Dr. Rixey, Dr. Park, and Dr. Wasdin examined her carefully on Friday afternoon and again in the evening beore she was admitted to the presi-ent's room. She was told that there was absolutely no hope and that he visit to his bedside would be the last in all probability.

CHILDLIKE GRIEF.

A pathetic light came into her eyes, Her grief was like the wide-eyed grief of a child who is afraid to cry. She was led in by Miss Hunt and Dr. Rixey, and given a place on the side of the bed, where she fondled the dying president's hand. This was shortly before 8 o'clock. For a while they were left alone together and in that interval he spoke briefly to her and she answered. She was speaking when the doctors re-entered. What was said to her in that period and what her answers were are secrets that may never be revealed. She sat in the same place at the time he spoke his last words and was there at 9:30 when the curtains of his mind were drawn down, the light of intelligence extinguished and only the animating spark flickered in the fitful gusts of the breath of death for hours as the passing drew near.

As soon as it was seen that the president was unconscious, Miss Hunt, Dr. Rixey and Dr. Stockton released her clasp of the president's hand with infinite tenderness and supported her while she bent over him and left the last kies on his lips ere life floated out and then they led her away. It was after 3 o'clock that Dr. Rixey, accompanied by her sister, went to her and awakened her. She was told Advice That Led a Poor Sufferer to Use Dodd's Dyspapsia Tableis.

Many is the poor Dyspeptic that has been happily led to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets through the advice of a friend. Ne er was better advice ever tendered one friend by another. Those who have used Dodd's Dyspensia Tablets, who have experienced their wonderful power over Indigestion and all troubles of the Stomach, should feel it their duty, when they meet some poor sufferer who is going through the misery they, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, have escaped, to put him in the way of finding relief from his affliction. Tell him what cured you. Tell him about Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. You know what they did for you. They will do the same for him. It costs you nothing to tell him, and it will be the means of restoring him to happiness.

Thousands and thousands of people have been induced to take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets through reading the testimony of some grateful convalescent in the papers. But far more have been first introduced to the knowledge of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets through the kind offices of some friend. Therefore, you that know the value of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets tell your friends about them.

"Through' the advice of a friend." writes Mrs. Amanda Gulmond, Grand Metis, Que., "who told me to take Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, I found a cure for my Dyspepsia and Stomach troubles which had tortured me for years. COUNCIL EXPRESSES SYMPATHY.

The City Aldermen Pass Strong Resolution

Eulogizing McKinley and Condemning the Assassin.

Comprehensive Report of Municipal Convention-Other Matters New and Old. Considered.

The sympathy that Londoners feel for the people of the United States in the loss of their loved president was expressed last night by the members of the city council. Had it not been that a regular meeting of the council was to be held so soon after the lamented event of Saturday, Mayor Rumball would assuredly have followed the historical precedent of 1865 and called the aldermen together in special session to take action regarding the great sorrow that has befallen the neighboring nation and the whole civilized world. In no sense was the adoption of the resolution a matter of form-it was an expression of true sympathy and of a sorrow that lived heart-deep. The aldermen stood in passing it, and a deep silence came upon the council chamber. The resolution, as follows, was moved by Ald. Winnett and seconded by Ald Green-whereas, the United States of America are at present bowed beneath the weight of an overwhelming sorrow, consequent upon the death, by the cowardly hand of a murderer, of William McKinley, its noble and universally beloved president.

"Be it therefore resolved by this munise it therefore resolved by this municipal council that an expression of our sympathy be tendered the grief-stricken people of our neighboring nation, and that we record our feeling of horror at the treachery and wanton wickedness of the assassh and those associated with him in his awful crime. This council at the counc would be applied to her maintenance in the House of Refuge at Leamington, where she wished to go.

Within a week after this she died, without having gone to Leamington. It is not likely that the town will make any endeavor to hold the property under the circumstances.

In this case the next claimant would be the Methodist Church, and it is a him in his awful crime. This council at the same times desizes to express its belief that among the many men of noble life that among the many m thoughtful care for the partner arms of death, he has brought his great life more closely in touch with the hearts not alone of his own countrymen but likewise of all people in all lands."

Other Matters.

The aldermen went to last night's meeting with the knowledge that there was very little business of more than ordinary importance to transact; yet they knew also that there were one or two things that might give them what they are pleased to term "a little bit of fun.'

THE MUNICIPAL CONVENTION. Before arriving at this interesting stage in the proceedings, they listened to the following comprehensive and interesting report of the Ontario Municipal Convention, prepared with his usual care, by City Clerk Kingston: To his Worship the Mayor and Members of the Municipal Council:

Gentlemen,—In obedience to a resolu-tion of this council, adopted on the 12th day of August last, I attended the con-vention of the Ontario Municipal Asso-ciation in the city of St. Catharines on the 11th and 12th insts., and beg leave to report for your information the followto report for your information the following summary of the proceedings:

1. It was decided, in order to protect municipalities in cases where a walk had been advertised on the initiative and successfully petitioned against, to recommend a further amendment of section 677 of the municipal act, so as to authorize of the municipal act, so as to authorize municipal councils, by a two-thirds vote, on the recommendation of the engineer or other person having the superintendence of streets, to lay a cement walk instead of plank, gravel or cinders, which the act at present specifies—the opinion of the association being that the former is the better and cheaper walk.

2. The attitude of the association with regard to what is known as the "scrap regard to what is known as the "scrap 2. The attitude of the association with regard to what is known as the "scrap iron" assessment was again reaffirmed, and a resolution adopted with the view of making plainer the meaning of the legislation of last session in the matter of the assessment of the property of street railway and similar companies.

3. Section 39, sub-section 2, of the assessment act, which provides "that the personal property of a bank or of a company which invests the whole or the principal part of its means in gas works, water part of its means in gas works, water works, plank or gravel roads, railways and tramroads, harbors or other works requiring the investment of the whole or principal part of its means in real estate, principal part of its means in real estate, shall be exempt from taxation," met with the strong disapproval of the convention, and a resolution was passed recommending that all such personalty except the personal property of chartered banks should be liable to assessment to the same extent as that of a private individual or partnership.

dividual or partnership.

4. Recommendations were likewise made having in view the protection of municipalities in the matter of the sale of lands for taxes in arrears, and the charging of the taxes of indigent persons against the land.

5. It was decided to again ask the legis-lature to simplify the voters' list by authorizing the making of a single list for municipal purposes, and requiring all manhood suffrage voters, whether house-holders or otherwise, to register their qualification to vote at parliamentary elections elections.

6. It was again recommended that municipal councils be given the power to regulate the salary of the police magistrate, unless the body that appoints the magistrate pays his salary.
7. The association protested against municipalities being required to pay any part of the expenses of provincial elections, and will ask that the election acts be changed accordingly.

tions, and will ask that the election acts be changed accordingly.

8. In the matter of the acts relating to public libraries and public parks, where park commissioners have been appointed, it was decided to ask for a reduction in the statutory limitation which specifies the rate that may be demanded to meet expenses under these acts, or that discretionary powers with regard to the same shall be conferred on municipal councils.

same shall be conterred on municipal councils.

9. Section 706 of the municipal act enacts that municipalities shall keep the highways, etc., in repair. The association will ask the legislature to define the meaning of the words "keep in repair." so as to limit the now almost unlimited liability of municipalities the eunder as interpreted by the courts at various times.

10. The association adopted suggestions offered by myself relating to the following matters, and will embody same in the legislation to be asked for, viz.:

(a) That section 574. sub-section 5. of the municipal act, relating to shade trees, be amended so as to provide that in cities and towns municipal councils shall be given power to trim trees or cut down doing.

(b) That sub-section 4 of section 7 of the municipal act be amended so as to provide that incorporated institutions of learning, not being denominational colleges or seminaries, maintained or supported by a religious body, be made liable to assessment and taxaffon.

(c) That in view of the judicial decisions based on the meaning of section 128, subsection 3, of the municipal act, relating to the time for receiving neminations for the offices of mayor, etc., that the legislature be asked to define the limit within which the clerk may receive such nominations.

11. The association considered and affirmed the various recommendations adopted by the Union of Canadian Muniadopted by the Union of Canadian Municipalities, which was recently organized at a meeting held in the city of Toronto.

12. I have endeavored, as above, to outline as briefly as possible the matters considered and adopted by the convention. Expression was, however, given by these in a position to be well informed, of the fear that the commission appointed by the government to consider and revise the assessment laws, would provide for a greater burden of municipal taxation than at present being borne by real estate, and a corresponding release of personalty from assessment. Having this in mind, the association empowered its executive committee to summon the

AS FOR THAT CIRCUS FEE. The city auditors' letter, drawing the council's attention to the irregularity of accepting $50 as the fee for Ringling Bros.' circus, was the inspiration of a clause in No. 1 committee's report, which referred the matter to the council, and when it was read an expectant smile wreathed the lips of the aldermen who had not had a hand in the matter. It will be remembered that a majority of the aldermen agreed to accept the sum mentioned, and signed a requisition to that effect, empowering the city treasurer to issue the permit for the circus. Most of the aldermen who did this took a hand at explanations—some were busy at the time, some didn't think, some didn't know of a bylaw, and so on, all agreeing in con-demning as untrue and unfair the statement that they had done it to get passes. They had learned subsequently that their action was irregular, they candidly acknowledged their mistake, and if the council desired it were will-

INEVITABLY, THAT TAR MAC-

That King street tar macadam mix-up has been heard of so frequently, that the public, patient and long sufferting as it is, must now be pretty well tired of it. However, it has not yet ended its career as a fruitful source of talk, aldermanic and otherwise. It was hoped last night that it had resolved it-self into a condition sufficiently definite to allow action to be taken one way or the other, either pass the bylaw for the pavement's construction, or put it off until such a time that it might come back with at least the semblance of freshness. The bylaw did get as far as its first reading, but it was blocked there by aldermen, who, though not obstructionists, did not wish it to ap pear that it was being rushed through with undue haste.

The council was able to get so far by reason of the five accommodating citizens who have been busily and dizzily signing petitions of contradictory kinds, since the subject was first brought forward. It is useless, and would be tiresome, to tell of the petitions these mercurial individuals signed or didn't sign, according to the controlling influences of the petition ped-Suffice it to say that their names, having been signed and repudiated until nobody knew just where they were at, these five, about whom the war between Messrs. Graydon and McMechan centered, became finally of the opinion that tar macadam was what they wanted, and agreed to let their names stand on the original petition for it. Therefore, it was possible and right, in the opinion of the city solicitor, to pass the bylaw authorizing the construction of the pavement. Ald. Cronyn, Ald. Parnell, Ald. Jolly and Ald. Cooper objected to this being done immediately, and after being given its first reading it was laid over, a majority voting against having it pass the second. Ald. Contracts will be let within the next few days for the sinking of twenty additional wells on the Company's Ontario properties.

CALIFORNIA ---

Look out for some surprising results on the California properties, con trolled under option for development agreement by the Ontario and California Oil Company.

TEXAS--

The Ontario and California Oil Company have secured the option on the control of the stock of the "Blue Bonnet Oil Co." of Galveston and Beaumont, Texas, owning valuable oil lands on Spindle Top Heights, about half a mile from the famous Lucas "Gusher," which has been gushing liquid money at the rate of seventy thousand barrels per day; also three more blocks of valuable oil lands at Sour Lake, Damonds Mound, and close to the Town of Beaumont—all in the very richest oil-bearing lands so far discovered in Texas. The Blue Bonnet Oil Company and its directors are highly endorsed by Walter C. Jones, Mayor of Galveston, Texas.

The above advance is gratifying to the Company's Directors and Shareholders, but is only an earnest of what may be expected in The Onterio and California Oil Company, and looks small when compared with some other ell stooks which have actually advanced from fifty cents to two hundred dollars per share. Upstairs his widow now mourns for her dead in the family apartments that now bring back bu the saddest memories. It was with simple ceremony and a silence that the body of the late president was borne up Pennsylvania avenue to the White House and laid upon the bier in the east room. The ceremony was severely military in character, in recognition of the fact that the presi-dent was commander-in-chief of the United States army and navy. where was there a show of civilian participation. That was the only sound that broke the dead silence Just beyond the entrance to the station President Roosevelt, with the members of the cabinet, had passed, and had taken station so as to leave a broad space for the cortege. They ranged themselves on the sidewalk in double rows opposite each other, and stood with bared heads as the corpse was carried to the hearse, drawn up at the side of the gate. The hearse was drawn by six coal black horses. each of which was led by a colored groom in black livery.

To secure additional information directly from the people, it is proposed to send little boxes of gold and greenbacks to persons who write the most interesting, detailed and truthful descriptions of their experience on the following topics.

1. How have you been affected by coffee drinking and by changing from coffee to Postum? 2. Do you know anyone who has been driven away from Postum because it came to the table weak and characterless at the first trial? 3. Did you set such a person right regarding the easy way to make Postum clear, black, and with a crisp,

4. Have you ever found a better way to make it than to use four heaping teaspoonsful to the pint of water, let stand on stove until real boiling begins, then note the clock and allow it to continue easy boiling full fifteen minutes from that time, stirring down cccasionally? (A piece of butter about the size of a navy bean, placed in the pot will prevent boiling over.) 4. Give names and account of those you know to have been cured or helped in health by the dismissal of coffee and the daily use of Pestum Food Coffee in its place.

Write names and address of 20 friends whom you believe would be although not amounting to a large benefited by leaving off coffee. (Your name will not be divulged to them.) Address your letter to the Postum Cereai Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., writing your own name and address

Be honest and truthful, don't write poetry or fanciful letters; just plain, truthful statements. Decision will be made between October 30th and November 10th, 1901, by three judges, not members of the Postum Cereal Co., and a neat little box containing a $10 gold piece sent to each of the five best writers, a box containing a $5 gold piece to each of the twenty next best writers, a $2 greenback to each of the two hundred next best writers, making cash prizes distributed to 325 persons.

Almost everyone interested in pure food and drink is willing to have their name and letter appear in the papers, for such help as it may offer to the human race. However, a request to omit name will be respected. Every friend of Postum is urged to write, and each letter will be held in high esteem by the company, as an evidence of such friendship, while the little boxes of gold and envelopes of money will reach many modest writers whose plain and sensible letters contain the facts desired, although the sender may have but small faith of winning at the time of writing.

Talk this subject over with your friends and see how many among you can win prizes. It is a good, honest competition, and in the best kind of a cause. Cut this statement out for it will not appear again.

A platoon of mounted police led the way. Next came a delegation of G. A. R. men from the department Potomac, members of the Veteran's Union, and the Spanish war veterans, and Troops I and L of the 11th Cavalry, from Fort Meyer, Va. Following was the hearse, flanked on either side by the body-bearers, with a detachment of Signal Corps men bringing up the rear. The carriages of distinguished officials were next in line, that of President Roosevelt being immediately behind the Signal Scattered along at different parts of the procession were groups of army and navy officers, who had informally received the body at the railway station.

THE END OF THE JOURNEY. It was about half-past two when the head of the procession reached the White House grounds and turned into the driveway. The carriage containing Mrs. McKinley, Dr. Rixey and Mr. Abner McKinley had preceded the funeral cortege to the White House some little time. Dr. Rixey and Mr. McKinley then tenderly assisted Mrs. McKinley to the steps. With her right arm resting heavily and wearily upon the shoulder of her dead husband's brother, and supported on the other side by Dr. Rixey, she walked slowly along the stone flagging into the house. She was closely veiled, but her feeble steps told the story of her great suffering. She was assisted at once to the elevator, and to her old room, and soon retired. Dr. Rixey and Mr. Cortelyou later said that she had stood the trying journey very well. Those who knew her best and were her husband, is still with her, but when she finds herself really alone, the awakening may try her strength. The result cannot be foretold.

When the sad cortege arrived at the White House the hearse stopped un-der the porte cochere. The body bearers took the coffin upon their broad shoulders, and passing up the three or four steps awaited until President Roosevelt and the members of the cabinet had alighted from their carriages, and then followed them through the wide open door into the east room, and deposited their precious burden upon a black base and stood at salute, while the executive and cabinet members, the executive and cabinet members, with bowed heads, passed by. Two marines, a sailor and a soldier stood guard at each end of the casket, while seated at either end were two members of the Grand Army and two of the Loyal Legion. These will be relieved every two hours during the night.

MR. McKINLEY'S WILL.

Buffalo, Sept. 1.-President McKinley has left a will. The instrument was executed some time before the shooting, and at no time during his final suffering was there any wish or occasion to revise it or to frame a codicil. It leaves the bulk of his property to Mrs. McKinley. How much estate is worth cannot be stated with exactness by those familiar with the late president's business affairs, but it is believed to be a goodly sum

HISTORIC BIER

McKinley Will Rest on the Same Used for Lincoln and Garfield,

Washington, Sept. 17 .- The historic bier which did service at the same place in connection with the funerals of Pre-Lincoln and Garfield, was brought from its resting place in the capitol crypt early yesterday, and half a dozen expert drapers were soon en-gaged in shrouding it in crape. The bier rests on a platform about six inches above the level of the floor, and is surmounted by a canopy covered with black cloth. The top of the bier is three feet above the surface of the floor, and when the casket is placed on it the top will be slightly below the level of the average person's face. How to Deal With Anarchists.

The recent vile attack on the President's life, with its fatal result, has made it plain that some efficient method must be discovered of dealing with the anarchist. How to deal with such men is a difficult problem. Care must be exercised in order to avoid persecution, which only tends to make a hero of the one persecuted, "He lived unknown till persecution dragged him into fame." The anarchist is an extreme individualist as opposed to social-1st. His aims are essentially selfish, while those of the socialist are at least theoretically altruistic. Proudhon once said: "What is property? Property is robbery." In this sentiment lies the germ of anarchy. Let a man once become firmly convinced and terribly in earnest over this false doctrine, and he becomes dangerous. To quote the words of a noted English sociologist: "Anarchism is not a disease, but a crime, and a crime of the most infamous nature"

The theory of anarchism was first stated by Bakunin, who believed in the perfecting of human nature. He stated that all the social evils around us were due to the restraints of society. His remedy was to abolish the laws, and the law-breaking impulses would cease to work. Get rid of governments, he said, and men will govern themselves wisely and justly. Such statements, we are forced to say, cannot be met by argument. Any person holding such views shows such remarkable ignorance of human nature and human society, that appeals to reason would be, to say the least, absurd.

The question then arises, how should anarchists be dealt with? It is useless to attempt to educate them in ways of right thinking, as their operations are for the most part secret. One writer, a captain of police, who has had considerable experience with anarchists, advocates a system of watchfulor control, which he admits is difficult to prescribe, owing to the secrecy of anarchist meetings, and to the fact that the foreign tongues in which they talk are scarcely intelligible to educated Americans. This authority thinks, however, that a system of espionage should be established in every city or town of importance. Anarchists are not likely to plot to kill without first talking it over in caucus; so by exercising a close surveillance important results should be attained.

Stronger immigration laws would also do a great deal to check the progress of anarchy on this side of the Atlantic. and doubtless immediate steps will be taken by the immigration department of the United States to place greater restraint on the incoming population, and even the deportation of anarchists already in the country may be consid-

Dishonest Fruit Packing.

Cases of dishonesty among fruit packers have been recently disclosed, where baskets containing fair market able specimens on the surface, were packed with scrubby fruit under-A basket containing from 85 to 90 peaches was purchased, of which 25 to 30 in the bottom were found to be useless culls. The Toronto Globe states that "a case came under the notice of Prof. Robertson and the inspectors on Saturday that shows the necessity for an act of such a nature They opened at random in a wholesale warehouse in Toronto a package of peaches that were marked best peaches. They were selling as the grower and shipper sent them in. Five large peaches were on the top of the basket, and underneath there was a lot of scrubby culls, about the size of a large marble, and absolutely useless either for table use or for canning. Any further such cases of evident fraud the inspectors are instructed to deal with severely.'

Dishonesty is something that should not be upheld under any consideration. Should fruit packers or dealers adopt such a practice, their actions should receive the same publicity as should the merits of an honest dealer. Any class of people who cannot carry on an honest business should not be allowed to carry on any. This is a matter that the patronizing public has in its own hands. Boycott fraud and patronize uprightness and integrity.

cality be set aside for the occupation of Anarchists as a solution of the Anarchist problem. On this "island" they could work out their theories to their hearts' content, entirely free from the restraint of law and order. It is a question whether the ultimate result would not be the extermination of the community. dealing with the subject just now. It appears, from the census of 1896 that there were over a million foreign workers in France, about 109,000 heads of establishments, and 432,000 employes or workmen. They consist of Belgians. Italians, Germans, Spanish, Swiss and English: the Belgians at the head of the list, with 395,498; that is natural, as they are near neighbors, and most of them speak French; and the English at the bottom, with 36,249, which also is what we might expect, as their language is quite different, and they are separated by the sea. This is regarded as a bad state of things, and various remedies are proposed to carry out the programme of "France for the French." A monthly tax is recoverable if necessary from the employers, 5 francs per month; this is to be increased to 75 francs a year in towns with over 100 .-000 population, the employer to pay haif a franc per day for each foreigner employed, whether male or female. It is also recommended that the number of foreigners to be employed by any one person shall be limited, and that the foreigner shall not receive a smaller wage than that fixed by the workmen's local or district syndicate. These propositions will show how a number of Frenchmen look at this subject. M. Haussman-whose name, by the way, speaks rather of German than of French origin-the deputy for Seine-et-Oise, thinks the tax cannot be considered, "because of diplomatic difficulties that might be created and measures that foreign nations might take with regard to our people." Just so. It would be easy to pick up more than a million Frenchmen in the countries named. Why, then, worry about a few foreigners in France? A little more faith in human brotherhool and free trade might be expected from a republic supposed to rest on such principles.

"The New Century Perfect Speaker.

"The New Century Perfect Speaker," work published by the World Publishing Company, Guelph, Ont. and edited by John A. Cooper, editor of the Canadian Magazine, has reached us. The subtitles explain very concisely the contents of the book. It is a "complete encyclopedia of elocution, oratory and etiquette, including portraits and biographies of diplomats, divines and public speakers of Canada, Great Britain and the United States, also the complete etiquette of home, social, public and official life." The volume is profusely illustrated with half tone engravings and bound in half-morocco binding, and in every way presents a neat at-

The selections from Canadian orators deserve special mention. They consist of excerpts from the great speeches of Joseph Howe, D'Arcy McGee, Sir John A. Macdonald, George Brown, Edward Blake, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and others. Any compendium which preserves the utterances of such men in their happiest moments, recommends itself to all readers who desire to retain in permanent form the masterpieces of Canadian oratory. Mr. Cooper has done his work exceedingly Important Book by a Canadian. We note the appearance of Dr. Mc-Curdy's third volume on "History.

Prophecy and the Monuments," which completes a series on the history of Semitic peoples, with special reference to the significant career of the Hebrew people. Prof. McCurdy is one of the very few in this country who has been able to devote a great part of his life's energy to the pursuit of knowledge in a special department. In this third volume it comes in his way to deal with one of the great literary problems of the Old Testament, i. e., the composition of the Pentateuch. It is claimed by the vast majority of scholars in this department that though Moses is rightly regarded as the founder of the Hebrew religion, he can scarcely be regarded as an author, and certainly not as the author of the complex literature that goes by the name of the Pentateuch. On this view the first six books of the Bible need to be put together and then divided on scientific principles into four documents, which can be co-related with different periods of the nation's life and history. The late Rev. Dr. Green, of Princeton, was the opponent of this view in recent times. It is worth noting, then, that Dr. McCurdy, a pupil of Dr. Green, who has attained to distinction in the same line, accepts this "documentary theory" and gives his view as to the date, origin and meaning of the "Jahvist," "Eloist." "Deuteronomy," and the "Priestly Code." In fact, the time seems to be fast approaching when this view of different documents coming from different ages may be said to have been proved by a great multitude of arguments, and by the fact that it furnishes a key to the religious history of the wonderful people. This is a matter that will have to be faced by the church that concerns intelligent people, and is not merely of importance to ministers. We trust and believe that our Canadian ministers are being trained to face in-practical social needs. The Kingston Whig states that Canada, and more especially the Province of Ontario, leads, on this continent, in the production of arsenic. Hastings County is the chief locality for the mining of that mineral. "The time is sideration of a bounty on the produc-Federal or Provincial Government, or

"When I die I would rather go to hell than to heaven. All tyrants go to heaven. They tell us that by dispatching one tyrant we will not change society, that another tyrant will take his place. McKinley Dead.

[By Richard Le Gallienne, in New York Journal.] "Hats off!" they said. 'The President is dead;" And somewhere overhead A dark bell tolled and tolled; 'Hats off!" we said, 'The President is dead." And women-and not only women-cried. Because the President had died.

I was standing in Broadway, And the long glad lights Seemed suddenly to lose their heart and fail.

And down the shining street There fell a hush of feet, And a kind of smothered wail; For a bell tolled overhead. "The President is dead," And some of us-not only womencried.

Because the President had died. True man, pure soul, brave heart. How foul a thing to do! Why didn't they kill anyone, Dear President, but you! But you-how could they dream A dream of hurt to you, True American, if ever an American were true.

God knows! He knows your worth, And he knows how much we care. Ah! I wish you could have seen, Dear martyr, lying there, Our eyes before you died, The little sobbing word When the news was verified.

Well a fool has shot you down, A fool in freedom's name. Yet, you're living all the same: You're living in our love. Though you're lying in the grave-True, pure and brave.

The tears of all the world Lie on your grave like dew: The eves of the whole world Are wet for loss of you. For you and the brave life That lived so near to you.

Literature.

The North American Review for September has two distinct characteristics, either one of which makes it a valuable addition to current periodical literature. The first article is an unpublished essay on Shakespeare by Victor Hugo. Prof. Goldwin Smith, of Toronto, writes on the political situation in England. Prof. Smith asks whether government by party is to continue or not. It is a startling question at first, but as he proceeds with his argument, the conviction grows upon the reader that, after all. the "outs" and the "ins," the "haves" and "have nots" the "government" and the "opposition," are but the result of a certain kind of political development, and it is perfectly proper to ask whether the political development which created this form of government has gone or is going out of existence. Other articles of interest are "Chinese Exclusion," by Ho Yow, the imperial' Chinese consul; "The Debts of a Nation-I. Great Britain." by Harold Cox: "Hawthorn and Lorender": "Songs and Madigrals," by W. E. Henley, and "Some Anomalies of the Short Story," by W. D. Howells.

"A Most Lamentable Comedy" is the title of a powerful novelette by Mr. William Allen White, which begins in the Sept. 21 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia. This absorbing serial is a study of political hysterics-the story of a state gone mad. The scene of the novelette is a Western State laboring under the burdens of a panic year. The central figure is a grocery store demagogue. whose hairbrained oratory captures the state convention. The story rises to a height of dramatic power and intensity rarely equaled in the fiction of the day.

The September number of the Western Penman, published by A. N. Palmer, of Cedar Rapids. Iowa, contains several interesting features, among which is the beginning of a series of lessons on business penmanship. This monthly periodical is an out-and-out advocate of muscular movement writing. It is neat in appearance, well illustrated and printed on good paper, and will recommend itself to teachers and others who desire to cultivate an easy, graceful and rapid style of penmanship.

The Anarchists.

[Cleveland Plaindealer.] The anarchists form but an infinitesimally small element of the population. So do the insane. But society takes measures to guard itself against outreaks of the individual lunatic. The anarchist appears to the community in general as little other than a lunatic, but, like most lunaties, his insanity is liable to suddenly take a murderous bent, and precautions should therefore be taken.

One of the Gravest Problems.

[Exchange.] Mob murder is today one of the gravest problems that confronts this country. As certain as effect follows cause, we cannot continue in this way without growing worse; as certain as there is truth in history we shall have to arouse in ourselves a deeper sense of the majesty of the law and deeper espect for the law as law. There must be more and more determination to hold the authorities of the law, both executive and judicial, accountable, if

One young lady is an especial favorite in the nursery, as directly the meal is over she is ready for a game. The other day the game chosen was, as usual, soldiers. "I," said Prince Ed-ward, "will be Lord Kitchener, and you (to the lady) shall be Dewet. But you'll have to run very fast, for he's a very difficult person to catch." Then ensued a wild scrimmage. [From London Truth.] During one of the hottest of the recent spells of hot weather a wellknown baronet came across three workmen engaged on a job on his class will be composed of high schood estate. One of them remarked, workmen not unfrequently do, on the dryness of the job. The heat had perhaps extended itself to the baronet's with the reply: "If you are thirsty, you know where the well is. You will find a pail there." Thinking over his remark a little later, it flashed across the baronet's mind that he had given orders for three bottles of champaign to be put into the pail and lowered into the well to cool for dinner. He hastened to the well and discovered three empty bottles.

motive works at Philadelphin have instituted a new feature in the business which is virtually a resumption of the old apprentice system, only upon a much larger scale than used to be the They have divided the apprentices into three classes. The first will be composed of grammar school, graduates, whose time of service will be four years. They will receive wages 9, and 11 cents an hour and a bonus of $125 at the close of their apprenticeship, and they must attend the company's night schools and study geometry, algebra, drawing, perspective and technical courses. The second graduates, whose term of service will be three years and the bonus $100. These also will have to study the technical courses during a part of the term. Th temper, at any rate he turned away third class will be composed of graduates of colleges and tecanical schools, who will serve for two years as em ployes, not as apprentices, for it and 16 cents an hour. Such is the scheme as stated by the World's Work. The outcome of the scheme, as contemplated by the managers, will be the turning out each year of 1,000 competent mechanics, more, of course, than the works can employ, but ready for positions in other works. Should it prove successful, and be imitated by other large manufacturing corporations, it may yet revolutionize labor. THE MARKETS.

BULLS RULE THE MARKET. New York, Sept. 16.—A rampant bull stock market on the first day of trading following the death by assassination of the president of the United States is an

of the country's prosperity. Powerful manipulation avowedly had its part in the day's rise in prices, especially the opening, which was designed to intimidate the speculative bear element; it not only had that effect, but caused a scram-ble to cover on the part of uncovered shorts, who looked for a further decline; there was also an abatement of orders to buy at prices below the market on the part of investors and bargain hunters, which served as a protection against bear aggression. There was a considerable element as well which looked for an opening break on prices and hoped to secure bargains by placing orders to buy at the markets. As the event proved, the opening market was from 3 to 6 points higher than on Friday afternoon.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Strength in the stock list was a potent factor in firm, though quiet markets on the board of trade today. December wheat closed &c to 1/2c; December corn 7/2c and December oats 3/2c to 1/2c higher. Provisions closed 2/3/2c to 5/2c higher for January delivery. Exporters reported 17 loads taken. Seaboard clearances were 1,455,000 bu, and primary receipts 2,915,000 bu, compared with 1,592,000 bu last year. Local receipts were 172 cars, 7 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 2,229 cars, against 734 a year ago. Owing to the following the death by assassination of the president of the United States is an anomaly. Broadly stated that is what occurred today. There are grounds for explanation of the paradox, but the fact remains that no one, even the most sanguine, was prepared for the action of the day's stock market.

The day's events seemed to demonstrate a strong underlying confidence in the future of business, and the continuance of the country's prosperity. Powerful manipulation avowedly had its part in the day's rise in prices.

Peace, Prosperity and Honor of the Country---Epitome of President's Policy.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 17.-President, revenue, if such abolition can be had Theodore Roosevelt has announced in some detail the policy he will follow during the next three years. Just before taking the oath of office he said, with much definiteness: "It shall be ports and Mexico, Central and South my aim to continue absolutely unbroken the policy of President McKinley for the "peace"-and he emphasized that word-presperity and honor of the country." Since then the president gathered together some personal friends, and gave to them such ideas as he had already established in his mind for the conduct of public affairs and his own policy. His views are here made public in almost the exact language used in discussing them with the cabinet and his friends: "A more liberal and extensive reciprocity in the purchase and sales of commodities, so that the over-produc-tion of this country can be satisfactorily disposed of by fair and equitable arrangements with foreign countries. "The abolition entirely of commer cial war with other countries and the adeption of reciprocity treaties. "Abolition of such tariffs on foreign goods as are no longer needed for rity.

Quebec, Quebec, Sept. 17.-Despite unfavorable weather, today's military review was a decided success. All turned out to see the historic event, which also marked the transference ลื่มสมมาสมมาสมมาสมมาสมาสิทธิ of the Plains of Abraham to the city of Quebec and its dedication as a pub-

The parade was under the command Lieut.-Col. the Hon. Matthew Aylmer, adjutant-general, second in command.

THE MARCH PAST. As soon as inspection was over a march-past was commenced. The cavalry went past in column of troops; the field battery in line at reduced intervals, and the gentlemen cadets, garrison artillery, infantry and army medical corps in corps in column. Each brigade of infantry was led off by its band, and the infantry again marched past by the right after forming mass of quarter column by brigades and changing ranks.

The cavalry and artillery then trotted past, and the whole took part in review order for the PRESENTATION OF MEDALS. The first decoration conferred was the Victoria Cross, won by Lieut.-Col. Turner by his gallantry on the field. Then came the South African medals, which were distributed according to prearranged programme, the officers according to rank receiving their medals and then the men. After this interesting feature of the proceedings, which was constantly interrupted by the cheers of the crowd, the troops marched off to their respective quarters and the great day

The cathedral was beautiful with a great abundance of flowering and foliage plants, and at the time of the ceremony was filled with the bride's friends, the guests being seated in the center pews.

The bride entered the church leaning upon the arm of her brother, Mr. Alfred Dann, by whom she was given way, and was met at the door by the choir, singing a processional hymn. During the ceremony, and at its con-clusion, when Mendelssohn's "Wedwhen Mendelssohn's ding March" was played, Mr. George

TO THE CAPITOL. As the hearse moved away the mourners from the White House entered carriages and followed the body on its journey to the Capitol, where funeral services were to be held. It was thought early in the morning that Mrs. McKinley might feel strong enough to attend the services there, but it was finally decided that it would be improvident to tax her vitality more than was absolutely necessary, and so she concluded to remain in her room under the immediate care of Dr. Rixey, Mrs. Barber, her sister, and her niece, Miss Barber. Slowly down the White House driveway, through a fine drizzling rain, the way, through a fine drizzing rain, the cortege wound its way. She was not unhappy after all. The back seat was quite luxurious. She was wrapped in a great fur rug.

By the side of the park phaeton was a dark gentleman, mounted on a tall black horse. Basil Byrne looked to advantage on horseback. There was something of the dashing cavalier and the soldier in his aspect; his riding clothes became him admirably; his velvet cap was pulled low over his dark brows, and there was an exultant light in his eyes. For the mo-ment the Irish barrister was happy; he Bracegirdle, and she told herself that life was a very pleasant thing.

Behind or before, as the case might be, rode the gallant horseman, and Lady Marjorle chattered, in her sweet, clear, somewhat loud voice, of pleasure, past, present and to come. The earl said that the air was doing him good.

Elsie ventured to wonder what had become of Mr. Paul Lafonte, the unhappylooking affianced of Pauline Bracegirdle, and she afterwards learned that the energetic young lady had positively perergetic young lady had positively per-suaded the countess to employ him that morning in writing some letters in Italian

"No, I don't think I do, Lady Marjorie."
"Well, you see," pursued Lady Marjorie, "there was a fearfully wicked Miss. she haunts the house. Shall I tell you the story as we go up the avenue "

The Earl of Chase broke into a loud fit of laughter. Just at that moment Lady Marjorie drew rein in front of a large gray house. All the blinds were half drawn, and the windows seemed to look at Elsie like so many sullen eyes. The strangest everst that had ever happened to Elsie Carew was about to befall her within the next hour. A shiver ran over her—was it the cold? was it Lady Marjorie's welrd story? was it something more appailing even that that terrible romance of unhallowed love and deadly vengeance to which she had listened?

dom long unattended to. The Cambridge man and the curate came eagerly forward to offer him assistance, also the two Misses Littlewood. Lady Marjorie fell somehow naturally to the care of Basil Byrne. Lord Hammond and Miss Brace-girdle were away somewhere. Lady Rosewood flirted desperately with a young ensign.

Somehow it seemed that Elsie Carew was left to her own devices for the time, and, nothing scared or daunted, she began to explore the house alone.

"I can always find my way down again to this hall," she said to herself, with the easy confidence of youth.

Voices, joyous young voices, came from the hall of the weird old house, and contradicted the uncanny appearance of its somber and gloomy front. The entrance door was ajar; Elsie stood on the steps under the porch, and peered into the strange-looking room with feelings mixed and mingled. She had always reveled in the idea of being allowed to go all over a haunted house by daylight, and accompanied by a troop of cheerful companions. Now it seemed as if the opportunity had arrived when she might steal round the ghostly fourpost beds, whose silken curtains were nightly undrawn, according to tradition, by the hands of long-dead ladies or gentlemen who had seerets to communicate or commissions to deliver to the living. Trash, folly, utter absurdity all of these tales, but still possessing a nameless and subtle charm for some romantic natures, and Elsie's was one of these.

A Charteris man-servant was waiting, who took charge of the carriage and ponies. Elsie entered the hall with the earl and Lady Marjorie. The earl walkslowly by reason of his gonty foot, and leaned on a stick, but a great man is seldom long unattended to. ment the Irish barrister was happy; he had established himself as the bodyguard of Lady Marjorie.

Away sped the little cavalcade along the frosty lanes. The frost sparkled on every twig, for the sun shone. It was a bright, exhilarating day, with a keen north wind sweeping over the downs, and drifting the snow here and there; the distance was bright and hazy, the cottages nestled in the hollows, and the lordly seats of the landowners gleamed through the stripped branches of the elms and paks in the great parks.

Elsie loved the country even on a wintry day; and as the pooles sped merrily along, her young heart threw off the momentary annoyance caused by Miss Bracegirdle, and she told herself that life was a very pleasant thing.

-Extensive alterations, which will include the rebuilding and modernizing of the structure, are in progress at the Hill Street Methodist Mission. The congregation has been greatly in need of a schoolroom, and a handsome meeting place, built of brick, is being erected under the present edifice. Electric light will be introduced, and the place will be fitted up in the most approved manner.

-The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Wellington Street Methodist Church was held in the church on Sept. 5. The yearly reports, showing an increase in numbers and interest, was read. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. (Rev.) R. D. Complainant Is a Young Woman Who Accuses Him With Having Betrayed Her.

a Serious Crime.

Toronto, Sept. 17 .- Robert Roadhouse held forth on Saturday evening to a crowd of several hundred on Temperance street, just west of Yonge, Toronto. Roadhouse was mounted on a small wooden stand, illuminated by a gasoline lamp. He began by referring to the ssassination of President McKinley, and claimed that socialism, or more particularly the Socialist Labor Party, was opposed to the methods of anarchism. There was no use in killing a president, a czar or any other ruler; another man was always ready to step into his place. Mr. Roadhouse then launched into an attack upon trades unions, and ran foul of a trades unionist in the audience, who gave him some back-chat. The trades unionists, Roadhouse declared, were made the tools of the old political parties. Why? Because they were duped by their leaders, who were takirs, looking for dirty government jobs. Dan O'Donoghue was a fakir, Robert Glockling was a fakir, and Frank Plant, of London, was a fakir, and Frank Plant, of London, was a fakir. It would be found, Roadhouse went on to say, that all the so-called labor leaders—Mahon, of the Street Railway Employes' Union; Gompers, of the Federation of Labor; Shaffer, of the Amalgamated Steel Workers, and the rest of them—had at one time or another done the dirty work of the Republican or Democratic parties, just as the Canadian labor leaders did the dirty work of the Grit or Tory party. "That's why the Socialist Labor Party are union wreckers," he exclaimed. He charged the locomotive fire a ezar or any other ruler; another man parties, just as the Canadian labor leaders did the dirty work of the Grit or Tory party. "That's why the Socialist Labor Party are union wreckers," he exclaimed. He charged the locomotive firemen, the locomotive engineers and the brakemen's brotherhood with having "scabbed" it during the strike of the Grand Trunk trackmen last year. Had they been true union men, as the Socialist Labor Party were, they would have stood by the trackmen, instead of helping to crush them by doing their work for the company. The same thing was seen in the recent strike of the C. P. R. trackmen. At the time of the Albany street railway strike, when people were shot down by the militia, the railway unions acted as "scabs" again. "Had they been true unionists," shouted Roadhouse, "they would have refused to handle the trains which drew the militia and the scabs to Albany to put down the strikers."

ROADHOUSE ARRESTED. Robert Roadhouse, the socialist, who has been stirring things up at Gore Park, Hamilton, on Saturday nights of late, and to whose utterances the trouble of Saturday night is extrabolated. day night is attributed, was arrested on Sunday evening at Hamilton on a charge Mary Leonard, in March, 1894. Roadhouse had returned from Toronto shortly be-fore his arrest, and he went to police headquarters to inquire why he was wanted. He supposed if was in connection with the riot, and was evidently chagrined when he found out. He will not be admitted to bail.

The humor displayed by Walter Hodges in his delineation of the role of the principal humbugger, Jack Luster, alias Bill Bartz, was of as robust a quality as his physical build, and lacked the finer quality of Roland Reed's impersonation, but his at the hands of an assassin, together work pleased the audience. Philadelphia were the only cities in the world favored by a glimpse of the Whitney-Knowles production last season. By reason of an oversight on the part of the author, the stage rights to "Quo Vadis" were never protected by our copyright laws, and as a result there were dozens of feeble imitations launched upon the theatrical sea promptly upon the announcement of the success achieved by Messrs. Whitney and Knowles. Few of these survived, however, and the stage version made for Whitney and Knowles is the only one that has received a note-worthy consideration. Despite the heavy expense necessary for taking such an aggregation on tour, there will be no advance in prices when seen here for the first and only time this season. Seats now on sale. Owing to the length of time required in the presentation, it is absolutely necessary that the curtain rise promptly at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. The special price matinee Wednesday afternoon should attract a large attendance of ladies and children.

"THE GIRL FROM PARIS." "The Girl From Paris" will have its first presentation at the new Grand next Friday evening. The piece is from the pen of Ivan Caryl and Geo. Danse, who are also responsible for "The Geisha" and "The Runaway Girl". In "The Girl From Paris" they laid the foundation to their fame and offered theatergoers a lot of merry musical jingles, clever dances, brisk, bright dialogue and clever repartee.
The company presenting the play is headed by Miss Olive Ulrich, who is ably supported by Will Gardner, Geo.

PRESBYTERIAN COUNCIL

An Aggressive Paper by Principal Merchai of the London Normal School-Resolution of Sympathy.

President John McPherson last night in St. Andrew's lecture room presided over what was probably the best meeting yet held of the London Presbyterian Council. The attendance was large, the paper read by Principal Merchant, of the London Normal School, one of the best yet submitted, while the discussion was animated, interesting and thorough. Principal Merchant's views were very thoroughgoing and radical in relation to his subject, "The Needs and Defects of Sabbath School Arrangements and Teaching," but, by the time the discussion closed, felt by all that his views, if not to be accepted in their entirety, were all in the right direction. Principal Merchant believes that the the time, money and attention that the training of the young in Scripture knowledge deserves. There needs to be better special buildings, a better all round equipment, better trained teachers, and a vast addition to the proper financial support of the Sabbath schools, and he pointed out that even connection with Presbyterian churches in this city probably ten times as much money is expended on choir expenditures as compared with the sums devoted to Sabbath school work. Nearly all the expenditures and conveniences in connection with a modern church were expended on adults, whereas the tenfold attention young. Mr. Merchant believed that the chief energies of the minister and his assistants should be devoted to the scriptural nurture of those who in a few years will be the men and women. After a very animated and exhaustive discussion, a cordial vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Merchant, with the request that he revise and prepare it for publication at an early date.

The president suggested that it
