Policemen Hughes and Raff-sky and Chaplain Walkley reached sky and Chaplain Walkley reached Mrs. Howard, and the chaplain gave her a stimulant. The policemen were cutting away the seat which held the woman down when a steam-pipe broke. The scalding steam drove them back, and when the rescuers returned Mrs. Howard was dead.

Howard was dead.

The wounds of those of the injured in need of immediate attention were given temporary dressing by the ambulance and volunteer surgeons, and then these injured were helsted to the street above. Many of the handsome houses which line Park avenue were thrown open to the suffering, but most of the injured were hurried away to hospitals at once. The dead were carried to the sarfuce and taken to morgues and police stations.

A great crowd, heedless of the snow which swirled through the street, gathered about the tunnel entrance and shafts and watched the rescue work. Most of the watchers were sympathetic and orderly, but despite the horror of the accident and the vigilance of the police, there was some looting. The engineer of the White Plains train disregarded them. The torpedo on the track went off, but he did not even stop, although the fireman called out to him to do so. Canada already ships to Australia via New York and other points about 20,000 tons of freight annually. We have in this the nucleus of a great trade, which the opening of this new line would greatly benefit, besides earning a profit for itself in a short time."

"Shall you confine yourselves to investigating the transportation problem, or will improved tariff relations also receive your consideration?"

"Of course," was the reply, "the Canadian idea is to draw together all British dependencies with a bond of mutual preferential trade, and we will not fail in any of our efforts in furmunication from Canada to

The flour millers of Canada are all members of our association, which, I might mention, represents capital to the amount of $200,000,000. We go purely for the information of our members. The government has nothing to do with our deputation, though, of course, if we discover hindrances which legislation can remove, the government shall certainly hear from us."

HE WANTED! CANADA. LI B. WELL It Was Senator Sumner's Plan for Getting Even.

. . . The Alabama Claim-Massachusetts Senator Wanted to Take Canada Instead of Cash Great Britain

Finally Paid.

(Boston Transcript.) Charles Francis Adams began his last Lowell Institute lecture by referring to the rejection of the Johnson-Clarendon convention and the speech of Mr. Sumner in April, 1869, in which he first formulated the doctrine of national injuries and consequential damages, the amount of which was stimated at some three thousand million of dollars. This, apparently aplion of dollars. This, apparently approved by the senate of the United States, made a settlement between the two countries practically impossible. At this time President Grant succeeded Andrew Johnson and Mr. Fish became secretary of state in place of William H. Seward. The negotiations then at once entered upon a wholly new phase. Mr. Medley was sent to England. The secretary of state, however, found himself in a most difficult position. General Grant was an expansionist. His eyes, however, were fixed in the direction of the West Infixed in the direction of the West In-dian Islands and Cuba. Mr. Sumner was also an expansionist, but his views lay in the direction of Canada and the British dominion. This led almost at once to a divergence of views. The president wished to have the Cuban insurgents recognized as belliger-ents, and the secretary was, therefore, unable to take the position in regard to the Queen's proclamation of May, 1861, which had been taken by Mr. Sumner. Moreover, Mr. Sumner's position did not commend itself to his judgment. Unfortunately for himself, Mr. Motley in London represented Mr. Sumner rather than the secretary of state. This fact led to what was afterward known as "the Motley imbrog-lio," the course of which the lecturer explained at length. The misfortune of Mr. Motley's position was that he found himself involved in the growing difficulties between the chairman of the senate committee on foreign af-

the negotiations were speedily taken out of his hands. At this point a new actor appeared upon the stage. This was Sir John Rose of Canada, a natural diplomat, a man of pleasing address, and one thoroughly acquainted with the situation. The private negotiations con-ducted between Secretary Fish and Sir John Rose were then and the course of events until January, when Sir John Rose appeared in Washington, and, on the evening of his arrival, at the dinner table of the secretary of state, the basis of the subsequent treaty of Washington was agreed upon. The next day this was put in shape as a formal memorandum and submitted by Sir John Rose to Mr. Fish. Owing to the Motley imbroglio, the relations between Mr. Fish and Mr. imner were then strained. In fact, they were hardly on speaking terms the two at the house of Mr. Sumner, and there the secretary submitted to the all-powerful chairman of the sen-Mr. Fish. It was discussed, and Mr. Sumner requested Mr. Fish to leave it with him for further consideration. This Mr. Fish did, and Mr. Sumner returned it a few days later, with the following memorandum;

fairs and the president. Accordingly,

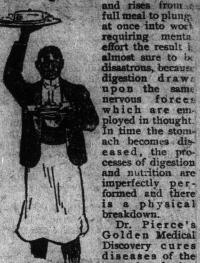

SUMMER'S SURPRISING PRO-POSAL

"First-The idea of Sir John Rose is that all questions and causes of irritation between England and the United States should be removed abso lutely and forever, that we may be at peace really, and good neighbors, and to this end all points of difference should be considered together. Nothing could be better than this initial idea. It should be the starting point. "Second—The greatest trouble, if not ril, being a constant source of anxism, which is excited by the British flag in Canada. Therefore, the with-drawal of the British flag cannot be abandoned as a condition or prelimin ary of such a settlement as is now ed. To make the settlement complete, the withdrawal should be from this hemisphere, including pro vinces and islands." To this astounding manifesto Mi Pierce, in his Life of Sumner, makes but a passing reference. The whole communication was included in 220 words. For it Mr. Pierce found no pace in his four massive volume To those of the present generation, ially with what is going on in South Africa before our eyes, it would seem as if the first perusal of this memorandum must have suggested to Mr. Pish grave doubts as to Mr. Sumner's sanity. It reads almost like an attempt at clumsy ridicule. Mean while, strange as it may seem, when received it could have occasioned Mr. Fish hardly any feeling of excessive nent. It suggested to him nothing new, nothing unreasonable, nothing altogether beyond the pale of discussion, and this statement, surprising now, shows the revolution in sentiment as respects dependencies which has taken place during the last thirty years. From 1840 to 1870 Great Britain looked upon her colonies as a burden, a source of weakness, and not a source of strength. This is apparent from the discussions of the time. One-prominent English minister, for instance, referred to them as mind of Mr. Summer the not remote withdrawal of all European flags, including, of course, the British, from the Western Hemisphere was the logical development of the Monroe Doctrine. In April, 1869, when he de-livered his "National Inquiries," and "Indirect Claims" speech, this result seemed to him not remote. Five conths later, in a speech before the assachusetts State Republican Con-ention, he declared that result "certain; nor shall we wait long for its GOOD LIVING

SUMNER'S IDEA OF OUR CLAIMS. Read with this clue in mind, Mr. Sumner's utterances between 1869 and 1871 become intelligible and are con-Britain, mounting into the thousands of millions, were advanced by him as no vulgar scores to be itimized and added up in the form of a bill, and as such presented for payment. On the contrary, they were merely one item in a statement of "massive grievince." The settlement was to be commensurate. Comprehensive, grand-iose even, it was to include a hemispheric flag withdrawal, as well as the revision of the rules of international law. All this was very characteristic of Charles Sumner. As he now wrote to S. G. Howe, "I look to annexation at the North. I wish to have that whole zone from Newfoundland to Vancouver." At the same time he wrote to Mr. Motley that Mr. Fish had that day sounded the Brit-ish minister on the subject of Can-ada, the American claims on Great Britain being too large to admit of a money settlement. Sir Edward Thornton, he added, had replied that England had no wish to keep Canada, but could not part with it without the consent of the population. Finally, on the 5th of June, he wrote to Mr. tion is as historic as any described by your pen. England must listen, and at last yield. I do not despair ate committee the memorandum of of seeing the debate end-(1) in the withdrawal of England from hemisphere; (2) in remodelling maritime international laws. Such a consummation would place our republic at the head of the civilized world." In one of these letters it will be observed Mr. Sumner told Mr. Motley that Secretary Fish had that day sounded the British ministers as the possible cession of Canada in liquidation of the national claims and peasement of our sense of grievance. The statement was correct. Not only at this time, but long after was a mprehensive settlement on this basis urged on the British governme Both president and secretary of state were thus of one mind with Mr. Sum-ner. In November, 1869, for instance, four months after Sir John Rose's first visit to Washington, and at the very time he was writing to Mr. Fish about Mr. Motley's attitude in London, an entire cabinet meeting was occupied in a discussion of the Alabama claims. The president then suggested the pos-sibility of Great Britain quitting Canada, and he intimated his belief that in such case we ought to be satisfied with payment for the losses actually ustained through the Confederate commerce destroyers, combined with a settlement satisfactory to us of the principles of maritime neutrality law. A few days later he expressed his un-

willingness at that time to adjust the claims; he wished them kept open un-up Canada. When certain members of the cabinet thereupon assured him that Great Britain looked upon Canada as a source of weakness, the president at once replied: "If that be so, I would be willing to settle at once." During the following weeks the subject was frequently discussed between Secretary Fish and Mr. Thornton cretary Fish and Mr. Thornton.

LONDON TIMES' COMMENT.

In its issue of December 18, 1869 while these conversations, taking place in Washington, were duly reported in Downing street, the Times, probably inspired, expressed itself as follows: "Instead of the colonies being the dependencies of the mother country, the mether country has become the de-pendency of the colonies. We are led while they are loose. We are sub-fiect to a danger while they are free.'

Shortly after it expressed itself even more freely. Addressing the colonies, it said: "We are both in the false position, and the time has arrived Take up your freedom; your days of apprenticeship are over." In view of such utterances as these from the lead ing organs of the mother country, Mr. Sumner certainly had grounds for as-suming that a not unwilling hemispheric flag withdrawal by Great Britain was more than probable in the sible for Great Britain to inau-

g, and even desirous, to have one Surope may at any moment be con-vulsed; and if England became in-volved, it would be impossible to pre-vent retaliation, and the ocean would warm with Alabamas. England would then be compelled to declare war." The secretary consoled him by agreeing that commerce destroyers would then be fitted out in spite of all the government might or would at-tempt to prevent it.

Up to this point, therefore, it is upparent that the chairman of the sen ate committee on foreign affairs, the president, the secretary of state and the members of the cabinet generally, had gone on in a happy concurrence of views. Now, however, the cleavage on the dominion issue between the president and senator rapidly widened. Up to this point the questions of a settlement of claims and Canadian independence, and subsequent annexation to the United States—practically a British hemispheric flag withdrawal—had been closely associated. They were now to be separated.

But the change was gradual, for the fact is that Mr. Sumner's policy had obtained a strong hold on the minds of both president and secretary. Meanwhile, the pressure for some ttlement brought to bear upon the British government was day by day becoming greater. Late in November the Russian minister at Washington took occasion to suggest to Secretary Fish that the present time—that of the Franco-Prussian war—was most opportune to press on Great Britain an immediate settlement of the Alabama elaims. In the next talk with Mr. Thornton Secretary Fish alluded to the suggestion made to him by the Russian minister, and Mr. Thornton in return frankly admitted what the United States wanted. And now at last the negotiations took a final turn. The secretary, dropping Canada from the discussion, for the first time, asked merely an expression of regret on the part of Great Britain, and an acceptable declaration of principles of international law. This conversation with Mr. Thornton took place on the on the 9th of December, at a cabinet meeting, held that day, Secretary Fish read in confidence a private letter to him from Sir John Rose, intimating "that the British cabinet is disposed to enter on negotiations.' It would thus appear that the obstacle in the way of renewed negotiations had been the purpose of the United States, formulated by Mr. Sumner, to combine in some way a settlement of money claims, private and national, with a movement looking to the withdrawal of the British flag, in whole or part, from the North The moment American continent. this purpose was withdrawn he British cabinet lost no time in signifying its readiness to negotiate. None Sumner, underlying his famous speech of May 17, 1869, was thereby disclosed and thenceforth definitely abandoned. The famous "indirect claims" were conjured up by Mr. Sumner and maglified to an amount impossible of setuse as an effect in a diplomatic nego-tiation looking to the voluntary withdrawal of Great Britain certainly from the western hemisphere. The memorandum of January 17, 1879, as-tonishing as it reads to us, was, therefrom Mr. Sumner to Mr. Fish against the abandonment by the administration of a line of policy which up that time had been considered as definitely adopted.

EQUITY COURT

Justice Barker Delivers Judgment in an Important Case.

Agency Late W. VanWart for Pennington Estate Question - Judgment for Defendant-Other Business

(Fredricton Gleaner.) The regular sitting of the equity court was eld this morning, Judge Barker presiding confesso at the hearing. Ordered accordingly.

Foreman v. Seeley et al. Judge Barker delivered an exhaustive judgment in the suit of Foreman v. Seeley, administrator of Pennington et al, finding for the plaintiff. His honor said, in brief:

The plaintiff, Foreman, seeks to redeem a certain mortgage made by one Stewart and wife to Melinda V. Pennington, of whose estate the defendant, Seeley, is administrator. The real contest is as to whether under the circumstances detailed in the evidence the mortgage has not already been paid.

The mortgage was given in 1893 to secure the sum of $300 and interest, the loan being arranged through the late Wesley Van Wart, who seems to have been arting for Miss Pannington, and who subsequently collected the interest from Stewart and also $50 on account of principal. The mortgage was originally upon two lots of land, but in 1895 Stewart soid one lot to plaintiff, subject to the mortgage on which there remained $250 due, it being arranged at the same time with Van Wart that Stewart's bond was to be delivered up and Foreman's substituted therefor.

Although plaintiff's bond was duly execu-

Although plaintiff's bond was duly executed in Miss Pennington's favor Stewart's bond was not delivered up, until after Miss Pennington's death, on 9th Feb., 1898; and was found among her papers by Seeley, who was appointed administrator of her estate.

Sometime after this Van Wart, professing to act on behalf of the Peninngton estate, wrote the plaintiff, Foreman, calling upon him to pay off the mortgage. The plaintiff borrowed $750 from Miss Jouett, for whom Van Wart seems also to have been acting and left it with Van Wart to discharge his mortgage in favor of Miss Pennington, at the same time giving a mortgage to Miss Jouett. The Pennington mortgage was not cancelled, however, nor was the plaintiff's bond to Pennington delivered up. Van Wart's books show that he charged Miss Jouett's amount with the $220 loaned to the plaintiff, and credited same to Pennington estate account.

Jouett's amount with the $250 loaned to the plaintiff, and credited same to Pennington estate account.

It was not until after Van Wart's death on Aug. 3rd, 1899, that Seeley knew of the money having been paid by the plaintiff or that Van Wart had called upon the plaintiff to pay the mortgage off. The estate of Van Wart being insufficient to make good the loss it becomes necessary to ascertain upon which of the parties it must fall, and in my opinion it must fall upon plaintiff.

The question is one simply of agency, and the mortgager must show that the solicitor had either express or implied authority from the mortgages to receive the money. Mere possession of securities is no evidence of authority: neither does authority to receive the interest confer authority to receive the principal. The evidence fails in establishing any authority in Van Wart to collect or receive money when he did; and Van Wart, acting as agent of the plaintiff, failed in carrying out what the plaintiff, failed in carrying out what the plaintiff, failed in carrying out what the plaintiff, trusted him to do. But the defendant, Seeley, was in no way responsible for this. I must therefore hold that the principal of this mortgage has not yet been paid, but is still owing. F. St. John Bliss for plaintiff, and R. W. McLellan for defendant. Court adjourned sine die.

Cold Affects the Liver.

Severe Headaches. Constipation and Kidney Disorders the Result - Dr Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Correct the Action of Filtering and Excretory Organs.

The liver is very easily affected by change f temperature, nervous strain and overeating, and is the cause of more pains and aches than any other organ of the body. It s the duty of the liver to filter from the blood the poisonous bile, which it passes into the intestines to act as nature's cathartic. One of the first results of a sluggish, congested liver is constipation, alternating with poseness of the bowels and what is commonly called biliousness.

Bitter taste in the mouth, sallow complexion, a coated tongue, severe headaches pain under shoulder blades, fullness in right side, dizziness, ill-temper, peevishness and depression of spirits are indications of an ailing liver. The remarkable effectiveness of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in regu lating the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels easily places it first as a treatment for derangements of these organs. There are few people who are not more or less subject to billiousness in the winter season, when more or less confined to the house, and so rendered sensitive to change of tem-perature. Meat diet and the artificial foods of winter also tend to make the liver slug-gish, the kidneys inactive and the bowels constituated.

An Amazing Spectacle at the Liberal Rally Last Night.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.-An amazing spectacle was presented tonight in the liberal rally in St. James division of Sir Wilfrid Laurier withdrawing the candidate selected by himself and his Quebec lieutenant, Hon. J. I. Tarte, so that a liberal kicker might be elected. It will be remembered that Tarte absolutely refused to accept J. R. Brunet as the liberal candidate, and that after a stormy meeting, attended by both Laurier and Tarte, J. A. Drouin was elected as the liberal candidate Brunet announced that he was in the field to stay until the ballots were counted. The situation was rendered ore interesting by the announ that Hon. J. G. H. Bergeron would be the conservative candidate. The of Bergeron being elected, with the liberal vote divided, were exceedingly bright. The opinion of the iberals was that Bergeron's election was sure unless one of the liberals re-tired. Brunet refused, and so in order to avert certain defeat the Laurier government was humiliated into retir-ing its candidate and recognizing the kicker. Many liberals are angry over the outcome, and say they will vote for Bergeron. As for Tarte, Drouin's retirement is regarded as the first indication of the decline of his power. In making the announcement of Drouin's retirement, Laurier referred to him as a patriot. Among the speaker was Hon. W. S. Fielding. MR. BLAIR'S MOVEMENTS.

Thy face amidst its strife.
Thou knowest; and Thine eyes can see
However mine grow blind or dim;
However darkened mine
To future sighs, Thou bringest me
To them—the way is Thine.

Thine own ! To me Thou givest this;

Thine own? To me Thou givest this;
To know that each year past Hath brought me nearer that which is To be my lot at last.
And when, as face to face I meet
The end which Thou hast long ordained
And hid from human sight—
Through all life's days Thou ledst my feet—
Still lead them through the night!

RECOMMENDED BY PHYSICIANS. Pond's Extract

Over fifty years a household remedy for Burns, Sprains, Wounds, Bruises Coughs, Colds and all accidents lia ble to occur in every home.

CAUTION--There is only one Pond's Extract. Be sure you get the genuine, sold only in sealed bottles in buff wrappers.

The baby who is always plump, always has a good appetite, always has a clear eye and a rosy cheek and is always active and playful is the choicest treasure this life affords.

The medicine which keeps babies in such a condition or which restores them to it when they are ill is certainly a priceless boon to humanity. There are many medicines which produce sleep but their action upon the child is similar to that which whiskey or opium has upon a full grown man. They deaden and stupefy and are the most injurious thing which can be given to children.

The only safe course is to use Nature's own remedies. Nature has provided a vegetable cure for every ill and her remedies for children's disorders are found scientifically compounded in Dr. Williams' prescrip-

constipation, colic, fever, croup, irritation when teething, indigestion, sleeplessness and all the childish disorders so familiar to mothers this remedy is conceded by the medical profession to be without an equal.

In hundreds and thousands of homes this remedy is used to the exclusion of all others. Its effect is gentle and soothing, promptly curative and never failing.

It should have a place of honor in every home where there are children and it will prove its worth many times over. It will save pain, anxiety, doctors' bills and perhaps a life.

You will find Baby's Own Tablets at all druggists or they will be sent direct to any address postpaid upon receipt of the price, 25 cents, per box.

His honor in his address to the grand jury extended his congratulations to Foreman Finley on his recent marriage. Before the court there were two criminal cases, the charge of theft against Patrick Shaughnessy, and a case of more serious character, the charge of nie Walsh for rape against Peter McKenzie. The circumstances in this case, said the judge, were peculiar, owing to the conduct of the Walsh girl subsequent to the alleged assault. According to her evidence she was induced on Nov. 30 last to go to a house kept by Mrs. Breeze, where she was drugged and assaulted three times while in a helpless condition. Follow-Mon for three days.

In the course of his address the chief justice referred in sympathetic terms to the sad death of Mrs. McKeown, wife of Hon. H. A. McKeown. His honor was deeply grieved over the sad death. Passing on his honor made some pointed observations on the board of health and the chronic fault-finding class in the community. "Was the chief justice. PEKIN, Jan. 8.—While the actual casualties during the fighting at New Chwang between American sailors belonging to the United States gunboat Vicksburg, which is wintering there, and Russian sailors attached to the garrison of that port are trifling up to date, the matter has resulted in unpleasantly strained relations between the American, Russian and British authorities there. The Washington and St. Petersburg governments are now endeavoring to arrange matters so that there may be no further friction on the subject.

The trouble originated in the action of some sailors belonging to the British sloop of war Algerine (also in winter quarters at New Chwang) in carrying ashore rifles for use in a theatrical performance. The Russians however, by mistake, broke into a reading room where a party of the Vicksburg's men were seated and tried to arrest them. The Americans resisted, using chairs in so doing, but they were overpowered, after a sharp fight, and handed over to the United States

The relations between the American and British consuls and naval commanders and the Russian administrator at New Chwang are strained, which makes a friendly settlement of the affair difficult. The administrator attempted to enforce a social code business increases, or even continues as it is at present, something must be done to increase the wharf accom-modation in connection with the Can-adian Pacific terminus. The berths are inconveniently crowded this week. At least one ship has been sent to the Long Wharf to take Canadian Pacific freight, because there was not room to handle it at Sand Point. While from the city standpoint there is no objection to the shipment of Short Line freight from the Intercolonial terminus, it will be understood that this is an extra tax on the traffic, and also that the amount of teller which the Long Wharf can afford is limited. also that the amount of teller which the Long Wharf can afford is limited. The Intercolonial terminus and facilities afford very little accommodation in proportion to their enormous cost. But as the government road has practically no business for them, it will be a good thing if some benefit can be obtained through the transfer to Long Wharf of some of the Sand Point surplus traffic. But when all is done no one wants to think that the existing accommodation will meet the needs of the winter traffic. The exports for the current season about double the amount of business done at this time last year, and there is every reason to suppose that the Canadian winter export trade through Canadian ports is yet in an early stage of development. Evidently the time has come to consider what the next step in the way of providing increased accommodation should be.

the people to devote it to this purpo But the citizens have But the citizens have contributed in cash a very large sum toward providing wharves and warehouses. No other city in Canada has done the like. Halifax, Quebec and Montreal call themselves national ports, but none of these cities has invested a dollar to provide public wharves or docks. Halifax has the government, make the provide public wharves or docks. Halifax has the government, what and the establishment of harber commissions which have borrowed money interest has been paid by the dominion, and the other day Mr. Tarte exion, and the other day Mr. Tarte expressed the opinion that the same pressed the opinion that the same should be done for Montpeal, where the interest is now a charge on ship-ping. St. John alone pays its whart ping. St. John alone pays its what interest out of taxes, and makes the piers free for through export and import freight. Since St. John is a national port in the same sense that Montreal is, and since the government now contemplates the expenditure of large sums for shipping facilities for Montreal, is seems just that the government should take an interest in the nent of St. John harbor works It is our misfortune that when this proposition is put forward it is usually met with the reminder, that the government has already spent, or is spending, nearly a million dollars in wharves, elevator and other terminal works and land purchases in connec-tion with the St. John terminus, "But as the citizens now know the winter-port business is not done by the Intershorter route, and the expenditure made by Mr. Blair does not help it out. It leaves the problem still to be

The Canadian Pacific Company has shown its faith in the place by recently making considerable additional investments toward the improvement and increase of terminal facilities. How much fasther the company may be willing to go we cannot say. That is a matter which should be discussed by

The time has come to ascertain how and by whom this work is to be carried on. These matters ought to be dealt with along with the dry dock question, for if the dry dock is to be constructed in the immediate neighborhood of the Sand Point wharves some definite plan of the whole system ought to be decided upon before any part of it is undertaken. The available ground should be used to the best advantage. Every part of the programme should be carried forward with a definite regard to the other parts. Nothing should be done which will embarrase future undertakings, but on the contrary every step in the organization should as far as possible work in with the rest of the scheme. It is therefore essential at this stage that the city, the government, the railway company, of the whole system ought to be decided upon before any part of it is undertaken. It is one of the peculiarities of the British people and their press that they make more of the capture or destruction of a British company than of a Boer commando. Month by month the Boers are losing through casualties in action, captures and surrenders, three or four men for every one lost by the British. Yet the reader of the despatches would have thought that most of the serious disasters were on the British side. During the past year the Boer losses, killed, wounded and captured, have been double the British loss, without considering the fact that the Boers have to give up their prisoners while the Boer prisoners are held. It is true that the British have lost heavily by sickness, and large numbers of their soldiers have been invalided home. But the most of these latter return to the army. There is no method of comparison with the enemy in the losses by illness, as the British have ne record of the Boer victims. The capture of General Erasmus is an event of considerable importance. He was one of the commanders with the force that first in-THE BRITISH ARE DOING WELL. The St. John dry dock project has entered upon a new phase, and perhaps one element in the case as it now stands is a reconsideration of the site. It is said that one of the authorities consulted is of the opinion that the mill pond is not the most suitable location, but that a better place for the structure would be south of the Rock. This is a point which cannot be discussed here with the information available, but it leads up to the main question which stands now for settlems. The capture of General Erasmus is an event of considerable importance. He was one of the commanders with the force that first invaded Natal. It was through his fall use to make entirections that after the battle of Glencoe the British survivors of that action were able to fall back in Ladysmith. But he is reputed to be an able officer, and has exercised a large and aggressive control among his commanders. He is the second of the corps. commanders to fall into British hands within a few days. It is also worth noticing that this capture was made by Bruce Hamilton in a rather brilliant way. The expedition was a made by Bruce Hamilton in a rather brilliant way. The expedition was a long and clever pursuit, following a dim trail, and closed with an attack which was a complete surprise. Probably no one will accuse the Bosrs of stupidity and carelessness, and Hamilton will have to be content with mod-

He served on the bench thirty-three years, eleven in the Court of Common Pleas, Ontario, and twenty-two years as justice of the Supreme Court of Canada. He was a liberal in politics before his first appointment. But both appointment and promotion came from Sir John A. Macdonaid, who was scolded by his party friends at the time for omitting amount of business done at this time last year, and there is every reason to suppose that the Canadian winter export trade through Canadian ports is yet in an early stage of development. Evidently the time has come to consider what the next step in the way of providing increased accommodation should be.

Judges Strong and Taschereau were appointed by Mr. Mackenzie, the latter after the defeat of the government of the covernment of the strong appointed by Mr. Mackenzie, the latter after the defeat of the government in the general election of 1878. Sir Louis Davies was appointed by the present government, which will have the appointment of Judge Gwynne's successor. On this point there has already been much discussion, as it was supposed that the late judge would probably retire before long. Mr. Milis, the minister of justice, has been mentioned in that connection. His political claims would be strong, for he has been a stalwart since confederation. It is true that Mr. Milis has no status as a practicing lawyer. He has probably never conducted a suit in court in his life, though he has made an argument before the supreme court and the privy council in two or three constitutional cases. But Mr. Milis is terribly learned and incredibly profound and wise. He is, moreover, a fair minded man, who would give to every question that came up an immense amount of labor and study.

MAN AGAINST MINISTER.

It is a question whether the defeat of the Laurier-Tarte candidate in the or the Laurier-Tarte cannuate in the St. James division of Montreal would not have been better for the govern-ment than his withdrawal. Mr. Tarte had a short and violent quarrel with Mayor Prefontaine a short time The result was that Mr. Prefentain resolved to run for the mayoralt resolved to run for the mayoralty again in order that he might be in a position to check Mr. Tarte's designs. Mr. Tarte through his Montreal paper furiously resisted this proposition, but the little minister was forced to call off his dogs, and Mr. Prefentaine will be the next mayor if he wishes it in spite of Mr. Tarte.

Then Mr. Tarte took hold of the nomination convention in Laval.

nomination convention in Laval. He but the candidate who says that he was defeated by vote of government employes is in the field. Unless Mr. Tarte's candidate is withdrawn there is a fair chance for the election of a conservative.

In the Montreal case, Senator Dandurand and Mr. Tarte arranged a convention on an absolutely original basis. The result was the selection of Mr. Drouin, who was at once endorsed by Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Tarte. For sevalutions and the selection of the contract of the selection of t terest of Mr. Brunet, whom the three ministers left Ottawa to oppose.

Whatever may be the result of the election if seems to us that this episode is a wholesome sign. It shows that the people of Quebec province have begun to assert themselves. They are no longer to be led in a procession by adventurers like Mr. Tarte and opportunists like the premier. They require something else than the race cry and the memory of Mercier to make them humble followers of men who can lead them nowhere. These declarations of independence are significant when they compel lightning changes in a man so determined as Mr. Tarte.

HOW MR. TARTE DOES IT Mr. Tarte has taken charge of the campaign in Montreal and his Patrie opens fire on Mr. Bergeron, the conservative candidate, in the approved fashion: "It shall not be said that the "beautiful division of St. James will "send to parliament the former ally "of the late Clarke Wallace." So the tirade begins and goes on to say that "the role of valet to the bigots whom "he joined at Ottawa was always "hateful to the patriots of St. James." Mr. Tarte adds that "Mr. Bergeron has always that the levelists who was one of the ultra loyalists who "went to St. John, N. B., at the end of 1899 to tell the English population that 5,000 French Canadians were ready to go to Africa, and to say that he blamed Mr. Laurier for hese itating to send the contingent." La Patrie charges that Mr. Bergeron now tries to embarrass the government because of the recruiting of volunteers, and winds up with an appeal to "the fatriots of St. James" not to allow patriots of St. James" not to allow "this insulter of Mr. Laurier, this "ally of the News and Spectator" profit by a split in the party.

The St. John Gazette poses in the role of reading the St. John Globe out of the liberal party. It will be a sorry day for St. John liberalism when it is forced to exchange the Globe for the Gazette as a liberal newspaper and Senator Ellis far the Gazette editor.

The standing of the three papers in the liberal party may perhaps be best determined by the sums received by them from the dominion treasury. The table of pressdence will become and did not possess great qualifications, while Mr. Drouin spoke freely French and English and was in the full strength of his youth, ambition and energy," so Mr. Tarts appealed. Following him, a member of the Quebec government, Mr. Gouin, told how Mr. Brunet had once tried to defeat him, and had falled. The other speak, ers insisted on the election of Mr. Drouin as the Laurier candidate.

Last night's meeting, at which Sir Wildrid, Mr. Tarte, Mr. Fielding, with two senators, one provincial minister and six M. P.'s, were announced to speak, was advertised as "a meeting, with turned out to be a meeting in the interest of Mr. Drouin." It turned out to be a meeting in the interest of Mr. Brunet, whom, the three ministers left Ottawa to oppose.

Now that the epidemic is apparently almost over, people are peginning to wonder what the expenses in connection with its suppression have amounted to ounted to. The municipal council shortly after the outbreak voted for the use of the board of health the sum of $22,000, and according to figures obtained by the Sun yesterday, their estimate has proved to be very near the actual demand. It is of course impossible at present to give more than a rough estimate, for many bills have not yet been handed in and several more will be accumulated before the city is actually free.

But according to a close estimate, the cost of the epidemic, in money, to the people of St. John, from the case of Miss Deboo, Oct. 23, to date, has been about $19,000, exclusive of what might about $19,000, exclusive of what might have been expended in connection with the care of patients in the epidemic hospital. These last figures it was impossible to obtain last night.

The money expended through the board of health for the suppression of smallpox has, to date, been roughly as follows: For the purchase and equipment of the Moriand property; $8,000; for its maintenance as an isolation hospital during the past month, $440; for physicians' fees in connection with the compulsory vaccination, $3,000; vaccine, $720; groceries for the quarantined houses, $1,500; guards, $4,000; medical attendance not included in hospital expenses, $350; drugs, $350; burlals and removal of patients, $350; making a total of $18,760. To this will making a total of $18,760. To this will have to be added the bills yet to come in and the extra expense connected with the epidemic hospital.

BIBLE SOCIETY.

There was a fair gathering in St. David's church Thursday on the occa-sion of the 82nd anniversary of the Auxiliary Bible Society of New Brunswick. The music by the choir of the church was grand and the addresses delivered by the gentlemen who moved and seconded the resolutions were interesting and instructive.

Leorge E. Fairweather, the president, occupied the chair, and there was a large number of clergymen present. They occupied seats near the plat-form.

The meeting opened with the hymn Father of Mercies, in Thy Word, after which Rev. J. D. Freeman read a portion of the Scriptures. This was followed by prayer by Rev. Dr. Foth-His honor Judge Forbes, the secre tary, then submitted a verbal report, showing that the work of the Parent showing that the work of the Parent Society during the past year had been most successful. There was every reason why those present should congratulate themselves, the church and the world, upon the progress made in the distribution of the worl of God. The society had attained to a higher degree than ever before. Five nundred thousand more copies of the Bible, Testament and port one of the Scriptures had been distributed than in the previous year. The liberality of the church had been great. His honor here referred to the good work being done in the West Indies through the agency of the society. This auxiliary was greatly indebted to the agents and the ladies will collected for it. The report of the treasurer, Joshua

The report of the treasurer, Joshua Clawson, was read by the chairman. It showed the contributions of the N. B. auxiliary to have been $517. The treasurer expressed the hope that this year the collections would be larger.

The other speakers were Revs. R. P. McKim, Fotheringham, Freeman, John E. Irvine, Alex L. Law, Dr. W. S.

After a hymn and the benediction pronounced by Rev. Mr. McKim, the neeting closed.

WON A GOLD WATCH.

At a meeting held a short time and of those who had charge of the rail-way men's excursion to Sussex in September last it was a suspension to susp tember last, it was reported that there was a surplus on hand amounting to about $40. Rather than hold the money over until next year it was decided to expend it on a ladies' gold watch, which should be drawn for by those of the railway men who were lucky enough to possess wives. So the best gold timepiece procurable for the money was obtained, and Wednesday night the drawing took place, with the result that the watch is now the property of Mrs. H. H. Burns, wife of Checker Burns of the I. C. R. freight department. The lucky lady is re ceiving the envious congratulations of the other eligibles.

FAST HORSES FOR ST. JOHN.
St. John is accumulating a lot of peedy horsefiesh, among the latest crivals being the fleet-footed Walter C, formerly owned by E. LeRoi Willis and which was the terror of all maritime provincial trotters and pacers last year. He was defeated but once in all his entries, and that was in Springhill. Mr. Willis traded Walter K. to E. L. Jewett of this city for Alia T., the Jewett of this city for Alia T., the pretty trotting mare, with a mark of 2.281-4. Walter K.'s best figure is 2.141-4. He had his first spin over the snow in St. John Thursday. From the looks of things it's going to be pretty warm on the Marsh Road as soon as the footing becomes good. Another horse which has been secured by St. John parties, and of which little has been said, is Ituna, a mare with a 2.10 mark. Her price was year feats but mark. KNITTING STOCKINGS AT 103. The Sun on Thursday saw a pair of woollen stockings knit by Mrs. Elizabeth Wier, of Queens County, Novs. Scotia, for Dr. R. B. Ray, late paster of Coburg Street Christian church of this city. The interesting part of the story is that Mrs. Wier is 103 years old. The stockings are as well knit as any ever shown in this town. Dr. Ray is naturally proud to have such a me-mento of the industry of a centanar-ian. Mrs. Wier knits many pairs of stockings, and they are eagerly sought after by people in the district where she lives.

The Agony of Sleeplessness

Did you ever pass a single night in wakeful misery, tossing and rolling in bed, trying in vain to sleep and longing for morning to come? Can you imagine the torture of spending night after night in this way, each succeeding night growing worse and worse? This is the most dreadful symptom of Nervous Exhausion and Debility. You can be gradually and thoroughly cured of Sleeplessness by the upbuilding influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures, in nature's way, by creating new nerve cells and restoring lost vitality. nerve cells and restoring lost vitality.

PARREBORO NEWS.

PARREBORO, N. S., Jan. 7.—The fire company elected their officers last week, with the exception of the chief, who is appointed by the town. The officers for the current year are as follows: Chief, Charles E. Day; assistant chief, T. J. Sullivan; secretary, A. Russell Boss; captain of Reel No. 1, A. W. Jackson, saptain of No. 2 Reel, Thomas Gallagher; captain of ladder witton, James Furrell; assistant captain of do., Henry Fader.

The town's fire record for the past, year has been remarkably good. One small house was burned, but it was outside the fire district, and about one-third of a mile from the nearest hydrant. Of the eight other alarms two were false, and the aggregate damage caused by all the fires, with the exception of the one first mentioned, did not amount to fifty dellars.

If the system of testing the pipes in sections as they were laid, and before being carried in, had been followed, we would in all probability have been enjoying the use of the town water at the present time. A test was made last week with hose and branch pipe attached to a hydrant at the town hall. A strong stream was thrown to the top of the tower and to within a few feet of the top of the flag pole, but just at that moment our Jonah appeared on the scene and the stream liminished in strength and finally sub sided altogether. It is to be feared that if the water is to cost the consumer proportionately to the present cost of electric light, the majority of our householders will be very much averse to having it installed. plaints are heard on every hand regarding the high rate of consumption recorded by the metres, which have been lately installed in nearly all places where the light is used; there is at least one exception reported where no metre has been introducd, but why this is allowed in a private residence is more than the average ratepayer can understand. It is not even suggested than an old stock of electricity is being used by ald of storage bat-There is no doubt but that many of the lamps used in Chatham develop more heat than they should and so consume more electricity than they are expected to do, hence the

Of the chronic aliments which dis-ress humanity, none is perhaps less inderstood than those distressing head passage of air and destroys vibration. of the chronic allments which distress humanity, none is perhaps less understood than those distressing head and ear sounds, none receive less sympathy. Very often such people are misunderstood by their friends, who tell them that there is nothing wrong with them, that they only imagine that they are unwell and that if they would be seen they would be all would brace up they would be all

This is very wrong. It only makes the poer sufferer worse. Instead of this they should receive the utmost consideration and all gentleness, kindness and sympathy. Because such troubles as these are located very close to the brain, they affect the nervous system and quite frequently result in the case ending up in the insane asy-lum. The wonder is that many more do not go distracted. Some have met with so much disappointment in their efforts to find relief, that they are in despair of ever being cured. On such as these I have frequently performed

So many of my old patients used to write me after I had cured their Catarrh that their head and ear sounds had left them, that the ringing, buzzcrackling, hissing and other noises had all gone, I came to the conclusion that these sounds were produced by Catarrh going up from the nose into the tubes of the ear. The success of my treatment has proved this to be conclusive, because when one's Catarrh is cured, these sounds are gone, never to return again.

I have proved conclusively that in a vast majority of cases these NOISES are caused by Catarrh. You may not have the slightest idea that you are a victim to this disease. The usual symptoms of discharge from the But the germs have entered the inner

WISE CANADIAN HORSES.

The Beginning of a Possibly New Breed -An Equine Blondin.

KNOWLTON, Que., Dec. 24.—To most people it would seem to be impossible that the horse, by nature a denizen of a warm or at least a temperate country, could thrive in a wild state amid the rigors of a Canadian (WY). state amid the rigors of a Canadian climate. That this is possible is shown by a recent incident.

A brace of moose hunters, who were pping out in the woods a few nights ago, in the extreme north of Pontiac county, thought they saw a white moose feeding in the scrub near by. Some scientific and painful stalking was done, and just as the rifles were being levelled at the game it saved its life, and startled the hunters by giving utterance to a decidedly equine

It was then joined by a second darkcolored horse from the shadow of the woods, and this one also proceeded to browse upon the twigs and branches. As soon as the men showed them-selves, the pair dashed into the woods and disappeared. The next day they narrated their exe to a band of sharty men and found that three or four of them had also seen the pair of horses running wild in the woods. At times the pair were accompanied by a big red mare and a young foel.

The mare was recognized as one ed in the woods two years ago. The two horses are supposed to be the team of a lumberman who was drown-

These animals have managed to subsist upon the beaver meadows in summer, and by browsing on twigs in winter for several years. Who knows but that there is a nucleus here for the raising of a drove of hardy though perhaps stunted wild horses, such as are found on the Welsh mountains or in the cold and barren Shetland and Orkney Island in the north of Scot-

The wonderful sagacity of horses often avails to prevent accidents in those northern wilds in the early winter. For instance, the writer once started to drive down Bark Lake on new ice at nightfall. After ten hours' travel, the horse, a very speedy Norman thoroughbred, came to a dead stop, and refused to go forward. The beast had by her past actions inspired such confidence in her intelligence that her driver, not daring to attempt a turn in the pitchy darkness for fear of losing his bearings, covered her with the sleigh robes and stamped about on the ice near her all through the longest night in his experience. When morning came it revealed an almost frozen man and horse upon the ice, and open water just 30 feet in front of them. At the man's feet was a man's toque, and a man's body was frozen into the ice four or five yards

Experiments showed that six feet sefore the sleigh the ice was after the night's frost only three inches thick. Had another step been taken, there would probably have been one more added to the unwritten fatalities of the pine region. The mail carrier on the Gatineau road in the ante-railway days once had a notable experience with a horse

"Why; man," cried the crowd, "the bridge went out just at sundown. There is no crossing there."

The driver laughed incredulously and said he had ridden up the read in the usual manner. To settle the matter the men took their lanterns and walked down to the side of the bridge. Sure enough the bridge had been washed away, leaving only some of the crib work and the middle logs or stringers upon which the centre of the bridge covering used to lie. These were across the 150-foot gully and were swaying with the current on their nuncertain foundation.

And on these logs laid singly end to end were the marks of the mail man's horse's shoes. Over 30 feet of raging vater in a night of Egyptian darkness the horse had unfatteringly traversed that narrow pathway.

So unhesitating had his movements been that the man on his back was all unconscious of his danger, and unaware of the fact that the bridge had een carried away and that his beast was doing the Blondin act upon swinging stage.

There was not a man in the crowd of observers who would venture to make the same passage next day in broad daylight. The mail carrier threw up his job the next trip.

Boy of Fifteen Killed in Small & Fisher Machine Shop-

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 8.-A most dis meon, by which a young life was sud-demly lost. It happened in the machine shop of the Small & Fisher Co. Harry Chapman, an employe, aged about 15, was attempting to put a belt on a pulley which was close to the rafters od on a planking. In some way or other he became caught in the belt ing, and was whirled around again and ing, and was whirled around again and again, striking the floor above with terrific force. Men rushed to stop the engine and to the relief of the unfortunate boy. When taken out he was unconscious, but soon recovered and talked quite freely. Doctors were summoned, but could do nothing but make the poor lad as comfortable as possible. He died within half an hour. His skull and limbs were broken and he was injured internally. The boy was a capital worker. He was only allowed in the shop by reason of his great anxiety to secure work, as his mother was a poor woman. The accident cast a gloom over the establ ment, and work in the shop for the day was suspended.

PEKIN GLOWED

In a Barbaric Exhibition of Oriental acular Phase of the Court's Return to the Capital Exceeded All Expectations.

PEKEN, Jan. 7.—The re-entrance of the Chinese emperor into Pekin today was the most remarkable episode in the annals of the dynasty, save the flight of the Chinese court when Pekin was bombarded by the allied

The spectacular phases of the return The cortege was a sort of glorified lord nayor's show, and was a bewildering and barbaric exhibition of Oriental tinselled splendor. Its chief signifi-cance was the complete effacement of the traditional defication of Chinese gaze upon their rulers. This incident constituted a most sharp contrast with the old regime, when neither diplomats nor natives were permitted to view the passage of royal personages along the streets.

The expression of the Dowager Empress seemed almost appealing as she faced those who had humbled her from her former arrogance, and confirmed the impression that she is re-turning to Pekin with anxiety for her safety. The streets from the station to the gateway of the Forbidden City, a distance of four miles, were swept and garnished this morning. The great plaza between the temples of Heave and Argrixulture were sprinkled with yellow sand. Residents were compelled to remain indoors. The soldiers and police formed a close cordon along both sides of this entire distance. A sharp wind, bringing sand from the Mongol-ian desert, blinded the spectators.

The special train bearing the Em-peror and Empress Dowager, composed

The special train bearing the Emperor and Empress Dowager, composed of 22 cars, was preceded by the pilot engine, and arrived here shortly after noon. The engine and the Emperor's cars had been decorated with yellow silk dragons by the British railway officials. Two companies of Chinese cavalry mounted on white horses and two companies astride horses from Australla, were drawn up at the sides of the station. Two thousand officials, of the station. Two thousand officials, princes, viceroys and Tao-Tais, in a kaliedoscopic field of silks and furs, in which gleamed an occasional yellow jacket, were massed upon the plat-form. When the Emperor appeared the entire assemblage prostrated itself and remained kneeling until His Ma-jesty had taken his place in his chair. At the station the Dowager Empress summoned Traffic Manager Foley and Supt. Moffat of the rallway, the latter having driven the engine which the special train, and presented them to the Emperor, who thanked them for their services.

The imperial cavalcade then moved off at a swift trot, the Chinese cav-alry in the lead. Then followed the great body of officials, riding shaggy Mongolian ponies, the Manchu banner men, the umbrella bearer, the spear nen. Gen. Yuan Shi Kai in his newly bestowed yellow jacket, and the Emperor, with eight bearers carrying his chair and a guard of infantry men marching on either side. Then came he Empress Dowager with an equal-y conspicuous entourage; the latter was followed by the Boxer chief and orime minister Jung Lu, in a yellow chair. The Dowager Empress, Prince Chun, and the lesser officials were carried in yellow and green chairs.

While their majesties passed, the soldiers lining the route of the procession knelt down, holding their guns at resent arms, and the buglers sounded their instruments continuously. Al-though the streets were kept empty, thousands of Chinese crowded the elevations along the line of march, a thing never permitted before. The soldiers of the American garrison sta-rom the parade ground opposite the intrance to the palace. The British garrison, including its

The British garrison, including its officers, were kept in their quarters. This occasioned much lamenting. The majority of the foreign ministers bere, including the British, American, French and Russian representatives absented themselves from the spectacle, but the ladies of the legations were entertaind by Chinese officials on balconies along the line of march. It appears that the Empress Dowager ordered that every courtesy be extended to the foreigners at Pekin and that the effort to exclude them from witnessing the passage of the imperial cortege emanated from local officials.

the Pope within the limits of his ex-territorial domain. It is held by the Catholic party that for the Pope to go out of the vatican for an hour, or even so short a lourney as the width of the plazza of St. Peter's would be to compromise his claim, to acknowledge the supremacy of the usurping King, and to expose himself to the insults of an unbelieving and rebellious populace. Be that as it may, the conviction is deeply rooted in the Catholic mind that since the date of Italian unity the Pope has never so much as set foot in the streets of Rome, and that having entered the vatican as a corpse. This is not the fact. Once at all events Leo XII. passed through the city of King Humbert, and the occasion of his doing so was so proper, so human, and so touching, that the highest considerations of diplomacy and dignity must sink out of sight in regard to it.

"The Pope had a brother who late in life became a religious, and voluntarily took up the humblest position in the kitchen of his Jesuit order. In due course he rose to be a cardinal, and in his latter days he concupied apartments in the Barberini Palace, and led of the Ther. Rev. Dr. Talmage in His First Discourse on the New Year Speaks Words of Encouragement to All Timid and Doubting.

Talmage's first discourse for the new year, he speaks words of encouragement to all the timid and doubting. The text is Exodus xi., 2, "This month shall be unto you the beginning of months; it shall be the first month of the year to you."

The last month of the old year has rassed out of sight, and the first month of the new year has arrived. The midnight gate last Wednesday opened, and January entered. She deserves a better name, for she is called after Janus, the heathen delty who, they supposed, presided over doors and so might be expected to preside at the opening of the year. This month was blowing the fingers, as though suffer-ing fram the cold, and having a bun-dle of wood under the arm, suggestive of the warmth that must be windled.

Yes, January is the open door of the year, and through that door will come what long processions, some of them bearing palm leaves and some myrtle, athers with garlands of wheat, and others with garlands of wheat, and are coming, and nothing can keep them It will, I think, be one of the greatest years of all time. It will abound with blessing and disaster. National and international controversies of momentous import will be settled. Year of coronation and dethronement, year that will settle Cuban and Porto Rican and Philippine and South African and for many a decade past has dug its millions of graves and reared its millions of marriage altars.

We can expect greater events in this year than ever before, for the world's population has so vastly increased there are so many more than in any other year to laugh and weep and triof mechanism have such wider sweep. The fires are kindled in furnaces not seven times but seventy times heated. The velocities whirling through the air and sailing the seas and tunneling the mountains will see the seas and tunneling the mountains will make unprecedented demonstration. Would to God that before the now opening year has closed the earth might cease to tremble with the last cannonade and the heavens cease to be lighted up with any more conflagration of homesteads and the foundries that make swords be turned into blacksmith shops for making ght be the year in which the three great instruments now chiefly used for cecular purposes might be put to their mightlest use in the world's evangelization—the telegraph, the tele-phone, the phonograph! Electricity has such potent tongue, such strong arm, such swift wing, such lightning foot, that it occurs to me that it may the angel that St. John saw and heard in apocalytic vision when he started back and cried out, "I saw another angel flying in the midst of theaven having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth and to every nation and kindred and tongue and people!" They were tongues of fire that sat on the heads of the disciples at the Pentecost, and why not the world called to God by tongue of electric fire? Prepare your batteries and make ready to put upon the wires the world-wide message of oever will."

Furthermore, this month of January has the greatest height and depth of cold. The rivers are bound in crystal chains. The fountains that made highest leap in the summer parks now toss not one jet, for every drop would be a frezen tear. The sleds craunch through the hard snow. Warmest attire the wardrobe can afford is put on that we may defend ourselves against the fury of the elements. Hardest of all months for the poor, let it be the seas greatest generosity on the part of the prosperous. How much a scuttle of coal or a pair of shoes or a coat or a shawl may do in assuagement of suf-fering between the first of January and the first of February God only knows. Seated by our warm registers knows. Seated by our warm registers or wrapped in furs which make us independent of the cutting January valast, let us not forget the fireless hearth and the thin garments and the hacking cough and the rheumatic twinge of those who through destitution find life in winter an agony. Suppose each one of us take under charge one poverty stricken household or one disabled man or one invalided woman. On our way home from such a charity, though the wind may be howling and the night tempestuous, I should charity, though the wind may be howling and the night tempestuous, I should not wonder if we could hear a voice that was heard on Galiles and at the gates of Nain and by the pool of Bethesda, saying, "Inasmuch as ye did it to them, ye did it to me."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—In this, Dr. Talmage's first discourse for the new year, he speaks words of encouragement to all the timid and doubting.

The text is Exodus xii., 2, "This month that the wolves entered Vienna. In 1468 it was so cold that wine was cut with hatchets and distributed among the soldiers. In 1234 a whole forest was killed by cold at Ravena. In 763 the Black sea was formed and the soldiers. frozen over. As we go further back the frosts are mightier, but as we com the frosts are mightier, but as we come further down the frosts lessen. The worst severities have been halted, and the snows have lost their depths, and the thermometers announce less terrific falls of temperature, and the time will come when the year will be one long summer of foliage and bloom. While the world's moral condition will be reformed, the worst climates will be corrected. You could not have a millennium with a January blast possible. so might be expective to some solutions of the year. This month was of old called the wolf month because, through the severity of its weather, the hungry wolves came down seeking food and devouring human life. In the missals of the middle ages January was represented as attired in white, suggestive of the snow, and wardrobe appearing, the trees standing with arms stretched toward heaven, one of the greatest evidences of the wisdom and cower of the Creator. The leaves appear only once and then die. leaves appear only once and then die but these great arms are stretched per toward heaves. now robed in snow or bowing to the God of the tempests as he passes in the midnight hurricane. In July the trees stand glorifying the earth; in January they stand defying the wint-Under the same tree the child plays with his top and, growing up to man-hood, sits under it in a sentimental or philosophic mood and, having passed on to old age, rests himself under its shade. In these January days the trees seem to say: "The leaves that rustled their music in the last summer are dead and gone, but the leaves that will adorn this uncovered brow and these bare arms shall have as much beauty and glory as their predecessors. Only wait. There are beautiful and tovely things to come by Only wait. There are beautiful and lovely things to come in my tree life, o human spectator." Oh, the tree! Only the Almighty, and the Infinite could have made one. Gothis architecture was suggested by it. But for the arch of its bough and the pointing of its branches the St. Chapelle of Paris and other specimens of Gothic arch would never have been lifted. No wonder the world has taken from it many styles of suggestiveness—the laurei for the victory, the willow for the sorrowing, the aspen for the trembling, the ing, the aspen for the trembling, the coppress for the burial! But, unlike ourselves, they cannot change their place and so stand watching all that passes. Some of them are solemn munuments of the centuries. Thand God for trees, their beauty, their shelt-apart. Sunlight instead of artificial more light for the church, more light for the nation, more light for the world—light of intelligence, light of comfort, light of rescue, light of evangelization, light from the face of God, light from the throng Rut, you say the light in-The day enlarges very little, and the reign of sunlight is not much increased, but do not despise the minute of increasing light each day of this January, and do not despise the fact that more light is coming for the church and the world, though it comes slowly. As we are now in this season gradually going towards the longest day of next sufficient so our world is moving to the sufficient so our world is moving to the season gradually going towards the longest day of next sufficient so our world is moving to the season gradually going towards the longest day of next sufficient so our world is moving the season gradually going to season gradually going to the season gradually going towards the longest day of next sufficient so our world is moving the season gradually going to the season gradually going to the season gradually going to the season gradually going the se summer, so our world is moving for-ward toward the long day of emancipation and Christly dominion. - It may now in the state and the church and the world be January cold, but we are on the way to July harvests and September orchards. Do not read your almanac backward. Do not go out and ask the trees hung with icicles by January storm whether with icicles by January storm whether they will ever again blossom in May and leaf in June. We are moving toward the world's redemption. The frozen tears will melt, the river of gladness will resume its flow, the crocus will come up at the edge of the snowbank, the morning star will open the door for the day, and the armies of the world will "ground arms" all around the world. The January of frost will be abolished, and the balm and radiance of a divine atmosphere and radiance of a divine atmosphere will fill the nations. If you do not see

VICTORIES OF THE FROST.

Oh, the might of the cold! The arctic and antartic invading the temperate zone! The victories of the frost—as when the Thames in 1205 became firm as any bridge and the inhabitants crossed and recrossed on the ice and booths and places of temporary amusement were built on the hardened surface: as when many years ago New York harbor was paved with ice so that the people passed on foot to the adjoining islands. But the full story of the cold will never be known. The lips which would have told it were written it were benumbed. Only here and there a fact appears. In 1891 the they also heard the conflict entered to the king and took solems as to this mysterious occurrence. Whether the shepherds and training ambassadors of the king was a solement to the king was a solement.

Whether the shepherds and travellers and ambassadors of the king were in delusion I cannot say, but this I knew—that the forces of God and the forces of Satan are now in combat, the heavens as well as the earth in struggle as to who shall win this world for bless-edness or wee, and, as the armies of God are mightler than the armies diabolic, we know who will triumph, and we have a right to shout the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. The King of Kings, the Lord of Hoets, the God of Joshua and Havelock, leads in the conflict. I have no fear about the God of Joshua and Havelock, leads in the conflict. I have no fear about the tremendous issue. My only fear is that we will not be found in the ranks and fully armed to do our part in this campaign of the eternities.

Again, I remark that the month of January has seen many of the most anuary has seen many of the most tupendous events in the world's his-ory and a rocking of cradles and the digging of graves that have affected nations. In this month American independence was declared, followed by Lexington and Bunker Hill and Monmouth and Valley Forge and Yorktown. mouth and Valley Forge and Yorktown. January saw the proclamation that abolished American slavery. Though at the time there were two mighty opinions and they were exactly opposed—those who liked the document and those who disliked it—there is but one opinion now, and if it were put to vote in all the states of the south, "Shall slavery be reinstated?" there would be an overwhelming vote of "No!" The signed and the inkstand that contained the ink are relics as sacred and valu-able as the original declaration of in-dependence, with all its erasures and interlineations. The institution which for 70 or 80 years kept the nation in you are in the Narrows of this month angry controversy has disappeared and nothing is left to fight about. The will sail and unroll your chart and set north and the south today are in as complete accord as ever were flute and cornet in the same orchestra. The north has built its factories on the banks of the Chattahoochee and the banks of the Chattahoochee and the banks of the country has said the south base and the wind. banks of the Chattahoochee and the Roanoke, and the south has sent many of its ablest attorneys into our northern courthouses, its most skilful physicians into our sick-rooms, its wisest bankers into our exchanges, its most consecrated ministers into our pulpits—all this the result of the proclema. —all this the result of the proclama-tion of Jan. 1, 1863.

BIRTHDAYS OF GREAT MEN. Furthermore, I notice that January has been honored with the nativity of some of the greatest among the na-tions. Edmund Burke was born this month, the marvel and glory of the legal world; Fenelon of the religious world, Benjamin Franklin of the phil-osophic world, William H. Prescott of the historic world, Sir John Moore the military world, Robert Burns of the poetic world, Polycarp of the mar-tyr world, Peter the Great of the king-ly world, Chrysostom of the sacred rhetoric world, Daniel Webster of the

Before many of you there will be 12 months of opportunity for making the world better or worse, happler or more miserable. Let us pray the increasing daylight. Last month pler or more miserable. Let us pray the increasing daylight. Last month the sun went down at 4.30, but in this month the days are getting longer. The first dear the speedy redemption of the month the days are getting longer. The sunrise and the sunset are further with a Bible that, held mighty sway.

THE INCREASING DAYLIGHT.

King James disliked the by February, with larger days, and March, with its fierce winds; and Applications from Hebrew and Greek by incompetent men, and the church are the world cried out for a Bible translated by a group of the good and the learned. King James disliked the learned. King James disliked the by February, with larger days, and March, with its fierce winds; and Applications from Hebrew and Greek by incompetent men, and the church are the world cried out for a Bible translated by a group of the good and the learned. King James disliked the learned of the learned light, and there is for our dear old bat- years, the revision of the Bible 30 tered earth growing light, "The dayspring from on high hath visited us."
We shall have more light for the home, more light for the church, more light imore than two and a half centuries more light for the church, more light for the world. In two and a half centuries ago, sustained the martyrs in the fire, light of intelligence, light of comfort, light of rescue, light of evangelization, light from the face of God, light from about at the embarkation of the face of God, light from the face of world's civilization as no other influ-ence ever could and which now lies on the table of more homes than any book that was ever printed since Jo-hann Gutenberg borrowed money of Martin Brether and John Faust to complete the art of printing. What, a January in the world's history—the January that gave the ages a book like

TIME OF SADNESS.

But January, like all the other months of the year, has had its sad nesses and disasters. During this month died Linnaeus, the botanist of Sweden and the world, who called the roll of the flowers and shrubs and trees, putting them into companies and calling them by their names, his beautiful statue standing in a park of Stockholm, a rose in bronze held in his right hand. During this month expired Francis Bacon, and Garrick, and Gaillel, and Louis VI., and William Pitt, and Francis Jeffrey of the immortal pen and Disraeli the first, and Edward Everett, and Bruce, and Catiline. In this month died Peter the Great, the man of whom it was written: "He gave a polish to his people and was himself a savage. He taught them the art of warfare, of which he Sweden and the world, who called the them the art of warfare, of which himself was ignorant. From the sig it and hear it for yourself, I think at the utmost your grandchildren will see and hear it. The heavens will take part in the conflict between righteousmess and sin, and that will settle it, and settle it aright, and settle it for the sever.

himself was ignorant. From the sight of a small boat on the river Moskwa he erected a powerful fleet, making himself an expert and active ship wright, salor, pilot ond commander. He changed the manners, customs and laws of the Russians and lives in their ever. memory as the father of his country.

rding to my text, "This n the year to you." Through it make preparation for the other elever preparation for the other eleven months. What you are in January, you will probably be in all the other months of the year. Prepare for them neither by apprehension nor too sanguine anticipation. Apprehension of misfortune will only deplete your body and gloom your soul and unfit you for any trouble that may come. On the other hand, if you expect too much, other hand, if you expect too much, disappointment will be yours. Cultihe will do for you that which is best, and you will be ready for either sun

THE MONSTER ABOMINATION.

Rev. Solomon Spaulding was for ome time in poor health, and to while away the time he wrote a preposterous religious romance. One Joseph Smith somehow got hold of that book pefore it was printed and published it the "Book of Mormon," and from that publication came Mormonism, the monster abomination of the earth, Rev Solomon Spaulding might have been better engaged than writing that book of falsehoods. However much time we have, we never have time to do wrong Harness January for usefulness, an it will take the following months in its train. Oh, how much you may do for God between now and the 31st of Alexander Pope into England from a twig which the poet found in a Turkasket of figs. He planted that twig and from it came all the weep ing willows of England and America and your smallest planting of good may under God become an influence

March on and join the months and years and centuries already passed until all the rivers of time have emptied into the ocean of eternity, but none of all the jost ought to render higher thanks to God or take larger comfort or make more magnificent resolve that this the first month of the new year.

But what fleet foot hath the months and years! People lightly talk about how they kill time. Alas, it dies soon enough without killing. And the longer we live the swifter it goes. William C. Bryant said an old friend of his declared that the going of time is like the drumming of the partridge or muffled grouse in the woods, falling slow and distinct at first and then following each other more and more rapidly till they end at last in a whir ring sound. But Dr. Young, speaking of the value of time, startlingly exclaimed, "Ask deathbeds!"
