PLOT.

In our issue of last week we quoted from The Western Mail a short paragraph summarizing a lecture on the Gunpowder Plot, given by Father Gerard, S. J., at Cardiff. The South Wales Argus, of November 7, supplied its readers with the following lengthy report of the lecture :

Father Gerard, who spoke entirely without notes, said: The account of the Gunpowder Plot published by the Government of King James I., has in its main outlines been implicitly accepted ever since at least in this country; but the complicity of the Cattolics as a body has long been discredited by respectable historians. The complicity of Father Garnet, the Jesuit, has been the subject of interminable discussion, with the result that Mr. Gardiner, the latest and best of our historians, who has given special attention to this period, pronounces the account given by Garnet of himself to be in all probability "the exact truth." But while in these details there is admitted to be doubt, it has always been believed that to a great extent the history of the conspiracy is known with absolute certainty. As Jardine puts it, "The outlines of the transaction were too notorious to be suppressed or disguised; that a design had been formed to blow up the Parliament House, with the King, the Royal Fomily, the Lords and Commons, and that this design was formed by Catholic men for Catholic purposes, could never admit of controversy or concealment." This, however, is the very question to be discussed to-night.

CECIL AT LEAST COGNIZANT OF THE PLOT.

Reasons will be given, which seem difficult to answer, to show that even in its main outlines the Government story is certainly untrue; that it was invented to conceal the truth; and that all the evidences point unmistakably to the conclusion that Cecil (Earl of Salisbury) the King's Prime Minister, if he did not actually organize the plot, at least knew of it long before the pretended discovery, and worked it for his own ends This was the belief at the time and for long afterwards, not only universally amongst ly nappened, it is impossible that the on November 5th, it would be in the oc-Catholics, but amongst intelligent Protestants. The Catholics of England had and we have it from himself that he at FATHER GERARD, S. J., ON THE GUNPOWDER been cruelly persecuted under Elizabeth. The Penal Laws, in the words of the late Lord Coleridge, were "as wild and savage as any since the foundation of the world." They hoped for toleration from ing of the 5th itself was the search made James, who assured them they should have it, and who did at first greatly mitigate their sufferings. Then suddenly the policy was changed, and they were persecuted more severely than ever, so it was said that the times of Elilabeth, though most cruel, were the mildest and happiest, in comparison with those of James. This inevitably excited disappointment and indignation, and it was not wonderful that some violent and turbulent spirits among them should be ready for violent remedies. The conspirators were eminently such characters. So well known were they that nine years previously, when the Queen was ill, it had been proposed to lock them up as a precautionary measure, they being 'turbulent spirits." They had all, or nearly all, been engaged in various the rebellion of Essex, when some of them had narrowly escaped the gallows. This being so, as Lord Castlemaine says, it was no hard thing for a Secretary of State "to know of them as men fit for his purposes.' The story of their proceedings told by the Government is incredible. According to this, so secretly did eve of the session of Parliament, when warning was given by an anonymous letter to Lord Mounteagle. "Never," it was said, "was treason more secret and ruin more apparently inevitable."

DETAILS OF THE PLOT UNTRUSTWORTHY.

But the details will not bear examination. First, we are told these men known as desperate characters, hired a house close to the House of Lords. From this they dug a mine through the interbreak through the foundation of the Parliament House so as to construct a The wall was nine feet thick, and at it served the Peers as a withdrawing room they bring in unobserved the timber through the wall? There is certainly some Percy, from the Lords Commissioners of all was contrived for stage effect. But would any man in his senses have left a store of powder so long in such a place in the hands of a man like Guy Fawkes, if he had thought there was any harm in it? It would be interesting to know what would have happened if a match had been applied to that powder. The conspirators appear to have been disappointed with it, for they suspected it to have become "dank." More remarkable still, after the "discovery," searching enquiries were made about every-'hunger starved for innovations' and thing else-even as to where the conspirators had procured their crowbars had been secured, to hang the spaniel of a man sentenced to death "without and their beaver hats; but about the treasonable actions, and in particular in powder no word was ever breathed! On Sunday His Grace consecrated the new hospital at Edmonton, and addressed a large audience made up of the leading citizens. Later on an address from the Catholics of the town was read and presented by Mr. N. D. Beck, Q. C., and in response His Grace made a vigorous speech dealing with the school question. He ridiculed the proposition for a commission to enquire into a matter that had been so prominently before the public for five years, and declared that Catholics must have their rights.

Merry . Christmas.

E cordially wish all our readers a Merry Christmas. and by this we mean, not necessarily a gay Christmastide, replete with laughter and mirth-for there are some, perhaps many, whose surroundings do not admit of boisterous glee—but a solidly cheerful, deeply, joyous and truly happy Christmas. . This is one of the oldest meanings of the word "merry." For want of knowing this pregnant meaning of the time-honored expression some Catholics object to it as if it savored too much of a mere worldly gayety hardly in keeping with the spiritual joy of the great Christian festival. They would prefer to wish their friends a "happy Christmas." But "merry," in connection with so Catholic a word as "Christmas," Christ-Mass, really means "happy." England was called "Merrie it scandalously dishonest. But in the England" in the old Catholic days when present instance it is only a case of menthe grace of God with its inseparable deep-seated joy was poured out over the whole island, and when the realm itself was styled "Our Lady's Dowry," the dower of her who is the "Cause of our joy" at this blessed season. When the Authorized Version of the Bible was issued in 1611, the memory of those happy days was still living in the language; the word 'merry" had not yet lost its spiritual significance; so the translators of James V. 13 could write: "Is any merry? let him sing psalms." On the other hand, in 1885, after 350 years of Protestant unrest, the jovial and carnal view of the old word had become so general that the Revisers drop it and write: "Is any cheerful? let him sing praise." But we are the heirs of all the ages. Our Catholic phraseology is even new though old as the Church. Let us stick to it, provided we understand its wealth of spiritual meaning.

The Boissevain Globe of the week befere last had a touching poem, entitled "Shackling Manitoba," in which the weak majority was pictured in poignant verses as pierced in hands and feet and side by the Jesuits holding them down. This is uncommonly like the old fable of the savage, cruel wolf blaming the harmless lamb for deeds done before the latter was born. Fancy the minority, rapine and murder by the knights of the road!

The distinguished editor of "La Verite" writes us a very flattering letter, which we print in another column exactly as ritories. That shrewd and relentless he wrote it in English. We wonder how enemy of the Catholic Church, that past many of our English newspaper editors | Grand Master of Freemasonry, Mr. D. J. could write such a letter in French. Mr. Tardivel, who always prepares for the ers; and from his point of view-which worst, thinks the local Quebec government will yield to the unreasonable criticisms of that loud-voiced organ of fast. His scientific persecution of Cath-French freethought, "La Patrie." We venture to hope Premier Taillon will, on the contrary, stiffen his backbone, and, instead of consigning 500 copies of a masterpiece to the "rats," will, if he notices La Patrie at all, simply answer "rats" to its impotent barking. When Mr. Beaugrand's paper condemns anything Catholic, Catholics should be very careful to praise and encourage that very thing. La Patrie's strictures on "Pour la Patrie" indirectly prove what a powerful engine for truth this novel is.

We understand that a recent number of the Winnipeg Saturday Night contains several columns of censure and advice addressed to us. As the editor did not send us a copy-following the brave example of Mr. F. C. Wade, who carefully hides his shameful pamphlet from the men he attacks-we do not feel sufficiently interested to order one. However we are rather pleased to see of this diatribe that safety - valve find thus for the pent-up anger he accu mulated on reading our successful hint to the Nor'-Wester. So much for his censure. As for his gratuitous advice, the length of it, according to report is such as to prove what a home thrust was the advice we lately gave him and

Next to direct praise, the best recommendation of Mr. Tardivel's novel is the ire it is exciting in the ranks of Freemasonry and unfair journalism. The Witness, of Montreal, says it is a libel on Protestants, though there is not a word against them in the whole book, and though the finest Parliamentary speech in the story is attributed to a Protestant. And now comes United Canada with a column and a half of misrepresentation couched in that barbaric phraseology which seems to be that funny editor's peculiar glory. He implies that "Pour la Patrie" is intended to "open the eyes of all good Quebec Catholics to the horro of their position under the English flag." Were such an insinuation made by an intelligent person, we should call tal squint. Had the editorial swash buckler been able to see straight, or, in other words, been able to read Mr Tardivel's admirable French, he would have observed that the entire nove does not contain one single word or in uendo against the English flag. The scene is laid AFTER Canada had peace fully become an independent nation; but there is not the slightest hint in the book that this independence was approved, still less, praised by the School Readers are the most effectual trainers of the minds of children. Day by day, insensibly, the child drinks in from his school reading, those multitudinous influences which gradually build up the fabric of his mind. If he is fed on the usual non-Catholic reading book, he grows up an admirer of mere worldly success, of mere secular knowledge, of wealth and brains and perishable beauty. Hearing nothing or next to nothing of religion, he has no idea of the rights of the Creator over his creature Thus his whole being is thrown out of He grows up an intellectual monster in whom the transitory and the unimportant have supplanted the elernal and the one thing necessary. On the other hand, Catholic Readers train Catholic minds; they put life and all its aims in their proper perspective; they especrobbed by the local brigands, accused of ially wage war against that plague of the non-Catholic world, "the fascination of trifles."

Quite recently the secular press of this city announced that the masons of Winnipeg had made arrangements for the delivery of a course of public lectures during the wintermonths and that N. F. Davin, M. P., would be the first orator. Some few years ago, this same gentleman was advertised to deliver a masonic lecture in this city, whereupon the venerable Father Fox, at that time pastor of St. Mary's Church, explained to the members of his flock the attitude of the Church towards Masonry and forbade them to attend such lectures. Immediately thereafter there appeared in the Tribune a protest from a "prominent"(?) Catholic citizen, who announced that several Catholics intended going to the lecture as a "protest" against the interference of their pastor. This "prominent" individual, who calls himself a Catholic, but who is most likely a mason, had the impudence to say that the Archbishop (Tache) would not have permitted Father Fox's interference, had he been at home. When the Archbishop's attention was called to this extraordinary statement, he wrote a letter from Montreal completely indorsing the expressing surprise and pain that ONE man should be found in the congregation of St. Mary's capable of such antiattending any of these lectures.

Freemasonry is the greatest and the most powerful enemy of the Catholic Church in our day. Protestantism, with its multitudinous sects, believing and thinking for themselves regardless of the opinions of their preachers or the authority of their synods, etc., has no fixed hold on the minds of the thinking portion of the people. Not so with Free masonry. It is a well organized, well disciplined secret society, with a fixed and definite purpose. Its secrecy guarded as it is by the most terrible and shocking oaths and obligations, enables it to do with impunity what would bring upon it or any other similar organization, if known, the condemnation of all right thinking men. The secrecy of oath-bound organizations is enough to condemn them; but when the avowed aims of such an organization are enmity to religion and the secularization of national institutions—that is the ousting of Jesus Christ and his religion from the hearts of the people, what was merely condemnable becomes abominable.

In this war against Jesus Christ, masonry treats with contemptuous indif- to the Church and a co-persecutor of her ference the multifurious Protestant Infallible Head.

Masonry sees in the Catholic Church

he one insurmountable barrier between its hatred of the Church and its determination to destroy her authority. Among Continental masons, there are no professing Christians. They are all Jews and anti-Christians. They openly declare their emity to, and contempt for Jesus Christ and his teaching. The rank and file master mason in England and America, especially among those who speak the English language, will appear, and many of them are, honestly scandalized at being told that the uitimate aim of Freemasonry is the destruction of Christianity, but it is because they know just as much, or as little, of the designs of Masonry as it pleases their leaders to communicate to them. This, of course presupposes a state of servitude on their part; but do they not invite, nay fasten, upon themselves a thousandfold worse form of servitude, when they blindly bind themselves, by the most shocking oaths, to obey, fulfil of which they know nothing, or simply to act at the dictation of men who have no rights, either human or divine, to command their obedience? Is it possible to conceive of any form of servitude more subversive of the natural and divine rights of man, or more debasing to his manhood, or to his individual liberty, than that which such an oath imposes? Why, some of these dupes know as much about the aims and objects of Freemasonry as we know about the inhabitants of Mars. If Masonry is the good and harmless organization they would have us believe, why those terrible oaths of secrecy? Why the determined efforts to secularize and debase our public institutions? Why these efforts to ignore Jesus Christ, by welcoming Jews, agnostics, atheists and infidels into its fold and omitting the all-saving Name of Jesus Christ from its rituals and ceremonies, lest, forsooth, that Name should be offensive to these sensitive gentlemen? What has been the attitude of this sect to the Catholic Church? itself and the object of its designs. Hence To the Editor of the Whig.

Sir,-In the Whig yesterday appears the subjoined extract from the Orange Sentinel.preambled with the remark that 'The Sentinel is edited by Mr. Clarke, and its opinions, therefore, on current questions are particularly significant":-The Dominion Government is bankng on the solid vote of the Roman Catholic Church in carrying out its policy of coercion in Manitoba. That the Government's expectations will not be realized in this particular is made manifest by the warm approval given by Archbishop Cleary's organ to Mr. Laurier's proposal to appoint a commission for the purpose of making inquiry into the facts before action is taken by the Federal authorities. This deliverance from Kingston makes it clear that the Government by its unwise course has alienated Protestant friends, and will find the Roman Catholic vote, on which it has been relying to make up the loss, at the critical moment slipping over to the leader of the Opposition. If the ministry goes on in its present course, therefore, it will lose old tried friends, and the new support on which it is now leaning will and carry out obligations of the nature prove a broken reed. The men in power at Ottawa have so far refused to do right for right's sake. Will they now cease to do wrong when the declaration of Archbishop Cleary is a plain warning that continued wrong-doing will not bring them the political profit they are counting on? The ministry had better even yet decide to stop pandering with Rome and resolve to stand by the true friends who have been its firm support in the past." No newspaper in Kingston, or in Canada, is my organ in any sense of the word. Whensoever I am required by sense of duty to communicate my mind to the public, I do it in my own name, openly and without disguise. The paper which the Orange Sentinel has been pleased to style "Archbishop Cleary's organ" is doubtless the Canadian Freeman, published in this city, and the editor of the Orange Sentinel ought to be well aware that it is not my organ, and that I do not control or in any wise influence its political utterances. It was Mr. W. R. Meredith who first invented the story of my responsibility for the opinions of the Freeman, and announced it to a large meeting of his followers in London the week before Christmas in the year 1889, when opening his second campaign against separate schools. I called upon him publicly to verify his story, and his explanation was only that We all know it is a secret society that he hazarded a conjecture. He did not venture to repeat it after my repudiation. But the host of newspapers that worked with him throughout that fatal campaign continued to repeat his figment, in the hope of thereby weakening Catholic sentiments as those contained masonry that brought about the confisc- my position in defence of the civil and in the Tribune. We recall this incident ation of the Papal states and made the religious liberties of my faithful Catholic people and their indisputable right under divine and civil law and the Constitution of the Dominion to rear their sect and for the purpose of pointing out that is daily and bourly offered to the nothing of that exploded fabrication in children Christians. We have heard more recent years. But now since the skirmishing preparatory to the war of parties in the Federal election commenced, that forgotten story has been revived and is bandied about as an important adjunct of political strategy. Within the past ten days it was set forth in the columns of a French paper in one of the cities of Quebec province, and commented upon in terms similar to those Europe. They came on the invitation of of the Orange Sentinel. As in duty that ex-convict and all-round scoundrel, bound, I published a contradiction of it in that same city. Now that the Orange Sentinel, whese love and admiration for the hierarchy, and in particular for the was the victory of Freemasonry. Lemmi's Archbishop of Kingston, is known to letter of invitation said: "On that most everybody, has thought fit to re-produce the oft-condemned fabrication and to will palpitate with the loving thoughs of attach to it a mighty political importance, sufficient to make the government of the day tremble in its shoes should it dare to respect the constitution and the judgment of the the Church has to-day? And yet there highest court in the empire by giving redress to the oppressed Catholic minority of Manitoha, I once again and most empathically declare that story to be absolutely false. The admirable facility of English origin and sympathy have of the editor of the Orange Sentinel to bound over the fences of truth and decency is apparent in the concluding passage of the extract from that journal, viz.: "The men in power at Ottawa have so far refused to do right for right's a sake. Will they now cease to do wrong sham. The Catholic who would lend when the declaration of Archbishop Cleary is a plain-warning that continued wrong-doing will not bring them the political profit they are counting on?" A while ago it was boldly stated that a certain paper is Archbishop Clear's or-

A Protestant Praises the Jesuits.

Robert Korner, in his "History of Pelagogy," writes of the Jesuits as follows: "The Jesuits were the first to establish a method of school work, which was the most perfectly organized of the times, and which won throughout the civilized world a well-deserved renown. It has long been customary to describe the Jesuits as tyrants, evil-minded, deceitful and treacherous, although it must be confessed, the crimes which have been historically attributed to them have been by no means proved, and their expulsion, as everyone knows, was the arbitrary act of a bureaucratic minister. . . . We ought, in justice to ourselves, to silence the folly of those who persist in seeing 'a malicious intent to poison the conscience of youth,' in the Jesuit system of education. The Jesuits stand on the heights. Therefore have they accomplished great things, as we Protestants, if we are not blinded by envy, must acknowledge. They were the first teachers to pursue psychological methods. In striving to develop the individual instead of educating each youth after a single model, they have won for the professional educator a significant and influential position in private and in public life. The Jesuits succeeded in instilling a moral purity such as was to be found in no other schools of the sixteenth or seventeenth centuries.'

A POPULAR REMEDY.

Suffered for Twenty Years From Heart Troubles - His Doctor Said He Might Drop Dead at Any Moment-Tells How He Overcame the Trouble.

From the Ingersoll Chronicle.

That a sound mind in a sound body is one of the best and greatest gifts of a kind Providence no one will deny. Mankind in all ages has sought to obtain the elixir of life, have hunted for some means of prolonging health, vigor and vitality—have in fact hoped that they might find

"Some blithe wine
Or bright elixir peerless they could drink
And so become immortal."

But while man can hardly hope to attain that coveted prize this side of the eternal world, yet it is evident to all who give the subject any consideration, that modern science, skill and modern education in the treatment of ills that flesh is heir to, have worked wonders in restoring the human body to its original form divine," and in relieving many sufferers from untold misery, bringing them back to health and happiness, and giving them a feeling that life is indeed worth living. A case in point, in our own town, having reached the ears of a reporter of the Chronicle, the scribe determined to satisfy his enriosity by calling on the party who had had such a letire gud ji vestigate

It was interesting to note the fervency with which he volunteered, as he said for the sake of humanity, to tell what he could of his case, and we will let it be told in his own words. He said: "For twenty years I was subject to heart trouble, and could get no relief although I had tried almost everything that kind friends re-commended to me. My family physician would sometimes give me some medicine that would help me for a short time, but without benefit. He told me I might drop dead at any moment, and I tell you I expected to do so on many occasions. I had heard of Dr. Williams'

Pink Pills when they first came out but I had used so many remedies that I just about lost faith in everything of that kind, and had become resigned to my fate. However, I came in contact with so many that had used Pink Pills, and who assured me that they had been benefitted by their use, that at last I decided to give them a trial also, and several years ago I cmmenced taking them. I continued their use until I had taken eight boxes, and I am happy to say now that I never had a symptom of the disease since, and I am convinced by the blessing of God Pink Pills cured me. I might also say that last fall I was attacked with rheumatism, which became so bad that I could scarcely walk from my work to the house, and for a long time I could not get out to church. I tried a number of things recommended to me, but received no good from their use, so I said to mysely one day Pink Pills did me so much good before for my heart trouble, I'll try them again, so I gave them another fair trial, with the result that the rheumatism has

DEAR SIR,—Your Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are the best selling pills in the market. This is a fact. I speak with knowledge on the subject, as I have been dealing in various kinds of pills, and sell more of Morse's than any other.

If any one does not believe this I ask him to write any of my customers about it, or better still, I ask him to try a box and see if he will then use any other. I hope I may always have them. Yours gratefully, H. M. G. BARRY.

Should you find the cold, raw autumn winds chilling you to the bone and making you teel as though it would be almost impossible to stand the still colder weather yet to come. Try say a half-pint bottle a day of our Extra Porter; the cost will be but a trifle over five cents per day and may do you a great deal of good.

Porter enriches the blood, warms up the system and generally produces a cheerfulness of mind and a desire to look upon the brighter side of life.

Many people say "I don't like porter or lager, if I did I would use it regularly and no doubt be benefited by its use." Now, people, as a general thing, don't use only the medicines prescribed for them, that are palatable or that just suit their fancy, they take anything and everything the doctor sends. So we say to such people take your porter as an article of fully recognized medicinal value, whether you like it or not. Porter—and this applies equally to our ale or lager—is so mild a stimulant that none of the depressing effects sometimes felt after using stronger stimulants is experienced.

Bottled in quarts, pints and half-pints, the latter one glass, no waste always fresh.

D'Aoust. been present at one of the last rehearsals we are able to promise a most cor-rect and pleasing rendition of the grand old difficult music. The offertory piece will be Lambilotte's Christmas hymn "Pastores Erant Vigilantes." The High Mass will be immediately followed by a Low Mass during which appropriate hymns will be sung, notably "Christmas Morn," solo by Mr. Markinski, "Angels we have heard" and the French hymn "Ca Bergers assemblons—nous." The mass will be repeated at 11 o'clock on Christmas morning the only change being that the "Adeste Fideles" will be sung at the offertory. In the evening the programme will be as follows: "Lau-date," Zingaielli; "Magnificat," Mozart; "Onld retribusme." Grunod's "Ave "Quid retribuam;" Gounod's "Ave Maria," soloby Mrs. Lloyd, and Rossini's grand "Tantum Ergo."

Death of Madame Langevin.

At St. Isidore, in the Province of Quebec, there passed away last week to her eternal reward, Madame Langevin, For fine tailoring go to Wm. Markin-ski, Rossin House Block, near C. P. R. mother of our beloved Archbishop. The news of the sad event reached His Grace during his absence in the west and it was impossible for him to attend the funeral which took place on Friday The REVIEW is pleased to learn that Mgr. Emard, Bishop of Valleyfield, sang of the decessed, as assistant priest, and the chief mourners were the bereav-Rev. Abbe B. Langevin, Vicar of St, Vincent de Paul. The REVIEW most respectfully offers to the Archbishop its sympathy which we know is shared by all the people of the Northwest, regardless of class or creed, and which will be extended also to the other members of the family. May her soul rest in peace.

St. Mary's Church.

The committee of gentlemen, who have in charge the carrying out of the enlargement and improvements of St. Mary's church, had a meeting on Tuesday of last week. The object of the meeting was to examine the plans and to see whether the amount subscribed would justify the committee in going on with the work. The plans submitted were discussed and admired. The subscriptions received so far justify the committee in believing that they will reach the handsome sum of five thousand dollars when all the parishioners are heard from. In fact, if the remaining portion of St. Mary's congregation show the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation show the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation show the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when at the original state of the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as those who have already subscribed, the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the same generosity as the subscription of St. Mary's congregation when the same generosity as the same tion when complete, will exceed that sum by several thousands of dollars The devoted pastor of St. Mary's church and the zealous committee, who are so extended notice of the death and burial ably seconding his efforts, are to be congratulated on the good will and gen-Ald. ## CATHOLIC TRUTH SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.

The members of the Catholic Truth Society held their annual meeting for election of officers at their hall on Water street on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and a most encouraging statement of the position and prospects of the society was given by the officers. The membership was shewn to be good considering all things, and to be on the increase; reference was made to the cosy and comfortably furnished headquarters; it was shewn that there were no debts, but that, on the other hand, the society is the possessor of a good balance on the right side at the bankers. A programme for the remaining months of the winter session was arranged, including some lectures to be given in the rooms and before the members exclusively by Reverend Fathers of St. Boniface College, who are taking great interest in this excellent organization. The REVIEW heartily congratulates the officers on the success they have achieved in the past and assures them of its best wishes and hearty support in the future. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year, and we must say that in view of the satisfactory well to at least take care that the finan- state of affairs resulting from last year's cial secretary receives the amount of their assessment.
