CHAPTER XVII.
A PUZZLING DISCOVERY.

"Kate, I hope you're not thinking of that will case? I have been through all the evidence I can find, and there isn't scrap to show that everything wasn't perfectly fair and square."

"Since you say so, Ken, I should be the last one to doubt it. Besides," she continued, with a little laugh, "we are still under somewhat of a cloud ourselves. Would you believe it, that good, pious Mr. Reynolds, when Mercia got home after poor father's death, actually read her a long sermon on commercial morality, and strongly advised her, for her own sake, and in view of her position as his daughter, to drop our acquaintance at once. They fought over it for a week, until at last she told him plainly that she would not give up her old friends for any one."

"Mercia is certainly not the sort of girl to stand that sort of thing, even from her father," said Kenneth; "and that's why she's down here. I suppose?"

"Not altogether, I think, Ken," replied his sister, looking at him with a smile on her lips and a laugh in her eyes. "Come, Ken, why don't you be sensible? Give up that foolish notion about not marrying till our father's name is cleared. It is cleared. There is not an honest man or woman in the world who would say that there is a spot on it after what has been done."

"You are quite right, my dear girl," answered Kenneth gravely. "But as for my marrying, there is plenty of time for that—when the right girl comes along life's highroad."

"You might find her among the byways and hedges," remarked Kate, thinking of Mercia.

"True. But I'm not yet ready to begin the search."

"At any rate," she continued, with a bright flush, "my scruples have vanished. Jack asked me for about the fifth time to marry him, and I allowed myself to be persuaded."

"I congratulate you heartily, Katie, dear," said Kenneth, taking her by the hands and giving her a fraternal kiss. "You will have a husband worth having. There's no better fellow on earth than John Ackersley. But please don't talk to me about matrimony. I have no intention of marrying."

"But are you quite serious, Ken?"

"Perfectly. I have almost given up any idea of that, since father died."

"Oh, Ken, I am so sorry. I always thought you and Mercia would marry, and only a couple of days ago Mr. Jarvis proposed to her, and she refused him. I know why, too. It is a terrible pity for her, poor girl."

"I am very sorry," replied Kenneth gently, "very sorry, if things are as you say; but I assure you that it is impossible that I could honorably and sincerely ask Mercia to marry me. It's a pity she could not reconsider her decision with regard to Jarvis. He's a brilliant man, rising fast; he would give her a far better position than I could. Besides, how could I marry the daughter of a man who still looks upon my father as a swindler? No, I'm afraid it would be out of the question, even if other circumstances were different."

"Well, as for Nevil Jarvis," she said, "I wouldn't marry him if he were made lord chancellor to-morrow, and I'm perfectly certain Mercia never will."

Then when he had left the room she continued to herself: "Now I think I know why I didn't like the beautiful Mrs. Ashley at first sight. She's a lovely creature, but there's something about her that only a woman could see—or feel, perhaps. I wonder whether there really is anything in that will case that Kenneth hasn't managed to find out. Suppose she fascinated him into marrying her, and then something terrible was found out against her, what a tragedy it would be!"

That evening, after dinner, just as Kenneth was going out for a lonely stroll and a smoke—in order to have a good think, as he tried to persuade himself, but all the time, there was a ring at the front doorbell. He was putting on a light overcoat in the hall, and so he opened the door.

"Why, bless my soul, Burnett! what on earth are you doing here? You've not come after any one here, I hope."

"Ah, good evening, Mr. Markham. Yes, sir, I have come for some one, and you're the man."

"And what have I done?" laughed Kenneth. "But come in, Burnett. I don't suppose you've come all this way just to say good evening. I have a private sitting room in this caravan-sary, and we can have a quiet smoke and talk over whatever it is."

He took off his overcoat, and led the way upstairs, followed by his visitor.

Mr. Edward Burnett was a man of medium height and somewhat spare figure, which nevertheless gave the idea of great physical strength. He wore his brown hair clipped short. His face was clean shaven, his features were regular and strong, especially in the mouth and chin, and his rather small, gray eyes were like a pair of gimlets. By profession he was a detective, and knew Scotland Yard could boast of no better man.

"Well, now, Burnett," said Kenneth, when they had sat down and got their cigars going, "what's the matter?"

"The matter is this, Mr. Markham," replied the detective, taking a long, official-looking envelope from his inside pocket: "Last night one of our men, an exceedingly smart fellow, was on duty at Finsbury Circus, and he had one of the greatest pieces of good luck that an officer could ask for. About two o'clock in the morning he saw a man walking fast toward Moor-gate. He thought he recognized some-thing about him, especially his walk. You know, of course, that a man who has done time never can walk again

Nature's Greatest Washers

The sea washes the world—Pears' Soap washes its inhabitants!

For over a century, Pears' has been making its way round the world. Ask for it in your local store; it is there! From the Cape to Cairo, in the bazaars of India, throughout Australia, Canada, the U.S., and South America Pears' has made its way with civilization,—on merits!

Pears' Soap is transparent because it is pure; it is the most economical soap because it wears but does not waste. It cleanses and purifies the skin and freshens up body and mind.

Pears'

is not heavily scented. Its delicate perfume comes from pure natural ingredients; the difference is important,—it means again that Pears' soap is pure.

Fashion Plates.

A PRETTY WAIST.

2987—This style is especially becoming to mature figures. As here illustrated, the vest, collar, cuff, and yoke is of fancy silk; the body portions are of duvetyne. One could combine taffeta and georgette, chiffon and crepe de chine, voile and embroidery, or net and lace, for this attractive model.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 34, 36, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 2 1/2 yards of 44 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or 1c. and 2c. stamps.

A GOOD STYLE FOR A SCHOOL DRESS.

3151—Pattern 3151 was used for this model. It is cut in 4 Sizes: 4, 6, 8, and 10 years, 8 yards of 56 inch material will be required for an 8 year size. As illustrated, brown serge was employed with black braid for decoration. The style is good for all wash fabrics as well as silk, velvet and cloth.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c. in silver or stamps.

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd., MONTREAL, CAN. Established 1780. DORCHESTER, MASS.

like a man who hasn't, so he flashed his lantern on him, and who should it be but our old friend, Tom Hurder. He'd only been out about a fortnight on ticket-of-leave, and so our man stopped him, and asked him what he was doing there at that time. It doesn't matter what sort of lie he told. So our man just took him to the station on suspicion, and had him searched, and this was what was found on him. There wasn't another thing, and it's queer sort of plunder for a burglar to go for, isn't it?"

While he was speaking, Kenneth took the papers out of the envelope; three of them were acceptances for two, three, and five hundred pounds respectively, and the other, a much larger and imposing-looking document, he found, to his utter amazement, to be a policy of underwriting executed by his father, and covering the whole group of companies whose failure had ruined him. He read it through twice, and looked for a good couple of minutes at the signature.

"This is a forgery!" he said quietly. "My father never executed such a document. He was absolutely opposed to the principle of underwriting. Where did this thing come from?"

"That's just what we should very much like to know, sir. Hurder won't split, and you know how obstinate he is."

"Then," said Kenneth, "as they could not possibly have been his, he must have been hired, presumably by the forger, to steal them from some one who was holding them for his own purposes. If that's so, it's a pretty case. Find me the principals in it, and I'll prosecute for you, and get them seven years each. You know I never undertake a case unless I believe in its justice. Find out where Hurder got these things, and the person who bribed him to steal them, and I shall be ready to accept the brief."

When Mr. Walter Redman went to his private safe the next morning, to get some papers, relating to a particular shady case on which he was engaged, and found the acceptances and the policy gone, he was about the angriest and the most mystified man in London. Instinctively he felt that Ashley had taken his revenge and seized his freedom at the same time. But how? There was not a scratch on the safe, and there was not another scrap of paper or a penny of money gone.

"Well," he said to himself, between his teeth, as he shut the safe door, "that's about the toughest job Redman & Co. have tackled for a long time; but I'll catch you yet, Mr. Ashley, and when I do, God help you, for you'll want His help!"

CHAPTER XVII.
A FAVOR FROM A CLIENT.

Mr. Burnett declined Kenneth's invitation to stay the night, and hurried back to town by the last train, taking the documents with him.

It was still early, and as the clouds had cleared off, and the moon had risen clearly over the sea, Kenneth put on his overcoat again and went out for a walk, to see if he couldn't worry out in some way, just as he was accustomed to do, the extraordinary puzzle which Mr. Burnett had so unexpectedly placed before him.

He made his way toward the higher part of the promenade, pulling vigorously at his pipe, and thinking hard with all the strength of his highly trained intellect.

So completely was he engrossed in his subject that, when he had gone about a quarter of a mile, he had to pull up short, for he had almost run into a female figure, covered in a light gray, tailor-made dress, which resembled one he had seen somewhere before.

"I beg your pardon, madam, thousand times. I'm afraid I almost—Why, good heavens, Mrs. Ashley!"

"Mr. Markham!" she exclaimed, turning toward him, so that the moonlight fell on her face and shone in her eyes. "Dear me! I hope you won't be shocked at finding me out here alone at this time. The fact is, Aunt Gerty rather prides herself on her billious attacks, and she has quite a choice one to-night; and, as it was such a lovely night, and I wanted a walk so badly, I thought I'd dispense with the conventionalities for once and come out alone, and here I am discovered before I've been out half an hour. I hope you won't tell."

"My dear Mrs. Ashley," he laughed, "don't you know the lawyer is bound by the most solemn bonds not to disclose the secrets of his clients?—so yours will be perfectly safe with me. And now suppose you turn and make your walk a little longer; it's really a sin to go in yet."

"But," she said, "if I do, I'm sure I shall not be doing you a kindness."

'Vote Snatching Campaign.'

Daily Mail Holds Lloyd George Responsible -- Politics the Cause of Strained Relations With France -- French Press Join in Attack on Prime Minister -- German Militarists to Blame, says Another Authority -- America a Passive Observer.

TWO ERRORS OF JUDGMENT.

LONDON, April 9. The London Times says that a crisis has been arisen in Anglo-French relations and that contrary to assurances given at differences of opinion between the Allies regarding the violation of a neutral zone by German troops are about to be composed by friendly understanding. It appears that the British Government yesterday took pains to emphasize their disagreement with the policy of France. The Times adds that in diplomatic circles a view is expressed that the action of France is wrong in form but right in substance. Independent diplomatic opinion, according to the Times is the effect that the German Government is in reality controlled by militarists. It is therefore held that France is justified in acting swiftly while the Allies were talking. In parliamentary quarters, says the Times, the opinion of Mr. Lloyd George is attributed to his alleged desire to influence the opinion in the Honorable Liberal Club as a struggle for pre-eminence in speaking between his supporters and those of Mr. Asquith. The Times regrets the French "error in judgment" in sending so many African troops to Frankfort, saying this will give the Germans a pretext for indignation, protests, but it thinks that otherwise the French action effected at good and "brought the Germans heel." The Daily Mail, in a similar vein, says the British people never permit British friendship and alliance with "France to be sacrificed to Mr. Lloyd George in a vote snatching campaign."

FRANCE "UP IN ARMS."

PARIS, April 9. Great Britain's attitude relative to the advance of French troops into German territory east of the Rhine as outlined in despatches from London, is being criticized here as a bit of a pill for France. It considered the action of Belgium in supporting the advance of France hardly compensates it. "Pertinax," the political editor of the Echo de Paris, writes an unusually savage article attacking Premier Lloyd George, whom he calls "a mediocre." He says in conclusion, "Mr. Lloyd George never has forgiven the policy adopted by France since January of being independent within the continent. He has bided his time and now thinks it is now. We count on the other side of the Channel, and the deep friendship we have found with them, to bring the cabinet of the Downing Street Cabinet to the interpretation of the Anglo-French alliance from which we could never have departed. He has picked up and dropped every doctrine he could the Entente Cordiale under this rule. English people know how to force him and make exception in this case."

GERMAN MILITARISTS TO BLAME.

BERLIN, April 9. A member of the French military control commission in Berlin is quoted in the Zeitung Am Mittag as saying the French advance is in no wise to imperialistic or militarist impulses, but was brought about mainly through the reports of General Foch, head of the mission, who was to look behind the scenes and see what is going on there. This the author declared, is calculated to inspire the deepest distrust regarding the intentions of the German military leaders who more than ever feel themselves masters of the situation.

With growing concern he says, we observe a system of deliberate concealment on the part of German military officials. It is impossible to discover what quantity of arms of all kinds exist. The suspicion grows that leading German militarists are far from intending to disarm and if the scheme of so-called temporary but continuous arming of local guards materialises we must energetically object for such system means nothing else than secret militarisation of the German nation.

NOT INTENDED.

FRANKFORT, April 9. The assertion that there was no intention to fire a machine gun into the crowd here on Wednesday and that the incident was really a mishap, is made by a French officer who witnessed it. Fear on the part of the French soldiers that the crowd intended to rush the patrol in street led to the tragedy.

WILL RENDER ASSISTANCE.

BOSTON, April 9. The coastguard cutters Ossipee, from this district and Seminole on duty off the Newfoundland coast, were ordered last night to the assistance of the S. S. Mystery, reported disabled in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

ENQUIRING INTO UNAUTHORIZED STRIKES.

WASHINGTON, April 9. An investigation of the unauthorized strike of switchmen and other railroad employees was ordered to-day by the Senate.

AMERICANS MERELY LOOKING ON.

WASHINGTON, April 9. America's attitude toward any adjustment of the new situation created by the entry of French troops into the Ruhr district of Germany will continue to be more than that of an observer than an interested participant, from what can be learned in official circles here. It is known in the State Department was in communication with London and Italy as well as France up to the time the French army moved forward from the Mayence bridgehead, and there has been no indication here of any change in the position taken more than a week ago when the State Department announced this. The Government knew of no reason why German troops should not be sent into troubled districts if it were clearly understood they would be withdrawn once order was restored.

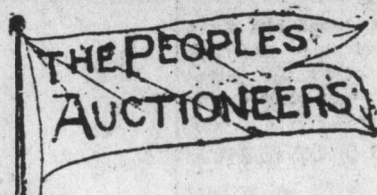

BIG COTTON GROWING PROPOSED.

LONDON, April 9. A large venture in cotton growing requiring capital of many millions of pounds, shortly is to be put before the Lancashire cotton interests, says a despatch to the London Times from Manchester. It is being framed as a co-operative enterprise of the whole of the cotton trade, not as a private undertaking. It will, the newspaper adds, in reality be a public tribute in which every organization in industry will have an interest. The field for the new trust's activities has not yet been settled. There is a likelihood that it will be Nigeria.

Concert at Mitchell's Brook.

A most enjoyable event took place at Mitchell's Brook, Salmonier, April 4th, when a very successful concert was given under the direction of Miss Keefe, teacher of that place, assisted by a number of young ladies and gentlemen. Much praise is due them as the concert was the best held on the North Side for some time. It was surprising to see such a performance, after such a short time of practice and the performers, one and all, are deserving of the heartiest congratulations. Long before the performance began the hall was packed, people coming from all over the settlement. After the concert there was a dainty supper served at the residence of Mr. James King, followed with a dance at the hall, which was kept up until the small hours of the morning. We must also thank the tableholders who so kindly assisted to make the entertainment such a success. —Com.

Pioneer Passenger and Freight Boat.

The Evolution of the Coastal Service.

(G. F. SHORTIS.)

Some time ago, by the merest accident, I came across an advertisement published in St. John's on April 14th, 1808, one hundred and twelve years ago and it is so unique that I now give it to the readers of the Telegram for their benefit, or rather for their amusement. Here it is:

PACKET BOAT

For Harbor Grace, Carbonear or any of the Out-Harbors.

The subscriber respectfully informs the public that he has provided a New Skiff that rows six oars for the purpose of conveying passengers, etc., to any of the Out-Harbors.

Persons desiring of obtaining quick passage thither may be accommodated at short notice by applying to,

MICHAEL DOOLY,
Resident of Portugal Cove,
April 14th, 1808.

I am somewhat puzzled as to how I shall try and unravel the above advertisement. In the first place it says that the boat was rowed by six oars, but not a word is said about her carrying any canvas, say, fore-sail, mainsail and two flies. Then again Mr. Dooly guarantees quick passages, etc., but how that can pan out I fail to see, although the New Skiff was provided with six oars. It may be that the oars were only used when head winds were encountered, or the blue waters rippled only slightly by the morning breeze, which caught the sunlight and sparkled over the wide expanse, or in a dead calm; but my word for it, I have seen many and many a day when the New Skiff dared not show her prow between the Point of Feather and the Island, much less make every port of call between Portugal Cove and the Out-Harbors. The advertisement does not specify where the limit to the Out-Harbors existed. Did they include the Northern and Western Out-Harbors, as now performed by the Prospero and Portia, as well as several other steamers, and did Mr. Dooly and his six stalwarts on their oars guarantee to land them in any portion of the Island with his famous racer—the New Skiff?

EARLY CONCEPTION BAY SERVICE.

However, I have a very hazy recollection of having heard the old folks tell about Mr. Dooly conveying something to do with freight and passengers between St. John's, via Portugal Cove and ports in Conception Bay. I should imagine that the New Skiff would not be patronized to any great extent, more especially by passengers in the month of April and the fall of the year, and many of them who risked the run must have often had wet jackets. I have no idea what became of the New Skiff and Mr. Dooly's six merry men, but I was acquainted with his daughter, who, for many years, was in charge of Toussaint's Hotel at Harbor Grace. As far as I can learn Mr. Dooly and his New Skiff were, at least officially, the pioneers in this branch of industry and enterprise, at least, in Conception Bay, and I do not suppose he was subsidized by a Government grant.

THE ADVENT OF THE SAILING PACKET.

Some years afterwards we had several schooners engaged in this important line of business, and they also brought mails and passengers to and from the outports and St. John's via Portugal Cove, and of course, this system was a great improvement upon the New Skiff, with her six oars and guaranteed quick passages. The names of those schooners were the Express, Capt. Drysdale, later Postmaster at Harbor Grace. He was succeeded by Capt. Archer, Bear's Cove, and Capt. Joseph Pynn. The Express ran between Harbor Grace and Portugal Cove. The St. Patrick, Capt. Edward Phelan, also ran between the above ports. The St. Patrick struck the east end of Bell Island, during a gale of Southerly wind and was lost with all hands. Capt. Phelan's son did everything possible to prevent his father from sailing, but could not move the determined old skipper, and thus found a watery grave. I did not remember the St. Patrick, but I was well acquainted with the Captain's sons and daughters and a handsome and intelligent family they were. The Nora Creina plied between Carbonear and Portugal Cove, and was in charge of Capt. Doyle, a rattling Irishman living in Carbonear. His descendants are still there, prominent and respected citizens. He afterwards had a schooner called the Native Lass, which was also engaged in the service. There was also the Rapid, built by the famous Curtis of Salmonier, (who by the way also built the Michael Anthony Fleming, called after the illustrious prelate the fourth Bishop of St. John's, and which plied for many years between Waterford, Ireland and St. John's. Many of the Irish youngsters came to our shores by the Michael Anthony Fleming.) Curtis built the Rapid under contract for the wealthy schooner owners and seal-killers of Brigus. She was in charge of Capt. Antle, a veteran skipper, and admitted to be one of the most seaworthy and practical seamen in the Island. There are many of his descendants in Conception Bay, and I think, in St. John's. Any letters brought to St. John's by either of the schooners were quickly delivered, and any letters from St. John's to Carbonear were left at Andy Quirk's, Water St., this city, and for Harbor Grace all letters were left at Fox and Hearn's. Capt. Phelan always made his headquarters at St. John's at old Mrs. Foley's on the Beach, where all letters, parcels, etc., would be left for him.

THE COMING OF STEAM.

And now comes a new era. On the advent of the steamer Ellen Gibson the schooners had to give way. The service was performed for a number of years by this steamer under command of old Capt. Joseph Pynn, a cousin of Sir Henry Pynn, knighted upon the field of battle during the Peninsular War, in the days of Napoleon. He was also appointed Governor of the Spanish city of Valencia. It became necessary to procure a more suitable steamer, and the merchants of Harbor Grace, placed the Lady LeMarchant on the Bay, with the promise that she was to make one trip round Capt. St. Francis to St. John's, every week. During the summer months the late venerable Mr. William Coughlan and his well-known coaches ran between St. John's and Portugal Cove, and during the winter months he made three trips overland (and sometimes over the ice in Conception Bay) between St. John's and Carbonear. The history of Mr. Coughlan's experiences would, if written up, fill a very respectable as well as a highly interesting volume. In fact his son, John, the present enterprising and trusted Courier of His Majesty's Mails in this city, can relate adventures and escapades during his own day, that would seem more like romance than reality, only that I know all about them. Mr. John Coughlan during his early days had many adventures and hair-breadth escapes while running mails and passengers to and from Conception Bay as well as Plover. He was always a great favorite with the famous seal-killers, merchants and general public of Brigus, amongst them Capt. As. Munson, Mack. Rabbits, Nathan Norman, etc., as well as the inhabitants along the sea. He is still hale and hearty, and as punctual and reliable as ever, and less may be said. There is one subject of interest in connection with the Coughlan family that should not be lost sight of, viz.—that during the entire course of his career, old Mr. Coughlan and his sons, conveyed many hundreds of thousands of pounds from the Ocean and other banks in St. John's to the merchants and others in Conception Bay, during the spring and fall of the year, and never was it known that the agents of the Banks asked him for a receipt of the valuable packages, and never was it known that either of them lost a five cent piece during their lengthy career.

At the time the Lady LeMarchant was employed, the steamship Lizzie was in course of construction in Nova Scotia, the late Mr. George Makinson having the contract to run the mails and passengers between the various ports in Conception Bay and St. John's. The Lizzie performed the service satisfactorily for about ten years, when she was superseded by the splendid and well-built steamship Lady Glover, which was specially built for the service in England, and came to the country under the command of the well-known master mariner, Capt. John Barry, a native of Tramore, County of Waterford, Ireland, and brother-in-law of the famous shipwright Mr. Peter Saunders of St. John's. After a comparatively few years the Lady Glover had to fall back before the shrill whistle of the locomotive in 1884. The extension of the railway North and South revolutionized the entire service. With one mighty bound the service that took six or eight weeks to perform is now performed in a couple of days.

THE 'LIZZIE' and 'LADY GLOVER'

Thus it will be seen that from a very small beginning, viz.—the guarantee of Mr. Dooly, of Portugal Cove, to provide suitable accommodation and quick passage for passengers and freight, the New Skiff being propelled by six oars, we have to-day, owing to the progressive policy of the great Liberal Government of Sir W. V. Whiteway, almost daily communication throughout the Island.

I may take up this subject again later on.

Annual Meeting Wesley A. B. C.

The annual meeting of Wesley Adult Bible Class was held on Thursday, April 8th, at 8 p.m. The President, Secretary, and Treasurer's report showed that the class is going ahead rapidly. Rev. W. B. Bugden, B.A., conducted the election of officers, which resulted as follows:—

MADAM LANDRY TELLS WHAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS DID FOR HER.

New Brunswick Lady Who Had Tried Other Medicines Claims She Found the remedy she was looking for in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. Leolin, N.B., April 9.—(Special)—Among the many women who claim they owe their health to Dodd's Kidney Pills, none is more enthusiastic than Madam Bruno D. Landry, a highly esteemed resident here. "It is with great pleasure that I recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills," Madam Landry says. "I was ill for a long time, and nothing I took relieved me. I read often of the good Dodd's Kidney Pills did for others, but I had not much faith in them. "At last, after having tried a lot of other medicines, I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. The result has brought me perfect health."

"If those who suffer from kidney disease will use Dodd's Kidney Pills, they will find them good and soon be convinced, as I have been, that they are the remedy for kidney diseases." Dodd's Kidney Pills are no faith cure. You don't have to believe in them to find in them the relief you are looking for. But if you ask your neighbors they will tell you out of their own experiences of the work Dodd's Kidney Pills have done.

A Lesson Well Learnt.

In one of the barrack-rooms in Aldershot a soldier, not having much time to dress for guard, had cleaned his boots very well in the front, but hardly at all behind. One of his chums, noticing this, said: "Why don't you clean the backs of your boots, Ben?" "Oh," said Ben, clapping on his helmet and hurrying out to the parade-ground, "a good soldier never looks behind."

In consequence the adjutant awarded Ben three extra parades, and a few days afterwards his chum, seeing a great difference in his boots, remarked: "I thought a good soldier never looked behind, Ben?" "No," said Ben, "but the blooming adjutant does."

The First Tea-Cups.

Even after tea was introduced into Europe, and had come into general use tea-cups were scarce. At the same time coffee was introduced, but apart from Constantinople the first coffee cups in Europe date back only as far as 1645 in Venice, 1660, in Paris, 1653, in London and 1694 in Leipzig. From the first, however, the conventional oriental coffee cup, without stem or handle, was little used. The Chinese tea-cup was used for the coffee, and thought as such.

most of possible were undoubtedly introduced into Europe in the Middle Ages, yet all the subsequent century were cups imported from China, in any great quantity, and even then it was the drink of the rich. Most of these found their way back to China again, as collecting porcelain is a hobby that there, and high prices are paid for good specimens. The collection of Chinese porcelain, if only the greatest specimens are desired, remains however a study and a pursuit, and the Chinese are still the best makers of such cups.

FADS AND FASHIONS.

Check leathers are preferred nowadays for day wear. Afternoon dresses are a little longer than usual. There is more and better trimming on clothing.

WHAT TO QUARREL ABOUT.

A woman who had managed to be happy though married for 12 years (they say that the first year the most precarious, and that after another danger period a long about the tenth year; so one who has safely passed the tenth year has a good right to speak with authority on the great problem) an interesting warning to a bride-to-be: "Of course you'll quarrel sooner or later," she began— "Oh, I hope we never will," said the bride-to-be. "I hate quarrels. I know we really are unusual in way we agree about things."

When You Want to Hurt. "Oh yes, you will, my dear, unless you are very different from most people," she said. "You never want to hurt anyone so much as the one you love best. Didn't you ever read Tennyson's 'For to be wroth with one we love doth work like madness in the brain'?" Well, that's one symptom of the madness—to want to hurt. And when you feel like that, it is no time to discuss past grievances. So Ted and I promised each other that we would try to settle each dispute on its merits and leave past grievances to be discussed when we weren't in an exasperated state of mind to begin with.

it brought the millenium all at once—it brought the millenium all at once—or ever. But it helped. And I don't think in married life there's any one cure—all for the inevitable friction. There are just a lot of little remedies that each help. The bride-to-be did not look entirely convinced that they would ever need such a remedy. I wonder if she will forget all about it before she comes to need it, or whether the seed has been planted and will take root and bear fruit when the right time comes.

Most Engaged Couples Are. "Most engaged couples are," said the 12 years married lady. "But let me put it this way. Make up your mind in advance that if by any chance you ever should quarrel, you will quarrel about one thing at a time." The bride-to-be opened her eyes wide. "What makes you think we'd quarrel about more than one thing at a time?"

Because people almost always quarrel about one thing at a time. "And that's what makes quarrels such devastating things. A quarrel starts over some little issue that you could settle without much rumpus even if you did disagree over it. But pretty soon you've dragged in some other grievance that's been rankling, and before you get through, you've thrown all sorts of recriminations at each other and probably forgotten what you started to quarrel about in the first place."

Dragging in Other Matters. "That's the way Ted and I found that we were doing. We tried to remember 'one day' after a quarrel had been the matter in the first place, and it was so buried under animinations and old grievances we couldn't either of us dig it out for some time. Then we realized it was only a little thing, and all our trouble had come from dragging in other things and discussing them when we were in such a state of mind that we wanted to start each other instead of to come to a reasonable agreement."

The little bride-to-be was looking dubious. Plainly she didn't think they would ever want to hurt each other. The older woman answered the look.

so many luscious spuds and some boneless nutmegs there. And I see my neighbors gay burn the costly plant my bales of hay, and the ear-

And they go, all primed with cash, to the movie picture shows, while I sow my succolike those. They'll be buying costly eats (and the price will make them cry), while I pluck my home grown beets, and consume the rhubarb pie.

I've a little plot of soil, fifty by a hundred feet; there'll I'll raise, by honest toil, all the things I wish to eat. I'll have pumpkins I can sell, squashes till you cannot rest, and young onions that will smell much like Araby the blest. I'll have things to boil and bake. I'll have cauliflower to spare, and my cabbage heads will take preplaintive whine, "All we eat is so

THE COOKIE JAR.
You can rig up a house with all manner of things,
The prayer rugs of sultans and princes and kings,
You can hang on its walls the old tapestries rare
Which some dead Egyptian once treasured with care,
But though costly and gorgeous its furnishings are,
It must have to be homelike, an old cookie jar.

There are just a few things that a home must possess,
Despite all your money and all your success—
A few good old books which some loved one had read,
Some trinkets of those whose sweet spirits have fled,
And then in the pantry, not shoved back too far
For the hungry to get to, that old cookie jar.

at the house be a mansion, I care not at all!
Let the finest of pictures be hung on each wall,
Let the carpets be made of the richest velour,
And the chairs only those which great wealth can procure,
I'd still want to keep for the joy of my flock
That homey, old-fashioned, well-filled cookie crock.

Like the love of the mother it shines
through our years,
It has soaked all our hearts and has dried away tears;
It has paid us for toiling, in sorrow
they are,
It has always been kind to each girl
and each boy;
And I'm sorry for people, whoever
they are,
Who live in a house where there's no
cookie jar.

The Death of Charles Reade.

Charles Reade was born on June 8, 1814, at Ipsden. From his father he inherited his taste for stirring life and sturdy conflict (a popular squire in Oxfordshire), and from his mother (daughter of Major Scott Waring, political agent to Warren Hastings) his literary instincts. After five years at school and six years under private tutors, he went to Magdalen, Oxford, had a brilliant career, graduated third-class in Classics, obtained a Fellowship, secured the degree of D.C.L., entered Lincoln's Inn, and was called to the Bar in 1843. In his 36th year he began to write. His first story, "Peg Woffington," won recognition, and "Christie Johnston," quickly following, raised him high above contemporaries. "It is Never Too Late to Mend," which appeared in 1856, did much to enhance his fame and aid prison reform. His output was prolific, five stories appearing before he finally won his place with the "Cloister and the Hearth" in 1861. "Hard Cash" was written during the next two years, an exciting story, largely concerned with the exposure of lunatic asylum evils, resulting in a successful agitation in favour of legislation on the subject. "Foul Play," another exposure, this time the knavery of certain insurance schemes; "Put Yourself in His Place," concerned with trade unions; "A Woman Hater,"—Reade's plea for female suffrage; and "Griffith Gaunt," a study of jealousy, followed in due course; the plot in the latter being more ruthless and convincing than pleasing. He firmly believed it was his greatest book, and never quite recovered from the outcry raised by a startled public, and the torrent of abuse poured on him by outraged critics. Ill-health and a bitterness evoked by failures in the theatre, and the hostile attitude of certain literary gentlemen, combined to cloud his later years. Despite his sufferings he worked up to the end, death taking place during a visit to Shepherd's Bush on April 11, 1884.

As the man and the maid strolled through the picture gallery the lady stopped before one exhibit.
"Oh, how sweet!" she breathed.
"I wonder what it means," questioned the young fellow, as he eyed the pictured pair who clung together in an attitude of love and longing.
"Oh, Charlie, don't you see?" the girl chattered tenderly. "He just asked her to marry him, and she has consented. It's lovely! What does the artist call the picture?"
The young man leaned nearer and eyed a little label on the frame.
"I see!" he cried. "It's printed on this card here, one-half sold!"—Answers.

Fashions and Fads.
 The cape still holds its own. Quite a little fitch fur is seen. Overblouses are rather short. White gazarling is much liked. Dancing frocks are still short. Some blouses have short basques. Coat dresses are of black taffeta. Neckwear is extremely important. Spanish combs of jade are charming. A new sweater belt is of braided twine.

Machinery Gone Mad!

Has a machine a soul? In other words, does the manipulation of the materials which go to make it up give it a personality of its own?

It sounds a crazy suggestion, yet there are many men accustomed to handle machines of different sorts who will allow that they have a lurking belief that this may be actually the case.

To begin with, here is a story of a musical-box. A musical-box is, after all, a machine. This was and is a very old one. It had belonged to Lady Beauchamp's grandmother, and the mechanism being apparently out of order, it had for more than twenty years refused to play.

At the very minute that Lady Beauchamp's eldest son was born, the old musical-box, which stood on a piano in the boudoir, suddenly woke up and played a tiny tune.

It was not touched again, yet when her ladyship's second son appeared, it again behaved in the same uncanny manner.

To turn to a much larger and less innocent machine, here is an account of a motor-car which went suddenly crazy.

Its owner had left it in a main road at Wandsworth. He declares that, before leaving it, he put on both brakes and left the gear-lever in neutral. He also switched off the engine.

Suddenly the car started off, knocked down a man, ran into a perambulator, smashing it to atoms, but strangely enough not injuring the baby. Then it landed in the window of a bank. It is no use offering or attempting any explanation. There simply isn't any.

Here is another case of a motor-car that apparently went mad. A Northamptonshire man was found sitting in his car dead and drowned, the car standing in the River Nene. The driver was skilled and well accustomed to the car. His hands were on the steering wheel, and the steering gear was in perfect order.

Glued to the Rails.

Simple enough, you say. He had run the car too close to the edge of the road, and it had gone over the bank into the water. But, no! Examination of the tracks showed that the car had gone over at right angles to the road, had dropped 5 ft., and taken the water without overbalancing. The hood was not drawn over the driver's seat, yet he apparently had made no effort to free himself.

Engine-drivers have many curious things to tell of locomotives, lucky and unlucky. From those on record we select the story of Engine 13 on the Kansas and Pacific Railway.

This tale dates back to the 'seventies, when buffalo still moved in great herds and Sioux Indians hunted them. A driver named Tom Watson was in charge of No. 13, and she was pulling a freight-train across the prairie when the line was blocked by a herd of buffalo and he was forced to pull up. After the buffalo came a score or more of Uncapapa Sioux Indians, and they, seeing the motionless train, turned towards it in hopes of loot. Watson had plenty of steam, but when he opened the throttle, 13 refused to budge. There were the Sioux not 500 yards away! But the engine seemed glued to the rails.

Up galloped the Indians, and Watson felt his scalp creep. Suddenly 13 opened her blow-off cocks herself, and deluged the screaming Indians with scalding steam. Then she started with a jump, and rushing through the Indians on the track, killing some and knocking the rest right and left, was off at a good forty miles an hour, with her trucks bumping and rattling behind her.

Produce and Provisions.

(From the Trade Review.)

FOREIGN MARKETS.—Owing to a Telegraph strike no cables were received here from Portugal from the 1st of March till the 3rd of April. The first cable received on the latter date from Oporto, was to the effect that there were then 63,657 quintals of Nfld. fish in that market, and the consumption for the week was 7,743 quintals. There were 12,000 quintals on same date at Lisbon, making a total of 80,657 quintals of our fish. The week's consumption at Lisbon was 1000 quintals.

There are from 16,000 to 20,000 quintals now on the way to Oporto, which will keep the total up to 90,000, allowing for two weeks more consumption by the time it is landed. This does not look very healthy for keeping up the price, and we expect to see a further decline before the month of April is over and it looks as if cargoes that will be sold there between now and June will not return the exporters any profitable results. The prospect of high prices for 1920 fish does not look very bright. Brazil is holding out in fair condition and we hear that Mr. Shipman has lately made a big sale of Nfld. fish there through New York at excellent prices.

Another Cable to the Board of Trade in the early part of the week seems to indicate that the Authorities in Portugal may fix a maximum price on our fish. It says:—

"All shippers' manifests should state the full value of goods (fish) in case the Portuguese Government should fix a maximum price."

CODFISH.—The exports from St. John's the past week amounted to 21,112 quintals and from the outports 15,171, making a total of 36,283 quintals. The Brazil market is in fair condition and will absorb a large proportion of the aggregate of less than 300,000 quintals now left of last year's catch in all Nfld. The European markets are in poor condition and money is being lost there on Nfld. cargoes. There are 68,000 quintals of ours at Oporto this week. Prices here are unchanged.

COD OIL.—The shipments this week to foreign markets amounted to 54,994 gallons. The stocks held here now are very limited and are only sufficient to supply the customers of exporters till the new 1920 oil is available. The outlook for next season's oil business is good, as the price keeps up to $305 a ton for the producer. It is believed that it will not be less next fall. We quote from a New York Journal as follows: "Prices on the domestic oil remain unchanged at the former level of $1.10 @ $1.12 per gallon. Strong demand and shortage of supply have justified an increase on the Newfoundland oil to $1.15 @ $1.17 per gallon. Demand continues strong and movement has been good."

COD LIVER OIL.—A total of 6,875 gallons was sent out this week, all by the "Rosald" to New York. There is nothing new to report in this line. The demand is slackening off and the market tendency is towards easier prices. The present quotation here is $2 to $2.20 per gallon for old and new oil.

FLOUR.—There has been no change in the flour situation this week. Next week it is expected that navigation on the St. Lawrence from Montreal will be open and freight rates on flour will be considerably lower. The supply of spring wheat, both in Canada and the United States is reported to be short and for this reason higher prices may be expected in the early summer. Leading brands in St. John's are now quoted at $16.50 to $17.00 wholesale and seconds $15.50 to $16.00.

PORK.—Since January first, all grades of Pork have shown a steady decline averaging on all qualities about $6. per barrel. Fat Back has gone off $7. per barrel. This steady downward tendency has created the feelings amongst exporters that they should not import, and that the decline will continue further before the market becomes established. The falling off in exports to Europe has led to accumulations in the U. S. market and the whole situation presages still cheaper Pork. There is still very little Pork coming in, but next month is expected to see a full volume of importation to meet the requirements of the Trade in supplying for the fish cry. No change in the local prices yet. May month will see Fat Back about $47.50, Ham Butt $53, and Mess $50 per barrel.

BEEF.—The prevailing weakness in salt meats applies to Beef even in a greater degree than Pork. All grades have declined and Boneless should sell here next month as low as 15 to 16 cents per pound retail, or $30 a barrel. Special Family should be about $38, and "Family" $35. This is good news for the public and the men outfitting for the fishery in particular. There is a fair quantity in, but importers will continue to go slow in ordering till the time comes next month when it will be necessary to have beef for the fishery supply. The fishermen will get the benefit of the action of the importers who hold back from ordering till the prices were low as they are to-day.

MOLASSES.—The purchasers of molasses for the Nfld. market are very short so that this commodity is likely to be scarce the coming summer. The price at Barbados this month is following sugars upwards, and most of the dealers there have sold out their holdings. Old Molasses is still selling here for $1.20 per gallon, but the new when it arrives the latter part of this month will be about $1.50 per gallon.

SUGAR.—The S.S. Edmund Donald brought a fair quantity this week which supplied a rather bare market. She will bring a large quantity next trip from Halifax which will keep the local market going for the month at least. It was fortunate that this sugar was bought several months ago at cheaper rates of 23c. a pound at the Refineries F.O.B. which would bring the price up to about 26c. in St. John's. It is hoped that before dealers are obliged to import this sugar for summer requirements the market will again weaken. The present St. John's price is 20c. per 100 lbs.

Under a Cloud.

"Newfoundland cannot afford to have as its statesmen and Crown Ministers, men who are guilty of questionable public deeds, or who are guilty of political jobbery."

In these searing words, our esteemed contributor "Tiberius," in this week's Talk, expresses the sentiment of all true Newfoundlanders. He could have gone further and declared that no respectable men should associate themselves with statesmen and Crown Ministers who are guilty of the political crimes mentioned, but his indictment is sufficiently strong without amplification. Doubtless "Tiberius" had in view the recent disclosures made in the Woodford affidavit wherein the first Minister of the Crown in Newfoundland stands charged with the most glaring perpetration of a piece of political jobbery ever committed by a public man, in this island at least. As no denial of the charges made in the now famous or infamous—which you will—document has yet been made, it is safe to assume that the position taken by "Tiberius" is perfectly secure. "Questionable public deeds and political jobbery." No sentence could better describe the actions recorded in the Woodford deposition, and yet statesmen (?) and Crown Ministers are implicated therein.

The House of Assembly has, by Royal Proclamation, been called together for dispatch of business on April 20th, ten days from to-day. When that House meets and seats are taken by members, it is supposed that every district representative owns a clean record so far as "questionable public deeds and political jobbery" are concerned. But will it be so at the coming session? Either the parties, one of whom is Prime Minister, who entered into a corrupt bargain, a glaring piece of political jobbery, with the member for Harbor Main, are guilty or they are not guilty. Common decency demands that no person, least of all the first Minister, should take his seat in the House while under a cloud. Refutation of the accusations in the Woodford affidavit has not yet been made by the men concerned, therefore from a moral standpoint the one has no right to take his seat in the House of Assembly nor the other in the Legislative Council. Both branches of our Legislature should be too jealous of their honor and dignity to permit the association of those who have been connected, according to affidavit made and sworn, with a piece of political jobbery, a corrupt agreement and a questionable bargaining. St. John's West expected better from the man it re-elected as Prime Minister, and St. John's West demands a straight denial of the charge made against its representative in the Government, otherwise it will have to believe in his guilt.

There is no half-way house of refuge in this case. The truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth must be told if the Prime Minister wishes to rehabilitate himself not only before his constituents, but before the whole electorate of Newfoundland. Sensational charges have been made against him politically, charges that no public man can afford to leave un-denied or repudiated, therefore the Prime Minister meets the House, he owes a duty to the Dominion and to his district to clear himself of the indictment made, to deny the perpetration of "political jobbery" and to bring—if he can—his traducer to punishment. Newfoundland cannot afford to have, and will not stand for, a Prime Minister who is guilty of political jobbery. The affidavit of Mr. Woodford emphatically and without ambiguity declares that he is guilty, that he bargained with Mr. Woodford corruptly. The Prime Minister claims to be a man of courage. He is now put to the supreme test of his powers. If he is not guilty, the proof is in his own possession. If he is an accomplice of Messrs. Woodford and Gibbs, as per affidavit of the former, let him illustrate the courage which is his boast and resign all his offices under the Crown. It is up to him either way.

Men Will Hear Addresses

The men of the four Methodist Churches of the city will meet in George St. Church at 3 p.m. tomorrow to hear addresses by Revs. J. H. Arnup and Peter Bryce, of Toronto, who are passengers by the Schem. The meeting is being held under the auspices of the four Adult Bible Classes. The meeting will take place of course, only if the Schem arrives in time.

A Praiseworthy Project.

The project to organise a "Young Men's League" in Newfoundland is deserving of every support and encouragement. In every civilized country of the world such organizations flourish, and no one could attempt to gauge the good they do. It is a pity that this movement was not started years ago, and now, that has been launched, unstinted aid where desired, and generous support, where necessary, should be given. Long life to the "Young Men's League!"

Young-Adams Co'y.

'THE CONVICT'S SWEETHEART.'

Miss Marjle Adams, as Hazel Randolph, in last night's play at the Casino, gave an extremely powerful impersonation of the intensity of love. Notwithstanding that the man to whom her affections had been given stood charged with and was proven guilty of the murder of her brother, she nevertheless protested his innocence and did everything possible, with ultimate success, to have him released from prison. Mr. Edward Manchester, the actual killer and sutor for the hand of Hazel, was ably sustained by Mr. Percy Norman, and only through the knowledge of "Sandy Mackay" the tramp, were the ends of justice finally accomplished. Mr. Donald Mack was thoroughly at home in his part, and the various means by which he outwitted Manchester must be witnessed to be appreciated. Mr. H. Wilmet Young, as Eugene Moore, at once the hero and victim of the plot, made another hit in his portrayal of dramatic art last night. He has to be seen to be appreciated, as no words can describe the fervour and initiative which he puts into his acting. Miss Marguerite Young, as Kitty Randolph, daughter of Colonel Randolph (Mr. Geo. C. Denton), has a place all to herself and judging by her very capable impersonation of the cast allotted to her, possesses all the abilities and accomplishments of a first class exponent of melodrama. Miss Gladys Butler, who played Mrs. Jones, the northern widow in search of material for sociological articles, in the magazines, caught the audience from her entrance in the first act, and held the vast house enthralled by her clever delineation of a difficult role. Mr. John J. Gregory, as Dr. Harry Baxter, was right there with the goods every time. The drama will be repeated to-night. It is peculiarly thrilling and well worth seeing. Songs, dances and patter between the acts maintained the interest of the audience throughout, while the music of the C.C.C. band left nothing to be desired. On Monday and Tuesday of next week an Irish-American Idyl in four acts, entitled "Little Peggy O'Moore," with Miss Marjle Adams in the title role, will be staged.

Absolutely False.

A report was circulated around town last evening, emanating from an item in the evening papers that the premises of Emanuel Pike, Ltd., at Port aux Basques had been destroyed by fire. Immediately on hearing this rumour, the Telegram wired to Channel and later received the following reply from an authoritative source: "Absolutely no truth in statement in public news regarding destruction of Pike's premises by fire." How the false report originated is not clear at the moment, but that it was contained in the public news, compiled in St. John's and circulated in the outports through the telegraph offices, is obvious from the text of our correspondents' message, and is another proof of the unreliability of "information received."

Well Known Business Man Badly Asphyxiated

Mr. Percie Johnson came very near death this morning—found unconscious in bed—Not yet revived but improving. Mr. Percie Johnson, the well-known Water Street business-man, came very near to death this morning as a result of being very badly asphyxiated at the Cochrane Hotel, where he is boarding. He has not yet (up to press hour) regained consciousness but his color is gradually returning. He is under care of Doctor Fallon. Mr. Johnson went to bed last evening as usual, and was not missed this morning until a clerk in his office, wishing to have a check signed, went to the hotel at 11 o'clock and asked for him. When no answer came to repeated knocks on his door, entry was made and he was found in bed, quite unconscious and very far gone. The room was filled with gas fumes. Mr. Johnson was once removed and a doctor called. The fumes came from a bathroom adjoining his bed-room, and it is presumed that one of the boarders, using the gas-heating apparatus, left it turned on and so allowed the gas to escape. If such was the case, Mr. Johnson must have been unconscious for some time.

TO CONNECT WITH CLYDE.—Monday morning's train will connect with the Clyde at Placentia for the Bay, and Wednesday's train for the Western route.

Supreme Court.

In the Hearing of the Petition of Richard Kelly vs. Wm. Woodford. (Yesterday afternoon.) Chas. Mercer deposed that Head Constable O'Neil came up very shortly after the new Government came into power in November, and asked him to return the grant of $25.00 and cautioned him that anything he would say to him would be used as evidence against him. To Mr. Higgins, K.C. in cross-examination, he said that he had seen the affidavit of Mr. Woodford in the papers, and the time between when the new Government took office and the visit and demand of Head Const. O'Neil was very much shorter than the lapse of time from the day Mr. Woodford's affidavit was filed including two members of the Legislature and officers of the Crown until the present time. The point made was that it took a very short few days to get after the $25.00 that Mr. Mercer had to spend on the roads, but now more than two weeks had elapsed since the Woodford affidavit was filed, and nothing had been done. George Tilly in giving evidence of receiving a note from Mr. Woodford on Oct. 13th, 1918, authorizing him to spend $50.00 on the main road at Kelligrews, said that when the money was finished Mr. Woodford brought him the money. In paying him Mr. Woodford put an envelope on the table and called to it. Witness said he took the envelope up and opened it and found in it an order on the bank for $150.00. He did not know what it was. He had agreed for only $50.00. He did not say anything. Mr. Woodford gave him no explanation and did not mention the figure. Nothing of any consequence was said after he saw what was in the envelope. He thanked Mr. Woodford for it and went home. Witness said he did not know how many days it was from polling day. He put men to work and worked out the extra hundred, all except $21.00. He did not have time to get it all worked out; was busy about his crops. He sent the $21.00 back.

In the election petition against Dr. Jones, the hearing was resumed this morning. Joseph Tilly was recalled and cross-examined by Mr. Howley. Re-examined by Mr. Mews. Charles Mercer was recalled, cross-examined by Mr. Higgins. Abraham Bishop was recalled, cross-examined by Mr. Mews. Geo. Tilly, recalled, cross-examined by Higgins, re-examined by Mr. Mews. Richard Walsh, recalled, cross-examined by Howley, deposed to seeing Dr. Jones.

Mr. Mews now called Arthur Clarke of Horse Cove. Witness stated he met Jones but had not much conversation with him; received $50 from Woodford for work on road and was promised $50 more if Woodford was elected, but he never got it. Saw Dr. Jones only once. Cross-examined by Mr. Higgins. Michael Conran was next called. He deposed to visiting Dr. Jones' house for treatment. Asked if he got anything from Jones, witness replied, "No, not a cent of salt without paying for it." He received $30 from Woodford for road work. Received the money on 3rd October and an order from the Board of Works. Samuel Cluney called, sworn and examined by Mr. Mews. Questioned about Woodford, he objects to giving evidence as he was called only on Dr. Jones' trial, and he asked the court to cross it off. Asked what was done at a meeting at the "Anchorage" he replied that he did not take down the minutes, but how he came to go to the meeting, he replied that he did not know; he heard it in the air that the elections would be on shortly. (Judge Johnston here pointed out that the evidence is irrelevant.) Asked if at the meeting Woodford said anything, he replied "I suppose he did. He is no dummy." He got a cheque, a special grant, for $30 for work done on Harvey Road.

The further hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, April 13th, at 11 a.m.

Cups for Aviators Have Been Presented.

Telegram readers will remember the meeting which took place in the Board of Trade Rooms last summer when the English aviators were here. At that meeting addresses were made to the flying-men, and presents of silver cups from the people of St. John's announced. The cups were made in England and have been presented to the flying men—Hawker and Grieve, the first to attempt the Trans-Atlantic Flight; Raynham and Moran, who met with such poor luck; and Alcock and Brown, the winners of the great competition. It is very sad that Alcock was not alive to receive his, but that his people will treasure the cup cannot be doubted. The cups, photographs of which are on the walls of the Board of Trade Room, are handsome ones and will without doubt be prized by the bird-men who so deserved them.

News From Sealers Still Poor.

Messages from the Bowring fleet last night was as follows: The Viking reported having struck a small patch of old harps during the afternoon, and that her crew had killed 200; the Terra Nova reported having also struck a patch during the afternoon and killed some; the Ranger reported having some nothing during the day. All steamers reported their positions some 50 miles east of the Funks, with weather conditions bad.

Shipping Notes.

Schr. Hawker, 6 days from Halifax, arrived with a general cargo to-day to Coln Campbell. Terra Aquila, Asquith sailed for Pernambuco fish laden by A. E. Hickman Co. Schr. Lillian M. Richards sailed from Marytown for Gibraltar with 3,884 qts. codfish, shipped by Burnett & Co. Schr. Leit sailed from Marytown for Oporto with 3,456 qts. codfish, shipped by Marystown Trading Co. PRESENTED WITH CHEQUE.—On leaving Placentia, Mr. Luke Madden, of Mur's marble works, was presented with a cheque and address by the Star of the Sea Society in recognition of his good work in setting up the monument to the fallen heroes of Placentia. Mr. Madden is very grateful for the Society's appreciation.

QUEEN STREET.

To-Day's Messages.

WAR AT AN END.

WASHINGTON, April 9. A Republican joint resolution, declaring the state of war with Germany at an end, and repealing most of the war time legislation, was adopted to-day by the House. It now goes to the Senate.

CONSUL SUICIDES.

PARIS, April 9. M. Margoret, French Consul in London, committed suicide in a hotel here to-day.

BELGIUM JOINS FRANCE.

COBLENZ, April 9. Notification was given to-day through the Belgian Military Mission here, for the participation of Belgium in the French action in occupying Frankfurt. Belgium is sending a detachment of troops with the French to mark its co-operation, it is announced. Only small Belgian units of the strength of a battalion, will be sent, the soldiers probably going to Frankfurt.

EXPLANATION AND ASSURANCES.

LONDON, April 9. Paul Cambon, French Ambassador, has formally given such explanations as Lord Curzon, Foreign Minister, regarding the policy to be pursued by France in connection with the German situation, as to lead to expectations that all matters will be speedily smoothed over with France and Great Britain, the Diplomatic correspondent of the Evening Standard states to-day.

MORE GOLD.

NEW YORK, April 9. A shipment of approximately $11 million in gold, arrived here to-day from England, on the American Line steamer Philadelphia, making a total gold consignment from Great Britain since the first of the year of seventy-eight millions.

WHOLESALE DESECTIONS.

WASHINGTON, April 9. That sailors are deserting from the United States navy wholesale, and officers are resigning daily, was disclosed by Rear-Admiral Washington, chief of the Bureau of Navigation in testimony given to-day before the Senate committee investigating the part played by the navy in the war. Admiral Washington declared that unless the pay of both officers and men was raised the United States navy could not be saved from disaster. He said the American navy had been going down, hill rapidly since July of last year, and told the committee that desertions totalled six thousand.

EVACUATION COMMENCED.

PARIS, April 9. According to late information received by the Havas Agency from Cologne, Reichswehr are reported to have begun the evacuation of the Ruhr basin.

AN IMPERIAL COMBINATION.

MONTREAL, April 10. The Montreal Gazette will to-day print the following: "It may now be stated more or less authoritatively that the long impending and much discussed consolidation of the two principal Canadian steel enterprises, Dominion Steel Corporation and Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, Limited, is now close to the completion stage. Further extension is to include Canada steamship lines, and several Canadian shipbuilding enterprises is also embraced in the plans of the interests, which conceived the scheme, which is one of the most ambitious in the history of Canadian industry. The ultimate ratification of the enterprise, it is stated, will extend, not only to Great Britain, but to outlying parts of the British Empire, including India and Australia, so that developments here form but a part only of the comprehensive imperial steel and shipbuilding combination, in which the splendid natural resources of the dominion are to play an important part."

BRITISH ENVOY NOT TO ATTEND.

PARIS, April 10. Instructions will be sent the British representative here, not to attend the impending Conference of Ambassadors, if France showed any signs of intending to continue acting independently in German affairs, says "Pertinax," Political Editor of the Echo de Paris. He says, this "fresh threat has been formulated, in addition to the conclusions set forth in the semi-official statements from the London Cabinet."

FRANCE'S ACTION CONDEMNED.

LONDON, April 9. Italy's attitude respecting the French occupation of Frankfurt, concurs fully with that expressed in behalf of Great Britain in continued in a statement issued last evening by Vittorio Scialoja, the Italian Foreign Minister. He said there had been no diplomatic exchanges which would justify the assumption of France that her action would meet with Italy's approval.

OFFICIALS DON OVERALLS.

NEW YORK, April 9. Affected now by strikes of railroad men, marine workers, switch-men and freight yard employees, New York is threatened with a serious food shortage, according to a statement made to-day by J. K. Matell, head of the railroad managers' organization. He added that during the night, 65 ear loads of milk were moved into the city, to protect the infants, and officials are now manning engines and switches in the Erie, West Shore and Pennsylvania yards.

GERMANS WANT AIR SUPERIORITY.

GENEVA, April 9. The Germans are working feverishly to construct giant commercial and passenger airships and airplanes, according to a report from Romanshorn. The first trials are stated to have been held of two monster machines which were recently completed at Friedrichshafen, where the airship factory is said to have doubled in size since the armistice, and other monsters have already begun. The Germans are concealing the results of these trials and no reports of them are published in the press.

UNION INSURGENTS DETERMINED.

CHICAGO, April 9. A break in the authorized strike of switchmen and engineers at Chicago, where it started nine days ago, with a subsequent spread to a number of railroad centres, was announced to-day by A. Whitney, Vice-President of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who conferred with a committee of strikers from Chicago and the northwestern railroads. The delegation was said to have told Whitney that a vote would be taken within 24 hours, with a view to ending the strike on that railroad by Saturday night. Leaders of the insurgents said the strike was not only not broken but would be carried on until a new union was completed.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

LONDON, April 9. It is announced in authoritative quarters that Thursday's communication giving the British official view of the French advance into Germany, was made chiefly to prevent any possible damage to the Anglo-French alliance, on which the hope of the world is centred, and in nowise with the purpose of exciting public opinion here or in any other country. Moreover, it is said, the views expressed were those of the entire British Cabinet, and not those of any individual members. The Ministers, it is declared, feel that there is nothing to be gained in any alliance by glossing over or ignoring the seriousness of a situation engendered by one ally, taking military action on its own initiative, against the opinion of the other Allies. The Peace Treaty, according to the British view, did not contemplate a situation such as now has arisen, which it was stated, was one calling for police action against disorder, and not war. Great Britain is just as ready as France to insist upon the execution of the treaty, if the Germans show hesitation in fulfilling their guarantee to evacuate the neutral zone at the appointed time, and is willing to agree to any necessary action in such an event. The French Government had been fully informed of these views before the troops were sent. Faith in the Entente and friendliness of the French people, it was said, have been in nowise diminished, and the announcement that France acted on her own initiative against the advice of the Allies was merely a statement of fact, which was necessary in order to make clear that the Allies as a whole cannot possibly accept the position that they can be committed by the independent action of any one ally to strengthen the alliance by insuring solidarity for the future.

THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

LONDON, April 10. Official reports received from Jerusalem, reduce the casualties in the recent troubles there to two persons killed and 186 wounded, of whom 170 were Jews. The situation is now decided as being well in hand. According to reports the trouble started on April 4th, with an anti-Jewish demonstration against religious processions. There was rioting the following day, when the native police joined the Moslems, resulting in their being disarmed by troops and withdrawn. On April 6th there were a few fires and some violence, but no serious disorders, as tourist traffic in Palestine had been stopped.

The Purchase of Beaumont Hamel.

Women Meet in Casino--Intensely Interesting Addresses.

At a meeting of the women of St. John's held in the Casino Theatre yesterday afternoon, the addresses given by the various speakers were listened to with rapt attention. Mrs. Browning, convener of the meeting, after a few preliminary remarks, welcomed Lady Harris who honored the meeting with her patronage and who with her daughter was present, expressing thereby her interest in and sympathy with the movement. Continuing, Mrs. Browning said: "We have met to discuss and show our interest in a matter which must be dear to every woman's heart, to every woman in Newfoundland—the sacred care of the last resting place of so many of our gallant soldiers. You may ask why we should specially purchase the field of Beaumont-Hamel, when our boys fell on so many fields in France. It is for two reasons: one, because this was the scene of the greatest sacrifice of the Newfoundland Regiment in France; the second, because under the stress of battle so many of our dead were unable to be buried. There they lay until they were still. You will remember that some of our wounded were not brought in for seven days, and then their rescue was always fraught with so much danger. What Ypres is to the Canadians—what Verdun is to the French, that Beaumont-Hamel is to the Newfoundlanders, a special graveyard of numbers of their noblest men. Each of the Allies has planned to take over some special portion of France so sacred to them in the same way. It is their intention to encircle them with the trees peculiar to each individual country, and in the centre raise a monument to the memory and honor of the fallen, and worthy of them. It is hard for France to part with so much of her land; a well-populated country where land is so precious—but she has agreed. And now it is our proud privilege as a country and as individuals, each one to share in the purchase of this portion of Newfoundland in France, for wherever a Newfoundland lies buried that spot is greatly honored this afternoon by having the help and support of three of our veterans, men who going with the first 500, still, in spite of sickness and wounds were able to serve their country, we may say, till the end." Lt.-Col. Bernard, M.C., C. de G., was called to the platform, and said in part: "Ladies, I am asked to address you on a subject dear to the heart, but which causes sadness, but at the same time gives us a glow of pride. A subject which will be handed down from generation to generation—Beaumont-Hamel. For fourteen months before Beaumont-Hamel, I was with the force. I knew the men;

I knew them in their marches, in Egypt where they camped on the burning desert, at Gallipoli where they stood waist deep in icy water with their hands and feet frozen." He briefly outlined the intensive training the men underwent previous to that fatal day, July 1st, at Beaumont-Hamel, and the record they made (unequaled in the war). He gave his support to the movement and asked the women to aid in the purchase of that field consecrated by the blood of our heroes.

Major Butler, D.S.O., M.C., next described the field of battle, a plan of which was shown on the screen. He told of events previous to and on the morning of July 1st; of the work of rescuing the wounded and the burying of the dead. How the small party of 750 men continued for three days and nights at this work, how the gaps in the wire entanglements were filled with dead; how the Germans trained their machine guns on a hillock where the wounded had crawled for shelter, or to die.

At the conclusion of Major Butler's address, Miss Keegan, in her inimitable manner, gave a pathetic recitation, "A Woman's Part," which brought tears to the eyes of many in the audience.

Capt. Nunns, M.C., speaking next, described the preparations for the attack, the St. John's Road, the hours previous to zero, the blowing up of the tunnel bored after 17 months of unremitting labor and toil under the German trench, the sending off of the last officer who was never more heard of. He told of his visit to this land eleven months afterwards in company with Major Nangle, and the finding of relics of his comrades. He urged his hearers not to let this sacred spot go from us.

Lady Harris spoke briefly, thanking the speakers for their attendance and expressing her desire to co-operate in the movement.

Mrs. Browning, in closing, thanked the speakers for their lucid descriptions, and asked the women present to speak to their friends and urge them to help; to write to the outposts for their support and sympathy. "The purchase of this sacred spot is not a duty, it is a privilege. It is not for a government or individual to buy," concluded the speaker.

On next Wednesday (the anniversary of the Battle of Monchy), a house to house collection for funds would be taken up; all should contribute, and not over $1.00 will be received from one individual. After an appeal to the women to smooth the pathway of the men who had returned, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Curliana.

The general meeting of the St. John's Curling Association will be held on Tuesday evening in the Curlers' Parlour, Curling Rink, when the work for the past season will be reviewed, the President's report submitted, and the accounts presented to the Association. After the business has been disposed of the trophies won during the year will be presented by Honorary President H. W. L. Messurier, C.M.G. This is the final meeting of the Association for this year. The Curling Association is a strong institution in Newfoundland to-day, with a membership of some two hundred and thirty members. The Association has had many visitors from Canada, United States and other countries. The games this season were well contested, the new mem-

CREOLE-CAL---An Artistic New Shade in a Stylish Summer Derby.

Here's a Hat created especially for young fellows of the go-ahead spirit, who want dash and colour in their Summer outfits.

Picked as the leading style for 1920 by Broadway's Smartest Shops. Chosen by countless followers of every fresh effort of master hat designers, for its delicately-tinted felt—Creole-Cal—has two distinct advantages over the old style Derby. A New Style—a New Shade.

You have some idea of what the Creole-Cal should look like—you imagine it to be, as it is, a real smart hat—but imagination cannot picture the curl of that finished brim, or how completely that new, delicate shade will harmonize with any colour outfit you wear.

You will want to own a Creole-Cal on sight.

Essex Almost Doubles Small Car Endurance.

ESSEX has performance like the costliest fine cars—its world endurance record has never been rivaled. The most important thing that ESSEX has proved is that weight and size are no longer necessary to finest car quality. All concede average ability in any modern car.

So it was to prove ability far beyond what any light car ever has shown that ESSEX made its famous endurance tests. Its 3,037 miles in 50 hours is a world's endurance record. The test was official. Supervisors of the American Automobile Association certified the ESSEX stock chassis in every detail.

Never before was a car driven at top speed for 50 hours. The grind was more severe than years of road use. Yet at the end the ESSEX showed no measurable wear. Indeed, the same stock chassis in three trials was driven 5,869 miles, at an average speed above a mile a minute.

Successful "Old Academian."

TRIBUTE TO MR. T. W. CRAGG.

The many friends in this Dominion, the subject of the item appended, will read with pleasure the success of one who was so popular while he resided in Newfoundland. Mr. Cragg is a moving spirit in the old "Academian" Club in its palmy days. In the great success that attended the club's musical, dramatic, and literary success was largely due to his musical ability and indomitable energy. As a binder, he was more than an ordinary craftsman, and he has the love of the work, as well as skill and experience, into the binding that came to his hands. Many libraries in Newfoundland possess specimens of his skill, but perhaps the most noted is the Memorial volume, in the Archdiocesan Library of this city. This volume was compiled by the Citizens' Committee who had charge of the arrangements on the occasion of the consecration of His Grace Most Rev. E. P. Roche. It contains the original cheque presented by the citizens, an account of all the functions in connection with the consecration, and illuminated copies of all the addresses presented to His Grace on the occasion. Mr. Cragg bound it as a labor of love, and the result is the best possible tribute to his skill in his craft. As he resided for many years in this city, married a charming daughter of the soil, and as their daughter was born here, he and his family have always evinced the greatest interest in the doings and doings of their old time friends. The poem is from the Concord Patriot of the date, and is written by Ben L. Carson, staff contributor to the Patriot, being entirely unsolicited and remunerated.

CRAGG'S NOTED BINDERY.

In these days of specialization, it is a distinct pleasure to find a concern that combines a variety of expert workmanship, with the modern hand for prompt output. And that is why the writer thoroughly enjoyed his hour with Thomas W. Cragg in his bindery at 82 North Main street, the majority of binderies in Newfoundland specialize. They handle book-binders, entirely, or editions, for example. But the Cragg bindery does all jobs; is not not pleased at the most unusual or "fussy" demand, furthermore has the means of carrying any order to the satisfaction of the clients.

While the Cragg bindery draws its trade from New England, the great volume comes from local printers, mostly north of Concord, the state and various institutions.

Some Work on Hand.

For example, it now has on hand Berlin city reports, to be bound together with gilt edges; while why may be found huge and small book-binders. Looking a little farther back, he has seen the license tags for the state and game department, a necessitating many painstaking details.

The judgments of the Supreme Court are bound at the Cragg bindery, also assignments for re-binding come from the Historical Society and State and public libraries as well as the schools send in a great many for re-binding. For a book re-bound will last twice as long as the original edition.

These are just a few of the various assignments that come to the Cragg bindery, they all entailing a variety of workmanship. In order to handle work, the most modern machinery and tools are needed. And these found at the bindery. And when aided with the expert direction of a man who has spent a lifetime at his work, not to speak of ideal working conditions among his employees, it is not especially unusual that the best of results are obtained.

Mr. Cragg does not like to be flattered by any job, no matter how unusual it may be. He has done much work for St. Paul's and other schools. One of the items was the binding of the school album for St. Paul's; a huge book filled with large photographs. While the binding was heavy and of the best material, the leaves were so large and heavy that the books in time went to pieces. The matter was given due thought and after several experiments Mr. Cragg designed and had made a special metal back, allowing the pages to be inserted loose-leaf fashion. Many years of page turning will be necessary before such a book will need to be sent to the bindery again.

But, while this is all very interesting, necessary to the material success of the business and complimentary to Mr. Cragg and the city, it is not the point that appealed the most to the writer.

Skilled Work.

After Mr. Cragg, on request, had shown the writer about the plant, allowing him to judge for himself on the extent of the activities, he repaired to his office. Opening his safe, he carefully extracted two articles, which while not of gold or platinum, were equally as precious to Mr. Cragg. Two de luxe editions, they typified the skilled craftsman and suggested the secret, perhaps, of Mr. Cragg's success. For no man could turn out such beautiful work, if he were not a master of his art and no one becomes highly proficient at any occupation without long years of enthusiastic application. And when a man likes to do a thing and possesses an expert knowledge of how to do it, it is a safe bet that he is going to succeed.

One of the de luxe editions was a volume of "Brookfield Poems," from the versatile and loved pen of William E. Marshall, the Canadian poet. Mr. Marshall is "Bill" to Tom Cragg, and no circulation of the much read poems is complete without a copy arriving at the Cragg bindery, suitably autographed. In appreciation of his friend's thoughtfulness, Mr. Cragg bound a volume of the poems, using all his skill and the many little tricks of fine hand work, not typical of the present generation, where quantity rather than quality is too often the business slogan.

Handsome Product.

The edition is bound in full American crushed levant, hand tooled with a fine and beautiful gold design. It is as handsome an edition as could be found in the collection of any discriminating buyer.

Another de luxe edition is a book of Oxford verse, smaller in design, with a beautiful shade of crushed levant covering, delicately edged with a gold design.

Mr. Cragg does quite a bit of this de luxe binding for persons desiring the same of perfection in that line. He is losing money when he does it, but there is a most gratifying sense of personal satisfaction in seeing a perfect product come from one's own handiwork.

Now and then in this day of big and fast growing industries, we find a little shop that still turns out for a product, finely executed and hand worked goods. It may be a little shoe shop, where a man may still find that perfect turn to his riding boots or walking shoes, and where the same care and personal attention is given as in years gone by. They are comparatively few and far between.

Mr. Cragg's bindery is not such a place. He keeps well abreast of the times and has a modern plant that answers speedily the client's request for quick delivery. But the instincts of a trade, learned among men who knew all the little intricacies of fine, hand made product, have not been ousted by modern practices. And so it gives Mr. Cragg personal pleasure to occasionally send from his shop something that is different from the average run of work—a piece that stands out by itself—an example of real art—and which goes to persons who appreciate it as such.

Grown Up With Business.

"Tom" Cragg has grown up with the book binding game. He started in at Halifax, coming later to New York and Boston, and associating himself with the Republican Press Association in Concord, remaining when it merged into the Rumford Press. He remained with the Rumford until 1912, when he started in business for himself, gradually gaining clients until to-day he handles more work than can be done on straight time, and his shop is busy way into the evenings. Some of Mr. Cragg's best experience was gained in the Harcourt bindery, Boston, noted for its fine, high standard output.

Strange Recovery of Hidden Gold.

On April 10, 1913, eight labourers were employed in grubbing up trees at Tufnell Park, Holloway, and during their labours, they discovered two jars containing nearly four hundred sovereigns in gold. They divided the money and one of them spent his share; but soon afterwards Mr. Tufnell, the lord of the manor, claimed the whole of it as treasure-trove. There is a complex law, partly statute and partly civil, relating to the recovery of treasure for which the original owner does not apply, and according to the circumstances of the finding, the property belongs to the Crown, to the lord of the manor, or to the finder or to two out of these three. While the eight labourers were puzzling over Mr. Tufnell's claim, the real owner stepped forward, and told a singular tale. He was a brass founder, living in Clerkenwell, and said that about nine months before, while under a temporary mental delusion, he one night took out two jars of sovereigns with him, and buried them in the field at Tufnell Park. Being able to prove these facts, his claim to the money was admitted. In other cases the burying of treasure results not from any delusion, but from the ignorance of the owner as to any better mode of securing it.

The Super-Test

BEFORE you are asked to buy or try Dunlop Cord Tires, they must undergo a test such as you would never give them.

- ☞ Tires just like your garagemen and dealers now sell are put on our own test cars, and away speed the drivers.
 - A Test that is kept up day and night.
 - A Test that takes in some of the worst roads in the country and the generality of bumps, bad turns, and all the sudden stops that go with them.
 - A Test that specifies the number of miles which must be made by the drivers each day and night.

☞ The results of this crucial test, naturally, have an important bearing on our manufacturing policy.

☞ Tested-in-Advance Service aptly applies to Dunlop Cord Tires—"Traction," "Ribbed." Can you ask for a greater guarantee than the story the road tells—a story which in the case of Dunlop Cord Tires proves that our manufacturing methods are not only Right but Dead Right?

Notes From Brigus.

Captain and Mrs. Stewart Gushue came home from St. John's, by Wednesday (31st ult.) night's train. Capt. Gushue has lately returned from across the "Herring Pond" in the schooner "Ocell Jr."

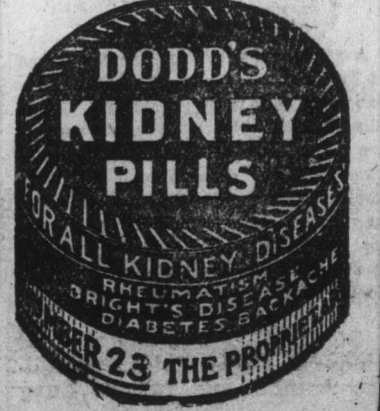

On Easter Monday night, the amateur troupe repeated the play so successfully staged by them on St. Patrick's night. The various performers acquitted themselves in an able manner, to the delight of an attentive audience. Between the acts, songs were rendered by Misses Breen, Beahan, Delaney, Mrs. Power and Mr. M. Aspell, each rendition bringing forth hearty and well deserved applause. After the performance dancing was indulged in by the numerous couples present until a new day was dawning. Refreshments were served throughout the night.

Mr. Fred Bartlett and his sister, Miss Annie, both of the Heart's Content Cable Staff, who had been spending a short holiday at home, left by Monday morning's train. Mr. H. M. Hearn of the above staff is at present home on a month's leave.

Messrs Thos. Brien, Jas. Burke, P. O'Leary and wife came from Bay Roberts by Monday's train to attend the performance in St. Patrick's Hall. They returned by carriage the same night.

The ladies of the C. of E. held a sale of work in the school-room on Tuesday night. Teas and ice-cream were an outstanding feature of the very enjoyable event. The tables were well patronized and those responsible for engineering the affair may well feel proud of their efforts, which realized the magnificent sum of $55.

The wall and road near Bishop's Cove, which was washed away by the heavy sea last fall has been repaired within the last few days under the supervision of Mr. Robert Bartlett.

Work has commenced on Jerrett's schooner, the "Clarence B." Workmen are giving her a more respectable appearance by the application of a coat of paint to booms, etc.

Having had an exceptional winter it would appear as though we are to have an exceptional spring. One day we are favoured with summer weather, the next comes a sharp reminder that old "Sol" has not yet complete mastery of the biting winds. NEMO.

Sentiment Improves Foreign Exchange Market.

Events which have exercised a sentimental influence on the speculative situation rather than substantial changes in fundamental conditions apparently are responsible for the recent improvement in the European exchange market, says the April issue of the National Bank of Commerce in New York.

"Chief among these," the magazine continues, "was the announcement from London that Great Britain and France intend to retire, rather than to refund the $500,000,000 Anglo-French Loan of 1915 which matures next autumn, and the intimation of a movement of gold from England and France to the United States in connection with the payment of this loan. While no definite information regarding such a movement is available it seems highly improbable that receipts would offset to any considerable degree the outflow of gold from the United States which has occurred during the past month's and which will continue. Such gold as may be received cannot be regarded as providing a basis for the further expansion of the credit structure." As a result of the conservative policy which is being adopted by both banks and borrowers toward future commercial commitments, the peak of commercial borrowing seems to be in sight, although only by a continuation of this policy is a basis afforded for more normal credit conditions, the magazine declares.

Methodist National Campaign.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE INTER-CHURCH FORWARD MOVEMENT.

The week beginning April 12, will be a great occasion, in fact the greatest, in the history of the Methodist Church in Newfoundland. It is the climax to the great Spiritual Campaign that has been in progress for almost a year, when the people will be given the opportunity to apply the "Acid Test" of money to their prayers for the coming of the Kingdom of Christ on earth. Most encouraging reports have been received from some of the most isolated and extensive missions in the Conference, regarding the Campaign, in its influence on the quickened life of the Church. Wherever the Programme of the M.N.C. has been faithfully approximated, Pastor and people have found it of immense value to the real life of the Church. One of the Young Ministers, on a remote Northern mission in his report says, "I do not know how much we can do for the National Campaign, but I know that it is going to do a great deal for us." Another young minister, whose mission consists of several islands says, "I got the people together, and explained as well as I could the meaning of the National Campaign. I asked them what are you going to do about it? Will you be intercessors? The following Sunday you could notice a difference in their prayers and since that time the church seems to have taken on new life. At most of the appointments new members have been added to the church."

The Methodist Churches of the city have decided to conduct a United Campaign to reach the Financial objection. Next week will see 300 men and woman representative of city Methodism, eagerly, and even hilariously engaged in securing for the "Thank Offering," an amount that shall be creditable to and in keeping with the well-known liberality of the Methodist people.

By advices received to-day, the Rev. J. H. Arrup, B.A., the General Organizer of the M.N.C., and Rev. Peter Bryce, General Secretary of the Financial Campaign, are "on their way to St. John's, and expect to arrive on Sunday by the S. S. Sackem." The Newfoundland Campaign is of special interest from the fact that it is the last in the group of 12 Conferences to complete its work. The total amount reached by the Conferences in Canada to March 29, is $4,714,679, or $714,679, more than the object. Surely this is a challenge and an incentive to Newfoundland methodism.—M.F.

C. C. C. Sports.

The second series of sports held in the C.C.C. Armoury on Thursday night proved, if possible, more interesting than before. The different items were closely contested. The programme was carried out without a hitch. The various events being as follows:

Grand Sacred Concert.

The Grand Sacred Concert, which the musical loving people of St. John's are looking forward to, will according to the local ad, which appears in this evening's paper, take place in the R. C. Cathedral on April 29th inst. The organists and choir members of all the City Churches are generously helping Mr. Charles Huton in his big effort, so that a Concert of unusual event will be the result. As the large organ left in the Cathedral will not accommodate all the singers, an addition has to be erected, and no trouble or expense will be spared to make the occasion a memorable one.

Salt Rheum Covered Her Face Every Winter.

I used one sample bottle of D.D.D. and one dollar bottle and it cured my face of Salt Rheum. I spent a good many dollars with doctors and other medicines. I was bothered every winter and last winter I had no trouble. My skin was perfectly free from any spot, thanks to D.D.D. MRS. JAMES H. RYDER, Brookvale, N. B., Canada.

Anyone suffering from skin trouble—mild or severe—should investigate at once the merits of D.D.D. Try it to-day. Your money back unless the first bottle relieves you.

TIRED, WORN-OUT WOMEN

You Who Are Over-Worked, Run-Down, Thin and Ailing

You Need Vinol, the Blood, Strength and Vitality Maker, to Restore Your Old Time Health and Energy

There are millions of women who have been under such a strain caused by the last few years of war that they have sacrificed their health, and it seems a long up-hill road to restore the old-time energy and vitality.

A prompt remedy for that continual tired, worn-out, listless, sluggish condition is VINOL, our cod liver and iron tonic without oil.

In a natural manner it creates a hearty appetite, aids digestion, makes rich, red blood, quickens the circulation, and strengthens every organ and muscle of the body, and vitality and energy quickly replace weakness and lassitude.

Mrs. R. Trotter, of Toronto, Ont., says: "I was weak, run-down and nervous. I had dizzy spells and no ambition to do anything. I saw VINOL, advertised and tried it. In about one week I felt better, and it built me up and restored my strength. I want to recommend VINOL to other women who are weak, nervous and run-down."

VINOL is sold on a positive guarantee by the leading Druggists of Canada, to return your money if it fails to benefit you.

Channel

A report from Channel to the Board of Trade states the total catch of cod-fish between that point and Grand Bay is 4,294 qts. to date. Prospects are very poor at present, but sufficient bait is obtainable. All were hoping that when the ice embargo was lifted there would be a change for the better, but it seems the fish has nosed on down the Straits and no improvement occurred.

Literary Institute Annual Meeting.

Officers For Ensuing Year Elected—Arranging For Annual Dinner.

The annual meeting of the Methodist College Literary Institute was held on Thursday evening, there being a large attendance. After regular routine business, the reports of the year just closed were read and adopted. These reports were very encouraging and showed that during the session fifty-two applicants were admitted to membership while the regular attendance had nearly doubled. The treasurer's report showed the Institute to be financially sound. It was decided after some considerable discussion to offer the M.C.L.I. Jubilee Scholarship at the examination this June; and it is hoped that the interest thus disposed of will serve the wishes of all contributors. Mr. George Peters then took charge of the election of officers, which resulted as follows.

President—Mr. C. C. Pratt, re-elected.
1st V.P.—Mr. Wm. Drover, re-elected.
2nd V.P.—Mr. R. Hearder, re-elected.
Secretary—Mr. L. R. Curtis.
Treas.—Mr. Fred Peters, re-elected.
Asst. Secty.—Mr. J. M. Barbour, re-elected.
Librarian—Mr. E. Bursey, re-elected.
Asst. Librarian—Mr. A. E. Hayward, elected.
Committee — S. P. Whitewar, Thomas Soper and Geo. Peters, re-elected.
Arrangements are now being made for the annual dinner to be held in the near future, and due notice will appear in the press. With this meeting the Institute closed for the fifty-third session; but already its membership is looking forward to the re-opening next year.

The Band of the Catholic Cadet Corps will play, under the direction of Capt. Bulley, at the Dance in the C. C. C. Hall on Monday night.—apr9.31

Illustrated Lecture.

On Monday evening the members of Llewellyn Club will be entertained at Canon Wood Hall by Rev. Canon Smart, with a lecture on his visit to Canada and Nova Scotia last year. The lecture will be illustrated, the pictures describing a variety of scenes, and is sure to prove both interesting and instructive. Canon Smart is always a welcome visitor amongst the Club members and Parish workers, where his addresses are greatly appreciated.

Money and Booze Stolen by Burglars.

Bold, Bad Men Broke Into Stafford's Pharmacy and Helped Themselves.

Some bold, bad burglars who broke into Stafford's Pharmacy, Theatre Hill, early this morning, were lucky enough to happen upon $40 in cash and what is of more interest—some bottles of booze. The fact of an entry having been forced was first discovered at 3 o'clock this morning by Constables O'Neil and White, of the night watch, when they found the front door broken. Mr. Stafford was called from his home and upon examination discovered the loss. The store had been ransacked, the cash register (from which the $40 was taken) broken open, and the private desk forced. A half-full bottle of rum was found on the counter. This was perhaps a bottle which the visitors had broached and (knowing that they had lots more) getting broad-minded and generous, they decided to leave it for the store owners. This was commendable politeness, and proves the culture of the midnight entrants. A large stone, with which the window had been broken, was found. Some match stubs, also, were left behind. Just East of Deady's Lane, the police found the "remains" of a bottle of kick, and a strong odor pervading the night air. Here, again, is evidence of the marauders' kindness. Not having time to offer a drink, they left a reminder for passers-by. (All this morning there was a vast crowd about the spot, and many spectators went home lamenting that they had got nothing more than a sniff, while others, who came later, did not get even that. By now, however, the odor has been completely inhaled and not a smell remains.) The police are busily engaged on the case, and it is the hope that they will soon lay the burglars by the heels.

AN ENEMY OF MANKIND

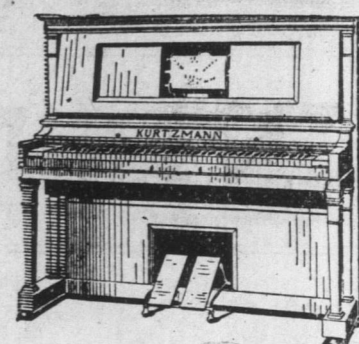

A Subtle Foe to Deal With

The subtle, unsuspected enemy, which, taking hold on the kidneys, saps them of their strength and vitality, rendering them inactive and unable to remove the poisons and waste substances from the blood, should immediately be dealt with. All who suffer from backache, pains in the sides, sciatica, rheumatism, neuralgia, constant headaches, constipation, that helpless feeling of lassitude; stiff, swollen joints, hands and ankles, sore muscles, sleeplessness, floating specks before the eyes, irritability, should at once begin treating the kidneys with Gin Pills, which are by far the most effective remedy for diseases of this vital organ.

The first sign of pain in the back or side is warning enough. Do not delay. Once the kidneys and bladder get out of order, most serious, and often fatal consequences are likely to follow in quick sequence. Get a box of Gin Pills today, and correct the derangement before it is too late. At all druggists or dealers 50c. Money refunded if not satisfied. Free sample on request.

RE-BUILT Piano Case Organs.

(Six Octaves.)
BY FAMOUS MAKERS.

We have in stock a number of Rebuilt Organs, piano case, six octave, by Bell, Doherty, Thomas, etc., which we are offering at the same price practically as five octave parlour organs. Every instrument guaranteed.

Owing to its limited scale the five octave organ is only suitable for sacred music. The advantage of the six octave instrument is apparent since its larger scale will accommodate any piano selection, while the finish, style and tone of these instruments should appeal to everyone.
