The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming Features of this copy which may be ublicgraphically unique which may alter any of the images in the reproduction or which may significantly change the usual method of filming are checked below L'Institut a microfilmé le meilleur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possible de se procurer. Les détails de cet exemplaire qui sont peut être uniques du point de vue bibliographique qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans la méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci dessous

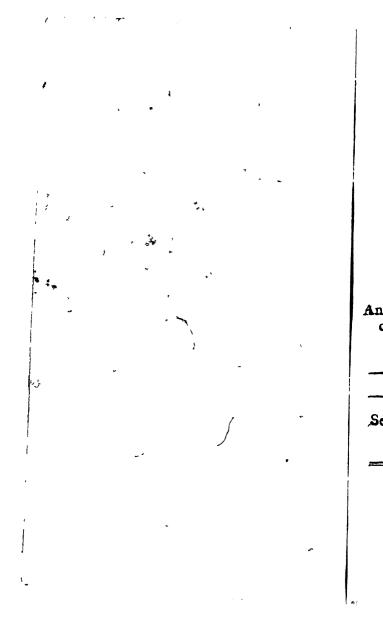

1

Coloured covers/ Couverture de couleur		Coloured pages/ Pages de couleur
 Covers d'amaged/ Couverture endommagée		Pages damaged/ Pages endommagées
Covers restored and/or laminated/ Couverture restaurée et/ou pelliculée		Pages restored and/or laminated/ Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
Cover title missing/ Le titre de couverture manque		Pages discoloured stained or foxed/ Rages décolorées tachetées ou piquees
Coloured maps/ Cartes géographiques en couleur		Pages detached/ Pages détachees
Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/ Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)	\checkmark	Showthrough/ Transparence
Coloured plates and/or illustrations/ Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur		Quality of print varies/ Qualité inégale de l'impression
Bound with other material/ Relié avec d'autres documents		Includes supplementary material/ Comprend du matériel supplementaire
Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/ Lare liure serree peut causer de l'ombre ou de la		Only edition available/ Seule édition disponible
 distorsion le long de la marge interieure Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming/ Il se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutées lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte mais lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont pas eté filmées		Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips tissues etc have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/ Les pages totalement ou partiellement obscurcies par un feuillet d'errata une pelure etc ont été filmées à nouveau de facon à obtenir la meilleure image possible

Additional comments / Commentaires supplementaires

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/ Ce document est filme au taux de reduction indiqué ci dessous

NARRATIVE

A

OF THE

ÇAPTIVITY

0F

MRS. JOHNSON.

CONTAINING

$?

An ACCOUNT of her SUFFERINGS, during Four Years, with the Indians and FRENCH.

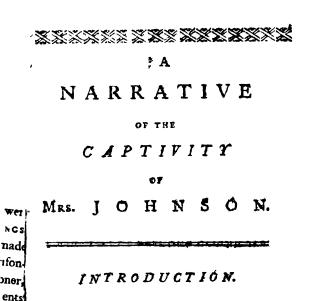

PUBLISERD ACCORDING TO ACT OF CONGRESS.

Second Edition, corrected and enlarged.

WINDSOR, (Vt) PRINTED BY ALDEN SPOONER. 1807.

PART of the following pages were dictated by Mrs. Johnson, now Mrs. HASTINGS herfelf, and part were taken from minutes made by Mr JOHNSON and herfelf, during their imprifon ment. She is much indebtea to her fellow prifoner, Mr. LABARKEF, by whole affiltance many incidents are mentioned, which had eleaped her recollection.

> ise wł foi rai tai be th

Notices of the Willard Family.

ion.

O trace the progress of famiise, from their origin to the present day, when perhaps they are spread over the four quarters of the globe, and no memorandums are found except in the uncertain pages of memory, is a task which can be but feebly performed. In noticing the name of Willard, which was my tamily name, I cannot pretend to accuracy; but the information which I have collected, will perhaps be of fome fervice to others, who poffers a greater flock; and if the various branches of families would contribute their mites, it would be an eafy way of remedying the deficiency, which at prefent exifts in American genealogy.

THE first perion by the name of Willard who fettled in this country, was Major Willard, whole name is recorded in the hiftory of New-England wars. In the year fixteen hundred and feventy five, in the time of "Philip's war," a notorious Indian who lived within the prefent limits of the state of Rhode-Island, Major Willard who then lived in the town of Lancaster in Massachusetts, commanded a troop of horfe; and among his vigorous fervices, he relieved the town of Brookfield from the Nipnet Indians, who had burnt every house but one, and had almost reduced that to capitulation. When Lancaster was destroyed by the Indians, Major Willard removed to Salem, where he spent the rest of his days. He had two fons, one of whom was a fettled minifter in the town of Groton; which place

5

Į.

Le was driven from by the Indians, and was afterwards installed in Boston. His other ion, Simon, eftablished himfelf on Still River, fince taken from Lancaster, and incorporated into the town of Har-He had nine fons, Simon, Henry, vard. Hezekiah, John, Joseph, Josiah, Samuel, Jonathan and James; Jofiah removed to Winchester in New-Hampshire, and afterwards commanded Fort Dummer; the rest inherited the substance of their father, and lived to very advanced ages in the vicinity of their birth. They all left numerous families, who fpread over the United States. His eldest son, Simon, was my grand-father; he had two fons, Aaroa and Moses : Aaron lived in Lancaster, and Moses, my father, removed to Lunen-I ought to remark, that my grand. burg. mother Willard, after the death of her husband, married a person by the name of Farnfworth, by whom the had three fons; who were the arft fettlers of Charlestown, No. 4-one of them was killed by the Indians.

My father had twelve children ; he removed to Charlestown, No. 4, in 1742, and foon had the pleafure to find his chil-A 2 dren settled around him : he was killed by the Indians in 1756. My mother died in March, 1797,[•] and had lived to see twelve children, ninety-two grand-children, one hundred and twenty-three great grand-children, and sourgreat-great-grand children. The whole that survive are now settled on Connecticut River.

Notices of Mr. James Johnfon.

N the year 1730, my great uncle, Col Josiah Willard, while at Boston, was invited to take a walk on the long-wharf, to view fome transports who had just landed from Ireland; a number of gentlemen present were viewing the exercise of some lads who were placed on shore, to exhibit their activity to those who wished to purchase. My uncle spied a boy of some vivacity, of about ten years of age,

* At the age of eighty-four, the bufied herfell in praking a coverlid which contains fomething of the temarkable—the did not quite complete it, it now contains upwards of five thousand pieces.

MRS. JOHNSON.

and who was the only one in the crew who fpoke English : he bargained for him. I have never been able to learn the price ; but as he was afterwards my hufband, I am willing to fuppose it a confiderable fum. He questioned the boy respecting his parentage and descent. All the information he could get was, that young James, a confiderable time previous, went to lea with his uncle, who commanded a fhip and had the appearance of a man of property, that this uncle was taken fick at fea and died ; immediately after his death they came in fight of this fhip of lrifh transports, and he was put on board. His being the only one of the crew who fpoke English, and other circumstances, have led his friends to conclude that this removal on board the Irifh fhip, was done to facilitate the sequestration of his uncle's property. He lived with Col. Willard until he was twenty years old, and then bought the other year of his time. In 1748 Gov. Shirley gave him a lieutenant's commiffion under Edward Hartwell, Esq.

CAPTIVITY OF

Situation of the Country 111 1744.

I is an old maxim, that after a man is in possession of a finall independent property, it is easy for him to acquire a those be unmolested by Indians and enemies, the land will foon fwarm with inhabitants. But when a feeble band only are gathered together, and obliged to contend with pestilence, famine and the fword, their melancholy numbers will de-crease and waste away. The fituation of our ancestors has often been described in language that did honor to the hearts that conceived it. The boilterous ocean, with unknown fhores hemmed them in on one fide, and a forest, fwarming with favages, yelling for their blood, threatened on the other. But the fame undaunted fpirit which has defended them in fo many perils, buoyed them above despair in their early ftruggles for fafety and liberty. shall be pardoned for the digression when I observe, that I have in all my travels felt a degree of pride in recollecting, that I betonged to a country whofe valor was diftinguished, and whofe spirit had never been debafed by fervile submission.

MR9. JOHNSON.

been debafed by fervile fubmiffion. Ar the age of fourteen, in 1744, I made a vifit from Leominster to Charleftown, to vifit my parents. Thro' a long wildernefs from Lunenburg to Lower Afhuelot, now Swanzey, we travelled two days; a folitary houfe was all the mark of cultivation that occurred on the journey. Guided by marked trees, we travelled cautioufly thro' the gloomy forest, where now the well-till'd farms occupy each rod of ground : from Afhuelot to Charlestown the paffage was oppofed, now by " the hill of difficulty," and now by the flough defpond. A few folitary inhabitants, who appeared the reprefentatives of wretchednefs, were fcattered on the way.

WHEN I approached the town of Charlestown, the first object that met my eyes was a party of Indians holding a war dance, a cask of rum which the inhabitants had fuffered them to partake of, had raifed their spirits to all the horrid yells, and feats of distortion which characterize the nation. I was chilled at the fight, and paffed tremblingly by. At this time Charleftown contained nine or ten families, who lived in huts not far diffant from each other. The Indiars were numerous, and affociated in a triendly manner with the whites. It was the most northerly fettlement or Connecticut River, and the adjacent country was terribly wild. A fawmill was erected, and the first boards were fawed while I was there : the inhabitants commemorated the event with a dance, which took place on the newboards. In those days there was such a mixture on the frontiers, of favages and fettlers, without eflablished laws to govern them, that the flate of fociety cannot be eafily defcribed, and the impending dangers of war, where it was known that the lavages would join the enemies of our country, retarded the progress of refinement and cultivation. The inhabitants of Charlestown began to erect a fort, and took fome steps towards clearing their farms; but war foon checked their induftry.

10

......

Charlestown.

N the year 1740, the first settlement was made in the town of Charleftown, then known by the name of No. 4, by three families who emigrated from Lunenburg, by the name of Farnfworth ; that pirt of New-Hampshire west of Merrimac River was then a trackless wildernefs. Within a few years past instances have been known, of new townships totally uninhabited, becoming flourishing and thickfettled villages in the course of fix or feven years. But in those days, when government was weak, when favages were on our borders and Frenchmen in Canada, population extended with timorous and tardy paces ; in the course of twelve years the families increased only to twenty two or three. The human race will not flourish unless fostered by the warm funshine of peace.

DURING the first twenty years of its existence as a settled place, until the prace between Great-Britain and France, it suffered all the consternation and ravages of war; not that warfare which civilized nations wage with each other, but the cruel carnage of favages and Frenchmen. Sometimes engaged in the duties of the camp, at others (equeftering themfelves from furrounding enemies, they became familiar with danger, but not with industrious hufbandry.

ŝ

In the year 1744, the inhabitants began to erect a fort for their fafety. When the Cape Breton war commenced, the Indians affumed the hatchet and began their depredations on Charlestown on the 19th day of April, A. D. 1746, by burning the mills, and taking Capt. John Spafford, Ifaac Parker, and Stephen Farnsworth prif-On the fecond of May following oners. Seth Putnam was killed. I wo days after Capt. Payne arrived with a troop of horfe from Maffachusetts, to defend the place; about twenty of his men had the curiofity to view the place where Putnam was killed, and were ambushed by the Indians. Capt. Stevens, who commanded a few men, rushed out of the fort to ther relief; a fharp combat enfued, in which the Indians were routed : they left fome guns and blankets on the field of action, but they carried their dead off with them, which is a policy they never ount. Enfign Obadiah Sartwell was captured, and Samuel Farnfworth, Elijah Allen, Peter Perin, Aaron Lyon and Joseph Massey tell victims to Indian vengeance.

MRS. JOHNSON.

On the 19th of June a fevere engagement took place. Capt. Brown, from Stow in Maflachufetts, had previoufly arrived with fome troops; a party of his, joined a number of Capt. Stevens' foldiers to go into the meadow after their The dogs difcovered an ambush, horfes. which put them into a posture for action, and gave them the advantage of the first fire. This disconcerted the favages, who being on higher ground over thot, and did but little damage to the English. The enemy were routed, and even seen to drag leveral dead bodies after them. They left behind them guns, spears and blankets, which fold at 401. old tenor. During the time Capt. Joliah Brown affisted in defending the fort, Jedidiah Winchel was killed, Samuel Stanhope, Cornet Baker and David Parker were wounded. During this fummer the fort was entirely blockaded, and all were obliged to take refuge в

• • • •

ıt

Ş

within the pickets. On the 3d day of August one Philips was killed within a few feet of the fort, as he accidentally stopped out; at night a foldier crept to him with a rope, and he was drawn into the fort and interred. In the fummer of the year 1746, Capt. Ephraim Brown from Sudbury, arrived with a troop of horfe to relieve Capt. Jofiah Brown. The Sudbury troop tarried about a month, and were relieved by a company commanded by Capt.Winchefter, who defended the place till autumn, when the inhabitants, fatigued with watching, and weary of the dangers of the forest, deferted the place entirely for about fix months. In the month of August previous to the evacuation, the Indians affisted by their brethren the French, were very troublefome and mifchievous; they defiroyed all the horfes, hogs and cattle. An attack was made on the fort, which lafted two days. My father at this time lost ten cattle, but the people were fecured behind their wooden walls, and received but little damage.

In this recess of the settlement of No 4, the Indians and French were ice-locked in Canada, and the frontiers fuffered only in apprehension. In March, 1747, Capt. Phinehas Stevens, who commanded a ranging party of about 30 men, marched to No. 4, and took possible possible of the fort. He found it uninjure 1 by the enemy, and an old spaniel and a cat, who had been doineflicated before the evacuation, had guarded it fafely thro' the winter, and gave the troops a hearty we kome to their tenement.

14

CAPT. Stevens was of eminent fervice to the infant fettlement. In 1748 he moved his family to the place, and encouraged the fettlers by his fortitude and induffry. In the errly part of his life, when Rutland fuffered by favage vengeance, when the Rev. Mr. Willard was murdered, he was taken prifoner and carried to St. Francis. This informed him of the Indian cuftoms, and familiarized him with their mode of warfare : he was an active, penetrating foldier, and a relpectable, worthy citizen.

IN a few days after the fort was taken posseffion of by Capt. Stevens' troops, a party of 500 French and Indians, commanded by Mons. Debelcie, fallied from their den in Canada, and made a furious attack on the fort. The battle lasted five days, and every ftratagem which French policy or Indian malice could invent, was practifed to reduce the garrifon. Sometimes they made an onfet by a discharge of mufquetry, at others they difcharged fire arrows, which communicated fire to feveral parts of the fort. But these were infufficient to daunt the courage of the little band that were affailed. Their next step was to fill a cart with combustibles, and foll it against the walls, to communicate fire ; but the English kent up fuch a brisk inceffant fire that they were defeated in the project. At length the Monheurs, tired with fighting, beat a parley ; two Indians, formerly acquainted with Capt. Stevens, came as negociators, and wished to exchange fome furs for corn ; this Capt. Stevens refused, but offered a bufhel of corn for each hoftage they would leave to be exchanged, at fome future day. These terms were not complied with, and on the fifth day the enemy retreated, at which time the foldiers in the garrifon honored them with as brifk a discharge as they could afford, to let them know that they were neither disheartened nor exhaufted in ammunition. The garrifon had none killed, and only one, the name of Brown, was wounded.

16

PERHAPS no place was ever defended with greater bravery than this fort during this action; 30 or 40 men, when attacked by 500, mult have an uncommon degree or fortitude and vigilance to defend themtelves during a fiege of five days. But Capt. Stevens was equal to the talk, and will be applauded by pofterity. After the battle he fent an express to Boston with the tidings. Gov. Charles Knowles happened then to be at Boston, and rewarded Capt Stevens with a handfome fword, in gratitude for which the place was afterwards called Charleston.

IN November 1747, a body of the troops fet out from the fort, to return to Maffachusetts; they had not proceeded far before the Indians fired on them. Ifaac Goodale and Nathaniel Gould were killed, and one Anderion taken prifoner. From this period until the end of Cape Breton war, the fort was defended by Capt. Stevens. Soldiers paffed and repatied to Can-.di, but the inhabitants took fanctuary in the fort, and made but little progress in During the Indian wars, B 2 outivation.

which lasted till the year 1760, Charlestown was noted more for its feats of war, than a place of rapid improvement. Settlers thought it more prudent to remain with their friends in fafety, than rifk their fcalps with favage power. Since that period, it has become a flourishing village, and contains all that a rural fituation affords of the useful and the pleafant , numerous farms and stately buildings now flourish, where the favage roamed the foreft. The profperity of the town was greatly promoted by the Rev. Bulkely Olcott, who was a fettled minister there about 32 years. In the character of this good man was combined the agreeable companion, the industrious citizen, and unaffected christian. During the whole of his miniftry, his folicitude for the happiness of his parishioners was as conspicuous, in the benefits they received from his affiftance, as in their fincere attachment to his perfon. As a divine he was pathetic, devout and instructive, and may with propriety be faid to have

j f f

ł

0 £

Ċ.

7.

(]

Shewn the path to heaven, and led the way.

He was highly respected through life : in June, 1793, he died, much lamented.

The second secon

S}

Removal to Charlestown, Se.

N May 1749, we received information of the ceffation of arms between Great Britain and France. I had then been married about two years, and Mr. Johnson's enterprising spirit was zealous to remove to Charlestown : in June we undertook the hazardous and fatiguing journey : we arrived fafe at the fort, and found five families, who had ventured fo far into the woods during hoftilities .---But the gloomy foreft, and the warlike appearance of the place, foon made me homefick. Two or three days after my arrival, orders came from Maffachusetts to withdraw the troops : government placed confidence in the proffered peace of Frenchmen, and withdrew even the appearance of hoftility. But French treaction and favage malice will ever keep pace with enta other. Without even the furnicion ianger, the inhabitants went about their thanks of hufbandry. The day the folours left the fort, Enlign Qbadiah Sart-• .!! went to harrow fome corn, and took

CAPTIVITY of

{ }

> I T

Enos Stevens, the fourth fon of Phinehas Stevens, Esq, to ride house; my father and two brothers were at work in the meadow; early in the afternoon the Indians appeared and thot Enfrgir Saitwell and the horfe, and took young Stevens a prifoner. In addition to this, my father and brothers were in the meadow, and we supposed they must be definoyed. My hufband was gone to Northfield. In the fort were feven women and four men : the anxiety and grief we experienced was the highest imaginable. The next night we dispatched a post to Boston, to carry the news of our difaster, but my father and brothers did not return. The next day but one my hufband and five or fix others arrived from Northfield We kept dofe in the garrifon, fuffering every apprehension for ten or twelve days, when the fentry from the box cried out that troops were coming : joyful at the relief, we all mounted on the top of the fort, and among the reft discovered my father.-He, on hearing the guns, supposed the fort was destroyed, left his team in the meadow, and made the belt of hit way to Northfield with my two brothers. The foldiers were about thirty in number, and headed by Major Jofiah Willard, of Fort Dummer. Enos Stevens was carried to Montreal, but the French commander fent him back directly, by the way of Albany. This was the laft damage done the frontiers during the Cape Breton war.

20

¥

MRS. JOHNSON.

Curfory Notices.

DETAIL of the miferies of a "frontier man," must excite the pity of every child of humanity. The gloominels of the rude forest, the distance from friends and competent defence, and the daily inroads and nocturnal yells of hoftile Indians, awaken those keen apprehenfions and anxieties which conception only can picture. If the peaceful employment of hufbandry is purfued, the loaded musket must stand by his fide; if he visits a neighbor, or reforts on Sundays to the facred house of prayer, the weapons of war muft bear him company; at home, the diffress of a wife, and the iears of lisping children often unman the foul that real danger alfalled in vain -Those who can recollect the war that existed between France and England fifty years ago, may figure to themfelves the unhappy fituation of the inhabitants on the frontiers of New-Hampfhure ; the malice of the French in Canada, and the exafperated favages that dwelt in their vicinity, rendered the tedious days and frightful nights a feason of unequalled calamities. The daily reports of captured families and flaughtered friends, mingled grief with fear. Had there been an organized government, to ftretch forth its protecting arm, in any cafe of danger, the mifery might have been in a degree alleviated. But the infancy of our country did not admit of this bleffing. While Governor Shirley of Maffachufetts, was petitioning to England for a fleet and an army, Benning Wentworth the fupine governor of New-Hampshire, obeyed implicitly the advice of his friend Shirley, and remained inactively fecure at his feat at Portfinouth. At the commencement of the year 1745, the Quixotic expedition to Louisburg was projected, the success, of which originated from the mereit acci-

t

t

F

T

r

ļ

dent, rather than from military valor or generalfhip; this drained the thinly inhabited flue of New-Hampshire of most of its effective men. From that period till the peace, which took place in the year 1749, the visionary schemes of Shirley kept the best foldiers embodied in fome remote place, as a force to execute fome impolitic project. The conquest of Canada, and the astack upon Crownpoint, are recorded as specimens of the wild projects which were to employ the infant forces of New-England. During this time, the frontiers fultained additional miferies, by having the fmall forces of the flate declucted for purposes which could be of no immediate fervice to them. The favages committed frequent depredations on the defenceles inhabitants, and the eafe with which they gained their prey, encouraged their boldness, and by fcattering in fmall parties, they were able to infeft the whole frontier of New-Hampfhire, from fort Dummer on Connecticut river, to the lowest fettlement on Merrimack. During this war, which is known by the name of the Cape Breton war, the town of No. 4 could hardly be faid to be inhabited ; fome adventurers had made a beginning, but few were confidered as belonging to the town. Capt Stevens, whole valor is recorded as an inftance of confummate generalship, part of the time kept the fort, which afforded a shelter to the enterprizing settlers in times of imminent danger. But even his vigilance did not fave the town from numerous scenes of carnage. At the commencement of the peace, in 1749, the enterprifing spirit of New-England rofe superior to the dangers of the forest, and they began to venture innovation. The Indians, still thirsty for plunder and rapine, and regardless of the peace which their mafters, the French, had concluded, kept up a flying warfare, and committed feveral outrages upon lives and property ; this kept the increasing inhabitants in a flate of alarm, for three or four years; most of the time they performed their daily work without moleftation, but retreated to the fort at each returning night.

日本にはなっていたのである

OUR country has fo long been exposed to Indian wars, that recitals of exploits and fufferings, of escapes and deliverances have become both numerous and trat.

."S

1-

t

n

rt :d

'n

1S

1-

٦-

3-

1-d le

e, ır

ıp

al

is te of גר יו

ЭС 4С 45,

The air of novelty will not be attempted in the following pages ; fimple facts, unadorned, is what the reader must expect; pity for my fufferings, and admiration at my fafe return, is all that my hiftory can excite. The aged man, while perufing, will probably turn his attention to the pe-110d when the facts took place, his memory will be refreshed with the fad tidings of his country's fufferings, which gave a daily wound to his feelings, between the yeart 1740 and 1760; by contrasting those days with the prefent, he may rejoice that he witneffes those times which many have " waited for, but died without a fight." Thole "in early life," while they commiferate the fufferings which their parents and anceftors endured, may felicitate themfelves that their lines fell in a land of peace, where neither favages nor neighboring wars moleft their happinefs.

С

5.4

CHAP. I.

Situation until August 31, 1754-

COME of the foldiers who arrived with Major Willard, with the inhabitants who bore arms, were commanded by Capt. Stevens the reft of the year 1749, and part of the following fpring; after which the inhabitants refided pretty much in the fort, until the fpring or fall of the year 1752. They cultivated their lands in fome degree, but they put but little confidence in the favages.

THE continuation of peace began by degrees to appeale the refertment of the Indians, and they appeared to discover a wish for friendly intercourse. The inhabitants in No. 4, and its vicinity, relaxed their watchfulness, and ventured more boldly into their fields. Every appearance of hostility at length vanished—the Indians expressed a wish to traffic, the inhabitants laid by their fears, and thought no more of tomahawks, nor fcalpingknives. Mr. Johnfon now thought himfelf just field in removing to his farm, an hundred rods diftant from the fort, which was then the uppermost fettlement on Connecticut River, he purfued h's occupation of trade, and the Indians made frequent visits to traffic their furs for his mcrchandize. He frequently credited them for blankets and other neceffaries, and in most instances they were punctual in payment. During the year 1753, all was harmony and fafety-fettlements increased with tolerable rapidity, and the new country began to assume the appearance of cultivation.

MRD. JOHNSON.

THE commencement of the year 1754 began to threaten another rupture between the French and English, and as the dividing line between Canada and the English Colonies was the object of contention, it was readily seen that the frontier towns would be in imminent danger. But as immediate war was not expected, Mr.-Johnson thought that he might risk the fafety of his family, while he made a tour to Connecticut, for trade. He fat out the last of May, and his absence of three months was a tedious and a bitter season to me. Soon after his departure every body was "tremblingly alive" with fear.

· 27

い、大学にないとない

いてもいいうかいれていている

CAPTIVITY OF

The Indians were reported to be on their march for our destruction, and our distance from fources of information gave full latitude for exaggeration of news, before it reached our ears. The fears of the night were horrible beyond description, and even the light of day was far from difpelling painful anxiety While looking from the windows of my log-houfe, and feeing my neighbors tread cautioully by each hedge and hillock, left forme fecreted favage might ftart forth to take their fcalp, my fears would baffle description Alarms grew louder and louder, till our apprehenfions were too strongly confirmed by the news of the capture of Mr. Malloon's family, on Merrimack River ; this reached us about the 26th of August Inagination now faw and heard a thoufand Indians; and I never went round my own houfe, without first looking with trembling caution by each corner, to fee it a tomahawk was not raised for my destruction.

ON the 24th of August I was reheved from all my fears by the arrival of my husband. He brought intelligence from Connecticut that a war was expected the next spring, but that no immediate danger was contemplated. He had made preparations to remove to Northfield, as foon as our ftock of hay was confumed, and our dozen of fwine had demolifhed our ample ftores of grain, which would fecure his family and property from the miferies and ravages of war Our eldeft fon, Sylvanus, who was fix years old, was in the mean time to be put to ichool at Springfield. Mr. Johnfon biought home a large addiuon to his ftores, and the neighbors made frequent parties at our houle, to express their joy for his return, and time paffed merrily off, by the aid of fpirit and a ripe yard of melons. As I was in the laft days of pregnancy, I could not join fo heartily in their good cheer as I otherwife might. Yet in a new country, pleasure is often derived from fources unknown to those lefs accustomed to the woods. The return of my husband, the relief from danger, and the crowds of happy friends, combined to render my fituation peculiarly agree. able. I now boafted with exultation, that I should, with husband, friends and luxuries, live happy in fpite of the fear of brages.

C 2

商人

On the evening of the 29th of August 'our house was visited by 1 party of neighbors, who fpent the time very cheerfully with watermelons and flip, till midnight; theyall then retired in high fpirits, excepta fpruce young fpark, who tarried to keep company with my fifter. We then went to bed with feelings well tuned for sleep, and refted with fine composure, till midway between daybreak and faurife, when we were roufed by neighbor Labarree's knocking at the door, who had shouldered his ax to do a day's work for my hufband. Mr. Johnfon flipped on his jacket and trowfers, and ftepped to the door to let him in. But by opening the door he opened a fcene-terrible to defcribe ! ! Indians! Indians were the first words I heard, he fprang to his guns, but Labarree, heedlefs of danger, inftead of clofing the door to keep them out, began to rally our hired men up ftairs, for not rifing ear. lier. But in an inftant a crowd of favages, fixed horribly for war, rushed turiously in. I fcreamed and begged my friends to afk for quarter ; by this time they were all over the house ; some up stairs, some hauling my lifter out of bed, another had hold of me, and one was approaching Mr. Johnfon, who ftood in the middle of the floor to deliver himfelf up ; but the Indian, supposing that he would make refistance, and be more than his match, went to the door and brought three of his comrades, and the four bound him! I was led to the door, fainting and trembling ; there ftood my friend Labarree, bound ; Ebenezer Firnfworth, whom they found up chamber, they were putting in the fame fituation, and to complete the fhocking fcene, my three little children were driven naked to the place where I ftood. On viewing myfelf I found that I too was naked. An Indian had plundered three gowns, who, on feeing my fituation, gave me the whole. I asked another for a petticoat, but he refuied it. After what little plunder their hurry would allow them to get, was confusedly bundled up, we were ordered to march. After going about 20 rods we fell behind a rifing ground, where we halted to pack the things in a better manner; while there, a favage went back as we supposed to fire the buildings .--Farnfworth proposed to my husband to go back with him, to get a quantity of

い 二日子子 一日日 日本

「日本」といいである

e

¢

I

ł

(

(

į

pork from the cellar, to help us on our journey; but Mr. Johnson prudently replied, that by that means, the Indians might find the run, and in a fit of intoxication kill us all. The Indian prefently zeturned with marks of fear in his countenance," and we were hurried on with all violence. Two fiving is laid hold of each of my arms, and huars. I me through thorny thickets in a most univerciful manser. Hoft a thoe and fuffered exceedingly We heard the alarm guns from the fort This added new speed to the flight of the favages. They were apprenentive that foldiers might be tent for our reliet.-When we had got a male and a half, my faintnefs pobliged me to fit This being observed by an Indian, he new his knife, #I supposed, to put an end to my exist.

*This, as we afterwards found, was occultoned by his meeting M. Ofmer at the door of the houfe, who lodged in the champer, and had forceted himfull behind a box, and was then making his effape after run directly to the fort, and the alarm guns were ford in command. Capt Stevens was for failying out with a party for our relief; but my father begged him to defift, as the Indians made it an invariatife practice to kill their prijoners when attacked.

MRS. JOHNSON.

ence. But he only cut fome band, with which my gown was tied, and then pufk ed me on. My little children were crying, my huibind and the other two men were bound, and my fifter and myfelf were obliged to make the best of our way, with all our might. The loss of my thos rendered wavelling extremely painful. At the diftance of three miles there was a general halt; the favages, fuppoling that we, as well as themfelves, might have an appetite for breakfast, gave us a loaf of bread, fome raifins and apples, which they had taken from the house. While we were forcing down our fcanty breakfaft, 2' horse came in light, known to us all by the name of Scoggin, belonging to Phinehas Stevens, Elquire. One of the Indians attempted to fhoot him, but wasprevented by Mr. Johnson. They then: expressed a wish to catch him, faying, by pointing to me, for lquaw to ride ; siy liufband had previoufly been unbound to affift the children, he, with two Indians, caught the horfe on the banks of the river. By this time my legs and feet were covered with blood, which being noticed by Mr. Labarree, he, with that humanity which nover forfook him, took his own figelings and prefented them to me, and the Indians gave me a pair of moggatons. Bags and blankets were thrown over Scoggin, and I mounted on the top of them, and on we jugged about feven miles, to the upper end of Wikott's Island .-We there halted, and prepared to crofs the river ; rafts were made of dry timber-two Indians and Farnfworth crofied first, Labarree, by figns, got permission to fwim the horfe, & Mr. Johnfon was allowed to fwim by the raft that I was on, to push it along. We all arrived fafe on the other fide of the river, about four o'clock in the afternoon; a fire was kindled, and fome of their stolen kettles were hung over its and filed with porridge. The Swages took delight in viewing their spoil, which amounted to forty or fifty pounds in value. They then, with a true hvage yell, gave the war whoop, and bid defiance to danger. As our tarry in this place lasted an hour, I had time to reflect on our miserable situation. Captives, in the power of unmerciful favages, without provision, and almost withour clothes, in a wilderness where we must fojourn as long

¢

t c

L

-1

5. T

ŧ

`,

5

£

c I

as the children of Ifrael did, for ought we knew, and what added to our diffrefs, not one of our lavage masters could un-derstand a word of English. Here, after being hurried from home with fuch rapidity, I have leifure to inform theiread. er respecting our Indian masters. They were eleven" in number, men of middle age, except one, a youth of fixteen, who in our journey discovered a very milchievous and troublefome disposition. According to their national practice, he who first laid hands on a prisoner, confidered him as his property. My master, who was the one that took my hand when I fat on the bed, was as clever an Indian as ever I faw; he even evinced, at sumerous times, a disposition that thewed he was by no means void of compation.-The four, who took my hufband, claimedhim as their property, and my lifter, three children, Labarree and Farniworth, had each a mafter. When the time came for us to propare to march, I almost expired at the thought. To leave my aged pa rents, brothers, filters and friends, and travel with favages, through a difinal forcft to unknown regions, in the alarming fitsation I then was in, with three Imal children, the eldeft, Sylvanus, who was but fix years old. My eldelt daughter, Sufanna, was four, and Polly, the other, two. My fifter Miriam was fourteen .--My hufband was barefoot, and other wile thinly clothed ; his maiter had taken his . jacket, and nothing but his thirt as ' trowfers remained My two daughters had nothing but their thirts, and I only the gown that was hand a me by the fav-In addition to the futterings which ages. aroie from my own depiorable condition. - I could not but icerior my triend Labarree ; he had left a wate and four imali · children behind, to 'ament his lois, and to ren er his fituation extremely unhappy With all there mistortunes lying heavily upon me, the reader can imagine my fituation. The Indians pronounced the dreadful word "munch," march, and on we must go. I was put on the horie, Mr. Johnson took one daughter, and Mr. Lab-

* Mr. Labarree is very politive, and I think Mr. Johnson was of the same opinion, that seventeen Indians attacked the house; the other fix might have been a scouting party, that watched till we ware out of danger, and then took another rout.

35

CAPTIVELY OF

d

d-٦đ

)r-

١g

aÌl

25

er,

er,

ile

115

Эd

erst

нy

1V-ch

on,

ar-

all to vy.

ily

fit-:he on

Ir. 3b-

arree, being unbound, took the other ;--we went fix or eight miles and ftopped for the night. The men were made fecure, by having their legs put in split flicks, fomewhat like flocks, and tied with cords, which were tied to the limbs of trees too high to be reached. My fifter. much to her mortification, must lie between two Indians, with a cord throws over her, and paffing under cach of them the little children, had blankets, and I was allowed one for my use. Thus we took lodging for the night, with the fky for a covering, and the ground for a pillow, The fatigues of the preceding day obliged me to fleep feveral hours, in spire of the horrors which furrounded me. The Indians observed great filence, and never fpoke but when really neceffary, and the prisoners were dispoled to fay but the tle; my children were much more peace able than could be imagined, gloomy feat imposed a deadly filence.

D

CAPTIVITY OF CHAP. II.

History of our Journey through the Wilderness, till we came to the waters that enter Luke Champlain.

N the morning we were roufed before funrife, the Indians firuck up a fre, hung on their stolen kettles, and made us some water gruel for breakfast. After a few fips of this meagre fare, I was again put on the horfe, with my hufband by my fide, to hold me on. My two fellow prifoners took the little girls, and we marched forrowfully on for an hour or two, when a keener diffiels was added to my multiplied afflictions ;- I was taken with the pangs of child-birth. The Indians fignifica to us that we must go on to a brook. When we got there, they thewed fome humanity, by making booth for me. Here the compassionate reader will drop a fresh tear, for my inexpreflible diftres; fifteen or twenty miles from the abode of any civilized being, in the open wilderness, rendered cold by a rainy day-in one of the most perilous hours, and unfupplied with the leaft necelfary, that could yield convenience in the hazardous moment. My children were crying at a diftance, where they were held by their masters, and only my hulband and fister to attend me: none but moth-ers can figure to themselves my unhappy fortune. The Indians kept aloof the whole time. About ten o'clock daugh. ter was born. They then brought me fome articles of clothing for the child, which they had taken from the house My mafter looked into the booth, and clapped his hands with joy, trying two monies for me, two monies for me. was permitted to reft the remainder of the day. The Indians were employed in making a bier for the prifoners to carry me on, and another booth for my lodging during night They brought a needle and two pins, and some bark to tie the, child's clothes, which they gave my fifter, and a large wooden spoon to feed it with ; at dusk they made fome porridge, and brought a cup to fleep fome roots in, which Mr. Labarree had provided. In the evening I was removed to the new booth. For fupper, they made more porridge and fome Johnny cakes. My portion was brought me in a little bark. I flep: that night far beyond expectation.

In the morning we were fummoned for the journey, after the usual breakfast, of meal and water. I, with my infant in my arms, was laid on the litter, which was supported alternately by Mr. Johnfon, Labarree and Farnfworth. My fifter and fon were put upon Scoggin, and the two little girls rode on their master's backs. Thus we proceeded two miles, when my carriers grew too faint to procced any further. This being observed by our fable masters, a general halt was called, and they embodied themfelves for council. My maîter foon made figns to Mr. Johnfor, that if I could ride on the horse I might proceed, otherwise I must be left behind. Here I observed marks of *pity in his countenance, but this might arife from the fear of losing his two monies. I preferred an attempt to ride on the horfe, rather than to perish miserably alone. Mr. Labarree took the infant, and every ftep of the horse almost deprived me of life. My weak and he'plefs condition rendered me, in a degree, infensible to every thing ; my poor child could have no fustenance from my breast, and was supported entirely by water gruel. My other little children, rendered peevifh by an uneafy mode of riding, often buist into cries, but a surly check from their masters soon filenced them. Ŵé proceeded on with a flow, mournful pace. My weaknefs was too fevere to allow me to fit on the horfe long at a time; every hour I was taken off, and laid on the ground to reft. This preferved my life during the third day. At sight we found ourfelves at the head of Black River Pond. Here we prepared to fpend the night, our supper confisted of gruel and the broth of a hawk, they had killed the preceding day. The prisoners were secured, as usual, a booth was made for me, and all went to reft. After encampment, we entered into a fhort conversation. My fifter observed, that if I could have been left behind, dur trouble would have been feemingly nothing. My hufband hoped, by the affittance of providence, we should all be preferved. Mr. Labarree pitied his poor 1) 2

ni

Ŧ.

h

a1

W

T

h fl

e

Ĺ

ť

с

у

F

С

e

ť

i

c е

1 ć

family—and Farnfworth fummed the whole of his wifters, by faying, that if he could have got a layer of pork from the cellar, we fhould not be in fear of ftarvation. The night was uncommonly dark, and paffed tedioufly off.

In the morning, half chilled with a cold fog, we were ordered from our places of reft, were offered the lean fare of meal and water, and then prepared for the journey ; every thing relembled a funeral proc flion. The favages preferved. their gloomy fadnefs-the prifoners, bowed down with grief and fatigue, felt little difposition to talk; and the unevenness of the country, fometimes lying in miry plains, at others rifing into fteep and broken hills, rendered our paffage hazardous and painful Mr. Labarree kept the infant in his arms, and preferved its life. The fifth day's journey was an unvaried scene of fatigue. The Indians fent out two or three hunting parties, who returned without game. As we had in the morning confumed the last morfel of our meal, every one now began to be ferioufly alarmed ; and hunger, with all its horrore, looked us earnefily in the face. A: the part is a serie for a sature of the 111 night, we found the waters that run into Lake Champlain, which was over the height of land, before dark we halted, and the Indians, by the help of their punk, which they carried in horns, made a fire. They foon adopted a plan to relieve their hunger. The horfe was shot, and his flesh was in a tew moments broiling on embers, and they, with native gluttony, fatiated their craving appetites. To use the term politencis, in the management of this repair, may be thought a burlefque, yet their offering the prifoners the beft parts of the horfe, certainly bordered on, civility; an epicure could not have cartered nicer flices, nor in that fituation ferved them up with more neatnefs. Appetite is faid to be the best fauce, yet our abuna dance of it did not render favory this novel steak. My children, however, eat too much, which made them very unwel for a number of days. Broth was made for me and my child, which was rendered almost a luxury by the featoning of roots. After fupper, countenances began to brighten; those who had relished the. meal exhibited new strength, and those who had only inuffed its effluvia, confaffed themfelves regaled; the evening was employed in drying and imoking what remained, for future ufe. The night was a feene of diffreffing fears to me, and my extreme weaknefs had affected my mind to fuch a degree, that every difficulty appeared doubly terrible. By the affittance aff Scoggin, I had been brought fo far, yet fo great was my debility, that every hour I was taken off and laid on the ground, to keep me from expiring. But now, alas ! this conveyance was no more. To walk was impoffible. Inevitable death, in the midft of woods, one hundred miles wide, appeared my only portion.

CHĄP. III.

Continuation, —till our arrival at East Bay, in Lake Champlain.

N the morning of the fixth day, the Indians exerted themfelves to prepare one of their greatest dainties. The marrow bones of old Scoggin were pounded for a foup, and every root, both fweet and bitter, that the woods afforded, was thrown in to give it a flavor. Each one partook of as much as his feelings would allow. The war whoop then refounded, with an infernal yell, and we began to fix for a march. My fate was unknown, till my master brought some bark, and tied my petticoats, as high as he fupposed would be convenient for walking, and or-With fcarce dered me to "munch." ftrength to ftand alone, I went on half a mile, with my little fon and three Indians. The reft were advanced. My power to move then failed, the world grew dark, and I dropped down. I had fight enough

45

CAPTIVITY or

#

2 v E

f

fl

c

r £

C ι f

f f

t

t

t

to fee an Indian lift his hatchet over my head, while my listle fon fcreamed,-"Ma'am do go, for they will kill you." As I fainted, my laft thought was, that I should prefently be in the world of spirits. When I awoke my master was talking angrily with the favage, who had threatened my life. By his gestures I could learn, that he charged him with not acting the honorable part of a warrior, by an attempt to destroy the prize of a brother. A whoop was given, for a halt. My maiter helped me to the reft of the company, where a council was held, the refult of which was, that my hufband fhould walk by my fide, and help me along. This he did for some hours, but faintness then overpowered me, and Mr. Johnson's tendernefs and folicitude, was unequal to the talk, of aiding me further ; another council was held-while in debate, as I lay on the ground, gasping for breath, my master sprang towards me, with his hatchet. My hufband and fellow prifoners grew pale at the fight, fuspecting that be by a fingle blow, would rid themfelves of fo great a burthen as myfelf. But he had yet too much efteen for his "two momes" His object was to get bark from a tree, to make a pack-faddle, for my conveyance on the back of my hufband -He took me up, and we marched in that form the reft of the day. Mr. Labarree full kept my infant, Farnfworth carned one of the little girls, and the other roue with her mafter; they were extremely fick and weak, owing to the large portion of the horie, which they eat ; but if they uttered a murmuring word, a menacing frown from the favages, foon imposed filence. None of the Indians were dilpofed to fhew infults of any nature, except the youngeft, which I have before mentioned. He often delighted himiclf, by tormenting my fifter, by pulling her hair, treading on her gown, and numerous other boyifh pranks, which were provoking and troubletome. We moved on, faint and wearily, till night; the Indians then y lled their war whoop, built a fire, and hang over their horfe broth. After fupper, my booth was built, as ufual, and I reposed much better than I had the preceding nights.

M^m. JOHNSON.

In the morning, I found myself greatly reftored. Wishout the aid of phyli-

27

No.

ŗ,

CAPIIVITY or cians, or physic, nature had begin the cure of that weakness, to which the had reduced me, but 1 few days before. The reader will be tired of the repetition of the fame materials for our meals, but if my feelings can be realized, no one will turn with diigust from a breakfast of fteaks, which were cut from the thigh of a horfe. 'After which, Mr. Johnson was ordered to take the infant, and go forward with part of the company. Ι " munched" in the rear till we came to a beaver pond, which was formed in a branch of Otter Creek. Here I was obliged to wade, when halt way over, up to the middle in cold water, my little ftrength failed, and my power to fpcak or fee left me. While motionless and stiffened, in the middle of the pond, I was perceived from the other fide, by Mr. Johnson, who laid down the infant, and came to my affiltance; he took me in his arms, and when the opposite fide was gained, life itfelf had apparently forfaken me. The whole company ftopped, and the Indians, with more humanity than I fuppofed them poffeffed of, bufied themfelves in making a fire, to warm me into lite. The warm influence of the fire reftored nov exhaufted ftrength, by degrees, and in two hours I was told to munch. The reft of the day I was' canried by my hufband.---In the middle of the afternoon, we arrived on the banks of one of the great branches of Otter Creck. Here we halted, and two favages, who had been on a hunting fcout, returned with a duck ha fire was made, which was thrice grateful to my cold fhivering limbs. Six days had now almost clapsed, fince the fatal morn, in. which we were taken, and by the bleffing of that Providence, whole fmiles give life to creation, we were still in existence.-My wearied husband, naked children, and helplefs infant, formed a feene that conveyed feverer pangs to my heart, than all the fufferings I endured myfelf. The Indians were fullen and filent, the prifoners were fwollen with gloomy grief, and I After my was half the time expiring. little quickened by teelings were a warmth, my fad portion was brought in 1 hark, confifting of the Duck's head, and gill of broth. As I lifted the unfavory norfel, with a trembling hand, to my vouth, I cast my thoughts back a few days, to a time when, from a board plentrfully spread, in my own house, I eat my tood with a merry heart. The wooden fpoon dropped from my feeble hand. The contrast was too affecting. Seated on a ragged rock, bereath a hemlock, as I then was; enaciated by ficknefs, and fur-10unded by my weeping and diftreffed family, who were helplefs prifoners, defpair would have robbed me of life, had I not put my whole confidence in that Being who has power to fave. Our mafters began to prepare to ford the ftream. fwallowed most of my broth, and was taken up by my hufband. The river was very rapid, and paffing dangerous. Mr. Labarree, when halt over with my child, was tripped up by its rapidity, and loft the babe in the water ; little did I expect to see the poor thing again, but he fortunately reached a corner of its blanket. and faved its life. The reft got fafe to the other shore-another fire was built and my fifter dried the infant, and ice clothes.

HERE we found a proof of Indian fegacity, which might justly be suppose not to belong to a band of rambling bar.

barians. In their journey over to Connecticut River, they had, in this place. killed a bear The entrails were cleanied, and filled with the fat of the animal. and suspended from the limb of a tree ; by it was deposited a bag of flour, and fome tobacco, all which was defigned for future ftores, when travelling that way. Nothing could have been offered more asceptable, than thele tokens of Indian economy and prudence. The flour was made into pudding, and the bear greafe fauce was not unrelishing. Broth was made, and well feafoned with inakeroot, and those who were fond of tobacco had each their share. The whole formed quite a fumptuous entertainment. But these favage dainties made no fensible addition to our quota of happinels. My weakness increaled, my children were very unwell, and Mr. Johnson's situation was truly dif. treffing. By travelling barefoot, over fuch a length of forest, and supporting me on his iboulders, his feet were rendered fore, beyond description. I cannot express too much gratitude, for Mr. Labarree's goodnefs. My infant was his fole. charge, and he fupported it, by pieces of the horfe flefh, which he kept for its ufe, which by being first chewed in his own mouth, and then put into the child's afforded it the necessfary nutriment. After fupper, my booth was made, the evening yell was founded, and we encamped for the night. By this time the favages had relaxed port of their watchfulnes, and began to be careless of our escaping.— Labarree and Farnfworth were flightly bound, and my husband had all his hberty. My fifter could fleep without her two Indian companions, and the whole company appeared lefs like prifoners.

CAPTIVITY or

In the morning of the eighth day, we were roufed at funrife. Although the early part of September is generally blefied with a ferene sky, and a warm fun, yet we fuffered exceedingly by the cold. The mornings were damp and toggy, and the lofty trees, and numerous mountains, often excluded the fun till noon. Our Inakeroot broth, enriched with flour, made a rare breakfast, and gave a little ftength to our exhausted limbs. Orders came to "munch." My poor hufband took me upon the pack fadelle, and we reassumed our march. Long before right, de'pondency but first n ; ly pictur-My Lttle fon. ed every counter and who had performed the whole journey on foot, was almost lifelefs Mr. Johnion was emacrated, and almost exhausted ;--often he laid me on the ground to fave his own life, and mine; for my weakness was too great to ride far, without requiring reft. While prostrat upon the earth, and able to speak, I often begged him to leave me there, to end a life, which could last but a short time, and would take his with it, if he continued his exertions to fave me; but the idea was too shocking, we continued our journey, in a flow, for rowful mood, till night. Often did I measure a finall distance for the fun to run, before I must bid it an eternal adieu. But the fame Providence who had brought us fo far, and inclined our favage mafters to mercy, continued my protector.----Farnsworth carried me a small distance, and at last darkness put an end to our Dunful day's journey. After the cuftomary actrofhinert, we went to reft. The night was terrible ; the first part was I gyptian darknefs, then thunder, and ichning, and rain. On the cold earth, E2

53

15

Å

ſ

r

F

a

C

t

t

I

ſ

t i

without a cover, our fituation may be imagined, but not described. The Indians gave me an additional blanket for my ufe, and fhewed fome concern for my welfare ; but it will ever fland firil among modern miracles, that my life was spared. ₹, The morning came, and a bright fun reanimated our drowned ipirits. The whole company now refembled a group of ghofts, more than bodily forms." Litthe did I expect that the light of mother day would writers my exiftence; fenfible. that if my own fad difeafes did not finish my cxistence, my husband would be reduced to the worul alternative, of either perishing with me, or leaving me in the woods to preferve his own life.-The horrid yell was given, which was a fignal for preparation. Melancholy fat heavily on every countenance, and the tear of woe moiftened the fickened cheek of every prifoner. In addition to famine and fatigue, fo long a journey, without a fhoe for defence, had lacerated and mangled every foot, to a shocking degree ; travelling was keenly painful. The fcan-ty breaker, was ferved up ; as I was litt-ing my first broth to my cold lips, tay master, with a rash hand, pulled it from me, and gave it to my hu bind, obferving by figns, that he required all the luftenance, to enable him to carry me. I yielded, on the supposition that it was a matter of little consequence, whether any thing was bellowed to that body which mult foon mingle with its original clay. With forrow and anguish, we began the ninth day's journey. Before we proceeded far, the Indians fignified to us, that we should arrive, before night, at East Bay, on Lake Champlain. This was a cordial to our drooping spirits, and caused an immediate transition from defpair to joy; the idea of arriving at a place of water carriage, translated us to new life. Those who languished with fickness, fatigue or despair, now marched forward with nervous alacrity. Two Indians were fent on a hunting fcout, who were to meet us at the Bay, with canoes. This feafonable and agreeable intelligence, had every poffible effect that was good ; we walked with greater fpeed, felt lefs of the journey, und thought little of our diffrestes.-About the middle of the afternoon the waters of the Lake were feen, from a neighboring eminence ; we foon gained the bank, where we found the two Indians, with four canocs, and a ground fquirrel; a fire was built, and fome tood put in preparation. Here my feelings, which had not been exhilerated to much as the reft of my fellow prifoners, were buoyed above delpair, and, for a fhort time, the pangs of diftress lost their influ-The life, which nine days painful ence. fuffering in the wildernefs, had brought to its lait moment of duration, now ftart. ed into new existence, and rendered the hour I fat on the fhore of Lake Champlain one of the happiest I ever experienced. Here we were to take passage, in boats, and find relief from the thorny hills and miry fwamps of the damp defart. My hufband could now be relieved from the burden, which had brought him as nigh eternity as myself. My little children would foon find clothing, and all my fellow sufferers would be in a condition to attain fome of life's conveniences. Twelve hours failing would waft us to the fettlements of civilized Frenchmen. Confidcring how much we had endured, few will deem it lefs than a miracle, that we were fill among the living. My fon, of fix years old, had wa ked barefoot the whole journey. Farnfworth was shoeles, and carried my eldest diughter. Labarree had to carry and preterve the life of my infant. My fifter, owing to her youth, and health, had fuffered the leaft. My infant. two little daughters, with only their fhitts, and part of one of the three gowns, which the favage gave me, were subject to all the damps of morn and night; and M. Johnson's situation was pitiably painful; the fatigue of carrying me on the wearying pack faddle, had rendered his emaciated body almost a corpse, and his fore feet made him a cripple. The Indians had been furprisingly patient, and often discovered tokens of humanity. At every meal we all shared equal with them, whether a horfe or a duck compofed the bill of fare, and more than once they gave me a blanket, to fhelter me from a thunder storm.

$5

ſ

56

CAPTIVITY OF

CHAP IV.

Croffing the Lake to Crown Point, from thenes to St. Johns-Champ ce-and to St. Francis' Village.

WILL only detain the reader a few moments longer in this place while I eat the leg of a woodchuck, and then request him to take a night's failing in the canoe with me across the Lake. Though I fincerely with him a better paffage than I had. No fooner was our repatt finthed, than the party were divided into four equal parties, for passage. In my boat were two favages, befides my fon and infant. I was ordered to lie flat on the bottom of the canoe, and when pain obliged me to move for selief, I had a rap from a paddle. At day break, we arrived at a great rock, on the west fide of the Lake, where we dopped and built a fire. The Indians went to a French house, not far diffart, and got fore meat, bread, and green corn. Although we were not allowed to take the more, yet, by the grateful effluence of the broking freak, we were finely regated, and the bread and roak corn, were a huxury.

HERE the lavages, for the first time, gave loud tokens of joy, by hallooing and yelling in a tremendous manner. The prifoner, were now introduced to a new fchool. Little did we expect that the accomplifhment of dancing would ever be taught us, by the favages. But the war dance must now be held; and every prifoner that could move, must take its awkwud fteps. The figure confifted of circular motion round the fire ; each fang his own music, and the best dancer was the one most violent in motion. The prifoners were taught each a fong, mme was, danna witchee natchepung, my fon's was narwifcumpton. I he reit I cannot recol-lect Whether this tafk was imposed on us for them diversion, or a religious ceremonial, I cannot fay, but it was very painful and offenfive. In the forenoon, feven Indians came to us, who were received with great joy by our masters, who took great pleasure in introducing their prifoners. The war dance was again held ; we were obliged to join, and fing our fongs, while the Indians rent the air with infernal yelling. We then embarked and arrived at Crown Point about noon.-Each prisoner was then led by his mafter to the refidence of the French command-Ihe Indians kept up their infernal cr. yelling the whole time. We were ordered to his apartment, and used with that hospitality which characterizes the best part of the nation. We had brandy in profusion, a good dinner, and a change of This was luxury indeed, after linen. what we had fuffered, for the want of these things. None but ourselves could prize their value. We, after dinner, werc paraded before Mr. Commander, and underwent examination, after which we were fhewn a convenient apartment, where we refided four days, not fubject to the jurisdiction of our favage masters. Hewe received great civilities, and man presents. I had a nurse, who in a gree measure restored my exhausted strengti My children were all decently clothee. and my infant in particular. The far day, while I was taking a nap, they dread ed it fo fantastically, a la France, that I refused to own it, when brought to my bedfide, not gueffing that I was the mother of fuch a strange thing.

On the fourth day, to our great grief and mortification, we were again delivered to the Indians, who led us to the water fide, where we all embarked in one veffel tor St. Johns. The wind shifted, after a thort fail, and we dropped anchor. In a little time a canoe came along fide of us, in which was a white woman, who was bound for Albany. Mr. Johnfon begged her to ftop a few minutes, while he wrote to Col. Lydius of Albany, to inform him of our fituation, and to request him to put the same in the Boston newspapers, that our triends might learn that we were alive. The woman delivered the letter and the contents were published, which conveyed the agreeable tidings to our triends, that although prifoners, we were then alive.

2

THE following tetter, in return for the one we fent the Coll. Lydius, was the first we received from New-England :

61

€ -

ALBANY, NOV. 5, 1754

ŞIR,

62

I RECEIVED yours of the 5th October, with a letter or two for New England, which I have forwarded immediately, and have wrote to Bofton, in which I urged the government to endeavor your and family's redemption as foon as conveniency would admit.

I AM quite forry for your doleful misfortune, and hope the juft God will endue you with patience to undergo your troubles, and juftly use his rewards on the evil doers and authors of your misfortune.— Prefent my fervice to all the prifoners with you, from him who fubfcribes himfelf to be your very humble fervant,

JOHN W. LYDIUS. Lucut. JAMES JOHNSON, Montreal.

AFTER a difagreeable voyage of three days, we made St. Johns, the 16th of September, where we again experienced the politeness of a French commander. I with my child, was kindly lodged in the same room with himself and lady. In the morning we full found misfortune treading close at our heels ;—we must again b delivered to our favage masters, and take another passage in the boats for Chamblee. when within three miles of which, Labarree, myfelf and child, with our two makters, were put on fhore ; we were igno. rant of our deftiny, and parting from my hufband and friends, was a fevere trial, without knowing whether we were ever to meet them again. We walked on to Chamblee ; here our fears were diffipated, by meeting our friends. In the garrifon of this place, we found all the holpitality our necessities required. Here for the first, after my captivity, I lodged on a bed. Brandy was handed about in large bowls, and we lived in high ftyle. The next morning we were put in the cuftody of our old mafters, who took us to the canoes, in which we had a painful voyage that day, and the following night to Sorell; where we arrived on the 19th. A hospitable friar came to the shore to ice us, and invited us to his house ; he gave us a good breakfast, and drank our better healths, in a tumbler of brandy the took compationate notice of my child, and ordered it fome fuitable food. But the Indians hurried us off before it could eat.

CAPTIVITY OF

64

He then went with us to the fhore, and ordered his fervant to carry the food, prepared for the child, to the canoe, where he waited till I fed it. The friar was a very genteel man, and gave us his benediction, at parting, in feeling language. We then rowed on till the middle of the afternoon, when we landed on a barren heath, and by the help of a fire, cooked as. Indian dinner; after which the war dance was held, and another infernal yelling. The prifoners were obliged to fing, till they were hoarfe, and dance round the fire.

We had now arrived within a few miles of the village of St. Francis, to which place our mafters belonged. Whenever the warriors return from an excurtion against an enemy, their return to the tribe or village must be defignated by warlike ceremonial; the captives or spoil, which may happen to crown their valor, must be conducted in a triumphant form, and decorated to every possible advantage.— For this end we must now submit to painting; their vermillion, with which they were ever supplied, was mixed with bear's grease, and every cheek, chin' and forehead must have a dash. We then nowed on within a nigle of the town, where we tropped at a French houfe, to dine ; the prifoners were ferved with foup meagre and bread. After dinner, two favages proceeded to the village, to carry the glad tidings of our arrival. The whole atmosphere foon refounded from every quarter, with whoops, yells shrieks and screams. St Francis, from the nosse that came from it, might be supposed the cenue of Pandemonium. Our masters were not backward, they made every response they pollibly could. The whole time we were failing from the French house, the noule was direful tobe heard. Two hours before funset, we came to the landing, at the village. No fooner had we landed, than the yelling in the town was redoubled, a cloud of favages, of all fizes and fexes, foon appeared running towards us ; when they reached the boats, they formed themselves into a long parade, leaving a small space, through which we must pass. Each Indian then took his prisoner. by his hand, and after ordering him to. fing the war long, began to march thro the gauntlet. We expected a fevere beating before we got through but were agreeably difappointed, when we found that each Indian only gave us a tap on the fhoulder. We were led directly to the houses, each taking his prifoner to his own wigwam. When I entered my master's door, his brother faluted me with a large belt of wampum, and my mafler prefented me with another. Both were put over my fhoulders, and croffed behind and before. My new home was not the most agreeable; a large wigwam without a floor, with a fire in the centre, and only a few water veffels and difhes, to eat from, made of birch bark, and tools for cookery, made clumfily of wood, for furniture, will not be thought a pleafing refidence to one accustomed to civilized life.

$C H \Lambda P$. V.

Refidence at St. Francis. Sale of most of the Prisoners to the French, and Removal to Montreal.

our arrival at St. Francis. Those who have felt the gloomy, homefick feelings, which fadden those hours which a youth paffes, when first from a father's house, may judge of part of my fufferings; but when the reft of my circumstances are added, their conception must fall infinitely fhort. I now found myfelf, with my infant, in a large wigwam, accompanied with two or three warriors, and as many fquaws, where I must spend the night, and perhaps a year. My fellow prifoners were dispersed over the town ; each one, probably, feeling the fame gloominefs with myfelf. Hafty pudding prefently was brought forward for fupper. A fpa-cious bowl of wood, well filled, was placed in a central spot, and each one drew near with a wooden fpoon. As the Indians never use feats, nor have any in their wigwams, my awkwardness in taking my pofition, was a matter of no imall amuiement to my new companions. The fquaws first fall upon their knees, and then fit back upon their heels. This was a pofture that I could not imitate To fit in any other, was thought by them indelicate and unpolite. But Ladvanced to my gudding, with the beit grace I could, not, however, efcaping fome of their funny remarks. When the hour for fleep came on, for it would be improper to call it bedtime, where beds were no, I was pointed to a platform, raifed falt a yard, where apon a board, covered with a blanket, I was to pass the night. The Indians threw ficunselves down, in various parts of the building, in a manuer that more refembled tows, in a flied, than human beings, in a in the morning, our breakfaft comfifted of the relicks of the last might; and we spent some hours, in observations upon our fituation, while walking fome apparel, at a little brook. In the after-grand parade, where we found a large collection of the village inhabitants; an aged chief flopped forward, into an area, and after every noife was filenced, and every one fixed in protound attention, he began to harangue; his manner was folemn-his motions and expression gave me a perfect idea of an orator. Not a breath was heard, and every spectator feemed to reverence what he faid. After the fpeech, my little fon was brought to the opposite fide of the parade, and a number of blankets laid by his fide. It now appeared that his mafter and mine intended an exchange of prifoners. My mafter being a hunter, withed for my lon, to attend him on his excursions. Each delivered his property with great formality; my fon and blankets, being an equivalent for myfelf, child and wampum. I was taken to the house of my new malter, and found myself allied to the first family; my master, whole name was Gill, was fon-in-law to the grand fachem, was accounted rich, had a ftore of goods, and lived in a ftyle far above the major ky of his tribe. He often told me that he had an English heart, but his wife was true Indian blood. Soon after my arrival at his house, the interpreter came to inform me that I was adopted into his family. I was then introduced to the family, and was told to call them brothers and fifters. I made a fhort reply, expreffive of gratitude, for being introduced to a house of high rank, and requested their patience while I should learn the customs of the nation. This was fcarce over, when the attention of the village was called to the grand parade, to attend a rejoicing occafioned by the arrival of fome warriors, who had brought fome fealps. They were carried in triumph on a pole. Savage butchery, upon murdered countrymen! The fight was horrid. As I retired to my new relidence, I could hear the favage yells that accompanied the war dance.---I fpent the night in fad reflection.

69.

My time now was folitary beyond defcription; my new fifters and brothers treated me with the fame attention that they did, their natural kindred, but it was an unnatural fituation to me. I was a hovice at making canoes, bunks, and tumplines, which was the only occupation of the fquaws; of courfe, idlenefs was a mong my calamities. My fellow prifoners were 25. gloomy as myfelf; ignorant whether they were to fpend their days in this inactive village, to be carried into a war campaign, to flaughter their countrymen, or to be dragged to the cold Lakes of the north, in a hunting voyage. We vifited each other daily, and fpent our time in conjecturing our future deftiny.

20

Ī

THE fpace of forty-two years having elapfed, fince my refidence in St. Francis, it is impossible to give the reader a minute detail of events that occurred while there; many of them are ftill forcibly impreffed upon my memory, but dates and particulars are now inaccurately treasured up by faint recollection. Mr. Johnson tarried but a few days with me, before he was carried to Montreal, to be fold. My two daughters, fifter and Labarree, were foon after carried to the fame place, at different times. Farniworth was carried by his mafter, on a hunting fcout, but not proving fo active in the chafe and ambufh as they wished, he was returned and sent to Montreal. I now found an increase to my trouble, with only my fon and infant, in this ftrange land, without a prospect of relief, and with all my former trouble lying heavy upon me, dilappointment and despair came well nigh being my executioners. In this dilemma, who can imagine my diffres, when my little fon came running to me one morning, fwollen with tears, exclaiming, that the Indians weread going to carry him into the woods to Aunt; he had fcarcely told the pitcous ftory, before his matter came, to pull him away; he threw his little arms around me, begging in the agony of grief, that I. would keep him. The inexorable favage, unclended his hands, and forced him away; the last words I heard, intermingled with his cries, were, Ma'am I fhall never fce you again. The keennets of my pangs almost obliged me to with that I had never been a mother. Farewel, Sylvanus, faid I, God will preferve you.

Ir was now the 15th of October.— Forty five days had paffed fince my captivity, and no prospect but what was darkened with clouds of misfortune. The uneafiness occasioned by indolence, was in some measure relieved, by the privilege of making shirts for my brother. At night and morn I was allowed to milk the cows.

MRS. JOHNSON.

2

ı

3

)

s ı

ł

I.

з,

1

ł

у

Í

)-

.S

e

1

·e t

s.

The reft of the time I ftrolled gloomily about, looking fometimes into an unfociable wigwam, at others fauntering into the Lushes, and walking on the banks of brooks. Once I went to a French house, three miles diftant, to vifit fome friends of my brother's family, where I was entertained politely a week : at another time, I went with a party to fifh, accompanied by a number of squaws. My weakness obliged me to reft often, which gave my companions a poor opinion of me; but they shewed no other relentment, than calling me " no good fquaw," which was the only reproach my fifter ever gave, when I difpleafed her. All the French inhabitants I formed an acquaintance with, treated me with that civility which diftinguishes the nation; once in particular, being almost distracted with an aching tooth, I was carried to a French phyfician, across the river, for relief. They prevailed on the Indians, to let me vifit them a day or two, during which time, their marked attention and generofity claims my warmeft gratitude. At parting, they expredied their earnest wishes to have me vific then again.

G

st łi

c

0 fu

P

J

£

ŧ.

v

t e

ſ

I

¢

٦

۹

-

ST. Francis contained about thirty wigwams, which were thrown diforderly into a clump. There was a church, in which mass was held every night and morning, and every Sunday the hearers were funmoned by a bell; and attendance was pretty general. Ceremonies were performed by a French friar, who lived in the midft of them, for the falvation of their fouls. He appeared to be in that place, what the legislative branch is in civil governments, and the grand fachem the ex-ecutive. The inhabitants lived in perfect harmony, holding most of their property in common. They were prone to indolence, when at home, and not remarkable for neatnets. They were extremely modeft, and apparently averfe to airs of courtship. Necessity was the only thing that called them to action ; this induced them to plant their corn, and to undergo the fatigues of hunting. Perhaps I am wrong to call neceffity the only motive, revenge, which prompts them to war, has great power. I had a numerous retinue of relations, whom I vifited daily; but my brother's houfe, being one of the most decent in the village, I fared full as well

74

Ţ-

Ó

.h

5,

1-

as

r-

۱e

217

:e,

vх-

f):

ty

0-ble

drt-

at

n

he m з,

23

ue

ut

oft ell

at home. Among my connexions was a little brother Sabatis, who brought the cows for me, and took particular notice of my child. He was a fprightly little fellow, and often amufed me with feats performed with his bow and arrow.

in the early part of November, Mr. Johnson wrote from Montreal, requesting me to prevail on the Indians to carry me to Montreal, for fale, as he had made provision for that purpose. I disclosed the matter, which was agreed to by my brother and filter, and on the feventh we fet fail in a little bark canoe. While croffing Lake St. Peters, we came nigh landing on the fhores of eternity. The waves were raifed to an enormous height by the wind, and often broke over the canoe. My brother and fifter were pale as ghofts, and we all expected immediated cftruction; but the arm of falvation was extended for our rehef, and we reached the flore We were four days in this voyage, making eived obliging eivilities every night, at French lettlements; on the eleventh, we arrived at Montreal, where I had the fupreme fatisfaction of meeting my hufband, children, and friends. Here I had the 2

ř-

F

CAPTIVITY OF

n

1

d

C

C

e

£

t

1

I

happinels to find, that all my fellow prifonars had been purchafed, by gentlemen of respectability, by whom they were treated with great humanity. Mr. Du Quefne hought my fifter, my eldest daughter was owned by three affluent old maids, by the name of Jaisson, and the other was owned by the mayor of the city.

MR. Johnson had obtained the privilege of two months' absence on parole, for the purpole of going to New-England, to procure cash for the redemption of his family; he fat out on his journey the day after my arrival at Montreal. Mr. Du Queine engaged to supply his family with necessaries, during his absence, and was to be recompensed at his return. Directly after his departure, I found myself doomed to fresh trouble. The Indians brought me here for the purpose of exchanging me for fome Micanaw favages, a tribe with whom they were at war ; 47 but being difappointed in this, they were exorbitant in their demands, and refused to take lefs than a thousand livres for me and my child. Mr. Du Queine fixed his offer at seven hundred, which was utterly refused by my favage masters. Their

76 .

1

ļ

Mas. JOHNSON.

next ftep was to threaten to carry me back to St. Francis. Atter half a day's furly deliberation, they concluded to take the offered fum. I was received into Mr. Du Quefne's family. My joy at being deliv-ered from favage captivity was unbounded. From this period, Indians and fufterings were no more to corture me, or my tamily, except the unfortunate Sylvanus. The fond idea of liberty, held forth its dazzling pleafures, and the ignorance of fature calamities, precluded every cloud, that could obscure its effulgence. On Mr. Johnfon's journey to New-England I rested all my hope, and felt full confidence in being relieved at his return.

In juftice to the Indians, I ought to remark, that they never treated me with cruelty to a wanton degree ; few people have furvived a fituation like mine, and few have fallen into the hands of favages disposed to more lenity and patience. Modefty has ever been a characteristic of every tavage tribe ; a truth which my whole family will join to corroborate, to the extent of their knowledge. As they are aptly called the children of nature, those who have profited by refinement G 2

s

77

1

CAPTIVITY OF

and education, ought to abate part of the prejudice, which prompts them to look with an eye of centure on this untutored race. Can it be faid of civilized conquerors, that they, in the main, are willing to fhare with their prifoners, the last ration of food, when famine stares them in the face? Do they ever adopt an enemy, and falure him by the tender name of brother? And I am justified in doubting, whether if I had fallen into the hands of French foldiery, fo much affiduity would have been shown, to preferve my life.

Anie Inc

MRS. JOHNSON.

79

"池,

CHAP. VI.

Mr. Johnson's Tour to Boston, and Ports a mouth, and the Catastrophe at his return. Arrival at the Prison in Quebec.

HE reader will le ve me and my family, under the care of our factor. a short time, and proceed with Mr. Ichnion. On the 12th of November, he lat out for Albany, accompanied by two Indians for pilots, for whole fidelity the commander in chief was responsible. They were to tarry at Albany till his re-get turn. In a fhort time I had a letter from , Col. Lydius, informing me that he had fafely arrived at Albany, and had gone to Boston. His first step was to apply to, Governor Shirley, for money to redeem his family, and the English prifoners. Shirley laid his matter before the General Affembly, and they granted the fum of ten pounds, to defray his expenses. He got no further affiltance in Mallachusetts, and was adviled to apply to the govern.

- A

ment of New-Hampfaire Gov Wentworth laid the matter ϕ fore the General Affembly of that flate, and the fum of \mathcal{L} 150 flerling, was granted for the purpole of redemption of prifoners. The committee of the General Court of New-Hampfhire gave him the following directions. Portfmouth, N. H. Jan. 25, 1755.

Mr. JAMES JOHNSON-SIR,

AGREEABLE to your letter to the Secretary, of the 16th instant, you have enclosed a letter to Col. Cornelius Cuyler, Efq. in which you will obferve we have given you credit, for letters on his ac-quaintance in Canada, to furnish you with credit, to the amount of 150 pounds iterling. We therefore advife you to proceed to Albany, and on your arrival there, deliver the faid letter to Col. Cuyler, and take from him fuch credit as he shall give you, on fome able perfon or perfons in Canada, and when you are thus furnished, you will then proceed to Canada, and there negociate, in the best and most frugal manner you can, the purchasing fuch, and fo many captives, as you may hear of, that have been taken from any part of this province, taking care that the afore-fiid fum agreeable to the grant of the General Aflembly here, be distributed, to and for the purchasing all the faid captives, that are to be come at, in the most equal and exact manner, that none may be left there for want of their quota of faid money. The captive's names, and places from whence taken, that we have information of, you have herewith a list of, for your direction. You are to keep an exact account of the distribution of this money, in order to your future discharge.

We are your friends,

THEODORE ATKINSON, S. WIBIRT, MESHECH WEARE, BENJ. SHERBURNE, jun.

9 L

A LIST of the Captures, taken from the Province of New-Hamphire, by the St. Iranais Indians, in the fumilier 1752 Fiom Charleitown, on Connecticut River. James Johnfon, his wife, and four children.

Peter Labarree.

Lbenezer Farnfworth.

Miriain Willard.

From Merrimack River.

Nathaniel Malloon, his wife and three children.

Robert Barber,

Samuel Scribner,

Enos Bishop.

IN addition to this letter of credit, Gov. Wentworth gave him the following paffport.

Province of New-Hampshire, in New-England.

By his Excellency BENNING WINTWORTH, Efq. Captain General, Governor, and Commander in Chiet, in and over

L. s. his Britannic Majeftv's Province of New-Hampfhire atorefaid, and Vice-Admiral of the fame, and Surveyor General of all his Majory's Woods, in North-America :

82

a

MRS. JOHNSON.

WHERLAS the St. Francis and other Indians did, in the fummer last past, captivate fundry of his Majefty's fubjects, inhibitants of this Province, and have, as I have been informed, fold the fame to the fubjects of the French King in Canada, where they are now detained in fervitude; and having had application made to me, by Mr James Johnson, of Charlestown, within this province, one of the faid captives, who obtained leave to come to this country, in order to purchase his own, and other captives' liberty. For letters of fafe paffport, I do hereby require and command, all officers, civil and military. as well as all other perfons, that they offer no lett or hindrance to the faid James Johnson, or his company, but contrarywife, that they afford him all neceffary difpatch in faid journey through this province.

AND I do hereby alfo defire, that all his Majefty's fubjects, of his feveral other governments, through which the faid johnion may have occasion to travel, may treat him with that civility that becometh.

I ALSO hereby earneftly entreat the Governor-General, and all other officers, 「「「「「「「「「」」」

CAPTIVITY OF

n inifters and fubjects of his moft Chriftian Majesty, governing and inhabiting the country and territories of Canada aforelaid, that they would respectively be aiding and affifting to the faid James Johnion, in the aforefaid negociation. Hereby engaging to return the fame civility and kindnels, to any of his most Christian Majefty's officers and fubjects, when thereto requeited, by any of his Governors or proper officers. In token of which, I have caused the public seal of the Province of New-Hampshire aforefaid, to be hereunto affixed, this 25th day of January, in the 28th year of the reign of our Sovereign Lord George the fecond, of Great-Britain, France, and Ireland, King, Defender of the Faith, &c.

BENNING WENTWORTH.

By his Excellency's Command,

I HEODORE ATKINSON, Sec'y.

Anno Domini 1755

WITH these credentials, Mr. Johnson proceeded with alacrity to Boston, procured Governor Shirley's passfort, and set forward to Worcester, on his seturn back : while there, he was greatly astonished at receiving the following letter from Governor Shirley.

,

Boston, February 15, 1755.

MR. JOHNSON,

THERE have fome things happened in our public affairs, fince your going from Bofton, with my letters to the Governor of Canada, and intelligence come of the motions of the French in Canada, for further invading his Majefty's territories on the frontiers of New-York and New-Hampfhire, as make it unsate for you, as well as for the public, to proceed, at prefent, on your journey to Quebec, and therefore I expect that you do forthwith, upon receiving this letter, return back. and lay afide all thoughts of going for4 ward, on this journey, till you have my leave, or the leave of Gevernor Wentworth, to whom 1 shall write, and inform him of what I have undertook to do in this matter, in which his Majefty's fervice is fo much concerned.

Your friend and fervant,

W. SHIRLEY.

MR. JAMES JOHNSON.

On the receipt of this letter, he returned with a heavy heart to Bofton, and was positively ordered by Shirley, to ftay till, further orders. His fituation now was really deplorable. His parole, which was only for two months, muit be violated ; his credit in Canada loft : his family expofed to the malice of exafperated Frenchmen, and all his good prolpects at an end. After using every exertion, in Bofton, for leave to recommence his journey, and fpending the reft of the winter, and all the fpring, he found his efforts were in During this time, my fituation vain. grew daily diffreffing. Mr. Du Queine made honorable provision tor myfelt, fitter and child, till the expiration of my hufband's parole; the two Indians were then fent to Albany, to pilot him back, after waiting fome time, and learning nothing about him, they returned. Previous to this I had been treated with great attention and civility; dined frequently in the first families, received cards to attend them on parties of pleafure, and was introduced to a large and refpectable acquaintance. As an unfortunate woman, I received those general tokens of generofity which flow from a humane people. Among the prefents which I received was one of no fmall magnitude, from Captains Stowbrow and Vambram, two gentlemen.

Н

w to g١ an bi. at Μ to pr tu in lif di to de ct pυ tc tc ly ar it tŀ ha Ca to \mathbf{o}

ſc

MRS. JOHNSON.

who were delivered by Mujor Willing ton, as holtages, when he, with the Virginia troops, furiendered to the French and Indians. In compliance with their billet, I waited on them one morning, and at parting received a prefent of 148 livres. Mr. St. Ange, a French gentlemm of tortune and diffinction, belide trequent proofs of his goodnets, gave me at one time 48 livres. In his family I formed an intimate acquaintance with a young Englifh lady who was captured by the Indians in the Province of Maine, and fold to him : fhe was used with parental tendernefs, and fhared the privileges of his children; she, with his daughter, frepuently came in their morning carriage, to ride with my lifter and me. Gratitude to my numerous benefactors, pleads loudly in favor of inferting all their names, and particularizing every act of generofity. If I omit it, it must not be imagined that I have forgotten their charity; it has left an impression on my heart, that can only be erafed with my exiftence.

1

I

1

2

•

3

,

3

-

t 7

s

;.

,

•

.. .s

د. د I MUST not omit a circumftance which took place between the lady of the Mayor of the city and myfelf. She had purchafed my daughter Polly of the Indians, with the apparent expectation of keeping her for life : fhe had put her out to nurle, and when I visited her, her cites to go with me were troublefome, of courfe I was forbid feeing her. This was too fevere-I applied to the interpreter to conduct me to this woman, and he went with me to her house; she received me with the greatest haughtiness, and gave me to understand that the child was her's, and the would prevent my being further troubled with it. I replied to her in the feeling language of a mother, but it had no effect at that time. A day or two afterwards, the interpreter brought word from the woman, that I had follened her heart, and might have my child. I received with it confider the good clothing, and the woman asked nothing for all her trouble.

CAPTIVITY OF

WHILE in Mr. Du Quefne's family, my little daughter was very unwell, and the fuperfititious people were convinced that fhe would either die, or be carried off by the Devil, unlefs baptized. I yielded to their wifnes, and they prepared for the ceremony. with all the appendages annexed to their religion. Mr. Du Quefne was godfather, and the young English lady godmother, by Mrs Du Quelne's particular request, the was christened Louile, after hertelf—to which I added the name of Captive.

I HE LETURN of the Indians, without Mr. Johnson, bosted no good to me. I obterved with pain, the gradual change In my mends, from coldneis to neglect, and from neglect to contempt. Mr. Du Quefne, who had the most delicate iense of honor, fuppofed that he had defignedly broken his parole, and abused his confidence; he refused to grant me further affistance, or even to fee my face I now found mysclf friendless and alone; not a word had I heard from Mr. Johnson, not a word had I heard from my little fon, with the Indians. Affliction lowered upon me, with all its horrors; in this dilemma, my fifter and I agreed to take a fmall room, and fupport ourfelves, till our little ftore of cash was expended, and then have recourfe to our needles.

In the beginning of April, the Indians made a fecond tour to Albany, in queft of Mr. Johnfon, and again returned without bim. I wrote to Col. Lydius for informa-H 2

CAPTIVITY OF

90

tion, but he could tell nothing. Darknefs increased ; but I fummoned all my refolution, and indulged the fond hope of being foon relieved. We kept our little room till June, when I had the happinefs to hear that my husband was without the city, waiting for permission to come in. He was conducted in by a file of men; his presence banished care and trouble, ast turned the tear of forrow to the effusion of joy ; after the joy of meeting had fubfided, he related his fad fate in New-Eng-He finally got permission from land. Gov. Wentworth to come privately, by the way of Albany, where he took his bills, drawn by Mr. Cuyler, on Mr. St. Luc Lucorne, and Mr. Rine Du Queine. The face of affairs in Canada had materially changed; during his absence a new Governor had been fent over, and various minœuvres in politics had taken place, which were vity injurious to him. Had the old Governor tarried, his absence would have probably been excufed. But Monf. Vadrieul was ignorant of the conditions wa which he went home, and could not aumit apologies, for the breach of his parole. Qur difappointment and mortification were fevere, when we found our bills protefted. This reduced us at once to a beggarly flate. The evil was partially remedied by St. Luc Lucorne's lending us paper money, while we could fend fome Indians to Mr. Cuyler for filver. Mr. Johnfon received orders to fettle his affairs, with all poffible difpatch.

SPIRIFED preparations were now making for war. General Dieskau arrived from France, with an army, and Montreal was a scene of busy confusion. We were completing our fettlements, with our paper, expecting to have full permission to go home, when the Indians returned. But the measure of our misery was not yet full. In the beginning of July Mr. Johnson was put into jail. Terrible to me was this, unexpected stroke; without money, credit or friends, I must now roam the streets, without a prospect of relief from the cloud of misfortune that hung over me. In a few days, the faithful Indians, who had been fent to Mr. Cuyler for the filver, returned, with 438 dollars, with an order on St. Luc Lucorne, for 700 additional livres; but he took the whole into possef. fion, and we never after received a penny ilom him.

HALI diffracted, and almost exhausted with despair and grief, I went to the Governor, to paint our distress and ask relief. I found him of easy access, and he heard my lamentable flory with feeming emotron; his only promise was to take care of us, and at parting he gave me a crown, to buy milk for my babes. Ignorant of our deftiny, my fifter and I kept our little room, and were fortunate enough to get sublistence from day to day—Often going to the gloomy prison, to see my poor hutband, whole misfortunes in Boston had brought him to this wretchedness.

"Our own misfortunes had taught us how to feel for the fufferings of others, and large demands were now made on our fympathetic powers. Just as we were plunged into this new distrefs, a fcout of favages brought a number of prifoners into Montreal, which were our old friends and acquaintance." Our meeting was a fcene of forrow and melancholy pleasure.

* Two children from Mr. H. Grout's family, and two children belonging to Mrs. How, the fair captive celebrated in Col. Humphrey's hife of Putnam. Them names were Polly and Submit Phips. Mrs. How was then a prifoner at St. Johns, with fix other.

MRS. JOHNSON.

ALL were now flocking to the flandard The Indians came from all quarof war. ters, thirsting for English blood, and receiving inftruction from the French. Α number of tribes, with all their horrid weapons of war, paraded, one morning, before the General's house, and held the war dance, and filled the air with infernal yells, after which, in a formal manner, they took the hatchet against the English, and marched for the field of battle. Alas! my poor countrymen, thought I, how many of you are to derive milery from these monsters.

children, and one Garfield. They were all taken at Hinfdale.—Mrs How's daughters were purchafed by Monf. Vaudrieul, the Governor, and had every attention paid their education. After a year's refidence in Montreal, they were fent to the grand nunnery in Quebec, where my filter and I made them a vifit; they were beautiful girls, cheerful and well taught. We here found two aged English ladies, who had been taken in former wars. Que, by the name of Wheelright, who had a brother in Bofton, on whom the requested me to call, if ever I went to that place; I complied with her request afterwards, and received many civilities from her brother.

On the 22d of July, Mr. Johnson was taken from the jail, and with myself and our two youngest children, were ordered on board a veisel for Quebec. To leave our friends at Montreal, was a distressing affair ; my fifter's ranfom had been paid, but fhe could not go with us. She went into the family of the Lieut. Governor, where she supported herself with her needle. My eldest daughter was still with the three old maids, who treated her tenderly. Labarree and Farnsworth had paid the full price of their redemption, but were not allowed to go home. Not a word had we heard yet from poor Sylva. nus. We parted in tears, ignorant of our destination, but little thinking that we were to embark for a place of wretchedness and woe. After two days good failing, we arrived at Quebec, and were all conducted directly to jail.

MRS. JOHNSON.

CHAP. VII.

Six months refidence in the Criminal Jail, and removal to the Civil Prifon.

WE now, to our indefcribable pain, found the fallacy of Mr. Governor's, promises, for our welfare. This jail with a place too shocking for description. L. one corner fat a poor being, half dead with the finall pox; in another were fome loufy blankets and ftraw ; in the centre flood a few dirty difhes, and the whole presented a scene miserable to view. The terrors of starvation, and the fear of fuffocating in filth, were overpowered by the more alarming evil of the fmall pox, which none of us had had. But there was no retreat, refignation was our only resource; the first fortnight we waited anxiously for the stack of the difease, in which time we were supported by a small piece of meat a day, which was flewed with fome ruly crufts of bread, and brought to us in a pail that fwine would run from. The ftraw and loufy blankets were our only lodging, and the reft of our furniture confitted of fome wooden blocks for feats. On the fifteenth day I was taken with the small pox, and removed to the hospital; leaving my husband and two children in the horrid prifon. In two days Mr. Johnson put my youngest child, Captive, out to nurse. The woman kept the child but a few days before fhe returned it, owing to 2 miltrust that the should not get her pay. But should it remain in prison, certain death must be its portion. Her father was reduced to the fad necessity of requesting her to carry it to the Lord Intendant, and tell him that he must either allow her a compensation for keeping it, or it must be left at The good woman dreffed it his door. decently, and obeyed her orders. Mr. Intendant smiled at her story, and took the child in his arms, faying, it was a pretty little English devil, it was a pity it should die ; he ordered his clerk to draw an order for its allowance, and the took good care of it till the fait of October, except a few days while it had the fmall pox.

A rew days after I left the prison, Mr.

Johnfon and my other daughter were taken with fymptoms and came to the horpital to me. It is a fingular inftance of Divine Interpolition, that we all recovered from this malignant difeafe. We were remanded to prifon, but were not compelled to our former rigid confinement. Mr. Johnfon was allowed, at certain times, to go about the city, in queft of provision. But on the 20th of October, St. Luc Lucorne arrived from Montreal, with the news of Diefkau's defeat ; he had ever fince my hufband's misfortune, about his parole, been his perfecuting enemy. By his inftigation we were all put directly to clofe prifon.

-

10

•

2

...

1

i

۰,

The ravages of the fmall pox reduced us to the laft extremity, and the focid prifon, without fire or food, added bitter, nefs to our diftrefs. Mr. Johnfon preferred a petition to the Lord Intendant, ftating out melancholy fituation. I had the liberty of prefenting it myfelf, and by the affiftance of Mr. Perthieur, the interpreter, in whom we even found a compaffionate friend, we got for finall relief.— About the first of November I was taken violently ill of a fever. articles carried to

CAPTIVITY or

 \mathbf{pr}

ťρ

ŧa

pe

0 ec tł

Т

e u

2

0

p

11]

fi

e r r c i

t

•

ŧ

t

ć

the hofpital, with my daughter Captive. After a month's refidence there, with tolerable good attendance, I recovered from my illneis, and went back to my hufband. While at the hofpital, I found an opportunity to convey the unwelcome tidings of our deplorable fituation to my fifter, at Montreal, charging her to give my beft love to my daughter Sutanna, and to inform our fellow prifoners, Labarree and Farnfworth, that our good withes awaited them. Not a word had we yet heard from poor Sylvanus.

WINFLE now began to approach, and the fevere frofts of Canada operated keenly upon our feelings. Our prifon was a horrid defence from the blafts of December; with two chairs and a heap of firaw, and two loufy blankets, we may, well be fuppofed to live uncomfortable pour in addition to this, we had but the poor fire a day, and the iron grates five free accefs to the chills of the inclement fky. A quart bafon wat the only thing allowed us to cook our inall piece of meat and dirty crufts in, and it muft ferve at the fame time for table furniture. In this fad plight—a pritone—in jail—winter approaching--conceive reader, for I cannos fpeak our diffrefs.

38

1

Re-

OIR former benevolent friends, Captains Stowbrow and Vambram, had the peculiar misfortune to be caft into a prifon opposite to us. Suspicion of having corresponded with their countrymen, was the crime with which they were charged. Their misfortune did not preclude the exertion of generofity ; they frequently fent us, by the waiting maid, bottles of wine, and articles of provision. But the malice of Frenchmen had now arrived to fuch a pitch, against all our country, that we mult be deprived of these comforts. These good men were forbidden their offices of kindnels, and our intercourfe was entirely prohibited. We however found means, by a ftratagem, to effect in some measure, what could not be done by open dealing. When the fervants were carrying in our daily fupplies, we flipped into the entry, and depolited our letters in an ash box which were taken by our friends, they loving one at the fame time for us; this fer in some measure, to amuse a dull how formetimes we diverted ours felves by the use of Spanish cards; as Mr.

,

ı

3

٠

1

1

C

1

)-

CAPTIVITY OF

Johnson was ignorant of the game, I derived no inconfiderable pleasure from inftructing him. But the vigilance of our keepers increased, and our paper and ink were withheld .--- We had now been prifoners feventeen months, and our profpects were changing from bad to worfe ; five months had elapted fince our confinement in this horrid receptacle, except the time we lingered in the hospital," Our jailer was a true descendant from Pharaoh; but, urged by inpatience and defpair, I softened him so much as to get him to alk Mr. Perthieur to call on us. When the good man came, we defcribed our fituation in all the moving terms which our feelings infpired, which in addition to what he faw, convinced him of the reality He proposed asking an of our distress. influential friend of his to call on us, who, perhaps would devile fome mode for our relief. The next day the gentleman came to fee us; he was one of those good fouls who ever feel for others woes. He was highly affronted with his countrymen for reducing us to fuch diffres, and declared that the Lord Intendant himfer should call on us, and fee the extremities to which he had reduced us; he fent, from his own houfe, that night, a kettle, fome candles, and each of us a change of linen.

THE next day, January 8th, 1756, Mr. Intendant came to fee us; he exculpated himfelf by faying that we were put there by the fpecial order of Monf Vaudrieul, the Governor in chief, and that he had no authority to releafe us. But he would convey a letter from Mr. Johnfon to Monfieur, which might have the defired effect. The letter was accordingly written, flating our troubles, and befeeching relief; likewife praying that our fon might be got from the Indians and fent to us, with our daughter and fifter from Montreal.— The Governor returned the following obliging letter.

TRANSLATION-

I HAVE received, Sir, your letter, and am much concerned for the fituation you are in I write to Mr. Longieul, to put you and your wife in the civil jail. Mr. L. Intendant will be to good as to take fome notice of the things you fand in need of, and to help you. As to your boy, who is in the bands of the Indians, "

1

1

1

CAPTIVITY or will do all that is in my power to get him, but I do not hope to have a good fuccefs in it; your child in town, and your fifter in law are well. If it is fome opportunity of doing you fome pleafure, I will make ufe of it, unlefs fome reafon might happen that hinder and ftop the effects of my good will. If you had not before given fome caufe of being fufpected, you fhould be at liberty. I am, Sir, your moft hum, ble fervant.

VAUDRIEUL.

r

FROM the receipt of this letter we dated our elcape from direful bondage. Mr. Intendant ordered us directly to the new jail, called the civil prifon, where our accommodations were infinitely better. We had a decent bed, candles, fuel, and all the conveniences belonging to prifoners of war. Mr. Johnfon was allowed fifteen pence per day, on account of a Lieutenant's commifien which he held under George the fecond, and I was permitted to go once a week into the city to purchafe neceflaries ; and a wafherwoman was provided for my ufe. We were not confined to the narrow limits of a fingle room, but were reftrained only by the bounds of the jail yard. Our fituation formed fuch a contrast with what we endured in the gloomy criminal jail, that we imagined ourfelves the favorites of fortune, and in high life.

MR5. JOHNSON.

CAPTIVITY OF

CHAP. VIII.

Refinence in the Cruil Jill, and occurences.

O be indofent from necessity, has ever been deemed a formidable evil. No better witneffes than ourfelves can teftify the truth of the remark, although our lodgings were now fuch as we envied a month before ; yet to be compelled to continual idleness, was grievous to be We derived fome amulement borne. from the cultivation of a finall garden, within the jail yard ; but a continued famenels of friends and action, rendered our time extremely wearifolds

ABOUT & month after our arrival at this new abode, one Captain Milton, with his crew, who, with their veffel, were taken at sea, were brought prisoners of war to the fame place. Milton was lodged in our apartment ; he had all the rude boifterous airs of a feaman, without the leaft train of a centleman which rendered him a very troublefome companion. His impudence was confummate, but that was not the greateft evil; while fome new recruits were parading before the prifon, one day, Milton addrelled them in very improper language from our window, which was noticed directly by city authority, who, fuppofing it to be Mr. Johnfon, ordered him into the dungeon. Deeply affected by this new trouble, I again called on my friend Mr. Perthicur, who, after having afcertained the facts, got him releafed. Mr. Milton was then put into other quarters.

MRS. JOHNSON.

A NEW filer, who had an agreeable lady for his whe, now made our fituation ftill more happy. My little daughters played with hers, and learned the French language. But my children were fome trouble the eldeft, Polly, could flip out into the fireet under the gate, and often came high being loft: I applied to the centurel, and he kept her within proper bounds.

CAPT. M'Neil and his brother, from Bofton, were brought to us as prifoners ; they informed us of the ftate of politics in our own country, and told us fome interefting news about some of our friends at home.

In the morning of the 13th of August, our jailer, with moon-eyes, came to congratulate us on the taking of Ofwego by the French. We entered little into his fpirit of joy, preferring much to hear good news from the other fide. We were foon visited by fome of the prisoners, who had furrendered. Gol. Schuyler was in the number, who, with the gentlemen in his fuit, made us a generous prefent.

THE remainder of the fummer and fall, of 1756, paffed off without any fenfible variation. We frequently heard from Montreal; my fifter was very well fituated, in the family of the Lieur. Governor, and my eldeft daughter was carefied by her three mothers. Could I have heard from my fon, half my trouble would have ended.

In December I was delivered of a fon, which lived but a few hours, and was buried under the Cathedral Church.

In the winter I received a letter from my fifter, containing the fad tidings of my father's death, who was killed by Indians, on his own farm, the preceding fune, at the age of 53. Savage vengeance fell heavily upon our family; I had a brother wounded at the fame time, who ran to the fort with the fpear flicking in his thigh. Too much grief reduced methods weak condition. I was taken has and carried to the hospital, where, after a month's lingering illnefs, I found mylelf able to return.

£. 5

The commencement of the year 1757 paffed off without a "profpect of liberty. Part of our fellow priferers were fent to France, but we made no voyage out of the jail yard. About the first of May, we petitioned Monf. Vaudrieul to permitour fifter to come to us. Our prayer was granted, and in May we had the pleafure of feeing her, after an absence of two years. She had supported herself by her needle, in the family of the Lient. Governor, where the was treat extremely well, and received a present of four crowns, at parting.

IMPATIENT of confinement, we now made another attempt to gain our liberty. Mr. Perthieur conducted up to the four of the Lord Intendant, to whom we pet tioned in prefing terms ; flating, that w had now been prifoners almost three years, and had fuffered every thing but death ; and that would be our fpeedy portion, unleis we had relief. His Lordthip liftened with feeming pity, and promfinte lay our cafe before the head man, at Montreal, and give us an aniwer, in feven days; at the expiration of which time, we had a permit to leave the prifon. "We is not eafy to defcribe the effect of fuch news; those only, who have felt the horrors of confinement, can figure to them-felves the happiness we enjoyed, when breathing, once more, the air of liberty. We took lodgings in town, where we tarried till the first of June ; when a cartel ship arrived to carry prisoners to England for an exchange. Mr. Johnson wrote an urgem letter to Monf. Vaudrieul, praying that his family might be included with those who were to take passage. Mon-fieur who is a very encouraging letter back, promising that he and his family should fail, and that his daughter, Sufanna, fipuld be fent to him-he concluded by congratulating him on his good profpeeds, and ordering the Governor of Quebec to afford us his affiftance. This letter was dated June the 27th.

101

This tide of good fortune almost wiped away the remembrance of three years adverfity. We began our preparations for embarkation with alacrity. Mr. Johnson wrote St. Luc Lucorne, for the feven hundred livres, due on Mr. Cuyler's order but his request was, and still is, unfatisfi-This was a period big with with eved. ery thing propitious and happy. The idea ot leaving a country where I had fuffered the keenest distress, during two months and a half with the favages-been bowed down by every mortification and infult. which could arise from the misiortunes of my hufband, in New-England, and where I had spent two years in sickness and defpair, in a prifon too fhocking to mention, contributed to fill the moment with all the happinefs, which the benevos. lent reader will conceive my due, after fufferings to intenfe; to confummate the whole, my daughter was to be returned to my arms, who had been abfent more than two years. There was a good prof-pect of our fon'a teing releafed from the ladians; the whole formed fuch a lucky

1

ł

l

3

1-

r y i d C

e-ĸ

combination of fortunate events, that the danger of twice croffing the ocean to gain our native fhore, vanished in a moment. My family were all in the fame joyful mood, and hailed the happy day when we should fail for highand.

But little did we think that this funthine of profperity was to foon to be dark-Aed by the heavieft clouds of mistortune. Three days before the appointed hour for failing, the flup came down from Montreal, without my daughter ; in a few moments, I met Mr. Pertheur, who told me that counter orders had come, and Mr. John fon must be retained a prifoner; only my two little daughters, lifter and myself could go. This was calamity inpleed : 10 attempt fuch a long, wearitome you age, without money and without acquantance, and to leave a hufband and two children in the hands of enemies, was too abhorrent for reflection. But it was an affair of importance, and required weighty confideration ; accordingly the next day a folemn council of all the prifoners in the city was held at the coffeehouse .---- Col, Schuyler was prefident, and after numerous arguments for and against were heard, it was voted, by a large majority, that I flould go .-- I, with hefitation, gave my confent. Some, perhaps, will cenfure the measure as rash, and others may applaud my courage; but I had to long been accultomed to danger and diffiels, in the most menacing forms they could atiume, that I was now almost infentible to their threats; and this act was not a little builfed by desperation. Life^{*} could no longer retain its value, if lingered out in the inimical regions of Canada. In Europe I should, at least, find friends, if not acquaintance; and among the numerous veffels bound to America I might chance to get a passage. But then, to leave a tender husband, who had so long, at the hazard of his life, preferved my own; to part, perhaps forever, from two children, put all my refolution to the teft, and shook my boasted firmness.

110

ł

1

1

;

á

re

3-d

as

as ed

зe

if-

:ê-

٦đ

ıft

Col Schuyler, whom we ever found our benevolent friend, promifed to use his influence for Mr. Johnson's release, and for the redemption of our children.

ON the 20th of July, we went on board the veifel, accompanied by Mr. Johnfon, who went with us to take leave. We were introduced to the Captain, who was a gentleman, and a perfon of great civility; he fhewed us the beft cabin, which was to be the place of our relidence, and after promifing my hufband that the voyage fhould be made as agreeable to me as poffible, he gave orders for weighing anchor. The time was now come that we must part—Mr. Johnfon took me by the hand—our tears imposed filence—I faw him step into the barge; but my two little children, fister and myself were bound for Europe.

111

¢

Wz fell down the river St. Lawrence but a fmall diffance that night. The next morning, the Captain, with a chcerful countenance, came to our cabin, and invited us to rife and take our leave of Quebec; none but myfelf complied, and I gazed, as long as fight would permit, at the place where I had left my deare friend.

WHILE in the custody of the Canadians, a number of circumstances occurred, with which my memory is not strongly impressed : but a dream which I had while in the civil jail, will never be forgotten. Methought that I had two rings

112

λ

on or e Enger, the one a plain and the other a diamond mourning ring : the plain ring broke and tell from my finger, while the other remained. My family was now broke, and I left to mourn.

CHAP. IX.

Voyage to Plymouth.—Occurrences.—-Sailing from Plymouth to Portfmouth, from thence by the way of Cork to New-York.

A LL my fears and affliction did not prevent my feeling fome little joy at being releafed from the jurifdiction of Frenchmen. I could pardon the Indians, for their vindictive fpirit, becaufe they had no claim to the benefits of civilization. But the French, who give leffons of politenefs, to the reft of the world, can derive no advantage from the plea of ignorance. The blind fuperfittion which is inculcated by their monks and friars, doubile's ftifles, in fome measure, the exertion of pity towards their enemies; and the common herd, which includes almost K 2. feven eighths of their number, have no advantages from education. To these fources I attribute most of my sufferings. But I found some benevolent friends, whose generosity I shall ever recollect with the warmest gratitude.

THE commencement of the voyage had every favorable prefage; the weather was fine, the failors cheerful, and the fhip in good trim. My accommodations in the Captain's family were very commodious; a boy was allowed me, for my particular use. We failed with excellent fortune till the 19th of August, when we hove in fight of old Plymouth, and at 4 o'clock in the asternoon dropped anchor.

o'clock in the atternoon dropped anchor. THE next day all but myfelf and family were taken from the vefiel; we felt great anxiety at being left, and began to fear that fortune was not willing to fmile on us, even on these shores; we waited in despair thirty or forty hours, and found no relief. The captain observing our despondency, began his airs of gaiety to cheer us; he affured us that we should not fuffer—that if the English would not receive us, he would take us to France and make us happy. But at last an officer

114

ţ

came on board, to fee if the veffel was prepared for the reception of French prilon-Werelated to him our fituation ; he ers. conducted us on fhore, and applied to the Admiral for directions---who ordered us lodgings and the King's allowance of two fhillings fterling per day, for our support: Fortunately we were lodged in a house where relided Captain John Tufton Mafon, whose name will be familiar to the inhabitants of New-Hampshire, on actount of his patent. He very kindly intereited himfelf in our favor, and wrote to Meilrs. Thomlinfon and Apthorp, agents at London for the Province of New-Hampfhire, foliciting their affiftance in my behalf. We tarried at Plymouth but a fortnight, during which time I received much attention, and had to gratify many inquisitive friends with the history of my fufferings.

CAPT. Mafon procured me a paffage to Portfmouth, in the Rainbow man of war, from whence I was to take paffage in a packet for America. Jufi as I ftepped on board the Rainbow, a good lady, with her fon, came to make me a vifit; her curiofity to fee a perfon of my defcription was not abated by my being on my puffage; the faid the could not fleep till the had feen the perfon who had fuffered fuch hard fortune. After the had afked all the queftions that time would allow of, the gave me a guinea, and a half guinea to my lifter, and a multin handkerchief to each of our little girls. On our arrival at Portfmouth, the packet had tailed; the Captain of the Rainbow, not finding it convenient to keep us with him, introduced us on board the Royal Ann.

112 01 11

r

WHEREVER we lived, we found the beft friends and the politeft treatment.— It will be thought fingular, that a defencelefs woman fhould fuffer fo many changes, without meeting with fome infults, and many incivilities. But during my long refidence on board the various veffels, Ireceived the most delicate attention from my companions. The officers were affiduous in making my fituation agreeable, and readily proffered their fervices.

WHILE on board the Royal Ann, I received the following letters; the reader will excuse the recitation; it would be ingratitude not to record such conspicupus acts of benevolence.

Plymouth, Sept. 13, 1757.

MADAM,

LATE last postnight I received an anfwer from Mr. Apthorp, who is partner with Mr. Thomlinion, the agent for New-Hampshire, with a letter enclosed to you, which gave you liberty to draw on him for fifteen guineas. As Madam Hornech was just closing her letter to you, I gave it her, to enclose for you; I now write again to London on your behalf. You must immediately write Mr. Apthorp, what you intend to do, and what further you would have him and our friends at London do for you.

I HOPE you have received the benefaction of the charitable ladies in this town. All friends here commiferate your misfortunes, and wifh you well, together with your fifter and children.

Your friend and countryman to ferve. JOHN T. MASON.

Mrs. Johnson.

MADAM, I RECEIVED a letter from Capt. Mafon, dated the thirtieth of laft month, giving an account of your unfortunate fituation. and yesterday Mr. Thomlinfon, who is ill in the country, fent me your letter, together with Capt. Mafon's to him, with the papers relative to you. In confequence of which, I this day applied to a number of gentlemen in your behalf, who 'very readily gave their affiftance ; but as I am a ftranger to the fteps you intend to purfue, I can only give you hberty, at prefert, to draw on nie for ten or fitteen guineas, for which fum your bill fhall be paid, and when you furnifh me with information, I fhall very cheerfully give any 'turtherance in my power, to your relief, when I fhall alfo fend you a hlt or your benefactors. (

I am, Madam,

Your most humble servant, JOHN APTHORP.

Mrs. Susanna Johnson.

LETTER FROM H. GROVI.

I HAVE now the pleafure to let dear Mrs. Johnfon know the goodne's of Mrs. Hornech; fhe has collected feven pounds for you, and fent it to Mrs. Brett, who lives in the yard at Portfmouth, to beg her favors to you, in any thing the can do to help or affift you. She is a good lady; do go to her, and let her know your diffreis. Capt. Maíon has got a letter this poit, but he is not at home; cannot tell you further. You will excufe this ferawl, likewife my not enlarging as Mr. Hornech waits to fend it away. Only believe me, madam, you have my carneft prayers to God, to help and affift you. My mama's compliments with mine, and begs to wait on you, and believe me, dear Mrs. Johnfon, yours in all events to ferve you.

HANNAH GROVE.

Sunday Eve, 10 o'clock.

I RECEIVED the donation, and Mr. Apthorp font me the Liteen guineas. I fincorely lamont that he omitted fending me the names of my benefactors.

THE Captain of the Royal Ann, fuppofing my fituation with him, might not be to convenient, applied to the mayor, for a permit for me to take lodgings in the city, which was granted. I took new lodgings, where I tarried three or four days, when orders came for me to be on board the Orange man of war, in three hours, which was to fail for America. We made all poffible difpatch, but when we ar s. ds og an

•

3

r

tio CAPTIVITY OF 2

t

b

r

}

(

C

got to the shore, we were astonished to find the ship too far under way to be overtaken. No time was to be loft, I applied to a waterman, to carry us to a mcrchantman, who was weighing anchor at a distance, to go in the fame fleet. He hefitated long enough to pronounce a chapter of oaths, and rowed us off. When we came to the vessel, I petitioned the Captain to take us on board, till he overtook the Orange. He directly flew into a violent passion, and offered greater infults than I had ever received during my whole, voyage ; he iwore we were women of bad fame, who wished to follow the army, and that he would have nothing to do with us. I begged him to calm his rage, and we would convince him of his error. But, fortunately, the victualler of the fleet happened to be in the fhip, who at this moment stepped forward with his roll of names, and told the outrageous Captain that he would foon convince him, whether we deferved notice, by fearching his lift. He foon found our names, and the Captain began to beg pardon. He took us on board, and apologized for his rudenefs. We failed with a fair wind for Cork, where the fleet took provision. We tarried a fortnight in this place, during which time the Captain of the Orange came on board to fee me, and to offer me a birth in his veffel; but that being a battle fhip, it was thought beft for me to flay where I then was. After weighing anchor at Cork, we had a paffage of feven weeks, remarkably pleafant, to New-York. On the tenth of December we dropped anchor at Sandy Hook; on the eleventh, I had the fupreme felicity to find myfelf on fhore in my native country, after an absence of three years; three months; and eleven days.

Mrs. JOHNSOŇ.

СНАР. Х.

The Hiftory ends.

MIGHT descant for many a monometry on the felicity I felt on being once in my own country; but others can s my feelings better than I can tell my feelings of New-York ordered my for us; here I had the pleasure L of meeting my friend, Col. Schuyler, who gave me much information about affairs in Canada; he told me that my hufband had been releafed, and taken paffage in a cartel fhip for Halifax, and that he had redeemed my fon from the Indians, for the fum of five hundred livres.

CAPTIVITY OF

My fellow prifoner, Labarree, had made his cicape from the French, and had been in New-York a few days before, on his way home.

WE tarried in New-York ten days then took water paffage for New-Haven, where I had the good fortune to find a number of officers who had been flationed at Charlestown the preceding fummer, who gratified my curiofity with intelligence respecting my relations and friends in that place. Some of these gentlemen, among whom was Col. Whiting, kindly undertook to affist us on our journey home, by the way of Springfield. At Hartford we found fome gentlemen who were bound for Charlestown; they folicited my fister* to go in company with them, to which set for the set of the set o

* Mifs Miriam Willard was afterwards married te the Rev. Mr. Whitney, of Shirley, Mailachufette

WHEN within half a dozen miles of Springfield, Mr. Ely, a benevolent friend of Mr. Johnson's, fent his two fons, with a fleigh to convey me to his house, where I proposed staying till some of my triends could hear of my arrival. Fortunately, Mr. Johnson about the same time arrived at Boston, but missortune had not yet filled the measure of his calamity. He had no fooner landed, than he was put under guard, on iuspicion of not performing his duty in the redemption of the Canada prifoners, which fuspicion was occasioned by his remissing in producing his vouchers. But the following certificate procured his liberty.

THIS is to certify, whom it may concern, that the bearer, Lieutenant James Johnfon, inhabitant in the town of Charleftown, in the Province of New-Hampfhire, in New-England; who, together with his family, were taken by the Indians on the 30th of August 1754, has ever fince continued a steady and faithful subject to his Majesty King George, and has used his utmost endeavors to redeem his own family, and all others belonging to the Province atorefaid, that were in the hands of the French and Indians, which he cannot yet accomplish; and that both himself and family have undergone innumerable hardfhips and affliction fince they have been prisoners in Canada.

In testimony of which, we the fubfcribers, Officers in his Britannic Majetty'. fervice, and now prifoners of war at Quebec, have thought it necessary to grant him this certificate, and do recommend him as an object worthy the aid and compassion of every honeft Englishman.

Signed

PETER SCHUYLER, ANDREW WATKINS, WILLIAM MARTIN, WILLIAM PADGET ſ.

Quebec, Sept. 16, 1757. To compensate him for this misfortune, Gov. Pownal recommended a grant, which the General Court complied with, and gave him one hundred dollars from the treasury, and he was recorded a faithful fubject of King George.

ASTER his difinition from the guards in Botton, he proceeded directly for When within fifteen miles Charleftown. of Springheid, he was met by a gentleman who had just before icen me, who gave him the best news he could have heard, although it was then late at night, he lost not a moment. At two o'clock in the morning of the first of January 1758, I again embraced my dearest friend—happy new year, with pleasure would I describe my emotions of joy, could language paint them sufficiently forcible, but the feeble pen shrinks from the task

CHARLESTOWN was still a frontier town, and suffered from favage depredations, which rendered it an improper residence for me; confequently I went to Lancaster.

MR. Johnfon, in a few days, fat out for New-York, to adjust his Canada accounts. But on his journey he was perfuaded by Gov. Pownal to take a Captain's commiffion, and join the forces bound for Ticonderoga : where he was killed on the 8th of July following, in the battle that proved fatal to Lord How, while fighting for his country. Humanity will weep with me. The cup of forrow was now replete with bitter drops. All my former muteries were loft in the affliction of a widew.

3

`

5,751

ç

IN October, 1758, I was informed that my ion Sylvanus was at Northamptone fick of a fcald. I haftened to the place, and found him in a deplorable fituation ; he was brought there by Major Putnam, afterwards Gen. Putnam, with Mrs. How and her family, who had returned from captivity. The town of Northampton had taken the charge of him-his fitoution was milerable ; when I found have he had no recollection of me, but aft r fome conversation, he had some confut d ideas of me, but no remembrance of a. It was four years lince I had father. feen him, he was then eleven years old ; during his absence he had entirely forgot. ten the English language, spoke a litt's broken French, but was perfect in Indian. He had been with the favages three years, and one year with the French ; but his he hud habits were fomewhat Indian : been with them in their hunting excurfions, and fuffered numerous hardfhipsbe could brandifh a tomahawk or bend the bow, but these habits wore off by degrees. I carried him from that place to Lau. ter, where he lived a tew years with Con-Aaron Willard.

I LIVED in Lancafter till October 1⁻⁻ when I returned to old Charleftow 2

The fight of my former refidence afforded a strange mixture of joy and grief, while the defolations of war, and the loss of a number of dear and valuable friends, combined to give the place an air of melancholy. Soon after my arrival, Major Rogers returned from an expedition against the village St Francis, which he had deftioyed and killed most of the inhabitants. He brought with him a young Indian prisoner, who stopped at my house, the moment he faw me he cried, my God, my God, here is my fifter ; it was my little brother Sabatis, who formerly used to bring the cows for me, when I lived at my Indian masters. He was transported to fee me, and declared that he was still my brother, and I must be his sister. Poor fellow! The fortune of war had left him without a fingle relation, but with his country's enemies, he could find one who too fentibly felt his miferies; I felt the purest pleasure in administering to his counfort.

I was extremely fortunate in receiving by one of Muor Rogers's men, a bundle of Mr. Jonnou's papers, which he found in pilaging St. Francis. The Indians took them when we were captivated, and they had lain at St. Francis five years.

127

Ē

SABATIS went from Charleflown to Crown-Point with Major Rogers. When he got to Otter Creek, he met my fon Sylvanus, who was in the army with Col. Willard : he recognized him, and dafping him in his arms, " My God," fays he, " the fortune of wai "--I fluill ever remember this young Indian with affection; he had a high fenic of honor and good behaviour, he was affable, good natured and polite.

My daughter Sufanna was still in Canacha-but as I had the fullest affurances that every attention was paid to her education and welfare by her three mothers, I felt lefs anxiety than I otherwise might have done.

EVERY one will imagine that I have paid affliction her utmost demand, the pains of imprisonment, the separation from my children, the keen forrow occafioned by the death of a butchered father, and the severe grief arising from my hufband's death, will amount to a fum, perhaps, unequalled. But still my family must be doomed to further and severe perfecutions, from the favages. In the commencement of the lummer of 1760, my brother in law, Mr. Joseph Willard, son of the Rev. Mr. Willard of Rutland, who was killed by the Indians in Lovell's war, with his wife and five children, who lived but two miles distant from me, were taken by a party of Indians. They were carried much the fame rout that I was to Montreal. Their journey of fourteen days through the wilderneis, was a feries of mileries, unknown to any but those who have fuffered Indian captivity, they loft two children, whose deaths were owing to favage barbarity. The hiltory of their captivity would almost equal my own, but the reader's commiferation and pity must now be exhausted. No more of anguish, no more of fufferings.

MRS. JOHNSON.

THEY arrived at Montreal a few days before the French furrendered it to the Englifh; and after four month's absence, returned home, and brought my daughter Susanna to my arms; while I rejoiced at again meeting my child, whom I had not seen for above five years, I felt extremely grateful to the Mrs. Jaislons, for the affectionate attention they had bestowed on her. As they had received her as their child, they had made their affluent fortune fubferment to her beft intereft. Τb give her the accomplishments of a police education had been their principal care, the had contracted an ardent love for them, which never will be obliterated.-Their parting was an affecting fcene of They never forgot her during tears. their lives ; fhe has eight letters from them, which are proofs of the warmeft friendship. My daughter did not know me at her return, and fpoke nothing but French ; my ton fpoke Indian, fo that my tamily was a mixture of nations.

¥ 130

MR. FARNSWORTH, my only fellow priloner whole return I have not mentioned, came home a little before.

THUS, by the goodnefs of Providence, we all returned in the course of fix painful years to the place from whence we were taken The long period of our captivity, and the severity of our sufferings, will be called uncommon and unprecedented. But we even found fome friends to pity, among our most perfecuting enemies; and from the various shapes in which mankind appeared, we learned many valuble leffons. Whether in the wilds of Canada, the horrid jails of Quebec, or in our voyage to Europe, daily occurrences happened to convince us that the paffions of nich are as various as their conplexions. And although my fuffering, were often increased by the felhilanels of this world's spirit, yet the numerous testimomes of generolity I received, bids me fuppicis the charge of neglect, or want of benevolence. That I have been an unfortunate woman, all will grant ;--yet my mistoriunes, while they enriched my experience, and taught me the value of patience, have increased my gratitude to the author of all bleflings, whole goodnefs and mercy have preferved my lite to the prefent time.

DURING the time of my widowhood, misfortune and difuppointment were my intimate companions; when New-England was ruled by a few men who were the creatures of a king, the pleafures of diffipation were preferred to the more fevere attention to bufinefs, and the fmall voice of a woman was feldom heard.— Hence in the fettlement of my hufband's effate, the delay and perplexity was dif-

131

132 ì

treffing. I made three journeys to Portmouth, fourteen to Boston, and three to Springfield, to effect the fettlement. Whether my captivity had taught me to be ungrateful, or whether imagination formed a catalogue of evils, I will not pretend to fay; but from the year 1754 to the present day, greater misfortunes have apparently fallen to my fhare than to mankind in general, and the meteor happiness has eluded my grasp. The life of a widow is peculiarly afflictive,but my numerous and long journies over roads imminently bad, and incidents that feemed to baffle all my plans and forefight, render mine more unfortunate than common.

But I found many attentive friends, whole affiftance and kindnels will always claim my gratitude. Colonel White of Leominster, with whom I had lived from the time I was eight years old until I married, was extremely affectionate and kind—in his house I found a welcome home. Mr. Samuel Ely of Springfield; who was the friend of my husband, rendered me numerous kindness. Colonel Murray of Rutland, and Col. Chandler of Worcefter, were very friendly and kind. Mr. Clarke, deputy fecretary, Gov. Pownall, and Gov. Wentworth, exerted their influence for me in attempting to procure a grant from the General Affembly.

In one of my journies to Portfmouth, I converfed with Capt. Adams, who was in Europe at the time I was—he informed me that while there Mr. Apthorp gave him fourteen pounds sterling, for the purpose of conveying me and my family to America; my failing with the convoy prevented my receiving this kindnels.

DURING the four years of my widowhood I was in quite an unfettled fituation; fometimes receiving my children, who were returning from captivity, and at others fettling the effate of my deceased hufband. In October, 1759, I moved to Charlestown, and took possible which Col. Whiting had generously affisted my mother in building; in copartnership with my brother Moses Willard, I kept a small ftore, which was of fervise in supporting my family, and fettling my husband's eftate.—I have received, by petitioning, from the General Assembly of NewLINE CARL Hampfhire, forty two pounds, to indemnify mytelf and family tor loftes futtained by our country's enemics. This was of eminent fervice to me. Mr. Johnfon left with Mr. Charles Apthorp, of Bofton, the fum which my fon's redemption coft, for Col. Schuyler, who had paid the fame. But theGeneral Affembly of Maffachufetts afterwards paid Col. Schuyler his demand for redeeming my fon.

By Mr. Johnton I had feven children ; two ions and a daughter died in infancy. Sylvanus, with whom the reader is acquainted, now lives in Charlestown. Sufanna married Capt. Samuel Wetherbee, and has been the mother of fitteen children, among which were five at two Polly married Col. Timothy Bebirths. del, of Haverhill-ched in August 1789. Captive married Col. George Kimball.--In the year 1762 I married Mr. John Haftings, my prefent hufband ; he was one of the first settlers in Charlestown ; I recollect to have feen him when I vifited the place in the year 1744—he fuffered much by the Indians, and affifted in defending the town during the wars. By him I have had feven children ; one daughter and four fons died in their infancy. Theodofia is married to Mr. Stephen Hafham; Randilla died at the age of twenty two, the lived from her infancy with Mr. Samuel Taylor of Rockingham, by whom the was treated with great affection. I have had thirty nine grand-children, and four great-grand-children.

¥34

I AM now in the winter of life, and feel fenfibly the effects of old age. I live on the lame fpot where the Indians took us from in 1754, but the face of nature has fo changed, that old favage fears are all banished. My vacant hours I often employ in reflecting on the various fcenes that have marked the different stages of my life. When viewing the prefent rifing generation, in the bloom of health, and enjoying those gay pleasures which shed their exhilerating influence so plentifully in the morn of life, I look back to my early days, when I too was happy, and basked in the funshine of good fortune : Little do they think, that the meridian of their lives can poffibly be rendered miferable by captivity or a prifon ; as little too did I think that my gilded prospects could be obicured ; but it was the happy

f

135

ł

delution of youth; and I fervently with there was no deception. But that Being, who "fits upon the circle of the earth, and views the inhabitants as grafshoppers," allots all our fortunes. ALTHOUGH I have drank fo largely from the cup of forrow, yet my present happinels is a finall compensation. Twice has my country been ravaged by war, fince my remembrance; I have detailed the fhare I bore in the first ; in the last, although the place in which I live was not a field of bloody battle, yet its vicinity to Ticonderoga, and the favages that ravaged the Coos country, rendered it perilous and distressing. But now no one can fet a higher value on the finiles of peace, than myfelf. The favages are driven beyond the lakes, and our country has no enemies. The gloomy wildernefs, that forty years ago fecreted the Indian and the beaft of prey, has vanished away; and the thrifty farm smiles in its stead ; the Sundays, that were then employed in guarding a fort, are now quietly devoted to worfhip ; the tomahawk and fcalping knife have given place to the fickle and plough-fhare; and profperous hufbandry

x 36

ŝ

and the second second second second

MR3. JUHNSON.

pow thrives, where the terrors of death once chilled us with fear.

My numerous progeny often gather around me, to hear the fufferings once felt by their aunt or grandmother, and wonder at their magnitude. My daughter, Caprive, fill keeps the drefs fhe appeared in when brought to my bed fide by the French nume, at the Ticonderoga hofpital, and often refuelles my memory with paft fcenes, when flowing it to her children. Thele things yield a kind of melancholy pleafure.

INSTANCES of longevity are remarkable in my family. My aged mother, before her death, could fay to me, zrife daughter and go to thy daughter, for thy daughter's daughter has got a daughter; a command which few mothers can make and be obeyed.

AND now reader, after fincerely withing that your days may be as happy as mine have been unfortunate, I bid you adieu.

Charlestown, June 20, 1798.

Names of perfons Killed in Charlestown, No. 4, and time when- -- by the Indians. Seth Putram, May 2, 1748 Simuel Farnfworth,] May 24, Aaron Lyon, Joseph Allen, 1746. Joseph Massey. Peter Perin, Jedediah Winchel, June or July, 1716. ---- Philips, August 3, 1746. Ifaac Goodale, October, 1747 Nathaniel Gould, Obadiah Sartwell, June, 1719. Lieut. Mofes Willard, June 18, 1756. Afahel Stebbins, August, 1758. Jogah Kellogg, 1759. Number taken Prisoners by the Indians, from Charlestown, No. 4. Capt. John Spafford, April 19, 1746. Ifaac Parker, Stephen Farnfworth, J - Anderson, October, 1747. Enos Stevens, June 17, 1749. James Johnfon, Polly Johnson, Sulanna Johnson, August 29, Miriam Willard, Sylvanus Johnson, Peter Labarree, 1754. Eb'r Farnfworth. Sufan Johnson, Sampion Colefax, Thomas Rob-David Farniworth, May, 1756 ins. Thomas Robins, Afa Spafford. Mrs. Robins,] Isaac Parker,] August, 1758. David Hill, Joseph Willard. Joseph Willard, Whe and Five Childron, June 7, 1769,

Letter from Col. LYDIUS to Mrs. YOHNSON.

ALBANY, MAY 5, 1755.

MRS JOHNSON-I received yours of the 6th April, with one for your hufband, it feems you are concerned whether or no he got fafe here . it feems alfo by yours, that you mention to have received a letter from me, and none from your hufband .-----When he left Albany to go to New-England, he left me a letter for you, to be forwarded the first opportunity, which I did with that you received from me. I have expected your hufband this three months past, to come and fetch you and your family. Since he left Albany I never received a line from him, and the occasion of the delay I cannot conceive, without it is the difficulty to procure filver money. Keep good heart, I hope you will foon fee your hufband. is the with from your humble fervant, JOHN W. LYDIUS.

From Col. CUTLER to Mr. JAMES JOHNSON.

ALBANY, JUNE 17, 1755.

SIR-I have received yours of the 7th and 8th inft. and have noted the contents. I really do not understand what you write me for in the first placeyou fay that my bills were not accepted-at the fame time I find by your draught on me that you have received on my account 2300 livres, from Mr. La Corne St. Luc I now fend to him 438 dollars for the payment of your draught. I am forry that Mr. Rine de Cauogne has not accepted of my bili, for feveral reasons. I have now defired Mr. Lin corne St. Luc to let you have 700 livres befides the 2300 which you have already received. I am, iu, your humble fervant.

CONNELIUS CUYLER.

From Mr. Johnfon to Mifs Miriam Willard.

QUEBEC, APRIL 16, 1756.

LOVING SISTER-After our love to you, these are to inform you that we are all well at prefent, as I hope these will find you and our little daughter, and all other friends at Montreal I have written to you once before now, and we have had no answer, fo that we do not know what your circumftances are, only that the General was to good as to let us know that you and Sulanga were well f would have you go to the General and beg the favor 'to come down here to live with us, for I have written to the General, and berged the fame favor I would have you fpare no pains, for if you meet with any misfortunes it will contribute very much to your parents forrow, as well as to ours. So I would not have you difcouraged, or harbor any thoughts of staying in this country, for I do not doubt but we shall go home this fummer ; for I have defired the General to fend home those of us that are paid for, and will flay in the country till there is a change of of the General to let you write to us-let us know what your circumstances are. Give my services 'to Mr. Du Queine and Madam, and to Sulanna's mothers .--- We femain vour loving brother and fifter JAMES & SUSANNA JOHNSON. Š1-

From Mifs Miriam Willard to Mr. Johnfan. (Written at Monireal, July or August, 1756.)

LOVING BROTHER AND SISTER-Having receiv. ed yours of the 5th July, it being the fecond, though you have fent four-wherein you give me to underftand that my fifter is not well, and that you would have me come down-for which I have afked the liberty of the General , he does not fee fit to let me come, unlefs I would go to prefon, and I think I am better off here than this comes to ; therefore I take this opportunity to inform you of my health at this time, and of Sulanna, and all the reft of the prifonershere, (and my love is folded up in their lives) with our friends that we were taken with, to you Sufanna has had the fmall and to all friends there. pox, and is prodigioufly marked. I would not have you be concerned about my flaying here, for the longer I stay the more ancious defires I have to MIRIAM WILLARD. go home. I hear by Mr. Joliah Foster of Winchef-P S ter, who was taken on the 7th of June, with his family, that our friends at No. 4 were all well, and our brother James was returning from the eaftward.— No more at prefent—I thall fubfcr.be myfelf in hifte your loving fitter, M. W.

From Mr. Johab Foster to Mr. Johnson. MONTRAEL MAY 16. 1757.

SIR—After my reflects to you, your wife and fifter, hoping you are in health is we are at prefent, bleifed be God for it. The 5th Jay of this prefint month, the Mohawks brought in prifoners from No. 4, Mr. David Farnfworth, Sampfon Colefax,

IAT

Deacon Adams, Afa Spafford, and George Robins, which gives us the forrowful news of the death of your father Willard, who was killed by the Indians laft fammer a little way from the fort. Your brother Mofes was ftabbed in the thigh with a fpearthis is all the mifchief that has been done, except the Indians burnt the mills. Mi Labarree has made his efcape from Montreal, and has gone for the Englifh fort. I fhould be glad to write you a fuller account of things, but it is very difficult to write. I fhould be glad you would write to me, to let me know how you are. So I remain your friend, JOSIAH FOS FER.

From Mrs. Biffon to Mrs. Johnson, after her return.

QUEBEC, SLPT 15, 1757.

MADAM-It is with all poffible pleafure I do myfelf the pleafure to write, and to let you know the dullnefs I feel fince your departure. One would not imagine it, confidering the little time I had the happinels to be acquainted with you. I with I had it in my power to convince you of the truth of it, but the distance hinders us , you will know from your hufband how I have done all I could to fee he had done for him all the little fervices in my power. I pray you would falute Mifs Miriam in my name, and tell her I wish her a pretty little husband at her return, worthy her merit. Embrace allo your two little milles; my daughter Mary Ann affures you of her respects, and falutes kindly Mifs Miriam and the two little Miffes .- I beg you to enquire after my fon, who I believe is taken, becaufe he is fo long before he comes home his name is James Biffon, fon of James Biffon and Hubelle Badeau. I fifzy you again, that in cafe you find him, to do him what iervice you can, and to take care of him. I fhall be weilaltingly obliged to you for it I conclude by affuring you that I fhall all my life be, Madam, one of your greateft friends, and your humble feryant. The Widow BISSON.

PASSPORT.... Br GEN. MONCHTON. HALIFAX, OCT. 19, 1757.

THE bearer, Mr. James Johnfon is at liberty to take his passage on board any veffel bound to the continent. ROBT. MONCHTON.

From Mr. Johnfon to Mrs. Johnfon.

FORT EDWARD, JUNE 22, 1758. My DEAR—This day I have had the forrowful news of the lofs of my dear child. May God fanctify this and all other of his afflictive difpenfations to us. I am in good health at prefent, bleffed be God for it, hoping this will find you and the reft of my dear children in like manner. We are to march temorrow to the Lake. I have nothing remarkable to tell you—I am in hafte, fo I remain your moft loying hufband, JAMES JOHNSON.

CHARLESTOWN, Jan. 10, 1799. WE, whole names are subscribed, having been many years acquainted with Mrs. Haftings, formerly Mrs. Johnson, who was captivated by the Indians in this town in the year 1/54, are willing to fay in her favor, that we have ever confidered her as a woman of veracity, and that she hath ever suffained a good character. Some of us were in town when the was captivated, and none of us have reason to difbelieve the statement of facts which the has given the public.

PFIER LABARRIE. l'aftings was captivaled THOMAS PUINAM. MOSES WILLARD. WILLIAM HETWOOD. t ablin JOSEPH WILLARD, STLVAVUS HASTINGS. TIMULHY PUINAM, ABEL WALKER. SAMUEL WEIHERBE. SAMUEL TATLOR. TIMOTHY CARLETON. OLIVER HASTINGS. JONATHAN BAKER ELIJAH GROUT. DEMELL GROUT BEZALEEL SHA SETH GROUT, WILLIAM GILBERT.

FINIS.

