PREFACE.

The Publisher has the pleasing duty of presenting to his Subscribers the Eighth Edition of the Quebec Directory, and of returning thanks for the continued support his efforts to furnish a reliable work have met with.

He has endeavored in the preparation of the work to make it worthy of the future Capital of the Province of Quebec, and looks hopefully forward, on the Establishment of the Local Legislature at Quebec, to receive such additional encouragement as will warrant his incurring greater expense in making the miscellaneous contents of the work more varied and voluminous.

In the district of St. Roch's, partly destroyed by the fire of October last, the old numbering of the few houses temporarily erected has been retained. This in the exceptional state of things was rendered necessary to make the Directory intelligible.

This calamity, and the consequent large depopulation by the removal of the sufferers to other parts of the Provinces and the United States has had the effect of lessening the number of names appearing in this Edition as compared with the previous year, by 2,000; and has also, with other causes, resulted in a diminution to the Subscription List.

The Publisher regrets the causes that have led to this much more seriously than the actual loss he sustains thereby, and trusts during the coming year the misfortune will be remedied, and that 1868 will find Quebec prosperous, and her absent population returned to their homes and avocations, contributing by their skill and labor to the material prosperity of the Ancient Capital.

With Quebec prosperous, he is satisfied his efforts will receive a corresponding positive encouragement. The Publisher feels in the production of his work he has so identified himself with the fortunes of Quebec, that his labors have been so appreciated that he can depend upon the further support of its citizens, and expect to share in their prosperity, in the future.
