

GEORGE F. ROGERS NAMED PRINCIPAL OF THE COLLEGIATE

Highly-Qualified Teacher Unanimously Chosen by Board of Education.

Left Fine Record at Seaford Before Leaving for North Bay.

Mr. George F. Rogers, B.A., of North Bay, was unanimously appointed principal of the London Collegiate Institute at the meeting of the board of education and No. 1 committee on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Rogers, until recently was principal of Seaford Collegiate Institute, when he was appointed to the head of the North Bay Institute. He will be required to enter upon his duty within 30 days, the board making a second choice in case Mr. Rogers should fail to do this.

Mr. P. R. Riddell, at present a teacher in the London Collegiate, was appointed acting principal, and will be in charge of the school when it opens on Tuesday.

Is Well Qualified.

Mr. Rogers, the principal elect, is an honor graduate in English of Victoria College, Toronto University, winner of the Prince of Wales scholarship, and silver medalist in general proficiency. His professional qualifications include a principal's certificate with specialist standing in science, a cadet instructor's certificate, and he has had nineteen years' successful teaching experience, six years in Orillia Collegiate Institute as science master and thirteen years in the Seaford Collegiate Institute, where he has been for twelve years principal.

Has Commendable Record. Mr. Rogers' record is an enviable one. During his principalship, the Seaford Collegiate has maintained a percentage of successful students at the matriculation and departmental examinations of approximately 91 per cent. Its students have brought wide renown to their school by their propensity for winning scholarships. Twice have they stood first in the province at the Toronto University matriculation examinations, winning the Prince of Wales and the first Edward Blake scholarship. In the last twelve years some twenty scholarships have been won by Seaford candidates in competition with the Province of Ontario.

Principal an Athlete. Mr. Rogers has had a varied teaching experience, having taught at one time or another practically all the subjects in the high school curriculum. He is deeply interested in sports and athletics and is an enthusiastic bowler and a football player of no small repute.

Inspector J. E. Wetherall, in his last report on Seaford Collegiate, comments on the "very large upper school of 29 pupils and the separately organized commercial department under the competent charge of a commercial specialist."

Inspector Houston compliments Mr. Rogers upon the organization of his school. Inspectors John Seath, J. E. Hodgson and H. B. Spotton also speak of his work in their annual reports very favorably.

Esteemed By Board. The Seaford Collegiate Institute board, when Mr. Rogers resigned to accept the principalship of North Bay Collegiate, passed a resolution, referring to him as "a most successful principal, a science master with few equals, a tireless worker in the interests of this school, a most estimable citizen, a clean and honorable sportsman," adding, "and we feel that we have been extremely fortunate in retaining one of Mr. Rogers' calibre so long in our midst."

Appointment is Unanimous. There were ten applications for the principalship of the local Collegiate. Five were highly recommended by the department of education. One other name besides Mr. Rogers was spoken of very favorably by several members, but he was only nominated as a second choice. Mr. Rogers was nominated by Dr. Shaw at the meeting of No. 1 committee. Dr. Mullan, seconded by Dr. Teasdale, at the board meeting which followed, moved that the report of the committee be adopted. There were present Chairman Dennis, Trustees Shaw, Martin, Gammage, Greenlee, Mullan, Gunn and Teasdale and Secretary McElhennan.

EARLY ELECTION IS CONSERVATIVE PLAN

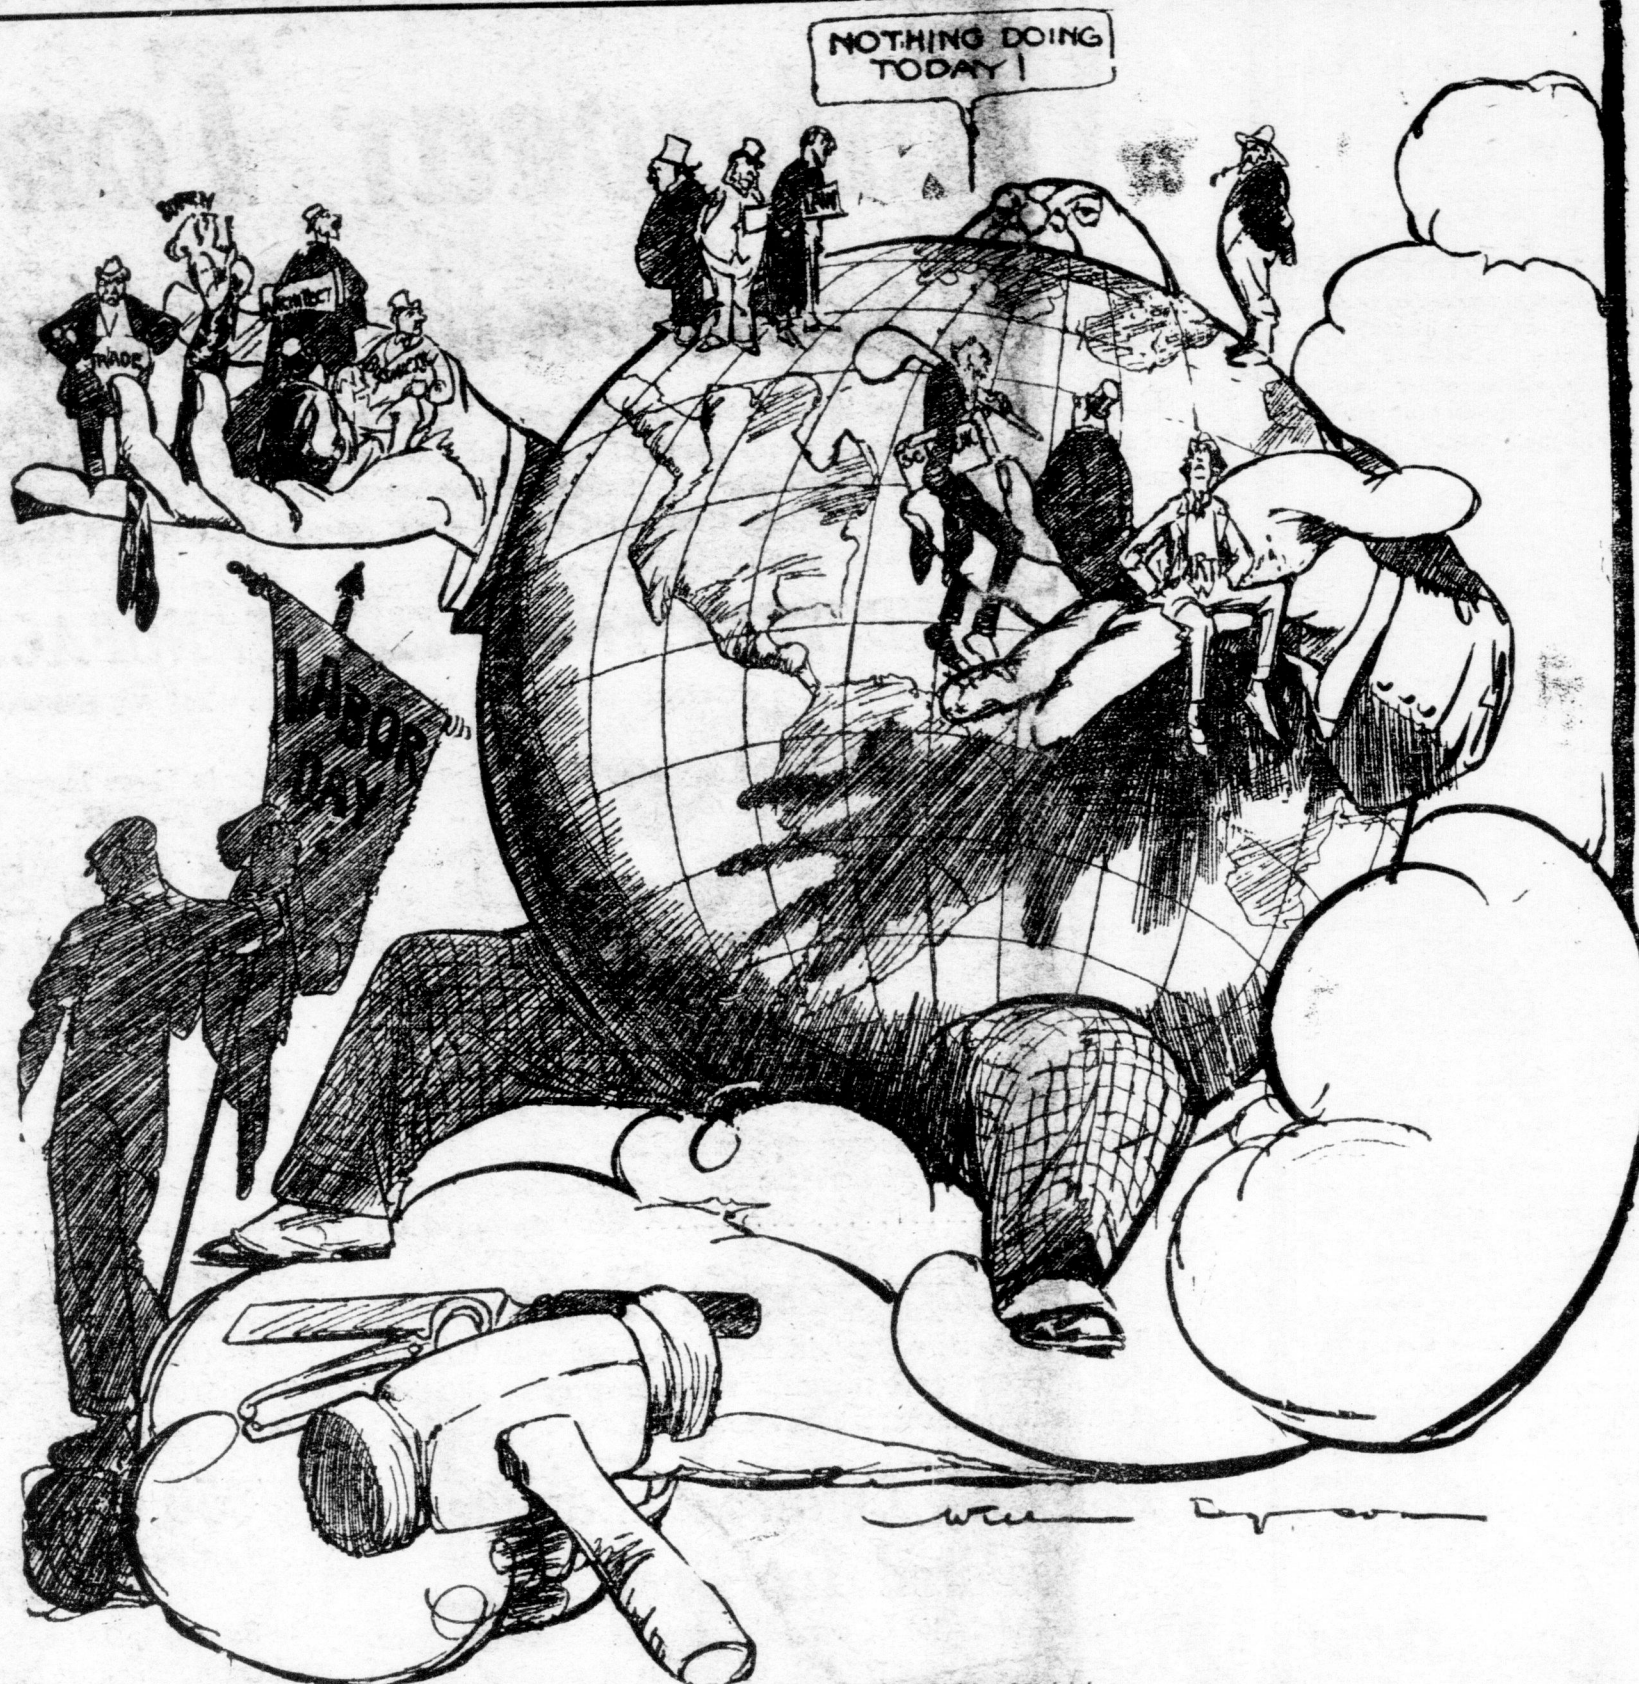

Organizer Birmingham Wants No Time Lost in East Middlesex.

The writing on the wall, indicating an early election in East Middlesex to fill the seat left vacant by the death of the late Peter Eison, M.P., was seen at the East Middlesex Conservative convention on Saturday afternoon. There the wise ones fought against the proposal to have the meeting adjourned for three weeks, when it was found impossible to select the party's nominee. Organizer Birmingham, at the Conservative force, was at the meeting, and notified the Conservative leaders that an election would be announced by the Borden Government as soon as it was possible.

Five Cars Were Derailed on M. C. R.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Rodney, Aug. 31.—Five cars were derailed here this afternoon, when a drawbar fell as a west-bound Michigan Central freight was going through. The line was torn up badly, but no one was hurt. A report spread that two men had been killed, but investigation proved that no one was even hurt.

NEW FAIR BUILDINGS RISE AS IF BY MAGIC; TEAM WORK

Mayor Graham, City Engineer Ashplant, Officials and a Large Army of Workers Will Complete Task by This Evening's Sunset.

Through the fullest co-operation of the city, the fair association, the contractors of the city, the local labor unions, and the city engineer's department, the Western Fair buildings, which were destroyed by fire Friday morning, will be completely rebuilt by tonight.

Mayor Graham, City Engineer Ashplant, President W. J. Reid, Secretary Hunt, the members of the grounds and building committee, the other directors of the fair association, and many of the city contractors have given their time and unflinching energies to superintending the work of reconstruction, and every workman employed on the new buildings, stimulated with civic patriotism, has contributed the best of his skill and craftsmanship.

A Great Band of Workers. Everyone connected with the exhibition and the work of rebuilding has been on the quiver for the past three days, and the new fair buildings stand as a memorial to their efforts. There is not a little of self-sacrifice involved in the readiness of the carpenters and other workers who have not hesitated to give up their Sunday's rest and the festivities of Labor Day in order that the city at large and the Western Fair, one of London's foremost and most unique institutions, may not suffer. Talk of rebuilding houses in 24 hours becomes idle when London's accomplishment is seen.

What Has Been Done. The Machinery Hall, the Concrete Building, and the Carriage Building have been already rebuilt, and are ready for the exhibitors in these departments. The new horse sheds and the stove exhibit building will be completed today. Part of the new horse sheds have been finished, and a good deal of work has been done on roofing and siding the box stalls along the Campbell street palisade, which will partly replace the burnt horse sheds. A new 12-foot fence has been built along the south side of the exhibition grounds. The stove building which will connect the Machinery Hall and the Carriage Building, will run along the south side of the grounds is also partly erected.

Ample Space Afforded. The Campbell street fence will form one wall and rafters and uprights are in place for the roof and north wall. The new buildings are built on the sites of the old buildings which they replace, and while they are to some extent of a temporary nature, there will be as much space as in previous years.

Ald. J. H. Saunders and Mr. William Moore, who are representing the Western at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition, have been wired by Secretary Hibbitt, to line up all the Toronto exhibitors possible and bring them on to London, where there will be plenty of room to take care of all of them.

No Rest for the Men. Between 200 and 250 men were at work all day Saturday and Sunday, and they will resume work early this morning. A night shift was kept going on Friday night, but was not deemed necessary Saturday and Sunday nights.

By Monday night you will not know that there was a fire at all," said City Engineer Ashplant on Sunday.

WAKE COSTS $5,000,000

Lancashire Cotton Workers to Have Whole Week of Festivities.

70,000 TAKING PART

[Special to The Advertiser.] London, Aug. 30.—"Oldham Wakes Week," the English workers' greatest holiday, begins today. Cotton operatives and others throughout Lancashire save in special clubs the whole year for this one week's reckless spending. Oldham workers alone have withdrawn a quarter of a million pounds, and Lancashire holiday-makers will spend fully one million pounds. Seventy thousand holiday-makers left Oldham last night. During this week every Lancashire industry, except the pleasure world, is paralyzed.

ILLEGAL BALLOTING PLUNGES EAST MIDDLESEX CONVENTION INTO ABSOLUTE CONFUSION

Vote Without Which Glass and Piper Stood Forty-Eight Each Causes Sensation, and New Delegates Are Ordered To Be Called for New Convention.

ALD. GLASS CARRIES FIGHT TO THOSE WHO ASK FOR "FARMER" CANDIDATE

John Geary Makes Plea for Sons of the Soil—Executive Decides That All Delegates Must Be Newly Appointed.

Terminating in a voting fiasco, and a decision to call new delegates, the East Middlesex Conservative convention was forced to adjourn on Saturday afternoon, for a week, without having selected a candidate to carry the party standard in the impending federal by-election for the riding. The presence of an illegal ballot in the last poll to decide whether Ald. S. F. Glass, of London, or R. M. Piper, of Westminster Township, would be the party's nominee, was the primary cause for the adjournment. The second cause was the split in the Conservative ranks. Later the adjournment was extended until a week from next Saturday.

A Neck-and-Neck Race. The one questionable ballot was the balance on which hung the selection of a candidate. Had it been thrown out and declared void, the delegates would have been evenly divided on the respective sides of Ald. Glass and ex-Warden Piper. It was a complex situation that was added to by the fact that many delegates, immediately their votes had been cast, hurried away from the meeting to catch their trains.

Another Vote Impossible. When the illegal ballot was discovered, the ranks of the delegates had been greatly depleted, and it was impossible to have another vote taken. President John McFarlane, of the East Middlesex Conservative Association, declined to break the tie should one be declared through the rejection of the illegal ballot, the announcement of which threw the meeting into a furore.

Wants New Delegates. When the adjournment was announced and the same delegates ordered to report next Saturday afternoon to again ballot for a party nominee, John Geary, of London Township, led a fight for new delegates. "If there is any delegates, who is purchasable, and who would attempt to pass through an illegal ballot, suspicion is thrown on the whole delegation," he shouted above the uproar that followed the announcement of the peculiar situation. "Let us have new representatives entirely in order that the election may be above suspicion."

Mr. Geary's Plea Unheard. His plea was unheard at the time. The majority of the remaining delegates voted for adjournment, and for the same representation as those who participated in Saturday's voting. Later the executive met and voted for new delegates to be called.

The peculiar part of the last ballot was the fact that the exact number of ballots given out were returned, but one was an ordinary scrap of paper, rather than the regulation ballot. When the scrutineers announced the presence of this illegal vote, there were cries of "Throw it out!" "Throw it out!" The scrutineers, William Gray, Major Thos. Beattie, M. P., and George Neely, M. P. P., however, called on the man who had made the wrong vote, to acknowledge it. There was no response.

No One Will "Fess Up." Then President John McFarlane intimated that while one of the delegates who had left might have been the author of the ballot, there was a possibility that some of the remaining ones, having seen a fellow delegate leave before voting, had slipped in an extra ballot—the scrap paper one. He explained that the whole election hinged on the one vote, as the standing would be a tie unless it was counted in.

"Let the chairman decide the tie," roared a faction in the crowd. The chairman, who is understood to be a strong supporter of the candidacy of Ald. Glass, declined to act in the capacity of tie-breaker, declaring that his personal feeling would not allow him to act.

A Rush For the Platform. Shouts, suggestions, motions and general confusion was the instant sequel. Delegates clambered onto the platform of the Masonic Temple Hall, where the meeting was being held, and buttonholed the scrutineers, the president and the other officers. Every effort was made to find some way out of the difficulty, but without avail. Suggestions for adjournment were made—and rejected. "Throw out the ballot!" cried some. "Let it stay!" yelled others. "Have another vote!" shouted another faction. "Call an adjournment!" chorused the majority of delegates, and so it went on.

A Weighty Responsibility. After John Geary had sprung the sensational idea of the delegates having been purchased to vote one way or the other, Vice-President John White pushed his way to the platform. "It would be manifestly unfair to have our president and chairman decide the tie," he cried. "There isn't one delegate in the hall who would want to undertake the responsibility of selecting either one of the two men before you. There is only one thing to do—that is to adjourn."

Meeting Breaks Up. His suggestion was carried out, and the meeting was declared over. Breaking up into knots and groups, the remaining delegates discussed the situation and its complex phases—phases that will have their last appearance, Continued On Page Four.

MONUMENT OF WHITNEY GOVT. IS GROTESQUE

Cost Nearly Two Millions, and Is Now Only a Joke in Toronto.

New Building Looks Out Over Don Flats and Smoky Brickyards.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Aug. 30.—Every Government likes to leave behind it a monument to posterity. The Whitney Government, with its usual love for the grotesque, has chosen for its memorial the new Government House, which is to cost altogether, with maintenance charges, nearly two million dollars. The Whitney Government knows that like all other administrations, it will have its day and cease to be. It will be pleasant for its members when in opposition to think that at any rate they have left a creditable monument. The following extract from the editorial columns of the Toronto Telegram will show, for example, how much this Conservative paper appreciates the new building. Similar expressions are to be heard on all sides from everyone who has had the privilege of seeing the new Government House.

A True Humourist. "There is a true humourist in the hanging committee of the art exhibit. It is impossible to help admiring the man who would put a painting of the Don flats immediately above a portrait of Sir John A. Macdonald. Here is the present Lieutenant-Governor in knee breeches, court dress, decorations and such-like trappings of temporal power. And above is the view which he or his successor will gaze out upon from the new Government House—the Don flats and the smoky brickyards. The artist has done his subject so much justice that one can almost hear the freight trains shunting in the background."

Must Be Buried. "Just why Sir James Whitney decided to house his majesty's Ontario viceroy in a submerged stone palace overlooking a brickyard, is one of those subjects about which it is distinctly bad form to talk. One cannot, however, refrain from paying a compliment to the member of the hanging committee responsible for the incongruous juxtaposition of the Lieutenant-Governor in resplendent regalia, and the squalid view of the Don flats which will soon greet his eyes when he gazes at the sunrise from his magnificent abode."

"Suffragette" and "Mad Dog" Races Feature the Sports

English Picnickers Have Glorious Time at Springbank, Weather Man Squaring Accounts With Them.

Continued Saturday afternoon at Springbank, after the interruption by Wednesday's shower, the English picnic attracted a large crowd of people to the park, to witness and participate in the fine program of sports. The day was an ideal one for picnics. In the morning clouds began to gather, and fears of a repetition of Wednesday's weather were expressed. But mid-afternoon clearing breeze, which cleared the sky and left just the right "tinge" in the air to give life and vim to the sports.

Many Feature Events. About 3 o'clock, the crowds having assembled on the grass clearing to the west of the pavilion, the sports commenced. The committee had spent much time and thought in the preparation of the program, and accordingly it was complete in every detail. Many feature events were added to the list of usual attractions, including a suffragette race, open to ladies only, the distance being 75 yards. About mid-way between the starting point and the finish were placed empty paper bags. Each "militant suffragette," at the pistol shot, dashed madly for the bags. These they inflated and followed with the old trick of "popping" them. Then the remainder of the distance was completed, and only those carrying their bag were eligible to compete for the prizes. The "government smashers" gave a fine exhibition in this race of either a pursuit or retreat.

The Mad-Dog Race. A few minutes later, an uninitiated spectator, coming unexpectedly upon the scene, would have suspected nothing within the roped-off space a number of wild animals were engaged in a struggle to the death. But it was only the "mad-dog race," in which the contestants were compelled to amble along on hands and knees, emitting barks in spasmodic order. There were sixteen entries to this unusual race, and all were gifted with splendid lungs and eloquent powers.

Not to be forgotten is the clown band, which played stirring, martial and popular airs. They were decked out in all a clown's paraphernalia, the costumes creating much amusement.

The Largest Family. Prizes for the largest family on the grounds were won in the following order: English—1 Mrs. Brooks, 2 A. Bender, Canadian—Mrs. Cottrell. Other events were as follows: Boys, under 5—1 W. Brooks, 2 T. Jackson, 3 N. Thomas.

CROSS OR PEEVISH HALF-SICK CHILDREN

If Tongue Is Coated, Breath Bad, Stomach Sour, It means a Torpid Liver and Clogged Bowels.

Mother! Don't scold your cross, peevish child! Look at the tongue! See if it is white, yellow and coated! If your child is listless, drooping, isn't sleeping well, is restless, doesn't eat heartily or is cross, irritable, out of sorts with everybody, stomach sour, feverish, breath bad, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, it means the little one's stomach, liver and bowels are clogged and filled with poisons and foul, constipated waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

Give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged up waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little waste-clogged bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you will surely have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed—a little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Company. This is the delicious, safe, genuine, old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

PEACE PALACE IS MERE FAD FOR CARNEGIE

England Looks Upon Building as Chance to Spend Millions.

Thinks Laird of Skibo Is Neglecting the Real Peace Work.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

London, Aug. 31.—The opening of the Palace of Peace and the proceedings of the peace congress have been regarded in England with almost complete indifference. Press and public here treat the whole affair as an amiable fad for disposing of part of Carnegie's millions, which has no practical bearing upon the realities of international affairs.

The movement is criticized as having gone forward on wrong lines, seeking to overcome difficulties by ignoring them, seeking imaginary Utopias, making itself ridiculous by futile efforts such as debate on the creation of an international fleet for the preservation of peace under the command of permanent council admirals, while leaving undone the vastly more practical work of educating public sentiment, which should occupy it first.

Gave $1,500,000. The palace is the gift of Andrew Carnegie, who, in 1903, placed at the disposal of the Dutch Government the sum of $1,500,000 for the purpose, as expressed in his offer, "of erecting and maintaining at the Hague a court house and library for the permanent disposal of the Dutch Government by the treaty of the 23rd of July, 1899."

To provide a site for this, the first structure ever erected for such a purpose, the Dutch Government appropriated $275,000. The site selected is in a section of wooded and hilly park stretching from the Hague to Scheveningen, and the cornerstone was laid July 30, 1907.

An Impressive Building. The palace, as completed, does not represent any precise style of architecture, but it is regarded by architects as one of the most impressive of modern buildings to be seen in Europe. Rectangular in shape, it forms roughly a square of 85 yards by 85 yards, and incloses a beautiful formal garden. On three sides the building constitutes the court house, and on the fourth or west side are the quarters of the library. The facade of the second floor is adorned with statues, the figures representing Science, Agriculture, Art, Navigation, Commerce, Industry, Concord, Eloquence, Will-Force, Study, Authority, Humanity, Constancy and Wisdom.

Beautiful Windows. The main windows of the great court are guarded by statues of Justice and Law, and over the central gable above the main entrance stands a figure of peace, her hands resting on the hilt of a sheathed sword, around which are swathed scrolls. Just below, over the corridor, stand two lions.

The statutory, however, is not confined to the symbolic. Four men have been honored by busts. These are: Hugo Grotius, who has been called the pioneer of international law; King Edward the Seventh, Sir Randall Cremer, and William T. Stead, the English writer, and peace leader, who resided in the palace. The gift of Cremer was the gift of the International Arbitration League.

Peace Decorations. Within all that modern art and skill could do to symbolize the purpose of the palace has been devoted to the decoration. The grand marble staircase which forms the main entrance is illuminated from a group of stained-glass windows, showing peace-shedding rays of light on Art and Science, Land and Sea, Commerce and Industry; while to the left and right are other stained-glass windows depicting the ancient horrors of war, and above them companion panels of terror and death.

Thaw's Counsel Alleges Bribery

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Sherbrooke, Aug. 30.—The direct charge that persons, whom he would not name, were trying to bribe Magistrate Dupuis to withdraw the Thaw commitment in order that the immigration officials might get him, was made today by Dr. Shurtliffe, one of Thaw's counsel. Shurtliffe alleged that the persons are in town and are being watched.

In addition, the lawyer declared that powerful influences are at work upon Government officials to obtain that result. Shurtliffe insisted, however, that he had the promise of Dupuis that no such action would be taken.

Following his release on bail Thompson, the chauffeur, denied that he would leave town and denied that he had any intention of "squealing."

"I would not squeal for all the town of Sherbrooke," he said.

LONDON, MONDAY, SEPT. 1.

LABOR DAY.

The setting apart by the Government of one day in the year in honor of labor is an indication of the changing phases of human society, and the change of society's point of view as to men's occupations, and as to social conditions. Time was when the idea of a statutory holiday for the laborer's benefit, and for the recognition of labor, in which people of all classes and conditions should unite, would have been considered an absurdity. Not less absurd would have been the idea that there could be anything enjoyable or desirable about labor, so far as the men who labor were concerned. But with the passing of years conditions have changed, and men's ideas have changed. Labor is no longer a dishonorable thing. The laborer is no longer one of an inferior class. He is recognized as an essential part of the social organism, as one whose existence must be recognized, whose needs must be considered, whose welfare is as important as that of any other man.

Men who work with their brains have no longer a monopoly of honors or of wealth. The man who works with his hands may achieve prominence in society; he may gain distinction; he may make money; he need not be ashamed of his calling. For this is the era of work. And the line of distinction between brainwork and handwork is not closely drawn. To be idle is a disgrace; to work is honorable.

And society recognizes today, as it never did before, that the interests of all classes are closely intertwined. The employer and the employee, the capitalist and the laborer, the professional man and the mechanic, the rich man and the poor, all are bound together. No one can live to himself, without injury to the community. No one class can suffer damage without the others suffering, sometimes even in greater degree. The employer cannot afford to disregard the rights of those whose labor he has purchased. The employee cannot afford to disregard the interests of the man for whom he works. If either thinks himself alone there will be trouble, not for the one party alone, but for both. It is natural and right that each man should seek his own advancement, but he cannot disregard his neighbors, nor neglect their claims. In thinking of his rights he must not forget his duties. It may be doubtful if the average man can reach the Christian standard of loving his neighbor as himself. But if he cannot grasp the idea of being as just to his neighbor as he is to himself, and if he cannot live up to that idea, then he is below the average man, and becomes a menace to the community.

And this may be taken as the lesson of Labor Day.

"DEAR" CANADA.

A report of the British Government on the increase in cost of living presents some interesting figures. Food prices and their fluctuations are shown for Great Britain, the colonies, and several foreign countries. Canada leads the world for high prices of food, and had eminence.

It would not be so bad if the Canadian producers got the benefit of this. But the 51 per cent. rise of food prices calculated for this country in the last twelve years has not for the most part gone to fill the pockets of Canadian producers. In the same period, prices in Great Britain and France have gone up only 15 per cent., in Germany 30 per cent., in Austria-Hungary and Belgium over 30 per cent., in Australia and New Zealand 16 per cent. Canada is easily in the lead, and we know well enough why.

People in this country have long been growing more and more convinced that they are in the power of a few well-organized food trusts or combines. The Canadian farmer knows that prices to producers across the line are higher than he can get. Meats, cattle, grains, vegetables, fruits and dairy products all fetch more. On the other hand, the Canadian consumer pays more than his American neighbor; he pays according to the British Government's report, 51 per cent. more than he did in 1900 for what he eats. In the reciprocity campaign there was a lot of ridiculous chatter to the effect that the producer could not possibly get more while the consumer paid less in the United States. What might or might not be possible in theory, and supposing there were no middlemen's operations to be considered, is of little concern. The interesting point is the actual fact of the case is market quotations in the daily papers show it and as the British report finds it. Owing to the smallness of the market in Canada, probably, the middlemen have been able to organize their system of two-edged extortion even more advantageously to themselves than has been possible for the big American meat and canning trusts.

Why did the trusts all oppose reciprocity for Canada? A child can answer. Why do their products, canned goods, dressed meats, flour, etc., sell for less in Great Britain than at home? Some of the voters in 1911 did not seem to understand, but they are waking up. The same conditions have operated in many countries to advance prices, but Canadian prices have gone up so outrageously because Canada is a small, handy-sized pen for the combine to control. Reciprocity should and would have given us an escape from their clutch. On Labor Day the workman may reflect on this matter.

[Montreal Gazette.]

A MODERN BATTLE CRY.

[Toronto Telegram.]
Surely the Whitney Government will bearken to the patriot voices that clamor for action along the lines of tax reform. Tax reform is the battle cry of soldiers who would do credit to any cause.

SIR WILFRID ON THE TRADE QUESTION.

[Toronto Globe.]
On the trade question Sir Wilfrid was both definite and positive. He justified in the most explicit way the provisional trade agreement between Canada and the United States, the defeat of which in 1911 incurred heavy loss on the farmers and consumers of Canada and demoralized the transportation service of the Dominion. He referred to the efforts now making by the Congress of the United States to revise the customs tariff, and the expectation that the resulting reductions will redound to the advantage of Canadian farmers, and he plainly intimated that in the event of failure in that direction the Liberal trade policy will be adjusted to meet trade conditions and will be energetically and continuously pressed. This question of free trade in farm products is of enormously greater importance to the people of Canada than any naval policy that has not an "emergency" to justify it.

TAKING TOLL.

[Windsor Record.]
Not long ago a farmer marked the following on a slip of paper and stuck it inside a barrel of apples:
"I got 75c for this barrel. How much did you pay?"
The price was in the neighborhood of $5. A Chicago dispatch now relates the case of the steer for $12.50. When killed and cut up the edible parts of the beast brought $92.21 at retail price. The tidy little sum of $79.36 disappeared somewhere between the producer and consumer. Now is that all, for the packer, in addition to what he sold to the retailer disposed of the uneatable portions of the carcass for $19.50, or 25c. more than he paid for the steer.

ILLEGAL BALLOTING BRINGS EAST MIDDLESEX CONVENTION INTO ABSOLUTE CONFUSION

maybe, when the delegates come together again a week from next Saturday in the Conservative clubrooms.

The ballot fiasco was the termination of one of the strongest convention fights ever staged in the history of East Middlesex Conservative Association. Before the meeting was called to order, every man in the hall was well aware of the impending struggle between the would-be party nominees.

Interest was at fever heat, and it only remained for the development of the ballot fight to put an edge on the keenness that has already made itself manifest in the Conservative ranks of the riding. The deadlock was a fitting climax.

Glass and Piper the Fighters.

That there would be something doing at the convention was conceded beforehand. There was. There was more than "something doing." As predicted, the struggle for the nomination was one of the hottest in the history of the association. Glass and Piper were picked as the two strongest contenders in the race. The results of the election or near-election justified the prediction.

Surprises were expected at the convention, and surprises there were. The decision of Captain Thomas Robson, ex-M. P. P., and present county clerk of Middlesex, to drop out of the running, after his announced candidacy, was one of the greatest of them.

"Captain Tom's" Little Surprise.

"Captain Tom" was regarded as a close rival of Candidates Glass and Piper for the nomination and his action in declining came as a complete surprise, not only to the majority of the delegates, but to his own personal friends as well. Apparently not his gate, or very few, were aware of his intention until from the platform the county clerk announced his decision to retire from the race.

Want a Farmer Candidate.

As announced in The Advertiser of Saturday, petitioners from one polling subdivision of London Township at least, pledging support of the Conservative of that section to an agriculturalist only, were present. While the petitions were not officially presented, their presence in the convention was known, and they incited Frank Glass to a "fighting speech" that seemed to take many of the delegates by storm.

Ald. Glass accused the authors of the petitions with having attempted to raise the class cry—farmers against urban residents. He had in his possession a copy of the petition that had been mailed him by a friend. Using this as a text, he drew attention to his own efforts for the farmers of Middlesex—pointing to his record in the East

Middlesex Conservative Association for the past 23 years, and his work in the county council and various other municipal bodies—particularly the London Township Council.

Mr. Glass' Claims.

Particular reference was made to his efforts to secure for Middlesex an agricultural expert, an office that was only secured after hard fighting in a council composed practically entirely of agriculturalists, as Ald. Glass pointed out. His election as president of the Greater Middlesex Publicity Bureau, and similar marks of appreciation at the hands of agricultural Middlesex were advanced as examples of the work he had and was prepared to do for the farmers.

John Geary, of London Township, another whose name was placed in nomination, declared for an agricultural representative when he was given an opportunity to address the meeting.

Fair Play For Farmers.

He claimed the farmers were not getting fair play—the small representation of farmers in the federal House indicating the fact that the farmers were not receiving their just reward. He expressed some original ideas as to how a member ought to keep in touch with his constituents. The general idea of a member meeting his people only on the eve of elections when he was canvassing for votes did not appeal to Mr. Geary. His contention was that every member should meet his constituents every week—that he should hold Saturday night meetings in his own riding, during the entire session of Parliament in order that his constituents could explain their wants. Without something of this nature, the farmers could never hope to receive proper treatment. He pledged himself to a program of that character if selected as the Conservative standard-bearer.

consumers of Canada and demoralized the transportation service of the Dominion. He referred to the efforts now making by the Congress of the United States to revise the customs tariff, and the expectation that the resulting reductions will redound to the advantage of Canadian farmers, and he plainly intimated that in the event of failure in that direction the Liberal trade policy will be adjusted to meet trade conditions and will be energetically and continuously pressed. This question of free trade in farm products is of enormously greater importance to the people of Canada than any naval policy that has not an "emergency" to justify it.

The price was in the neighborhood of $5. A Chicago dispatch now relates the case of the steer for $12.50. When killed and cut up the edible parts of the beast brought $92.21 at retail price. The tidy little sum of $79.36 disappeared somewhere between the producer and consumer. Now is that all, for the packer, in addition to what he sold to the retailer disposed of the uneatable portions of the carcass for $19.50, or 25c. more than he paid for the steer.

maybe, when the delegates come together again a week from next Saturday in the Conservative clubrooms.

The ballot fiasco was the termination of one of the strongest convention fights ever staged in the history of East Middlesex Conservative Association. Before the meeting was called to order, every man in the hall was well aware of the impending struggle between the would-be party nominees.

Interest was at fever heat, and it only remained for the development of the ballot fight to put an edge on the keenness that has already made itself manifest in the Conservative ranks of the riding. The deadlock was a fitting climax.

Glass and Piper the Fighters.

That there would be something doing at the convention was conceded beforehand. There was. There was more than "something doing." As predicted, the struggle for the nomination was one of the hottest in the history of the association. Glass and Piper were picked as the two strongest contenders in the race. The results of the election or near-election justified the prediction.

Surprises were expected at the convention, and surprises there were. The decision of Captain Thomas Robson, ex-M. P. P., and present county clerk of Middlesex, to drop out of the running, after his announced candidacy, was one of the greatest of them.

"Captain Tom's" Little Surprise.

"Captain Tom" was regarded as a close rival of Candidates Glass and Piper for the nomination and his action in declining came as a complete surprise, not only to the majority of the delegates, but to his own personal friends as well. Apparently not his gate, or very few, were aware of his intention until from the platform the county clerk announced his decision to retire from the race.

Want a Farmer Candidate.

As announced in The Advertiser of Saturday, petitioners from one polling subdivision of London Township at least, pledging support of the Conservative of that section to an agriculturalist only, were present. While the petitions were not officially presented, their presence in the convention was known, and they incited Frank Glass to a "fighting speech" that seemed to take many of the delegates by storm.

Ald. Glass accused the authors of the petitions with having attempted to raise the class cry—farmers against urban residents. He had in his possession a copy of the petition that had been mailed him by a friend. Using this as a text, he drew attention to his own efforts for the farmers of Middlesex—pointing to his record in the East

Middlesex Conservative Association for the past 23 years, and his work in the county council and various other municipal bodies—particularly the London Township Council.

Mr. Glass' Claims.

Particular reference was made to his efforts to secure for Middlesex an agricultural expert, an office that was only secured after hard fighting in a council composed practically entirely of agriculturalists, as Ald. Glass pointed out. His election as president of the Greater Middlesex Publicity Bureau, and similar marks of appreciation at the hands of agricultural Middlesex were advanced as examples of the work he had and was prepared to do for the farmers.

John Geary, of London Township, another whose name was placed in nomination, declared for an agricultural representative when he was given an opportunity to address the meeting.

Fair Play For Farmers.

He claimed the farmers were not getting fair play—the small representation of farmers in the federal House indicating the fact that the farmers were not receiving their just reward. He expressed some original ideas as to how a member ought to keep in touch with his constituents. The general idea of a member meeting his people only on the eve of elections when he was canvassing for votes did not appeal to Mr. Geary. His contention was that every member should meet his constituents every week—that he should hold Saturday night meetings in his own riding, during the entire session of Parliament in order that his constituents could explain their wants. Without something of this nature, the farmers could never hope to receive proper treatment. He pledged himself to a program of that character if selected as the Conservative standard-bearer.

David Berry Attending Services When Animal Is Stolen in West London.

While the services at the Empress Avenue Methodist Church were in progress Sunday afternoon someone entered the driveways at the rear and stole a horse and buggy belonging to Mr. David Berry, of Oxford street, West London.

Mr. Berry left the animal—a dark bay mare, about 12 years old, with a faint white stripe running down its face—in the driveway while he went into the church. The buggy was a red-gear one and was equipped with a top. The police have been notified.

Refuses to Appear in Parade if Uniforms Are Barred.

There will be two union bands in the Labor Day parade today—neither in military uniform. The Seventh Regiment Band has stuck to its guns, that it will not parade unless allowed to wear the regimental uniform, and will therefore not be in line for the first time in years. No definite word from St. Thomas has yet been received at the union headquarters, but it is expected that a band will be brought along, although it will not be a military organization.

FARMERS ARE BUSY

Rains Helped the Pasture and Roots Greatly.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Blyth, Aug. 31.—Farmers are now busily engaged with their threshing, and the outlook seems to be for a good yield of grain of a first-class quality.

The berries and fruit will be the worst failures, but on account of the rains of the past week the roots are coming along finely, and the pasture is also improved greatly.

Perfumes and Their Curious Effects.

It is very curious to see the positive rage some women have for perfumes, while other find perfumes of any kind except the natural one from flowers and fruits intolerable, nauseating, and even dangerous. The reason must lie in the degree of refinement and sensitiveness to which the olfactory sense has developed. Or it may run far back to some ancestral antipathy or fear of peculiarity. We who have scant scientific knowledge of these human eccentricities, fall back in our ignorance upon the banal remark, "There is no accounting for such likes and dislikes." Of course, there is accounting for them, only we don't count for them! Mysterion tells us that bees abhor the smell of alcohol, perspiration and perfumes, except those of the flowers in which they live. In this bees are like many of their human brothers and sisters who abhor all these things just as much as the bees, and without knowing why. A woman will not only find abhorrent a perfume that another of grosser sense of smell delights in, but will actually fall into unconsciousness if she is forced to breathe it. I knew a little girl who was taken into a room filled with bowls of sweet clover. Five minutes had not passed before she slipped to the floor in a dead faint, overcome by the odor of the sweet clover which her mother had forgotten was antipathetic to her. She could hardly pass a field in the open air where this tall white plant grows without the most dreadful nausea. A whiff of lavender from the street vendors of this dried herb would cause her to reel and stagger before anyone with her was aware of the lavender in the neighborhood. Women who are thus afflicted with an excessively sensitive olfactory sense are by no means singular, and these are the women who suffer a martyrdom in the society of women whose clothes are saturated with the odors of the sachet powders in which they are put away, and whose really gross sense of smell makes them revel in highly scented powders, bath perfumes, strongly scented soaps, nail polishes, etc. Yet what to do? It seems hard that lovers of strong perfumes should be deprived of their pleasure in these, and it is equally hard that their using them should be the means of so much physical distress and danger to other women of more delicate olfactory sense.

Remove, drain on a cloth, and serve. Excellent with honey.

than once—that is, if the hostess has anything to say about it, says an exchange.

The list of the "one-visit guests" is a rather long one. Who are some of the people that make it up?

To begin with there is the woman who, when paying a visit, thinks far more of her own comfort than that of her hostess. Selfish people are never pleasing companions. It is the unselfish person who is welcome as a guest.

There is the guest who is constantly disarranging the home schedule, because she has no idea of the passage of time. She is late for meals, she is never on hand promptly to keep an engagement, whether in the house or outside. One is unfortunately familiar with the guest who says that if she is not down to a meal, not to wait for her, a bite will answer when she comes down, and that in fact she never eats much of anything.

Then there is the guest who does not hesitate to betray confidences, she delights to tell what she has seen or heard while a member of some friend's family circle. She is the dangerous guest, and one will hesitate before offering her again the privileges of one's home.

Another guest—and she is one of the trying kinds—is the one who must follow strictly a diet in the matter of her eating. How often it happens that just the things she is permitted to eat are never served at just the right time or in the proper combinations. A woman of this sort should not make visits until she is able to

But, happily, as against such guests, there are numberless ones whose coming is a joy and whose going is a regret. Such are the considerate guests, the guests who realize that they have something to give as well as to receive, the thoughtful guests, the guests who take pleasure in identifying themselves as far as possible with the family life and who try to make that family life richer and the more enjoyable by their presence.

Good is an Orchard, the Saint saith,
To meditate on life and death.
With a cool well, a hive of bees,
A hermit's grot below the trees.

Good is an Orchard; very good,
Though one should wear no monkish hood.

Right good when spring awakes her flute,
And good in yellowing time of fruit:

Very good in the grass to lie
And see the network 'gainst the sky,
A living lace of blue and green
And boughs that let the gold between.

The bees are types of souls that dwell
With honey in a quiet cell.
The ripe fruit figures goldenly
The soul's perfection in God's eye.

Honey and fruit: A man might come
Fed on such meats to walk abroad,
And in his Orchard talk with God.

"A rush?" asked Billy in great surprise. "What do you mean?"
"Go," said the little man, "at once and do as I bid you."
Billy knew better than to wait. He went and cut two rushes and climbed onto one of them. But he was so disgusted and unbelieving that he did not notice how he got on. So when he started to ride, he was sitting to the side of the horse's tail, instead of toward his head. For you see, as soon as the rushes were cut the little man

Consequently, the nice, intelligent girl thinks domestic service beneath her, and it is only girls of a secondary order who preside over the average kitchen. Optimists, however, foresee glorious changes ahead. Housework, they say, is going to be dignified; it is to be treated scientifically, and mothers and daughters are going to take care of their own homes. Servants will rise in the standard of emulation, and the position of helper in the household will be eagerly sought for where the helper will be treated like a human being.

that the child will always look forward to its breakfast with pleasure.

For School Luncheon.

Every child in its first year should have a little lunch to eat during the morning session. Mother has had often to get a "piece" for her kiddies from the time they were old enough to play outdoors, and they will miss it when they go to school.

A little time and trouble devoted to the mid-session luncheon will send them to school proud and happy and bring them home satisfied and content.

A few graham wafers put together with some raisins and English walnuts chopped fine enough to make a paste is a delicious luncheon.

A bread and butter sandwich, with a sprinkling of maple sugar, well filled, but any kind of a sandwich can be given.

Two fruit cookies, an apple, an orange, a few salted peanuts, a banana, crackers, with cream cheese and jelly between them—any one of these may make enough luncheon for a child of six or seven. Some children like tomatoes and a little salt, and these are very healthful.

Don't make the mistake of sending too much lunch, but see that it is only dainty and appetizing.

For young children dinner should be served at noon and be given to them as soon as they come from school.

A perfectly proportioned dinner for young children would be a piece of stewed beef and gravy, baked potato, chopped raw cabbage, a cinnamon roll and a dish of stewed fruit.

Another good dinner is a slice of roast lamb or mutton with gravy and plain boiled potatoes, stewed tomatoes, watercress dressed with lemon juice, oil and salt and a plain custard or bread pudding.

For supper there is nothing better than bread and milk for children during their first year of school. If you wish one hot dish, prepare potatoes with milk and butter, make a dish of milk toast, give a soft-boiled or scrambled egg and occasionally serve a plate of hash, although this dish is better for dinner.

Remember that growing children must have sugar. So give them fruit, jellies, stewed fruit, maple syrup, honey, cookies and wholesome cake occasionally and let them make candy and fudge as a reward when they have been good.

Remember that the child's teeth are very important. Give them plenty of fresh fruit, and if it is of more importance than heat.

Do not let your children kiss other children in the public school nor try on their clothing or hats. Never let them eat fruit or candy that have been handled by others.

Teach your children to tell you all the things which happen while they are away from you. If you are diplomatic you can become their only confidant, and you can counteract any bad influence which every mother worries as much about as she does her baby girl to school.

Don't scold or ridicule your child for "stakes in judgment or even thought-

When Your Child Goes to School—What It Should Eat

[BY CAROLINE COE.]

It is quite necessary that the child's body shall be perfectly comfortable and adequately nourished to allow its mind to adjust itself to this great change, and it is the mother's duty to see to this.

Breakfast for the child in school should be hearty.

Many children are allowed to form the light breakfast habit, because it consists of food that is easiest to prepare and which lacks variety. But if your child has been up an hour and been bathed and dressed carefully it will probably be hungry.

Serve oatmeal, rice, cracked wheat, with fruit. Oatmeal can be bought in bulk, cooked ten minutes in a double boiler and then put into a fireless cooker the night before it is served. It can be eaten plain one morning and warmed up in the double boiler with stoned dates or raisins the next morning.

Rice is fine served with apple, peach or other stewed fruit. To cook rice use one cup of rice to three quarts of water that is boiling so hard that it bubbles. Boil 20 minutes and then drain. This is served with apple sauce and "top milk."

Dried peaches and apricots should be washed carefully, let soak in water over night, then boiled in the same water, add sugar only about five minutes before they are tender. Don't make your stewed fruit too sweet. You can teach your child to eat stewed fruit sweetened just as easily as you can form a liking for syrup with a fruit flavor.

In the early fall the fresh peaches, pears and other autumn fruit should be used as often as possible.

Serve eggs in all ways but do not serve meat unless it is a very small bit of broiled bacon, ham or chipped beef as a relish.

Of course, one cannot lay down hard and fast rules, but one can say: Always fruit, either fresh, or stewed, about half the time; cereals; eggs often; potatoes seldom; hot breads never. For drinks, milk or cocoa. These foods can be varied in such a manner

London Triumphed Over Ottawa Twice

Largest Crowd in History of Canadian League in This City Saw Two Great Games

The north end bleachers were just as full, while the grandstand was packed to the roof. The London club announced after the game that the total paid admissions were nearly 4,600. This is the biggest crowd that ever attended a Canadian League game in London.

HEINIE STEIGER'S WONDERFUL PITCHING BEAT SENATORS IN BOTH GAMES SATURDAY

London Southpaw Held Shaughnessy's Men Helpless and Only Allowed Them One Run in Sixteen Innings of Great Baseball.

"LEFTY" ROGERS BEATEN AT LAST; OVER FIVE THOUSAND FANS PRESENT

[BY JINX.]
If London wins this 1913 Canadian League pennant, the name of Heinie Steiger will become a household word in this city, and the former Portland southpaw will go down in Canadian League history as the only real "iron man" who ever pitched a ball in the circuit. Steiger gave one of the best pitching performances seen at Tecumseh Park in some moons when on Saturday he twice vanquished Frank Shaughnessy's "licorice-lights." For sixteen innings he stood out there on the mound and bombarded the Ottawa club with left-handed slants until they were foot sore and arm weary. For sixteen innings he held them the worst trimming they have experienced in the history of the game. He gave them only one run in the league since they had the audacity to nose London out of top place in the league scramble. For sixteen innings he held the Ottawa club to one lone run and eleven scattered hits, and five thousand London fans and fanettes yelled themselves hoarse in encouragement.

Two Very Different Games.
The score of the first game was 2 to 1 in favor of London, the locals waiting until the last three innings before they produced a pair of counters. The second game was a walkover, the score being 12 to 0 in seven innings. The two games were as different as day and night, and every inning being tense with excitement for the fans. The game was a walkover, the score being 12 to 0 in seven innings. The two games were as different as day and night, and every inning being tense with excitement for the fans.

Before starting to describe the playing of those two games, let us look back a week or so and discuss some of the things that this Heinie Steiger fellow has been doing for the London club lately. Just a week ago Saturday he pitched in Ottawa and held the Senators for twelve innings without a run, while "Lefty" Kubacki, who was knocked out of the box at Tecumseh Park Friday did the same thing to London. Steiger did not enter the box again until Saturday, when he had finished his day's work he had earned a name for himself greater than that which he gained by his wonderful performance in the Capital. To tell the three games, we find that Steiger pitched 23 innings against the Senators, and in all that time he was hit safely 23 times. Steiger was knocked out of the box as his first inning would be against Ottawa in this city on July 13. Since then he has beaten the Senators three times, one on their own diamond by 3 to 1, and tied them on Saturday.

Only Senator To Hit Steiger Easily.
On Saturday the Detroit had a slow cross-drive delivery that had the Senators completely puzzled. Such hitters as Rogers, Shaughnessy, Robertson, Dolan and Powers were unable to solve Steiger's slants at all as Artie Lane, the great little catcher, Lage had a big day with the bat, and it was his single that scored Rogers with the only run the Senators got off Steiger in 23 innings.

Rogers Scored the Only Run.
Opposed to Heinie in the initial contest was that much-touted "Lefty" Rogers. Shaughnessy depended upon him to clinch the pennant for Ottawa, and Rogers pitched a wonderful ball all through. In the second inning he scored the only Ottawa run of the day, and for a time it looked as if this tally would be sufficient for him to work on. A peculiar coincidence later developed when London evened the score in the seventh by Steiger scoring. Both pitchers got the first runs. And then it was Steiger who won the game in the ninth—but that is getting ahead of the story.

The Senators Nervousness Cost a Run.
It was Jack Smith's error in the second that paved the way for Ottawa's run. Smith was nervous, and as a result Rogers had grounders cut away from him. Dolan sacrificed Rogers to second, and Robertson's short fly that Reidy nearly got sent him to third. Lage scored him with a grounder that bounded over Dunlop's head for a single. The Senators did not get a run after that. That was their only chance to tally off Steiger during the rest of the afternoon. London had Rogers in tight places several times in the early frames, but it was not until the seventh that the locals broke into the run column. In this

A Bleat From The Bleachers

The Hon. Adam Beck pressed a button; the German lady bustled a perfectly good bottle of champagne, and both of these apparently trivial incidents started something. Adam, for example, started hydro on its dot-and-dash career. The German lady, on her part, did the christening stunt to the emperor. But when Heinie Steiger turned loose a hit in the ninth inning of the first game on Saturday afternoon, scoring Neale and winning his game, he set more things going than all the Adam Becks or German ladies in captivity could possibly be good for.

The gentleman on our right wanted to take a hand. Like Rachel crying for her children, he would not be comforted. He was all for taking fifteen closely-packed bleacher benches in one wild scoop and getting to the vortex of the human whirlpool, but in the manner of a sharp-witted conductor of a street car, we plugged him by anchoring ourselves to his coat-tail. Then we got up with five thousand other guys and became hoarse. In fact we were almost hoarse-de-combat by the time the game was over. We had been falling over the four-fours for the last three innings had scrounged their way over the field and started chafing a few heroes. High above the chafing and the cheering, and soaring over the heads of a couple of thousand rooters who made Tecumseh Park look like a charade, meaning the Black Sea, came a thin, piping voice calling for "Shag," by which it did not mean nice French-Canadian tobacco. No. Nor yet Irish twist, though the object of its appeal was Hibernian enough in name, and, at the moment, probably the possessor of as choice a mental twist as you could want to have. Poor Shaughnessy took his medicine well. He did not say any more than he had to. He did not say any more than he had to. He did not say any more than he had to.

Looked Like a Run.
The crowd now urged Steiger to make it a shut-out, but it looked as if Ottawa would score in the seventh. Rogers led off with a single, and Kone, batting for Donovan, also singled. Robertson and Lage fled out to Reidy, Cy making two nice catches. Smykal got an infield hit, second as put-out until Linneborn started back to first he might have decided as Linneborn was nearly home when Smykal put the ball on the London catcher.

Crowder a Good Shortstop.
Both teams played a great game at the field, Crowder playing a great game at shortstop. He made some magnificent running catches in the outfield, while Smith scored a nice catch of Shaughnessy's foul fly. Dunlop's hitting in the second game featured, the Cleveland-elect shortstop getting four hits and four runs in four times up. The umpiring was good, and the crowd certainly got its money's worth. The box scores give the doings in detail.

Impressions of an Old-Time Fan on Saturday's Double Victory

[BY AN OLD-TIME FAN.]
What would have been accounted extreme jubilation over the winning of an important baseball game twenty years ago, took up but little of the time of five important baseball games on Saturday afternoon when Steiger won for him. LONDON'S DOUBLE WIN SHOCKED OTTAWA FANS

Capital Crowd Thought Senators Would Grab One Game Anyway—Shaughnessy Offers No Excuses But Claims Rough Treatment by Local Fans.

[By Malcolm Bruce, Sporting Editor of The Ottawa Free Press.]
Ottawa, Aug. 31.—It was somewhat of a shock when London followed up their win of the first game on Saturday with a repeat in the second contest. Local fans counted on the Senators to win at least one game and settling the pennant. One of the two games from Peterboro tomorrow, and again the pennant will fly in the capital.

What Shaig Says.
Manager Shaughnessy had little to say over the three games in London. A decision of Umpire Davis in the second game and Renfer this afternoon. It is announced here that both Catcher Lage and first baseman Dolan, of the Ottawa team, have two drafts in on them from the American Association.

GIANTS GIVEN THE GAME ON A PECULIAR DECISION

Phillies Were Leading at Time, But Waving Hats of Fans Caused Umpire Brennan to Forfeit Game to New York.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—Umpire Brennan forfeited today's game between Philadelphia and New York to the latter in the ninth inning by the score of 9 to 0. At the time the home team was leading 8 to 0.
After McCormick, batting for Merkle in the ninth, had been retired, Manager McGraw complained to Umpire Brennan that spectators waving their straw hats in the centre field bleachers reflected light on the eyes of the batsman. Umpire Brennan, appealed to Captain Doolan, of the Philadelphia team, to have the spectators moved away from the centre field section. Doolan consulted Manager McGraw, who had previously been banished to the bench. Doolan said he could do nothing, and then the police were called on. None of the crowd which filled every part of the park, was on the playing field, but it was requested that those occupying seats directly in line with the pitcher and batsmen move to some other place. There was little space left, and the spectators, who had been there almost from the start of the game, would not budge.

Ricky Will Succeed Stovall As Boss of St. Louis Browns
Ban Johnson Arrives in St. Louis, and Talks With Management of Browns.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Louis, Aug. 31.—That Branch Rickey, scout and legal adviser of the Browns, will succeed Geo. Stovall as manager on Sept. 8, when the club departs on its last eastern trip was authoritatively reported today. Although the Browns' management would not confirm the report, it is generally understood that the change will be made. President Ban Johnson, of the American League, reached this city unannounced early yesterday morning and was closeted with President Hedges, of the Browns, the greater part of the day.
Johnson is known to have been unfriendly to Stovall ever since the umpire spitting episode.

FORFEITS POSTED.

Each put up $2,750, of which $2,500 was to guarantee appearance and $250 to insure that the fighter would weigh 135 pounds at noon on the day of the fight.

Cobb Tops Jackson On Either Set of Batting Figures

Unofficial figures all agree on Joe Jackson's record, but there is disparity of one hit in Cobb dove of the two leading statisticians of the country. The batting averages of the pair, including yesterday's games, make Cobb the leader, as follows:

	A. B.	R.	H.	Pct.
Cobb (Howe)	322	124	39130
Cobb (Moreland)	322	125	38819
Jackson	426	165	38752

It is supposed that the disagreement arises from the figures on some game played in Detroit, as told elsewhere. If the race continues at its present pace, official figures may be necessary to settle the argument. Cobb leads, on either dope, Friday.

Big Motorcycle Party Passes Through London on Long Run

Thirty Toronto Motorcyclists Accompanied By Four Autos Making the Trip.

One of the most notable motorcycle runs ever made in Canada took in London on its journey Sunday, when 30 members of the Toronto Motorcycle Club arrived in the city about noon.

The party was accompanied by four automobiles, the officials in which laid the route and charged up the penalties and scores. The run was under the auspices of the Canadian Motorcyclists, Incorporated, and the route was from Toronto to Goderich, via London, and return, a distance of about 400 miles. The average rate of speed was 18 miles an hour, and this had been maintained all through up to the arrival in London, despite a heavy rain encountered shortly after the run commenced at 2 o'clock Saturday.

Largest Club in America. The Toronto Motorcycle Club is the largest in America, having 550 members at the present time, which is more than double the membership of the next largest in Chicago.

There were no mishaps on the run. The night was spent at Brantford, and the return journey will be completed by Monday night. One lady is in the party and there are several side-carriages among the motorcyclists.

Close penalties are exacted, and a number of the riders had perfect scores when London was reached. The roads were excellent and every participant was delighted.

A repair car of the Dunlop Tire and Rubber Company accompanied the riders, and the officials cars were: H. Marshall's car—Marshall, timer; Johnston, judge; Mahaffy, judge; Bandfield, scorer.

R. M. Case's car—Case, Sutherland, and Stinson, control judges. W. J. Hynes' car—W. J. Hynes, judge; Driver, official; Frankland, scorer; Burke, examiner. W. W. Moade's car—McLean, starter; Moade, judge; Boyd, scorer; Young, examiner.

BOBBY AULD BLANKS LOUIS COOK'S LEAFS

Final Game of Season in Berlin Results in Victory for Dutchmen by Two to Nothing.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Berlin, Ont., Aug. 30.—The Dutchmen concluded the season here this afternoon by whitewashing the Maple Leafs by a score of 2 to 0. Auld, Berlin, and Fitzpatrick, for Guelph, engaged in a pretty pitchers' battle, in which the former carried off the honors with five hits. Auld allowed three scattered singles, struck out eleven Leafs, and issued two charities. Only one Leaf reached the third base. Fitzpatrick was found for four hits, three of which helped the locals to score. In the second McAvoy was passed, and sacrificed to second by Gelsie, and Beltz's single brought in the first run. In the fourth McAvoy was the first man up again, and hit for three bases, and Stroh's single did the needful. Fryer and Burns pulled down dangerous-looking hits. Manager White was made the recipient of a fine club bag by the team and some of his admirers.

No Other Way

BY GORDON HOLMES.

Author of "A Mysterious Disappearance," "The House of Silence," Etc.

She laughed again, little imagining how she was searching his brain for some plausible pretext to dispose of her for the night until he could plan and contrive a way out of the maze in which he was entangled.

"You forget that although we may still remain husband and wife, even in his dream he knew that she was hushing him and when he stole a look at her eyes they were shining like twin stars, 'we have been parted by the law. No, I don't mean that to hurt, for a tremor shook him; he was like a nervous horse that flinches under the gentlest touch, but I don't mean that I am at the house until some later day—soon. Mr. and Mrs. Norton have kindly provided for me. In half an hour, or less, I shall bid you good-night. Perhaps you and Bob will escort me through the wood. I can't now, and to avoid notice, but it is darker now, and if a rabbit popped up under my feet I might startle."

A menacing growl from the dog interfered with her rather breathless explanation. Another growl, louder and fiercer, caused them to turn and seek its cause. Then a man sprang upright near the corner of the boathouse, and they heard his startled cry.

"Call off your dog, Mr. Waverton! Call him off quick! I'll—"

Then Doris did scream, in no mock terror, and Waverton ran back hurriedly, leaving her standing alone on the path, with a whispering rustle of leaves not to move. "Heel, Bob!" he said sternly. "Heel, I say! Now, you rascal, come out and tell me why you are barking there!"

Joe Brett, by no means abashed, since he felt in his hand the handle of the dog, he discovered, approached Waverton. Then a man sprang upright near the corner of the boathouse, and they heard his startled cry.

"You lying hound, you followed Mrs. Waverton in the first instance! What was your object? Did you mean to rob her? But you shall explain to the sheriff. Walk straight to the house in front of me!"

"Sheriff! Walk to the house in front of me! I couldn't help listening! What else have I done, I'd like to know! Unless you come quietly I shall tie you to a post, and send my servants to drag you by the scruff of the neck!"

Brett edged nearer confidentially, and leered at Waverton.

"Now, look here, boss," he said, "you just listen to reason! At the worst I'm only trespassing, and that doesn't cut any ice here. But you go down about your lurking ruffian had any about me tell me every word Mrs. Waverton—"

In a cooler moment Waverton would have acted differently; but he was after a while with a turbulent emotion that neither his wife nor this lurking ruffian had any inkling of. So, without further ado, he struck Joe Brett hard and true between the eyes, a straight right-arm blow that stretched the eavesdropper like a log on the path. Instantly he regretted his action, and turned to reassure the frightened woman.

"There is only one way to argue with a prowling creature of this type," he began. Then he leaped forward to catch Doris before she fell, but he was too late, for she swayed and collapsed in a dead faint.

Humiliated Woman
Would Not Attend Social Functions Because of Her Hair.
There are many women in this world, handsome in features, perfect in form, graceful of movement and brilliant of mind, who keep in the background just because they have thin, colorless and lustreless hair.

warm heart; but he soon hugged the belief that his master was only feeling ill and wretched as the outcome of experiences overnight. Nevertheless, his first impression for the right one, for the letter that Waverton had written to his wife conveyed the most flagrant insult that he could inflict on the woman who had surrendered all that she held best and holiest for his sake. It read:

"Dear Doris— I was unwilling last night to blurt out a fact that must have altered the whole tone of your words. You were so excited and unreserved that I am sure you will credit me with displaying, at least, some regard for your feelings when I withheld the plain statement I make now, namely, that I intend to marry Mrs. Delamar at an early date. You know why I have positively refused to meet you since you gave me my freedom and obtained your own. In warning you against Doris, I was only trying to do you a good turn. Need I say more? Sincerely, S. S. I cannot do other than type this note. Would you mind burning it? Let its ashes mingle with those of any projects you may have formed as the outcome of last night's useless and painful scene."

Why it is the Best Range Procurable

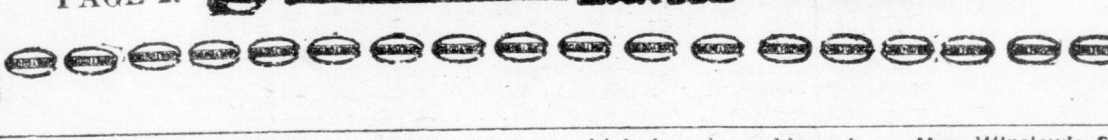

It stands to reason that the foundry of national reputation for its equipment of the most notable hotel, restaurant, and institutional kitchens throughout the Dominion, also makes the best range on the market for the home kitchen.

This Gurney-Oxford range is the result of over seventy years' experience and experimental study of improvements to benefit the woman who toils in the kitchen.

Even Bakings
By means of a Divided Flue Strip, the heat is divided evenly over the top and down the back and sides of the oven. A pan of biscuits in the front and back of the oven will brown with perfect evenness without having to change their places many times during the baking. The two back lids of the range also receive an equal cooking heat that will boil two kettles at the same time.

added much to the pleasure of all. Considerable damage was done in this vicinity by the severe storm of Thursday night. Trees were uprooted all over the district and the lightning struck in several places. At Mr. Colbourne Smith's place south of the village considerable damage was done by the wind to some outbuildings, which were unroofed. Many telephones were put out of working order. The sectionmen on the eastern section were called out in the night to remove a tree which had been blown across the track.

The teachers and members of the Presbyterian Sunday school desire to extend to Mr. J. C. McNeven their appreciation and thanks for his kindness in giving them the pleasant ride in his motorboat at the picnic.

MADE A GREAT HIT WITH THE LADIES.

Imperial Patterns Numerously Applied for at The Advertiser.

From early morning until late in the evening Saturday a constant stream of customers gravitated to the Embroidery Department of The Advertiser to secure one or more of the celebrated outfits of Imperial Patterns, which make embroidery transfers by a new process, an art that any girl may follow with profit and pleasure, in all the latest designs for the decoration of fabrics, lingerie, or any other articles that lend themselves to its application. Not only were young ladies in evidence as eager buyers, but young girls, old ladies and men of all ages. Hundreds of packets on Saturday's opening day were handed across the counter to satisfied purchasers who qualified by presenting six embroidery coupons clipped from The Advertiser, and 88 cents in cash for each Imperial Pattern Outfit.

As every woman knows that in the regular way an embroidery pattern never costs less than 10 cents, and often more, the enormous demand for the Imperial Outfit, which besides the largest assortment of designs, includes an all-metal patent spring hoop, and a booklet of instructions, will seem to her quite natural, and a foregone conclusion to be expected from an offer so unique and advantageous to every lady in the land.

Out-of-town patrons are required to add 10 cents to pay postage for the mailing of their packet, but this extra does not appear to affect the demand, as mail orders are pouring in by the hundreds, no doubt largely caused by the patent fact that the opportunity may never occur again by which over $10 worth of latest style embroidery patterns can be obtained for 68 cents.

TORONTO INCENDIARY IS WORKING OVERTIME

Big Four-Story Warehouse Was Burned on King Street.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Toronto, Aug. 31.—Thousands of exhibition visitors were treated to a pyrotechnic display while returning from the big fair between 11 o'clock and midnight Saturday night, when a large four-story building at 277 King street west, formerly occupied by the James Robertson Company and recently by the Adams Furniture Company, but only three days previously vacated, to be torn down to make way for the new C. P. R. freight sheds, was almost gutted.

That the blaze was the work of an incendiary, Sergt. Duncan, of No. 1 police station, is firmly convinced. No person with authority to be on the premises had been in the building. It is presumed that some destructively inclined person gained entrance by climbing the fire escape at the rear and entering a window on the second story. The bottom of the elevator shaft by lighting a bundle of excelsior packing, which was plentifully stored in the building. About a year ago there were three small fires in the same premises, and a woman apparently started the recent one by the Adams Furniture Company, but only three days previously vacated, to be torn down to make way for the new C. P. R. freight sheds, was almost gutted.

Another Plum for Mr. Samuel Price

[Special to The Advertiser.] Ottawa, Aug. 31.—Mr. Samuel Price, law partner of Hon. T. W. Crothers, has come in for another retainer from the Government. He has been appointed a commissioner to investigate reports on certain charges preferred some time ago against the immigration inspector at Bridgeburg, Ont., in regard to a dereliction of duty. Mr. Price, in addition to his work for the Government, has been engaged almost constantly by the present Government since it came into office. He prepared a revision and modification of the railway act for Hon. AUG. 29.—From all stations north of, but not including Macleod, to Sarnia Tunnel, via Stratford; all stations Toronto and north and east of Toronto to Kingston.

SEPT. 3.—From all stations Toronto and east, and east of Orillia and Scotia Junction.

SEPT. 5.—From all stations Toronto to North Bay, inclusive, and west thereof in Ontario.

Farm laborers' special trains will leave Toronto at 8:30 a.m. on Aug. 22, via Hamilton and London, and at 2 p.m. on Aug. 25 and Sept. 5 via Guelph, Berlin and Stratford. This is an exceptional chance to visit the west, which is truly called the land of "golden opportunities," and many prosperous farmers and businessmen now residing in Western Canada can trace the origin of their good fortune to a "farm laborers' excursion." The route via Chicago is an attractive one, many large cities and towns being passed, and the journey breaks the monotony of the journey, there being something new to see all the time. The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is the shortest and quickest route between Winnipeg-Saskatoon-Edmonton, with smooth roadbed, through the newest, most picturesque and most rapidly developing section of Western Canada. "And Now the Bell, the Old City Hall Bell, What Is to Become of It in Future?"

What is to become of the city's bell? It's not City Treasurer James S. Bell that the query is about, but the city hall bell, or the bell at the city hall that was—London's most pretentious replica of "Big Ben." The old city hall is deserted by the city officials, but up aloft the bell still keeps guardian watch over the building that sheltered London municipal activity since 1855. The old bell has rung out on election nights—pulled by sturdy friends of those who have won victory at the polls. It has rung out on festive occasions and time of alarms, and it has tolled out the death news of sovereigns and prominent citizens. It has been a wonderful example of the lights and shadows of human life.

The Old Bell Forgotten.

Now it is all that remains, save the actual building, to indicate the scene of London's municipal history, and enterprising friends of those who have won victory at the polls. It has rung out on festive occasions and time of alarms, and it has tolled out the death news of sovereigns and prominent citizens. It has been a wonderful example of the lights and shadows of human life.

No Place on Spencer Block.

There is hardly room for the bell on top of the Spencer block city hall, nor is there any way of putting it there without adding considerably to the cost of repairs that already are over $20,000. Therefore, it seems that till the new city hall is built there will be no fixed resting place for the bell that has seen London's changes and has helped mark its mournful tolling.

JUDGE LINDSEY DENIES CHARGES AGAINST HIM

Declares They Are Brought At the Instigation of Crooks.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Washington, Aug. 31.—A mass meeting of suffragists held here tonight was entered by the first public reply of Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of Denver, to charges recently made against him. The charges alleged misconduct of the Denver juvenile court, and were made in the columns of the Progressive Era, a city paper. Judge Lindsey tonight made the counter-charge that this league is only a paper organization of two persons, and is the tool of the same "political influence" which he has been fighting for years in Denver, and which he exposed in the "Beast and the Jungle."

Judge Lindsey declared that the Whitehead "Humane" Society has been his most violent opponent, because of the big crooks, who are the bosses behind the society to protect dive-keepers against whom Lindsey directed his main attack in attempting to diminish immorality among young girls.

"It will be shown," he said, speaking of a circular which will be issued in reply to these attacks, "that is some of the most notorious of these cases involving men of prominence of political influence. The Whitehead-Rates combination have done nothing to bring about their prosecution. They demand a very severe law, and then they winked at its enforcement. They came to the big crooks, those who had political influence, power or money."

Unknown Pole Had His Head Cut Off

[Special to The Advertiser.] Paris, Aug. 31.—Two Poles, standing a mile on a south-bound train on the C. P. R. this morning got off the train on a bridge about three miles northwest of here this morning, where the train stopped, and started ahead of the train to walk across the bridge. They were not noticed as the train moved ahead, and one of them jumped over the side of the bridge to the ground, where he was killed. The other tried to drop through the train struck him, completely severing the head from the body. The man who was killed was named, saying he had met him on the train, and did not know his name, only that he was a Pole.

CRITICIZE CARNEGIE

German Press Scores Steel Magnate's References to the Kaiser.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Berlin, Aug. 31.—Andrew Carnegie is being severely criticized by the German press for his reference to the Kaiser in his peace address at The Hague.

Nationalist papers find fault with Carnegie for claiming the Kaiser as an adherent of the pacifist cause, whereas he is a believer in big armaments. Other journals say Carnegie's language about the Emperor Carnegie was much too familiar, and advise him to leave the Kaiser out of his "masquerade."

MILLIONAIRE AND SISTER PLANNED DEATH PACT

Woman Is Dead and Wealthy Banker Is Still Unconscious.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—Coroner Neville, of Montgomery County, is probing the mysterious death of Miss Jane Jamison, of Radnor, who died at the Bryn Mawr Hospital late this afternoon of bichloride poison. Her brother, George Jamison, aged 62, a retired millionaire banker, is also at the hospital and is still unconscious. Every effort to suppress the facts in the mystery was made by the hospital authorities and by Dr. James Tyson, the emeritus professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, who is a relative of the Jamisons, and who was called in as soon as the dying banker and his sister were found.

So far the evidence of the servants would tend to show that the death of the sister of the banker and the millionaire's own condition was the result of a well-planned pact. All the servants were dispatched for the day, and yesterday they were told that Mr. and Mrs. Jamison intended to go to the seashore for a two-weeks' sojourn. These servants, who had not intended to go to church were asked to go, as the banker and his sister had said to some of their affairs before their departure from their estate.

It is believed that the suicide pact was entered into because of reduced circumstances, which allowed the banker to buy the servants in their beautiful Radnor home, whereas they have been accustomed to having at least six retainers.

RENAISSANCE OF AN OLD ART.

A Gentle Craft of Our Ancestors a Favorite of Today.

The revival of any fine art that threatens to lapse into desuetude is always welcome, and generally becomes a prevailing vogue for a considerable period. This is as it should be, as it tends to a rotation of the best of the beautiful articles of infinite variety. The present rage for doing embroidery is a commendable passion that is absorbing a great portion of the leisure of the mothers, wives and daughters of the land. It is indeed the renaissance of one of the refined and gentle crafts in which our great-grandmothers were singularly proficient.

The Advertiser is supplying its readers with a complete embroidery outfit which includes 160 different designs of the latest styles, an all-metal hoop on which to operate that fully teach how to make the 24 H. Matthews.

Miss Etta Hume has returned after a week's vacation with friends in Watford.

VALUABLE KNOWLEDGE.

The Mudlown ambulance class were being examined.

When a certain brainy yokel was asked to describe the circulation of the blood he promptly replied: "Well, the blood is pumped from the heart through the blood vessels of the leg and right to the bottom of the foot."

"Yes," said the examiner, "you're right as far as you go, but how does it return?"

The yokel hesitated a minute.

Then he replied: "Up the other leg."

DEBRIS WAS REMOVED PRIOR TO INSPECTION

Expert Has Been Asked To Report on Peterboro Accident.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Peterboro, Aug. 30.—Although the sum of $50 was voted by the city council last night to engage an expert to make a report on the cause of the Turnbull collapse, work is being carried on today to remove the debris from the fallen building. A good deal of criticism is being heard on the street, as it is thought important evidence may be removed from the scene before the expert has a chance to inspect the place.

Had Close Call. — Had the disaster at the Turnbull Company's store happened ten minutes later, John E. Belcher, architect for the building, would have been in the building that collapsed, as he was on his way there when the structure went down.

Mr. Belcher says he made an inspection of the building the night previous and found everything to his satisfaction. As he was leaving the building he asked the only bricklayer at work if he could think of anything that should be done, and the reply was "No." Mr. Belcher also says that he has no idea as to what caused the building to fall. He gave emphatic denial to the rumor that he had told Contractor Johnston that he would withhold his acceptance until the cause of the accident was determined.

LONDONERS ON CAR SEE AUTO GO INTO DITCH

E. J. Butler of St. Thomas and Five Others Have a Narrow Escape.

Turning from his steering wheel a moment to look at a passing London and Lake Erie Railway and Transportation car, E. J. Butler, a St. Thomas liquor merchant, on Sunday afternoon drove his seven-passenger touring car into a six-foot ditch near St. Thomas, turning it half over on its occupants—three women and two children, besides himself.

The accident occurred at 4 o'clock, where the sixth concession line of Yarmouth crosses the electric railway line. Passengers on the north-bound traction car saw the auto plunge into the ditch. The car immediately stopped, and the male passengers rushed to the car to render every assistance possible. It seemed impossible to get the car out of the ditch, and the passengers were seriously injured, but such was the case. One of the women was severely bruised and a sprained wrist and ankle. The others were more or less hurt. The passengers on the traction car were not injured. Mr. Butler, declaring that he would secure a team and have the wrecked car towed back to St. Thomas. A number of Londoners witnessed the accident.

PAYS HIS TRIBUTE TO ILLUSTRIOUS NOBODIES

Rev. H. D. Whitmore Impressed With the Worth of World's Nameless Heroes.

Rev. H. D. Whitmore, pastor of the First Congregational Church, preached a stirring sermon on Sunday night, full of thoughts on the nameless heroes, the illustrious nobodies of the fighting rank and file of life, whom he declared are always mentioned as "and others" in the press and in the book of life.

"They are never accorded the chair at public meetings; their names never go in the press of the country; yet there are thousands of men who are fighting in this world, but in heaven they are," said he. "We are proud to be able to take people through the beautiful streets of London and show them the wonderful churches with their stained glass windows and spires that point heavenward, but we never think of the plain glass that is transparent and lets in the light of day to an interior that would be dark without it. It is the same way with those undistinguished people whose names are not recorded in the things of this life; they are the very atmosphere, and are forever around us, and we are not aware of them. We breathe by their unrecorded acts of goodness."

THAW EXPECTS TO STAY IN JAIL UNTIL OCTOBER

Thinks Jerome in His Anxiety To Get Him Overshot the Mark.

Greatly Amused When American Paper Published Story That He Was Shot.

[Special to The Advertiser.]—Harry K. Thaw sneered at William Travers Jerome today, and declared that the acting deputy attorney-general of New York State had overshot the mark when he applied for a writ of habeas corpus to get him out of jail, and clearly showed his confidence that he would be kept in jail here until October.

The prisoner's lawyers also asserted that the writ of habeas corpus would fail to place their client in the hands of the immigration authorities, thus permitting his deportation to the United States, but nevertheless it is reported that agents of Thaw are setting "very busy" in Vermont, whither Thaw would be taken if from the failing commitment charge of him with being a fugitive from justice.

Greatly Amused. Thaw laughed heartily when informed that a Philadelphia paper had issued an extra today saying the police was reported to have been shot while trying to escape.

"I wonder what they are going to do to me next," he chuckled. Then he became serious, and went into the habeas corpus matter. "Jerome is reported to have applied for that writ," he said, "while he is in a wee bit crafty at times, but he leaped before he looked. According to the Canadian law, habeas corpus proceedings can be brought only by a prisoner, his lawyer or agents, or persons acting in his behalf."

A Foolish Move. "Chief of Police Bourdreaux, of Coaticook, is an agent of Jerome, and not mine. His petition for my release on the ground that he fears a suit for false imprisonment is foolish on the face of it."

"I think Justice Hutchinson will recognize that habeas corpus proceedings cannot be forced upon me."

When asked how long he expected to remain in jail here, Thaw replied: "Until October at least."

"What are you going to do then, as the grand jury will undoubtedly quash the illegal warrant on which you are held?"

"The time to cross a bridge is when one comes to it."

Likes New Clothes. The prisoner was garbed in his Sunday best today. This consisted of one of two new suits made by a local tailor. He said he was sorry that there was no Sunday service in the jail, but when Jailer Laforee offered to send for a clergyman, Thaw declined with thanks. Thousands of persons are flocking into town for the annual Sherbrooke Exhibition. As soon as they arrive they head for the jail, in a hope of catching a glimpse of the prisoner.

Three young women, apparently of refined families, went into the jail today and presented Thaw with a large bouquet of sweet peas. They did not leave their names.

Has Little Hope. Hector Varrault, chief counsel for New York State, admitted tonight that there was little hope of forcing Thaw out of Sherbrooke jail before October.

"Even if the judge should decide in our favor and order Thaw released, he would not be forced to leave his refuge immediately," said the lawyer.

"He can immediately file an appeal with the probate court of the county. Thaw would act as an automatic stay. The appeal would not come up before the court of reviews of appeals in Montreal until late in October."

May Try Other Plans. The attorney said that two other procedures were under consideration, these being the securing of a "nolle prosequi" order from Ottawa or Quebec, and the presentation of Thaw before Magistrate Dupuis, who committed Thaw, and is believed to have power to quash the faulty commitment. Jerome is reported to have gone to Ottawa to secure a "nolle prosequi" order, his effort at Quebec for the same thing having failed.

All of the attorneys on both sides scouted a report that Thaw would be seized in Justice Hutchinson's court by immigration authorities before he would have an opportunity to file an appeal.

Another Thaw Coup. The third legal coup of Harry K. Thaw's fight to escape return to Mattawan came tonight. Like the first, this was executed by lawyers for the prisoner.

Thaw's attorneys served formal demand upon John Bourdreaux, chief of Coaticook, that he withdraw his application for a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that he is an "intruder," with no standing under the law to make such application.

It was Bourdreaux who signed the application for a writ as a result of the efforts of William Travers Jerome. Bourdreaux alleged that he feared a suit for arrest, but this claim was knocked in the head by the Thaw lawyers, when they presented with their formal demand Thaw disclaiming all right of damage.

Spencer Block Snapshots

"Labor Day" will be a labor day indeed for the majority of the city and water commission officials. Their labor will be an endeavor to straighten out at least a corner of their offices in the new city hall.

Because of the unfinished state of the buildings, no city meetings will be held till next week. The council meeting scheduled for tomorrow evening goes over till a week from tonight.

The drafting-room of the water commission is smaller than the old one at the city hall. It will be large enough, however, it is expected.

Absence of the carpenters, who were taken from the city hall work to the fair grounds, has more than hampered the city engineer's department. Practically nothing toward straightening out the engineer's, or for that matter any of the offices, can be accomplished till the carpenters finish their work.

Paperhangers and painters are going to leave the city offices in charge for the next few weeks. The majority of the offices now look as if a cyclone had struck them.

The private telephone switchboard for the various hydro and waterworks departments has not yet been installed. It is expected that it will be several weeks before the board will be in position.

Assessment Commissioner Stephen Graham and his departmental employees were the first to get anything like settled. While there is much to be done to the office, the assessment department is in shape to do its usual work. The telephone in the city section was installed in this office.

Making a second window for the hydro sales department kept back the work in the water commission section. This section, however, is 100 per cent. in advance of the city's.

Extending Tender Limits. Because of the extra press of work on the city engineer's department, occasioned by the fair grounds fire, the time limit for steel superstructure tenders on the Wharncliffe road bridge has been ordered extended by City Engineer W. N. Ashplant. The original date for steel tenders to be in was Sept. 11. Inability to check up specifications in time was the reason of the postponement.

Philly Management Will Protest Forfeited Game

Say They Will Take It to National Commission or Civil Courts If Necessary—McGraw Says "Red" Dooin Pulled a "Bonehead."

[Special to The Advertiser.] Philadelphia, Aug. 31.—The directors of the Philadelphia Athletic League are taking steps to force, if possible, President Lynch to reverse the ruling of Umpire Brennan in forfeiting yesterday's Phillies-Giants game to the Giants, and to have the game credited as a win for the Phillies. The action is to be based upon the fact that there is nothing in the ruling by which Umpire Brennan could forfeit the game and that as five complete innings were played, and the score at the end of the eighth inning stood, Phillies 8, Giants 6, the game should be credited as a win by the Phillies. If President Lynch fails to reverse the ruling the matter will be taken to the National Commission, and if the high court of baseball fails to act it will be taken to the civil courts. At least that is what the directors say now.
