POETRY.

THE VOICE OF NATURE.

'Twas in a lone sequestered dell,
And on a summer's eve;
The sun's last glances ling'ring fell,
As loath the spot to leave:

For never sun more blithely rose To light a scene more fair—Day neyer had so sweet a close, Or night a charm so rare.

And I have climbed the rocky steep That cuts the vale in twain, And gaze down the lonely sweep That seeks the vale again:

I gaze on many a stately dome Of high imperious name, On many a low and humble home Ungratified by fame:

But all are wrapt in deep repose,
And not a sound is there To tell how swift the River flows Between the banks of Care.

Unmarked, the stream of life glides on To that Eternal Sea,
Where earthly sun hath never shone, Nor aught of earth can be.

And this, to me, is as a spell That binds me to the night—
That bathes each wild untrodden dell In waves of mystic light.

There are who say this wondrous world Is but the work of chance;
That earth, like some huge scroll, unfurled,
And wrought its own advance:

That senseless atoms blindly grew Into a world of light;
That creatures no Creator knew—
That death's eternal night!

JAMES I. AND HIS DOG "JOWLER."

James I. of England was passionately attached to his hunting dogs, more especially to one Jowler, which rarely stirred from his side. It happened, however, when that monarch and his queen, Anne of Denmark, and her brother Duke Ulrich, had been residing for several days at Royston, in Essex, to enjoy the pleasures of the chase, that Jowler one day absented himself without leave.— The king was both uneasy at the disappearance of his four-footed favourite, and displeased with the carelessness of those who had charge of him. Search was made, but in vain; no tidings of Jowler could be obtained, and his majesty went to hunt without him, in an ill humour. The next time the royal party went to the chase, Jowler came in with the rest of the hounds. The king was transported with joy when he was informed of his return; and to satisfy himself that it was indeed his own beloved Jowler, and none other, he commanded that he should be brought to him. Jowler made his appearance with a paper fastened to his collar, on which was written:—"Good Mr. Jowler.—We pray you speak to the king, for he hears you every day (and so he doth not us), that it may please his majesty to go back to London, or else the country will be all undone, as all our provisions is spent, and we are not able to entertain him longer."—This letter to Jow-ler was intended by the poor gentry in that district as a humble intimation to his majesty that they and their tenants were suffering great inconvenience by having to supply his table with provisions, and his horses and his dogs with food, for which his purveyors did not reimburse them properly, besides the damage which the hunting caused to their fields and fences. James, instead of being angry at the remonstrance, laughed heartily at the very original manner in which it had been conveyed to him, which he considered as a capital joke. Ten years after this adventure poor Jowler had the misfortune to fall a victim to the queen's want of skill in archery, for her majesty, taking into her head when not well enough to follow the chase on horseback, that she would shoot at the deer from a stand with a crossbow, handled the weapon so awkwardly that, instead of hitting the deer at the breast of her royal lord's canine favorite. The king, who was at too great a distance to be aware from whence the fatal shaft had sped, seeing his beloved Jowler lying dead on the green turf, put himself into a tremendous passion and vowed vengeance against the author of his death. One of the queen's attendants then ventured to inform him that it was her majesty who had the ill luck to kill Jowler, and was very much distressed at the reflection that the only beast she had ever had the happiness to shoot was one so much valued by her illustrious spouse. The king was instantly pacified, and sent word to his loving queen that he begged her not to be concerned at the accident which had occurred, for he should never love her the less for it. James was so fond of a joke that as soon as his fret was over he began to laugh, and bethought himself of a little device to make his courtiers laugh too. The next day the queen received a mysterious packet containing a jewel worth two thousand pounds, with a written paper certifying "that it was a legacy bequeathed to her majesty by the faithful Jowler, the only dog in the world which had the honour of being slain by a queen."

NEW-BRUNSWICK. PROVINCIAL PARLIAMENT, HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

April 1st, 1851.
This morning, Mr. Gray moved that the School Bill now upon the files of the House (introduced by the Hon. Attorney General) be referred to a Select Committee. Mr. Hathaway seconded the motion. The motion was supported by the hon. Secretary and Att. General, and others, and strenuously opposed by Messrs. Ritchie, Hanington and Johnson. The motion was sustained by the following division: Ayes—Hon. Messrs.
Street, Rankin and Partelow, and Messrs.
Barberie, Gordon, Crane, Williston, Botsford, Stiles, English, Beardsley, Thompson, Mc-Phelin, Fitzgerald, Robinson, Gilbert, Hayward, Gray, Wilmot, Hatheway and Montgomery. Nays—Messrs. Ritchie, Hanington, Johnson, Chapman, Cutler, Earle, Porter, McLeod and Steves.

The following were appointed the Committee, viz: Hon. Atty. General, and Messrs.
Crane, Wilmot, Cutler, Read, Rice, Steves, Beardsley, and Hatheway.

THE HALIFAX & QUEBEC RAILWAY

Synopsis of a Copy of a Despatch laid before the House to-day dated March 14th, 1851, and addressed from Earl Gray to the Governor General.

1st. His Lordship acquaints Lord Elgin that the time is at length come when this great national enterprise may be undertaken with advantage if there still exists (as I am assured there does) as strong a desire to promote it on the part of the inhabitants of Canada and New Brunswick as they formerly expressed and, as the people of Nova Scotia have again recently expressed.

2nd. Her Majesty's Government regards the work of so much importance to Colonies and the Mother Country that (although caution is necessary) they are prepared to recommend the pledging of the faith of Great Britain as a guarantee, the same as was done in aid of the Canada Canals.

3rd. Refers to the probable increase of population and resources this Railway will cause in the Colonies; and lays down as a rule that the Colonies ought to assume at least a portion of the costs for their own defence, and that this undertaking will enable them to do so the sooner.

4th. Lays down that aid by the Home Government must be contingent on the Road being constructed through from Halifax to Quebec or Montreal. It also suggests that the Provinces should join together in the work, and points out its great advantages, indirectly, although it may not pay as a mercantile line.

5th. Argues that if each Province constructed its own line through its territory, New-Brunswick would have to pay the largest portion of the expense, while her receipts would be smallest; but at the same time she would reap the largest profits in the increased value of her wild lands. His Lordship then suggests that a Deputation from each of the two Lower Provinces should proceed to Montreal to confer with Lord Elgin and his Government as to the best plan to pursue, and then submit the measure to the several Legislatures.

6th. Merely states that copies are furnished Sir Edmund Head and Sir John Harvey, with orders to communicate with Lord Elgin on the subject, and expresses His Lordship's hope that satisfactory arrangements will soon be made, and this great work commenced.

Synopsis of a copy of a letter from Mr.
Howe to the Hon. Joseph Howe, dated March 10th, 1851.

The writer states that Mr. Howe (also a letter from Sir John Harvey) solicits a guarantee on £200,000—the sum estimated for constructing the Nova Scotia part of the line—from the British Government, in order that the money may be procured at a cheaper rate of interest. The Government proposes either to guarantee the amount, or to advance it from the Imperial Treasury, upon the following terms:—

1st. No money to be advanced, or raised, until arrangements are fully made with New-Brunswick and Canada to carry the line through to Quebec or Montreal, passing through British Territory.

2nd. The Home Government will give the same guarantee to Canada and New-Brunswick as to Nova Scotia, and it is to be left an open question whether or not the Province put to the greatest cost shall be aided by the other Provinces.

3rd. The manner in which the profits are to be divided between the Provinces is also to be left an open question.

4th. Although the line must pass through British Territory, it is not required that it shall be the precise line recommended by Major Robinson and Captain Henderson; but any deviation from that line must be subject to the decision of Her Majesty's Government.

5th. If it is thought proper to connect it with any line branching off to the United States, it will not be objected to.

6th. (In full) "It will further be required that the several Provincial Legislatures should pass laws making the loans which they are to raise a first charge upon the Provincial Revenue, after any existing debts and payments on account of the Civil Lists settled on Her Majesty by laws now in force, and also that permanent taxes shall be imposed (or taxes to be in force till the debt is extinguished) sufficient to provide for the payment of the interest and sinking fund of the loans proposed to be raised, after discharging the above prior claims. It will further be necessary that the expenditure of the money raised under the guarantee of the Imperial Parliament shall take place under the superintendence of Commissioners appointed by Her Majesty's Government, and armed with sufficient power to secure the due application of the funds so raised to their intended object. The Commissioners so appointed are not, however, to interfere with the arrangements of the Provincial Governments, except for the above purpose."

Some other things (in answer to Mr.
Howe) are treated of, but of minor importance.

The House next went into Committee of Supply; a grant of money to Wm. Heron for work alleged to have been done on the Frie-dericton and Miramichi Road came up, and after much acrimonious discussion it was negated 16 to 13.

Grants for the erection of wharves at Dorchester and Bathurst were withdrawn by the respective movers, Messrs. Crane and Read.

The next grant that came up was for the Sackville Academy. Mr. Hatheway said it was high time to withhold the grants to establishments of this nature, where the children of the wealthy were educated, in order that provision may be made for the education of the poor. The Committee divided, when there appeared for the Resolution 21, against it 10. An attempt was then made to reduce the amount of the grant to £150, which also failed, and the usual grant of £300 was sustained.

April 2.
The House passed Mr. Ritchie's Bill to abolish the Judge's fees, by a vote of 32 to 4. The minority were Messrs. Street, Rankin, Montgomery, and Robinson. The House also rejected by a vote of 27 to 7, Mr. Tilley's resolution for an address to the Lieut. Governor, praying that articles manufactured at the Provincial Penitentiary might not be sold in the Province.

The House afterwards went into Committee on the Bill for incorporating Orange Lodges in this Province, Mr. Tilley in the chair. The question was taken without debate, as had been previously agreed upon, when the numbers stood:—In favour of the Bill—the Speaker, Messrs. Earle, Pickard, Gray, English, Robinson, Purdy, Ryan, Pickard, Hatheway, Taylor, Hayward and Wilmot—12.

The other members present, 22 in number, voted against it, and so the Bill was lost.

Legislative Council, April 9.
The Legislative Council took up the Bill in favour of Elective Legislative Councils to-day, and after a lengthy and warm discussion, rejected it by a vote of 10 to 7. Against the Bill—Hon. Messrs.
Shore, the President, Saunders, Robertson, Hatch Owen, Harrison, Minchen, Davidson and Odell—10. In favour of it—Hon. Messrs. Chandler, Kinnear, Hazen, Botsford, Hill, Brown and Connell, 7—the Bill was lost.

PAYING AN OLD DEBT.

A merchant, very extensively engaged in commerce, and located upon the Long Wharf, died February 18, 1850, at the age of 75, intestate. His eldest son administered upon the estate. The old gentleman used pleasantly to say, that, for many years, he had fed a large number of the Catholics on the shores of the Mediterranean, during Lent; referring to his very extensive connection with the fishing business. In his day he was certainly well known, and to the present time is well remembered by some of the "old ones down along shore," from the "Gurnet's Nose to Race Point. Among his papers, a package of very considerable size was found after his death, carefully tied up and labeled as follows:—"Notes, due bills and accounts, against sundry persons, down along shore. Some of these may be got by suit or severe dunning.
But the people are poor;—most of them have had fishermen's luck. My children may do as they think best. Perhaps they will think with me, that it is best to burn this package entire."

"About a month, says my informant, after our father died, the sons met together, and after some general remark, our elder brother, the administrator, produced this package, of whose existence we were already apprised, read the superscription, and asked what course should be taken in regard to it. Another brother, a few years younger than the eldest, a man of strong impulsive temperament, unable at the moment to express his feeling by words, while he brushed the tears from his eyes with one hand, by a spasmodic jerk of the other towards the first place, indicated his wish to have the package put into the flames. It was suggested by another of our number, that it might be well, first, to make a list of the debtor's names, and of the dates, and amounts, that we might be enabled, as the intended discharge was for all, to inform such as might offer payment, that their debts were forgiven. On the following day we again assembled—the list had been prepared—and all the notes, due bills, and accounts, whose amount including interest, exceeding thirty-two thousand dollars, were committed to the flames.

It was about four months after our father's death, continued my informant, in the month of June, that, as I was sitting in my eldest brother's counting room, waiting for an opportunity to speak with him, there came in a hard-favoured, little old man, who looked as if time and rough weather had been to the windward of him for seventy years. He asked if my brother was not an executor. He replied that he was administrator, as our father had died intestate. "Well," said the stranger, "I've come up from the Cape to pay a debt I owed the old gentleman." My brother, continued my informant, requested him to take a seat, being at that moment engaged with other persons at the desk.

The old man sat down, and putting on his glasses, drew out a very ancient leather pocketbook, and began to count over his money.
When he had done—and there was quite a parcel of bank notes—as he sat waiting his turn, slowly twisting his thumbs, with his old grey, meditative eyes upon the floor, he sighed; and I knew the money, as the phrase runs, came hard—and secretly wished the old man's name might be found upon the forgotten list. My brother was soon at leisure, and asked him the common questions—his name, etc. The original debt was four hundred and fifty dollars—it had stood a long time, and with the interest, amounted seven and eight hundred. My brother went to his desk, and after examining the forgotten list attentively, a sudden smile lighted up his countenance, and told me the truth at a glance—the old man's name was there! My brother quietly took a chair by his side, and a conversation ensued between them, which I shall never forget.

"Your note is outlawed," said my brother;
"it was dated twelve years ago, payable in two years—there is no witness, and no interest has ever been paid; you are not bound to pay this note; we can never recover the amount."

"Sir," said the old gentleman, "I wish to pay it—it is the only heavy debt I owe in the world. It may be outlawed here, but I have no child, and my own woman and I hope to do so with man. I should like to pay it," and he laid his bank notes before my brother, requesting him to count them over.

"I cannot take this money," said my brother.

The old man became alarmed. "I have cast simple interest for twelve years and a little over," said the old man. "I will pay you compound if you say so. The debt ought to have been paid long ago, but your father was very indulgent—he knew I'd been unlucky, and told me not to worry about it."

My brother then set the whole matter plainly before him; and taking the bank bills, returned them to the old man's pocket-book, telling him, that although our father left no formal will, he had recommended to his children to burn certain notes, due bills, and other evidences of debt, and release those who might be legally bound to pay them. For a moment the worthy old man appeared to be stupidified. After he had collected himself, and wiped a few tears from his eyes, he stated that, from the time he had heard of our father's death, he had raked and scraped, and pinched and spared, to get the money together, for the payment of this debt. "About ten days ago," said he, "I made up the sum with CURES FOR THE UNCURED.

Holloway's Ointment.
AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE
OF SCORFUM OR KING'S EVIL.
Extract of a Letter from Mr. J. H. Alliday, 209, High Street, Cheltenham dated the 22nd of January, 1850.
To Professor Holloway.
SIR—My eldest son, when about three years of age, was afflicted with a Glandular swelling in the neck, which after a short time broke out into an Ulcer. An eminent medical man pronounced it as a very bad case of Scorfula, and proceeded for a considerable time without effect. The disease then for four years went on gradually increasing in virulence, when besides the ulcer in the neck, and the formed below the left knee, and a third under the eye, besides seven others on the left arm, with a tumor between the eyes, which was expected to break. During the whole of the time my suffering boy had received the constant advice of the most celebrated medical Gentlemen at Cheltenham, besides being for several months at the General Hospital, where one of the surgeons said that he would amputate the left arm, but that the blood was so impure, that if that limb were taken off it would be then even impossible to subdue the disease. In this desperate state I determined to give your Pills and Ointment a trial, and after two months perseverance in their use, the tumors gradually began to disappear, and the discharge from all the ulcers perceptibly decreased, and at the expiration of eight months they were perfectly healed and the boy thoroughly restored to the blessings of health, to the astonishment of a large circle of acquaintances, who could testify to the truth of this miraculous case. Three years have now elapsed without any recurrence of the malady, and this boy is now as healthy as heart can wish. Under these circumstances I consider that I should be truly grateful to you in order to make you acquainted with this wonderful cure, effected by your medicines after every other means had failed.
(Signed) J. H. ALLIDAY.

HEALTH where 'tis SOUGHT!

Holloway's Pills.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND STOMACH—BLEN IN A MOST HOPELESS STATE.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Matthew Harvey, of Chapel Hill, Andrus, Scotland, dated the 15th of January, 1850.

Six—Your valuable Pills have been the means with God's blessing of restoring me to a state of perfect health, and at a time when I thought I was on the brink of the grave! I had consulted several eminent doctors, who after doing what they could for me, stated that they considered my condition as hopeless. I ought to say that I had been suffering from a Liver and stomach complaint of long standing which during the last few years got so much worse that every one considered my condition as hopeless. I was a last resource got a Box of your Pills, which soon gave relief and by persevering in their use for some weeks, together with taking night and morning doses of your Pills, my liver and stomach, and right side, I have by their means alone got completely cured, and to the astonishment of myself and every body who knows me.

(Signed) MATTHEW HARVEY, CURE OF A CASE OF WEAKNESS AND DEBILITY, OF FOUR YEARS' STANDING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Smith, of No 5, Little Thames Street, Giltspur Street, London, dated Dec. 12th, 1849.

To Professor Holloway.

Sir—I beg to inform you that for nearly five years I hardly knew what it was to have a day's health, suffering from extreme weakness and debility with constant nervous headaches, palpitations, and sickness at the stomach together with a great depression of spirits, I used to think that nothing could be done for me as I had been to many medical men, and had been to so complicated that nothing could be done for me. One day being unusually ill and in a dejected state, I saw your Pills advertised, and resolved to give them a trial, more perhaps from curiosity than with a hope of being cured, however I soon found myself better by taking them, and so I went on persevering in their use for six months, when I am happy to say they effected a perfect cure.

(Signed) WILLIAM SMITH, CURE OF ASTHMA, OF TWENTY YEARS' STANDING.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. J. K. Heydon, 78 King Street, Sydney, dated 10th of November 1849.

To Professor Holloway.

Sir—I have the pleasure to inform you that many extraordinary cures of Asthma have been effected here by means of your Pills. One is that of a Lady residing near the "Ragbush," who after having for twenty years been unable to make the slightest exertion suffering very carefully from asthma of breath, coughing, and spitting, but is now, to use her own expression, "able to run up to the top of the mountain." Another case is that of Mr. Cotton, Tailor, Hutchinson's Buildings, Clarence Street, who was so dreadfully bad that he was confined entirely to his bed-room for six months, prior to his commencing with your Pills, and who regularly by his medical man, who pronounced him to be in a dying state, yet he, likewise, to my knowledge, has been restored to perfect health by the use of your Pills, and retains your Omnipotent night and morning into his chest.

(Signed) J. A. HEYDON, ANTONISHING CURE OF THE EARL OF ALDBOROUGH.

By this Miraculous Medicine! after every other means had failed!!!

A Copy of a Letter from the Earl of Aldborough dated Villa Mexima, Leghorn, 21st Feb. 1845.

To Professor Holloway.

Sir—Various circumstances prevented the possibility of my thanking you before this time for your politeness in sending me your Pills as you did. I am now taking the opportunity of sending you one order for the same and at the same time, to add that your Pills have effected a cure of a disorder in my Liver and Stomach, which all the most eminent of the Faculty at home, and all over the Continent had not been able to effect: say I not even the waters of Carlsbad and Marienbad. I wish to have another Box and a Pot of Ointment in case any of my family should ever require either.

I remain, with much respect, Your most obliged and obedient servant.

(Signed) ALDBOROUGH.
