M'KINLEY MEDIATES

Transmits Messages From Kruger and Steyn Asking for Peace.

THE GOOD OFFERS ARE DECLINED.

Nothing But Unconditional Surrender Will Be Considered.

MAFEKING IN SORE STRAITS.

Roberts Approaching Bloemfontein—Boers Using White Flags for a Ruse.

Skagway, March 19. — Newspapers have been received here up to and including the 15th inst. The leading features of all the papers are discussions as to the probability of the restoration of peace in the Transvaal and the terms upon which a cessation of hostilities will be brought about. The good offices of President McKinley have been sought by Presidents Kruger and Steyn in an endeavor to secure favorable terms from Great Britain. President McKinley consented to transmit the messages, but declined to accompany them with any comment or recommendation. He assured the British cabinet that the American government had no desire or intention to intervene in the matter and that the messages were transmitted entirely as a matter of courtesy. The good offices of the American government are tendered if desired. The British cabinet, after considering the proposals for peace, declined all offers of mediation. No proposition will be considered involving the retention of political independence on the part of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Nothing short of absolute and unconditional surrender will be considered.

To Enter Bloemfontein.

London, March 14, via Skagway, March 19. — Lord Roberts is evidently maintaining a most strict censorship over all his dispatches. No news of any importance has arrived for three days until this morning. At 5 a. m. the war office is in receipt of a dispatch from Roberts stating that preparations are all completed for the occupation of Bloemfontein, the capital of the Orange Free State. The Boers are retiring from the vicinity of the town in the direction of the Orange river. The railroad leading to Bloemfontein has been destroyed, but the dispatches do not say whether by the British or the Boers.

Boer Treachery.

London, March 14, via Skagway, March 19. — Lord Roberts has telegraphed both to Kruger and Steyn stating that on several occasions the Boers have displayed a white flag as a ruse, afterwards firing upon and killing a number of British soldiers, who ceased fighting and exposed themselves upon seeing the white flag. In the event this treachery continues Lord Roberts has issued orders that no further recognition shall be paid to white flags raised by the Boers under any circumstances.

In Desperate Condition.

London, March 14, via Skagway, March 19. — A report current for the past three days that Mafeeking has been relieved, is now denied and the garrison is said to have been reduced to desperate straits. The food supply is about exhausted and much sickness prevails.

War Scare Over.

London, March 14, via Skagway, March 19. — The Franco-British war scare is about over. The Paris papers are much more moderate in their language and the excitement is practically allayed.

For Alaskan Cable.

Washington, March 14, via Skagway, March 19. — Senator Addison J. Foster of Washington, has introduced a bill for the immediate appropriation of $200,000 with which to at once begin the work of laying a telegraph cable to Alaska. The line will connect with all coast and canal points as far north as Valdez at the mouth of the Copper river; running eastward from there to Fort Egbert (Eagle) on the Yukon, thence down the river to St. Michaels.

Bodies Reported Found.

Skagway, March 19. — A rumor is current here that the bodies of Clayson, Relfe and Olsen have been found near Minto.

(Inquiry here failed to confirm the above rumor, as up to 3 o'clock this afternoon nothing had been received from up the river regarding the matter. —ED.)

Won By an American.

London, Feb. 16. — Mr. Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, attended the annual meeting of the Royal Geological Society today to receive in behalf of Mr. Grove K. Gilbert, geologist of the United States Geological Survey, the Wollaston medal annually awarded for the most important geological discoveries. This is the third time the honor has gone to the United States.

Mr. Grove Karl Gilbert, the geologist, was born in Rochester, N. Y., May 6th, 1843, and was for a time associated with Professor Henry A. Ward, the naturalist, in Rochester. In July, 1879, he became geologist to the United States Geological Survey. He has been a large contributor to technical journals, and is the author of several valuable reports.

Department of Mines.

Washington, Feb. 22. — A new cabinet officer, to be known as the secretary of mines and mining, is provided for in the bill favorably acted on today by the house committee on mines and mining. The bill creates an executive department, which shall have entire charge of affairs relating to mines, including geological surveys.

He proposed secretary of mines is to have the same rank and salary as other cabinet officers, and an assistant secretary.

Another mining measure favorably acted upon establishes mining experiment stations in each of the mining states, similar to agricultural experiment stations, and provides for the appointment of a government geologist at $3500 and an assayer at $2500, in the several mining states. These officers are to furnish assays, issue public bulletins and conduct explorations of mining regions.

New Partners Arrive.

Mr. W. C. Dawson, who for several years past has been chief bookkeeper and assistant manager of the Puget Sound Tugboat Co., arrived in the city yesterday, having made the trip afoot over the ice from Bennett. Mr. Dawson is a stockholder in the Yukon Iron Works of this city, and will assume charge of the business of that industry until the arrival of Manager W. J. Walters, who will not be here until after the opening of navigation. Mr. Dawson is a thorough business man and the many patrons of the Yukon Iron Works will find in him a pleasant and affable gentleman.

KRUGER IS FIRM

Says the Boers Will Fight to the Last Trench and the Bitter End.

WITHDRAWING NOW INTO TRANSVAAL

Roberts and His Army Occupy Bloemfontein.

MET WITH NO RESISTANCE.

Kruger Bitterly Disappointed That Offers of Peace Are Not Accepted By England.

London, March 14, 10 p. m., via Skagway, March 19, 4 p. m. — The war department officially announces that Roberts occupies Bloemfontein. The officials, on the approach of Roberts army, met him two miles outside the city and turned over the keys to all the public offices, and on entering the city the English troops were given a cordial welcome.

President Steyn and a majority of the burghers fled northward. The railroad is not injured and is being actively operated.

Kruger and Steyn are bitterly disappointed over the turn affairs have taken. Kruger cables from Pretoria via Berlin:

"The burghers will only cease fighting when they die. Our forces are yet in good order and we will return to our first line of defense and to our own soil, where we will fight to the death. The long Natal campaign is in our favor and the British will never reach Pretoria. The burghers, Steyn, Joubert and myself cheer the others. All are united here on earth and united we will die. God help us. —Kruger."

Council Meetings Should Be Public.

Probably at the next regular session of the Yukon council one of the members will introduce a motion to the effect that the general meetings of the board be open to the public and to the representatives of the press. The arguments which have always been advanced as reasons why the proceedings of the council should be secret are well known to most everyone. The powers and duties of the Yukon council are executive as well as legislative; and it is contended by those who approve of the present mode of procedure that these executive and legislative proceedings are so closely intermingled at each meeting as to render them impracticable of separation. The people have not the right to know of executive business, and because matters of such nature are considered at every council session, the public is excluded, and is not permitted to attend during the transaction of legislative affairs. Then again it has been asserted that the council room is not sufficiently large to accommodate the public and press representatives.

Perhaps it is quite true that executive business, while under consideration, is privileged, but when once concluded the public have the right to know of the ultimate determination. This class of proceedings, even in the Yukon, does not occupy so much time and attention as legislative matters. It seems strange, indeed, that the council is unable to arrange for the transaction of its legislative business, and afterwards, if privileged matters are to be considered, the members can resolve themselves into executive session. The present lack of accommodations is no reason why the public should be excluded.

It is not expected that more persons should be admitted, than the chamber could conveniently hold. Should the trial of some noted case attract too many spectators to the territorial court room, it would be right to deny admission to those who arrived after all the benches were occupied; and yet no lawyer, under such circumstances, would take the exception that his client was denied a public trial because the greater portion of the public was unable to gain entrance. It is contended by some that the newspapers of Dawson are unreasonably antagonistic to the present officials, and that, as a consequence, the proceedings of the council would be incorrectly reported. Such conduct on the part of the press would be more detrimental to it than to the members of the council; for people are very quick to distinguish between a trustworthy and an untrustworthy newspaper, and the existence of the latter is always of short duration. There is no valid excuse for excluding either the public or the press from the general meetings of the council.

A representative of the Daily Nugget ascertained the opinions of many of the prominent lawyers respecting public meetings of Yukon council, and all of them, who were interviewed, asserted that the ordinary sessions of the council should be public.

The following is Mr. Wade's opinion: "As the council is not only a legislative body, but an executive body as well, your question cannot be answered 'Yes or no.' No one ever heard of a suggestion that Mr. McKinley and his secretaries should do their executive work in public, or that reporters should be present to hear the deliberations of Sir Wilfred Laurier and his cabinet. As to the legislative functions of the council, there is no reason why they should not be exercised in public, and I do not believe any member of the council would have the slightest objection to such a proposition."

Mr. Clark, of Clark & Wilson, when questioned, replied: "The general sessions of the council should be public; and even under the present system in vogue, it is improper to withhold from the people the minutes of the meetings, or to conceal reports of proceedings which have been carried and passed into completed business."

Attorney Woodworth said: "I do not approve of the secrecy maintained regarding the usual proceedings of the council; and the censorship exercised over the reports of the legislative meetings, is anomalous in the history of Canadian governmental policies."

Mr. McDougal, of Belcourt & McDougal, expressed himself as follows: "The people are naturally interested in the proceedings of the council, and its ordinary sessions should be public. There should be no hesitancy in giving the full minutes for publication."

When privileged matters are under consideration, it is usual of course to debate such affairs in executive sessions; but I opine that the principal business of the local council is legislative, during the transaction of which anyone should be entitled to be present."

Mr. Ridley, of Pattullo & Ridley, said: "As a general rule the council meetings should be public. Occasionally circumstances might require that certain business be transacted secretly; but such exceptions are no excuse for making all the meetings private. The press should be given full reports of the minutes; for the people have the right to know what dispositions is made of the revenues."

Mr. Tabor, of Tabor & Hulme, said: "Certainly the meetings should be public; and even now it is not right to use the privileges of censorship in regard to the reports of business, which has been transacted."

Mr. Burritt, of Burritt & McKay, stated: "The general sessions should be open to anyone, who is inclined to attend. I fail to see the wisdom of withholding from the people full reports of the proceedings in council. It seems to me the members of the council should desire that their important measures be given the widest publicity."

Messrs. Gwillim, Arkman and Robertson asserted that the general council meetings should be public; and that reports of the transacted business should be given to the people

A TAME AFFAIR

Was the Ten-Round Glove Contest Last Saturday Night.

REFEREE SAID IT WAS A FAKE

And Declared All Bets to Be Null and Void.

COLORADO KID THE WINNER.

Black Prince Puts Up Very Poor Defense and at no Time Rushes the Fighting.

The much talked of 10-round go between Black Prince and the Colorado Kid was pulled off Saturday night at the Palace Grand. A packed house greeted the performance and an unusual amount of interest was manifested in the early part of the contest. Neither man was in good physical condition and a stiff punch from a strong man would have stopped either. Agee was suffering from a swollen hand when he entered the ring, having bruised his right in the Ford contest, but otherwise in his usual condition. Dick Case acted as second for Agee and it was largely due to his coaching that the decision was given in the favor of his man, as he continuously cautioned his man not to use his right, but get in left hooks. This advice was followed and these blows got him the decision. The Prince was seconded by Pat Maloy who, in condition will meet Case in a 10 round go at the Orpheum on the 29th. Jim Donaldson was chosen to referee the match and Curly Monroe timekeeper.

At the call of time both men came to the center of the ring, the Prince leading, but showing slow work and his reputed quickness of feet entirely lacking.

Agee soon set the pace, using his left to good advantage, although missing many openings. In this round Agee was knocked to the floor, complaining after the round that he had hurt his shoulder.

In the second round the Prince was forced to the ropes, both men doing slow work, enlivened only by a unearthly grunt from the Prince as he telephoned his intention of assault.

Agee did all the work in the third, rushing his adversary who soon showed marked signs of distress.

In the fourth Agee got in both left and rights to face and wind hurting his swollen right, but strong and confident. The fifth would have finished the match if Agee had taken advantage of the opening given him, as the Prince was evidently tired and dazed, and anchored to the rope with his right, while he held his left before him helplessly. Agee neglected the opportunity, time was called and the Prince took his corner.

The sixth brought both men to the center weak, Agee showing the greater strength and doing all the leading, rushing his man continually and forcing him to the wall, where the Prince stood helpless with both hands down, Agee moving away, to the astonishment of

GENERALLY APPROVED.

It will be noticed in the interviews published elsewhere in this issue that the position assumed by this paper with reference to allowing reporters to be present at the legislative sessions of the Yukon Council is generally approved by leading Canadian citizens of Dawson.

We are quite willing to concede that occasions will arise when executive sessions of the Council must be held, from which it is but right and proper that the press and public alike should be excluded. We do not believe that any objection would arise on the part of the newspapers if they were not allowed to be represented at such meetings. But for ordinary sessions, when the passage of ordinances and the transaction of other routine business is in progress, the press should by all means be admitted.

We are unable to see how the Council can fly in the face of public opinion in this matter. Just so long as it continues to hold its sessions behind closed doors and maintains its present censorship over the reports as given out by the clerk, just so long will it fail to receive the confidence of the public. Secrecy always begets suspicion, whether there be good ground for it or not.

In this particular instance we have not found a legitimate reason advanced in support of the position taken by the Council. The Council room is small, but we not believe that the public would insist upon admission, provided it should be generally known that full reports of all proceedings would appear in the newspapers. In justice to itself, the Council should throw open the doors of its session chamber and establish itself in the confidence of the community.

REPRESENTATION.

The sentiment of the people of the territory, regardless of nationality or political affiliations, is in favor of popular representation in the Yukon Council. As Commissioner Ogilvie stated in his interview, which appeared in Saturday's Nugget, "the Council, as at present constituted, is not responsible to the people of the community which it governs, but has to answer only to Ottawa.

From long and bitter experience, we are perfectly aware that Ottawa's interest in this country amounts to very little after the revenue question has been disposed of. The Yukon Territory is considered "good" for so many dollars of revenue each year, and so long as expectations are realized our statesmen at Ottawa are satisfied.

Naturally, the local Council seeks to please the powers by virtue of whose pleasure it has existence, rather than endeavor to meet the desires of the people of the territory. We don't attach any particular blame to the Council on this account. The councilmen are appointed to do certain things, and, if they consider the behests of the appointing power, they are merely following out the natural order of affairs.

What we should do is to avail ourselves of the means at hand to change the present conditions. The council should be responsible to the qualified electors of the territory, and not to Ottawa or, in fact, to any appointing power. They are a legislative body, and as such should derive their powers from the community directly affected by their legislative acts.

The right of electing two members, while of itself it will not necessarily alter the status of affairs, will yet be a step in the direction of attaining what must ultimately be granted us, viz.—a legislative assembly, with powers such as are exercised by the parliaments of the various provinces, and elected directly by popular vote.

In the absence of a whole loaf, however, the slice that is offered is far better than none at all. This first step will be the entering wedge which will in the end give us all we ask. The movement is right, and should be pushed to an early conclusion.

Every once in a while France works herself up into a state of national enthusiasm which requires the use of some safety valve in order that a national explosion may be prevented. That is what has happened recently, with the result that there is a popular demand for war. It does not make so much difference where the war is carried on or whom it is with. War, "be-lady" war, is what France craves, and demands that her appetite be satisfied. We apprehend that she will be given all the satisfaction she desires if by any chance serious results should follow the present excitement.

Kruger's desire for peace has come too late. The government is firm in its position that no terms other than those of unconditional surrender will be granted. The war has cost such a tremendous sacrifice of lives and money that it will take all the wealth that can be realized from the Transvaal for many years to come to compensate for the expenditures. The Boers, however, have put up a fight which will entitle them for all time to rank among the great war races of history.

The water supply question will become a matter of very serious importance in the near future. With the continuation of the present thaw, it is a question of a short time only until the Yukon water will not be suitable for general household uses. Colonel Word announces that he hopes to have his system in operation within a short time, and, should his plans be realized, further difficulty will be obviated.

Fire at Bennett.

The first disastrous fire to visit Bennett for several months raged on Wednesday morning. The roof of the palatial winter residence of the Hired Hand of the The Sun, on the corner of Front street and Malamute avenue, was discovered by an observing youth to be on fire, and he quickly sounded a large tocsin. (We don't know what a tocsin is, but the boy sounded it loud, anyhow.)

A general alarm was sent in. Hose companies Nos. 3 and 4 and the Putter hook and ladder brigade were on the scene in 58 seconds. At the time of the "fire laddies" arrival the fire fiend had burned through the mansard roof and had reached the art room devouring everything in its path.

One young man not being able to get water began to shovel snow through the roof on to the flames. In five minutes he had the drawing room and billiard room filled with it. It took two men a whole day to carry it out. As a snow-shoveller that young man could give a rotary snow plow cards and spades.

Many treasured works of art were destroyed—some of the old masters' masterpieces went fluey; one of Butcher

Burns' catchy calenders was a total loss. It is due to the energetic work of the "department" that the flames were subdued ere their thirsty tongues reached the wine cellar. This cellar contains many casks of the best vintage from the ancestral estates in la Belle France of M. Janne de Leo du Mar, the founder of this famous repository.

Mrs. Hired Hand lost several Worth gowns—and some gowns that weren't worth much. The Hand saved his last summer's sombrero and a red necktie. For their efficient work the fire boys have the thanks of Mr. and Mrs. Hired Hand, and were warmly complimented by our alert fire warden. —Bennett Sun.

An Explanation.

Dawson, Y. T., March, 19, 1900
To the Editor of the Daily Nugget.

Dear Sir: Will you kindly on behalf of the citizens' committee, allow me to make clear the status of the Palace Grand opera house in regard to the public mass meeting called for Friday evening next. The opera house has been placed at the disposal of the meeting free of charge. The down stairs portion of the building we consider large enough to accommodate all British subjects who will attend. The opera house company intend to continue the performance of their program immediately after the adjournment of the mass meeting. The British subjects will therefore be admitted to the ground floor free of charge, any others who may wish to attend the meeting and watch the proceedings, ladies or gentlemen, can do so by occupying the gallery or boxes, for which the management will charge usual admission, and the one admission will allow them to remain throughout both the mass meeting and opera house performance.

Hoping that this explanation will prevent any confusion or misunderstanding, I am yours truly

JOSEPH A. CLARK,
Secretary.

Pet Bears Re-Appear.

There are two cub bears which live in a small inclosure to the rear of the Green Tree saloon. Early in the month of last November the owner of the animals discontinued to feed them; and within a week after their daily ration had been stopped they entered an empty whisky barrel, which had been packed with straw, and remained in a state of hibernation until Saturday last. The animals have grown some during the winter and seem to be none the worse for their protracted sleep. Strange to say, they were not hungry for many hours after they made their reappearance. Indeed, they have only eaten once, and then their food consisted of bread and milk. They are quite lively, however, and have frequently climbed to the top of the pole which stands in the inclosure.

Rich Whitehorse Ore.

A. P. Benton has received a letter written at Whitehorse, February 23, stating that rich copper ore has been struck in a shaft being sunk on the Puebla claim, one of the big group owned by the British-America corporation. Particulars of the strike, says the Alaskan, have not been received, but it is known that before striking the copper the workers encountered peculiar iron nearly if not all the way down. The Puebla is considered the greatest ore body in the Whitehorse district.

Mr. Benton reports that the men who are running the tunnel in the Anaconda mine at Whitehorse, in which he is interested, have gotten in 87 feet, and for the last six feet have passed through rich gray boranite copper ore.

Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Thirty-five more residents of Dawson took "wings" and became members of Dawson Aerie, No. 50, Fraternal Order of Eagles, yesterday afternoon and last night, making 116 members initiated into the order within one week. Eaglesism, like chicken pox in a country school, is very contagious and it looks as though eligible men in Dawson is to have an attack of it. A most enjoyable social session was held after the close of business last night.

Song Service.

The Presbyterian church was packed last night by a large audience. A special song service had been arranged which gave a very pleasurable variation to the services. Included in the program were solos by Mrs. Davidson, Mrs. Thompson and Mr. Zimmerman. The Rev. Wright preached a sermon upon practical giving which had for its object the assistance of the ladies who are furnishing a ward in the Good Samaritan hospital. A goodly sum was realized for which the ladies express themselves as being very grateful.

MORE YUKON RAILWAYS.

The White Pass & Yukon Likely to Have Competition Soon.

One From Haines Mission and From Dyea and Another from Valdes To Fort Egbert.

[Special Correspondence.]

Skagway, Feb. 28.—There is a very large amount of railroad speculation, with the Klondike as its objective point, and there is little doubt that some of the projects will go through and be built.

There is still the same old talk of an all-Canadian route, but nothing really definite in this regard. British Columbia is strongly favoring an extension of her system north of Vancouver, and tacked to this is the proposition of a line from Port Simpson by way of Atlin to Bennett. But at the same time the provincial parliament is favorably considering two propositions for franchises to lines starting from Lynn canal. Henry Bratnober, representing the London Development Company, has secured franchises from Ottawa, British Columbia, and, it is said, the United States for a road over the Dalton trail from Haines to Selkirk. The prime object of this is to develop the enormous copper deposits of Rainy Hollow, just over the summit, which are owned by the same company.

The more direct competitor of the White Pass is the Lake Bennett Railway Company, which is to start from Skagway over the Chilkoot pass. A few days ago the bill for this was favorably reported upon by the railroad committee of the British Columbia parliament, but by a majority of one only, so I understand.

The remaining proposition is the military road the United States is going to build from Valdes to Fort Egbert. Captain W. R. Abercrombie, Second U. S. infantry, who has this in charge, was to leave Seattle with men and materials on Feb. 26th. There is an American railroad proposition behind this, with every amount of financial backing and political pull. The military telegraph line will also follow this route. As this is of more immediate interest to you than the other propositions I append a portion of Captain Abercrombie's report:

The total length of the road, which Capt. Abercrombie believes to be feasible for railroad construction, for pack horses is 93 miles; the total length of the road to be excavated is about 35 miles; total length of road to be cleared and grubbed, 67 miles, and cleared only 12 miles. Twenty-six bridges were constructed, exclusive of small culverts, with a total length of 856 feet. The largest bridge is 121 feet long. These bridges have 40 spans, the longest span of 40 feet being in the bridge over the China canyon. Two bridges have four spans each and three others have two spans each. Eighteen spans measure 25 feet or over. Nine log cribs were constructed, and 21,224 feet of logs were used in stringers and sills. These bridges have a width of nine feet.

The width of road in excavation varies from a five foot to a ten foot roadbed, the narrowest part being in Keystone canyon. The width of clearing and grubbing varies from 6 feet to 35 feet and verges about 25 feet. The narrowest part, viz., the six foot widths, is in the advance twelve miles and was made only of sufficient width to permit the passage of pack horses.

The comparative cost of construction of this route at prices common throughout the United States is given as follows:

Five thousand cubic yards solid rock at $1, $5000; 8000 cubic yards pick and shovel work at 25 cents, $2000; 600 cubic yards retaining wall at $3, $1800; 120 cubic yards bridge cribs at $2, $240; 856 feet (linear) bridging at $3, $2568; 5 miles rock ballast at $150, $750; 200 acres clearing and grubbing at $50, $10,000; total cost in United States, $25,108.

The average of this class of work along the coast region of Alaska is about 75 per cent greater than in the United States. Common laborers on the White Pass and Yukon railroad receive $3.50 per day. Along the Yukon river the prices paid during the season 1899 were: Common labor, 65c. per hour; skilled labor, $10 per day; foreman of party, $15 per day.

More Beef Arrives.

Fourteen tons of fresh beef reached the city Saturday evening, the property of "Cow" Miller, and a portion of the large lot which was killed and dressed at Selkirk after having been driven to that place from Skagway. Twenty five horses and 15 men were required to bring the meat down from Selkirk. Dawson has never been more liberally supplied with meat than at present, and several hundred quarters are yet to arrive.

Friday's Council Meeting.

An adjourned meeting of the council was held at 8 o'clock Friday evening. All the members were present.

The minutes of the meeting of the 15th inst. were read and approved.

A communication was presented from the Board of Health pointing out that the public latrines were out of repair. Moved by Mr. Perry, seconded by Mr. Clement.

Resolved, That $500 be voted to the Board of Health to put the latrines in order and to cover other expenses.

A second communication was received from the Board of Health calling attention to the very unsanitary water supply, and recommending that something be done immediately towards providing a better supply of water and recommending the sinking of wells. This communication was referred to the committee in connection with the granting of a water franchise.

The order of the day being read for the second reading of the bill respecting taxation:

The said bill was accordingly read a second time and referred to a committee of the whole council.

The council accordingly resolved itself into a committee of the whole and after some time spent therein, Mr. Justice Dugas, chairman of the committee, reported that the committee had made some progress and begged leave to sit again on Monday, the 19th inst., at 4 o'clock.

The council accordingly adjourned until Monday, the 19th inst., at 4 o'clock.

American Miners in Siberia.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—William Mitchell Bunker, of San Francisco, who since March last has been traveling in the interest of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, is now in Berlin, on his way to the United States. In the course of a talk upon his journey in the East and a close study of the trans Siberian railroad, as related to American trade he said:

"I found no ground for the fear that Siberia will become a serious competitor in the matter of wheat. The fact is that the wheat in Eastern Siberia is inferior. Even when grown from California seed it degenerates the first year. Everywhere along the Amoor I found at the landings piles of American flour. So far as lumber is concerned, despite the abundance of forests from Vladivostok to the Ural, the trees are small, and most of the lumber comes from Puget sound. Thus far the railway has benefited the United States more than all Europe combined, with the exception of Russia, as we are supplying rolling stock, lumber and flour, and the road will continue to benefit the United States more than Europe.

"The Americans there are well treated. Many of them are engaged in exploring for gold, particularly the sea shore deposits."

Telegraph Construction.

J. B. Charleson, superintendent of public works in the Yukon territory for the Dominion government, is in Skagway on his way to Atlin with a crew of line constructors.

Mr. Charleson announces that the Canadian Pacific railway is to erect a direct wire from Vancouver to Quesnelle. This is to get connection direct with the line to Dawson, and will obviate the necessity of relaying the message at Ashcroft.

The Dominion government will also, according to Mr. Charleson, extend its line from Dawson northward 50 miles to Cudahy, practically to the American boundary line, with the opening of Yukon navigation this year. This line will connect at Eagle with the great system of military telegraph lines the United States has just decided to build in Northern Alaska, and which will have as the three cardinal points in its circuit Valdez, Eagle and Nome.

Furthermore, the branch of 50 miles north from Dawson will give outlet to the world at large for that vast region north of Dawson, and which the American system will serve. Capt. Abercrombie has already been dispatched by the United States government to begin the Valdez-Eagle line.

"These lines," says Mr. Charleson, "will be among the greatest agencies in the development of this far northern country. I am glad to hear the United States is to build the Northern Alaska line. We were in a position ere this to extend to the American boundary beyond Dawson, but deferred. Now that the Americans are to build a system north of us we will find two reasons for going to the boundary. First to serve the north in a humane way, and second to get the business that will be made tributary to our system. Of course we shall also be tributary to the American line."—Skagway Alaskan.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

The temple of justice over which Magistrate Perry presides was crowded this morning and nearly every thing in the category from the violation of the fourth commandment down to dog theft, was on the docket for hearing.

These are days of wars and rumors of wars, but even the most visionary of our people never anticipated that Dawson would become the seat of African war. 'Tis true this is the adopted home of many of Ham's dusky descendants, as well as of many "copies" of that quadruped which always looks to the writer as though it blushes at the thought of its ancestry and has no part in the future of its race—the mule. Dawson has negroes and mules, but she is short on their associates, alligators, water-melons, hen roosts and cotton, "sah."

The first of these tropical products was represented in court this morning in the person of one John W. Miles, a gingerbread hued gentleman, who is well known to the pioneers of the Yukon, Mistah Miles having been here for, lo, these many years. His grievance this morning was that his cabin out in the "rhubarbs" of Dawson has been forebly broken open, entered and robbed of provisions, supplies, etc., to the value of $5 in the coin of the realm. He named as the despoiler of his cache a young man whose name is a household word in every city, town, village, hamlet and farmhouse between Desolation, Kansas and Moosehide—a young man of "strength"—Black Prince. A warrant was issued for the latter's arrest, and one of the principals in a late glove contest will be subjected to the humiliation of being forced to answer to a charge of stealing the ordinary necessities of life.

Campbell Hendricks, who conducts a store on Front street, swore to a complaint on which a warrant was issued for J. Allman, a neighbor merchant, whom the former accuses of wielding a broom with such force and violence as to cause the complainant's nose to gush forth bright red blood.

Jorden Andrews was up on the charge of stealing "one husky dog of the value of $150 from Chas. Swain; but as the prosecution was not prepared with its evidence, the case went over until this afternoon.

Daniel Griffiths and Bush, charged with violating the holy Sabbath by engaging in worldly pursuits on that day, namely: hauling wood, each asserted that they had been out on the river so long as to lose all reckoning of time, therefore, they did not know that yesterday was Sunday. The court expressed regret that general indications of the Lord's day were not sufficiently apparent in Dawson to have impressed them of the fact of its being Sunday and dismissed the case at costs.

A. J. Anderson, J. Johnson and J. T. Berry were all up charged with violating the Sabbath by hauling wood, and each made long pleas in extenuation of his guilt. Anderson went so far as to pick up the copy of the holy Bible, held and "Hobsoned" by all to whom the oath is administered, and asserted that it sanctioned Sunday work insofar as necessity and mercy go, and stoutly asserted that his work had been on the line of necessity. The men were each fined $5 and costs.

William Walker and three others instituted suit against the C. D. Co., for wages alleged to be due for jacking up several of that company's steamers from the ice.

On complaint of Lillian N. Gordon a warrant was issued for Henry Lawrence whom she charges with having failed to turn over $150 collected by him for her.

ED M'BETH IS SENTENCED

To a Term of One Year's Imprisonment.

Charles Hill, Accused of Murder, Pleads Not Guilty—Depositions of Motions in Territorial Court.

This morning, Charles Hill entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of murder. The prisoner is accused of shooting and killing his partner, John Blair, on January 28, 1900, at a fish camp situated about 50 miles from the mouth of Pelly river. The trial of the case has been fixed for April 3d.

Edward McBeth, who was convicted last Friday of stealing eight dogs from Andrew Hart, and selling them to the Canadian Development Company for $700, was sentenced this morning by Justice Dugas to 12 months' imprisonment at hard labor.

A number of decisions and motions of a civil nature were rendered and submitted this forenoon.

In McGowan vs. Hall, the application was dismissed with costs.

The injunction in Driscoll vs. Dawkins was dissolved, and the application to appoint a receiver refused.

In Schade vs. French the writ of injunction was continued till trial, and costs reserved.

In Merryman vs. McDonald, the court appointed Napoleon Huot to act as referee.

The motion in Sutherland vs. Butler was adjourned to Friday.

In King vs. Robertson, the hearing on the motion was continued to Friday.

In Ames Mercantile Company vs. Ryan and Hanlon, an application was made to strike out appearances of defendants and their statements of defense. Decision reserved.

The notice of motion for the appointment of a receiver in Dudden vs. Banks is to be withdrawn in order to enable Mr. Woodworth, the trustee, to receive present month's rent and to pay ground rent to Mr. Wright.

Grand Forks Items.

The mandate has gone forth from the police department ordering the streets, alleys and yards to be cleaned of all refuse, and the sanitary condition of the town will in consequence be much improved.

The unexpected warm weather has played havoc with the trails, and there is great scurrying among the mine owners to secure sluice lumber before the roads become impassable for loaded sleds.

The Magnet house, at 18 below on Bonanza, was the scene of a very delightful social event on Saturday evening. Quite a party of Snobomish county, Washington, boys with their wives and sweethearts, met on neutral ground and held a sort of reunion. There was not as large an attendance as had been expected on account of the bad condition of the trails. The hostess, Mrs. Rothweiler, prepared a sumptuous supper, with courses of every variety of sea food obtainable, clams being the dominant article. The liquid refreshments consisted of white wine, claret and champagne.

Have a "Chaw?"

Thirty-five thousand pounds of plug tobacco arrived on the steamer Tees en route from the Middle Sates to Dawson, and belongs to Louis Lewis, the original tobacco trader of the Klondike. The duty alone amounted to $10,000.—Sagway News.

A TAME AFFAIR.

everybody, as it was expected to see the Prince landed on and counted out. Instead of this he recovered and rushed Agee, landing heavily and making strong swings with left and right, getting in some heavy blows, which told plainly on the Kid.

It looked at the end of this round as though the Prince might regain his wind and finish the go a winner.

In the seventh both showed signs of distress, the Prince not doing any work and leaving himself open to severe punishment. In a clinch in this round the men were seen to talk to each other, this possibly being the reason prompting Donaldson in declaring all bets off. At the end of this round the referee came to the front of the stage and said:

"I have seen the Black Prince fight a number of times and I declare all bets off which were made on this match, as I do not think this is a square go. As far as the Colorado Kid is concerned, he is doing all the work. I never accepted as much as a cigar for refereeing a match in this territory, and I don't want to get mixed up in any match that I don't think is on the square."

Donaldson then went through the ropes and left the ring.

Cox, who got up the match then came on the stage and earnestly deprecated any collusion, if there was any, between the men, saying he had arranged with the men to give a square go and if there was anything out of the way he was not cognizant of it, and believed that the men were doing their best.

Cries of "let them finish it" brought back Donaldson again, who said if they wanted the match to continue he was acting as the servant of the onlookers, and as they evidently wanted him to continue the go he would comply with their wishes.

Time was called and the men came together with a rush, Agee landing with left hooks and throwing the Prince heavily to the floor. In the ninth Agee again did the leading and in a clinch the Prince fell to the floor with Agee dragged down on him. The tenth brought both men up weak with neither showing strength enough to do much damage.

At the end of the round Donaldson gave his decision in favor of the Colorado Kid.

A great deal of unfavorable comment was made by the crowd in reference to the match as they gained the impression that they were "jobbed," they inferring that the men were not trying to make the go a fast one. Their displeasure was manifested by loud hisses, particularly in the seventh round.

It is generally believed that the management of the affair knew nothing of any understanding between the men if there was any.

Immediately after the close of the entertainment Arizona Charley in behalf of Gussie Lamore, challenged the winner, Gussie essaying to make a speech from a box, but being somewhat incoherent owing to deep libations, could not be quite understood.

Preceding the 10 round go between the Colorado Kid and the Black Prince were two three round bouts, one between Wright and Smith, and the other between Cariboo and the Tellerode Kid, a brother of Agee, with Tidbald as referee.

His Mind Alright.

Mr. L. A. Harrison called at the Daily Nugget office Saturday and requested to be quoted as saying that he takes exception to a statement published in a local contemporary, to the effect that his mind is deranged. Mr. Harrison is physically and mentally sound.

Palace Grand Reopens.

Tonight will witness the reopening of the Palace Grand theater under entirely new management and with new people. The interior of the theater has been newly refitted and beautifully decorated and is now by far the most attractive resort in Dawson. Tonight will witness the first appearance in Dawson of the celebrated Irish comedian Ed Dolan, who recently completed a 27 weeks' engagement in San Francisco, and who is known all over America as a star in his line; also of Garnett, the great female slackwire performer whose equal has never been seen in the Yukon.

In addition to the new people, tonight will witness the reappearance of the many old favorites among whom will be seen and welcomed Mulligan and Linton, Conchita, Margett and Hull, Maddeleon, Jacqueline, May Mine, May Walker, Lucy Lovell, Eveline and others. Morris Leo, one of the most daring trapeze performers the world has ever known, will introduce several of his thrilling acts in midair.

Kid Kelly will have charge of the sporting portion of the business under the new regime which promises to be the most successful in the history of the house.

George Crowley, at the bar, is always ready for customers with the very best class obtainable of all kinds of refreshments, including the best cigars sold in Dawson.

Don't fail to see the new people and the old favorites at the reopening of the Palace Grand tonight.

Black Prince Acquitted.

In Police court items published elsewhere in this paper will be seen an account of a warrant having been issued for Black Prince on the charge of robbing the cabin of John W. Miles, sombre.

The Prince was brought into court this afternoon and proved his innocence of the charge and was consequently honorably discharged—receiving what he failed to get Saturday night, a favorable decision.

A Pretty Present.

The Good Samaritan hospital is in receipt of a very pretty gift. It is a beveled plate glass mirror, three and a half feet long and 18 inches high, set in a handsome gilt frame. It will adorn the female ward, which has recently been added to the hospital. The generous donors are Messrs. E. Slipper and John Karno.

Making Good Time.

In a telegram to her husband Mrs. Frank W. Clayton states that she reached Skagway Saturday, 16 days from Dawson. She left Skagway yesterday for Seattle. Mrs. Clayton will visit relations in Seattle and other coast points for a short time, after which it is her intention to go to Nome, returning to Dawson in the fall.

Weather Report.

The minimum temperature last night was 9 degrees above zero.

At 9 o'clock this morning the official instrument recorded 15 degrees above.

This noon, the thermometer registered 51 degrees above.

Klondike Royalties.

The board of trade of Dawson has reported in favor of a 2 per cent royalty on the net output of claims; instead of 10 per cent on the gross as at present. The miners of Dawson are extremely modest in their demands, or rather requests. Had they asked for the repeal of all royalty whatever they would have had the support of everyone acquainted with the Klondike, and of many of the most prominent government officials.

It is worse than the Atlin alien law for it falls, like the snow, upon subject and citizen alike. It is a tax upon every day's labor and upon every dollar expended, and in this way is directly retarding the population and the development of the country.

Before long, with the competition of Nome and other diggings in American territory, the Dominion government may not only be glad to dispense with the exacting of a royalty, but may also have to offer a bonus to people to invest their time and money in the Klondike.—Skagway Alaskan.
