ALGERIANS DRIVE BACK GERMANS AND INFLECT HEAVY LOSSES ON THEM

French Official Announcement Pays Tribute To Them—Germans Again Using Artillery Freely

Paris, Nov. 19.—The French official announcement given out by the war office this afternoon says: "On the north yesterday was marked by a renewal of activity on the part of the enemy's artillery, particularly between the sea coast and the Lys. There were no infantry attacks in this region. "Between the Oise and the Aisne, the operations in the vicinity of Tracy-Le-Vall had a termination very favorable for our troops. It will be remembered that we took possession of this village several days ago. The day before yesterday the Germans endeavored to recapture it. After having captured our first trenches, they succeeded in making their way as far as the central part of the village. Here, however, a vigorous counter attack delivered by our Algerian contingents drove the enemy back, wrested from him all the ground we had lost, and inflicted on him very heavy losses. "In the Argonne we have maintained our position. Along the rest of the front there is nothing new to report."

BRITISH WARSHIPS STILL HURLING SHELLS AGAINST ENEMY IN BELGIUM

London, Nov. 19.—No change of importance has been recorded for some days past in the western areas, where Flanders is still in the scene of heavy fighting. In spite of adverse weather conditions and flooded trenches, the Germans appear to be holding their positions from which, at intervals, they launch the attacks for which the territory from the Belgian coast to Arras has become famous. The allied warships are still off the coast, hurling shells inland when opportunity offers. The Belgian army remains in the region where the floods have been the worst, and some despatches say that in certain places they have been fighting from small boats.

NAVAL FIGHTING IN BALTIC

London, Nov. 19.—The Copenhagen correspondent of the Central News reports that very heavy gun fire was heard on Tuesday afternoon from Gotland Island, in the Baltic Sea, off the Swedish coast. It is supposed to have been from a naval battle between German and Russian fleets.

Defeating the Turks

Petrograd, Nov. 19.—An official communication issued by the general staff of the Caucasian army, dated Nov. 17, states that Turkish reinforcements have been sent to the front of the province of Batumi, where some skirmishes have taken place. The statement continues: "In the valley of the Rion, the Russian troops took by assault the town of Datab, an important point on the road of communication in the valley of the Euphrates. "On all other points, there is no change."

The Fighting in Poland

The Hague, via London, Nov. 19.—A Russian staff officer, passing through here, has this to say as to the progress of the present German success in Poland. "The Russian army in Poland maintains three lines as many cavalry men as the Germans. This cavalry swarmed after the retreating Germans and when the Germans suddenly stopped, the Russian cavalry was dashed to pieces like migrating birds flying against a rock. "Meanwhile the main body of the Russians, 1,000,000 men, whose absolute purpose is to beat the Austrians decisively, is proceeding unmolested to attack Cracow, leaving a smaller detachment to besiege Przynal. "Thereafter" the officer concluded "the Russians do not intend to attempt to cross the Carpathians but, following the Oder River, will make their main attack on Germany by way of Oppeln, Breslau and Glogau."

The Tennessee

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—Definite details of the adventure of the cruiser Tennessee in the Gulf of Smyrna were eagerly awaited today by administration officials, who remained confident that the affair probably would be adjusted through channels of diplomacy. Ambassador Morgenthau has been directed to inquire of the Turkish government why land forces had fired on the Tennessee and her sister ship North Carolina, in nearby waters, had instructions to make no move that might embarrass the Washington government.

MAJOR-GENERAL HUGHES DID NOT ARRIVE TODAY

Major-General Hughes did not arrive in the city this morning. Just when he will come seems uncertain, though it is expected he will be here this week. No word of his plans has been received by the militia or the railway authorities so that it is not known whether he will come direct to St. John by C. P. R. or will go to Halifax first and come here on his way back to Ottawa.

Shergold of the Royal Canadian Engineers, has been mentioned in despatches by Field Marshal Sir John French and promoted to the rank of second lieutenant in the imperial army. He was in England when the war broke taking an advanced course in wireless telegraphy. He promptly offered his services to the imperial government, and was accepted and posted for duty to the signal squadron of a cavalry division. His family resides in Toronto.

Hundreds of Thousands of People Line Rain Soaked London Streets as Veteran's Body is Borne to St. Paul's

London, Nov. 19.—The body of Field Marshal Lord Roberts, borne on a gun carriage, was moved slowly through the streets of London today to its last resting place in St. Paul's. The streets were lined with troops, while hundreds of thousands of civilians stood with bare heads as the funeral cortege went by in this spite of a cold rain which fell incessantly. The cortege reached St. Paul's at noon. There, before a great and reverent throng of people, including King George, funeral services were held. The body will be interred alongside the remains of Wellington, Nelson, Wolsley and other famous Britons.

ARE NOT MAKING MAPS IN THESE DAYS; PENDING CHANGES

New York, Nov. 19.—A London cable to the Tribune says: "Pending alterations in Europe, the map making business is at a standstill, according to an official of one of the largest map making concerns in London, who asserted today that such extensive changes were sure to follow the war, but many scientific publications scheduled to contain maps were being held up, until the end of the conflict, that great changes would be wrought in the size and shape of Germany and that England and France would have considerable additions to their colonies."

WAR NOTES

On November 17 two German cruisers, ten torpedo boats and other steamers bombarded Libau, a Russian port in the Baltic, setting several buildings on fire. On the same date a Russian fleet bombarded Feodosia, a Black Sea port in Turkey in Asia, setting buildings on fire. No Turkish vessels were sighted.

GERMANS S' R KE SEVERE AND UNEXPECTED BLOW AT THE RUSSIAN CENTRE

Advance of Czar's Troops Checked and Centre Driven Back More Than 50 Miles From Frontier—Is The Story of The March on Paris to Be Repeated?

London, Nov. 19.—An unexpected blow delivered on the Russian centre by General Von Hindenburg with the German army which had retreated from before Warsaw was the predominant feature of the news reaching London today from the eastern front. Having for the time being thrown back the Russian advance toward the German frontier of Posen, Von Hindenburg is the hero of the hour in Berlin. There is much criticism in Berlin over the German retreat from Warsaw, but if the present marked reversal of form proves permanent, the German centre doubtless will retrieve its reputation just as the allies retrieved themselves almost at the gates of Paris. The German wedge from Posen would appear to have driven the Russian centre more than fifty miles back from the frontier, so that the line is now about midway between German territory and Warsaw. Elsewhere along the great eastern front the Russians, where they are not progressing, seemed to be holding their own.

STEAMER ASHORE ON LAKE SUPERIOR COAST

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 19.—After a desperate fight against a northwester, the steamer Superior, owned by the Bouton Fish Company, of Bayfield, Wis., under command of Captain Neil Mathieson, and carrying a crew of twelve men, was beached yesterday on Sand Island, in Squaw Bay, Lake Superior. Members of the crew were rescued by loggers employed in the vicinity. The steamer probably will be pounded to pieces before the wreckers can free her.

DAY OF RELIGIOUS REPENTANCE IN THE GERMAN CAPITAL

Berlin, Nov. 18 (via The Hague and London, Nov. 19)—For the first time since the outbreak of the war, the Germans spent the day without their newspapers, the publication of which was suspended because of the religious day of repentance. The daily report from war headquarters appeared as usual, but the spirit of the promenade was changed by the publication of the report. The streets of Berlin today were crowded with the customary throngs of those seen in ordinary years, and there seemed to be almost as many men as women in the throngs. The Belgian cabinet was among the first to send a telegram. It follows: "On the occasion of Saint Elizabeth's Day, the ministers of the King, lay at the feet of Your Majesty the homage of their best wishes and hopes. They salute the beloved queen, the woman, the wife, and the mother, who, after having shown in time of peace every goodness of heart, gives in time of war, an example of devoted courage, and whose noble figure is consecrated in the heart of every Belgian."

PREMIER FLEMMING'S FATE IN THE BALANCE

Fredericton, N. B., Nov. 19.—Members of the government finished business early last evening and went to the Barker House where a lengthy conference was held with Premier Fleming. Others present in addition to the members of the executive were Harry Woods and Doctor Price, whips in the legislature and James H. Crockett. The situation was discussed and it is said that Mr. Fleming was given to understand that he could best serve the interests of the party by tendering his resignation forthwith.

This morning Mr. Fleming was closeted with Lieutenant Governor Wood for nearly three hours, but his Honor afterwards said he had no statement to give out. After Mr. Fleming withdrew he conferred with Acting Premier Clark. It seems to be the general impression here that Mr. Fleming will resign immediately.

A meeting of the executive is called for 3 o'clock.

It is reported today that the legislative supporters of the government were all communitated with by wire this week and asked to express their views in regard to the proposed to publish the Dugal report. Most of them are said to have replied in the affirmative. The report is expected to be before the public this week.

BODY OF BABE FOUND NEAR MARSH ROAD

The badly decomposed body of a new born infant was found this morning near the Marsh road.

The body was found near the farm grounds by a letter carrier named Giggie, who notified Coroner Roberts. The latter ordered the removal of the body.

SOLDIERS' MASCOTS

A curious phase of the war is that many soldiers have taken animals with them to the front.

Heather is, perhaps, the commonest of such luck-bringers, because many Scottish soldiers received little bunches from their wives and sweethearts, and an enterprising hawk who turned out with a barrow load of the growth into the West End of London did a roaring trade with the household and other troops.

But many of the men who served in South Africa pln their faith to "lucky" empty cartridges, Kruger coins, etc.

One of such colons formed part of a set which, at the time the order to mobilize was issued, was in the keeping of a pawnbroker.

On receiving the call the owner obtained his property as soon as possible and, having pocketed a single frown from it, went off quite contentedly. That piece is denied through having diverted a bullet in a tight corner in South Africa.

Of conventional mascots also large numbers have been taken to the theatre of war, though not always in their original form.

A lady brought an old-fashioned charm made of gold to a London jeweler, asking him to make it into a ring for her husband.

Many family "lucks" moreover, are being carried by the soldier. One man wears suspended from his neck by a ribbon a ring which, should its possessor bring it back to England, will have gone through three campaigns. A young woman, who received it from her mother, gave it to her sweetheart when he was about to embark for the Sudan; then another member of the family carried it during the war in South Africa; and now it is in France.

Another of the "lucks" has a remarkable history. It is a regimental medal which was bestowed on one of Wellington's men for conspicuous gallantry in Spain, and it has been in nearly all England's campaigns ever since.

Confessive

"Now, sit, attend to me!" said a cross-examining counsel, who was fast losing his temper with a stolid farmer. "Is this your handwriting?" "No, it ain't," replied the farmer. "Remember you are on oath, sir. Do you swear it is not your handwriting?" "Yas." "Does it at all resemble your handwriting?" "No, I can't say that it do." "Now, sir, a precaution! I won't be trifled with! Does this resemble your handwriting?" "I can't say," "But you must say, sir. Will you take your solemn oath that this writing does not resemble yours?" "Well, I know it don't, but you know, do you? Well, just tell the jury how you know?" "Cos I can't write."

MUCH GATHERED HERE FOR BELGIANS

The Work of Receiving and Sorting and Preparing for Shipment

A whole warehouseful of goods for the Belgians, contributed by the good-hearted people of the city and, much is awaiting shipment at Pettibon wharf. Since the last steamer sailed with a big shipment from the port, the goods have been accumulating steadily and there seems to be little sign of the gifts ceasing.

There are now on hand 281 cases of goods which have been sorted and repacked ready for shipment and about 100 cases which have yet to be repacked. In addition to this there is a large quantity of potatoes and other vegetables which the committee has been instructed it would not be advisable to attempt to forward, partly on account of the frost and partly because of the great shipments of potatoes already both from this and other provinces. These contributions are being sorted at the market price and the money turned into the fund.

Walls groceries of all kinds and large quantities of bedding are being received, the bulk of the gifts coming in now are of clothing and articles of apparel. As the boxes are opened the contents are sorted and repacked in other boxes, classified according to the sex and age of the intended wearers, as well as according to the nature of the garments. The classifications include, men's and women's suits, men's and women's top coats, underclothes for men, women and children, women's skirts, waists and dresses, children's outer garments, rain-coats for men, women and children, sweaters, hats and caps for men, women and children, boots and shoes of all descriptions and sizes, and in almost every article that a man, woman or child could wear with the exception, perhaps, of evening clothes.

The garments are almost all of good quality and in good repair. Occasionally an article will be found which is not worth forwarding and this is laid aside, but these are very few.

The handling of these goods in such large quantities involves a lot of labor and it has been necessary to secure several men to assist in the work. For this committee of ladies gave great assistance, but as the weather grew colder and the work grew heavier, more men were required. The number of men required was found to be about 100.

The heavier part of the work the sorting and repacking could be accomplished also and last week the work was continued. At first male help was needed, but was supplied by Commissioner Russell from among the men, the exception perhaps, of evening clothes.

His busy season is now commencing and the work for the Belgians is certainly made a little more difficult by the fact that the committee to employ a few helpers all as the work of these goods in such amount of labor involved is very small compared with the value of the goods they handle. The tax on the committee in proportion to the value of the gifts.

An effort is being made to clear up all the goods now on hand to have them in Halifax by Monday to be forwarded to the port. Eight car loads have already been sent forward and the admiralty office in Halifax has notified the provincial committee that they will be able to take the goods and the shipments also and the goods will be forwarded at once.

GRATITUDE

Little Sammy was generally at loggerheads with his father, who had a habit of using his razor strap in a way that was not in accordance with Sammy's views.

One morning, after the razor strap had been more than usually busy Sammy's mother went out into the field to look for her much-stropped child.

For his intense astonishment she found him fondling a huge goat for which he usually professed a deep hatred.

"Why, Sammy, darling, it is nice to see you being so kind to poor Billy. Why are you being so gentle with him today?"

Over Sammy's face came a look of unexplainable gratitude as he gave the wondering goat another carrot.

"He butted father into the pond this morning," murmured the dear little chap, patting his four-footed friend affectionately.

WE ARE BUSY Because of Public Confidence

When times are bad every cent spent in Furniture has to be expended to the utmost advantage. It is then that the purchaser begins to wonder whether the great "bargains" that are advertised in the papers are really the bargains that their sellers would have the public believe. It is then that the store that has always made a point of selling the most in quality furniture for the least money reaps the benefit of its fair dealing policy.

At J. Marcus' the public have always been assured of the utmost value for every penny spent, and now that times are not too good we are still busy. The reason is plain to see

HOW GIRLS CAN HELP RECRUITING
To the Editor of the Kentish, England, Express:—We as girls, are inclined to feel that we can do very little to help our country in her hour of need. I should like to suggest that there is one quite good way, viz. to refuse to know any single young men, between the ages of 19 and 30, unless they enlist. Any who do not so refuse for abstaining as being forgers are now possible. As is known most of the expert bank note forgers use photography to obtain their best results; but a recent invention makes it possible to manufacture silk of a particular shade that cannot possibly be photographed.

Discovered by a woman, this invention is a new process for water-proofing fabrics with rubber and dyeing them in the same operation. Linen, cotton or other materials to be treated by this process are placed white into one end of the machine and brought out at the other end a few minutes later colored, water-proofed and dry. Fabrics so produced the inventor maintains, can be used in hundreds of trades, from aeroplane building to bank-note making—Boston Transcript.

GERMAN MILITARISM

An Amazing Expedition by One of Kaiser's Generals.

A Copenhagen despatch to the London Daily Standard says: An amazing expedition of German militarism is given by Major General von Distern, in an article contributed to the Hamburg Nachrichten, in the course of which this distinguished retired officer of the German army writes:—

"No object whatever is served by taking any notice of the accusations of barbarity levelled against Germany by our foreign critics. Frankly, we are, and have been, barbarians, in so far as we understand those who wage war relentlessly and to the uttermost degree.

"It is incompatible with the dignity of the German Empire and with the traditions of the Prussian army to defend our courageous soldiers from the accusations hurled against them in foreign and neutral countries. We owe no explanations to anyone. There is nothing for us to justify and nothing to explain away. Every act of whatever nature committed by our troops for the purpose of discouraging, defeating and destroying our enemies, is a brave act and a good deed, and is fully justified.

"There is no reason whatever why we should trouble ourselves about the nations concerning us in the other countries. Certainly we should not worry about the opinions and feelings held in neutral countries. Germany stands as the supreme arbiter of her own methods, while in the time of war must be dictated to the world.

"It is of no consequence whatever if all the monuments ever created, all the pictures ever painted, and all the buildings ever erected, by the great architects of the world are destroyed, if by their destruction we promote Germany's victory over her enemies who vowed her complete annihilation. In times of peace we might perhaps regard the loss of such things, but at the present moment no word of regret, not a thought should be squandered upon them. War is, and must be waged with severity. The commonest, ugliest stone, placed to mark the burial place of a German grenadier, is a more glorious and venerable monument than all the cathedrals in Europe put together.

"They call us barbarians. What of it? We scorn them and their abuse. For my part, I hope that in this war we have merited the title of barbarians. Let neutral peoples and our enemies curse the 28th year of his age, leaving a wife and two sons to mourn.

Funeral on Friday at 10 o'clock a.m. from his late residence to Golden Grove Rhine and all the churches and all the for internment.

CAMPING ON AN ICEBERG

Sir Douglas Mawson, in the "Strand," tells for the first time in detail the story of his thrilling experience in the Antarctic regions, in the course of which both his companions lost their lives, and he himself, after perhaps the most terrific perils out of which any adventurer ever escaped alive, was just able to reach safety. In the course of many startling adventures, Sir Douglas relates how he and his companions once camped on an iceberg.

In longitude 2 degrees east, says the explorer, the ship was again off new land, but on account of the solid frozen sea could not approach within seven miles of the coast. However, a floating tongue of land ice extending far out to sea was reached, and upon it the western party were landed with their hut and stores. As a site for a wintering station nothing so daring had been attempted before either in the Arctic or Antarctic. They could never rest without the feeling that they might one day wake up to find that they had commenced a voyage on nothing more substantial than an iceberg. The air-line distance between the two Antarctic bases was 1,100 miles. After the work of hoisting all the requirements of the party up the eighty feet of perpendicular icefall—a total weight of thirty-six tons—the ship left without delay on the long voyage back to Hobart.

A FEAT OF ENGINEERING

About two weeks ago was completed an extremely difficult feat in engineering at North Transcona, Manitoba. In October, 1913, a big concrete grain elevator weighing 30,000 tons empty and 50,000 tons full, toppled over and rested at an angle of 27 degrees of plumb. The soft blue clay under the foundations had given way.

An engineer braced the big structure up, put seventy concrete pillars under it for a new foundation and jacked it into place. The structure is absolutely intact and the foundation is much stronger than it was originally, as the pillars reach through the clay to bed rock.

Engineers say that this was a harder task than would be the straightening of the leaning tower of Pisa—Wall Street Journal.

The view was expressed in this paper some weeks ago that attempts to attract Belgian immigrants to Canada at the present time should not be encouraged, and would in any case not be favorably regarded by the Belgian people.

THE WAR NEWS

The German attempts to break through the French and British lines to Calais and the other channel ports continues, but there is along the whole line they are unable to gain any substantial success.

The Wall Street Journal has a letter from Paris to the effect that the French now have three million men on the battle front and another three million held in reserve, and that confronting the three millions in the field are at least two and a half millions of Germans.

In the eastern theatre of war the Germans and Austrians, after having retreated for a considerable distance, appear to have made a stand, and further heavy fighting is anticipated.

THEY MAY USE STEEL PROPS FOR THE MINES.

London, Nov. 19.—Apropos of the recent enquiry into the ability of Canada to supply timber props for mines, in which matter no decision has yet been reached by the commissioners who visited Canada and Newfoundland, it is said that owing to the continued scarcity, the mine owners are considering the advisability of replacing the timber with steel props.

THE PRINCE OF WALES GETS GREAT RECEPTION

Tremendous Enthusiasm as Heir to Throne Lands on Continent on Way to Front

The London Daily Chronicle says that the Prince of Wales crossed the Channel. He had a magnificent reception by troops of the allies, who saw him disembark. A trainload of wounded soldiers was alongside the quay and when the news became known that His Royal Highness had joined the active forces there was tremendous enthusiasm.

When the war broke out the Prince of Wales, then attached to the First Grenadier Guards, was exceptionally keen on the route marches and other features of the soldier's training. He was full of enthusiasm and confidence that he would get his chance of going on active service, but his hope was not at first realized, for when his regiment was ordered to the front he was transferred to other duties.

A MESSAGE TO THIN, WEAK, SCRAWNY FOLKS

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 Lbs of Solid, Healthy, Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good, nourishing food." The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste.

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. The best way to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to use Sargol, the recently discovered regenerative force that is recommended so highly by physicians here and abroad. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and notice how quickly your checks fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh are deposited over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. Your druggist has Sargol, or can get it from his wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in overcoming nervous dyspepsia and general stomach troubles, it should not be taken unless you are willing to gain ten pounds or more, for it is a wonderful flesh-builder.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse, again, there is difficulty in voiding it. Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

SAWS CUT BETTER

The efficiency of the saw has been greatly increased by the recent invention of a Frenchman. The teeth of the new saw are arranged in alternative groups—four pointing forward and then four pointing back. For cutting metal the new saws are almost twice as effective as saws of the usual pattern. They last six times as long. The blades do not break easily. They cut either wood or metal, and are made in a great variety of shapes and styles.

FROM A CHAPLAIN AT THE FRONT

The Battle of Le Cateau and After—The End of The Great Retreat

Among the chaplains from England at the front is Rev. Owen Spencer Watkins, a Methodist, and it is significant of the extent to which the war has broken down denominational prejudice that his letters from the front are published in both the Methodist Recorder of England and the Christian Guardian of Toronto. The Times has received through the courtesy of Rev. Gilbert Watkins three of these letters from the front, and the middle of September. The articles are so graphically written that they will be read with universal interest.

Here is his second letter: On the morning of Wednesday, August 26, after four hours' sleep in the rain, I was awakened by the sound of any guns, and rose from my bed of straw to realize that the battle of Le Cateau had begun. As I had slept in a shelter and spurred no time was wasted in getting to the front. I went to the scene of action, whilst the ambulance wagons and stretcher bearers were making ready to do likewise. I fitted the infantry lining the trenches, but they had not yet come into action. As I talked with them I little thought of my many hundreds of miles of marching. I passed down the lines of broken men, saying such words as God gave to me, but not daring to tell them that we should have to leave them where they were for the villages and the Germans to care for, as orders had just come that we must go. Already the fire of our rear guard was very near, and I was hurrying close to us any who carried longer would be taken prisoner. On the morning of Wednesday, August 26, after four hours' sleep in the rain, I was awakened by the sound of any guns, and rose from my bed of straw to realize that the battle of Le Cateau had begun. As I had slept in a shelter and spurred no time was wasted in getting to the front. I went to the scene of action, whilst the ambulance wagons and stretcher bearers were making ready to do likewise. I fitted the infantry lining the trenches, but they had not yet come into action. As I talked with them I little thought of my many hundreds of miles of marching. I passed down the lines of broken men, saying such words as God gave to me, but not daring to tell them that we should have to leave them where they were for the villages and the Germans to care for, as orders had just come that we must go. Already the fire of our rear guard was very near, and I was hurrying close to us any who carried longer would be taken prisoner. of our filter water carts. The wounded were in such a state of exhaustion with the long trek and the awful lolling of the wagons, that Major Fawcett decided to halt and make some beef tea for them, so rode on ahead to find some farm where water could be boiled. He had hardly gone when a battalion of ex-auxiliary infantry came up with us, and as soon as they saw the water-cart, made a dash for it. Hastily I rode up to them, explained that there was very little water left in the cart, and that little was needed for the wounded comrades. "I'm thirsty, myself," I said, "and I'm awfully sorry for you chaps, but you see how it is. The water-cart must come first." "Quite right, sir," was the ready response. "Didn't know it was a hospital water-cart," and without a murmur they went thrup to their way.

Now we began to find stacks of food by the roadside, the motor-bikes (a strange collection of vehicles collected from all over Great Britain, and bearing the familiar names of the great firms and manufacturers) which brought up supplies, had been unable to pass through the dense columns of men, so had brought the food as near as they could get it, and then dumped it by the roadside. All through the night we had known, nobody was injured, but the darkness had not known it. Now we threw ourselves upon it like famished men, and ate and drank with a relish that was almost painful. Having fed and refreshed the wounded, our horses, and ourselves, we trekked on until at last St. Quentin was reached. Here we were met by the rest of the 14th Field Ambulance, and it became possible to find out exactly what our casualties had been—there numbered three officers and fifty men missing, and one ambulance wagon overturned and left by the roadside. Since then one of the officers has returned, and about thirty of the men, but even then the loss is considerable in so small a unit.

At St. Quentin we entrained the wounded for the base, and then continued our weary march until we reached Cugny. It was growing dusk when the halt was called, and we hardly waited to eat the much-needed meal before we were starting in behind them. Oh, but we were fine! My eyes have often filled with tears as I have listened to and watched these rugged, foot-sore, bearded, dirty, and unkempt, gaunt-eyed men of the front line, who are the glory of our British race. On Saturday, September 5, we reached Tournai, and as we realized that our next move would be on the morrow, we learned that the retreat was over; we were turning to read the which for so long had followed on our heels. The enthusiasm of the men was tremendous; their one fear was that the authorities should imagine that they were too worn out to pursue, or fight in the forced marches and severe fighting which such an advance meant. "Hang it all, sir," one man said to me, "if we can do thirty miles a day without food and sleep in a retreat, we could do fifty in an advance." "When at last there came a message from our Commander-in-Chief, Field-Marshal Sir John French, acknowledging the magnificent work of the past days, and telling us that we were to "have our share in the rounding up of the cheers were deep and long. At dawn on Sunday, September 6, we turned our faces north once more, and thanked God that we were able to do so. It was another Sunday without a dose of service, but it was rich in private communion, on the march, in bivouac and ambulance wagon, and as at Le Cateau, I thanked God that He had honored me by calling me to such high service.

last, from the milestones we could see that we were only fifteen miles from Paris, and at last we were actually southeast of Paris. It was a trying experience, and one calculated to try the endurance of the bravest of men, but our men stood the test magnificently. At Le Cateau the 5th Division lost probably more heavily than any other portion of the British forces. It was entirely due to the splendid generalship of Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien that we had not to record a great disaster; ever since then we had been in retreat, but it was not a beaten, or even a seriously discouraged army. Constantly the question I was asked was: "When are they going to let us halt again, have another rest, or 'Hill-top'?" "Hill-top, do you think it will be before they let us turn and get a bit of our own back, or 'Hill-top' it's a trap we're leading the Germans into; we're the bait, so to speak, and the French all this time are waiting in behind them." OWEN S. WATKINS. BRONCHITIS If Neglected Will Surely Turn Into PNEUMONIA. Bronchitis comes from a neglected cold. It starts with a short, painful, dry cough, accompanied with rapid wheezing, and a feeling of oppression or tightness through the chest. At first the expectation is of a light cold, but soon becomes copious and of purulent character. You have, no doubt, wakened up in the morning and have had to cough half a dozen times before you could raise the phlegm from your bronchial tubes, and when you do succeed in doing so you find that it is of yellowish or greenish color, and you get some relief right away. When this happens to you, you may rest assured that you have a touch of bronchitis, and if not cured immediately it will sooner or later develop into pneumonia or some other more serious trouble. Cure the cold, and thereby prevent bronchitis and pneumonia taking a hold on your system. This can be quickly done by the use of DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP. Mrs. Rebecca Hays, Malone Bay, N.S., writes: "My little boy, aged six, was always troubled with bronchitis, and when he had whooping cough he was worse. Doctors advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and it gave him instant relief, and positively cured him." Price, 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. McEwen Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Denver supporter was protesting. "Why, you know, Colonel," said he, "Louisville couldn't take care of the crowd. Even by putting cots in the halls, parlors, and the dining rooms of the hotels there wouldn't be beds enough." "Beds!" echoed the genial congressman. "Why, sir, Louisville would make her visitors have such a thundering good time that no gentleman would think of going to bed."

The days that followed were but a repetition of those that had gone before--the heart-breaking retreat--about nights, long marches, sleeping in ditches and hedges, glad when the weather was fine, miserable when our bed was ploughed field in the rain. Some days the heat was tropical, and in contrast the nights were arctic; and there were nights when I was so cold that, much as I needed sleep, I have had to get up at intervals and walk about to get warm. Still we trekked south until we began to wonder if Paris was our destination, and ever as we marched. Nine hundred were blown in behind us. As

"NICHEVO," BATTLE CRY OF RUSSIANS, MEANS "I SHOULD WORRY"

Correspondent W. H. Nevison Explains That Centuries-old Byword of Ivan is Nothing More Than American Slang Expression

(By messenger to Athens and mail to United States.) Petrograd, Russia, Oct. 18.—Nichevo! That's the magic word of Russia. Battle cry and alibi rolled into one. The moujik grunts "Nichevo!" and pushes forward; the Cossack screams "Nichevo!" and curls his biting snarling pony against the oncoming enemy; Captain Orfsky smiles "Nichevo," as a rain of shells finds his outposts; Lieut-

LIQUOR BANISHED FROM ALL RUSSIA

Petrograd, Nov. 18.—There is prohibition in Russia today, prohibition which means that not a drop of vodka, whiskey, brandy, gin or any other strong liquor is obtainable from one end to the other of a territory populated by 100,000,000 people and covering one-sixth of the habitable globe.

"Why worry?" "Don't bother," and for centuries it has been used in exactly the same sense as was that piece of American slang of a year or two ago. In that one word—"Nichevo"—the Russian temperament is explained. You can't keep the Russian from being a devil-may-care creature. He would willingly give his life for the little white father and pass away with the byword as his last remark.

Bismarck as a young man was in the Prussian diplomatic service. His first post was at St. Petersburg—now Petrograd. It was before the introduction of railways into the land of the Muscovite, and, as winter was on, Bismarck had to travel by sleigh. He knew no Russian. But whenever there was an accident which delayed him he noticed the driver was unmoved and philosophic and accepted the situation with "Nichevo."

When the sleigh was pitched over a bank it was "Nichevo!" When the horses were lamed it was "Nichevo!" At last the remaining horse broke its leg, starvation and death were before Bismarck and the driver. The driver raised his shoulders and said "Nichevo!" Bismarck was impressed by this word. He kept the shoe of the dead horse, and later on at St. Petersburg he had an iron ring made, and on it was inscribed in Russian characters "Nichevo."

He wore the ring till his death, and he often admitted it was a solace to him. In turbulent years when the chancellor scarcely knew which way to turn, he would glance at his ring, repeat "Nichevo!"—what did anything really matter?

I have mentioned the piano at the front. It is true that many of the officers have them. Perhaps they may be termed "the latest instruments of civilized warfare."

It is not unusual to see officers playing for their men, who either are singing Russian battle songs in their simple reckless way, occasionally breaking up the chorus by slipping a pebble or a pebble or even a live frog, down the officer's neck. This prank, which would be followed by severe punishment in the United States or English regular army, is taken good naturedly by the officer, demonstrating that the word "Nichevo" with which he addresses the privates has its full meaning.

In the hospitals I have seen wounded officers reading to the wounded men, and have watched the men interrupt him with little jokes, none too delicate, of which he is usually the target. The fact that he can read and they cannot is enough to make them obey his orders instantly, even though he does willingly take part in their horse play.

But the system of keeping Russia in ignorance is falling and all because of the public press. Much more newspapers and other periodicals falling into the hands of the non-commissioned troops up a new class—"gramotni"—persons who can read but cannot write. Nearly all the non-commissioned officers in the Russian army are "gramotni."

But the bulk of the Russians remain laughably simple and credulous. General Cosack came back to camp proudly drazzing a distressed and weary German captain with him. "I've got him," he loudly announced. "I knew him by his moustache."

Whereupon he drew from his pocket a much soiled picture postcard of the Kaiser to prove his prisoner's identity. At a hospital I talked to Tkacheff, Cosack who accompanied General Rennenkampf in the first Koenigsberg advances. His head is shaved. He showed me a photograph taken before the war in which he appears with longish, artificially curled hair. He complained that the doctors had cut his curls.

Tkacheff is an intelligent man I asked him about the conduct of the Cossacks in East Prussia. It has been said the Cossacks plunder and kill, but have no military value. Tkacheff boasted that the Cossacks are the finest in civilization among Russia's soldiers; they have bigger and better farms; "all with iron roofs"; they have a higher literacy rate; they have more poetry and art than has the moujik. The Cossack, however, has the motto's Christian meekness, submissiveness to worldly authority, and contempt for material success are not Cossack virtues. Cossack traditions are liberty, boldness, conquest.

Progress of War Yesterday

London, Nov. 18, 9.30 p. m.—The latest official communications recording the operations on the western battlefields are much the same as those of preceding days. There has been fighting virtually all along the front, but without any appreciable change in the situation.

Both sides, as shown by the casualty lists of the officers, are losing heavily in the fighting, but the Germans, being on the offensive and being so often unaided after success was so nearly in their hands, are said to have suffered enormously.

In the East, the Germans and Austrians have turned, after their retreat from the Vistula, to face the Russians in East Prussia, in Poland and before Cracow. Each of these regions will probably provide a big battle, but the most important will be that in Poland, where the Germans are sending their strongest and best armies, in the hope of smashing through the Russians. This would compel the Russians to fall back again to the Vistula, and relieve Silesia from the immediate danger of an invasion.

The Earl of Curze disclosed in the house of lords today that in East Africa the Indian troops are being employed against the Germans. That there has been heavy fighting is shown by the fact that the British casualties to date total 900.

From Petrograd by way of Paris, comes the statement that a "terrible battle of unexampled violence has been proceeding for four days around Soldau, the Russians, endeavoring to avenge their former reverse at this place, throwing themselves upon the Germans with indescribable fury, and carrying position after position by assault, despite the infernal fire of the Germans."

In the latest official statements issued by the French war office it is announced that in the region of St. Mihiel the Germans have blown up the western part of Chauvencourt, which they had mined. An earlier official announcement mentioned the fact that the French retained in their possession the western part part of Chauvencourt. It would thus seem probable that the French had met a reverse at this point, with possibly considerable losses. Valparaiso reports that the British transport Crown of Galicia has been sunk as the probable result of an attack by German cruisers. The crew has been saved, and will be landed at Valparaiso.

SAYS PAPERS HAVE SAVED AMERICA'S HONOR

Harold Begbie Urges Government to Abandon Official Pose of Neutrality

London, Nov. 19.—Harold Begbie, in a letter sent from New York to the Daily Chronicle, urges that America should "abandon its official pose of neutrality."

"What," he says, "would have been the answer of Lafayette, with his hand on the hilt of his sword, to a French statesman counselling neutrality? What would George Washington have said to the silence of America in full view—daily, hourly view—of devastated blood-drenched Belgium? Would Abraham Lincoln have preserved friendly relations with Germany after the cry of outraged children and butchered women had ascended with the smoke of towns and villages to the heavens of men's ultimate dreams?"

"Italy's neutrality we can dimly understand, but not America's. Italy could only break her neutrality by taking up arms; America has only to speak."

Mr. Begbie pays a high tribute to the American press—"The inviolable work of the American newspapers," he says, "is making headway, and forever England will remember that work and be grateful. I feel I may say without offence that America, too, will have cause to remember this work of her journalists with gratitude, for the day is assuredly coming when history will reveal this European conflict in all its black and murderous characters as a war purposefully provoked and long desired by a military aristocracy opposed to the essential principles of liberty, justice, and brotherhood. When that day comes, will not America gratefully recollect that, though its government had no word but neutrality and sat throughout the struggle with hands carefully folded, the honest newspapers, loving democracy more than the

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this old-time cough syrup home you not only save about $2, compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more potent and positive remedy in every way. It cures the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves whooping cough quickly—and is especially, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup. Get from any drug store 2½ ounces each (50 cents worth), pour it into a clean bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup. Put it on a fire and boil for 10 minutes. You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens the dry, hoarse or rattling cough, and also helps the inflamed membrane. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent looseness by stopping the formation of mucus in the throat and bronchial tubes. The effect of pine on the membrane is shown by almost every one. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiac and other natural healing elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.
