MR. A. O. GRAYDON WAS APPOINTED

Is Made Consulting Engineer of the City of London and Also Building Inspector.

DEBATE IN THE COUNCIL

Recently Resigned Official Had Very Many Friends-Mr. Wright Is Made Engineer.

At the special meeting of the council held yesterday afternoon, Mr. A. O. Graydon was appointed consulting en-gineer and building inspector for the city, for the balance of the year, at a salary of $1,200 per annum. Assistant Engineer George Wright was appointed city engineer, but a motion by Ald. Saunders to raise his salary from $1,300 to $1,700 was not dealt with A great deal of discussion took place before it was finally decided to appoint Mr. Graydon consulting engineer. The original motion by Ald. Eckert was to make him building inspector at a salary of $1,200 per annum. This was seconded by Ald. Underwood.

A Suggestion. Ald. Tancock said he thought the council should give Mr. Graydon a present and fix the matter up that way. He understood that the council could give employees who were retiring becasue of old age three years' salary.

Ald. Richter said Mr. Graydon is not retiring because of old age.

Ald. Saunders pointed out that Mr. Graydon can be of the greatest service to the city from the knowledge he possesses, and moved that he be appointed building inspector and consulting engineer.

Rose pointed out, in seconding Ald. the motion, that in the past Engineer Graydon has saved the city large amounts of money in lawsuits from his knowledge of things.
Ald. Underwood asked if a chart had been kept of all the sewers and underground work that has been done. Continued on Page Ten.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The City of Vancouver, Canada's most westerly commercial and industrial metropolis, is situated on a promontory of the mainland of British Columbia, overlooking the waters of Burrard Inlet and the Gulf of Georgia, with their perennially fascinating wealth of scenic Z

Although the city was founded as late as 1886, it now boasts a population of 150,000 souls, and is admittedly one of the most important commercial centres on the Pacific Coast. Its commercial standing is founded on the fact that it is the terminal of three trans-continental railways, and the home port of several fleets of trans-Pacific steamship companies. Besides the railway lines already entering the city, two others are rushing construction to Vancouver, while several lines to connect the various parts of the interior of the province with Vancouver are being surveyed.

Vancouver enjoys an ideal location, being particularly well adapted for business purposes and at the same time possessing the best possible conditions for a place of residence. section of the city, together with the older residential portion, is situated on a peninsula with gentle elevation, sloping both north-ward and southward to the sait water channels which all but sur-

SECTION FIVE.

Many tourists are passing through the city this summer. Almost every day we are taking care of luggage, wraps, etc., of auto tourists in our check room. That's what it is intended for, and everybody is welcome to use it without fee or remuneration of any kind, one of the conveniences of this store which belongs to the general public. Auto tourist parties are more numerous each season, and the auto is becoming one of the best advertisements that has yet come our way. Thousands of people on their way across the continent stop in our city, spending the day or night, who otherwise would pass through in a Pullman sleeper and miss seeing one of the prettiest cities of Ontario, the Forest City of the

Not only do we hear complimentary remarks from tourists about our city, and the conveniences and accommodations of such a retail establishment in a city of this size, but the biggest surprise to the tourists from across the line is the prices British, French and all foreign silks and woollen dress fabrics are sold for here, and it is not to be wondered at the number of dresses and suits picked up by these visitors every season, when you consider that when you reach the dollar prices or over, it is doubled by their high tariff at home.

JILTED MAN DROPS FROM BRIDGE TOWER

One Whose Love Was Unrequited Shows Sorrow in Picturesque Way.

New York, July 15. - A man whose love had been unrequited, except with ridicule, and who took a picturesque and symbolistic way of expressing his disaster, climbed to the top of the Brooklyn tower of the Williamsburg bridge tonight, and jumped off. He struck a big sand-box on the level of the bridge roadway, 205 feet below, and now lies in the Eastern District Hospital in Brooklyn, with no conceivable chance of living.

Samuel Teu, of Williamsburg, was sitting on a bench on the bridge walk this evening, when the man strolled up, pulled out a pack of cigarettes and offered Teu one. Teu took t. The stranger took one himself and lit both. He was studying a final edition of the evening paper, and his eyes searched restlessly through the racerack news.

Teu noticed that the man was about 35, had brown hair and eyes, and might weigh 175 pounds. He stood 5 feet 10. He was smooth-shaven and wore a Panama hat, a grey striped suit and a blue tie. A red carnation was in his coat lapel.

The stranger saw what he wanted Without a word of any sort he handed the paper to Teu, pointing to the fifth and last race at the Empire City track, Yonkers, and indicating the words, Bad News won." Teu took the paper and as he did so the man turned abruptly and began to climb through the lattice work to the roadway on the other side.

While Teu sat slightly bewildered, the stranger was clambering through the steel of the network around the base of the Brooklyn tower. He reached the top of the tower, 205 feet above the roadway, from which he had started to climb, and 335 feet above the water's edge below. He took off his coat and hung it on a knob of steel lattice work. Then he simply dropped

Commencement Exercises at the If It's To Be of Any Use to the Empire in Time of Danger,

London, July 15, - Lord Charles Beresford reappeared unrepentant and incorrigible before the Cecil Club, an nusical and elecution recital, organization formed years ago for the purpose of stimulating the stalwart feeling among Conservatives of the Salisbury pattern.

> Rudyard Kipling introduced him in a speech of exceeding ineffective prose after a pleasant dinner at the Whitehall Rooms, and the naval warrior soon took advantage of the occasion to reinforce all that he had ever said as a eformer of the navy.

Lord Charles made a long and interesting speech on the condition of the fleet, and laid stress on the fact that the nation could never be prepared for war unless it had a war staff, which it ters. Lord Charles contended with strenuous eloquence that the recent inquiry inspired by his letter to the prime minister had proved his case, namely, that the country was entirely unprepared for war, notwithstanding the lavish expenditures for the navy, and that it would never be secure until there was a war staff, systematically organized for the business of fighting in an emergency, and in that way preventing hostilities altogether.

A large company of Conservative diners clinked their glasses in recognition of the truthfulness of England's favorite naval orator, and, with shrill cries of "Condor!" accentuated their

The Question (?) Whether Or Not Join the Williams Piano

A lady came in yesterday to buy a piano. She was undecided. She did not know whether to buy an old, well-known make or join the Williams Piano Club.

She was afraid that a good piano could not be sold at the Club price ($257.50). There must be something wrong with it, else it couldn't be sold at so low a price.

We showed her all the good points about the piano and explained the club plan the best we could, but still she couldn't see it, and like some other women, she couldn't be convinced. It wound up by her buying a New Scale Williams. She paid 4 hundred and 50 dollars for it, 50 dollars cash and 12 and a half a month—though she said that the terms of the Club piano (5 dollars cash and dollar and a quarter a week), would have suited her much better just at this time.

Now we tell this incident because it has a moral; because many more persons may be in the same frame of mind.

The moral of the incident is this: that that lady could have joined the Williams Piano Club and if, as she said, the Club terms best suited her just now, she should have done so, and we will tell you why.

She would not have to have taken a chance of any kind in joining the Club.

In the first place, if she had desired it, we would, within 30 days, have given her money back. In the second place, she would have had a whole year to have tried the Club Piano. If the year's trial of the piano was not satisfactory she could then have gotten the New Scale Williams and had all her Club payments transferred to the New Scale Williams without the loss of a single penny.

The Williams Piano Club Plan Told in a Few Brief Sentences

1. The value of the Williams Club Piano is $350.

2. The price to Williams Club Members is $257.50. 3. The terms are $5.00 cash when you join, then $1.25 per week 4. The piano will be delivered, when you join, or later, as you

5. The weekly payments of $1.25 begin when the piano is de-

6. Every instrument is guaranteed without reserve - for five years. There are no "ifs" or "ands" in the guarantee — just a straight-out guarantee, as strong as we know how to make it in

7. If, after 30 days' trial, the piano is not satisfactory we will give you your money back. 8. If the piano is satisfactory after 30 days' use, the Club Member has eleven more months in which to satisfy himself as to the character of the piano. If it does not then prove to be everything that he expects he has the privilege of exchanging it penny's loss for any other instrument of equal or greater value that

9. If a club member dies during the life of his contract we will immediately send a receipt in full to his family for the instrument. 10. A beautiful stool to match the piano is included without extra we sell-and we sell over five different representative makes.

11. The piano will be tuned twice without charge.

In other words, according to our written agreement, she could have joined the Williams Piano Club; gotten her piano; paid only 5 dollars down and 1 dollar and 25 cents a week for a whole year (which she said would have best suited her), and at the end of the year gotten a New Scale Williams, had her club money transferred to her credit on the New Scale Williams and then begun her payments of 12 dollars and a half a month. By doing this, don't you see, she would have a whole year of the easiest kind of payments on the club plan, had the use of the club piano a whole year for absolutely nothing and a year hence had a brand New Scale Williams in her home instead of one a year old.

See the point?

As we said above, we tell this story, thinking that there might be others in the same frame of mind.

One woman was perhaps more as counded than anyone else. It is hard to pelieve it, but she had not known that there was an aviation meet being held n the city, and when she heard the noise last night, and saw the machine, she was badly frightened.

Another funny incident occurred at Hanlan's Point. On the beach near a Lake Shore avenue cottage enjoying the ool breezes of the early evening was a tall lady with two little boys and a grey-hound. When the airship hove into sight the mother took one amestruck look upward and then w.... a kiddie under each arm and followed by the dog with tail between its legs, the whol party "beat it" for home.

Buggy Was Upset-Lacross and Abbott, of Woodstock, May Die. Ingersoll, July 16 .- Two Woodstock men, Lacross and Abbott by name, employees of the Woodstock gun works, suffered serious injuries Thursday, as the result of a runaway. The gentlemen were returning to Woodstock, and at the outskirts of this town their horse took fright and ran away. The patent shafts on the buggy became detached, upsetting the ouggy and throwing the men violently to the ground. Both men were badly cut about the face and scalp, and it was found that Lacross sustained internal injuries. Abbott was taken back to Woodstock in an unconscious condition, and there are grave fears for his recovery.

The Home Bank will carry an Account in the names of two or more persons, each having the privilege of withdrawing or deposit-ing money over their own signatures. These are termed "Joint Accounts," and are a great convenience when one person does not find it handy to go to the Bank personally at all times, as for instance a Travelling man who may be away from the City over the week end, or a Farmer who is too busy to leave his work-in such cases the Wife, son or Daughter may be a party to the Joint Account, and transact the necessary

CHAPTER V. By the time the train reached Dover we had agreed the thing was well done.

With a bound our acquaintance had ripened into knowledge, trust, and final belief. Danger makes close friends. In belief. truth the danger was not in sight, but, like a battle charger, we both scented it, and feeling sure it was before us, laughed and joked as if it were a day afield. "Karl," I said, using the Christian name purposely; "it's a good day." "John," he answered with great seriousness, seeing the lead. "it's fine

"Crying over spilled milk won't do," I warned. "We are to be in time when warned. "We are to be in time when the trump cards are played, and it's from our own hand they are to come."
"Aye, you're right! I've been made a fool of by Zergald. Yet I'll turn the trick or die in the attempt."
"And I'll help you do the thing," I said, "but I shan't die, win or lose. I've too much respect for the joy of living, and can, if Fate turns the hand against me, make a good loser."

me, make a good loser."
"Don't talk of losing!" Karl exclaimed almost angrily.
"We won't," I replied meaning plainly that we would neither speak of it, nor do such a thing.

At Calais the change to the train was quickly effected. On the way to Paris I wrote a letter to Polly, explaining matters a bit more fully than I had been able in the brief note written at the hotel.

I knew she would never forgive me for deserting them, so resolved to give deserting them, so resolved to give little satisfaction as to my whereouts. "I have," I wrote in part, "a

"I am truly sorry to fail you and Frank at the last moment, but leave your address at the Elyssee Palais, and I'll join you as soon as my present mission permits." The first day out from Paris a good onportunity presented itself, and Karl gave me in brief some little insight into the state of affairs in Scarvania

"One year ago, to begin with," he explained, "our king died very suddenly. He and his brother, the Grand Duke of Murwurth, were driving, when the horses became frightened and ran away. Both were killed instantly, being thrown over

> "You are right. Prince Joachim is neither a fit man to rule our country, nor a safe one. He is entirely in the hands of the Grand Duke of Zergald, who is now prime minister, and who ha nearly ruined the state and the per sonal fortune of our late king." "The Duke of Kurlmurt, brother of The Duke of Kurimurt, prother of the king, naturally favors his niece instead of the prince. In this nearly all the people of Scarvania join him. She is the idol of one and all. Zergald, however, by the laws of our country is in full power until the grand dukes select the late king's successor, and that select tion, as he controls the grand dukes, will beyond a shadow of doubt be Joachim." "But I can't see what earthly claim your princess can have." I objected; "the prince is the rightful heir, no matter how undesirable he may be." "That is where these documents com in." Karl explained, speaking very low.

"The prince's father, the Grand Duke of Murwurth, visited England and the States some thirty years ago. He took his wife with him and was gone some six years in all. While they were away the duchess died, presumably giving birth to the prince. I have been to America, however, and the affidavits, now lost, prove that the Duchess of Murwurth prove that the Duchess of Murwurth died in September, 1879, while the Prince Joachim was born in June, 1880.
"Aye——" I nodded, understanding the thing now.

"Prince Joachim has no title to the throne, and is, as Kurlmurt has always contended, an impostor, the illegitimate son of his brother, the Grand Duke of Murwurth.'

"But is this generally known?"

"Only by a very few. Zergald undoubtedly knows it. Of course he will conceal the fact for his own personal advantage. If he can crown Prince Joachim, he will readily control matters, whereas if the Princess Hilms becomes whereas, if the Princess Hilma become queen, Kurlmurt will be in charge."
"But," I protested, "suppose you do prove Prince Joachim illegitimate; I fai

"Why not? "You wish to place your princess on the throne?"

'Assuredly.' "If you prevent Joachim, you throw the natural line of succession to the late king's younger brother, not to the prin-"No! No!" Karl protested; "the Salid

"Then the princess would be the next in line? "Assuredly. You see, the Salic law held with us until back somewhere in, I think, the seventeenth century. Then it was changed by the grand dukes for much the same condition as now exists. The princess as the daughter of the late king can succeed to the throne if she has no brother or first cousin." "Then all you have to do is to prove that Joachim was born after the du "Then the princess is crowned queen "And these affidavits are alone needed.

"We at least know how to do things," I agreed. "Sometimes we do them too quickly, very often we rush in, as the saying goes, where angels fear to tread, but still one can only blame us for our impetuosity, and over-anxiety to do. A man can be pardoned for a thousand errors when he really does something."

"Aye, but you do them without error." "Then I'm not an example. In giving up that envelope I committed a very grave one."

"I'm to blame for that."

Springwood Park Subdivision

Come Out and See

SMALLER RESIDENCE, VALUED AT $2,500.00.

It is just a five-minute ride on the Wellington street cars south from the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets to within 300 yards of "Springwood Park." Come and enjoy the cool breezes under the shades of Springwood Park's magnificent grove of gigantic shade trees. To do so will convince you that there is no healthier spot upon which to locate your home. All are welcome. Our representative is on the property all the time and will be at your service.

The plan illustrated here will give you an idea of the manner in which the lots have been laid out on the property. You will notice there are two exceptionally large lots, namely numbers 56 and 142. On lot number 56 is a magnificent solid brick twenty-two roomed residence, which, with a land frontage of 260 feet and a depth of 1911-2 feet, comprises one lot. On lot number 142 is a fine solid brick seven-roomed house, having a frontage of 150 feet by a depth of 125 feet. This also comprises one lot. No lot has less than a thirty-foot frontage, and there are numerous well-located lots which have frontages varying from 35 to over 55 feet.

If you will again refer to the plan you will see that all corner lots are extra large, and that lots on the north side of Springwood avenue have a depth of over 175 feet. All the avenues being wide, and in most cases well treed, the natural beauty of the landscape of the park will thus be preserved.

The location of Springwood Park makes the property not only attractive for home sites, but situated as it is, well away from factories and railroad yards amid a thoroughly established high-class residential section, land values are bound to be maintained, and as the city surrounds the property, will rapidly advance. This has been the history of every progressive city.

Springwood Park was originally chosen as a fit location for a magnificent residence, and this at a time when locations were not difficult to procure. The owner could easily have purchased practically any property in the surrounding suburbs, but chose what is now known as "Springwood Park" in preference to all others. On the property he built a fine solid brick residence, capable of accommodating a large number of guests. This house is very substantially constructed, and was erected with the object of being a permanent homestead.

Appreciating the excellent location of "Springwood Park," we have purchased the property with the object of converting it into ideal home sites. Homes for the busy man who requires rest and fresh air-for the housewife who wishes congenial neighbors and pleasant surroundings, and for the children whose health and environment must be carefully guarded.

We are now selling 285 undivided interests in this subdivision at a fixed cash price of $200 each. That is 285 interests in the park (every interest representing a lot) will be sold, and the allotment of the property will be made not later than Oct. 15, 1910. The owner of an undivided interest will then be allotted his interest in the property in the shape of a lot. This may be the house with its beautiful grounds valued at $15,000; the smaller house and lot valued at $2,500, or one of the large and valuable corner lots. In any case, he will receive a lot which is well worth $200.

Send for application forms and our booklet entitled "Interesting Facts About Springwood Park Subdivision." It bristles with entertaining matter from cover to cover, and is beautifully illustrated. Payments may be made by bank draft, money order, express order, or certified check, payable to the order of the London and Western Trusts Company, Limited, 382 Richmond Street, London, who will act as trustees in the interests of the subscribers. The Bible in Quebec.

In answer to the challenge of Mr. Thomas J. M. Dougherty re the burning of Bibles in the province of Quebec. I beg to make the following statements: A few years ago such a challenge

The fact is that the church, or the priests of Rome, do not know on foot to dance regarding this subject. Sometimes they recommend, some times they forbid, the reading of the Bible, even in Roman Catholic versions. As a rule, here in Quebec, they either forbid or discourage. ## ROBLIN'S CHARGE

Been Unjustly Dealt With By Ottawa.

Morden, Man., via Winnipeg, July 15.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tour of the west is not a political pilgrimage. The and that she feared he would never prime minister has himself defined his return. She also stated that she had purpose. It was a trip of inspection, a national stocktaking, seeing the new country, meeting new people, studying the new conditions. Back of it all are big constructive projects. Sir Wilfrid is preaching transportation. He is in conference with the two ministers, to whom he has great undertakings. To Graham he has intrusted the evolution of the Transcontinental Railway achievement. To Hon. Dr. Pugsley over the report of the lady. Once be-fore she lodged a complaint that hubby had skipped, when, as a matter ject. The opening of the locks, Sir Wilfrid stated, was the first concrete accomplishment in complete water route from the Rockies to Winnipeg. It is the present purpose of the Government to finish the work within five years. The Premier's Address.

Sir Wilfrid made a spirited and eloquent address, dealing with the boundary question on the lines of his Winnipeg speech. He exploded the propaganda of the Roblin Government that the province had been unjustly dealt with. "The territory is at his disposal whenever he wants to take it," said the Premier, amid applause. He referred to the com-ments in the Winnipeg Conservative press on his recent address, and declared that the question had surely served its political party purpose long

Mr. Rogers' Threat. Sir Wilfrid treated Hon. Mr. Rogers' threat to go to the foot of the throne humorously. 'It was not that bad man, Laurier," said the premier, "who vested the land resources in Dominion control. It was Sir John Macdonald, who had good reason, in that it was prairie land, and was best administered in the hands of those who controlled the policy of immigration.' He imagined Mr. Rogers' typical response: "Oh, yes, for a great man, for statesmanship, Sir John Macdonald may have been all right, but for practical party purposes commend me to R. P. Roblin. There's the boy." (Laughter and applause). The whole matter, Sir Wilfrid maintained, could be settled promptly and easily when-ever Mr. Roblin saw fit. Morden has doubled its population since Sir Wilfrid's last visit, sixteen years ago. It was beautifully decor-

RUNAWAY OMELET ON MARKET SOUARE

Horse in a Panic Upsets a Wagonload of Eggs.

An exciting runaway occurred on the market this morning, when a horse belonging to a local grocer dashed through the crowded square, overturning a wagon belonging to Mr. Wm. cause dby pulling spikes from the Nesbitt, a butcher. Luckily no person ails. was injured.

The horse had been left on King street in front of the market house, and in throwing up his head caught his bridle on a rig in front of him. The harness was torn off and horse started on a mad gallop for the butchers' stalls. Nesbitt's wagon was turned completely upside down, and a large quantity of eggs were thrown from the grocer's rig and smashed on the pavement. A number of men caught the runaway as he made a run for the main part of the market, which was with dozens of farmers' wagons.

By a fortunate provision of nature the man whose mind lacks subtlety and the power of sympathetic imagination is rarely enlowed with suavity of speech. These blunt and rasping sentences enable us to gauge the intellect behind them. They are worth exactly what a criti-ism on some nice point of literature would be worth from a man who spoke in slang and murdered grammar. For it does not even seem to have occured to Mr. Roosevelt that the situation which he hastily scanned at Cairo is one of complexity and delicacy. He poasted, indeed, of the intimate acquaintance with the problems of Africa which he had acquired while hunting (under the limelight) in Uganda. But his views on Egyptian politics were fully formed, and uttered to the world in a public speech within a day of his arrival at Cairo. He tore out the heart of the Egyptian mystery as he might have trampled through a jungle. The ablest men, intimate with the east, learned in Mohammedan lore, may doubt and question, hope and fear, as they watch the struggle of old and new, and the mingling of an Oriental nationalism with the cosmopelitan modern spirit. ## Sinking Spells Every Few Days

"At the time I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I was having sinking spells every few days. My hands and feet would get cold; I could scarcely breathe, and could feel myself gradually sinking away until I would be unconscious. Those about me could not tell there was life in me. After these spells I would be very weak and nervous, sleepless and without appetite; had neuralgia in my head and heart. After taking the remedy a short time all this disappeared and in a few weeks all the heart trouble was gone."

LADY OF THE LAKE ITS GREAT SUCCESS

How Scott Came to Write It-Received Two Thousand Guineas for Copyright.

Early in May, 1810, there was published Scott's third great poem, "The Lady of the Lake." It contained as a frontispiece an engraving of Saxon's portrait of the author, and was sold at two guineas. From the copyright Scott received two thousand guineas, and Lockhart remarks that he ought to have received more than this. None of Scott's former works was ever looked for with half the anxiety as was the case with "The Lady of the Lake" The cantos, as they were sent to the press, were read to select circles by James Ballantyne, and popular opinion greatly favored them. Everywhere it was anticipated that a great poem would appear, and when it was published it excited an extraordinary sensation. The first edition of 2,050 was soon sold out, and then followed in quick succession four editions, so that in a few months 20,000 copies were

In it the think more reviewer is "inclined to highly of 'The Lady of the Lake' than of either of its author's former works. In his introduction to the 1830 edition Scott tells how the poem came to be written. The Highlanders, with their ancient manner, habits and customs, seemed to him to be particularly adapted to poetry. He was also familiar with the country, where he was in the habit of spending the autumn, while the custom of James IV. -and more especially James V .-- of walking in disguise through Scotland afforded him a hint of which he made the most. While engaged on the poem a lady friend tried to dissuade him from writing it, to which Scott replies

> 'He either fears his fate too much Or his deserts are small. Who dares not put them to the touch. To win or lose it all."

> Scott took great pains to verify the accuracy of the local circumstances of the poem, one day going into Perthshire to ascertain if King James could actually have ridden from Loch Vennachar to Stirling Castle within the time supposed in the poem, and found that it was quite practicable. And notwithstanding the great success of the poem, Scott never grew conceited over it. "Never was he a partisan of his own poetry." Fallantyne relates an anecdote confirming this. Being one day in Scott's library shortly after the poem was published, he asked Miss Sophia how she liked it. She replied with perfect simplicity: "Oh. I have not read it! Papa says there's nothing so bad for young people as reading bad

TRAGEDY ENDED HAPPILY.

A Glasgow family were entertaining a group of friends, the eldest daughter having just become engaged to a very promising young man. The youngest daughter, a very delicate girl, turned somewhat faint during the evening, and her sister's flancee lifted what he took to be a bottle of perfume which stood on a table close by and threw part of its contents on the girl's face. Instantly she screamed in direst agony, and as the others came rushing in the young man found, to his undying remorse, that what he had supposed to be perfume was in reality a strong acid used by a young brother, who dabbled in chemistry, and who had carelessly left it lying about. The poor girl suffered terribly for weeks, and her face was frightfully disfigured, though her sight was spared.

The young man's regret for the tragic end to his well-meant efforts was intense, and, to make matters worse, his sweetheart broke off her with him, saying she could not bear to marry him after what had happened. He sailed for Canada, prospered there, and returned at the end of five years, to find the girl he had innocently injured living sisters having all married. There was a few weeks' courtship, then a quiet wedding, and now a happy, honored and prosperous woman blesses fervently the day which held for her all the elements of tragedy.-Exchange.

WHERE THE COAL GOES.

Who uses most of the coal? First and foremost of any single industry, the railroads consume from 90,000,000 to 100,000,000 tons a year, and these and steamships probably use nearly 30 per cent of the country's output, which is as much or more than is used for all domestic and heating purposes. This leaves approximately one-half of the total productionprincipally bituminous-to be accounted for by the industries of the country. Coal and manufacturing are terms which are in general practice closely related, but they are constantly changing their adjustments, which affect and are in turn affected by transportation. For instance, New York is the greatest manufacturing state, yet she possesses no coal mines. On the other hand, West Virginia is the third largest coal producer, but she has comparatively no manufactures. The time will undoubtedly come when West Virginia, with her vast coal resources, will stop shipping away all of her fuel, largely to New York and New England, and become a great manufacturing state. It is only necessary to consult the statistics of manufacturing of any region to arrive at a close approximation of its relative coal consumption. Some figures prepared from the 1905 ancounterfeit still more deceptive, giving thracite coal output-practically all from Pennsylvania mines-will convey an idea of where the country's hard coal renders its final accounting. In that year New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania consumed in round numbers 41,000,000 tons; New England, 8,000,000 tons; states west of the Ohio River, 7,000,000 tons; southern states, 2,000,000 tons, and Canada, 2,000,000 Only 40,000 tons were exported. EARNING A BIG SALARY.

"How does a high-salaried man earn his pay?" asks a writer in System, and proceeds to answer his own question with the following incident:

"Some time ago Frank Hedley, the general manager of the Interborough, was waiting on a subway station platform. A train drew in with the power on, reached the stop signal, and came to a sudden halt, jolting the passengers and straining the machinery. The incident gave him an idea.

"He went to a manufacturer of time clocks and gave an order for an experimental timepiece that would record elapsed time during which elec-trical power was being used by the Interborough trains. The manufacturer in due time produced a small device that could be attached to the mechanism in the motorman's box in such a way that the power could be turned on only after the time clock had been unlocked by the motorman's special key and the clock set in oper-

Instructions were issued to the motormen to coast into the stations by turning off the power as far from the stopping place as possible, and come to a gradual halt after running some rods by the force of momentum. Rewards were offered to the men whose records showed the most economical use of electric power. "At the end of the month the engineer of the line reported a reduction of over 15 per cent in the power con-sumed. The individual records of the men showed a reduction ranging from 10 per cent to 40 per cent over the amount of power used previously, Time clocks have been ordered for the other Interborough lines.

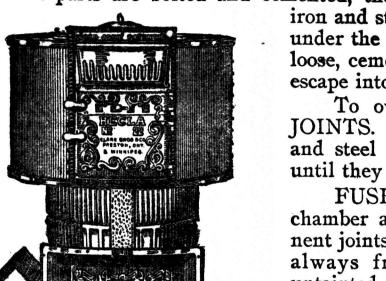

"It may be assumed that the same saving in power will be effected. The Interborough's annual coal bill for producing electric current is $2,800,-000. A saving of 15 per cent means a saving of $294,000 a year on this item alone. The sum is considerably larger than Frank Hedley's salary for a

GEGE A BURNACE

And The Most Vital Improvements Made In Warm Air Heating In 30 Years

The first vital improvement is the FUSED JOINTS.

The objection to the ordinary warm air furnace is, that where the steel and cast iron parts are bolted and cemented, the joints do not remain air-tight. The iron and steel of the furnace expand and contract under the influence of heat and cold. Bolts work loose, cement drops out and gas, dust and smoke escape into the house through these openings.

To overcome this, we perfected FUSED JOINTS. Instead of bolting and cementing iron and steel together, we fuse them at white heat until they become one solid piece of metal.

FUSED JOINTS make the combustion chamber absolutely air-tight. They are permanent joints and insure the warm, heated air being always fresh, healthful, invigorating and untainted.

HECLA FIREPOTS are reinforced by 97 steel ribs fused into the outer surface. This makes them the stiffest, strongest and most durable firepots that can be made.

The steel ribs increase the radiating surface of the firepot by 300%. This increase in the radiating surface of the firepot, increases the radiating power of your furnace and enables you to get more heat out of the fuel that you burn.

In fact, actual tests has shown a saving of at least one ton of coal in seven, through the heating efficiency of the "Hecla" Steel Ribbed Firepot.

These are vital improvements—"Hecla" improvements—that are found only in "Hecla" Furnaces. There are others, described and illustrated in our book. Write for free copy. Send us a rough plan of your house and we shall be pleased to make up free estimate of the cost of installing the proper "Hecla" Furnace.

Very slowly they travelled down the road, among the shadows of the trees broken by lamplight. Above us, white ships of cloud were sailing rapidly across the dark river of sky on the wind which smelled of change. And, after the cab was lost to sight, that wind still brought to us the dying sound of the slow wheels. John Galsworthy.
