CROWDED SCHOOLS

Is The Result of Short-Sighted Educational Policy In Dawson.

MORE ACCOMODATIONS ARE NEEDED

Miss McCrae and Her Assistants Doing Good Work.

SISTER'S SCHOOL A SUCCESS

Many Children Forced to Remain in Kindergarten Department Who Should Be Advanced.

Although the public school has been open but a short time and has twice been enlarged since its opening day, it is again over-crowded. The present attendance is too great for the rooms and the teachers employed, and besides this there are many children not in school who would be if there were room for them. Principal Miss McCrae has had much to contend with since she became principal of the school, because, to apply an apt phrase, the pupils, coming as they do from widely different parts, and representing the different systems of schools from pretty much all over the world, form a conglomerate mass, from which it naturally takes time to bring order and intelligent classification. This has been done, however, and today the school room presents a most orderly and business-like appearance.

Miss McCrae is proud of her school, and it can easily be seen that her heart is in the work. She has, she says, no difficulty in keeping order, and has reason to be proud of the advancement made by the school under her direction. In the room under her immediate supervision there are 45 pupils, and the daily rolls show an average attendance of 38. The principal explains this high average by saying that owing to the very crowded condition of the school all the names of pupils not actually attending have been stricken from the roll.

There are four grades, from four to eight, in this room, and one high school pupil. The youngest child in the room is 11 years of age, and the oldest 19. No two pupils in the school have ever attended the same school previous to coming here, but from the advancement made since the school was opened, and the orderly and quiet conduct of the children seen in the school-room this morning it seems evident that the council made no mistake when it appointed Miss McCrae principal. Down stairs in the primary department, Miss Keys also proves herself a very efficient and able teacher. The attendance there is also high, and the room equally crowded. There are 57 pupils enrolled, and the average attendance for the month is 43. The ages of the children range from 7 to 11.

Miss Keys has only been teaching the room about two weeks, but is well established and has the work thoroughly in hand. She, like her principal is well pleased with the behavior of her charges, and proud of the advancement they are making.

In the kindergarten school which is kept in a room at the rear of the Methodist church, there are 30 younger children, some of whom, however, are old enough and far enough advanced to be out of that department and in the primary, but unfortunately there is no room for them there, and for the present at least they must remain where they are.

This must continue to be the case till such time as the council can see its way to employing another teacher and furnishing another schoolroom.

The kindergarten presents a pleasant picture. The 30 bright young faces, all showing interest and pleasure in the work; the teacher, Miss Edwards, equally enthusiastic, and the general neat appearance of the well-lighted and cosy room, go to make a picture very agreeable.

The little schoolroom at the other end of town, which is taught by Sister Mary is also well filled and ably managed, the attendance being large in proportion to the room. It is not a public school, properly speaking, inasmuch as it does not come under the immediate control of the council, but receives a grant, and is otherwise maintained and conducted by the Sisters. It is, like the other schools, free.

Vote Only Once.

Owing to the fact that the Nugget's presidential election has assumed such proportions as to render it almost impossible to accommodate the vast throngs of American citizens at one polling station, additional ballot boxes have been provided and placed at the following places: Sam Bonfield's, the Northern Annex, Geo. Butler's, Pioneer and the Aurora No. 1 in Dawson; one at the Gold Hill hotel at the Forks and one at the mouth of Caribou on Dominion. At all these points tickets have been left with those in charge of the boxes and from whom they may be obtained by voters. Every American citizen who would be entitled to vote if on the outside, and only such, are entitled or expected to vote. No unsigned tickets will be counted.

The object of this contest is to poll the relative strength of the two presidential candidates in the Klondike and any crooked work on the part of anyone would serve to destroy all interest in it, and would be like cheating in a social game of cards. The central polling station, the Nugget office, is still open for the reception of votes, but those who desire to place their ballots in the down town boxes are at liberty to do so. All votes must be in by 6 o'clock on the evening of the 6th of November.

COMING AND GOING.

Mr. Thompson, of Bonanza creek, has a mule for which he is shy a name. Will his friends help him out of the difficulty by contributing some suggestions?

Tonight Riley and Swanson meet at the Orpheum in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match, best two out of three falls. Both men are confident of success and are in excellent form.

Notices are out to the members of the executive committee of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, calling on them to meet this evening at the residence of Dr. Brown, corner of Mission street, and Seventh avenue.

Freight is commencing to move to the creeks by means of dog teams. This morning a big load of household goods loaded upon two sleighs and drawn by six malamutes was seen going towards the Klondike bridge.

Since G. Vernon took charge of the Hotel Flannery that favorite hostelry has enjoyed an even greater patronage than ever. The miners from the creeks make it their rendezvous and many an interesting bit of information is picked up by the visitor there.

Upwards of 175 Americans have exercised the voting privilege in the Nugget's presidential contest at Chisholm's Aurora since 7 o'clock last night. Chief Pilot Andy McKenzie and his gallant mates will see that there is no "funny work" perpetrated. Every American is entitled to one free and untrammeled vote.

Lee Guthrie Married.

The many Dawsonites who know Lee Guthrie, of Skagway, will be surprised to learn that on September 27th he was married to Miss Abbie Adkins at Temple, Texas. His bride is the daughter of a prominent Methodist minister. Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie are now visiting in New York, but will return to Skagway soon.

A Ten-Round Go.

The Colorado Kid and Frank Rafael are matched to appear in a fistic encounter in the near future. Rafael, it is understood, will endeavor to make the Kid quit within ten rounds.

It has not been as yet decided when the go will be given, as a large attendance is expected to witness the event and a suitable place is looked for to accommodate a large crowd. Probably one of the theaters will be engaged for the occasion.

Are To Be Constructed By The Yukon Council On The Different Creeks.

HUNKER, SULPHUR AND BONANZA

Creeks Are to be Given Immediate Attention.

THIS ACTION RECOMMENDED

By the Committee on Public Works—Other Business Transacted—Important Session.

A regular meeting of the Yukon council was held in the courthouse at 8 p. m., the commissioner presiding. Present, Messrs. Ogilvie, Girouard, Dugas, Senkler and Wood. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from the manager of the Yukon Sun, calling attention to a special illustrated number that was being published, and asking that the council order copies for circulation in Eastern Canada, England and the United States. Referred to the finance committee.

A communication was submitted from the comptroller with reference to the resolution of the council respecting the salary of the clerk of the council, stating that it would be necessary to pass a supplementary ordinance to provide for such increase. Referred to the finance committee.

A communication was submitted from the comptroller respecting the resolution of the council granting an increase of salary to the assistant license inspector, and pointing out that there was no appropriation for the payment of this, and that an ordinance should be passed to make provision for such payment. Referred to finance committee.

An account was submitted from Mr. Joseph McGillivray for assistance rendered in laying out and surveying a road from 60 below on Bonanza to Grand Forks, $167.50. Referred to finance committee.

A communication was submitted from the comptroller accompanied by accounts from A. Klemash for $30, British American Corporation $14.50, being accounts for goods supplied to passengers wrecked on the steamer Stratton; also an account for $6.50 for beef supplied to an indigent; also an account for Waterous steam fire engine, $566.5; and a freight bill of $642.40. Referred to finance committee.

A communication was submitted from Wade & Aikman, barristers, asking that the council take action towards removing a small building used by the Dawson City Water and Power Company, from the neighborhood of the Melbourne hotel, on account to its danger to the hotel premises, and inconvenience to the proprietors, their clients. No action.

A communication was submitted from Lewis Couture, of Hunker creek, asking for an expenditure of $250 to improve the trail around and in the neighborhood of the cliff on the Klondike river near the mouth of Hunker. Referred to the engineer of the Yukon council for report.

A petition was received from S. S. Mitchell and others, asking that a grant be made beginning the 1st of November, to cover the expenditure of a school building and teacher at Grand Forks. Referred to finance committee.

The committee on public works submitted the following report:

The committee of public works met in the commissioner's office at 4 p. m., Oct. 24, Mr. Justice Dugas, presiding. Present, Messrs. Ogilvie, Dugas and Senkler.

In reference to the petition of property owners on Harper street for the opening up of that street, the committee recommend that this be done forthwith, and that Fifth ave. be also opened between Mission and Third street.

With reference to the petition of the mine owners on Eureka creek for the construction of a road to that creek, your committee recommend a favorable consideration of this petition as soon as information has been received as to the best route to follow in the construction of this road. Your committee therefore beg that action be deferred until an examination of the proposed route is made under the direction of the commissioner in council.

With reference to the petition for the consideration of a road down Sulphur creek, your committee recommend that the engineer of the Yukon council be sent immediately to make an inspection of the ground over which the road is to be built, and recommend that action be deferred until his report is received.

With reference to the petition for a road on Hunker creek, your committee recommend that an inspection be also made of this creek by the engineer who shall report as to the location of the route.

Your committee further recommend that the engineer of the Yukon council be instructed to supervise generally the roads which have already been constructed, and to see that they are kept in good order; and that in the meantime as the matter is urgent, men be sent immediately to the road up Bonanza creek, and the Ridge road to see that they are in proper condition for traffic.

Moved by Mr. Senkler, seconded by Mr. Wood.

Resolved, That as it was a matter of great urgency, a telephone be placed in the residence of the crown prosecutor, and that the account for the same be submitted to the department of justice.

Moved by Mr. Justice Dugas, seconded by Mr. Wood.

Resolved, That the acting legal adviser be communicated with to ascertain what arrangements the legal adviser had made with him, with respect to payment for his services.

The commissioner begged leave to introduce an ordinance respecting vaccination. The same was accordingly introduced and read the first time.

The council then adjourned until Friday at 4 o'clock.

Leaking Roofs.

Owing to the fact that snow to the depth of several inches fell in Dawson this season before the ground was frozen to any extent, many gravel covered roofs are now leaking for the first time in their history, and many nicely papered cabins are being very much damaged in consequence. The only remedy that can be applied is to keep the snow cleared off until the gravel freezes.

A. E. Company's Hockey Club.

The members of the big force employed by the A. E. Co. have formed a hockey club and elected the following officers: L. R. Fulda, president; Mr. Baldwin, vice-president; Mr. Shephard, secretary and treasurer; Mr. Marsden, temporary captain. The colors adopted by the club are red, white and blue. The boys are not too modest to take a chance on winning the championship cup which will be contested for by the various clubs of the Dawson Hockey League.

Will Try Again.

C. M. Van Cleave, one of the pioneer Bonanza creek miners, is in the city arranging to have some heavy mining machinery hauled out as soon as the Klondike river freezes over. Mr. Van Cleave's experience as a layman has not been of an encouraging nature, but he is not yet discouraged. With his partner, Mr. Spencer, he has taken a lay on No. 1 above on Bonanza, where modern machinery will be placed and where Mr. Van Cleave is entitled to make up for all the bad luck he has had in all his previous life, for none are more deserving than he.

Sunday Night Drama

The Standard theater will produce next Sunday night a grand production of Washington Irving's beautiful legend of the Catskills "Rip Van Winkle."

Mr. Edwin R. Lang will appear again in the title role. To his clever work is due the reproduction of the piece, as many requests were sent to the management for a Sunday night's performance, thereby giving an opportunity to the ladies and children of Dawson to witness the drama.

The stage settings and mechanical effects will be particularly attractive. It will be well worth seeing.

WHERE THE DOUBT LIES.

There are probably more American voters in a quandry as to their political status at the present time than ever was the case before in the history of the great republic.

The lines on which the present campaign is being fought have brought up such a conflict of issues as to leave many men who swear by old party traditions, almost entirely at sea.

Old line Republicans who have been in the thick of the fight for that party ever since its organization at the time of the civil war have revolted from President McKinley's expansion policy and are supporting Bryan, though in almost every instance they protect themselves behind the saving clause that they are choosing the less of two evils.

On the other hand, staunch old Democrats who stuck by that party for years in its times of adversity are withdrawing their support from Bryan on account of that gentleman's well-known convictions on the financial question and are swallowing McKinley, protective tariff and all, frightened out of their wits from fear that the 16 to 1 apparition may after all become a stern reality.

In this condition lies the doubt as to the outcome of the election. The uncertain voter is a much bigger factor in the States right now than ever before. The desertions from the two sides may about equalize each other and then again the last few days of the campaign may witness an absolute landslide one way or the other.

From this distance and with the information at hand there seems little possibility of McKinley's defeat, but there will be no absolute certainty until the votes are in and counted.

A powerful argument in favor of ultimate independence for the Philippines appears in the October number of the Review of Reviews. The author who has spent several years in the Islands claims that fully 5,000,000 of the natives are sufficiently educated and civilized to be entrusted with the responsibility of self-government. He urges that the United States is bound to take immediate recognition of this fact and with the exception of the port of Manila, claims that the control of the Philippines should be turned over to the natives. Manila, the writer thinks, was fairly captured by the United States and should be permanently retained by that country as a strategic point. To accomplish what he maintains is the duty of the United States, he declares the elevation of Bryan to the presidency is absolutely necessary. The McKinley administration, he says, has so antagonized the natives that all overtures for peace coming from that quarter must of necessity prove unsuccessful. The article is one of the ablest expositions of the matter from the Philippine standpoint that we have yet seen.

The Nugget's presidential contest is assuming big proportions and indications now point to the polling of a much larger vote than was originally anticipated. To facilitate the work and secure as general an expression of opinion among Americans as possible, ballot boxes have been left at various places in the city and on the creeks, the ballots being in each instance in charge of a competent person who will personally have charge of the voting.

We call particular attention to the fact that each ballot must be signed by the voter and that no unsigned ballots will be counted. This provision is necessary in order to prevent repeating. We hope that every man in the Yukon who would vote if he were at home will send in a ballot before November 6.

It certainly is shameful that our recently elected statesmen must be delayed from taking their seats on the Yukon council by reason of the delay in the arrival of a few scattered ballot boxes. With the induction of the new members into office, material will be at hand to fill a long felt want in the local newspaper offices. There will then no longer be need of a "copy" famine, for the open council sessions ought to furnish good readable matter in quantities to suit. By all means, we say, strain a point or two if necessary and have the new council get down to business.

The governor-general of India has forbidden the Indian princes to leave their respective domains for Europe without first obtaining permission. The habit of making tours through the great capitals of Europe has grown so extensively among the Indian sub-rulers that it has become a considerable burden upon the public treasury. Hereafter they must show cause why they should not be kept at home.

Why He is for McKinley.

Editor Daily Nugget:
I have thus far watched in silence the progress of the political contest now being conducted by the Nugget, and for me it has a large amount of interest; but I have yet to see the first argument advanced against McKinley and the Republican party that is even worthy of consideration to the slightest extent. "Bryanite" talks of imperialism in the Republican ranks, while "For Light and Truth" in your issue of yesterday is so eminently Populistic as to be disgusting. One would think from his letter that gaunt famine is stalking hand in hand with starvation and pestilence all over the United States, when the writer, "For Light and Truth," knows very well, if he knows anything, which I very much doubt, that exactly the opposite is true. At no time since the surrender at Appomatox Courthouse has prosperity held such high sway all over the land o'er which waves the Stars and Stripes as during the past four years; and when it is considered that Grover Cleveland left the nation in as bad shape as it was possible for him to sink it, the prosperity of the past four years is nothing short of phenomenal. As a government wrecker Grover made a name for himself which will ever remain a stain on the pages of American history.

As for McKinley he will get my vote, not because he is McKinley, but for the simple reason that he stands for those grand old party principles for which I for one fought and bled 37 years ago, when the virgin soil of the Southern states was baptized with my blood which flowed from wounds inflicted upon me, not by friends of the government, consequently not by Republicans, but by enemies of the government, consequently by Democrats. This is only one of many just as good and just as strong reasons why I am for McKinley first, last and all the time. My only regret is that I am entitled to but one vote which that of any hair-brained "popocrat" in the Klondike will offset.

Letter Was Too Late.

If a letter which arrived at the Nome postoffice a few days ago from Nulato had reached F. R. McGuire and A. Pennycuik, the Canadian Mounted Police detectives, who left for Seattle by the Kimball last week, one of the Clayton murderers would probably have been landed ere this.

When the Seattle No. 2 from St. Michael arrived at Nulato on August 20 G. Bush, owner of a trading post at that point, was handed a letter by one of its passengers addressed to P. R. McGuire, Nome, Alaska. To show the importance of its prompt mailing the contents were made known to Mr. Bush, who arrived in Nome a day or two ago, and read the account of the officers' departure for the States in last week's Gold Digger.

To a Digger representative Mr. Bush stated that when the Seattle made the landing a nervous looking man applied for passage on the boat, offering to work his way as deckhand.

"His actions and looks were so peculiar as to attract the attention of several passengers, among whom was the writer of the letter, who immediately recognized him as a man he had met on the trail last spring, and whom he had good reasons to suspect was implicated in the Clayton affair.

"The contents of the letter were quite positive as to facts," said Mr. Bush. "The writer apparently was fully informed of the movements of the police and wrote such definite instructions that I believe he is connected with the Canadian government. The letter stated that the writer would follow the suspected man, and at Tanana station would invoke the aid of the United States officers in detaining him until the arrival of Pennycuik and McGuire. If this could not be accomplished he would report at all A. C. Co. posts any new developments in the case.

"The suspect landed at Nulato in a small boat with a party from the Koyukuk, he having joined them several hundred miles up that river, and he was heard to mention that he came over the trail in the spring.

"I mailed the letter a few days later on the Hannah, but when I read your account of the chase to Nome and out to Seattle I knew that the letter had reached here too late to effect the purpose it was written for."—Nome Gold Digger, Sept. 21.

MAGELLAN STRAIT PIRATES

Fuegan Indians Who Attack Ships With Firebrands.

Dark Brown Men With Mottled Hair and Huge Spears Who Never Spare Victims.

Mariners who have shunned the wild waters that meet at Cape Horn and sought a more peaceful passage from the coast to ocean through the Strait of Magellan for more than a year have been bringing to San Francisco wild tales of savage cutthroats and robbers. More like the yarns of the fore-castle than narratives of truth they have sounded.

Dark brown men, with matted hair, and armed with huge spears and knives; lights that flitted about in dark coves and on the face of the waters like the will-o'-the-wisp in the bog, have been the visions that vigilant lookouts have reported. Men disappearing from decks where they had been set to watch, and with them all that could attract a savage eye, have been phenomena of peaceful nights in the still waters under the shadow of the mountains that line the strait.

Mixed in with these tales, too, have been others of more dire import. A Chilean gunboat, armed with modern guns and bearing a modern searchlight, was mysteriously set afire there not more than a year ago, and all the members of her crew were slain. Some of the bodies found afterward bore evidence to the work of man in this catastrophe.

Booners and ships have disappeared in the years after leaving Sandy point, the strait, and after having been at anchor farther along under the hills, and partly burned hulks have been reported to indicate how they have met their fate. Even big steamships have narrowly escaped similar fortune, for burning brands have been thrown into the water while the crews were asleep, and when the men have rushed to fight the flames on another part of the ship and attacked them from behind and, besides loss of property, left death and wounds as a remembrance.

It is the Fuegan Indians who are responsible for these terrors of the only doorway to the east pending the construction of a Nicaragua canal. In the black mountains and valleys of Tierra del Fuego and on the islands that stretch along the west, cut up by scores of channels, they have lived as far back as the memory of the mariner extends. It was not so many years ago that they were still unacquainted with the white men and that the white men were unacquainted with them. In the olden times mariners would now and then see a canoe hurrying across some channel or catch a glimpse of a moving light on the waters at night, or an arrow would come aboard a small craft as a sign of hostility.

But the people were seldom seen except by those who might be shipwrecked on the islands, and they never lived to tell about their discoveries. Scientists went there to study the phenomena of nature and tried to learn about the denizens of the place. But they found they would best approach one of the tribesmen with a gun ready to shoot and keep a sentinel over their camps at night, at the same time being ready always to use a gun to aid in defense. They could get no information from the Indians.

Civilization, however, finally came to the tribesmen in one way. Some of the bolder ones found they could venture out to the ships that came through and could appeal to the generosity of the white men so effectively as to get food and trinkets of which they had never known before.

With their success others ventured, and now no ship can cast anchor in the coves west of Sandy point without being surrounded in daylight by canoes filled with disheveled brown warriors and their squaws, all crying out plaintively, "Yammer schooner!" It is a plea for bread or beads or money or anything else that could take the eye of an untutored man.

"Woe to the mariner who lets the wretched crew send representatives on board his ship, for when the night comes he will receive a visiting card in the shape of a firebrand that will show him his visitors have used their eyes well and have learned what is the most valuable part of his craft. And he never so generous he will find plenty of others added to his first visitor ready to clamber up the side of his vessel and add whatever is loose to the store of articles gained by gift.

It is in the cruelest of crafts that these pirates of the end of the nineteenth century ply their trade. Logs burned out in the fashion known to the Indian, whether he lives in Alaska or holds the last of land on the point of Cape Horn, bear the Fuegians through the water. They are ugly craft, but their crews can shoot them through the water and turn and twist with them as though they were made of lightest bark. In them can be borne five and ten warriors at a time, men clad in the scantiest of clothing, bare to the waist and showing muscular strength won from the struggle with nature for generation after generation in the forbidding hills of their native land.

In these rough barks is found perpetual fire. Rough stone panniers always contain beds of glowing coals, fed from hour to hour, covered at night and blown to flame in the morning. When the father hands the canoe to the son, the fire goes with it, and from generation to generation these fires have been kept alight until Tierra del Fuego has become known as "The Land of Fire."

The flames can be smothered when a deed is to be done in the dark, and ashes can protect the coals. But when signaling is to be done or secrecy is to be thrust aside, the light flashes out from these canoes until they become veritable fireflies of the water.

No other people would live where they do. There are settlements along the coast where ships can get coal and supplies and where whalers make their headquarters. But these are only outposts of commerce. None of the inhabitants care to venture into the country beyond, and the Fuegians hold undisputed sway in the valleys, covered with forest growth, and in the mountains, where hardy brush and trees vainly try to cover the ledges of rock.

The winding channel of the strait and sometimes the sea itself furnished them place for range for their craft of logs. How many of them there are no white man knows, but when the channel, leaving Sandy point, ends its southward course and turns to the northwest, they are found almost to the mountains that guard the entrance to the Pacific their canoe fires can be seen burning.—Ex.

Two Women's Husbands.

Mrs. Fuller and Mrs. Deming are neighbors and visit each other quite frequently, and Mrs. Fuller has noticed with surprise that Mrs. Deming's husband never scolds when he comes home and finds no supper ready. She asked Mrs. Deming about it and was told it was as easy as rolling off a log.

"You have only to use a little tact," she said. "Why, any man can be managed by a tactful wife."

Just then Deming came in, looking rather tired and cross, but his wife took his hat, whispered something in his ear and asked him if he was very hungry.

He said he didn't mind waiting, and at her suggestion he took his paper and went into the other room.

"There," whispered Mrs. Deming to her neighbor, "didn't I tell you it only required a little tact?" And she went about getting supper while Mrs. Fuller went home to try how tact would work on her husband.

She found him with a thunder cloud brow and at once began the new treatment.

"Please go into the parlor and read the paper while I hurry up the supper."

"Well, you have nerve! Do you suppose I can satisfy my appetite with news from China? I like that. A man might as well be a bachelor and done with it as have a wife who is forever gadding to the neighbors."

"I was over to Mrs. Deming's a few minutes, and Mr. Deming came home while I was there, and he wasn't a bit cross, and her supper is late too."

"Of course it is. Gossiping round and hindering each other, I wonder your ever get anything done."

Mrs. Fuller had tried tact, but it didn't seem to work. Her feelings were hurt, and her temper was rising. She concluded to take heroic measures and see what would happen. She took off the white apron she had pinned on and turned as only a woman can.

"George Augustus Fuller, if you want any supper tonight you can get it for yourself. I'm going home to eat and will stay there until you know how to treat me. You should have married a cook."

"Maria," piped Fuller feebly, "don't go."

"Then will you be more reasonable?"

"Why, of course. I was only bluffing."

They made it up and got supper together like two turtles. Mrs. Fuller thinks it takes different kinds of tact for different men, but she doesn't know yet what it was that Mrs. Deming whispered so sweetly to her husband. It was this:

"If you say one cross word while she is here, I'll tell how much money you lost on that last deal in wheat!"—Ex.

He Was Fresh.

"Have you any nice fresh eggs today?" asked the woman with business-like ways.

"Madam," answered the man, who has just started in the grocery business, "permit me to remind you that nice eggs are necessarily fresh and fresh eggs are always nice. Moreover, if I have any, I have them today. My possession of eggs yesterday or tomorrow does not in the slightest degree affect the situation. Therefore, time being precious to a business man, I will simply content myself with replying that I have nice eggs."—Ex.

Wrestling Match.

Next Friday night Riley and Swanson are matched to wrestle catch-as-catch-can at the Orpheum. Riley, it will be remembered, wrestled last winter with Krelling in one of the most exciting contests ever witnessed in Dawson. Swanson is thought to be the better man, however, but in any event a warm meeting is looked for.

PERSONALITIES.

John W. Hendrie, of Sound Beach, Conn., has given $5000 to the Masonic home at Wallingford, Conn.

The father of Sir Charles Tupper, the Canadian statesman, was a Baptist minister who at 65 years of age mastered eight different languages.

G. W. Brodbeck, of Kansas, says that he heard President McKinley make his first public speech at Massillon, Ohio, on July 4, just before the civil war.

It is recorded of Thomas Pigg, a postman at Tring, England, who has just retired on a pension, that in the course of 40 years of service he has walked 220,000 miles.

Senator Platt, of Connecticut, is a man of much influence and is an important factor in affairs at Washington. He is not, however, gifted as an orator. "I always hesitate to get on my feet in public," he says.

Senator Pettus, of Alabama, was one of the officers in the Confederate army who did not allow defeat at war to discourage them in civil life. At the conclusion of the rebellion he at once opened a law office at Selma, Ala.

Before starting on his vacation recently Judge Oliver H. Horton, of Chicago, sent to the bureau of charities 12,000 street car tickets and 1000 steamboat tickets to be used in giving poor children of the city a day's pleasure.

Senator Chandler's eyeglasses are always with him. It has been said that he sleeps in them, and it is known that he eats with them before his eyes. They are big, black rimmed glasses, with a black string that is hitched somewhere down in the senator's waistcoat.

Major Lothaire, the Belgian officer who executed the Englishman named Stokes in the Kongo Free State, has been dismissed from his position as manager of the Kongo Free State Trading Company. It is understood that that is the result of the charges brought against him of cruelty to the natives.

President Gary, of the Federal Steel Company, is to build a Methodist church at Wheaton, Ill., as a memorial to Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Gary, his father and mother, who for a lifetime resided in Wheaton and were closely identified with the religious life of that place. The building will cost between $50,000 and $75,000.

A portrait of the late Walter O. Gresham, secretary of state under President Cleveland, will have a place of honor in the galleries of the emperor of Japan. This is to be done as a tribute to Mr. Gresham's services in negotiating the treaty between the United States and Japan which was adopted during Cleveland's second term. Frank M. Peebles painted the portrait.

Wrecked Scows.

Where is the Emma Nott. Has she gone upon a lee shore somewhere between here and Ogilvie and cast her crew upon the uncertain mercies of their wheels? That would be a fate terrible to contemplate. A more cheerful way of looking at the matter would be to suppose that she is engaged in helping derelict scows off bars and out of ice locked blind sloughs. At all events, she passed Ogilvie long enough since to have been here before this, if not delayed.

A story comes from the vicinity of Five Fingers to the effect that a scow, navigated by a sour dough, and loaded with a job lot of automobiles, is hopelessly stranded upon a bar there.

Stories of marine disaster are coming from up stream thick and fast, and the scenes of the wrecks commence at the point of the island just above town, where a scow was wrecked the day before yesterday, and reach as far up the river as a point between Selwyn and Selkirk, where a heavy loss is reported as the result of the wreck of a scow a few days since. Both of the wrecked scows referred to were loaded with groceries.

Four scows arrived about noon today after having been tied up all last night at Klondike City. They were manned by a total crew of 14 men and narrowly escaped being carried on to Moosehide by the ice and current. The scows are loaded with miscellaneous freight consigned to the C. D. Co.

A scow passed Five Fingers yesterday moving early which is well manned and carefully guarded from finding its way upon a bar or into a blind slough, although its freight so tenderly cared for at present, must eventually go upon a bar and be lost. The scow in question is loaded with hootch, and it is safe to say, will arrive in good order.

The Klondike is still running clear of ice, and today the Yukon is freer of ice than at any time for several days past.

WERE PROBABLY DROWNED.

Archie League and Robert Williams Inquired For.

Last Seen in July When Leaving St. Michael for Nome in a Small Boat.

In the list of missing people of whom inquiry is made of the local police by their friends on the outside, there appeared in the list published in this paper yesterday the names of Archie League and Robert Williams, both of Minneapolis.

Some time in the latter part of August a member of the Nugget staff received a letter from Thomas Carroll, who left here for Nome on the second trip of the Hannah and who stated in his letter that League and Williams were supposed to have been drowned between St. Michael and Nome about the middle of July, possibly earlier, or it may have been later. The young men left here in June in a small boat and made the trip without incident to St. Michael at which place Carroll met them, and which place they left early one morning to sail across the open sea in their small boat to Nome. Carroll wrote that for several hours after the boys left there was a stiff fair breeze, but that early in the afternoon one of the heaviest gales of the season came on. Later Carroll went to Nome by steamer and he had been there three weeks when the letter referred to was written to the Nugget man, and at the time of writing League and Williams had not arrived at Nome, neither had anything been heard of them since they sailed out on the open sea from St. Michael. As a result of the storm of the day on which the boys started, a number of small boats were reported as having been later found in the vicinity of Norton bay, where they had washed ashore; a few bodies were also reported as having been found in the same locality at various times through the summer, but of those recognized none were reported as being that of either League or Williams. As they each had a number of friends in Dawson it is but natural to suppose that if they had reached Nome safely they would have been heard from long ere this.

Both the young men came here last fall from Skagway where League left his wife and where they had a comfortable little home. He was an actor, his chief talent being in the composition and rendition of comic songs.

Robert Williams was employed by the W. P. & Y. R. in the capacity of passenger train brakeman last year, but resigned his position to come to Dawson a year ago. Both were members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles and both were very popular with all who knew them.

Water Company Enjoined.

Edward McConnell, who owns the Melbourne hotel building and who, with his wife, occupies the rooms facing on Second avenue and looking directly out on the water house lately located there, is averse not only to the house occupying the position it does, but especially is he averse to having roaring fire kept in it. In other words, he does not believe in a warm storage water depot so close to his hotel building and immediately beneath the windows of his living apartments.

On Saturday Mr. McConnell caused an injunction to be served on the water company from putting fire in the building above mentioned. The document was served late in the day and a few hours later a fire was started in the water house. Mr. and Mrs. McConnell had gone out for a short time and when they returned to their rooms their bed was on fire and was practically destroyed, sparks, presumably from the water house chimney, having passed into the room through the open window.

Knowing that the injunction had been served, Mr. McConnell waxed very wroth on seeing his bed in flames, and hastened out to see why the restraining order was not enforced. It proved to be owing to the fact of an employee of the water company not being informed of the existence of the order. Since that time the stove in the house has been as cold as a Democrat's enthusiasm at a Prohibition meeting.

The injunction was argued yesterday afternoon before Judge Craig, Attorneys Wade & Aikman for McConnell, and Tabor & Hulme for the water company. The judge had not announced his decision this afternoon.

Commissioner Ogilvie and Councilmen Dugas and Girouard were observed sizing up the situation at the point in question this morning, but no expressions were heard from them regarding any disposition of the matter.

California Democrat.

Editor Daily Nugget:
It grieves me to read the writing of a person who claims to have the intelligence of the man signing himself "California Republican." No person can arrive at a conclusion regarding what he is trying to get at; whether he is trying to uphold the principles of Republicanism or the lack of them in Hannanism. Anyone with good horse sense knows that Hanna cannot buy all the people's votes; but he has the power to control a certain number of votes, and that is the abuse the American people have to submit to; that is where the rights of the people are trampled on. Hanna, trusts and the money power is the combination the masses have to fight; that is the mountain of infamy the American people are trying to climb and plant their banner upon, and uphold the true Democracy: Equal rights to all men and special privileges to none.

So far as casting a doubt on the integrity of an independent voter is concerned, the independent voter is the one above all who is endowed with good sense. He and his followers are the very ones that carry the balance of power. The independent voter is the very existence of both the great parties; far more so than a hide-bound Republican or hard-shell Democrat. So far as the present issue is concerned, all the issues before the American people are as much alive as they were in '96, and from the activity of the old parties they are resorting to all kinds of means to get another hold on the people. I will quote from a paper of September 23 that shows that Ringmaster Hanna is in close touch with all that is going on. It reads: "Despite the president's protests it is believed he will find a way to make at least a few speeches. The president has before changed his mind after a visit from his manager—in fact, instances are common in the history of the four years past. It is said that Hanna gave the president a scolding for pleading dignity and told him to get off his high horse. There is even talk that threats of punishment were employed. It is announced that the president's stay in Canton is indefinite, as he may be called to Washington at any moment, and Hanna says the campaign is becoming more heated all over the country. The senator says: "By next week the campaign will be lively enough for any one. No I am not making any claims, I leave that for the other fellow."

You can readily see that all of the issues of the campaign are alive, and it is nip and tuck between the parties, with Bryan in the lead.

The way money—the almighty dollar—is spoken of may be slanderous, but nevertheless, I am sorry to say it is true. With slight exception the American people in general use all means in the greed of gold, and the almighty dollar and money is king the world over. That is beyond dispute.

"California Republican" seems to think it manly to stand by his party, right or wrong. No, never! When a party becomes so corrupt and seeks to control all interests of the people by forming trusts and combination against the masses, it is time a man of nobility and patriotism should desert that party and leave it in its filth and mire.

Why should he throw his arm up and yell, "Away with this bogie imperialism and other issues." They are like Hamlet's ghost, he can't get away from them. And in justice to the independent or a Democratic voter, I will say vote for the benefit of the masses and not the classes. Vote for a true disciple of the people, who stands out for the masses and who has thrust a thorn in the side of trusts and centralization of wealth. Vote for a man who is a leader among men; who has endeared himself in the hearts of his people. Not a more noble or truer man ever walked than our Hon. W. J. Bryan.

CALIFORNIA DEMOCRAT.

J. S. Lancaster Missing.

Considerable anxiety has been felt by the friends of Mr. J. S. Lancaster, senior member of the firm of Lancaster & Calderhead, over the fact that he has not been heard from for a matter of about 60 days. Mr. R. W. Calderhead was seen by a Nugget representative this morning and stated that while the last word received from Mr. Lancaster was dated at Seattle on the 25th of August he feels no immediate alarm. Mr. Lancaster left Dawson on August 1 and went to Seattle, where he procured certain large shipments of goods for the firm all of which were sent in and received in first-class condition. "I have advices from Mr. Lancaster of August 25," said Mr. Calderhead, "stating that all of the firm's business in Seattle had been satisfactorily wound up and the arrival of all goods ordered assures me that such was the case. I am considerably surprised at his nonappearance in Dawson, it is true, but Mr. Lancaster being a man quick to make up his mind and having both money and leisure may have determined upon a trip east. I do not think that anything serious has happened to him, and shall not believe so until it has been clearly proven that such is the case. The only cause for alarm thus far is the fact that no letters have been received since the date mentioned. I hope, however, to hear from him in the mail now coming down the river."

A Lively Interest.

The Nugget's election at Bonfield's last night was the means of practically suspending business at the tables for almost an hour and until all Americans present had deposited their ballots. Both parties were strongly represented, but no matter how a man voted he was hooted by the opposition. Fully 700 ballots were voted last night at this one place, and not a few bets were made as to the result of the Klondike vote. The best of feeling prevailed and it is to be hoped it will continue to prevail. The honor of every American is trusted to by the management of the contest, as any attempt at "stuffing" will destroy all interest in the result. Vote, but only one time.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

Police court was somewhat rejuvenated this morning, there being two cases up for hearing.

Edward Williams had partaken of more whisky than is obtained in water for domestic purposes hauled in a whisky barrel, for he showed signs of harboring the dark, chestnut brown taste that is only cultivated by frequent libations of the real thing. He paid $10 and costs.

Annie Pestelles, the décollette attired female mentioned in yesterday's police court report, was present this morning and pleaded guilty to living an immoral life. She paid a fine of $5 and costs.

Impure Water.

It is reported that a number of purveyors of water in Dawson procure their supply from the eddy immediately in front of the city and that they are disposing of the same to private individuals for domestic purposes and claiming to procure it from the Klondike river. If this report is true, and a gentleman who came to the Nugget office this morning says he can prove that it is, the guilty parties should be brought up with a round turn, for the water in the eddy can be nothing else than the essence of filth, and its use will assuredly result in sickness and possibly death.

The party who registered the complaint at the Nugget office named a number of restaurants, mostly on Second avenue, which he said are using water from the eddy. This is a field for the operation of the health officer, and in the meantime each water consumer will do well to interrogate his carrier on his own hook.

A Business Proposition.

"I think it's mean," she sobbed. "You might give me the money I ask for. I don't think you care for me at all."

"My dear," said her close husband, "I care more for you than all the money in the world. You're worth your weight in gold, and"—
"Then why don't you give me credit for what I'm worth?"
