The great flood was preceded by severe earthquakes. Then followed a downpour such as has never been experienced on the islands. European residents were panic-stricken, and sought shelter on the high lands. The Minatogawa overflowed its banks at midnight on the 26th inst., and the waters inundated the streets and fields and swept away 300 houses and drowned 200 people at Kobe. After twelve hours' work the broken embankments were repaired by sand bags. To make the fate of Kobe worse, a fire broke out late in the evening, and, fanned by the high wind, spread over the entire city. One thousand nine hundred blocks, including 2,260 houses and twelve go-downs, were destroyed totally, and ten houses, two police boxes, one fire brigade station, four temples and one theater. The burned area comprises ter streets. The total damage by fire was 1,000,000 yen. On Sept. 1, in Rokugo district, a terrible series of earthquakes shook the country. Nine people were killed there, and more than 40 at Hataya, Senya, Takanashi, CANADIAN HORSES.

The Sultan "the Great Assassin" - Will France Aid a Settlement ?-Lowles Corrects Himself.

London, Sept. 24.-In his latest de-

I have read in some Austrian | southwards. They were pursued by the newspapers an affected scruple against sole action by any one state in European crises, but there are two firstclass powers who will not make that scruple their own. One of those is Russia, who, in 1878, earned lasting honors by liberating Bulgaria and curity of the other Balkan States. The other is France, who, in 1840, to bring about that horrible transcendent calamity, but I gravely doubt whether she was not right and the combined powers wrong in their policy of that period. Mr. Gladstone proeeds to denounce the "great assassin," and continues: "For more than overcome, and the goal which was the a year he has triumphed over the object of the expedition has been diplomacy of the six powers. The Rule of the Khalifa Breken-Plans for the Future.

Dongola, on the Nile, Sept. 23 .- The Egyptian flag was hoisted over Dongola today. The Dervishes are in full flight, and are being pursued by the gunboats on the river and by the cavalry on the west bank of the Nile. The advance was ordered at an early hour this morning, and the Anglo-Egyptian forces were close upon the Dervishes before the latter were called to arms. But the Dervishes were quickly thrown into a state of demoralization, and fled gunboats, cavalry and camel corps. Emirs of importance surrendered, and a number of the Dervish troops announced their willingness to serve under the Egyptian flag, which was soon afterwards formally hoisted over Dongola, which is now occupied by the Anglo-Egyptian force. campaign proper is thus brought to a speedy and eminently successful conclusion. Much more, however, remains to be done in order to complete the reconquest of the Soudan, reclaim that vast territory for civilization, and rescue hundreds of thousands of tribesmen from the cruel despotism of the Khalifa. But it is not believed that any further advance will be made for the present. Wad Bishara succeeded in escaping, closely pursued, and, according to the latest advices, has not been captured. Among the emirs who fell into the hands of the Anglo-Egyptian troops were Hassan Neiumi and Abdul Diam. They say that the rule of the Khalifa will be completely broken by the repeated defeats of the Dervish forces, who, thus far, have failed almost entirely to inflict any loss upon the Anglo-Egyptian troops. In addition to the emirs and large numbers of Dervish soldiers who fell into the hands of the troops of the expedition. the latter captured six field guns, a largt quantity of ammunition, and great stores of grain, etc., besides many flocks of sheep, herds of cattle and many camels. Dongola will now be reconstructed on better lines the work of fortifying the posts, vinages Wady Halfa, over 200 miles distant, will be completed, and the railroad will be carried south to this point with all possible haste.

London, Sept. 24.-Judging from the tone of the Russian press, Russia does not like the prospect of England's gaining greater power Egypt, as she might be a menace to the powers using the Suez Canal. ### MISSIONARIES WRECKED Their Special Schooner Goes Down-Picked Up by a Vessel.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 23 .- The South Sea missionary schooner Josephites Evanila has foundered at sea longitude 147 degress west, latitude 14 degrees 30 minutes south, July 26. The Evanila was sailing between Pomsto and Tahiti, when she was caught in a storm which so strained her that her seams opened and she filled and sank. Capt. McGrath, the cook, and several missionaries who were on board took to the small boats none too soon to save themselves from eing carried down with the wreck. After drifting about for 26 hours they were picked up by a southbound vessel and landed safely on the Island of Tahiti. The Evanila was built on this coast not long ago. It cost about $40,000 to construct her and fit her out.

Of course, the $5 did not enable me to see the sights that call for money. I rode around almost every day and was impressed with the number of cyclists and horseless carriages on the boule-vards. I saw a number of young wheelwomen whose costumes would call for criticism here. They look stunning, though; for myself I prefer a more modest attire.

It is claimed that Washington, D. C., has more cyclists, in proportion to its population, than any other city in the world. Hickory promises to play an important part in the manufacture of bicycles in the way of handle-bars for the wheel of '97.

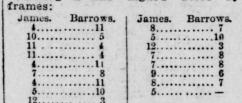

The wheel of '97 will differ very little in its essential parts from that of '96. The weight will remain about the same. So say manufacturers. The narrow tire has seen its day and next season the indications are that there will be a return to the old two-inch, which came in with the safety. For road work they are much preferable to the small tire, gliding over the stones partially concealed by the dust almost without any diminution in speed.

AUSTRIALIANS VICTORIOUS. Bergen Point, N. J., Sept. 23.—The Australian cricketers commenced their two days' match with the New Jersey Athletic Club team on the grounds of the home club at Bergen Point today. Twelve men a side were played. The home club could make no headway against the terrific bowling of Jones, the Colonials' fast bowler, and were all dismissed for 28. This is the smallest total for which the Australians have got rid of any opposition during their tour, with the exception of their match against Gloucestershire, when Grace's county were all out on the first inning for 18. Jones took eight wickets for six runs. The Colonials ended their first inning at 5:05 for 253 runs, so that it is more than probable that the local team will suffer defeat tomorrow, by an inning and a good many runs to spare. He will be back again next week as a guest of the Country and Hunt Club, and will bring Mrs. Gaudaur with him. It is thought that Edward Hanlan will soon issue a challenge to Gaudaur to row a three-mile race for $1,000 a side. Hanlan said only a few nights ago that he would try and arrange a match with Gaudaur as soon as the reception was over, and that he had the $1,000 ready to put up.

Chatham, Sept. 24.—That John Boyle, of Dover township, met death by foul means, there now seems to be no doubt. The more that comes to light concerning the circumstances of his death, the firmer becomes the conviction that his assailants in the assault at Morpeth on Saturday night were at Morpeth on Saturday night were men who must soon stand in court charged with his death. The inquest was opened at Jahnke's mortuary by Coroner Bray, and evidence that greatly strengthens the theory of murder was brought out. In the evimurder was brought out. In the evidence it was brought out that one witness was told by the dead man on Monday that one of the men who had assaulted him struck him on the neck with a stick. Although he was rendered unconscious by the blow, and lay in that condition through the entire night, Boyle knew with what he was struck. On the right side of the neck was a bruise showing where he blow which felled him had been delivered by the assailant, and corroborating in a remarkable way Boyle's own testimony.

The evidence went to show conclusively that death was caused by the wounds received in the fight, and not, as supposed, by being run over by the wagon. The boy Hinds, who was with the deceased at Morpeth, swore that he knew one of the assailants, but the others he did the assailants, but the others he did not know. By the death of his brother, Mr. J. M. Lumsden becomes heir to the estate of Belhelvie, in Aberdeenshire, it being entailed. The Reformer has not learned whether Mr. Lumsden intends removing to Scotland to take possession of the estate, but it is sure should he so decide, that all the citizens will regret his departure. Since coming to Galt, Mr. Lumsden has taken an active interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the town, and has always given his support to whatever tended to improve or develop

It in any way. We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. J. D. begin and take out their last season's Lively Scene When the New Gov. ernment Was Upheld by a Majority of 37.

> A Toronto Conservative M. P. Tells Mr. Foster That His Speech Is Hurtful to the Country.

Ottawa, Sept. 24.-The House of Commons was divided for the second time at the conclusion of last night's 1891, when the late Government sent debate, and the Government's majority was 37. The Opposition was not satisfied with the vote on the Governor-General's warrants the other week. So Mr. Foster bent his skill to the framing of a resolution on the tariff issue, which was expected to show just where the division lines of the House are. The result is that the majority of 34 on the previous division was last night increased to 37. All the Independents, including Mr. Robertson, of East Toronto, voted with the Government. Mr. McGillivray. who has told everybody that he would not sit in the seat which he admits is his by reason of ballot-stuffing, was not strong enough to withstand the appeals which his party made so that the majority might be as small as

A MAJORITY OF 37. The vote was then taken, with the result that Mr. Foster's amendment was lost by 76 to 113, the Government majority being 37. The division fol-

The Second Division.

The second division in the House ons was even more favor-In the initial counting of re was a majority of 34 in Premier Laurier's favor. In the division last night the Government had a majority of 37.

It was a mistake of Sir Charles Tupper to divide the House in an attempted condemnation of the new Government because it took reasonable steps to provide the necessary funds with which to pay the employes of the country. It was known to all that but for the mismanagement of the late Government such a contingency would never have arisen, and the debate and division but made that fact more manifest.

Mr. Foster, the late Finance Minster, not to be outdone in rashness by his leader, persisted in dividing the House on a motion to condemn the new Ministers for not bringing down o brand new trade policy in a few days. The House of Commons was in no humor to accept the view of the soolish campers, and we feel assured that the country will indorse the decision arrived at. Nothing could be more detrimental to the welfare of Canada than the carrying out of the advice of the defeated and discredited politicians who are now in Opposition. The country will give the Ministers reasonable time to prepare their policy, and no interest will suffer, because careful inquiry precedes necessary legislation.

The United States pension list is now believed to have reached its maximum. There was on the roll of civil war pensioners on June 30 last 970,678 persons. But from this out, the numbers will steadily decrease. Last year over 44,000 persioners died, but the putting on of "held-overs" increased the list by several thousands But for the money expended in pensions, the taxes of the people over the border would be very low.

Room for the Right Men.

The season's immigration into Canada last year is shown to be ten per to see a very large influx of hardy settlers and capitalists, prepared to go west and grow up with the country. There is abundance of room for profitable development both in Northwestern Ontario and in Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia,

Sir Mackenzie Gets Even.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who was ousted from the Conservative leadership by the "nest of traitors," as he called them, is getting even with Sir Charles Tupper. Sir Mackenzie has now resumed full control of the Belleville intelligencer, and this is what he says of the recommendations made to his Excellency by the Tupper Govern-

"Some of the recommendations made by the late Ministry after the 23rd June last may have been quite proper; if so the country has a right to require from the Opposition that the blame for their non-ratification be put on the right shoulders. Some of their recommendations, however, were, it is now known, hopelessly indefensible, and an assent thereto would have been as unworthy the dignity of the crown as their proposal was humiliating to the great party that is unfor-tunately held responsible for them."

Does any reasonable man support the Tupper tirade against the representative of her Majesty?

Bad Advice.

In a recent speech in Parliament Mr. Davin, a Conservative M.P., who is in the House by virtue of the casting vote of a returning officer, urged Premier Laurier to get rid of Hon. Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works. Mr. Laurier should do no such thing.

The late Hon. Isaac Buchanan, a shrewd politician, used to lay it down, as a fixed rule for a political leader, that he should discover what his enemy wanted him to do, and then do the opposite. Moreover, the member for Pile o' Bones is scarcely a safe counselor.

Work Ahead to Benefit All. The Dominion House of Commons consideration an important report drawn up by a committee of members of the House directly interested in farming. This report points out that the agricultural class forms at once the greatest producers and the largest consumers of any class in the Dominion, and that upon its prosperity depends the prosperity of Canada as a whole. Therefore it is argued that farmers should only be called upon to pay their fair share of taxation. It is demonstrated that the high protective system has injured the farmer, and the committee holds that the tariff should be readjusted notwithstanding the loss inevitable that must follow The committee protests against railway discrimination, and speaks favorably of a railway commission to lishment of cold storage. This is its view of the benefits of the system: "In the opinion of the committee it from their perishable character can-not be shipped, and articles which, although now sold for export, suffer much from climatic causes and natural decay, whereby their value is reduced one-half (which cold storage would avoid), that the value of the farm products, including in this term the widest signification of animals and goods produced on the farm, would be increased fully 25 per cent. The com-mittee have been led to adopt this conclusion by the reflection that meats, cheese, fruit, poultry, butter and eggs would benefit to an extent that it is difficult to exaggerate. For such a result a reasonable expenditure is surely warranted, and on public grounds can be fully justified. The scheme to be a success involves the establishment of cold storage warehouses in central parts of the Provinces and of the Northwest, and what may be considered a cold storage chain of communicareaching therefrom to the important centers where food products are in demand and command the high-

The committee is of opinion that these results cannot be attained, in a reasonably short time, without Government aid, such as has been supplied by the Australian colonies and by Denmark. It is conceded to be fair that the railways should be induced, by reasonable subventions, to run trains so as to accommodate the new cold storage traffic, and that ocean steamships should be likewise rewarded for providing the necessary accommodation, and in return it is proposed that the Government shall ask for a guarantee that reasonable freight rates shall be charged. Attached to the cold animals unsuitable for export alive might be properly prepared for transportation as dead meat.

The Street Car Fender. The ideal street car fender has not yet been discovered, if we accept the testimony of the president of the New York State Railway Association. In his annual address, he said:

"The question of fenders is still confronting us and is a most perplexing problem. More patents for street car fenders have been granted during the past few years than for any other class of inventions. It is stated on good authority that there are upwards of 4,000 on the market, and I dare not estimate the number left in the brain of would-be inventors. It is the opinion of many street railway men that the fender is a menace. I stated last year, and still believe, that the best fender for the front end of a car is a clear-headed motor-man. These remarks emphasize the neecssity for street railway companies employing the best available men to man their cars, and prove the wisdom of the pedestrian or driver who keeps as far as possible from the fender end of a moving car,

What Is Electricity?

The Wonderful Force Which Does so Much for Mankind.

Something That No Man Can as Yet Fully Describe.

"What is electricity?" That is a question no man can yet fully answer. In a great electric station you may see a huge engine "turning over" two announced his willingness to make big copper wheels. They are doing before the meeting called by the Reno work, and require little steam. But the wheels turn at the Herbert Gladstone, and other members same speed; you cannot see or feel any of the family arrived in the city at difference. The men who make the dynamos and the men who operate them know how to product electricity, but Mr. Edison himself, standing by an Edison dynamo, could only tell you the "how," and not the "why." Yet for thousands of years this great power has been in the universe, waiting for nineteenth-century man literally to find it out. All forces act in this "line of self heard, Mr. Gladstone, after a few least resistance." Silver, copper, etc., are of "low resistance" to electric force, and are good "conductors" of electricity; paraffine, rubber, glass, mica, are of "high resistance," will not conduct, and are "insulators." every conductor resists somewhat—there is some "loss" or "drop," the electricity turning into heat; every insulator conducts somewhat-there is some "leakage" of current. Force must always do work; no force can be lost. If the man in the crowd, as he is pushed and pulled, puts his and on the man in front of him, and he on the next, to the edge of the crowd, and the last man grips a pump-handle, the push and pull at the center, thus passed on, will work the pump. This is how work is done at distance by the force of electricity. If the men are close together in a ring, and one shoves forward, the shove will be passed all around the ring till the first man's shove hits himself in the back. The men would not

When the applause had been calmed down, Mr. Gladstone declared his adhesion to the principles contained in the resolution, and said he came there not claiming any authority, except that of a citizen of Liverpool. But, he added, the national platform upon which the meeting was based gave greater authority for sentiments universally entertained throughout the length and breadth of the land, and urged that in this matter party sympathies should be renounced. Continuing. Mr. Gladstone said:

as Europe is content to listen. Mr. Gladstone then expressed the opinion that the purpose of the gathering was defensive and prospective, saying that no one could hold out the hope that the massacres were ended although he ventured to anticipate that the words spoken at the meeting would find their way to the palace at Constantinople. (Loud cheers.) Mr. Gladstone then said: "I doubt If it is an exaggeration to say that it was in the Sultan's palace and there only that the inspiration has been supplied and the policy devised of the whole series of massacres. Such a course is frequent, and would not give the right of complaint to anybody. When diplomatic relations are suspended England should inform the Sultan that she would consider the means of enforcing her just and humane demands. Europe will make war to insure the continuance of massacres more terrible than ever recorded in the dismal deplorable history of human crime." (Loud cheering.)

Mr. Gladstone, who spoke for about twenty minutes, was in good voice, and did not seem fatigued when he had finished. Before the arrival of the Gladstone party and the distinguished guests in the auditorium of Hengler's circus today, there was a spontaneous outburst of patriotism, and everybody present stood bareheaded and joined in singing "God Save the Queen." Copies of the resolutions adopted will be forwarded to the Cabinet Ministers.

An Awful Conspiracy

the Prosecutor Edward Ivory.

Accused of Soliciting Men to Blow up British Buildings - Tell Tale Letters.

London, Sept. 24.-Edward J. Ivory, alias Edward Bell, the American saloon-keeper who was recently arrested at Glasgow, charged with being connected with the alleged dynamite conspiracy of which P. J. Tynan is said to be the moving spirit, was arraigned at Bow Street Police Court this morning. Mr. C. F. Gill, who prosecuted the prisoner for the Treasury Department, said that his real name was Ivory, and charged him with conspir-ing with Tynan, Kearney, and Haines to cause dynamite explosions in the United Kingdom and also with aiding and abetting dynamite offenses.

Mr. Gill claimed that the four men mentioned left New York, in August, and he said it was quite clear that they were supplied with money sent to this country by a Fenian organiza-tion in New York for the purpose of going to Antwerp, preparing bombs and dynamite, and then securing men in London or Glasgow to commit the actual explosions. Continuing, Mr. Gill said that the date of Sept. 15 had been fixed upon as the time whey they contemplated that the last step of the conspiracy would be consummated. Ivory, Mr. Gill adds, left New York on Aug. 19, reached Southampton on Aug. 26, and proceeded to London, his special duty being to interview persons considered likely to be willing to engage in the crimes proposed.

The prosecutor then gave the dates of the different movements of the four men, saying that they employed a cipher code in communicating with each other. Later Mr. Gill read the letter sent by Tynan to Ivory, and hose sent by Ivory to Tynan. A long letter to Tynan was also read, in which Ivory charged Tynan with "hugging the shores of France too much" and not forwarding the

The First Time the Feat Has Been Accomplished by Man.

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—Charles afternoon swam across the Golden Gate, from shore to shore, accompanied by a fleet of sailboats and many screaming steamers and tugs.

Cavill is said to be the first and only man who ever accomplished this feat. He was 1 hour and 15 minutes in swimming across the gateway of waters. The distance straight across is only about one mile and a quarter, but before his feet touched tom on the opposite shore, Cavill had swum seven miles. The tide, a very strong ebb stream, did it. He went into the water at 3:30, and at 4:45 he walked ashore on the other side. Throngs of spectators dotting the heights applauded the finish.

BALLOON SPLIT OPEN.

Malone, Sept. 24.-In attempting to make a balloon ascension yesterday at the Franklin county fair, C. C. Bounette, the balloonist, was badly injured. The balloon, after ascending several hundred feet, split open, and almost instantly tumbled ground. The ropes to the parachute had become twisted, so that Bounette could not cut loose. The parachute partially opened, but careened over as the balloon dropped. Bounette had several ribs broken and was badly bruised.

THE E. B. A.

The Emerald Beneficial Association decided to hold next year's convention at Lindsay. The convention revised the constitution. The salaries of organizers were dealt with. Stratford made an effort to get the gathering. The mayor of that town sent a personal initation, but Stratford had the convention recently, and this was a point against it. The debate on the centralization of the sick funds of local branches in the grand branch was continued. The proposed change was disproved of. It was decided that hereafter organizers be paid $3 a day and their railway expenses. In the event of their failure to establish a branch, organizers' fees must not exceed $2 a day and expenses.

Is Bicycle Riding Injurious? There is a possibility that the fervor exhibited by all classes for the bicycle carries with it an element of danger. Exercise is essential to vigorous health, but in disease, or in those cases where the muscular force is greatly reduced, the use of the wheel should be employed cautiously. The proprietors of the very well known remedy, Putnam's Corn Extractor, attribute the largeness of their sales, not to the use of the bicycle by the people of Canada, but to the absolute certainty of their preparation to remove the most painful and obstinate corns in 24 hours. Putnam's Corn Extractor is always certain, safe and

Product of London's Streets - Put Paint in the Coffee.

New York, Sept. 24.—Robert Pea-cock is a product of London's streets. His parentage and infancy are alike unknown, as mysterious to him as to the world. He was a Gavroche, consigned after conviction for a crime to the British training ship Warspite, aboard which waifs and strays of the British metropolis are instructed in seamanship.

The gamin, who it was hoped, had reformed, is now a prisoner aboard the British steamer Dulwich, lying off Liberty Island. He is suspected of and will be charged with an attempt to kill by poisoning the officers and crew of the Dulwich.

The steamer, which is loaded with sugar from Iloilo, in the Philippines, arrived here yesterday from the Delagar arrived here yesterday from the Dela-ware Breakwater. About five months ago Peacock was chastised for stealing petty articles from the officers' mess. He promised to reform. At 11 p.m. last Sunday the anchor watch caught Robert breaking into the cook's galley and monkeying with the dishes and pans. The degenerate's conduct was reported to Capt. Cox, to whose guestionings the box repolied to whose questionings the boy replied that he had entered the galley to get his tea.

"Six bells of the night watch is not "Six bells of the night watch is not the time to get your tea," replied Capt. Cox. "Take off your belt. I shall have to punish you again." The 17-year-old lad deftly complied with the order, and received half a dozen lashes over his back, preserving dogged silence and submissiveness under the lence and submissiveness under the punishment.

The Dulwich's cook serves coffee to all hands at 5:30 a.m. A part of the coffee is prepared the night before and left to stand in a tin. Fresh coffee is added in the morning. As the cook stirred the decoction he felt a resistace on the bottom of the tin. His suspic-ions were aroused, and in the half light at that hour he detected a peculiar tint to the compound.

Anchor watch, second mate and captain were called in turn. Capt. Cox dipped his fingers in the tin and brought up enough vermillion paint to kill a score of men. As there was no one else to suspect of the attempted crime, and in light of all that had preceded, the captain ordered Peacock into solitary. The lad denied that he had poisoned the coffee. For half a day he was shut up in the dark room and then confined in his berth amidships.

He will be brought before the British consul, who will probably request the Federal authorities to arrest him and hold him for transportation to England for trial. Young Peacock's appearance would furnish a fitting study for a criminologist like Lambroso. He is slight and tall. About the peculiarly thin lips and sharp chin there is a hard look. The greatest peculiarity in his irregular features is his right eye. It is

Ladies' Loveliest Retreat

The Western Fair (which brought us a first prize for fancy work) has closed, but another exhibition that is far more important to the ladies of London is about to open. We refer to our Millinery opening, which takes place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. It will be an unparalleled exhibition of that which is so dear to the hearts of women-Fashionable Headwear. The very latest of French novelties are here—that is a commonplace advertising saying of Millinery, but here it means a great deal. Our Wings, Flowers, Ribbons, etc., are direct from France, and set off the showrooms in princely attire-a showing that can only be made in showrooms such as ours.

> MILLINERY OPENING -TODAY-

and will be continued on Friday and Saturday. The magnificence of the display we have arranged is not often excelled by the big stores of the big American cities. During the past summer our European buyer made a tour of the French markets—the birthplace of fashion. He has brought home with him the very best qualities of Flowers, Ribbons, Ornaments, etc., etc., and commencing Thursday a dazzling and alluring sight will be presented.

Winter Wraps.

Nor is the display confined to Hats and Bonnets. The new Mantle stocks are open, and those who have had years of experience in placing this class of goods on tables are in raptures over their magnificence and beauty. You must see the Millinery, you must see the Mantles, you must see the Furs, and you will not miss the Dress Goods and other displays on the first floor-in a store that has no competitor in the Dress Goods, Millinery and Mantle business. Never before were there so many nice things, seasonable things, easy things to buy on exhibition under one roof in London.

AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING

Two Box Cure MILVERTON, 28TH JULY. 1895.

Gentlemen,-For the last ten years I had been troubled with kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie in ed at night nor stoop to the ground. I had tried all the remedies I could find without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.

I am most happy to say it for my own sake as well as for others that I am perfectly cured after using four boxes.

Galfskinggreen BAY AND SEED Flour, Breakfast Cereals, Feed, Salt, Land Plaster, Etc. 873 TALBOT STREET . PHONE 662 Toronto Grain Market-Special to The Advertiser. Toronto, Sept. 24.-Brokers were in good humor this morning. The acwheat market continues, and this has increased speculation in the cereal here tenfold during the past week. This morning nearly all the down town local brokers' offices were plied with operators anxious to get next to a good thing. Many Toronto people, it is stated on good authority, are long of Chicago wheat, and some stayers have made good profits recently. It is the general opinion here that the long expected and eagerly looked for boom in wheat has arrived, and will continue. The early advance this morning seems to carry out this conviction. Toronto, Sept. 24.-Wheat-The market here is much stronger in sympathy with the advance in the United States markets. In the early part of the week a good deal of red and white was sold west at 65c. Today it is very firm at that price, and some holders are asking more for it. Manitoba wheat is strong and higher; a round lot of No. 2 hard sold, Toronto and west, at 70 1-2c, and some sold at 71c; No. 1 hard is held at 76c, Toronto and west, and at 71c to 72c, Midland. Flour is firmer in keeping with the advance in the price of wheat; a car of Ontario patents seld, midle freights west, yesterday, at $3 27, but 10c or more would be asked today; cars of straight roller are held at $3 25, middle freights west, with $3 10 freely Manitoba flour is firm at the recent advance, and the millers are not anxious to sell much at the price quoted; patents are quoted at $4 and strong bakers' at $3 65. Millfeed is dull at $8 to $9 for shorts west, and $7 to $7 50 for bran. Barley is steady at 33c to 34c for No. outside, 35c for No. 1 extra, and 20c for cars of feed. Special Telegram to The Advertiser. Ottawa Sept 24-There was a big kick at the agriculture committee today, when the report of the sub-committee, appointed recently at a meeting of members of the House interested in agriculture, was presented. The committee members opposed the receiving of the report at first, but finally it was agreed to have it read: Mr. Douglas read the report. It con-demned the operation of the National Policy as far as the farming element was concerned. Messrs. Clancy, Davin and Sproule strongly opposed this, and the entire report. Messrs. Mc-Millan, Douglas, Oliver, and others supported it. Finally, Mr. Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, recommended that a straight report be introduced, making whatever recommendations were desirable, without introducing any controversial matter. The following sub-committee was then appointed to modify or amend the report in this direction: Messrs, Du-pont, Sproule, Clancy, Douglas, Mc-Millan, McLennan, Marter, Rogers, and Bain, chairman of the committee Special reference is made to this report in our editorial columns.

PLAYED IN THE GLOAMING

The Alerts at St. Thomas-Game Lost in the Darkness-Poor Umpiring.

The Alerts and the St. Thomas Y. M. C. A. Browns played an "exhibition" game on the grounds of the latter at St. Thomas yesterday afternoon. The players on the two teams were mixed up somewhat, and the Browns had every advantage by having their team strengthened by Humphrey and Albert Wood, of the Alerts and McDonald, of the Hamilton team. The following were the players:

POSITIONS. Y. M. C. A. ALERTS. ..Catcher.... First base ...... Humphrey Second base ...... Hanley First base Hanley
Second base Hanley
Shortstop McDonald
Third base Hill
Johnstor Tierney. Carney Left field Johnston
C. Sippi Center field Hawkins
H, Burton Right field Chrismas

The game was a good one, and close and exciting up to the end of the eighth inning. Both teams kept "tab" each other, making 1 run in the third, 2 in the sixth, 3 in the seventh, and 2 in the eighth. In the sixth inning Sheere made a fumble, and it cost a run, while in the seventh Harry Burton made a beautiful muff that let in the three runs. It was rather dark, and as the score was tied the Alerts were willing that the game should be called on account of darkness, as the London team knew that darkness would intervene before the other in ning ended. Hanley and Lyons would not consent, and the Browns went in and slugged Sheere's lobs all over the diamond. Bert pitched them easy ones, as he and his team objected to playconsigned through; the market is dull and sluggish.

Hogs—Receipts 20 cars; market ruled fairly active. Good to choice, $3 65 to $3 70; roughs, common to good, $2 75 to $3; pigs, common to fair, $2 25 to $3 25.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 24 cars; market very slow and lower. Lambs, good to choice, $4 90 to $5 20; sheep, good to choice, $4 90 to $5 20; sheep, good to choice, $4 90 to $5 20; sheep, good to choice handy weight wethers, $3 60 to $3 75; culls and common, $1 50 to $2 25; which will take place next year in the ball was lost in the crowd, enabling the ball was lost in the some runs. Lyons made a circuit of the bags on a hit that was a foul by 20 feet, and Hanley did the same thing a prospectus for their annual week of united and universal prayer, which will take place next year in the horizon that the game was called dull and weak, with three cars of hold-overs unside. Hogs closed steady. Sheep and by Synder. The Browns had piled up runs, and called everything a hit Finally the Browns gave in, when there were no men out, as the darkness was too much for them, and they didn't like to play in the moonlight The London boys complain of the way in which the umpire did his work Manager Kilgour, of the Browns, also neglected to put up any money, and nothing has been heard as to his in tentions.

When the game was finally broken up, the crowd hedged in around the players, the greater part of whom were in full sympathy with the Alerts. The St. Thomas people kept the score as follows, but London claims 12 hits and only 4 errors: Y. M. C. A... 0 0 1 0 0 2 3 2 7-15 16 Alerts ...... 0 0 1 0 0 2 3 2 0 - 8 =

Are the Millinery Products in City Show-Rooms.

Some Beautiful Display at several Leading Stores-The Season's Styles.

Millinery openings being now the order of the day, an Advertiser reporter visited several of the leading displays today, and everywhere met crowds of the fair sex, who were enthusiastic over the new creations that come here direct from Paris and New York. The Bryan and McKinley hats were much talked of, but politics in no way influenced the choice.

BAYLEY.S.

The spacious millinery show rooms at Bayley's, in charge of Madame Simpson and Miss McCurdy, were crowded with visitors today, who were enraptured with the attractive display of the new styles. Among the importations from Paris particular A Heap of mention might be made "Bridesmaid." The New York makes are wonderfully artistic creations the most charming combinations of given every second Wednesday during bronze, green and violetta shades. Violetta is the new shade, and predom inates The Bryan, McKinley, Colonial and Sissey Fitzgerald are particularly fine models. The trimmings are principally feathers, wings, velvets and chenilles.

AT KINGSMILL'S. The new models of French, English and American manufacture, which have been so greatly admired today at Kingsmill's millinery opening, sho that the hats that will be worn this season are broad and short, quite the contrary from the style of last season Velvets are used very much, and also jeweled ornaments. One very fine Parisian importation was a combinagreen, with steel ornaments and green wings. Kingsmill's show room is a bower of beauty.

AT MRS. MARTIN'S. Mrs. Martin's rooms contain a large number of beautiful and novel hats and bonnets. A large number of ladies attended the opening today, and richly enjoyed the beauties there displayed. SMALLMAN & INGRAM.

The show rooms in the millinery department at Smallman & Ingram's are twice the size of last year's, and yet they were more crowded with visitors at the opening today than ever before In one corner of the large room is a layatory, and the work rooms are on the same floor. The display of millinery is superb, all of it personally se-lected in Paris. The millinery department is located at the rear of the second floor, and is reached by the elevator. The front half of the floor is devoted to furs and mantles, ladies', children's and infants' cloaks. As an Advertiser reporter entered, the place was jammed with eager purchasers There was a great variety of curl cloth jackets, one of particularly good value at $6.75, in blue. There are others of the same style in brown and black, lined with striped silk, making a cozy, comfortable coat. shades of brown and green seem well assorted in all the new styles and makes. Throughout the sleep of exhaustion which followed she sat watching him. The company in the next room were quietly making merry "over Dick's triumph," but Katherine shook her head at all proposals to join. The band of gold around her finger fascinated her. She was now really Richard's wife; and the first sensation of such a mighty change was, in her pure soul, one of infinite and reverent love. When Richard awoke he was refreshed and supremely happy. Then Katherine brought him food and wine, and ate her own morsel beside him. "Our first meal we must take together," she said, and Hyde was already sensible of some exquisite change, some new and rarer tenderness and solicitude in all her ways towards him.

The noon hour was long past, but she made no mention of it. The wed-ding guests also lingered, talking and laughing softly, and occasionally visiting the happy bride and bridegroom in their blissful companionship. In those few hours Richard made sure his dominion over his wife's heart; and he had so much to tell her, and so many directions to give her, that, ere they were aware, the afternoon was well spent. The clergymen and the soldiers departed, Mrs. Gordon was a little weary, and Hyde was fevered with the very excess of his joy. The moment for parting had come; and when it has, wise are those who delay it not. Hyde fixed his eyes upon his wife until Mrs. Gordon had arranged again her bonnet and manteau; then, with a smile, he shut in behind their white portals the exquisite pic-He could let her go with a smile now, for he knew that Katherine's absence was but a parted presence; knew that her better part remained with him-that "Her heart was never away. But ever with his, forever!

The coach was waiting, and, without delay, Katherine returned with Mrs. Gordon to her lodgings. Both were silent on the journey. When a great event has taken place, only the shallow and unfeeling chatter about it. Katherine's heart was full, even to solemnity; and Mrs. Gordon-whose affectation of fashionable levity was in a large measure, pretense-had a kind and sensible nature, and she watched the quiet girl by her side with decided approval. "She may not be in the mode, but she is neither silly nor heartless," she decided; "and as for loving foolishly my poor, de-lightful Dick, why, any girl may be excused the folly."

Upon leaving the coach at Mrs. Gordon's, Katherine went to an inner room to resume her own dress. The India silk lay across a chair, and she took off and folded, with her accustomed neatness, the elegant suit she had worn. As she did so, she became sensible of a singular liking for it, and when Mrs. Gordon entered the room, she said to her: "Madam, very much I desire this suit-it is my wedding gown-will you save it for me? Some day I may wear it again, when

"Indeed, Katherine, that is a womanly thought-it does you a vast deal of credit, and, upon my word, you shall have the gown. I shall be put to straits without it to outdress Miss Betty Lawson; but never mind, I have a few decent gowns still left."
"Richard, too, he will like it? You think so, madam?"

'My dear, don't begin to quote Richard to me. I shall be impatient if you do. I assure you I have never considered him a prodigy." Then, kissing her fondly, "Madame Katherine Hyde, my entire service to you. Pray sure I shall give your husband my best concern. And now I think you can walk out of the door without much notice; there is a crowd on the street, and everyone is busy about their own appearance or affairs." The time, madam? What is the

"Indeed I think it is much after 4 o'clock. Half an hour hence you will have to bring out your excuses. Indeed, I am vastly troubled for you." "Her excuses" Katherine had not suffered herself to consider. She could not bear to shadow the present with the future. She had, indeed, a happy faculty of leaving her emergencies to take care of themselves. Per-

"Where have you been all the day?
And did you see Mary Blankaart?
And the money—is it found yet?"
The family were at the supper table, and Joris looked kindly at his truant daughter, and motioned to the ant daughter, and motioned to the vacant chair at his side. She slipped into it, touching her father's cheek as she passed; and then she answered: 'At Mary Blankaart's I was not at Lanier, on Pearl street." "Who sent you there, Katherine?"

Batavius saw the girl's placid face, and heard her open confession with the greatest amazement. He looked at Joanna, and was just going to express his opinion when Joris rose, pushed his chair a little angrily aside, and said, "There is no blame to you, Katherine. Very kind was Mrs. Gordon don to you, and she is a pleasant wo-man. For other's faults she must not answer. That, also, is what Elder Semple says; for when past was her anger, with a heart full of sorrow she went to him and to Madame Semple." "The sorrow that is too late, of what use is it? "Well, then, when that hast, more wisdom will be given thee. Come with thy father, Katryntje, and down the garden we will walk, and see if there are dahlias yet, and how grow the gold and the white crysanthemums." But all the time they were in the gearden together Joris never spoke of Mrs. Gordon, nor of Katherine's visit to her. About the flowers, and the restless swallows, and the bluebirds, who still lingered, silent and anxious, he talked. And a little, also, of Joanna, and her new house, and of the great wedding feast that was the desire of Batayius.
"Every one he has ever spoken to

'In business, then, he has a good name—honest and prudent. He will make thy sister a good husband." But though Joris said nothing to his daughter concerning her visit to Mrs. Gordon, he talked long with Lysbet about it. "What will be the end thou may see by the child's face and air," he said; "the shadow and the heaviness is gone. Like the old Katherine she is tonight."

"And this afternoon comes here Neil

THE WATFORD FACTORY. The Watford factory is owned by Mr. Richardson, of the class of 1895. His assistant is F. L. Smyth, of the same year. The factory is well built, and is situated in a good locality. The soil is rich and fertile, as shown by the healthy growth of weeds. The weeds rival those of Manitoba. One weed is likely to cause serious trouble in the making of fine cheese if it is not checked, viz., rag-weed. It seems maker informed me that some of the milk is tainted by it. Though this factory has a capacity of 150 tons of cheese per season, the daily milk supply the latter part of August was but 7,000 pounds. This is an increase over last year. Many who have neglected their cows during the early part of the season will regret it, now that cheese has taken such a decided advance in price. Dairy products can be produced more cheaply now than ever. The low price of grain, bran, and rent of land will enable the dairymen to make just as much profit as ever, even though prices of butter and cheese may be somewhat lower, but they have not declined anything like the fall in the price of cow foods or rents. The curing room is especially well built, but the owner purposes to put in a basement curing room for the cheese in hot weather. Something should be done by all our factories to protect the cheese in hot weather. Basement curing-rooms seem to be the most practical solution of question, unless we except insulated walls, which are somewhat expensive to build.

The cheese on the shelves were exceptionally well finished. The bandages were properly trimmed to threequarters of an inch to lap over each end of the cheese. No shoulders were to be seen on the cheese, nor wrinkles in the bandage.

Outside the factory a rangement for aerating the be seen. It is said invention of an Irishman. Near by the whey located, and here the farmers and milk haulers labor hard to elevate the whey and floor-washings, into the milk cans to furnish "squeal" for the pigs, and trouble for the cheesemaker. owing to the taint which is likely to be given to the milk from the cans not properly washed to get rid of the whey flavor. This system of returning whey in the cans ought to be abolished, but it has a firm foot-hold in the average factory.

HONEY GROVE FACTORY. This factory, situated about six miles from Milverton, is a model factory in many ways. The building is not much better than the average factory, but there are some excellent features in its management. 1. All the milk cans are washed and steamed at the factory. The owner, Mr. Chalmers, is very particular on this point. Two men and a girl wash the cans as soon as they are emptied, and the drivers steam the cans and then load them on their wagons. The cans are thus returned to the patrons in first-class condition. How different from the can smeared with grease and sour whey!

2. The factory is a model of cleanliness and tidiness. "Dan" McMillan, one of our brightest and tidiest students in 1896, is the head maker. His assistant is Miss Jackson, of the class of 1895. Plants are found in every window. Roses bloom in profusion, while boquets of cut flowers greet the visitor as he enters. The floors are clean, and the windows are so clean that you can see through them outdoors. The hand of woman is seen in a good deal of this. If the "new" woman turns her attention to the making of cheese and butter it will do no harm to the quality of them. 3. The manufacture of butter from curd sink drippings. These are set in shallow pans and the cream is allowed to rise, when it is skimmed and ripened and churned the same as ordinary cream. At the time of my visit they were making about fifteen pounds of butter every other day from the drippings of about 10,000 pounds of milk daily. What was once wasted is now used to keep a large family in butter, and there is some left over

4. Fine quality of cheese in curing-room. All the cheese are well finished and a credit to the maker. 5. The well-built piggery, which is

THE CONN FACTORY.

Mr. W. S. Stocks, of the 1896 class, is the head maker here. A drive of eight miles east from Mount Forest brings you to the factory. Though it is an old building and lacks many modern conveniences, yet it was clean modern conveniences, yet it was clean and tidy, and the cheese were good. Fields of rape along the way indicated trouble ahead for the cheesemaker. One of the milk haulers was enjoying a smoke as his team was plodding wearily to the factory. To-bacco smoke was never known to imbacco smoke was never known to improve the flavor of milk. Tainted milk, poor buildings, rickety appliances, together with low prices for making cheese, discourage many makers, and is driving a number of good men out of the business. They look for something else to do buy cheese, for instance—but where are the cheese to be bought if the best makers quit the trade? The dairy school gives encouragement to the makers and helps them to meet difficulties. Mr. J. A. James, the veteran cheesemaker of Nilestown, Middlesex county, writes: "Frank Bayes and David James are in this factory, and are doing well. Very good results from the dairy

The Creamery Gazette, of Iowa, in a recent number, says: "Prof. Curtiss, who recently spent several weeks in Canada, says that the dairy department of the Guelph College is one of the very best he has ever seen. The dairy building is a model of neatness and convenience."

Already many applications are filed for 1897. There have been several inquiries from the United States makers. We shall give preference to Ontario men, then to all Canadians, and then to our American cousins. The coming session will be the best in our

ATKINSON-WHITE. The marriage of Mr. G. W. Atkinson and Miss Lily Alice White was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, 174 Langarth street, South London. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Archdeacon Davis, rector of St. James' Church, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the parties. The bridesmaids were Miss Etta D. ke, of Strathroy, and Miss Tillie Earl, of this city, and the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Harry Atkinson, of this city. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. Albert E. White, was handsomely at-tired in brown bengaline, trimmed with buttercup point lace and sapphire blue silk velvet, with accessories of net. The bridesmaids wore dresses of harmonizing shades. A beautiful bouquet of roses and maiden hair ferns was carried by the bride, her attendants bearing white asters and mignonette. The house was very tastefully decorated with a profusion of flowers and foliage. Among the guests were: Miss A. Preston, of Hamilton; Miss J. Hodgins and Miss Z. Atkinson, of Lucan; Miss M. ## TWO CASES-ONE HARD.

John Smith, Alias Tom Russel, Has a Shady Career-Let Go on Suspended Sentence.

There were only two cases before Magistrate Parke at the city Police Court this morning. John Smith, who did a term early in the spring for pocket-picking, was up again. He was arrested a week ago, and remanded until after the Fair.

When asked why he came back. Smith replied, "I was sick, and wanted to go somewhere and get into the hospital." "How long have you been in Canada, and where did you come from?" asked the P. M. Prisoner-I came to Canada early in the spring from New York.

Chief Williams said at the time Smith was sentenced to the Central Prison, photographs were sent out to different places. The man was known in Kingston, Hamilton and Buffalo, where they knew him by the name of Thomas Russell.
Smith told the magistrate that he wanted to get into the hospital for a month, and get fixed up.

"You can't get into the hospital here," replied the magistrate. would you like to go to jail for a month? "No, sir," said Smith. "I hope you

"THE TABERNACLE."

Evangelist Meikle Delivers His Farewell Lecture to Londoners-An Entertaining Description. "The Tabernacle" was the subject of an impressive and edifying lecture given in the lecture hall of St. Andrew's Church last evening by Evangelist Meikle, to a crowded house. The lecture was one of great entertainment, and was illustrated by colored representations of the interior and exterior of, together with articles within and without the tabernacle. The lecturer said that at the gate was the brazen altar and here the people came with sweet sacrifice. There were five offeringsthe burnt, the meat, the peace, the sin and the trespass offering. This was the order in which they were given in Leviticus, but Christians knew them in the reverse order. They were not very long Christians before they found out that they not only do bad, but that they are bad, and that Christ is their sin offering. Then their peace offering was through The laver, the large basin in which the priests washed their hands before sacrifices, he described as being made of the polished bronzed looking-glasses of the women. How would the women of London like to give up their mirrors, and never mind all the banging and frizzing and fixing, and the spendmore time there than spent in looking at God's mirror, His Word?

There were two compartments in the tabernacle—the Holy Place, and the Holy of Holies. In the former was the altar of incense, with the smoke of incense constantly rising to heaven. The golden candlesticks were represented with their seven sticks, decorated with fruit, and all made beaten gold. This represented the Church of Christ, which should be fruitful and beautiful. Above all, the church was the light of the world. The oil in the candlesticks was the Holy Spirit in the believer. The lecturer thought people did not honor the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, nor live worthy of it. The shew-bread he referred to as the offering up of our toil to God. The lesson to be drawn from this was that we could give our daily toil and light to the world, and to God. The speaker argued the lesson in life people needed most to learn was that if they were in any honest calling, they were acceptable of God just as much as if they were preaching every night. This was sure. or else Christianity was a failure. The Word of God told us there was nothing secular. The whole world was sancti-

Bertha Johnston Arrested for Theft -Charged With Stealing Eggs and

Bertha Johnston, of the Wharncliffe road, South London, has plunged herself into difficulty. Though a girl of only 15 years, she was arrested yesterday on a charge of stealing a quantity of eggs and several jars of fruit from the house of Thos. Jackson, con. 9, London township. On Thursday last Mr. Jackson and his wife left their home about noon to attend a funeral, leaving the hired man in charge of the house. They returned about 6 o'clock. The man locked up the house securely and went plowing. Bertha Johnston and her little brother are alleged to have entered the house by a door leading to the cellar, and stolen the eggs and fruit. The matter was put into the hands of County Constables Crawford and Corsant, who learned that a girl and boy were in the vicinity selling tinware during the afternoon, and they found that Bertha Johnston and her younger brother answered the de-scription of the persons. A search warrant was issued, and the home of the Johnstons searched, where the eggs and fruit were found. When the was arrested she admitted the theft to the officers, who brought her before J. B. Smyth, who remanded her until Friday. Her brother is of such tender years that it is hardly probable any action will be taken against him.

New Enterprise For An Old Firm. The Williams Manufacturing Company, Montreal, manufacturers of the Williams" Sewing Machine which is a household name throughout the Dominion, are manufacturing also the "Empire Typewriter," and their known reputation is a guarantee of its value. They claim it is in every respect equal to any typewriter made, irrespective of price, and it appears that they are able to sell it at about half the price of other first-class machines.
