THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XXIV.

If so, it must be a very bird's-eye view, and very swiftly taken.

Look, then! One year has passed since the last act. And now the time is night; the scene, Disbrowe Park. It is more like a glimpse of fairyland than ever, this lovely night; for the whole stately mansion is one vast sheet of light. The beautiful fountains are sending vast jets of silver sparkling up in the serene moonlight and the trees are bright with the many colored lamps, that twinkle like myriads of fireflies, and give the whole scene an air of enchantment. The laurel walk is one blaze of illumination, and sweet delicious strains of music rise, and fall, and float on the still night air. Carriage after carriage rolls up the broad avenue, and throngs of magnificently-dressed ladies and stately gentlemen pass into the marble hall. Lady Earncliffe has just returned from the "land of the free and the home of the brave;" has been presented at court; made a decided sensation; and to-night gives her first ball.

See her there in white velvet, frosted with seed-pearls, sparkling with jewels, and floating in filmy point-lace—the most bewitching, the most dazzling countess in the peerage—receiving her guests. And yet she is our own Jacquetta, after all—the same sparkling little fairy as of yore. The short, dancing curls are of the old obnoxious hue; but a coronet becomes them wonderfully. The wicked gray eyes sparkle still with the old mocking light that was wont to madden a certain Captain Disbrowe, and the little rosebud mouth is wreathed with the same entrancing smile that once drove the dashing guardsman to the verge of despair. And there she stands, as bright and self-possessed, receiving her titled guests in her husband's superb drawing-rooms, as when she stood, cool and defiant, before him, that morning when he met her first at old Fontelle.

Our old and estimable friend, Grizle Howlet, having with her two sons, committed an atrocious robbery, suddenly found the old inn too hot to bid her, and decamped for the far West with Blazie—the hopeful Kit being caught, and sentenced to prison for life, and since then nothing has ever been heard of her; and so to both, resuscitated in pace.

As for Mr. Rowle and his cheery little helpmeet, they kept the "Maid" for many a day after that; and that pleasant hotel thrived and flourished like a green bay tree. And if ever you visit the remote and factitious region of New Jersey, good friends of mine, just make a pilgrimage to its ruins, which tradition saith are to be seen to this day. And so, reader, farewell.

[THE END.]

THE IMPRISONED HEIRESS

—OR—
THE SPECTRE OF EGREMONT

CHAPTER I.

"Then why should you hope that something would occur to free me from the compact?"

Her ladyship colored and looked confused.

In truth, she was most anxious that the compact between the fathers of these young people should be carried into effect, but she had affected an opposition in order to awaken the interest of Alexina in her betrothed. The heiress was exceedingly self-willed, and the countess had some wild fears that she might choose to discard Lord Ashcroft and abide the consequences.

The ruse succeeded, for Alexina said, with bitterness: "I understand, Lady Egremont. You wish me to remain single, fearing that you may lose something by my marriage. You will not be satisfied, allow me to assure you."

On returning to the mansion the ladies separated, the Lady Alexina retiring to her own suite of rooms, and Lady Egremont proceeding to the earl's "study"—a room that served principally for the use of cigars and meerschaums.

His lordship was engaged in his favorite occupation at the moment of her ladyship's entrance, but he immediately laid aside his pipe, placed a seat for her, and inquired:

"Well, Evelyn, you have explained everything to Alexina, have you not?"

"Yes; and she seems to regard Lord Ashcroft with much curiosity. If he should prove to be as handsome as report describes him, he will have no difficulty in winning Alexina's heart. I acted upon the ruse you suggested, Ewart, and her interest in Lord Ashcroft was immediately excited. She accused me of wishing to keep her single."

The earl smiled. "He was a portly man, with a fine, ruddy countenance, with hair and whiskers of an iron-gray hue. At first sight he seemed the impersonation of a 'fine old English gentleman' but a close observer would have noticed his shifting, uneasy glances when long regarded, and a nervousness of manner that seemed strangely out of place in one of his apparent health."

"Let her think what she will of us so that she obeys her father's behest, and marries Lord Ashcroft. If she were to refuse him she would forfeit her entire fortune except a decent annuity," and Lord Ashcroft would inherit it. Ashcroft is to be her heir under any condition, as her husband, or as her rejected lover, or in case of her death before coming of age. In either of the two latter cases, you and I will be left totally unprovided for."

"Xina will never refuse Lord Ashcroft, Ewart, you may rest assured," declared Lady Egremont. "She has too much pride to see another woman mistress of Egremont in her stead. It would be a death-blow to her to turn her back upon this place and go to live in some humbler spot. We have kept her secluded, and her heart is quite free. If Ashcroft has sense he can win her consent to a marriage within the month."

A surmise awaited the earl and the countess later that day, when they learned that, without a moment's warning, Lady Alexina had peremptorily dismissed her governess and her music teacher. This information was communicated by the aggrieved parties themselves; and when they had withdrawn, leaving the Lady Alexina's guardians by themselves, they looked at each other sadly, and her ladyship gave vent to the thought that oppressed them both by saying:

"When we have served Alexina sufficiently for her purposes, will she not fling us aside as she has done these faithful friends of her youth? Have we not reared a being who will yet wring our hearts by her ingratitude, and leave us to struggle in comparative poverty, now that we have become completely enervated by years of luxury?"

Windsor, N. S., Swept by Fire -- British Columbia's Agent General in London Passes Away--Over 86,000 Immigrants Brought to Canada This Season.

ANOTHER BIG BLAZE.
STOCKTON SPRINGS, Maine, Nov. 8. The docks and buildings on Cape Jellison Pier here, one of the largest on the Coast, were threatened with destruction by fire to-day at 11 o'clock. The freight houses of the Bangor and Aroostook Railroad and the Great Northern Paper Company and Dock No. 3 were in flames and other docks were endangered. Assistance was summoned from Bangor, Seasideport and Belfast.

$10,000 FIRE AT HALIFAX.
HALIFAX, Nov. 8. Fire broke out at 6 o'clock this morning in a clothing store conducted by Miss Mary Kane, 34 Gottingen Street, and spreading to adjoining tenants caused damage estimated at over $10,000. While no one was injured, five persons barely escaped with their lives and three families were rendered homeless.

2 CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.
VICTOR, N.Y., Nov. 8. Enos Aldridge, aged 6, and sister, Winona, 12, were burnt to death early to-day, when they were trapped on the upper floor of their blazing farm house home, about three miles from this village.

MONTREAL CHURCH DESTROYED.
MONTREAL, Nov. 9. The Saint Vincent De Paul Church, one of the oldest Catholic Churches in Montreal, situated in the eastern part of the city, was completely destroyed by fire here Saturday evening. The damage was estimated at over $300,000.

B. C. AGENT GENERAL DIES IN LONDON.
LONDON, Nov. 9. F. C. Wade, Agent General for British Columbia, died here this morning from muscular rheumatism. Last week he suffered from a severe heart attack and although considerable improvement was reported in his condition, last night he suddenly collapsed shortly after midnight and succumbed to another seizure a few hours later.

FIRE SWEEPS WINDSOR.
WINDSOR, N.S., Nov. 10. A fire started on a Water Street wharf at 1.15 this morning and quickly spread before a fifty-five mile an hour gale, that carried sparks and burning debris miles over the town, rendered forty-two families homeless destroyed buildings and caused damage estimated at $350,000 before finally being brought under control at daylight. Only the most strenuous work of firemen who had been brought from Halifax, Dartmouth, Wolfville and Kentville, saved the entire town from destruction. The wind-carried pieces of burning material high in the air and scattered them so widely that the firemen were at times fighting several separate blazes.

NEARLY 100,000 PASSENGERS LANDED AT QUEBEC.
QUEBEC, Nov. 9. From April 28, when the Canadian Pacific steamer, Minnedosa, the first passenger liner to reach this port from overseas during the present season of navigation, tied up at Quebec, until yesterday afternoon, when the Canadian Pacific liner Mont Laurier arrived, 98,867 passengers of all classes crossed the ocean to this port. These figures include 12,807 cabin and third class passengers who were destined for the United States, leaving a total balance of 86,060 for Canada. These figures are taken from the record of each liner arriving here. The passengers were brought here on one hundred and fifty-nine steamers.

PARR BELIEVED TO BE STILL AFLOAT.
NEW YORK, Nov. 8. Mariners on the North Atlantic for more than a year have been on the alert for the now famous derelict Governor Parr, a waterlogged schr. which has floated almost across the Atlantic and was sighted last on August 13th, off the Coast of Portugal, and although no other reports of her whereabouts have been received by the United States Hydrographic Office, it is believed in shipping circles that she is still a menace to navigation although outside the regular shipping lanes. The Governor Parr was of British registry, hailing from Bridgetown, Barbados, and left Ingramport, Nova Scotia, for Buenos Aires, on Sept. 27, 1923. She was a four masted, 200 feet long, 972 gross tons.

HID THE BODY.
NEW YORK, Nov. 8. Four young boys will be arraigned in the Children's Court in Jamaica today, after confessing last night that they had hidden the body of their chum, Ernest Schwer, Jr., after he had been accidentally shot and killed by a gun they were playing with ten days ago.

SNOW STORM SWEEPS MONTANA.
HELENA, Mont., Nov. 8. The first heavy snowfall of the season was sweeping northward early today, with indications it would cover the entire western section of the state before noon. Butte reported the storm approaching a blizzard, with the thermometer four degrees below freezing.

POOR HOPE FOR LODGE.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 9. The outlook for the recovery of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who suffered a stroke at the Charlesgate Hospital here on Wednesday, was pronounced most unfavorable by his physicians to-night. He failed perceptibly during the day, it was stated. (Later: Senator Lodge died at 11.14 last night).

The Alexander Stair Carpet Holders

A MODERN TIME SAVER.

Stair Carpets fitted with "Alexander" Holders can be laid and removed in a fraction of the time required where stair rods or plates are used. Each Holder is held securely by one screw only and is thus very easy to fix, and once in place need never be removed. Turning the Holders vertical, which can be done as you walk upstairs, completely releases the carpet—and relaying is just as easy. Neat models, and never require cleaning.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

WHERE MILLY DIDN'T GO.

Last week one of the girls who used to live in our neighborhood and who married most successfully and went away to live with her two charming children.

She spent several days in town and had a wonderful time renewing her old acquaintances. She was quite a little older than I and not of my crowd, so I did not happen to meet her, but everywhere I went I heard people speak of having seen Milly and her children.

That is, everywhere but one place. And that one place was the home of an elderly couple whose daughter, one of Milly's closest friends, had also married and gone away to live.

It would have been a great event. The old folks lead a very quiet life, one of them is completely shut in the other partially. For them, a visit from a friend or neighbor is food for thought and talk for days.

When I saw them a few days after Milly had left, I expected they would have a great deal to say about Milly and how she looked and her reminiscences of the good old times of which they had been a part.

To my surprise I found that Milly had not even been near them. Yet, not only had their daughter been one of Milly's closest friends, but they had entertained Milly again and again at a time when Milly's own home atmosphere had been very pleasant and when she was in no position to return their hospitality.

And in return for all that Milly couldn't give them even an hour.

Your Adverb Is Way Off.

You think Milly extraordinarily selfish and ungrateful. But although your adjectives may be right, I'm afraid your adverb isn't.

Milly isn't the only one as thoughtless as that in my own immediate acquaintance and doubtless you don't have far to look for Millys—among those you know.

The man or woman who will take the pains to get into touch now and then with the old folks who are alone in the home from which those who were once their young companions have been taken by death or by life, is the exception rather than the rule.

It is so easy to forget or to put off this kind of an obligation. It is so hard in the business of everyday life to attend to it.

High Dividends On Kindness Investments.

I once knew a young man whose chum was killed suddenly in a tragic accident. He was a travelling man only home for a few days every few weeks. These home times were naturally precious to him, but he almost never failed to make an opportunity to go and see that chum's father and mother and try to bring a little of the young life they bitterly missed into their home. When death came suddenly to him, too, I think I can say they mourned him almost as if he had been another son.

In such an empty home, a visit, a call, a letter on Mother's Day perhaps one at Christmas time, can mean ten times as much to the receiver as the giver has put into it.

Few investments in kindness and thoughtfulness pay better dividends.

Spiders That Make Fly-Papers

STRANGE HABITS OF WONDERFUL INSECTS.

No creature has more curious or interesting habits than the spider.

The Queensland spider has been called "The Magnificent," because the female has gorgeous coloring. One of the most interesting features of the Queensland spider is its method of catching the moths upon which it feeds. It does this in the same way in which we capture flies on a fly-paper!

The spider hangs down from a web and spins a thread of about an inch and a half in length. At the end of this thread, which is held out by one of its hind legs, is a drop of some very sticky substance, about the size of a pin's head. When a moth comes near, the spider swings its thread round and round at an amazing speed. Once the moth has been touched by the drop on the end, it becomes held fast. Then it is pulled up by the spider and killed and eaten.

Preparing For Dinner.

Rather similar is the behaviour of another spider which may be said to be a relation of the Queensland insect. It is found in South Africa and is as large as its relative.

It spins a line parallel to the ground and attaches to it a thread with a drop of adhesive matter at the end. This is held out by the third and shortest leg. When its preparations are complete, the spider whirls the thread round and round for about a quarter of an hour.

At the end of this time contact with the air has taken all the stickiness from the drop, which the spider then pulls up and swallows. It rests for a few minutes and then repeats the performance.

It is interesting to learn that neither of these spiders makes a web for catching insects.

KEEP YOUR SCALP Clean and Healthy WITH CUTICURA

THE SUPER STUFF.

To be a mighty super-man is no desire of mine; I would not lead the caravan or with Napoleons shine; I follow up a normal plan, and think the journey fine. I mingle with the workaday crowds and talk of middlestrings, nor miss the glory that enshrouds the man whose mind has wings; my head is not among the clouds, but close to mundane things. The super-man is short of friends, he's shunned by common gents; along a weary trail he wends, he rests in lonely tents, and no one borrows coin or lends the great man fifty cents. The delegates who stand and talk of ten-cent town affairs till midnight by the village clock, grow dumb as Belgian hares when Super-man comes up the walk—their barb he never shares. The old wives gossip at the gate, they gossip while they knit, they strive to get their scandals straight that each may make a hit; but when appears the super-skate they furl their tongues and quit. The children play upon the green such golden days of yore; but when the super-man is seen they wilt and play no more. The super-guy kicks up a noise in realms where savants be, but he's remote from all the joys that comfort you and me; he'd give a lot of girls and boys would let him share their gloe.

Cochrane St. Thanksgiving

ELOQUENT ADDRESSES BY REV. NEWTON POWELL.

Commonly this event would be called Anniversary, but in the day when there was no Dominion wide Thanksgiving, the anniversary of the congregation came to be thus known and is likely so to continue.

A year ago, a preacher from Ontario and a singer from Halifax to say nothing of the excellent local organization, created an expectation that helped in the success of yesterday. But the success was deserved by its own merits.

Rev. Newton Powell is youthfully grey, a little of the cherubic in appearance, in private possessed of very slight lisp, and a fund of sparkling stories. In the pulpit he is shorter than most anniversary preachers which is another way of saying he knows what to leave out. We do not call him an orator, but we call him a preacher. The difference we take it is soul and was particularly evidenced in the morning congregation, when it was a marked case of "Thy soul speaks to mine," and audible sobbing was heard in more than one corner. The rarity of such a happening in many of our staid city churches is a tribute to the greatness of the preacher's presentation of the subject.

THE SHADOW OF A GREAT ROCK was developed, after a deft word painting of a desert and an oasis, first as pertaining to nations as in the case of Britain's protection to Belgium. Next the helpful shelter of the church was illustrated by a story that recalled the name well known to Newfoundlanders, Chas. Ladner. The home was portrayed as the medicine of the tired business man. The climax showed the help that one individual could give another, but that the inspiration for the best helplessness came only through the greatest of all personalities, our Lord Jesus Christ.

The evening sermon was harder to report. The appeal was distinctly to the young people and to the intellect. For example even the hope of Heaven as a motive for good living was distinctly disavowed. The imperative demand is not how will you face God by and bye, but how will you face your fellow man now.

That might seem a startling doctrine for a Methodist pulpit, but the speaker justified his position with convincing skill.

Jeremiah saw that God's role for Israel was that of prophet-Nation. Israel dropped her eyes to the market place and has ceased to be a nation. She was marred in making and had to become a lesser vessel. God's question "Can I not make the clay as I will?" is not one regarding ability to command but refers to Israel's willingness to be moulded.

Nations have been great illustrations of the acted parable of "The Potter." The creation of man was a tragic "potting." The speaker was highly dramatic in this passage.

As in the morning sermon, the speaker's preaching instinct led to the true climax the "potting" of the individual. An instance was given of a remark made in a shoe store in Boston "What would happen if a man was entirely surrendered to Christ." The clerk who overheard the question was remade in his life's purposes. He was D. L. Moody.

The music of such an event demands special mention. The fact that of an audience of 1300 at least 1100 stayed for the third hour of a two and one half hours' service is a testimony to the hunger of the masses for good music.

Throughout the day in the congregational responses and in Sanctus, Introit, Chanting, and Responses by the choir the well proven aids to the spirit of worship were emphasized much more than is usual in a Methodist service and very much to the good. This tendency is very evident in all the non-liturgical churches.

A discussion of the musical after the service will be sufficient indication of the work of the day. Mr. Wylie's tenor solo and the soprano-alto duet by Misses M. Mews and R. Curtis, were the individual-voice numbers. These were both notable for their freshness of tone and quality. It was good after several years' interval to hear a Cello solo again in a church service. Mr. Bernard Mayers showed himself a master of his instrument, and especially in producing full tone. His interpretation of the two numbers showed the mind of a musician. Mr. Mews contributed two organ solos, Andante Pastoral by Salome and Coro Joyeuse by S. S. Marks. The first displayed the variety of the organ's possibilities, the second, if the reporter is any judge, was a tribute to the organist. The chief requirements of the selection is power, but an organist can show his own powers as well. Mr. Mews did. That is saying a great deal.

The choir sang: "Bless the Lord" by Ippolitoff unaccompanied. This was to most the gem of the choir work. The volume and blend was superb. If it were to be divided, "Over the deep as daylight falls" by W. H. Judge would be the other competitor.

At the evening service Governor and Lady Allardye and party were present.

C. H. J.

Creating Continuous Interest

The guessing contest in connection with Gerald S. Doyle's booth at the Exhibition is attracting crowds every afternoon and night. The large map of Newfoundland suspended in the centre of the exhibit has a colored pin stuck in each place where Mr. Doyle's goods are sold. The map is literally covered with pins—so great is the distribution of these well known goods. It is very difficult to tell how many pins are in the map. They extend from Cape Norman to Cape Race along the South West Coast to Cape Ray and all over St. George's and St. Barbe Districts, while the interior of the Island shows a pin for every place that is inhabited. On the peninsula of Avalon they are thickest. In fact so thick are the pins in Conception Bay that it is impossible to form an idea of their number even from a close view. Twenty dollars will be given the person guessing nearest the correct number of pins in the map.

TO-NIGHT! TO-NIGHT! — Mount Cashel Band Concert at "The Gaiety" to-night. Special prizes for the Elimination numbers, and an extra special prize of a Gold Piece will be given the person holding the winning number. All who enter the hall whether dancers or spectators, will be given a number, and during the interval a number will be drawn, and the person holding the winning number wins the Gold Piece. Admission 25c. but worth $1.00.—nov10.11

Obituary

H. J. WATTS, H.M.C. (H. F. SHORTIS.)

By the death of H. J. Watts of H. M. Customs, which occurred on Saturday evening, St. John's has lost a most respected citizen, and the Public Service a most efficient and popular official.

H. J. Watts was born in Harbor Grace 74 years ago, and was the oldest son of the late Claudius Watts, who at the time of his demise had nearly rounded off the century. He received his education at the famous Grammar School in that town, and after leaving that institution, he was employed for a short time in the employ of W. H. Thompson, Anglo Telegraph operator and druggist. About 1870, Mr. Watts left his native town and travelled extensively in the United States and Canada. He went as far west as the Rocky Mountains, and was engaged in various employments in towns of both countries. After some years, he went to St. Pierre, and was in the employ of Clinton & Sheehan for about seven years. While there he became proficient in the French language, which became very useful to him in after life. After leaving St. Pierre, he returned to Harbor Grace, and opened up an extensive grocery store, in which he prospered, until the death of Joseph Godden, ex-M.H.A. for Harbor Grace, when he succeeded the above gentleman in the Custom House. After some years he was transferred to the Customs Department of St. John's, and seldom has there been a more capable, courteous and popular official in the public service. John Watts was the same to all men and the enemy of none. He was held in the highest esteem and respect by his superiors, as well as by his subordinates and the general public.

Few men in Newfoundland had a greater grasp upon the historical affairs of our country than had the deceased gentleman. This is not to be wondered at, because it was handed down to him from his grandfather, and father, who always held responsible positions in the mercantile affairs of our country—both being employed in the great firm of George & James Kemp of Carbonear, and later on his father was bookkeeper in the employ of the enterprising firm of Ridley & Sons, Harbor Grace. His father always kept a record of events, and could relate many important events of the early days, handed down by tradition, and we know that tradition is the keynote of research. It directs your attention to the proper places to begin your investigation, and throws light on the salient points.

John Watts was of the old school—a man of exceptional qualities of heart; honest and conscientious. His ardent devotion to his home and family, his quiet and patient disposition endeared him to all who knew him. The exemplary life led will always live in the hearts of those he left to mourn. In his official capacity and through his business he proved himself a man of honor and integrity, sparing no pains that he might give the best value possible to the work in hand. The loss of his two beautiful and accomplished daughters a few years ago was a terrible stroke, and did much to break down a robust constitution, which hitherto had never known a day's illness. He was the last of his generation, his sister Mrs. (Capt.) James Parsons, brothers, Capt. Theodore Watts, the famous mariner employed in the South Sea Seafishery in New Zealand, and H. C. Watts having predeceased him some ten or twelve years ago.

He leaves to mourn a wife (nee Miss Strathairn), one daughter, Mary, who was a nurse on the battlefields and Hospitals of France, Belgium and elsewhere during the Great War, and who arrived home to attend upon her good father, and one son John, who conducts a large farming industry in Harbor Grace, to whom the sincere sympathy of the community is extended in their bereavement. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning to the Railway Station, and interment being in Harbor Grace, and thus the remains of a truly good man will rest in peace in the family plot amongst those of his ancestors, children, brothers and sisters.

Miss Mercedes Colbert and Leonard Pretty Married

Miss Mercedes Colbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Colbert, of St. John's, Newfoundland, and Leonard Pretty, of 413 Fifty-seventh Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Pretty, also of St. John's, were married recently at St. Agathas R. C. Church, Forty-ninth Street and Seventh Avenue, by the Rev. Father Fitzpatrick. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Thomas Crimmins, of 523 Fifty-first Street, with whom she made her home, for the immediate members of the families and a few intimate friends.

The bride's gown was of pink georgette with which she wore a hat to match and her sister, Mrs. Crimmins, in a gown of poude blue, with a hat to match was the bride's only attendant. Thomas Colbert, brother of the bride was best man for Mr. Pretty.

UNITED STATES STEEL.

Third Quarter Results Demonstrate Anew Corporation's Ability to Make Fair Profits Even in Time of Depression. (Boston News Bureau, Nov. 30th.) N. Y.—Steel Corporation Statement for third quarter, showing earnings of $20,717,415, and net for 5,983,925 shares of common of $1.72 a share, demonstrated anew ability to make fair profits even in periods of depression. Operations fell to 40% in July, yet in that month earnings were $10,430,105, at annual rate of $125,000,000. Perhaps the most surprising feature was contained in the monthly figures. These showed practically no change from month to month. September, by far the best month in operations and shipments, brought smaller profits than July, $10,180,825. This can be attributed only to the decline of about $2 a ton in steel prices meantime.

For nine months, the corporation, after dividends, showed $25,171,601. Quarterly dividend requirements, including 50 cents extra on the common which has for four quarters been regularly declared, are $15,200,212. Full year's dividend, including extras, has already been earned, with a margin of $9,971,389.

Outlook for the first quarter is encouraging. Bookings and operations have been steadily gaining since July. Plants are now operating at an average of about 63%, and, unless political events cause general hesitation, all factors point to further gains. Steel prices seem to be scraping bottom. Already the trade is talking of advancing prices, and demand seems sufficient to justify such a move in some lines. Price advances would reflect themselves but slowly in earnings. Nevertheless there is every reason to expect fourth-quarter profits will be substantially larger than the three months just reported on.

MERITOR HAIR BRUSHES.

It's in the roots that your hair lives or dies. Smoothing the hair won't do. And yet much brushing is mere pampering. You must brush the scalp.

The Meritor Hair Brush is made by hand to get down to the scalp. It exercises it and stirs up the circulation of the blood at the roots of the hair. Use it for say thirty days, five minutes morning and night and then look at the gloss and glow of your hair. Meritor Brushes are made for men and women in several patterns. Price $2.50 to $4.00.

Anniversary of Armistice Day

To-morrow will be the sixth anniversary of the end of a struggle in which all the great powers were engaged, and not a few of the smaller ones as well. Into it without hesitation the various parts of the British Empire flung their wealth and their manhood, and from it they emerged weakened, it is true, by the losses sustained, but infinitely stronger because of the sacrifices made in the cause of right, and fortified by the knowledge that they had worthily upheld the best traditions of their race.

To-morrow throughout the Empire the anniversary will be observed by two minutes of solemn silence. This simple tribute to those who rest gloriously beneath a foreign soil or in the bed of the ocean is one in which all can join from the oldest to the youngest, and as it is a duty that we owe to those heroes that their memory should ever be kept green, it is to be hoped that our children will be taught to observe that silence and to understand its real meaning.

The remarkable change which took place in the status of various countries within the Empire as a result of the test to which they were put is worthy of note. Formerly dependencies in the strictest sense of the word, they came to man's estate during the struggle, and to-day participate in the Empire deliberations as co-partners with the parent State, and their voices are also heard at the council board of the League of Nations.

This birth of a national spirit has not tended to encourage the dominions to sever the ties which bind them to the Mother Country. The effect has been quite the reverse, and the loyalty which formerly existed has been renewed and strengthened by the sacrifices made in a common cause.

This year we have reason to give expression in full to the rejoicing which should mark Armistice Day. As one of those countries which bore the brunt of battle, we have the gratification of realizing that the real fruits of victory have at last been gained and that, Peace, as lasting as any human agency can make it, reigns for the first time in the world since 1914. On this occasion, too, we can gaze with pride on the beautiful War Memorial which has been erected on the King's Beach. It stands there as a monument to those who fell; but let us not forget that it also testifies to the fidelity of the Oldest Colony in the days of adversity and to the glorious manner in which she gave practical proof of her loyalty and devotion to the Crown and the ideals which it represents.

ALTHOUGH WE DO THE PAEAN DANCE.

Brave Hearts, that sleep in France! Sleep on, in dreamless peace, sleep on!
 Be yours the Elysian trance,
 The glorious rest from deeds well done.

Great Hearts, that fought in France,
 When men in other lands stood numb,
 We to the pagan dance,
 But you, are you forever dumb?

Dumb, Nay! in trumpet tones
 You speak—proclaim the peoples free.

Forever shall your bones
 The letters of an epic be—

A song of the wee of Time,
 Crushed into years of agony,
 Endured by souls sublime,
 To save their race from slavery.

Beloved of those you saved!
 Dear Hearts that nobly rest in France!
 Our cheeks with tears are laved,
 Altho' we do the pagan dance.

Greetings From Earl Haig

 "Best wishes to all old comrades on the anniversary of the Armistice."

Britain's Sons—Witty and Wise

If you want a good laugh, attend the Lecture in the College Hall to-night on the above subject, by Rev. R. Newton Powell. The rev. gentleman has the grace of humour developed in high degree, and those who attend the Lecture this evening will spend a most enjoyable hour. As illustrating the theme, Mr. Ruggles will sing three songs: "There's a Land, Dear Land," "Loch Lomond," and "Mother Macree," accompanied by Mr. Gordon Christian, L.R.A.M. His Excellency the Governor has graciously consented to preside. Tickets on sale at Dicks & Company and at the door.

Nfld. Highlanders Attend Divine Service

The Newfoundland Highlanders, headed by their Pipes and Drums, under command of Lieut.-Col. W. H. Herder, paraded to Wesley Church yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, where Divine Service was held. Upwards of eighty of all ranks were on parade and their smart soldierly appearance was favourably commented on as they marched along. The service was conducted by Rev. J. G. Joyce. This was the Highlander's last Church parade for the season.

Two Minutes Silence To-Morrow

To-morrow morning the Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. will meet at the National War Memorial, when the two minutes silence will be observed at 11 o'clock. A short ceremony will then take place followed by the placing of wreaths. A similar ceremony will take place at the Sergeant's Memorial near the foot of Garrison Hill at which all the Sergeants are asked to attend at 10.30.

With the Radio

On Friday night last several of those with radio sets in the city heard a concert broadcasted from the Canadian National Railway Station at Moncton, N.B., for a first time, and the results obtained were very gratifying to those who had the pleasure of listening in. On Saturday night J. J. Collins picked up S.S. Leviathan, one of the largest trans-Atlantic liners, 860 miles out from New York, and heard two musical selections rendered by the ship's band.

CEREMONY AT ST. BON'S.
 This morning at St. Bon's College, a very simple though highly impressive ceremony was carried out, when the Executive of the Alumni Association placed a wreath on the College War Memorial. At 10.45 the pupils assembled in the Aula Maxima, where the Principal addressed them on the significance of the ceremony and introduced the President of the Association, W. R. Howley, K.C. The President was attended on the platform by the Vice-President, J. G. Higgins, B.A., the Secretary, R. S. Furlong, C.J. Cahill, M.H.A., and Dr. V. P. Burke, F.H.D. The President in a brief address pointed out to his fellow pupils past and present the attitude that had been adopted by the boys who were killed, and their simple creed of duty. The duties of peace are no less than the duties of war, the speaker pointed out, and stressed the fact that all had to follow the noble example of the ones that were killed whilst on duty and carry out our duties. Immediately after his address the school followed the Executive to the College War Memorial, and then in the name of the Alumni the President laid the wreath at the base. One minute silence was observed. The school then dispersed to their classes. Many Old Boys attended the ceremony and were very pleased with its simplicity and impressiveness.

At Gower St. Church

(I. C. M.)
 No part of education attracts more personal interest than the sermon, and the preacher. True it is, that the ordinances of the church, such as its sacraments and rituals, are of great importance, but in public worship, the sermon may be taken as the climax of the service—hence its importance.

St. John's has always had its share of able preachers, and now its ranks are supplemented by the ministry of the Rev. Mr. Povey, who is the associate pastor of the Rev. Hammond Johnston. Yesterday was Mr. Povey's initial service in the city, and he made a splendid impression upon the congregation. Not only did he do this by his preaching, but also by the reverential manner in which he conducted the entire service. We have heard it said of some clergymen that they mistook their calling, but this does not apply to the Rev. Mr. Povey—he has found his calling, and his department dignifies its sanctity. He is the nearest representation of the Evangelist Bromley, who visited here forty-eight years ago, that we have heard in all that time.

His preaching at Gower Street Church yesterday was marked by rare originality of thought, and by clear, concise expression. He spoke of the Christian life, and applied its conditions to national and domestic affairs. The confidence and innocency of the child are symbolic of the Golden Age which is in store for humanity. The figures of prophecy in this respect are meant to be real. The present strained relations of society do not represent the life that God meant for his children. He pronounced him defaced, the divine purpose defeated, and one order of life exists preying upon another. This implies warfare among men, and contentions between individuals—such as bad temper and ill-will. Even the lower order of life is effected by man's cruelty—there is universal estrangement, and antagonism is rampant.

But there is a remedy for these evils, and finally the breach will be healed. The prophet saith of "the Counselor," "the Mighty God," and of "the Government" being upon his shoulders. This gives the key to the situation, by instituting Divine Law, instead of human. When this takes place, the order of society will be a fulfilment of the prophecy which speaks of "the lion lying down with the lamb"—when the spirit of the child-life will dominate the world.

The conditions prevailing in the world at present will be remedied when men personally adopt the principles implied in the Divine Law. This may have a far off sound; it may seem impossible; but it is not. All nature is in harmony, and as the poet says: "Only man is vile." He is vile because of his apostasy from God; but because of his apostasy from God, and Divine rule will abolish apostasy. This is the belief of all who see the impress of the Divine. This impress has never been totally obliterated. At times it almost disappeared; but like the seven thousand who never "knew the knee to Baal," there has ever been a "remnant."

One of the Makers and Builders of Canada

To-morrow, Nov. 11th, the Venerable Bishop of Calgary, Rt. Rev. Wm. Cyprin Plinkham, D.D., celebrates his 80th birthday. As regards consecration, he is the oldest Bishop in the Church of Canada and with one or two exceptions, in the Episcopal Church in America, the oldest in the whole Anglican Communion. He is also the first native of Newfoundland raised to the Episcopacy. Writing on the 18th of last month to one of his relatives here, he stated that he had not been as well as usual, but was better that day, and with the very fine weather then prevailing, hoped soon to be quite well. There are now but few of your readers who remember the Bishop before he left his native land for St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, but the few will be very glad that he has been spared so long to have taken so active a part in the work he has loved and to do it well, and will wish that, "as his lays, so will his strength be."—COM.

Magistrates Court

Four German stokers and one Spaniard of the S. S. Monte Blanco were arraigned before court this morning charged with (1) loose and disorderly conduct; (2) assaulting the Chief Engineer and second officer of S. S. Monte Blanco with intent to do grievously bodily harm. By the evidence submitted, the first assault was committed on board the ship when the Chief Engineer was badly handled by the accused. One of whom hit him a violent blow on the head with a shovel. The second assault took place near the Post Office on Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock, when the second officer was attacked by three of the men and badly beaten about the head and body, and had to be assisted into Connors Drug Store to have his injuries attended to. In court this morning none of the prisoners could speak English, and being without an interpreter, very little could be gained from them in answer for their conduct. Mr. John Penelon represented the ship in the case, and asked the court to hold the prisoners over until Wednesday next, which was granted. In the meantime the five prisoners are held on remand and at noon to-day, they were removed to the penitentiary.

A drunk and disorderly was sent down for 14 days. A number of characters taken in for safe keeping were discharged. A boy charged with stealing four brace of rabbits from the shop door of Water Street, was convicted and sentenced to the penitentiary to receive eight lashes of the birch. Two other boys who were arrested in connection with the above theft were discharged. There was no evidence to show that they had anything to do with the stealing.

The Strike Situation

A NEW PROPOSITION TO BE SUBMITTED.

Up to going to press no settlement of the strike was apparent, although the situation seems a little more hopeful for an amicable solution of the deadlock. This morning a meeting of the L.S.P.U. Executive Committee, it is understood that a new proposition was discussed which will be submitted to a meeting of the Union this afternoon. The new proposition is stated to be as follows:—From Nov. 3rd, until March 31st, the men will go to work at 8 a.m. and cease at 6 p.m. at the old rate of 60 cents per hour. From seven p.m. to midnight 25 cents per hour extra, instead of ten cents as at present. Beginning April 1st, until Nov. 3rd, the men will work a 10 hour day at the old scale of wages except for overtime which will be 75 cents per hour or time and a half. So far there has been no conferences between the Union and Employers. According to the latter any propositions coming from the Union must be submitted in writing, as on previous occasions discussions proved futile owing to the labor representatives' disinclination to close any deal without getting consent of their body. If the men accept the proposals which the delegates discussed this morning they will be submitted to the Employers' Association this evening. The S. S. Rosalind sailed last night under sealed orders with her cargo on board. She arrived at St. John's at 3.15 a.m. S. S. Sable I. arrived in port this morning early. The ship had 22 head of cattle on board. These were landed by the crew. It is understood the negotiations are underway to despatch the Sable I. to an outpost to discharge. The Sable arrived in port from Liverpool at 1 p.m. The mails and passengers were landed from a lighter. So far there is no intimation of what will be done with her cargo, although it is rumoured that the ship will proceed to Halifax, should a settlement of the strike not be effected within a short while.

ROME, Nov. 10.
 Dr. Italo Balbo, in his capacity as Commander-in-Chief of the Fascist National Militia, has challenged to a duel yesterday by Gen. Varrini, Commander of the Italian patriot. After Gen. Garibaldi's second having considered the "challenge to a duel" made yesterday by Gen. Varrini, Commander of the Fascist Militia they asserted that Varrini was not the head of the Militia and that he had not the right to ask for satisfaction from Garibaldi. Their principal was ready to accept a duel with premier Mussolini. The original challenge was made because of Garibaldi's protest against the alleged attack by Fascist Militia upon unarmed former soldiers on Tuesday, when Rome was celebrating the sixth anniversary of the Italian Armistice with Austria.

C. L. B. Cadets

The First Newfoundland Regiment March Lads Brigade Cadets yesterday marked the 33rd anniversary of their organization. Founded by the late Colonel W. M. Gee on St. Martin's Day, November 11th, 1891, it was to Newfoundland the honour of starting the 1st Overseas Company, and to-day C.L.B. Companies are all over the Empire, and boys at work trying to maintain the motto "Fight the Good Fight" and advance Christ's Kingdom amongst the lads of all classes. The birthday of the Brigade is always commemorated by Church Services on the nearest Sunday to St. Martin's Day, and an anniversary tea and concert for the boys. Early yesterday morning officers and lads in uniform wended their way to St. Thomas's Church at 1 o'clock for Holy Communion. Rev. J. B. Elliott and W. E. Godfrey officiated. Many faces who were faithful attendants at this annual invocation were absent, but the thoughts of some of the older Brigade members brought them vividly to memory. The absent ones had joined the Church triumphant, and of these many, sleep with their gallant comrades in France, but their noble example of personal service and self-sacrifice in the years that have gone makes their presence felt if unseen with us today.

The Brigade attended St. Thomas's again in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. Lt.-Col. Walter F. Rendell, C.B.E., was in command, and over six hundred all ranks on parade, including fifty-two from Portugal Cove Company, Old Comrades and Girl Guides. The Spencer College Guides, Girls' Friendly and Church of England Orange Companies were in the line, and they were a fine, well set up lot. The Battalion Brass and Bursell's Bagpipe Band were also on parade. Portugal Cove Company motored up in two trucks under command of Capt. Sheppard, O.C., and Rev. Andrew T. Tulk, with Lieuts. Miller and Somerset. Mesdames Tulk and Sheppard also came up to view the parade and visited the Armoury Headquarters. Field College Company paraded under Capt. Horsley, O.C.

The service was conducted by the Rev. of St. Thomas's. The Rev. Chaplain, Rt. Rev. the Bishop of Newfoundland, Revs. Andrew Tulk, H. L. Pike and W. E. Godfrey were present. Rev. W. E. Godfrey, Curate of St. Thomas's, gave the address from the pulpit. The speaker referred to the anniversary of the Brigade and admonished all ranks to carry on "fighting the good fight." The full choir were present, and the officers are grateful to Prof. Herbert Stirling and the members of the choir for the excellent music, making the services to enjoyable. Lieut. Eric Jerratt was in charge of the Colour Party. Capt. L. Stick, Adjutant, was on duty and did excellent work in managing the large parade of various units, as the Armoury and Church were taxed almost to capacity. Col. R. G. Rendell, C.B.E., and Capt. N. Snow, of the C. L. B. Reserve of Officers, attended the service and occupied seats with the Mess. Full size decorations were worn. As the weather was cold the Regiment marched back to the Armoury, when Lt.-Col. Walter Rendell extended a very hearty welcome to Col. R. G. Rendell, C.B.E., for fourteen years Officer Commanding the Regiment.

A hearty welcome was also extended to Capt. N. Snow, who organized the first C.L.B. Brass Band and placed it on a solid foundation. Col. Rendell was delighted to see President Crane and his large number of Old Comrades on duty, including Capt. C. B. Dicks and Frank Miles, who did yeoman service when on the active list. Col. R. G. Rendell, C.B.E., was asked to officially present Sergt. Barrett of No. 2 Section F. Company, with the Outerbridge Shield won by his men in the recent competition. He also presented the N.C.O.'s recently promoted with their Ladies Corporal, Corporal and Sergeant chevrons. Col. R. G. Rendell then addressed his old Regiment, and was much pleased to congratulate them on their appearance and numbers. He was delighted to hear in a recent visit to London whilst chatting with the authorities that amongst all the various overseas troops in London during the war, the boys of the Nfld. Regt. conducted themselves generally, in England, better than any other Colonial unit, and he was glad to hear this as they maintained their country's name. Col. R. G. Rendell received quite an ovation from the Old Comrades and all ranks present, who were delighted to see and hear his voice once more at C.L.B. Headquarters.

All ranks were glad to see Portugal Cove Company present for the first time, and hope now that the ice is broken that they will come often.

INDEPENDENT TOBACCO CO. LTD.

The Independent Tobacco Company, and the Tobaccos for which Messrs. Tessier & Company are agents, are together in one large booth. Mr. S. Faour features three popular brands of cigarettes done up in familiar packages, viz: Independent, Royal Prince and Sweet Dream, all of which are of local manufacture. Mr. Tessier's display consists of such well known tobaccos as Central Union, Workman's Club, and Dill's Best, sliced in tins, and ready rubbed, in jars, etc. The whole forms a very pleasing exhibit and one of which the designers may well feel proud.

COLONIAL CORDAGE COMPANY.

The Colonial Cordage Company's display of lines, twines, ropes, etc., is an elaborate one, and the goods show what can be done in this connection in the country. All kinds and sizes of ropes are to be found in the display, put up in tubes, balls and cones, viz: Hemp and Cotton Fishing Lines, Hemp and Cotton Fishing Twines, Sail Twine, and various other Twines for the making of herring nets, seines, traps, etc. The quality of the goods was the subject of much comment and it certainly speaks well for the local manufacturers.

JAS. BAIRD, LTD.

Messrs. Jas. Baird, Ltd., have a booth beautifully decorated and artistically arranged. The colors of orange and black, with French autumn leaves entwined through the lattice work with the spotted lights, gives a wonderful effect, and needs to be seen to be appreciated. On Thursday last the firm made a change in their display and are now showing some beautiful art needle-work, made by Messrs. H. E. Verran & Co., New York, makers of Royal Society goods. The display is one of the best seen here and the owners are to be congratulated on its excellence.

DODD'S GARAGE, LTD.

A very interesting exhibit in the Curling Rink, is that of the Ford Sedan, of which the above firm are the distributors. The Ford Sedan is a five passenger model, and is equipped with all the latest modern improvements. It is upholstered in the finest cloth obtainable and for service and comfort in a low priced car, it has few equals. The price is very reasonable and comes within the reach of everybody. Mr. J. Murphy, one of the Agents, can be found at the booth and will gladly give any information desired.

J. B. MITCHELL & SON, LTD.

Messrs. J. B. Mitchell & Son, have an exhibit of Golden Pheasant and Wilson's Certified Bacon, which is artistically arranged in a pretty booth. The booth on one side is done up in cabinet style, where there are a number of young ladies in waiting who will serve visitors with the firm's brew, and, in addition to a refreshing drink, supply their guests with bacon sandwiches.

UNITED TOWNS ELECTRIC CO. & AVALON TELEPHONE CO.

The display of the United Towns Electric Company is one of the finest in the Exhibition. Much prominence is given to the electrical fittings, such as, Toasters, Grills, Irons, Electric Sewing Machine, etc. A feature of this exhibit is the Gurney Electric Range, which has four discs and four large ovens, whilst a small unit is also attached to the range for the purpose of keeping food warm. A series of photographs are also to be seen at this booth, showing the Company's operations at Seal Cove, viz: The Main Dam, the Flume and Power House. The Flume is 4,000 feet long and 7 feet in diameter. The plant is now running in full operation and during the Fair the light is being supplied in both buildings by this Company.

The Avalon Telephone Company also have an interesting display and show the various implements used in the installation of the telephone system, in the country. The overhead and underground wiring system, etc., can be seen at the booth. For the benefit of Exhibitors at the Fair a number of booths have been installed with the telephone system, and it has given entire satisfaction.

BAIRD & CO.

Here is displayed the firm's well known agencies, viz: Blue Bird, Trymore and Heather Teas, Bourville Cocos, Borax Soap, Simco Motor Oil and other articles. All of the above goods are put up in elaborate packages and the whole forms a very pleasing exhibit.

COWAN BROKERAGE CO. LTD.

Messrs. The Cowan Brokerage Co., Ltd., have a display of canned goods, where prominence is given to the Dominion Canners, of Hamilton, Ont., for which the firm is agent. Before passing from this booth mention must be made of the Decca Gramophone, also a full line of calendars on display for the season of 1925. One of the attractions for many at this booth is the Magnette Wonder Sign Board, where letters may be placed in any position on the board as desired. During the first night of the Fair a demonstration of high frequency was given by Mr. Ernest Ash, the Electrician, from the top of the booth, and was followed with much interest by the visitors.

C. A. HUBLEY.

Mr. C. A. Hubley, Plumbing and Hoisting Engineer, has a booth well arranged in which there are displayed plumbing utensils, heating apparatus, besides a display of pipes and pipe fittings, covering, etc. The exhibit also shows the requirements for a kitchen or bath room in a first class home and the display looks well. A feature of this booth is the heating of a wall radiator, measuring 18 square feet, by the steam from a small kettle.

THE RUBGY CAR.

Mr. J. Cocker displays very prominently a "Rubgy" car, 1925 model, the special features of which are its balloon tyres and four-wheel brakes, very striking color and pleasing lines, which make it a most attractive roadster. It is both economical and durable, and can be run at an average of 25 miles to one gallon of gasoline.

BUTLER BROS.

In the Curling Rink also we find Messrs. Butler Brothers, the Fountain Pen Specialists, with a neatly arranged booth, displaying National Cash Registers, Woodstock Typewriters & Desks; also a full line of fountain pens, including the famous Waterman Ideals. They also have the only machine in the country for engraving names on Fountain Pens. It is electrically operated and makes permanent imprinting with gold leaf on any Fountain Pen. We were shown some of the work done on the spot which, besides insuring your fountain pen against loss, is very neat and attractive. If you buy a pen at the booth it is engraved free of charge, but hundreds have brought their pens to have their names engraved at a very small cost. One of the brothers, Mr. Tom Butler, has only recently returned from the factories of the National Cash Register Co. and Woodstock Typewriter Company, where he has spent over a year in the mechanical end of the business, so that they are now more fully equipped to give efficient service in Cash Registers and Typewriters. One of their slogans displayed is "Let us show you why the Woodstock is a better Typewriter" and they tell us they are prepared to back this up by a practical demonstration.

School Teacher Bears Witness

TO CHILDREN'S SENSE OF JUSTICE.

LONDON, Oct. 29 (A.P.)—The record of Miss Margaret J. Williams, a Richmond school teacher, who has named only one pupil during a teaching career of 40 years, is rather unique in this country where pedagogues still accept the old adage, "spare the rod and spoil the child."

When some kind of punishment becomes necessary Miss Williams usually writes to the mothers and obtains their consent before it is given. "I hardly ever do punish them," she said, "but when I do I make it a rule to hear their side of the question first, I recognize that they have a sense of justice as a child. And I always wait till my temper cools down."

Inland Waterways

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—(By Canadian Press)—Indications are not lacking that the movement for inland waterways may soon receive strong backing from some of the big business interests in this country. Shippers of heavy products are showing increasing restiveness under the freight rates which the railroads impose and increasing disposition to turn toward the waterways.

Not only are the farmers and handlers of grain and other agricultural products becoming more and more converted to the need of greater use of the waterways, but so are such interests as the coal interests. Coal men in the United States are finding their markets restricted by lack of ample facilities for shipment of coal by boat and barge. Decline of Canadian coal purchases from the United States, especially soft coal, is leading to consideration of railroad freight rates and how far the condition could be improved by more use of water routes, including development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

Progress of the present campaign, discloses that the waterway question is getting much attention, especially in the agricultural regions of the Mississippi Valley. La Follette is urging waterway development, including the St. Lawrence project. Moreover, many of the candidates for Congress without regard to party are pledging themselves to waterway development.

The result of this, in the opinion of advocates of inland waterway development in this country, will be that the newly elected Congress, which was chosen a few days ago, will strongly favor liberal waterway appropriations.

While the short session of the old Congress, which will meet in December and continue to March, may make

An Amazing Performance

Shattering all previous distance endurance records, a stock Chrysler Six phaeton covered 1000 miles in 1007 minutes elapsed time at Fresno, Calif., Sept. 17th.

Deducting the time consumed for necessary stops, such as for gasoline, oil, tyre changes and food for the driver, the net running time was 875 minutes, 10.3 seconds, an average speed of 68.321 miles an hour.

The distance, 22 miles longer than the New York Central Railroad's route from New York to Chicago, was made in 5 hours and 21 minutes less running time than the famous Twentieth Century Limited's scheduled time between America's two largest cities. It was made in an hour and 20 minutes less than the famous train has ever completed its shorter run.

Certification of the Chrysler used for this amazing demonstration as a strictly stock car was made by the Los Angeles Times, which recently offered a trophy for such a feat, and which the Chrysler won. The time was clocked and certified by three associated members of the American Automobile Association.

The car was driven by Ralph De Palma, noted automobile race driver. It was the second record-breaking feat to be done with Chrysler stock cars within three months. On July 15, driving another stock Chrysler, De Palma tore up Mount Wilson, near Los Angeles, in 25 minutes, 48.45 seconds, breaking the former stock car record by more than two minutes, and the non-stock record as well.

The latest test which rolled two Indianapolis races into one, was made on the Fresno race track. Traffic conditions naturally prevented such a test on the highway, but Chrysler enthusiasts, who saw the gruelling run, point out that a race track is no better than any ordinary highway, and in spots the Fresno track is actually not as good.

"Speed was not the prime purpose of the demonstration," is the word received by J. E. Fields, Vice-President of the Maxwell and Chrysler Motor Corporations, from the Greer-Robbins Co. and George Camps, Inc., Maxwell-Chrysler distributors in Los Angeles and San Francisco, respectively, who entered the car. "The Chrysler Six was already known as a car that will deliver better than 70 miles an hour, if anyone cares to go that fast."

Endurance in high speed work was the real test. And the combination of 1000 miles at a running average of 68.321 miles an hour is a speed that tells a story of amazing endurance.

"If you have ever driven the ordinary car at 60 miles an hour," commented Mr. Fields on the Chrysler's brilliant performance, "you know it is a terrific strain for the car. In the Chrysler, however, there is not only no indication that the motor is putting forth unusual effort, but it actually is not stretching itself. The Chrysler rolls along smoothly, as easily, as unstrained at 65 and 70, as it does at 40."

"There is proof positive of this in the fact that the car's oil, valves, connecting rods, oiling system and gear ratio built into every Chrysler, averaged 48 miles an hour for 1000 miles and came out of the test as though it had simply done a normal day's work."

"Compare this performance with cars you know. Is one thing to show a burst of speed for a mile or so. It is quite another to hold that speed for a thousand miles. The first takes power alone—the second power plus unprecedented endurance."

"Chrysler showed its power at Mt. Wilson. The performance of another Chrysler at Fresno demonstrates with equal force the surpassing endurance it likewise possesses."

A car with destructive vibration could not stand a thousand miles at 68 miles an hour. An engine with anything but a perfect oiling system would be wrecked long before it traveled a thousand miles with throttle wide open. A car with anything but a perfect cooling system could not possibly keep cool at its topmost effort for more than 14 hours, and that on a day when the temperature reached 109 degrees.

"It is logical to assume that a stock car that can stand 68 miles an hour for that distance has the endurance, reserve ability and perfection of design to permit it to stand up for an abnormally long time under normal usage."

De Palma recently bought for his personal use a Chrysler phaeton—the same model car that he drove in this and the Mt. Wilson record. It and his Miller Special racing car are his two automobile pets.

COMMONPLACES.

This is very commonplace. Very commonplace, but true: If you keep a smiling face All the world will smile at you; This is whispered everywhere: Liar, no one wants to meet. Therefore, keep your record fair. Never lie and never cheat.

No one ever speaks the praise Of a surly man and mean. No one thinks that he drove to this Of the vulgar and unclean; Knowing this, why cultivate Habits all your friends detest? Do you beat the world with hate? Why not seek for what is best?

Misers draw their fellow's scorn. So, of selfishness beware. With the right to choose we're born Why not follow what is fair? Men admire the youth who tries. All upon the sifter trower: Therefore, why not seek to rise? Why deliberately go down?

Be you cheerful, brave and kind. Keep the simplest pledge you give, And where'er you go you'll find Friends about you while you live; Do your best at every thing, and Help another when you can. This is all you need to learn: All the world admires a man!

UNAVOIDABLY HELD OVER.—We regret that an address on Armistice delivered by Mr. C. Garland, Vice-President of the G.W.V.A. at Parade Street School, this morning, had unavoidably to be held over until Wednesday as well as several other communications.

At The Fair

The Industrial Fair was the scene of large crowds on Saturday afternoon and evening. Up to the present there are very few people in the city who have not seen the exhibition, and those who have not will be given this last opportunity to-day and to-morrow.

On Saturday afternoon a practical demonstration of home cooking was given at the Gas Company's booth. The demonstration consisted of making plain muffins, tea buns, sponge cake, etc. all of which was done on the Clark Jewel Gas Range.

To-morrow afternoon the children of the City Orphanages will be present from 3 to 5 o'clock, and during this time no others will be admitted.

Armistice Night Dance

The annual Armistice Night Dance, under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. takes place in the Gaiety to-morrow night and promises to be a most successful affair. The executive is making all arrangements for the occasion, and nothing will be left undone to ensure its success.

The special events of the evening will include His Excellency and Lady Allardycy, Hon. W. S. and Mrs. Monroe, Mayor and Mrs. Cook, the French and American Consuls, Hon. W. J. and Mrs. Higgins and Hon. A. E. and Mrs. Hickman. The decorations of the hall will be a special feature and much attention is being given to this end of the programme.

The supper arrangements are in the hands of Mrs. McKean, Convener of the Ladies Committee, and under such capable direction, it is felt this will be well looked after. The music will be of the very best and an enjoyable night is assured all who attend.

At the Star

"Make them laugh, make them cry, make them thrill,—and make them happy,"—the "them" being the public—said P. T. Barnum, first and greatest of showmen and entertainers.

All of this, and more, has been accomplished by Mary Pickford in "Rosita," her latest United Artists Corporation photoplay attraction which is announced by the management of the Star Theatre as the feature for to-night.

Miss Pickford's new screen accomplishment has in it everything that tends to stir the various and varied human emotions.

Bordering on the spectacular, and replete with gigantic settings and palatial grandeur, "Rosita," however, does not rely alone on the various elements of a beautifully and perfectly produced picture. The story is the thing. The thrilling adventures of Rosita, the little street singer of Toledo, Spain, in the Empire period of the Nineteenth century, who has fallen into the hands of the intriguer, the King, together with Don Diego, her gallant cavalier who sought to force her rescue and release with the result that he, too, is a captive, condemned for execution, forms the basis of the love tale that binds together beautiful scenes, emotional romance, thrilling action and wholesome, relieving comedy.

The King rules with a high hand. To Rosita with whom he has become infatuated despite her repulses, he presents a stately villa, gorgeous gowns and rich jewels. That she may become a Countess he orders her secretly wed to Don Diego, Count of Alcala, who he has sentenced to death. The marriage ceremony takes place, with bride and bridegroom blindfolded. Rosita learns it is her gallant lover whom she has wed, and that he is to be put to death.

More Fortune Tellers for To-Night

There was a great rush for the interesting book entitled "Mythic Fortune Teller" which was presented to all visitors to Gerald S. Doyle's booth at the exhibition on Saturday evening. To-night the remaining copies of these books will be given out and everyone should try and secure this very unusual and interesting book. It tells all about reading the tea-cup, reading the palm and telling fortunes by the cards. The books are priced at twenty-five cents each, but the Dr. Chase Medicine Company with whose compliments they are presented are giving them free to visitors to the exhibition. Be sure to call at Gerald S. Doyle's booth and get one.

"To The Last Man" at the Majestic

Just as we promised on Saturday, the Paramount Special, entitled "To the Last Man" by Zane Grey, is the feature at the Majestic Theatre to-day. The following is the cast:—

Jean ... Richard Dix
Ellen Jorth ... Lois Wilson
Colter ... Noah Beery
Gaston Isabel ... Robert Edison
Blue ... Frank Campeau
Lee Jorth ... Fred Huntley
Daggs ... Edward Brady
Simm Bruce ... Jean Palette
Guy ... Lenard Clapham
Bill ... Guy Oliver
Mrs. Guy ... Winifred Greenwood

The story is based on the Pleasant Valley War, a feud between cattlemen and sheepmen fought in the late eighties in which both factions were wiped out literally to the last man.

The picture opens with a chance meeting between Gaston Isabel and Lee Jorth, leaders of the rival factions. Jean Isabel, son of Gaston, comes to Arizona from Oregon to aid his father. He meets Ellen Jorth, daughter of his father's enemy, and falls in love with her. Later he traces cattle rustlers to Jorth ranch thus precipitating a raid on the Isabel home. In the battle Guy Isabel is killed and one of the children mortally wounded.

Gaston Isabel is treacherously murdered and the Isabels are ambushed while pursuing the Jorths and practically wiped out. Jean, the last of the Isabels, continues the fight, killing the last of the Jorth sympathizers, and ending by marrying Ellen, Jorth's daughter, thus terminating the terrible feud.

The picture includes scenes of the most rugged grandeur. Some of the descendants of this last man take part in the mob scenes. It is a picture of rapidly changing situations, and it has all the atmosphere of the original story.

It will be shown to-day, and of course to-morrow, the whole holiday. "To the Last Man" is the story that commanded a big price in the largest circulating magazines.

To-Night's Play—"The Road to Ruin"

COMMENCING FINAL WEEK OF YOUNG-ADAMS CO.

The young-Adams Company enter on their final week of the present engagement at the Casino Theatre. To-night they present that wonderful dramatic triumph which had a lengthy run on Broadway, namely "The Road to Ruin." We wish to remind you that this play was written for men and women only, and none under eighteen years of age will be admitted. It is a scenic masterpiece apart from its great dramatic atmosphere. Marjie Adams appears in dual roles, first that of the wife of a busy business man who is so wrapped up in his business duties that he neglects his beautiful wife which results in Miss Adams appearing also as Clara La Moine, a part affording her ample opportunity of displaying her magnificent gowns. Speaking of gowns, have you noticed that Miss Adams has not worn any one gown twice.

The many friends of Marguerite Young will be more than delighted with her when they see her in the fascinating role of Lottie in this bill. H. W. Young appears in the leading role, that of Judge MacLean, a part that suits him to the last letter. Edgar H. Jason and Harry Young have also got excellent roles. The entire cast is especially good in this performance.

A big holiday matinee takes place to-morrow, when that very successful comedy "Mary's Ankle" will be played. Wednesday and Thursday's bill will be something of a distinctly different nature from the usual run of plays. "The Call of the Woods" is a new play with a beautiful western atmosphere presenting Marguerite Young and Tommy Walsh. St. John's own boy in the leading roles. Judging from his success at recent rehearsals, we feel sure that Tommy is going to make a mark for himself in the world of theatricals.

The Old Colony Club
At the eleventh hour Saturday last a change of programme took place at the Old Colony Club, and Dr. Brehm honoured the occasion by attending as guest to hear Dr. Draper, instead of delivering his own address. Lady Horwood presided, and introduced Dr. Draper, who has come to St. John's at the request of Sir William H. Wood. Dr. Draper is a specialist in mental diseases. He has already lectured at the Rotary Club, and had conferences with out city doctors. Dr. Draper's gospel is the doctrine of sound mind in a healthy body—the doctrine that mentality is affected adversely chiefly by toxins, which form in diseased or non-functioning organs. These toxins find their way to the brain causing disease to the brain cells. The mentally afflicted should have all the humane and cheering influences possible, and be cared for as a patient suffering from curable illness rather than as hopeless cases. Dr. Draper's address was full of valuable information to awaken us to a livelier conception of our public responsibilities. When the lecture ended Lady Allardycy proposed the vote of thanks in an eloquent and inspired speech which was heartily endorsed by all present. Tea was then served by Mrs. Herbert Outerbridge, which brought a most instructive afternoon to a pleasant close.

"LUXURA" Orange Pekoe Tea

Ladies in St. John's who have used "LUXURA" Tea have already discovered the following facts about it:

1. That it has—used in the same proportion as any well-known tea—a greater strength than other brands, consequently, a smaller quantity gives a greater result.

2. That it has a distinctive and matchless flavor that appeals at once to the fastidious palate.

These are two FACTS you can easily verify by ASKING YOUR GROCER TO SEND YOU A PACKAGE OF "LUXURA" TO-DAY.

A Veteran Retires From the Teaching Profession

HOLYROOD DOES MERIT HONOUR TO "THE MASTER."

Recently retired from the teaching profession one of the most progressive and successful teachers of our own times in the person of R. Dwyer Esq., A.A.

The subject of this notice fitted himself for his avocation in life by a course of studies at St. Bonaventure's College, St. John's. When later on, the C.H.E. was organized and called for a more advanced standard of education and a higher grade in pedagogy, Mr. Dwyer, though busily engaged with a very heavy school, used his few leisure hours in private study to qualify for the A. A. grade, which he won with flying colors.

For nearly 40 years he has been steadily engaged in a profession most noble, though alas, not often worthily recognized. On land and at sea, at home and abroad, are boys of the High School, Holyrood. In practically every walk of life they are to be found. They have made their mark in Church and State and in the medical and legal and teaching professions and are rightly proud of their old and retired teacher.

The outstanding features of Mr. Dwyer's occupation in life were punctuality, assiduity and hard work. On these elements were founded the basis of that great measure of success which rewarded his efforts. Quite fitting and proper was it then that those of his pupils now here should gather together and show some recognition of his genuine worth. Accordingly in the afternoon of the 14th ult., about 75 pupils and ex-pupils assembled in the High School for the purpose of doing him (and themselves) honor, by presenting him with an address and suitable gift.

The address beautifully illuminated—a work of artistic merit—was read by Miss M. Moore. Associated with her were Misses R. Kennedy, Ida Bennett and Nellie Veitch. These four young ladies at present teaching in the several schools of the parish are ex-pupils of Mr. Dwyer.

The address is as follows:—

ADDRESS.

To Mr. R. Dwyer, A.A.

Dear Mr. Dwyer:—We, the undersigned, on behalf of the pupils and ex-pupils of your school beg to present to you this little tribute of appreciation for the services given so freely to us. This community may well deem itself fortunate in having as its teacher one, so well equipped for the task, who has given so much attention to his work and who has met with such success. The skill of a workman is judged not by his methods of working nor by the excellence of any particular part of the intended product, rather is it judged by the intrinsic strength, durability and beauty of the finished articles. So the success of a Christian educator is judged not by his system of educating his methods of imparting knowledge, nor the success with which his pupils meet in various exams; rather does his success lie in giving to the world a strongly finished product of his handwork—a man whose body and mind have been subject to a well and truly ordered growth, so that he may immediately step forth and be an asset to church and state. Under your guidance have been developed men and women of sound intellect and strong will who in different professions have found that success which must necessarily attend true worth.

Accompanying such development there was necessarily produced a strong sentiment of patriotism and duty. The existence and strength of these are easily seen from the number of your ex-pupils who offered their lives on the battlefields—an offering of love. The tender saplings which are nurtured by careful and skilful hands here in most cases borne fruit and will stand as a living testimonial of a life of service. Their ideal of education has been attained by you and in its consummation you should find your greatest comfort and gratification. In fact you have every reason to be proud of your work.

There are certain times in the life of a man when he becomes introspective and scans his life, his deeds, his projects and he wonders. There is a time when many a man naturally becomes retrospective and shoots one appraising glance over the field of finished work and is certain. The natural time for this is on retirement from active work. It must indeed be very pleasing to you to note the success, which has crowned your efforts and we trust that every year as it passes will give you cause for renewed joy.

As pupils who were once subject to the moulding process at your hands, we wish to express our regret that your services as an educator have been terminated and to assure you that the greatest gratitude will ever exist in our hearts for one who has performed in our interests such signal service and who has conferred on us such great benefits.

With these few expressions of appreciation we ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a slight token of our great esteem and regard for you. And may the evening of your life be a happy and serene one in the wish of all your former pupils.

MR. DWYER REPLIES.

Mr. Dwyer replied, in a happy strain. Though deeply affected, he succeeded in his effort to set aside all thought of a painful separation, and gave a cheerful aspect to the whole tone of his discourse. From the wisdom of his long experience he gave some grand advice to his listeners. He exhorted them to found all their efforts on patience, courage, and hard work. Application and assiduity were the handmaids of success. He hoped to meet them often as heretofore and assured them their interests would always be very dear to him. He was deeply grateful for their nice address and handsome gift. He wished them all the best of success.

Mr. Dwyer is succeeded by Miss N. O'Flynn. This young lady graduated at St. Bride's College, Littlefield. She taught for several years as principal in the Superior School at Tilling and did excellent work. The writer wishes her a full measure of the success that attended her predecessor.

Jackie Coogan's
Massive Production

WILL BE SEEN AT THE NICKEL TO-NIGHT.

The thousands of admirers of Jackie Coogan will be pleased to know that the Nickel Theatre will show his latest and greatest picture to-night. The film is entitled "Long Live the King."

"Long Live the King" will be translated into the slogan of "Long Live Jackie Coogan!" by all who view this picture. It is a knockout triumph for the tiny star, as good as anything he has yet been exploited in, which is saying a whole lot, when his past record is considered.

No expense has been spared in production. There is any amount of gorgeous sets, including a huge frowning castle of massive proportions, splendid interiors, spectacular street scenes alive with color and mobs galore, the grouping of the latter being handled with fine technical skill.

It is a jolly picture in every sense of the word. The comedy is bright and clean-cut. Such situations as Otto Whirling on the scenic railway, his merry adventures with his American boy pal, etc., are brimful of real humor and certain "laugh-getters."

Too much praise cannot be accorded the work of the diminutive star. His portrayal of Otto is delightfully natural, utterly free from that camera-consciousness which is the curse of so many juvenile actors. Here we have a genuine boy, as lifelike as they make 'em, impish at times, bubbling over with high spirits, a real lovable little chap, whose wonderful pantomime never fails to register convincingly.

The Popular Beverage

Not only has tea drinking increased greatly in the United Kingdom during the last year, but judging from her trans-shipments the whole world is drinking more tea than a year ago. According to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its English Information Service, the total sales of tea for the current season to date, namely June 27 to September 25, were 210,603 packages at 1s 8.38d. against a total for the whole of last season, namely June 22, 1923, to July 25, 1924, of 1,693,472 packages at 1s 6.38d. per pound. The continued steady increase in consumption abroad is reflected in the figures just published by the British Board of Trade of exports and trans-shipments from January 1 to August 31 this year, which are as follows:—

	1924	1923
	Lbs.	Lbs.
Exports .....	48,315,045	35,011,248
Trans-shipments	11,491,870	8,850,740

The inference drawn by the British authorities is that tea drinking seems to be on the increase in many parts of the world, while the growth of consumption in the United Kingdom is reflected by the increase in the imports for the twelve months ended August 31, which amounted to approximately 489 million pounds, as compared with 425 million pounds for the previous year and 409 million pounds for 1921-22.

Dr. Draper's Address to Rotarians

There is not any question but that in the audience here there is more than one who has had insanity break out in his own family, and looked upon it as a terrible episode, something that should always be kept quiet; a skeleton in the family closet, and if we are going to be able by this simple work to open up the doors of that closet, and remove the skeleton or bring it out in the air, it will be a great achievement.

We have had a great many young people come to us to find out if they could be married, or not. The fear of insanity is a hereditary thing. You trace it right back to the old religions. The treatment of it to-day is based on human logical lines. We still think we can chase devils out of people. That is the trouble, instead of looking upon it as an ordinary everyday illness like typhoid fever or tuberculosis. The manifestations of these are occasionally mental. Frequently you will see delirium come from typhoid fever. We always tell them now since we have proclaimed their hypothesis right, that it is not hereditary but acquired. We tell these people that they can marry, and no more think of their having insane progeny than if the one or that instance had not arisen in their families.

Some of you naturally ask how does it arise. First, let me say that there are many instances of a certain type of insanity that is hereditary. Those are the idiots and low grade morons, whose mental age never rises much above four, five or six years. These people are congenitally defective and should not be allowed to reproduce. We have some two thousand of these people now confined in Laxworth Village. If any of the professional men here should ever wish to see that place, I shall take great pleasure in showing them the Institution. It is a model village, and a great deal of work is done there. But we are not now concerned with those people. That is hereditary idiosyncrasy. We can do nothing with those people, and Dr. Parsons is not interested in that type. He is not running an institution of that kind. He is running, or going to run, with the help of the Rotarians, an institution where, I am sure, if your children or your wives, or yourselves become involved in this dreadful mental disease, you will be able to go there and be cured, not locked up.

About sixty per cent. of all the insane that belong to that kind which we have called functional, because it has appeared in all grades of families, have not known the cause of it. The cause has not been known to British alienists, and they have classed it as a kind of toxemia or poisoning. We feel under a deep obligation to those British alienists who have resisted this continental idea that it is a sort of sex perversion. That is what is thought now largely in the States, to a certain degree in England, and very widely throughout Continental Europe. It is revolting to every idea of Anglo-Saxon manhood. But those people are really just as sick as if they had tuberculosis, and they can be treated.

Now the question is, how is it to be done? It seems to me that you will have to have here some sort of committee or commissioner of Institutions and Agencies. Just to show you how fine the feeling is in New Jersey. That Commissioner used to be called the Commissioner of Charities and Pensions, and it was realized that both those terms were objectionable, and his title now is the Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies. It seems to me that if one or two of your good lay people, of whom you have plenty here in St. John's, were to co-operate with your Department of Health, you would soon overcome many of the dreadful obstacles, and you could have him visit New Jersey and find from Commissioner Lewis just how we administer things there, and I know that would be very helpful. It would be necessary in addition to that that you would have certain accommodation in the hospitals. I know something about the administration of your hospital here, and what I am going to say is not very nice. It is the worse piece of paternalism I ever saw. I know hospitals all over the United States and Canada, and I can tell you that there is no other institution like this in the whole length and breadth of the American Continent. I am not referring to the work done there. I know the men who work there, especially Dr. Keegan, who is a friend of mine, and I do not see how the man does what he does with the limitations under which he is placed. There is great room for criticism of the methods and administration. If you really want to do something for this Dominion of yours, take your hospitals out of politics.

I am here to try to help you, and while I am on this subject I would like to tell you of some of the difficulties you have to overcome. My grandfather was instrumental in obtaining in the State of New York the legalization of the dissection of the dead. That is a terrible thing to have to say. But you are very free from that kind of thing here. Some districts advance along certain lines according to the lines of the individuals who control; others advance along other lines. In your hospital here, you have young women in training as nurses. These young girls go down there, and because of certain limitations, those girls are not able to get their proper degrees, so that they will be recognized when they go to the United States or Canada. That is all wrong. You have the most wonderful material here to work on. The best nurses we have come from here.

Now then, I will tell you another thing. Thirty per cent. of your beds here in the hospital are occupied by cases that have no business to be there. They have no business there because—again it is not the fault of the doctor—but they have no business there, because they are tubercular. They are suffering from tuberculosis. Now you have a magnificent tuberculosis institution here, but it is only for tuberculosis of the lung. It so happens that on account of the lives of exposure which the people here live, tuberculosis of the bone is very frequent. If the Rotary Club or some other civic body here would simply select some such place as the Toppasle—I don't mean your excellent summer resort—but the Toppasle in the interior of the Island—all you need to do is to put up a little shack and turn these people suffering from tuberculosis loose out there. Put one of your splendid women out there as a Matron; you do not need a doctor really. Just turn them loose there as they do in Switzerland, naked except for a lion cloth, and within a year they will be well. But if you put them into a hospital and keep them there they will never leave there, but the tuberculosis will become more serious.

It can be done. I should think that the most important development that has come into St. John's since I came here is this Rotary Club. It helps to break down sectionalism and religious difference. We are all men after all, and it does not matter what we believe. There are so many things to be done that are much more important than our belief, that I look forward to the time when none of us will know what our fellow citizens believe, because after all we all believe the same thing. If that obstacle can be overcome, and your hospital management decentralized from political bias, then you can build a private pavilion if your Government will subscribe enough. After that the thing should be self supporting. Nobody can come down now, because the doctor cannot be paid. How can you expect a young man to come down here if there is no place where he can work?

In Bellevue Hospital where there is every facility, how many mistakes were made in diagnosis. According to their own statistics, eighty-eight were wrong when it came to an autopsy, and that being so, how do you suppose that Dr. Keegan is able to do much here unless you have facilities for studying diagnosis. If you Rotarians will provide a place where the study can go on independent of politics and theology, you will be conferring a great benefit on this country.

Mr. Chairman, I thank you very much for the privilege of being asked to come here. I am only sorry that I have to go away again so soon. I am delighted to be able to come here with the message of help, and not of criticism. I must say of your profession here that they are a splendid body of men, and they only need some one to give them a boost. That is my message. They know what ought to be done, if you will only give them a chance. They do not need money. Unlike us, you know, they work for nothing. Give them a Rotarian boost—that is my message.

Soviet Russia

PUNISHES LIGHTLY FOR HIGH CRIMES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 1.—(A.P.)—Persons guilty of murder and other crimes in Soviet Russia are punished with sentences so light that they will amaze American judges and public prosecutors. In most cases punishment for murder in the first degree does not exceed five years. It rarely exceeds 10 years, unless the crime is associated with banditry.

Punishment for other crimes, such as arson, forgery, robbery, rape, infanticide and criminal assault is correspondingly light. Bigamy is another offense which is only lightly punished. As marriage and divorce in Soviet Russia have been made very easy, however, there are relatively few cases of bigamy.

Death sentences are given only for counter-revolutionary activities, "economic espionage," counterfeiting, organized banditry and crimes against the State. But even in these cases capital punishment is sometimes withheld. A notorious case in recent weeks was that of Boris Savinkov, charged with widespread spying actrivites and other crimes against the Soviet. Although he confessed his complete guilt, he was given only 10 years in prison.

Our Two Hundred Cheeses

The widespread campaign in favour of Cheshire cheese, launched to combat foreign competition, has prompted an investigation into the number of varieties of cheese known at the present time. An official report shows the figure to be just over two hundred.

Of these, thirty-two varieties are made in the British Isles, where, it is pointed out, different districts have strikingly marked preferences in the matter of texture and colour of cheeses. Thus Lancashire folk are specially fond of "Manchester White" cheese, while Norfolk people prefer a brick-red variety, Derby, Gloucester, Leicester, and York each produce what may be termed regional cheeses, and foreign competitors colour their cheeses for those markets accordingly.

The well-known Roquefort cheese is made of sheep's milk, while Gruyere is made from the milk of goats. One of the queerest kinds is Schapspiegler, a Swiss green cheese which is so strong in flavour that only a fragment is eaten at a time.

RETURN TO LONG ENGAGEMENT IDEA.

LONDON, Nov.—(A.P.)—"Back to the long engagement," seems to have become a sort of slogan among the Lovelorn of Britain. It would be hard to say how the change has come about but evidence accumulates that long engagements are again in fashion.

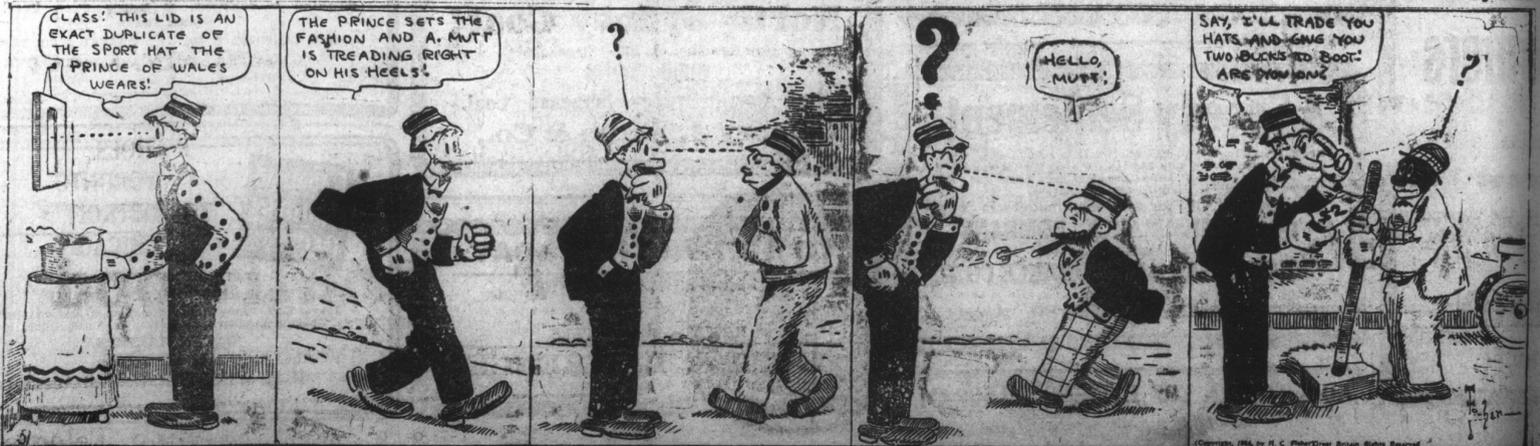

The wartime habit of the hasty marriage—not seldom followed by repentance at leisure—is surely giving way to the protracted and romantic engagements of prim days when Queen Victoria used to spank one of her grandchildren who afterwards became Emperor of Germany. "There is a slump in the sale of engagement rings," confided a court jeweler. "Young men nowadays do not rush into three or four engagements before they marry. This, however, is balanced by the number of countless presents exchanged in the courtship. The most fashionable marriages are generally the result of a six to twelve month's engagement."
