> General Advance on Pekin Expected in About Two Weeks-Indications That the Capital and the Interior Are in Close Telegraphic Touch—The Consuls Said To Be En Route for Tien Tsin-Letter From Sir Claude MacDonald Dated July 6.

ports from Shanghai reiterate the allegation that the surviving members of the diplomatic corps have already left Pekin on their way to Tien Tsin, and that the foreigners are being escorted by troops of Jung Du, commander-inchief of the Chinese forces. This move is stated to be the outcome of very stormy interviews between Li Hung Chang and the foreign consuls, and to have been taken in the hope of abating the wrath of the powers and delaying the advance of the allies toward Pekin.

Advices received from the same sources state that half the foreigners in Pekin have been killed or wounded, or have died as the result of priva-

Simultaneously comes a cable dispatch to the Daily Mail from Shanghai, announcing that a letter has been re-celved from Sir Claude Macdonald, the British minister to China, under date of Pekin, July 6, saying the le-gations were under constant fire and that three were still standing, but that the foreigners were receiving no assistance from the authorities. Owing to the cowardice of the Chinese, Sir Claude wrote, it was hoped the legationers would be able to hold out for a fortnight, but if they were pressed, their resistance could not last more

SIR C. MACDONALD'S LETTER. The text of the Shanghai dispatch to the Daily Mail follows: "Shanghai, July 27.—A letter just received here from Sir Claude Macdonald, dated Pekin, July 6, follows: 'We are receiving no assistance from the authorities. Three legations are still standing, including the British. We also hold part of the city walls. The Chinese are shelling us from the city with a threeinch gun and some smaller ones, and are sniping us. We may be annihilated any day. Our ammunition and food are short. We would have perished by this time, only the Chinese are cowards, and have no organized plan of attack. If we are not pressed we may hold out a fortnight longer; otherwise, four days at the utmost, anticipate only slight resistance to the relief force." Sir Claude concludes by advising the relief force to approach by the eastern gate or by way of the river. The losses of the foreigners in Pekin up to July 6 were 40 killed and 80 wounded.

IN TWO WEEKS. London, July 27-4:30 a.m.-With the report that the allies will begin the advance upon Pekin in a fortnight, and in view of Admiral Seymour's visit of inspection to the Yang Tse Kiang, the feeling is that no great time will elapse before matters assume a more definite shape.

AN AWFUL MASSACRE. There is an unconfirmed Chinese report that 60 Protestant and Catholic missionaries have been massacred in Ki Yuan Fu and the vicinity.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail, describing the massacre at Mukden, says: "The bishop had armed 200 converts to defend the cathedrals, and a body of Chinese troops had been sent to defend the convents, but the soldiers were leagued with the Boxers. While the Christians were holding a service, believing themselvs safe under the Chinese section of the troops, the signal was given and the soldiers and Boxers surrounded and set fire to the church, putting the escaping worship-ers to the sword. The bishop was Toronto, Ont., July 26 .- The China Inland Mission agent at Shanghai cabled the following message to the North American headquarters here this morning: "Shanghai, July 26.—C. H. S. Green wired 14th inst. from Tai Yuen Lu, the capital of Shen Si: Rioted. No details. Shuen Teh Lu Whai Lu riot-

ed. All destroyed. Friends safe; escaped to country, but there is danger. Chinese officials refuse to do anything. Foreign officials powerless to act." Rev. Mr. Earing, of the China Inland Mission, who has just returned from the disturbed districts, says the cable is of the utmost importance, as show-Pekin. The outbreaks reported in the roys admit that they cannot cable took place in the southern part

London, July 27.—This morning re- of the province of Chi Li, in which Pekin is situated. The cable was sent from Tai Yuen Fu, which is in the province of Shen Si, only three days' journey from Pekin, and, although the message was hung up on the wires, it did get through to Shanghai. The circumstances fully confirm the suggestion that the interior of China is under control of the authorities at Pekin. The China Inland Mission has ten workers in the district indicated by the cable, but none of them are Canadians.

AN EXPLANATION.

The Daily Mail explains that the Chinese employe of the British legation, who, according to its advices yesterday, escaped from Pekin to Niu Chwang, and reported there that when he left Pekin most of the members of the legation were dead, and the fate of others were hopeless, did not actually leave Pekin until July 8, and this He says, in part: "The German legagoes to show, if his statement is to be tion, on June 13, arrested an antirelied upon, that a general massacre had not occurred on July 6, as had been reported.

The Legations. HAVE LEFT PEKIN. respondent of the Daily Express, telegraphing yesterday, says: "Li Hung Chang now states that some of the members of the legations have already left Pekin, and may be expected shortly. He is becoming angry at the skepticism of the consuls. "The impression is gaining ground here that the ministers of the powers to whom China has appealed for mediation may still be alive. The representatives of France, Japan, Russia and the United States have visited Li Hung Chang, but the others still keep aloof. The Americans here are indignant over the fact that United States Consul Goodnow has entered into relations with Earl Li, but Mr. Goodnow defends his action on the ground that he is 150 of those on board were drowned.

"Trade in Shanghai is so paralyzed that the customs revenue will suffice to secure the payment of the next installment of the foreign loan."

BRITAIN'S ANSWER. London, July 27-4 a.m.-Last Saturday the Chinese minister, Sir Chih Chen Lo Feng Luh, handed the foreign office a long tellegram purporting to come from Emperor Kwam Su, so- Horse. Details of the terrible disliciting Great Britain's good offices to bring about peace in terms similar to the appeals addressed to President McKinley and President Loubet. Thus far the government has not replied, as it is felt that, in the present anomalous circumstances, the precise origin of the telegram is doubtful.

In the house of lords the bill prohibiting the exportation of arms and ammunitions of war passed its third In connection with the scare created by the immense quantities of steam coal leaving Great Britain for France, admittedly for the use of the French navy, Mr. A. J. Balfour, first lord of the treasury, significantly pointed out in the house that the bill before parliament to prohibit the exportation of war munitions applied to coal as well as to other military stores.

A GENERAL RISING. London, July 26.-The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express, tele-graphing yesterday, says: A general rising throughout China is now recaptured and taken to the viceroy's yamen, where he was diabolically tortured and decapitated. His head now garded as so absolutely certain that all the missionaries throughout the empire have been ordered to take refuge without delay, either at Shanghai or Hong Kong. Refugees are beginning to arrive from all points in the most pitiable condition.

SEYMOUR AIT SHANGHAI. Shanghai, July 26.—Admiral Sey-mour has arrived here, and has been in consultation with the British con-sul regarding the situation.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS. Active preparations in the Yang Tse region for war are now in progress, not for war against the rebels, but against foreign powers. Junk loads of Chinese soldiers and Boxers, disguised as coolies, are arriving here daily. The ing that the interior telegraph lines of arsenal is full of arms, and supplies China are still intact, and that the are constantly coming in. The Kankin viceroys, including Earl Li, at Shang- and Wu Chang garrisons are being hai, must be in telegraphic touch with constantly reinforced, and the vicelonger withstand the pressure brought to bear by Sheng and Li Hung Chang upon them to join the forces with Prince Tuan. It is hoped that the arrival of Admiral Seymour here may stiffen the backs of the southern vice roys and restore the security of the current in Canton that the Triads are preparing for a night attack on the Shameen, and that the first sign will be the absconding of native servants. The greatest apprehension prevails, although at present Canton is quiet. A Chinaman, who was arrested on the charge of carrying arms, was committed for trial on the charge of being a member of the Triads. The evidence showed that he has held the rank of second in command in the organization in the two Kwangs, with headquarters in Sai Kung. His therefore, is of the greatest import-ance. The insignia found upon his person include the highest degrees. The Russian agent at Hankow telegraphs under date of July 22: "Foreigners are in a constant panic owing to the hostility of the natives, who are affected by the events in the northern provinces. The American and British consuls have recommended their representative people to send their families to Shanghai.

HOW IT BEGAN. London, July 27.—Telegrams have arrived at St. Petersburg by a circiutous route, dated Pekin, June 15 and June 18, describing the origin of the trouble. They come from the director of the Russo-Chinese Bank in Pekin. Christian uprising, and at 6 p.m. the anti-Christians set fire to the American church, and burned it to the ground. The Europeans then barricaded the legations, and the rloters sacked and burned the houses in the European quarter." It further appears by these advices that by June From Kobe comes a report that eight 18 the legations were besieged, and the Chinese Government had attempted to invoke the aid of M. De Giers (the Tsin on account of the Manchurfa Russian minister) and Mr. Conger to prevent the advance of Russian troops

Canadian Soldiers Entertained in Old London

By Mr. Claud Cayley, a Former Toron tonian-Boers' Slim Hope.

London, July 27.—Mr. Claude Cay-ley, a former Torontonian, last night entertained the members of the Cana-dian contingents now in London at a dinner given in the Holborn Restaur ant. About 35 were present. The guests represented Strathcona's Horse, first battalion Canadian Mounted Rifles and the Canadian Infantry. Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Vancouver, London, St. John, Halifax, Peterboro, Barrie, Brockville and Calgary were represented by the soldiers.

During the evening the authorized announcement was made that the Earl of Kinnoull invites invalided Canadians to stay at his castle in Perthshire, funds for their transportation being supplied from the proceeds of the re-cent cafe chantant.

NOT MUCH TO BUILD ON. Balmoral, South African Republic, Wednesday, July 25.—The Boers state that their plan of campaign is to keep up guerilla warfare until November, when the Democrats in the United States, if successful in the elections have promised intervention in South Africa.

LIEUT. STEVENSON INVALIDED. London, July 27.-Veterinary-Lieutenant Stevenson was invalided home on the 20th inst.

THE HEROINE OF MAFEKING. London, July 27 .- Among the arrivals from South Africa today were the Duke of Marlborough and Lady Sarah Wilson. They were met at the docks at Southampton by Consuela, Duchess of Marlborough, and Lady Georgiana Curzon. A large crowd awaited the party at Waterloo station and heartily cheered the heroine of Mafeking.

Poison Plants and How to Know Them.

Evey summer, from the various resorts, and from farms where guests are entertained, come reports of children being poisoned, through the skin, by handling noxious plants, or by eatging and many unkind things were ing roots and berries. These are usually city boys. Girls naturally leave weeds alone, and are rarely poisoned, unless As a matter of fact, any mody of it be by some especially attractive vine or flower. The country boy knows that troops under identical conditions would have had an equal casualty list; but the Germans do not realize these conditions, because in their maneuvers they, and indeed all the crack continental armies, without doubt, "do these things better." But the Germans can march and so can the Frenchmen and Russians, and, moreover, the two former in "marching order" carry a bigger load on their backs than the British soldier. March—for the country boy knows that practically every plant that grows wild is unfit for food, and he is careful about handling those with which he is unfamiliar. The city boy has the courage of his ignorance, and in the pride of his heart he loves to prove his favorite heroes, and to make ladders out of vines with which to let himself down from dizzy heights.

The vine that he is apt to make use against the Chinese should cease upon condition that the foreign ministers were sent under escort to Tien Tsin, appears to be part of

The German recruit, after he has had his parade-drill ground thoroughly into him, is taken out to stretch his legs.

All First, he marches in uniform only, other vines, that in any way resemble then he is given a rifle to carry, next the poison ivy, have five leaflets. Poishould be bathed in carbolized soap and witch hazel and ban-daged, so that by no chance could they touch the face. Should this poison reach the eyes the sight might be de-

The only other plant of our nor-thern woods that is poisonous to the touch, is the poison elder or sumac. It is a small tree growing from six to twelve feet in hight. (The leaves are compound, with eleven to thirteen nar-row leaflets, arranged in pairs, on either side the mid-rib, which gives it an attractive palm-like appearance much like the true sumac. The worst cases of poisoning from this plant have come from cutting canes, for the long, smooth rods, of the thickness of the thumb, look to be just the thing for fishing poles. In a case of poisoning from the sumac the treatment should be the same as for poison ivy.

All other poisonous plants must be eaten to do mischief. One of the most common is a species of flag that is mis-taken for the calamus. It has the same soft white pith at the end of a blade-like leaf. Nearly all poisonous plants look like wholesome ones. The wild parsnip is a deadly poison, yet it cannot be distinguished from the par-snip of the garden, in taste or smell, or appearance. Wild parsley is also a dangerous cousin of the cultivated plant. The leaves are not curly-edged like the garden parsley. Hemlock, however, is easily recognized. It has a large, coarse, compound leaf, deeply notched and with curly edges. The odor is strong and disagreeable, so that the smell of it makes many people dizzy. The seeds attract children who mistake them for the seeds of the caraway. The plant grows in damp, waste places and around old stables, and the poison is the same as that of tobacco and toadstools. The water hemlock, commonly called the spotted cow-bane or beaver poison, belongs to the same family. It grows from two to six feet high in swamps, and the leaves are striped with a dusky, brownish purple. The antidote for hemlock poisoning is to provoke vomiting with warm water and mustard or ipecac. Stimulate with brandy and coffee and call the doctor

Monk's hood, which belongs to the aconite family, tastes like the horseradish. It bears a handsome cluster of purple flowers in shape like a monk's hood, and is perfectly harmless to pluck, but the smallest particle of it, if eaten, is a deadly polson. The treat-ment is the same as for hemlock pol-

Indian tobacco is the most familian of the lobelia family, every member of which is poisonous. It is an herb with milky, bitter, puckery juices. The stems are hairy, and the broad leaves much like the mullein to the touch, and like the mullein the leaves diminish in size toward the top. The dust from the lo-belia will often irritate the throat. If eaten, the Indian tobacco first causes vomiting and then paralysis. Vomiting should be hastened and the collapse prevented by stimulants.

The jimson (Jamestown) weed is probably well known to most boys, with its broad, coanse, dark leaves, and its white and pale lilac bell-like flowers. Little girls usually admire them, and think them a kind of morning glory. The poison is narcotic, like opium. The antidote is to induce vomiting, use stimulants and keep the victim from going to sleep. Another very common plant is the American white hellebore, which is not a hellebore at all, but be-longs to the hily family. It looks like the lifty of the valley or Solomons' seal, with its broad parallel-veined leaves, and its spike of green flowers. The root is bitter and produces violent vom-

The Jerusalem artichoke is a species of field sunflower, with a yellow rayed flower and fuzzy stem and leaves. The root looks like a potato or arti-choke, and tastes much like the latter.

THOMPSON WAS HIT HARD.

Hamilton, July 26.-Buege pitched a faultless game for Hamilton today. London getting but eight scattered hits off him, while he did not give a charity or have a wild pitch, and fielded his own position well. Hamilton, therefore, won in spite of some bad fielding, and Thompson was hit hard by the locals.

LONDON OUTPLAYING THE HAMS. Hamilton Times: There is no getting over the fact that London is outplaying Hamilton every day in the present series of ball games. It is hard to have to admit it, but it can't be helped. The team that won twelve ston, of Westchester. straight games only a month ago can't win anything now, apparently. The men played splendid ball, with the exin each ception of about one man game. Yesterday (Wednesday) it was Freedman again. When he was pitching steadily the Londoners couldn't hit him, therefore he didn't pitch steadily in critical places, but his worst exhibition was in the fourth inning, when he gave Lohman and Radcliffe bases on balls and forced in the first run. It was no wonder that the team got a yellow streak after such In spite of the fact that London won and shut out Hamilton, however, it was a nice game of ball, and was enjoyed by the 300 people present. EASTERN LEAGUE. At Syracuse-First game- R. H. E. Syracuse .0 0 0 1 0 1 0 0 0 0 1-3 7 1

LAWN BOWLING.

In the Western Ontario Bowling Association's tournament yesterday, another day of excellent bowling was enjoyed. The various rounds played were closely contested, and many exciting finishes were witnessed. The ground was fast and keen, having recovered from the heaviness incident to Tuesday's rain. All the bowlers present have expressed their satisfaction at the perfect condition of the grounds. This desirable result is owing largely to the labor and care expended upon them by the club caretaker, Richard Sparrowhawk, who has devoted his best energies to their improvement and preservation. The fact that the London grounds have been chosen as the scene of next year's tournament is a tribute to their excellence. The record

The Molineux plate, of 10 sovereigns each unless declared with sovereigns each, unless declared, with 300 sovereigns added, the second to sovereigns added, the second to receive 30 sovereigns and the third 20 sovereigns from the plate, about six furlongs, was won by Lord Derby's Ormskirk, guided by J. Reiff. The Windermere, all-aged, selling plate, of 200 sovereigns, was won by Consolation, ridden by Tod Sloan. The thirty-first Great Lancashire breeders' produce stakes, of 2,000 sovereigns (of which 200 sovereigns go to the nominator of the winner, 150 sovereigns to the owner of the second, 100 sovereigns to the nominator of the second and 50 sovereigns each to the nominator and owner of the third), for the produce of mares covered in 1897, to run as two-year-olds, five furlongs, was won by Mr. J. B. Joel's bay colt Kilcheran, by Kilwarlin, out of Emita, also ridden by Sloan. GODERICH RACES.

James Corrigan, the millionaire owner of the yacht Idler, which was wrecked in a squall, twenty miles from here, on July 7, has equipped a remarkable boat with which to search by electric light the bottom of the lake for the bodies of his two daughters, Ida and Jane, who were drowned when the yacht went down. The bodies of the mother, sister, baby, nephew and aunt, drowned at the same time, were recovered.

over the kidneys. It was so bad that my wife had to apply hot cloths till the doctor came and gave me morphine. He said the trouble was due to a stone passing from the kidney to the bladder. My water was loaded with a brick dust deposit and scalded on passing.

While in this condition I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and started taking them. It was not long before I got relief from pain and have been improving in healthever since. My urine is now clear and does not smart me, and I feel better than in years.

BOYS AND HOODLUMS

Credited With the Disgraceful Scenes Enacted in New Orleans.

New Orleans, July 26.-After being in the hands of lawless mobs for several hours, with the police apparently powerless to maintain order, New Orleans at daybreak again assumed a peaceful aspect. The rabble apparently had spent its fury after killing three men, fatally injuring two, and seriously wounding fifteen. All except two or three of the wounded were

The mob was composed of boys and hoodlums, and was without a leader. The rioting grew out of the intense feeling engendered by the murder on Monday night of Capt. Day and Patrolman Lamb, and the wounding of Officer More by a colored desperado nam-

A delegation of citizens today went to the city hall and asked the mayor either to call out a posse of citizens or appeal to the governor to order out the militia. His honor immediately prepared a proclamation calling for 500 volunteer citizens to assist the police in preserving order.

SANGUINARY FIGHT

At Panama Followed by an Armistice -Three Generals Killed.

New York, July 26.-After a continuation of the fighting between the government troops and insurgents, which begun Tuesday, an armistice was declared yesterday, according to Herald's dispatch from Panama. The armistice was brought about in order that the dead might be buried and wounded attended to.

Gen. Campo Serrano, titular governor of Panama, has arrived in Colon with 1,000 troops from Barranquilla. The ambulance corps from the British cruiser Leander landed yesterday and rendered valuable assistance. Every physician in the city, Sisters of Charity, and many private citizens joined in this work. Fighting became desperate several times during the night, and both the regulars and insurgents lost heavily in officers. Among the revolutionists killed were Gen. Temistooles Diaz and Joequin Arosemena. On the government side Col. Barona, Majors Holguin and Rolando Linares and Capt. Pedro Pascheco were killed.

Criminal Prosecutions.

"It is better that ten thousand guilty persons should escape rather than that one innocent person should suffer," is a statement we have heard so often in connection with the administration of criminal justice that we are apt to lose sight both of its virtue and its meaning. Theoretically, all admit its correctness, and in practice it is not put into force as much as it should be. It is almost entirely confined to the jury may be inflicted on anyone by mere prosecution.

We do not desire to prejudge any case, but we think the greatest care should be exercised before the criminal law is put in motion, and the greater the crime, the greater the care necestium encircles the equator and the greater the care necestium encircles the equator and the $14,500,000 a month, or upward of $500,-

Bary. The sad death of Joseph Sifton, of London township, followed by the arrest of his son, brings up the question whether there ought not to be an officer similar to the crown prosecutor in Scotland, whose duty it would be to examine all evidence, and advise whether the prosecution should be instituted or not. Here is a young man of unblemished character, possessed of quite sufficient means independently of his father, arrested on the most serious charge possible, that of murdering his father, the motive imputed being his desire to prevent his father from marrying. We say there should be a publie officer, whose duty it would be to advise and be responsible for all such prosecutions. If innocent, what a horrid crime it is to arrest the son scarcely less hideous than his crime would be, if guilty; and here it is we repeat, that it is better that ten thoucand guilty persons should escape rather than that one innocent person should suffer. The slanderer is universally detested. What slander equals in its ferocity a presecution for the crime of murder? What time could ever cure, or how could you recompense an innocent man, under such circumstances? Such an official as we refer to could examine the motives of those who hinted at the crime, and weigh the likelihood of guilt. He could be careful that there was reasonable probability that there was sufficient grounds to put the accused on trial.

At their best, all human tribunals are faulty, very faulty, indeed. They should, therefore, be surrounded by every safeguard and any amendment necessary in the law to make it impossible to stab vitally an innocent person should be made. We suggest tem for controlling and educating the responsibility be placed with some trained legal official, one whose duty would be as much to shield the innocent as prosecute the guilty; one whose knowledge would enable him to weigh and justly estimate the motives of accusers, as well as accused. The prosecution of a young man hitherto of character above reproach on the serious charge of murdering his own father causes us to advocate these views. We express no opinion. We point out the possibility, even probability, If not in this case, then in some other. that a great crime may be legally committed-one that blasts forever the life of the accused and places a dark streak across the life of every friend and relative he has. Let justice be done, but let us not commit crime in our anxiety to detect and punish crime.

Mr. Norman On the Chinese Situation.

In the July number of the Nineteenth Century, Mr. H. Norman, who used to contribute to Cosmopolis, a monthly review, entitled the Globe and the Island, gives his views on the position of China under the title, "Our Vacillation in China and its Consequences."

We may sum it up by saying it is one long indictment against British policy, or, rather, want of policy, with regard to China, and this lies, as he out, largely against the Government. "Our statesmen have been lamentably and conspicuously wanting in the energy necessary to the performance of their task, and as the most important problems have arisen during Lord Salisbury's present Government, it is the cabinet of today that has done or left undone most to bring this injury upon the nation.'

We may remark that if this is so, it is in spite of the fact that Mr. Norman has occasionally lifted his warning voice. The first thing he does in this article is to give a history of recent diplomacy, which is certainly not creditable to the Government. It is not simply that, as he thinks, undue advantage has been given to Russia, but also that there was so much wrangling in the House of Commons and elsewhere, as to what was actually being done. It does certainly look as if the Conservative Government had not strongly safeguarded British interests in China, and that at times a little clearness and firmness might have saved much of the present trouble.

Mr. Norman then declares that we must first have a policy, and then the determination to carry it through. As a basis for discussion he remarks:

1. There is no such thing as China. That is, the word China does not signify a nation, but a number of dissources and configuration, inhabited by people of varying races, temperament, habit, religion and language. A man from Tien Tsin and a man from Cann can no more talk to each other can a Frenchman and a Dutch-"I lost the best Chinese servant

him. 'Cantonese velly bad man, master,' he said to me; 'I go home.' " Mr. Keane says: "The inhabitants of the central and northern provinces scarcely regard those of the extreme southeast districts as fellow countrymen at all." Therefore it is difficult to make any declarations of China as a

2. "China" will not rejoin itself in any way. It cannot, according to Mr. Norman, act together. "When horses and dogs mutiny and muzzle men, China will invade Europe, and not before." 'Every Chinaman who professes liberal ideas and sympathy with western nations is either assuming a convenient mask for a time, or else he has cut himself off so completely from his own people that they distrust and dislike him almost more than they do the trial, forgetting that an irreparable in- foreigner himself." Therefore, reform in China must come from outside.

3. Russian ambition has no limits. "Not until all peoples that on earth meridian of St. Petersburg, will Russian | 000 a day. ambition be gratified." According to Oddly enough, there will be no reduction in the amount of money to be expended during the current year for commercially as well as territorially. 4. Japan is face to face with a life-and-death issue in the Far East. Russia will do all to conciliate her now, and if she strike at all she must strike soon. These being the bases of discussion, what is the best way of meeting the complex situation:

1. Depose the Dowager Empress and let the Emperor rule under the advice $179,301,011 for the army and navy. of a council of Chinese, acting under the control of a council of representatives of the powers. It might be wise to remove the capital to Nanking, but Russia will oppose that.

2. The whole of China must thrown open to foreign trade.

3. This means in a limited sense the partition of China, and each power should keep order in its own sphere.

4. There should be formal engageties to be levied and the forces raised in each sphere.

5. The United States and England to address a communication to the powers in this sense.

If all the Old Boys of London who have been writing that they would like to join in the coming celebration can get leave of absence, there will be an immense crowd here on the days fixed next month. They are coming from all parts of the continent to enjoy the reunion in the old town, which promises to look its best. We can all aid.

Mr. Robert Hill, of Brandon, who is on a visit to Ontario, says the present Murder or homicide.... is a lean year in Manitoba, the first since 1889. It is reassuring, however, to learn that the people are full of hopefulness, despite the effects of the drought. As the province now has mixed farming, the shortage of cereals will not be felt so much as it would have been ten years ago. In many districts, too, the yield will be large.

Judge Dugas, of the Yukon country, says that it is no place for a lazy man. Is there any place in Canada where a lazy man can expect prosperity? We know of but one spot in the world that today offers an opportunity for a lazy man to live without exertion. It is the Sandwich Island where the eccentric Frenchman has been founding a colony that shall require no clothing and no food other than can be picked up in the woods. But who in Canada is so lazy that he would wish to exchange for the conditions thus held tricts differing widely in climate, re- forth? It may be that even as we write this island of naked white savages may be all pre-empted!

Vast figures these are, and figures, too, which are certain to be much discussed during the coming campaign for the presidency. The army was given by Congress $114,220,000 of the total, the navy getting $65,080,000. The magnitude of these appropriations becomes easy to realize when one recalls that the total appropriations by Congress for the year amount to only $709,729,-476. This appropriation of nearly $180,-000,000 for the army and navy does not include items of $8,000,000 for fortifications and for maintaining the military academies. Neither has it any connection with the pension appropriation, which amounts to $145,245,000. To an advisory committee of men who maintain all of the federal postoffices and conduct the enormous business of the postal system $113,648,000 has been set aside, these figures demonstrating All this reads very well on paper and that this year Uncle Sam will have to is interesting to the student of diplom- pay $55,000,000 more for the army and

THE DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION

He Wasn't Needed But Once, and Was Too Busy to Bother Then.

"When I went abroad this spring," said the young man who was being dined because he had just come home from the Exposition, "I was so ill that my mother said I could not go without our doctor.

"On the way across, somehow, all my illness got blown overboard and I felt as if I had left myself in New York and was a new man I'd have to get acquainted with. But all the time there was the doctor in our party. He was having a good time and taking his own medicines; every once in are hile he would take a pill from one waistcoat pocket and take it, then after a meal he would draw a powder from another pocket and wash that "The day we reached Amsterdam, however, like a flash I found my old self I had left in New York. I felt ill and couldn't breathe. I went to the doctor in haste.

"'Doctor,' I said, 'I feel queerly; I can't get a long breath, all I can do.' 'Then take two short ones.' said he. and I laughed and got better right there And that was the only time my physician prescribed for me from dock to dock, over and back."

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION regarding the popular internal and external remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil-do not, so far as known, exist. The testimony is positive and concur-rent that the article relieves physical pain, cures lameness, checks a cough, is an excellent remedy for pains and rheumatic complaints, and it has no nauseating or other unpleasant effect when taken internally.

Of Gerald Sifton and Walter Herbert on the Charge of Murder.

A Number of Witnesses Examined, but No Damaging Evidence Against Prisoners Brought Out.

The interim session room at the court house was crowded to the doors when Gerald Sifton and Walter Her-before he died. bert appeared this morning to underbert appeared this morning to under-go their preliminary examination be-stand. He had been called to the scene on That Day. fore Squire J. B. Smyth, on the charge of the accident by Walter Herbert, of murdering Joseph Sifton, on June 30, 1900. Both men appeared quite down the end of the barn and killed himself!" Witness was driving to the composed, considering the serious na- city with a young lady. Witness was ture of the charge. T. W. Scandrett led up through the barn and across and I. F. Hellmuth were present in the mow by Herbert, and both Jump-ed through the opening in the barn wall to the ground. It seemed a shorter wall to the ground. It seemed a shorter crown's interests were looked after by Crown Attorney Magee.

John Sinker, of lot 16, con. 5, who lives across the road from Joseph Sifton, saw the deceased on Friday evening before his death, but had no conversation with him. Sifton had borrowed $250 from witness about three weeks before. On Friday morning Sifton had come to borrow a buggy pole. Siston then told witness certain intentions he meant to carry out on the following day. The following evening John McFarlane, Mary McFarlane's brother, came to witness' house, and witness told him of Sifton's intentions. McFarlane then went to Gerald Sifton's house. Witness saw McFarlane later in the evening, and heard further conversation, and McFarlane went back to Gerald Sifton's. He next saw fluid came from the mouth at the d his Joseph Sifton when he was called the The next morning to Sifton's house. He was called by Walter Herbert, who came through the field and yelled:
"Mr. Sifton fell out of the barn and quieta and killed 89 natives, 30 of them killed himself; come quick!" Witness being in a single house.

Witness ed if the canon was in, and Mrs. Richards ardson said he had gone to England, ardson said he had gone to England, and Herbert replied that Gerald had been knocking boards off the barn, and the old man had said he would show how they should be knocked off. When witness reached the Sifton homestead he sent Herbert to call another neighbor, whom he saw. Witness went to the west side of the barn, which is invisible from the road and the nearest houses. Sifton was lying with his head to the north, and about two feet from the wall. Sifton was lying on his back. Mary McFarlane was there. immediately lifted Sifton's head, which was bruised and bloody, on the right side, and the back, and there was a bruise on the left side of the neck. Back of and below the left ear there was a bruise about two inches Sifton was breathing heavily, and there was no movement or sign of consciousness. Charles Decker and the prisoner, Walter Herbert, came about the same time, and all carried Sifton into the house. Mary McFarlane, brought a cup of water, but it was not given to him, as he could not swallow. Sifton was moved and Herbert coming. later from the room to which he was first carried. Dr. McNeill came soon after Sifton was carried in. Witness the afternoon. He went away again. and later, Mrs. Gerald Sifton came and said Mr. Sifton was dead. He went over and saw the body. Witness had several conversations with Gerald Sifton about the supposed accident. His father had the remark that Sifton need not have got up on that beam to knock the boards off. After the burial witness asked Gerald if he had found the will. Gerald said he had found the old will leaving everything to him. The elder Sifton had owned over 400 acres that he knew of. When witness found the body lying on the ground, a couple of bricks and an axe were lying under the head. The axe was covered with blood and so were the bricks. Sifton's hat was not there. The bricks dent struck her as being quite a probwere not moved while witness was witness said he had known the Sifton family for 25 years. He was friendly with Joseph Sifton and Gerald Sifton. Gerald Sifton was the only son of Joseph Sifton, and had helped his father work the property, both being on good terms as far as witness knew. The story told of the accident by Herbert and the story told of the accident by Herbert and the story told of the accident by Herbert and the story told of the accident by Herbert and the story told the story the story told bert and that afternoon told by Gerald practically agreed. Witness had not seen any blood around the accident, except on Sifton's head and what was on the bricks and axe. When witness helped carry Sifton into the house he carried the shoulders, but did not get any blood on his clothes. Sifton's head did not bleed much will it was washed by the doctor. Witness was called by Herbert about 8 a.m., and death oc-curred about 5 p.m. There was no curred about 5 p.m. There was no signs of a struggle, or of a body being dragged around where the axe and cut to the scene of the accident than going around. Witness helped carry Sifton into the house, and waited till the doctor came.

a hypodermic needle. The doctor expressed the opinion that Sifton might die at any moment. Cross-examined by Mr. Hellmuth, witness said that Sinker was holding Sifton in a sitting position when he came. There was blood on Sifton's head and forehead, but no blood on his beard or on his coat. When the doctor came he gave Sifton some whisky. Sifton seemed to swallow easily.

The doctor went back to his house for

Miss Susie Bathurst, who lives at Canon Richardson's house, told of Walter Herbert coming to the door on and asked if she could do anything. The boy replied that Mr. Sifton had fallen from his barn and cut his head, and the boy was afraid he was killed. Mrs. Richardson and the witness went to the house, and found Joseph Sifton lying on a couch in the house, and Sinker, Decker and Mary McFarlane were there. Herbert later told witness that Mr. Sifton was standing on a beam at the end of the barn, with an axe held in both hands, and cut his head with the axe. This was all he told of the accident. When going around the barn on their way from the house, witness saw the axe and a cap lying there, and there were two black felt hats also. She did not notice any bricks. There were boards lying scattered around. Witness did not see Joseph Sifton, Gerald Sifton or Walter Herbert that morning. She heard sounds of hammering less than ten minutes before Herbert came. Cross-examined, the witness only reiterated her statement as to the short time that elapsed between the hammering

Mrs. Richardson, wife of Rev. Canon Richardson, remembered distinctly the morning of Sifton's death. She heard a knock at the door and opened She saw the prisoner, Walter Herbert, there, and he was crying, and appeared much affected. He said Mr. Sifton had fallen from the beam at the end of the barn with an axe in his hand, and was dead or dying. With the previous witness she went to the house. There were several people in the house. Mary McFarlane appeared much distressed, and washed the blood off his face. Mr. Sifton appeared to be dying, and displayed no signs of consciousness. When going out she asked Herbert how the accident happened. He replied: "I saw it all. He was standing on the end of the beam, and took the axe to show us how to strike the board, and the board gave way and he fell forward." The raised his hands to show how Sifton had used the axe. Witness then went home. She saw a black felt hat lying there, and remarked on it to the girl. also saw the blood-covered axe and the cap. Gerald Sifton came to the house later and got a little whisky. Cross-examined, Mrs. Richardson said she saw little blood on Sifton's The boy's account of the acci-

CLINGS TO SUNDAY

on That Day.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 27.-William J. Bryan has declined to deliver an adat a national service to be held at Asbury Park in the Beach Auditorium some Sunday afternoon next month. In his letter declining the invitation Bryan said:

"During the campaign Sunday is the only day that I have for rest. Without that day of rest I would not be able to undergo the work of the campaign. If I was to surrender that day on one occasion I would find it difficult to refuse other invitations, and I think it better to adhere to the rule that I have heretofore observed."

Detroit, July 27.—William C. Maybury, mayor of Detroit, was unanimously nominated for governor of Michigan on the Democratic ticket. The nomination was made by accla-

Montreal, July 27 .- It costs money to make love to one's girl on the street in Montreal. Recorder Weir demonstrated that fact yesterday. William White, of Duke street, and Katie O'Rourke, of St. Maurice street, dulged in a stroll in the evening. Beneath the overhanging arch of a stone gateway they stopped to embrace each other fondly, and it is whispered that some osculation might have been noticed as well. Be that as it may, the sight was too much for the unfeeling policeman. He promptly took their names, and before the recorder Mr. White was fined $10 and Miss O'Rourke $5 for "loitering in a gateway Chicago, July 27. - Fire which broke out yesterday in the buildings at 225 and 227 South Water street caused damage estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000, created a mild panic among score of girls, caused the death of 6, 000 chickens, and for a time threatened the whole block. Three girls were reported missing, but it is believed they escaped.

Toronto Bakers May Have a Strike-Hamilton Corporation Laborers' Wages Go Up.

Hamilton, July 27.-The city board of works has decided to recommend 18 cents per hour and 8 hours to constitute a day's work. The Teamsters' Union wants all non-union men discharged. Vancouver, B.C., July 27 .- At a meeting of labor interests it was decided to adopt a constitution on the lines of the Winnipeg labor party, slightly changed to meet local requirements. Toronto, July 27.—The union bakers of the city have served formal notice on their employers that unless agreement is signed by Saturday night, agreeing to increase the wages of the men from $10 to $11, and of the foremen from $12 to $13, and to employ union men only, they will quit work. The employers have not yet determined on their course of action.

Chicago, July 27.-The effort of President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, to bring about a settlement of the Chicago labor troubles, has apparently failed. He was informed by a delegation of contractors that the only way a settlement could possibly be effected was by the unions withdrawing from the Building Trades Council. The contractors' associations are willing to make agreements with the individual unions, national and international, and also to make the American Federation of Labor a party to the agreements, but no settlement can be made with the unions of Chicago as long as the Building Trades Council Mr. Gompers replied to the contractors that as he was a representative of the men, and practically the agent of the Building Trades Council, he could countenance no such agreement as this, and would not agree to He defended the existence of the Building Trades Council, on the ground that it was for the best interests of the laboring men, in spite of mistakes which might have been made. The conference then broke up.

LITERATURE AND BUSINESS. Perhaps as a wholesome corrective to Sir Walter Besant's optimistic papers on the rewards of art, the Atlanta Constitution prints this impressive quat-rain by a local poet: "Many a man on the road of life succeeds where another fails; Johnny is writin' stories, an' Billy is splittin' rails;

Johnny is makin' a name an' fame (he says), whilst the years roll on; But Billy is makin' the money, an' Billy's supportin' John." PAINFUL ACCIDENT

RELICS UNEARTHED AT QUEBEC, Quebec, July 27. - Excavations being made for poles for an electric light line west of Quebec have brought to the surface several mementoes of the battle and siege. Two small cannon balls, four-pounders, were found yesterday about half-way between Spencerwood and Spencer Grange Grange gates, on the St. Louis road. No fireur-de-lis or broad arrow can be found on either. The shot evidently were intended for small field pieces, as those with which scaled the heights on Sept. 14, Ten much smaller balls have also been dug out half-way up the traverse from St. Foye to Stillery, known as Stuart's road, in rear of Holland House. LEADER WANTS TO LEAD. London, July 27.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Liberal leader in the House of Commons, was so incensed at the action of the Radicals in forcing a vote vesterday on the motion to reduce the salary of the secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, that he threatened to resign the leadership of the party. Friends succeeded, however in persuading him to reconsider his decision, and he called a meeting of the party leaders, which was held privately this evening to discuss the situation. The result was that he agreed to retain possession, provided he was not again subjected to such a rebuff. Probably, however, there will be another meeting of the party on the subject, and rumor credits the Liberal imperialists with intriguing for the overthrow of Sir Henry's authority, with a view of giving the leadership to Lord Rosebery.

MADE-TO-ORDER SMASH-UP

Rochester Folk Found Their Prearranged Collision Very Tame.

[Rochester Herald.]

It takes several days to arrange a railroad wreck to order, but after all the show itself cannot be prolonged longer than one second. There is just one crash, a smash-then it's all over. It is difficult to understand what else the people could have expected who traveled down to the Driving Park in the hot sun yesterday after-noon to witness the widely advertised head-on collision of two railroad en-gines and tenders. Certainly they could not have expected an encore. They could not have anticipated anybody was foolish enough to provide an accident to add to the excitment, not for 50 cents. Yet something evidently was expected in an indefinite sort of a way more than was seen. For, after it was over the universal question was asked, "Is that all?" In fact, most people seemed unreasonable enough to wonder whether they had their money's worth of excitement. Yet everything was pulled off exactly as advertised. Two engines were on parade on the rails that had been laid on the back stretch of the old race track during the entire afternoon. They were not of the modern type, Empire State Express or the Black Diamond Express. They showed none of the brightness of brass that characterizes the new style monsters. But they were engines, and that was in accordance with the advertisement. They had served their purpose in their day, drawing freight trains on the peanut road, and having outlived their usefulness in the railroad business they served as well as any other to make a Fourth of July holiday for the Rochester public. For several hours before the windup the two old engines ran back and forth on the improvised tracks, wheezing and puffing and groaning with their labored efforts. The exhibition was on the north side of the grounds. There was no accommodation for seating the people and the hot sun poured down mercilessly on the heads of the spectators, who stood around in the grass and waited for something to happen. The event was scheduled for o'clock, but it was an hour later when the tracks were cleared by the special police and the long-anticipated

show began. The two ramshackle old engines were backed up to the ends of the track and, at a given signal, the engineers in charge opened up the throttles, jumped from the cabs and the two iron monsters started for each other. There was no chance for a run of more than three hundred feet for each engine, although the engines probably could not have gotten up a great deal of speed with a mile start. As it was, they were running not far from ten miles an hour at the point of contact. Nearer and nearer they came, the eyes of the several thousand people, who spread over the entire field, being fastened intently on the spectacle. Just before the moment of contact there was an involuntary gasp, some excited ejaculations on the part of the audience. Then came the collision and the show was over. There was no loud crash, no smashing, grinding noise-just a dull, hard thud And that was all. For a moment the wreck was enveloped in a cloud of steam and smoke, so that it was impossible to see what damage had been done. Then it cleared away, and the people made a rush to get a closer view.

The two engines had run squarely into each other at about the same rate of speed. Each was about the same weight and strength. When they came to the sudden stop the damage looked to be much less than might have been anticipated. The two pilots had been smashed, the fronts of both had given away about equally, and they stood on the track, facing each other and partly telescoped. The im-2 MADE to order smashup o Ukd pact had been great, but the force had been so evenly divided between the two engines that neither had gained any advantage. The real damage was probably less than though there had been a marked difference in weight, speed or strength between the two opposing forces. At any rate both stood their ground and neither left the track. The crowd had been kept back from the point of collision several hundred feet to avoid the possibility of accident, but the precaution was unneces-There was no flying debris-in fact there was no debris of any sort. There was not the slightest danger that any one who had stood within twenty feet of the two engines would have been hurt.

Of course the old machines were spoiled for railroad uses, but a little repairing in the shops would put them in condition again, if they are worth repairing. They looked as if they were on the road to the scrap iron heap anyway and the entertainment they furnished yesterday only hastened

His duties consisted in keeping the office in order, taking care of the fire, receiving calls and business notices during Mr. Allen's absence, and runming of errands for him.

He was not kept so busy but that he had plenty of time for study, and he improved this most faithfully, while he often copied for the young lawyer so neatly and rapidly as to win high praise and encouragement.

When spring opened Mr. Allen's prospects had so improved that he increased Louis' wages to four dollars a week, and the boy felt more than satisfied, for his kind friend was doing his utmost to advance him in his studies, and he realized that he was making rapid progress.

But Louis said no-he preferred to remain with his friend and go on with his lessons, adding, with a sly twinkle

"I'm sure, if you have not made money enough to entitle you to a va-cation, I certainly have not." "You are as ambitious as ever, I see," said Mr. Allen, smiling. "What do you say to fitting for a regular You are getting on so well you could easily do it in another year. Louis looked grave. He would like nothing better than to go through college; but he knew there were serious difficulties in the way.

"Why cannot I have a regular college course by myself?" he asked, after thinking the matter over for a while. 'What do you mean by that, Louis?" "You have been through college, haven't you?"

'Yes; I graduated at Yale a few

"Then why cannot you put me through just the course that you have I am willing to study hard, for I realize the need and advantage of a good education; but I do not see my may clear to giving four years of my life to study alone, to say nothing of the money that would be needed for

"Many a boy with less ability than you possess, has worked his way through college," replied Mr. Allen, thoughtfully; then he added: "I should like nothing better than to should like nothing better than to teach you, for you are such an apt and appreciative pupil; but you could that a strange gentleman had been not have your degree-that can only during the day inquiring about him. be obtained by going through a university course."

"I shall not care so much for the degree—the knowledge is what I wish for, particularly," Louis returned. "If I had a father who was able to send me to college, I should be only too glad to avail myself of the opportunity; but since I have my own way to fight through the world, I believe I must give up the degree, and pick up what education I can in other ways."

"Very well; perhaps you have decided wisely. I am ready to do whatever I can to help you, and I will instruct you as thoroughly as I/am able; only I warn you beforehand that it will be hard work for you."

"I like hard work," Louis replied, undauntedly. "I like to grapple with anything that requires the use of all my powers; that is," he added, with a smile, "if there is a prospect of my coming off conqueror. I think it is grand to find yourself face to face with a difficulty and then fight your way, inch by inch, above it."

Mr. Allen looked into the boy's glowing face, and said to himself:
"That boy has the spirit of a hero within him; he will do something brilliant in the world yet."

CHAPTER VIII.

But Louis was not to have smooth sailing all the way along; he was destined to find himself face to face with a difficulty which was to call into more vigorous exercise than ever before, all the powers of his soul. He was soon to be forced to grapple with influences which for a time were to threaten to annihilate all his lofty resolves, and to ingulf him in the very vortex of crime and dishonor.

One day Farmer Brown came in to make him a little visit. He was in the city on a matter of business, and could not think of returning without making some inquiries as to how Louis was progressing.

Louis was, of course, much pleased to see him, and taking him into his small sanctum, where they would be undisturbed, they had a long and confidential conversation. Among other subjects, that of the boy's birth came up, and Louis rehearsed to face, with regular features, a luxurious growth of glossy, curling, raven hair, and full beard, bright, restless black eyes, a frank smile, and an easy, off-hand manner.

Louis thanked him, and followed  him out into the office, where, to their surprise, they found a strange man

He was standing by the door, as if he had just entered the room, but neither Louis nor Mr. Brown had heard the door open or close, consequently they had no idea how long he might have been there.

The stranger had bowed politely, his eyes taking a rapid survey of both boy and man, and inquired for Mr.

"He is out, sir, for a couple of hours. Will you leave any message for him?" Louis answered, courteously,

"No, I think not. I desire to see him personally," replied the stranger, while his glance held Louis', for the moment, with a sort of magnetism that made the boy's heart give a sudden bound in his bosom; it seemed to read him through and through-to almost take possession of him.

The next moment he was bowing himself out of the office with a polite "good morning," saying that he would call again in a day or two.

Where have I seen that man before?" Louis murmured in a low, preoccupied tone as the door closed after

"I can't tell you. Louis: but I hope you won't see much of him in the furemarked Farmer Brown, dryly adding: "There's a heart brimful of mischief under that sly face, or I'm vastly mistaken." And then he, too, took his leave.

All day long that strange, dark face haunted our young friend's thoughts; but it was not until evening, when he was on his way home to supper, that he could recall where he had seen it

He did not dream that he had been shadowed to the very door of Mary Jones' humble dwelling, nor that upon these seemingly unimportant events circumstances of strange import were hinging themselves.

His surprise may be imagined when, The woman's motherly eyes filled with tears as she spoke.

Of course I told him, and you ought to have seen how used up he was when he heard about all her hardships, and how she came to her end."

Louis looked more and more aston-ished, while some of the ruddy color went out of his young face as he lis-

"When I got through, he said, in a trembling kind of way, that he be-lieved she was his wife. He told me that, years ago, he married a sweet young girl, and soon after went away to California, leaving her here until he could get money enough to make a home for her and send for her to come to him. He never heard from her but once, though he kept writing to her until he could endure it no longer, and then came back to hunt her up. But he couldn't find her, nor any trace of her, and at last, believing she must be dead, he went back in despair, and tried to drown his grief in hard work. He began to make money fast, and at last, about two years ago, he came back again, and somehow, a little while ago, he heard of your story, and following it up, he at last came to me to get the facts of it. Oh, Louis, what if this gentleman should turn out to be your father!"

TAR AND FEATHERS

Applied to the Person of an Unpopular Man.

By Some Citizens of the Moral Town of Mitchell.

Mitchell, July 27 .- Tuesday evening witnessed what may not have been law, but which is being described here as justice to one who has been domiciled in this town from the years of his childhood.

Some weeks ago the subject of this sketch, who for years past has had the failing, with other sins, of rushing the mahogany too much, was re-ported to have eloped with an elderly spinster of this place, leaving behind him a hard-working wife and family, to suffer the disgrace of his escapade. After a week or so the female party to the transaction arrived home, a sadder and poorer, and we trust, a wiser woman, as she had been relieved of quite a few shekels, which were still but a nonentity in comparison to the good name she had hitherto Shortly after it was reported that the male party to the transaction had also ventured again to set his foot within the precincts of the town, and mutterings and mummurings of a good ducking to the offender and a coat of tar and feathers were freely indulged in. Apparently this had been quietry agitated for some time, and from what we can gather of the events of Tuesday evening, it seems that when it was definitely known that the said party was in town for sure and at his own home under the influence of liquor, and making things unpleasant for his family, upon whom he had already brought such odium, a mob was soon organized, disguises pro-cured, and about 10 o'clock p.m. the crowd made its way to the house of the offender. Admittance was de-manded and ere long the masked intruders came forth, carrying the object of their search face downwards and blindfolded.

They proceeded with him to the market, where the victim was entirely denuded of clothing, and coated from head to foot with tar and feathers, and finally bound to a telegraph post by means of a stout rope. At this juncture the fire bell started to ring, and crowds came running towards the market, and to put a climax upon the matter the streets —which were in darkness up to this time—were illuminated by the bril-liancy of the electric light. Someone shortly afterwards liberated the shortly afterwards liberated the ghastly-looking object, who started for his home at, we are told, an almost inconceivable rate of speed, whither, we are also informed, a por-tion of the madding crowd went to see that no abuse to wife and family took place, and to give him orders to pack up and leave the town within the shortest possible time.

The town is greatly excited over the occurrence, and it would be futile attempt a rehearsal of the various expressions which the event has called

The Stratford Beacon says: "William Mulheron, of Mitchell, was in the city today consulting the local police re-garding an outrage, which he states was perpetrated upon him in that town last night. He made no bones about the fact that he was tarred and feathered, although he looked as though he had managed to get rid of most of his un-comfortable dress. He was informed by Chief McCarthy that his best plan was to lay an information before Mitchell magistrate, as that was the best place to have his grievances heard. Mulheron stated that there would be trouble over the incident yet, as he had some clue as to whom the guilty parties were."

REVOLUTION COLLAPSED. Washington, July 26 .- The state department has received a dispatch from Consul-General Gudger at Panama announcing the collapse of the revolutionary movement there. He states that the Liberals unexpectedly surrendered and that quiet now prevails at Panama.

WAGES ON GOVERNMENT CON-TRACTS.

In connection with the efficiency of the provisions in public contracts for guaranteeing workmen a fair wage, Mr. Mulock's resolution, which passed all Government contracts should con- ing sleep of childhood. tain such conditions as would secure payment to all workmen of such wages as are generally accepted as current in each trade for competent workmen in the district in which the work is being carried out, and that this should apply also to all work undertaken by the government itself and all works aided by grants from the Dominion public funds. Mr. Geo. Taylor, M. P., in opposing the resolution, said it was a piece of buncombe, and that the opposition were prepared to go on all night rather than let it pass. Mr. Taylor never explained why he withdrew his opposition, though Mr. Davin, who led the opposition that night, indorsed the resolution, and it passed without objection. The efficiency of the provision has been already proven in the case of the Hull Postoffice, and Mr. Taylor's opposition is still unexplained.

AN EVENTFUL LIFE

Experiences of the Late R. Furness Whose Funerai Was Held Yesterday.

The remains of the late Conductor Richard Furness were interred in Fairview Cemetery, Niagara Falls, yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place from the G. T. R. depot upon the arrival of the Atlantic express from Toronto. It was conducted by the Masonic lodge, and was largely attended by many people from Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines and London.

Mr. Furness began his railroad career on the Great Western, in 1853, then under the general managership of the late Mr. C. J. Brydges. He began as a brakeman, and at the time of his retirement, some two years ago, in consequence of ill-health, had been a conductor for 40 years. During that 40 years he passed through accidents and injuries that would have killed a half dozen ordinary men. Once near Harrisburg, while endeavoring to stop a portion of his freight train, that had become detached, with a piece of timber, the end flew up, broke his jaw and knocked all his teeth out; again, coming in contact with overhead bridges and falling between freight cars in motion across couplings. one occasion, when taking his train south from Guelph, he was on the top of a car, and where the Great Western intersects the Grand Trunk Railway at Guelph, Conductor Furness came in contact with the telegraph wires and was violently carried over three or four When the train reached Hespeler he was found in an insensible condition on top of the car. The last serious accident that he had was in 4872. Three of the Pullman cars attached to his train became derailed and rolled over in the ditch. He was in a standing position at the time attending to his duty. In the wreck he was completely locked in, and had to be cut out. Serious concussion of the brain was the result, entailing six months' absence from duty. He is survived by three sisters and a brother: Mrs. Peters, Detroit; Mrs. Davis and Miss Furness, Toronto, and Mr. Furness. London, Mr. Robert Cuthbert, of H. M. customs, Montreal ls a brother-in-law.

POOR PAVEMENT

Dundas Street-Damage Claim Shelved.

At the meeting of the board of works held last night in the city hall gers for Windsor and other points a report was received from Mr. Graydon relative to the dangerous condition of the pavement on Dundas street between Wellington and Waterloo. He suggested that asphalt be laid, with vitrified brick between and eighteen inches outside the street railway tracks, and a four-inch stone kerbing on each side. The ratepayers disagreed as to the kind of pavement, and those on the north side desired that it be extended to the sidewalk. They were unwilling to pay more than half the cost, although the pavement on their side extended more than half way across the street. City Clerk Kingston asked that some other provision be made for the preparation of weekly copies of the pay sheet. The present arrangement takes from him much of the assistance that is necessitated by the rapid increase in his work. His communication was

The claim of James C. Ross for damages caused by an alleged obstruction on Princess avenue was filed on the strength of Enginer Graydon's report, that either the contractor or the owner of the house before which the accident took place should be held responsible. Chairman Winnett and the engineer will see that Craig street, South London, is put in proper repair.

The Hodgins Inquest Adjourned-The

At the police court last night the adjourned inquest into the deaths of Richard and Elizabeth Hodgins, was resumed. Shirley Hodgins, Q.C., of Toronto, appeared for the C. P. R. witnesses were heard, five of them being members witnesses of the accident. The evidence tended to show that Hodgins was aware of the approach of the train, Driver Wm. Childs, of Toronto, swore ing, from his late residence, No. 29 that his train was running between 20 and 25 miles an hour when it struck the vehicle. Childs was on the right ding took place at the residence of side of the engine and could not see the rig approaching from the south.

Just east of Maitland street the fireman called, "Hold her!" Witness immediately applied the emergency break and the train was brought to a stop at Colborne street. Witness could not say as to the distance in which a locomo -Word was received here this morn- tive and six coaches could be stopped ting of the death of Mrs. William Dalton, of Chatham. > Fireman Wm. Duncan's evidence was largely corroborative of the previous witness. He saw Hodgins approach-ing the track. The horse did not appear unmanageable or nervous, was evidently pulled up to allow the train to pass. Hodgins then apparently urged the horse forward, and when witness saw the horse on the track he called to the engineer to "hold her." Conductor Swinarton, of Toronto, ran lying by the fence. He then went back and ordered the body of Mr. Hodgins to be removed from the pilot to the

John Harris, the baggageman, and Forgie Martin, the brakeman, gave corroborative evidence. Harris heard the whistle sounded just before the accident. Martin could not fix the train's speed. Morris Dillon was a few rods north of the track when he heard the whistle sounded. He looked round to see the train pass, and then saw the rig roaching the track from the south. Hodgins pulled the horse up, and it turned slightly to the west side of the street. Witness thought that gins was about to turn back, but in-stead he urged the horse on and a second later the engine struck the rig. Witness then ran to the nearest telephone and summoned the ambulance and a doctor. He did not re-member hearing the bell ringing. The train was not moving any faster than he had often seen them do at suburban crossings. John C. Dignan, who was standing at his office, on the east side of Maitland street, between the main line and the siding, heard the train coming, and saw Hodgins driving up the street. Witness called to his teamster that Hodgins would be caught. He then called to Hodgins: "Look out!" Hoggins, who was then at the siding, about 60 feet south of the main track, gathered up his lines and pulled the horse up. Immediately after he struck the horse and urged it on to the track. The next Dignan saw was a cloud of dust, parts of the buggy in the air, and a man's hat coming over the en-Witness ran toward the scene, then hastened back to the telephone to summon aid. He could not estimate the speed of the train. Hodgins could have easily turned into Dignan's yard or turned to the west and avoided the collision. The siding was clear of cars at the time. Hodgins was familiar with the crossing, having hauled coal and manure from Dignan's at various times. To Mr. Denison witness said he thought Hodgins did not realize he was approaching the tracks. The inquest was adjourned till Tuesday evening next, when five more witnesses will be examined.

FIFTY DOLLARS FOR EACH. Ottawa, July 26.-Col. Pinault, deputy minister of militia, said yesterthat the militia department had been in communication for some time past with the high commissioner for Canada, with reference to Canadian soldiers now in England, needing assistance. Lord Strathcona submitted a list of fifteen names, and the department cabled £10 for each of these men on account of their Canadian pay to Lord Strathcona, with the request that he would let the men have the money as speedily as possible.

New Light on the Astor-Milne Controversy-A Woman in the Case.

THE CAPE OPPOSITION. Cape Town, July 27 .- The opposition members of the Cape Parliament held a caucus yesterday for the purpose of selecting a leader. Guerin had done a similar thing during the Dreyfus trial. Regis dropped his heroic character in the dock, and pleaded that the affair had been exaggerated, and that no shots were fired at the police. He threw the whole blame upon the Jews

THE SITUATION IN INDIA. London, July 27.-In introducing the Indian budget in the House of Commons, the secretary for India, Lord George Hamilton, commended the patience, resignation, courage and stentation from crime with which 52,-000,000 of people in the stricken area The late reports have faced famine. from India, his lordship said, were anything but satisfactory. On the other hand, there were certain compensating advantages in the shape in which the revenue year closed. There was, he substantial credit balance of £2,870,000 but the famine expenditure and remission of taxation would turn this into a deficit of £826,000. The government proposed to apply the unexpended balance of £3,000,000 of the former loan towards relief. This would, he hoped, meet all demands. If the resources of India did not suffice to save the lives of the famine-stricken. then an appeal would be made to the imperial exchequer. In the last two years Lord George Hamilton said. £13,000,000 had been expended in famine

MISS ASTOR IN IT

New Phase of the Astor-Milne Trouble

New York, July 26 .- A special to the Journal from London says: An altogether new complexion has been put upon the Astor-Milne controversy by the discovery that the ex-American multi-millionaire compelled the baronet to leave his house on the night of the memorable concert a fortnight or so ago, because he objected to Sir Archibald's suit for the hand of his only daughter, Pauline.

It was Miss Astor who invited the baronet to the entertaiment, but without her father's knowledge or approval. It is wrong, therefore, to state the proportion of the $3,500,000 bond isthat Sir Archibald was at Carlton House Terrace without an invitation. Moreover, his encounter with Mr. Astor did not take place as he was entering the salons. It was after a tete-a-tete between himself and the heiress in a secluded corner of the Winter Garden-a tete-a-tete which was suddenly interrupted by the infuriated father. According to the story obtained by the correspondent from a lady of rank who has been the confidante of the lovers. Miss Astor made the acquaintance of Sir Archibald Milne at a theater party at Her Majesty's Theater last winter. Sir Archibald is a very handsome, tall man, with perfect manners, and of very old and aristocratic family, an old messmate of the Duke of York, with whom he served on sev eral ships, and a particular favorite of the Prince and Princess of Wales. was a case of love at first sight between the captain and Miss Astor. They met frequently, but it was only quite recently that Mr. Astor discovered his daughter's attachment. He at once announced his determination to the attachment grew in fervor, and they continued to meet. Miss Astor urged the captain to come to her father's house, and it was in response to her requests that he came, hoping that in the crowd he would be able to have a quiet moment with her.

Sir Archibald, on being apostrophized by Mr. Astor, and asked to leave his house, did so quietly, and it was only on the following day, after seeing the amazing paragraph in the Pall Mall Gazette, that he, anxious to shield the name of Miss Astor, gave out the story that he had been taken to the Astor concert by the Americanborn Countess of Oxford, to act as her escort in the place of the earl, who is

In view of the sensation created by the Pall Mall Gazette paragraph, and the kindly sympathy of the Prince and Princess of Wales, as well as of the Duke of York, Sir Archibald made a clean breast of the whole affair to his future king, who promptly took up the cudgels in his behalf.

The prince began by causing his secretary, Sir Francis Knollys, to write a very strongly-worded letter to Mr. Astor, and gave him the option of puowithdrawing the objectionable paragraph or of having the whole facts made known. It was in consequence of this action on the part of the prince that Mr. Astor printed the sort of half-hearted apology in the Pall Mall Gazette three days ago. But it has been considered as unsatisfactory by the prince and by the other friends of Sir Archibald. all of whom feel that the indignity placed upon him calls for more ample satisfaction than Mr. Astor has as yet conceded.
