A Noted Murder Case.

Michael Brennan, who murdered Mr. Strathy, banker, Barrie, in that town a year ago, was today found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. The prisoner was tried and found guilty on the charge at a previous assize, but a new trial was granted because of misdirection, and in this second trial it seemed as if the prisoner would get clear, as last night the jurors came into court with the statement that they could not agree. After being locked up all night, a unanimous verdict of guilty was reached, and the prisoner was sentenced to be hanged.

The defense had two branches-(1), that the prisoner was insane when he committed the deed; and, (2), that the killing arose from an altercation; and was therefore manslaughter. Dr. Daniel Clark, of the Toronto Asylum, for the Insane, who was called for the defense, supported the theory that Brennan might have been insane from ill-founded jealousy, but that even in that condition he could know that he was committing the deed.

In cases of murder, if punishment is to act as a deterrent on others, fine discriminations as to maniaes cannot be permitted. The question for a jury to decide is whether or not the murderer knew that he was committing the crime. If he did know, hypothetical excuses for the deed should not

Coal in Ontario, Sure

Capt. J. A. Currie, a reliable in vestigator, has returned to Toronto geologists have contended that anthracite coal could not exist in the rock formations which exist in this province. But the discoveries made near Sudbury seem to lead to the conclusion that not only are there beds FOR SALE—80 QUARTS OF MILK PER day. Thos. IMPETT, London West post-office.

clusion that not only are there beds of coal in Northern Ontario, but that it is likely to prove of very good it is likely to prove of very good quality. The coal, Mr. Currie says, has already been tried in the forge. It burned nicely, with a pinkish flame 7 GOOD RANGES FOR SALE AT THE similar to that of anthracite; there was no smell of sulphur, the heat was intense, and it lasted longer than much of the ordinary anthracite will. The ash was pink-colored, and contained some sand. An assay was made of the specimens, with the following result:

Carbon ..... 64.055 Residue of silica matter, iron and copper ...... 2.075 Silicate and aluminum ......33.087 Good anthracite, it may be remarked, shows an analysis of 78 to 88 per cent of carbon, 2 to 3 1-2 per cent of hydrogen (included in the residue), 1 1-2 to 3 1-2 per cent oxygen, and to 12 per cent earthy impurities. It is asserted that at the depth of 40 feet, the bed of the Algoma coal will show the best quality of anthracite coal. In the United States the first 30 or 40 feet of a deposit is thrown away as useless.

The discovery of coal in Ontario, so near the smelting works of the great mining region, and easily accessible by the C. P. R. and by water to all parts of Ontario, would be of incalculable value.

SIGNIFICANT MOVES.

Paris, Oct. 30 .- A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Soleil says that there has been an important exchange of views between the French and Russian Ministers of War, by which certain modifications have been effected in the general plan for the mobilization and concentration of Franco-Russian troops in time of war. The Soleil adds that proof of this statement will soon be seen in a number of frontier changes, and the first step is said to have already been taken by an increase in the number of Russian dragoons.

LORD DUFFERIN'S RETIREMENT. London, Oct. 30 .- The Marquis of Dufferin, newly retired from the post of British ambassador at Paris, was accorded a banquet at Belfast, at which he made a speech. He declared that owing to his age and deafness he had definitely retired from official life. Although England was not loved, the Marquis continued, she had no diswith any nation of Europe except Turkey. The salvation of the Armenians, he asserted, cannot be ound in any scheme applied to the Armenians alone, but in reforms giving protection to all Turkish sub-The Marquis also expressed the hope that the United States and England would be the first to practically apply the principle of arbitration to the settlement of international disputes. Lord Dufferin said that every Englisman's soul would revolt in horror at the thought of any fra tricidal collision with the United States, which could only result in involving the United States and them in a common ruin.

BISMARCK'S ORGAN

Reasserts Its Statements Regarding Secret Russo-German Alliance. Berlin, Oct. 30,-The Hamburger Na-

chrichten, Bismarck's organ, denies that the interview published in the Neue Freie Presse, of Vienna, on October 25 was with Prince Bismarck, as per furthermore confirms the assertion that the secret Russo-German nal last week, was not renewed in 1890, owing to the outbreak of the Chancellor crisis, which resulted in Prince Bismarck's retirement, and to the opposition to the treaty of General von Caprivi, Prince Bismarck's successor in the Chancellorship. The official Austrian organs are still silent on the subject of the revelations made in the Hamburger Nachrichten. The Neue Freie Presse, however, says that a written treaty or agreement between Russia and Germany actually existed without the knowledge of the other powers. This agreement was signed in 1884, and for six years pledged the parties to benevolent neutrality in the event that either was attacked without provocation. If Russia attacked Austria, latter was to have the support of Germany; but if Austria provoked Russia, Germany was to remain neu-This agreement covered Germany in the direction of Austria as well as in the direction of Russia, and, moreover, Germany was fully protected against France. ## THE WAR IN EGYPT.

Point.

Proposal to Continue the Soudan Campaign-Khartoum the Objective

> Paris, Oct. 30.-A special dispatch from Cairo says that the commander of the Egyptian forces, Sir Herbert Kitchener, intends to demand an addition of $320,000 to the military estimates, which already exceed the amount permitted by the international convention of 1885. The object of Sir Herbert Kitchener in asking for more money is said to be the raising of the effective of the Egyptian army up to 15,000 men, and to continue the reconquest of the Soudan.

It is further stated that the railroad from Dongola to Merour will be completed in a few months and that four months' provisions for an army of 15,-000 men will be stored at Merour, and that the advance on Berber and Khartoum will commence probably in March next.

It is understood that France and Russia will protest against the expe-Bombay, Oct. 30.-Measures taken dition and oppose the increase in the by the health authorities to prevent effective strength of the Egyptian

The Jury in the Case Locked Up All Night.

Michael Brennan Found Guilty of Murder.

And Sentenced to be Hanged on the 19th of January.

Barrie, Oct. 30 .- The Brennan trial opened yesterday, with the examination of the prisoner's brother, John J. Brennan, who gave a history of his dealings with Michael, while the Jas. Woods. latter was laboring under the belief of his wife's infidelity. Mr. Johnston's cross-examination shattered considerably the contention of the defense that the prisoner is insane. The same may be said of the evidence of Agnes and May.

DR. CLARK'S EVIDENCE. Dr. Daniel Clark, of Toronto, stated that from the evidence of the trial and assuming it to be true he thought that the prisoner is a victim of delusionary insanity, called paranoi, which manifests itself in personal persecution, egotism and jealousy. Victims of this disease become homicidal, and often attempt to punish those whom they think the cause of their troubles, particularly jealousy, the strongest of all passions, intensified in the insane. The evidence of one witness went to show that the prisoner had auditory hallucinations which Clark said he never met among the sane, but always among the insane. though some persons have hallucinations of the other senses. of delusional insanity may be rational and sane on other matters, hence may in Toronto Asylum, inmates are capable of pursuing intelligently various lines of trade. He believed the prisoner was quite able to understand the nature of the murder, but the insane know this. In respect to quality of the act, viz., the breaking of the law, he knew what he was doing, that is, he had intellectual appreciation of what he was doing. Nevertheless, he might believe he was doing right in killing a man whom he onsidered had wronged him. It was a mere intellectual act with the prisoner, not a moral act. Cross-examined by the crown, he had said that a man might have the delusion of jealousy and yet be sane. He would not say that Brennan could not have controlled his delusion. This closed the case for the defense which Dr. Clark's evidence weakened, nothing whatever being said of a medical examination of the prisrebuttal evidence followed. and then Mr. Lount addressed the jury for an hour and a half. He asked for a verdict of manslaughter. During his pathetic address two or three f the jurymen shed tears. Mr. Johnson and Chancellor Boyd addressed the jury, who retired at 6:05, and at 10:30 had not agreed on verdict, so were locked up for the night.

THE VERDICT. :

(Special to The Advertiser.) Barrie, Oct. 30.-The second trial of Michael Brennan for the murder of J. A. Strathy is ended. The jury, after being locked up all night, this morning rendered a verdict of "Guilty." Chancellor Boyd sentenced Brennan to be hanged on Jan. 19. The condemned man took the sentence very coolly. (Special to The Advertiser.) Barrie, Oct. 30 .- When the question 'Guilty or not guilty?" was asked the jury, the foreman replied: "Guilty. but with a recommendation to mercy, because we are not sure of the provocation received.' When Brennan was asked whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced on him, the trembling prisoner rose to his feet and said: "My Lord, there was no murder. I came here to bring home my child. I wish this to be known to the world as my dying confession. I did not come here to do any hurt."

Conclusion of the Conference at Clinton.

Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year -Interesting Addresses.

Clinton, Oct. 30.-The convention of Huron Lay Workers and Sunday School Teachers was brought to a close yesterday. The delegates reassembled at 10 a.m. The report of the commitmitee of management, read by Secretary McWhinney, showed an increase in membership, and gave details of the work done. The report was adopted and the constitution amended to admit representation from branch associations.

A vivid recollection of the Provinsal Sabbath School Convention, which closed last night, will be long retained by the delegation present. It was successful beyond the most sanguine expectations. Every meeting was largely attended, and the marked enthusiasm never flagged. Those who attended the convention learned many practical and useful lessons, and Sabbath school work throughout the Province-but more particularly in London -received a great impetus. Mr. J. K. McDonald, of Toronto, president of the Children's Aid Society in Ontario, gave an address on "Debts and Debtors." This was a subject, he said, on which a political economist could easily write a book. But it was very obvious that it was the intention of the committee that the speaker should not follow the same line as would a political economist, but say something of especial reference to this association. He said he was not coming before them with a set speech, but to make a few practical remarks. The Sunday school had claims on the nation, and the church. He related a circumstance in connecnection with the work of the Children's Aid Society at Toronto. They were obliged to send to the Mercer Reformatory four little girls under 14 years of age. They had reached a condition that was appalling. It was easier and better to save the children than to punish the criminals. He held that the Sunday school was in a sense the nursery of the church by prepar-ing the candidates for church membership. On recalling what he had seen at the first convention of the association 31 years ago at Belleville. and noting the wonderful progress since then, he realized that the country was greatly indebted to the Sun-

Mr. Fred B. Holtby, of Mitchell, spoke instructively of home Bible reading. He said this practice was wonderfully beneficial to persons who did not attend Sunday schools as well as those who did. He said the superintendents of the Sunday schools could do more than any other persons encourage home Bible reading by asking questions concerning the lessor to be answered by the scholars, and this means they not only read selves but encouraged others to There was a difference in dealing with people who were not Christians and those who were, and if parents who were not Christians would that as much interest was taken the Sunday school lessons as in the daily ones, the result would be very A system of credit marks another means of encouragement. Out of all the people in this Province only 25,000 had taken up and prosecuted the work of home Bible reading. Two reasons he said why people did not take the matter up were because their time was short both for visiting and teaching, and because they were afraid lest their efforts should result in failure; but self-sacrifice and per-sistence were the remedies for these. There were many people in this city, he said, as well as in Mitchell and other places, who never read a Bible and never went to church. It was no small matter to the church to have its people go about into the homes and encourage reading either by literature or any other means. It needed workers as well as talkers. He charged them not to neglect the home reading department of the church, and not to be stingy with it, as the church would find it a benefit not only in dollars and cents, but other ways as well He closed by saying that thousands were now reading the Bible daily through the efforts of this department, and he advised every representative present to foster the idea of organizing a similar department in his or Rev. The Last Session.

The evening session commenced by a praise service of fifteen minutes' duration led by Rev. Robert Johnston, of St. Andrew's Church. At 8 o'clock Mr. Patterson took charge of the meeting. He announced that he had received a telegram from Hon. S. H. Blake, Q.C., stating that he was grieved to say that he could not be present. "Oh!" said a number in the audience. giving unmistakable evidence of the sincere disappointment occasioned. Continuing, Mr. Patterson said they had expected to hear Mr. Blake's stir-ring words on one of the foremost questions of the day—Sabbath obserabsence. REV. J. L. GILMOUR.

Rev. J. L. Gilmour, B.A., Ph.D., Hamilton, gave an excellent address, marked by earnestness and the speaker's thorough study of child life. His subject was "The worth and the win-ning of a child." After mentioning the great importance of the work, he said: "The unit of enthusiasm is not a large school with a large staff of teachers and officers, and good and we'll supplied equipments, but it is the individual child that is there." Teachers should get away from the idea that numbers counted most in the Sunday school, but should have a burning and ardent enthusiasm for the single child. He compared the develop-ment of a child to that of a new continent. As well might a man say 'It's only a new continent,' as to say 'It's only a child.' The child is worth saving, because it thinks more than grown people. I am speaking from a conviction," said Mr. Gilmour, "that all the great problems of life that come to adults come to the child before reaching 10 years of age. Prob-lems of God, sin, self and future." In illustration the speaker told of a 4-year-old child who one day asked his mother if the sky was hard or the best answered questions was soft. The mother, not knowing how

Mr. Wm. Reynolds was the next speaker. His re-appearance was welcomed by hearty applause. On each occasion on which he has spoken he has won the hearts of his hearers and delighted them with his neverfailing fund of good humor. Message and the Messenger," was the theme on which he spoke, and he set forth with an eloquence that reminded one of Spurgeon the best means of successful teaching. First of all, the teacher must be impressed with the belief of what is to be taught. The standpoint was the love of God and man. Teachers should get thoroughly acquainted with their pupils, and win their love. The speaker deeply touched the hearts of his hearers by a vivid description of the scene at a State prison he had recently visited, when a pardon was presented to one of the life prisoners. Illustrative of the best way of exciting the interest of pupils in the Sunday schools, he related how the "Story of the Good Samaritan," had been taught to a New York class, and related many amusing incidents in connection with He dwelt upon the futility of the equipments of a school as the only factor. The kernel of the nut was the teaching. "I hear a great deal of nonsense from the pulpits all over this country," said he. ers, instead of preaching the Gospel, spoke of Shakespeare and other po-ets and other things which were out of place in the pulpit. Mr. Reynolds spoke feelingly of an incident of his Sunday school work 30 years ago. He had taught a class for 18 months vance-and very much regretted his and did not know whether the members of it were Christians or not. A friend questioned him about it one day, and told him he ought to either "move up or move out." This offended him, but it also stirred him up to attended with encouraging results. In conclusion, the speaker referred to the convention as one of the best he had ever attended. "No conventions," he said, "in any of the other provinces or states were superior to the On-tario convention." (Great applause.)

THE CLOSE. President Patterson announced that the introduction of the president-el-ect, Dr. J. Maclaren, Q.C., Toronto, could not take place, as he had been obliged to leave for home at the end of the afternoon session. Mr. Patterson then made a few appropriate remarks on the closing of the convention, and read a passage from the Bible.

THE CINEMATOGRAPHE

Drawing Enormous Crowds to the City Hall.

So much has been heralded about this marvelous exhibition that citizens were loth to believe it really genuine, but it commenced its short London engagement last Monday, and the opening was witnessed by fair audiences, who at once set their seal of approval on the merits of the cinematographe entertainment, and now London is, figuratively speaking, "cinematographic crazy." Of all the inventions that electricity and photography have given us, the cinematographe stands pre-eminent. 'Compared to it, the X-rays and all the other scopes and 'graphs are as naught"this is what the New York Herald savs.

Some of the pictures are not only wonderful, in an artistic sense, but are also exceedingly cute. Take, for instance, the babies playing with their toys; nothing prettier nor attractive can be imagined. The cinematographe, in short, is without doubt one of the greatest and most entertaining novelties that has ever visited London. In speaking of the cinematographe, the New York World says: "That the next year will see great

In the theaterscope, eidolscope, zooscope, and the two score other 'scopes, the subjects start with movement. The chief fault with the machine is that the views are too short. However, it is a brand new, up-to-date novelty—and all should go and see the cinematographe.

SHOE MAILS AS TEETH. Barrie Advance. Some weeks ago Mr. Whiteley, shoemaker, had a number of his teeth extracted. On Thursday last he was suffering great pain from what he supposed to be the roots of some of the extracted teeth, and he went to the dentist for a remedy for the pain, but, as the dentist was out of town, he waited until the next day. When the dentist arrived at his shop and made a search for the supposed decayed teeth, to his great surprise he extracted two shoe nails, about half an inch in length, from Mr. Whiteley's gums. The patient says the pulling of the nails was as painful as the pulling of the teeth. As shoe-makers are in the habit of putting shoe pegs and shoe nails in mouth, it is supposed that the two nails had worked into the gums, which was the cause of the pain.

The Mayor's Report Re Mr. Chipman's Engagement.

The Matter of Mr. Ashbridge's Dismissal Referred to the Council-A New

The Board of Works was last evening honored with the presence of the Mayor. The others present were Ald, Parnell (chairman), Ald. Dreaney, O'Meara, Wm. Heaman, Cooper and Pritchard.

When the question of gravel came up, Ald. O'Meara said the street railway's gravel contract expired on Sat-The Protest of the Lornes Football various places. He wanted to know by whose authority this had been > Ald. Parnell explained that there was a little balance owing the city by the Street Railway Company, and he had assumed the responsibility of taking it out in this way.

"Allow me, Mr. Chairman," said Ald. O'Meara, "to tell you that you didn't have any money coming to you according to your own statement made a short time ago. If you had a contra account against them, that didn't give you nor the engineer the right to spend the city's money. Ald. Dreaney-There's a great deal of that sort of thing. Ald. O'Meara-There's too much of

Ald. Dreaney-It was the same way with Central avenue. Ald. Cooper-Excuse me; I had a right to all the gravel I got. Ald. Parnell—Well, gentlemen, it was left to me, and it was done in the best interests of the city. All I have to say is, if there is any one dissatis-fied I can soon vacate the chair. Ald. O'Meara-That doesn't remedy the matter. You had no right to do it without first coming to the committee or council Ald. Parnell-Is there any action to be taken in the matter?

Ald. Pritchard-Wasn't the matter of that gravel referred to the chairman and engineer with power? Ald. Heaman-Yes, and I guess they did get the power. (Laughter.) Secretary Bell informed the committee that the street cleaning account had been overdrawn $94.64, and that there was $100 now due for work done. The mayor thought the city was for-tunate in securing the services of such an experienced engineer, and if he were engaged he could be held re-sponsible for the work. He thought the committee should recommend the council to engage him, and hold him

Ald. Pritchard—I object. There are some engineers in this city who are capable of doing the work. There are too many engineers now.

Ald. Cooper coincided with Ald.

Pritchard, and the matter was referred to the council. In speaking again, the mayor said he believed the engineering work should be done from the city engin-eer's office. He believed in one engineer for everything, one city solicitor, and one treasurer. The city engineer had plenty to do, and if Mr. Chipman were appointed supervisor of the work he could be held responsible. Ald. Pritchard then moved that Mr. Ashbridge's services be dispensed

Mayor Little said he would recommend to the council that Mr. Ashbridge be kept. There was plenty of urday, yet since that time gravel had work, and there would be much more been drawn by them and deposited in until the completion of the sewers. One engineer did the work of street commissioner, and when not engaged in that he was busy in the office. There was enough to keep Mr. Ash-bridge busy all the time. Ald. Cooper thought Mr. Ironside as good as two men. Ald. Pritchard said the water pipes were laid without any extra help, and he thought the sewer could be too. He said Engineer Keating, of Toronto, and the late Engineer Robinson had were laid without any extra help, and been able to deal with these things, and he didn't see why the city engineer couldn't do the same. Ald. O'Meara said a man like Mr. Robinson couldn't be gotten every day.

It was finally agreed to send the matter to the council. In answer to a question the mayor said that the plans were all ready for the work on some streets from the river to the siphon. Ald Pritchard wanted the work begun at once, and to have it done by Ald. Heaman said some sections would have to be done by contract.

On Ald. Pritchard's motion it was decided to do all the work possible by day work, giving married men the pre-Following is a statement of the cash paid for work on streets in each Export the Best and Always Mark It "Canadian".

It having come to the ears of the Dominion Minister of Agriculture that "filled cheese" has in the past been sent from the United States to be shipped from Montreal, so as to avoid the law which prohibits its exportation from the neighboring country, he has promptly ordered that a watch te put on exports from Montreal, in order that the good name of Canadian products may be maintained in the

Britain in Egypt.

Sir Charles Beresford is the naval commander who made so sensational a record by his daring conduct at the bombardment of Alexandria in 1882. That warfare was followed by the Britsh occupation of Egypt, but on the distinct pledge that evacuation would take place as soon as the country could stand by herself. Only by serious conflict with France and other European nations. That was fourteen years ago. In the interval, the invariable result of British rule has been exemplified in Egypt. The people have been relieved of great tax burdens. They have been honestly governed. The country has been vastly improved. Lord Charles Beresford now takes the position that Britain should ignore her pledges to the Powers, and annex the land of the Nile. That Britain cannot do. Neither is it likely that evacuation will take place at an early date, if ever. The Egyptian masses take kindly to British rule, and recent events in the Soudan show that it is necessary to the neighboring tribes in the fertile procure it for you,

London as a Convention City.

The Ontario Sunday School Convenion, which had been in progress in this city for three days, ended last night. It was an unqualified success. Much valuable information was imparted to those in attendance, and it is believed a great stimulus to local Sunday school endeavor was afforded, The effect of the visit of the hundreds of delegates, therefore, apart from the advertising which London incidentally obtained as a residential, educational and trade center, has been decidedly beneficial. Some have argued recently that there was a tendency to overdo the convention idea. They have said that London was getting more conventions than could be taken care of. But the experience of the last three years was abnormal. It may be many years before so many big conventions are held in this city in so short a period. We have had in the last year or two the Methodist General Conference, which had not met here previously for nearly twenty years, and it will be well into the twentieth century before it is here again; the Presbyterian General Assembly, which only comes to London once in ten or twelve years; the Christian Endeavor, Epworth League, and Sunday school conventions. An English View.

The English Review of Reviews. conducted by Mr. W. T. Stead, in its last issue makes the following pointed reference to a subject which has been much discussed in Canada: "It is satisfactory to see that Lord Aberdeen has had the courage to brave the wrath of Sir Charles Tupper and the retiring Ministers rather than consent to the scandalous and colossal conglomerate of indefensible jobs with which they proposed to leave office. A reasonable amount of patronage and promotion limits of the law and tradition is allowed to outgoing Cabinets, but Sir Charles Tupper's proposals passed all bounds, and Lord Aberdeen vindicated his office by refusing to assent to them. The Governor-General no doubt tends to approximate to the position of an English monarch, but at present he is still invested with the of an umpire in a cricket match. McKinley Will Be Elected and Miss Fay Will Wear a Dress of Gold,

After Miss Anna Eva Fay's remarkable performance of Wednesday evening, which has set this town rubbing its eyes trying to discover whether it has just fallen asleep or it only waking up, an Advertiser representative sought the Tecumseh House the following morning to gain an interview if possible with Miss Fay. This was kindly accorded, and from the conversation held with her, the reporter brought away with him an impression of something as unique and remote as Undine, or Mignon, or Thekla.

Miss Fay is as hard to interview as Li Hung Chang, which is saying a good deal, and for reasons entirely opposite that torturous old gentieman's desire to be perverse. Miss Fay is frankness itself, perfectly unconscious and outspoken in her speech, but her mind is too broad to care to dwell upon the petty details and lit tle personal trivialities concerning which so many persons following a public career come to consider, as being of the greatest moment, not only to themselves, but to all the world besides. Miss Fay only becomes eager animated, and inspired when you touch upon those larger questions of the day, which are now ever to the front in the minds of all thinking people. Then she becomes, as it were, other woman; her slender little body seems to expand with the strength of ehr emotions; in the clear, blue eyes flashes a fire not seen there before; and the subject she is discussing be it her travels in the land of the Czar, with her husband; the delightful remarks and vagaries of her adored little son "Johnny"; or the intolerable position of all wonen, even in enlightened countries, is further accentuated by the rapid, graceful movements of her strongly-expressive little hands, laden with gens. But I wish to say, before anything else, that Miss Fav is a strong wepeople think-at least, that is to say, are doubtless in a high state of development, she has control of those nerves. Spirituelle, fervent and alive to her finger tips, she gives the imwhich will bend far, yet never break. A more beautiful and impressive discourse upon Swedenborgianism was scarcely ever heard than the glowing joy she had entered upon, when she found this great teacher.

"Miss Fay, what do you see under that sheet?" asked the reporter all at once, who had been waiting some time for an opportunity to propound this somewhat stupid question. Fay looked her inquiry, at which the reporter explained that he would be glad to have her tell him, if, as she sat blind-folded on the chair answering questions, she had any picture or mental vision before her eyes of all she saw before her in the Opera House. Miss Fay shook her head. said. "It is a sort of knowledge that is imparted to me. It is hard to explain. I feel as if somebody had me in charge, and I were just a barrel organ, being wound up. The reporter then remarked that he had observed on the preceding evening that the questions answered first were not always the most im portant, and that it seemed strange that the mind of a mother anxious for news of her lost boy should not be felt by the clairvoyant more quickly than that of a dude who wanted to know where his diamond stud was, or the woman who had only lost a watch? Miss Fay did not reply for a ment, and then she said slowly. figure on such a different basis, you and I, that I think I could not tell that Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands write that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured you how that it is-The reporter hastened to assure Miss Fay that he figured on no basis at all in the matter, and would be interested to hear her explanation, whatever it might be. Leaning her head upon her hand. Miss Fay's eyes grew thoughtful, as she gave expression to an idea that I briefly in my own words, and which was to the effect, that a wide experience of the plain, unvarnished side of human nature, in its confiden tial relations, and especially among women, had led her to the sorrowful belief that "Love of a child appertains to most women, but the love of children to very few"-that is to say, with the majority of women the moth er instinct is a selfish sense of pro-prietorship in a particular child. The instinct of affection for one's own flesh and blood, but with hearts like adamantine for the suffering flesh and blood of other women.

"Such an affection," said Miss Fay, her eye kindling, "is little higher than the solicitude of the dude over his diamond ring, or the anxiety of the woman who has lost her watch, and often does not go much deeper. But once let the heart of a real mother cry out to me—one of those mothers who love all little children, lost or straying, and I would hear that cry above all the others, and respond to it, though a thousand voices rose up-

Nothing could exceed the meekness with which the reporter now withdrew his support from the supposed prior claims on Miss Fay, of the "Where is my wandering boy tonight" brigade, Me's Shirts and Drawers, 25c and 35c fearful lest he fall into further sentimentality allowed the interruption of a messenger boy, with a box from the dressmaker's to serve as a change of subject, commenting upon the beautiful gowns which Miss Fay had worn the night before. Miss Fay did not appear much interested in the subject, and removed two new and stylish costumes from the dresstaker's box, and threw them on the table without glancing at them, something, be it remarked in passing, that the reporter never saw a lady do be-fore. Miss Fay has in readiness, it may interest lady readers to knowand also sound money men—an exquisite Paris creation, a dress of gold, which she will wear on the night Mc-Kinley is elected. One of the most interesting features pression of a tempered bit of steel, of Miss Fay's apartments, to the reporter, was the great pile of letters that drifted like snow across the table and the chairs-and nearly every me a heartache-for those are happiest who have nothing to write about. It is a sweet and womanly part of Mss Fay's work that she should thus employ her great gift, without money and without price, in the service of these who suffer: a service joyfully rendered. There is no doubt left in vair mind as you feel the sweet and kidly sympathy that radiates from whole personality-a sympathy that reaches out especially towards wmen, for Miss Fay is a passionate clampion of her sex, and thinks that men are-let me whisper it-just a litth selfish. The last thing Miss Fay said to the representative of The Advertiser was to the effect that clairvoyance is not the special gift of the individual, but a faculty which belongs to the whole human race. Half the labor and menta effort expended upon music and ar would make very fair mind-reader of many people; also that it has vev little to do with the exercise of the will. A passive mind will receve an impression more readily than aw other.

EXAMS. FOR 1897.

Latest Circular Issued by the Ontario Education Department.

The attention of teachers and candidates for next summer's departmental examinations at the Collegiate Institute is called to the following extracts from a circular received from the department:

The revised regulations are now in press, and will be bound up with the School Act, and a copy transmitted as soon as ready to each board of trustees. No changes have been made that will disturb the organization or work of the schools. For the examinations of July, 1897, there will be no changes in the subjects prescribed or in the mode of conducting the ex-

Public School Leaving Examination—This examination will be con-ducted under the existing regulations for 1897. For subsequent examinations the course of study will be slightly modified, both geometry and botany being included, and the answer papers read at the Education Department. Any P. S. L. certificate granted heretofore, or that may be awarded hereafter, will have the same value as a certificate of having passed in Form I. The holder of a P. S. L. certificate will not be required in 1897 to pass the examination of Form I. of the high Form I. Examination.-This examination will be conducted in 1897 as in 1896, but after 1897 it will be abolished. and every candidate for primary standing must hold a P. S. L. certifiate, unless he holds a Form I. certificate or a commercial certificate. Primary.—For primary standing in 1897 the examination of Form II. must be taken, and also that of Form I. For the P. S. L. examination, unless the candidate has received a Form I. certificate, a P. S. L. certificate, a commercial certificate, a district certificate, or a third-class certificate, Junior Leaving. - Candidates who wrote at the junior leaving this year under the old regulations, and who have been awarded a certificate of having passed in Part I. of Form II. (with or without physics), may obtain a junior leaving certificate for 1897 passing in the subjects of Form III. only, i. e., composition, literature, algebra, geometry, ancient history, and (a) physics and botany, or (b) Latin, or (c) Greek, or (d) French, or Senior Leaving .- Similarly, candidates who work this year for senior teaving under the old regulations, and passed in Part I. of Form IV., may complete the course in 1897 by taking only the remaining subjects required by the old regulations.

Warner Miller's Modest Claim for the Republicans.

New York, Oct. 30 .- Col. Robert G. Ingersoll was the chief speaker at a grand rally of the McKinley League at Carnegle Hall last night, He discussed the financial question at length and was enthusiastically received. Warner Miller, in his closing speech, said the Republicans would carry all the States from Maine to the Mississippi, in addition to Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska, two or three on the Pacific coast, four or five of the Southern States, about two-thirds of the Electoral College, and that they would have a majority of 300,000 in

New York, Oct. 30-11:15 a.m.-Call money is down to 30 per cent.

There was a notable lack of excite ment in Wall street at the opening this morning, considering the extreme stringency of money yesterday, when call loans were made at 80 per cent. Higher London quotations, a scarcity of stocks offering in the local market, and the rumors of financial relief measures to be taken by the banks, caused a confident sentiment. The only loan reported up to 11 o'clock was on $10,000 at 50 per cent; this was on outside transaction. In banking circles it is understood that an informal agreement has been reached by the presidents of six or seven institutions to pool their issues in the event of money reaching what is considered a prohibitive figure today, or upon any indication of distress street or in mercantile circles that will draw upon their reserve to as large an extent as may be neces-

It is rumored that the banks are pr

pared to put out some $5,000,000 to $10.-000,000. No official action will be taken by the Clearing House as a body. President Simmons, of the Clearing House Association, says there is nothing in the present financial situation to excite alarm, and that the banks are abundantly able to meet any emergency that may arise.
Those not familiar with Wall street should understand that 85 per cent means 75 per cent per annum, or about per cent a month, and a corresponding amount for one day's use. Eighty per cent means a little under one-half of one per cent a day. The money is loaned "on call." This means that it may be called in by the loaner at the end of 24 hours, if the pleases, or the borrower may pay at the end of that Sometimes a loan will run several days without being called or paid.

SMITHS. At the time of the adoption of surmames every artisan whose work required the striking of blows on metal was known as a smiter or smith prospects by the crooked ways in which he sought to better himself its blacksmith, whitesmith, gold-smith, silversmith, arrowsmith, and several others of the same character. The number of Smiths of the present day may, therefore, be readily ac-counted for, when we remember that each of the different kinds of smiths was as much entitled to the use of his trade name for a cognomen as any other artisan. John, the blacksmith. and John, the coppersmith, were both known as John the smith, an appellation which resolved itself into the family name of John Smith. NO EXCEPTIONS TO THIS RULE It was a fidgety, funny, middle-aged woman who stepped to the window of the Central Hudson ticket office at 10:30 yesterday morning and inquired the time the next train left for Rome. WELL TO REMEMBER What is good for one is not always good for another. This is illustrated in a short tale told some time ago about a French medical student. While in London on a visit the student lodg-ed in a house with a man very sick with a fever, who was continually besieged by his nurse to drink very nauseating liquids which were luke-warm. The sick man found this almost

"Bring me a salt herring, and I will drink as much as you please."

The woman indulged him in his request; he ate the herring, drank the liquids, underwent the required perspiration, and recovered.

Snowdrop 2 I=2c per share

The Snowdrop mine is located on the famous Lookout Mountain, two miles from the smelting town of Trail and about one mile from the great Crown Point mine, which was recently purchased by the Gooderham Syndicate of Toronto. Adjoining it on the east is the Summit. A shaft on this claim shows a large body of ore, assaying $12 per ton. This vein runs through the Snowdrop. Snowdrop is the best buy on the market. The promoters are satisfied of its merit. It has as good a chance of becoming a wealth producer as any other mine in the Trail camp.

American Produce Markets. CHICAGO. Chicago, Oct. 29.-Wheat started in today

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Wheat started in today with a boom in full possession of the pit, and prices jumping skyward with startling rapidity. For about an hour it looked as though there was to be a repetition of the action and scenes of ten days ago, but at 73½c for December realizing began. Rumors of tightening money at New York, which later were more than verified, caused great energy in selling and a break of 2c took place. Afterwards the fluctuations were nervous and erratic, it being evident that traders could find no comfort on either the long or short side. There were a number of foreign buying orders here and at New York today, to which great vrominence was given, the early advance proving how fruitful in effect they were. Liverpool opening cables were 1½d higher, and ½d was added at the closing. Continental markets showed gains corresponding with ours of yesterday. December wheat opened from 71½c to 72c; sold between 73½c and 71½c, closing at 71½c—½c to 1c higher than yesterday. Cash wheat was 1c to 2c higher. Corn was unchanged for May, and the higher for each Oats were stady, and Ingler than yesterday. Cash Wheat was ic to 2c higher. Corn was unchanged for May, and ic higher for cash. #### CHAPTER III.

The next morning there appeared an advertisement in the Boston Transcript, offering five hundred dollars to suitable parties who would adopt a female infant, and stating that applications were to be made by letter, addressed to the office of the paper. Of course, a great many answers were received, for there were hosts of people who would agree to almost anything for five hundred dollars, while there were others who were really anxious to adopt the little baby girl that was to be so strangely thrown upon the world.

One alone out of these many epistles pleased Mrs. Marston. It was written in a clear, elegant hand, signed "August and Alice Damon." was from a young couple, and stated that only a month previous they had lost their own little daughter-a babe of a few weeks-and their hearts were so sore over thir loss, their home so lonely and sad, that they would gladly take a little one to fill. as far as might be possible, the place of their lost darling, and if the child in question pleased them and there was nothing objectionable con-nected with her birth or antecedents, they would gladly adopt her without the payment of the premium that had

Mrs. Marston, after reading this communication, immediately dashed off a note asking the young people to call upon her at their earliest convenience—in case they were at liberty to do so, the next morning at ten 'clock; she would reserve that hour

She invited them to be seated, and then entered at once upon the object of their visit. "I have appointed an interview with you in preference to all other appli-cants," she said, "because of the real interest and feeling evinced in your letter to me. But before we decide upon the matter under consideration, I would like to know something about you and your prospects for the fu-

Mr. August Damon, a fine-looking young man of perhaps 25 years, frankly informed the lady that their home was in Boston that he was a clerk in a large wholesale boot and shoe house; his salary was a fair one, and there was a prospect that he might become a member of the firm at no very distant date, if all went well with the business. He said that both he and his wife were very fond of children, and had been almost heart-broken over the loss of their own child. They had resolved, if they could find one to whom their hearts urned, to adopt another, and bestow ipon it, as far as might be, the love and care that their own child would have received if it had lived. They had seen her advertisement in the Transcript, and had determined to respond to it, hoping thus to succeed in their obect. "Nothing could be better," Mrs. Marston eagerly said, in reply. "This is just the opportunity that I desire. I feel sure that you will give my little one the kindest care, and I shall relinquish her to you most willingly. shall expect you will do by her exactly as you would have done by your own; that you will give her your name, educate her, and give her such advantages as your means will allow. This must be your part in our contract, while mine will be to renounce all claim upon her, and make over to you the amount which I specified in my advertisement." August Damon never once took his eyes from the face of that proud, beautiful woman while she was speaking. They burned with a strange fire, an indignant flush mantled his cheek, and an expression of contempt curled his fine lips.

His wife viewed the apparently heartless mother with speechless won-der, her eyes fastened upon her in a sort of horrible fascination. Her sweet delicate face was colorless as the snowy ruche about her white neck, and she trembled visibly as she listened to her abrupt and apparently unfeeling disposal of a human soul. There was an awkward pause after Mrs. Marston concluded, and she seemed to become suddenly conscious of the very unpleasant impression which her strange words and pro-ceedings had produced upon her visitors, and a rush of vivid color mantled She could not fail to realize that her guests were well bred, even culti- ship, has had three holes drilled on her in the balance of their own refined and noble natures, and had found her sadly wanting in all those gentler qualities and attributes which naturally belong to a woman, and

"Do you accede to the conditions that I have mentioned; and you, madame?" turning her great dark eyes full upon the gentle but shocked wife. "Oh, how can you bear to part thus with your little one, the darling whose pulses are throbbing with your own life-blood?" exclaimed sweet Alice Damon, tears starting to her earnest, gray-blue eyes, her delicate lips trembling with emotion. "That is a question that I cannot allow myself to consider," responded Mrs. Marston, with a peculiar gesture of her jewled hands, which might have meant either pain or repugnance, 'neither can I enter into any explanation upon that point; the fact remains, I must part with her, and it is my wish to make the best possible provision for her."

"We should be glad to see the child, madam," Mr. Damon gravely remarked. "Of course. I will have her brought in immediately;" and Mrs. Marston arose to ring a bell.

A moment later a portly matron entered the room bearing in her arms a lovely babe about a month old, arrayed in a richly embroidered robe, and wrapped in the softest and whitest of flannels.

Alice Damon uttered an eager cry, in which the tenderest mother-love and the keenest pain were blended, as she caught sight of the beautiful child who recalled so vividly her own lost treasure.

Starting from her seat she glided swiftly over the soft carpet, and the next moment the tiny creature was clasped close to her aching heart, while a sob burst from her as she pressed her quivering lips to its velvet cheek. Then she turned to her husband with it still in her arms.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Statement of Trade in Toronto, Ont., Oct. 30 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly statement of trade in Canada says: There is no abatement of the better feeling noted of late among Montreal business men, and the general trade distribution is of a freer character, though buying is still marked by a commendable degree of carefulness, and large orders are the exception. In some quarters a little improvement is noted in remittances, but letters from the country would indicate that farmers are disposed to hold for high-er prices, and are not reducing their store bills, as they are generally expected to do at this season. There is continued tendency to the stiffening of values in many staple lines. Buyers of drygoods just back from Britain report considerable strength in the woollen market, and a great rush of American buying is anticipated should McKinley be elected, which it is thought will certainly develop an allround advance in quotations. Cheese shipments last week were hardly up to the big figures of the several preceding weeks, but the aggregate for the season to date is ahead of last year, which was the largest on record. Butter shipments are 69,000 packages ahead of last year at date.

The trade situation at Toronto continues satisfactory. There is a fair volume of business in wholesale departments, and payments are improving. Prices of the leading staples are firm, and dealers generally are hopeful. The decline in prices of wheat has checked the movement of this cereal, and likewise the trade in flour has suffered, but there are indications of improvement in the near There is little change in the financial situation. Discounts are un-changed, at 6 to 6 1-2 per cent. There is a good demand for funds on the part of Chicago and Duluth grain dealers, where money is stringent.

The hoarding of gold at leading centers in the States reflects the timidity of capital across the border, and the only hope for relief is the election of McKinley on Tuesday next. ## Good Square Pianos .... for a Mere Song.

Our warerooms are overcrowded with excellent Second-Hand Square Pianos, which we have taken at different times as part payment on new Mason & Risch Uprights. Most of them were exchanged by the original owners, not because they weae bad, but simply because they were squares and took up more room than the average modern city parlor allows of.

Most of them are in first rate order; 7 octaves, carved legs, ivory keys, from frames and rosewood cases. They are made by such well-known firms as Fischer, Heintzman, Decker, Chickering, etc. Most of them are worth about $250 each, though we don't intend to ask this. Now listen to our proposition:

First write us for a list and description of what may happen to be on hand at the time of writing, giving us some idea as to what you would like, and how you wish to pay, whether cash down or on terms, if on time, how much time, how much down you can pay, and how much per quarter.

On receipt of this information we will make the best possible selection and ship it to you FREIGHT PREPAID ON APPROVAL. If you do not like it SHIP IT BACK. IT WON'T COST YOU ANYTHING. If you like it we will await check (if cash) or send you the usual papers for signature The price of no Piano is to exceed $150, and many will be less. If you have ever heard of a fafrer offer than this let us know of it.

If you prefer a Good Second-Hand Upright of course it will cost you more, but write us all the same. It is no trouble to answer questions and give quotations and

When you go to buy a shoe don't merely glance at it before you try it on. Take it in your hand, then, with a critic's eye, examine the quality of the leather, the stitching and tho finish. After that, try it on, and decide as to fit and style. These are things we want you to do when buying shoes off us. We want you to be EXACTLY suited. That's why we ask you to be careful when you buy. We can suit you, and it will be entirely your own fault if we don't. Because you don't let us know what you want.
