WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR THIS MONTH

Rev. I. Hick's Prognostica-

tions for August.

STORM PERIOD STARTS EARLY

Last Week Brings Conditions Fraugh With Violent to Dangerous

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, of St. Louis, advances the following prognostications as to the weather we will be favored with during the month of August:

Probabilities.

The last stage of a reactionary storm period will be disappearing in eastward sections on the first day of August. Higher barometer, change of rinds to westerly with fair and cooler weather will visit most parts of the country during the days immediately behind these reactionary disturbances. A regular Vulcan storm period be gins on the 4th, is central on the 6th, and extends to the 9th. The moon crosses the celestial equator on the 4th, being in perigee on the same day. Hence we may look for a rapid of temperature, with corresponding fall of the barometer on and touch ing that date. Cloudiness and general storm conditions will gather early in the period, and rain with wind and thunder will pass eastwardly across the country from the 4th to the 8th, In all probability a sharp rise of the on Chairman Greer and asked him why the change to fair and cooler weather close on their heels. The 11th and 12th are reactionary storm dates, and secondary series of disturbances will develop and pass eastwardly across the country or servative pull had been brought to of this period, or an early oncoming touching these days. Either the storms bear upon the commissioners with the result that they had thrown up their projected into the 14th, the day of the projected into the 14th, the day of the commissioners with the projected into the 14th, the commissioners with the 14th the projected into the 14th When reminded of the fact that a calculate, rather, that the effect of grand jury had recommended that the regular Vulcan storm period, ex Obernesser's license be not renewed, tending from the 15th to 19th, will be gin as early as the 14th and continue up to about the 19th. Rain, thunder and wind will visit many parts of the tably on and touching the 18th. Change to very much cooler will come in from the northwest on the heels of these disturbances, extending progressively over most parts of the country abou he 19th to 21st. The disturbances of this period and those at all the remaining August periods, are rendered that the an R. The last week in August brings a storm period which is fraught with violent to dangerous probabilities on all southern waters and coasts exposed to the ravages of West India hurricanes and cyclones. future clashes. We do not say that such storms must do that they will prove destructive out of the ordinary. But we do not hesitate of the ordinary. But we do not hesitate to say that such things are reasonably probable, and that all especially interested or exposed should keep the probabilities in mind, and watch all indications, such as great barometric depressions and other well-known precursors of equinoctial storms out of the far south. The The crisis of this period will fall within 24 hours of 6 o'clock a.m. on the 30th. Tidal waves, seismic and earthquake phe ena are almost a certainty in many parts of the globe not far from Wednesday, the 30th. If low barometer and heavy equinoctfal storms do not develop in the south at this time, an excessive period of genral warmth will prevail over most parts of the country up to about the last day of August, at which time violent storms and rains, wind and thunder will sweet over central to northern states, over the great lakes, much of Canada, and over the North Atlantic coasts and high seas Such results in these central to northern ections are quite probable, even if great storms do come up out of the southern Let it be borne in mind that the total eclipse of the sun falls on Wednesday, the 30th, and with a combination of other astronomic causes will be calculated to excite expectation and watchfulness. Along with the ante-storm conditions that are sure to follow the general storms, and other phenomena due the in August, very cool weather, with frosts to the northward may almost certainly

This statute was passed in 1845. To define "works of necessity" under this act opens up a broad field of contention. There are some modern industries in which, it is claimed, operations cannot be suspended for a day at a time. The question of amusements is left very much in doubt. The act places market. only "noisy" games under the ban. What about golf, lawn bowls, and other quiet pastimes? Again, the ex- to force other nations to open their ception in favor of carrying travelers might be held to legalize all manner trade has grown to such proportions failure in court cases. of Sunday excursions by land or water. Evidently, some more definite Sabbath legislation is required.

The Human Voice.

Few things give such pleasure as a correct enunciation and a musical popular education, and, in America at least, are wholly neglected by the mass of the people. In certain circles of society they have a mode of speech cultured English accent, by slurring the "r" and taking liberties with the "a." but it can never be mistaken for the real thing. We Canadians note the nasal twang of our American cousins. but the Canadian voice sounds thin and flat to English ears. Mr. James drew attention to some of the special offenses of the vox Americona, such as the smothered emission of the consonants, making speech "a mere helpless slobber of disconnected vowel noises," and the absence of purity in the vowel sounds, for the reason that consonants contribute to the drawing and modeling of the vowels, "r," he says, gets terribly little rest been played upon by a multitude of

He instances such words as "yeh-h' for "yes," "Cubar," "California-r," "Popper" and "Mommer." The letter among the masses of the population, The English, French and Italian voices which strike us as not neglected, have causes which have finally begotten a settled character, a certain ripeness finality and felicity. In partial excuse for the vox Americana, Mr. James points out, that no language has known any such ordeal, any such stress and strain, as was to await the English in America. It crossed the ocean, so to speak, to find itself transplanted to spaces it had never dreamed of covering, and to find itself grafted on a social and political order that was without precedent and incalculably expansive. The great idloms of Europe in general have grown up at home and in the family, but the English language in America was disjoined from all its associations and the influences that hac formed its genius. The double tariff system may be at tacked from opposite sides. The free trader believes that all tariffs are tory that the proposal to extend the tables, and butter and cheese making. principle by making three tariffs creates no uneasiness in industrial circles. The British preference has given British producers an advantage in the Canadian market as compared with their rivals, and in many lines has reduced prices to the extent of the difference between the general and preferential rates of duty. The minimum tariff implies a modification of a strictly protectionist system, hence Conservative newspapers, like the Montreal Gazette. are consistent in denouncing the British preference and its proposed amplification. The Gazette takes this fling at the preferential tariff:

"It was and is a disturbing factor in the industrial situation. There is little doubt that to its operation is due in large part the decline in the Canadian woolen industry; and there is no country in the world where woolen manufacturing should be a more staple industry than Canada. For this decline there has been no compensating industrial advantage. No door for our exports has been opened wider because of what Canada has done to the loss of its own capitalists and its wn work-people. Not a pound of cheese nor a bushel of wheat has been sold in Great Britthat would not have been sold there, and at as good prices, if Canadian woolen mills had had the continued benefit of the tariff under which they were built up. The British buyer, like every other buyer in a large way, buys where he gets the merchandise that best suits him. The talk about the preference caus-ing Englishmen to buy more freely of Canadian produce is the merest

The plea that the Canadian woolen manufacturers should be permitted to charge the Canadian people what they please is strictly logical from the Gazette's point of view, but there is no logic in saying that the larger purchases of British goods by this counthy have not improved our position in the British market. Great Britain imports foodstuffs and raw material and pays for them by export of manufactured goods. The extension of Great Britain's export trade, by increasing the purchasing power of the British people, must react favorably upon this country, which sends nearly all her surplus farm products to the British [Westminster Gazette.] The British workingman remains an extraordinary efficient workman, in spite of all that is said of his limitations. And if the people who write about him generalized less from certain aspects of working-class life in London and had more constantly in their minds the great centers of industrial England, there would be less of this vicarious abasement on his behalf.

The classes are held in the school houses, the term lasts six weeks, and the cost of tuition is put so low as practically to exclude no one.

Less Display.

The vulgarity of the display of diamonds and other gewgaws has become outrageous in England. Therefore the queen is frowning upon the barbarous display and is setting the example and the fashion by wearing studiously simple ornaments, such as a little brooch or small collar These modest ornaments shine conspicuously by contrast with the coronets, ropes, sunbursts, and "tararas." It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only, a woman full of sympathy for her sick sisters, and above all, a woman who has had more experience in treating female ills than any living person. Over one hundred thousand cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail, and this has been going on for twenty years, day after day. Surely women are wise in seeking advice from a woman of such experience, especially when it is absolutely Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as they have been. Mrs. Fred Seydel, of 412 North 54th Street, West Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:-"Over a year ago I wrote you a letter asking advice, as I had female ills and could not carry a child to maturity. LEATHER MARKETS.

TORONTO. Toronto, July 31.—Leather—There is a rather peculiar situation in the leather business in Canada at the present time, business in Canada at the present time, and in the past ten days prices have adquite 20 per cent. Quebec tanners notified the trade in Toronto on Saturday that they had canceled all quotations. There has been no formal meeting of the tanners' section of the Canada Board of Trade, but it is expected that the dealers here will have to make a new schedule of prices. The present situation has arisen, it is said, from the large purchases of hides and leather for the Japanses of hides and and in the past ten days prices have adchases of hides and leather for the Japan-ese Government in the United States. Hides come into Canada duty free, and the withdrawal of stock from the United States markets has affected the tanners

New York, Aug. 1. - Noon. - Commission business has again been in small volume, and speculation con-tinues to run in the industrials rather than in the railroad stocks. The principal feature is the strength of smelters, in which it is thought a recentlypool is operating, being as sured that the next dividend will be at the rate of 7 per cent. There was good buying of A. C. P., but a very large block of stock made its appearance at 5. checking the upward movement. The dvance in Sugar is attributed to a story that the company has a very arge cash surplus on hand. Union Pacific has been somewhat neglected, and it is inclined to be heavy. The weakness of Erie second preferred was thought to be caused by liquidation.

There is triple economy in using Strong's Baking Powder:

1. It costs less than other good

2. It goes about twice as far.
2. It gives uniformly good results.
The amount of money lost in one "spoiled" baking, through the use of impure powder, would pay the entire cost of Strong's Baking Powder for several months. This powder is always pure, fresh and full of strength, hence you can always depend upon it producing uniform results. Price, 26 a pound.

BELDAME AND ORT WELLS BEATEN BY STAUNCH OLD CAUGHNAWAGA

Saratoga, N. Y., July 31.—Staunch old Caughnawaga captured the feature event of the day, the Saratoga handicap, for her owner, John Sanford, in easy style, outfooting such cracks as Ortwells, Beldame and Knya. There was a gap of nearly a length between Caughnawaga and Waterlight as they passed the judges' stand. Waterlight beat Beldame by half a length, and these finished in a division by themselves. Knya, who finished fifth, closed at 4 to 1, the same price that ruled against Ortwells, who finished seventh.

After the breakaway Knya took the lead and held it to the second turn, where Wild Mint picked it up. Waterlight moved up on the far turn into second position. As they turned into the home stretch Caughnawaga came through the bunch and thereafter was not headed. The Saratoga handicap is one of the more recently inaugurated of the big handicaps of the year, being nist run in 1901. For the first year the distance was placed at 1½ miles, but was changed the following year to 1 3-16 miles. The course was again altered in 1903 to 11/4 miles, where it has since remained. The event is for 3-year-olds and over, and attracts the entries of high-class handicap horses. The winners of the race have been: Year. Winner. Jockey. Wt. Value Winner.
