Editorial Preface

THE contents of this little book have been collected and arranged under the direction of a committee of the Faculty Association composed as follows: Mr. R. H. Clark (Chairman), and Messrs. H. F. Angus, H. Ashton, H. T. Logan (Secretary), and W. N. Sage. The work of securing and editing the information has been done by Mr. S. M. Scott (Arts '21), Capt. L. A. Elliott, and Mr. A. F. Roberts (Arts '23), and to them the Faculty Association Committee are deeply grateful for their painstaking and unselfish labours. Expenses in connection with producing the publication have been borne by the University Board of Governors. Copies are being presented to each of those whose names appear in the book or, in the case of the fallen, to the next-of-kin.

It is the aim of the Record to include the names of all male members of Vancouver College, McGill University College both in Vancouver and Victoria, and of the University of British Columbia, who served with His Majesty's Forces or with any of the Allies or Associated Armies, and who either proceeded overseas or were sworn in for service abroad. The collegiate connection of each person in the Record is given after his name; both the institution to which he belonged and the years of attendance are shown. In the case of members still in the University, the date of their entry or appointment only is given. M.B.C. (McGill, British Columbia) indicates membership in either the Victoria or Vancouver College of McGill. In the case of graduates of the University of British Columbia, the dates of their degrees alone are shown; many of these had, of course, been students also in McGill, B. C.

The sources from which the materials were gathered are various. Records were supplied by the Registrar, carefully compiled during the war, and comprising the war service of members of the University up to the signing of the Armistice and of ex-students of McGill B. C. Further information was obtained by questionnaires sent to all male members of the University and to all ex-students of Vancouver College and the two British Columbia Colleges of McGill. An effort was put forward to make the Record complete down to and including the session 1923-24.

Fuller details for the Records of the Fallen were generously supplied by the parents or next-of-kin or by friends, and to all these the Editorial Committee desire to express their sincere gratitude. The letters and other documents from which these Records were compiled, or copies of them, will be kept in the University archives, together with the completed questionnaires of the men who returned.

Great difficulty was experienced in securing the correct addresses of many past students, and in some cases it was impossible to do so. The records of a considerable number of such persons were supplied by the Department of Militia and Defence at Ottawa and by friends, and the editors wish to thank all those who have co-operated to give the present volume whatever degree of completeness it possesses.

The contents of each individual record are arranged chronologically, i. e., details of service, honours received, etc., are shown in the order in which they occurred.

In the accounts of the Fallen, the rank shown immediately after the name is the rank held at the time of death.

Full rank is given throughout, and includes also temporary, lance and acting rank.

The word "France" is used for the whole Franco-Belgian Front.

In the case of award of honours, the date given is either that of the action in connection with which the honour was awarded or of the official gazette announcing the award—according to the information made available to the editors.

No special mention is made of the 1914-15 Star, General Service or Victory Medals, as the disposal of these awards is implied in the dates and locality of service.

The term "discharge" indicates removal from the Overseas Forces, and includes transfer to active or reserve militia units.

Anyone able to supplement the names contained in this volume is requested to send particulars to the Registrar, University of British Columbia, from whom copies of the prepared questionnaire may be obtained. Such additional information is earnestly desired for the archives of the University.

FACULTY ASSOCIATION EDITORIAL COMMITTEE.

Introduction

LITTLE more than a year after the declaration of war, the University of British Columbia enrolled its first students; before the armistice was signed, six hundred and ninety-seven members of the University or of the McGill Colleges of British Columbia had enlisted, and of these seventy-eight had laid down their lives.

Although many of the war experiences of this University, at that time the youngest in the Empire, were similar to those of the older and larger universities at home or in the Motherland, at least one of them was distinctive. Here, there was no local heritage of tradition such as the older institutions have been building up for generations or even centuries. It was the high privilege of the men whose names and deeds are recorded in this book to create for their University a glorious tradition as if at one stroke.

The measure and the spirit of their response constitutes the most eloquent tribute that could be paid to the homes from which they came and to the ancestry from which they sprang. In the spirit of their fathers, they clearly perceived, from the beginning, the moral issues involved in the struggle; and, fortified with this insight, they were not deterred by the thought of personal danger or appalled by the magnitude of the task. High courage, devotion to duty, and unselfish sacrifice characterized their enlistment and their bearing at the Front. Their decision made, they were content; and they went forth gladly into the conflict, resolute and unafraid. Their lives have enlarged our conception of duty.

In grateful remembrance of their service and sacrifice, the University of British Columbia issues this ROLL OF SERVICE, which contains the names and records of its members who enlisted in His Majesty's Expeditionary Forces — at what cost the number of fallen shows. Its publication witnesses to a desire to keep green in our memories the gratitude we feel for the service they rendered and the sacrifice they made. Their memory is a cherished possession; their example a permanent incentive to men of this University to live and to work in the spirit in which they served the cause of humanity in the days of the Great War.

President.

He enlisted in July, 1915, with the 72nd Battalion, Seaforth Highlanders of Canada and proceeded overseas with that unit in April of the following year. He went to France with the battalion in August, 1916, and was one of the forty men chosen from the entire unit for its first offensive operation, a raid in the Kemmel sector. He took part in the fighting at Ypres and on the Somme, being conspicuous on patrols throughout the latter operation. He participated in all the trench tours on Vimy Ridge prior to his death.

Private Anderson was mortally wounded during the battle on Vimy Ridge on April 9, 1917, while leading a squad of bombers. For his conduct on this occasion the Military Medal was awarded posthumously.

He served on the C.P.R. engineering staff, mountain division, and returned to McGill as a graduate student in hydraulics, 1914-1915.

He took an active interest in the work of the McGill C.O.T.C., and in April, 1915, went over to England where he received a commission as second lieutenant in the Royal Engineers. He crossed to France in August, being attached to the 90th Field Company.

He was promoted to a first lieutenantcy after Armentieres and was awarded the Military Cross in May, 1916, for distinguished service. A month later he was made captain.

On July 13, 1916, his major was wounded, and Captain Anderson assumed command of the company, carrying on during several engagements at Longueval Village and Delville Wood. On the night of July 18, the Germans made a strong counter-attack and a file of engineers working in the front trenches were reported to be in a dangerous position.

Capt. Anderson went to relieve them and was last seen standing at the end of a trench, revolver in hand, directing his men to safety. When the position was recaptured 48 hours later no trace of him could be found.

In February, 1917, the War Department assumed that he had met death when reported missing. In November, 1917, the Military Cross awarded to him was presented to his father by the Governor-General of Canada at a review in Hastings Park, Vancouver.

Shortly after entering Oxford he enlisted with the East Yorkshire Regiment, receiving a commission as second lieutenant in February, 1915. He transferred to the 7th North Staffs and went to Gallilopi in August. He was wounded in January, 1916, during the evacuation of the peninsula and again during the operations in Mesopotamia. He rejoined his regiment in December, 1916, after convalescence at Kasuli, India, and took part in General Maude's successful advance on Bagdad. He won promotion to captaincy shortly before his death.

Captain Atkins was killed on February 25, 1917, during an attack on the rearguard of the Turks close to Iman Madhi. He was hit in the groin but held command from one until four o'clock in the afternoon when he was hit again. During the attempted stoppage of the bleeding from this second wound, he was shot through the head and instantly killed.

For his gallantry in this action he was mentioned in despatches by General Sir Stanley Maude. He was buried close to the spot where he fell.

Duncan passed his junior matriculation at the age of fourteen years and being too young to enter McGill, B. C., visited his mother's relatives in Scotland. On his return he was one of the first West Vancouver boys to join the Boys Scouts and later the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders' Cadets. In 1918 he commenced his studies at the Vancouver College of McGill.

He enlisted with the 196th Western Universities Battalion in March, 1916, and after training at Camp Hughes, proceeded to England. He was appointed corporal in the 19th Reserve Battalion in Jan., 1917, and in April, 1917, crossed to France to join the 46th Battalion as a private. He served with this unit during engagements at Lens, Passchendaele, Amiens and Cambrai and was made a corporal in charge of the machine gun section.

He was killed at Cambrai in front of Sancourt on Sept. 28, 1918, while leading his section forward under heavy enemy machine-gun fire. He was hit in the head by a machine-gun bullet and instantly killed. His remains were interred in the Canadian Cemetery at Hayneourt.

Lieutenant, Royal Air Force.

Son of Robert James and Annie Leckie. Born at Vancouver, Dec. 11, 1894. Educated at Lord Roberts public school and King Edward High School; McGill, B.C., 1918-1914.

He enlisted as a cadet with the Royal Flying Corps in Vancouver in May, 1917, and after training at Toronto, crossed to England in September. In December he was attached to the 104th Squadron R.F.C. as second lieutenant. In February, 1918, he proceeded to France with the 49th Squadron. He was promoted lieutenant in April.

Lieutenant Leckie was killed in air action near Weincourt. His squadron had been engaged in bombing operations and when returning from the German lines on May 9, 1918, they were attacked. Two machines attacked Leckie but he and his observer accounted for them both. The squadron encountered another formation of Germans, however, and this time Lieutenant Leckie experienced engine trouble. He was forced down, apparently under control. Later advices from the Frankfurt Red Cross declared that he was killed in the action.

Wynn, Harold William

M.B.C., Sc., 1915-16.

2nd Lieutenant, Royal Air Force.

Son of Thomas George and Elizabeth Eleanor Wynn. Born at Vancouver, May 6, 1895. Attended Mount Pleasant Public School; Chesterfield School, North Vancouver, and McGill, B. C., 1915-16.

He enlisted with the 62nd Battery, Canadian Field Artillery in April, 1916, and crossed to England with the rank of Sergeant in September. In October he was posted to the 15th Brigade Ammunition Column, and in November with the rank of Corporal to the Fourth Divisional Ammunition Column. In February, 1917, he was appointed Sergeant. He transferred in Feb., 1918, to the Royal Flying Corps as a Cadet at Hastings. He won his commission and proceeded to France as an observer with the 13th Squadron, R.A.F. He was reported missing on Oct. 7, 1918, when he and his pilot failed to return from a flight on photographic duty over the German lines.

Later it was discovered that Lieutenant Wynn and his pilot had been buried in a cemetery close to the village of Tilloy, north of Cambrai. Their machine had been brought down in flames.

Wright, Douglas Archibald

M.B.C., Sc., 1912-14.

Lieutenant, P.P.C.L.I.

Son of Rev. T. H. and Lillian Wright. Born at Orms-town, Quebec, Oct. 3, 1895. Attended Public Schools at Sidney, B. C., and Nicola, B. C.; Kamloops High School and King Edward High School, Vancouver; Columbia College, New Westminster, and McGill, B. C., 1912-14.

He was wounded at Sanctuary Wood on June 3, 1916, and after convalescence attended Military School in England. He returned to his battalion as Lieutenant in May, 1917.

Lieutenant Wright was killed on the night of Aug. 12, 1918, near Amiens. His battalion was held in front of Parvillers where a frontal attack was impossible and it was during a flank attack that he was wounded by a rifle bullet. He died before reaching the dressing-station and was buried at La Follie, but was later re-interred in the British Cemetery at Bouchoir.

The Officer's Training Corps

The Training Corps was formed immediately after the outbreak of war, and existed for one year as the McGill University College contingent. In 1915 the Corps was organized as the University of British Columbia contingent of the C.O.T.C. with the late Dr. Wesbrook as Captain and Provisional Major, Mr. E. E. Jordan as Captain, and Mr. H. T. Logan as Lieutenant. The duties of Adjutant were undertaken by an officer of the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders, Captain L. A. Elliott, who, in spite of his ever-increasing duties in connection with his own and other regiments, never lost interest in the Corps from this time until it was finally disbanded.

In the autumn of 1915 military training for students was made obligatory, but the Corps was without funds. The distinctive Corps uniform was never issued; the Cadets had to content themselves with the khaki of the infantry regiments. As the badge of the Corps—the University Arms—was received late and never in sufficient quantities, our men were for long periods military mysteries as regards their uniforms. But in 1915 they were not to be discouraged by such trifles.

No sooner had they reached the minimum age for overseas service than they presented themselves in the orderly room to ask for their discharge. In March, 1915, a group of 30 members of the C.O.T.C., named by themselves "McGill (B. C.) Overseas Section," left to join the First McGill University Company in Montreal, and in July they were drafted to the P.P.C.L.I. at the Front. This was the first of many similar contingents sent from the C.O.T.C. during the war.

Captain R. A. M. D. Ramsay, of the 54th Battalion, replaced Captain Elliot as Adjutant, and in spite of his wounds rendered great service to the University. Dr. H. Ashton was now attached to the Corps with the rank of lieutenant, in succession to Capt. Jordan. The failing health of Dr. Wesbrook, the commanding officer, prevented his turning out for parades, and early in the academic year (1918) the Corps suffered a great loss by his death.

Our own students were by now returning from the Front incapacitated by wounds, but ready and willing to help their younger brothers to become efficient soldiers. Sergeant W. MacLellan, of the P.P.C.L.I., one of our own men who had been severely wounded at the Front, became Sergeant Major of the Corps, and his happy disposition and efficient work will long be remembered. His loss by drowning in the vacation of 1918 was one of the most serious blows suffered by the O.T.C. During the last year of its existence Captain Ramsay was so frequently in hospital that the work of the Corps fell to Dr. Ashton, with Captain Letson (another of our men who had returned severely wounded) as adjutant. By this time the students in residence had come to regard the O.T.C. merely as the antechamber to the C.E.F., and immediately upon the signing of the Armistice they petitioned the Senate to have the Corps disbanded.

The lack of funds, of proper quarters, of proper equipment, the frequent changing of officers, the frequent changing of the rank and file, should have ensured the complete failure of the Corps within the first year. The success of the O.T.C. in training so many men, and in steadily supplying recruits for every branch of the C.E.F. and Imperial Forces, was due to the splendid spirit shown by the cadets and to the untiring efforts of the overworked officers who, in every case, performed a heavy day's work in addition to their military duties. The Corps was never a place of refuge for the faint-hearted—in fact, the officers had great difficulty in preventing the cadets from leaving for the C.E.F. when they were too young and too ill-trained to be of use at the Front. For the greater part of the period, 1914 to 1918, the Corps was staffed by officers who were medically unfit for overseas service, or who had become so by service at the Front.

When the C.O.T.C. contingent of the University comes into existence again, it will have cause to be proud of its war record, and will have a tradition of hard work and self-sacrifice that should prove of inestimable value.
