Marked Gain Made By Allies In The Flanking Movement On Left

British and French Occupy Ypres, 33 Miles From Ostend

PROGRESS IN THE CENTRE CONFIRMED
Fight Near Ghent in Belgium—King Albert Cheerful in Letter to French President—Significant Report from Turkey

Paris, Oct. 14.—That the flanking movement of the allies' left wing is making marked gains is indicated by an official statement issued here this afternoon. It states that the Belgian town of Ypres, which is twenty-seven miles northwest of Lille and thirty-three miles south of Ostend, has been occupied by the British and French troops. This announcement, which is the first official statement that has mentioned British troops as operating in this section, shows that the allies' left wing has extended its range of work from France into Belgium.

The official statement follows: "First—On our left wing as far as the Oise operations are pursuing their normal course. "Second—At the centre the progress of our armies in the region of Barry Au Baye is confirmed. "Third—On our right wing there is nothing new. "In the Belgian theatre of war, in the region of Ghent, some engagements took place on the night of October 12, October 13, and during the day of October 13 some Anglo-French troops occupied Ypres."

Paris, Oct. 14.—The left wing of the allies, where the French and British forces have taken the offensive at certain points against the Germans, is expected to be the scene of sharp fighting. The French believe that the German occupation of Lille will be of only short duration. The actions in this vicinity, previously, had been principally engagements between the cavalry of the contending forces, but the French official communication now speaks of "our forces" in general and not, as previously, "our cavalry," in referring to the troops around Lille, indicating that, in addition to the squadrons of allied cavalry, their infantry also has gone forward.

The German army corps which has occupied Lille evidently is part of the force of the German Emperor, which has been released from service in Belgium. Having failed in their attacks at Arras, Albert, Ypres, Laissigny, and Tescy-Le-Mont, there was much speculation on the result of the next effort of the Germans. The allies who have maintained a solid barrier hoped not only to keep their line intact, but to make some progress, as it is reported they did yesterday.

BERLIN REPORT
Berlin, via Amsterdam, Oct. 14.—An official statement issued today is that the Germans are inflicting terrible losses on the Russians in the German advance there is successful at all points and that there has been no decisive results in the western theatre of war.

MAY BE SIGNIFICANT
London, Oct. 14.—In a despatch from Amsterdam a Reuter correspondent says that the Frankfurter Zeitung has received a communication from Constantinople which says that the British ambassador to Turkey, Sir Louis Mallet, had the women of the embassy last Monday to leave the city. Questioned by his hearers whether this was absolutely necessary, the ambassador replied: "You must accept the hint without asking the reasons."

DARING AIRMEN OF THE ALLIES
London, Oct. 14.—Hostile aeroplanes appeared over Karlsruhe, Germany yesterday and escaped undamaged, according to the Central News Correspondent in Copenhagen.

Session of Criminal Side of County Court
A short session of the criminal side of the county court was held this morning when Judge Forbes disposed of several cases under the Speedy Trials Act. Ethelyn Curtis, of Boston, pleaded guilty to stealing and was allowed to remain in custody of Mrs. W. B. Robinson, French and 296 German wounded in the P. hospital. The observations were made with Pachen's oculometer, which later he refused to attend to the blood circulation.

Accorded to Doctor Tiasie, the immense efforts demanded of the Germans greatly reduce their recuperative powers. Their blood, he says, is poisoned by fatigue to such an extent that when they die their bodies immediately decompose.

BRUSSELS' BURGOMASTER MAY SOON BE FREE AGAIN
London, Oct. 14.—The Berlin Lokale Anzeiger gives a new version as to why Burgomaster Max of Brussels is being detained by the Germans in the fortress at Namur. It says the Amsterdam correspondent of Reuters. The despatch continues: "The paper says that Burgomaster Max paid in cash 2,000,000 of the fifty million francs demanded by the Germans and gave bonds for the remainder up to 20,000,000 francs, which later he refused to redeem. The remaining 30,000,000 francs he refused to consider. Legal resulted in his detention. It is added that the committee of sheriffs, now administering the affairs of the town, has agreed to return the bonds and to settle on 20,000,000 francs more as comprising the matter."

F. M. A. RESUMING

Sturdy French Fortress Stood Three Months of it in 1870
London, Oct. 14.—A despatch to the Central News from Copenhagen says: "According to a Berlin despatch received here, the Germans are preparing to lay siege to Belfort with as large a force as possible. Almost the entire civil population has left the city. Belfort is an almost impregnable fortress in France, just across the German border opposite Mulhausen. In the Franco-Prussian war it withstood a siege for more than three months. It now has a population of about 26,000."

DRIVING THE GERMAN SOLDIERS TO LIMIT
Powers of Resistance to Fatigue Shown to be Less Than That of French
Bordeaux, Oct. 14.—The power of resistance to fatigue is six per cent. greater in that of the German soldiers, declares Dr. Philip Tiasie, an eminent physiologist at the University of Bordeaux, French and 296 German wounded in the P. hospital. The observations were made with Pachen's oculometer, which later he refused to attend to the blood circulation.

Accorded to Doctor Tiasie, the immense efforts demanded of the Germans greatly reduce their recuperative powers. Their blood, he says, is poisoned by fatigue to such an extent that when they die their bodies immediately decompose.

THRILLING STORY OF A FIGHT HIGH IN THE CLOUDS

French Airship Puts German Out of Commission at Critical Moment—One Airship Worth Division of Cavalry, Says Officer

Paris, Oct. 14.—The activity of German aeroplanes over Paris has brought up a general discussion of the value of these machines in warfare, and a recital of thrilling aerial duels between French and German machines. One French corps commander is quoted as having said that, in his opinion, a single aeroplane was as valuable as a division of cavalry. Aeroplanes are of the greatest service in preventing surprises and few important movements of troops have been made which have not been promptly reported by aerial scouts before their completion. A daring encounter took place recently between a German monoplane and a French biplane, during a critical moment in the execution of an important manoeuvre north of the River Oise. The German machine was seen sailing over the French lines, just before a strong detachment of troops was to start on its movement to the north. For the success of this manoeuvre it was vital that this enemy in the air be removed, and a French biplane undertook the responsibility.

The French machine rose from the ground quickly and, in rapid circles, gained an altitude greater than that of the German but even this advantage was not sufficient to drive the scout away. In a daring dive in which he braved a heavy fire from the French lines, the German descended to a height of 1,000 yards and skillfully avoided the French machine. He then started to drive for the German lines.

The Frenchman seemed to have the advantage in speed, and it was not often seen the case in aeroplane encounters of this war. For a while the German was successful in keeping out of reach of the Frenchman, but the biplane, continuing its flight at a considerable height, finally attained an advantageous position when the German Oise. The German machine was seen sailing over the French lines, just before a strong detachment of troops was to start on its movement to the north. For the success of this manoeuvre it was vital that this enemy in the air be removed, and a French biplane undertook the responsibility.

GUARD AGAINST TETANUS
Allies to Protect Men Against Contracting Lock-jaw in Trenches
Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 14.—An order for 6,000 packages of lock-jaw anti-toxin has been placed with a local firm of chemical manufacturers by the British government. The anti-toxin is to be used especially for the immunization of troops obliged to fight in the trenches. A member of the contracting firm said that tetanus germs were particularly prevalent in earth and that the French and English military authorities proposed to inoculate the soldiers before they were allowed to go in the trenches.

GOOD TOBACCO FROM OKANAGAN
Ottawa, Oct. 14.—A trade report from London states that Canadian tobacco grown in the Okanagan Valley of British Columbia is second only in quality to the Havana and Sumatra leaves. It is expected that in time the tobacco will be equal to the best foreign grown leaf. Cigars made from the Okanagan tobacco have already a large sale.

GOVERNMENT MEETING
Fredericton, N. B., Oct. 14.—Acting Premier Clarke arrived in the city last evening for the adjourned meeting of the local government. The lieutenant-governor and other members of the executive are expected this evening. Mr. Clarke said at noon that the question of granting relief to the Belgian sufferers would probably engage attention this evening. Asked in regard to the report of the royal commission the Dugal charges, he said he had nothing to give out at present.

TAKE UP PART OF STREET CAR TRACKS IN MONCTON
Moncton, N. B., Oct. 14.—The I. C. R. has served notice on the Moncton Tramways and Gas Co. that it must tear up its tracks where they intersect the Intercolonial double track at Main street. It is said that the tracks are to be removed to facilitate the work of building the projected Main street subway. It is likely that street car passengers will be transferred around the break by a new loop line.

WHEAT STILL HIGHER
Chicago, Oct. 14.—Wheat advanced in price today owing to higher quotations at Liverpool and because of continued falling off in Northwestern receipts on both sides of the Canadian line. In addition, trans-Atlantic crop estimates were bullish and there was a decrease in the European visible supply. The purchasing here was led by export houses. The start, which ranged from 1-8 to 1-2 higher, was followed by other moderate gains.

Three Applications Already Received at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Oct. 14.—Three applications for the suspension of patents held in Canada by Germans have already been made under the War Measures Act, under which regulations were recently issued by the government providing for action in such cases. These regulations, which are published this week, provide for the suspension or voidance of patents or licenses when the persons benefiting are subjects of a state at war with His Majesty, when the person applying for such voidance or suspension intends to manufacture the patented article, or cause the patented process to be carried on in Canada, and it is in the general interest that such manufacture should take place.

The first applications for suspension of patents come from Toronto. E. Neil MacCallum, of that city, applies for the suspension of patents held by Farbwerke Vorm, Meister Lucius and Bruning, assignees of Paul Ehrlich and Alfred Berthelin, for certain chemical processes, while Amelius Jarvis, of the Toronto, applies for the suspension of a patent held by August Salz for processes of smoking salmon. These applications will be heard on Oct. 21.

MORE WORK FOR CITY EMPLOYEES

Vote of $30,000 For Labor During Winter

BONDS OVER-SUBSCRIBED

Apportionment Left to the Mayor —City's Prospects Justly Optimistic —Machinery Hall For Remounts

Arrangements for the apportionment of the city bonds according to the subscriptions and the decision to agree with the principle of keeping the men of the city departments as fully occupied as possible this winter were the chief features of the common council meeting yesterday. On motion of Commissioner Potts a special war fund of $30,000 was set aside to keep men of his department at work. There were present Mayor Potts, Commissioners McLellan, Russell, Wigmore and Potts and clerk. The mayor at once brought up the matter of the proposed bonds to which he said the response had been especially good. The total amount authorized was $230,000 but this had been oversubscribed. There had been 46 applicants for the 20 year bonds, 25 for the 10 year bonds and fourteen for the five year issue. Some of the applications were at a premium, one of a quarter per cent on an issue of $600 and another of one-eighth of one per cent on $1,700. This the mayor said would only amount to a few dollars and the premium could be ignored. There would have to be an apportionment according to the amounts subscribed and he thought that the smaller subscribers should be given preference over the larger ones and he hoped that would meet the views of the council.

Com. Potts moved that the apportionment be left to the mayor and this was agreed to. Com. Russell then reported that he recommended that the machinery hall of the exhibition be given for the use of the military authorities for the remount work. It would entail some amount of inconvenience on the part of the works departments and the fire department but in the present time one ought not to make difficulties. He had taken into account the added risk of fire and had had the promise of the board of fire underwriters that the premium would not be increased if proper precautions were used as in the time of the exhibition. Otherwise it would amount to $1,000.

Com. Potts seconded the motion that the hall be granted and it was carried. He then reported that the bills from the Trades and Labor Council amounted to $655 and that there was no bank to the amount that the council had promised to give in aid he moved that the amount be paid. This was agreed to.

Com. Russell was given permission to purchase a new fire reel for the west side sheds. Com. Russell also recommended that renewal lease issue to George M. Ross as follows: Let No. 418, Brocks ward, for seven years from May 1, 1918, at $20.85 per annum rental being 10 per cent advance; let No. 1076, Brocks ward, for seven years from May 1, 1914, at $11.10 per annum, being 20 per cent advance. This was carried.

A letter from the St. John Conservative Club as to premises was referred to Com. McLellan, as was also a letter asking that the license to A. J. Chapman as a fireman be cancelled. An application from James Edward Arthur, to be appointed a constable, was referred to the mayor and the council rose.

YOUR MANLY STRENGTH "NATURE" BOOK FREE

My Free Offer to My Men and Young Men Readers

My free offer is as follows: There are in existence today numerous creditable books relating to the much discussed sex, and they range in price from $2 to $5, while my offer is given below is a free one.

I publish a little private compendium of 72 pages, pocket size, containing 5,000 words and 80 half-tone photos of the subject of sex, but only in its relation to manhood or vital manly strength. Its legitimate use is its wanton abuse, its loss and the causes thereof, its possible restoration and its permanent preservation. These are the vital phases of the sex subject which I find to be of most interest to all men, young or elderly, single or married, and I have therefore put into this little self help book the very best that I can offer relating to that particular personal and private advice and information, which my 30 years' practical experience in this field has taught me men must seek, and through which they can get the most real benefit in respect to their own vigor and vital health. This reader, the book, and my offer to send it by mail, absolutely free of charge, in a perfectly plain, sealed envelope, to any man or young man anywhere who writes for it (see coupon below), and there is not a particle of obligation of any kind whatsoever involved in making this gift offer to you. Over a million of these books have been thus sent to men all over the world who wrote for them.

The reason why I can offer this illustrated sex book free is that in one plain letter I include a description of a little mechanical vitality of my own invention, which is for use by those of my readers who need some outside aid in the restoration of their manly vigor. However, that is a matter for each person to decide for himself. The book is complete and entirely independent of anything it says with respect to the vitality. Therefore please use free coupon and get the book by return mail. You will find it a valuable adviser in many respects.

SANDEM, Author.
Vital manhood and an abundant manly vigor is the greatest human asset of our day. Every man is entitled to be perfectly strong, vigorous and capable, just as nature intended he should, and if through the medium of my book I can show you how you yourself may become as vital, manly and forceful as the best man of your acquaintance, then I have merely given you a clear understanding of what nature is herself constantly endeavoring to tell and show you.

As to my vitality, it may or may not be necessary in your own case, but if you want to use it after reading the description, I will gladly make some liberal proposition so you may get one to try. This vitality, weighing only several ounces, is worn all night. It generates a soft, easy flowing FORCE which I call vitality. This FORCE enters your system at the small of the back, flowing thence through the kidneys, liver, stomach, bladder and organs, and diffusing itself to every part of the body. Over 200,000 Sandem vitalityizers are now in use or have recently been used. It keeps up its gentle action while you sleep. Men everywhere have said it makes them feel better and stronger almost at once, that it often takes pain out of the back in a few hours, and 60 to 90 days' time is sufficient to restore normal vigor. With special attachments my vitality is used by women as well as men for rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc.

If you live in or near this city, would be pleased to have you call. Hours, 9 to 6.

However, whether or not you ever use the vitality, at least you want the free book, so kindly fill in the coupon and the book will go to you, sealed, by return mail.

How to Banish Wrinkles Quickly

If the average woman only knew it, it is not at all difficult to preserve the youthful contour and velvety smoothness of complexion. Every woman hates to see her face wrinkled or bumpy, and practically every one has experimented with some sort of patent remedy in the effort either to remove such condition or ward it off.

As a matter of fact, the most effective remedy in the world is one that any woman can easily make up herself at home, in a moment's time. Let her take one ounce of pure powdered salolite, which she can purchase at any drug store, and dissolve it in a half pint of witch hazel. Apply this harmless and refreshing solution to the face every day. The results are surprising and instantaneous. Even after the wrinkles are apparent, the wrinkles are less in evidence and the face has a comfortable, snug feeling of firmness that is most delightful.

THE URGENT NEED

Canada must send more men to the front. New Brunswick and the city of St. John must do their share. While we maintain a cheerful mind and insist that business go on as usual, let us not lose sight of the very serious situation of the task of the British Empire in this war.

It is well to provide a large Patriotic Fund, to contribute to the Red Cross Fund, to send relief to the Belgians, and to make large federal and provincial grants to the Mother Country. This war, however, will not be fought by these agencies, but by men. The greatest need of all is that Canada contribute as many well-drilled men as possible to the ranks of the allied armies. It is useless to boast of British courage and French gallantry so long as the British and French armies in the fighting zone are not strong enough in numbers to drive the Germans back from French soil.

It is obviously the duty of Canada to put more men in training, and to see that they are given such vigorous drill as will make them of the most service when the time comes to face the enemy. This is Canada's war just as truly as it is the war of Britain. What would happen to our Canadian seaports and the trade of this country if the German fleet were not bottled up? We say and we believe it will remain bottled up, or come out to be destroyed, but we have believed and expected certain other results which have not yet been accomplished.

There has been a dull here since the first contingent left this province. It is true the work of recruiting has been going on, and there has been considerable activity in St. John and some other centres; but public interest must be aroused more fully to the need of drilling men, so that they may be in condition to do effective work in the field. If anything were needed to arouse the fighting spirit, it has surely been furnished in the news of the past week. Let us have more recruits, more drill, more field skirmishing, more rifle practice, and more of the actual conditions for men who they must encounter on active service.

There is a fine opportunity here for the young men of St. John to set an example to the rest of Canada.

THE WAR NEWS.

After the capture of Antwerp, the Germans marched with great rapidity and occupied Ghent. From Ghent they are advancing toward Ostend. We are not told what preparations have been made to dispute their advance toward the latter port, further than that the Belgian army, which retreated to that point, is being reorganized and has been reinforced. The advance which was made by the allied forces at points on the line farther south yesterday appears to be explained by the fact that the Germans had withdrawn some of their forces to strengthen their movement in the direction of Ostend. The news of further developments in that quarter will be awaited with the utmost anxiety.

A Washington despatch says that the American consul at Warsaw has called to the effect that there is every probability of the occupation of Warsaw by the Germans, and that the British government has asked the American consul there to take over British interests in the event of German occupation of the city. Another report appears to indicate that the Russians have withdrawn from some places which they had previously occupied in Galicia, to a position more suitable to meet the advancing Austro-German armies. While the reports from Petrograd continue to be optimistic, it is perfectly clear that the Russian aggressive movement has been checked, and that the German and Austro-German armies are offering a much more effective resistance than previous reports had led us to expect. Apparently there is to be much heavy fighting both in France and on the Russian border before the allies can make much further progress. The hope that if the French, British and Belgians could hold the Germans in check in the west the Russians would be able to make a swift descent upon Berlin from the east is not to be realized. It is to be a long war.

CABINET CHANGES.

It is announced from Ottawa that Hon. W. K. Nantel, minister of inland revenue, will succeed Hon. M. E. Brien on the railway commission, and that his place in the Borden cabinet will be taken by Mr. T. Chase Casgrain, K.C., of Montreal. It is also intimated that Hon. L. P. Pelletier, postmaster general, will shortly resign because of ill health, and will be succeeded either by Mr. Albert Severyn, M.P., or Mr. E. G. Patenaude. There have also been rumors that Hon. Dr. Roche, minister of the interior, would resign owing to illness, but an Ottawa despatch to the Standard today says this is very unlikely. Sir Robert Borden, who spent Thanksgiving Day at St. Agathe, as the guest of Mr. B. A. Macnah, has returned to Ottawa. The Rogers group in the cabinet are still endeavoring to persuade the prime minister to go to the country, hoping to snatch a verdict that would give them another lease of power. Sir Robert, however, with Sir George Foster and some other members, would prefer to follow the British precedent, and not be guilty of a breach of faith at this critical time in Imperial affairs.

The cost of living in Canada has advanced since the war began, but it is nevertheless true that a number of great staple foods are reasonably cheap.

Thus far the Germans, since they began their retreat from Paris, have been unable to break through the allied lines at any point. We shall soon learn whether they are to be any more successful on their extreme right in the direction of Ostend.

The city council does well to make provision to give employment to as many men as possible in the various departments during the winter. There is work both in the water and sewerage and street departments which can well be carried on in winter, and that policy is especially wise for the winter now at hand.

Since the vast majority of the people of South Africa support Premier Botha, the rebellion of a commando under Col. Maritz in the northwest part of the union will not prove a serious affair. This Col. Maritz has always been an irreconcilable, and has been in close touch with the government of German Southwest Africa.

While the Belgian seat of government has been removed to France, hundreds of thousands of Belgian people have sought refuge in Holland, and it is estimated that nearly 100,000 have gone to England. King Albert, in true soldier fashion, remains at the head of his army, and will still be able to strike a vigorous blow against the enemy which has devastated his unhappy country.

A notice of the opening of the evening technical school in Amherst this week for the winter season says that courses are offered in mechanical and machine drawing, architectural drawing, automobile engineering, electricity, dressmaking, shorthand and typewriting, bookkeeping, English and arithmetic. First and second year classes will be carried on in many of these subjects. Should ten applications be received for a class in any subject along the lines of technical education an instructor will be engaged and the class started.

A PEACE HYMN.

Under request of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, the following peace hymn, by Rev. John Hynes Holmes, minister of the Church of the Messiah, New York, was sung in churches of the United States Sunday, Oct. 3. The tune is St. Agnes, by J. B. Dykes.

God of the nations, near and far, Ruler of all mankind, Bless them Thy people as they strive The paths of peace to find. The clash of arms still shakes the sky, King battles still with king, Wild through the frightened air of night The bloody tocsin ring. But clearer far the friendly speech Of scientists and seers, The wise debate of statesmen and The shout of pioneers. And stronger far the clasped hands Of labor's teeming throngs, Who in a hundred tongues repeat Their common creeds and songs. O Father, from the curse of war We pray Thee give release, And speed, O speed the blessed day Of Justice, Love and Peace!

Pastoral Letter, Signed by Fifteen Archbishops, Read in Montreal Churches

"The Duties of Catholics in the Present War" is the title of a pastoral letter read on Sunday in all of the churches of that diocese of Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa. The letter, which is signed by fifteen archbishops and bishops of the province, calls for the taking of a special collection at every Catholic church next Sunday. Half the proceeds will be turned over to the Patriotic Fund and the church itself will distribute half in the various parishes for the relief of suffering entailed by the war. It is ordered also that, at High Mass next Sunday, the Miserere be sung, and that the prayer of the Mass, Pro Pace, be said at Mass, when followed by the rubrics, until the end of the war. The text of a portion of the letter follows: "For the past two months war has been raging in the greater part of the Continent of Europe. It is our earnest prayer that all the woes following in its wake may be, in the end, God's means to work out the moral and social regeneration of nations. The pall of death spreads over countries hitherto most prosperous and mourning thickens in houses least known to distress. The canon has sown desolation in families past number; wives are bewailing the loss of their husbands, mothers that of their children, and orphans that of their parents. Cities destroyed by fire, monuments overturned; hearths extinguished; fields laid waste; factories closed; trade obstructed; whole battalions moved down like the grass of the field; the flower of each nation torn and scattered to the four winds of heaven; what ruins, dear brethren, have accumulated in this short time!

The Destiny of the Empire

"We cannot close our eyes to the fact that this conflict, one of the most awful yet seen by the world, will make its recoil felt in our country. England is engaged in this war, and who does not see that the destiny of every part of the empire is bound up with the fate of her armies? She counts very rightly on our co-operation, and this co-operation, we are happy to say, is being generously offered to her, both in men and in money. Already, with the reservists of the allied nations, naturalized or living amongst us, several thousand of our own compatriots have volunteered to go to the war, and others perhaps will follow. Nearly all of them have left behind them families depending upon them for their support. How many of them will ever return to us again, the task of bread-winner for the family? As beyond the seas, our own industries will be paralyzed; they will suffer from the impossibility of employers to obtain raw material from the countries now at war; and also from the absence or notable diminution in number of skilled workers. In the fatherless homes, mothers will lament that they have not the food which their children ask. On our streets, men without work will seek perhaps in vain for employment to ensure their daily bread. "Already the civil authorities have specified measures of human prudence to obviate the worst contingencies; the suppression of luxuries and superfluous expenditure; the practice of rigorous economy; the development of our national resources, and the increase of exportations to foreign markets. They have also appealed in behalf of the families whose members have gone to war. Though their appeal has reached the principal centres of the land, it was difficult however for them to make this appeal heard in the more remote country parts. "Your pastors, whose traditions are as well as the moral and spiritual health of their flocks, believe that they are simply fulfilling a duty by soliciting from each one of you a contribution to this eminently national work. Will Divide Proceeds "The proceeds will be divided into two parts. One half will be handed over to the manager of the Patriotic Fund for the purposes which it is, or may be, legally destined. The other half will be distributed in each diocese to those other families, which on account of enforced idleness or from other causes, shall be reduced to poverty, especially during the hardships of winter. THE WEST AND THE WAR

Cheerful Report Comes From Regina. Regina, Oct. 14.—The business which seized Canadian cities and towns the outbreak of the war seems to have been overcome in many cities, including Regina. The citizens here are very optimistic and have good reason to believe that the west will benefit immensely. The farmers are selling wheat without difficulty and are raising prices far in advance of those of last year. The provincial government statistics show that although the crop was not so large as in 1913, the amount the farmers will realize will be greater than in 1913.

to completion of the construction of a 5,000,000 gallon reservoir. The new Regina power house is rapidly nearing completion. If the work progresses as rapidly in the future as in the past it will not be a month before the building will be completed. The cost of the building will be approximately $17,000. Arrangements have been made by the City of Regina with the Bank of Montreal for a loan of $200,000 for construction of improvements.

The Edison Diamond Disc Phonograph

When you hear this new Phonograph certain superiorities are at once obvious. The permanent reproducing point does away with the old trouble of changing needles. The disc, the finished product of Mr. Edison's three years of patient experimenting brings out a myriad of minute overtones that join in producing a rich, mellow tone quality. But it is not until you hear it play that you grasp the full possibilities of pleasure that this instrument has in store for you. The new Phonograph is a distinguished contribution to the art of musical interpretation. Come in any time.

"The Spy"

Seized as Spy in Hostile Lines! Signal "Fire Paper" Blows Into Pond; Ten Minutes Given Spy to Prepare for Death!

(Copyright, 1914, By The Newspaper Enterprise Magazine)

(This spy fled to America to escape the governments of two nations. He knows that secret agents are watching him still. This story was secured from him in a village in Pennsylvania. His story lacks literary qualities, but it is filled with interesting and first-hand information regarding the early developments of the European war.)

PART V. Evidence that France's fear of the "attack brusque" had not been unfounded were presented during that retiring movement. It was one of a series of retreats that I learned from the troops who had been with the first army that for twelve days the Germans had given us no rest and that a strategic plan of the French to retake stronger fortified positions had been overthrown in the rapidity with which the Germans kept up the pursuit. Each battle seemed the same, a preliminary battle of cavalry, supported by heavy artillery, a brisk artillery engagement, and finally a brilliant assault by great numbers of German troops who claimed to be heavily outnumbered, but it seemed also that the German troops evidently had been preparing for them in unexpected places, threatened the French rear, and compelled a retreat. The French and British in the section now faced nearly north instead of directly east.

Our retreat was in a south-eastern direction and was rather a range of front than a retreat. After six weeks we met large bodies of troops, bivouacked. I crossed a line of new fortifications some six miles to the north and east of Senlis. Evidently the French front was much deeper than what it had been. The river Oise and it was evident, also, that the French had been beaten toward the front, and the retreat was toward their rear. The French and British in the section now faced nearly north instead of directly east.

The allies had been heavily reinforced and the worn troops were being sent to the rear for a well-earned rest, while fresh troops replaced them. The new troops evidently had been preparing for battle, as the cartridges appeared more finished. I expected that the allies had at least reached the spot where they were to make a decisive stand against the German advance. The troops who had fought at the river near Compiègne retired a mile behind these works and bivouacked there. They were exhausted from long fighting and retiring. Fresh food came at daybreak. I was compelled to find means of getting word to the German advance guard, especially after overbearing part of a conversation between my major and some officers of an artillery division.

After daybreak I succeeded in reaching an elevation in a bit of woods at the rear of our position, and gained an excellent view of the French and British position. They had taken up a curved position on a low plateau overlooking a creek bottom. An automobile road, part of the road from Paris to Brussels, curved along the foot of this ridge. I hastily marked the position and then, since I would be blindfolded, and told me shooting was too good; that they should hang me if I think they would have hanged me.

Marches to Be Shot! I was marched to the wall. Three men were detailed to shoot me, when suddenly there was an uproar, shouting and shots from the roadway. Troopers were hurrying forward. I was told that I was to be shot, but they had shot him.

I argued well. I think I had half convinced them when a peasant was brought in. He lived not far away, and he exposed me as an impostor, denying that I ever had lived in the district. My ten minutes had been dragged out to fifteen when they led me to the wall of the little cottage. They asked me if I would be blindfolded, and told me shooting was too good; that they should hang me if I think they would have hanged me.

APPLES VALUED AT OVER $2,000,000
 Will be Wasted in Ontario if Not Distributed Free—Salvation Army to the Rescue—How to Dry Apples

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
 The newspaper reports that the farmers were actually giving away their apples seemed so remarkable, said a Toronto business man to 'The Mail and Empire,' that I wanted to see if it was true. I could hardly believe it, and could not understand the reason. So I at a couple of cupboards in my motor car and went up north of Toronto till I came near Thornhill. I saw a big orchard loaded down with apples—so many a sight as you could see in a day's journey. I went in, and said to the farmer that I wanted a couple of bags of apples.
 "Sure," he said, "come along."
 We went to the orchard, and he helped me to pick the apples, then helped me to load them on to the motor. When I asked him what the price would be, he said he wouldn't take anything. I could get him to accept a cent. "No," he said. "You can have them for nothing. I'm glad to give them to you, for if you didn't take them away they would go to waste."
 There were probably twenty acres in this orchard, and the trees were all heavily laden with the fruit. I was very curious to know how it was that such a large crop could be given away for nothing. There were two reasons. One was that all over the apple-growing areas of this continent there were huge crops. The other was that the war had shut off the European demand for the time being. The farmers make it a practice to sell their surplus to the wholesale buyers, who come with their own pickers and pack the apples.
 To Provisional Made.
 "This year, as usual, the farmers made a provision for labor to pick the fruit depending on the wholesale buyer to come when the crop was ready. But the wholesale buyer did not come, as he found the European demand practically nil. So it comes that all over the province of Ontario tens of thousands of tons of the choicest apples are still in the trees. It is estimated that the total value will run to between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000. When the first heavy frost comes, as it will soon, this food also will disappear, as this whole plentiful crop, if not picked before then will be ruined.
 "Such a wholesale destruction of the best kind of food is not to be considered a disaster in this year of high prices and scarcity of employment. Various efforts are being made to conserve this vast quantity of food. The Dominion government has issued a book called 'Apple Delights,' which gives 200 recipes for cooking and preserving apples. This can be had by simply writing to the Department of Trade and Commerce, Apple Section, Ottawa, asking for it, enclosing letter in an unstamped envelope. Efforts are also being made to store the apples in the cities for distribution to the poor.
 "The best scheme hit upon is that being taken hold of by the Salvation Army. It is to have the owners of motors or other conveyances in the different cities, towns, and villages throughout the province give the services of their conveyances to carry children (which the Salvation Army will provide) out to the orchards. The children will pick the apples and incidentally have a good day's outing. Then the children will take home and each of them will have one or more bags of apples. An instruction card will be handed into the homes telling how the apples can be cured without cost, simply by the old-fashioned way of drying. No sugar is needed, and there is no other kind of expense.
 How to Treat Apples.
 "The apples are peeled, cored and quartered. Then a large needle (a darning needle) threaded with ordinary twine (uncolored) is run through the quarters of apples and a string as long as the twine is thus made. These strings are hung up in a dry place indoors or out, usually from one wall to the other in the kitchen a few inches from the ceiling so as to be out of the way. There is sufficient space in the apple itself to cure it. In a day or two they begin to turn brown, and in a few weeks' time are dried. When dried they are stored in a barrel or paper bags, and kept in a dry place. They must not be stored in the cellar. If stored in a dry place they will keep for years.

 The Salvation Army is undertaking a province-wide campaign in a great effort to save a vast quantity of food before it is destroyed by the approaching frost.
 Owners of motors who wish to help should forward their names to the Salvation Army headquarters in the different cities, towns, and villages in the province, and those who wish to contribute bags should do likewise. It is hoped and expected that thousands of homes throughout the province will by this means become the centre of one of Canada's old-fashioned and most forgotten industries.
 But this excellent plan need not be confined to the activities of the Salvation Army. Many other organizations might very well put it into effect. Food will be sorely needed in our cities and towns this winter. Let it be borne in mind that to conserve food is to perform a patriotic duty, as it means increasing Britain's stores of war. Everyone should help, and help at once, as a heavy frost is likely to come at any time now.
 French roads no longer enjoy the enviable reputation of being the best in the world. In fact, before long France will be taking lessons in modern road-building from Britain.

Who'll Pay That Mortgage?
 That mortgage—or other indebtedness—may cause you no worry. You know you can repay it if all goes well. But there's the rub. What if things go wrong? Supposing you should die—could you pay the mortgage without your income?
 An Imperial Endowment Policy for the amount of the indebtedness will insure its repayment, whether you live or die. There is no other means of meeting the case that is quite so certain—that leaves nothing to chance. And the annual investment required is very moderate—moderate at least when you consider the peace of mind it will afford you.
 Look at this problem squarely—don't dodge—don't wait. The advantages of life insurance are available only to those in good health. Send to-day for information about a policy to suit your particular need. To-morrow may be too late.

War Correspondent, Following the Fighting on His Bicycle, Writes Thrilling Human Interest Story on The Sideights of Battle

(By H. J. Phillips)
 Paris, Sept. 22. (By Mail)—It isn't the fighting man that my heart goes out to in this war. I've seen so many dead and wounded men and so much misery and pain that my eyes are dulled to others' suffering. Anyway, it's fit for me to be on the firing line. The soldier gives as much as he gets.
 But it's the awful, awful destruction of the wailing of poor people's homes, the constant recurring sight of ruined cottages, of starving children, of ragged, hungry, weather-beaten women caught through no fault of their own in the frightful maelstrom that brings the horror of this war home to me.
 I left Paris on a bicycle for the front. The trail of the retreating Teuton was the path of a cyclone. Huge trees were broken and some uprooted. Every farmhouse was roofless, some were burning. Roads and fields were dotted with clothing and arms and household goods and the pretty landscape was pitted and slashed in long, brown lines by the trenches of fighting men.
 Duals were gathering fast, when about four miles outside of La Ferté-sous-Jouarre the sound of cannon, which I had heard intermittently all day, became more clearly audible. The Marne runs through the little town which lies on either side of the stream in a valley. As I reached the outskirts a weird spectacle broke my gaze. It was a perfect picture of war in all its horror, in all its majesty, in all its picturesque. From the hills to the right the British artillery was shelling the retreating Germans on the other side of the river. The shells were bursting with jets of flame and the water of the river was lit up by the light of the explosions. A couple of houses, wreathed in flame, burned fiercely, the light reflected in the peaceful waters of the Marne which ran past two bridges blown up and shattered.
 When the firing had died away I quietly slipped down into the town. Down by the river the British engineers were putting the finishing touches to a pontoon bridge—a bridge they finished all complete in about two hours. The troops were already preparing to cross. So swiftly does the British army move that when I arose with dawn the next morning I found that troops had melted away in the night.
 But I'm getting ahead of my story. Before night I found a place to sleep in a deserted manor house which I saw from the street.
 Windows and doors were open, but the place was as silent as the grave. I walked into the courtyard and saw no one. Then I entered the house and understood. The beautiful old manor which looked so grand and peaceful had been deserted by its owners and had been ruthlessly pillaged by the German troops.
 I thought it was blood, but it was soup. The dining room table was heaped with the remains of a drunken meal. There were empty wine bottles everywhere, and across the table and in the dishes there was food that had been splashed that looked like blood, but proved to be the outpoured contents of a tankard of beer. Food dishes were piled on sideboard and cupboard lay on the floor, where its contents had been turned out in a search for all that was valuable. I passed from room to room and everywhere I found the same litter.
 It seemed that not a single wardrobe or press in the house had not been rifled. The beds were overturned, the telephone instrument was smashed and even a pile of gramophone records had been trodden under the heel.
 Early in the morning as I prepared to resume my journey I found an old peasant, the first of the retreating villagers who had been driven from their homes a week ago. With the pride of a professional guide, the old man led me around to places where the fighting had been fiercest and so it happened that we were together when the rest of the villagers straggled back home in a timid group. They saw my guide and thus it was that this friendly but unimpressive peasant became the mouthpiece of the standing there by the roadside and telling the people what they had to bear.

The Women's Questions
 "Michel had seen too many horrible things for either sorrow or joy to move him. He stood there merely impassive, telling to each in an unmoved and courteous voice the things which had happened to their homes.
 "Michel, Michel," she called and rushed forward.
 "My house?" the old woman asked.
 "Burnt, mother," said Michel.
 "All burnt?"
 "All."
 Another woman, middle-aged and heavily clothed, stepped forward.
 "There were no Germans there. They passed down in the little hollow, on Monday, but did not go in."
 She fell back. Another, like enough to be her sister, stepped to the front of the eager group. "Have they been in my farm, Michel?"
 "Yes, Henriette. The house is all right. A troop of Uhlans slept there two nights."
 "And the cattle?"
 "They have killed many. Also the sheep."
 From behind the crowd a voice cried: "Is my brother at home, Michel?"
 "He is dead," said Michel. "The Uhlans took him, a guide and shot him."
 It is not necessary that I should continue to describe the intolerable scene. You have the essence of it.
 Along a street strewn with splintered glass I went, clambering over mounds of fallen brick, or slipping on the greasiness of the wet and littered cobble, and suddenly I found me standing at the air. As long as I live I shall never think of Fernande without a whiff of that cruel blowing across my memory. It was a medley of brick-dust and plaster-dust and charred wood, but above all, it was a burnt-out, smouldering, but penetrating, the smell of something utterly scorching and destroyed. It pervaded all the things of Fernande and filled it with the sense of death.
Roses Amid Desolation
 I went all around and about the town, and nearly everywhere the same ruins lined the littered streets. Blackened and bulging remnants of house-fronts, through which one often caught a glimpse of vividly green rain-wet gardens (in one roses were a bloom); chimneys that had crashed down solidly

RED UNSIGHTLY PIMPLES ON FACE

Itching and Burning, Scratching Irritated. Disfigured for a Time. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Pimples Disappeared.

1766 Winnipeg St., Regina, Sask.—"I was troubled with itching pimples on my face for over three years. They were red and unsightly. They caused itching and burning and I used to scratch and irritate them. The breaking out disfigured me for a time.
 "I tried many well-advertised treatments, such as—Prescription, Cuticura Soap, etc., but without success. A short time ago I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in a local paper and after I had tried a free sample I could see a reasonable improvement. I washed my face with the soap and then applied the Ointment two or three times a day. After using more Cuticura Soap and Ointment I completely disappeared." (Signed) Nicholas Koch, Jan. 18, 1914.

 A generation of mothers has found no soap so well placed for cleansing and purifying the skin and hair of infants and children as Cuticura Soap. Its absolute purity and refreshing fragrance alone are enough to recommend it above ordinary skin soaps, but there are added to those qualities delicate yet effective emollient properties, derived from Cuticura Ointment, which make it most valuable in overcoming a tendency to dandruff eruptions and promoting a normal condition of skin and hair health. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. For liberal free sample of each, with 25¢ book, send postcard to "Cuticura, Dept. D, Boston, U. S. A."

for me in hot curves and stretches, till a puncture puts a momentary stop to its unwinding. I go to a bicycle shop for repairs, to the maker for a "size" and to a cafe coolly ensconced under the pillars of the "Place" for a long drink, with a sip of beer, and a long rest, and I am delighted. The master and the son of the house are both at the front, and I am in sole charge. He is efficient, but slow. He has a way of crossing his feet and burying his hand in his waistcoat, and when, from his attitude, you expect a speech, he, saving your respect, says nothing.
 Abruptly the scene changed. The smooth white ribbon suddenly became torn and matted. I was passing through a former fighting zone. So on yesterday I saw a roadless and demolished house, but the picture was more harrowing. The peasants had returned to their ruined homesteads.
 Here and there an old man musing at his door or a group of frightened children fleeing at my approach, with now and then a knot of dumb peasants laboriously burying dead horses. Towards evening at 11 I rode up the long slope leading to a village a roughly constructed cross caught my eye. It surmounted a simple grave dug on the hillside under the shadow of a haystack and quite close to the road. It was the first British grave I had met.
 There was an indescribable solemnity about the last resting-place of this British soldier whose name and regimental number a friendly hand had rudely scrawled on a little cross of wood. It lay quite remote in the absolute silence of a perfect summer evening, the simple cross standing out against the purple sunset. All around it lay evidences of the battlefield. Half-finished haystacks, abandoned hayricks, and pitchforks left on the trampled ground showed where the haymakers had been surprised by the approach of the battle.

 Dead horses, English soldiers' caps, huge rents torn in the earth by shells, empty shell and cartridge cases—such marks of war were to be seen on every hand, and in the air there was a subtle suggestion of the charnel-house.
THE CAPTURE OF YAP

 The Japanese have captured Yap—News Item.
 Tap, tap, tap.
 What's the news from Yap?
 The Japs have made a capture.
 Their souls are filled with rapture,
 The Jap has captured Yap,
 He's put it on the map.
 There was a mighty scrap.
 The German and the Jap.
 But now the Jap is beating.
 The German is retreating.
 A prayer he is repeating.
 He doesn't like the Jap.
 Tap, tap, tap.
 The Germans all are dying.
 The Japs have sent them flying.
 The town they're occupying,
 The quaint old town of Yap.
 It's a snap, it's a snap.
 For the Jap in a scrap.
 While the German takes a nap.
 Or drinks the beer on tap.
 The Jap, he gains a lap.
 All the Japanese,
 Now are Japanese,
 For the Japs have taken Yap.

WAR CENTRE SHIFTS WITH GERMAN ADVANCE TOWARDS THE COAST

London, Oct. 13, 9.35 p. m.—The headquarters of the Belgian government were today transferred to Havre. With the exception of King Albert, who remains as head of the army, and the minister of war, the members of the cabinet, with the other government officials and the diplomatic corps, left Ostend by steamer for the French port...

The Germans are making a simultaneous western advance in southern Belgium, while across the border, in France, a whole army corps has occupied Lille, and cavalry have been seen as far west as Hazebrouck, which is on the railway leading to both Calais and Dunkirk.

French forces have been sent to cut off, if possible, this attempt to reach the coast, and according to the French official communication issued this afternoon, have taken the offensive against the Germans...

People Slack In Honoring King as Anthem Is Played

Saint George's Society Draws Attention to Matter and Also Contributes to the Funds

The quarterly meeting of St. George's Society was held last evening in their rooms Gernish street, with the president, G. S. Mayes, in the chair and a full attendance of members present. Routine business was transacted and a motion was unanimously passed voting $100 each to the Patriotic Fund, the Red Cross Society and the Belgium Relief Fund. The following motion was also passed:

Resolved: That the St. George's Society of St. John view with regret the constant disrespect paid to our king and country when the national anthem is played or sung at the close of entertainments, and do hereby urge the public to remain respectfully standing while God Save the King is being played or sung, and that when the national anthem is played in the open, citizens be requested to raise their hats, and soldiers to salute;

And Further Resolved: That copies of this resolution be published in the newspapers and sent to the managers of all theatres and houses of entertainment in the city with a request that it may be brought to the attention of the audiences as often as may be necessary.

NOT KNOWN WHEN FIRST SHIPMENT OF HORSES WILL GO FROM ST. JOHN

Four Hundred More Animals on the Way—The Matter of Getting Them Aboard

Four hundred more horses for remount purposes for the British army are now on their way to St. John, but it is not known when they will reach here. It had been expected that they would be here today. Captain A. W. Grepe, commanding the remount depot here, said today that they would likely be kept here for some time, as he had no orders to make a shipment, nor advice as to the coming of a steamer from the Admiralty.

Regarding the question raised as to whether or not soldiers now on duty and others yet to go on will be used in the embarkation of the animals, or whether the longshoremen about the port will be employed for this service, Captain Grepe said this morning that it was most likely to be the soldiers who would be required to attend to this detail. They were now in the employ of the government, by whom they were being paid, and they were particularly well acquainted with the work of caring for the horses. It was unlikely that they would be required to stand idly by while others did what was really part of their work while on active duty. The detachment of dragoons now engaged will probably be increased very soon.

The I. C. R., at the request of the militia authorities, has extended the siding in Sheffield street so that it is now possible to unload seven cars of horses at once, instead of only four as was the case.

THE END NOT YET

Pink's Fine Paid and Copy of Proceedings Applied For

With the arrest of Wm. C. Pink last evening it was thought the climax of the steps affair had been reached but that view would seem incorrect. Pink had been behind the bars only a very short while, in fact it is said his incarceration was of such short duration he had not removed his cap when counsel appeared the fine of $20 paid and once more the owner of the famous steps was a free man and back in Patriotic almost as soon as Policeman Sitson, who made the arrest. He has now asked for a copy of the proceedings in Magistrate Alingham's court and this looks as though the matter would be speedily concluded.

Members of the highway board have expressed themselves as quite opposed now to any amending of the regulations that the steps must come down without any alternative and if not the law can take its full course when they will be up. This is after several conferences have been held and is said to be the last word from the authorities on the subject.

But Pink meanwhile, maintains his position as well, and says he will fight to the end. During the progress of the interesting subject, the steps hold fast to their ground an interesting reminder of the old saying "An Englishman's Home is his castle."

CASE OF CONSTABLE WHO WAS REPORTED TO THE COURT BY POLICEMAN

Constable George Blair appeared in the police court this morning to answer to a charge of standing on a street corner and not moving on when requested to do so by Policeman McLeese on last Thursday evening. McLeese said that on that night he was advised by Deputy Chief Jenkins that there were many corner loafers on his beat and he was instructed to order them to move. He said that Blair was in a group of four at the corner of Charlotte and North streets, that he asked them to move and they stepped back a few steps into the street. He came up to them again and asked them to move, but the defendant told him they were taking their own chances in standing in the street. Blair told him, he said, that he could not arrest them, but had better report them. He reported Blair.

McLeese said that later he met Blair, who told him he was a little far reaching in the matter and told him that if he was reported that he would be charged with assaulting Dr. W. B. Campbell, who was with him in the group.

Blair cross-examined the witness and asked him if he believed in the Bible, which he said he did. When asked if he knew the ninth commandment the witness replied he thought it was something about not telling a lie. Blair then asked the policeman how many drinks he had that night. The magistrate interrupted him and told Blair that was none of his business and had nothing to do with the case.

William Allan and Deputy Jenkins were called as witnesses and told of seeing several persons loafing in Charlotte street that night, but did not remember seeing the defendant early in the evening. The case was adjourned until tomorrow afternoon.

J. Starr Tait was in court and asked that a charge be made against McLeese for assaulting Mr. Campbell. The magistrate said the case would be taken up tomorrow at the same time as it had arisen out of Blair's case.

BUSINESS NOTE

HERE IS CHEERY

That St. John is sticking to the motto "Business as usual," better than any other town or city he has visited is the testimony of a commercial traveler covering the eastern states and the maritime provinces. Everywhere else he has gone he has found business falling off and merchants inclined to a pessimistic view of affairs. In St. John he was surprised and delighted to find conditions so nearly normal with an optimistic tone pervading the whole city and business men and citizens paying strict attention to business instead of sitting back and moaning about the effects of the war.

Pretty Wedding Ceremony This Afternoon at Home of St. John Bride

One of the prettiest society weddings of the season took place at half past four o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Anderson, 128 Wentworth street, when their daughter, Miss Lillian Hayward, became the bride of Bernard Wallace Russell of the legal firm of Connor & Russell, Halifax, and kept here for some time, as he had no orders to make a shipment, nor advice as to the coming of a steamer from the Admiralty.

Regarding the question raised as to whether or not soldiers now on duty and others yet to go on will be used in the embarkation of the animals, or whether the longshoremen about the port will be employed for this service, Captain Grepe said this morning that it was most likely to be the soldiers who would be required to attend to this detail. ENLARGING SCOPE OF BROTHERHOOD WORK

Fairville Matter Given a Start at First Meeting of Season

The Fairville Brotherhood held their first meeting of the season last night and ways and means of providing a more efficient and telling organization were discussed. The subject was opened by Rev. Gilbert Earle, whose ideas followed closely the motto already adopted, Comradeship, Character and Cleanliness.

Others favored extending the borders of the society in various ways along the coast, as suggested by experiences in Boston, Hamilton, Ont., and western Canada. It was finally decided to ask for the cooperation of all men from the congregations of the Anglican, Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches-demonstrating the common brotherhood working for the common weal and the community. A committee of two was appointed to interview the ministers and report back after which it is expected some definite, united action will be taken.

This is perhaps a more forward step than has yet been attempted along brotherhood lines even in St. John. As was clearly pointed out by one speaker, it requires the best brains of all the churches to conduct reforms and in a practical way demonstrate brotherhood in any town and with an assured future for Fairville and its environs. No time should be lost in amalgamating forces for the betterment of general conditions of living.

Ho.ding the Market Steady

Advertised goods have won everlasting fame for themselves during the present crisis. They have held out firmly against advances in price even in the face of higher cost of materials.

In most instances manufacturers have been content to see their profits cut, sooner than see their reputations impaired.

Men who advertise are believers in the square deal.

They win public confidence because they are deserving of it.

They do not take advantage of the public when a pinch comes.
