MEAL GIVEN BARNED AT ST. THOMAS

Londoner Declares He Is Not Guilty of Crime of Murder.

REFUSES TO EAT

No Handcuffs Used by Inspector—Few Recognize Prisoner.

Special to The Advertiser.
by a Staff Reporter.

St. Thomas, Nov. 14.—Frank Barned of London, on his way to Welland jail from New Orleans to answer to the charge of murdering Smylie Muirhead at Niagara Falls, had lunch in the M. C. R. dining hall here at noon today. None of his relatives from London were present to greet him.

Barned, while looking the picture of health, seemed to realize that now he was once more in Canada and nearing the scene of the alleged murder, that things did not look quite so bright as they did from behind prison bars in far-off New Orleans. He stepped off the train with a provincial detective ahead and behind him, and walked briskly to the dining hall, dodging beside one of the officers as a photographer snapped his camera.

Wasn't Hungry.

Barned ordered a bowl of soup and a cup of coffee, which he left practically untouched. He wasn't hungry, and said so.

Questioned by The Advertiser, Barned declared that he didn't have an awful lot to say at this particular time, but offered a good story if the reporter would accompany him to Welland.

"Come along to Welland with me," urged Barned. "I'll give you a feature story that will surprise you."

"Do you know what the people of Western Ontario think about your case?" asked the reporter.

"No, and furthermore, I don't care," flashed Barned in a quick fit of temper. "I'm not guilty and I can prove it. That's all there is to it."

Not Recognized.

Few if any of the passengers on the train or at the station realized who Barned was. He was not handcuffed, and although Inspectors Greer and Ward of the provincial police kept a close watch on him they did not leave the impression that they were anything but a party of three friends travelling together.

Barned apparently realized that there would be newspapermen present to question him at St. Thomas. He was loath to leave the train.

"Don't bother this fellow," said Inspector Ward as the reporter approached. "I'll see you afterwards."

"What paper are you reporting for?" asked Barned as he sat down to his light lunch with Inspector Greer. "I'm not guilty and they can't put anything over on me. You watch and see."

FRANK BARNED REACHES ST. THOMAS.

FELLOW WAITERS WILL AID MIKE, SWINDLED OF $800

POLICE SEEK TRAIL

Mike Nidenoff's life savings are gone, taken from him through an old trick perpetrated by two clever confidence men, but Mike will not be left destitute.

Upon hearing of Nidenoff's plight and the manner in which he was swindled out of $800 by two of his own Bulgarian countrymen, fellow waiters in the city who had worked with Mike in local restaurants and knew him as an honest citizen, got together and a collection will be made to reimburse him.

Considine Zaffrion, of the New Service Lunch, will organize the collection and he feels sure a goodly sum will be raised among Mike's many friends in London.

Meanwhile police have been furnished with a minute description of the two men and circulars will be sent out at once in an effort to have them apprehended.

Met Them Last Week.

Nidenoff met the foreigners last week. They outlined to him a golden proposition whereby, out of reward for a service done them by Mike's father, they would open a restaurant in the city and make him manager if he paid some small sum, say $700 or $800, he would also be made part owner.

Mike passed up his job as a waiter in a local restaurant, and handed over to his new-found friends the sum of $800, saved by him through years of honest labor.

It was suggested that a cash box be purchased and the money kept there. This was done and each deposited his contribution. Mike his $800, and the others their rolls of bills. Mike was left in charge of the box. He was to meet his partners in 24 hours, but they failed to be at the appointed place.

Becomes Suspicious.

Becoming suspicious, Mike opened the box himself and found therein a bundle of newspapers.

Nidenoff described one man to the police as being of about 35 or 40 years of age, five feet seven inches in height and about 165 or 170 pounds in weight. He was of medium stout build with black hair combed straight back. His face was full with sandy complexion and his eyes were brown. When last seen he was wearing a blue serge suit, fawn overcoat with black cap. He speaks broken English and walks with a slow gait.

The other is described as being of about 50 years of age and five feet seven inches in height with weight of about 160 pounds. He is also of medium stout build, but has gray hair, gray mustache, brown eyes, and dark complexion. He wore a fawn overcoat, black fedora hat and speaks broken English.

The men are believed by the police to be in this district and their arrest is expected soon.

It is probable that the provincial fire marshal will investigate the fire which destroyed a portion of the IXL Spice and Coffee Mills, Marmora street, early yesterday morning.

W. J. Boulton Appeals to the Boards of Trade To Start New Forests.

PASS RESOLUTIONS

Colonel W. J. Brown Outlines Dangers of Erosion in Great Lakes.

An appeal for the future protection of the furniture industry in Ontario by the reforestation of the native hardwoods was made today by W. J. Boulton of the natural resources intelligence department to the united boards of trade of Western Ontario.

Mr. Boulton, who stated that at the present time his department in Ottawa was busy on a research scheme which it was hoped would develop the use of natural resources by Canadian manufacturers, stated that the furniture business happened to be one which was just now prominently connected with this research work.

"One instance of the semi-manufactured product being imported and which might be manufactured in Canada is in the woodworking industry," he said. "I refer to the sounding boards for pianos. Including the duty, the amount expended for this commodity during the year 1920 was approximately $200,000. One of the important points in connection with this commodity is the fact that the basic material used in its manufacture is none other than the Quebec spruce, which is recognized by authorities to be one of the best, if not the best, known material for the purpose.

"We are now researching with regard to the possibility of establishing that particular industry and we hope in a short time to be in a position to issue some useful information to those who are interested.

"In further reference to the raw products of the forest, the northwestern part of old Ontario is the home of the furniture industry, primarily established there for the reason, I presume, that we had at one time a large supply of the necessary hardwoods. Today we have practically exhausted the local source of supply and our importations of those woods so essential in the manufacture of our high-class furniture, namely, walnut and oak, have reached proportions of great magnitude. It is not altogether out of the

MOTHERS STEAL FOR CHILDREN

Three Young Married Women Given Suspended Sentence—Husbands Out of Work.

TOUR WAS PLANNED

Assorted Collection of Articles Removed From Stores and Found in Bags.

Destitution prompted three married women of this city to take part in a shoplifting tour of downtown stores yesterday afternoon. Their story, as told to Deputy Magistrate Gladman in police court this morning by Crown Attorney Albert M. Judd, could not help but inspire pity. Their husbands were out of work and their children were seriously in want of clothing.

The women were placed under arrest last evening by Sergeant of Detectives Harry Down in a local shoe store. During the afternoon's shopping expedition they had managed to purloin all varieties of footwear from baby shoes to bedroom slippers.

The three appeared in court today and pleaded guilty to the charge.

"Their life has not been a bed of roses," Mr. Judd told Deputy Magistrate Gladman. "They have always been good citizens. They have small children who range in age from five months to six years. Their husbands have been out of work and they are not the type known as shoplifters."

Suspended Sentence.

"I think there will be no repetition of the offence if I suspend sentence," Magistrate Gladman said, and the three women gave their assurance that the crime would not be committed again.

The trio had met early yesterday afternoon, police allege, for the purpose of making a tour of the stores. Each carried a heavy closed bag, in which the stolen articles were secreted.

When the bags were opened and examined by the police, eleven pairs of shoes of a total value of $22, were found, together with an assortment of baby toys and kitchen utensils.

Stolen Articles.

Baby shoes were among the stolen articles. Detective Down visited the women's homes yesterday and there found a condition of almost poverty, but the children were cleanly clothed and the houses bore a fresh appearance.

Two of the women wept when brought into the court room among a crowd of curious spectators.

They could give Magistrate Gladman no definite reason for the crime, but stated they were sorry for the offence.

"It is regrettable that these young women should have forgotten themselves in this manner," Mr. Gladman said, "but I will suspend sentence."

RICH AND POOR ALIKE ATTEND FUNERAL OF GANG CHIEFTAIN

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Thousands of persons filed past the ornate, flower-bedecked casket of Dion O'Banion, all night and this morning in final tribute to the florist, gunman, rum-runner and hi-jacker, slain Monday morning in his flower shop by three gunmen who called him from his task of trimming chrysanthemum stems.

His funeral today was looked forward to as the greatest in Chicago's history, even surpassing that yesterday of Michael Merlo, friend of O'Banion and leader of the Unione Siciliana, when 1,000 automblies, 25 of them carrying only flowers, formed the cortege from St. Clement's church, where 10,000 persons had gathered for the last rites.

Without Church Blessing.

O'Banion's funeral today was without the blessing of the church, although burial in consecrated ground was permitted.

It brought a new era in Chicago's civic affairs as well as marking the passing of the 32-year-old gang leader, termed by Morgan Collins, chief of police, as Chicago's arch-criminal and responsible for at least 25 murders.

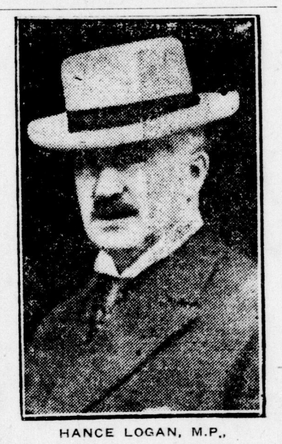

Incensed by the great amount of publicity and the open threats of O'Banion followers to "shoot it out" with adherents of other groups of gunmen, Mayor Dever has directed that every known pistol-toter be searched on suspicion as frequently as encountered. He planned a conference today with Chief Collins to decide on measures for eliminating pistol carrying or forcing the gunmen to leave Chicago.

"It is time to determine whether organized outlaws shall continue to shoot and rob with impunity, or whether decency and order will prevail," the mayor said.

Thousands View Remains.

Until the hour of the funeral the line of men and women representing all conditions of life continued to stream past O'Banion's silver and bronze casket. Some in threadbare garments timidly added their poor bouquets of half a dozen withered buds to the pretentious floral displays made up of thousands of blossoms the affluent had sent.

"Gee, he was a swell feller," was a raged newsboy's tribute. "He bought all my papers one awful cold night last winter and paid $5 for 'em and then took me to a restaurant to eat."

STREET CAR MEN ARE CO-OPERATING

Rumors of "Shake Up" Are Denied by Company Officials and Men.

Rumors of dissension in street railway circles, of sympathetic action by car men following the suspension of four of their number for irregularities, were discountenanced today by members of the street railwaymen's union and company officials.

No drastic action has been taken by company officials following a checking-up of street car service. Four men were suspended on Wednesday, but no further suspensions are planned, the Advertiser learned from an authoritive source today.

Various car men told the Advertiser that there was every desire to co-operate with the company, and carry out their duties as required. They haven't any intention of opposing the company's move to get better service, and they regret that any other impression has been given by sources outside of their ranks.

President John Colbert of the car-men's union, who left for an extended trip last night, and Manager Leonard Tait of the L. S. R., expressed similar views in discussing the matter with the Advertiser. The whole matter has apparently been settled and both the men, as well as officials, are looking for improved service and co-operation all through the system.

POSTOFFICE EMPLOYEE IMPLICATED IN HOLD-UP

Seven Men Are Held For Participation in Montreal Mail Robbery.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—Alleged to be "the inside man" on the sensational mail-wagon robbery here last August, when four armed men got away with a bag containing $35,000 in cash and securities, Arthur Archambault, 28, postoffice clerk in the general postoffice, was placed under arrest last night while he was sorting mail.

Archambault and six other men, accused of participation in the robbery, appeared before Judge Perrault this morning, pleaded not guilty, and were remanded until Nov. 21.

Paul Logan and Hazel Jefferson, the latter of New Brunswick and Chicago, who were also held, were honorably discharged.

EDWARD STREET EXPECTED TO BE OPENED TONIGHT

Edward street, which has just been freshly paved, will likely be open for traffic tonight and will be in good shape tomorrow. Owing to the long haul from the city asphalt plant on Horton street east to the southwest section of the city where the paving has been laid, the work has not been done as quickly as was desired.

However, most of the street intersections on Edward were open for traffic yesterday and today workmen were putting the finishing touches on the last bit of asphalt paving to be undertaken this year.

JERSEY CITY FIRE WIPES OUT BLOCK

FIFTEEN INJURED

Panic-Stricken Tenement Dwellers Flee as Flames Rage Unchecked.

Associated Press Despatch.

Jersey City, N.J., Nov. 14.—Fire in the rear section of the American Sugar Refinery building has burst beyond control of the fire fighters and is forcing them to retreat. The walls at the rear of the building are beginning to cave in and the flames thus released are expected to carry across the street to the main warehouse of Colgate & Co., which is filled with soap and other highly inflammable substances. Should the warehouse become ignited, it is predicted that the entire Colgate plant will be destroyed. Plants of the Vulcan Iron Works Company and of the Manhattan Electric Supply Company also are menaced.

Firemen are hampered by low pressure.

Associated Press Despatch.

Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 14.—A conflagration which started in the saltpetre plant of the Richardson Chemical company, leaped beyond the control of the fire forces of two cities to the plant of the American Sugar Refinery company, and then encompassed and destroyed several smaller factories and two rows of tenement houses, which included most of the buildings in an entire block, raged for four hours before firemen declared it under control at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Losses running into millions of dollars, but which could not be closely estimated; fifteen persons seriously injured or burned; scores of others cut by glass blown out of windows over a half-mile radius by a series of explosions and 900 families made homeless, was the toll.

At 11:20 o'clock the saltpetre plant had been destroyed and the flames had spread to a block of three-story frame dwelling-houses close by, and to one building of the Colgate soap factory. The front wall of the sugar company's building crashed.

At this hour, the Hoboken fire departments were on the scene, and in the desperate fight. Fire-boats of New York City were called to Jersey City piers to prevent the conflagration's spread. Several hundred volunteer firemen were engaged in that section, battling small blazes which caught in various buildings and tenements from hurtling embers.

Fifteen Firemen Injured.

Fifteen firemen were injured or overcome by smoke. Two thousand children from public school No. 16, nearby, were rushed out of the building, seeking a safer vicinity. As they came into the street, a terrific explosion tore the roof from the saltpetre plant, hurled it 50 feet into the air and scattered it in all directions for several blocks.

The children, terrorized, fled through the streets. Five hundred policemen finally herded them and panic-stricken parents in the vicinity out of the danger zone to the postoffice building. Parents and children in tenements in the section were removed in taxicabs and eight ambulances to safe regions, while the five hundred police on the scene endeavored to calm the panic-stricken population.

Six tons of explosive soap materials stored in a tunnel between the old sugar refinery house and the Colgate soap factory just before noon threatened to become the source of a greater explosive disaster than the morning had yet seen. The entire hose force of the fire-boat John P. Mitchell was deluging the roof of the tunnel, while a heavy force of firefighters from Hoboken was detailed to help keep the flames from it.

At noon, Fire Chief Boyle called for tons of dynamite with which to blow up buildings in the hope of cutting off the onward sweep of the conflagration.

Acid Stores Explode.

City Commissioner Fagan closed one city reservoir, directing all its supply to the fire nozzles, which increased the water pressure from 32 to 95 pounds.

Stores of sulphuric acid in the factory began exploding after noon and threw blazing debris into groups of firemen. Additional fire lines were brought to bear upon the new danger, and other streams were directed on the Lehigh Valley railroad coal pockets in the burning area.

Firemen and policemen were frequently compelled to lie down on the sidewalks to catch a breath of life-saving air as the saltpetre fumes were driven upon them. At the end of Essex street hundreds of families with their household goods about them sought safety from their wooden houses and were moved to safer sections. Police lines had been stretched about the burning area at distances of six blocks from the fire, but hysterical tenement dwellers harrassed the police with their efforts to return to their homes for valuables.

At 11 o'clock when the fire jumped on four sides to the tenement houses the walls of the chemical plant caved in, leaving the four-story building but a seething mass.

UNION WILL NOT FIGHT L. S. R.

Association Will Co-ordinate With Company Officials in Regard To Suspensions.

Suspension of four conductors by the London Street Railway was discussed last evening at a session of the executive officers of the street railwaymen's union. According to reliable information there are no more suspensions planned and the railwaymen are showing every desire to co-ordinate with company officials in carrying out their duties.

Yesterday a number of conductors and "front-end" men were up on the carpet at the company's office and cautioned regarding minor infractions of orders. Failure to call out stops and a few cases of smoking on duty had been reported by "spotters" sent in from outside to investigate. It is understood that the men were warned, but no further suspensions were made.

"Spotters" are employed by a firm to do this work. They are commissioned by street railways in various centers to check up on the manner in which car men are carrying out their duties.

It is not unusual to bring the spotters to London. They have been here before and have regular duties assigned to them. The company is only playing safe by employing them.

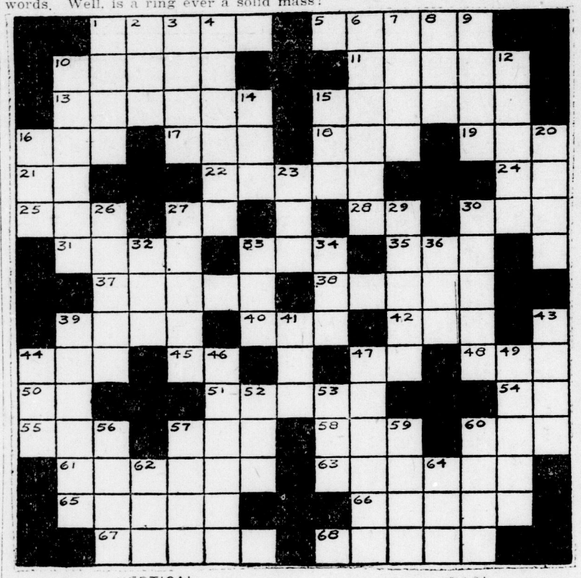

"There is nothing serious about the matter," President John Colbert of the street railway workers' union, told the Advertiser before he left for El Paso last night. "I asked that the meeting be held, because I wanted to get posted on the situation. No action is planned by the committee that will be contrary to the company's wishes. I think all the men want to co-operate in fulfilling their obligations to the street railway."

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Nov. 13. — The police intend to put a stop to euchre parties promoted for gain, Crown-Attorney Armour stated in police court this morning that in future he intended to ask for a jail sentence as well as a fine, and that in addition to those who promoted such games, those attending will be prosecuted.

For some time the morality officers have been receiving complaints from men that their wives were rarely at home on account of these parties, and that in many cases they would take the children with them, leaving them to sleep in the hallway while they played.

LIQUOR CONTROL IS MAIN ISSUE

Fifth Session of Fifth Saskatchewan Legislature Opens Yesterday.

CALLED EARLIER

Canadian Press Despatch.

Regina, Sask., Nov. 14.—With the usual formal ceremonies the fifth session of the fifth Saskatchewan legislature was opened yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor Newlands.

The session has been called somewhat earlier than usual to frame legislation for the government control of liquor, following the plebiscite last July. The only mention of this in the speech from the throne was the following paragraph:

"In accordance with the provisions of the plebiscite act a vote of the electors of the province was taken in July last. A statement of the result will be placed before you and also a measure dealing with the matter."

In respect to the senate, the speech says: "The high hopes entertained earlier in the year by many of our settlers in regard to the prospect of obtaining more adequate railway facilities in the near future were shattered by the action of the senate of Canada in rejecting bills passed by the house of commons in connection with the construction of branch lines by the Canadian National railway. The action of the senate in again delaying the undertaking of sorely needed railway construction in the outlying sections of the province has aroused public opinion to the necessity of modifying the veto power of the body as suggested in your resolution of last session."

In connection with the imposition of a tax on grain futures by the province of Manitoba, the following statement appears: "Every effort must be made to prevent taxation of our people by the government of another province, and steps are, therefore, being taken through the engagement and instruction of eminent counsel that Saskatchewan's case shall be fully presented before the privy council."

FURNITURE TENDERS TO BE TALKED TODAY

Education Board Will Proceed With Plans, Though Money Delayed.

No. 2 committee of the board of education will meet this afternoon to consider the tenders for the furniture and equipment of the new Empress school.

While the members of the council held that it was illegal to comply with the request of the board of education for the issue of $10,500 of debentures this year to cover the cost of the equipment, they passed a recommendation to next year's council that the issue be made. City Clerk Sam Baker wrote the board that it would be quite in order to go ahead with the installation of the equipment and arrange payment for it early in the new year.

Other matters of routine character will also be considered, since it will also be the regular meeting of the committee, which was postponed from Tuesday afternoon.

Trustee S. F. Lawrason, who resigned from the board on Nov. 6, is chairman of No. 2 committee.

ONLY TWO COUNTY ROADS NOT IN GOOD CONDITION

There are but two county roads in Middlesex that are not in good shape at the present time, county engineer Charles Talbot stated this morning.

"The Sarnia gravel road and the Hamilton road between London and Ingersoll have been loaded with traffic from early spring," stated Mr. Talbot. "The Hamilton road will be back in repair shortly, once the through traffic starts to use the pavement from London to Ingersoll, via Thamesford."

The season has been good for the roads. The last three weeks of dry weather has not helped them any, as the road foremen have not been able to make much progress with dragging operations. The roads were fine until the dry spell came.

INVESTIGATE REPORT.

Two men seeking city relief have piled up considerable trouble for themselves, which may end in police court by signing certificates that they have lived in London continuously for a year.

Their record was traced by both city and government employment bureau officials, and it was found that neither man had lived here for twelve months, and were not therefore entitled to relief.

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS—MAROONED.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU SETS ENVIABLE MARK

City Officials Place 4,890 Men in Jobs Out of 5,710 Who Apply Within Year.

The London branch of the government bureau, under the direction of Superintendent J. C. Spencer, has placed 4,890 men in positions out of a total of 5,170 who applied for work during the year ending Oct. 31.

Considering the fact that jobs of all kinds have been particularly scarce during the year, the record established by Mr. Spencer and his staff is an enviable one.

Some 93 men from outside points and listed with the employment bureau were found positions in this district, while outside districts found work for 77 men from London.

Farmers of the district to the number of 753 who turned to Mr. Spencer for farm help all received competent men, the above number being placed on farms mostly in Middlesex county.

In the women's department, presided over by Miss Friend, there were 1913 applications for work positions being found for 1,008. Casual workers numbered 454, while 402 were placed in domestic services.

DEAN SHREVE'S DEATH CAUSES SORROW HERE

Head of Quebec Diocese Delivered Masterly Address Before 1924 Synod.

Regret was expressed yesterday by prominent London Anglican clergymen in the death of Very Rev. Richmond Shreve, D.D., dean of the diocese of Quebec, which occurred at Montreal on Wednesday afternoon.

Dean Shreve was characterized by Very Rev. Dean N. Tucker, rector of St. Paul's cathedral, as "an outstanding clergyman of the Anglican church in Canada."

"He was a fine writer, strong preacher, and a scholarly and devout gentleman," said Dean Tucker. "I knew him for over 40 years and I admired him greatly."

Rev. Quintin Warner, rector of Cronyn Memorial church, spoke of Dean Shreve as having been "a brilliant speaker and a lovable man."

"Though I did not know him well," remarked Mr. Warner, "he was awfully kind to me and helped me tremendously at the time I was a student at King's college, Windsor, Nova Scotia."

Dean Shreve will be well and favorably remembered by those who were fortunate in hearing his brilliant and masterful three-hour address before the Anglican synod here last September in support of his resolution concerning the Anglican communion service, into which he propesd to service, into which he proposed to cation of the Holy Spirit," and also the "Prayer of Oblation."

Despite the fact that Dean Shreve's resolution was defeated it was generally recognized that his speech in support of it was the most outstanding address made during the whole of the synod.

CENTRAL SCORES FOR SEVENTH TIME

London High School Students Again Sweep Carter Scholarships.

For the seventh time during the past twelve years the London central collegiate institute has won the first, second and third Carter scholarships, offered for Middlesex county in connection with upper school departmental examinations.

The students who brought the coveted honors to central collegiate this year are Miss Katharine J. Tilden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Tilden of Mount Brydges; Robert H. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Reid, 837 Talbot street, and Miss Annie I. Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ward, 1337 Dundas street.

Since the Carter scholarships were first awarded in 1913, provision for such scholarships having been made in the will of J. I. Carter of Sarnia, the central collegiate has won nine firsts, eleven seconds and ten thirds, or a total of 30, out of a possible 36 scholarships.

Central Has Advantage.

While referring to the success the central has had in winning so many of the Carter scholarships during recent years, it is only fair to state that the east collegiate has never had any upper school, and also that while a few upper school subjects have been taught in the south collegiate, at no time has there been taught a sufficient number of subjects to permit of candidates competing for the Carter scholarships. Next year, however, it is expected that the south collegiate will have one or more candidates for these scholarships.

The scholarships are awarded to the three students obtaining the highest standing in the county or district named on not less than ten papers of the upper school departmental examinations. Since the individual scholarships are valued at $100, $60 and $40, the total disbursement to the 24 counties throughout Ontario which benefit from the scheme, amounts to $4,800 annually.

In winning the first Carter scholarship for the central collegiate, Miss Tilden secured first-class standing, 75 per cent or over, on eight papers, and second-class standing, 67 to 74 per cent, on two other papers. Mr. Reid, who won the second scholarship, secured first-class standing on eight papers and second-class standing on three other papers. Miss Ward, who won the third scholarship, secured first-class standing on six papers and second-class standing on four other papers.

Scholarships Worth $725.

By winning the Carter scholarship, Miss Tilden, considered by Principal E. A. Miller to be one of the most brilliant students who ever attended the central collegiate, has won and ranked for scholarships so far this year to the value of $725. Miss Tilden previously won an honor matriculation scholarship for general proficiency, valued at $300, and a special tuition scholarship, valued at $100. She also ranked first for a scholarship in English and mathematics, first for a scholarship in English, and second for a scholarship in mathematics. Miss Tilden is not finished yet. Her final scholarship list will not be known until autumn prize day, Dec. 5, at central collegiate, when the prizes and scholarships are awarded in connection with the competitions within the school itself.

In connection with the Carter scholarships the London students compete against candidates from the Strathroy collegiate institute, Parkhill high school, and Lucan high school.

ELECT MRS. G. BROWN AUXILIARY PRESIDENT

Ladies' Board to London Health Association Holds Annual Meeting.

Mrs. George T. Brown was again elected president of the ladies' auxiliary to the London health association at the annual meeting held yesterday in the board room at the public utilities building.

Other officers for the coming year will be: Vice-president, Mrs. Lionel Elliot; secretary, Mrs. C. H. Zeigler; treasurer, Mrs. Gerald Pearson; purchasing committee, Mrs. C. H. Zeigler and Mrs. Judd; concert committee, Mrs. Gerald Pearson, Mrs. Gordon Ingram, Miss Marion Beck, Mrs. Charles Ivey and Miss Helen Little.

The auxiliary has been accomplishing a very fine work among the civilian patients at the Byron sanatorium during the past year. The concert committee has been especially energetic, with Mrs. Gerald Pearson, the convener, and Mrs. Gordon Ingram, co-convener.

During the year many London artists have contributed to the entertainment of the patients at Byron, in all nine concerts being given. And at the meeting a vote of appreciation was tendered them. Plans were also made for Christmas work at the sanatorium.

The following artists appeared on programs at the sanatorium during the past year: Mrs. Harry Reason, Mrs. C. C. Wilson, Miss Murphy, Miss Johnston, Mrs. Owen, E. Magee, Mrs. George Gunn, Jun., Miss Ruth Kingsmill, Miss Katharyn Moore, Mrs. Bluethner, Miss MacDougall, Col. Gillespie, Miss Marion Beck, Miss Helen Little, the orchestra of the Central collegiate under the direction of Miss Dorothy McCann, Mrs. Innes Carling, Mrs. Harris Elliott, Miss Janes, Miss Steele, Mrs. Charlie Ivey, Miss Dobbyn, Mrs. Arthur Brickenden and Mrs. Robert Durst.

BASIC STEEL PRODUCTS VALUE PLAN ALTERED

Basic steel products entering Canada from the United States are being valued for duty at the price they command for home consumption at the time and place of direct shipment to the dominion, it was announced by the customs department today.

The ruling is in accordance with the United States federal products on the so-called Pittsburg plus basis.

In the case of sales on a delivered basis, customs officials will exercise care in seeing that the invoice shows the proper deduction for freight to arrive at the true selling price to the purchaser in Canada, f. o. b., the place of export.

NEARLY HALF OF CITIZENS MOVE IN LONDON YEARLY

City Clerk Responsible For Keeping Voters' List Up To Present Size.

MANY NEGLECT

If it were not for the fact that assessors are continually going the rounds of London, the chances are that there would be no voters' list. That is the opinion of City Clerk Baker, and as the list is prepared in his department he should be in a position to give an intelligent opinion. It can well be added that the work done in the city clerk's office has much to do with bringing the list to anything approaching completion.

There are 33,000 names on the London voters' list. Part 1 takes in the majority of the names, being those who are entitled to vote at parliamentary or municipal elections, who are residents, owners, tenants or income tax voters. Part 2 comprises those who vote at places other than where they reside, while part 3 is made up of those who are neither owners or tenants, but vote on manhood franchise in provincial or dominion elections.

"It is safe to say that there are 6,000 names that should be on the voters' lists, but who are left off yearly, because there is no way of keeping them in order or getting them on in the first place.

"One might be inclined to think," continued the city clerk, "that there were not many people moving in London, where so great a proportion of the people are in possession of their own homes, but it is a fact that from 45 to 50 per cent of the people in the city change their address each year, and I do not think London runs as high in that regard as some of the other cities. When I name that figure it is not a guess, but by actual count made in this office."

"But what accounts for so many changes of address?"

Property Transfers.

"I would say," replied Mr. Baker, "that half of them come from people moving from one part of the city to the other. This follows upon property transfers, or the completion of new houses and leaving old ones. This is going on all the time. Others are remodelling large houses, and making them into duplex residences. The first thing you know instead of one family at a given address, you should have two. On an average this moving business will account for the change of from seven to eight thousand persons a year from one address to another, and very often from tenants to owners.

"The next class is those coming into the city from outside points, and those already in who get married and start housekeeping at some address new to both parties. Then, too, there are deaths and departures from the city.

"September to October is not regarded as the ideal time for making changes of residence or for moving, but between the 15th of September and the same date in October we found from the roll of the assessment department that there had been 237 changes of address, and, of course, these were all noted on the voters' lists, although during that period there was not one application made to this office by the people who had moved to see that their names were properly given at the new address, so that there would be no mixup over their voting. If we waited for people to come and attend to the matter of getting their names on the list we would have no list at all. There has been so much effort put forth to get the names on that many people imagine it is the duty of the city to chase them around, and that there is no responsibility on the individual.

Notices to All.

"This year we sent notices to every voter of whom we had record, advising where the polling booth would be and the date of the election. Then we advertised in the daily papers that all those entitled to vote who had not received such a notice should immediately make application to the office of the city clerk to have their names put on. I do not know," concluded Mr. Baker, "of anything more that we could have done, but the response to the appeal was very disappointing, for we did not get 200 appeals, and most of them were attended to by the staff here in response to telephone calls. We should have had at the very least two or three thousand additions, but when it came to the final day for appearing at the judge's court of revision there were only 96 names put on, and I had personal knowledge of a dozen or more and attended to those myself. So you see the voters' list is not by any means a perfect one, but is as nearly so as we can make it when people don't seem to care whether their names are on or off."

Napoleon Relics Are Exchanged

Associated Press Despatch.

Paris, Nov. 14.—Prince Victor Napoleon has given to the French government the house at Ajaccio, Corsica, in which Napoleon Bonaparte was born, and in return has received the Roman sword of honor presented to Napoleon when he was first consul and the superb clock of Glodion.

"Y" GIRLS APPEAL FOR NEW BUILDING

First Definite Contribution Comes to Mrs. Donald McLean From Small Girl.

A new Y. W. C. A., with swimming pool and gymnasium for London. This is the slogan of the girls of the Y. W. C. A., who have taken the matter in their own hands and are out for results.

The first contribution came in yesterday to the president of the association, Mrs. Donald McLean. It is the whole of $2 from an 11-year-old girl, who inclosed the amount with a letter which reads as follows:

"Dear Mrs. McLean:

"I see that you are trying to get a new swimming pool. Here are two dollars. I wish you all success.

"AGNES GARVEY."

Agnes Garvey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Garvey of this city, and is an expert swimmer. It is her hobby in summer time. But in winter she has no place to swim. Hence her haste to secure the new building.

But little Miss Garvey is but one of the many girls in London who are out for a new Y. W. C. A. The whole body of "Y" girls is bound that there will be a new building, and that right shortly. The first move was made at the campers' association last week, when a petition bearing one hundred and fifty girls names was sent to the chamber of commerce as an appeal to the businessmen of the city.

WOULD-BE DONOR OF COOT TO ZOO FINDS LAW ADVERSE

A visitor last night to the office of the Advertiser was a coot, a Canadian short-tailed waterfowl.

It was the intention of the man who captured the bird to present it to the parks commission for installation as an inhabitant at the Springbank park zoo, but it is understood that upon advice from W. E. Saunders, well-known local authority on birds, he set the bird free, since to hold one in captivity is contrary to the laws of the land.

When any animal is presented to the commission, which it is not lawful to hold captive, it is the custom of the commission to communicate with the provincial game authorities to secure, if possible, permission to retain the animal for zoological purposes.

G. H. Searle, 1574 Dundas street, was the would-be donor of the bird to the Springbank zoo.

NEAR WILL ADVISE TRAFFIC TOWER

Move For Better Protection at Busy Corner Will Be Made.

MANY FAVOR SCHEME

In order to insure greater safety and more efficient regulation of traffic at the busy Dundas-Richmond corner installation of a ne wtraffic signal system will be advocated at tonight's meeting of the city council. W. P. Near, city engineer, has been preparing a report on the devices of various companies. Already the traffic committee and No. 2 committee have indorsed the principle of a signal tower for a traffic officer and a suspended signal at the center of the intersection.

Police Chief Birrell, Secretary Ed. Bernard of the London motor club, City Engineer Near, and Ald. Allan Towe, head of the traffic committee, are among those who have voiced their favor of a new traffic system. They point out that while the city has been fortunate in a minimum of traffic accidents at this corner, there is no assurance that the corner is as safe as it should be.

Plans submitted show a traffic tower to be located at the northeast corner of the intersection. From this tower a traffic officer could see for some distance both ways on Dundas street, south on Richmond, and for a considerable distance north on the same street.

Between the "diamond" of street railway trolley wires at the center of the intersection would be suspended an automatic electric signal. From the traffic tower alternate green and red lights could be regulated and left-hand turns of street cars could be handled.

A policema would still be needed on the corner, but he would not be merely a director of vehicle traffic. He would have a small "beat" covering chiefly the intersection at rush hours.

The propesed traffic signal system has the aprpoval of the committees of the council and is being widely indorsed by motorists and other citizens interested in the improved regulation of traffic.

APPEAL DECLARED LIKELY IN ACTION OF J. W. PURDOM

A. R. Douglas, who was associated with J. M. McEvoy, K.C., in the prosecution of the supreme court suit of J. W. Purdom against Gairdner, Clarke & Co., and the Northern Life Assurance Co., stated this morning that the decision rendered by Mr. Justice Riddell yesterday would undoubtedly be appealed to the supreme court.

"We haven't received a copy of the judgment or the reasons given by his lordship for the decision," said Mr. Douglas, "but the appeal will likely be made next week."

JUNIOR FARMERS TRAINING FOR ROYAL WINTER FAIR

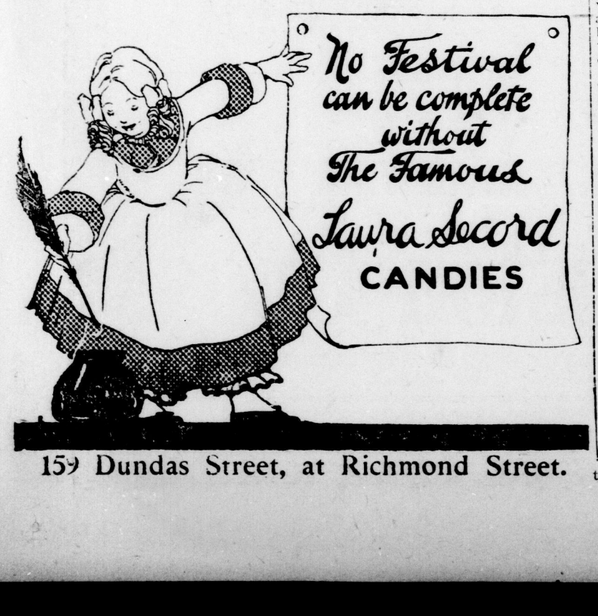

R. A. Finn and J. A. Andrews of the Middlesex branch of the department of agriculture are busy training the team of junior farmers who will represent Middlesex in the livstock judging competition at the Royal winter fair in Toronto. The agricultural representatives are spending the day with the team judging stock owned by some of the big breeders in Middlesex.

RAIN LITTLE USE.

The rainfall last night, while welcomed by district farmers, did not last long enough to suit the tillers of the soil. Farmers in the neighborhood of London report that the ground is still too hard to make any attempt at plowing successful, and are eagerly awaiting a real downpour that will last at least 24 hours.

MOTORISTS FINED.

Ten citizens paid fines amounting to $90 in police court this morning for breaches of the highway traffic act. Eight were fined $10 and costs for speeding.

DEBATING SERIES NOW ARRANGED

Central Principal and Dr. G. A. Smith, of Western, Announce Plans.

FIVE TROPHIES

Arrangements have been completed for the boys' and girls' series of the W. O. S. S. A. debating society for this year.

Announcement to this effect was made today by Principal B. A. Miller of the central collegiate and Dr. G. A. Smith of the university of Western Ontario, president and secretary, respectively, of the executive of the Wossa association.

In the girls' series the first round draw has been made as follows: Sarnia vs. Walkerville; Kitchener vs. Stratford; London South vs. St. Thomas; London East vs. Woodstock; London central, a bye.

In the boys' series, the draw is as follows: Sarnia vs. Walkerville; Kitchener vs. Stratford; London South vs. London East; London Central vs. St. Thomas.

The first round of the girls' series is to be completed by Jan. 15, the second round by Feb. 15, the third round by March 15, and the final round by April 6.

The first round in the boys' series is to be completed by Jan. 15, the second round by Feb. 15, and the final round by March 15.

Has Eleven Trophies.

The Wossa association has in all eleven cups, trophies and shields for competition in track events, basketball, hockey, oratory, debating, soccer and rugby. The eleven prizes are valued at more than $2,000. The school winning any one prize the most times during a period of ten years, dating from the organization of the association three years ago, becomes the permanent holder of such prize.

The central collegiate institute at the present time is the holder of the girls' debating shield, donated by the Women's Canadian club; the senior track trophy, donated by the city of London, and the junior track trophy, donated by the London chamber of commerce.

The technical high school won the intermediate track championship at the track and field meet last year, but since it was the first time an intermediate series had been conducted, no trophy has yet been donated for that particular phase of the association's work.

Central Wins Twice.

The central collegiate has two legs on the senior track trophy and junior track trophy. The Windsor collegiate has won the boys' basketball trophy donated by the London Rotary club four consecutive years. Sarnia collegiate is another of the schools competing in the association which has done fairly well, having won the senior track trophy twice, and the junior track trophy on three occasions. The Advertiser cup for girls' basketball is held by the Walkerville collegiate institute.

The schools and representatives entered in the debating series are as follows: Sarnia, D. A. Campbell; Walkerville, Robert Meade; Kitchener, R. N. Merritt; Stratford, Miss R. MacQueen; London South, T. S. H. Graham; St. Thomas, N. J. Thomas; London East, A. E. O'Neill; Woodstock, E. P. Hodgins; London Central, J. P. Nethercott.

WHOLESALE GROCERY MERGER NOT NEW HERE

London Merchants Say Scheme Is Old One—City Situation Fine.

The proposed merger of wholesale grocery firms in Toronto, Hamilton, and Western Ontario, has been considered for over a year by practically every one of the six local wholesalers, it was stated this morning.

"The movement originated in Guelph, with the Simpson company," stated one local wholesaler, "and I believe that ten or more firms have lined up with the idea.

"Locally, however, no move has been made by any of the firms, as far as I know. We are not hit as hard as Toronto and Hamilton, where chain retail stores have garnered in a large share of the trade. It was thought that with one or two wholesales in each district, commodities could be handled much easier and closer check kept on credits. At the present time, the margin wholesalers are working on is quite small."

L. S. R. REFITS OLD CARS FOR "PAY-AS-YOU-ENTER"

In order to complete the "pay-as-you-enter" system on all the cars of the London street railway, three of the old type will be tried out tomorrow under the modernized plan of paying fares.

Practically all the cars used by the company are now operating under the "pay-enter" system and only 11 cars, which are used chiefly during rush hours, remain with the old portable fare box in use. However, three of these have been converted so that passengers entering the car at the rear pay as they go in.

43 PERMITS ISSUED.

During the first and second weeks of November 43 permits have been issued by the building inspector's department. The total value for these permits is $31,715, indicating a slackening up in building since the rush of October construction.

Nugget of Gold Is Found By Storm-Sewer Workman

Visions of Wealth in South London Fade, However, on Soil Analysis.

BLUE GLACIAL CLAY

A gold strike in South London!

Drilling at a depth of 13 feet on Emery street yesterday workmen came upon a piece of quartz about the size of one's hand, with indications of paying quantities of the precious yellow metal running through it. It looked like a strike and workmen went on with renewed vigor.

The only fly in the ointment is that the "nugget" was picked up in a bed of heavy blue glacial clay. In such soil formation one may find a dollar's worth of gold in a thousand square miles and again, one may not.

Excavating on the Emery street storm sewer has been made a difficult task by reason of the fact that this heavy clay is encountered at a depth of from 10 to 15 feet all over the section of the city. It is almost impossible to make headway with a pick and shovel and even an iron spike and mallet makes little impression.

But good work has been done with the aid of an air compressor which was purchased by the city a year ago. A spike is attached to the compressed air machine and it picks the heavy soil out in fine style. Then chunks of clay are lifted to the roadway with the aid of a big bucket attached to the steam shovel. The steam shovel dispenses with the necessity of "staging the excavated soil from the bottom of the job to the road.

While the finding of a nugget on the city job yesterday was heralded with a great deal of interest, geological indications are not such as would permit hopes for any paying "strike" of gold in one of the city's prettiest residential districts.

SCOTCHMAN ESCAPES FINE AND JAIL TERM

Prisoner Has Good Job, So Magistrate Relents in Drinking Charge.

A local Scotchman bears the distinction of being one of the few who have ever pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated, in police court, and escaped without paying his fine or serving a term in jail. His good character is responsible for Deputy Magistrate Gladman's leniency.

He was arrested last night. In court today he told the magistrate that winter was coming on and with the winter came hard times and lack of labor. He now had a job, he said, and a term in jail would lose it for him.

"The only trouble with this man," Chief Birrell said, "is that he is Scotch and has a liking for Scotch whiskey. He is a splendid worker, but he gets mixed up in tanglefoot all the way when whiskey is around."

"I understand you're a pretty decent fellow," the magistrate said. "Go to work this afternoon, and if you're back in police court by Christmas I'll see that your fine is doubled."

PEANUT KING IS FINED FOR HITTING SMALL BOY

Lad Alleges Lambestos Also Threatened Him With Knife.

Although James Lambestos, king of the peanut vendors in London, claimed that small boys in the neighborhood of London south had been aggravating him by shooting peas at him and damaging his wagon, he was fined $5 in police court today for striking one of the lads and threatening him.

Lambestos is not very familiar with the English language, and so he had his interpreter along with him in court.

One of the boys declared that Lambestos short-changed him after he had purchased a bag of corn. When he asked for his money the aged vendor took out a knife and said: "I'll cut your throat and kill you."

Magistrate Gladman warned Lambestos that he must not strike the boys. If he wanted protection he could apply to the police.

TRUSTEES APPROVE CROSS WORD PUZZLES

The preamble to the meeting of number three committee of the board of education, while waiting for a quorum yesterday afternoon, proved much more interesting and entertaining than the meeting itself.

The topics of conversation were brief, and to the point, scattered, and yet comprehensive, as they were. Predominating the conversation, however was The Advertiser cross-word puzzle for the day.

The puzzles received a strong indorsation from Trustee Rev. G. Quintin Warner, rector of Cronyn Memorial Anglican church, and judge of the juvenile court for London and Middlesex county.

Trustee Warner informed his fellow trustees that the cross-word puzzles were a common pastime among the people of Nova Scotia in former days. "Every evening after the children completed their studies," remarked Trustee Warner, "out would come the dictionaries and the cross-word puzzles. It is a wonderful help in enlarging one's vocabulary, and withal is a most fascinating thing. I have spent hours over some of them."

TEMPORARY QUARTERS.

Members of the city tax collector's office and of the assessment office are temporarily finding quarters in other parts of the city hall than those to which they have been accustomed. With painters and paperhangers busy, conditions will not be back to normal until Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Dr. Walter Dickie, director of the anti-plague committee, said authorities have the situation well in hand.

FORESTS OF HARDWOOD URGED FOR ONTARIO

question to say that some day, and probably in the not far distant future, the source of foreign supply will have reached such a point of exhaustion that our access to them will be cut off and we will have to either resort to substitutes or go out of business. Why not prepare for this emergency?

Idle Acres.

"We all know that there are many acres of land in Western Ontario that are lying idle. The latter is a condition that is generally associated with an area that has been highly industrialized such as Western Ontario. The wages paid to those engaged in industrial pursuits are slightly out of range with those that the agriculturalist is able to pay, and as a result the farmer finds it necessary to adjust his mode of agriculture so that he will require a minimum amount of labor. Hence he goes, for example, into the grazing business, and from observation it would appear that there is far more land in Western Ontario available for this purpose than is warranted by the amount of stock seen thereon. Why not, then, have each farmer set aside, say, five or ten acres to the planting of some walnut and oak, which will have matured sufficiently in thirty or forty years, the amount of time depending upon the quality of the soil, and this would be the means of not only forestalling the inevitable scarcity of these necessary materials, but would render us absolutely independent of foreign supply. Of course we can readily appreciate the indifference of the present generation in regard to this, thinking, as they do, that they will not reap any personal benefit. If some inducement might be handed out to them in the way of freedom from taxation of the area which they would allot to reforestation.

"Another inducement would be the increase in value of his farm, due to the fact that he had this area planted in walnut and oak, and it is quite possible that during his lifetime he would be able to dispose of his holdings at a greatly increased price.

"The same thing applies with regard to our native hardwoods, such as elm, maple, ash, beech, birch and so forth, which sources of supply are rapidly diminishing. This latter may not appear urgent at present to the users of these woods, but we must not lose sight of the fact that during the past two or three years, when farm products have been yielding small margins, the farmers have been making extensive inroads into the already limited supply, on account of the prevailing high prices they were able to obtain. Such conditions in the low costs of farm products will probably not come again, and for the sake of the farmers I hope they do not, and our woodworking industries will find it more difficult as years go on to get the supplies of these raw materials.

Dangers of Erosion.

Col. W. J. Brown, president of the United Boards of Trade, addressed the gathering on the danger existing today in Ontario from lake shore erosion.

In the morning session a resolution introduced by the Guelph chamber of commerce calling for a compulsory stop by all motor and other vehicles 50 feet from all level crossings in Ontario in view of the appalling loss of life from these accidents, to be enacted by provincial legislation, was adopted.

Another resolution demanding the complete prohibition of the use of nets in the Thames river was passed unanimously during the morning, and there was a resolution passed recommending that men of prominence from the Canadian west or the maritime provinces who are visiting Ontario or passing through should be asked to speak on the problems of their respective countries. This is a move in the direction of a closer and more complete understanding of business and commercial problems of all parts of the Dominion. It was introduced by the Wodstock board of trade.

Beverly Robson, of Guelph, speaking on the resolution regarding the compulsory stop for all vehicles 50 feet from a level crossing, urged the humanitarian side of the question upon the board. He pointed out that such legislation was already in force in four states of the union where it was proving practicable. He denied that it was a piece of legislation sought by the railroads, because the onus of proof in case of accidents was already upon the driver and not in the road.

"The gongs now used on some crossings are of little use," h esaid. "The drivers don't pay much attention to them. It is estimated by the American bureau at Washington, on the basis of the level crossing accidents in late years, that there will be about 2,8000 killed in the States in 1924. It is not as bad in Canada, but the danger is here too. While the engineers in Canada are all trained men and not boozefighters, that can't be said of all the men who drive cars. The financial ability to get a car has advanced ahead of the ability to drive one with safety to the public, and this legislation which we seek is in order to prevent the enormous loss of life every day increasing for which just now there is no legal remedy."

George Mathews of Brantford opposed the resolution on the ground that it would not be practicable, and that where the track was open and easily viewed from a distance on both sides it was absurd to suggest a compulsory stop. The same resolution will come up for discussion next week before the Associated Boards of Trade of Ontario.

More Water.

On the matter of the Chicago drainage canal, McClyre Sclanders of Windsor warned the meeting that strenuous efforts were being made in Chicago to ensure an even larger supply of lakewater in the near future. The case of the legality of the present drain, which is more than twice the amount to which Chicago is entitled to, comes before the supreme court of the United States soon, but the city has retained 25 of the best engineering experts in the country to carry an appeal to congress and to have this use of lake water legalized by congress. He prophesied international discusions on this question which is of vital interest in Ontario. The use of nets in catching fish in the river Thames was strongly condemned by every delegate present, and the successful efforts of J. C. Bracken to have the proposals made last year so changed that this use was still permitted were roundly criticized by the delegates. It was admitted that he was clever, but the effect of the net on the joy of the fishermen with the rod and line was considered of more importance than the netting of a few French Canadian fishermen, who ostensibly were only catching carp in their nets, but in reality taking out everything they caught in their nets," as one delegate stated.

According to a resolution passed the Ontario government will be asked to censor all road maps which are used in the province. This came from Frank Harding of St. Thomas, who originally complained that many of these maps were misleading. He attacked the map issued by the Bell Telephone Company from London, which he thought was the product of the London Motor Club in that it neglected St. Thomas in favor of London. He also complained of certain detour signs on the west side of Chatham which he thought resulted in many motorists missing Chatham entirely.

E. C. Bernard, at the request of Gordon Philip, explained that no misleading road maps had at any time been sent out by the London Motor Club, and that the map in question came from the Bell telephone people themselves.

An advertising effort on the part of the Ontario government to be caried out in the States to increase the amount of tourist traffic in Ontario was caried.

BAVARIANS DENY MONARCHICAL PLAN

Dr. Held Declares Rumors Are Circulated For Purpose of Defaming Rupprecht.

Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, Nov. 14.—Recurring rumors that the Bavarian monarchists are planning forcible restoration of the monarchy were today branded as not only without tangible foundation, but as malignant defamation of Bavaria in general and Prince Rupprecht in particular by Dr. Held, who is attending the conference here between the government and the heads of the federated states.

"Notwithstanding that monarchical sentiment is firmly rooted in Bavarian hearts it is wholly untrue that monarchical circles there are conniving at restoration of the monarchy through a putsch, or by other illegitimate methods," Dr. Held declared in a public statement.

He was equally firm in his denial that efforts were being made in Bavaria to permit the monarchical idea to gain "flesh and blood," and fully absolved Prince Rupprecht from suspicion that he or those about him were implicated in the machinations carried on by the extreme reactionaries.

PROMINENT CATTLE MAN RENEWS FRIENDSHIPS HERE

John Haggerty, a prominent horse and cattle breeder of Belle Plains, Saskatchewan, and a former resident of the township of Caradoc, called on County Clerk John Stuart this morning to renew old friendships. Mr. Haggerty was among the big winners in the Clydesdale classes at the Guelph winter fair, and will also show at the Royal in Toronto.

Mr. Haggerty went west 24 years ago, and has made a wonderful success of farming. He stated that crops were good south of the C. P. R. to the boundary line this year, wheat running 45 bushels to the acre.

GROWTH OF OIL INDUSTRY TOLD

P. W. Gordon, of Hamilton, Is Guest of Honor at the Kiwanis Luncheon.

TWO THEORIES

In spite of all the world knows of science and geology the work of producing refined oils and marketing crude oils becomes more costly each year. The problem before the oil industry is to get sufficient material to supply the demand and sell at a figure that is satisfactory to the consumer.

Punctuating his address with sparkling humor, P. W. Gordon of the Imperial Oil Company, president of the Hamilton Rotary Club, guest of honor at the regular dinner of the Kiwanis club, spoke today of the petroleum industry.

In tracing the growth of the gasoline demand, Mr. Gordon said that in Canada the center of activities were in the vicinity of London and as there were so many people here that knew more about it than he did his imagination would not be allowed to replace the truth.

The three great factors which have done more than anything else for civilization from the industrial standpoint in the last hundred years are steam, electricity, and petroleum. There is nothing we eat, wear or use that does not in some way come in contact with these three factors.

There are two main theories as to the origin of petroleum; first, that petroleum is the result of the earth's action on metal carbides; the second that it is the result of pressure and heat. What concerns the buyer most is, can he get the product at a reasonable price.

Resourceful Salt Driller.

In West Virginia, 75 years ago, a salt driller came in contact with an oil gusher. It would have ruined him had he not been resourceful. It overran his plant and destroyed it. He was equal to the occasion. He bottled up as much as he could and sold it for medicine. Since that time the industry has risen to its present position in the world.

The first well in Canada was drilled at Oil Springs, Ont., It was not long until 2,000 barrels a year was the output. This quickly increased until it was in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 barrels. The price was $20 a barrel, which owing to a scant population, an over-production and long distances dropped to 25 cents a barrel.

The speaker mentioned William Spencer of Woodstock, J. H. Williams of Hamilton as being among the pioneers in Western Ontario. There were 30 refineries in London. The greatest of these was owned by the late Mr. Englehart, who controlled the Silver Star works.

With the advent of the internal combustion engine grtat demands were made upon the industry. The war brought a tremendous strain on the resources. One lesson learned from the conflict was that the British empire should have enouth oil within its boundaries to meet its needs.

Germany Wanted Oil.

Two of the greatest campaigns waged by the Germans were to get oil. Though they tried substitutes and their clever chemists would have made a substitute, if possible, the fact remained that without exception all the tanks of captured German planes contained straight gasoline.

The crude oil industry has risen from 2,000 barrels 75 years ago to 720,000,000 barrels a year. This is distributed by 60,000 miles of pipe lines, thousands of tank cars and steamers. Ninety per went of the British navy is fueled by oil. It requires 68,000 barrels of oil to fuel the Leviatian for one round trip across the Atlantic. It would take an ordinary oil well 25 years to prduce that amount of oil.

There are three neculiar and distinct factors that make the oil game expensive to handle; the depletion of wells, the shift in supply, and the change in the demands of buyers, said the speaker.

Governor Edward Tanguay of Quebec Kiwanis, and Col. James Brodie also spoke. George C. Carrie, choir leader of the First Methodist church sang. President Tom Yull occupied the chair.

ASSESSMENT NOTICES RECEIVED FROM WINDSOR

Copies of the assessment notices of the city of Windsor were received [illegible] today. When compared with the new notices put in use in London this year, London's style showed up very well. In London the notices are less than a third of the size of the Windsor papers, but contain all the necessary columns and spaces for the giving of information.

NO HUNTERS AT BYRON.

Hunters who in past years flocked to woods in the vicinity of Byron in search of game have given the area a wide berth this fall, one of the members of the Byron game protective association stated this morning. It has not been found necessary to register any prosecutions so far this fall, the member added.

former premier of France, whose political career now hangs in the balance. Caillaux was banished from Paris and other sections of France following his conviction of treason.

SHOES OF DECORATOR TAKEN FROM CITY HALL

Mean Trick Reported by Citizen Engaged in Renovating Offices.

It takes a mean man to steal anmen mean enough for that, if the mean men enough for that, if the complaint of a workman employed by G. Burdick & Sons, decorators, is indication.

While working on the re-decorating of the city hall interior this week, this chap left his shoes in the council chamber and went to work in his slippers. When he returned from the assessor's office, his brand new boots were missing, either mislaid or stolen. The workman had to walk home in his slippers.

The unfortunate owner, bereft of his boots, made inquiries at the assessors' office. He was told that, while there was no desire to reflect on anyone in or around the city hall, it was not uncommon to keep things under lock and key. An old clock, removed from the wall of the assessors' office during the renovating operations, was proof of this. The ancient timepiece had not merely been hung on the wall. It had been nailed hard and fast so that a long bolt of nine or ten inches projected into the wall from the back of the clock.

CONDITION BETTER.

Mrs. Thomas Shaw of Aylmer, who was yesterday brought to Victoria hospital suffering from bullet wounds in the abdomen, caused when she accidentally shot herself, is reported to be resting comfortably today.

HUSBAND MISSING, FEAR FOUL PLAY

Ernest Chapman, 161 Wortley Road, Has Not Been Seen Since Tuesday.

Believing that her husband has been the victim of foul play, Mrs. Ernest Chapman of 161 Wortley road has notified the police of his mysterious disappearance from his home last Tuesday afternoon.

Ernest Chapman is the proprietor of a candy store at Wharncliffe road and Bruce street, South London. On Tuesday, according to Mrs. Chapman, he received a telephone call, informed his wife that he was summoned downtown on business, and disappeared.

Although his absence could not be accounted for, Mrs. Chapman believed he would return. Now, after he has been away for three days, she believes he has been waylaid and robbed. He had about $100 on his person when he left his home on Tuesday.

Police are preparing circulars of the man which will be sent out today in an effort to have him located.

They are not inclined to believe Mrs. Chapman's theory, however, and think that he will be found soon.

BARROOM PAINTINGS UNCOVERED IN CITY HALL

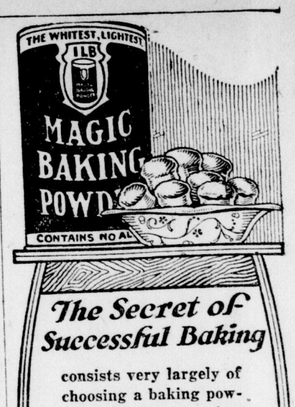

"The face on the bar room floor" probably had little on the painted ceiling of the old bar room of the present city hall as it was revealed in all its glory by the paperhangers today. The old bar room is now the city tax office, and when workmen cleaned off old paper from the ceiling this morning they found a gloriously painted plaster beneath.

Colors were quite well preserved in the beauteous fresco work, a bewildering maze of circles and symbols that is spread over half the high ceiling. But the work of some now forgotten artist is doomed for another Rip Van Winkle nap and before long the paintings will be covered up with a simple modern monocolored wall paper.

LITERARY SOCIETY WILL HOLD ITS FIRST MEETING

OVERCOATS

A FAMOUS Canadian maker, confident of cold weather coming on schedule, had made up hundreds of Overcoats for anticipated repeat orders. Owing to the warm weather of the past weeks, these orders failed to materialize. Something had to be done. The maker himself made a personal trip to London and offered these overcoats at prices impossible for us to refuse.

The coats are here now—ready tomorrow! They offer the most marvellous opportunity for saving on really high-quality Overcoats it has been your good fortune to read about for many, many years.

Values in the regular way up to $50

IN TWO GREAT GROUPS.

$23 $33

THEY'RE wonderful Overcoats! Famous woolens from O'Brien's and Raceview mills in Ireland, Ballantyne's of Scotland, Newham's of England! Beautiful check backs; thick, luxurious Shetlands; rich, double-faced coatings. Every coat is handsomely tailored (Dowler customers have been wearing this maker's clothes for nearly 20 years.) Many have beautiful check polo linings, others have shield lining with piped seams! There's every desirable type—every new model—English Guards coats, box-back, slip-on, belted ulsters, Raglans, town ulsters, motor coats, big storm coats, dressy Chesterfields—in every size for every man.

THE WORD "Sale" has been libeled so much in past seasons that we almost refrain from using it, but this event is so unusual in character, so exceptional in the opportunity it gives for savings that there should be no word in the dictionary too eloquent to convey the advantage it presents.

An event like this is only another proof of the power and resources that enable the Dowler stores to do such big things for their customers.

Workers in all trades—professional men whose duties take them outdoors—men in warehouses, factories and shops—businessmen of all kinds—this sale is for you! It's the greatest sale that ever happened at Dowler's—stores famous for their great values!

COLBERT WILL NOT SEEK COUNCIL POST

Popular Labor Leader Leaves For a Trip to Mexico.

John Colbert, ex-alderman, will not be a candidate in the city aldermanic election on Dec. 1. He emphatically stated last evening, before leaving for a month's trip to El Paso, Texas, that he was definitely going to stay out of the contest.

Report among some labor men is that they might elect Mr. Colbert in his absence, and that their campaign would be sufficiently vigorous to get the popular street railway union president a position on the council. He has a big following, and is popular among the trades union.

"I'm not thinking of running at all," Mr. Colbert told the Advertiser when asked for a definite statement.

It was pointed out this week by railwaymen's officials that Mr Colbert could be nominated in his absence, that he could qualify by proxy. Mr. Colbert was named as a delegate to the annual convention of the American federation of labor, which is meeting in the Texan city the latter part of this month.

Mrs. Colbert accompanied her husband on the trip south last night.

GIVE NATIVITY PLAY AT PATRICIA THEATRE

Stanley Meredith and Miss Grace Blackburn To Produce Christmas Drama.

One of the attractions of the Christmas season will be the presentation of Norah Holland's "Nativity Play" in the Patricia Theatre on Dec. 22.

The production of this play, which has been a feature of the Christmas activities of the Drama league during the past two years, is this year in the hands of Stanley Meredith and Miss Grace Blackburn, and will be presented under the auspices of the women's guild of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Rehearsals are already under way, although the entire cast has not yet been completed. The producers are using every effort to make Norah Holland's play something very fine. A lavish use of scenery and lighting effects will be employed to produce a suitable setting. The introduction of the cathedral choir will give the necessary background of religious music.

CURB, SIDEWALK WORK COMPLETED FOR YEAR

No more sidewalk, or curb and gutter work will be done by the civic works department this year. Work on Riverview heights was practically complete when frost interfered this week and brought the work to a close. The sidewalk gang had another short stretch of walk to do, but this can well enough be left until spring.

On Monday there was an inch and a half of rost, and nights since then have frozen up pools of water around the city However, engineers are well pleased with the fine weather, which persisted for so long this autumn and more steady work was permitted than for years past.

London, Nov. 13.—The funeral of F. C. Wade, K.C., agent-general for British Columbia, who died on Sunday morning, took place at Golder's Green today. The remains were cremated and the crematorium chapel was scarcely large enough to hold all who were present to pay their last tribute of respect to Mr. Wade's memory.

FREIGHT RATES UP.

FRENZIED TRADING HITS NEW YORK EXCHANGE

"Bulls" and "Bears" Struggle For Supremacy With Honors Divided.

New York, Nov. 13.—Frenzied trading characterized today's stock market, the fifth consecutive two-million share session, when the "bulls" and "bears" struggled for control, and the day's honors again were about evenly divided.

Bullish demonstrations, centering in the industrial shares, listed more than 50 stocks to new peak prices for the year, with the general industrial average at its highest level since the early part of 1920. The general railroad average showed a decline of ¾ of a point. The day's sales were slightly in excess of 2,228,000 shares.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe again furnished the pyrotechnics of the session, soaring more than 8 points, to a record high for all time, at 147¼ as the badly-trapped "shorts" rushed to cover.

U. S. Steel, common, crossed 115 to the highest price in five years.

Failure of the directors of the Southern Pacific to increase the dividend, which had been widely predicted in speculative quarters, threw a wet blanket over the railroad shares, but not until after "Katy," preferred, Missouri Pacific, preferred, Atlantic Coast Line, and a few others, had registered new maximum prices for the year.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS JURY'S VERDICT

Samuel Apple Killed by Rupture of Heart—No One To Blame.

A coroner's jury, investigating the death of Samuel Apple, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Apple, 427 Bathurst street, at police station last night, concluded that the boy died from a ruptured heart, a medical rarity, caused either from a severe blow or heavy fall.

Samuel Apple, according to the evidence, was struck on the head by a door at the Webster Construction Company, Burwell street, which had blown shut upon him during Friday's windstorm. Directly after the lad was hit he ran across the road, stumbled on the sidewalk and fell. He was taken to Victoria hospital at once, but was dead when admitted.

No responsibility for the fatality was attached to the Webster Construction Company.

Post Mortem Performed.

A post mortem was performed by Dr. F. W. Luney, instructor in pathology at the institute of public health. He stated that death was due to shock and hemorrhage following a rupture of the heart. A severe blow or fall would cause the condition, he said, but it would be possible for the boy to run some distance after the rupture. A case of this nature was comparatively rare to medical science, the physician declared. He said that he had never seen such a case before.

J. D. Jacobs, 864 William street, and George Leslie, 133 Wilson avenue, employees of the Webster Construction Company, both said that they were engaged in unloading wire from a wagon near the heavy doors which struck young Apple at the time of the accident. Jacobs said he had opened the doors himself and knew that they were securely propped against the walls to prevent them from slamming shut. The men declared that on many occasions they had warned Apple and his brothers and other children to stay away from the construction company, knowing that it was a dangerous place for them to play.

Following is the jury's verdict:

"That Samuel Apple came to his death on Nov. 7, 1924, from rupture of the heart due to shock received either from a blow in the back caused by a swinging door driven by a gust of wind at the Webster Construction Company, or from a fall caused by stumbling on the sidewalk and falling forward violently after running across the street following the blow from the door.

"To which of these causes the rupture of the heart was due it was impossible from the evidence for the jurors to decide. Employees of the company were unloading a truck at the time, and the deceased had no occasion to be there at all and had been requested repeatedly to keep away.

Impossible to Determine.

"Whether the prop which guarded the door from swinging was disturbed by children playing about the premises or fell down from the action of the high wind it is impossible to determine.

"In any case the jurors are of the opinion that under the circumstances the Webster Construction Company cannot be held responsible for the fatality."

Coroner Dr. Robert Ferguson presided over the inquest and the jurors included Robert Ross, Joseph Good, Benjamin Tripp, G. W. Forest, Adam Blay, Arthur Mann, E. S. Bice and William Richmond. Albert M. Judd appeared for the crown.

Ten witnesses testified. They were: James Gerrard, 228 Burwell street; G. L. Murray, 427 Rectory street; J. D. Jacobs, 864 William street; George Leslie, 133 Wilson avenue; Dr. Post, chief of staff at Victoria hospital, and Dr. F. W. Luney of the institute of public health; Mrs. Ada Livingstone, 265 Burwell street; George H. Vaughn, and Morris Apple, 427 Bathurst street, father of the dead boy.

PROGRESS MADE IN MEDICAL WORK

Board of Education Makes Rapid Headway in Special Work.

Definite progress was made at the meeting held yesterday afternoon of the special committee appointed by the board of education to secure all possible information with regard to medical supervision in the city schools.

As a member of the committee, Trustee Dr. Alfred J. Grant suggested that the committee might be able to secure valuable information on the subject under consideration from the provincial department of education, from the Western Ontario academy of medicine and from other towns and cities where medical supervision to a varying degree is in force.

Trustee Rev. R. D. Mess emphasized the fact that the committee should approach the subject from the standpoint of public health and the prevention of disease, not merely the curing of disease.

The committee is, therefore, calling a round table conference of all parties interested to meet with officials from whom information may be secured. The conference is to be held in the board room of the board of education some evening in the near future.

Those who will be present at the conference, besides the members of the special committee, Trustees Rev. R. D. Mess, Dr. A. J. Grant, Rev. Quintin Warner, Geo. F. Copeland, Mrs. John I. A. Hunt and Mrs. John A. Rose, are: A committee to be appointed by the Western Ontario academy of medicine; Dr. V. P. Fair, medical officer of the provincial department of education, Toronto; Dr. H. W. Hill, director of the institute of public health; Dr. T. J. MacNally, district medical officer of health, London; Dr. W. Downham, medical officer of health; Mrs. W. A. Tanner, president of the union mothers' club; Senior Inspector V. K. Greer, Principal E. A. Miller of the collegiate institute, and Principal H. B. Beal, of the technical high school.

COMMITTEE HEARS REPORT ON CENTRAL COLLEGIATE

The regular meeting of No. 3 committee of the board of education yesterday afternoon lasted but twenty minutes. Only matters of a routine character were considered.

The committee set aside the sum of $100 for the purpose of running the amusement tax department in connection with the auditorium of the central collegiate institute.

Principal E. A. Miller of the collegiate institute, reported the fact that central collegiate had been successful in winning the three Carter scholarships in the county of Middlesex this year.

Accounts totalling $2,334.95 were approved by the committee.

Trustee S. F. Lawrason, who resigned from the board on Nov. 6, was an absentee from the meeting, as were Trustees Mrs. John I. A. Hunt and A. R. Cairncross, both of whom are out of the city at present.

NOTARY PUBLIC.

In order to assist citizens who find it necessary to make affidavits for civic use, City Clerk Sam Baker has been appointed a notary public. He is now in a position to assist any citizen with this beneficial enlargement in his powers.

PLANNING CONFERENCE.

According to a notice received by the London town planning commission an informal conference on town planning will be held in the new city hall at Kitchener on Nov. 26. Appointment of a provincial town planner and fixing of building restrictive measures will be discussed.

TRADE BOARDS PROPOSE REMEDY FOR FARM ILLS

Delegates From Fourteen Counties of Western Ontario Discuss Problems and Proposal To Form Association To Settle Vacant Lands and End Farm Depopulation.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING IS STRESSED

Formation of a Western Ontario association for the purpose of giving publicity to the 14 counties of Western Ontario and to re-settle the 400,000 acres of vacant farm land was proposed yesterday at the sessions of the seventh annual meeting of the united boards of trade of Western Ontario.

Colonel W. J. Brown, president of the united boards of trade, in outlining this plan, declared that adequate and careful supervision of the activities of the immigrant by some experienced farmer was the best way in which to insure keeping him on the land. To this there must be added just as careful a selection of the right type of immigrant in the land from whence he came. All of this the association has planned to do.

The sessions yesterday were devoted to the vacant lands problem, and to rural depopulation in Western Ontario.

Martin Will Help.

Hon. J. S. Martin, provincial minister of agriculture, restated his determination to do all in his power to bring out suitable farm help for Ontario, and at the same time made an earnest plea for a high and uniform quality standard in all farm products. This, together with co-operative marketing on the part of the farmer, would, he thought, go far toward solving all the rural problems of Western Ontario.

Professor A. Leitch of the department of rural economy at the O. A. C., Guelph, took a stand somewhat similar to that of the minister of agriculture. He advocated co-operative marketing, and stated boldly that it was a system which was bound to come in the near future, and would not in any way be prevented by opposition. He explained that this together with a uniform standard for farm products would put 'Western Ontario' in the map and established her in European market, with a general beneficial result to everyone living in the province.

During the discussion at times there was some anxiety expressed by a few farmers at what they were inclined to think was overproduction, but Mr. Martin and Karl Homuth, M. L.A., for South Waterloo, both assured them that this was not a real danger at the present time.

Many Acres Vacant.

Colonel W. J. Brown in his opening address on the subject of vacant land in Western Ontario, referring to a compilation of statistics by Gordon Philip, secretary of the London chamber of commerce, said:

"In the 125 townships of Western Ontario from which we have facts and figures, we calculate that there are today 101,000 acres of vacant farm lands, not including farms abandoned as useless. There are 235,777 acres of farm land offered for sale, and 102,000 acres of cleared land in pasture over the necessary requirements. The value of the annual yield of land in Western Ontario is put by experts at about $2,000,000."

Mr. Martin said: "In spite of the fact that farming has been carried on at a loss lately, I believe that there are definite signs of improvement at the present time. The years of the war and after were years of destruction. All business suffered. Today there is a certain, apparent steadiness. With the present high price of wheat, and we must admit it is a high price, there is bound to be a general improvement in farming in Canada.

"Probably the chief reason why farming has not been popular in the last few years is because it has not been carried on at a profit. Then, too, the scarcity of good, experienced help has had a lot to do with it. Nothing so discourages a farmer as this lack of good suitable help. He sees so much that should be done and finds himself without the power to get it done.

"Eighteen months ago I made a promise that whatever I might be unable to do for the farmers of Ontario I would at least try to get a sufficient supply of good help, and I am prepared now to do everything in my power to fulfill that promise.

Brings Much Help.

"Last year we brought in some 4,000 men for this purpose. We advertised them in all the local centers where help was most scarce and we filled every application for help which we received. Then there was the small farmer to be considered, who was not in a position to pay the wages of a man. For his benefit we brought over a number of boys. These did very well and proved suitable for the work. The farmer paid them ten dollars a month and board, and they served as farm apprentices.

"As far as the automobile is concerned I heartily approve of every farmer having a car. The car has improved rural life, and if anyone is entitled to own a car I think it is the famer. One of the reasons for the large number of farmers retiring from their farms is the high rate of wages which has been prevalent in the cities in late years. The increase and activity in the automobile business meant an increase in wages which tended to lure the boys off the farms. However, this is not a permanent feature of conditions and will, in fact is even now passing.

Bring Out Families.

"As far as immigration is concerned my opinion is that we should bring out whole families rather than single men. It has been very hard to get the single men to stay on the farms, and I believe this could be avoided by bringing the whole family. The British immigrant, coming from a densely-populated country, would, I am sure, do better here in Western Ontario than in the west. He would be nearer his neighbors and would be settled in a mixed farming country more in line with his own ideas of farming than in the prairie provinces.

Need Cheap Power.

"I believe," he said, "that every effort should be made now to cheapen hydro to the farmer in Western Ontario. It is not yet cheap enough. That might perhaps help to keep our boys on the farms. You must remember that today the men in the cities are not getting the wages they got a few years ago. Today they are in some cases looking for the next meal.

"As to immigrants, we should not ask where they come from, but are they good farmers. If a man farms well in any country he can farm well here.

"This association which has been proposed to you today is capable of doing a great deal for Western Ontario. Don't you think it reasonable to let businessmen, who have sold their own products often in European markets in the face of stiff competition, sell this great Western Ontario proposition to the countries where the immigrants will come from for the benefit of the whole community?"

Co-operative Sales.

Professor A. Leitch of the department of rural economics at the O. A. C., Guelph, speaking at the evening session in the Tecumseh House, gave co-operative marketing by the farmers of Western Ontario as one of the possible solutions of the problem of rural depopulation. Normal rural depopulation he described as a perfectly normal and usual round of development, and not in any way to be worried over. He admitted, however, that the present rate of depopulation in Western Ontario was going on at too great a speed, and urged that all effective means should be adopted in order to stay it.

"The number of people which a country or a nation can release from food production is really a measure of its civilization," he said. In this case, however, economic conditions have speeded up the normal movement from the land to such an extent that those left on the land are bound to suffer.

Help Businessmen.

Professor Leitch was careful to show the businessmen present that they had nothing to fear, but rather something to gain from this new order of things.

He said, "the middleman's business must always be done by someone. The business will not cease but increase by co-operation. There will be a few individuals who will suffer of course, but that is always the way in all evolution. Don't you see that if the farmer of Western Ontario can by co-operative marketing and by setting a high and uniform standard for all his products, establish a reputation in the British market, and get a higher price than he is now, that there will be more money in the province to spend. It is the finest and surest way in which Western Ontario can be put on the map, this farmers, co-operative marketing, and I hope that all you businessmen here tonight will do your utmost to see that it comes into operation and goes ahead to success."

O. A. C. President Speaks.

President Reynolds of the O. A. C. backed up his confrere as to the necessity of co-operative marketing if the rural problem in the western 14 counties of the province was to be solved. He referred to the attitude of Western Canada farmers, who said that the duty of the agricultural college today was not to show the farmer how to produce more, but how to sell what he already produced.

"This," he said, "is the declared policy of the O. A. C. today, and the department of which Professor Leitch is in charge has already been able to render valuable services to farmers in this way.

IF BACK HURTS FLUSH KIDNEYS

Drink Plenty of Water and Take Glass of Salts Before Breakfast Occasionally.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean, like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which help to remove the body's urinous waste, and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer in source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means, have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year — Advt.

GATES OF PENITENTIARY CLOSE UPON PETER SMITH

Former Provincial Treasurer Is Now Prisoner K-831 at Portsmouth.

SAYS HE IS POOR

Declares Aemilius Jarvis Should Pay Fine Imposed by Court.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Kingston, Nov. 13.—Closing a unique chapter in the public life of the province of Ontario, the walls of Portsmouth penitentiary today held in punitive grip, in common with hundreds of other wrong-doers and sinners against society, Peter Smith, one-time provincial treasurer of Ontario, who began his sentence of three years' imprisonment for conspiracy to defraud the province.

One hour after he reached the prison he was prisoner K-831; he had undergone the regular routine of every criminal who enters the portals of the prison, which included a bath, a close haircut and the donning of a suit of drab gray with his number on the back of the coat. He was assigned to his cell, but the work which he will perform has not yet been decided. It is thought, however, that he will get clerical duty or agricultural work.

Wife Accompanies.

Smith arrived at the prison about one o'clock this afternoon from Toronto and was escorted by Governor Major Basher of Toronto jail. During his trip he appeared cheerful and carried on a conversation with newspapermen and his wife, who accompanied him to Kingston, and followed the automobile which carried him to the prison gates which she saw close upon him. Mrs. Smith drove to a hotel afterwards where she waited for the first train which took her west to her home in Stratford.

The former provincial treasurer was not handcuffed when he stepped off the train at Kingston. He and Major Basher hurried to a waiting automobile some hundred feet from the station, but the prisoner was identified by a small crowd of people who stood nearby. With the evident purpose of avoiding publicity Major Basher directed the driver of the motor car to proceed to the penitentiary by way of the back streets and to keep from the main thoroughfare of the city. After a final leave-taking of his wife at the prison gates, Smith was escorted to the office of the warden and immediately prepared for the serving of his sentence.

The Verdict of Emma Goldman.

Emma Goldman, anarchist, plotter, whose hand has been for years against law and authority, has escaped from Russia—escaped from the conditions for which she fought in United States and Britain.

So bitter were her attacks and so deliberate her plotting that she was deported from United States in 1919 as an undesirable. Her whole energy had been bent for years in working for conditions she imagined existed in Russia under the rule of the soviet, and it was with little remorse that she faced extradition and turned to the red flag of revolution.

Emma Goldman went to Russia gladly. She had every reason to expect that she would be among friends; the equivalent of "Welcome" would be written on the door mat at Moscow, and she could lend an experienced hand for the completion of the task well under way in the land of the Muscovite.

After two years under the soviet rule of Russia Emma Goldman escaped. She had to escape because her freedom was so hedged about that at every turn some suspicious official wanted to know where she was going and what she intended to do. She saw thousands of Russians huddled in concentration camps, not for any action they had taken, but for opinions they held. She came into close grips with a rule that was more relentless in its autocracy than that of the czarist regime.

Emma Goldman escaped to old Britain, the home of government by the people, the birthplace of the very institutions she had sought to wreck. In Britain she finds it possible to go where she wishes to go, to speak when she so desires, and her verdict is:

"It does not require many people to destroy things, but it takes a great many people to build things up."

Were this story to have application only to Emma Goldman it would not be worth the space devoted to it; she is a woman of the world, she needs no sympathy, and is well able to take care of herself.

But it has a far wider application. Right here in Canada, even in London, we have men who continually decry our present system of government. They have built up in their minds a nebulous theory of government that would wipe out the institutions at present intrusted with that function. They crave and they agitate for greater freedom from an oppression that exists only in their imagination, and they continually busy themselves seeking to make others think as they think.

There is another class, somewhat removed from these, who accept our form of government as a burden to be borne; they do not openly oppose it, but damn it with faint praise that pivots on ridicule. A little farther removed are those who claim government is rotten, politics impure, and therefore they will keep far removed from the possibility of contamination. They have no positive opinions; their whole stock-in-trade is negative cynicism.

To each and every one in these three classes the experience and the conclusions of Emma Goldman are submitted. She scoffed at law in the early stages of her career; as she advanced she sought to plot against it. She ran the whole gamut of destructive effort, and as the climax of an inglorious career sought to bask in the sunshine of unrestricted soviet freedom.

Her escape from that freedom provides an impressive setting for her own words:

"Remember, it does not require many people to destroy things, but it takes a great many people to build things up."

Trouble In Tory Toronto.

Usually a meeting in a Toronto Conservative club is a gathering of kindred souls or something like that. There are so many Tories in that town that the sessions are always well attended.

But this 1924 is a queer year and many things have gone wrong. That is at least putting a generous explanation on what took place at a meeting in the Conservative club in Toronto the other night. It was J. A. McCausland, M.L.A., who started the rumpus — or rather heated argument, for rumpus is rather a strong word. Some may have had the idea that Mr. McCausland had resigned, but that report is hereby contradicted. He was just going to resign a few weeks ago, and repeated the performance again last night.

Mr. McCausland said the premier spoke too soon after the results of the O. T. A. vote were announced. He had not even consulted Mr. McCausland about what he would say, therefore Mr. McCausland once more threatened to resign and run as an independent Conservative. He's either more or less resigned than he was before, he didn't say which.

Mr. McCausland struck out at the premier and gave it as his opinion that "the province will continue to exist even if Mr. Ferguson is not premier." Imagine saying that right in the Conservative club rooms in Toronto! One can imagine a disgruntled Grit saying such a thing, hiding behind a pine tree upon the Shelvin-Clark timber limits, but right in the heart of Toryism in Toronto—well, the fat was in the fire then.

Dr. Hendrick, vice-president of the club, came to the rescue; not for one minute was he going to see "the unity of the party all through the province" destroyed. He pointed the official musket at Mr. McCausland, who by the way hasn't resigned yet, and told him that if he didn't want to bow the knee and wear the sign of G. Howard Ferguson he had better resign and start a party of his own. Still later despatches say Mr. McCausland hasn't resigned.

Mr. McCausland smote upon his breast and said such remarks were un-British. Finding himself groggy from the drubbing he got, Mr. Mc. called for British fair play.

Premier Ferguson is not to be envied of the task of getting the boys back to the point where they will rise and sit at the snap of his finger and do their exercises correctly and happily to the records as he changes the political needles.

An Incomplete Voters' List.

The London voters' list, when it leaves the hands of the printer, will be an incomplete document, at least 6,000 names short of representing the actual voting power of the municipality. The first answer to such an assertion will be that there must be carelessness some place, and there is—on the part of those who should have their names on the list.

The average resident does not see much of the moving that is going on. He would be very much surprised to learn that a voters' list of a substantial city like London changed from 45 to 50 per cent each year. That is not a guess or an estimate, but determined by actual count in the preparation of the list in the office of the city clerk. Families moving from one part of the city to another accounts for half the changes, and as there are 33,000 names on the list that means a fairly large moving program for the year. People coming into the city, or those who get married and start housekeeping at a new address account for most of the remaining changes, the number being completed by deaths or removals from the city.

If it were not for the assessment department's records London would soon have no voters' list at all. Between September 15 and October 15 237 changes were made in the voters' lists from the assessor's records. Not one of the 237 applied at the clerk's office to have the change made to the new address so that there would be no danger of losing the right to vote.

At the judge's court of revision, prior to the printing of the lists, although there are thousands of whom the clerk's office has no trace, there were only 200 applications made, many of these being attended to by the city clerk's department; on the day of appeal only 96 names were added, and there were a dozen or more of those who did not appear in person.

The present system of creating a voters' list is faulty; the public has came to believe that in some way or other the city officials will find out when a person moves, when he comes to town or leaves, and they seem quite content to leave it at that. If a very important issue were to come up quickly there would be a rush to the polls on December 1, with the conviction firmly established in advance that if a name were not on the list a rank injustice had been done. If some degree of compulsion were used to secure notification at the city hall of new arrivals and changes of address it would be possible to prepare a voters' list representative of the electorate. At present it cannot be done.

Payin' Your Bills

Joe Deadhead owed a lot of bills, he'd let them pile up one by one, until it didn't ruffle him to find another six had come. Joe never thought in dodgin' bills he blistered other people's hide, he seemed content to stroke his chin and let the stack of dunners slide.

Until one day Joe started out to get some cash a-owin' him, he said as how his debtor was a cheap skate and a bloomin' skin—that he would show the beggar up and name him as a tin horn sport, he'd take the hair from off his dome and haul him to the village court.

Well after this Joe seemed to see how foolish he must look in town, he took a pen and started in to write his list of payments down.

He went unto the grocer store and asked the man to get his bill, the grocer figured out a spell, he stuck Joe's coin inside his till. Then he went to the tailor shop where once he got a long-tailed coat, these words "Received with thanks" was what the joyful tailor wrote.

The grocer man he took Joe's coin and paid the man who drove his rig, he spent the scads in saltin' down one-half the carcasse of a pig, so he could live in winter time when frost is rappin' at the door, and eat pork chops at supper time and hand the platter back for more.

The tailor hustled down the street and got a painter man to come, and decorate his shop and home the color of the rising sun. The man who did the paintin' then he carted color in a pail, he was the man what Joe had tried to cast into the village jail.

A humble soul, but out of luck, he travelled fast as he could go, and paid the bill into the court that seemed to be a-botherin' Joe.

Joe saw the coin but didn't know if he could trust his eyes or not, the cash he held within his mitt was what he'd give the tailor shop.

Well Joe don't let his bills run now, they pelt no dunners at his beak, he pays his debts now right straight off and rubs the slate clean every week. Joe's sure as any man can be of how to cure financial chills, by all the folks just startin' out to pay at once their honest bills.—ARK.

THE MOVIES.

While critics resent all the money that's spent
On films that are low-brow and daring,
While many folk score movie potentates for
Making pictures improper and glaring,
While they level abuse on the men who produce
Pictures lurid and poor, I defend them,
For if tales bright and clean were produced on the screen
Hardly any film fans would attend them.

The people like mush mixed with sugar and slush,
And flavored with hokum and honey,
And producers who haste to improve this low taste
Get a mighty poor run for their money.
Though editors gas: "Films should be higher class,"
Such views should be put in cold storage,
For no man can go far if he serves caviar
To a public accustomed to porridge.

DAILY SHORT STORY.

Suddenly there was a terrific din, Oswald Oskulunge, Hickville's star drawback, was flying down the field with the ball. Behind him galloped Ike Eagleeye, star outside leg for Skunton. Would Oswald score a touch or would Ike get him? The hearts of five hundred thousand electric fans were in their sockets. The cheers were blinding. Suddenly from the center of the seething mass of humanity a shriek louder than the rest rang out. It was a shriek not of joy, but of pain, not of pleasure, but of suffering, not of delight but of delirium.

The great Don Doughnut no sooner heard than his masculine intuition told him it was some fair, or maybe dark, damsel in distress.

"To horse!" he cried to his faithful valet Carbolic as, with a single bound, he mounted his fiery goat.

"Too hoarse," Carbolic, who had been cheering lustily, returned unmoved.

Ramming dozens of young men with his lance, Don Doughnut cleared his way to the maiden in distress.

"I've lost it," the maiden gasped between shrieks. "It is gone for ever."

"Not so," Doughnut warbled, knocking down several spectators with his sword. "I will find it."

Suiting the word to the action, Don Doughnut scoured the earth for the cherished possession. Socking hundreds of people in the jaw, he peered anxiously under their heels for some trace of the maiden's loss. Finally he found it.

"Here thou art, fair maid," he said gallantly, extending his horny palm.

The maid stifled her howls and looked long at the article. A flush of disappointment stole over her chiseled nose.

"No, it can't be mine," she sobbed, "because mine was Spearmint."

FORESTRY.

Like Canada, it is time the United States devoted its attention seriously to the question of forestry. Timber farming has not been profitable, notwithstanding the fact shortages constantly occur and that $250,000,000 is spent annually on freight and other forms of transportation.

The passage of the McNary-Clarke bill may improve the situation.

This bill provides for the protection of forest lands, for the reforestration of denuded areas, for the extension of national forests.

America consumes 60,000,000,000 board feet of lumber every year. According to Senator McNary 7,000,000,000 of this is waste through fire, insects and disease. America grows naturally and artificially but one-fifth of this annual 60,000,000,000. Soft timber is disappearing eight times faster than it grows and hard woods more than three times faster.

Reforestration is manifestly a subject of education and of slow growth. It involves not only fire protection but a study of forest taxation and a distribution of forest planting material, the creation of additional national forests and encouragement to private owners.

The McNary-Clarke Bill aims to do this and to establish the foundation of a national forest policy, and though it is far from complete its provisions are good as far as they go.

In order to protect the forests properly, state co-operation with the nation is required as, according to the peculiar American system, it is necessary for the state and the nation to work together.

Forests have much to do with the prevention of destructive floods and have an influence upon climatic conditions.

Especially the planting of trees along national highways should be encouraged, as it is in France. Also as in Germany, no man should be allowed to cut down a tree unless one is planted at the same time. There should be ample provision for reforestation. A tree should be recognized as a national asset and no man should be allowed to do as he pleases with his own trees, but the government should have supervision over them all.

You'll Get Your Tax Bill.

That tax conference at Ottawa fell into evil ways. It had been in session only a few hours when it was evident that those in attendance had come with the idea of claiming the exclusive right to operate in certain fields.

Provinces had blue prints showing just how they could erect new derricks and proceed to pump the money out of the ratepayers.

In no case was there the suggestion that there were more derricks than the people on the property could support.

It will go down in history not so much as a taxation conference as a gathering of tax takers.

JUDGES COMPLETE WINTER FAIR TASK,

All Prizes in Live Stock Classes Are Awarded at Guelph.

WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Nov. 13.—Matchless Duke, premier shorthorn steer owned by John Kopas & Sons, Elora, won the last of the championship awards, that for market cattle, just prior to the closing of the livestock judging at the Ontario provincial fair this afternoon. One thousand people witnessed the judging today.

The cattle for the purple ribbon was between Matchless Duke and the Manitoba champion, a hefty Aberdeen Angus, bred and owned by the Manitoba agricultural college, the shorthorn winning out by the closest possible margin. The winner, a big red and white animal, showing class and finish in every line, took fifth place in his class at the Canadian national exhibition, but has improved considerably since then. His Manitoba opponent was first at Brandon fair in a class of 80.

Win Championship.

John Kopas & Sons of Elora, as well as winning the championship, also captured the dominion government special for best three steers.

Bater Bros. of Oakville won first award for 3-year-old light horses, and Leslie & Davy, Saskatchewan, had the best three get on sire, two years and under.

This morning was given over entirely to the judging of market cattle, fine fat steers and heifers in perfect beef condition. The classes were filled to overflowing, no less than sixty-two choice heads of beef cattle being in the arena at one time. In the 770 pounds to 900 pounds class for steers or heifers, the red ribbon went to Lowe & Heibein, Elora. In the class for steers or heifers from 1,051 pounds to 1,200 pounds, Kopas & Sons' Matchless Duke, grand champion, romped away with the top award. In the steer or heifer class, 901 pounds to 1,051 pounds, "Boy Blue," a splendidly built animal, owned by J. P. Henderson of Guelph, after a keen contest, captured first place from Amos & Black's Cedar Grove champion.

CLUB AT RYERSON BACKS PAGEANTS

Mothers Hear Interesting Talks From Overseas Exchange Teachers.

The Ryerson mothers' club has been so favorably impressed with the pageants presented there during the last two years that the members believe Ryerson pageant should become an institution in the school. A resolution to this effect was passed at the regular meeting held at the school last night. It stated that the mothers' club approved of the continuation of the pageant as one of the school activities during the year.

The pageant is to be repeated tonight and again on Saturday, Nov. 22, in aid of the Santa Claus fund. Presentation of an umbrella to Miss Laura Cook, who directed the pageant, and a corsage bouquet to Miss Lancaster, who had charge of the music, were recently made, in appreciation of their services.

The British exchange teachers were special guests at last night's meeting. Miss Letch, who is teaching in London, gave a very interesting talk on the value of an exchange of teachers in different parts of the empire.

The teachers, she said, were sent out by the League of the Empire, which has been carrying on such undertakings since 1907. The object was to get an exchange of ideas, that teachers in England or the dominions might get the opportunity of mixing with different types of people and living under different conditions.

In this way different teaching methods were discovered. The chief interest of the exchange teacher was the study of child nature. Miss Letch thought that the Canadian children were much more open than the English children. There seemed to be an air of greater prosperity in Canada and the children appeared to come from better homes than in the district in which she was teaching in England. Canadian schools should show splendid results, she thought, when the conditions here were so good. Not many public schools in England were in such fine condition as the Ryerson school. And in very few schools there was there co-education after the ages of seven and eight. There were no splendid auditoriums in which to hold pageants, and mothers' clubs were not as general as here in Canada.

Miss Letch was followed by Miss Fager, who is teaching in St. Thomas. She also gave a very fine talk, referring especially to the progressive labor-saving devices which characterized Canadian home equipment.

Last night's meeting was marked by the largest attendance the club has yet experienced. Mrs. Arthur Kennedy was in the chair. The election of Mrs. Ernest Tremeer to the office of corresponding secretary in place of Mrs. Waldon, who has left the city, was a feature of the evening. The program included delightful vocal solos by Miss Edith Van and Miss Carrie Fitchett.

MRS. WOOD INSPECTS FOREST CITY CHAPTER

Members Entertain the Grand Worthy Matron at Banquet at Smallman's.

Mrs. Lulu Wood, grand worthy matron of the order of the eastern star for Ontario, paid her official visit to the Forest City chapter last night, proclaiming the work of the chapter to be very fine.

Preceeding the regular meeting the chapter entertained at a banquet at the Smallman & Ingram dining-room in honor of their guest. Special visitors on this occasion were the local grand officers, J. C. Doidge, Mrs. Bert Logan and E. T. Essery. During an interesting program of toasts, brief speeches were made by Mrs. Lulu Woods and E. T. Essery.

A special guest of the occasion was Bro. Wickton, worthy patron of the Delphemia chapter, Hamilton. At the close of the meeting supper was served.

BEGIN COURSES FOR GIRL LEADERS

London Girls' Work Board Undertakes New Work For Community.

The London girls' work board is instituting a course of leadership, which will begin on the evening of Nov. 20. The course, which is to be given in three parts, will be continued on the evening of Nov. 27 and concluded on Dec. 4.

This course in leadership for girls is something entirely new in the history of the girls' work board and is expected to have very beneficial results for girls' work in the city churches.

The purpose of the course is educational. At the first meeting on Nov. 27 Mrs. W. L. Armitage, former president of the girls' work board, will give the main talk. "The needs of the girl" will also be presented by three others speakers from the standpoint of the business woman, the nurse and the teacher. Mrs. J. D. Detwiler, president of the board, will be in the chair.

The mid-week program will be the subject under consideration at the meeting of Nov. 27. Suggestions for Christmas work will be made and special Christmas stories and legends given.

The Sunday program will be the matter for discussion at the meeting of Dec. 4. Miss May Gemmell, girls' work secretary of the Presbyterian church of Canada, will give a typical Christmas lesson and will give a practical demonstration of dramatization and story-telling in the groups.

Three more sessions in connection with the leaders' course will be held early in the new year.

The girls' work board has now in view two rallies, the first for intermediate girls in St. James' church, South London, on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 22, with Mrs. W. L. Armitage as the speaker. Girl speakers on this occasion will include Charlotte Douglas of the Talbot street Baptist church and a representative from Christ church. Practical illustration of the working out of the C. G. I. T. program will be given by means of lantern slides. A second rally, of the senior groups, will take place on Nov. 28, when Mrs. D. C MacGregor will be the speaker.

A Modern Matrimonial Problem — Dorothy Dix — Threshes Out Problem of Marriage Versus Career

Shall the Modern Business Girl Who Contemplates Matrimony Have a Job or a Husband—or Both?

A business girl who was soon to have been married to a man with whom she was very much in love told me the other day that she had broken her engagement.

"Why?" I asked in surprise.

"Oh," she said, "because John told me that he expected me to keep on with my job after we were married. He is earning a fine salary with good prospects ahead. Plenty for us to live on comfortably and save something. But in spite of that, he wanted me to continue with my work at the office.

"And that isn't my idea of a husband, nor matrimony. The kind of a man I want is one I can lean on, not one I will have to bolster up. I want a husband who will at least try to protect me from the world, not one who will shove me out into it to fight my own way. And when I marry I want a home and children, and no woman can be a good housewife and a good mother and a good private secretary at one and the same time.

"So I thought that if all that marriage was to bring me was superimposing a domestic job on an office job, and a husband who was a taskmaster, that I had better pass it up. It didn't look good to me. I have seen too many poor, worn, bedraggled creatures who rushed away from the office to buy messes at the delicatessen store on the way home and open a can of something to make a synthetic dinner, and who got nervous prostration trying to combine dishwashing and cooking and cleaning and bedmaking with bookkeeping or filing or selling or typewriting.

"And I have seen too many dirty-faced, unkempt, ill-mannered, neglected little children who were being raised on the streets while mother was off at work or pursuing a career. And I have seen too many men who married high-salaried women, who simply sat down after the ceremony and foided their hands, and let Sally do it.

"None of that for mine, thank you. When I marry I am going to get a man who believes in the ancient theory that a woman's place is the home, and that it is a man's business to go out alone and unaided and single-handed and bring home the bacon. And I am going to be free to give every ounce of vitality that is in me and every brain cell and every bit of energy I possess to making a home and rearing my children properly instead of giving the best that is in me to an employer who has a right to expect the best I've got in the shop because that is what he is paying me for."

That is one side of the problem about whether a woman should work outside of the home after she gets married. But there is also another side to it. Often, in these days of the high cost of living, a young man does not make enough salary for two to live upon, and then, unless the woman also continues to be a breadwinner, they must either forego marriage altogether or put it off until all the fire and passion of youth is gone and their romance has been worn by time to tatters.

In such instances for the woman to keep on with her job seems the lesser evil. Half a loaf is better than no bread, and a man and woman who love each other are happier in even a makeshift home than they would be living lonely and separate lives.

Every woman who loves her husband desires above everything else to help him, and if she can do this better by earning money than she can by cooking his dinner and darning his socks, why that is simply the modern improved way of a wife being a helpmeet. Men have always taken the work of women's hands, and there is no more discredit in accepting the labor that a wife does at a glass-topped mahogany desk than which she does at the washtub and the gas range. And it is a lot easier on the woman.

Also it must be borne in mind that not every woman is any more born with a talent tor domesticity than she is born a poet or a singer. There are women who can take degrees in chemistry in college, but who can never learn to cook; women who could run a bank, but could never manage a butcher's bill. Women who make invaluable office women heads, but who are utterly incapable of dealing with home economics. Surely common sense insists that it is the part of wisdom that these women do the work outside of the home for which nature fitted them, and which they do so effectively, and hire somebody to do competently inside of their homes the labor for which they are so ill-adapted.

Of course, there are two objections that always stare a woman in the face when she thinks of continuing with a gainful occupation after marriage. The first is the children. Certainly to bring up children properly takes all the time and attention that a mother can give, but even here she may be confronted with Hobson's choice. For the poor cannot always rear their children under ideal conditions, and it often happens that the extra money the mother can earn will mean more to them in giving them proper food, a decent environment to live in and educational advantages, than her personal attention would have done.

Likewise, there is a danger of the husband slumping when the wife puts her shoulder to the wheel. Statistics show that in the districts in which the women are wage earners the men are mainly loafers, so that every money-making wife runs the risk of having to support a parasitic husband.

These are all problems that face the business girl who is contemplating matrimony, and who is trying to decide whether it is better to have a job, or a husband, or both, and her conundrum is like that of the lady or the tiger. When she finds out the answer it is too late to do her any good.

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI

There fell a long silence. At length Sir Oliver spoke in a small voice.

"Not a doubt but you gave him no more than he was seeking. You are right, Master Leigh; the van was the last place in which to look for him, unless he came deliberately to seek steel that he might escape a rope. Best so, no doubt. Best so! God rest him!

"No doubt they took you because of that," Sir Oliver pursued, as if communing with himself. "Being in ignorance perhaps of his deserts, deeming him a saint and martyr, they resolved to avenge him upon you, and dragged you hither for that purpose."

He sighed.

"Well, well, Master Leigh, I make no doubt that knowing yourself for a rascal you have all your life been preparing your neck for a noose; so this will come as no surprise to you."

The skipper stirred uneasily and groaned.

"Lord, how my head aches!" he complained.

"They've a sure remedy for that," Sir Oliver comforted him. "And you'll swing in better company than you deserve, for I am to be hanged in the morning, too. You've earned it as fully as have I, Master Leigh. Yet I am sorry for you—sorry you should suffer where I had not so intended."

Master Leigh sucked in a shuddering breath and was silent for awhile.

Then he repeated an earlier question.

"Do you believe in God, Sir Oliver?"

"There is no God but God, and Mohammed is his Prophet," was the answer, and from his tone Master Leigh could not be sure that he did not mock.

"That's a heathen creed," said he in fear and loathing.

"Nay, now; it's a creed by which men live. They perform as they preach, which is more than can be said of any Christians I have ever met."

"How can you talk so upon the eve of death?" cried Leigh in protest.

"Faith," said Sir Oliver, "it's considered the season of truth above all others."

"Then you don't believe in God?"

"On the contrary, I do."

"But not in the real God," the skipper insisted.

"There can be no God but the real God—it matters little what men call Him."

"Then if ye believe, are ye not afraid?"

"Of what?"

"Of hell, damnation and eternal fire," roared the skipper, voicing his own belated terrors.

"I have not fulfilled the destiny which in His omniscience He marked out for me," replied Sir Oliver. "My life hath been as He designed it, since naught may exist or happen save by His will. Shall I then fear damnation for having been as God fashioned me?"

"'Tis the heathen Moslem creed!" Master Leigh protested.

"'Tis a comforting one," said Sir Oliver, "and it should comfort such a sinner as thou."

But Master Leigh refused to be comforted. "Oh!" he groaned miserably. "I would that I did not believe in God!"

"Your disbelief could no more abolish Him than can your fear create Him," replied Sir Oliver. "But, your mood being what it is, were it not best you prayed?"

"Will not you pray with me?" quoth that rascal in his sudden fear of the hereafter.

"I shall do better," said Sir Oliver at last. "I shall pray for you—to Sir John Killigrew—that your life be spared."

"Sure, he'll never heed you!" said Master Leigh with a catch in his breath.

"He shall. His honor is concerned in it. The terms of my surrender were that none else aboard the galley should suffer any hurt."

"But I killed Master Lionel."

"True, but that was in the scrimmage that preceded my making terms. Sir John pledged me his word, and Sir John will keep to it, when I have made it clear to him that honor demands it."

A great burden was lifted from the skipper's mind; that great shadow of the fear of death that had overhung him. With it, it is greatly to be feared that his desperate penitence also departed. At least he talked no more of damnation, nor took any further thought for Sir Oliver's opinions and beliefs concerning the hereafter. He may rightly have supposed that Sir Oliver's creed was Sir Oliver's affair, and that should it happen to be wrong, he was scarcely himself a qualified person to correct it. As for himself, the making of his soul could wait until another day, when the necessity for it should be more imminent.

Upon that he lay down and attempted to compose himself to sleep, though the pain in his head proved a difficulty. Finding slumber impossible, after a while he would have talked again; but by that time his companion's regular breathing warned him that Sir Oliver had fallen asleep during the silence.

Now this surprised and shocked the skipper. He was utterly at a loss to understand how one who had lived Sir Oliver's life, been a renegade and a heathen, should be able to sleep tranquilly in the knowledge that at dawn he was to hang. Considering matters, he was profoundly touched to reflect that in such a season Sir Oliver could have found room in his mind to think of him and his fate and to undertake to contrive that he should be saved from the rope.

He was the more touched when he bethought him of the extent to which he had himself been responsible for all that happened to Sir Oliver.

Out of the consideration of heroism, a certain heroism came to be begotten in him, and he fell to pondering how, in his turn, he might perhaps serve Sir Oliver by a frank confession of all that he knew of the influences that had gone to make Sir Oliver what he was. This resolve uplifted him, and, oddly enough, it uplifted him all the more when he reflected that perhaps he would be jeopardizing his own neck by the confession upon which he had determined.

So through that endless night he sat, nursing his aching head and enheartened by the first purpose he had ever conceived of a truly good and altruistic deed. Yet fate, it seemed, was bent upon frustrating that purpose of his. For when at dawn they came to hale Sir Oliver to his doom they paid no heed to Jasper Leigh's demands that he, too, should be taken before Sir John.

"Thee bean't included in our orders," said a seaman shortly.

"Maybe not," retorted Master Leigh, "because Sir John little knows what it is in my power to tell him. Take me before him, I say, that he may hear from me the truth of certain matters ere it be too late."

"Be still," the seaman bade him, and struck him heavily across the face, so that he reeled and collapsed into a corner. "Thee turn will come soon. Just now our business be with this other heathen."

"Naught that you can say would avail," Sir Oliver assured him quietly. "But I thank you for the thought that marks you for my friend. My hands are bound, Jasper. Were it otherwise I would beg leave to clasp your own. Fare you well!"

Sir Oliver was led out into the golden sunlight, which almost blinded him after his long confinement in that dark hole. They were, he gathered, to conduct him to the cabin, where a short mockery of a trial was to be held. But in the waist their progress was arrested by an officer, who bade them wait.

Sir Oliver sat down upon a coil of rope, his guard about him, an object of curious inspection to the rude seamen. They thronged the forecastle and the hatchways to stare at this formidable corsair, who once had been a Cornish gentleman, and who had become a renegade Moslem and a terror to Christianity.

If the delay chafed him he gave no outward sign of it. If his hard, light eyes glanced hither and thither it was upon no idle quest. He was seeking Rosamund, hoping for a last sight of her before they launched him upon his last dread voyage.

But Rosamund was not to be seen. She was in the cabin at the time. She had been there for this hour past, and it was to her that the present delay was due.

KOMOKA W. M. S.

Final arrangements were made for a bazaar to be held on Nov. 19, at the regular meeting of the Komoka Presbyterian church W. M. S., held recently. Committees were named to take charge of the different booths. The president, Mrs. J. H. Stuart, gave a very interesting account of the first annual meeting of the W. M. S. held in North Formosa. Mrs Stuart also presided over the devotional exercises. The roll call was responded to by suitable Thanksgiving quotations from Scripture.

Honker Tells Peter About the Hunters With Their Terrible Guns

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit, sitting on the edge of the pond of Paddy the Beaver, listening to the talk of Honker the Goose and Mr. and Mrs. Quack, learned many things, and some of them seemed to him more dreadful than anything he had ever known. It was there that he learned the meaning of treachery.

"Were you bothered much by the hunters with terrible guns on your way down from the Far North?" inquired Mrs. Quack.

Honker the Goose nodded. "Did you ever make that long journey without being bothered?" he inquired. "It was worse this year than ever, for there were more guns than ever. A lot of my friends will never see the Sunny South. No, sir, they'll never see the Sunny South." Honker sighed sadly.

"Only day before yesterday I saw a dreadful thing happen. We were flying rather high over a lake, which was so far from the homes of men that it seemed perfectly safe. We needed fresh water to drink. Just as I was trying to decide whether or not to stop a Goose began to honk to us from over near the shore. Then we saw him swimming about, and near him a whole flock sitting quietly on the water. It looked like a splendid place to rest and drink, and perhaps find a little food.

"But I learned long ago that sometimes the safer a place looks the more dangerous it may be. So I led the flock down well out in the middle, and there we drank and rested and I watched. That goose kept calling and calling to us. Some of my flock wanted to go over there, but I was still suspicious. Then we heard another flock coming. That Goose over by the shore heard them, too. He honked harder than ever. That flock turned and flew down toward him. The leader of that flock was young. He led his flock down to the water some distance out, and then they began swimming in. He didn't notice that that other flock of geese on the water near the one that was honking hadn't moved. But I had noticed it.

"Straight in swam those Geese. Nearer and nearer to the shore they swam. Then suddenly from the shore terrible guns began to bang. Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! they roared. You should have seen those Geese flapping their wings as they tried to get into the air. Some of them did, but several of them lay still or fluttered on the water. Still the guns banged, and some of those that were in the air fell."

"But what about the goose who had done all the calling?" said Peter.

Peter Rabbit could stand it no longer. "What became of all those Geese who were sitting there all the time?" cried Peter eagerly.

Honker and Mr. and Mrs. Quack looked at Peter pityingly. "Those were not real Geese," said Honker. "They were make-believe Geese, put out there by the hunters to make us think that they were real Geese and that it was safe there. I believe the hunters call them decoys."

"But what about that Goose who had done all the calling?" cried Peter. "What happened to him?"

"Nothing," sighed Honker. "He was a decoy, too. He had been trained by the hunters to call the Geese flying over. The hunters took care that when the shooting began he should not be hurt."

"But," cried Peter, "that is a dreadful thing to call your friends in where they will be hurt or killed! I didn't suppose there was any one who would do such a thing."

"You don't know the Great World, Peter," said Mrs. Quack. "I have seen Ducks do that same thing for their masters, the hunters. It is a dreadful thing and it is called treachery."

TORONTO TO SEE ALL THREE FINALS

Queen's String of Seventeen Straight Wins Dates Back To 1922.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Nov. 12.— The decision of Queen's University to play their semi-final game for the Canadian championship with Hamilton Tigers in Toronto means that local football fans will have the opportunity of seeing all three games for dominion honors, without going away from home.

The official schedule has been arranged as follows:

Saturday, Nov. 22—Hamilton Tigers vs. Queen's University.

Saturday, Nov. 29—Winner November 22 vs. Balmy Beach.

Saturday, Dec. 6—Winner November 29 vs. Western Canada champions.

President Ed. Chown of the Canadian rugby union wired from Winnipeg this morning, stating that if Winnipeg Victorias were successful they intended to come to Toronto for the national final.

Queen's Reasons.

Queens made the decision to play in Toronto last night. Several reasons have been received from Kingston for changing the venue of the game from Kingston. One states that Tigers have offered to make the cost of a special train for Queen's students a first charge on the gate. The teams and the C.R.U. will get a larger share than if the game were played in Kingston. With the game being played in Toronto the travelling expenses of both teams will not be any greater than if the Tigers journeyed to Kingston, but the gate here will be nearly three times as large with any kind of decent weather. A sell-out of the 16,000-odd seats is a sure thing.

Seventeen Consecutive Victories.

When they beat Varsity at the stadium, in addition to winning the senior C.I.R.F.U. title for the third time in succession, also established a record of 17 straight wins, including exhibition games, their streak dating back to Nov. 18, 1922, when they won the play-off with Varsity at Montreal by the score of 12 to 6. Since then they have gone on and on, winning game after game, and making the wonderful record of scoring 307 points, and having only 70 scored against them.

Queen's record of straight wins has been as follows:

Wossa Football Champions Get Bye Into Ontario Finals

St. Thomas C. I. Opens Series in Sarnia November 22.

RETURN ON 29TH

Dr. G. Smith, secretary of the "Wossa," yesterday received word that the senior rugby winners from Western Ontario would be given a bye into the provincial finals.

When this news came the dates for the finals between Sarnia C. I. and St. Thomas C. I. were set. St. Thomas goes to Sarnia Nov. 22, and Sarnia plays the return game at St. Thomas a week from Saturday.

The eastern finalists must be declared by the 29th of the month, and this gives the district teams some leeway if they should find it necessary to play a third game.

Hamilton C. I. and U. T. S. were tied for the group, and Tuesday the best Mike Rodden's charges could do on their own grounds was to hold the Mountain City lads to a 1—1 tie. Hamilton, with the deciding game at home, naturally expect to cop the title. There is still Peterboro left in the far east, and it is possible that the eastern title-holder may be decided by a sudden-death game.

St. Pat's Sign Seaforth Boy

The St. Patrick's hockey club announced that they have signed Reg Reid, left wing of the Seaforth O. H. A. intermediate team. Coach Eddie Powers thinks Reid will make good in pro hockey.

Reg Reid is the younger brother of the three Reids who have played hockey on Seaforth teams for years. Dot and Davey will be remembered by London fans, both being members in 1912 of one of the best intermediate teams London ever produced.

Reg Reid played here four years ago, when the Alert team provided the fans with one of the greatest reversals of form ever seen on a local ice sheet, coming within one of overcoming an eight-goal lead in a hectic first half.

Studying the Leaders— New Batting Stance— Hits to All Fields.

CHAPTER XIII.

By H. G. SALSINGER.

Ty Cobb's meteoric career got its real start under Hughie Jennings in 1907. In that season he gained the batting championship of the American league with an average of .350. He held the title for nine consecutive seasons.

But, what is more important to the history of baseball, is that Cobb began the revolution of baseball in 1907. He introduced a new style of batting and base running. Others copied him and the result was that the attack of the game was gradually changed. To meet this attack the fielders had to change the defence, a natural result. So, because of the innovations that Cobb brought into play, batting, fielding and base running underwent a change.

At that time most of the players still considered Cobb a "morning glory" and a "flash in the pan." Cobb was introducing new ideas and baseball loves the conventional. Ball players are the most orthodox of athletes, and the most suspicious of new ideas. They explained Cobb's success by calling it luck, and added "the luck of a crazy man." The veterans of the game disliked his style of play and could not see why people took a fancy to it. As Cobb's star rose they became insanely jealous of his success. They belittled him wherever possible and sought to discount his efforts. But they failed to stop him on the field.

In the Anvil Chorus.

Even as wise a baseball man as old Bill Donovan said Cobb would not repeat, at the close of the 1907 season when Cobb had electrified the nation.

"He won't finish in the league next year," said Bill, who had befriended the boy on many occasions. "He plays contrary to all baseball law and he won't last. He can't. He's a wild man. Next year they will just throw the ball to the home plate and wait for him to dash around to it. These freak players never last because they go contrary to the law."

But Bill did not understand; very few did. Cobb was not going contrary to the laws of the game—he was creating new laws. He was making over a nation's sport.

To batter his way to the top of the batting averages was a heavy task. Cobb had two men in his own league who stood eminent as batsmen. One of these was his teammate, Samuel Crawford, the former barber of Wahoo, Neb., known in baseball circles as "Wahoo Sam." Another batting leader was Napoleon Lajoie, the former cab driver of Woonsocket, R. I., known as "Larry" and "The Frenchman." The third member of the leading trio was not in Cobb's league, but in the National. He was John P. Wagner, known as "Hans," "Honus" and "The Flying Dutchman." While Wagner was not an actual competitor he was the king pin of baseball in that day, a player with a long record of brilliant performances at bat and with whom Cobb would be constantly compared if Cobb continued on his road to baseball's top place.

Like None of Them.

Physically there was no comparison between Cobb and the three men mentioned. They were not alone all natural hitters but they were sluggers besides. Lajoie, big and thick, remarkably well built, king of second basemen, and a great batter. Crawford, another giant, slow, methodical, powerful. Wagner, broad-shouldered, thick-chested, bow-legged, long-armed, stoical, described once by a cartoonist as a "splendid piece of mission furniture."

As batters they were nearly all of one type and this type was directly opposite to Cobb's type. They were heavy, solid and they batted in that style. Each outweighed Cobb by at least 20 pounds and each could drive a ball a great deal farther than Cobb ever did. They were powerful hitters; Cobb lacked their power.

Because Lajoie, Crawford and Wagner were the leading batters, they were the accepted type. No one expected Cobb to compete successfully against them because he was so entirely different. And, naturally, when Cobb introduced a style contrary to the style used by the leading batters of the day, he was rebuked.

Lajoie, Crawford and Wagner had a set style at bat. They would step to the plate, plant their feet firmly on the ground, set themselves and await the pitch. When they elected to hit they would throw their shoulders behind the swing and follow through. They stood flat-footed and firm, so they could get their entire weight behind the swing.

He Studied Crawford.

Cobb studied all the leading batters. He paid particular attention to Crawford. He quickly noted that Crawford was a "groove ball" hitter; in other words, the pitcher had to get the ball over the plate before Crawford would swing. Also, he noticed that whenever Crawford came to bat, the entire infield and outfield shifted to the right; for Crawford, using the style at bat that he used, could hit only in a certain direction. He was a lane hitter, or, as ball players say, a "dead" rightfield hitter.

So Cobb sat about to improve on this batting style. He realized that he lacked the power of a Crawford, a Lajoie or a Wagner, so he had to invent a style that would offset their physical advantages. And, furthermore, he had to invent a style which would enable him to hit to all fields. There would be extreme advantages in that.

From Crawford's style at bat, Cobb learned that a man, standing in a position, like Crawford, was certain to hit almost always to a certain part of the field. To overcome this result Cobb adopted a system by which he could change his position to suit the pitch, something Crawford and nearly all the others could not do. Instead of spreading his legs and planting his feet firmly on the ground and standing flat-footed, Cobb stood at the plate with feet close together and balance on the balls of his feet. In this position he was able to switch instantly jump into any desired position after the ball left the pitcher's hand. By this stand at the plate Cobb struck his first revolutionary note in baseball.

HE'S DOWNRIGHT PLEASANT CHAP.

George Burns, who has drawn his release from the Reds after 12 years' service in the major leagues without a run-in with an umpire, has shoved a new record into the baseball book. Burns never achieved the prominence of some of the grand old men of baseball, but nevertheless he was made of much the same sort of stuff—conscientious, loyal, and a sterling player.

Second London Cricket Club Sought For Season of 1925

Record of Burns One To Shoot At

Special to The Advertiser.

Cincinnati, Nov. 13.—George Burns, outfielder, passed out of the National League yesterday with a record of never having been banished by an umpire in twelve years he was a big leaguer—ten years with the Giants and two with the Reds.

In forwarding to Burns his unconditional release, President August Herrmann wrote: "I desire to express my appreciation of your services to the Cincinnati club. They have always been more than satisfactory, and I wish you the greatest success in the future."

It is understood Burns has two or three managerial propositions under consideration, Portland, Oregon, being among the clubs seeking his services.

Southwestern Ontario League Elects New Officers at Annual Meeting.

MITCHELL DROPS OUT

A. Dent of Stratford was elected president of the Southwestern Ontario cricket league which met in the Tecumseh House last night.

Stratford, Oxford, St. Thomas and Ontario Hospital were the clubs represented at last night's meeting. Mitchell having decided to drop out at the close of the season, did not send a representative.

There will be an effort made to get another club in London for the 1925 season. Stratford is entering two league teams this year, one in the Western Ontario league, and the other in the district loop. It is possible that R. C. R.'s or possibly a team made up from the London militia garrison could be mustered as a strong side and a fifth entry before next summer rolls around.

The umpire situation was discussed and it was decided to appoint an official board of umpires, each club to name three men.

If only four teams go in next year a double schedule will be played.

The officers elected were as follows: Honorary presidents, Hon. C. S. Hyman, Dr. W. J. Robinson, Lieut.-Col. Hill, London; H. W. Strudley, Stratford; Frank Hyde, Woodstock; E. O. Beemer, St. Thomas; president, A. Dent, Stratford; vice-president, E. H. Peel, Woodstock; second vice-president, Dr. Chalk, London; secretary-treasurer, J. F. C. Walker, London; executive, C. Godman, London; G. Hook, Stratford; W. E. Telford, Woodstock; W. Marsland, St. Thomas.

O.A.B.A. Entries Close Nov. 22

Executive Will Meet in Brantford or Hamilton.

George Sinclair of this city, newly-elected president of the Ontario amateur basketball association, announced last night that he had called a meeting of the O. A. B. A. executive to be held in either Brantford or Hamilton on Nov. 22.

At this meeting entries will be received from clubs wishing to compete in the series this year, and Mr. Sinclair states that no applications received after this date will be considered.

WESTERN CANADA TITLE GOES TO WINNIPEG TEAM

Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—Victoria Juniors, champions of Manitoba, have acquired the Western Canada junior football title by reason of the default of the Moose Jaw football team, which defeated Calgary on Thanksgiving Day. Robert Rogers of the Victoria executive received a wire last night to the effect that Moose Jaw would be unable to play the final game next Saturday, but no reason was given.

VARSITY ATHLETES WIN OVER O. A. C.

Take Honors in Annual Assault-at-Arms in Royal City.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, Nov. 13.—The Varsity mitt and mat artists nosed out the Aggies by one bout in this evening's annual assaut-at-arms in the Winter Fair building, when, before a crowd of 2,000 people, they took six of the eleven bouts from their O. A. C. opponents. The S. of T. leather-pushers seemed to have the edge on the local exponents of the manly art in nearly every department, but the locals regained part of their lost prestige in the mat work. All the bouts were fast, snappy encounters, and all were won on decisions, no knockouts being scored. The exhibition bouts provided the most class of the evening.

The outstanding battle was in the 125-pound class, in which Graham of O. A. C. beat Lloyd of Varsity. It was a fight from the first gong. In the 135 pounders Wolfe of Varsity scored a decisive win over Gamble, never letting up for a minute, and punching the O. A. C. man in scientific fashion.

The wrestling also provided considerable excitement for the large gallery, the 175 pounders proving a real exhibition. This bout was won by Stewart of the O. A. C. over a big University man, Shupe, with two falls inside of four minutes.

The results:

Boxing.

Big Shakeup Is Foreseen Among St. Louis Browns

Report Says Williams, Severeid and McManus On Market.

SHOCKER GOING?

By JOHN B. FOSTER.
Copyright, 1924.

New York, Nov. 13.—A reorganization of the St. Louis Browns is reported to be George Sisler's plan, as he is convinced he cannot win a pennant with the team as it now stands.

Shocker, a pitcher with a disposition that is perfectly good when he is not crossed, but who has a mind of his own, is one of the players that St. Louis seems ready to pass on if they can get as good a pitcher in return.

Williams, McManus and Severeid are also reported to be on the market if there are any clubs willing to go high enough for them. Williams is a left fielder, and something of a hitter. McManus, a second baseman, and Severeid a catcher. They make up a vital part of the St. Louis team, but Sisler is reputed to feel that they are not so amenable to his management as others might be.

It has generally been believed that there was a ring within a ring on the St. Louis team. Not all of the players have been convinced that Sisler was as good a manager as he is a first baseman. This probably lies at the bottom of the plans for reorganization.

A Few Pessimists.

Stories of dissatisfaction began cropping up in the 1924 spring training season. The players, however hid any such feeling from outsiders, if they had it, and talked more than anything else about their hope that Sisler's eyesight would be as good as before his illness.

Later there were two or three on the team who were inclined to be pessimistic and to criticize some of the things that happened. This, however, is not so unusual.

Another thing that may be influencing the Brown management in making changes is the fact that the players put on the market are high-salaried men. The club owners may not feel that they are getting their money's worth out of these high-priced stars.

Need New Pep.

Were St. Louis to go out and try to buy players who would prove as useful to the team, it would take a large outlay of money. But if satisfactory trades can be made, a new injection of pep might be shot into the team without great expense. For the men offered are good ball players and should bring good players in return.

Shocker, in particular, ought to be a good trading player. It would be to the advantage of every pennant contender to get him if he has even one more good year in him. Cleveland, Detroit, Washington and New York all might profitably make a place for him.

DR. "JACK" O'CONNOR,
famous coach of the Argonaut rugby club, with which club he shone as a half-back in days gone by.

WOODSTOCK TO ENTER INTERMEDIATE O.A.B.A.

Plenty of Material at Hand To Form Strong Team.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Nov. 13.—A local intermediate basketball team will be placed in the O.A.B.A., and arrangements are being completed at the Y.M.C.A. for getting the players together and starting practice. Percy Canfield, who so successfully coached the locals when they reached the finals with Peterboro in 1921, will have charge of the squad again this season. Among the players who will turn out in an effort to make a place on the team are: Carman Thornton, Jack Coles, Gorden Talbot, Russell Mountford, Arnold Love, Roy Sedge, George Hastings and Elmer Hosack. It is also assured that the "Y" will place a team in the juvenile series of the O.A.B.A., and it is expected that last year's lineup will be almost intact for this season.

ENGLISH SOCCER LEADERS BUNCHED

Only Four Points Now Separating First Twelve Teams.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 13.—With four points only separating the first twelve teams in the first division of the English league, the battle for the title is now assuming an absorbing aspect, and of these dozen clubs it is safe to say that any one of them might win. All have excellent chances. At the moment Notts County, who have been playing sterling football and who accomplished a feat last week when they defeated Arsenal at Highbury after Cosk, the county's center forward, had been ordered off, lead the table, their position over Birmingham being obtained by a much better goal average.

Birmingham, Huddersfield Town, Bury, West Bromwich and Sunderland complete the sextet crowning the standings. Huddersfield climbed into third place from eighth by virtue of their mid-week triumph over Liverpool, a jump which indicates how easily at present clubs can slide up and down the ladder as the result of single games.

On Saturday Notts County are confronted with stiff opposition when they entertain Aston Villa. The latter appear to have now recovered their stability, although their draw with Bolton a week ago should have been turned into a victory. However, standing as they do seventh place in the table, they may be expected to do their utmost to advance. At the same time the County, having a precarious hold on the title, will do everything to tighten it. At all events an excellent contest is in prospect.

Senior Players Guests of Lions

Next Practice of Juniors Billed For Monday.

The seniors acquired a more strenuous appetite than usual at their practice yesterday. They had a double purpose—working up a perspiration first, and then an appetite for the Lions' banquet, at which they were special guests. They succeeded in both aims.

The O. H. A. may be asked to add a new rule aimed at banquetting hockey players while in training if the local senior team gets the trencher habit. The social clubs have been very thoughtful in several instances, and this show of interest cannot help but impress the team with the sort of hockey city they'll represent this season.

Tonight the seniors go on at the same hour, and will be followed by their first opponents of the season, the Stratford Indians, who are motoring over for another workout.

The juniors will lay off now until Monday, as they are not so rushed for condition as the seniors.

Perrin's Hockey Team Drops Out

London may yet be represented by a team in the O. H. A. intermediate playoffs this winter if a plan to be set before Secretary Hewitt by the local Manufacturers' league meets with the approval of the powers that be in Ontario hockey.

It is the aim of the local circuit to have the championship team go into the O. H. A. intermediate semi-finals as a London entry, not using the firm name under which it played in the industrial loop. This was made known at the meeting of the league executive last night.

It was announced at the meeting that the Perrin team had decided to withdraw for the season. The Bell Telephone-Standard Drug amalgamation plan has been abandoned and both these clubs will now sail under their own colors.

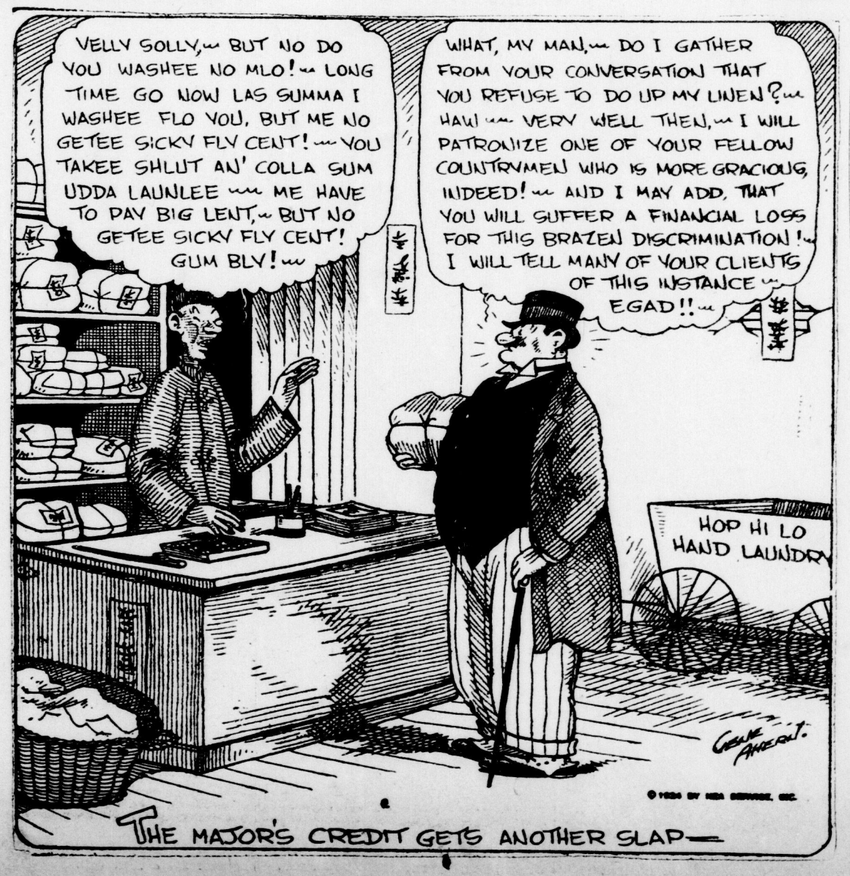

It is intended to have the opening games the night of Dec. 17, with two games every Wednesday night through the season. Players' contract blanks will be issued today by the secretary.

Many Northern Schools Enter Wossa Ice Series

Several New Towns Added To Cage and Hockey Competition.

START AFTER XMAS

Entries now in for both the hockey and basketball series of the "Wossa" make sure of many new towns and villages being added to the active competition list.

This year the "Wossa" will have a northern group, composed of Owen Sound, Collingwood, Wiarton, Chesley, Hanover, and on down, which represents not only new gains in hockey, but stronger competition in the winter pastime. All these towns have been hockey strongholds for years past, and they will not be at the disadvantage they were in rugby, for instance. From now on it looks as if the southern teams will have to develop something unusual to keep the hockey title down in this part of the "Wossa" area.

Basketball also has made good gains, and here again the trend is northward, although many towns not before entered in the competition from the south have also been added, it is understood.

The groupings for both hockey and basketball will be announced by the first of next week, and both campaigns will be started shortly after Christmas, although dates will be left to the discretion of the groups themselves, only date limits being set for the declaration of winners, as has been done in other sports.

BATTLING SIKI,
erstwhile Senegalese sensation, will face Young Marullo, light heavyweight, of New Orleans, in the main bout at Madison Square Garden tonight, replacing Paul Berlenbach, who was injured while training this week. The contest is scheduled for 12 rounds. Siki recently returned to the ring following an absence of several months due to an injury received in an automobile accident in Omaha.

BASKETBALL STAGING COMEBACK IN CHATHAM

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Nov. 13.—With Chatham represented in the O. A. B. A. series this year for the first time, basketball will stage a real comeback in this city this winter, according to present indications. The applications of the Kent regiment signallers for teams in the intermediate and junior series have been accepted by the O. A. B. A., and the candidates are indulging in two nights a week practice. The collegiate team will enter the Wossa series and the city league will be formed for the girls' teams.

Short Jabs

Luis Angel Firpo's attempted ring comeback was rudely halted in Newark Wednesday, when Charlie Weinert, local heavyweight, gave the South American champion a scientific boxing lesson in 12 rounds of a no-decision fight, and in the opinion of the newspapermen at the ringside gained a comfortable shade over the Argentine leather pusher.

The Wild Bull was distanced all the way. His bull-like rushes, which featured his fight with Dempsey, were missing, and his terrific right, which has reaped its harvest of knockouts, was virtually of no use to him against a clever boxer of the type of Weinert.

The Newark boxer simply poured his left into Firpo's face, at the same time watching for symptoms of the right, which Firpo unsuccessfully attempted to use. Employing that left jab with relentless consistency, Weinert tore Firpo's face to shreds. Otherwise Firpo was unhurt. He tried to box Weinert, but he did not possess the ability, and when he wanted to slug Weinert was too elusive a target to aim at.

STOCKS AT N. Y. STILL GOING UP

High-Grade Rails Advance Steadily as Public Demand Continues.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Nov. 14.—With the public demand for stocks apparently unsatisfied, prices continued to move upward during the morning, with buying stimulated by the continued ease in money rates, call loans again renewing at 2 per cent. Sporadic short selling failed to stem the tide of rising prices, which carried more than a score of issues to new peak prices for the year before noon. Trading was on somewhat of a smaller scale, but early indications pointed to another two million share day.

The advance in rails was an orderly one, with a good demand noted for such high grade carriers as Atchison, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Lackawanna.

Several of the popular industrials, such as American Can, Baldwin, Dupont, United States Industrial Alcohol and General Electric displayed marked strength. Jewel Tea preferred, which has not been traded in for some time, opened 10½ points lower at 92, and then rallied to 98.

INDUSTRIAL ISSUES LEAD N. Y. MARKET

Profit-Taking Sends Prices Downward—Liberty Bonds Are Strong.

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Nov. 13.—Railroad and industrial bonds, after attaining the highest levels of the week today, yielded later to profit-taking, and prices generally veered downward at the close. Liberty bonds, however, rallied as offerings of time funds increased, recovering virtually all of yesterday's losses.

Trading in high yielding railroad issues continued to develop independent points of strength, International-Great Northern Adjustment sixes and Katy Adjustment fives eclipsed their previous high records. Wabash 4's and liens of other midwestern railroads were in demand.

With a late wave of realizing sales spreading over the entire market, losses predominated in the railroad list at the close, embracing most of the St. Paul, Seaboard and Frisco issues, New Haven convertible sixes, Rock Island refunding fours, Chicago and Eastern Illinois fives, Northern Pacific fours, Pere Marquette fives and Chicago and Terre Haute fives.

With the exception of the liberty 3½'s all issues in the United States government list displayed good recuperative power. Coincident with a 3c rise in sterling, United Kingdom fives of 1929 touched a new 1924 peak at 114¼.

SCHOLARSHIP IS GIVEN SCHOOL FAIR WINNER

James Cooper, Belle River, Gives Course at O. A. C. To Essex Victor.

Special to The Advertiser.

Essex, 7.—One of the most important gifts ever made toward the cause of school fair work is that of an annual scholarship in the Ontario Agricultural College, which has been instituted by James Cooper of Belle River. It is announced by Justus Miller that the winner in the school fairs in Essex county each year receives a two-year course at the college.

As the winners are all necessarily young, the course is open to them when they attain the age and standing necessary to allow them to enter the institution.

The scholarship was first awarded last year, when the winner was Ivan Bell of Staples, son of Wilmot Bell, the well-known Hereford breeder. He will begin his college course next fall.

Alex. Morand of Tecumseh, son of Albert Morand, was this year's winner, and his course will begin in 1926.

As it happens, both winners so far have been boys, but girls are also eligible. Girl winners will take a two-year course in home economics at MacDonald hall, Guelph.

In every case, the pupil will take the practical course that will fit him or her best for farm and home life. The work will be highly educational as well.

MANITOBA MUNICIPALITIES DEMAND OLD PASS RATES

Brandon, Nov. 13.—The union of Manitoba municipalities will make a vigorous protest to Ottawa in connection with the suspension of the Crow's Nest pass agreement. A strong resolution was passed at the convention today, asking for the restoration of the agreement, "as it is robbing the producers of the prairie provinces of millions of dollars."

MEXICAN GRAND JURY WILL PROBE SHOOTING

Deputy Morones' Condition Following House Duel Is Reported To Be Critical.

Associated Press Despatch.

Mexico City, Nov. 14.—After a heated session, during which the Laborites and members of the confederated bloc hurled charges against each other, the senate yesterday adopted motions urging the chamber of deputies to place those responsible for Wednesday night's shooting before the grand jury for trial, and also reminding the deputies that the regulations prohibit bearers of arms from entering the chamber.

The chamber held no session, but there was a private meeting of the majority groups, at whic hit was decided that the confederated bloc should be disbanded and another bloc formed, excluding General Jose Maria Sanchez. A bitter exchange between General Sanchez and Deputy Louis Morones preceded the shooting affray, in which Morones and Deputy Leopoldo Guerrero were seriously injured.

Deputy Morones' condition is improving, and his physicians hope for prompt recovery, but Deputy Guerrero's chances were declared last night to be slight. Both the secretariat of the chamber and the attorney-general, Luis A. Fientes, have ordered investigations.

The secretariat plans to lay a full report of the incident before the grand jury, while the attorney-general is desirous of depriving the guilty ones of their immunity privileges, should they prove to be deputies, thus enabling proceedings against them in the penal courts.

FOUR CITIZENS CHARGED WITH ILLINOIS MURDER

Action Is Echo of Reign of Terror in Rock Island Two Years Ago.

Associated Press Despatch.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 14.—Four of Rock Island's leading citizens are under bonds of $10,000 each to appear Monday to answer charges of murder or conspiracy to murder in connection with the shooting to death two years ago of John Connor Looney, son of John P. Looney, publisher of the Rock Island News.

The four men named in an affidavit submitted by Anthony W. Billburg, now under prison sentence for the crime, were John W. Potter, publisher of the Rock Island Argus; John W. Colligan, managing editor of the Argus; Jacob Ramser, jeweler, and Thomas Haege, clothing store owner.

The murder of John Cannor Looney here on Oct. 6, 1922, was the culmination of a reign of terror in this city. Nine men had been found murdered within a short space of time, gambling and vice flourished openly, according to the reports, and the blame was laid at the door of John Looney, leader of a gang of underworld characters and father of the slain man.

Looney was also running a weekly paper which was suppressed by the state as obnoxious and a blight on public morals. He is now under seven indictments ranging from larceny to murder.

FAVOR TRADE PREFERENCE.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, Nov. 14.—Trade preference within the empire was a policy favored by Manitoba citizens, who passed upon the merits of the arguments advanced in the debate here last night on the subject by representatives of Oxford and Manitoba universities. Out of a total of 1,068 ballots cast, a slim majority of 118 was given for imperial preference. The affirmative side of the question was upheld by the Manitoba team.

MONTREAL POWER FINDS BIG SALE

Paper Stocks Maintain Firm Tone, With Price Bros. and Brompton Up.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 14.—Volume of trading on the Montreal stock exchange declined as compared with yesterday's activity, and the general tone was reactionary. Brazilian Traction continued to lead in activity and was unchanged at 54¾ after selling ¼ lower.

The feature of this morning's trading was Montreal Power, with a turnover of nearly 1,500 shares. Opening half a point lower, Power declined under selling pressure to 182, a total reaction of 1½ points. Alcohol and Steel of Canada were also active, the former losing ⅜ at 20½, and the latter gaining ¼ at 82, after touching the year's former high at 82¼.

Paper stocks generally maintained the firm tone exhibited yesterday. Price Brothers moved up 1½ points and Brompton a point. Spanish River and Abitibi held unchanged. Spanish River preferred and Laurentide each reacted a half. Detroit United Railway was a soft spot with a reaction of two points to 30.

CHICAGO

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Nov. 14.—Increasingly unfavorable crop reports from Argentina led to a decided rally in wheat prices today, after a declining tendency at the outset. Steadiness of the Liverpool market, together with an advance in sterling exchange, counted also as a strengthening factor here. The early weakness was ascribed chiefly to profit-taking sales and to a temporary pause in new buying. Opening quotations, which ranged from ¼c decline to ¾c gain, were followed by a moderate general sag and then by a sharp upturn to well above yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats were governed by the action of wheat. After opening 1¼c lower to ½c advance, the corn market underwent a setback all around, but later scored material gains.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c off, eased a little more, and then made a general advance.

Futures opened:

Wheat—Dec., $1.54¾; May, $1.62¼.
Corn—Dec., $1.14¼; May, $1.18¾.
Oats—Dec., 53⅞c; May, 58⅞c.

Ontario oats—No. 3 white, 50c to 52c.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Montreal, Nov. 13.—The export trade in grain here today was again reported very quiet on account of the limited demand from foreign buyers. Notwithstanding this fact, there was an improved demand from local exporters for all grades of spring wheat, and a fair amount of business was done on c.i.f. basis, bay ports and Montreal, and some Canadian western oats were sold at 6c per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, c.i.f. bay ports. The trade in carlots of grain on spot showed a slight improvement, there being a better demand from country buyers. The tone of the market was firm, with carlots of Ontario No. 3 malting barley at $1.08, No. 3 grade at $1.07, Ontario No. 2 white oats at 60c, No. 3 grade at 58c, No. 4 grade at 56c, No. 2 Canadian western at 71c, No. 3 at 69c, and extra No. 1 feed at 66½c.

GRAND PRESENTS "THE LOST TRIBE"

Picture Depicting Life and Appearance of Cannibals Proves Interesting.

"The Lost Tribe," a motion picture showing cannibals in their native haunts in the wilds of New Guinea, opened at the Grand yesterday afternoon and will be shown for the balance of the week.

The picture takes its name from the appearance of the savages. Captain Frank Hurley, in making explorations of the swamps of that little-known land, came across a tribe of head-hunters whose features are peculiarly semitic, hence the name.

The producers have used every available means to bring an unusually good picture to America. A small boat of light draught and two seaplanes were used to work into the heart of a district hitherto untouched by white men. For weeks the boat slowly made its way through the swamps, guided from above by the planes, which had located the villages of the cannibals.

The story is vividly portrayed and told with breezy subtitles. The photography is excellent. Color effects in sepia, brilliant red and pale blues and grays add much to the beauty of the scenes.

The film shows splendid views of the much-talked of life in the South sea islands. It also explodes many of the ukelele theories concerning the bewitching life and alluring damsels of the coral strands. It does show though, the natives; the sleek, muscular men, hideous in their feathered war dress; the women, none too fetching, in their savage finery; and of course the children, always in any country or setting, cute and interesting.

Giving credit where credit is due, these cannibals are no mean architects and engineers when a house or a temple is wanted. Their churches are as big as zeppelins, and look not unlike these great air vessels. Some of the shrines are 500 feet long and 50 feet high. They are made of reeds and grass. The villages are worth peeking into.

There are a couple of scenes showing the gruesome remains of banquets, where tribesmen contributed themselves to a menu enjoyed by fellow-townsmen. Skulls seem to be as plentiful in New Guinea as cobblestones in Belfast.

"The Lost Tribe" appeases the wanderlust without discomfort.

BLANCH SWEET STARS AT LOEW'S

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles" Proves Delightful Upon the Screen.

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles," Marshall Neilan's picture production of Thomas Hardy's famous novel, is undoubtedly the feature of Loew's program for the latter part of this week, as the three vaudeville acts could only be called fair.

Ernie Gordon and Evelyn Delmar sing some old-time plantation melodies in "blues" style.

Manny Bessar and Bert Keller put on an act called "The Screen Test," which attempts to show how a Valentino gets into the movies.

Helen "Smiles" Davis and her partner in "songs, laughter and steps," provide the best of the vaudeville attractions. Miss Davis is best in her burlesque of a grand opera prima donna.

"Tess of the D'Urbervilles," a story of enduring love, was played by a cast headed by Bianche Sweet in the title role. Conrad Nagel appeared as Angel Clare, the likable hero, whose romance with the little dairy maid ended in tragedy for both.

George Fawcett, the veteran character actor, played the part of Tess's dissolute father, while Victory Bateman was the mother.

The true atmosphere of England was injected into the film by the simple expedient of making the exterior scenes in the villages of which Hardy wrote.

The comedy picture, "Why Hurry?" an Aesop's fable cartoon that was really good, and "Topics of the Day" concluded the program.

Story Declares Wilson Forced To Separate British and French Premiers.

DUEL IS PROPOSED

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Nov. 13.—Publication of a book written by H. Wyckham Steed, former editor of the Times, entitled "Through Thirty Years," today brought from Lloyd George a strong denial of a passage in the volume, which related that during the peace conference at Versailles, Premier Clemenceau of France "accusel Lloyd George so flatly of repeated inaccuracy of statements that Lloyd George seized him by the collar and demanded an apology, and after President Wilson had separated them, Clemenceau offered Lloyed George reparation with pistols or swords."

The former premier characterized the Steed account today as a "stupid invention which contains not the slightest basis of truth."

In reply, Mr. Steed said: "I should certainly not have published a story of that kind without having verified it in advance from persons who were present."

The author added that he had no intention of entering into a personal controversy in the matter.

DENNY SUPREME IN CAPITOL FILM

"The Fast Worker" Makes a Big Hit—Vaudeville Good.

In "The Fast Worker," which is showing at the Capitol Theater for the last half of this week, Reginald Denney, termed "the man girls can't forget," gives his best performances since he has reached the peak of motion picturedom. And it would be hard for anyone to forget Reginald Denney in this excellent production after once seeing it.

The story is new, and novel motion picture "stunts" make it altogether a unique production. It has everything in the way of light comedy that has ever been done before. There is a laugh most of the way because the action is left chiefly in the hands of Reginald Denney, but a capable cast support the star.

The action concerns itself with a young man who, to help out a friend, plays husband to the latter's wife in order to help him out with a big business deal. Denney, as the name of the picture suggests, is the "fast worker." He runs in high gear all the way through and it is no time before he has himself engaged to his friends's wife's sister.

A wild automobile chase forms a truly exciting conclusion to the picture. "The Fast Worker" is an extremely entertaining photoplay.

Achieve fame in any walk of life, and a movie contract that reads like a war debt will be sure to come your way. Jack Dempsey signed a movie contract before anyone knew he could act, but in the "Fight and Win" series of pictures, which he has now produced, he earns every cent of his salary. One of them is shown at the Capitol for the last half of this week, and Dempsey, true to form, gives a realistic exhibition of heavyweight pugilism.

A. R. FORD FAVORS PLAN OF PREMIER

Londoner Believes Powers of Senate Should Be Curbed —Addresses Lions.

In an address to the Lions' club last night Arthur R. Ford of this city expressed approval of the suggestion made by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King for the curtailment of the power of the Canadian senate.

Mr. Ford indorsed as "a sensible suggestion" the proposal of Premier King "to clip the wings" of the senate by legislation, to the effect that any bill passed three times by the house of commons should automatically become law, despite action of the senate.

While urging that a senator's term of service be limited to 10 years, Mr. Ford stated that he was not in favor of the senate being made an elective body.

Elections Enough.

"We have enough elections now," he remarked, "and, besides, elections for the senate would be both expensive and difficult, since they would have to extend over large territories.

"I am not in favor of the abolition of the senate," said Mr. Ford, "because it has proved itself a useful chamber, and safeguards the interests of the smaller provinces because of the basis of representation in alloting 24 senators to each of four senatorial districts, the Maritime Provinces, Quebec, Ontario and the western provinces, but I would favor a proportionate reduction in the number of senators."

Lion Harry Humeston was goodfellowship chairman and Lion J. G. Gillanders was chairman.

The members of the London senior O. H. A. team were the guests of the club, together with Gordon Marr, Stanley Reid and Clay Gibson, officials of the hockey executive. The Lions' club have taken a block of seats at the arena for the games during the coming season.

George Zarfas, Hamilton director of the minstrel show being put on by the Orient club, spoke briefly.

The musical portion of the program, which was of a very high order, consisted of vocal solos by A. L. Green and Lion "Scottie" McCulloch, and club songs under the leadership of Lion Cyril Thomas and the club orchestra.

Reginald Johnston was introduced as a new member of the club.

Will Go To Tillsonburg.

It was announced that over 20 of the members of the club would motor to Tillsonburg tonight to participate in the charter night festivities of the Tillsonburg Lions club, which has over 60 members.

Lions Col. C. M. R. Graham and James Orme were presented with eversharp pencils for their efforts in disposing of tickets for the club dance and entertainment, to be held in the Winter Gardens next Tuesday night. Lion Col. Graham reported having received word from the Lions clubs of Toronto, Buffalo, St. Catharines, Goderich, Strathroy and Hamilton that delegations varying in strength from 10 to 60 would attend the dance from those clubs.

Dr. H. S. Wismer will address the club next Thursday on the subject of "The X-ray."

There were 45 Lions and visitors sat down at table.
