The announcement in The Advertiser that the beautifully-situated fifty acres known as Sunshine Park had changed hands for $20,000, has set a current of conjecture in motion.

says that it is planned to remove een contemplated.

Again, the fact that the site was bonded by Captain Murphy for the Western University has given rise to a story that the sale is connected with the future of that institution. The story cannot be confirmed.

A Catholic Seminary?

A Toronto morning paper says that the scheme is to erect a large Catholic seminary here, where the young men of the diocese, who desire to enter the ten miles from London, called at the priesthood, may be educated. At present, they are educated at Sandwich, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal, and other places, and it is the desire of bishop to provide these facilities at the diocesan see.

According to this story, there will be erected within a year or so a magnifi-cent college building at the head of Waterloo street. The land is well adapted for college purposes, affording a splendid site for a campus as well as or the buildings that will be needed. Temporary Quarters at the Palace.

As it is said to be the intention to open the first classes of the new seminary in September, it will be necessary to secure temporary quarters until the new buildings are ready on Sun-shine Park, and to this end the building known as the Bishop's Palace, cor-ner of Park and Dufferin avenues, is to be used. Farmer Killed by Lightning and Many Buildings Struck Around Pembroke

[Canadian Press.]
Brantford, July 11.—There has been no relief from the severe drouth here, although a light shower fell during the night. Wheat, barley and oat crops are reported in this county considerably below the average, while the root crop will be ruined with a continuation of the dry spell. Brantford got the edge of a small-sized cyclone yesterday but no rain. Busy Bolts.

Ottawa, July 11.—Last night's storm was not severe in the immediate vicinity of Ottawa, but further up the valley considerable damage was caused by wind and lightning. It was one of the worst ever experienced at Pem-broke, where several buildings were struck and many cellars flooded. John Duff, a prominent farmer of Allumette Island, near Pembroke, was instantly killed while seated on his verandah. He leaves a wife and seven children. Near Aylmer. Que., a house occupied by Mr. MacKyle, proprietor of a big cabinet works in Ottawa, was struck, MacKyle and his wife being stunned, but otherwise uninjured.

Praying For Rain.

Hamilton, July 11.—Farmers and fruit-growers throughout the Niagara district are still praying for the rain that the weather man has been prom-lising for the past few days. The big storm that looked yesterday afternoon as if it might bring relief, veered to the north, missing Hamilton, flooding the beach and then sweeping off down the beach and then sweeping off down the lake, not touching the section around Thorold, Merriton and St. Catharines, so much in need of rain that there are great cracks in the parched ground. Farmers say the root and vegetable crop will be burned up unless rain falls soon.

WILL DISCUSS BYLAWS AT PUBLIC MEETING

Ingersoll Ratepayers to Vote Shortly on Three Important Money Grants.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ingersoll, July 11. — The three bylaws on which ratepayers will vote shortly will be discussed at a public meeting in the town hall on Friday night. Efforts are being put forth to have a representative attendance of the electors and to bring about a full discussion of the measures. The bylang cussion of the measures. The bylaws are regarded as very important to the welfare of the town, and strong arguments will in all probability be advanced why the ratepayers should indorse them. Dr. Amyot, provincial bac-teriologist, will be present in connection with the sewage bylaw.

Boy Scouts' Camp.

The pleasures of camp life for the Boy Scouts came to an end yesterday. Shortly after noon the boys broke camp and returned to Ingersoll by trolley car. All are enthusiastic over the success of the outing, and many are the warm words for Commissioner J. G. Gibson. Larger than last year, the camp was everything that could have been desired. The accommodation gave general satisfaction, the grounds being ideal, while ample provision was being ideal, while ample provision was made for the scouts in every respect. They always had plenty to eat, and as refreshments were on sale at near-by booths they did not feel that they were isolated from luxuries. The boys received beneficial instructions and improved wonderfully under the discipline of the camp. There was not a pline of the camp. There was not a serious casualty during the eight days the boys were under canvas, and if the truth were known all were loath to return home.

An innovation this year was the field day of athletic sports. Prizes were generously donated by the merchants of Ingersoll and Woodstock, and the competition was keen. This added zest to the spirit of the camp and will be looked forward to with great interest as an annual event.

Bowling in Woodstock,
Two rinks of local bowlers are Woodstock competing in the first annual bowling tournament. The reversal of form of the Colts, until recently the tail-enders of the town league, is a topic of conversation in baseball circles. It remained for the Colts to take a fall out of the Sham-rocks, heretofore unconquered, and league leaders. This they did by the one-sided score of 10 to 1, and now the fans are beginning to favor the Colts for the championship. With Moulton on the slab they have a strong line-up, and the fact that they have won their last three games makes them look like formidable opponents.

Chief Fish left yesterday for Toronto to attend the international convention of police chiefs. He will return this evening.

LONDON, THURSDAY, JULY 11.

MR: BORDEN'S FIRST PLUNGE. Mr. Borden dropped a clue to the secret of his naval policy in his first public speech in England, as prime

There are to be two stages: first, to crouching over the swag: quote his own language, "the possible and immediate gravity of existing conditions"; second, "the more difficult and more complex question of permanent co-operation in the Empire's defence upon the high seas."

It is a fairly safe inference that the Premier contemplates a gift of one or two Dreadnoughts, or the cash equivalent, to the mother country, under the pretext of "the immediate gravity of existing conditions," but in reality to of woolen goods so much the richer postpone a general election. It will be in pocket-book. contended that Mr. Borden's pledge to refer his naval policy to the people had no reference to an "emergency" measure of this kind, but covered only probably take the shape of a Canayears hence.

Mr. Borden lays it down as a condiperil councils, which decide for peace shazzer, "Mene, mene, tekel upharsin," or war. He opens up-or reopens-a question so spacious that it will strengthen his excuse for indefinite delay. It was raised at the Imperial Conference last year by Sir Joseph who had a ready-made scheme for the defence, in which the dominions would lation. It was peremptorily rejected by stood: every member of the conference, save Liberal scheme Great Britain would have had the controlling voice, by reason of her numerical preponderance, and her decisions would have been binding on each and every dominion, even on a dissentient one. Mr. Borden will have to concoct something better than this,

Mr. Asquith declared at the time that so long as Great Britain bore the main burden of naval defence, she must control foreign policy and decide the issues of peace or war. Sir Wilfrid Laurier admitted the logic of this position. Will Mr. Borden challenge it? Sir Wilfrid Laurier protected the principle of Canadian self-government by reserving to the Canadian people, through their Parliament, control over the naval forces of this country. Mr. Borden evidently intends to abandon this control. What will he ask in return? The self-governing dominions already share in the counsels and confidence of the Imperial authorities by means of the Imperial Conference. At classes have gone over to Socialism. the last conference Sir Edward Grey revealed to them the whole web of British foreign policy, the first disclosure of the kind by any foreign minister. What more will Mr. Borden an obsolete distribution of seats. demand? Representation in a newfangled Imperial council or parliament in which Canada would necessarily be in a minorty for an indefinite period would be bound, would be a step backtake it.

The arrival of are getting ready for - trouble with on the "Money Power" is not going to be a mere tourney for show, with a happy understanding between the antagonists as to honors and profits. If he gets a working majority in both houses of Congress, he will deliver some real blows at the enemy. Governor Wilson said the other

"Of course the tariff will be the dominant issue. It will not be the sele issue, of course, but it will be the most important. Undoubtedly the tariff is the centre of the problem of the trusts and of the present cost of living. As a matter of fact it is interlaced in public questions of all kinds. A majority of the trust questions have risen out of the tariff situation. The minute you start from the centre, the tariff problem, you go into the trust quesyou play Delilah to the trust Samson. The New York Sun, a Taft journal, has the coolness to say, apropos of the Democratic candidate's remarks on the tariff, that "Governor Wilson timent will justify more advanced cnows better than he that trusts exist without protection, and that the rise in the cost of living is not confined to the United States or to protected nations." Mr. Wilson or any other eccnomist need not lay "too much stress upon the malign influence" of the McKinley-Payne-Aldrich tariff; it would be hard to do so. Trusts may 'exist without protection," but that is a lame, tame way of arguing that high protection does not fatten those which don't exist without it. That the rise in cost of living is not confined to protectionist countries, that there are various causes for this phenomenon, is no reason why one cause, and that apparently the leading cause in the United States, should not be removed. The Sun is doubtless alarmed at the probability of Mr. Wilson's election. There is nothing that the predatory combines fear so much as tariff reduction. The Sun proceeds in a deprecatory tone suggestive of a thief caught

"Say the Democrats get in. They have promised to reduce the cost of living? Can they do it? Will reducing the tariff do it? May it not be a delusion or illusion, as many unprejudiced persons believe, that the tariff has much effect upon the cost of living?"

It hardly stands to reason, however, that cutting a 92 per cent. tariff in two, as the Underwood bill attempted, will not make the consumer

THE TYRANNY OF NATURE

[By Special Arrangement With the Winnipeg Telegram.]

Man has not escaped from the tyranny of Nature in her sterner moods. According to the poet, who wrote the 91st Psalm, the ancients feared the noisome pestilence, the lion, the adder, and the dragon. Other psalmists mention the terrors of the sea, the earthquake, the tempest and the flood. These latter visitations continue to mock at the boasted power of modern man. In this very year we have read, with heartfelt sympathy, of the victims of the Mississippi flood, of the wreck of the Titanic, of the Regina cyclone. Thanks to modern science we are prepared to fight successfully the pestilence that walketh in darkness, the destruction that wasteth by noonday, but scarlet fever and meningitis still reap an awful toll of death among the children every year, and the white plague of the north still slays its tens of thousands annually. We no longer fear the lion, the adder and the dragon, but we do fear the attack of that unseen enemy, of which the psalmists, and even our grandfathers, never dreamed, the ubiquitous and merciless microbe. In spite of all our learning and progress, Nature, cold, impassive, terrible, is able at times to let loose her agents of destruction to the undoing of puny man. Even the placid stars in the summer skies may well seem to the imaginative student "Pittless fires that burn and brand his nothingness into man."

cataclysms and catastrophes have happened with alarming frequency all down through history, and, of course, in prehistoric times. The coming of the glacial age was one of those mysterious ancient horrors, which the modern scientist has never yet satisfactorily explained. Beside that wide and awful destruction the worst earthquake or the most violent cyclone seems trivial indeed. And we have no assurance against a repetition of this event, which sent whole lands be neath the seas, which caused the Noachian deluge, and wiped off nearly all animal and human life from the face of the earth. It seems strange that the atmosphere, which we breathe, upon which we depend for every breath that we draw, should also be one of the chief sources of perils against which we are practically helpless. It is in the air that countless billions of microbes make their [Judge.]

The fact of the matter is that

The most interesting thing about the atmosphere is the presence of volcanic dust in the upper strata. It is claimed could never find any glory of color in the sunset, and that this discharge of carbon dioxide gas and dust into the air is absolutely necessary to the growth of all vegetation upon the earth. Thus by one of her strange processes Nature uses the product of the volcano, one of man's terrors, to sustain his life. Nature seems careless of the individual life, but there is a large wisdom behind her mysterious ways, and beneficence is her favorite work. Even the death-dealing cyclone may have a useful and needful place in her economy, and the microbe may be more of a blessing than a curse.

"Dee deedle!" Hark, the old grasshopper tunes his squeaking fiddle. If now we could slip up behind him before the day is old, before the dew is off the shining grass, before the clouds obscure the kindly, smiling sun.

There it is in the grass, the flat stone, right at our very feet. Isn't that the print of a curious foot, there by the end of the stone? Courage, a strong hand, a ready spirit, a quick tug and it will be done. The talisman, the talisman—alas, the word you dreamed last night has gone—the stone will not move, and yet you see summer dresses, unless they are creations word you dreamed last hight has some the broad, white staircase leading down, down, down—to of a great dressmaker's art, never look as if the stone were gone, the broad, white staircase leading down, down—to

The first authentic information that the great

by the conservative dresser, yet a touch from the great designing house of Poiret can be added to many gowns with splendid effect.

Mme. 'Paquin has not yet spoken, but it can be said with confidence that she will bring out this fall some modification of the pannier.

Nearly all the street coats I have seen so far much more fitted to the figure than those of last year. Most of them are cut away in front as well.

Skirts have all sorts of unexpected ways of putting in fullness. A swagger street frock from Berruerd

To Launder Chintz

Many housewives are afraid to attempt the washing of chintzes at home, but there need be no fear of doing the laundering if these directions are followed: Shake the loose dust from the chintz, or, if necessary, brush it off with a soft brush. Soak the covers for at least 12 hours, and if they are very dirty change the water once or twice. If they are being washed for the first time it is well to add salt to the steeping water to prevent the color from run-

Miss May Sutton, of Pasadena, Cal., i naking efforts to regain her title as international lawn tennis champion, lost by default several years ago, and is playing well at the Tri-State games this week in Cincinnati, Ohlo. Miss Sutton's career as a tennis player is exceptionally interesting. She is now twenty-six years old, and has competed with the world's best players since twelve years of age In 1900 she won, with an elder sister, the California championship in doubles, which they held for two years. In 1904 she won both the national and middle states championship, and at successive tournaments in England in June, 1905, conquered the English championship in men's singles.

Miss Sutton enters into the game largely for the love of it, rather than for the glory of winning. She does not believe a restricted diet is necessary for success in athletics. "I eat what I want, when I want it," she says. Miss Sutton anticipates the outcome of a game in a grey forming way. "I guess this thing." anticipates the outcome of a game in a very feminine way. "I guess this thing called intuition, which all women are supposed to have, is highly developed in me," she states. ## FURIOSO WON THE 2:10 PACE 2:19 PACING STAKE HELD OVER

Rain Prevented Running Off of Yesterday's Complete Card-2:19 Pace Will Be Run Off Today-Wild Patchen Won the 2:14 Pace.

The gallopers went one heat. Ther on Wednesday afternoon, and received the decision. As a result the 2:19 pacing stake was carried over until today, and the second heat of the runday, and the second heat of the running race was called off. However the iast pace and the 2:14 stake were decided. There was a good crowd present, although not so large as the merits of the racing deserved.

A great deal of interest was centred in the fast pace, postponed from Tuesday. The winner turned up in James McDowell's great pacer, Furioso. This lad has the lick, but is shy on manners and as a result he does not always show to advantage. On Tuesday he captured the first heat, but after that was not heard of. On Wednesday afternoon he was on his good behavior and paeed two as clever heats as could be desired. He and St. Anthony went at it hammer and tongs for the first heat, and had it between them, the other three horses being out of it. Furioso had the foot of the Indianapolis gelding, and won with some-thing to spare. The others were sent to the barn in the sixth heat, St. Anthony and Furioso going together. The American nag was tired and Furioso won easily.
Wild Patchen Wins.

Scratches cut the life out of the 2:11 pacing stake, both Paddy Mc-Kinley and Vera B., who were expected to furnish the battle, being lame. Only three horses faced the barrier, with Storm the favorite. Wild Patchen marched off with the race in straight heats. Crummer, driving Storm, carried Cope very wide in the back stretch, losing the Yarmouth horse whatever chance he had in the third heat to land the money. Wild Patchen paced three fine heats. Nine competitors started in the final of the 10,000 metres walk. George Goulding, of Toronto, took the lead immediately, and was engaged in a hard race with E. J. Webb, England, from the beginning. Miles.

At the beginning of the last mile the Canadian led the Englishman by 30 yards, and the Italian was 200 yards behind Webb. Goulding had increased his lead to 50 yards by the be-ginning of the last lap, and continued to increase it till he crossed the tape when he was 80 yards ahead.

After the race a small delegation of Canadians among the spectators amused the crowd by shouting a complicated yell.

The Hurdle Race. In the hurdle race the United States team took eight firsts and one second. The majority of the heats were not races, because in most cases there were only two runners, and as first and second in each heat are entitled to compete in the semi-finals, there was no incentive to fast running. Other nations represented in the semi-finals are England, by H. E. H. Blackeny and G. R. L. Anderson; France by three men, and Finland, Hungary, Germany, Italy and Chile by one man played, and the trophy was narrowed down to the finals, which will be decided at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon.

The semi-finals in the trophy competition were the most important games of the day. C. Abbott and D. Swift, of London Thistles played against each other, the former winning by four shots, after leading all through the game. At the seventh end he had only one up, but on the eighth he was four up, which lead he held.

The other game, between M. H. Van Valkenburg, of Balmy Beach, and D. G. Husband, of Brantford Heathers, was the most exciting of the day. In the first nine ends Husband was seven up, and it looked like a sure win for the Brantford man; but in the next six ends Van Valkenburg played in excellent style, and scored twelve to his opponent's three, thus winning by two shots. Van Valkenburg and Abbott will now meet in the finals. A Toronto rink and a London rink were in the finals last year, when the Toronto men won, and tomorrow's games will be worth seeing, as London will try to avenge their defeat of last year.

BRITAIN OPPOSES THE PANAMA CANAL BILL

Formal Protest To Be Made on Grounds That Treaty Is Violated.

[Canadian Press.] Washington, July 11.-The Panama Canal bill, now pending in the Senate, has met with such disapproval on the part of the British Government, that an effort will be made to have it held up. Formal protest against the pending measure will be made on the ground that it is a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty insuring the equal use of the canal to the vessels of commerce and war of the world.

It has been known that the provision in the canal bill, whereby preference is given to American coastwise ships over foreign ships has met with stout British opposition.

TELEGRAPHED HIS LOVE; RESULTS DISASTROUS

Alienation of Affections Charge Because of Error in Transmission.

New York, July 10. — One of the most unusual and yet easily explainable errors, in the transmission of a telegraph message has resulted in claim for damages against one of the telegraph companies for tearing two loving hearts asunder and breaking up an engagement that was soon to end in matrimony. It is understood that the company is charged with alienating the young woman's affections

The names of the parties to the elegraph message are withheld, but the facts are that a few weeks ago a young man had a sudden and over-whelming feeling of affection for the young woman to whom he was en-gaged, which had to be communicated to her by means of transmis-sion or under the mails. The young man hastened to a telegraph office, and wired: "I love you forever." Then he paid his quarter and walked out of the office, relieved to know that in an hour or so his intended would know just how he was feeeling about it at that time. The operator who sent the message probably forwarded the written copy faithfully, because he saw the sender of the message and must have known what was in the young man's mind. The man at the receiving instrument may have done the best he could also, but when the message was delivered to the addressee it read:

"I leave you forever."
Under the circumstances, there was nothing or her to do but send back the young man's gifts, his engagement ring, and all his letters, and it is understood that before the sender the message could communicate with her she had accepted another offer of matrimony and nothing could Hence the claim without a fatality occurring. be done about it. for damages against the telegraph

The company's defence is that the ompany. inistake was not due to negligence, but that the Morse alphabet for "love" and "leave" is so much alike that trouble on the wires caused the

Tales of Battle Told by Tars in Montreal Court.

Montreal. July 10 .- Tales of excitement on the high seas were recounted in the police court before Judge Leet today, when four sailors, two from the Andoni, and two from the Devona, were arraigned on charges which in cluded theft from ship's stores, assault on their captains, stabbing a fireman, and insubordination.

William Kelly and James Judge, of the Devona, returned to their ship one night in an inebriated condition, and after roundly abusing the captain, proceeded to assault him. After a battle on the ship's decks the captain, with the aid of his second triumphed. Six weeks was the sentence given the two men.

A sailor called Wehr, of the Andoni, was charged with stealing from the ship's stores, refusing to work, strik-ing the captain, and stabbing a fire-man. Captain Sola said that on the man. Captain Sola said had not last voyage the man refused to work, and one night, when he criticized his and one night, when he face. He and one night, when he criticized his steering, struck him in the face. He then argued with one of the firemen over which of them was to pay the keep of a pet monkey, and finally stabbed the man with a jackknife. None of the charges were proved in the opinion of the judge, who held the same opinion in the case of a second sailor, Walker, who was charged with refusing to work for eight days, and with having sent a message io the captain to come forward and see him if he had anything to say to him. men were discharged, and the advised the captain "to try to better with your men."

rooted and Craft in the Bay Wrecked.

Toronto, July 11.-Toronto was in the grip of the storm king yesterday afternoon. Accompanied by a heavy electrical disturbance, the wind swept over the city with almost a cyclonic velocity, leaving in its wake a number of wrecked craft on the bay, trees torn up by the roots, branches strewn about the streets and parks, and generally demoralizing navigation, and traffic in the down-town section of the city. While the storm was on there were also a number of narrow escapes by citizens from serious injury by falling articles, while one boy was seriously injured, and one woman picked from her feet at the corner of King and Yonge streets and thrown with On the bay a number of heroic rescues were made as the result of small craft being swamped, and it is stated by old sailors on the bay and lake that it was miraculous the storm passed over

WILL TURNS UP

London Paper Says Coghlan Document Was Found at Cheltenham.

London, July 10 .- A dispatch from Cheltenham says the will of the late Henry Thomas Coghlan, who died in 1892, leaving an estate valued at ap-eximately $3,500,000, for which a neward of $50,000 was offered, has been found. This will, it was thought, was in favor of the dead man's parental relatives.

Emma Coghlan, who died in 1820, left $500,000 to her son. Henry Thomas. The latter lived the life of a recluse at a house in Hyde Park Gardens, and by prudent investments and parsimonious living he ran the amount up to $3,500,000. He quarreled with everyone, shut himself up in his house and saw none of his relatives for 50 years. When he died the house was ransacked for a will, but none was found. The fortune was divided among the next of kin, but there was much litigation, and at last one bogus claimant turned up.

The estate had been administered since 1892 by the late Baronet Sir Henry Delves Broughton. There were numerous claimants to the estate, as Paris, July 10 .- Jean Finot, the distinguished Franco-Polish philosopher and socialist and editor of La Revue. feels flattered that Colonel Roosevelt found time at the height of the political campaign to write a letter approving the ideas in M. Finot's latest book, "Sex Prejudice." An indiscreet friend of the author, who had read the Roosevelt letter, told a newspaperman that Mr. Roosevelt declared himself in favor of equal rights for women, but said they must not overlook their duties, and added that the same idea applied to men. Such revolutions in the past have been achieved by half of humanity—society has been in a state of disequilibrium. The advancement of women has established the equilibrium that is essential to further develop-ment of the human race. Nothing can halt the revolution which will make woman not similar, but equal to man, nor will the elevation of woman degrade man, he argues. On the conrary the new relation of sexes will be a moral tonic to both. The new era for voman means in effect that she will live twenty years longer than under the old conditions of servitude. ## ADULTERATION OLD Practices in Ancient Egypt Suggested by First Century Note.

London, July 10.—There has just been placed in exhibition in the Graeco-Roman gallery of the British Museum a small letter which dates back to the first century A. D. and which throws light upon the medical profession of that period. The letter is written upon a sheet of papyrus about the size of a half sheet of ordinary note paper. The writer was a certain Procleius, a resident of Alexandria, the recipient being a drug merchant named Pecysis at Oxyrhyneus in the Fayum. The missive reads as follows: "Procleius to his dearest Pecysis greeting:

"Be so good as to sell at your risk good quality of those drugs which my friend Sotas says that he has need of, so that he may bring them to Alexan-dria. For if you do otherwise and give

The letter was folded and sealed with a clay seal and was indersed to Pecyslis. It is conjectured that he was one of those Greek merchants who employed native Egyptians to gather samples for them and repare extracts and decoc-tions which they supplied to the doctors of Alexandria and other great cities. The discovery of the letter affords a new illustration of the unchanging character of life in the east. Many drug sellers of precisely the same character are to be found today in Akhmin, Girgeh and other towns of the Nile Valley. The tone of the letter indicates that the commercial standards of the drug lealers of that day were open to crit icism.

Finn was knocked down and held by three of the gang, while the other two dragged the girl into a shanty on the side of the road. The screams of the girl, and the shouts of Finn for assistance attracted the attention of a couple of men who came along the road in an automobile a few minutes later. When the automobile rushed up to the spot where Finn was being held, the three Italians fied toward the shanty to which the girl had [Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, July 11. - The water supply in Sarnia has contained quite a quantity of sand for several days past, and local citizens are beginning to wonder if the intake pipe is in need of repairs again. The man could speak only two or three words in English, but it was learned from a letter found on his person that he landed in New York from the old country about two weeks ago and travelled through the States to Huron, crossing from there by ferry to Sarnia, where he was stopped by the inspector on duty. His name is given as Papaduk, and he claims to be a brother of a Polack of the same name living here, and arrested about a week ago in connection with an affair which took place in the Russian boarding house at the south end of the Dominion Premier Makes Statement at the Royal Colonial Institute Dinner.

London, July 10.-Premier Borden made a historic first speech tonight at a record-breaking gathering of the Royal Colonial Institute. The company numbered 270 representatives from every part of the empire.

Among those attending were: Sir James Bevan Edwards, who presided; the Duke of Argyle, Earl Brassey, Lord Strathcona, Earl Stanhope, Admiral Sir Nathaniel Bowden-Smith, Lord Cowdray, Earl Onslow, Rear Admiral Kingsmill, Sir Joseph Pope, Sir Charles Rose, Mr. Norton Griffiths, M. P., Mr. Hamar Greenwood.

.The measured dignity of Mr. Borden's enunciation of Canadian policy deeply impressed the many British parliamentarians present, and when he pronounced emphatically that Canada stood for one King, one flag, one empire, one navy, the cheering was vociferous and long-continued. The applause was renewed when Mr. Borden added that no jot of Canada's dearly-won autonomy need be, or should be, sacrificed. Perhaps two of the most impressive passages speech were the tribute French-Canadian loyalty, immediately followed by a declaration that the supremacy of the navy on the seas is the very breath of the life of the British Empire. As regards both immediate co-operation to meet the present emergency and a permanent basis of partnership in defence, it was enough at the present to say, he added, that Canadian people came of races who had never failed to realize and act upon a deep sense of their responsibilities to the British pub-

ROWELL REPLIES TO SIR JAMES

Borden Declares Canada Is Not Shows That Licensed Clubs Increased Under the Whitney Government.

Liberal Leader Makes a Strong Appeal to Temperance Conservatives to Abolish the Bar.

Belleville, July 10. — "We have Belleville, July 10. — "We have a unique opportunity in this Province today. If the people who believe that the bar should go will unite to do that, if Conservatives will say to Sir James Whitney, 'You must choose between the bar and our support,' both parties will write at the next seeboth parties will unite at the next ses-sion of the Legislature and forever wipe out the licensed bar in this Provinve. In clear, ringing tones Mr. N. W. Rowell gave out this challenge to the people of Ontario today at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Liberal Club of Hastings. It was more than a challenge. It was a declaration of faith. "It matters little," said he, "whether Sir James Whitney abolishes the bar or I abolish the bar; the important issue is whether the bar shall

A Clear Speech

That the temperance programme of the Liberal leader is exciting more than passing interest was evidenced by the close attention given to his re marks. Mr. Rowell dealt extensively with the situation regarding licensed clubs, and left no doubt as to the meaning of his speech at London Owing to the limits of provincial jurisdiction, he said that any possible temperance reform would have to be less than prohibition. "By the abolition of the bar we mean the bar-room, the room behind the bar, the entire sale of liquor in hotels, complete divorcement of the sale liquor from the business of keeping house of public entertainment. (Hear, hear.) Recognized by law, the bar was a social institution. "By their fruits ye shall know them," he declared. "Conservatives are just as much interested in the future welfare of this Province as Liberals. Does the open bar improve the life in the town or in the country?"

A Voice—No!
"If you say yes, why don't come out and defend it with all your energy and power? If you say no, have the courage of your convictions; unite with me to wipe it out." (Applause.)

Deals With Clubs.

Dealing with the residue of the iquor traffic as represented by the clubs and shop licenses, Mr. Rowell referred to the controversy arising out of his London speech on July 1. "Sir James Whitney says I did not "Sir James Whitney says I did not say enough," asserted Mr. Rowell, having regard to the Prime Minister's interview. "Sir James did not see all I said, and what he did see was not an exact report. But he was careful not to quote all he did see. It would not have served his purpose to have done so. I will try and sat-isfy Sir James today by saying some-thing more about clubs." Bar and Club.

It was impracticable, Mr. Rowell went on, to make a distinction between the bar and the club, so the cement chicken house was torn off and lifted 40 feet and crashed against the side of a barn.

Robert Pope had remained in the barn that was unroofed to quiet the horses, and when the wind took the trees at present.

TO BE FORM port of this he quoted from the re-port of the license branch of the provincial secretary's department for 1911, at page 57, which showed the different classes of licenses issued from 1874 until 1910. The first licenses appearing under the class of clubs are for the year 1906, when 24 are noted. In the same report the provincial secretary is careful to explain an increase in the number of wholesale licenses by stating that by an amendment to the license act vholesale firms outside the province doing business within the province have been compelled to take out licenses. There was no suggestion in the report that any of the clubs had authority, prior to the issue of the licenses, to sell liquor. At the time of making his London speech Mr. Rowell believed that to be the case, and such information as he was able to obtain since confirmed that view.

Whitney Wrong.

The Prime Minister said that

The Prime Minister said that clubs which were in existence when came into power were acting charters "which gave them under charters the power to sell intoxicating liquor." Mr. Rowell had caused inquiry to be made at the provincial secretary's department, and while they had not completed their search, the officials of the department, at the time of inquiry, were unable to name any club the charter of which gave power to sell intoxicating liquor. In fact, so far as he could learn, the charters to which Sir James Whitney referred contained absolutely no reference to the sale of liquor.

There undoubtedly were clubs in existence before the present Government came into power which sup-plied their members with liquor, but apparently they stood in the same position as dining-cars on railway trains, which sell liquor although not authorized to do so by law.

authorized to do so by law.

"One of the most gratifying features of the situation is that the number of men, members of clubs, who have heartily indorsed our policy, many not because they think the club license an evil as our best clubs, are conducted but because clubs are conducted, but because open bar, and are willing to sacrifice what they consider their personal convenience for the public good.

The license law in force when the present Government came into power, and which still remained in force, prohibited any person selling liquor by wholesale or retail without a li-cense, and under the general interpretation of the act, "persons" would include a body corporate, which would be clubs.
Continuing, Mr. Rowell said, assuming that there were clubs which had been permitted to sell liquor when the Whitney Government came into office, the number of such clubs apparently was 24, the number during thirty-three years of Liberal rule. During the six years that the Whit-ney Administration had been in power additional club licenses had been granted making the total now 56.

had been a steady increase.
"It is a matter of small importance to know when or how club licenses originated. The real, practical issue before the people today is: Shall the bar and club licenses be abolished? s' the issue upon which the wish to know where their people wish leaders stand.

HIGH SOUNDING BUT REASONABLE

Editorial Comment on Premier Borden's Navy Speech at London.

[Canadian Press.] Brantford, July 11.—The Expositor today says that Premier Borden's declaration that the dominions must have some voice in the Empire's councils in issues of war or peace is highounding, but reasonable. If, says the Expositor, the dominions are to contribute to the naval defence of the Empire, it involves a sacrifice of autonomy which is not called for under the Laurier plan of leaving each colony free to decide for itself whether or not it will participate in a war in which the mother country is involved. What the colonies will do when occasion necessitates was shown in the South African War, but it would be very awkward if the Mother Country could not engage in a war with some hill tribe of India without first securing the consent of all the self-governing colonies.

The Spectator. The Spectator.

Hamilton, July 11.—The Spectator editorially says in part today:

"There are," says Mr. Borden, "two considerations before us. The first touches the immediate gravity of existing conditions." Everyone must know what this means. There is danger at any moment of the outbreak of war between Great Britain and Germany and of a trial of strength between their respective navies in the North Sea. The only way in which Canada could effectively assist the Mother Country in such an event would be in the supplying of one or two Dreadnoughts to be absorbed by the imperial fleet. The time must come when Canada will equal the parent country in population and wealth. In proportion as she as-sumes the dignity and the responsibility of such a position, she must share the counsels not less than the defence of the erown. The American colonists used to say: "Millions for defence, but not a ent for tribute." We know how to improve upon that. We can render voluntary and cheerful tribute as a thank-offering. We can join in the burdens of imperial defence, after having been consulted in the decision for peace or war

OVERCOME BY HEAT

Petrolea Women Fell Unconscious in the Street at Sarnia.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Sarnia, July 9.- Considerable excitenent was created at the ferry dock oday, when a stout middle-aged lady fell to the ground in a faint. The woman is from Petrolea, and came in on the train intending to cross over the river to Port Huron and visit her daughter. Just as she was mounting the platform leading to the ferry ticket office she staggered and dropped down unconscious before several by-standers could reach her. She was carried into the waiting-room and restora-tives applied until she regained consciousness. The woman has a weak heart, which combined with the intense heat, was responsible for the fainting spell.

AT SOREL, QUEBEC Fell Into Water When Stepping From Boat to a [Canadian Press.]

Que., July 11. - A double drowning took place here this morning, the victims being Mrs. Adelard Chevrier and her brother-in-law, Felix Chevrier. Mrs. Chevrier was attempting to change from her brother-inlaw's boat to a raft her husband had placed beside it. She lost her head while stepping from one to the other and upset both of them. The husband was saved, but the brother-in-law and Mrs. Chevrier had gone down before a a have deplored the lack of rain and have stated that the crops this year would be enormous if rain would only come. The rain has come and gone, but while here it did inestimable good, and the people in the city as well as the country are very thankful for the downpour.

The crops in the district surrounding London have been retarded by drought The oats are short, and the surface of the fields was baked and cracked by the heat of the sun, but the rain yesterday improved the situation immensely. The highest temperature registered today was at 2 o'clock, when the thermometer went up to 82. The minimum temperature registered was 65.

Last Year's Record. While the heat of the past ten days has been nearly unbearable in the city, the heat record of last year has not been attained. Last year, on July 3 and 4, the records at the local observatory the records at the local observatory the records at the local observatory showed a temperature of 161.5, which was the highest for the last hundred years. This year the record to date is 92.5, reached on Monday and Tuesday of this week. This fact should help a great deal in assisting the citizens to with stand the heat of the present month.

The weather man has promised to send several rains like yesterday to this heat orpressed district, so everyone, ro matter how severe the weather is, can look forward to cooler weather in a few days.

Montreal, July 11.—The Herald (Liberal) says:

"Mr. Borden's speech at the Colonial "Mr. Borden's speech at the Colonial Institute last evening emphasized the two aspects from which the question of a Canadian contribution to the Imperial navy must be considered. There is the necessity for providing Great Britain with a fleet capable of making victory to the contribution of a European swift and sure in orse of a European war, and there is also the necessity for war, and there is also the necessity for laying the foundations of a permanent Imperial naval policy. If the Imperial authorities need two or three more Dreadnesights, Canada could contribute them without prejudice to any future plans she might desire to make.

Springbank Was the Mecca of Merry - Makers From the City and District.

RAIN FELL IN TORRENTS

But the Picnickers Did Not Allow This Fact to Spoil the Pleasures of the Day.

And the rain descended, and the floods came, and thereby caused a wail of woe and a keen disappointment to many hundreds of picnickers at Springbank yesterday! Jupiter Pluvius held the reins of power from the hours of 3 to 6, and to the younger holiday-makers it seemed unjust that he should play havoc with the weather bureau at such a time, though the acults sagely shook their heads and were willing to sacrifice their pleasures, and acknowledge the good those same showers were doing to the coun-

However, as the rain god showed no leniency, harbors of refuge were sought, and standing room around the pavilion was soon at a premium. Many received a ducking, but it was taken good naturedly.

A Big Day.

The Hensall picnic was the largest on the grounds. Many of this contingent came from the neighboring towns of Exeter. Clinton, Kippen and Brucefield. No races were planned or run off, as they did not intend making a strenuous day of it. One hundred members of the Southern Congregational Church, under the guidance of Rev. W. H. Claris, were having a splendid series of races, but these were rudely interrupted by the rain.

Races and events had not been planned by other Sunday schools and societies which were there, and consequently were not disappointed along those lines.

Other picnics were as follows: Thorndale Methodists, Empress Ave-nue Sunday school; Sunday school of St George's Church, Gospel Hall, Hamilton Road, Southern Congregational, Centennial Methodist Sunday school, Catholic Order of Foresters, and King Street Presbyterian Church.

WILSON LECTURES ATLANTIC CITY

Says the Famous American Resort Should Have More Moral Pride.

Atlantic City, July 11.-What Atlantic City lacks and needs most is moral pride is the opinion of Governor Woodrow Wilson, who addressed a throng of 5,000 persons at the laying of the cornerstone of the Y. M. C. A. building here today. It was the nominee's first appearance on the platform since the Baltimore convention, and the crowd cheered him enthusias-

"I am speaking to those who live here," he said, "and not the strangers within your gates. What Atlantic City needs most is moral pride. A man is ashamed to be caught in a dirty trick, and a community ought to be ashamed to be caught in a dirty practice." The governor was introduced by John Wanamaker, former postmastergeneral, who referred to him as "a plain man and a learned statesman." The introduction, especially the "plain man" part of it, the governor said, reminded him of his favorite limerick, which he recited thus:

For beauty I am not a star; There are others more handsome by far;

But my face I don't mind it,
For I am behind it;
There are others in front that I jar."

The governor, in his address, praised the unselfish spirit and the work of the Y. M. C. A. "One of the great dangers of Atlantic City," said he in closing, "is that so many men come here so far from their homes that they believe no home folk are around to watch them. They are too apt to adjourn their morals and have a fling. If they only thought that the people at home were here they would keep steady."

FINE NEW STEAMSHIPS FOR DOMINION TRADE

Eight Liners To Be Built For Second Class and Steerage Passengers to Canada.

New York, July 10 .- The American learned yesterday that eight new transatlantic liners are now being built for exclusive use in the Canadian trade. The four big companies which are building two each are the White Star Line, the Allan Line, the Canadian Pacific and the Cunard Steamship Company. P. A. S. Franklin, vice-president of the International Mercantile Marine, was recently in Montreal for several days, and his visit there at this time

BYLAWS DEFEATED

Joint Building and New Bridges Will Not Be Built.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Brooke, July 11. — The people turned down the bylaw voted on in the township to erect a united building for town hall and township building at Alvinston; also to construct three new bridges—the Rokely bridge, between the ninth and seventh concessions, another on the seventh concession, and a third, the McVicar bridge. Quite an exciting time prevailed and further interesting developments in the township council are expected. Nichol and Alex. McIntyre had their barn-raising on Monday, Besides, another building was moved to a new po-sition. With the extra work done some weeks ago, the farm surroundings have been considerably changed. Mrs. McPhail and son, from Mosa are visiting at her old home, with Mrs. N. McVicar.
