LONDON, April 11.—While six army engineers were boating at Gravesend their boat capsized and three of the occupants were drowned. The others swam ashore.

The Queen's Plans.

LONDON, April 11.—The Queen will personally hold "drawing rooms" on May 16 and 18, and will remain at Buckingham Palace for five days. The decision will give an impetus to the season's festivities.

Central American Union.

PANAMA, April 11.—The Salvadorean Congress as adapted a resolution that the Governments of Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica be invited to each send five delegates to represent them in a diet to meet in San Salvador the 1st of September to determine the basis of the proposed Central American union, select the federal capital and take such other actions as they may deem advisable to bring about the end sought.

Vessels Lost at Sea.

LONDON, April 11.—The French steamer Amelie has foundered at sea. Part of the crew was saved and have landed at Pauillac.

The British ship Viscount, Capt. Courtney, which sailed from San Francisco on Jan. 16 for Liverpool, was wrecked and lost at Stanley, Falkland Islands, on March 31. Three of the crew, Sinclair, Lincoln and Pied, were drowned. The remainder landed at Stanley.

Epidemic of Incendiarism in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 11.—Since the fire in the Ringstrasse Thursday night the firemen have been kept busy responding to alarms in various parts of the city, many fires being discovered in their incipiency and extinguished before any material damage was done. All these fires are evidently of incendiary origin, and no doubt is entertained but that they were the work of Anarchists or extreme Socialists. The general feeling of uncertainty continues to grow, and a great number of residents of the city have provided private watchmen to guard against attempts to fire it.

Miserable End of a Once Famous Frenchman.

PARIS, April 11.—Gen. d'Andlau, once a well-known figure of Paris, died in poverty in Cayenne, in French Guiana, a few days ago. The general was involved in the scandal which brought about the disgrace and fall of M. Wilson, son-in-law of President Grevy. He was condemned to five years' imprisonment, to the loss of his title as Senator, and to his rights as a citizen. He had wandered about the world from place to place since then until death overtook him.

Financiers Who Will Have to Work.

LONDON, April 11.—The Bond robbery case, which has been before the courts for a year, and which has excited much interest in the stock brokerage and other circles, was brought to an end to-day by the conviction of the defendants, Walter Selwyn, a stock broker, and Frederick Peach, on the charge of conspiring to defraud John Willis Sears out of £890. Selwyn was sentenced to five years' penal servitude and Peach to fourteen months' imprisonment at hard labor. The case arose out of the robbery of a number of Turkish bonds which were deposited with Sears as security for a lot.

Gen. Booth's Matrimonial Bureau.

LONDON, April 11.—In an interview with Mr. Cadman, director of Gen. Booth's social redemption scheme (of which, in fact, it is said Cadman was the real originator) it was explained that the matrimonial bureau which the Salvation Army people propose to establish will be mainly a commercial venture. That is, it will not be carried on free of charge, though there is a philanthropic idea underlying the scheme. It is intended to facilitate suitable marriages among people who have few opportunities for varied acquaintance or social intercourse. Close inquiries will be made in all cases, and negotiations will be carried on only in behalf of persons found worthy in all respects. The clients of the bureau will be of all classes, rich and poor will be treated alike, and no inquiry will be made as to the creed of applicants. The bureau will be set in operation as readily for an atheist as for a follower of the Salvation Army banner. Mr. Cadman believes that the result will be to materially lessen the number of unsuitable unions.

Prefers Britain's Friendship.

BOMBAY, April 11.—The Gazette publishes a translation of a State paper that the Ameer of Afghanistan has issued to the "noble chiefs of Afghanistan." The paper recites the events that led to the Penjdehin incident and the Ameer's reasons for preferring British to Russian friendship. The Ameer says Russia only wants Afghanistan as a high road to India, and would place the Afghans in the van of her army as a special target for English cannons and rifles. The Russians would strip the Afghans of their arms and of food, and would outrage and murder their women because they must destroy the Afghans to obtain India. Therefore the Ameer declares that friendship between Russians and Afghans is next to impossible. Sheer Ali, who when Ameer of Afghanistan in 1878 became involved in a war with the British, was according to the present Ameer a fool and madcap to bring such woe upon his people and ruin upon himself.

Ten Villages Burned.

VIENNA, April 11.—Ten villages in Hungary have been burned. Large stores of corn and many head of cattle have been burned. Five persons were killed and thousands were homeless. A late dispatch from Louvisdon says that that place has been almost totally destroyed by fire. A carpenter was killed while trying to rescue others. Several persons were injured. A forest fire is raging at Lookowitz, in Moravia. A fireman has been killed while on duty.

Lively Scene in a London Court.

LONDON, April 11.—It is not a very infrequent occurrence in the London Police Courts for infuriated prisoners to attempt to assault the presiding magistrates. Mr. Montague Williams, who sits in one of the East End courts, often has books thrown at him, and on one occasion he received a severe blow in the face from such a missile. The habit seems to be spreading. Lately the newspapers reported a case in which a disappointed litigant kicked in open court his own lawyer, for which he may have had some excuse, and assaulted the reporters, for which there could be no justification. Saturday a scene even more lively was enacted at the Blackburn Quarter Sessions. Pat Brady and Maggie Murphy, accused before the recorder of robbery, felt inclined upon to protest with emphasis against the charge. Brady threw his belt at the prosecutor, attempted to jump out of the dock with the avowed intention of killing the recorder, and had to be held by several policemen while handcuffs were being put on him. Maggie resented these proceedings by screaming and cursing loudly, and wound up by throwing her wooden clogs at the unoffending reporters, crying, "Take that, you scribblers!" She also had to be handcuffed, and it would have been well for the decorum of that court if the foul-mouthed couple could have been gagged. Both prisoners were sentenced to seven years' penal servitude, and Brady was hauled downstairs to the cells singing rather inconsequentially:

She was as beautiful as a butterfly
And as proud as a queen.

The British Budget.

LONDON, April 11.—Rt. Hon. George J. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, presented the budget in the House of Commons to-day. Mr. Goschen said good fortune permitted him to again submit a budget showing a surplus of £1,007,000. This was largely due to the expending departments, for it was not to any extent due to an expansion of the revenue. There had been times when he had suffered great anxiety. During January and February the prospect was not bright, but during March it was better, and this enabled him to submit a satisfactory result. In the last budget the estimate of expenditure was £99,264,000. The actual expenditures were £98,828,000, leaving a surplus of £436,000. The total estimate of expenditure during the last three years was £294,000,000. The total difference in the expenditures was only £137,000. Analyzing the revenue, Mr. Goschen said that the customs produced £19,736,000, being £50,000 above the sum calculated upon. It was not alcohol that caused the increase this year, but tobacco. The revenue tax from tea was exceedingly satisfactory, yielding £54,000 over the estimate. Tobacco produced £9,953,000, being £415,000 above the previous year. All this, Mr. Goschen declared, proved that wages had not fallen and that there was still widely diffused prosperity among workingmen. The excise revenue showed £645,000 over the estimate. The increase in the consumption of home spirits was greater in England than in Ireland or Scotland.

Mr. Goschen estimated the revenue for the current financial year at £90,477,000, and the expenditures at £90,253,000, having a margin of £224,000. This will not allow a remission of taxation with the exception of a minor reduction in patent fees absorbing £50,000, and the fixing of the duty on sparkling wines from 7s 6d and 1s per gallon, to a uniform rate of 5s. Mr. Goschen said he held himself responsible for the prudence of the estimates. Mr. Goschen spoke for two hours. He announced the resignation of Mr. West, chairman of the Inland Revenue Board.

Mr. Gladstone suggested that the House follow the usual custom and avoid discussion of the budget until the day fixed for its mature consideration. He hoped the change of duty on sparkling wines, while benefiting some wine-producing countries, would not involve trouble on others. He eulogized the services of Mr. West.

The resolution concerning wines was passed. Mr. Goschen fixed the general discussion of the budget for April 21.

The pointless character of the budget disappoints all parties. The Conservatives in the lobby did not attempt to disguise their regret that Mr. Goschen had presented a statement containing nothing that would influence the popular vote in the general election. The Liberals, who had expected some coup to attract electors to the Conservative side, were pleasantly surprised by the harmless character of Mr. Goschen's statement.

Royal Match-Making.

LONDON, April 11.—The objections of the Czar having been overcome by the joint efforts of the King of the Belgians and the Countess of Flanders, the forthcoming betrothal of Crown Prince Ferdinand of Roumania and Princess Mary of Edinburgh is semi-officially announced. The courtly chroniclers are waxing eloquent over the match. We are told that "Prince Ferdinand, after once meeting Princess Mary in Germany, was so deeply impressed by her youth and beauty that all his later travels in search of a wife only confirm his attachment. The Prince has already displayed high military, political and administrative gifts, and it is enough to look at his blue eyes, his tall, slim figure and fair hair to be assured of his goodness of heart, amiability and gaiety of disposition." As to the Princess, it is claimed for her that in addition to being young and beautiful, she is amiable and accomplished, poetical and charitable, and ready to sympathize with the humblest of her future subjects. The Roumanians are prepared to show their appreciation of this pair of paragons by giving them a handsome allowance and building them a fine palace at Jassy, where they will have to reside after their marriage. Prince Ferdinand is the young man who a year ago set the diplomats of Europe by the ears by wanting to marry one of Queen Carmen Sylva's maids of honor. The disappointment sent the Queen into hysterics and broke the maid's heart. Prince Ferdinand was said at the time to be deeply affected, but the wound inflicted was evidently not deep, and his recovery has certainly been rapid and complete. The maid, Miss Wanerson, is at present in Rome.

Gladstone Cuts Up Joe Chamberlain.

LONDON, April 11.—There is reason to believe that Mr. Gladstone is engaged on an important manifesto, connected upon the idea that there is to be an early dissolution. It will probably be published during the early recess of Parliament. There will be a meeting in the Liberal interest soon at her Majesty's Theatre. Gladstone will be the chief speaker and will make a strong bid for the support of the Liberal programme by the masses of London.

Parliament is to have a longer Easter holiday than usual, an arrangement which affords further proof of the extreme embarrassment of the Government to take in hand the Irish Local Government Bill. Mr. Gladstone was in his place every day last week, and has virtually taken the leadership of the House out of Balfour's limp hands. For some reason best known to himself the Grand Old Man advocated lenient treatment of the Cambrian Railway directors, who were brought to the bar of the House for breach of privilege in dismissing a man who gave evidence before the Royal Commission, and the offenders were consequently let off with an admonition from the Speaker, instead of being sent to the Clock tower, as the Radicals eagerly desired and urgently demanded. That was Thursday night, and the next afternoon the Radicals attended for the resumed consideration of the Small Holdings Bill in a very sulky mood; but the Grand Old Man quickly put them into the best of good humors by a brilliant little speech, in the course of which he covered Mr. Joseph Chamberlain with ridicule, and left that right honorable renegade writhing with rage. It has been pointed out that the bill in question, which seeks to revive the class of small freeholders, or yeomen, in this country, will be practically useless unless landowners be compelled, where necessary, to sell the land required for division into small holdings. Chamberlain spoke in favor of the insertion of compulsory clauses, but said he would not vote for them if the Government would not accept them. Mr. Gladstone had no difficulty in demonstrating the contemptible position thus taken by Chamberlain, and in contrasting it with his former protestations of Liberalism, but the exquisite irony and scathing sarcasm with which the Grand Old Man overwhelmed his traitorous lieutenant has probably never been surpassed in the debating annals of the House of Commons. Chamberlain felt the chastisement the more keenly because the Tories laughed at his discomfiture quite as loudly as the Liberals, and evidently enjoyed it as much; yet when the division took place he had to go into the same lobby with the men who had just been making merry at his expense, with men whom he really despises, and with men who actually detest him with an abiding hatred. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain's career during the past six years would afford an instructive subject for a school book upon the danger of reckless ambition, or it might fittingly illustrate a disquisition on the folly of not looking before one leaps.

Ontario Legislature.

Closing Up the Business of the Session.

The Insurance Bill Passed. Four Amendments Being Voted Down.

[Special to the Advertiser.]

TORONTO, April 11.—In the Legislative Assembly this morning Mr. Mowat, in reply to Mr. Meredith, said it is not the intention of the Government to make any steps this session for the purpose of extending the Torrens system of land transfer to other counties of Ontario by introducing the system in the same way it was introduced at Toronto, viz., at the expense of the county at large.

When the House was in committee Mr. Balfour's bill to provide that the Law Society may pass rules to provide for the admission of women to practice as solicitors, Mr. Meredith moved that the committee rise without reporting the bill. He objected to the matter being left in the hands of the Law Society, and claimed that if women were allowed to practice as solicitors, they must also be allowed to practice as barristers, and their right to sit on the bench must also be conceded.

Mr. Mowat said that so far as he was personally concerned, he would be willing to admit women to the practice of law absolutely, but as this was not the feeling of the House, a compromise was desired upon, leaving the matter to the decision of the Law Society. The bill was then reported.

Mr. Awrey's bill respecting landlords and tenants was amended by providing that monthly tenants may be exempted from seizure on goods to the amount of two months' rent. It was read a third time on a division of 29 to 38.

Owing to the late stage of the session Mr. Waters withdrew his bill to enable married women to vote for municipal officers.

Mr. Gibson (Hamilton) moved the third reading of the insurance bill.

Mr. Meredith moved in amendment that it be not read a third time but be referred back to committee to strike out the sections prohibiting rebates and preferential rates, on the ground that they are unwarranted and undesirable interferences with the business of insurance companies. The amendment was lost by 28 to 37 on a party division, except that Mr. Kerns voted with the Government.

Mr. Meredith then moved another amendment to strike out the sections providing for the registration of insurance agents. This was lost by 30 to 46, Mr. Kerns going back to the Opposition and Mr. Snider also voting against the Government, while Mr. Buck arrived in time to vote.

Mr. Meredith moved in amendment that there be added a section providing that any friendly society incorporated by any British, colonial or foreign legislature, and carrying on a lawful business in the Province, at the passage of the act shall be entitled to registration upon production of proof that it was so incorporated and has a bona fide membership in the Province of at least 250. This was lost by 29 to 47, Mr. Snider voting with the Government this time.

Mr. Kerns moved in amendment that the fee charged life insurance companies working under a Dominion charter be $25 instead of $100. This amendment was lost by 29 to 48, Mr. Biggar having arrived in time to vote.

The bill was then read a third time.

Mr. Balfour moved the third reading of the bill to enable women to practice as solicitors.

Mr. Meredith, who has opposed the bill at every stage, again objected, but it was carried on a vote of 49 to 27.

When the House was in committee on the bill to incorporate the Toronto Street Railway Company Mr. Woods (Hastings) moved an amendment to absolutely forbid Sunday street cars. This was carried by a vote of 41 to 35.

Mr. Meredith moved another amendment in these words: "Provided that nothing herein contained shall extend to prohibit the doing of any act which is not in contravention of the Lord's Day Act if and when such action shall have been approved of by the citizens by a vote on the question." This amendment was accepted by the House. The company is therefore in the same position as any other company regarding Sunday street cars except that it must first obtain the assent of the people.

POLITICAL POINTS.

At the Cayuga Assizes Henry I. Ince, a deputy returning officer in the late Dominion election charged with opening the poll at 8 o'clock and admitting personators of Indians, who were dead for years, and other offenses, only escaped conviction by the jury disagreeing—11 being for conviction and 1 against. Henry Hall was charged with having fraudulently supplied a voter named Smith at the Haldimand election with a ballot paper already marked for Dr. Montague, intending that Smith should deposit it in the ballot box. Smith after receiving the ballot refused to use it, and showed it to three or four of his friends. The evidence clearly bore out the charge, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. The judge fined the prisoner $100 or three months' imprisonment.

ROOSTERS IN COURT.

Two Game Chickens Interrupt a Detroit Judge in His Charge to a Jury.

DETROIT, Mich., April 11.—Two crowing roosters destroyed the effect of Judge Chambers' charge to the jury in the Recorder's Court and furnished great amusement to the crowd of spectators. The case was one of arson, and the charge of the judge proceeded in this wise:

"Gentlemen of the jury," said the judge — "Cock-a-doodle-doo," shrieked one rooster—"you have heard the evi"—"Cock-a-doodle-doo," answered the other rooster—"dence on both sides of this case as given by the different"—"Cock-a-doodle-doo"—"witnesses and the arguments of the prosecutor for the people"—"Cock-a-doodle-doo"—"and the attorney for defendant.

"You have heard the rooster—I—I—mean the defendant—tell where he was on the night of the fire"—"Cock-a-doodle-doo."

The spectators were by this time unable to restrain their laughter, and the judge looked appealingly toward the door-tender, who closed the rear door. But this did not entirely drown the sound of the barnyard fowl, as every once in a while the faint echo of a "cock-a-doodle-doo" would mar the solemnity of the court-room and cause a smile to overspread the features of the urbane and dignified judge.

The cause of the roosters' presence was afterward explained when they were brought into the courtroom and introduced as evidence in another case. They were supposed to be game cocks, worth about $50 apiece, but one fellow's beauty was spoiled by having had all his tail feathers pulled out. The other one, known as a "chicken," had only one eye, having lost the other one in a hard-fought battle.

PARDRIDGE'S "PIE."

The Famous Chicago Plunger Makes a Great Haul.

What Hammered Down Five Cents a Bushel—The Notorious Grain Gambler's Profits Placed at Over $500,000.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 11.—The world seemed to turn on its axis to-day for the sole benefit of one man—Edward Pardridge, of Chicago. News worth to him hundreds of thousands flashed in from London, from Washington, even from the far away ports of the Black Sea, and after a day of wild excitement on 'Change the famous plunger, impassive as stone, stood on the floor of the Board of Trade receiving the frantic congratulations of his brokers informing him that he was richer by at least $500,000, and that owing to him they had pounded down the price of wheat 5 cents on every bushel. His enemies—who it was said formed a sort of combination a few days ago to compass his ruin—were themselves made heavy losers and put to inner rout.

The galleries of the trading hall throughout the day were jammed with sightseers, including many ladies, all eager to pick out of the pushing, yelling crowd below the man whose extraordinary gamble was causing all the turmoil. Pardridge's manner was much calmer than on Saturday, and it was evident, judging from the expression of those keen gray eyes that his plans were more settled and better formulated. The same fearless attire characterized him to-day as when the bulls threw the dust on his face on Friday and Saturday.

The scene during the latter part of the session was the most exciting that has been witnessed in many a day. From 85¾ cents May wheat dropped by big jumps to 80¾ cents, and finally closed at 80¾ cents. This is 2¾ cents below the close of Saturday night. From the high point on to the low figure Pardridge makes 5 cents per bushel. It is supposed, out of his 10,000,000 short line, or what amounts to $500,000. Over and above this, it is estimated that he netted considerable on trades and on the fluctuations. He was the heaviest buyer and seller, and apparently must have made a pot of money out of his scalping deals.

During the final moments the excitement was at such a pitch that the spectators in the galleries, losing all control of their feelings, shouted with the brokers at every shown in the market. The bears went wild over their success, and the men who had it in for Pardridge, some of them at least, joined in what amounted to a general ovation to the bold operator.

The causes of the break were lower cables and the disappointment in the visible supply statement. Bradstreet reported 143,000,000 bushels, against 98,000,000 a year ago.

THE WORKING WORLD.

English Servant Girls Organizing a Union—A Cab Strike in London Probable—More Trouble in Hamilton.

The reorganization of English society proceeds apace. The latest phase of it is a trade union of servant girls.

There is a prospect of a cab strike in London. The cab driver has no complaint against his patron, but a dispute with the cab owner as to the price that ought to be charged for the hire of cabs.

The Durham colliery dispute seems as far from settlement as ever, but owing to the slack demand for coal the disturbance to trade has not been so great as was at first expected. Neither side shows any disposition to give way, though the position of the men grows daily weaker. Not less than 2,000 men are out, counting the miners of Durham and Cleveland.

A non-union molder named Clendening, who arrived from Montreal some days ago, and is employed at Burrow, Stewart & Milne's foundry, was placed under bonds of $50 to keep the peace for six months by Magistrate Cahill Monday, a loaded revolver being found on him. He said he had received a letter signed "White Caps" which threatened him and other non-union men with due vengeance if they remained in town.

The employes of the Hamilton and Toronto sewer pipe works at Hamilton are out on strike. It is alleged the men were promised an increase from $1 25 to $1 50 per day, to begin on April 1, but were since told by Mr. New, president of the company, that the increase would not be granted.

A grand international demonstration will take place Sunday, May 1, in Chicago. It is estimated that members of the trades unions, socialistic societies and their sympathizers, to the number of 20,000 will march through Chicago's streets on that day. The great crowd will gather at the lake front after it has paraded the city, and a dozen speakers will orate in English and German on the benefits of the eight-hour day.

Thirteen Miles of Saloons.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Rev. Madison C. Peters, pastor of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church, followed for a short distance last night the pathway broken by the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, when he attacked the saloons and their proprietors, in a brief address from his pulpit. He said: "There are in the city of New York 7,000 saloons, or one for every 200 people. These saloons, given each a twenty-foot frontage, would extend, if placed in a row, a distance of thirteen miles. They are hotbeds of vice, the breeding place of all crime. They are kept, with the exception of a few Germans, by low, vulgar, illiterate, blasphemous, obscene men, fully 50 per cent. of whom are ex-convicts.

PARIS, Ont., April 11.—Paris has suffered a severe loss. The Paris Manufacturing Company plant is a total loss from fire. The fire was first seen by the watchman in the first flat. It soon spread on account of the wool and oil used in the course of manufacture. The manager, Mr. Schofield, left for Montreal by the afternoon train. A Brantford Breach of Promise Case Compromised for $800.

BRANTFORD, April 11.—An interesting case was down for trial at the assizes—that of the action for breach of promise of marriage brought by Miss MARY MCEWEN, of Mount Pleasant, against Mr. JAMES G. HAMMER, of Mount Vernon, for $2,000 damages. The case has been withdrawn, however, the plaintiff having now agreed to accept $800 in lieu of all damages and expenses. This sum has been tendered by defendant, and the case settled out of court. Plaintiff is a handsome, good-looking young lady, and the faithless swain a well-to-do young farmer. Defendant admitted the promise of marriage made to Miss McEwen, so that in any case it was merely a question of costs. Some sixteen letters passed between the parties, but they were of a platonic and matter-of-fact character, and lacked the gush that usually characterizes these effusions.

MARRIAGE UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Elopement on a Tugboat—A Sick Groom but a Plucky Bride.

(San Francisco Chronicle.)

A clandestine marriage took place outside the heads on the tug Ida W. The groom was a Christian and the bride a Jewess. They took a minister with them, who performed the ceremony.

This marriage at sea was a little out of the general run. A young man in the evening appeared on Mission Pier 1 and wanted to charter the stern-wheel steamer Grace Barton to go outside the heads. He said he had just run away with an Oakland young lady, and that they must be married right away. When told that the Grace Barton could not go outside he appeared very much disappointed and endeavored to get the tug Ida W. Capt. Dan James dissuaded him from going out to sea at night, as the bar was breaking. After a consultation with the prospective bride it was decided that the wedding should be deferred until morning.

Promptly at 9 o'clock next morning the bridal couple boarded the Ida W. They were accompanied by the groom's sister, her husband and a tall, slim minister. The bride was good looking, short and plump. She was of dark complexion and her features were of the Jewish cast. She appeared about 19 years old. Her dress was snuff-colored, and she wore a small hat. The groom was about medium sized and nicely dressed in a black suit. He did not appear over 19 years old, and only the faintest sign of a mustache was visible on the upper lip.

There was a pretty good swell on the bay, but the wedding party insisted upon remaining on deck and located themselves on a big hawser at the stern of the tug. As Point Bonita was neared the tug began to pitch and roll. When directly between the north and south heads a comber broke over the tug, deluging the wedding party. Not a dry stitch remained on any of them after this. The tug began to pitch about like a feather. The party got seasick and huddled together in the cabin. About this time the groom's face became ghastly white. The minister also appeared to be in great distress.

"This is awful," whispered the divine, "I am so sick."

The brother-in-law seemed to stand the ordeal quite well, but the prospective groom wilted. "Do let us turn back, captain," said he. "I can't stand this any longer."

"No, we will not!" cried the bride "at least not until we are married."

"All right my plucky girl," said Capt. James, "the marriage goes."

The tug had reached the three-league limit and was slowed down, with her head on to the high sea running. The minister pulled himself together, and the bride attempted to rise, when a lurch of the tug threw her across the cabin. The groom also started to rise, but fell back with the exclamation: "I can't get up; my legs are in the way."

He got on his knees, and the ceremony was performed with celerity and the ring slipped on the bride's finger. The tug was then headed for port.

Mr. J. R. Allen, upholsterer, Toronto sends us the following: "For six or seven years my wife suffered with Dyspepsia, Costiveness, Inward Piles and Kidney Complaint. We tried two physicians and any number of medicines without getting any relief, until we got a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. This was the first relief she got, and before one bottle was used the benefit she derived from it was beyond our expectation."

If you don't keep up in your business you must run behind.

You must put up this and that together if you want to even things up.

Is a Cold Bath Dangerous for Ladies?

At a recent meeting of physicians in London the question of cold baths for ladies was brought up for discussion. It was unanimously decided that a woman received great benefit from a moderately cold bath, provided that she was free from chill afterwards. This may best be avoided by wearing a "Health Brand" pure wool undervest next the skin. Invaluable for spring and summer in the light weights, as ladies and children will find after bathing; perfect fitting and beautiful new styles.

Messrs. Smith Bros., King street, will remove to their new premises, 376 Richmond street, opposite the Masonic Temple, about the 18th of April. 20bi eod

WESTERN ONTARIO.

BRUCE.

The people of Port Elgin were much surprised when it became known that Rev. Waddell, Baptist Minister in that village had resigned his charge, stating to his congregation that he was no longer in accord with the doctrines of the church in several points.

The annual conference of the United Brethren Church of Canada will be held in Port Elgin this week, commencing on Thursday with a public service in the evening. Bishop Floyd, of Indiana, will be present at the conference.

The landing pier at Port Elgin has been improved during the winter by 200 feet of sheet piling put in a portion of it. Dredging will also be done early.

F. G. Hicks, an employe in Manley's drug store, Wiarton, has been stricken with partial paralysis of the brain. Mr. Hicks is a naval veteran, and while engaged in active service in India suffered two sunstrokes and sustained a severe injury during torpedo practice. His present condition is critical.

BRANT.

The school trustees of Brantford have protested against the issuance of a hotel license in the immediate vicinity of one of their public schools, and pointed out that according to the statutes no license could be granted in the immediate vicinity of a public school.

The percentage of attendance at the Brantford city schools is, over the whole, only 56 per cent., according to so high an authority as Dr. Kelly. This is much less than most of the townships, and is difficult to understand in view of the legal machinery at the command of the city.

The members of the South Brant Farmers' Institute have unanimously indorsed common-sense ideas with reference to the introduction of a proper system of road-making.

Attorney-General Mowat, in a letter to the B., W. and L. E. road, gives it to be plainly understood that the Government cannot see its way to grant any railroad subsidies or to revive any lapsed charters.

The butchers of Hamilton, Woodstock, Brantford, Guelph and other cities will hold a great demonstration in Brantford on Dominion Day. It is expected there will be a procession and sports, and that at least 5,000 people will take part in the proceedings.

The 28th annual meeting of the St. George cheese factory was held last week. Mr. Sager was in the choir, and Mr. Nixon acted as secretary. The following proposition was laid before the patrons and accepted: To draw and make up the milk for 2½ cents per pound for cheese, taking 10½ pounds of milk for the first three months, and 10 pounds for the next three months, 6½ cents to be paid on the stand, taking 10½ pounds for the first three months and paying 7½ cents, and taking 10 pounds for the last three months. Third proposal, at 2½ cents and return 80 pounds of whey for 100 pounds of milk. A selling committee was appointed of M. Sager, S. C. Wait and J. Richardson.

ELGIN.

Rev. J. A. Macdonald, pastor of Knox Church, St. Thomas, has resigned the editorship of Knox College Monthly, but has been appointed on the editorial staff and will edit the Book Review. Mr. Macdonald has been elected one of the three representatives of the graduates on the Knox College Board. Rev. J. Somerville, M.A., of Owen Sound, also elected to the senate, was a former head master of the St. Thomas Collegiate Institute.

W. D. Beattie, of Essex, undertook to drive Mrs. Palmer and child, of Kingsville, and Mr. Montryce, of St. Thomas, over to Kingsville. When at Cottam he stopped to water the horses. The animals got crowded with another team that was there, and turning around upset the rig. The old gentleman, who is 76, had his collar bone broken, and the lady was bruised a little around the head. The carriage was pretty badly broken.

GREY.

Reeve Chisholm, of Owen Sound, while in Toronto last week, chanced to meet the captain of the first steamer that ever entered Owen Sound. The steamer was the Gore, the date of her arrival June 20, 1845, and the captain's name was James Dick.

From every section of the country comes news that the fall wheat has come well through the winter, and that the prospect for a good crop was seldom better at this stage of the season.

KENT.

John N. Campbell, Howard road, Ridgetown, has sold his farm to Arch. McBravne, 100 acres, for $6,700.

Lawyer Macdonald, of Ridgetown, is in receipt of a petition from Herman Wolff, of Montreal, for the winding up of the Ontario Casket Company. Mr. Wolff is a creditor to the amount of $1,985.

P. Mooney recently discovered two skeletons on Rond Eau Point. One was that of a full grown person and was remarkably well preserved. The teeth especially were sound, and not one was missing. The other was the skeleton of an infant. The bodies seem to have been buried in a sitting position.

Alf. Wees, station agent, Dresden, has severed his connection with the Erie and Huron Railway, after being nearly five years in the company's service. He has secured a good situation on the Chicago-West Michigan Railway at Holland, Mich.

D. D. Stewart, of East Williams, had a sale of his stock on Thursday last. He sold his farm to Archy Stewart for $6,500, and intends moving to the Northwest.

A freak of nature, in the shape of a two-faced calf, was dropped by a cow belonging to Rev. Arch Sinclair, Lobo township. The calf has two mouths, four eyes and two ears, while the remnants of three horns are visible. In drinking and when bellowing both mouths are used.

OXFORD.

Richard Rudd Dent, the Grand Rapids man who is alleged to have defrauded Matt Evans to the extent of $3,000 in an apple deal ten years ago, came up on remand in Toronto on Monday and pleaded not guilty. He elected to be tried by jury and was remanded again.

By the death on Friday night of John Ormston Woodstock loses one of its oldest and most respected citizens. A year ago deceased suffered from an attack of paralysis, from which he recovered, but within the past week received a second stroke which resulted in death. Deceased was a native of Roxburghshire, Scotland, where he was born in 1831, and came to Woodstock in 1854.

For some time past there has been friction between certain members of the Woodstock School Board and Principal Garvin. The trouble reached a culminating point at a late meeting of the board, when the school management committee brought in a long report against the principal, charging him, among other things, with having administered an oath to a pupil, with having allowed novel reading during school hours in his own room and with interfering at the last school trustee election. Principal Garvin denied the charges. The board, however, adjourned without taking any action in regard to the report, although it is understood that Mr. Garvin will resign in case it is made clear that a majority of the board is against him.

At Osgoode Hall a few days ago, in the case of Campbell vs. Dunn, judgment in an action tried at Woodstock was given. A reference is directed to the local master at Woodstock to ascertain whether the fund derived from the policies of insurance mentioned in the pleadings has been properly invested by the defendants so as to realize the current rates of interest (all things being considered) and whether such income has been rightly applied; and to settle a scheme for the maintenance of the infant plaintiffs if the parties cannot agree. The plaintiff, George B. Alderson, is to pay the defendants' costs up to date of judgment except as regards the claim made to moneys in the postoffice savings bank. Further directions and costs reserved.

PERTH.

R. H. Pomeroy, Fullerton, has assigned. P. Watson & Son, tea and crockery dealers of Stratford, have written their creditors offering 50 cents on the dollar. They owe about $5,000, assets about $4,000.

WENTWORTH.

The residence of P. W. Dayfoot, Hamilton, was the scene of an event which few of the thousands who embark upon the matrimonial sea are permitted to see, a golden wedding anniversary. The celebration was quiet but most pleasant. There were present the children, Dr. Dayfoot, of Rochester; J. B. Dayfoot, of Boston, and Mrs. Adam A. Stewart, with their grandchildren and a few friends. Owing to the death of Mr. Dayfoot's brother recently, the members of his family were prevented from being present, and other relatives were also kept away by sickness. There were many golden tokens of love from children, grandchildren and relatives, and many wishes for continued health and happiness and for still many a return of the happy anniversary day.

WELLINGTON.

Mayor Sleeman, of Guelph, somewhat staggered the Board of the Agricultural and Arts Association recently when he made the remark that one firm alone in Guelph shipped yearly over $60,000 worth of dressed beef to Halifax. This would give the Board an idea of the general shipment of live stock.

There are 2,579 scholars in Guelph Sabbath schools.

Guelph will have an $8,000 curling and skating rink.

WATERLOO.

The Galt Spring Seed Fair was held last week, but was not so largely attended as usual. The Waterloo Township Council this year will ask only one day's road work from young men and those not on the assessment roll.

In Luck.

"What is your husband doing now?"

"Nothing. He has been appointed to an office."

Brief, but to the Point.

"What leads you to think he dresses loud?"

"His clothes speaks for themselves."

On the Threshold.

Standing at womanhood's door is she,
Clad in her virginal purity,
A creature fair as the lilies be.
And, like the lillies, alas, how frail;
They are borne to earth when the storms prevail,
And their life goes out in the summer gale.

When we see a frail and lovely creature standing on the threshold between girlhood and womanhood, we shiver with a fear of what may be, because we have seen so many succumb at this critical period of life. What is needed at this time is a tonic and invigorant—something that will promote proper functional action of the female organs. The only remedy to be depended on is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Perscription. This unequaled medicine, which cures diseases peculiar to women, is especially valuable at the period when the girl crosses the threshold of womanhood. Used at such a time, it never fails to produce a most beneficial result, and many a fragile girl has been tided over one of life's most trying periods by it.

There is a curious superstition in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri, which says that the person who hears the whip-poor-will's call in the daytime will die before the end of the year.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the sytem. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and conver the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

"August Flower"

What is It For? This is the query perpetually on your little boy's lips. And he is no worse than the bigger, older, balder-headed boys. Life is an interrogation point. "What is it for?" we continually cry from the cradle to the grave. So with this little introductory sermon we turn and ask: "What is AUGUST FLOWER FOR?" As easily answered as asked: It is for Dyspepsia. It is a special remedy for the Stomach and Liver. Nothing more than this; but this brimful. We believe August Flower cures Dyspepsia. We know it will. We have reasons for knowing it. Twenty years ago it started in a small country town. To-day it has an honored place in every city and country store, possesses one of the largest manufacturing plants in the country and sells everywhere. Why is this? The reason is as simple as a child's thought. It is honest, does one thing, and does it right along—it cures Dyspepsia.

—[BROWNING.

London, Tuesday, April 12.

Geo. T. Blackstock will not give his consent to be nominated as a candidate for the vacant Toronto seat in the Legislature. He says he cannot afford the time needed for the duties.

Welland Dominion election writ has been issued. Nomination takes place on the 22nd, and polling on the 29th. The Liberal and trade freedom candidate is James Lowell, of Niagara Falls, and the Conservative and trade restrictionist nominee is Mr. James Lawson, of Thorald.

The Hahnemann Society of the Homœpathic Hospital College, Cleveland, has issued, in neat pamphlet form, a full report of the address delivered before that society on Feb. 4. last, by Cl. T. Campbell, M.D., of this city, president of the Institute of Homœpathy, Ontario. Dr. Campbell had for his subject the "Personality of Hahnemann," a theme which his ripened experience as a physician and as a warm admirer of his great exemplar rendered him able to handle in an attractive manner. The address will repay a careful perusal.

In the Legislature Mr. Meredith strongly opposed the right of women to become solicitors under the guidance of the Law Society. Premier Mowat, on the other hand, warmly championed the conferring on the Law Society of all the powers necessary to admit of the reform being carried out. Mr. Mowat said he was personally in favor of the change. The Law Society will doubtless proceed to give women students the same opportunity as men. If they do not the Legislature will no doubt see that justice is done.

It is a remarkable fact that despite the taxes by which British products are met at United States ports, the neighboring republic takes a greater value of British exports than any other foreign country. This fact goes a long way to show why British Governments are so anxious to maintain the most cordial relations with our neighbors. It further demonstrates the immense purchasing capacity of the United States. The people there are the best buyers, in the sense of being willing to pay a good price for what they want, to be found in the world. These two facts are worthy of note by Canadians who, in spite of tariff walls, are closely identified with the United States both in blood relationship and in trading necessities. If Great Britain desires the goodwill and the trade of the States, so does Canada, and to a much greater extent, as all must admit. What this country needs is a Government in power that really wishes to have more intimate trade relations with our neighbors; not a set of men who are subsidized by interested combines to raise imaginary lions in the path.

A New York preacher told a public meeting the other day that he had never been naturalized because he regarded the city as too wicked for him to participate in its public affairs. It is just such sayings as this and the legitimate result of their utterance that afford most substantial comfort to wrongdoers. No man is too good to take an intelligent interest in public affairs. No honest man can afford to stand by and let his dishonest neighbor do as he pleases. No man is justified in remaining away from the polls because the majority of those who vote may countenance wrongdoing. Patriotism may even require sacrifices for the promotion of principles. But surely the patriot will make them. To what a pass would the world's affairs attain if it were to be conceded that the triumph of wickedness in high places should be sufficient warrant for the withdrawal of all honest men from participation in the management of public affairs. Such a view of duty is certainly not in accord with the teachings of Scripture.

The daughters of deans of the Church of England appear to have a predilection for the stage. For to the Dean of Jersey we are indebted for Mrs. Langtry; while now the daughter of no less a personage than the Dean of Westminster has organized a regular dramatic company, of which she is the star, and which devotes itself to producing and acting plays for the entertainment of the poor. It is a relief, however, to learn that the dean's wife exercises a strict censorship over the plays selected. Mrs. Woods, the dean's other married daughter, is the authoress of "A Village Tragedy," which on its appearance attracted the attention of Mr. Gladstone, and enjoyed a considerable run.

WHAT THE LEGISLATURE HAS DONE.

To-day the Ontario Legislature rose, after a sitting extending for just two months, and after transacting much important public business. No fewer than 175 measures were introduced, of which 50 were private bills. Among the more important general measures were the bills consolidating the municipal and assessment law, which, owing to the many amendments adopted in the course of a few years, probably required simplification more than any other measure on the statute book. Thirty-three of the bills introduced had for their object the amendment of the municipal and assessment law, but there is a growing indisposition to pass such measures unless their usefulness is strongly demonstrated, and most of them were hoisted. One important change made in the Municipal Act, however, was the repeal of the clause enabling municipalities to give money bonuses to factories. The election laws, the mining laws, the laws relating to the compensation of workingmen in certain instances were also consolidated.

Moral legislation occupied the attention of the Legislature to a considerable extent. A local option law, once passed, cannot now be repealed till it has had a three years' trial. A proposal to sell liquor in dining cars was strongly opposed and finally withdrawn. Druggists must in future register all sales of liquor, no matter how small the quantities. After 1st July next, it will be illegal for any one to sell or give tobacco to persons under eighteen years of age.

The changes in the insurance laws, for the further protection of the public, are in the right direction. The Legislature has the power to supervise insurance contracts and it has taken full advantage of it. Under the new law, legitimate insurance enterprises have nothing to fear; but those of doubtful advantage need not expect protection.

What is known as the succession tax was welcomed as a most acceptable agency for increasing the Provincial revenue. Under it, the Province will collect 5 per cent. on all bequests over $10,000 made by anyone to a person who is not a near relative; 2½ per cent. on all bequests over $100,000, and 5 per cent. on all over $200,000 made by one member of a family to another. Money bequeathed for charitable purposes will not be taxed.

The first step towards the better protection of fish and game with a view to their increase was taken. A bill was passed providing that a proportion of the fees collected by Provincial officials should go into the public purse. The grand jury was reduced from 24 to 13—a highly beneficial change. Bees are to be better protected, so are beds of rivers and natural gas, and frauds in milk are to be prevented. The town of Windsor is incorporated as a city, and Rat Portage, Sudbury, Mattawa, Fort William and Thessalon, all in Northwestern Ontario, are advanced to the dignity of towns. Legislation looking to a reduction in the number of county councilors was introduced, but the measure was not proceeded with. It is a reform which will come some day soon.

Premier Mowat and his colleagues are to be congratulated on the result of the session. It has shown that they are steadily working for what they believe to be the best interests of the people. Mr. Meredith and his associates are very watchful of the administrators of public affairs, but an earnest scouting has developed no scandal, and, as the result of the two bye-elections that have taken place since the House met, the Government is stronger by four on a division than it was when the Legislature assembled.

OUTSIDERS ON CANADA.

E. E. Sheppard, editor of the Toronto Saturday Night, formerly of the London Free Press, and some time since a Conservative candidate for Parliament, has had his eyes opened regarding the reputation given to the Dominion in foreign lands as a result of recent revelations of corruption in high places. Writing of his trip in search of health he says:

"In a railroad coach last winter I had as a fellow passenger a Roumanian merchant who spoke English very well and was fond of asking questions. When I found out he was from one of the Balkan provinces I pitied him as a down-trodden citizen of a semi-civilized state, for western people cannot conceive that Servia and Bulgaria and Roumania are anything more than a half-heathen mixture of Turk and Tartar. He surprised me, however, by very distinctly showing his sympathy for me. 'Oh, from Canada, eh?' he exclaimed. 'A verr corrupt country, eh? Steal all ze public mooney, eh? Get into Parliament to buy ze votes, eh? Efferybody steal from efferybody else, eh? I haf read of him in ze London Times. I takke ze London Times.' Bribery is a more delicate operation than it once was, and the retail trade in votes has become dangerous; but wholesale corruption by using the church, the Department of Public Works, the executive functions of the Government, the judicial power, chiefly the legislative functions thereof, is everyday becoming a more 'legitimate' part of politics. The man who does not believe in this sort of thing is said to be too soft for a politician; he who is not an adept in dickering off all those things which are a part of the sacred trust of office, is laughed at as a man who ought to peddle milk instead of trying to be a statesman. If we would like to see ourselves as others see us, it is sometimes a fortunate thing to go away from home and hear the judgment of those who watch our proceedings from afar. They may misunderstand us in a great many respects, but sentimentally they size us up very correctly. I think I love this country as well as anyone loves her. Of the past nine months more than half of the time has been passed in traveling amongst those who have no dislike of us or our institutions, but who have been watching the development of our affairs. I am not overstating the truth when I say that Canadian politics stink in the nostrils of those whom I have met."

And the serious charges against Sir Adolphe Caron and the London election steal are not yet investigated!

Turkish is the only tongue into which "Helen's Babies" has not been translated. The little book stands in point of popularity with Uncle Tom's Cabin.

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

A gentleman of many years' experience in China, says that the right word is "Pidgin," not "Pigeon English." "Pidgin" is the Chinese pronunciation for "business" and it is in the "business" of these Chinese ports that this peculiar dialect is used.

A London journal recently gave a prize to a man who in a contest in its columns defined wit as "the power to say what everybody else was about to say if he had only thought of it." Even so brilliant and ready a talker as Lowell used to declare that it was not until he had finished one of his choice after-dinner speeches that the really bright things he wanted to say occurred to him.

Messrs. Moody and Sankey's Scottish campaign being almost over, they have resolved to rest in the South of England prior to setting out on their English campaign. They will also spend a part of the summer in an evangelistic tour in Norway and Sweden. When Mr. Moody was addressing a meeting at Helensburgh recently the babies of some mothers that were present were looked after in a side room by young ladies—a good example, said the evangelist, of practical Christianity.

The Egbas, a powerful people, numbering more that a million, live in West Africa, north of the big English town of Lagos. They have closed the trade routes into their country recently, and for a long time have been preparing for that step by purchasing a large supply of salt, tobacco, and other articles needed during the trade embargo. Their complaint is that many of their slaves escape to the British settlements and there become free men to the great loss of the tribe, and until the British cease to free their slaves they say they will not permit white men to trade in their country, or to pass through their land on the way to other trading centers. The situation has created much alarm in Liverpool, Manchester, and other big exporting cities of England, as the trade to Lagos amounts to $6,000,000 a year. Meetings are being held to consider the situation, and the British Government has been asked to take immediate steps to open the trade routes, even if it involves war with the Egbas.

Messrs. Dickson & McMann shipped eighteen heavy draught horses to Lancaster, Pa., last week. There were several of them that weighed from 1,700 to 1,800 pounds. Mr. Dickson went with them. This is only four loads in a year that these gentlemen have shipped under the McKinley Bill, whereas they used to ship from 20 to 25 loads every year under the old United States tariff.

LIBERAL CONVENTION.

[Galt Reformer.]

The London ADVERTISER lately advocated that Liberal conventions be held in each riding, in each Province, and one for the whole Dominion. The more conventions possibly the better. But what we think specially needed is the adoption of the American system of having a convention of carefully chosen delegates, called by the party leaders, said conventions to deliberate and decide upon the party platform, so that the country may know what we propose to do it sustained at the polls.

A prominent lawyer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who was in the famous "Fighting Jersey Brigade" under Gen. Phil Kearney, has used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit as a general tonic to cleanse the blood and sharpen the appetite. "It is the best anti-malaria remedy," he says, "that I know of." Certainly the cordial endorsement of so prominent a man should convince you that Hood's Sarsaparilla is worthy your confidence. Mr. Charles F. Drexel, a well known former resident of Baltimore, Md., now Deputy City Treasurer of Omaha, Neb., writes that Hood's Sarsaparilla has effected a Phenomenal Cure in the case of his son, who when two years old became afflicted with Malignant Eczema. It first developed in his right eye, and the discharge from the same caused the whole face on that side to break out in a nasty, running sore. The poor little fellow was indeed pitiable to look at. Physicians gave him only temporary relief. He almost lost the sight of one eye, and the best oculists in Baltimore failed to benefit him. Finally Mrs. Drexel insisted upon trying Hood's Sarsaparilla and before he had taken half a bottle he looked like another child. The humor entirely disappeared, and His Eyesight was fully Restored. In fact, says Mr. Drexel, "he is the healthiest of our three children,

Lawn Tennis Tournament to Take Place in Hamilton—Proposed Local Lacrosse District — Rich Plums for Jockeys.

ATHLETICS.

In the professional sprint handicaps at Manchester, Eng., on Saturday the winners of heats in the first round, 130 yards, were: Cross, Mynburgh and Cunliffe, of Bury; Nicholas, of Salford; Martin, of Sheffield; Horrocks, of Bury; A. Hilton, of Oldham; Howarth, Nelson, Holden, Halliwell and G. Hilton, of Whitefield; Butt, of America (10½ yards start); Sunderland, Radcliffe and Hamilton, of Northampton, and Mills, of Rochdale. Ten Americans competed in the preliminary heats. Donlan (13¼ yards start) was third in his heat. O'Brien (13½ yards start) came in last. Farrell (11⅛ yards start) finished second. Five heats were walkovers. Sid Thomas, of the Ranelagh Harriers, broke the amateur fifteen mile record at Stamford Bridge. He covered the distance in 1 hour 22 minutes 15 4-5 seconds.

DRAUGHTS.

Mr. Wyllie, playing recently at Larkhall, Fifeshire, lost a game to a Mr. Dunsmore—to whom he afterwards remarked that he had played 600 games since he was last beaten.

Barker says he does not think it is his place to challenge Wyllie, but if the latter's friends are persistent in their desire for a match they can arrange one for $500 or $1,000 a side.

THE OAR.

The university boat race on Saturday between Oxford and Cambridge resolved itself into a question of luck. The high wind gave the boat which won the sheltered station an advantage which might easily be reckoned at several lengths, and Oxford was fortunate enough to win the toss. The rough water also was in favor of Oxford with its high feather, and was practically fatal to Cambridge. Both crews rowed well. The distance of four lengths does not represent the difference between the crews. With the two stations altered, Cambridge would have won by an equal distance.

BASEBALL

The Binghamtons will have a uniform of seal-brown shirts, trousers and stockings, white and brown cap and white belt. Across the bosom of the shirt will be the word "Bingo."

The New England Baseball League has voted that the organization shall consist of the following cities, provided each pay $300 for the honor before April 20: Lewiston, Portland, Me.; Manchester, N. H.; Haverhill, Lowell and Salem, Mass.; Woonsocket and Pawtucket, R. I.

TENNIS.

The Hamilton Lawn Tennis Club has decided to hold two tournaments this summer, one a local tournament and the other for an Ontario championship cup, open to all players in this Province. In the latter tournament there will be ladies' and gentlemen's singles and doubles. The newly-elected officers are as follows: R. T. Steele, president; E. Martin, A. Bruce, J. M. Travers, vice-presidents; E. S. Glassco, secretary-treasurer; Reginald Morton, captain.

THE KENNEL.

Messrs. McEwen & Gibson, of Byron, sent their two new collies to the Boston bench show, and the bitch Helen Douglas won first prize in puppies, and V. H. C. in the open class, while the dog Scotsman got V. H. C. his class.

CRICKET.

Sarnia Observer: The secretaries of the London Infantry School and the Detroit cricket clubs have written to arrange dates to play the Sarnia club here. Detroit wants to play the first match on the new grounds.

LACROSSE.

A lacrosse enthusiast in Tilsonburg has written Aylmer, Simcoe, Waterford and St. Thomas parties to have them try and boom lacrosse this season and form a district containing the above clubs, with that of Tilsonburg added. London would also be received with open arms. This would form one of the most compact districts in the C. L. A., and all games could be played on the same day, so that the expenses would be small.

Peter Swim, one of Brantford's best lacrosse players, has been entertained to supper by intimate friends prior to his departure for Chicago.

The Brant Lacrosse Club has been reorganized, the following officers being appointed: Honorary president, Mr. A. H. Baird; president, Mr. J. C. O'Neil; vice-president, Mr. D. Adams; secretary and treasurer, Mr. M. P. Yan; executive committee, Messrs. D. Adams, H. Walker and R. Thompson.

The Junior Beaver Lacrosse Club of Seaforth, organized Monday night with the following officers: Honorary president, G. E. Jackson; honorary vice-presidents, E. R. Logan and J. Crawford; president, Dr. C. B. McKay; captain, J. Bell; secretary-treasurer, C. Campbell; committee, J. Abell, G. Boyd and W. Elliott.

At a meeting to reorganize the Mitchell junior lacrosse club held on Monday night the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Honorary president, J. W. Cull; honorary vice-president, W W. Hicks; president, Wm. McAlpine; first vice-president, J. S. Young; second vice-president, Edward Tilley; captain, Fred L Thomson; secretary, J. G. Coppin; treasurer, Wm. Stoneman; committee, Alfred Bamford, Fred Hord; Frank Lynde; Chas. Lancaster, James McKeon, J. Turnhill and J. Collinson. The meeting decided on joining the western district of the C. L. A.

THE TURF.

The $10,000 trot at Detroit for the 2:24 class has closed with more entries than last year, when the nominations numbered thirteen.

A. H. Moore, the Philadelphia breeder, has broken the record by paying $178,200 for eleven trotters.

The stallion Jedwood, by Dictator, has been sold to R. C. Kelly for $2,500 and a half interest in the stallion Alexander, 2:29¾, by Alcantara, to private parties for $3,000.

There will be no more racing at Blue Bonnets, Montreal. The old track has been sold and divided into building lots.

British jockeys receive large sums in the course of every year in the shape of presents from their wealthy patrons. Fred Archer's income from this source used to average over £5,000 per annum. Lord Rosebery has just set a new fashion which may become a heavy burden upon owners by presenting Bob Anson's baby with a splendid gold christening mug containing a check for £100 "to put in the youngster's money box."

At a meeting held at the Tecumseh House on Saturday evening, it was decided to form a racing club, to be known as the London Turf Association, with a capital stock of $15,000. A committee was appointed to prepare the books and secure subscribers for the stock. It was agreed by those present to take at least $3,000 of the same. A meeting of the subscribers will be held on Wednesday evening at the Tecumseh to arrange for the race meeting, to be held on May 24, 25 and 26, and also to elect directors and other officers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 11.—Despite the bad weather 3,000 people saw the opening of the new Memphis Jockey Club's spring meeting. The event of the day, the Tennessee derby, was won by J. M. Brown's bay colt Tom Elliot, by Luke Blackburn, in 2:08¾. Bolivar Buckner won the fourth race about as he pleased. Helter Skelter galloped in easily in the first race. The other winners were Shadow, Bolivar Buckner and Jim Dunn.

ALL SORTS.

The Guelph Curling and Skating Rink Company (limited), incorporated this session, is losing no time in making preparations for the erection of a handsome rink on the old burying ground. It will be 200x100, and will cost in the neighborhood of $8,000. Nearly all this stock has been subscribed.

The Spirit of the Times announces that on April 30 that paper and the New York Sportsman will be consolidated. It is also announced that early in May the Daily Spirit, an every morning edition of the Spirit of the Times, will be issued, to be devoted exclusively to sporting and dramatic news.

REQUESTED A REVELATION.

Prophet Smith, of the Latter Day Saints, Feels the Need of Guidance.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—At Saturday's session of the International Conference of the Church of Latter Day Saints, a resolution was adopted requesting the Heavenly Father to give a revelation to Prophet Joseph Smith by which he may be guided in filling the vacancies in the church offices. To the same end, Sunday was appointed a day of fasting and prayers.

The quorum of twelve reported adversely on the request of the Detroit branch that missionaries be sent to Canada. It also recommended that no appointments to the ministry be made of men who use tobacco contrary to the revelation of 1888.

GOOD AT FIGURES.

MANTON, Mich., April 11.—A remarkable boy mathematician is at present attracting attention to this village. Frank Northrup is the lad's name, and his age is but 6 years. The boy's parents are receiving letters of inquiry, many of them from amusement managers, but they are not willing to place him upon exhibition. His mathematical powers have come to him naturally. He is boyish in all his acts and in his speech, yet is an old head at figures. He solves mentally and with wonderful rapidity any sum in multiplication, no matter how large the figures.

A correspondent gave him any number of apparently difficult examples. In each instance he would readily move his lips, lisp the figures given, and then return the correct answer. When the figures 4, 9, 7, 7 were placed upon a piece of paper the young man could not give the amount they represented, but readily figured it. He simply knows the figures singly, and has not the least idea of grouping them. Last fall he could not count above twelve, and it was at this time his skill in figures was first recognized. He has attended school but two months. That he has a system of his own by which he works is evident by the thoughtful expression of his face and his repeating difficult questions.

Return in re London Election Brought Down.

The Government in No Hurry to Investigate the Steal.

Amendment of the Abortive Franchise Act Promised — The Sawlog Duty Discussed.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, April 11.—The return was brought down in the House to-day containing the judgments in the London election case.

This afternoon the Secretary of State introduced a bill "respecting the voters' lists of 1891." He explained that the Franchise Act required that voters' lists shall be returned by the revising officer before the 31st of December of each year. For the last revision, he said, the work of the officers had been delayed, so that some of the returns were not made until January and later. This bill was to make these late returns legal. It is proposed, Mr. Patterson said, that there shall be no revision of the lists this year. He also announced that it is the intention of the Government to introduce a bill to simplify the Franchise Act and reduce the expense of its revision.

Mr. Laurier asked if the Government would be prepared to introduce this measure this session.

Mr. Patterson replied that he was not at liberty to give immediate information.

In reply to Mr. McNeill as to what arrangements had been made to carry the Atlantic mails this year, Sir Adolphe Caron stated that a contract had been entered into with the Messrs. Allan from Dec. 16 last which provided that the steamers used should be first-class.

In reply to Mr. Davies Sir Adolphe said that there was a provision in the contract permitting the use of Dominion Line steamers.

Mr. Ives moved "That it is not expedient to impose export duties on sawlogs and spruce pulp wood when exported from Canada."

The debate on the motion lasted until 11 o'clock, and then on the Government declaring its policy not to impose the duty Mr. Ives withdrew his resolution.

Mr. Foster said the imposition of the duty would not get for us any abatement of the McKinley duty on spruce lumber, while is would cause the United States duty on our pine lumber to be doubled. There was nothing to be gained by it and something to lose. So although the Government had taken off the export duty on both spruce and pine logs, while the United States had only reduced their duties on sawn pine, yet there was, the Government considered, not sufficient reason for reimposing it.

Mr. Lister was ready all to-day in the House to move his motion referring the Judge Elliot petition to a committee of the House to see if the charges were sufficient to warrant the appointment of a commission. The Government, it is said, will oppose it, and they were glad of the opportunity given by Mr. Ives' motion about sawlog export duties to hoist the London matter for a day or two. On Wednesday there will be another chance for Mr. Lister unless the Government blocks the way. It was expected the Caron impeachment might come up to-day.

TORONTO TOPICS.

New Regulations for University Students —Three Years for Stealing a Shirt.

At a meeting of the University Senate last week a statute was passed fixing the total fees for medical instruction as follows: First year, $75; second, $75; third, $85; fourth, $85; and providing that the portion of the fee that would be payable by a student as an occasional student in arts shall be credited and form part of the fees in arts. An annual fee of $2 is imposed on every student for the use of the library, the revenue from which is to be devoted exclusively to library purposes.

At this morning's session of the Police Court Wm. Palmer was sentenced to three years in the Penetanguishene Reformatory for the larceny of a shirt from Lanning & Co., of Yonge street.

The city clerk has registered during the past week 88 births, 53 deaths and 34 marriages.

The city treasurer's report for the year shows total revenue, $9,491,934 88, to which is added cash on hand and cash in banks Jan. 1, 1891, $480,715 41. Of the expenditure, $890,750 goes to pay interest on debenture debts, loans, etc.

Cyrus Noble, who carried on a grocery business at the corner of St. Mary and Yonge streets, has skipped out with a girl who was employed as a servant in the neighborhood. He left the city last Monday (at least he has not been seen since), leaving the following letter to his wife:

The accompanying document no doubt will surprise you, but it is the best thing to do. The business is ruined by my name getting around the way it has. You can arrange with the creditors to carry on the business. I have deeded to you the property, so you can do as you like about it. There was nothing between Mary and me. You shall never see me again; when you get this I shall be miles away on my way to a new country. I will change my name and my life and start the world once again. You can tell all my relatives to forget me and think of me no more. Blot me from your memory. Think of me as a thing of the past, and I hope you will be happier without me. Teach the children to forget me. Last week was the longest week I ever lived; I could not live another in Toronto. You need not spend any money trying to find me. I will never return. I think Julia (the shop girl) has been playing the sneak on me, but I forgive her for all she has done; but it will never happen again.

This is all I have to say. Now, cheer up and go on with the business.

From your happy but broken-hearted Billy. C. N.

The girl who is alleged to have won the affections of the gallant grocer was known as Mary McCall, although it is said she has answered to other names in days gone by. She is described as big and coarse. It is thought Noble took away about $800 with him. He was formerly in the employ of T. H. George, a neighboring grocer. Before coming to Toronto he lived in St. Catharines, where his father formerly resided. The latter is now living in Lockport, N. Y.

The City Council to-night voted $20,000 for the establishment of a diphtheria hospital, and apologized to Hon. S. H. Blake for not supporting him in his action on the council's behalf before the legislative committees.

A FAIR NAME SULLIED.

Smith Appropriates Eight Bottles of Ale and Takes Them to Church.

BRANTFORD, April 11.—On Saturday night Aylmer Smith broke into the cellar of Henry Johnston's hotel and stole eight bottles of ale, after which he found his way into the Oxford Street Methodist Church. In the morning at 10 o'clock, when the church was opened, Aylmer was sitting in the pulpit with the ale spread out around him. He was ejected from the church and subsequently arrested. At the Police Court this morning Smith was charged with trespassing on the church property, and also with stealing eight bottles of ale. The first charge was laid over, Smith denying it, but he was shut up for 30 days for taking the ale.

They Blew Out the Gas.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11.—Two couples from the country came here yesterday and were married. Last night they went to the Louisville Hotel and took adjoining rooms, going to bed very early. Nothing was heard from them till this morning, when a boy smelled gas, and breaking open the door found the gas jets in one room on full head and one in the other and all four unconscious. They were revived with difficulty, and one of the brides is not yet out of danger.

The funeral of the late Dr. Jones this afternoon was one of the largest ever held in the city. The remains were taken from the family residence to the Church of St. John the Evangelist, which was crowded to the doors. The service was very impressive, the full choir being present. Rev. W. T. Hill officiated. The pall-bearers were Dr. Moore, C. F. Complin, C. J. Shanly, R. J. C. Dawson, James Douglas and Dr. Fenwick, besides three representatives each from the A. O. U. W. and the Sons of England. The body was interred in Woodland Cemetery.

Drainage and Drainage Laws.

J. B. Rankin, of Chatham, chairman; W. G. McGeorge, P.L.S., of Chatham; Robt. Lamarsh, of Leamington, Arch. McIntyre, of Brooke, and E. I. Scully, of Windsor, secretary, composed a board of drain commissioners meeting to-day and to-morrow in the County Council Chamber. They are hearing complaints from residents of this county against the present drainage laws, and will make suggestions to the Ontario Government as to remedies. They will complete their labors to-morrow until after the farmers have finished their spring work. As representatives of the farming community there are present: T. E. Robson, reeve of London township; H. Garnett, reeve of Delaware; W. Scott, deputy reeve of Delaware; Wm. Wood, deputy-reeve of Dorchester, and Wm. Fraser, clerk of McGillivray. The main complaint comes from men living on low lands. They object to those living on higher lands using nature's law that water flows down hill, and argue that they should be compelled to drain surface water to a proper outlet.

Winding Up the Company.

At Osgoode Hall yesterday in the case re Ontario Casket Company, Hoyles, Q.C., and Gibbons, Q.C., for H. H. Wolff & Co., creditors, moved for an order for the winding up of the company under the Dominion Winding-up Act. J. Parkes, for Samuels, Benjamin & Co., also creditors of the company and petitioners in similar proceedings taken subsequently to and with knowledge of the present proceedings as a matter of prosecution, doubt being felt as to the jurisdiction of the master or a judge in chambers. A. J. Arnold, for the company, consented to a winding-up order being made, but asked that the second petition be dismissed with costs as unnecessary. The learned judge, without definitely ruling on the question of jurisdiction, made the order on the first application, directing it to be drawn up as a court order, the second petitioners being allowed to withdraw their petition without costs. Reference to the local master at London to appoint a liquidator.

He Advertised for a Wife.

A telegram received to-day from Winnipeg says: "The bigamy case against Mrs. Burk, alias Dale, was before the courts yesterday and developed a sad ignorance of Canada's marriage laws. Burk, who lives near Rathwell, Man., advertised for a wife about a year ago and received a reply from Miss Loder, of London, Ont. The woman went to Winnipeg and wedded Burk on the same day of arrival, Rev. Mr. Allen performing the ceremony. They proceeded to the farm, but soon found that they did not care for each other, and in two or three months Burk's partner, named Dale, became intimate with the woman. It was then agreed that Dale should take her as his wife on condition that the couple would go away and leave Burk in quiet possession of the farm. The marriage ring was returned to Burk and the certificate and license torn up, and Dale and Mrs. Burk left for Winnipeg, where Rev. Mr. Crews, who was ignorant of the former marriage, performed the marriage ceremony. Dale and the woman went to Moose Jaw, where they lived happily together until the arrest of Mrs. Burk last week. In addressing the court yesterday the Deputy Attorney-General said the whole trouble evidently arose from ignorance of the laws, and the case was a painful one; but as the information had been laid the Crown was compelled to prosecute. After hearing the evidence of the clergymen who performed the ceremonies Mrs. Burk was committed and she elected for speedy trial. The case will probably be heard to-day."

Fooled the Barber.

Joe Paladino, the treasurer of the Academy of Music, has a brother, Lou, so much like him that even those who have known both of them for years cannot tell them apart. They are exactly alike in size, appearance, style and voice. Lou came down from London the other day to manage Frank Kirchmer's benefit, and went around to a York street barber shop to get shaved.

"Good morning, Joe," said the friendly tonsorial artist. "Going to have a good house to-night?"

Lou said he expected so, and went on talking without explaining the difference, and left the barber under the impression that he had shaved Joe. Half an hour afterward in walked Joe and asked for a shave.

The barber looked more than astonished.

"Are you crazy?" he said; "I shaved you half an hour ago."

"My chin doesn't look like it, does it?"

The man of razors had to admit it didn't, but he couldn't understand how it came about.

"I'll swear I shaved you within an hour, but I suppose I'll have to do it again," he finally remarked.

"I swear you didn't," said Joe.

"Well, then, I must have been crazy and not you, but I did shave you this morning, all the same."

It was some time before the barber found out his mistake.—[Toronto News.

It may be used without the slightest apprehension of and other than salutary consequences. Coughs, rheumatism, earache, bruises, cuts and sores succumb to its action.

Thousands of men laid aside their ulsters last month without a thought of the Prince of Wales, who went riding in an Irish jaunting car one winter's day and bought or borrowed a peasant's greatcoat to keep him warm. Among the pains and aches cured with marvelous rapidity with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, is ear-ache. The Little Minister.

By J. M Barrie,

AUTHOR OF "WINDOW IN THRUMS," "WHEN A MAN'S SINGLE," "MY LADY NICOTINE," ETC.

He did not press me further, thinking I meant that the distance was too great, though frailer folk than I walked twenty miles to hear him. We might have parted thus had we not wandered by chance to the very spot where I had met him and Babbie. There is a seat there now for those who lose their breath on the climb up, and so I have too reasons nowadays for not passing the place by.

We read each other's thoughts, and Gavin said calmly, "I have not seen her since that night. She disappeared, as into a grave."

How could I answer when I knew that Babbie was dying for want of him, not half a mile away?

"You seemed to understand everything that night," he went on; "or if you did not, your thoughts were very generous to me."

In my sorrow for him I did not notice that we were moving on again, this time in the direction of Windyghoul.

"She was only a gypsy girl," he said, abruptly, and I nodded. "But I hoped," he continued, "that she would be my wife."

"I understood that," I said.

"There was nothing monstrous to you," he asked, looking me in the face, "in a minister's marrying a gypsy?"

I owned that if I had loved a girl, however far below or above me in degree, I would have married her had she been willing to take me. But to Gavin I only answered, "these are matters a man must decide for himself."

"I had decided for myself," he said, emphatically.

"Yet," I said, wanting him to talk to me of Margaret, "in such a case one might have others to consider besides himself."

"A man's marriage," he answered, "is his own affair. I would have brooked no interference from my congregation."

I thought, "there is some obstinacy left in him still;" but aloud I said, "it was of your mother I was thinking."

"She would have taken Babbie to her heart," he said, with the fond conviction of a lover.

I doubted it, but I only asked, "Your mother knows nothing of her?"

"Nothing," he rejoined. "It would be cruelty to tell my mother of her now that she is gone."

Gavin's calmness had left him, and he was striding quickly nearer to Windyghoul. I was in dread less he should see the Egyptian at Nanny's door, yet to have turned him in another direction might have roused his suspicions. When we were within a hundred yards of the mudhouse, I knew that there was no Babbie in sight. We halved the distance and then I saw her at the open window. Gavin's eyes were on the ground, but she saw him. I held my breath fearing that she would run out to him.

"You have never seen her since that night?" Gavin asked me, without hope in his voice.

Had he been less hopeless he would have wondered why I did not reply immediately. I was looking covertly at the mudhouse, of which we were now within a few yards. Babbie's face had gone from the window, and the door remained shut. That she could hear every word we uttered now I could not doubt. But she was hiding from the man for whom her soul longed. She was sacrificing herself for him.

"Never," I answered, notwithstanding my pity for the brave girl, and then while I was shaking lest he should go in to visit Nanny, I heard the echo of the Auld Licht bell.

"That calls me to the meeting for rain," Gavin said, bidding me good-night. I had acted for Margaret, and yet I had hardly the effrontery to take his hand. I suppose he saw sympathy in my face, for suddenly the cry broke from him,

"If I could only know that nothing evil had befallen her!"

Babbie heard him and could not restrain a heart-breaking sob.

"What was that?" he said starting.

A moment I waited, to let her show herself if she chose. But there was silence a gain in the mudhouse.

"It was some boy in the wood," I answered.

"Good-bye," he said, trying to smile.

Had I let him go, here would have been the end of his love story, but that piteous smile unmanned me, and I could not keep the words back.

"She is in Nanny's house!" I cried.

In a moment those two were together for weal or woe, and I had set off dizzily for the school-house, feeling now that I had been false to Margaret, and again exulting in what I had done. By-and-by the bell stopped, and Gavin and Babbie regarded it as little as I heeded the burns now crossing the glen road noisily at places that had been dry two hours before.

CHAPTER XXIX.

God gives us more than, were we not over-bold, we should dare to ask for, and yet how often (perhaps after saying "Thank God" so curtly that it is only a form of swearing) we are suppliants again within the hour. Gavin was to be satisfied if he were told that no evil had befallen her he loved, and all the way between the school-house and Windyghoul Babbie craved for more than Gavin's life. Now they had got their desires; but do you think they were content?

The Egyptian had gone on her knees when she heard Gavin speak of her. It was her way of preventing herself from running to him. Then when she thought him gone, he opened the door. She shrank back, but first she had stepped toward him with a glad cry. His disappointed arms met on nothing.

"You, too, heard that I was dead?" he said, thinking her strangeness but grief too sharply turned to joy.

There were tears in the word with which she answered him, and he would have kissed her, but she defended her face with her hand.

"Babbie," he asked, beginning to fear that he had not sounded her deepest woe, "why have you left me all this time? You are not glad to see me now?"

"I was glad," she answered in a low voice, "to see you from the window, but I prayed to God not to let you see me."

She even pulled away her hand when he would have taken it. "No, no," she cried, "I am to tell you everything now, and then——"

"Say that you love me first," he broke in, when a sob checked her speaking.

"No," she said, "I must tell you first what I have done, and then you will not ask me to say that. I am not a gypsy."

"What of that?" answered Gavin. "It was not because you were a gypsy that I loved you."

"That is the last time you will say you love me," said Babbie. "Mr. Dishart, I am to be married to-morrow."

She stopped afraid to say any more lest he should fall, but except that his arms twitched he did not move.

"I am to be married to Lord Rintoul," she went on. "Now you know who I am."

She turned from him, for his piercing eyes frightened her. Never again, she knew, would she see the love-light in them. He plucked himself from the spot where he had stood looking at her and walked to the window. When he wheeled round there was no anger on his face, only a pathetic wonder that he had been deceived so easily. It was at himself that he was smiling grimly rather than at her. He sat down on a chair, and waited for her to go on.

"Don't look at me," she said, "and I will tell you everything." He dropped his eyes listlessly, and had he not asked her a question from time to time she would have doubted whether he had heard her.

"After all," she said, "a gypsy dress is my birthright, and so the Thrums people were scarcely wrong in calling me an Egyptian. It is a pity anyone insisted on making me something different. I believe I could have been a good gypsy."

"Who were your parents?" Gavin asked, without looking up.

"You ask that," she said, "because you have a good mother. It is not a question that would occur to me. My mother—— If she was bad may not that be some excuse for me? Ay, but I have no wish to excuse myself. Have you seen a gypsy cart with a sort of hammock swung beneath it in which gypsy children are carried about the country? If there are no children the pots and pans are stored in it. Unless the roads are rough it makes a comfortable cradle, and it is the only one I ever knew. Well, one day I suppose the road was rough, for I was capsized. I remember picking myself up after a little and running after the cart, but they did not hear my cries. I sat down by the roadside and gazed after the cart until I lost sight of it. That was in England, and I was not three years old."

"But surely," Gavin said, "they came back to look for you?"

"So far as I know," Babbie answered hardly, "they did not come back. I have never seen them since. I think they were drunk. My only recollection of my mother is that she once took me to see the dead body of some gypsy who had been murdered. She told me to dip my hand in the blood, that I might be able to boast of it in after days. It was meant as a treat to me, and is the one kindness I am sure I got from her. Curiously enough, I felt the shame of her deserting me for many years afterwards. As a child I cried hysterically at thought of it; it pained me when I was at school in Edinburgh every time I saw the other girls writing home; I cannot think of it without a shudder even now. It is what makes me worse than other women."

Carter's Little Liver Pills must not be confounded with common Cathartic or Purgative Pills, as they are entirely unlike them in every respect. One trial will prove their superiority

Surgical operations are very successful in Japan, and the healing process is rapid, owing probably to the abstinence of the people from alcohol and their not being flesh eaters.

A man's wife should always be the same especially to her husband; but if she is weak and nervous and uses Carter's Iron Pills, she cannot be, for they will make her "feel like a different person," at least so they all say, and their husbands say so, too.

OLIVER AMES.

The Massachusetts Ex-Governor Asserts Himself.

Ex-Governor Oliver Ames, of Massachusetts, does not propose to remain in graceful retirement, and insists that he shall have political recognition both for himself and the Bay State. Not since 1872, when Henry Wilson was elected Vice-President, has Massachusetts had a place on the National ticket. His determination to go to Minneapolis as a delegate-at-large has created a breeze in political circles. The ex-Governor says: "Many prominent Republicans have assured me that they agree with me, and many of those who left the Republican party on the tariff issue have said to me that if the party should indorse my stand on the question they would be pleased to leave their Democratic associates and return to the Republican party. I do not believe in making the party any smaller than it is. If a man is to be read out of the party because he does not believe every line of the McKinley Bill, because he believes in free iron ore and ample duties on pig iron, and is opposed to prohibitive duties, then the Republican party will soon be small enough."

The ex-Governor was born in Boston on Feb. 4, 1834, and learned the business of shovel making in his father's factory. On his father's death Oliver succeeded to the business, from which he amassed a large fortune. In 1886 Mr. Ames was the Republican candidate for Governor and was of course elected.

HAVE A CARE WHICH YOU SELECT!

Be Not Deceived!

There will be imitators—we might almost call them forgers—as long as the big round world lasts. Men take advantage of the ignorance of a large class, and introduce goods and preparations with a name almost similar to the genuine and popular article. The Department of Medicine has recently been invaded by these imitators, and we find that Paine's Celery Compound and its extended popularity has received the attention of some who are anxious for fame and fortune.

It is our duty at this time to warn all sufferers and friends of sufferers that there are two remedies now on the market using the name "Celery Compound," but both far inferior to Paine's Celery Compound in power, worth and virtue, and the curing of disease. These imitation remedies occupy the same position towards Paine's Celery Compound, as cheap glass does to the diamond. Men and women are wanted to be careful when buying. See that "Paine's" is on every bottle, as well as the "Bunch or Stalk of Celery." All preparations without these are simply imitations, and cannot possibly give the satisfaction expected.

There is only one real and genuine Celery Compound, and it is known as "PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND." It is the only one that has given such grand and wonderful results; it is the only one that has successfully grappled with disease; it is the only one that publishes honest and genuine testimonials. Again we say, avoid all imitations.

has two pipes, one covering the valve rod (dry pipe) and the one conveying the water to the spout (wet pipe). The rod in this hydrant is actuated by a brass screw and handle above, and raising plunger the smallest fraction of an inch, closes waste before any water can enter discharge pipe. With the valve open we have the full and unobstructed flow of water through the hydrant which can well be compared to a straight way valve or round-way cock. Closing the valve empties all water from wet pipe through dry hole. To repair hydrant or washer remove top cap or plate and withdraw plunger valve. It can be readily repaired without digging up.

No Wonder.

Why should it be so often repeated that it is the surest, promptest, best remedy, when doctors are surprised at its effects.—Lawrence, Kans., U. S. A., "George Patterson fell from a second story window striking a fence. I found him using St. Jacobs Oil. He used it freely all over his hurts, and I saw him next morning at work. All the blue spots finally disappeared, leaving neither pain, scar nor swelling. C. K. NEUMANN, M.D.

Affections once firmly set are generally tenacious, no matter what the object may be. To the fact the success of H. McKay & Co., of this city, is largely due. Those who have tried their Norma cigars never forsake them, and thus the firm retains all their old customers, and by the reputation only of the goods add new ones to the roll. For excellence the Norma at 10 cents is unrivalled.

Frank Becker, the Tramp, Committed for Trial on a Charge of Burglary.

Frank J. Bishop, of the hardware firm of J. Bishop & Son, of Brantford, laid an information before the police magistrate this morning charging Frank Becker, the tramp arrested in this city on March 27, for having firearms in his possession, with having broken into his store and stolen nine revolvers, 25 pocket knives and a safe key. Of the seven revolvers found with Becker Mr. Bishop positively identified three as he did also the key. He produced empty boxes found in the store the morning after the burglary which contained the same make of knives as those taken from Becker. A number of razors found on the prisoner were identified as exactly like some kept in stock. Entrance was obtained to the store by breaking in a back window on the second flat. The magistrate committed Becker for trial.

EGGS AT EASTER.

[From Harper's Bazar.]

The use of eggs for Easter can be traced, says Count de Gebelin in his Religious History of the Calendar, to the theology and philosophy of the Egyptians, Persians, Gauls, Greeks, and Romans, among all of whom an egg was a symbol of the universe, the work of the supreme divinity. The Persians gave presents of eggs at the feast of the New Year—i.e., the feast of the vernal equinox—in honor of the renewal of all things. "The Egyptians held the egg as a sacred emblem of the renovation of mankind after the deluge. The Jews adopted it to suit the circumstances of their history, as a type of their departure from Egypt, and it was used in the feast of the Passover as part of the furniture of the table with the Paschal lamb." The early Druids used the egg in their ceremonies.

In Russia one man greets another on Easter with "Jesus Christ is risen." "Yes, he is risen," reply is made; and then an egg is given. In Moscow no meeting takes place without this salutation and exchange "The meanest pauper in the street presenting an egg and repeating the words 'Christos Voscrees' may demand a salute even of the Empress." In some countries of Italy eggs are carried to the church to be blessed, and then taken home and set out with flowers on the table. Every visitor during Easter week is invited to eat an Easter egg, an invitation which must not be refused. Eggs in all countries are sent as tokens at this time, and enter into the sentiments and pastimes of old a young alike.

Billy Van, who appeared here this season with Gorman's Minstrels, has signed an agreement to appear with Primrose & West next season.

Weedon Grossmith and Brandon Thomas, former leading lights with Rosina Vokes, will star jointly next season in America under the managership of Ariel N. Barney.

William Harris, who has appeared as Rhea's leading man for the past two seasons, will retire from that compay shortly and have charge of the performances given at the Soldiers' Home, Dayton, Ohio.

The Musical Courier states that the practical results of Paderewski's visit to the United States is a cash netting of $109,316, exclusive of twelve private engagements at $1,000 each. "His season has been extraordinary, but throughly well deserved. His playing, like his personality, is both lovable and brilliant, and all pianists should be grateful for the dignity with which Paderewski has invested their art and the honors which he has won for it."

Mme. Patti gives a little talk on musical theory as follows. When questioned as to the secret of her good health and the retention of her voice, she said: "I keep my temper and stick to regular hours." She added this valuable suggestion: "Never loose your temper. No woman can keep young who often loses her temper. When I feel that my temper is getting the better of me, I get up and leave the room. Avoid all excesses of every kind. Be moderate in all things."

Card of Thanks.

To Mr. F. Parsons, officers and members of Loyal Star of the West, No. 126: Please accept my deep gratitude for the prompt and kind manner in which you discharged your duty towards my son, the prompt payment of $40 for funeral benefit, the $1,000 insurance, and for the letter of sympathy I have since received.
