"ECHOES of the Past; OR, The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER XXIII.

Again Clive fancied that there was a touch of bitterness, of sarcasm in the impassive voice.

"You might wait until she does before you jeer at me, Quilton," he said. "Oh, by the way, I met with that woman again—you remember, the woman with whom I had a tussle at the gate of Palace Yard?—I saw her in Grosvenor Square; she was standing glowering at the carriage in which Lady Edith was sitting. I went up and spoke to her, and it seemed to me that she fancied that she had a kind of grievance against the Chesterleighs; but she was very incoherent, and I could make nothing of it. I came to the conclusion that she was mad. I mention the matter because I told you of my first encounter with her."

"Ah, yes; I remember," said Quilton. He had risen and stood with his hand on the handle of the door, and was looking above Clive's head, with his usual indifferent, expressionless countenance. "She is mad, no doubt." He opened the door, then closed it again and said:

"Fraid I've been rather expansive this evening. 'Fraid you'll think I was insinuating that your engagement with Lady Edith would be one of convenience."

Clive colored. "I am sure you would not suggest anything of the kind, Quilton," he said gravely. "Quite so," said Quilton, slowly lowering his eyes to Clive's well-worn carpet. "I'm quite sure that if Lady Edith were 'poor and lowly,' as the poets put it, it would make no difference to you. It wouldn't, would it?"

Clive laughed. "It certainly would not," he said. "I am as little likely to marry for rank or wealth or position as well as you are."

"That's all right," said Quilton. "I believe you. Good-night." He paused again. "By the way, I shouldn't burn too much midnight oil if I were you. You're beginning to look like a beastly politician—no offense—this, tight about the lips, dark under the eyes; you know the kind of look; you see it in the House when you meet the poor wretches who have reached the giddy height of a seat in Parliament—and wish they hadn't, some of them."

"By what right does the pot call the kettle black," retorted Clive. "Why do you work so hard—and look as if you did?"

"I work hard to live—and to wipe out the past," said Quilton. Clive colored and winced as if he had been pricked.

"Do you know, Quilton, sometimes I think I should like to know something of that past of yours?" "It wouldn't interest you," said Quilton. "Good-night."

One night, about a week later, Clive was in the library of the House, looking up a reference, when Mr. Graham, the Liberal leader, entered quickly, as if in search of some one, and with an exclamation of satisfaction came to Clive and laid his hand on his shoulder.

"I thought I should find you here," he said. "Devereux is speaking about the Unemployed Bill—there is going to be a row—some of his followers are turning restive and I shouldn't be surprised if we get a majority on the motion. Will you speak? Better come at once."

Clive got up with a quickened pulse and they returned to the chamber. It was full of excitement, and it was evident that Devereux was playing a losing game and was aware of it. The House was crammed, continual interruptions came from the Liberal side, interruptions broken with sharp, eager laughter as if the Liberals were aware that Devereux was at bay, and that soon they would pull him down. It was a wonderful sight to see the great, the astute statesman, fighting inch by inch with unbroken calmness, and regarding his foes, now reinforced by a number of his own party, with a smile half-amused, half-contemptuous.

He was on his defence, and he was never better than when he was wriggling—as the Liberals put it—out of a difficulty, but this difficulty was too serious and complex to be wriggled out of, even by the clever and resourceful Mr. Devereux.

He sat down, cheered by the remnant of his followers; and howled at by his foes. Mr. Graham, who had already spoken, glanced at Clive. As Clive rose, amid wild anticipatory cheers of his party, he happened to glance up at the ladies' gallery; Lady Edith had said that she was coming down to the House that night, and he thought he caught a glimpse of her face. Mr. Devereux's case was a weak one and Clive had an easy task before him. It is probable that he had never spoken better; he was armed by his intimate knowledge of the subject, and inspired, not by ambition—of late it had seemed dead in him—but by the desire to lose, to drown his thoughts, to forget the past in some strenuous effort, some excitement.

He spoke with astonishing fluency, considering the numerous interruptions from the other side, and he absolutely demolished Mr. Devereux's plausible arguments. That gentleman went on smiling, but he whispered to the man next him: "That settles us, a fine speech!" And he actually nodded in a friendly way to Clive as he sank into his seat. The division was quickly taken; and when it was seen that the Liberals had a large majority and that the Conservatives were at last overthrown, a roar went up from the Liberal benches, and a scene of wild confusion and Never a Failure With Catarrhazone; it Cures Completely.

Don't snuffle and sneeze with a nasty cold. Kill it at once by "Catarrhazone." It's the surest thing on colds ever known; simply knocks them out in no time. The medicated vapor of CATARRHAZONE spreads through all parts of the breathing organs, and its beneficial action is felt instantly. Doesn't matter whether the cold is in the head, chest or lungs, Catarrhazone will reach it and cure it quickly.

Easy to use—you bet it is—not a single drug to take because you simply breathe in the most healing and soothing of piney vapors that come from the wonderful Catarrhazone Inhaler.

"I can cheerfully testify that 'Catarrhazone' is simply a magical cure for colds," writes P. F. Clement, of Augusta. "For days last winter my head was completely filled up with cold. My eyes ran water, I sneezed and coughed constantly. I took many medicines. I was sick of the sight of them. Finally, I tried Catarrhazone. Its effect was magical. It soothed the inflamed membranes, stopped the sneezing, and cured in no time. I never met anything to kill a cold like Catarrhazone."

mad excitement ensued. Men stood on their seats and waved their hats and yelled; one or two actually danced in their glee, and it was with difficulty that the speaker enforced sufficient order to permit Mr. Devereux to announce the resignation of the government.

The members of the victorious party shook hands with each other and, red, and hot, and exultant, crowded round Mr. Graham with exclamations and congratulations. And not a few crowded round Clive, for they knew that he was the coming man; indeed, he had almost arrived.

Lord Chesterleigh had great difficulty in getting at him in the crowd, so closely was he surrounded.

"My dear boy!" he said, laying a hand on Clive's shoulder. "This is splendid! Edith is outside—but you will not be able to come, will you? You will want to see Graham?"

"No; I will come at once," said Clive, and, gradually breaking away from the noisy throng, he went out with Lord Chesterleigh. Lady Edith was in the carriage waiting—just as she had been on that night a year ago. There were a number of persons watching her, for the news of the downfall of the government had already spread and the Yard was crowded, but she seemed unconscious of the eyes fixed on her, and she leaned forward, her face flushed, her lips tremulous with triumph and held out both hands to Clive, murmuring: "Oh, Clive," with passionate admiration and love.

The crowd saw the action, almost heard the words, and some one shouted, "Three cheers for Mr. Clive Harvey, the Friend of the People!" Lady Edith looked round proudly, delightedly, as the cheer went up, and actually waved her handkerchief. "That's unlike Edith," said Lord Chesterleigh in a low voice. "But it is for your sake, my boy. Let us go home!"

They got in and the carriage made its way, necessarily slowly, into the street, many of the crowd following and still cheering. At the corner of Parliament Street, the crowd seemed to swerve and stop; then concentrate on one spot on the pavement. Something had happened. Clive stood up in the carriage and, as a couple of stalwart policemen pushed their way through the mob, he caught sight of a woman lying on the pavement.

"There has been an accident, I'm afraid," he said. "I'll see what it is. You go on, sir. I'll take a hansom and follow you."

He got out quickly and made his way through the crowd to the side of the policeman who was bending over the woman. Clive recognized her at once; it was the woman, who, strangely enough, he had seen near the same spot a year ago.

"What is it?" he asked. "Is she faint, hurt?"

"Been knocked down, run over, sir," said the policeman, touching his helmet. "My mate here saw her trying to pass the road among the carriages. She has fainted, I don't know whether she's much hurt. We've sent for a stretcher and we'll take her to St. Thomas's here."

The stretcher quickly arrived and Clive went on to the hospital, and waited until the examination had been made.

"Yes; she's rather badly hurt," said the house surgeon. "She's not conscious yet. Bad subject, I'm afraid. 'I'll come in the morning to see how she is," said Clive.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Clive asked himself, as he walked from the hospital to Grosvenor Square, whether he should tell the Chesterleighs of his former encounters with the woman, but he decided that he would not do so; why should he distress them needlessly? So he confined himself to reporting the woman's condition; and the affair made little or no impression upon Lord Chesterleigh and Lady Edith, beyond that which was caused by pity and sympathy for this victim of our overcrowded streets.

Next morning Clive went up to Quilton's rooms, and Quilton called out to him from his bed: "House on fire?" he said indolently, as Clive entered.

"I beg your pardon for disturbing you," explained Clive, "but the woman has turned up again; she was knock-

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a 16-ounce bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough, and also heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with quaiacal and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ed down in the street last night and I want you to go round to St. Thomas's with me."

"That woman?" said Quilton, as if trying to remember. "Oh, ah, yes! but why do you want me?" "I don't know," said Clive, with a laugh. "I've a sort of idea that you might know her; I don't know why, but you know so many people."

"All right," said Quilton, not too readily. "I'll be down in a quarter of an hour; though I don't see why you should expect me to know every member of these populous isles."

"Come and breakfast with me," said Clive.

"Never take breakfast," responded Quilton. "You remember of the story of the man who, when he was asked, after a heavy night before, what he had had for breakfast, replied, 'A chop, soda and whisky, and a dog,' explaining that he had the dog to eat the chop. That's my case."

However, he had a cup of coffee with Clive and they went down to the hospital together. The house surgeon came to them and gave some account of the patient.

"Consciousness has returned," he said, "and she is better; but the shock seems to have affected her mind. She is quite quiet, but her memory appears to have gone; she doesn't remember even her own name and can give no account of herself."

Quilton, who was standing a little behind Clive, drew a sharp breath between his teeth, then coughed as if to hide the sound.

"You can come up and see her," said the house surgeon; "you won't disturb her, for her mind's a perfect blank and she takes no interest in anything or anyone about her."

Later in Champagne a very important work forming a salient beyond the enemy's second line, has been captured. The enemy's losses were serious, and two hundred prisoners were taken.

Russian forces have landed on the Orund coast at the mouth of the Gulf of Riga.

The Germans have captured the village of Repe, near Riga, and 11,000 near Dvinsk.

The Italian offensive continues, and about three thousand prisoners have been captured on the Carso front.

The Bulgarians claim to have captured Dukub.

RECRUITING ACTIVE.

LONDON, Oct. 25.

It is unofficially stated that on Saturday recruiting was three hundred per cent better than on any previous Saturday since the war began, following an extraordinary successful work. It appears that after all there may be a chance of avoiding conscription.

FRENCH SUCCESS.

PARIS, Oct. 25.

French troops gained a brilliant success by effecting a junction with the Serbs at Krivolak, says a despatch to the Petite Parisian from Athens. The despatch which was dated Sunday, says the Bulgarian forces were attacking in three columns when our troops by a daring manoeuvre turned the Bulgarian's right flank, while the Serbs launched an energetic attack along the front. At the end of the day the Bulgarians beat a retreat in the direction of Strumitza pursued by French troops and Serbian cavalry. The Bulgarian operations against Pirot were fruitless, therefore they seem to intend to concentrate their efforts on Vraya and try to break through the French lines.

FRENCH CAPTURE IMPORTANT POSITION.

PARIS, Oct. 25.

In the Champagne district our troops yesterday won an important success. The enemy occupied, in front of their second position, a salient which they had previously attacked. In their resistance they made known their southwestern part, in the northern slopes of Hill No. 196, at a point one and a quarter miles to the north of Meziul les Hurles, this salient included a very important position called Un LaCourtine, which we have captured after heavy fighting. LaCourtine extended for a distance of twelve hundred yards.

CANADIAN LOSSES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.

An official computation of Canadian losses in the war up to Oct. 15, issued by the casualty office today, show the total number of casualties to be 15,187, made up of 677 officers and 14,510 men. Of these, death from all causes claimed 127 officers and 2,490 men, to which much of a heavy list of missing must be added.

FEW OF CREW SAVED.

BERLIN, Oct. 25.

Only a small part of the crew of the German cruiser Prinz Adalbert, sunk by a British submarine in the Baltic, were rescued. This was made known in an official statement today. A telegram from the naval general staff, dated Oct. 23, said the cruiser Prinz Adalbert was sunk by two shots from an enemy submarine off Libau, and only a small portion of the crew could be rescued. The complement of the Prinz Adalbert was 557 men. The official announcement from Petrograd which stated she had been sunk, said the cruiser formed part of a squadron which probably had been charged with a special mission.

PROTEST BY BULGARIA.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 25.

German newspapers print the text of a note sent by Premier Radolovoff, of Bulgaria, to Bulgarian Ministers abroad, protesting against the bombardment of what he styles the open towns of Dedeaghat and Porto Lagos, where he declares considerable damage was inflicted. Dedeaghat, says the Premier, was exposed on Oct. 21st to bombardment by eight large warships of the Allies, while Porto Lagos was bombarded by twelve ships. It is not necessary to point out, he adds, that the fire of the Allied fleet was not answered, since these open places possess no means of resistance.

WANTS DECISION FROM GREECE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.

A News Agency despatch from Paris says that all the Entente Powers have joined in a new demand that Greece make a definite decision on point as to whether it shall support an attack en masse on the fortifications and positions occupied by the Serbs at Viena.

GERMAN LOSSES.

PARIS, Oct. 25.

An important success by French troops in the Champagne district is reported by the French War Office this afternoon. In spite of fierce resistance, French troops, following a preparatory artillery fire, occupied an important position known as La Courtine. The losses of the Germans described as serious and the French took 200 prisoners.

BULGARIAN ATTEMPT DEFEATED.

GRADECK, Serbia, Oct. 25.

A double attempt by the Bulgarians to cut the railway at Veles, and in the Velandovo sector has been completely defeated. Yesterday, Friday, the attack on Veles was given up and the entire available Bulgarian strength was directed southward from Isip along the Gradeskar River spreading out over a five mile front and comprising the villages of Rabecovo, Velandovo, Pirude, Vesezel Halkova and Hodova, with its objective. The short stretch where the railway running along the east bank of the Vardar River between two bridges is most pregnable at Struluzza Station. The attack although furious, immediately developed the inferiority of the Bulgarians when in contact with the experienced troops of France and England. Heavy losses of Bulgarians are reported along the line and the Bulgarians are withdrawing up the Gradeskar Valley leaving the French in victorious possession of the railway from Salonika to Negoin beyond which point the line is threatened. The French losses were slight. General Serrail, the French Commander-in-Chief, in a statement to the Associated Press, charging the Bulgarians reports of their advance as fantastic. No where, he says, have they advanced beyond a few undefended points of no military value. An offensive movement of the Allies seems imminent. The Greeks seem to be profoundly impressed by the rapidity and success of the French movements. Our army lives in expectation of a general offensive and looks with full confidence to the armies of its Allies. It will march boldly and cheerfully forward conscious that in doing so it is defending the interests of our country and the interests of our Allies. A stirring struggle with the forces of nature has schooled the Russians to hardships and engrained in them the instinct to hasten to the succor and relief of their brothers in need, hence an appeal from our allies will always find a warm response from the Russian army.

PRISONERS WILL REST ON SUNDAY.

ROME, Oct. 25.

All the belligerent powers have granted the request of Pope Benedict that Sunday be made a day of absolute repose for prisoners of war. Several of the countries in their replies said they already had been observing this rule.

SEMI-OFFICIAL DENIAL.

ATHENS, Oct. 25.

A semi-official note to the press denies categorically various reports in the Austro-Hungarian newspapers that Greece is occupying Dvinsk and Chigeti to protect Salonika or is occupying any other portion of Serbian territory.

BERNIER AFTER PEARY.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.

Capt. Bernier, recently returned from an Arctic expedition trip, who is in Ottawa today, supported the theory which he says is entertained by many men who know the Arctic, and that Peary did not really reach the North Pole. While he does not definitely hold that Peary did not accomplish what he claimed, Bernier states that the variations north on April 8, the date of the Polar discovery, were so great that only the most unsatisfactory observation could be made, and that Peary might have been anywhere from one to thirty miles off his calculations. Bernier also cites the failure of the MacMillan expedition to find land at the point where Peary reported he discovered it.

PROTEST AGAINST CONSCRIPTION.

LONDON, Oct. 25.

A manifesto opposing conscription has been issued by a small number of members of Parliament. Among the reasons given for such opposition is that a compulsory system would so deplete the ranks of the industrial workers that Britain would be unable to meet her obligations assumed on behalf of the Allies, to supply them with stores and ammunition and give them substantial financial help. It is further declared that compulsion would arouse bitter opposition among workmen, and irretrievably destroy the national unity, which is essential to the successful prosecution of the war. The manifesto is signed by Rt. Hon. Hobbhouse, a former member of the British cabinet, chairman, Percy Alden, Liberal member for Tottenham division of Middlesex, who has written much on the question of unemployment, as vice-chairman, John Howard Whitehouse, Liberal member for mid-Lanarkshire, also identified with labor reform, as secretary. Frontier Venizelos has summoned all his supporters to Athens.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Oct. 25.

While the Austro-German and Bulgarian campaigns in northern and eastern Serbia, is being carried out according to plan, despite the fierce Serbian resistance, the Bulgars who crossed Timok and hold the town of Prahovo, and are separated from the Germans who crossed the Danube near Orsova by only a few miles south, things are not going so well for the invaders. In the latter region the French troops have joined hands with the Serbs, and, according to French accounts, inflicted a severe defeat on the Bulgarians at Krivolak, forty miles north of a point where the Salonika-Belgrade railway crosses the Serbo-Greek frontier. This success places the Bulgarians, who reached Isip, Veles and Uskup, in a rather awkward position for further advance, as the Allied army would seriously threaten their flank, in fact unofficial reports state that the advance of the French, who are being closely followed by the British, have already caused the retirement of the Bulgars toward Strumitza. The first desire of the Germans is to open the route through northeastern Serbia and Bulgaria to Turkey, and this is on the eve of being accomplished. On the other hand, military writers here do not believe that the position of Serbia is so desperate as has been painted. It is serious, but they point out that the Serbians have many natural defensive positions in the mountains, in which they can hold out for weeks, and that with British, French and other members of the Quadruple Powers carrying out their determination to help Serbia by rushing reinforcements to Salonika and other points, the Bulgars will have a warm reception, and that the Germans and Turks are being fully occupied elsewhere and will not be able to send them much help.

British correspondents in France have just disclosed the fact, made known to them by the British staff, that even after the Anglo-French offensive in September, the Germans had the greatest difficulty in securing reinforcements to meet the advance, and had to call on men just returned from Russia for a rest, to fill the gaps in the western lines. From this it is argued that the Germans cannot spare a great many men for the Balkans, as the Russians are keeping them fairly busy from the Baltic to the Rumanian border. The Italians, by their offensive, are compelling the Austrians to strengthen their lines. The French, the capture to-day of the strongly fortified salient north of the Mesnil in Champagne, has shown that they have not yet finished their effort to break through. The French success is considered important, because the capture of this fortified area clears the ground for another general offensive in Champagne. For the same reason the British are trying to force the Germans out of their redoubts and from the slag heaps south of La-Bassece. These are only preparatory operations, while the Italian great offensive, which has already gained for them many valuable vantage points, according to Rome despatches, may any day place them in possession of the fortress of Gorizia. The Russians are fighting pitched battles in Riga and Dvinsk regions in an effort to retake the ground won from them by Von Hindenburg last week. Russian attacks southeast of Riga have been repulsed, according to the Germans, as were those undertaken north of Dvinsk. The German forces which crossed Hinkst north of the town of that name, withdrew in the face of a superior Russian army. It is also claimed by the Germans that the Russian attacks to take the district south of Levinas were repulsed, and that the Austrians have broken the Russian lines over a front of about two and a half miles west of Lomanow. The German campaign west of Lamanow is being interfered with by the British and Russian submarines, which have stopped mercantile traffic in the Baltic ports. The German cruiser which was sunk, the Prinz Adalbert, is the sixth armored cruiser lost by the Germans since the commencement of the war, the others being the Bleucher, Scharnhorst, Genisenu, York, Friedrich and Carl.

Naval Casualty Lists.

On Sunday a casualty list was received by Commander MacDermott of H. M. S. Calypso announcing that Reservist Edgar Hoskins of Greenspond, B. B., had died in the Liverpool Infirmary of malaria. So we learn from the Evening Herald. Although two days have passed that list has not yet been furnished to us. Some time ago our reporter asked the writer on board to let him know by phone when a list was received and if they could not send it, he would call for it. Yesterday he telephoned the Calypso and asked if there was anything in, and was told there was nothing. A few hours later the Evening Herald published the list and announced that it had been received on Sunday. We direct the attention of Commander MacDermott to these matters, and beg to suggest to him that he arrange for communication of the list to the newspapers, immediately after he has communicated with the relatives of those concerned. This is the method adopted in the case of casualties connected with the Newfoundland Regiment, and it is highly satisfactory. On the other hand, we have to depend on the hazard of hearing on the street that a list has been received by the Calypso and to endeavour to obtain it. We would point out to Commander MacDermott that the press of Newfoundland has co-operated willingly to aid in the recruiting of Reserves for the Royal Navy, and is always willing to do everything to promote anything that is for the good of the Navy and to aid in the carrying on of the Navy.

Encouraging News

It is gratifying to learn that the stimulus applied to recruiting by the King, Lord Kitchener, Lord Derby, and the Labour representatives is showing its effects in largely increased flocking to the flag. The statement that the recruiting last Saturday was 300 per cent better than on any Saturday since the war commences is proof that people are realizing more and more the nature of the struggle which faces the Quadruple Entente. The development of affairs in the Balkans is calling for a new army front in Europe in addition to the ones in France, Russia, Italy and the Dardanelles. Additional information throws more light on the appointment of General Monroe to the Dardanelles command. His appointment appears to be based on his success during the past fourteen months. The dictum of General Plumer is illustrated in the success of General Monro, that the only way to learn war is to engage in war. In August, 1914, he went to France in command of a division. He distinguished himself and was given the command of an army corps. A few months later he was given command of an army and now he is the commander-in-chief of the forces in the Dardanelles. The publication of the army list, however, does not seem to have kept pace with

A very impressive Memorial Service for Lance Corporal R. K. Watts took place in the Methodist Church last evening at 6.30. The members of the K. E. Brigade and the Sons of England attended, as did also a large number of our citizens. Every available seat was occupied and many were unable to gain admission. The occasion was a very solemn one, the Rev. A. A. Holmes delivering a beautiful sermon on the occasion.

Mrs. D. Herald lost a five dollar bill last Monday near the Post Office. It was advertised but days passed and the poor woman had given up hope of ever recovering it. On Friday evening two ten-year-old lads—Bob Cron and Willie McKay saw the V floating in the dock at the rear of the Post Office and securing it quickly restored it to the owner who was delighted, and rewarded the boys for their honesty and eye-open-ness.

Rev. C. A. Ritchie, of St. Andrew's Church, preached a farewell sermon to his congregation yesterday. The rev. gentleman leaves by Tuesday's train to continue his college course, taking with him the best wishes of all his friends.

The schrs. Studland, James Wells, master, and Pandora, Yetman, master, arrived from Labrador yesterday. A number of other schooners are on the way but the winds have been very unfavourable of late.

Several people are at a loss this year owing to a mistake of the seed-dealer at St. John's in sending Aberdeen instead of Swede turnips. Mr. Herald is a great loser on this occasion. Dealers should be more careful in sending seeds, as such mistakes are annoying as well as costly.

"Cascarets" for a Cold, Bad Breath or Sick Headache

Best for liver and bowels, for biliousness, sour stomach and constipation.

Get a 10-cent box now.

Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

448th Day of the War
TO-DAY'S Messages.

NOON.

REVERSION TO OLD PRIZE LAW.

LONDON, To-day.
An Order in Council has been gazetted, according to official information in order to arrest the proceedings of a large number of vessels, trading under neutral flags, but in reality owned wholly or in part by Germany. The Anglo-American doctrine is now restated, by reason of the abrogation of article 57. The Declaration of London considers the nationality of the owners permits the condemnation of a vessel, if it is proved that a subject of an enemy country has an interest in it. By this reversion to the old prize law a vessel which such an enemy subject may have even a part interest may be condemned and disposed of either by sale on the enemy subject's share of a neutral co-owners or the sale of the entire vessel and the appropriation of the interest of the enemy subject. It is expected in Government circles when the order becomes known the Germans will retaliate as far as they are able to do so on some British owned vessels under the Scandinavian flags which may be seized in the Baltic or other dangerous areas, but most of these vessels are now leaving such waters as the season is closed. A despatch from London of last Saturday, said the British Admiralty posted a list of 47 neutral vessels, ten of them flying the American flag, together with a warning to British shippers against chartering them, owing to the belief they were either controlled by German capital or engaged in neutral service. The vessels on the list which promised to trade only with the Entente Allies or unsuspected neutral trade would be eliminated from the list. The ten American ships on the list belong to A. Jensen or the American Trans-Atlantic Co.

TWELVE DEATHS FROM FIRE.

PITTSBURG, To-day.
Eleven girls and one man employed in the factory of the Union Paper Box Co. are dead and eight girls are badly injured and a number missing as a result of a fire which destroyed the factory yesterday afternoon.

STEAMER DESTROYED BY FIRE.

DEAL, England, To-day.
The British steamer Haro from East African ports is a total wreck on the beach near here as a result of a fire which started yesterday in the hold. The vessel was immediately beached after the fire was discovered. It was believed to-day the flames were under control. Later however an explosion rekindled the fire. Shortly afterwards the vessel was totally wrecked and the cargo was ablaze from the stem to the stern, the flames reaching mast high. The chief engineer is missing, but the remainder of the crew, several of whom are injured, have been landed here.

MASSACRING WHOLE ARMENIAN POPULACE.

LONDON, To-day.
Viscount Bryce, former British Ambassador to Washington, speaking at Manchester to-day in condemnation of the Armenian massacres, said the Turkish Government had made up its mind after the war started to destroy the whole Armenian populace. It was avowed by some members of the Turkish Government that their motive was to ensure that there should be no element throughout the country which was not Mohammedan. Fanaticism has nothing to do with the Turkish Government feared to begin its sanguinary work, until April when the course of the war convinced them they could embark upon their bloody work secure from interference. No other incident connected with the war, he declared, could compare in magnitude with the horrors of the Armenian massacres, but protests now accomplished nothing. All the English people could do was to send the help possible to Armenian refugees.

DECLARES AMNESTY.

AMSTERDAM, To-day.
A Budapest despatch received here says the Emperor Francis Joseph has declared amnesty for all political offences committed before the war; the amnesty includes Socialists.

BULGARIA THREATENS GREECE.

LONDON, To-day.
The Bulgarian newspapers are adopting a threatening attitude toward Greece, according to a despatch of the Exchange Telegraph Co. from Zurich. The despatch says the newspapers are much irritated over Greece's acquiescence in the landing of the Allied troops at Salonika and that the Government organ Kambana declares if Greece cannot expel the Allies, Bulgaria must perform the task herself.

TURKS MASSACRE ARMENIAN POPULATION.

LONDON, To-day.
A despatch to the Daily Mail from Odessa says the Turks massacred the entire Armenian population of Kerassund on the Black Sea.

AUSTRIANS OBTAINS ROUTE TO BULGARIA.

LONDON, To-day.
The Bucharest Roumanian correspondent of the Times sends the following: Serbian troops have withdrawn from the neighborhood of the Danube and the Austrians crossed the river traversing the island of Odakale. The Austrian forces will now obtain a free passage through Bulgaria from Orsovo, where fifty steamers and lighters, laden with munitions, have assembled.

IRISH BRIGADE LEAVE SALONIKA

SALONIKA, To-day.
A brigade of Irish troops will leave Salonika to-day for Douan, forty miles northwest of Salonika. The object of this movement is to prepare an advance on Strumitza, in conjunction with the French, by way of the Stara Valley when the Allied offensive against Bulgaria is undertaken.

BULGARIANS CAPTURE NEGOTINA

SOFIA, To-day.
The Bulgarian War Office issues the following statement relative to military operations on Oct. 24. Our troops have captured Negotina and Prapovo on the Danube. The booty so far as is known is one of a commissary storehouse, twenty railway carriages and material. We captured also one officer and 270 men and found on the battlefield the bodies of 300 Serbs. The last official statement said the Bulgarians had captured the greater part of Uskub in Macedonia, but that fighting there was still in progress on Oct. 23.

GERMAN SECRET SERVICE CONSPIRACY IN THE STATES.

NEW YORK, To-day.
Robert Fay, a lieutenant in the German army and his brother-in-law Walter L. Scholtz, who were arrested while resting en route at Grantwood, N.J., were arraigned before a Justice of the Peace at Weehawken, N.J., on the charge of conspiracy, and held without bail for examination to-day. The arraignment of the two men disclosed the fact that a third man Paul Daeché had been arrested yesterday in Jersey City. Daeché was also arraigned with Fay and Scholtz and held without bail. Fay admitted that he came here last April through arrangement with the German Secret Service for the purpose of blowing up or delaying steamers sailing from this country with arms and ammunition for the Allies. If the State Department determines Fay is telling the truth, the matter will likely be made the subject of vigorous representations to the German Government.

PARCEL POST STOPPED.

BERLIN, To-day.
The parcel post service to America has been discontinued until further notice. No official reason for the discontinuance is given.

Amusements.

EXCELLENT BILL AT THE CRESCENT.

The bill at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day is a very fine one, a programme you can't but enjoy. "A Siren of Corsica" is a splendid feature in three weeks, the story of a mystery staged and acted by the Lubin Company. "The Black Diamond" is a secret service story of intense interest. The Vitagraph Company features one of their laughable comedies: "When Samuel Skidded," with the favourite Kate Price. Delmar sings a lively march ballad, and the musical programme is in keeping with this great show; go to the Crescent and see it.

NOVEL, DELIGHTFUL, ARTISTIC ATLANTIS, FISK AND JACK.

The performance of those artists last night at Rossley's was loudly applauded. The marvellous work of Donald Fisk on the Rolling Globe was something to marvel at. The artistic posing of Miss Atlantis in her various statue exhibitions was something never seen here before. Some of the poses were as follows:—Morning Dawn, The Blind Flower Girl, Justice, The Greek Slave, The Statue of Liberty, The Goddess of War, The Goddess of Peace, Britannia, The Mistress of the Sea, A Maid of Terra Nova, and others. The pictures were beautiful:—"The Sea Breeze," "Two Girls and a Boy" and "Revolts" a great military drama. Everybody wants to see this show if they want to see something novel, beautiful and original. Tickets on sale for Friday's contest at the Rossley Theatre.

For the Men at the Front.

Lord God of Hosts, whose mighty hand Dominion holds on sea and land, In Peace and War Thy Will we see Shaping the larger liberty.
Nations may rise and nations fall Thy Changeless Purpose rules them all.

When Death flies swift on wave or field,
Be Thou a sure defence and shield!
Console and succour those who fall,
And help and lighten each and all!
O, hear a people's prayers for those
Who fearless face their country's foes!

For those who weak and broken lie,
In weariness and agony—
Great Healer, to their beds of pain
Come, touch, and make them whole again!

O, hear a people's prayers, and bless
Thy servants in their hour of stress!

For those to whom the call shall come
We pray Thy tender welcome home.
The toll, the bitterness, all past,
We trust them to Thy Love at last.
O, hear a people's prayers for all
Who nobly strive, nobly fall!

For those who minister and heal
And spend themselves, their skill,
Their zeal—
Renew their hearts with Christ-like faith,
And guard them from disease and death.

And in Thine own good time, Lord
Send
Thy Peace on earth till Time shall end!

Truckmen Hold Important Meeting.

A special meeting of the executive of the Truckmen's Protective Union took place last night for the purpose of considering existing grievances which affected the principles of the Union. The executive were informed by members of the Union, who had occasion to work in the vicinity of Water St. East and who had strongly protested, about the condition of the entrance and leading to the Furness Withy pier. After some discussion it was decided to write the proper authorities and request them to adjust matters; also the S.P.C.A. will be asked to assist in bringing about the desired improvement. Discussion also took place on the subject of fish-handling. At present truck horses haul four five-quintal casks of codfish from mercantile premises to shipping piers for transshipment abroad. The weight of each load, including the cart, is an equivalent to 2,500 pounds. This was considered too heavy a load for one horse to haul at one time and shippers will be notified with a view to reducing the load to three casks. Before the meeting adjourned the holding of the Union's annual dinner was discussed. The date of the event will be announced later.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

"My dress is going to have a coat!" "Mine is to be long-waisted and to have a lot of tucks here," a sweep of the hand indicated the region.

"My coat is going to be trimmed with fluffy lace."

"I'm going to have val. on my waist. I thought coats were going out of style."

It was with a mixture of amusement and astonishment that I listened to the above conversation.

You don't see why?

Two Little Girls With Pigtails!

You think it is an ordinary conversation? As to its subject matter, yes, in the detail which gave it its extraordinary character was the participants. They were two little girls ten or eleven in short dresses with their hair in pigtails!

I wonder how long it will be before we have the girl babies crying in their cradles because their bassinets aren't trimmed with the approved kind of lace.

The Twelve-Year-Old and Her Vanity Box.

The Author had a tale to tell on this line the other night. "I was waiting for a car," he said, "and a little girl who couldn't possibly be more than twelve was standing alongside of me. All of a sudden what did she do but open her hand-bag, whip out a vanity case, powder her nose, look herself over in one of those dinky little mirrors, and go through the rest of the motions. I could hardly help laughing at her—why, the youngster wasn't a bit too old for a doll, and there she was, giving herself the airs and graces of a woman of forty. When do girls become young ladies nowadays? When they get into grammar school?"

I can imagine some reader asking what there is wrong about a girl of ten or twelve discussing styles, or using a vanity box? Nothing wrong, except as all unnatural things are wrong.

An ardent desire to look well, a painstaking attention to her personal appearance is a woman's natural prerogative, but not a child's. And at ten or eleven or even twelve a girl should be a child and not a miniature woman.

When Vanity Gets An Early Start

The vanity that gets such an early start as that is apt to become an overweening one.

For a girl of that age to want to wear dainty clothes and look as pretty as she can, is natural enough, but for her to be so interested in the subject of personal appearance that she studies styles and carries a vanity box, is absurd.

Any mother who has her daughter's best interests at heart will try to keep her young and unself-conscious as long as possible.

Prohibition,

FIRST OF THE DOMINIONS.

The boys from Newfoundland have been distinguishing themselves in the war. A list of casualties arrived last week from the Dardanelles, where a proportion of the Newfoundland force has been engaged. Other lists have come from the North Sea, where brave fellows who have been trained in courage and resourcefulness amid the storms and fogs of the Banks have been engaged in the fighting events of the fleet, in mine sweeping and at other hazardous service. At home, the friends of these lads are also engaged in patriotic service in endeavoring to cleanse the Ancient Colony from the curse of drink. As the day of the prohibition vote approaches the liquor men may be depended on to make every effort to maintain their position in St. John's, "the last ditch" of liquorism in Newfoundland. The usual pretences will be urged about the character and effect of prohibition in other countries. It will be accused of failure to prohibit, it will be stigmatized as an assault on personal liberty, it will be charged with being ruinous to trade, and to law and order; secret drinking, the use of drugs, and all sorts and sizes of other evils will be threatened as certain to follow in the wake of prohibition. But the people of Newfoundland have enjoyed the benefits of local prohibition for many years, and know that prohibition for the whole island would bring similar results, only better.

TO DEAL WITH AN EVIL.

Whatever its failures prohibition is certainly the best way to treat a trade that is only evil. For one thing, it absolves the community from complicity with it. It makes government its enemy instead of its patron. For another, it curbs it more than any other method known. Whatever evils exist under prohibition prevail worse where the trade is allowed. Secret drinking, the traffic in and use of cocaine and other harmful drugs, and vice and crime of every sort flourish under the shadow of the licensed saloon. With a convinced people and an honest administration, prohibition does prohibit. That is the reason the liquor men strive to fight it. Long ago the Algerine rovers were practically licensed by the European governments under understood regulations; but no system of regulation could keep these pirates from their work of slaughter and devastation. It required a prohibition of piracy enforced by British and French cannon to render the sea safe for traffic. Prohibition is a bulwark to liberty, and not an interference with it. Every community which licenses the traffic is politically more or less a slave to it. The lash of liquor is laid over the back of the noblest statesmen, and woe to them if they refuse to jump to its music. As to prohibition hurting trade, that is the veriest nonsense. Money which under the regime of license goes to the saloon keeper, the brewer and the distiller, goes under prohibition to better men. The butcher, the farmer, the builder, must prosper with the destruction of liquor.

RUSSIA'S EMANCIPATION.

During the eight months ending April 1, 1914, the increase of deposits in the savings bank amounted to $3,250,000. In the similar period ending April 1, 1915, the increase in deposits amounted to $130,000,000, or forty times as much. The effect on the health of the people has been just as wonderful. Diseases, especially those partially or entirely caused by alcohol, have fallen off 70 per cent. From July to December, 1913, there were in Petrograd alone ninety-seven suicides. Between the same dates in 1914, there were only fourteen. Of course, we do not compare the Russia of vodka-ridden days with Newfoundland of to-day, nor do we claim that a change so dramatic and so great will ensue in Newfoundland under prohibition. Newfoundland is already one of the soberest countries in the world. But no one knows better than the people of Newfoundland and themselves the evil wrought by the few saloons they still tolerate, and by the private importation and consumption of liquor. The traffic must receive its death warrant on the fifth of November if the colony is to enter upon its rightful heritage of moral and material well-being.—Montreal Weekly Witness.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

Stammering is due to a particularly nervous temperament, and only very sympathetic treatment can effect a cure. Stammering in a child should receive immediate attention, and the first thing to be done is to improve the little ones health by means of plenty of sleep, fresh air and good food. Every day he should take deep breathing exercises in the open air; these deep, steady inspirations strengthen the muscles of the throat and counteract a spasmodic habit of breathing.

Notice should be taken of the sounds which the little stammerer has the most trouble with, and sentences containing these sounds should be composed for him to repeat each day, very slowly and clearly. He should also be asked to read aloud each day. This exercise should be omitted whenever he seems over-excited or run down in health and it goes without saying that he should never be scolded or laughed at.

"CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE CHANCES?"

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if left alone, to the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold.

A cold is more than inconvenient—it is dangerous—so the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief.

There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but "STAFFORD'S PHORASTONE COUGH AND COLD CURE" is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, grippé, etc.

The Good Genius of the Sick Room.

A Gas fire, always a desirable installation, never proves its worth more than in cases of illness, for an invalid may need a fire at any season of the year. A coal fire makes dirt and dust and needs repeated attention, and the noise and clatter that the least stoking operation renders inevitable is at once an annoyance and a possible danger to the patient.

Gas fires are clean and noiseless, and when once alight will burn for an indefinite period without supervision of any kind, and it is now the common practice of medical men, especially when the illness is likely to be lengthy, to recommend a gas fire in the sick room.

When children are convalescent but still confined to one room, it is highly necessary, if the much-dreaded chill is to be avoided, to keep its temperature at a steady level. This is impossible where coal is the fuel, but a gas fire can be so easily and accurately regulated that the required degree of warmth can be obtained without difficulty.

Labor Men in the Trenches.

THE NEED FOR MUNITIONS.

The Press Bureau has issued the report of the Newcastle deputation of trade union representatives (selected by the National Advisory Committee on War Output), on their visit to the front, September 3-6. The signatories are Fr. John White, Mr. Joshua Butterworth, Mr. Isaac D. Hebron, and Mr. J. N. Bell.

The report says:—
 In presenting the impressions gained on a visit to the front it is a little difficult to know what ought to be included and what ought to be left out. For instance, we have all heard of France having been denuded of its young men, who are all in the fighting ranks, and in repeating that statement we may be charged with merely circulating very stale news. But there is considerable scepticism in the minds of many people. To such people, and especially those in the ranks of Labour, the confirmation of such a statement by officials and members of Trade Unions, responsible at all times to the organizations with which they are connected, may be of some value.

As we went round we received many statements as to the need for more shells. The officers in particular were strong upon the necessity of a more adequate supply of ammunition of all kinds, and upon the need for the people at home dropping all differences and uniting upon the work of keeping the Army supplied with every kind of munitions of war. There seemed to be a strong feeling about the alleged shortcomings of the workmen at home, and statements were made to us in that connection that we did not always feel we could allow to go unchallenged. We were particularly asked to explain as to the reasons for the Welsh coal strike, regarding which we, as North countrymen, could give very little information.

During this, our first day's experience, we received ample confirmation of what we had so often heard before, viz., of the existence of an opinion amongst responsible men that, man for man, our soldiers are superior to the Germans. Every officer who spoke to us on the point unhesitatingly asserted that, individually, our men could more than hold their own with the Germans, and that, therefore, the great thing that was needed was a sufficient supply of the munitions of war to enable our soldiers to meet the Germans on an equal footing.

The report describes a visit to a military convalescent home, where soldiers who are out of health, although not completely broken down, and soldiers only slightly wounded, are bathed, clothed, and have their ailments attended to:—

Since December over 10,000 men who might have been, and who would otherwise, in many cases, have been lost to the Army, have been restored to health and sent back to the ranks. We could not help expressing to Col. Bate, who is responsible for this wonderful piece of organization, the hope that when the war was over the authorities might see their way to allow him to do a similar work for civilians at home.

We may sum up the impressions that we formed:—

(1) We would comment upon the good will that prevails between officers and men. Of this there cannot be the least doubt. It can be seen in the tone and attitude of the officers and in the bearing of the men in their presence—to say nothing of other evidence.

(2) We may mention the cheerful confidence as to the final result of the war, which was characteristic of all ranks.

(3) Whatever there may have been in the past there seems to be splendid organization to-day.

(4) There seems to be a sufficiency of food.

(5) Life in the trenches, even under the best conditions possible, must be frightfully trying. It is bad enough to work amid dirt and wet, but when in addition to these there is a watchful enemy constantly on the look-out for the opportunity to take his opponent's life, the nerves and physique of the strongest must, some day, show signs of the strain.

(6) Despite every disadvantage our fighting men only ask that, as they are loyal to us, we at home shall be loyal to them, and see that no act of ours hampers, even in the slightest degree, the supply, in ever-increasing quantities, of shell and every kind of munition of war. Without these success is impossible, but with them, if we may judge from the expressions of those best able to form a judgment, success is assured.

DETAILS OF GOOD GROOMING.

Did you ever stop to consider how important every little detail of the toilet really is? When you sit behind a woman in the street car who has carelessly pinned her collar, do you not long to fix it neatly for her?

Have you not walked behind the woman who, by all outward appearances, is a lady, and suddenly you have seen, perhaps, a bit of braid hanging loosely from her skirt? Have you not been the observer of button-less blouses, hookless gapings and careless back hair?

It is the little things that really count in this world. I have always found that an excellent rule to follow is to dress oneself completely when preparing to go out, and then, just before I step out of the door, I give a quick backward glance in the mirror.

Perhaps a thread has caught on my skirt, perhaps a whisp of hair strays out at the back, or, maybe, there is a tiny hole in the heel of my stocking which I did not notice when dressing or it is possible that I have put too much powder on my nose.

All these details, though trivial, make or mar a beautiful woman. No woman, however beautiful, can afford to be carelessly groomed. The backward glance is an excellent habit and, once you establish it in your mind, you will find lots of flaws in your appearance that you never thought were there.

Fads and Fashions.

Black enamel and rhinestones are combined in many ways in inexpensive jewelry.

Beadings and fur-trimmings are actually seen in the new collar and cuff sets.

The prettiest dresses have their skirts very much rippled and edged with fur.

A little metal embroidery is a pretty feature of some of the new crepe blouses.

White chinchilla coats are so much liked it seems impossible to get enough of them.

The big flappy Tam o' Shanter are among the marked new types in autumn headgear.

Natural cross-fox is among the most beautiful of furs on account of its shaded browns.

Charming Cossack boots are made of African brown leather ornamented and topped with fur.

Midnight blue leather boots with gray fur tops are among the prettiest things imaginable.

In some mysterious way the fitted bodices have been made becoming to the average woman.

It looks as if the higher neckwear would be a greater favorite as the season grows colder.

Prohibition Meeting.

A large gathering of young voters attended last night's prohibition meeting in the T. A. Ansony. Mr. W. White presided and after explaining the object of the meeting and referring to the progress made by the different committees, introduced the first speaker, Mr. R. MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald dealt with alcohol as a drug, and while admitting that in exceptional cases it may prove beneficial, the decision as to when and how to use it should be left in the hands of members of the medical profession. The latter, said Mr. MacDonald, are on the whole opposed to liquor as a stimulant, and have found many substitutes for it, which while providing the necessary energy leave no evil after effects. He hoped that a big vote for prohibition would be polled on Nov. 4th next. Mr. H. V. Simms was the next speaker. In a clear and concise manner he expressed his attitude toward the drink traffic, and urged all present to use their utmost endeavors for the abolition of the saloon. Mr. W. J. Ellis followed and said that in the northern districts, from which he had just returned the sentiment was strong in favor of prohibition. He was of the opinion that by the removal of liquor we shall be clearing the way for the raising of a strong and sturdy race. Owing to some of the speakers being delayed, the chairman related some facts gleaned by canvassers in their tour of the city. He believed that many promising young men from outports who knew nothing of liquor at home fell before the temptation of the city saloon. Messrs. George Coughlan and George R. Johnston gave brief addresses, which were listened to with much interest. On the arrival of Dr. Mossell, Mr. White vacated the chair. Dr. Mossell dealt with the drink habit as a disease. He dealt also with the question of revenue and made a strong appeal for the abolition of the saloon. Rev. Mr. Legge, of Portugal Cove, gave a very earnest address and exhorted all to vote for prohibition. A vote of thanks proposed by Mr. J. M. Devine and seconded by Mr. Thomas R. Delaney, of Bay Roberts, was accorded the speakers by acclamation. The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Licensing Board.

The annual meeting of the Licensing Board set down to take place yesterday afternoon did not come off owing to some members of the Board being absent. The meeting is now arranged to be held on Thursday afternoon next. Up to yesterday five city publicans who had licenses last year had not applied for renewals of them, and we understand that it is not the intention of four of them, at any rate, to seek renewals, as they purpose going out of the business, having made up their minds in that direction some time ago.

Prohibition.

LETTER FROM MR. WARWICK SMITH.
Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—I received to-day a copy of my catechism on spirituous matters, which you published on the 19th inst. containing in the margin the following pencilled words:—
"Just for a handful of silver he left us," Local Option.
This, Mr. Editor, is a base and baseless insinuation, and while I voted and worked for Local Option in St. John's, I would then, as now have opposed Prohibition.
Even were I in favour of Prohibition I would not vote for the enforcement of the present Prohibition Act. Before I wrote you, I had not seen a copy of the Act and only one or two quotations from it. I wrote for information, I had a "hunch" that there would be some loop holes in a Temperance Act, and I find now, after reading a copy that was lent me, that I had underestimated their number. The Act is as full of holes as a sieve. It won't hold water, but it will keep in a power of whiskey!

Under the Act I may keep in my possession only such liquor as I may obtain before January 1st, 1917. When that stock is lost, wasted or consumed, I must fall ill before I can get any more, and then only enough for use during that illness. I cannot obtain any to keep by me for sudden illness. How sick I may be I must first see and pay a doctor, and then visit and pay a druggist. I may be on the Labrador, hundreds of miles from a doctor and druggist. I cannot take it in my medicine chest.
But see what the law allows the rich man to do. He can purchase enough liquor before January 1st, 1917, to stock his house and load his yacht for years and years, for any purpose, medicinal, social or other. The poor man's house, after a couple of years, will be empty of liquor and his schooner cannot carry it. He dare not import it then.
The rich man need not pay for it all at once. He must take delivery of it and pay the duty before January 1st, 1917. He can settle with the liquor seller at his own and the latter's convenience. The seller can sue him for the amount or an instalment after January 1st, 1917. Who is going to give the poor man credit for enough liquor to last him for the rest of his life?

When I, at the request of the Rev. James Bell, drafted the section of the License Act forbidding credit in the sale of intoxicants, and punishing the giving of such credit with fine and imprisonment, I did not make one law for the poor and another for the rich. That was done when the Bill was before the House of Assembly. I did not then, nor do I now, believe in one law for the rich and another for the poor. I would have stopped credit in wholesale as well as retail, to wealthy employer and poverty-stricken labourer alike.

I have shown, Mr. Editor, how the rich man may obey the law and yet obtain all the liquor he wants before January 1st, 1917; but the poor man will be unable to keep sufficient in his house as a medicine to save the lives of his wife and children in cases of sudden illness, or on board of his ship to save the lives of a shipwrecked crew.

In my next letter I shall show how easily and safely the rich man may openly and brazenly break the law after the Act comes in force. Of course the poor man won't be able to do this!

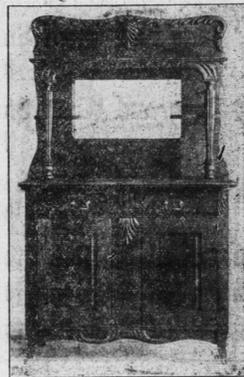

The Act seems to have a special dislike to schoolmasters and barbers, while policemen may become liable to a fine of five hundred dollars for trying to carry out the law! I will explain how later.

Druggists and doctors of medicine and divinity are the favourites. Lots of liquor for them and of money for the lawyers!

Some Act!
Yours truly,
WARWICK SMITH.

The Revenue With Prohibition

Is the Liquor Traffic necessary to the Revenue, or will the Revenue really suffer any loss under Prohibition? The answer is NO! Certainly not. On the contrary, a decided gain to the Revenue is reasonable to expect when the Liquor Traffic is abolished.

The Revenue receives an annual income of $360,000 from Liquor, and the people spend at least $1,500,000 for the Liquor on which this amount is paid as duty. How do we know that? Because 140,000 gallons of Liquor are consumed in the year, and a great deal of it is diluted and retailed at 10 cents to 15 cents a glass, which all of it is sold at a profit. It is easy to figure, therefore, that the amount spent in Liquor is not under $1,500,000 per year.

Under Prohibition this large amount of money will mostly be spent for good and useful objects. The people who now spend $1,500,000 for Liquor will then spend $1,200,000 of the same money in the purchase of dutiable goods, and as every dollar of this will contribute at least 25 cents to the Revenue, the latter will benefit thereby to the extent of $300,000 at least, as against $360,000 received from Liquor. But this is not all, for the people would also have to spend their additional earnings under Prohibition. It is estimated that nearly a million dollars per annum is lost by the workers of this country through death, inefficiency and inability caused by drink. The expenditure of this amount would bring $200,000 more to the Revenue.

Nor is this all, for the public purse will be saved some large expenditures under Prohibition. We now spend over $600,000 per year to support our Poor and Insane Asylums, Orphanages, Hospitals, Penitentiary, Jails, Magistrates, Police Forces, Courts of Justice, and such like to take care of the results of disease, poverty and crime, and it is proven clearly by authentic investigation that a large proportion of this is directly caused by liquor. Indeed, we know this for a fact, as every man can see it for himself. Investigation, however, proves beyond a doubt that fully 50 per cent of these things arise from the use of Liquor, which in our case would amount to more than $300,000.

This simple view of the case, therefore, shows that the Revenue would actually benefit in a very large amount by the adoption of Prohibition. Yours truly, VOTE YES.

Stephenville Crossing.

Magistrate McDonald, of St. George's, arrived here to-day on his way to Port au Port.

Mr. Dufe Joseph, of Bay of Islands, is now doing business here in the store at one time occupied by A. Corner and later by Vincent Gallant.

Many men from here and from Stephenville proper have gone to Badger and other places along the line seeking work in the lumber woods.

There is a lot of rumors about Confederation here, but there is not much interest taken in the subject, still if it was made a public issue at the polls, there is no doubt but the majority would vote in its favour, as most people about here believe that under Confederation with Canada our laws would be better carried out and not made the farce they are now.

The smelt fishery here was opened up this year about two months earlier than in former years. This is due to some of the fishermen and exporters having put in stocks of ice last winter to be ready to export when the fish would strike up the rivers. In former years the fishermen had to wait till the frost came to put the smelts in condition for exporting. Now they are shipping them packed in ice and it is thought that the article will fetch fancy prices in the American markets. The fishermen here as yet are from Port au Port or Stephenville, but it is thought that others will soon get busy as the fish are plentiful in Main River.

An outbreak of diphtheria which took place at Stephenville proper last month looked serious for a while although it was not of a very bad type, but Dr. R. McDonald, of Port au Port, with his usual vigilance and skill soon had the disease under control. The doctor is a rather hard worked man under ordinary circumstances as he has a large area to attend to but when to his usual work is added the difficulty of combatting an infectious disease it will easily be understood that his task is no light one.

CORRESPONDENT. Stephenville Crossing, Oct. 2nd, 1915.

HATRED.

I hate a lot of men, I wist; I'd camp upon their frames, but when I try to make a list, I can't recall their names. I should resent the evil flings from this or that old scout, but there are far more pleasant things that I can think about. Old Weatherwax has done me ill, here in my native town, and every day he tries to kill my twenty-cent renown; I've heard the evil things he's said, and yet I don't repine; and if I tried to punch his head, he'd surely land on mine. Vain is the effort to defend one's fame from such attacks; I'd rather gossip with a friend than scrap with Weatherwax. I do not care what people say, words leave no smarts or stings; and every passing sunny day is full of pleasant things. Why should I miss the sight of birds, as to the South they go, to stand around and handly words with some long-winded foe? Why should I harbor thoughts of hate, when there are authors near, with healthy stories to relate, and pomes that soothe and cheer? Why should I hold a vengeful mind, when it is best to laugh, when I can sit around and grind chunes from my phonograph?

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."

"That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time. I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggists."

THE AEROPLANE.

By GEORGE FITCH

Author of "At Good Old Sivash"

The aeroplane was invented by Orville and Wilbur Wright in order to give man something to die for after the North Pole had been discovered and the unsafe and insane Fourth of July had gone out of style. Although it is only seven years since the first aeroplane flew over a fence, men are falling out of them at a height of 10,000 feet and are getting $1,500 a day for doing it. They are sacrifices to the science of aviation and are the first men in history to make a good thing financially out of martyrdom.

It is too early yet to tell whether the aeroplane is to be classes as a vehicle, an exhibition, a weapon or a means of suicide. Sometimes it acts like all four of them combined. It is a delicate affair made of wires, tubing and canvas, is driven by a hurricane produced by a gasoline engine, and is operated by an aviator and a press agent. The aeroplane can fly ninety miles an hour and can remain aloft half a day. It can ascend at any desired speed, but frequently chooses its own speeds in coming down. Until this little matter can be regulated, aviation is not going to become much of a parlor game.

By means of the aeroplane, man has finally gotten the laugh on the attraction of gravitation. He can rise from the ground at-will, and can chase eagles, frolic in the zenith, play hide and seek with cumulous clouds and drop cigarette stubs carelessly down on Pike's Peak, as he soars lazily by. He can skim over the forests like a chicken hawk, or can rise from earth so far that a Philadelphia-Boston baseball game below would sound only like a far volcano. But now and then something breaks and then the attraction of gravitation gets its laugh. There is nothing sadder or more tragic than the demonic laugh of the attraction of gravitation.

Aeroplanes can now be bought for $2,500 cash and the 1915 models show all the latest luxuries of travelling. They will be purchased in large numbers by young desperados this year, but most of us will continue to hang tightly onto Mother Earth with both feet and wait for the introduction of an automobile with a self-stopper attachment.

Aeroplanes do not cost much money to build, and at present, owing to the good nature of the city editors who do not change advertising rates for what they print, can be operated very cheaply. But the aeroplane can never become the poor man's toy, owing to the fact that part of the necessary equipment of an aeroplane is a forty-acre field for starting and stopping purposes. Until some means of mounting a plane from the curb is devised, they will not be handled by the department store to any extent.

You Can't Find Any Dandruff, and Hair Stops Coming Out

Save your hair! Make it thick, wavy, glossy and beautiful at once.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking only one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment. A 25-cent bottle will double the beauty of your hair.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"She should call on her hostess within two weeks after the entertainment or before leaving the city if she does not stay that long," said her mother.

The Greatest War Picture Ever Issued "THE GREAT SACRIFICE."

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

REMARKABLE TRIBUTES.

Her Majesty Queen Alexandra has been graciously pleased to write as follows:—

"It is a lovely picture which must appeal to the feelings of the whole Nation."

His Eminence Cardinal Bourne.

"It is a picture full of meaning, and one that should bring consolation to many a sorrowing heart. I hope it will have a wide circulation. There could not be a more appropriate frontispiece than this to the wonderful Pastoral Letter by Cardinal Mercier, whose burning words were immediately brought back to my mind when my eyes fell on the picture of our crucified Lord with the stricken soldier at His feet."

The Bishop of Lichfield.

"I think the picture of 'The Great Sacrifice' very beautiful and touching. It cannot fail to do good to those who see it and consider its meaning."

We beg to announce that we have obtained the selling rights in Newfoundland for this celebrated picture and that samples of the various styles are now on exhibition in our window. Orders may be booked at the following prices:—
