wish them, but he must be prepared to give and take. I think our efforts in this direction have not been vain, and I think most of the manufacturers of Canada are disposed to recognize that the policy of a moderate tariff, is, on the whole, a better one even from their point of view. "We have determined to change the form and shape of our tariff schedule, and that in making this we may find it necessary here and there to make changes as regards particular items. It is, however, not free to make any statements, as tariff changes in detail can only be made known from the floor of parliament. "It is our intention," he stated, "to adhere to our principle of British preference, as laid down in 1867. He would also have another tariff column which shall contemplate legitimate discrimination between the products of those countries anxious to trade with us and those which put up bars against us. He concluded by the statement that the changes would be announced in the early days of the coming session. The finance minister was again loudly cheered as he resumed his seat.

OPIUM AND ALCOHOL

World Wide Movement to Restrain Traffic in These Drugs

A movement is on foot among the civilized nations of the world to form an international temperance treaty, having for its object the prohibition of the sale of intoxicants and opium to aboriginal races.

The wording of the resolution bearing on the subject, as passed by the United States Senate is as follows: "That in the opinion of this body the time has come when the principle, twice affirmed in international treaties for Central Africa, that native races should be protected against the destructive traffic in intoxicants should be extended to all aboriginal races, and the making of such treaties as will effectually prohibit the sale by the signatory powers to aboriginal tribes and uncivilized races, of opium and intoxicating beverages."

This resolution was under discussion at the Jubilee Convention of the National Temperance League, held recently in London. On the motion of the Rev. Dr. Wilson F. Crafts, of Washington, a resolution was unanimously adopted petitioning that all civilized governments would, by expanding the scope of the Brussels Convention of 1903, suppress the traffic in opium and intoxicants among all civilized races.

When interviewed on the subject while visiting Great Britain, the Rev. Dr. Crafts spoke enthusiastically of the movement. "The spontaneous sympathy of this country in the matter of the Chinese opium trade," he said, "has given us heart of grace. The splendid attitude of the British parliament in the opium debate on May 30, which was responsible for the Chinese Opium Edict of last month, makes me feel that the proposition of President Roosevelt will meet with the sympathy of the British Empire and the British government."

Secretary Root, of the United States, has expressed himself on the matter to Dr. Crafts as follows: "I am with you, that this government has a need, both for the sake of the Chinese and for the sake of the world, to suppress the traffic in opium and intoxicating liquors for savage races; they are a disgrace to our civilization and a danger to our peace."

STEEL AND COAL

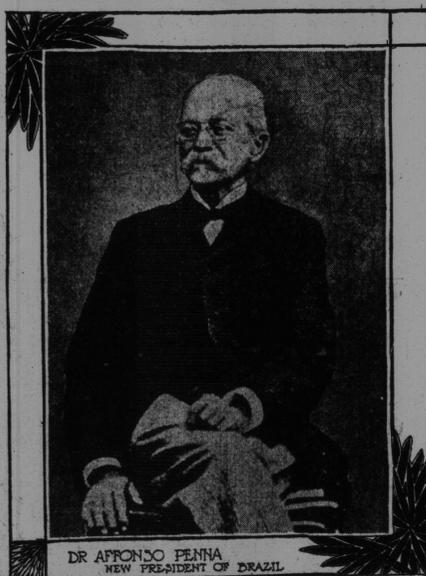

The Dispute Between the Two Cape Breton Companies and the Truce.

The "truce" between the Dominion Coal Company and the Dominion Steel Company is a good thing for general business conditions in Canada, and is a thing for the shareholders of both companies. The Steel Company will get coal at the same price as the Coal Company has a chance that the courts may hold it has been released from a contract described as "not at present a remunerative one."

The speaker said he secured his material for lectures, not by reading books, but by going through homes ruined by the traffic, by going into jails and hospitals, and into asylums. Wherever there were saloons there was misery. Some people did not see it. If people realized it the saloons would soon be banished.

The speaker here told a story of two drunken men, who got into a quarrel in the sky, at that time, was the sun or the moon. They called a third man, also drunk, who was asked to settle the question. After considering some time the man replied: "You'll have to excuse me, I'm a perfect stranger in these parts."

E. TENNYSON SMITH HOLDS AN INTERVIEW WITH "DRINK FIEND"

Temperance Campaign Introduces Strong Dramatic Element into Meeting Last Night--He Speaks to Large Audience in Carleton City Hall.

City Hall, Carleton, is not very often filled but it was last evening when E. Tennyson Smith spoke on The Drink Demon. W. D. Baskin was chairman and on the platform were Ald. C. B. Lockhart, Rev. Thos. Marshall, H. C. Tilley and others. Special music was given by a male quartette.

Mr. Smith, in opening, said he had heard that he was being criticized. He was glad to hear it. The liquor dealers were getting angry. It was not because he said strong things about them. They did not care about that. It was because they knew everything he said was true. He complimented the reports on the accuracy of their reports. He thanked God he was a red-hot teetotaler. He quoted from the Bible: "Because thou art luke-warm, neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth."

The speaker said he secured his material for lectures, not by reading books, but by going through homes ruined by the traffic, by going into jails and hospitals, and into asylums. Wherever there were saloons there was misery. Some people did not see it. If people realized it the saloons would soon be banished.

An Object Wanted

"Three or four of us were hunting together in Northern Michigan one fall," said the Chicago drummer, "and the boys put up a job on the old pioneer at whose house we camped by telling him that I was Christopher Columbus. I did not know what has been said, but could not fail to see that he looked on me as if I were some great curiosity. On several occasions his wife addressed me as Mr. Columbus, but I simply supposed she had forgotten my right name. Time after time I tried to draw the old man out about the country and his experiences, but he answered in monosyllables and always fought shy of being alone with me. "After a couple of weeks I got a letter calling me home, and I started out of the woods alone. The old man had to row me

Revising the Old Sign

"I noticed this morning that my new lamp's daughter's hair was red." "Well, when a white automobile suddenly darted around the corner."

His White Partner

Opposite the depot in a Georgia town was a grocery run by a colored man, and while waiting for my train I sauntered into the place and asked how business was going. "Pure, sah, mighty pure," replied the old man. "De trouble am dat I hain't got no capital 'nuff."

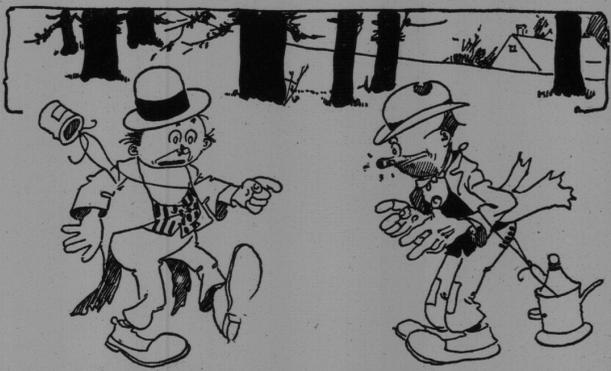

"Why don't you take in a partner?" I asked. "No, sah—no, sah. I've had one partner and I don't want no more. One time Kurnel Dawson comes over to my cabin wid a bland smile on his face and shakes hands wid me and axes arter my health and says: 'Moses, lets yo' an me dun go into partnership in de wood business. Yo's a powerful hand wid de ax and I've a powerful hand to sell cortwood.'"

"It appears like a mighty good chance for me, and so I agrees and goes at it and cuts 30 cords of wood. De Kurnel sells it, and bimeby I goes down fur my sheet of de money. He smiles and shakes hands and says: 'I've dun got it all fugged out, Moses. In de fast place, I provided de timber. In de next place, I provided de ax. Den I sent my men to draw de wood and I spent my time to sell it. Dat 'pears to take in de hull of de case.'"

"But what does de choppin' come in?" I says. "De choppin', Moses. Oh, dat was exercise and don't count."

And it isn't the dress and it isn't the hose (That stings like a red-hot brand). It's coming to know that we don't know much. (Seeing at last we can never know much), And never can understand.

The Quiet Way

"Speaking about revolutions among our South American cousins," said a Philadelphia speculator, "I had a little whirl at one a few years ago in my sleep. I was in San Salvador to secure a concession from the government, and I left the president one night after we had eaten and drank and smoked at 9 o'clock next morning. I went to bed and slept like a top, and at the hour named I showed up at the palace. Instead of meeting the president I walked in on a chap I had never seen before, and he arose and politely explained: 'It is all right, senor. At midnight last night the president was bounced out and I was bounced in.'"

"But I heard no rumpus," I said. "Oh, no, no. We just assassinated him quietly and established the new government. What can I do for the Senor Americano?" "It had been a revolution with only one man killed and hardly a steper aroused," said the speculator, "and when I spoke of it in a complaining way to the landlord of the hotel he replied: 'Oh, well, why make a fuss and wake up the women and children over these affairs? I have been here six year and seen

We just assassinated him quietly. five different presidents, and probably by the time you come again I will be out of the hotel business and holding down the reins myself. Quiet sabe? It was you Americans who taught us rapid transit."

Reminiscent Joy

Hopping on a Man

"Yes, Judge," said the old colored man who was arraigned for disturbing the peace and asked to plead to the charge. "I reckon I've guilty of dat charge, but dar am nuthin' to be broken into consideration. Yes, sah, I had a row wid Elder Heber, of de church, and mebbe I dun trowed him down a little too hard, but I had de best kind of provocation. Does yo' know what de reason dat, sah?"

"I do not," replied His Honor, "but you may relate."

"Wall, sah, I was in my pew in church and bimeby de Lawd fur His goodness and about to pray fur rain and ax dat my lottery ticket hit a thousand dollar prize when de Elder comes along mighty sudden and hops on to me."

"How hops?" asked the court. "Joe dun told me dat he had fugged up and found dat I owed thirty-seven hundred dollars pew rent, and he wanted it all 'right down in de book. Dat's de way he hopsed on to me, sah, and dun took my breath away."

"I see." "I owe dat pew rent, Judge, and I hain't gwine to deny de same, but de suddenness of dat hop just took my breath away, and de first thing I knowed I had de Elder on his back out deah and wasn't cuttin' two cents whoder de Lawd sent plenty of rain or let all de watermillions shiver up on de vine."

BOTH DENY THE ASSAULT

Prisoners Head in the Suspension Bridge Case This Morning

Preliminary hearing in the suspension bridge assault case was resumed in the police court this morning before Judge Ritchie.

The statements of the prisoners, Wm. Sleeth and Thomas Colman, were taken, and both men were allowed out on $10 bail, until Friday morning next, when the matter will again be taken up.

Thomas Colman said he had with that made by him the day of the arrest. Thomas Colman swore that he resided at Lancaster Heights. He was employed as a teamster on the Street Railway.

Wm. Sleeth with him. Witness started to talk about dogs as they got off the car. Last night the ladies. They passed the ladies, leaving the sidewalk to do so, and Sleeth said "You're a nice lady." The shorter lady, Mrs. Parker, came up and his elbow on the side of the head with her fist. Sleeth picked up his hat and they started on towards their destination.

Witness thought Sleeth made a pass at one of the ladies as he was getting up after recovering his hat. He denied using profane language nor did he see either of the girls struck.

Wm. Sleeth was next called and told his story, which was practically the same as that of Colman's. He denied absolutely ever having struck Miss Crawford or chased her on the bridge. Asked regarding his previous statement that he and Colman went over by the ferry, he admitted leaving that statement, giving as a reason for it that they didn't want to tell everything.

On application of Mr. Mullin, counsel for the prisoners, the case was set aside till Friday morning at 10 o'clock in order to receive the evidence of Robinson Gosline.

Joseph Sleeth, brother of the prisoner, Sleeth, was also in court and offered $100 bail for the reappearance of both prisoners on Friday morning next and they were given their liberty.

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Chief Clarke Refers to Magistrate Ritchie's Remarks as "School Boy Talk"

Judge Ritchie's rather sensational remarks from the police magistrate's bench in court yesterday, which an evening paper in big headlines interpreted as being directed at the chief of police, caused considerable comment about the city last night. The prevailing impression was that Chief Clarke had "designedly" designed under the title of "the man down stairs" and the trend of the comment was not complimentary to either official.

"It is a pity," said one citizen, "that this bickering between the magistrate and the chief of police should cease. No good can come of it, and it is jeopardizing the efficiency of a most important department of civic administration."

Chief Clarke was seen and asked if he had any reply to make to Judge Ritchie's criticisms. He said, "I am too busy a man to pay any attention to such school boy talk. I can't get down to that level." As to whether he was "the man down stairs" the chief said he had only newspaper headlines to go by.
